STUDEES PROTEST DISMISSAL OF ONE OF INSTRUCTORS

BEAUMONT, May 13 (AP)—Students of the high school here called a mass meeting tonight to protest the dismissal of a favorite instructor as only 365 students remained away from classes today on a strike which started yesterday.

A group of students rebelled when the board refused to reconsider dismissal of Bert Shepherd, French teacher. School officials appeared to have won the dispute when the city council reappointed the 1936-1937 school board.

Railroads Are Attacked In House Debate

Solons Argue Bill Permitting Ry. Purchase Of Other Facilities

AUSTIN, May 13 (AP)—Charges the railroads were trying to control Texas rang in the house today.

Rep. W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi attacked the rail lines which would permit them to own truck lines, pipe lines, airplanes and other forms of transportation. The house virtually killed the proposal by refusing to instruct its committee on municipal and private corporations to make a report on it.

Rep. A. E. Amos of Fort Worth said a bill "not half as vicious" was "thrown out of the window" of the Alabama legislature.

Repeat Issue

Meanwhile, Gov. James V. Allred stated flatly he would submit only the subject of repealing the race track wagering law, at a special session of the legislature if one was called, until after that matter was disposed of.

He has said there would be an extraordinary session immediately following the current one unless the senate voted directly on the issue of repeal, which the house has approved overwhelmingly.

The governor also announced he would veto provision for a hospital for the insane in East Texas contained in a bill likewise making appropriation for such an institution in West Texas.

"The board of control recommended the West Texas hospital and I make the recommendation to the legislature," he said. "No taxes for the purpose have been provided, and, moreover, the provision for an East Texas hospital would not have passed the legislature unless it had been well known that I would veto it."

R. R. McElree, Fort Worth, special agent of the T. & P., and W. R. Daniels, Abilene, T. & P. agent, were here on business Thursday.

MRS. JOHN WARD TAKEN BY DEATH

Stroke Fatal To Pioneer Resident Of Big Spring

News of the passing of one of Big Spring's widely known early-day residents, Mrs. John W. Ward, had been received today by friends.

Mrs. Ward, 75 years old last April 8, suffered a paralysis stroke Saturday, and physicians then despaired of her recovery. A few months ago, soon after she had ended a convalescent sojourn in Big Spring, she suffered a broken hip in an accidental fall at Los Angeles.

She was the widow of the late John W. Ward, former Texas & Pacific official and postmaster in Big Spring. They were married in Indiana, native state of both, and came to this city together in 1880.

She was chief dispatcher for the T. & P. in 1893. Ward became general superintendent of the railroad's Rio Grande division, a post he held until 1911, when he resigned. He became postmaster here in 1922, serving until his death in January, 1928.

Ward was laid to rest in the Greenwood mausoleum in San Diego, Calif. Funeral rites for Mrs. Ward will be held at 10:30 Friday morning in the Masonic temple at Berkeley. The body is to be cremated, and the ashes placed beside the body of her husband at San Diego.

Only immediate survivor is an adopted son, Blake Vanler, reared and educated by the Wards and now head of the engineering department at the University of Florida.

Mrs. Ward in recent years had divided her time between Big Spring and California, making a stay here regularly each year.

A member of the Baptist church, Mrs. Ward, during her residence in Big Spring, had been active in church and club affairs, being one of the city's pioneers in furthering women's civic interests.

She was most prominently known through her activities in the Eastern Star. She held practically every office in the local organization and in 1908-09 was grand worthy matron of the grand chapter of Texas. Only last year she was appointed a member of the grand chapter's committee on the grand officers' report. Her husband had been prominent in Masonic circles.

Special services will be held at the Masonic hall by the Order of Eastern Star at 10 a. m. Friday in honor of Mrs. J. W. Ward, past worthy matron, who succumbed in California Wednesday.

Mrs. C. A. Murdock, worthy matron, urged all members of the chapter to attend. Dr. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist church, will speak. Mrs. Ward was worthy matron here in 1897.

Part Of State Gets Rainfall

San Angelo, Coleman Areas Share In Moisture; Crops Aided

By the Associated Press

Soaking rains fell over a good part of Texas yesterday and today which helped crops generally, but increased the menace of insect damage.

In Dallas county, where rains averaging from a quarter to two inches fell, county agricultural agent A. B. Jolly said the precipitation was badly needed, but that the progress of army worms, given impetus by showers, was being watched closely. The worms, which first showed up in alfalfa, had spread to cotton and corn fields.

In the plans wheat and livestock country rains were general except at Amarillo and Lubbock, according to reports to the U. S. weather bureau office here.

San Angelo reported nine-tenths inch; Meritton, two inches; Water Valley 1.5 inches; Norton, one inch; Eden, .35; Robert Lee, .75; Sonora, .50; Brady and Menard, .50; Steril.

BORGER, May 13 (AP)—Sheriff Dan Hardee of Hutchinson county said today he had not issued a call for Texas rangers here.

He was commenting on a report from Wichita Falls quoting Ranger Capt. J. W. McCormick, as saying that he and Ranger Bill Lay had been called to Borger by district officers, and that he had been authorized from Austin to go.

Hardee insisted that there was no alarming situation in the face of reports that some trouble was feared following a series of indictments in an election dispute.

"I have not called for rangers because there is no need for them," Sheriff Hardee said. "However, if they want to come in here, it is all right with me. I am always glad to see the rangers. I do not anticipate any trouble in this election dispute."

At Amarillo, Maj. E. A. Simpson told the Borger Herald by long distance telephone that he had asked for rangers. Maj. Simpson is counsel for the citizens party, a faction which elected two candidates at the last city election here. Three opposing candidates were elected.

Among those indicted were Mayor John R. Miller on a charge of obstructing the "ballots" and keeping a gaming house. He attributed the indictments to an "outgrowth of political bitterness." Eight others faced misdemeanor charges following grand jury investigation of the April 6 city election.

GIVEN TERM FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

CORSICANA, May 13 (AP)—Mrs. Hattie Goodman, charged by indictment for the fatal shooting August 26, 1936 of her husband, H. H. Goodman, was given two years in the state penitentiary today. The jury in the thirteenth judicial district court returned its verdict shortly before noon, after deliberating since late yesterday afternoon.

WORK OF TOPPING CHALK ROAD STARTED

Topping of the third stretch of paved lateral road for Howard county was begun at 1 p. m. Thursday on the Chalk road project.

Crews were on hand early Thursday morning to start the work, but a brisk shower during the night delayed the operation temporarily.

Two course asphalt rock topping will be placed on 6.7 of the rerouted road through the heart of the oil fields.

H. W. Strain was given contract for shooting the top at 2.6 cents a gallon, comparing with 3.5 cents on the previous county-WPA job. Corden asphalt is being used for the project.

Stocks Slide To New Lows

Burst Of Selling Follows News Of Steel Labor Trouble

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—A burst of selling today knocked down stock market leaders $1 to more than $4 a share, many to new lows for the year or longer.

Touching off the slide, brokers said, was the calling of a strike at the Jones & Laughlin steel plants, the first major labor controversy in this industry in 18 years. Fears were expressed other independent steel companies would also be hit by unionization drives.

The unloading of shares reached a peak in the second hour when the rush was so great the ticker tape dropped several minutes behind in recording actual transactions on the floor of the stock exchange.

Imperial Conference Will Be Opened Tomorrow

LONDON, May 11 (AP)—Empire statesmen faced today from the medieval symbolism of the coronation of George VI, king-emperor of Britain, to the modern realities of the commonwealth's most pressing problems.

Prime ministers and representatives of the dominions and of India, having paid their tribute to their monarch and his queen, Elizabeth, awaited the call of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin tomorrow that will open the imperial conference.

Seven years of sweeping change have passed since the empire met last in formal conference in 1930. Attention has turned from internal problems of imperial relations and economics to concern for foreign affairs and defense of the empire.

Britain confronts a world obstructed by trade barriers damaging the commerce which sustains the empire, alarmed by threats to its peace structure and rearming competitively.

Statement of Policy

Dominion prime ministers, now standing equally with officials of the United Kingdom, will ask for a clear statement of British policy at home and abroad.

They will want to know the empire's stand on the league of nations, on European affairs, on empires trade and on defense of Britain's "life-line" communications should engulf it or any of its components.

