PEP RALLY BON-FIRE BLAZE

The "Sammie Sandie Bon-fire" was set last night at the high school at 7 by the newly crowned "Miss Flame," Carol Wilson. The pep-rally, an annual affair, was a fiery success as it not only saw the towering bonfire burning but put fire into the Harvester footballers in preparation for the Sandie-Harvester clash at Harvester park tonight at 8. An estimated crowd of 1500 students and fans attended the colorful affair. (News Photo)

Crashed Plane Way Off Course

Shivers Sets Rules To Support Dems

By O. B. LLOYD JR. FORT WORTH —UP— Gov. Alan Shivers has set the rules by which Texas' conservative Democrats will support the party's presidential nominee next year. Shivers made it plain he will neither relinquish his conservative Democratic leadership nor bow out of the fight, indicating he might be opening the way for a bold bid to a fourth elective term.

66 Persons Are Killed In Worst U.S. Air Tragedy

By JERRY MARTIN

LARAMIE, Wyo. —UP— A United Airlines DC-4 Friday appeared to have been 20 miles off its course when it crashed into Medicine Bow peak and killed 66 persons in the worst disaster in U.S. civil aviation history.

Commercial planes are supposed to make a right angle turn to the east to avoid high and treacherous peaks of the Rockies, according to a Civil Aviation authority.

It was believed the plane may have been swept off its course and into the peak by fierce air turbulence in and around the mountains. The weather was so bad that the Air Force called off its search planes shortly after the wreckage was discovered.

Downdraft Could Be Cause

Wyoming aeronautics director George Nelson said "a little down-draft" could drop a heavily loaded plane into the face of the peak. The DC-4 had only one empty seat when it crashed.

Cabins on DC-4s are not pressurized and generally must fly a comparatively low altitude course to maintain enough oxygen for the comfort of passengers.

A spokesman for United Airlines said that while the DC-4s generally try to fly about 10,000 feet they occasionally fly as high as 15,000 feet. Medicine Bow peak is 12,005 feet high.

A thorough investigation of the crash was scheduled for Friday when rescue parties inspect the wreckage and begin removing bodies. CAP members guarded the crash area through the night.

Hod Campbell, managing editor of the Laramie Daily Bulletin who arrived at the crash scene with the first rescue workers, said the plane struck the mountain at an angle of almost 90 degrees. The tiny bits of wreckage on the mountainside testified to the force of the explosion and impact when the plane struck, he said.

Entered "Small Saddle" Campbell said the plane apparently entered a "small saddle" in the mountain range where passengers would have been able to see mountain peaks for the first time. A few minutes later the plane crashed.

Most of them probably never knew what happened, he said. Rescue workers reached the wreckage of the plane late Thursday. They ascertained that all on board, including two little children

He added a warning of an encore to 1952's revolt.

"We cannot support principle and at the same time support men who will not honor those principles. We know the folly of that course. I cannot agree that to be a Democrat this compromise is necessary. I believe there are within our party men who can and will support the principles we believe and, at the same time, supply the vigorous leadership which the Democratic party needs."

The governor, erasing the possibility of compromise, said the fight between Democratic liberals and Democratic conservatives must end with the political field controlled by the victors and forever lost to the vanquished.

Then, about 5 p.m., the snow began to blow so thickly that vision was obscured. Capt. Gerald Downey of the Laramie CAP, in charge of the rescue operation, immediately ordered all attempts to recover bodies stopped. He stationed National Guardsmen along the paths leading to the peak to keep everyone away.

Could Read Sign on Plane From where I stood at the base of the mountain, I could clearly read "United Air Lines" on the tail section of the plane, which had lodged in the rocks 150 feet below the point of impact.

Besides, baggage and parts of the plane were spread in a grisly cascade down the peak. Some of the mail was still tied neatly in bundles, unharmed.

More men and equipment will be brought to the camp Saturday. Ten members of an Alpine club, who will take on the arduous and dangerous task of collecting the bodies in sacks, and lowering them down the peak.

Then the bodies will be taken to an improvised morgue at a Wyoming University Science camp, six miles to the southeast. Coroners and rescue workers will try to separate the remains and make identifications there.

The removal of the bodies—some of them burned beyond recognition—will take skill and nerve. One ship from the ledge where most of the bodies were found Friday will mean a 200-foot drop onto jagged rocks.

State's First Cold Front To Linger Awhile

By UNITED PRESS

The season's first cold front left behind it a mass of cool air that will linger in the state for several days, forecasters said Saturday, after slipping swiftly through Texas and dropping temperatures to near freezing in the Panhandle.

