He Directs CoC Membership Drive

Pampa News Staff Writer

The finance director of the Chamber of Commerce, who is serving as chairman of the annual membership round-up this year, is Ervin Leon "Smiley" Henderson. He is secretary and treasurer of the National Farm and Loan Association of Pampa also, a job that well qualifies him for his position with the CoC.

Henderson says, "I think that we're in a position to have a successful campaign because of the interest within the Chamber of Commerce membership and the willingness of all the persons who

Senate Hits Union Group In Houston

HOUSTON — UP — Senate investigators Monday charged that a local pipefitters union, whose hall was dynamited last August, illegally collected and spent a welfare fund.

The Senate investigating committee, headed by Sen. Paul Douglas, made its report in Washington, D. C. It charged the union, Local 211, with breaking the rules of its national organization by taking "doby" payments — fees collected from out of town workers for the privilege of working in Houston.

The money was collected by union stewards, the committee report said, for a "welfare fund." But, the committee charged, "they made no attempt to set the welfare fund up in accordance with the Taft-Hartley act."

Last year a dynamite blast caved in the front doors of the union hall there. The following day in Fort Worth, the home of the pipefitters national representative was blasted. Rank and file members of 211 intimidated to police the bombings were connected with the local's welfare fund.

The Senate report said that from February of 1951 through July of 1954, Local 211 collected more than $94,000 in "doby" payments. The national union then stepped in and stopped the collections.

Local 211 is a member of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the U. S. and Canada (AFL).

The committee said it questioned J. W. Rogers, Texas City, secretary-treasurer of Local 211.

The committee said Rogers told it that payments of the fund totaled $94,602.75 but at the time the fund was discontinued it had a deficit balance of $419.89.

"It was admitted," the committee report said, "that there was no schedule of benefits, nor any established pattern followed in paying them."

Eisenhower Vetos Farm Bill

Twister Kills 18 Sunday

By ROBERT S. MCNEILL JR.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — UP — Rescue crews searched through 150 smashed homes Monday for victims of the vicious storm which struck a tiny suburb Sunday killing at least 18 persons and injuring more than 100 others.

McDonald's Chapel bore the brunt of a 450-mile a gale front that raked the southeast Sunday. A tornado wind slammed through the heart of the mining community of 1,000 population, leaving a fourth of the residents homeless.

The havoc of houses so smashed that they looked like piles of timber in a lumber yard stretched for 1,000 feet. Over a wider area homes were roofless, overturned or battered.

Homeless Search Debris

While the Red Cross sheltered some 400 persons in a Methodist church and in a union hall at nearby Ensley, Ala., dozens of other survivors walked through the debris hunting relatives.

Roscoe D. Whitley, Red Cross director, said the nightlong confusion was made worse by the fact that many of the bodies were too mangled to identify.

"Most of these people think their relatives are just lost or staying with friends," Whitley said.

Seven dead lay unidentified in funeral homes.

"I have handled lots of disaster situations but this was one of the worst," Whitley said. "But we're going to help these people rebuild their homes and get some new clothes."

Body Found in Tree

A crew of 50 searchers forced their way into rooms buried under debris and pried up mounds of planks in their hunt for victims. They found one body draped in a tree.

None of the survivors saw the funnel of a tornado but their descriptions of a sudden roar and wind lifting them through the air bore out the tornado force of the storm.

Eddie King, a 45-year-old Negro, who with his 17-year-old daughter was injured said he just "floated out into the yard" when the wind yanked his frame home from its foundations.

"It started blowing and the house started moving. I think I went flying through the air."

He, Daughter Hurt

He said he and his daughter were the only two hurt out of some 10 persons who were in the house.

The Rev. W. J. Lucas, another resident, said he and his two young sons held on to each other to keep from being blown away when the wind struck with a roar that sounded like a freight train.

Hours later a squall line lashed back at this industrial city with winds clocked up to 71 miles per hour at the airport weather station. No further damage was reported, however.

Severe thunderstorms with torrential rains, hail and wind clocked in gusts at near-hurricane force hit Shreveport, La., Centerville, Ala., and Atlanta, Athens and Cumming, Ga.

Trees Felled

Several homes were demolished at Cumming by what residents described as a tornado. Gusts up to 89 miles per hour felled hundreds of trees in Atlanta.

In Athens, the wind blew off the rudder of an Atlanta-Charlotte, N. C., Southern Airways DC-3 shortly after it had landed and discharged its passengers.

At Shreveport guests unofficially clocked at 70 miles per hour knocked out telephone lines, shattered windows and upset boats on nearby Cross Lake. One family of four was rescued from the choppy water.

Israel Observes Independence

JERUSALEM (Israeli sector) — UP — Israel observed its eighth independence day Monday with a glow of pride hardly dampened by a warning that the difficulties lying ahead "will be greater than those of the Palestine war."

The warning of the stern tests still ahead came from Premier David Ben-Gurion who told Egypt that "for every blow the Egyptian army delivers against us we shall return two."

Border tension was easier than it had been in days although an Egyptian military spokesman said in Cairo that Israel forces twice opened up small arms fire on Egyptian positions in the Gaza Strip Sunday.

UN Chief in Beirut

United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was in Beirut, Lebanon, where informed sources said he had received promises of wholehearted co-operation from both Israel and Egypt in keeping the Middle East peace.

The sources said both sides agreed to widen the demilitarized zone separating the hostile armies and that both Arabs and Jews were anxious to avoid provocations that would force them to declare war.

Hammarskjold flies to Jerusalem Tuesday to talk with Ben-Gurion and Sharet. He already has conferred in Cairo with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Fuller Support Promised

A promise of new Israeli co-operation came from Israel's ambassador in London, Elihu Eliahu, who pledged his country's full support for the Hammarskjold mission.

But he too warned that while Israel wanted peace and friendship with Egypt and other Arab states, "any act of aggression" will be firmly resisted. He accused Egypt of a "fresh series of deliberate acts of murder and sabotage" during the past few days.

In an independence day broadcast Israeli President Isaac Zvi warned that Israel "cannot rely on the powers who have abandoned us." He did not name these powers.

He said several heads of major powers "are abandoning Israel to the mercies of the Arab rulers whose principles are those of the Nazis."

Fine By The Foot!

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — UP — Motorists will have to pay by the foot for speeding violations under a new system devised by Mayor Lorin Jaizer.

The plan calls for a fine of 15 cents for each foot of difference between the safe stopping distance at the speed limit and the safe stopping distance at the speed which the motorist was driving.

Hoover To Address Bar Conference

DALLAS — UP — Former President Herbert Hoover will address the ninth annual Inter-American Bar Conference Monday night at Southern Methodist University's McFarland auditorium.

Mr. Hoover's speech, scheduled for 8 p. m. est., will be on "world experience with the Karl Marx way of life." He is expected to attack socialists for aiding communism.

Some 1,200 delegates, including top government officials, educators and lawyers from throughout the western hemisphere, began registering Sunday for the week-long conference.

Among other speakers will be Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr.; Dr. William Monteiro de Barros of Rio de Janeiro; Dr. Fernando Fournier, ambassador to the United States from Costa Rica; and Henry F. Holland, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Among those arriving in Dallas Sunday were two attorneys from behind the Iron Curtain who indicated they would ask the association to petition the United Nations to throw out any member Communist satellite which violates the UN charter.

The attorneys, Dr. Lazzio Varga and Vratislav Busek, are attending the conference as observers.

Busek is a former professor of law at Charles University in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and Varga escaped from Hungary in 1946 after he defended several accused defendants in the Communist people's court. Both currently are with Radio Free Europe in New York.

Ike Says He Acted With Disappointment, Regret

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower Monday vetoed the farm bill.

In a message to the House of Representatives, Mr. Eisenhower said he acted with "intense disappointment and regret."

Because he found the bill before him improper for improvement of current farm income, he announced that the administration would take four immediate steps:

1. Price supports of wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts will be set by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson at a level of 82 1/2 per cent of parity. This means that the administration will guarantee a national price average of wheat at $2 a bushel, corn at $1.50 a bushel, and rice at $4.50 per 100 pounds.
2. The support price of milk will be increased to $3.25 per 100 pounds and the support of butter will be increased to 58.6 cents a pound.
3. The agriculture department promised, "where assistance will be constructive," to strengthen the prices of perishable farm commodities.
4. The President requested Congress to pass a "straight soil bank bill as promptly as possible... before fall seeding for next year's crops."

Income to Improve

"This combined program of administrative action and legislative enactment will begin now to improve the income and welfare of all our farm families," the President said in the message.

"Here is a challenge for both the legislative and executive branches of the federal government."

His veto message was sent to the house because that is where the bill originated last year.

The President will further explain his action to the American public by radio at 9 p. m. est. His remarks will be filmed and telecast later in the evening.

House Undecided

House Democratic leaders had not decided immediately whether to attempt to override the veto. It was generally agreed they could not succeed. In any event, no attempt to override was likely before Wednesday. Unofficial agreements had been made to have no record vote in the House Monday or Tuesday.

The President acted as he did on the farm measure, he said, because he did not believe it would "correct" price-depressing agricultural surpluses, nor offer the farmers of America "any forward-looking, sound program."

The biggest feature of the bill to which he objected was a return to 90 per cent of parity support prices. This was written into the

Capitol Hill Roundup

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower was expected to veto the farm bill Monday, despite urging from three Republican governors.

Administration sources said the President, herring a last-minute change of mind, would reject the Democratic measure Monday—a decision he reached during his week-long vacation at Augusta, Ga.

Govs Fred Hall of Kansas, Lee Hough of Iowa and Joe Foss of South Dakota were calling at the White House in an effort to convince the President the bill should be signed. But Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson who has termed the bill "unacceptable" was scheduled to see the President later.

There were reports the President would demand that Congress act quickly on new farm legislation or face a special session after the August political conventions. There was general agreement that Congress could not override a veto.

