Solon Says OSI In Try To 'Grab Power'

Congressman Says Group Tried To Depress Information

WASHINGTON — UP — Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), Tuesday accused the Office of Strategic Information (OSI) of an "attempted power grab" in its efforts to restrict the flow of non-secret information from the government.

Moss announced that the National Security Council has declassified its secret directive under which OSI was created last year in the Commerce Department under R. Karl Honaman.

Erwin Seago, present OSI director, had told Moss' Government Operations subcommittee during recent hearings that the directive was so secret he couldn't even talk about it. The subcommittee is investigating the suppression of public information.

Moss, in a statement Tuesday, said that removal of the secrecy wraps showed that OSI "planned to go far beyond its authority and try to restrict the flow of information from the federal government."

"This is another example of an attempted power grab by an agency whose authority is based on a hush-hush directive which it refuses to discuss," he said.

The original National Security Council directive, Moss said, called for OSI to provide "guidance" to other agencies on the withholding of non-secret information which might have strategic value.

But the Commerce Department order setting up the agency, he said, called for "establishing policy for executive agencies on the publication of unclassified scientific, technical, industrial or economic information originating in departments and agencies of the executive branch."

Moss said the directive should have been labeled secret since it dealt with non-secret matters.

Capitol Hill Roundup

WASHINGTON — UP — The Senate Tuesday drove for passage by nightfall of the biggest highway program in the nation's history.

Senators were called into session two hours earlier than usual to begin voting. Passage was virtually assured.

The $37 billion program calls for construction of a 42,500-mile network of superhighways linking 42 state capitals. It also calls for greater spending for federal-state highway programs.

The House already has passed a $31.5 billion program. The difference mostly involves extending some building programs over a longer period of time.

Both Senate and House bills call for the superhighway network. The other differences will have to be worked out in a conference committee.

Other developments: CAPTOL — The House called up for almost certain passage the Capitol expansion program. A $17 million part of the $150 million program is included in a larger appropriation bill. Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said the expansion program is needed "like a hole in the head."

FARM — President Eisenhower signed the "second chance" farm bill with its $1.3 billion soil bank. He said the bill is "rich with promise." But he expressed disappointment over some features including lack of an advance soil bank payment plan.

INFORMATION — Chairman John E. Moss of the House Information subcommittee accused the Office of Strategic Information of attempting a "power grab." Moss said the OSI is trying to restrict the flow of non-secret government information.

AIR POWER — Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) suggested that Democratic critics of administration air power policies should withhold their judgement while he said the Senate air power subcommittee's current investigation hasn't got "the whole picture so far."

GI HOMES — Chairman Olin E. Teague of the House Veterans Affairs committee called for an end to special GI housing programs. He proposed the low interest rates and low down payments allowed veterans are extended to all Americans.

OPEN MEETING — Shown above is part of the group of Pampa citizens who met with the City Commission this morning to hear discussion on the proposed bond issue. The group, by a show of hands, indicated their approval of the project. (News photo)

Activity In Court Is High Here

The local police department filed two charges of driving while intoxicated and one charge of automobile theft in county and district courts this morning and one other person made bond to appear in county court Thursday after being arrested for driving while intoxicated.

The driving while intoxicated charges were the first ones filed in Gray County since April 30. David William Kennedy, Borger, was filed on in District Court this morning on charges of automobile theft. Bond was set at $2500 by the court.

Kennedy is charged with stealing a '55 Chevrolet owned by O. L. Wilkerson from the 100 block of S. Somerville about 11:30 p.m. Monday. He was arrested in Pampa by the Carson County Sheriff's office.

The other charge filed in District Court was driving while intoxicated, second offense, against Carl Jefferson Mayberry, 717 Montana. The court set a bond of $1500 for Mayberry.

He was arrested by city police about 5:30 p.m. Sunday on S. Hobart.

Lyndon Lloyd Rogers, 615 1/2 N. Hobart, pleaded guilty in county court this morning to charges of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in the county jail.

Rogers was arrested following a collision at 6:15 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Hobart and Ripley. The '51 Oldsmobile he was driving was in collision with a '55 Mercury driven by Mrs. R. H. Baxter, Pampa. The Oldsmobile encountered damages estimated at $225 and the Mercury met with damages estimated at $350.

One other person was arrested for driving while intoxicated and due to the absence of County Attorney Don Cain, an appearance bond was made and he is to appear before the county court on Thursday morning.

One other collision was reported within the city limits Monday. The collision occurred at 3:20 p.m. on Hobart, 600 feet south of Kentucky.

Citizens Approve City Bond Project

About 30 citizens met with the City Commission this morning in the City Commission Room to go on record as approving the proposed $2,810,000 bond issue of the city, as explained by Mayor Lynn Boyd, Engineer Wayland Merriman, and the City Commissioners.

After an explanation of the bond issue, Mayor Boyd asked for a show of hands from those approving the huge project. Only one dissenting vote was made.

The City Commission will set the date for the forthcoming bond election at the next meeting of the group, Tuesday at 9 a.m.

The eight separate issues, to be listed on the same ballot that will be voted upon in the election are as follows:

1. Transfer of $63,000 from the business district (Cuyler St.) sewer bond money on hand for use on Hobart St.
2. A $280,000 tax bond for the Hobart St. underpass.
3. $50,000 for a swimming pool and park improvement. The pool is to be located in the park near Carter School.
4. Street improvements, including bridges to be widened and constructed on Cook, Cuyler and Duncan.
5. Water and sewer improvements — $250,000.
6. Two new sub-fire stations and equipment — $170,000. This item will also entail an increase in the present number of firemen.
7. Water and sewer improvements to be set up on a revenue bond — $1,810,000.
8. Water and sewer refunding bonds — $347,000.

This will make a total of $2,810,000 new bonds proposed, including a total of $1,000,000 new tax bonds. The $1,810,000 is for new water and sewer revenue bonds.

The commission proposed that the entire $1,000,000 tax bond issue and $800,000 of the water and sewer revenue bonds will be offered for public sale in 1956. Bond interest rates are tentatively set up on a 3 1/2 percent rate.

If the proposed bond issue is passed at the polls, it would mean a 15 cent increase in city tax rates, bringing the present rate of $1.75 up to $1.90.

Wayland Merriman, engineer, explained the proposed water and sewer revenue bonds. He said Pampa has grown rapidly since the war, calling for new water and sewer pipes and an elevated storage tank.

Merriman's principal proposals included a new pump station and additional wells in the southeast part of town, an elevated water storage tank to be constructed at a cost of approximately $79,000, and an initial program of expansion to include 16-inch water lines to loop the town.

The second program of expansion, after 1960, would include booster lines to unload the present supply lines. About $1,250,000 is expected to be needed in 1960 to provide for Pampa's growth, he said.

Merriman explained a chart on water consumption, from 1934 to 1956, pointing out that water usage has doubled and sometimes tripled during peak days of the summer.

He said that the city is facing its greatest difficulty in its need for elevated storage tanks on the north side of town. This tank is proposed to offset the low water pressure.

He also proposed having a 16-inch water main running north and south in town and another 16-inch line running on the west side of town. There will also be tie-in lines.

Seaton Is Interior Secretary

By WARREN DUFFEE
WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower's nomination of Fred A. Seaton to be secretary of interior won enthusiastic praise Tuesday from senators of both parties. Senate confirmation seemed certain.

Chairman James E. Murray (D-Mont.) of the Senate Interior committee, which must approve the nomination, said the nomination was "pleasant news." Murray said Seaton is a "fine gentleman. He'll carry out the policies of the administration, but I'm sure he will give us a full and fair hearing on any problems that arise."

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), a frequent critic of past Interior Department policies, said Seaton's was "an excellent appointment and one which has my enthusiastic endorsement."

Mr. Eisenhower named Seaton to the cabinet post Monday to succeed Douglas McKay. McKay resigned April 15 to run for the Oregon Senate seat Morse now holds.

Seaton, 46-year-old Midwest newspaper publisher and former senator from Nebraska, presently is Mr. Eisenhower's deputy assistant. He served in the Senate as the appointed successor to the late Sen. Kenneth Wherry (R-Neb.) in 1951 and 1952.