The front already was out of the state Friday, exiting by way of the Texas coast. But the cool air stayed on to produce the first really cold weather of the fall season.

The front dropped temperatures 34 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle during the night for the lowest reading in the state. Temperatures ranged on upward to 69 at Brownsville.

The front produced locally heavy showers at some points—mostly in North and Central Texas—as it moved through. However, only light rains remained Friday, along the Texas coast, and these were gradually clearing.

The leading edge of the front hit Fort Worth early Thursday afternoon and dropped temperatures from 83 to 73 degrees in little more than two hours. It dropped temperatures generally over the state from 15 to 20 degrees.

Thursday's mid-90 readings in North Central Texas were re-

50 Tickets Left For CC Banquet

Chamber of Commerce Manager, E. O. Wedgeworth reported this morning that only 50 tickets are left for the annual Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development membership banquet, scheduled to be held at the High School cafeteria, Oct. 18.

Wedgeworth reported that sales have been brisk the past week and he expects that the banquet will be "sold out" by next week end. He urged those who wanted to attend the banquet to get their reservations early in order to insure a seat.

Art Briles of Hot Springs, Ark., who is affectionately known as "America's Knight of Satire," will be the speaker for the banquet and the "Four Hearsersmen," championship barbershop quartet from Amarillo, will provide the entertainment.

Floyd Watson, chamber president, stated that he expects this year's banquet to be one of the most interesting and entertaining in several years.

Briles, being a professional speaker, is in constant demand all over the nation as speaker and entertainer.

He is quoted in a recent address as saying, "Humor is the button on the pants of life to which we fasten our civic suspenders; what a sorry spectacle we make of our-selves when we lose that button."

Wedgeworth added that 13 towns have already accepted invitations to send delegates to the banquet.

Sound Sleep Adds To Ike's Recovery

By MERRIMAN SMITH

DENVER —UP— Another sound night's rest was added Friday to the encouraging news from President Eisenhower's bedside as another indication that the chief executive is nearing the end of the critical period of his recovery without any of the feared complications.

In their first medical bulletin of the day the President's doctors at Fitzsimons Army hospital reported at 7 a. m. mst (8 a. m. est): "The President had another good night. He slept soundly and almost continuously for eight hours. His condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications."

Mr. Eisenhower went to sleep at 9:30 p. m. Thursday night and slept until 5:30 a. m. with few awakenings.

Plans for the remainder of the President's recovery period will depend largely on the outcome of conferences in Denver this week-end between Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist, and the President's physician at Fitzsimons Army hospital.

But there were no indications that the doctors would change their plan to keep the chief executive in the hospital's quiet comfort for another two weeks before moving him to some other spot—such as Mr. Eisenhower's Gettysburg, Pa., farm—for convalescence.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will fly here Saturday at the President's request for a brief bedside conference with the chief executive and his first direct contact with the President since Mr. Eisenhower's heart attack Sept. 24.

The temporary White House emphasized, however, that the doctors will call the turn on when and for how long Nixon will see the President. The conference also will be confined strictly to non-controversial matters.

Nixon, who has been acting for Mr. Eisenhower in many respects at the President's request, will fly here on the same plane with White, Sherman Adams, the President's top assistant, and Maj. John S. Eisenhower, the chief executive's son.

Barring complications, White and Major Eisenhower will fly back East Sunday night. Adams has been in Washington to attend National Security Council and Cabinet meetings.

George Cree, Jr., chairman of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Oil Progress Week committee, stated this morning that activities for the week, which is Oct. 9-15, will be kicked off with a TV show, "1978", over station KGNC-TV, Channel 4, Amarillo, Sunday from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Several activities are scheduled for the special week which recognizes and honors the oil industry. The television show, which deals with contributions to the advance of the American people by the oil industry in the next 20 years, starts Wally Cox, Sid Caesar, Arlene Francis and Dave Garroway.

The second event which starts off oil progress week, and most important to Top of Texans, will be the naming of "Miss 1978", the first girl baby born Sunday in the Pampa area.

Arrangements have been made with doctors in the various hospitals and clinics to notify Oil Progress Week officials in Pampa of the birth of the first girl on Sunday, who will be named "Miss 1978" and will be showered with gifts from local merchants.