Injured Trio Are Improved

Three persons, Mrs. Cord Johnson, and son, Bailey, 14, and Velt Rice, 14, all of Wink, who were injured in an automobile collision in which two others were killed early Wednesday morning near Stanton were improved at the Big Spring hospital Thursday.

Johnson, who suffered lacerations of the left leg and severe body bruises, was the most severely hurt. His mother, Mrs. Cord Johnson, was badly bruised about the body and suffered two cuts on the face and forehead which required several stitches to close.

Velt Rice was resting comfortably after receiving a deep cut on his forehead and severe body bruises. He was told of the death of his mother, Mrs. Brooks Rice, and his sister, Loretta, 10, Thursday morning by his father, who reached Big Spring Wednesday morning when advised of the accident. F. D. Prater, also of Wink, who was riding in the car, was badly shaken up by the collision but was not seriously hurt. He was returned to his home in Wink.

Marshall Barrier, driver of the other car figuring in the collision, was in a Midland hospital for treatment of severe head injuries.

No one could give a reason for the accident except that it was believed the cars sidestepped on top of a hill when neither of the drivers could see the other car un-

Convict Mutilation Under Inquiry

Young Prisoner's Foot Cut Off With Ax; All Inmates Refuse To Talk

HUNTSVILLE, May 13 (AP)—General Manager O. J. S. Ellington said here today he is going to conduct an immediate investigation into the mutilation episode on the Harlem state farm to determine why William H. Shoemaker, 19, cut off his foot on May 3 on the farm.

Shoemaker, serving two years from Tarrant county for theft and burglary, jumped from the number five hog cage, where new convicts are housed, and about 3 p. m. was discovered in the brick plant with his foot cut off.

Capt. A. N. Owens of the Harlem farm took the bloodstained ax to Houston where it was fingerprinted in an effort to determine whether Shoemaker had had help from other convicts.

The convict had been on the farm only three days and was working in the squad where new men are toughened up to field work. He had been at the "walls" about four months.

Ellington said he would make an effort to determine whether the cutting was done under duress of other convicts. Guards did not see the ax swung but heard the youth scream with pain. None of the other convicts would talk.

The prisoner lost a great deal of blood but was expected to recover. Warden W. W. Wald said he had not seen an official report of the mutilation.

In the past few years there have been occasional mutilations on various farms. A common method is for the prisoner to cut the tendons in his heels.

Duke Wants To Plan Own Wedding

Edward And Government In Deadlock Over Arrangements For Ceremony

MONTS, France, May 13 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor demanded today that the British government leave him free to make his own wedding plans and respect Wallis Warfield, his bride-to-be, as he told his mother, "we can all be happy once more."

The royal family backed the former king's insistence that the government not interfere with Edward's plans for a public wedding to Mrs. Warfield and that it recognize her officially as the Duchess of Windsor.

The duke discussed the situation with Queen Mother Mary by telephone and urged the beloved Mary to try and clear up the problem. It has deadlocked government and royal family.

His insistence, which had the approval of the queen mother and King George VI, brought into the open the difference between the house of Windsor and the cabinet over the forthcoming nuptials.

The cabinet has taken the stand that the marriage should be strictly private and not be attended by any member of the royal family except as a private person. The government may even demand a religious service if the duke persists in his demand for a public wedding.

This, one source said, would necessitate finding an Anglican minister to officiate despite the Church of England's opposition to Edward's marriage to the former Mrs. Simpson.

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—The feelings of Edward of Windsor about his wedding and his wife-to-be and apparent efforts of government minister to officiate despite the differences on the subject failed today to reach a conciliation-sated public.

No London newspaper carried a story about the situation. Many persons, recalling the self-imposed press silence in the early stages of last December's abdication crisis, wondered what course the papers would follow up to and through the wedding, probably in June, of the former king and Wallis Warfield.

'Fur-Bearing' Sheep, The Karakul, Is A Newcomer To West Texas Pastures

By KATHLEEN ELAND
STANTON, May 13—Once cattle were undisputed possessors of the pastures in this area. Then little by little, sheep began to encroach upon the cow-country. And now come the Karakuls—those hardy, Asian-originated breeders, known uniquely as "fur-bearing" sheep.

Pioneering in this phase of the sheep industry, W. A. Kaderli of Stanton has purchased 12 ewes and a ram of the Karakul breed and is pasturing them on his farm west of town.

The ram, believed to be the only one in this area, was purchased from J. M. Musser of Abilene, May 8. Now a year old, the animal is registered with the Karakul Fur Sheep Registry as No. 405K.

Karakul sheep are especially prized for their production of lambskins used as fur. This fur is known commercially as broadtail, "Persian lamb" or Persian, and eracul and is in demand for women's coats and as trimmings.

From Lambs At Birth
These furs are all obtained from lambs at birth or during the first few days of life. After that, Kaderli explained, the "fur" straightens out and becomes just plain wool, which is sheared from the adults, just as in other breeds. One lambskin brings about $12 after dressing. Most of the skins are shipped to New York for dressing, though Musser of Abilene has them returned to Texas for sale.

Broadtail, most valuable of the furs, is usually produced by lambs born prematurely, being a flat, light weight fur with a "water-wave" pattern. "Persian lamb" comes from lambs of the Karakul breed which are from three to 10 days old at the time of slaughter. It is a tight-curl fur, "Karakul" is an open type fur, free from tight curls. Karakul skins are best when removed not later than two weeks after birth.

Kaderli became interested in the Karakul from reading a newspaper article. He visited Alex Albright at Dundee, Texas, who owned the foundation herd in this country and bought a ram, intending to crossbreed with the wool sheep. The purchase was made last fall and in December, during the owner's illness, the animal died.

100 Per. Lamb Crop
This initial misfortune did not slacken his interest in Karakuls, however, and in February of this year, he bought a dozen ewes from J. B. McKnight of San Angelo. He now has a lamb crop of almost 100 per cent. Breeders ordinarily count upon two lamb crops a year from these animals.

Karakul sheep are natives of Bokhara in West-Central Asia and are considered a hardy breed, well-adapted especially to Western, Northwestern, and Southwestern states, where rainfall is seasonal, although they do well in other sections. They have flat, broad, tapering tails in which is stored enough fat to enable the animals to live for long periods on little food.

Face, ears, and legs are covered with short fine black hair. Wool is coarse and long and may vary in color from black through shades of brown to light gray. Practically all lambs are black at birth.

These sheep are subject to the same diseases and the same treatment as the wool-bearing breeds. Only three times, in 1909, 1913, and 1914 have Karakuls been imported from their native country to the United States. Further direct importations are forbidden for fear of introducing Asiatic animal diseases into America.

Why does Kaderli raise Karakuls?
"I started in as a hobby," he confesses with a grin but adds emphatically, "but if it is profitable, I'll go into it in a very commercial way."

Hollywood Stars Take Up The Hula At Home To Retain Svelte Figures

HOLLYWOOD, May 13 (UP)—Many of Hollywood's film beauties are becoming Hula dance experts but only in the privacy of their bedrooms and gymnasiums. Not only that, the time-honored roads to slenderness via starvation diets and vigorous calisthenics are under heavy fire from a new school of thought. Diet, sleep and the right kind of exercise is the health prescription of Dr. Maurice Le Bell, a young man who has conditioned more than 1,000 screen actresses and actors during the past 10 years.

Two of Le Bell's current pupils are Judith Barrett and Lynn Gillbert, leading ladies for Universal. Both have clauses in their contracts forbidding them either to lose or gain an ounce over or under their normal weight. Judith weighs 107, and Lynn 117.

For his exercises, Dr. Le Bell has borrowed freely from the Hawaiian and Balinese women with the hula dance as a basis.

"The smooth undulating movements of the hula round out the body and make the tissues slim and pliable," he said. "Fat seems to melt off with little effort. Other exercises and dances, with their abrupt violent movements, built up body tissues, resulting in tough, bulky and muscular tissues. I think it is better to prescribe mild and graceful exercises, done with the body and muscles relaxed and passive."

Lots of sleep, regular hours of work and plenty of rest are important, he said. As for diet, he urged vegetables with rebuilding properties, red meat, a certain amount of sweets and a curb on popular juice diets.

"In these high-tension days of long, grueling shooting schedules, film players neither can look nor act their best on empty stomachs," he said.

To help his patients keep healthy the doctor includes in the diet Irish moss from off the coast of Ireland, Chinese rhubarb, grown at the foot of the Himalaya mountains, and Hawaiian papaya.