Cancer Crusade Head Calls Radio Marathon A Success

"We of the Gray County unit of the American Cancer Society feel the radio marathon Sunday was a tremendous success," stated Sheriff Elzie Jordan, Cancer Crusade chairman, today.

Jordan stated approximately $1,022.95 was received from the marathon. Of that amount, about $258.45 was received at station KPND, where the marathon was held, and an additional $104.50 is yet to come in from persons who said they would mail in checks and from persons requesting pick-up of their donations today. However, the final amount netted from the marathon will not be known for several days, he added.

The marathon began at 4 p. m. and ended at 9:30 p. m. Acting as masters of ceremonies were Mack Hlast, Benny Schulz, O. E. Wedgeworth and Bob Parkinson. Articles donated by local merchants and called in by Pampanas were auctioned off and donations were received for performance by talented Pampanas.

Performing were "Red" Payne, Mrs. Maxine Milliren, Rev. and Mrs. M. B. Smith and Marilyn, John Christy, Mrs. Jim Webb, Marilyn Myatt, Nancy Stevenson, Barbara Lunstford and Gale Howard, Don Cox and Virgil Flowers, Rufe Jordan, Bunny Matzney, Bob Parkinson, Shelby Ruff, Elmo Hudgins and Ramona Hudgins.

Assisting with the handling of phones, donations and in various other ways were Kay Fancher, Joe Tooley, Mrs. Rufe Jordan, Roy Bourland, Mrs. George Hrdlicka, Mrs. Jess Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Al Bell, and Dr. and Mrs. Nick Kadingsgo.

Paul Keim, assistant crusade chairman, was treasurer for the marathon, recording and compiling the donations.

The marathon was opened with a prayer by Rev. Edwin Hall of St. Paul's Methodist Church, co-chairman of the cancer unit's church committee. Opening remarks were made by Roy Bourland, president of the county cancer unit, and Sheriff Jordan.

Pick-up and delivery was handled by members of the National Guard, who included Jerry Adams, Jim Fowler, Doyle Fuchs, Jack Frost, Jerry Coley, Damon Runyon, Lawrence Mitchell, David Mullins, Virgil Jones, Bob Wilson and Charlie Robinson. They were assisted by a group from Nobilit-Coffey Postline, headed by Miss Sandra Nobilit.

Also assisting with the marathon by calling Pampanas to remind them of the event were members of the Sub Deb Club and their sponsor, Mrs. Ham Lams, and members of Kit Kat Klub and Las Cressas Club.

Following the marathon, workers were feted with ham and eggs by Owen Johnson of Johnson's Cafe.

"I want to thank everyone who helped make our radio marathon a success," those who donated to this great cause and those who assisted with the marathon," stated Sheriff Rufe Jordan.

Brownell Says People Back Ike's Plan

HOUSTON — UP — Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. said Monday "people everywhere are rallying in support" of President Eisenhower's disarmament plan.

He said the President's plan, first proposed at the Geneva conference last July, "can only be carried through under our constitutional processes of government with the undivided support of the people." Brownell spoke before the Houston Bar Association.

The plan — "a simple one for avoiding the danger of a surprise attack" — calls for the United States and Russia to furnish each other with military information and allow unrestricted aerial reconnaissance.

Confidence Well Founded

"When the extraordinary capability of modern aerial reconnaissance is recognized," he added, "we cannot but have confidence in the President's plan."

With the modern equipment now available, he told the lawyers, it is possible to photograph "the dimples of a golf ball from more than 8,000 feet." He said that "within six months we could have a picture, mile by mile, of every field and factory in the Soviet Union."

With the United States and Russia both keeping aerial check on the other, he said, "no nation will feel the danger of trickery or any crippling surprise attack."

Good Faith Is Key

"As soon as the inspection plan is fully operative, and each country knows the other is proceeding in good faith, the nations can safely move towards universal, simultaneous and proportionate disarmament and other far-reaching measures in the campaign for peace."

Brownell noted that "there are already broad areas of agreement between the United States and Russia on disarmament."

"It may take a long time before the Soviet Union agrees" to the President's plan, he said, but "we must never be discouraged. The cause is too important to ever stop trying."

Firestone Tire Protects Motorists From Blowouts

A new tubeless tire designed to provide motorists with complete tire safety and peace of mind under modern super-highway driving conditions was announced today as the "safest and longest-wearing passenger car tire ever offered to American motorists," by Al Osko, Pampa Firestone Store manager.

In appearance, the tire is completely new and is the first one ever to be styled with the help of large numbers of motorists through a scientifically conducted public preference poll, according to Osko.

Nylon Is Stronger
The new tubeless tire, which has been named the Supreme, is made with a safety-tensioned and gum-impregnated nylon cord that assures tremendous resistance to the impacts of hitting chuckholes, stones or other road hazards. Nylon, pound for pound, is stronger than steel, yet runs cooler than rayon to provide a much greater margin of safety for motorists.

The new Supreme tire has a specially compounded gummy sealant that prevents tire failures from nails and similar objects. The sealant clings to penetrating nails and prevents air leakage by flowing into and sealing small cuts and holes in the tire body.

Blowout protection is assured by a specially contoured safety diaphragm which is made of two plies of rubberized nylon cord and an ingenious safety valve that automatically locks two thirds of the air into its inner air chamber when the outer casing of the tire is ripped open or slashed. With this air locked into the "tire within the tire," a motorist can bring his car to a safe, straightline stop without danger of swerves or the complete loss of control that sometimes results from blowouts with ordinary tires.

During inflation of the tire, and under normal driving conditions, the valve remains open to maintain equal pressure through all parts of the tire.

Runs Silently
The exclusive tread design of the Supreme tire is based on new engineering principles that give the tire a glide-like ride over rough

TIRE-WITHIN-A-TIRE — Style-conscious motorists helped design this new Firestone Safety Tire by voting it to be the tire with the most eye appeal, according to Al Osko, manager of the Pampa Firestone Store. Mr. Osko reports that "The New Supreme Tire also has a unique interior construction which will assure motorists of protection from the dangers of blowouts and punctures." Catherine Daugherty displays the "tire-within-a-tire" construction that gives motorists and irregular roads. Tire squeal in turns and sudden stops has been virtually eliminated by the special design and the tire runs silently at any speed.

Outstanding safety feature of the new tread design is the great increase in traction provided by the thousands of integral siped resistors. Running in a diagonal direction, they improve forward traction and guard against side skidding.

Further improvement in the riding quality of the tire has been attained by designing a wide and

Thieves Get $50,000 At Monte Carlo

BY ELIZABETH TOOMEY
MONTE CARLO, April 16 — UP — Riviera thieves stole $50,000 worth of jewelry Saturday from the hotel room of Philadelphia publisher William McCloskey, who came here to be a guest at Grace Kelly's wedding to Prince Ranier.

The theft was only one of the troubles to beset Prince Ranier with his April 18-19 wedding only a few days away. Rain has fallen every day since Miss Kelly arrived Thursday, and the prince's latest brush with photographers led Miss Kelly's father to remark smilingly, "I guess the prince is going to have to learn to roll with the punches."

McCloskey, who publishes the Philadelphia Daily News and is treasurer of the national Democratic committee, disclosed the theft of the jewels which his wife had left in a red velvet case in a wardrobe of their room at the Hotel de Paris. Apparently they were taken while the McCloskeys were out Friday night.

Recalls Recent Movie
The theft recalled Miss Kelly's recent movie, "To Catch a Thief" which she made on the nearby Riviera with Cary Grant, who played the role of a suspected jewel thief. The Riviera has been a happy hunting ground for jewel thieves for many years.

Immediately after discovering the theft, the McCloskeys sent their other valuables to the hotel safe.

The United Press learned details of the theft shortly before officials ordered a security blackout on information about it.

The McCloskeys, who did not miss the jewels until Saturday morning, disclosed that another case which said contained even more valuable jewelry was left untouched.

Tries to Recover Jewels
The hotel spent several hours trying to recover the jewels before calling in police Saturday afternoon. Security measures were ordered, and even the main doors of the luxurious hotel were sealed off to guests, who were forced to use a side entrance to enter and leave the building.

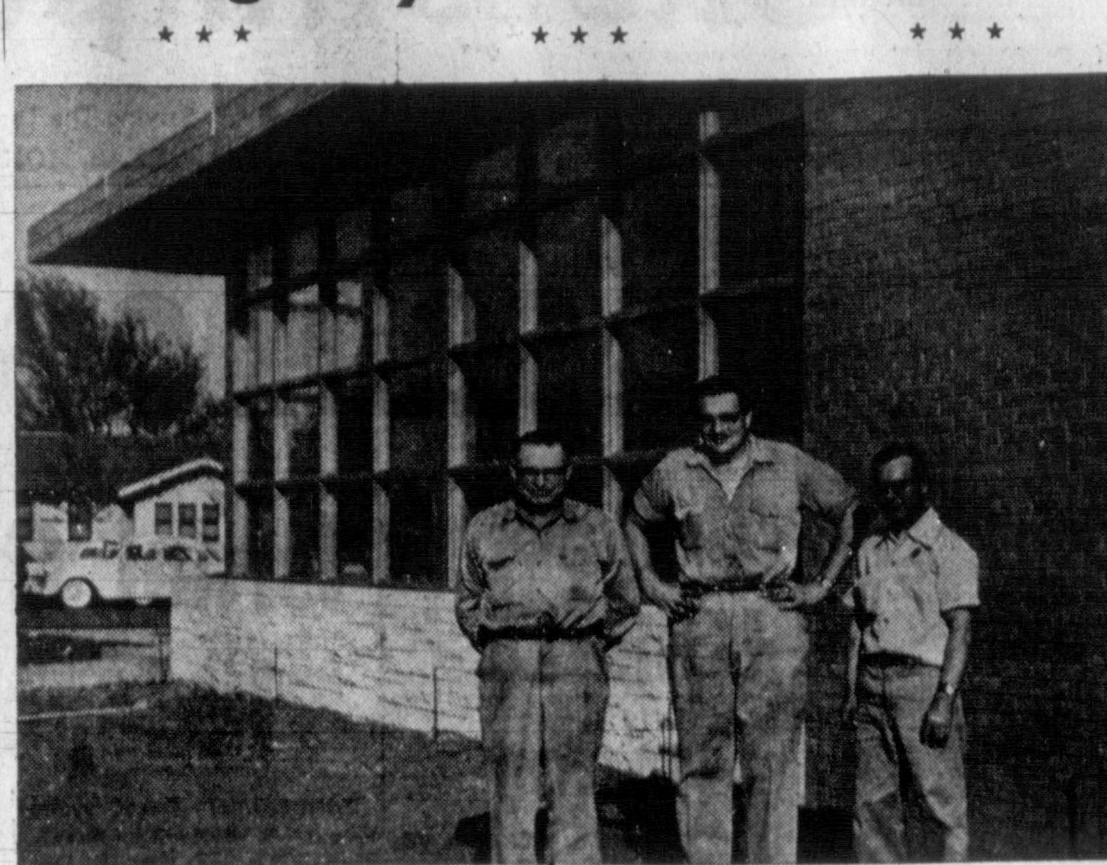

Mrs. McCloskey said the most valuable of the stolen items was a coral and diamond necklace valued at $15,000. A turquoise and diamond necklace and earrings and a bracelet valued at $10,000 also were taken.