Among the merchants already signed up to contribute gifts to the lucky lass are M. E. Moses Co., F. W. Woolworth, Pampa Hardware, Highland Pharmacy, Tiny Tot, Kennedy's, Dunlaps, Hiland Baby Shop, Jack Foster, Thompson Hardware, Smith Shoe Store, Montgomery Wards, Wilson Drug, Whites Auto Store, B and B Pharmacy, Richard Drug, Malones Pharmacy, McCatleys, Zales, McLellan's, Ogden and Son, Perkins Drug, Penney's and gift certificates will be given from IGA, Jerry Boston, Robertas, Clydes Pharmacy, Fords, Furr Food, Suttle Grocery, Fites Food Market and Buddys Super Market.

Episcopal Bishop Harry Moore Dies

DALLAS —UP— Bishop Harry T. Moore, 81, bishop of the Dallas diocese of the Episcopal church 28 years until his retirement in 1945, died at his home Thursday.

He served as bishop of the Dallas diocese from 1917 until he retired in 1945. Requiem mass will be celebrated at 8 a. m. Saturday at St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church in Dallas.

TRAFFIC LIGHT STOPS SPEECHES SACRAMENTO —UP

The governor's traffic safety conference used a traffic light to regulate length of speeches Thursday.

As long as the speaker at the engineering division session stayed well within his time limit, the light stayed green. It turned yellow as he neared the time limit and shone red when he ran over his allotted time.

Shivers, who successfully led Texas into the Republican column in 1952, rejected the suggestion of national Democratic Chairman Paul Butler that the rebellious Texans return to "sing in the choir lot" but not to lead.

"Full Partnership" "We want to be full partners in the Democratic party, and we will let no man saddle and bridle us and put blinders on our eyes. Let those who say that independence is a sin look to their own hearts, for it is they, not us, who have embraced false doctrine."

Shivers predicted if his followers continue the militant political independence underlying their previous actions, "we will find the voice of Texas Democrats heard with respect, and Texas will occupy its rightful role of influence in the decisions that (the national) convention makes."

But, "if we send a delegation to grovel before the big-city bosses of Chicago and Kansas City, Texas will be the laughing stock of that convention."

"There is going to be much disagreement and dissent at that meeting...the Texas votes in the 1956 Democratic convention may very well be the decisive votes. We cannot allow we must not allow—those votes to be cast against the interests of Texas by a delegation representing a minority of Texans," he said.

He added a warning of an encore to 1952's revolt. "We cannot support principle and at the same time support men who will not honor those principles. We know the folly of that course. I cannot agree that to be a Democrat this compromise is necessary. I believe there are within our party men who can and will support the principles we believe and, at the same time, supply the vigorous leadership which the Democratic party needs."

Hailstones Get Big As Baseballs

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON —UP— Hailstones do, too, get as big as baseballs. Bigger, as a matter of fact.

The weather bureau has just published a report—climatological data for June, 1955—which debunks the notion that stories of oversized hailstones are always the bunk.

The regulation baseball is about 2 9/16 inches in diameter. Hailstones bigger than that hit five U.S. areas in June. Stones up to three inches in diameter were reported from the Martinsville area of Virginia, the Payson area of Arizona, and Weld County, Colo.

Four-inch hail fell in Reno county, Kan., and Willis Point, Tex., got a visitation of five-inch stones.

In Texas, Naturally Hill as big as baseballs hit the Eastland, Tex., area twice and Amarillo, Tex., and the Mitchell-Scottsbluff area of Nebraska once each.

Over the country as a whole, hailstones during June ranged down to pea-size or smaller. Many reports gave specific measurements, such as two inches in diameter or eight inches in circumference. Mostly, however, the reporters used comparisons—big as ping pong balls (1), ice cubes (2), marbles (3), hen's eggs (8) or golf balls (12).

Many areas had hailstorms which left the ground covered. The hail was two feet deep after a storm in Campbell county, Tex. In Hale county, Tex., the hail heaped up in piles "like snowdrifts."

And in Oklahoma, Of Course A June "haildrift" in the Dempsey community of Roger Mills county, Okla., lasted three days. It took five days for the summer sun to melt the mounds of hail that piled up after a storm in Scott county, Kan.

An ordinary hail storm can be costly. Many a report carried notations such as "all crops destroyed" or fruit losses "estimated at $300,000," or "cotton damaged up to 50 per cent."

But when stones as big as baseballs start pelted a city or farm community the damage they do may add up to disaster. Car tops, the roofs of houses, gardens, trees, crops, the thickest plate glass windows may be ripped or smashed.