Daily setting gup calisthenics are part of the schedule and his pupils have their periods of rest, sleep and recreation all mapped out.

Miss Barrett, who played the leads in "Sky Hostess" and "Armored Car," is permitted only Friday and Saturday nights out, and the only until 1 a. m. She was playing truant one week-end at a popular night spot when Le Bell happened to see her. "I was very tired and I was going to stop today at Abilene Sweetwater, San Angelo and Del Rio; tomorrow at Eagle Pass and Laredo; Saturday at Corpus Christi, and Sunday at Galveston and Houston."

THE SPORTS CIRCUIT - New Names In Major League Box Scores

BY TOM BEASLEY

AVID BASEBALL followers will be interested in learning something about the new names in major league box scores:

Gil Brack, Brooklyn outfielder... If Burlington Grimes hadn't been named Brooklyn manager, Brack would still be in the minors with Louisville.

Cliff Melton, Giants' pitcher... Catcher Gus Mancuso says Melton is as fast as Van Mungo.

Henry Steinbacher, White Sox outfielder... Although he says he's only 24, he's played seven years of Class AA baseball.

Al Williams, Athletics' pitcher... Long, skinny Texan with an arm of steel. Developed control throwing rocks at jackrabbits near his home at Waxahatchie.

Jimmy Outlaw, Cincinnati third baseman... Twenty-two-year-old ex-collegian from Alabama Poly who is a miniature edition of Pepper Martin.

Lee Handley, Pittsburgh second baseman... Property of Reds last year, Handley was declared a free agent during the winter.

Wayne La Master, Phillies pitcher... Started his baseball career with New Orleans 11 years ago but never got a major league tryout until this season.

DR. B. G. Cowper had a new German hat ruined Tuesday night at Herman Fuhrer's Temple of Torture when one of the bone-benders went sailing through the ropes.

A SPORTS columnist of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram calculates the Cisco Lobos will be one of the three leading contenders in the Oil Belt football race this fall.

SWASHBUCKLING Texas Ag-gies, pointing proudly to a team batting average of .320, took the field today to attempt what few teams ever have done before—win the Southwest Conference baseball championship from white-haired fey "Uncle Billy" Ditch's University of Texas Longhorns.

MEDWICK BELTS BALL BUT OTHERS GET HEADLINES

CARD STAR IS LEADING IN BATTING

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

The time has come for someone to carry the torch for Ducky-Wucky Medwick. Although he's generally regarded as one of big league baseball's five most dangerous hitters, the headlines somehow have missed him.

They've gone instead to Dixie Dean's noisier exploits or to the colorful antics of such other Gas House gangsters as Pepper Martin. Yet, Medwick has been producing the runs, game after game, so vital to the Cards and their wretched pitching staff.

Last season, he led the league in runs batted in, base hits and total bases, was third in the batting race, and put his name in the record books by collecting 64 two baggers and ten hits in ten straight times at bat.

Drives In 5 Runs He found Baker Bowl, the Phillies' pint-sized ball orchard, and the slants of Claude Passeau and Pete Sivess much to his liking yesterday.

Brooklyn's Dodgers entrenched themselves more firmly in the first division with a 5-2 win over the cellar-dwelling Cincinnati Reds, behind Max Butcher's five-hit fling.

Charley Root, as usual, tossed his home run ball in the sixth inning, but by that time the Chicago Cubs had given him too great an advantage for the Boston Bees to overcome.

All but one game in the American league was rained out, with the Chicago White Sox moving up to sixth place by trouncing the luckless Washington Senators.

If the time-honored rivals split the two-game series, they will divide the championship honors between them, provided the Longhorns carry on to win the season's final game from Texas Christian. A championship playoff, if the teams do tie, is probable.

TP's Shoppers failed in their bid to upset the league leading Anderson softballers Wednesday evening and the Devils swept through their fourth straight game, 11-6, on the Navy diamond.

Bobby Savage, on the hill for the Danheimen, was in "hot water" in the fifth frame when he walked five men and gave up two hits, but the Shoppers could do little with his offerings in the other stanzas.

Chock Smith, clouting out four doubles, led the batting parade off Jimmy Lybia, while Alton Boettich hit a home run for the Devils and Woodrow Harris had one for the Shoppers.

MILWAUKEE WIN STREAK HITS TEN STRAIGHT CHICAGO, May 13 (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers' winning streak was still alive today—10 straight since their last road defeat, and 14 in a row at home.

With two men out and no one on base in the last half of the ninth inning Allan Sotheron's boys were trailing Columbus, 2 to 0. Then Morton Cooper walked Ken Keltner and Ted Gullie, and Heath arose to the occasion by crashing out his sixth home run of the season for a 3 to 2 triumph.

Toledo retained its slender grip on second place by making it two straight over Kansas City, 3 to 1. St. Paul went into a tie with Kansas City for fifth place by mauling Indianapolis, 11 to 0, behind Red Herring's six-hit pitching.

War Admiral Is 'Greatest' In Preakness

Jockey Has Praise For Swift Brown Colt Owned By Sam Riddle

BALTIMORE, May 13 (AP)—A jockey who liked War Admiral's running in the Kentucky Derby so well he wants to ride the colt in every other race he runs will guide the son of Man O' War in his effort Saturday to add Pimlico's Preakness to his derby triumph.

He is Charlie Kurstinger, veteran rider of derby and Preakness winners, who thinks Samuel D. Riddle's swift brown colt is "just about the sweetest racer" he ever rode.

"Yes, sir," said Kurstinger, the "flying Dutchman" of the race track, "I'll be on him Saturday. And I hope I ride him every time he faces the barrier. He is one great race horse."

Kurstinger does not believe anything will catch the colt in the $50,000 added Preakness or if it does, he will pull away.

Keen to turn the tables on him will be J. H. Louchheim's Pompoon, which finished two lengths behind him in the derby. Also likely to be in the heat of the contention is Walter M. Jefford's sturdy campaigner, Mateo, another son of Man O' War.

A third offspring of the old red 'O' v'r the Top, purchased only yesterday from the Riddle stable by Mrs. W. H. Furst of Chicago to bear the Furst colors in the famous race.

Use of a camera having a shutter with a vertical slit which travels from left to right in 1-100th of a second, he said, enables "the entire finish line to be photographed at the same instant and the deal heat or a close finish is recorded without an error."

Photographic decision has been criticized, Dr. Gardner said, by persons declaring that the camera favored the horse fastest from the rail.

This might happen, he said, if the perspective, or convergence of lines toward the camera, were not taken into account in a close finish.

This possible error is eliminated, he explained, by super-imposing a duplicate picture of these lines over the photograph of the finish.

Dr. Gardner said his survey was made from a "purely scientific" viewpoint. He doesn't bet on the races.

HORSE RACE CAMERAS GET OFFICIAL O.K.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The cameras used to photograph close finishes in horse races are entirely accurate in picking the winner, Dr. Irvine C. Gardner of the bureau of standards said today.

They are much superior to human vision, he added.

Use of a camera having a shutter with a vertical slit which travels from left to right in 1-100th of a second, he said, enables "the entire finish line to be photographed at the same instant and the deal heat or a close finish is recorded without an error."

Dallas, Tulsa And Houston Taste Defeat

Five-Hit Pitching Of Bill Miller Beats Champion Oilers, 4 To 2

(By the Associated Press) Where they play today: Galveston at Dallas. Houston at Fort Worth. Beaumont at Oklahoma City. San Antonio at Tulsa. (All night games.)

The three teams that last year kicked around the rest of the Texas league more or less at will are finding themselves on the receiving end this season.

The clubs discomfited by the reversal of affairs are Dallas, bugging the cellar, displaying practically no signs of their league-leading capabilities of last year; Houston, in seventh, and Tulsa, which won the championship from Dallas in the playoff, and now in the lovely fifth position.

These erstwhile peers of the league were united in defeat last night. San Antonio jumped on the champion Oilers 4 to 2, resting; their ease with the five-hit pitching of Bill Miller. The Missions got to Clyde Lahti's fast-balling for 11 hits.

Houston's Buffaloes again found the Fort Worth Cats a bit too much, the score being 7 to 4. The Cats, taking advantage of rain that briefly recessed the game, overhauled a Houston lead in the last three innings.

Eddie Cole was about all Galveston needed to knock off Dallas, 5 to 2. He fanned 11 men, scattered his seven hits and allowed no runs through eight innings.