McCloskey, a personal friend of the Kelly family, cabled to Philadelphia for details of the jewelry's description to aid investigators.

Mrs. McCloskey said family heirlooms were included in the case which was stolen.

"I was warned that it was dangerous to keep them with me, but I guess I just got careless," she said.

Radio is reported to have linked the North Pole and South Pole areas Friday for the first time in history.

Newton Kraus, a "ham" radio operator since 1923, used his amateur station to supply booster power and link VESML — the most northerly radio station in the world — with KCUSA at famed "Little America."

"Red" Higby at Little America, 12,000 miles away, reported he had 40-below weather and that "most of the day now is darkness" as winter approaches the Antarctic. Higby said his outpost is 600 miles from the South Pole.

Murray, from Cranston, R.I., is with an eight-man U.S. research team studying weather in the Far North. Higby, from Centralia, Wash., is with operation deep-freeze, building U.S. bases in the Antarctic in preparation for the international scientific attack on polar problems next year.

"Get it good and warm down there, will you?" Murray asked the Antarctic operator. "I'm getting a vacation in the states soon and then I'm supposed to come down to join you."

Two Injured In Wrecks

Two automobile collisions occurred early Sunday morning, resulting in the hospitalization of two people and the total loss of two automobiles.

Catherine Neely, 26, of Borger was hospitalized in the North Plains Hospital as a result of injuries received in a collision with a '53 Mercury, driven by Elias W. Paul, 35, Skellytown, about one mile southwest of Skellytown at the intersection of Highway 152.

She broke her leg in several places and was reported in serious condition. The '52 Buick, which she was driving, was a total loss. Damages were estimated at $300 for the Mercury.

Two other passengers, both from Borger, were riding in the Buick. They were reported uninjured.

A second accident occurred five miles east of Groom on Highway 66 at 1:40 a.m. Sunday. Bennie Caudill, 27, McLean, received minor cuts and abrasions as a result of his car turning over while he was going east. The '52 Lincoln, which he was driving when he lost control, hit the left shoulder, flipped over about two and one-half times and landed on its top in the bar ditch. The car was a total loss. (Continued from Page One) to Pampa in 1932, Henderson had worked on his father's farm.

A graduate of Pampa High School in 1933, he faced the six depression years, and then started to work in 1939 as a deputy in the County Tax Collector's office. In 1941 he went to work for the U.S. Army in El Paso. First he was assigned to the Coast Artillery, stationed in San Francisco, Calif., and later he was assigned to the West Coast Training Center as an aviation cadet.

Upon graduation, he became a twin-engine pilot at Roswell, N.M., and saw combat crew training at Columbia, S.C.

Released in 1944, "Smiley" started to work that same year as City Secretary, having been appointed to that position by the City Commission. This made the second of three positions that he has held in his entire life time.

He married Betty Yoe, of Bartlesville, Okla., in June of 1945, while she was teaching high school mathematics at Sedan. They now have three children: George, 8, in the third grade at Woodrow Wilson; Harriet, 6, who is attending St. Matthew's Day School; and Frank, 1, Jr.'s at home.

Before the United Fund came to Pampa, Henderson participated in all the individual drives of the various organizations here. He served as campaign worker in most any fund raising project that came his way.

He had a part in the Jaycees, too, helping to make the Fiesta of 1939 a hit. He recalls the Coronado Expedition held in conjunction with the Top 'O' Texas Fiesta, the rodeo and Old Settlers Reunion. And he recalls being thrown in the horse tank for not leaving his beard off!

They will attend the fifty-third anniversary Muster of Texas A&M men. The Muster Ceremonies will be preceded by a banquet.

The Northeast Panhandle Muster will be one of more than 400 similar ceremonies held all over the world where Texas A&M College former students pay homage to their fellow classmates who have passed on, and humble tribute to the Texans show on the freedom of the state at the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston some 120 years ago.

C. J. VanZandt of Wheeler, chairman of the Muster, urges all A&M men and their wives to attend the April 21st Muster program.

The Pampa A&M Club will join the other clubs of The Northeast Panhandle in the Muster this year, according to George Scott, president of the local club. It is requested that all former students in the area notify David M. Britt of Wheeler that they will attend, together with their wives.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Dear Friends As a part of their work in Humble's Refining Research Laboratory, Humble scientists bombard petroleum hydrocarbons with electrons in a 2-million volt Van de Graaff Accelerator.

But if you ask one of these scientists what he expects to find, he'll answer, who knows! For this is fundamental research! Results may be quick or they may be a long time developing. Who knows?

Perhaps the scientists will find a way to increase the yield of useful products from a barrel of crude oil. Perhaps they'll be able to make improvements in the fine products already supplied you.

Perhaps they'll develop an entirely new group of petroleum products. Who knows! This much, however, is certain: Humble research scientists at Baytown use every device of physics, chemistry, mathematics and mechanics to provide you with more and better petroleum products.

Two quick examples: The specifications for Esso Extra gasoline, the formula for Humble Uniflo motor oil. These, without question, are the finest products you can use in your car.

'Of And By The People'

The average citizen of the United States lives under an extremely dangerous illusion that all's well with his government because despite occasional corruptions, sporadic bureaucratic stupidity and some errors of judgment, he still lives, he thinks, as Lincoln averred, under a "government of the people, by the people, for the people."

When a development occurs which injures him, he is prone to place excessive blame upon himself for not being more conscientious in following governmental affairs or to place unmerited blame upon his journals of information for not keeping him up to date on current events. But beyond the fundamental fact that he HAS been responsible for letting his government get out of hand, his self-criticism and his criticism of information sources is not always deserved. Indeed, more often than not it is hardly deserved at all. We surely have government "of the people." But it is most usually government by "some" people for "special" people. And this is particularly true in the realm of government in international affairs.

The direct agents of the people in our government are the senators and the representatives in Congress. And for many years now the Congress has been rebuffed more times than you can count when it sought information from the Executive Branch. The Executive Branch, neither in theory nor fact, represents the people of the United States. The electorate does not vote directly for the President and there is no constitutional requirement that the Chief Executive even be the choice of the majority of the people. It is quite simple to name a President — Truman, Wilson and Cleveland are examples — by the vote of less than a majority of the popular vote cast and no President at all has ever received a majority of the eligible votes since it is a characteristic of our voting mores that approximately one-third of our people just don't go to the polls. (This is no brief for "majority rule" but rather a straight commentary on how our democratic process works. In this alleged "democracy" of ours, the system specifically provides that the masses shall pick only selected electors who have the full power to name chief executives, a power which extends if you didn't know to the right to be chosen as an "Eisenhower elector" and vote for anyone else they want. It is tradition not law that causes electors to pick the candidate on whose slates they run.)

Furthermore in regard to the Executive Branch the "people" do not pick the administrators or employees. These are selected by the President with no consideration so far as we know to their desire or willingness to be representatives of the "people."

It is the Congress that theoretically represents the "people" and which is supposed to provide "government by the people."

But, of course, it doesn't do it and one of the reasons is that it can't because our government system has been so perverted that it is possible for agents of the Executive Branch to nonchalantly and safely tell the congressmen "go to hell."

If you don't think this is so, we call your attention to the current situation in hearings of the Senate Investigation subcommittee into the details of the Administration's trade policy and treaties with Communist countries.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., and John B. Hollister, foreign aid administrator, all refused to give the information to the committee recently on grounds it was confidential material of the Executive Branch. Actually the committee has been begging the administrative branch for the data for several weeks running up against a stone wall of silence.

In simple words, the Executive Branch is maintaining that it is no business of Congress — and therefore of the people — what it does. If you can deduce from that contention that the "people" still control the government of the United States, your innocence and your docility is beyond all understanding.

It is the steady expansion of the state of mind among our Executive Branch that they are "masters" not "servants" of the people, that has created the necessity for enactment of the Bricker Amendment designed to curb the executive power. Since Congress seems unable to assert its equality of authority with the Executive Branch, it is an essential safeguard for the nation that the people write into the Constitution that the President and his minions are not czars even in foreign affairs.

A new version of the Bricker Amendment has been drafted by Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio, the original author of the bill has approved this new and simplified version. Moves are underway in Congress to pass this much needed and much abused measure.

Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr., a Democrat from Missouri, who led the fight against the bill when it was first presented two years ago, has already taken the floor to attack the revised measure. He says that the Amendment will raise "grave constitutional problems" and that it might be interpreted in such a way as "to tie the hands of the President in his conduct of our national defense and our foreign relations."