Amarillo Area Pounded At 6:33 p.m. on June 19 hail with stones as big as baseballs started pounding the Amarillo area of Potter county, Tex. The storm path was 3 1/2 miles wide and 11 miles long.

It was the worst hailstorm in Amarillo's history. When it ended 6,000 houses and 1,500 cars had suffered damage averaging $325 per building and $125 per auto.

No deaths were reported, but total damage, not counting crop losses, was $2.1 million.

The worst tornado noted in the report, though it killed two persons and injured 29 at Scottsbluff, Neb., June 27, did much less damage than the Amarillo hail. The Scottsbluff property loss was estimated at $40,000.

Pardons Board Gets Parsons Clemency Bid

AUSTIN —UP— The Texas State Board of Pardons and Paroles Friday studied a request for clemency for Mary Jean Parsons, serving a 10-year prison sentence for murdering her husband.

Mrs. Parsons' mother, Mrs. Jane Fleeger, told the board Thursday that her daughter "desperately" is in need of psychiatric treatment.

Mrs. Parsons was convicted of shooting her husband of three weeks, Army Lt. Richard O. Parsons, in an El Paso apartment on Feb. 16, 1952. She entered the Goree prison farm in October, 1954 after falling in three appeals to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals and one appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court. A jury at El Paso and a trial jury at Wichita Falls decided she was sane.

Mrs. Fleeger, formerly of Tulsa, but who listed her address as Dallas, presented petitions from the trial court judge and the district attorney at El Paso stating they would have no objections to clemency if it was shown prison life was damaging her mental health.

T. B. White, member of the pardons board, said he expected the board to act on the clemency request sometime next week.

However, he cast some doubt on Mrs. Parsons being released under the request.

"We'd have to have some expression from the court and the trial officer," he said.

White indicated he did not regard the statement of the trial judge, Arthur Tipps at Wichita Falls, as a positive recommendation.

An El Paso jury, prior to granting a change of venue in the case to Wichita Falls, found Mrs. Parsons was sane at the time she fatally shot her husband. Mrs. Parsons attorneys contended she was insane.

California Solons Split Over Knight

LOS ANGELES —UP— Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) Friday took issue with Rep. Carl Hinshaw (R-Calif.) about the national political ambitions of California Gov. Goodwin W. Knight.

Hinshaw loosed the first blast with the statement that "except in the ambitious dream of Mr. Knight, he is considered something of a political joke in national politics."

Kuchel said Knight was not considered a political joke in Washington.

The disagreement began when Knight announced he would head a favorite son ticket in the California presidential primary next June if President Eisenhower does not seek re-election.

Hinshaw loosed the first blast with the statement that "except in the ambitious dream of Mr. Knight, he is considered something of a political joke in national politics."

Kuchel defended the governor Thursday with a statement that he is "a good friend and an able governor."

"I read about Knight in the Washington papers," Kuchel said Thursday. "He was not considered a political joke in Washington. I suggest a little less name calling might be helpful."

Knight announced that he would head the ticket, if President Eisenhower does not run, regardless of what Vice President Richard M. Nixon does.

Kuchel declined to enter a Knight-Nixon controversy. He said he considered both Knight and Nixon his friends.

Mass Air Lift Advocated For Tampico

TAMPICO, Mex.—UP—A mass aerial evacuation of most of the 150,000 persons of this flood-devastated city was advocated Friday by the commander of the U. S. Navy rescue mission if conditions "continue to worsen," and there was every sign they would.

Gov. Horacio Teran, horrified at the "incredible disaster" caused by floods from three killer hurricanes, disclosed plans for evacuating more than 20,000 homeless to avoid mass starvation and disease.

Rear Adm. M. E. Miles, commander of the U. S. Navy rescue mission operating from the aircraft carrier Saipaa, said he favored evacuating "most of the city" if conditions continued to get worse.

There was every indication they would. Mexican authorities reported 13 more deaths Thursday—four when a five-story building collapsed. Eight of the deaths were drownings when small boats overturned in turbulent waters.

Thousands already have fled the city as the surging Panuco and Tamei Rivers swallowed Tampico yard by yard, leaving only 15 blocks of dry land.

Mimographed warnings were dropped by U. S. Navy helicopters to other thousands of residents who remained on rooftops in flooded areas. They were urged to leave before the houses collapsed.

Drinking Water Rationed Drinking water was being rationed only to the sick. There was food for only a few days despite tons of supplies flown in by U. S. armed forces planes.

The small commercial airport at Tampico looked like a wartime airbase as tons of food and medical supplies were hastily piled beside runways.