The league-pacing Beaumont Exporters went 11 innings with Oklahoma City, getting 20 hits to the Indians 17—but the latter won, 9 to 8.

MEDALIST AGAINST WT CHAMP

By LEWIS T. NORDYKE HOUSTON, May 13 (AP)—A dark horse was loose on the links at the Texas amateur golf tournament at River Oaks today and 31 other title contenders had their eyes on him.

The surprise package was red-headed Gray Little, who was known only as the Beaumont municipal champion until he paced a field of stars yesterday to take medalist honors, the first ever won in a state tournament by a municipal club player.

The 32-man championship flight had a busy day, both the first and second round matches of match play being on the program.

Don Schumacher of Dallas, the defending champion, seemed to be getting the majority of nods in the favorite's camp.

In the first round, Little was pitted against Morris Norton of Wichita Falls; the West Texas champion, and Schumacher opposed Dave Ritchie, Houston star.

The rest of the matches were considered about even.

FIRST ROUND CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT PAIRINGS—HOUSTON, May 13 (AP)—Today's first round championship flight pairings in the 31st annual Texas amateur golf tournament on the River Oaks course include: Gray Little, Beaumont, vs. Morris Norton, Wichita Falls.

L. C. Taylor, Tyler, vs. Gerald Lehman, Fort Worth. Collins Gaines, Texarkana, vs. Roy Farrell, Wichita Falls. David L. Davis, Tyler, vs. Gene Darby, Edinburg. Bill Glasgow, Beaumont, vs. Louis Douglas, Houston.

Joe Louis Sights The "Million Dollar" Mark KENOSHA, Wis., May 13 (AP)—Joe Louis observed his 23rd birthday today, cheerful over the prospect of increasing his ring earnings to $1,000,000 by the time he fights James J. Braddock for the world's heavyweight championship.

Since the Brown Bomber quit working in a Detroit automobile plant three years ago at $5 a day, he has amassed the amazing total of $758,000 from his engagements in the ring. He began his professional career July 4, 1934, receiving a paltry $50 for his first bout.

BETTENCOURT IS ORDERED TO NEW ORLEANS SAN ANTONIO, May 13 (AP)—Larry Bettencourt, an Antonio outfielder, was under orders today to report at once to the New Orleans Pelicans, who purchased the slugging Mission in an outright cash deal. Business Manager Guy Airey, who announced the deal, said the parent St. Louis Brown club would send Mazzera to San Antonio on option.

Regardless of the outcome of his resolution, Nye said, he would ask a senate inquiry into "all alien subversive influence whose scope most emphatically would include this dictatorship warning."

This investigation, he explained, would be an outgrowth of charges which he made in the senate Monday that a Spanish fascist "spy ring" was operating in the United States.

He sought an initial $25,000 appropriation to finance the inquiry.

Labor Fight To The Finish

Battle Keynote Sounded As Lewis Says He Wants No Peace

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Labor leaders forecast today a long, intense battle for supremacy between John L. Lewis and the American Federation of Labor.

Lewis killed a peace overture by the ladies garment workers union, they said, by his flat declaration that he did not want peace.

Lewis, chief of the Committee for Industrial Organization, told a convention of the union yesterday at Atlantic City:

"If the federation wants peace, let it issue some statement that it is willing to concede the principles on which the C. I. O. was founded."

Both sides at once girded for war. The C. I. O. started issuing charters to local unions. The A. F. L. called presidents of all local unions to Cincinnati May 24 to discuss a large scale membership drive.

Both the A. F. L. and C. I. O. declared their membership was increasing rapidly. The federation claimed 2,950,000 exclusive of the membership of the ten C. I. O. rings' was operating in the United States.

He sought an initial $25,000 appropriation to finance the inquiry.

AGREEMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 13 (AP)—Producers signed union cost-cutters to a four-year working agreement today and claimed they had actually increased production since a strike of federation motion picture crafts workers started 15 days ago.

Crafts spokesmen, placing their hope for victory on an anticipated but so far unrealized nation-wide boycott of movie theaters, announced the producers by presenting to Mr. Towne Nylander, regional director for the national labor relations board, evidence they said constituted "coercion and intimidation" of strikers.

Picket lines thinned yesterday, possibly because of the hot weather, and there were only a few strikers in front of the gates as the studios opened this morning.

America Bows To Porterhouse Steaks Fixed The Newest Way

By MARTHA LOGAN
Steak and onions! That sounds like a good substantial beginning for a menu. But the kind we're thinking of is a little more than that because we have put an aristocratic touch to the combination. So we should write Broiled Porterhouse Steak with French Fried Onion Slices.

For real appetite appeal, a good broiled steak is hard to beat. The aroma of a sizzling steak is enough to make even the most errant appetite come to attention. The sight of the crusty brown meat, the crisp fat, and the rich juices is sure to banish any doubt as to the soundness of the nation's choice of broiled porterhouse.

For today's menu suggestion, we have chosen a porterhouse steak cut 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick. Of course, we shall insist on "Prime," "Choice," or "Good" grade of meat and for a guarantee, we'll buy a "branded" steak, or we'll watch the meat dealer cut off the steak from a "branded" loin of beef. The meat should be cherry red and well mottled with fat.

In the T-bone and Porterhouse cuts, there are three kinds of muscle. The muscle between the long, narrow bone and the outer fat covering should have fine-grained tender fibers. The round tenderloin muscle on the opposite side of the narrow bone should be very fine grained and tender. The choicest T-bone or Porterhouse steak from a high-grade steer should have a tenderloin muscle about two inches in diameter. The flank end is less finely grained, has less tender muscle, and is often cut off to be used later as braised or ground meat. If the steak is of first quality, the flank muscle is very good broiled. There should be a good coating of fat on the outside of the steak; a good "branded" steak, or we'll watch the and there should be a generous quantity of mottling throughout all the fibers because fat lends flavor and juiciness to the steak.

Having purchased a Porterhouse steak of fine quality, it is essential to broil the steak correctly. There are two schools of thought on the broiling of steaks. By the more usual method, the broiler is preheated to an intense heat. The rack is placed within two inches of the flame. The steak is seared on both sides, then the heat is reduced until the desired degree of doneness is reached. This method will give a crisp brown outer surface with a grayish layer below, and a gray pink or red interior depending on the time the steak is left in the broiler.

A newer method of broiling steak is termed the low constant temperature. By this method, the oven is preheated. The broiler rack is placed 3 to 4 inches from the flame. The steak is placed on the rack and cooked for 15 to 25 minutes before turning. The steak is then turned and cooked from 10 to 20 minutes on the other side. A two-inch steak will be rare in 30 minutes total cooking time and well done in 45 minutes. This method will produce a uniformly cooked steak with the browned surface and a softer fat.

Each family must decide which type of cooked steak is preferred. Each method described above has a following of ardent advocates.

For the French Fried Onion slices—just dip the rings in batter, which is made by mixing together 1 cup bread flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a few grains of pepper, and 2 eggs, well beaten, and fry in deep fat.

To serve, place the broiled steak on a hot platter. Season, brush with butter, garnish with fried onions and fluffy baked potatoes.

Allow Jellies To Set
Jellies and jams usually will become firm enough to serve if they are allowed to set over night. If they are still a little thin the containers in which they are placed may be put in a sunny spot for several days. Tender jellies are much more desirable than those that are stiff and rubbery.

Strawberries Called On For A Round-The-Clock Service

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer
At this season the culinary expert can go around the clock with strawberries.

There are strawberry and cream for breakfast, strawberry shortcake for luncheon and strawberry cream pie for dinner.

There are strawberry sauces for ice cream, strawberry fruit combinations for salads. There even are strawberry appetizers.

Add Sugar Syrup
Fresh berries blend well with sliced bananas, oranges, diced fresh or canned pineapple, apricots, peaches or pears. A little sugar syrup, fruit juice or honey may be mixed in with such combinations for the sake of additional sweetening and liquid. A spring of mint, too, adds color and flavor.

To be at their best, such fruit mixtures should be chilled thoroughly. If they are frozen the slightest bit they are even more delicious.

Fancier desserts consist of strawberries and Bavarian cream or other gelatin combinations, sweetened strawberries used as filling for meringue shells or placed on to puff angel food or sponge cake slices and topped with ice cream or whipped cream, or hollowed-out sponge or angel food cakes filled with sweetened berries and sprinkled with coconut.