In the Senate, Seaton was one of the first supporters of Mr. Eisenhower as the Republican party's 1952 presidential nominee.

Later, Seaton was a member of Mr. Eisenhower's campaign staff, serving as a route planner and contact man with local GOP political leaders.

lke Wants A-Energy Program Boost
WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower asked Congress Tuesday for a stepped-up nuclear energy program for both peaceful uses and weapons.

The President specifically asked Congress to authorize a program to cost $12,500,000 during fiscal 1957, which starts July 1.

The White House, in announcing a request for supplemental funds for the Atomic Energy Commission, said some of the money would be used on "design, development, testing and production of weapons and the development of military propulsion reactors."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said some funds also would be used "on an accelerated program" in the development of civilian atomic power reactors.

He said funds also are being sought for plant acquisition and construction needed to provide additional facilities for the expanded military and civilian reactor program.

The money is required so the United States can take advantage of the "recent technological advances in the military part of the program," Hagerty added.

He said the administration request includes a supplemental increase of $22.5 million for the Atomic Energy Commission and $30 million of unobligated funds previously appropriated.

Of the $22.5 million in new funds, Hagerty said $68.4 million would be for operating expenses, and $14.1 million for plant acquisition and construction. Of the $30 million in unobligated funds, $20 million would go for operating expenses and $10 million for plant acquisition and construction.

The administration's original estimate for fiscal 1957 was $1,472,000,000. The original estimate for plant acquisition and construction was $144.2 million.

Hagerty was asked if there was any "special reason" for the stepped-up program. He would only say that it is being put forward to take advantage of recent technological advances in the military part of the program.

Elks Circus To Be Held Tomorrow

The 1956 edition of the Elks Circus, which presents all that is sensationally thrilling and unusual in arctic offerings, will appear for 2 performances at Recreation Park at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Wednesday, according to an announcement made by Joe Tooley, chairman of the Elks-circus committee which is sponsoring the show.

This year's show is brand new in every detail and supremely modern, Tooley said, and is being produced by the Tom Packs Circus which is making its debut in the Western section of the United States, and bears the reputation of staging some of the largest and most imposing arctic productions ever seen in this country.

Among some of the top flight acts that will be seen are the internationally known Wallenda Troupe, nine people who, precariously perched 70 feet above the audience, display surprising agility in the monochal performance of incredibly difficult balancing, tumbling, and gymnastic stunts on the high wire.

Miss Rieta, a winsome captivating artist, whose awe inspiring and breath stopping performances atop a 133 foot pole evokes keen admiration and spontaneous approval also will appear.

The Flying Hartzells, whose amazingly adept gymnastic skill on the flying trapeza has rocked two continents, Acrobats, jugglers, contortionists, funny old clowns, including the world famed funster Bozo Hartzell, dancing horses lithesome beauties, lumbering elephants, and scores of spine tingling surprises are all on tap. More acts, more thrills than ever before are promised the audiences of this year's Elks Circus, Tooley said.

Other Primaries Held
Primaries also were being held Tuesday in Kentucky and Alabama.

Alabama Democrats were choosing an additional 11 convention delegates in a primary runoff. They chose 41 in an earlier vote, of which 31 unofficially support Stevenson and 10 are uncommitted. Alabama delegates will share 26 convention votes.

The presidential contest was not involved in Kentucky's primary. The main battles there centered on Democratic and Republican nominations for the Senate seat now held by Democratic Sen. Earle C. Clements.

Other political developments: The Missouri Democratic state convention Monday gave its endorsement to Sen. Stuart Symington as Missouri's favorite son candidate for the presidential nomination. Symington is one of the dark horses the Democratic convention may turn to in the event of a deadlock between Kefauver and Stevenson.

Move On to California
Neither Stevenson nor Kefauver awaited the outcome of the Florida vote before renewing their campaigns in California. Stevenson Tuesday campaigned in the Los Angeles area and then moved to San Francisco. Kefauver flew to California Tuesday from Miami.

In San Francisco, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a Stevenson supporter, indirectly accused Kefauver of making promises he cannot keep. She also said Kefauver "couldn't begin to have" Stevenson's grasp of world problems.

In Bloomington, Ill., more than 2,000 Republicans select 10 delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention. They will also celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Illinois 100th anniversary of the oratory of a Springfield lawyer named Abraham Lincoln.

Indianapolis Fights Flood; Cleans Up For Big Race
Indianapolis fought surging flood waters Tuesday and tried to clean up in time for the 800-mile Memorial Day auto race Wednesday.

The Indianapolis floods, following three days of drenching rains, were the worst of a series which poured over Midwest farmlands and communities.

Another flood threat brought 168 soldiers to the Nystrom and Port Hill area of Idaho near the Canadian border. The rampaging Mootenai River threatened to go over dikes in the region.

In Oregon, the Columbia and Willamette Rivers hit their biggest floodings of the year at Portland, flooding some lower level docks and plants. They were expected to rise further Tuesday.

Rains slackened over much of the sodden Midwest, bringing relief to central Illinois farmers. More than nine inches of rain blocked highways and washed out crops in the fertile region before creeks began falling back into their banks.

The Illinois floods waited until the last minute before claiming a life. A 14-year-old girl, Patricia Am Ranking, drowned in the rain-swollen waters of Salt Creek near Middletown Monday night.

There was no immediate relief in sight at Indianapolis, where the worst flood in 43 years drove 1,500 families from their homes.

Travel Streets in Rowboats
Police and civil defense workers plied the flooded streets in rowboats getting marooned families to safety. At least 30 persons received hospital treatment for exhaustion, damage was estimated in hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the flooding rains kept coming down.

The floods dampened plans for the greatest auto race of them all, the 800-mile classic at the speedway in suburban Speedway City Wednesday. The track was practically a lake and the infield was a quagmire Tuesday, but officials said the race would start on schedule.

There was another flash flood threat at Delhi, Iowa, and a thunderstorm with hailstones the size of baseballs caused damage estimated at $10,000 in smashed windows and skylights at Denison, Iowa, Monday night.

U.S. Collegemen's 'Panty Raids' Play Compared To British

OXFORD, Eng. — UP — Five Oxford University students went on the carpet Tuesday for trying to take after-midnight baths in an exclusive women's college.

The five were all trying for membership at 1:30 a. m. Sunday in the ultra-daring "Oxford's Bath Club."

American collegemen's "panty raids" on women's dormitories are child's play compared to the chilling ordeal for membership in the Oxford's Bath Club.

To wear its tie of blue and silver taps a man must break into a woman's college at night, take a bath and bring back the bathtub water taps as proof.

Lead Cold Baths
The baths are ice cold since the hot water is generally turned off during the night.

A tie with gold taps goes to the indomitable who successfully completes two clandestine bath missions and brings back his evidence.

Five Oxford Bath Club hopefuls were caught last week within the grounds of Oxford's Lady Margaret Hall. They were out for their first silver taps.

They were rewarded stealthily up the River Cherwell dressed in easy-to-remove track suits.

But as they stalked across the immaculate lawn to the girls' dormitories at 1:30 a.m. several other bath raiders from Balliol College were already inside "casings" the bathtubs.

One of the students, who asked that his name be withheld, described what had happened: "The Balliol men got in first.

Over the wall they went, through the gardens and through a ground-floor hall window. They were out to reach the bathrooms, but a table crashed over. They bolted.

"Just two minutes later the five who roared up the river walked in. They had had it."

The five were met by screams from nightgowned girls already alerted by the noise of the Balliol raiders. Police picked up the five men as they scampered bathless toward their boat. They were released in custody of the proctors of Oxford and ordered to face a proctor's enquiry board Tuesday.

They could be expelled but senior student sources said they probably would be given a second chance if they renounce forever their dreams of membership in the Oxford Bath Club.

Over the wall they went, through the gardens and through a ground-floor hall window. They were out to reach the bathrooms, but a table crashed over. They bolted.