We hope Senator Hennings is correct and that that is the only way the bill can be interpreted. The whole purpose of the Amendment is to do that very thing. Powers not originally intended for our chief executive have been assumed by our presidents through the treaty provisions of the Constitution.

Indirect Or Sales Tax

Thiers, in his book, "A Refutation of Communism and Socialism," after advocating a proportionate tax on income, has a chapter telling about the difficulties of income tax and then pointing out the advantages of sales tax. He puts it in this manner: "It follows from the preceding that taxation should be proportionate to one's earnings or to one's possessions, according to a ratio invariable for all, without respect to rich or poor. This is just, true, and certain. Beyond it, there is nothing but injustice, despotism, and disorder."

"If, for instance, we could learn with certainty what every man derives from his trade or his capital, whether personal or real, we might, by calling for the fifth and tenth, the twentieth of that sum, according to the necessities of the State, arrive at the most equitable of all taxes. Yet this impost is a mere chimera, for we cannot know precisely what each man derives from his capital or his labor. Land is difficult to value. Would you have a cadastre, or register description, of the lands and houses; it would be long and costly to prepare; it ceases at every moment to be true; for these lands are continually changing owners and condition. If we dispense with a cadastre, the value of estates remains utterly unknown. As for personal property, that is for the most part intangible. We may get at sums, such as the funds, and mortgages; but setting aside the injustice of affecting some and letting others escape, we shall not attain our end, for it is the owner of the income we desire to tax, and he finds the means, by requiring a higher interest, to avoid the tax, and make the borrower pay it. The only effect of this course has been to raise the rate of interest, both to the State and to individuals. As for the productions of individual labor, they are still more intangible, for who can tell what is earned by a tradesman, a barrister, a physician, or a banker?"

This tax, based on the known incomes of each man, is therefore an ideal that can never be realized. The English have attempted it, but they are disappointed of being deceived, that they endeavor to correct its inevitable errors by fixing it very low (it is 3 per cent, a thirty-third part of the income) and only make use of it under the name of income-tax, as a kind of supplement in seasons of embarrassment, having taken care to exempt all the smaller incomes (below 150), so that it may become a sort of substitution of the better classes to support the exchequer in its distress.

"Suppose, however, that this chimerical impost, based on the real revenue of each individual, were possible, there would still be the serious inconvenience of going to these individuals, and asking them on certain days of the year, every month, every quarter, every half-year, for the amount of these contributions, and of taking them unawares, which happens particularly with the lower classes, who are generally wanting in foresight, and of thus adding to the natural inconvenience of the tax, whatever it might be, that of an exigency repeating all a year, on an appointed day. This is the inconvenience attached to every direct tax, for by such name is that known which goes directly to the individual to ask for a part of the revenue from their property, or a share of the profits of their trade. Now governments being far more attentive than they are thought to be, to humour the sensibility of the taxpayer, have taken this great inconvenience into account, and for this reason have set aside direct taxation, so far as it depends upon them; and the richer the country they have had to deal with, the more they have had recourse to indirect tax.

Consumer Tax
"We may imagine another kind of tax, which, laying hold of all articles of consumption, whether of passage, such as food, clothing, articles of luxury, and raw material, is thus confounded with and added to the price of the articles. This tax, called indirect, to distinguish it from the other, has a very great advantage over it, — it is that of taxing in proper place, by adding itself to the price of produce, of which the tax should evidently form a part; for, as the expense of raising a tax against shipwreck should be included in the price of sea-borne merchandise, so the cost of its social protection ought to become an integral part of the price of these productions. Hence it follows, that the tax being confounded with the price of the goods in the market, is paid successively, insensibly, by slow degrees; so that the taxpayer, who generally has little foresight, is not obliged to think of the tax-gatherer, as he thinks of his landlord, and it happens that while paying his daily expenses, he pays at the same time his share of the public charges. Moreover, the tax is voluntary on his part, for he can renounce his expenditure if he thinks he cannot meet it, and then he pays only what taxes he pleases, and in proportion to the enjoyment in which he indulges. This tax is the most equitable also, for the rich man, who consumes more of the social productions, pays a greater share of their cost of production; and he who, from prudence, economy, or poverty, abstains from them, is relieved from paying a part of the public expense. In proportion to his abstinence, this indirect tax is therefore in-equitable, infinitely divided, and prudent for the payer, who is not, in general, prone just."

vinced that at least a part of that decline is traceable to the ease and facility with which our Chief Executive can behave like a whirling dervish in his dealings with foreign potentates. American foreign policy, once a rock of independence, has become jelly-like in its quivering inconsistency.

A major reason for this deplorable fact is the fluidity with which the passing fancies of a President can be put down and made into what amounts to law. If this is to be a representative country, it cannot be governed by one-man decision. This is especially important in all international dealing where any decision which could be made binding upon American people should be arrived at openly and in full view of the public mind.

The Bricker Amendment is calculated to cause this very thing to happen. It is supposed to compel the Chief Executive to abide by fixed rules of conduct, rather than to assume royal prerogatives and so do as he pleases.

We do not know how the Bricker Amendment will fare this time. It failed of a two-thirds majority in 1954 by only a single vote. It was clear then that the nation needed and wanted it. We hope it is even more clear now. We wish the new version of the bill a fair and swift passage.

Brownell Accused Of Blocking Investigation

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., has been accused by a Federal Grand Jury in St. Louis of blocking further investigation and prosecution of high government officials in the Truman Administration who allegedly protected income tax evaders. And the implication is that the head of the Department of Justice is motivated by political reasons.

Federal Judge George H. Moore, who inspired the inquiry that has already resulted in indictment of several Truman aides, has normally complained to Brownell. He did so by making public and forwarding to the Attorney General the Grand Jury's severe criticism of Brownell's inaction.

It is understood that indignant Judge Moore made public the jurors' comment in the face of the Department of Justice lawyers' attempts to keep it secret. Both the Grand Jury's action and Judge Moore's reaction are described as "unprecedented."

It was this Grand Jury which returned indictments against Matthew Connelly, Truman's White House secretary, and T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the Tax Division of the Department of Justice. They were accused of conspiracy in handling tax cases, and will go to trial next month.

The Grand Jury was pursuing an investigation of other Truman officials, as he thinks of his landlord, and it happens that while paying his daily expenses, he pays at the same time his share of the public charges. Moreover, the tax is voluntary on his part, for he can renounce his expenditure if he thinks he cannot meet it, and then he pays only what taxes he pleases, and in proportion to the enjoyment in which he indulges. This tax is the most equitable also, for the rich man, who consumes more of the social productions, pays a greater share of their cost of production; and he who, from prudence, economy, or poverty, abstains from them, is relieved from paying a part of the public expense. In proportion to his abstinence, this indirect tax is therefore in-equitable, infinitely divided, and prudent for the payer, who is not, in general, prone just."

and only $100 has been repaid.

The Grand Jury's suggestion that Brownell stalled their activities "for any other reason" may have political connotations. The obvious one is that, with the Presidential election in mind, he may prefer to obtain indictments by convoking another Grand Jury early in the fall. October revelations of fresh "tax scandals" would have more effect on the electorate than April-May true bills.

The prospect that former President Truman may play a heavy role at the Democratic national convention and in the campaign itself contributes an intriguing aspect to Brownell's action, assuming that the Attorney General is playing politics. And that is what the action of the Grand Jury and Judge Moore implies. They see no valid legal reason for inaction or delay.

Obviously, a post-convention prosecution of Truman appointees would tend to diminish the Missouri's efforts and influence on behalf of the Democratic Presidential nominee. It was the "scandals" in the Internal Revenue Bureau, the Department of Justice and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which impelled Adlai E. Stevenson to try to disassociate himself from the "Missouri clique" in the 1952 campaign.

As recently noted here, a question still unresolved by the Grand Jury is whether an admitted income tax evader put up the $70,000 which paid for two of former President Truman's windup radio speeches in the 1952 campaign.

The alleged contributor eventually pleaded guilty to violating the income tax laws and served a prison sentence. But it had been brought out that Caudle, the financial director of the Democratic National Committee and an Alabama Congressman had been able to stave off prosecution of the income tax violator for three years.

MacLemore Says His Future Is Secure

By HENRY MACLEMORE

I was heartened to learn the other day that there are more than 200,000 serious collectors of antiques in the United States. This means that my old age is secure and that I will never have to take that long walk over the hill to the you-know-what.

Our home is a treasure trove of relics, and should we ever decide to hold an auction there is no telling how much we would realize before the auctioneer yelled, "Going — Going — Gone!" for the last time.

The collector of frozen things, for example, would get a gleam in his eye when he peeked into our refrigerator. Way back in the freezing section, so welded to the sides by ice and frost that we long ago abandoned any thought of prying them loose, are all sorts of antiques.

Bought for emergency use, these goods were poked to the back and forgotten. There's a package of frozen raspberries in there that must date back to the Crimean war, and sharing an igloo with it are a couple of chip steaks that are as ancient as anything that came out of King Tut's tomb. And somewhere in the frozen waste is a can of those quick biscuits that were old when the Druids were at Stonehenge.

The collector who bought these would really have something to brag about. An old sock enthusiast would be likely to swoon when he opened the three top drawers of my bureau. There are acres and acres of socks, none alike, thus guaranteeing that he would never run across a rival collector with a duplicate in pattern, color, or material.

I often wonder how I manage to have so many socks which have no mates. A sock, you know, isn't an easy thing to lose. It fits pretty tightly, to begin with, and is usually encased in a shoe. I have passed the age where I kick off my shoes when I dance, so I seldom lose one doing the Mambo or the Samba. I don't dance very often, and when I do I never leave my socks on the river bank, the edge of the bird bath or on the beach.

Some of my socks date back to goodness knows when. There is one with a clock on it, the hands of which are set at the exact hour when Lincoln was shot, so you can figure out how old it is. And some have holes in them of such magnitude that they surely must have been around when the last meteorite landed.