Strawberry Ice Cream
Strawberry ice cream is a favorite. It may be made by adding two cups of berries and two-thirds of a cup of sugar to a quart of half-frozen vanilla ice cream. Two cups of crushed berries and half a cup of granulated sugar may also be added to one quart of partially frozen lemon ice to make a tempting sherbet for dessert or between-meal refreshments.

No matter what use is to be made of them, the berries selected at the market should be firm, ripe and evenly colored. Because they mold easily, it is best to store them, unwashed, in a shallow container in the refrigerator. When it is time to prepare them they should be handled carefully—to avoid bruising—washed carefully and then have their hulls removed.

Strawberry Ice Cream
1 baked pie shell.
1-2 cup granulated sugar.
1-3 cup flour.
2 eggs, beaten.
2 cups milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1/2 teaspoon almond extract.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
2 cups berries.

Blend the sugar with the flour. Add eggs and milk. Cook until creamy in a double boiler, stirring constantly. Cool. Add extracts, salt and berries and pour into pie shell. Serve plain or covered with whipped cream.

Strawberry Cream Pie
2 baked cake layers.
3 cups berries.
1-2 cup granulated sugar.
1 cup whipped cream.
Mix berries with sugar. Spread half on one cake layer. Top with the other layer of cake. Spread with cream and cover with the remaining berries. Serve cut in wedge-shaped pieces.

Strawberry Cream Pie
1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk.
1/4 cup lemon juice.
1 cup sliced strawberries.
1-2 cup whipping cream.
2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar.
Graham cracker pie crust.
Blend sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir until mixture thickens. Fold in sliced strawberries. Pour into a pie plate lined with graham cracker pie crust. Cover with whipped cream sweetened with confectioner's sugar. Chill before serving.

Graham Cracker Pie Crust
Roll enough graham crackers to make 3/4 cup of crumbs. Cut enough graham crackers in half diagonally to stand around edge of pie plate and put them in place. Cover bottom of plate with crumbs and fill in spaces between halved crackers. Pour in filling as usual.

State Capitol Bldg. Will Get Needed Repair

Magnificent Structure Will Be Renovated—Just In Time

By RAYMOND BROOKS
Herald Austin Correspondent
AUSTIN, May 13.—The impressive Texas capitol building, for which the state gave land worth a potential half-billion dollars, is going to be dressed up, just before its lofty dome falls or fire wrecks its majestic halls.

One of the most impressive of all capitol buildings, far more beautiful and magnificent than some of the houses of government of independent nations, largest state capitol until states recently went skyscraper-minded, the Texas building had come to be shabby inside, but particularly dangerous as an unprotected fire hazard, and in jeopardy of destructive crumbling of its 267-foot dome. The dome, built on steel trusses, endures tremendous stresses in time of high wind. Investigations have shown the beams had rusted badly, caused by leaks in a worn-out roof.

The basement, filled with papers and records, is almost beyond the reach of fire protection, except that recently the legislature installed some fire doors.

Over 300 Leaks In Roof

Over 300 leaks in the roof deluge the building in time of rain. A short time ago, one of the 300-pound squares of inch-thick glass over the senate fell, luckily at a time when no one was near. More recently, more than 1,000 pounds of plaster fell from the 30-foot high ceiling in an office. It fell during the nighttime, otherwise its results would have been serious. Plaster has fallen from the arcades above stairways. Heavy fans have pulled loose from the ceilings and fallen.

The senate recently voted to start a general renovation, appropriating $250,000 to start the work. The board of control has recommended that from $100,000 to $200,000 per year be spent until the building is made safe and its interior brought into harmony with its exterior perfection.

Texas gave 3,000,000 acres of land for the building. Oil on some of this land has created big values. Only a little oil will make this "XIT empire," as the syndicates were known, a land worth $500,000,000. Even at that, Texans say "the capitol is worth it."

Last year, a new and beautiful ground-story terrazzo floor was laid in the capitol; but foundations have been such that many cracks have developed in this, whose repair will not be serious.

Much of the interior defects and defacements of the old building—51 years old—is man-made. Nobody imagined the growth in numbers and size of state departments, when the building was designed.

Consequently, immense space is wasted in long corridors and rotundas and halls and arched vestibules, while the ceilings of all floors are more than double what modern architects would have considered impressively liberal. There is at least four times as much space wasted as provided for office use in the building.

"Gingerbread" Partitions
So departments have built "gingerbread" partitions out in the bell of the main floor and all other floors. Beautifully arched vestibules have been closed in with limsy painted pine planks. Even the new $30,000 pictorial floor of the ground story has hundreds of feet enclosed in these unightly projecting "stalls" built out into the halls.

Fire marshals, Austin fire officials, the board of control for a decade have pointed to the fire hazard of the capitol; but two other dangers now have become more definite—that of heavy plaster fastened to old-fashioned wooden lath that is merely nailed upward to wood beams; glass plates weighing 600 or 700 pounds, resting on narrow metal ledges high above the senate and house, with the continuous leak of the roof above it rusting these iron sills—and above all, the shell-like dome that depends on steel beams that were designed in a day when they didn't pay so much attention to overload storm stresses, and which, besides, have rusted and weathered badly.

Safe Vault

There is no possible way to estimate the value of the official documents and records in the capitol. The state's money and bonds—and deficit—cannot be hurt, since they have been buried in an underground vault outside the capitol. But all the records of state property; all the records of the amounts due the state by all taxpayers; all the records of the creation and existence of all corporations; all the military records of the state; all the records of executive clemency and applications; all the official originals of the laws of the state, and the records of all the departments and agencies in the building; all the court judgments, orders and decrees and all the pending appellate court cases—these are in the building. A fire that destroyed the building would result in confusion and injury to the state in respect to records alone that could not be overcome.

The senate has decided to do something about it, and this year, when the building and its first birthday, will mark the beginning of its "second youth," its rejuvenation and safety.

Use Salad Dressing

Salad dressing adds flavor to hot cooked asparagus. Allow about two tablespoonsful of dressing for each two cups of asparagus. Dressing also may be used with other hot cooked vegetables, such as broccoli, lima or green beans, beets, cauliflower and onions.

THE COST OF SEED

Some people in Texas believe that a department of agriculture, with a commissioner and a flock of clerks and inspectors and other employees, is good business. Others think that the Agricultural and Mechanical college functioning as successfully as it does, a department of agriculture is not needed—that it is an overlapping agency.

But we have the department of agriculture, and it seems likely we will continue to have it. So if it is of any worth, the work it does and the advice its personnel gives ought to be worth heeding.

Commissioner J. E. McDonald has called attention to the "staggering reduction" per acre of cotton on Texas lands, which he estimates reached 30,000 bales last year, a money value of near two millions of dollars. And, says the commissioner, this loss has been mounting yearly and has reduced the purchasing power of farmers and related industries.

His conclusion is that this reduction is due to lost soil fertility, caused by neglect of conservation and proper rotation of crops. "However," he adds, "we have not given much attention as we should to the selection of planting seed. The cost of seed is but a fraction of the cost of production and we should select it with a view to high germination properties and better staple."

There is the determined conclusion of the highest agricultural official in the state. If he is the right man in the place, if the department is serving Texas as it was created to serve, his words should be heeded by every farmer in Texas. Men do not grow figs from thistles, nor do they produce good cotton from haphazard seed and neglected soil. Commissioner McDonald has given farmers some good advice. Whether they will take it and profit thereby is another question.

+ Man About Manhattan +
 By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Kicking around Broadway show shops has its merits. For one thing, almost invariably you wind up with some sort of story. Now this isn't headline news, but it's about Katharine Cornell, and anything with this lady's name to it is necessarily of abiding interest.

We were, Ray Henderson and I, discussing Miss Cornell and the gift for acting which has lifted her to the summit of the theatrical profession and kept her there, and mentioned her eyelashes.

Consider a silhouette that was made of her. Almost never are lashes revealed in silhouettes. They don't come out that far. As a rule, they don't. But Miss Cornell's lashes do not conform to rules. As proof that it wasn't merely a flourish of some artist's pen, this work was really a profile of Miss Cornell—a photograph inked in exactly as turned out by the photographer.

This silhouette was so effective that it was used on the front cover of theatrical programs, visiting editors and critics, noting this, and no doubt being charmed by Miss Cornell's personality, wrote in asking for copies of the silhouette. So, like that, without benefit of design or campaign, it has become one of the theater's most important trade-marks.