Lefors Boys To Pay For Damages

The Lefors youths who drove Gray County Commissioner Arlie Carpenter's tractor on a spree of destruction in Lefors Saturday morning were ordered by County Judge Bruce Parker this morning to pay for all the damages.

Judge Parker made his decision after Carpenter and members of the Bible Baptist Church requested that the boys be allowed to pay for the damage and no prosecution be made. The doors of the church were damaged when the tractor ran through them.

Judge Parker stated, "No further action will be taken unless someone is not satisfied with the court's decision. If anyone wishes to make complaint about the matter they may do so at the next session of the Grand Jury."

Judge Parker explained that the decision was made with the concurrence of the District Court. The case was not officially within the jurisdiction of the County Court but the hearing was held in that court due to the nature of the case. He explained that if anyone wishes to question his jurisdiction they may do so by going before the Grand Jury of the District Court.

Ag Department In Rush To Use Farm Bill

By VINCENT J. BURKE
WASHINGTON —UP— The Agriculture Department moved "with judicious haste" Tuesday to put the new farm bill with its $1.2 billion soil bank into effect.

President Eisenhower signed the "second choice" farm bill Monday ending a four-month election-year fight with the Democratic-controlled Congress. He called it "rich with promise," although he said he is "disappointed" that the bill does not permit soil bank payments one year in advance.

The soil bank — core of the bill — authorizes the government to pay farmers up to 1.2 billion a year for taking surplus crops out of production. This is the first time the government has paid farmers on such a scale for not growing crops since the early days of the New Deal.

Mandatory Increase in Grain
The bill also includes a mandatory increase in feed grain price supports, a discretionary two-price plan for rice, and a boost in corn planting allotments from 43 million to 51 million acres. The big rigid price support provisions that caused the President to veto the first farm bill earlier this year were cut from the bill.

Soil bank payments will fall far short of $1.2 billion this year, since most crops are planted. That is why the President sought advance payments.

However, Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse indicated in an interview that some farmers will be receiving payments under soil bank contracts as early as this summer. He said it was too early to say how much might be paid out this year.

Humble Is Host To Luncheon

Humble Oil and Refining Company was host to a get-acquainted luncheon in the Palm Room Monday, a practice of the firm each time it goes into a new territory on "all four" feet — production, pipe lining, retailing and wholesaling.

J. A. Neath, Houston, chairman of the board of directors of Humble Oil and Refining Company, was present for the luncheon, which was emceed by Ed Myatt, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, attended by Pampa's Mayor Lynn Boyd and other city officials and representatives of various businesses in the area.

F. A. Watts, Houston, Humble's sales manager, was the principal speaker for the occasion, telling the story of how Humble got its start and some of the changes in the firm's operation in the last few years.

Also present were H. V. McCorkle, district superintendent at Pampa for Humble Pipe Line Company; and W. A. Watson, district superintendent at Pampa for the production department of the firm.

Stores And Offices To Close Here

All city and county offices will be closed tomorrow in observance of Memorial Day and most of Pampa's businesses will also close for the holiday.

Memorial Day is one of six legal holidays observed by the city and recommended as a closing date by the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Special services are being conducted by several Pampa churches in observance of the day. The First Presbyterian Church will have Memorial Day services next Sunday.

The American Legion Auxiliary and the VFW Auxiliary will observe the annual flag-placing ceremony on the graves of veterans at 6 a.m. tomorrow. In charge of placing flags are Mrs. Frank Yates, Mrs. E. C. Hart, Mrs. Sherman White, Mrs. Diana Wood, and Mrs. J. M. Turner.

clude 16-inch water loops around the city.

The proposed sewer system, as pointed out by Merriman, will include additional lines to intersect with 10-inch lines now north of town. Future development will call for additional lines in the area south of Highland General Hospital.

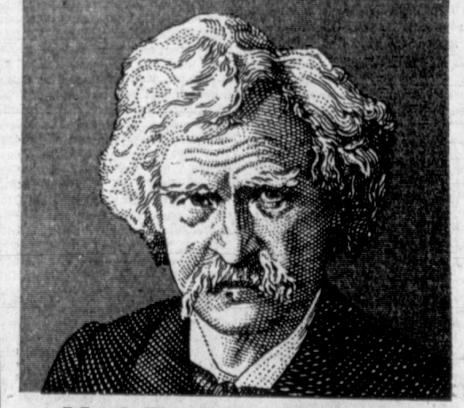

Another bond issue may be required within the next four years for water and sewer, he pointed out.

Merriman said that the present disposal plant is overloaded and it will take about $11,000 for improvement of the pump system near the Panhandle Packing Plant. An additional $65,000 was set forth for minimum improvements of the disposal plant. Another $80,000 will be needed to replace concrete sewers in the city.

Improvements will require about a 25 per cent increase in the present water rates in Pampa. An estimate on the cost to the average home owner, as presented, showed that the present tax rate would be raised from $1.75 to $1.90. If the home owner is now paying $10.74 for services of the city, he would be paying $12.09 per month later.

The city's share in the underpass cost is estimated at $345,000.

Morals And Machines

In the bright springtime of our nation's youth, our ancestors were filled with high ideals and hope. Indeed, there was little else for them to be filled with. This land was a wilderness, uninhabited by aborigines. It took months of back-breaking effort to clear the land, to till the soil, to plant and harvest a crop. The labor-saving niceties of the 20th century hadn't even been dreamed of, let alone developed. But hope and ideals were so high and so strong that a lack of tools brought no discernible discouragement.

With a boundless faith in God, ideals that embodied the acme of human self-reliance, and hope that next year would be better than last year, the pioneers persevered on the pathway to production.

Today we are reaping the luxuriant growth from the seeds planted by their industry. But, in all too many instances, while we may reap, we have little inclination to sow.

The blushing innocence of our youth is gone. In place of ideals and hope, we now have the gadgets. Literally millions of gadgets, most of them soundly contrived to make life more productive, or more pleasurable, or both. But our hope and our ideals are not so much in evidence.

Time was, when the independent American struck off for himself in any feasible direction because he wanted to be an individual and to live as he saw fit. He asked and received few favors. He had faith and even if others had failed, he would succeed. We are indebted to him for his valiant self-reliance.

Today there is a great huddling together of people. Faith has been replaced in large measure by fear, some of it carefully nurtured by political medicine men. Instead of a hope for something better, there is a hope that things will at least be no worse. Instead of ideals founded upon an incorruptible moral standard, there has been adopted the sophism that morality is a matter of environment and heredity, and has no actual basis in fact. Thus morality is conceived to be a burden of the horse and buggy days, and a truly enlightened individual is, indeed, amoral. Progress, rather than being measured in the stature of men, is measured in the accumulation of either money or gadgets.

The age has become crass and melancholy. We are not engaged here in degrading gadgets, per se. A majority of all gadgets can be dignified as tools. And it is tools which have multiplied our human energy to the point where living is becoming both pleasurable and leisureful.

But we do feel that the American people are in danger of making a deal in which they may get the worst of the bargain. We feel that they are in the midst of trading their independence, their ideals, their faith, their hope, for a house full of labor-saving devices. And while we would like to see them acquire the houseful, they should yet maintain the personal attributes of independence and integrity which first marked us apart as a new nation under God.

In other words, we do not think it is necessary to trade away the eternal verities for material well-being. We believe both can be had and both maintained. While we favor physical comforts, we also favor spiritual and moral vigor. We do not believe we can plant seeds in our time which will contain the germ of growth, unless we can breathe into our mechanical genius the moral certainties of true human worth as it is related to the ideal of God.

We should see clearly, before it is too late, that tools are not an end in themselves. They are a means to an end. And the end can be a renewed birth of human integrity and value, or it can be a slothful wasting away of all our moral fiber.

By all means, let us have our tools. But let us not erect some giant cyclotron as a new idol. Despite our inclination to depend upon our gadgeteering, let us, instead, depend upon the innermost mountain of ourselves.

Man's tools, however marvelous, will never equal the marvel that is man. The creator of the machine is prior to, and of infinitely more value than his creation.