Big Marine Corps, Air Force and Navy transport planes landed and took off every few minutes. Hundreds of flood refugees jammed the airport in hopes of getting a ride on a plane leaving the city.

Some of them were reported to have paid as much as $4 to be rowed across the 100-yard wide stream which cuts the road from the city to the airport.

Truman Nixes Candidate Talk

BOSTON —UP— Former President Truman sidestepped comment on possible Democratic presidential candidates before leaving Boston Friday for a visit with Gov. Averell Harriman in Albany, N. Y.

Mr. Truman flatly declined comment on Adlai Stevenson's chances for the presidential nomination and the 71-year-old ex-president grinned when asked if Harriman was too old to run.

"That's a matter for Harriman and his doctor," Mr. Truman said. "He has to make up his mind. I don't think I'm too old. I'm 71 and in good shape, but I'm not a candidate for anything."

Mr. Truman said at a press conference he was "very much pleased" with President Eisenhower's recovery.

"I like Ike very much. Sometimes we disagree on policy, which is my privilege," Mr. Truman said.

Solons Probe Departures From Farms

HOUSTON —UP— Seven congressmen, seeking the answer to why many families are leaving small farms, embarked on a series of farm visits and public hearings Friday.

The group, headed by Rep. Clark W. Thompson, started their tour from Houston Thursday and were at Hallettsville Friday, with LaGrange next on the itinerary.

Thompson, who heads the special family farms subcommittee created by House Agriculture Committee Chairman Harold D. Coombs, said the group's purpose is not to prejudice the farm situation, farmers have dropped from 27,124,000 in 1947 to 21,800,000 in 1954, "a loss greater than in the preceding 37 years."

"We are going out to the grass roots to find out why so many families are leaving the smaller farms," he said. "Once we have gotten the answer from the farmer himself, we intend to do something about it."

Thompson said if additional legislation is the answer, "we will propose it at the next session of congress."

The group will visit Texas A&M College Saturday and then go to Baton Rouge, La. Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Florida are also on the list.

Heavy Rains Hit Big Area

Heavy rains pounded the nation from the Missouri River Valley to New England Friday, causing monumental traffic jams in big cities and heralding a new autumn cool wave.

In the Wyoming Mountains, meanwhile, a blizzard temporarily halted rescue workers trying to recover the bodies of 48 persons who were killed when a United Air Lines D-4 crashed into a cliff Thursday.

The disaster, the worst in history of U. S. civilian aviation, could have been caused by fierce air turbulence which swept the airliner off its course, investigators said.

The snow storm which blew up afterwards was so violent that rescue workers had to retreat to a base camp.

Heavy Rains in Iowa To the east, autumn downpours included four inches of rain at Popejoy, Iowa, 1.44 inches in an hour at Chicago, and an inch and a half in just 45 minutes at Detroit.

The outskirts of Troy, Ill., were lashed by a freak 20-minute storm which ripped up trees and turned a gasoline truck around in its tracks along a two-mile, 50-yard wide course.

The rains gave Detroit the worst beating, causing one of the worst traffic tieups in the Motor City's history late Thursday. The five-hour jamup halted all street car traffic on Woodward Ave., and 20 school children trapped in a bus were rescued "piggy back" fashion by police.

Manhole Covers Pop The water pressure popped manhole covers "like corn," Detroit police said. Up to five feet of water gurgled up in viaducts and 500 basements were flooded.

At Kalamazoo, Mich., a rain-lashed pavement was blamed for the crash of an automobile into a crowd of about 30 school children. The car skidded as it rounded a school bus and smashed into the youngsters. A 14-year-old boy and the bus driver were killed and 14 children were injured.

Rains, which have drenched Chicago with 3.63 inches of water in 48 hours—chase Thursday's evening rush hour for their biggest downpour.

CRASH (Continued From Page One) In their mothers' arms, were dead. Before the wreckage could be searched completely Thursday, a fierce snowstorm started and the rescue workers had to retreat to a base camp, six miles to the south-east. The snow stopped during the night, and a strong wind continued, but the rescuers started climbing again at dawn.

Two Days to Get Bodies Capt. Gerald Downing of the Civil Air Patrol unit in Laramie, who was in charge of recovering the bodies, said it will take "at least two days" to get all of them down.

Twelve members of the University of Wyoming Mountain Club will do the actual work of getting rope to where they can be packed on litters to the road.