Usually at this season Katharine Cornell is eyeing the shipping news longingly, anticipating her annual trip abroad. There will be no foreign travel this summer. She is going to fulfill a road engagement and then do nothing but lounge around home and rest. There will be little side journeys into New England, where she is building a summer home, but they will never be more than a sleeper jump from New York.

Home in the Cornell interpretation of the word means a Sutton Place menage and a fine summer cottage up the Hudson. For convenience's sake—that is, during theatrical engagements—she lives chiefly in Manhattan, but each Wednesday and Saturday she goes up to Sneed's Landing, where her cottage is located, to visit with Flush, the famed little spaniel who played so faithfully and brilliantly with her in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," and to give her the hushhush, Ilo and Sonya, the benefits accruing from excursions in the country. They make the semi-weekly jaunts with her, but Flush, a true squire, will have none of the city life.

He remains at Sneed's Landing, waxing fat on chop steaks and dreaming away the hours between the visits of his adoring mistress.

As for the dachshunds—there's the greatest possible excitement! (I told you there would be a story.) Ilo has just become a father. He's the pappy of three little dachshunds.

Green, Lewis fight seen losing bitterness.

A. F. of L. craftsmen to remodel Lewis headquarters.

Mine workers' union fails to expect A. F. of L. head.

C.I.O. unions merely suspended by federation.

Softer Battles

WASHINGTON, May 13—Labor behemoth John Lewis hates anything green. His C.I.O. hates anything connected with A. F. of L. crafts. But when Lewis sent around specifications calling for bids on remodeling the University Club palace here into a United Mine Workers' headquarters palace, the final stipulation he made was substantially this:

In any work to be done, only Green's A. F. of L. craft union labor shall be employed.

The humor of Lewis providing jobs for the workers of Green is one thing. The hint that this battle of the behemoths has lately turned into something more of a family affair is another.

For instance, here is the fact (few people know it) that Green has never been expelled from the Lewis' United Mine Workers' union. Furthermore, the Lewis C.I.O. unions have not been expelled from the A. F. of L. They merely have suspended each other.

That seems to sum up their real relationship behind their embattled headlines. They are in a state of suspension, possibly permanent suspension, but by no means as bitter suspension as they were some weeks ago.

Sidetracking

This will probably be denied ardently. It may be said Lewis has no love for Green, but only self-preservation in mind when he wrote his palace specifications. All holding trade unions are in the A. F. of L. and Lewis would rather get labor from the enemy than from non-union classes. The fact that he specified it may be explained by the assertion that contractors were timid about taking the job for fear of Lewis-Green battle (which on it).

After all this has been explained, however, there will still remain the fact that Lewis has not kicked out Green and vice versa.

It seems the United Mine Workers' executive committee discovered it did not have the power to expel Lewis because he appealed to a local union for a hearing of his charges. His local is in Coshocton, Ohio, and when the matter went there, no one around here heard of it thereafter. Incidentally, there seems to be a deep inside disposition to leave the matter in Coshocton.

Similarly, the A. F. of L. executive committee does not seem to be mourning because it cannot expel Lewis but must leave him in suspension until the next A. F. of L. convention. There is a fairly good 'p' around that the suspension will not develop into an expulsion even at the next convention.

Both Green and Lewis and others seem to be agreed this is the best way. A separation is usually better than an outright divorce. It leaves the possibility that something will happen to prevent the divorce.

Alimony

Rumors are running around the capital that the recent A. F. of L. will not suspend the Lewis unions in that it cannot afford to lose the revenue from them. The facts are there: the C.I.O. diversion cost the A. F. of L. 982,000 members, but on April 30 it had 2,884,777 members left. Most of these members pay one cent a month. The loss of the Lewis unions, therefore, would seem to represent a financial loss to the A. F. of L. of about $9,820 per month. But the revenue received from remaining members is certainly sufficient to keep it going.

Furthermore, this loss already has been sustained. The suspended C.I.O. unions are not paying dues now.

C.I.O. finances are not so readily ascertainable. The C.I.O. does not have a general levy upon members of its various unions. The unions appropriate sums from their treasuries for its operation from time to time. In these new steel and auto unions which have been organized by C.I.O. a levy system is supposed to have been put into effect, but it has not been operating long enough to become productive.

Promotion

The coronation caused hardly a ripple of official interest here. It has been accepted somewhat as the British counterpart of the world exposition in Paris or the world's fair in New York in 1893.

Few of our citizens know the new king, but those who do like him. They call him "dependable, like his father" in contradistinction to Windsor, whom these same people regarded as something of a harum-caram. They never knew what he was going to do next.

The feeling prevails that King George will slowly become more and more popular among his own people, although they doubt that his popularity in the world at large will soon approximate that of his father or the former Prince of Wales.

Publicity

Chairman Wheeler of the Senate railroad finance investigation received a telegram from a mysterious organization which signed itself: "The National American and International League (and American Association) for Peace." It reads like this:

"When you first started your investigation, the Spanish war broke. When you started up the second time, the Hindenburg crashed. The third time brought the coronation. In the interest of peace (and your own publicity) won't you please stop."

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Claude Colbert will, and so will Joan Crawford and Joan Blondell and—certainly—Marlene Dietrich.

But Kay Francis won't, and neither will Jean Muir nor Frances Farmer nor Marsha Hunt. Will and won't what? Delight the still cameraman with shots of themselves in bathing suits, play suits and other more or less revealing sports wear.

Sports poses are the modern equivalent of what lensmen still term categorically "leg art." Pictures of this type, provided the subjects are attractive, still are easiest to get published.

Ordinarily leg art does not become an issue with a movie girl until she has reached stardom or is pretty close. Then she says "yes" or "no" and what she says goes.

Newcomers Barely Object. Big stars permit bathing suit pictures more rarely than newcomers or "stock girls." They have less time, for one thing. For another, they don't need the publicity so badly.

Colbert will, and Crawford, and Blondell, and Carlo Lombard, and Betty Davis, and many others, but always with reservations. They don't mind a few shots showing them in outfits they normally wear at play. When Lombard plays tennis in shorts, it's all right if the photographer happens by. But she was very particular about the distribution of six negatives she permitted of her in that costume from "Swing High, Swing Low"—and that was from a movie.

The beginner usually will frolic on the beach or pose beside a swimming pool as readily as she will meet a celebrity, dedicating a park shrub, or directing traffic during a safety campaign.

Not so Jane Bryan, nor Frances Farmer, nor Marsha Hunt. Jane Bryan made one set of bathing suit pictures, but she won't any more. (Flash! She's relented!) Frances Farmer never would. Marsha Hunt posed once, but it was in her movie costume for "College Holiday." All of them consider "leg art" undignified, that, obviously doesn't.

Notes Dictate Policy. Sometimes a girl's policy, or the role she plays, dictates her policy. Olivia de Havilland, who used to pose in swimming suits, won't any more. (Flash! She, too, has relented.) Janet Gaynor will pose at the beach, but anything "sexy" is taboo. Janet's role is sweet little girl. Irene Dunne, who is Hollywood's first lady in dignity and graciousness, never has been photographed in a bathing suit. Now, whether she knows it or not, she's the object of a campaign. The lensmen figure that her new "modern" roles ("Theodora Goes Wild," etc.) call for up-to-date, "humanizing" photographic treatment—at least for shots of her in play suits.

"Why not?" they argue. "Pictures like that are natural and human, and certainly not undignified."

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Chapter 23
FIRE AT GEORGE'S

"What's those words mean, Eve?" Judge asked as Eve hummed the old French tune that Uncle Henry invariably whistled at work. She turned to answer him, the brown serious little boy who was so sure new people were kind.
 "The joy of love it lasts only an hour."
 "The pain of love forever and a day!"
 "I'm glad to learn French," Judge informed her. "I'm going to be a highly educated supreme court judge like my grandfather. I was named for George, says I can if I want to hard enough. George says..."
 She wished he wouldn't talk about George. George, so near, engaged to Ellen, loving her; going to be happy with her. Good kind little Ellen, splendid stable George. At least she could be decent. She could love George enough to be glad it was Ellen, not somebody who wouldn't make him happy. Glad that Ellen would be sure of kindness, ease, comfort, children.
 No. She couldn't be glad of that. The knife that went through her at that was too sharp.
 Uncle Henry came in, whistling it still under his breath:
 Plaisir d'amour ne dure qu'un moment... Chagrin d'amour dure toute la vie!