Time To Stop
Drafting Soldiers

I, of course, do not believe that United States should ever have drafted soldiers. If we had not drafted soldiers, I do not believe we would have been in World War I or World War II or the Korean War.

Drafting soldiers is a complete violation of a government with the consent of the governed. It is making men subject to the whims of politicians rather than to the will of God.

Russian Deduction of Armed Forces
What we ought to do is to pay men enough to get a defensive force on a voluntary basis as we do our police force rather than on a conscription basis. There seems to be no need to draft soldiers for the Air Force or the Navy. The only department of the military that wants to draft soldiers is the Army.

It seems to be generally agreed that the whole technique of war has changed with the use of bombs and the airplane. And a land army is of mighty little use in using these instruments of destruction and in defense against this kind of warfare.

The Russian government seems to be wise enough to see that they are wasting a lot of manpower and thus weakening their defense by keeping such a large standing army. It is reported that they are going to reduce their military strength by 1,200,000 next year.

What our representatives should have suggested at the Geneva Conference was that all nations abandon conscription for the military service. If United States had made such a proposition, it would have shown that we believed in liberty and freedom and the rights of the individual as superior to the Communist theory that men get their liberty and freedom from the government. If an agreement had been entered into by the Russian government that they would not conscript soldiers, there would be little danger of their violating the agreement without the rest of the world knowing it. We would not have needed an agreement for inspection. No nation can conscript soldiers in violation of agreement without the rest of the world knowing it.

Example Best Way To Promote Peace
And if United States would let the rest of the world know that we were through with conscription, we would not have the reputation of being imperialists and warmongers. It would do more to promote peace and good will throughout the world than billions of dollars spent by our government trying to sell the rest of the world to have faith and confidence in the United States.

Waste of Manpower
Conscripting soldiers is a good example of how inefficient and wasteful anything is that is operated by the government. It is certainly great waste of manpower to draft soldiers for two or three years and then have them go back to civilian life and not learn how to defend our Country by air and by missiles to protect us against foreign bombs and air warfare. Land forces in modern warfare only drain the resources that should go into research and equipment and training for air defense.

It seems rather strange that the Russians can see the point for reducing their fighting forces and the brass hats in the Army still believe that it is necessary to draft soldiers for our defense.

The one real war that the people of United States were justifiably being in was the Revolutionary War, and that was won without drafting soldiers, and then a soldier with a rifle was good practical defense. Now a soldier with a rifle or a bayonet can do mighty little against an enemy in the air with bombs and cannons.

Yes, it is time we realized that we are in error, both morally and physically, in drafting soldiers.

BOTH THE LEVEL of the "systolic" pressure and that of the "diastolic" — and the difference between the figures — may be of significance to the examining physician.

I should say that ordinarily a diastolic pressure of 80 would not be too low unless there were too great a difference between the two and the systolic pressure.

MRS. B.'s question on variation of blood pressure is difficult to answer exactly. However, the blood pressure does not remain the same all the time and some variation is usual.

We do know that the level of blood pressure, particularly the systolic, is influenced by a number of factors such as emotional disturbances, cold, exercise, or excitement. All these tend to increase the pressure.

FOR THESE REASONS it is common for the first test of the blood pressure in a doctor's office to be high just because of the excitement of the visit. Quite often the pressure may be normal on a subsequent visit.

Zeckendorf To Rebuild Slum Section In New York

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — The 1935 report of Webb and Knapp, Inc., was just out so I walked over and called on William Zeckendorf, president, in his circular office on the top floor of new building on Madison Avenue, to learn what the future holds for us. You will be surprised! To me, "frustrated" is the appropriate word.

Mr. Zeckendorf is going to build a sort of floor over much of the slums on the west side of New York where the ground level slopes off to the Hudson River to a total decline of 40 feet, and proceed with the stupendous job which he was going to do on the limited area of the old Penn Station but abandoned last year. He backed off when he learned by expensive experience that it couldn't be done, admittedly "a setback" as he wrote last February, in "A Daring Project."

"We invested more than a million dollars," he said, "in exploration, engineering and research. The magnitude of it was without precedent. We finally concluded that the additional cost of building over the (Pennsylvania) tracks, amounting to $45,000,000 just for footings and foundations, over and beyond conventional costs, together with a $30,000,000 land cost, made the project economically infeasible."

"But we became certain of the wisdom of the basic plan for the Palace of Progress and decided to go forward on a horizontal basis."

And do not smirk at that, because this Mr. Z is just the one to go forward horizontally.

"This new concept involves approximately 40 acres on the far west side on land held principally by one owner, the New York Central. Thus, the first studies were successful in the sense that the second conception evolved out of them. Our idea, which could not be successfully developed on nine acres, can be accomplished on a larger area and with a better long-term effect for the city in the matter of blighted areas with important new improvements under one master plan."

"Private capital projects like ours, seek no favor or subsidy. The only alternative is semi-socialistic authorities. These usually are self-perpetuating political cells above the control of the citizenry. They have the right of eminent domain, the right to issue securities on a tax-exempt basis and, in the end, pay no income tax. Many are competing with private enterprise. If private capital does not do these jobs, the 'authorities' will take them over."

Mr. Zeckendorf's circular office is a veritable barrel without windows or portholes set within an enormous room. His desk is made of thick glass and curved like a newspaper copy-desk and he has the conventional executive's talk-back box which answers "yes sir?" when the conventional executive flips a lever and asks, "Joe, that Abbadegab job was four million, wasn't it?"

These talk-back boxes are a marvel of electronics, but the wizards have not been able to accomplish one thing. They can't teach them to pronounce any figure under a million. They give a sort of lip. Mr. Zeckendorf is a great hunk of man reminiscent of the Zbyzsko brothers who wrestled other Poles and Italians and a snorting success.

BID FOR A SMILE

It's so easy to get up in the morning just rarin' to go — right back to bed.

It's almost time to get into the garden with the old hoe, hoe, hoe. And that's no laugh!

dustry. Electricians. Precision stuff! A great town now!"

There is a wide red stripe across Manhattan a little below midtown on a chart on Mr. Z's wall. That is the moving sidewalk which will take multitudes from Third Avenue on the east side to the colossal palace where conventions and exhibitions will be held, superimposed on the west side right of way of the New York Central, which surmounts the Pennsylvania's tunnel and tracks. Three minutes and you will be there. Stand or sit, as you please.

There will be parking space for 20,000 cars under ground on three levels.

Crazy! Did he know how long it would take to move 20,000 cars in New York traffic?

"Oh, but we are going to double-deck the west side highway next year and with all those new arterial roads reaching in all directions except out to sea we will loosen up the jams."

In Rome last fall a New York lady surveyed the great biscuit colored square at the front of the Quirinale Palace, with the beautiful stairs falling away in graceful, sweeping descent.

"What that Zeckendorf would do with this wasted space," she sighed.

What is Zeckendorf's purpose anyway?

Why must so much be concentrated on Manhattan Island and the tributary suburbs with a world of space a few miles away?

That was where my frustration set in. Mr. Z seems never to doubt. He asks not even "can it be done?" But only "how soon?" and tears into the job of doing it.

Foreign Aid Comes High To U. S.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Capitol Hill skepticism toward perennial outpouring of American cash and resources to foreign nations has been strengthened by the latest official and complete compilation of the staggering cost of our save - the world adventure.

It reveals that the United States has advanced $14 billion from the start of World War I through June 30, 1955. If Congress grants President Eisenhower's pending request for $4.8 billion for fiscal 1957, the total will be almost $14 billion, or half of the huge public debt of $28 billion.

If there is agreement to continue the program in accord with the White House proposal at the present rate, the sum will approach the fantastic figure of $200 billion within a decade.

In addition to these public grants, private American investments in 15 countries, mostly Western Europe and South America, amount to $25.2 billion.

There is, of course, no expectation that this money will be repaid, although $11 billion of postwar assistance is listed on the Treasury books as "credits." However, keeping this figure as an asset appears to be a futile bit of bookkeeping, inasmuch as many of these nations still owe us $17.2 billion of World War I indebtedness.