The plane crashed about 7 a. m. (8 a. m. csk). It took off from International Airport, New York, Wednesday night, with San Francisco as its destination. En route, it stopped at Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Omaha and Denver. It took off from Denver at 4:33 a. m. Thursday.

It was due in Salt Lake City, its next stop, at 9:08 a. m. But nothing was heard from the plane after it left Denver. Lt. Col. E. R. Wood of the Wyoming Air National Guard found the wreckage about 3 p. m.

The victims included 61 adult passengers, the two children, and Wednesday members: Capt. C. C. G. Wood, 26, of Wichita Park, Calif.; Capt. Charles D. Salisbury, 42, of Palo Alto, Calif.; and Steven J. Hamilton, 22, of

Reapers Defeated By Phillips

The Pampa Reapers suffered their third defeat yesterday at the hands of the able Phillips Black Hawks after holding a half time lead of 12-7.

The Reapers managed to come into scoring position on several occasions but rumbles at the critical points stopped their threats. They scored first when quarterback Gary Heiskell went over on a sneak from the four. The pass from the center was high and the point failed.

The Phillips eleven came back to go ahead after a Reaper fumble on the Reaper 40. They scored on a sustained drive and made the point goal to take the lead 7-6.

The Reapers lightened their defense and held the Phillips boys for four downs and Bobby Smith returned a punt 45 yards and another Reaper center. The pass from center again was high and the crucial point was missed.

After several costly fumbles the Reapers defense fell apart and allowed the Phillips team to score five minutes before the end of the game. The point was not good but that gave the Little Black Hawks a game winning 13-12 score.

The Reapers again managed to pick up some yardage but they bogged down when the yardage was needed and the Phillips quarterback ground out the time on long counts and short running plays.

The Reapers have an open date next week but are working to get that spot filled.

Pig Sale Set For Tomorrow

A sale of 4-H and FFA show pigs will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. at Recreation Park, according to Jerry Mobley, assistant county agent.

Mobley said that the pigs for sale are the right age to be shown in the Pampa and Amarillo livestock shows this year and therefore several 4-H and FFA boys will be interested in the sale.

The pigs will be auctioned off by a 4-H boy, David Miller, who attended auctioneering school in Iowa this summer.

The sale includes all popular breeds of hogs that are bred like the grand champion and reserve champion pen of three and six that year and also like the grand champion pen of three and six that Gray County showed at the Amarillo Livestock Show last year.

Mobley said that approximately 30 pigs will be included in the sale and will be brought in at about 10 a. m. tomorrow and put on exhibition for prospective buyers.

There will also be some mothers and sires of the pigs for sale in the pens with them for exhibition. Some of the gilts from the same litter as the barrows that are for sale will be for sale, also, in private treaty.

New Shape Helps Planes READING, Pa.—UP—Development of the "Marilyn Monroe" shape for supersonic airplanes gave the United States a three-year lead in an entirely new aircraft design concept, a veteran aviation writer said Thursday.

In a speech at a National Newspaper Week dinner here, Charles Cordery of the United Press Washington staff said the intended fuselage design adds 25 percent to speed without any increase in power.

Rich Man Starves PALERMO, Sicily—UP— One of the richest men in Sicily died of starvation, an autopsy report showed Thursday. Salvatore Agrigola, 80, would not buy enough food because of his frugal habits. He was estimated to be worth $128,000 when he died.

Martial Law Clamped On New Castle

NEW CASTLE, Ind.—UP— National Guardsmen kept "limited" martial law clamped on New Castle Friday, and Mayor Paul McCormack said the troopers would stay until the threat of more bloody strike violence has passed.

A recurrence of the wild gun fight at the gates of the strikebound Perfect Circle Corp. foundry Wednesday is a distinct "possibility" if the plant tries to resume production, McCormack said.

Nine persons were wounded, eight of them shot, in the fight between strikers and non-strikers. An attempt to arrange a truce in the bitter dispute failed late Thursday and union leaders warned more battles might break out if "strike-breakers" enter the plant.

Therefore, McCormack said, the 600 troopers are here for an indefinite stay.

"The guards will stay in New Castle and the plant will remain closed until the danger of violence is over," the mayor said.

"And there's no telling when that will be," he added.

Earlier, McCormack had said New Castle would remain under military rule at least through the weekend. But he said Friday "there is no assurance" that the guardsmen will leave early next week. He also refused to make an estimate of when they would leave.

Meanwhile, he said, "I'm going to keep trying to get these people together. It's the only way we'll ever get this thing settled."