Mary and her kitchen cupboards and closets would reap a golden harvest if she ever decided to sell. I believe I can say without fear of contradiction that she owns the largest collection of old jars and glasses in existence. I know this is true of her assortment of glassware that is re-usable after the contents are gone.

She must have hundreds of peanut butter, jelly and jam jars. She even saves the aluminum foil plates that frozen foods are cooked in. Her excuse is that we can always use them for feeding the animals. She has enough of them to set table for every single animal in Africa and Asia combined. One look at her collection and you know that hundreds of them are as old as the hills. They represent years and years of saving.

Antique calendar collectors would revel in our house. Any time we want to know on what day of the week any given date fell, all we have to do is thumb through the ones that adorn in truth or in fact, the one with Black Friday stamped is still hanging by the hot water tank, its bird-dogs-on-point cover yellow with age.

But if we sold all our antiques the house would seem so bare without the lovely things.

THE NATION'S PRESS

AN OMINOUS SIGN
(The Fort Worth Star-Telegram)

One of the most chilling incidents yet to appear in the South's fight against desegregation of its public schools got only a paragraph in most newspapers, but it is deeply significant of the rapidly changing relationship between the white and Negro peoples themselves.

It was the clamorous and unanimous approval by the Alabama Senate of a resolution asking federal funds to move Negroes from Alabama to regions outside the South where they are "needed or wanted."

Naturally, no one in the Senate had any expectation that such funds would be made available, but the resolution nevertheless reflects a state of mind which is new and dangerous. Such a resolution would have been impossible even a year ago. White people and Negroes long have lived together in Alabama with more than tolerable harmony and in many cases genuine affection. No white Alabamian would have seriously advocated driving his Negro neighbors out of the state and out of the South. The Negro always has been considered as much a part of the Southern scene as the Dixie landscape itself.

Now comes the Senate of a Southern Legislature with an explosive, emotional demand for the Yankees to come and get him, for the South doesn't want or need him. This is what happens when well-intentioned but misinformed people incite a quarrel between old friends. Of course the Alabama Senate doesn't mean what it says. It couldn't. But no calm man arose on the Senate floor to suggest that, in truth or in fact, the Negro was both wanted and needed in the South, and that, whether needed or not, he definitely was not wanted in the North.

Yet, and this is the tragic part of it, he will not be wanted in the South either if the region's long history of racial accommodation is turned into the racial hatred that already is beginning to appear. A growing tension is pervading the Southern states. Tempers are getting short. Good will is evaporating into the miasma of intolerance that always follows any violent rupture of social practice and tradition.

We can not see what is at the end of this hideous situation. If it continues, those whose interest in it is more academic than real, more abstract than practical, will surely feel the effects of it, and will realize perhaps too late the consequences of their impractical tampering with laws and customs whose meaning and purpose they do not understand. And if we are permitted a prophecy, the greatest victim will be the Negro himself, who will live as an alien in a land cold to his presence and indifferent to his needs.

Another correspondent says she has recently moved to a farm and wants to know of a method of pasteurizing on which she can rely. An electric pasteurizer would be best, but if she cannot get one it is possible to do a fair job with a double boiler.

THE MILK SHOULD BE brought to a temperature of at least 143 degrees and kept there for several minutes. It is safer to overdo it than to underdo the heating. This method is, however, likely to alter the taste more than either commercial pasteurization or a home electrical machine.

Good safe milk is one of our best foods; not only for children but for grownups as well. Milk can be consumed in many forms — chocolate milk or milk shakes, — for example — can be put on cereal, and can be included in many cooked foods.

Today, thanks to the improvement in the health of the cows, better and cleaner collection methods, refrigeration, and pasteurization, the benefits of milk are more widely shared and milk is safer than ever before.

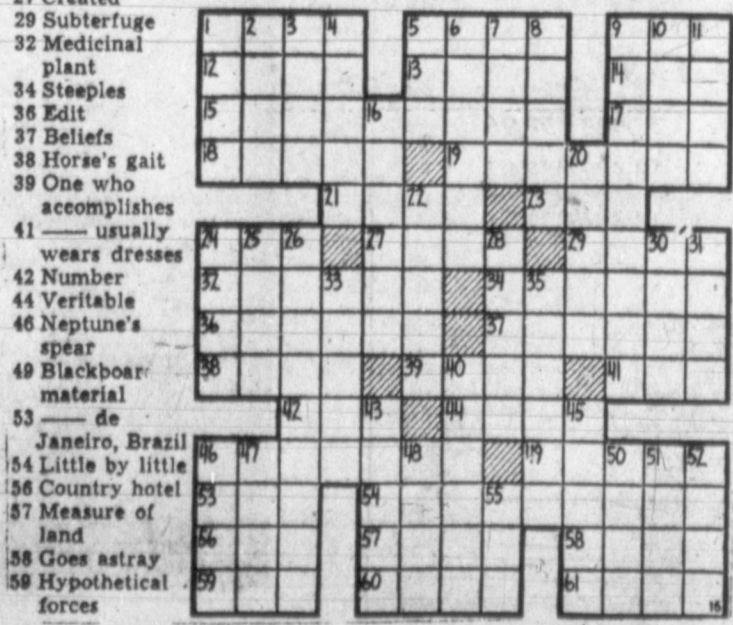

It is essential, I think, that the

IN MOST PLACES IN THE UNITED STATES it is considered good manners to remove your hat in a public office building, but in Britain's House of Commons a parliamentarian can't speak unless there's a hat on his head. The reason for the custom has long since been forgotten, but it is one of the many curious remnants of former times that still go along with wearing hats in a modern age.

I. BENJAMIN Parrill, president of The Adam Hat Manufacturers, Inc., is the authority on hat customs, which is part of a new field called "hatiquette." Mr. Parrill knows more about men's hats than probably anybody else.

Parrill tells the story about the time the great Prime Minister of Britain, William Gladstone, was caught without his hat when he wanted to speak. "Gladstone had wandered away from his seat without his hat," Parrill says, "and suddenly there was a call for a vote on an important issue. Gladstone wished to make a point of order, but before he could speak, there were cries throughout the room of 'Hat, Hat, Hat!'"

"Finally a colleague gave the grand old man a hat, but since it was several sizes too small, it perched precariously on his head. While he made his speech, laughter accompanied what he had to say."

Parrill tells other little known facts about men's hats and what they used to be. "Did you ever notice the little bow inside your hat? That bow, Parrill explains, is a throwback to the days when hats were made in only a few sizes, and a string around the inside of the brim could be tightened to the correct size. Today the little bow is used to indicate the back of the hat. Many of the little bows are imported from Switzerland."

The "Hats" and "Caps" were names of the two leading political parties in Sweden during the 18th century. The "Hats" were the con-

Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority Sponsors Book Review By Evelyn Oppenheimer

Delta Kappa Gamma, teachers' sorority, sponsored Miss Evelyn Oppenheimer of Dallas in a book review Friday evening in the Sam Houston School auditorium. Proceeds from the event will go toward a scholarship for a future teacher.

Miss Oppenheimer reviewed the book, "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," by Sloan Wilson. Miss Oppenheimer began her review by stating that two books during this last season had special merit. "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit" and "Marjorie Morningstar." One, she pointed out, is long, the other short; one focuses on a man, the other on a woman; one is by an established author, the other by a new author. They have in common, however, a "quality that seems to indicate a trend, a change to a healthier, more wholesome attitude," she explained.

"The attitude in 'Marjorie Morningstar' is that you can't beat the old values," she told the group. "The old values stand because they make sense. The attitude in 'The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit' is that it's all right to be modern, smart and successful, but what makes sense is good living, happy living."

Building Own Desserts Is Teen-Age Pleasure

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Jimmy (14) and Johnny (8) Weaver of Hilliards, Ohio, accept responsibility in preparing refreshments for their many friends when they drop in after school or over the weekend. These sons of Mrs. James Weaver share the honors when it comes to making a favorite dessert treat, assembled and prepared along "build your own" lines.

For this specialty, frozen waffles and ice cream (any flavor) are important ingredients. To top off this special dessert, they simply pass a bottle of maple-blended syrup to pour on in copious quantities. Sounds like an idea to introduce to every teen-ager in every family.

The directions are simple. After the first demonstration by the Weaver boys, the guests "build their own." First thing to do is to toast the frozen waffles, following the directions on the package. If the crowd is large, this sometimes keeps two toasters busy. While still hot, the waffles are placed on serving plates and ice cream is spooned over it. Then, quickly, a rich river of maple-blended syrup is poured over the top, and some lucky boy is busy eating.

The Weaver boys' "basic three"—ice cream, maple-blended syrup and frozen waffles—is, just for the sake of fun and variety, sometimes supplemented with several bowls of extra toppings. These are always things that go well with the "basic three"—coarsely chopped nuts, sugar-coated cereals, snowy flaked coconut.

Mrs. Gene Fatheree will be program leader, and J. R. Strohle of the First Baptist Church will present the devotional. ## TV Salutes Game As Managers Look Forward To Better Year

NEW YORK — UP — Big League baseball received a "spectacular" 11th hour sendoff for its 1956 season Sunday night in a nationally televised extravaganza which included everything from a presidential tribute to Yogi Berra's obviously nervous debut in the ballet.

President Eisenhower's message to baseball rounded out the elaborate 90-minute NBC-TV spectacular, which featured such standouts as Leo Durocher, Bob Feller, Duke Snider, Robin Roberts and Berra.

In his rare, real by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, the President said: "Would you permit a former sent-off outsider to join you today and pay a tribute to baseball? From the big city to the smallest town, baseball is truly the American game."

Berra, who had frayed about his delicate assignment all day, got his chance at ballet when called upon to portray a baller in pantomime as part of a musical routine from the Broadway show "Damn Yankees." Yogi made it all right, but he had a few anxious moments watching for his join with you today and pay a cue.