Here is a full official itemization of the cost of our overseas generosity:
World War I — $17,297,981,019;
World War II Lend Lease — $42,020,779,261; Postwar to June 30, 1955 — $51,339,142,000; Proposed for 1957 Fiscal Year — $4,900,000,000; U. S. Advance to World Monetary Fund — $2,750,000,000; U. S. Advance to International Bank — $635,000,000; Overseas Military Installations — $20,000,000,000; Total — $138,942,902,280; U. S. Private Investments — $25,264,000,000; Grand Total — $184,206,902,280.

A geographical breakdown of the distribution of this vast treasure supplies another reason for Congressional headaching. It suggests that this "Niagara of dollars, to use Indonesian Prime Minister Sukarno's critical characterization, has not brought us strong or dependable friends.

Although about $85 billion went to Western Europe, NATO is still only a paper organization and present our resistance to Russia's new blandishments, insisting on closer diplomatic and commercial relations with Moscow and the satellites. All recognize Red China, Asia and Southeast Asia received $10.1 billion since World War II. But India, Burma and Afghanistan are more friendly to the Soviet than to us. Indo - China is still a battleground between democratic and Communist forces. Sukarno of Indonesia openly spurns our money, if it is designed to buy his country's friendship. If that is our purpose, he says, we are wasting it.

The Near East, including Egypt, Jordan and Israel, took down $4.3 billion. And yet, both parties to the Arab - Israeli dispute assail us. The Arabs purchase arms from the communists, and copy up to Moscow and Peiping in brazen hostility toward us. Never was American prestige at lower ebb in this area.

Our parsimony toward our "good neighbors" — Canada and South America — contrasts dramatically with our gifts to unstable Allies, actual enemies and wavering neutrals. Canada is on the books for a mere $6,000,000 in credits. Only a billion dollars in postwar aid has been forwarded to the Latin American Republics.

To make the world picture gloomier, Russia is estimated to have "promised" in barter form less than $10 billion, and that only within recent months. And yet, many diplomatic experts believe that the Kremlin is winning the cold war.

Mac Says Traffic Is Here To Stay

By HENRY McLEMORE

Traffic is here to stay. I hate to tell you this, because you might well be stuck in traffic as you read this. And if you're not, it's 100 to 1 that you'll be before the day is out.

My reason for believing traffic is here to stay is simply this: I am convinced that it is popular with the higher-ups.

By "higher-ups" I mean the men who build our roads and have the say on what they'll be like.

You will notice that these men are forever putting in more red lights at corners, and it must be obvious to everyone that red lights are the chief cause of traffic snarl and congestion. Whenever you see a long line of cars, halted bumper to bumper, you can bet your boots that they are gathered around a stop light. Red lights are to automobiles what candles are to motels, and American motorists are to obscure princes and barons.

It may not be feasible to banish red lights altogether, but they should be removed from the streets. That's no place for them. If we must have them, let them be set well back from the street, preferably behind trees and foliage. There they could blink their little red, green, and amber eyes to their hearts' content, without bothering a single motorist. And if to move them off the streets would cost too much, what about covering them with sacks.

Another proof that the higher-ups are out to keep traffic snarled is to be found in the vast road-building programs of the various states. Money by the bucketful is continually being poured into bigger, longer roads. States just can't seem to get enough roads.

This, mind you, despite the fact that it is on roads that you find the heaviest traffic. The more roads, the more traffic. If you don't believe this, look at a photograph, say, of the wilds of Montana, the open country of New Mexico, and the desert lands of California, and then compare it with a photograph of any great freeway. You won't see enough cars to fill a garage in the pictures of the no-road country, but on the freeways they'll be as thick as fleas on a lazy St. Bernard.

If the higher-ups were genuinely interested in ridding us of traffic, they would limit their road-building to narrow, winding, dirt paths which would discourage automobilists from driving over them. You never read of traffic jams on the roads that lead to the bottom of the Grand Canyon.

is why it is becoming next to impossible to find a parking space. What a mistake! What shortsightedness on the part of the authorities. Most of the roads should be laid out so they come to an end in the undeveloped sections. Then there'd be room for everybody to park.

You just watch the cost of parking. It is going to keep going up and up. At first, the parking meters were made to take a penny. Then the slot was enlarged to handle a nickel. Then the mechanism was geared to accommodate dimes and quarters.

The next step is a sort of basket, or contribution plate, which will take care of folding money. A man will have to work overtime to make enough dough to keep the red flag from popping up out of its nest.

I shouldn't be asked to do all the serious thinking on traffic. What about your giving it some time and thought.

In a recent news story concerning the post-strike situation in the Westinghouse Electric Corp., the Wall Street Journal said that, at the Sharon, Pa., transformer plant, "the strike left a legacy of bitterness and lingering conflict between workers who crossed picket lines and those who did not."

"Prior to... arbitration hearing (on the suspension by the company of eight strikers and the dismissal of one for "illegal" activities during the walkout), the union had given assurances that it would do its best to restore Christian attitudes" in the community if the company reinstated the nine men" (which the company refused to do).

It appears to me that, in making such a statement, the union revealed an erroneous concept of what a "Christian attitude" is. For the truth is that there can be no "if" connected with it. A Christian attitude is always held not "if" but "nevertheless." As Paul wrote to Timothy, "For the which cause I also suffer these things; nevertheless I am not ashamed."

As he wrote to the Corinthians: "And labor working with our hands; being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer... How completely different is this attitude from that reportedly manifested by the union!

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

Since so many visits to the doctor include a measuring of the blood pressure and since curiosity is one of our most human traits, it is not surprising that many questions about blood pressure come in.

Mrs. J. H. B. for example, asks for a discussion of blood pressure and the meaning of "diastolic" and "systolic."

"Is 80 diastolic too low?" she asks. "Why?" Mrs. B. goes on, "should the blood pressure vary, sometimes being high and then in a few days almost normal?"

IN ORDER to answer these questions intelligently it is necessary to know something about what blood pressure means and what causes it.

The blood pressure, as measured by the physician, is the force of the outward thrust which the blood stream exerts on the walls of the arteries through which it is passing.

In taking the measurement, the physician uses an instrument which exerts pressure against the artery and when this equals the pressure in the artery he knows what the blood pressure is.

When the heart contracts, and squeezes blood into the artery the outward thrust pressure of the blood rises. When the heart relaxes between beats the pressure in the arteries falls.

The high point of the pressure is called "systolic." The low point is called "diastolic." Consequently there is always a difference between these two figures.

BOTH THE LEVEL of the "systolic" pressure and that of the "diastolic" — and the difference between the figures — may be of significance to the examining physician.

I should say that ordinarily a diastolic pressure of 80 would not be too low unless there were too great a difference between the two and the systolic pressure.

Mrs. B.'s question on variation of blood pressure is difficult to answer exactly. However, the blood pressure does not remain the same all the time and some variation is usual.

We do know that the level of blood pressure, particularly the systolic, is influenced by a number of factors such as emotional disturbances, cold, exercise, or excitement. All these tend to increase the pressure.

FOR THESE REASONS it is common for the first test of the blood pressure in a doctor's office to be high just because of the excitement of the visit. Quite often the pressure may be normal on a subsequent visit.

A blood pressure which remains constantly high is something to watch.

It can result from various kinds of heart disease or from a disease which thickens the blood. It also comes from a lessening in the elasticity of the arteries caused by deposits of fatty-like substances or calcium in the walls of these vessels.

This last is the kind of high blood pressure which accompanies hardening of the arteries.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

AMERICAN MOTHERS ARE LOOKING at their daughters in amazement today. Amongst themselves, they are all asking the same question: "How did Suzy get to be so pretty so quickly?" Mothers know that their daughters are likely to be taller, healthier, better educated and longer lived. Modern science has insured these developments. But a new and interesting point of information concerning the younger generation is their better fashion sense — their almost intuitive fashion "know how."