Well, perhaps it didn't. Perhaps it wouldn't. Aunt Lizzie had her love affair that didn't end happily; but she'd gone on, she'd led a life, been content with her life.
 "These are for Mrs. Hickson to take to the Congregational church supper tomorrow night," she told Uncle Henry cheerfully. "Grand for me she was too lazy to bake. Nine loaves, and a nice little batch left over for us."
 "You're a good girl, Eve," Uncle Henry said irrelevantly, washing his hands at the sink. . . .
 But all the evening, doing accounts at the old secretary, chasing Judge up to bed, planning with Uncle Henry, the vague, silly terror of what Lance Seymour might do to George persisted. She lay awake watching the moon light out her window. Her bed was so placed that she could glimpse one upper pane of glass just above the next rise, down the road, and knew it was the window of George's bedroom. Suppose Lance should climb through. Or should attack. You read dreadful things in the papers. . . .

She rose and stood close to her own window, watching the moonlight on the pane far off. She thought vaguely how Mitt or Maylin, those phantoms from a past time, would laugh over a girl who watched a man's window in moonlight, because she loved him. And did not care.

Eve Sees Flames

As she watched she saw something that was not moonlight. She thought it was imagination, and then knew it was real. The faint pinkness as of reflected flame. A leftover loaf, it would be. George was careful, he would wake and see it, or Adriane or John, for the matter of that. . . . Suddenly she realized that the window she watched was not George's window now, at all. On his mother's last brief descent had had made him move to the other side of the house to be nearer her. He had not troubled to move back. That side of the house was empty.

No use telephoning. Mattie did conscientiously what her mistress had always done, bressed a disconnection button when the family went to bed. It might be a bonfire halfway between, or Lance Seymour setting the house on fire. It was silly. But she couldn't take a chance. And she saw the color deepen.

She thrust her dress and shoes on; hurried down and called the village fire department—amateur, and slow as amateur fire companies always are. Then she ran across the lawn, and through the quarter-mile second eternal. She remembered all sorts of terrible things. Lance had been suspected of setting the Clark's barn afire because old Clark struck him. There was a fire in Weston linked up with a Weston boy who had teased Lance.

She came out on the Cleveland lawn and saw she was right. She could smell gasoline. She could see the thin ragged figure working earnestly, piling kindlings against the most vulnerable part of the old house, where the old shingles were. Already there was a bright charred place, and the flames licked high.

She feared to be afraid of Lance. She ran at him. "Lance, stop it! How dare you!" she called as if he were one of the small boys who used to chase and scold for cruelties and depredations. He straightened with a scream, and ran.

There was no time to do anything more than try to beat out the fire, first and waken the household next. She snatched up a piece of canvas flung over some barrels; it beat out the actual flames. Then she raced to the front porch, dashed open the French windows with a porch chair when they proved stiff, unlocked running upstairs, calling as she went. She hammered at the door she knew was George's. She heard his bare feet strike the floor. He flung open the door, yawning awake.
 "Eve, he said sleepily, smiling at her, his hair tousled like a—"

Communication Facilities Keep FDR In Touch With Govt. Affairs, Even While He's Vacationing In The Gulf

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Radio, telegraph and telephone kept President Roosevelt in nearly as close touch with capital affairs while on his fishing trip as if he were in his White House office. Private telegraph and telephone wires linked the White House executive offices, where Secretary Stephen Early is in charge, with secretarial headquarters in Galveston, Tex., under Marvin McIntyre. From Galveston messages were relayed by radio to the coast guard cutter Potomac, the presidential ship. On matters of great importance, however, the White House could communicate with the Potomac directly by means of the powerful Arlington radio station. Mr. Roosevelt sent directly from the Potomac any messages he wished to Galveston, the White House or direct to an individual. Crocodiles Sabotage Planes NAIROBI, India (UP)—Crocodiles on Lake Victoria are sabotaging the Empire flying boat service, according to reports reaching here. King (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) King, they will state their own views. There have been some notable changes in the membership of the conference. Newfoundland, her dominion constitution suspended, will not have direct representation, Burma, separated from the Indian empire, will have an observer for the first time. The Irish Free State, absorbed in discussions of its proposed new constitution, will not send delegates. King and queen, the smiling Elizabeth, meantime toured north London streets in a surprise drive that brought thousands of delighted residents about their car. Newspapers said nothing about the apparent efforts of government and royal family to break a deadlock over the recognition of the Duke of Windsor's June marriage to Wallis Warfield. Public Appearances Instead, British efforts were directed to heighten the patriotism between George VI, newly crowned, and the late George V. Forty-one-year-old George VI and his 57-year-old Scottish queen, Elizabeth, were scheduled to make public appearances daily for the rest of the month in fulfillment of the task to which they were dedicated in yesterday's medieval-modern pageantry of coronation. London's riotous gaiety continued almost unabated and thousands again thronged approaches leading to the royal residence following last night's tumultuous scenes in which the royal couple made four balcony appearances—the last just before midnight—while hoarse but still cheering subjects roared a vociferous refrain of "God Save the King... and the Queen, God bless her!" Today's thousands of revelers mused bruises and hangovers incurred in yesterday's long celebration. Street cleaners worked to clear the litter from the route of the coronation parade to Westminster Abbey where George and Elizabeth were anointed a day and a night ago. Injured (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) It was too late to avoid the collision. Bodies of Mrs. Rice, 35, and her daughter were ferried by the Eberly Funeral home Thursday morning to Eastland, where double funeral services are to be held at 3 p. m. Friday. Burial will be made by the grave of Mrs. Rice's mother, who also met death in an automobile accident a few years ago. Mr. Rice is a Humble Pipeline company employe at Wink. Cord Johnson, employe of the Texas Electric Pipeline company, arrived here Thursday to be with his wife and son. Rainfall (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) ing City, one inch; Texon, 31. Coleman county reported grain crops and ranges were benefited by a rain, accompanied by high wind and an electrical storm. County Agricultural Agent E. F. Gray at Sherman said much of the old grain was beaten down in that area, but that young grain was benefited. Other East Texas points reporting beneficial rains were Palestine and Corsicana. A three-weeks dry spell at San Antonio was broken by 20 inch of rain. Austin reported 22 inch. The weather bureau office forecast additional showers for the East Texas area today. Rain totaling 1.15 inches fell throughout the DeLeon section Wednesday night, bringing relief from a drought which had slowed up planting. The peanut crop will be greatly benefited by the moisture, farmers said. Cotton was greatly benefitted and corn and feed crops were saved in the Corpus Christi area by a general two-inch rain which was continuing.

IS SENTENCED ON NARCOTIC CHARGES BROWNSVILLE, May 13 (UP)—Leopoldo Zamora of La Joya, former deputy tax collector for the Tabasco school district, sought to post bond here Thursday after being sentenced to four years and fined $1,000 in federal court here on narcotic charges. Zamora, youthful member of an old Rio Grande valley family and college graduate, had pleaded not guilty in connection with a seizure of $399 grains of narcotics at Harlingen in January. Zamora, along with Victor Valdez of Harlingen who pleaded guilty, was given two years on one count and six four-year sentences on other counts. The time, however, was made concurrent by Judge C. E. Kennamer of Alabama. Valdez obtained the same sentences. Dr. P. W. Malone returned Thursday from St. Louis where he took part in a special post graduate clinic on eye work at the Washington university school of medicine. He made the trip by American Airlines.

Group Back From B'wood City Lays Groundwork For Seeking WTCC Meet In 1939 Big Spring's delegation of 20 returned Wednesday evening from Brownwood and the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. Well publicized was Big Spring at the regional gathering, with at least half a dozen locals having their pictures and news stories about them in the Brownwood Bulletin. Miss Marie Dunham, sponsor for Big Spring, was received favorably and proved popular in the voting. Voyt "Sonny Boy" Williams, Jr. scored another hit in his surprise appearance on the West Texas Folies of 1937. He was the only juvenile performer. Big Spring displayed signs and made contacts for the convention in 1939. R. F. Schermerhorn, local chamber president, Jimmie Greene, manager, Mrs. Alice Phillips, secretary, and E. Reagan, WTCC district director, this city was represented at all the conferences. Miss Aubrey Little, although not among the winners, won favorable comment from more than one judge on her "My Home Town" talk. Among those attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schermerhorn, Marie Dunham, Aubrey Little, Lester Fisher, E. V. Spence, Carl Blomsheld, Cal Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Terry and daughter, Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Shick, Mr. and Mrs. Voyt Williams and son, Voyt, Jr., Mrs. Alice Phillips, and Jimmie Greene.