Optimism Strikes Most Big League Managers

By UNITED PRESS

Baseball's annual epidemic of optimism, which strikes all big league managers just before the start of the season, and usually is started with a few early losing streaks, found them in their usual cheerful mood Saturday.

In their pre-game statements to the United Press in advance of opening day, virtually every manager pictured his club as improved over last year, although there were no flat predictions that they would win the pennant.

Here is what they had to say:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Casey Stengel, Yankees
"We can win again. But we have problems in left field and possibly at short. There is a lot of nonsensical talk about an easy race for the Yankees. The situation indicates no such things. Our club is in for a tough fight in a still balanced league. Cleveland and Boston look like contenders and Chicago, too, can't be ignored, for that matter, Detroit, either."

Al Lopez, Indians
"Sure, the Yankees are the ones to beat but just because they got Mickey McDermott that doesn't make them big favorites. Herb Score may light a fire under our 'big three' pitchers—Wynn, Lemon and Garcia—and we still have the best pitching in baseball anyway."

Marty Marion, White Sox
"I thought we would win the pennant last year but we missed by five games. This is a team that could go all the way if we get a few breaks. We definitely are improved with Larry Doby in center, Luis Aparicio at short, Sam Esposito at third, and now a fourth starting pitcher, Bill Fischer."

Mike Higgins, Red Sox
"We'll be stronger. We have better bench strength. We have added fine talent in first baseman Mickey Vernon and pitcher Bob Porterfield. Most important, we will have Ted Williams for the entire season."

Bucky Harris, Tigers
"Our pitching should be better and with development of our young players in other departments we should win more games than we did in 1955 when we missed fourth place by only five games."

Paul Richards, Orioles
"I feel we will be somewhat better and I hope it is reflected in the won and lost columns. Our youth movement is showing signs of improving the club but most of our better prospects are still a little young to put in the lineup."

Chuck Dressen, Senators
"We're a green team and we'll make a lot of mistakes. But I can't predict any first division finish, but this could be a team to surprise me pleasantly."

Lou Boudreau, Athletics
"The Athletics are a better club because of numerous purchases of top minor league players. We are headed in the right direction. But we will have to be better to finish sixth again because Baltimore and Washington have improved."

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Walter Alton, Dodgers
"If we get the pitching we can win it. If we don't we may be in trouble. If Billy Loes and Karl Spooner can't pitch it throws all the weight on the young pitchers. It is too early to tell yet how good they are."

Bill Rigney, Giants
"I like the looks of this club and I'm not conceding anything to anybody. We could have pitching as good as there is in the league. The boys have shown me they can hit. There are a lot of long ball bats in the lineup, too. And when we settle on it, we'll have a good defensive infield."

Bredie Tebbets, Redlegs
"If Ted Kluszewski recovers fully from his hip injury, we will go as far as our pitch will take us and that could be on top because even if Brooklyn figures to win again, it promises to be the sort of a race in which the Braves, Reds, Cards, Phils and Giants also will have a chance to cop the pennant."

Mayo Smith, Phillies
"I feel if any team is to beat the Dodgers, it could be the Phillies as well as anyone else. Every team has improved, Cincinnati

Frick Sees Better Season For Majors

By FORD C. FRICK
Commissioner of Baseball

NEW YORK, April 16 — UP — I have a little sermon and I hope the people in baseball will have time to listen for a minute.

Certainly, we face a good year and I look for lively pennant races with the competition perhaps a little keener in the National League.

I thought the interest in spring training was keener than I have seen it in a number of years. Wherever I went, newspapers carried a large volume of news from the training camps from the wire services and from their own correspondents. I heard people talking about baseball in restaurants. Everywhere there were sports shows devoted to baseball on radio and television.

Now obviously, we have the fans with us. But I hope the people in baseball will recognize that the game itself can be better. I hope they will devote a little more attention to improving things in their own parks and in their minor league farm systems.

Problems Not So Serious

As far as the minor leagues are concerned, their troubles may not be as serious as many people think. They have problems because of radio and television broadcasts into their territories. But if they can find — with the aid of the government — a solution to those problems they can drop into their proper niche in the baseball picture as a healthy adjunct to the majors.

I'm opposed to any subsidy for the minors because I don't think it is the long range answer. I think baseball generally must make up its mind whether subsidy is the answer or whether a little more hard work and sweat upon the part of the owners might be the payoff.

I'd like to see the majors change the rules to let the minors all the way down to Class D set up the kid players and develop them to a point where they can be sold at a price that would assure them of a profit on their operations.

Instead of Big Bonuses

That could be done if a lot of the money that now goes into big bonuses for kids, who never have had a trial in organized baseball, would go to the grass roots leagues where these same kids could be developed and sold on a basis of honest, sound, good — old-fashioned American competition.

We need these kids in baseball. They're the backbone of the future as players and as fans. It is heartening to see the tremendous enthusiasm of the little leagues, the Babe Ruth Leagues for older boys, and the rebirth of interest in college baseball. And of course, the great legion of youngsters being developed in the American Legion baseball program.

Fort Worth Cats Lead Texas League

By UNITED PRESS

The Fort Worth Cats—the only undefeated team left in the Texas League — held a half-game lead over the field Monday. The Cats occupied the top spot on the strength of their second victory in a row over their traditional rivals, the Dallas Eagles.

Dallas relief pitcher Dom Zanni actually assisted the Cats by walking in the winning run Sunday in Dallas to give Fort Worth the victory 10 to 6. Three Fort Worth homers, a triple and a double also helped win for the Cats.

In other games Sunday, San Antonio outslugged newcomer Austin 20 to 18 to win by same score; Tulsa defeated Oklahoma City 9 to 6 and Shreveport downed Houston 7 to 5.

The Austin-San Antonio game set two Texas League records. The teams belted a total of 17 doubles to better by two the league record set July 30, 1897, by Fort Worth and Dallas.

The Missions' six doubles in the first inning also bettered by one the record set by Beaumont against Shreveport on July 19, 1930. San Antonio's 12 doubles, including five by Bob Caffery, missed, by only one equalling the league record.

Oklahoma City's Hiram Gonzales dropped a fly in the ninth inning at Oklahoma City to let in two runs that broke up a deadlock. Hal Meek followed by singling Tony Bajon, one of six wrestling brothers from Quebec, Canada, tangles with the masked Golden Terror. It will be the first Pampa appearance for the Canadian, who recently captured the Pacific Northwest title.

Wrestling has been switched to Monday night, and will be held regularly on Mondays from now on with the exception of next week when it will again be shifted to Wednesday in order not to conflict with the Pampa Oilers season-opening ballgame.

The first match tonight starts at 8 o'clock.

Clippers Tie For B-State League Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Corpus Christi pulled into a three-place tie for the leadership in the Big State League Monday on the strength of three straight victories after dropping the season opener last Thursday to Victoria.

The Clippers defeated Victoria 11 to 4 Sunday for the third consecutive time to pull into a tie at the top of the standings with Port Arthur and Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls also made it three in a row by downing the Waco Pirates again 13 to 9 on the Spudders' home field. Port Arthur dropped its first game of the young season, a 10 to 8 decision to the Beaumont Exporters.

In the other game Sunday Lubbock eased past Abilene 5 to 4.

Beaumont, new entry which played in the Texas League last year, came up with its first victory Sunday by collecting 11 hits off two Port Arthur hurlers.

Corpus Christi's Gustav Muniz barely missed a shutout in the Clippers' stadium as he pitched the route, holding Victoria scoreless on a five-hitter until the ninth. In the final inning the Eagles put together four hits, three of them doubles, for all their runs.

Lubbock took advantage of an error by Abilene's first baseman in the ninth inning to score the winning run. Reliever Ray Robinson was credited with the Hubber glory.

The Spudders belted four Waco pitchers for 16 hits at Wichita Falls to offset two homers by the Pirates' Jack Falls for their victory. Four Wichita Falls runs in the eighth were unearned.

Shriner Wrestling Scheduled Tonight

Two purses will be at stake in tonight's main event at the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club, which is a command performance for the wrestling commissioner.

Last week, Dapper Danny McShain, the former world's junior light heavyweight champion, defeated former Texas heavyweight titlist Sonny Meyers in the semi-final event. But the method in which he did so was so questionable, the commissioner ordered the purse held up, and the two rematched for tonight for a double purse. McShain protested, but to no avail, and so might he must once again attempt to whip the tough Texan.

In tonight's semifinal battle, two of the canvas game's more curvaceous cuties, Penny Banner and China Mira, will battle two out of three falls. Both are highly respected in the wrestling game, despite the fact they have only been at it a couple of years.

In a one fall warm-up event, battling Tony Bajon, one of six wrestling brothers from Quebec, Canada, tangles with the masked Golden Terror. It will be the first Pampa appearance for the Canadian, who recently captured the Pacific Northwest title.

Wrestling has been switched to Monday night, and will be held regularly on Mondays from now on with the exception of next week when it will again be shifted to Wednesday in order not to conflict with the Pampa Oilers season-opening ballgame.

The first match tonight starts at 8 o'clock.

"Babe" Tourney Winner Heads For Dallas Open

BEAUMONT, Tex. — UP — Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagg, 9000 richer after winning the Babe Zaharias Open golf tournament, headed for Dallas Monday for this week's $7,500 Dallas Women's Open.

Mrs. Hagg, of Ashville, N.C., wound up with an even par 69-77-73-219 after Sunday's final round to take top money in the tourney named after the famed woman golfer, Babe Zaharias, who is hospitalized at Galveston, Tex., with cancer.

The 72-hole medal play for the Dallas Open begins Thursday at the Glen Lakes Country Club. It will be the first tourney in Dallas in five years by the touring woman professionals.

Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., who took the lead from Mrs. Hagg on the second day of play here Saturday, finished with a 74-71-77-222 Sunday, for second place and $400.