ACCORDING to the 2,000 Jewelry Fashion Show Directors of Sarah Coventry, Inc., one of the country's foremost costume jewelry companies, Suzie's ingenuity has resulted in some of our most exciting fashion trends. According to a survey of these fashion show directors, mothers can learn much from their daughters — their "Suzies" — on how to improve their own appearances. Even some of the directors indicated that they learned much by observing teen-agers' fashion habits — especially in the use of jewelry.

Watching Suzie dress for a date, say these fashion show directors, can very often be a lesson in good fashion, even to highly trained authorities. For example, instead of pinning her flower spray pin to her lapel, Suzie pins it at the waist. Her earrings become clips, her necklace doubles as a bracelet and her bracelet may end up as a hair-clip for her pony tail.

Dressed for a date, Suzie pins a sparkling brooch to the heart of her floral accessory, slips earrings over the rim of her plain pumps for added glamour, and attaches her favorite pin to the center of a single strand necklace.

The directors are unanimous in their praise of this teen-age ingenuity. Since their job is basically to acquaint American women with style trends in fashion accessories, she views Suzie and the rest of the younger generation with open admiration and delight. As one Director indicated: "If you knew Suzie like I know Suzie, oh, oh what a girl!"

Beginning Of Warm Weather Is Signal To Make Change To Summer Footwear

It's time to switch to summer shoes! Hot weather is just around the corner. The man who plans to go on wearing winter shoes with the new lightweight summer clothes might just as well wear a derby hat. He's just out of the picture this season.

Men's ready-to-wear has undergone a drastic and long needed revolution. Summer clothes are now calculated to keep you crisp, cool and collected. And the new shoe fashions are right in step with fashion.

The more conservative, lightweight tropical worsteds tailor superbly, weigh little, hold their shape. Dacron and wool mixtures, practically wrinkle-proof, come in the subtle patterns of fine worsteds. Mohair and wool combinations make lightweight suits with a well-dressed town air.

Man is a conservative animal. It's taken him years to discover that it isn't necessary to sweat it out during a long torrid summer.

Here are Highlights. Here are some of the highlights of men's suits for June, July and August. There are clothes for all tastes, ages and pocketbooks. For Silk is a comparative newcomer. Pure silks or silk mixtures in plain or subtle weaves lend a luxurious touch to summer suits and jackets. The keynote of all these new fabrics is style plus cool comfort. The same goes for shoe fashions. Shoes meet the trend with light leathers, smooth or fine grain and the use of fabrics, meshes, woven and perforated leathers to add air-cooling to smart design in footwear for June, July and August.

Shoe styling is also keyed to trends in ready-to-wear. Slimmer lines, natural shoulders, narrower lapels are in line with the trend in shoe patterns. In summer shoes the continental feeling continues but without exaggeration. The slim last is prevalent, but not the extremely pointed toe.

Lighter more flexible soles, softer leathers and smart simplicity of styling are the order of the day in cool summer shoes.

In town clothes the interest in dark tones continues, but as warm weather comes on there will be more of the medium tones in blues, browns and greys. In the same feeling, white black, dark brown and Teak are leaders in shoes for town wear, there will be more of the medium browns and tans in evidence this summer.

For week-end and casual wear the sky is the limit in both shoes and ready-to-wear. Man may be conservative when it comes to his business apparel, but he goes all out when it comes to Friday-to-Monday clothes. Leisure shoes may well be the biggest part of his shoe wardrobe.

Colors and materials run riot in a fascinating array of men's shoe fashions for terrace, beach or patio. Espadrilles, sandals, mocs and slippers are all there. Materials include linen, denim, corduroy, smart new madras in distinctive patterns.

Straw Popular. Straw is increasingly popular for weekend sandals. Polished leathers, glove leathers, grains, shag bright colors as well as more conventional shades.

Just as men who are young in heart go in for bright colored slacks and gay shirts for leisure wear, so no hold is barred when it comes to materials and colors in hot weather casual shoes this year.

COOK'S NOOK

French Cooks Display A Genius For Omelets

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Not all French dishes require long, patient cooking. Take the omelet: a few simple ingredients, a flexible hand, a little careful timing and presto, you have one of the best and most famous of French dishes.

We asked Louis Vaudable, noted gourmet and proprietor of Restaurant Maxin's in Paris, to tell June brides how to make French omelets. Here is what he said:

The omelet is a prima donna among foods. Yet it is simple, and should be in the repertoire of every cook. First, the eggs. The French housewife believes that small eggs make tastier omelets. Monsieur Vaudable, now visiting the United States, says he personally prefers brown eggs.

Next, the pan. Every French housewife has her special omelet pan which never goes near the dishwasher. Used only for omelets, it is cleaned by rubbing with salt and paper while still hot, never washed with water. Consequently, the omelets never stick.

For three people, use six eggs and a pan proportionate to the number of eggs. In the pan over medium heat, melt three tablespoonfuls of butter until golden and no longer frothy; reduce heat slightly. Meanwhile, break the eggs into a bowl; season them with salt and freshly ground black pepper, and add a teaspoonful of water. Beat lightly with a fork or wire whisk (not a rotary beater) until large bubbles form on top — about half minute. Don't overbeat.

Four the egg mixture in to the pan. Then with fork or spatula, begin loosening the edges of the omelet all around and lift once or twice in the middle, so that the uncooked mixture will flow into the empty spaces. Work toward the middle. This will take about two minutes. Then, if you wish to add such things as grated cheese, jelly, chopped ham or seafood, or heated frozen sauce Armoricaine (a delicate concentrate of lobster), quickly pour or spoon it onto the omelet, more or less along the line on which the omelet will be folded. Gently fold one-half of the omelet over the other. Your omelet will be golden brown on the outside, soft and wet — bevue — inside; in other words, perfection. Slide it onto a hot plate, and brush quickly with a little soft butter for a glaze. Then if it was filled, top it with more of the same filling.

Next, the pan. Every French housewife has her special omelet pan which never goes near the dishwasher. Used only for omelets, it is cleaned by rubbing with salt and paper while still hot, never washed with water. Consequently, the omelets never stick.

Snap-crotch overalls aren't generally available in sizes above two years, which is a bane to mothers of untrained Babes over two. Careful searching turns up one kind with both snap-crotch and drop-sea; in larger sizes.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid re-soiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as 1/2 gallon of concentrate cleans three x 12 rugs.

High Heels And Makeup Are A "Must" For The Beach, Says French Designer

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK —UP— Plenty of ordinarily calm wives and mothers, and a few daughters, show signs of nervous insecurity at this season.

Catch them unawares and you'll see them back up to the full length mirror, swivel their heads around, take a long look and emit a deep sigh. They show no enthusiasm for the bright sunshine and even less for the first family trip to the beach.

They simply are trying to assemble courage to squeeze into bathing suits and march out to meet well-formed competition from long-legged lovelies. It's too late to streamline curves so the only hope is to bolster the nerves.

There are certain things we imperfect figures of American womanhood could do to enhance our appearance at the beach, a Frenchman who designs bathing suits suggested cautiously during a recent visit here.

Like Cocktail Party
As Fernand Lafitte, the designer put it, "Regard the beach more like the cocktail party, as European women do."

Lafitte is a clear-eyed young man who does not believe in spiking the lemonade, so his theory obviously didn't refer to refreshments.

"There are two things I mean," he explained. "You should wear beach shoes with high heels and wear makeup. The shoes give the legs a better line and the makeup... well, Lafitte shrugged expressively, "only the very young and sportive type can go without it satisfactorily."

Likes One-Piece Suit
Lafitte leans toward the simple black one-piece bathing suit preferred by French women and not the bright-colored suits and printed materials American women often wear.

"The most becoming suit still is the one piece suit cut high on the thighs and with a neckline that dips very low in the front," said the chief European designer for the Jantzen Company.

Thousands of European women wear Bikini bathing suits, Lafitte said but he doesn't approve. "I think it is a pity to wear a Bikini unless a girl is divine," he said frankly.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleanest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.
Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid re-soiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.
Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as 1/2 gallon of concentrate cleans three x 12 rugs.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTERITE on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or staining. In summer shoes the continental feeling continues but without exaggeration. The slim last is prevalent, but not the extremely pointed toe.