Stocks (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) were reduced momentarily. Prominent in the retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Kennecott, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, General Electric, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Loew's, Douglas Aircraft and Deera. Bonds and commodities were uneven. Rubber futures broke sharply on the imposition of an import tax on this staple by Germany. Tuberculosis Work Related Test Of All Children Is Planned Kiwanis Members Told A discussion of work done by the Howard County Tuberculosis association was given at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club Thursday in a program in charge of Dr. C. K. Bivings. Dr. Bivings said a campaign would be made starting in September to test every child in the Big Spring public school system. Dr. Lee Rogers told of efforts made to educate the public on the prevention of tuberculosis, and said that of 400 west ward school children examined in 1935, 15 were found to have active tuberculosis, but all have since been cured through the work done by the association. George Boswell, Coahoma school superintendent, said an effort would be made to test every school child in Coahoma this spring. Miss Jena Jordan asked the cooperation of the club members in making the tests here this fall. J. Edward Johnson of Brownwood, Kiwanis district governor, will visit the local club next Thursday. DELAY IN PENSION CHECKS EXPLAINED BY DIST. DIRECTOR Delay in the mailing of 126,000 checks to recipients of old age assistance payments is due to failure of the federal grant to be received by the state commission, George G. White, district supervisor, said Thursday. White was advised by W. A. Little, acting director of the commission, that "our understanding is that the social security board is waiting for a deficiency appropriation from congress and the other states are in the position that we are in." He added that immediately upon receipt of the payment, checks would be mailed. The state share of the May payment, $1,700,000, is waiting in the state treasury. $846,602.58 is due from the federal board for May. Little urged that people who deal with the aged give "them due consideration until checks can be released." Approximately 1,500 oldsters receive around $25,000 monthly in this 16-county district. COAHOAMA SCHOOL TO REFUND '28 BONDS George Boswell, superintendent of the Coahoma schools, said Thursday that contract had been closed with a company to refund $28,000 of the school's bonds, assuring a savings of approximately $20,000. Bonds involved are of the 1928 issue, 40 year maturities, and bearing five per cent. They are held by W.O.W. and would continue in that body's hands, until under an arrangement which would permit partial retirement of the issue in 1948, 20 years ahead of the present maturity date. Resources of the district, principally the East Howard oil field, have enabled the district to carry a heavier bond schedule than formerly. Underwood-Edwards hold the commission within a few days, contract for the refunding move.

Group To Perfect Plans On Bid For State Hospital Dr. M. H. Bennett, chairman of the chamber of commerce hospital committee, today announced a meeting of that group for Friday noon at the Settles hotel. The committee will consider plans for seeking the location of a West Texas hospital for insane for Big Spring. The measure providing for the $817,000 structure has passed both houses and gone to the governor for signature. At Brownwood Jimmie Greene, chamber manager, had a conference with Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, the unit which decides the location of the hospital. E. Reagan, local and WTCC director, conferred with John Wallace, another member of the board. Both Greene and Reagan were optimistic concerning local prospects. MANAGER COMPLETES FIRST BUDGET DRAFT City Manager E. V. Spence near completion of his first draft of the proposed 1937 municipal budget Thursday. Portions of the suggested budget were being set up for study. The entire budget will be submitted to the commission within a few days, contract for the refunding move.

JURY DEADLOCKED IN W. E. COOPER CASE More than 20 hours of deliberation had failed to break a deadlock Thursday afternoon in the alleged attempted attack case against W. E. Cooper. The jury reported during the morning it had been unable to reach a decision and offered no real hope of coming to an agreement. However, Special Judge W. M. Taylor sent the jurors back with the reminder there were three more days of court this week with no jury cases scheduled. No report as to the numerical standing was made by the jury. During Thursday morning, Clint Goeb entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging theft by bailor and was given a two-year suspended sentence. It developed he had returned the car reportedly taken from the Big Spring Motor company, had made restitution for damages and expenses occurred by the incident. Negro Keeps 'Scratchin' On Farm Where He Found $6,624 In Gold; Buys Mule, But Scorns All Luxuries CHESTER, S. C., May 13 (UP)—Tobin Crank, backwoods negro of Chester county, S. C., who swung an axe and struck it rich, "scratching" let that six thousand dollars go to the wind. "Ah jus gwine keep on scratchin'." Tobin, a better financier than he is an axeman, was cutting stone when his axe sunk into the ground with a metallic clink. Tobin "didn't pay no mind," but kept on swinging. Three times his axe missed its mark and plowed into the earth. But the third time a gold coin flew up. "Ah was so surprised ah jes didn't do nothin' at fist. Then ah stahted diggin' sho nuff. Boss man, they was $6,624 right there in an ole iron pot. Ah said to myself, 'boy, you is rich.'" "Ah don't tell nobody, not a soul, about that right then. Ah was kinda scared," he said. "Ah jus got a sugar sack and bag all that gold and hid it unto mawwin'. They ah tell my brother Matthew. But ah don't sleep much. Ah jus have golden dreams." Buys $350 Mule Tobin already has bought a $350 mule so he can keep on "scratching." His brother, Matthew, appears to be the business head of the family. "Boss man, dey is tryin' to sell us everything from automobiles to 'lectric washing machines. We ain't got 'lectricity and we don't need no washin' machine," Matthew said. "Fore we git this money, my friends, maybe two or three, they jes look north when ah asks 'em for a loan. But now they is all lookin' south, Yasuh." Tobin said the next morning after he found the money Matthew "carried me" to the office of Judge of Probate James Henry Yarborough at Chester. "Does You Get to Keep It?" "Boss man," ah says, "what do you do if you jes' fine some money. Does you get to keep it?" With this Tobin dumped out $6,624 in United States gold coins. Later Judge Yarborough delivered the gold to the People's National bank here and six hours were spent cleaning and sorting the coins. They consisted of 180 $20 gold pieces, 113 $10 pieces, four $5 pieces, 44 $2.50 pieces and 37 $1 pieces. Tobin wasn't sure just how the money got there. Neither was any one else. The property had been owned by Littleton Land, a wealthy and eccentric old white man. He was known to have been a man of considerable wealth, and it was reported after his death that his estate was smaller than it generally was believed to be. There are no direct descendants of Land. His only child, a son, was killed in the Civil War. Theories that the gold might have been buried when Sherman's army swept through this part of the state in the 60's were scotched when investigation showed dates on the coins range from 1830 to 1881. States Rights Emphatically "Boss man," Tobin said, "that money belongs to us. That money was on our land. Mister Land he is dead and he didn't leave nobody who could claim it. We's gwine get to keep it." "That man in Louisville who say he bury the money when he has amnesia... Well, we's still gwine keep it." Other negroes in the section believe Land buried more gold, and trees on the farm have been uprooted as hunters sought gold among their roots. The old Land ancestral home, now decaying, has been gone over and over by treasure hunters. Tobin said he thought he would continue to live in his small cabin with his six brothers and his step-mother. "They's tryin' to sell us plastich for our house," Tobin concluded. "We ain' nevah had no plastich and we ain' gwine buy none."

MORGAN SUFFERS A HEART ATTACK LONDON, May 13 (UP)—J. P. Morgan, the New York financier, was disclosed today to have suffered an attack of heart disease that kept him from attending the coronation ceremonies yesterday in Westminster Abbey. Thomas W. Lamont, one of his New York partners, said Morgan was better and that he planned to return to the United States within two weeks. "Mr. Morgan was prevented from attending the coronation as planned as his physician thought it more prudent for him to keep to the house following a slight recurrence of a heart difficulty he had a year ago," Lamont said. "His condition is highly satisfactory." Mrs. T. S. Gowan Claimed By Death Mrs. Mandy Margie Gowan, wife of Thomas S. Gowan, succumbed at 12:20 Thursday at the family residence on West Third St. She had been ill for several days. Service will be held Friday 10 a. m. at the graveside in Coahoma. Pall bearers will be Clarence T. E. and J. A. Shipley, and Jim Mitchell. Eberley Funeral home will have charge of arrangements. Mrs. Gowan was born in Ohio Nov. 30, 1870, and came to Big Spring with her husband in 1928. GREENE TO ADDRESS GARNER STUDENTS H. F.