The steel-helmeted guardsmen rolled into New Castle Thursday under orders from Gov. George Craig and took up posts at the small, three-story Perfect Circle foundry and at a larger Chrysler Corp. plant.

Man Fined For DWI Here Marland Arby Copeland, Dale, 32, pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated in County Court this morning and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Copeland was arrested about 9:49 p. m. yesterday in the 300 block of E. Brown by city police.

Illegal Trash Dumpers Warned

A warning has been sounded by Rufe Jordan, Gray County Sheriff, to people who dump trash on other's property or in other undesignated spots.

The sheriff said that his department had been receiving numerous complaints from residents of Gray County who have been victims of the illegal dumping of trash and garbage on their property.

Jordan said, "With a readily accessible dump grounds and plenty of junk yards around, there is no excuse for dumping trash on private property not intended for that purpose."

Jordan added that his department plans to start complete investigations and prosecution of violators for the offense, which is punishable by a fine of up to $100.

New Tires To Utilize Steel Wire

United States Rubber Co. today announced a new line of passenger car and truck tires all containing from one to eight miles of flexible, high strength steel wire.

Steel wire, U. S. Rubber said, makes a tire tread rupture-proof, doubles cut resistance and eliminates tread cut growth. It also makes a tire run from 20 to 40 degrees cooler, reduces the danger of centrifugal force throwing off treads at high speed, improves high speed riding qualities and contributes to increased tread mileage.

It marks the first time that a major rubber manufacturer has used wire successfully in a passenger car tire although tire engineers have been experimenting with it for more than 20 years. There are wire truck tires on the market at the present time but they use wire in place of textiles. U. S. Rubber uses wire in addition to textiles.

"We believe these tires are the safest that have been made to date," said Dr. Arthur W. Bull, director of U. S. Rubber's tire research. "We have placed the wire under the tread in such a position as to use its tremendous strength for greater safety and we use textiles in the carcass and sidewall where their flexibility is necessary for smooth riding qualities."

The wire, made of steel as strong as that in bridge cable, is used in filaments which are slightly larger than a human hair. These filaments are twisted into strands and laid in criss-crossed layers which give the effect of a fine mesh steel cloth.

A hoop of two layers of the wire is embedded in rubber at the base of the tread forming a shield that protects the carcass and makes a permanent bond between tread and carcass.

To prove the greater strength and safety of the tires, U. S. Rubber put them through their paces for automotive editors at its tire testing grounds on the edge of the Mojave desert near Lancaster, Calif. The tires were driven over double rows of sharp ax blades, beds of jagged broken bottles, and upturned railroad spikes without a failure. All-fabric tires failed in similar tests.

A big advantage of wire is its ability to conduct heat away from the shoulder of the tire toward the cooler central part of the tread. This means that, over-all, the tires with wire run from 20 to 40 degrees cooler than tires without wire. This is particularly important at high speed.

Another high speed advantage is the fact that wire helps to weld the tire tread and carcass together as a permanent unit. This helps to prevent separations between the tread and carcass which may occur at high speed because of centrifugal force.

The wire is actually a part of the tread and, therefore, is not subject to the inflation strains found in the carcass. Since it is relaxed, it acts as a barrier to cuts in the tread and protects the carcass from fabric pitting.

For truckers, wire means a lower operating cost per mile. Truckers can get more miles per tire carcass without costly carcass repairs. The elimination of groove cracking, ruptures and cut damage means less down time per mile of haulage. Operating economy is possible without increased tire inflation and without limiting truck speeds.

For motorists, all the advantages of wire add up to greater safety with a minimum of tire breakdowns. In addition, the new passenger car tire gives 40 per cent more mileage than standard or "100 level" tires due to a new long-wearing GR-S synthetic rubber tread stock utilizing a new type of carbon black and a new tread row distribution.

U. S. Rubber is including wire in its line of six new Royal Master Premium tubeless tires in all passenger car sizes. The tires will sell for an average of $10 below the present Royal Master premium line. The new Royal Master premium in 700 x 15 will sell for $48.95 compared to $58.95 for the previous Master.

The line will offer two distinct styles and a choice of colors to blend with modern automobile styling. One style has a white sidewall only one inch wide. The other style has a wider white sidewall with a curb guard that protects the white from scuffing. In the wider version, a choice of shoulders colored blue, green or bronze is offered at no extra cost.

The company is also offering wire in its line of Fleetway and Super-Fleetway truck tires in sizes ranging from 600 x 16 to 1100 x 20. The tires will sell at the same price as regular highway truck tires made with an all-nylon carcass.