PICTURE SPORTS NEWS

REAL EXCITEMENT—Some eager fans in Rome are chewing their fingers in despair as a soccer goal is scored against their team. The photographer spotted the anguished rooters through a window as they saw their squad defeated in the last minute of play.

SPORT AT THE PORT—The waterfront at Ravenna, Italy, is always a busy place, but this crowd-drawing activity is unusual: The quay has been turned into a racing track for the International Speed Cycling competition. Here, spectators watch from a docked ship and cargo railroad cars as three cyclists pedal along the cobbled street. The Swiss team was victorious in the 18-lap race through the city.

UPSET—Stan Lopata of the Phillies is out at second base as the Dodgers' Pee Wee Reese relays the ball to first base in their game in Jersey City, N. J. Umpire Vic Delmore calls the play as second baseman Charley Neal backs it up. Bobby Morgan bounced to second base on this play.

YOU TRY IT—This isn't so much a gymnastic trick as a photographic trick, but it shows two sides of Don Tonry, University of Illinois ace who's sticking to school books in Urbana and passing up a 1956 Olympic berth. Tonry won the Big Ten all-around gymnast crown in March, and is being called the best all-around man in the country.

GLORIFYING THE NAVY

OLYMPIC CREW AT WORK—Unusually rough weather along the Severn River recently kept Navy's 1952 Olympic oarsmen in the Academy boathouse at Annapolis, Md., top photo. The tank there has moving waters which simulate actual rowing conditions on the river. Under the watchful eye of coxswain Dave Manning, standing, the Academy alumni goes through its paces. On a day which offered some improved weather, below, the crew is shown heading out of the Academy boathouse for a turn on the Severn. They hope to repeat their 1952 triumph.

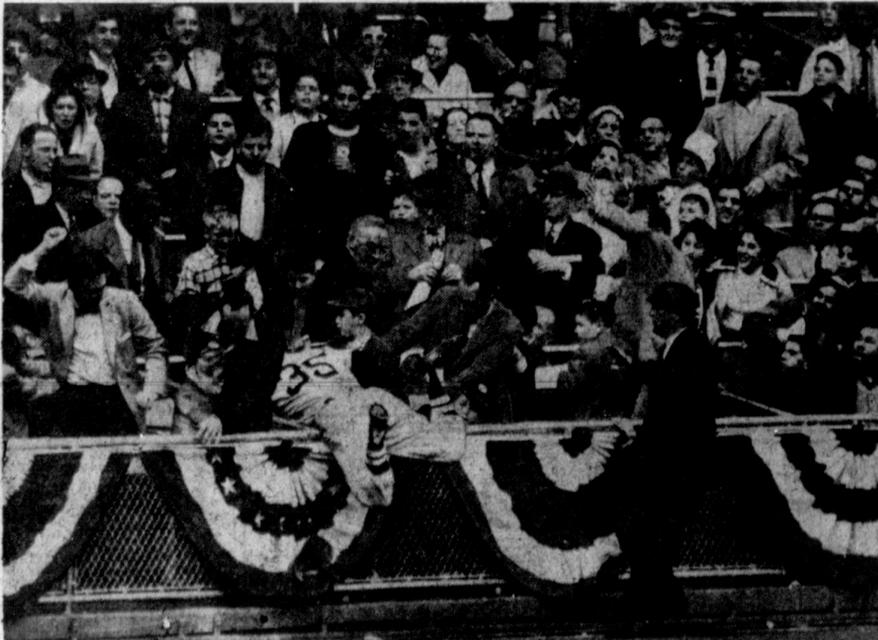

IN PERSON—Undefeated world heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, left, is shown in Macon, Ga., with his manager, Al Weill. The champ, who is presently considering retiring from the ring, was in Macon to appear at a Y.M.C.A. benefit show.

HORSEPOWER SHORTAGE—Here's a case of the cart before the horse, or something like that. A docker in London is replacing the beast of burden for a polo pony which had just arrived from Argentina. The horse appears to be enjoying the ride, for a change. But he'll get plenty of exercise in upcoming polo matches to be held between English and Argentine teams in the very near future.

HATS OFF—British track stars Derek Johnson, left, Donald Gorrie, center, and Allan Gordon, jauntily waved their straw hats when they arrived by plane at an airport in Philadelphia. The trio is in the City of Brotherly Love to compete in the Penn Relays track meet there.

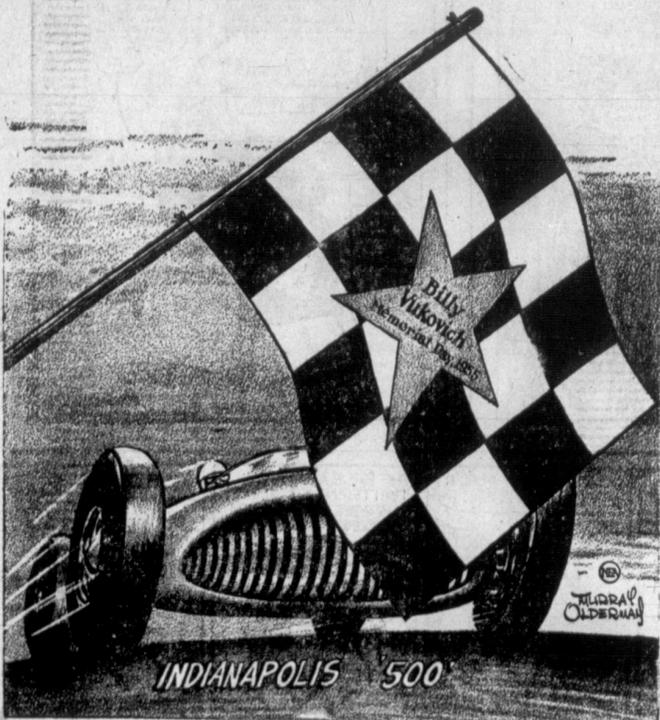

OLD COLLEGE TRY—Boston third baseman Billy Klaus took a flying dive into the box seats in an unsuccessful attempt to catch a foul pop fly hit by the Yanks' Jerry Lumpe in New York. The Yanks, after blowing an early eight-run lead, rallied for five runs in the bottom of the eighth to win, 14-10. The umpire watching the play is Nestor Chylak.

DIAMOND CURVES—At the opening of a baseball game in Los Angeles, a Hollywood touch was added in the person of model Kathy Marlow. She was on hand to throw out the first ball to the delight of 1,500 fans. A girl in shorts is a better crowd pleaser than nine men in knickers.

Simmons' Baseball Career Comes To End In Frustration

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK — Like Babe Ruth, the late Al Simmons knew a lot of great moments but his baseball career ended in bitter frustration.

They were alike in a lot of ways, these two. Each knew poverty in childhood, won national acclaim because of ability to blast a baseball and walked out on a bitter note.

For Simmons, as did Ruth, dreamed of managing the ball club which made him famous — only to be rejected.

The babe never forgot the rebuff he received from the New York Yankees. Yet it was even worse for Simmons because "Bucketfoot Al" was so close to realizing his dream of piloting the Philadelphia Athletics.

His hopes blossomed in 1944, when he returned to the A's as a player-coach under time-marked Connie Mack. This was a dozen years after he and Jimmy Dykes of those fabled three-time champions had been peddled to the Chicago White Sox.

Some said that Al had been promised by Connie that when it came time for the Grand Old Man to step down Simmons would get the job. Certainly Al, in the next four years, made no secret of his ambition.

But even then the Mack dynasty was trembling on its foundations. Gradually the reins were being slipped from the withered fingers of Connie, an ever more forgetful octogenarian and he had virtually nothing to say when the board of directors met in October of 1948 and summarily fired Simmons. Connie objected but he, too, was being forced out.

Instead of Simmons, the board named Jimmy Dykes as manager, Simmons had been sold to Chicago 18 years earlier.

"Bucketfoot Al" was shocked and he said so. This time, he asserted, he had been sold down the river.

Simmons, the American League batting champion in 1930 and 1931 had proved himself of equally high caliber as a coach on the baselines. So it was no trick to hook on as a coach with the Cleveland Indians for the next season.