Mrs. Hagg's sensational putting and short iron play, including one 60-foot and one 50-foot putt Sunday, were chiefly responsible for her four-stroke winning margin.

Swaps Is Ready To Race Nashua

HALLANDALE, Fla. — UP — Swaps, his owners and his jockey are ready to take on Nashua again "anytime." But the meeting will be several months away.

The glistering chestnut colt's name went into horse racing's world record books Saturday for the second time when he posted a new mark for one mile and 70 yards by winning the $25,000 Brown Handicap at Gulfstream Park in 1:39.5. The old record of 1:40 was set in 1945 by a horse named South Dakota, carrying 122 pounds at River Downs.

In Chicago last summer Swaps lost his match race with Nashua. Asked if another meeting between the two great colts is likely, owner Rex Ellsworth said, "There are rumors Hollywood Park is cooking up something, that's all I know about it."

Oilers Clip Rockets, 17-8; Open Tuesday In Ballinger

The Pampa Oilers, led by Jim Martin, clipped the Roswell Rockets Sunday, 17-8, in another windblown exhibition. The local pros are scheduled to open their Southwestern League play tomorrow night in Ballinger.

Jim Martin's grand slam homer in the second gave the advantage they needed and they were never headed. Dan Beauford, Rocket starter, got credit for the loss and Red Dial, Oiler starter, picked up his final exhibition win of the season.

Bobby Fernandez picked up two hits for four trips at bat to lead the Rockets hitting. The loss gave the Rockets a 4-5 season exhibition record while the Oilers have a 3-2-2. They ended two games with the Clovis Pioneers in a tie and defeated them twice.

The Oilers will open their season Tuesday night in Ballinger. They will spend three days there and move to San Angelo for three more games before they return to Pampa for six games.

The starters for the Oilers will probably be Jim Martin behind the plate and Joe Fortin at first base. Frank Kempa will assist Johnny Yanchura with the double play combination and Allan Cross will play third base.

Outfielders for the opening game will be Bob Flores, Robert Tucker and Dick Hairston.

Several events have been scheduled for the opening game in Oiler Park and all baseball fans who haven't purchased their season books must get them before the first home game, April 23, as they will go off the market at that time.

Tickets may be purchased at Richard Drug, Friendly Men's Wear, KPDN, Pampa Hotel, Killian Brothers, Pampa Daily News, Reeves Oldsmobile, The Sportsman's Store, Jay's Grocery and Mac and Doc's Barber Shop. They are also available at Oiler Park and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Brooklyn Dodgers Hurt For Pitchers

By UNITED PRESS

Manager Walter Alton of Brooklyn's world champions glumly conceded Monday that "We're hurting for pitchers," but hoped that he could get along with three starters during the early days of the season when there are open dates and postponed games.

Considering that it was the early days of last year when the Dodgers made their quick getaway and won 22 out of their first 24 games, it appears that Alton isn't fretful for such a start this time.

For the present at least, he has only Don Newcombe, Carl Erskine, and Roger Craig as bona fide starters, although he may press 19-year-old Don Drysdale into service. Moreover, both Newcombe and Erskine have had arm trouble, too, and through cold weather, over-exertion, or other adversity could join Billy Loes, Don Bessen, Karl Spooner, and Sandy Koufax in dry dock.

"When you have only three regular starters you're really hurting for pitchers, but maybe we can get by," Alton said. "And I'm hoping that the other fellows will be ready soon."

Good Relief Staff

Naturally, the loss of lefty Johnny Podres to the Navy complicated matters even more. Fortunately, Alton is well supported with such relief stars as Clem Labine, Ed Roebuck, and Jim Hughes but if they're called on too often, the whole staff might bog down.

The Yankees, like the Dodgers, have their injury troubles, too, even though both clubs are heavily favored to win their respective races again in the season beginning Tuesday. The Yankee pitching is okay but Gil McDougald, Irv Noren, Bob Cerv, and Elston Howard have been laid up most of the spring.

In the lineup manager Casey Stengel named for Tuesday's presidential opener in Washington, three of the nine were nursing hurts. Center fielder Mickey Vernon had a swollen right leg, catcher Yogi Berra had a finger injury, and right fielder Howard now is favoring a groin injury.

Dodger Pennant Will Fly

The Dodgers will hoist their first world championship banner in the Brooklyn opener against the Phillies and big Newcombe will oppose Robin Roberts in another of their memorable duels.

Elsewhere in the National Tuesday it will be Pittsburgh at New York, Chicago at Milwaukee, and St. Louis at Cincinnati. In other American League openers it will be Baltimore at Boston, Cleveland at Chicago and Kansas City at Detroit.

All teams were idle Monday except for the Giants who make a sentimental journey to West Point, N.Y., to play an exhibition against Army's cadets—a tradition that started in the time of manager John McGraw.

Heavy Rain Sunday

In the final exhibition competition that wound up Sunday, there were five games rained out and the indications were that more

Sam Snead Wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. — UP — Sam Snead, whose own opinion was "I played loose," had a $2,000 check in his pocket from the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament Monday while other players wished they played as "loosey."

Snead won his sixth title here Sunday in the tournament.

About the only difference was that the mountain minstrel from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had to play 74 holes to win this time instead of the usual 72.

Hoosier Fred Wampler, who came from far back in the third round with a sensational 84 to take the lead Saturday, lost to alarming Sammy on the second hole of a sudden death playoff.

Swarthly Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., finished third at 261. Veteran Jim Turnesa of Spring Valley, N.Y., came in fourth with 283.

Wampler, of Indianapolis, Ind., still was talking about the seven foot putt he missed on the 18th green which cost him the tournament. He shot a 71 in the final round to give up his one-stroke lead as Snead came in with a one under par 70. Each had 279.

Wampler could have taken the title, had he not missed the birdie putt on the 18th. That miss cost him exactly $100 dollars a foot.

"I misread the green," he moaned after it was all over.

McGregor Wants Amateur Status

ADELAIDE, Australia — UP — Ken McGregor, a Davis Cup player for this country before he turned professional in 1953, has applied to the south Australian lawn tennis council for reinstatement as an amateur. It was learned Monday. If his request is approved, McGregor could not play in Davis Cup competition but he could play in many Australian amateur tournaments.

G. O. P. In Unique Shirt-Sleeve Strategy Conference For '56

By UNITED PRESS

The Republican party threw its campaign machinery in high gear Saturday with announcement of a unique shirt-sleeve strategy conference for the 1956 elections.

On the Democratic side, National Chairman Paul M. Butler scoffed at the "myth of Eisenhower invincibility" and claimed the "Republicans have lost more elections" under President Eisenhower "than under any other Republican in this century."

GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said 800 congressional and party leaders from 48 states, four territories, and the District of Columbia will converge on Washington for closed meetings Monday and Tuesday on plans for bringing the Republican party "its greatest victory" this year.

Map Strategy

Strategy will be mapped for the presidential, senatorial, and congressional campaigns. Hall said the meeting will be unique in size for the Republicans and will be climaxed by a public banquet Tuesday night at which President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon will speak.

The conference, Hall said, will consist of "working, shirt-sleeve sessions" to discuss, evaluate, and plan for the Republican party's 1956 new look campaign.

"We face a tough battle in November and we know it," Hall said. "We not only want to re-elect the President by an overwhelming vote of confidence but we want to give him a Republican House and Senate to help carry forward his great program of peace, progress, and prosperity."

Pot Shots at President

Butler took political pot shots at the President in a speech prepared for a Jackson Day dinner meeting in Topeka, Kan., Saturday night.

He said "even Herbert Hoover had a better record" of leading his party to victory in elections. "At least Hoover did not lose both the House and Senate after only two years in office as President Eisenhower did," Butler said.

The Democratic chairman said that in many national races since Mr. Eisenhower took office, the President "personally campaigned and in others the Republican party staked its all on Ike's personal popularity to pull their candidate through."

Democratic victories that resulted, he continued, "destroy the myth of Eisenhower invincibility."

ISRAEL STRIKES OIL — A second Israeli oil well was recently brought in and is producing between 500 and 600 barrels a day. As Newsmag shows, it is located just over the frontier of the embattled Gaza strip of Egypt, scene of many recent Israeli-Egyptian border clashes. Last year the first well, Heletz No. 1, was brought in. Heletz No. 2 shows promise, but is not pumping. The new well is Heletz No. 3. The wells, all within one square mile indicate reserves of some seven million barrels. If further developed, the oil field could make Israel independent of oil imports and less subject to Arab sea blockade.

Actor Says Jack Lemmon's Oscar Was Won Unfairly

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD — UP — Oscar losers usually insist the best man won, but mustached, lovable Arthur O'Connell, the character actor-sensation of "Picnic," allowed as how Jack Lemmon beat him out in the wrong category.

Lemmon took home the Academy Award for best supporting actor for "Mister Roberts." Actually he was one of the stars of the picture but he entered the supporting Oscar race where he'd have a better chance.

"That's not fair," the frank O'Connell said Saturday. "Rosalind Russell was starred in 'Picnic' and she could have won the supporting Oscar if she'd dropped to that category but she refused to."

O'Connell's complaint is not that of a sore loser because he considered himself "a lucky guy, not winning that Oscar."

"More people are talking about the fact I didn't win it," he laughed.

O'Connell's Oscar nomination made him one of the few character actors to have been boosted to stardom. He'll get "a" billing in his next picture, "The Monte Carlo Story," in which he'll romance the most glamorous queen of them all, Marlene Dietrich.

Arthur is no Rock Hudson but currently he's one of the hottest actors in town. He was snapped up for top roles in "The Man in the Gold Cadillac," "The Proud Ones," and, currently, "Bus Stop." Composer Moss Hart even wants O'Connell to star in a Broadway musical.