But when the A's passed him up for Dykes it had taken the heart and the zest for baseball out of the big man from Milwaukee. He brooded over his rejection and in the spring of 1951, ailing and heartick, he resigned as a Cleveland coach.

"I'm no help either to you or to myself," he told Manager Al Lopez.

On that disgusted note, Al Simmons walked out of baseball. It's nice to recall, however, that in February of 1953, the embittered Simmons was voted into the Hall of Fame along with Dizzy Dean. When they went to tell him, they found him at Hialeah race track.

"Are you sure?" Simmons asked. "Boy, this has been a good day. I've had four winners, too."

Then, looking out over the infield with misty eyes, old "bucketfoot Al" sighed:

"I had begun to think they had forgotten me."

The Philadelphia Athletics are gone now, and so is Simmons. But he knew that even if the A's forgot him, the fans didn't.

Terror Takes Mat Win Monday

The Golden Terror, with the help of his manager, took the rematch bout with Andre Drapp at the Top O' Texas Sports Arena Monday night.

In the first fall of the main event, Drapp took the Terror with a flying mare-bodypress in eight minutes and thirty-nine seconds. The Terror's masked manager disagreed with the referee about the fall.

The Terror took the remaining two falls, with the help of his manager in one. When the Terror was thrown from the ring by Drapp his manager entered the ring for a few minutes and the referee returned. The referee apparently did not notice the switch of wrestlers.

An unusual and unscheduled event took place at the Top O' Texas Sports Arena last night. The Terror took issue with the photographer about taking his picture. The Terror tried to grab the camera and destroy it but the photographer was a faster runner than the Terror.

In the semi-final event, Dizzy Davis went all the way to win over Masked Manager. Davis took the first two falls to decide the match.

In the first event, Juan Harmberts defeated Ray Duran with a reverse half-crab in fourteen minutes and fifty-three seconds.

The referee for the Monday night matches was Billy Weidner.

Veteran Coach Figures The US To Take Olympic Track

TODAY'S SPORTPARADE
By LYLE SCHWILLING
LAWRENCE, Kan. —UP— M. E. (Bill) Easton, a man who should know if anyone does, figures the United States is a cinch to win the Olympics track and field events this year.

Easton, a veteran of 25 years in the business, is rated among the top two or three track coaches in the United States. He's been coaching at Kansas and directing the Kansas Relays since 1947.

"We've got a lot of top-notch competitors and should win the Olympics," he said, "even though we may lose out in some events such as the hop, step and jump."

Easton's Kansas Jayhawks have just completed a grand slam of the Big Seven Conference's cross-country, indoor and outdoor meets for the fifth straight year, and also won the Texas, Drake and Kansas Relays for a triple-crown this season.

Those successes, the 53-year-old coach said, come from "hard work" with the desire, self-discipline and spirit thrown in with a little coaching.

Kansas is almost always strong in the middle distance running, and perhaps that is because Easton specialized in that under Billy Hays at Indiana. His best time was in the 440 with a clocking of :50.1.

Easton's coaching career began with a 12-year stint in Indiana high schools, first at Ellettsville in 1928 and later for eight years at Hammond where his teams won 64 duels against eight losses.

Then he moved into the big time at Drake University, directing the Drake Relays for seven years. That experience, plus his Kansas job, make him the only man in the nation to direct two prominent relays.

His champions at Kansas have been many, including runners Wes Santee, Bob Karnes, Herb Semper and the current crop, Al Frame and Hal Long.

He also developed Bill Nieder, NCAA defending champion and American college record holder in the shot put, and Les Bitner, NCAA champion in the javelin. Both helped Kansas to the No. 3 spot in the NCAA meeting last spring.

Nieder and Bitner, plus a host of other Kansans, will be shooting for the NCAA crown again at the meet June 18-16 at Berkeley, Calif.

"With good luck, we possibly can win first this year," Easton said, "but we would have to have a pretty good day."

Oilers Are Tripped By The Carlsbad Potashers, 6-4

By CLARK LESHER
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Pampa Oilers dampened by rain for the fourth straight night, were edged by the Carlsbad Potashers, 6-4, Monday night in Oilers Park, with the game being called at the end of the sixth inning due to rain. The second game was cancelled due to wet grounds.

Pampa and Carlsbad had been tied at 4-4 after four innings when Harold Harkins singled driving in left fielder Thurman Tucker and the tie breaking run which occurred in the fifth.

John McCole, Carlsbad first sacker had hit a home run in the fourth to tie the score. The Potashers scored their last run in the sixth as Jim Basco doubled to left field driving in Pedro Osorio.

The Potashers had taken a three run lead in the first inning. An error by Oiler A. B. Cross helped set up the tallies. Pampa came back in their first inning frame and also picked up three runs all accomplished with two outs. Lynn Tucker scored the Oiler first run after the bases were jammed, due to wild pitching by Potasher pitcher Gene Summerlin. Bob Flores doubled, driving in Oilers Joe Fortin and Jim Martin.

Pampa picked up another run in the third. Flores singled to jam up the base paths and Fortin scored the lone tally after Jim Robinson had filed out to Carlsbad's center fielder, Duke Henderson.

The Oilers Red Dial struck out four Potashers, issued one free pass, a wild pitch and one passed ball. Carlsbad's hurler, Summerlin fanned three, and gave up four walks.

Capable Entries To Run With Nashua

NEW YORK — UP — Who's afraid of Nashua? At last six and possibly nine capable handicappers are expected to run against the world's leading money winner Wednesday in the $50,000 added Metropolitan Mile at Belmont Park.

In addition to Nashua, the probable starters for the holiday feature are Find, Jet Action, Joe Jones, Switch On, Midafternoon and Artismo, while Mr. Turf, Royal Game and Paper Tiger are considered possible entries.

Nashua will have to shoulder 130 pounds — the heaviest impost of his career — in the Met, which probably explains the large number of candidates. It costs nothing to enter this time-honored stake, but there is a $600 starting fee.

In his most recent start, Nashua cracked Citation's all-time money-winning mark with a front-running victory in the Camden Stakes at Garden State Park. He carried 129 pounds in that outing, so one more pound isn't expected to prove too great a handicap.

However, two of Nashua's staunchest rivals who skipped the Camden will be around for another crack at "Mr. Millions" in the Met. They are Find, who will carry only 116 pounds, and Joe Jones, who drew a 115-pound impost.

One tiny leak in our home can waste precious water at the rate of 200 gallons a day, or more than 72,000 gallons a year.

KEEP YOUR GALL BLADDER

The liver is the largest gland in the body. It weighs around three pounds. It holds one-fourth of the blood of the body. Its size and its capacity for blood are requisite to the enormous work of the liver.

The circulation of a generous supply of blood through the liver must be kept normal to maintain health action in this organ and enable it to perform manifold duties. Physiologic experimentation has demonstrated that the circulation and its peculiar functions are governed by the action of the nerve fibers that extend between the brain on one end and the liver on the other. It has been further demonstrated that nerve fibers control the ability of the liver to convert sugar into starches and perform its other duties. A healthy liver, therefore, depends upon normal action of these nerves.

The gall bladder is nothing more or less than a bag to store the bile which is a by-product cast off by the liver. If you cut this bag out, you have nowhere to store the bile which subsequently floods and congests the liver. Keep your gall bladder by cooling off the nerves that cause its inflammation.

Normal nerve action may be maintained or restored as illustrated so well in the following actual case history from our files:

A young business woman came to the Miller Chiropractic Clinic complaining of bilious attacks with bad vomiting spells about twice a year. Also, for the past six months, she had suffered with a pain in her left temple for two or three days after periods, tight nervousness, cramps, menopause symptoms, spinal analysis and X-ray examination revealed misaligned vertebrae in the neck causing pressure and interference with vital nerve waves. Adjustments replaced vertebrae and released the interference permitting a return to normal health. When discharged this lady was happy that an operation her previous doctors advised was no longer necessary. No. 277.

For your own health's sake investigate. You have nothing to lose except your bad health.