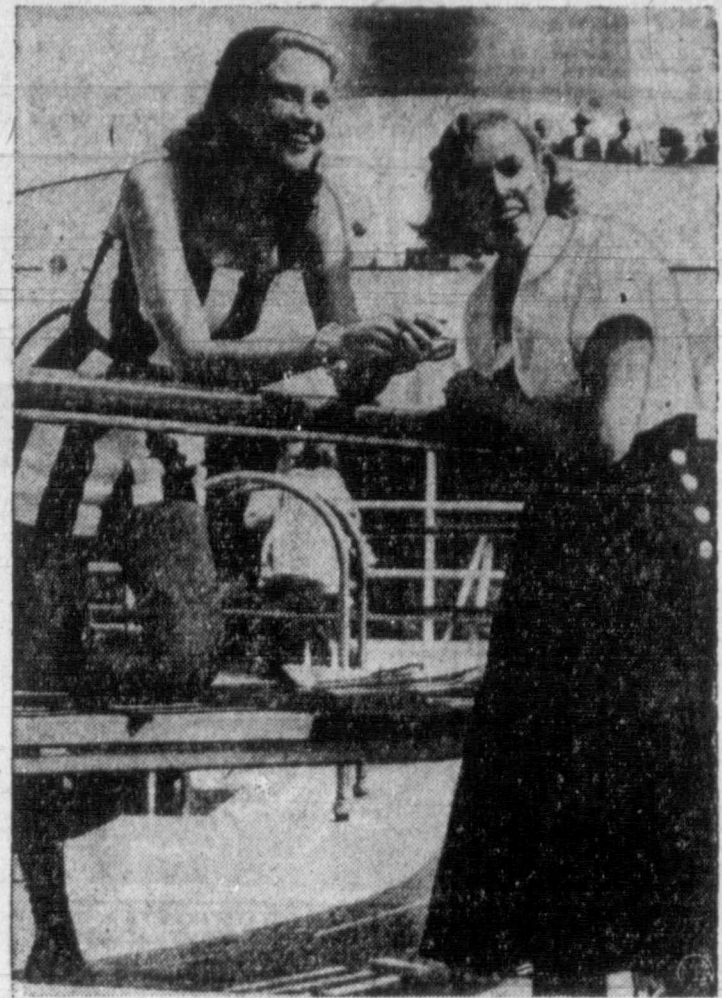

Before "Picnic" this new sensation was a successful but comparatively unknown Broadway actor for 27 years. He had no ambition, he admitted, to become a star. How does he feel to have hit the jackpot in middle age?

"I'll tell you honestly — I'm waiting for them to turn it off," he reflected. "I'm making more money in a week than I made in a year on the stage. But I'm afraid to buy a fancy car — I might jinx this luck."

"I'll just pretend it isn't really happening. And maybe it will keep going."

A new thrill came this week to the colorful O'Connell when he was publicized as one of the "stars" attending the local premiere of the "Man in the Gray Flannel Suit."

"Can you imagine!" exclaimed the actor. "I didn't even get billing until people applauded me in the trailers. A year ago I couldn't get into a theater — now they tell people in advance I'm going to be there."

"LITTLE DID SHE THINK"—When Grace Kelly and her party of 80 sailed from New York on the SS Constitution, it isn't likely she recalled this picture, taken on the same ship. It was June 12, 1951. Grace, left, was a fashion model then, hired for a fashion show during the ship's "little maiden voyage" from Boston to New York. With her was her Boston socialite friend, Mrs. Francis Gray. Grace was an "unknown" and Mrs. Gray won most of the headlines then because she was an involuntary stowaway. When the Constitution carried the Kelly wedding party across the Atlantic, Mrs. Gray was aboard as one of the bridesmaids.

County Office Filing Fees To Be Higher

AUSTIN, April 16 — UP — The cost of running for county offices will take a sharp rise this year.

Travis county Democratic Chairman Trueman O'Quinn estimated that assessments upon candidates for county offices likely will be about double what they were in 1954, in the wake of the change from two to four year terms for elective county officials.

A large field of candidates, however, would level off the increase in filing fees for all hopefuls.

Texas voters at the November, 1954, general election approved a constitutional amendment providing four-year terms for elected county officials, ranging from district attorneys to constables.

Following the 1954 election, one-half of the offices were designated for four-year terms immediately. The second half now serving out two-year terms, will run on a four-year status this year.

The alignment staggered the election of county officials so that one-half of the officials will be elected each two years.

O'Quinn cited as an example the office of sheriff. The assessment for that post in 1954 in Travis county was about $900. O'Quinn expressed belief it would cost about twice as much, about $1,800, for the candidate to get his name on the Democratic primary ballot this year.

Filing deadline for all candidates—for state and local offices—is May 7. County committees will meet May 14 to apportion the candidates for county office. They must pay by May 19 to have their name on the ballot.

Filing fees for candidates for the legislature and other state offices are set by law.

Solon Hits Civil Rights Program

WASHINGTON, April 16 — UP — Sen. Allen J. Ellender said Saturday night the Eisenhower administration's "shotgun approach" to civil rights "should and must be completely repudiated by our people."

The Louisiana Democrat said Mr. Eisenhower's six-point civil rights program, sent to Congress this week, "is the first step in what will evidently be an attempt to place under federal jurisdiction not only the basic rights of states and local governments but the individual and personal rights of the people as well."

Ellender devoted most of his regular weekly radio broadcast for a New Orleans station to an attack on the program outlined to Congress this week by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

He said Brownell's argument that the program is designed to settle race frictions and to protect minority groups against "unwarranted economic pressure" is "pure hokum" because "the issue of race relations... is not going to be settled by government fiat or a rash of federal suits and court orders."

"The issue of race relations is primarily a social problem" and will not be solved "through the medium of injunctions or court decrees," he said.

Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee also predicted that President Eisenhower will sign the farm bill — and said he should immediately fire Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

American Home Of Future Is Matter Of Wide Interest

By ROBERT F. MORISON
WASHINGTON, April 16 — UP — The American home of the future is a matter of wide interest now that the post-war housing shortage is licked.

Moves are underway, or soon will be, to investigate and anticipate the nation's future housing needs not so much in quantity but in quality, size, location and what homes should and should not contain.

One of the most unusual is the forthcoming women's congress on housing, the idea of Albert M. Cole, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. He wants 100 housewives from all over the country to come here April 23, 24 and 25 and tell the government what they would like in houses of the future.

Cole's congress has been publically criticized by Rep. James M. Quigley (D-Pa.) as a "ridiculous waste of the taxpayers' money," but HHFA has ignored the attack.

Some industry groups and officials are privately skeptical. Their fear is that the ladies, though well-intentioned, may persuade the government to raise housing standards so high that homes could be priced out of the mass market.

Earlier this year the United States Savings and Loan League named committees to draw up housing standards to be followed by its 4,200 members in future lending operations. League President Walter H. Dreier said the idea of a "minimum" house must be abandoned to prevent future slumps.

Builders, too, are convinced of the need to look ahead. The National Association of Home Builders recently sponsored a three-day merchandising clinic for its members. It was so popular another is scheduled for May 14, 15, and 16, and a third is planned for August.

Builders, of course, are faced with a different side of the housing problem. The acute post-war housing shortage has been eased. The home buying public has more critical—and unhurried—approach. In short, the market is shifting from one controlled by the seller to one dominated by the buyer.

TO MAKE HER MARK—Not just any pencil will do for the collection of Mrs. Edward P. Dasher of Fort Worth, Tex. To rate entry, it must be oddly shaped or bear an unusual inscription. Why such tough requirements? Mrs. Dasher is going to Nigeria, West Africa, where she hopes to teach. She believes the native children will be so fascinated with her unusual "magic" writers that they will enjoy using them and learning about other things. Some of her pencils are filled with things to eat. Others can be used as cigarette lighters, hammers, whiskbrooms and walking canes. Mrs. Dasher is going to Africa with her husband, a doctor, who will work in a hospital in Nigeria.

Lost Daughter Of Wealthy Man Is Found

SELMA, Ala., April 16 — UP — The 16-year-old daughter of a wealthy Washington businessman who left her home seven weeks ago to "make my own way" turned up Saturday weighing sacks of potatoes in an Alabama grocery.

Hearing that her parents feared she might be dead, Peggy Ewing called her family in Washington Saturday morning and told them she was safe. Her overjoyed father, Frank M. Ewing, a former deputy assistant secretary of defense, and her mother left for Selma immediately by plane to get their daughter.

Not everyone was happy over the news. When police picked up the girl known as "Stormy Edwards" at the Quick Check Grocery Saturday morning, store manager William S. Spurling was left without "my hardest working clerk."

He said the girl applied for a job last Tuesday, saying she was 18, and he put her to work weighing produce.

"She was really a crackjack worker," he said. "Why, just yesterday I had to make her quit because she had gone after a 100-pound sack of potatoes. I'd like to have her back for work."

But officers kept Peggy in custody pending the arrival of her parents. They took her to the courthouse and then out to lunch.

Miss Ewing vanished from her home in the fashionable Kenwood section of Washington during the night of Feb. 28 after leaving a note for her parents that she wanted to make her own way in the world.

The Ewings said the girl actually had been upset over a tiff with a boy friend and the "usual teenage quarrels" with her parents over late hours and going out with youths.

Beamed Joyce, "I'm real happy about it. My mother and daddy approved."

Planet Mars Study Set

WASHINGTON — UP — Scientists using TV techniques hope to find out this year why a blue-green region nearly as big as Texas suddenly appeared on the face of Mars.

They also hope the National Geographic magazine reported Saturday, to get the first really clear photographs of earth's near neighbor as it makes its closest approach of the mid-century.

Such photographs might clear up the mystery of the Martian "canals" and supply new evidence for existence of primitive plant life on the red planet.

The National Geographic and the Lowell Observatory of Flagstaff, Ariz., announced that astronomer E. C. Slipher will return this spring to Bloemfontein, South Africa, for six months of photographic exploration of the Martian landscape.

He will use the University of Michigan's 27-inch telescope, largest in the southern hemisphere, to take pictures intensified by a sort of television image tube.