James Dean Would Be Alive If Not For Light Sport Car

EDITOR'S NOTE — The second in a two-part series on the tragedy of Jimmy Dean.

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD — UP — Jimmy Dean would be alive today, his close friends believe, if he hadn't decided to buy a lighter, faster sports car.

"His old white Porsche, car experts say, would have withstood the collision last Friday night with a heavier Ford. But recently he bought a new Porsche Spyder, made of aluminum, and it crumpled like a piece of tinfoil in the accident."

"I begged him to tow the car to the races," his good friend, insurance agent Lou Bracker said. "That Spyder is not for driving on the streets. It's a racing car. Even if he bent a fender getting out of the city he would be disqualified from the race."

In eight years of covering Hollywood, I have never seen a celebrity's death rock Hollywood as did Dean's. Since the crash near Pas Robles, his friends, acquaintances and the usual Hollywood hangers-on who want to cash in on the tragedy have talked of nothing but Dean.

Some acquaintances think Dean's last minute decision to drive the aluminum car on the highway instead of towing it was an unconscious urge towards death.

Bill Hickman, who was driving with photographer Sanford Roth in Jimmy's station wagon behind Dean, thinks Jimmy seemed depressed and "when we stopped for coffee on the way he had a strange look in his eye." Other friends agree "Jimmy hadn't been in a good mood lately."

But Bracker pointed out "Jimmy was always nervous before a race."

"Jimmy once said, 'I've got to do things fast. I haven't got much time.' But he didn't mean that as a premonition of death, but that he wanted to do so many things in his life," said Lou.

"He wanted to become a business tycoon. We were planning to open a Porsche agency. He wanted to give up acting in a few years and be a director. After doing the Rocky Graziano movie, he wanted to do 'Billy the Kid' as his own independent production."

"He was learning to sculpt and play tennis."

I knew Jimmy briefly. He was wary of reporters. When we were introduced on the set of "Rebel Without a Cause" he grunted and

Moose To Institute New Lodge

A ritual team from Pampa Moose Lodge No. 485 will institute a new lodge next Sunday, Oct. 9, at Midland.

At least 150 candidates for membership will be installed.

Hamilton T. Murphy of Amarillo, regional director, will institute the lodge. Lex Baker, also of Amarillo, is the installing officer.

He looked away. Then he saw my sports car, an MG, parked nearby. He said okay if he could drive it, so with Jimmy at the wheel we roared around corners while I tried to interview the actor.

Later Dean dated two starlets, Clare Kelly and Lili Kardell, who live in my apartment house. His dates, if wise, wore slacks. If they dressed up he would be upset, particularly if he'd brought his motorcycle as transportation for the evening. Sometimes he would stop in the patio to talk to me about sports cars.

Methodist Home Choir Sings Again

The Methodist Home Choir of Waco, returns to the airwaves at 8:15 a.m., Sunday, October 2, and will be a weekly feature until Christmas. This year's series, "Bless This House," will mark the advent of an entirely new programming technique for the choir.

The boy and girl vocalists will sing old time favorites, folk songs and hit tunes, as well as their customary hymns and religious songs.

By adapting this newer, wider approach in the selection of songs, the choir plans to bring more all around musical entertainment and enjoyment to their listeners.

For the first time this year the choir will be producing their weekly radio presentations from their new radio studio on the campus.

The choir, currently under the direction of Henry McDowell, has been broadcasting for seven seasons. Their new 15-minute series will be heard each Sunday morning at 8:15, beginning October 2, and continuing until Christmas, over twenty Texas radio stations.

Women In The Church

The first missionary of the Methodist Church of Australasia, coming from the aboriginal inhabitants of that continent, has been officially commissioned as a special service to women leaders of the Methodist Church.

She is Miss Alice Chadd, who was appointed by the Church's Board of Missions after outstanding work at the Mogumber mission.

Miss Chadd, who is aged 24 and was born at Mt. Magnat, about 70 miles inland west of Geraldton, spent her early childhood at the Moore River native settlement, but later moved to the Roelands mission station, where she remained until she was 18.

Then she returned to the Midlands and volunteered for work at Mogumber. She soon showed outstanding ability and gave excellent leadership at the mission during the past two years.

Dogpatch-style reactions to the hood activities include, Calvin Whatley, Bob Hudson, Rupert Orr and E. B. Bowman.

The Sunday school for all ages will begin at 9:45 a.m. and Training Union at 6:30 p.m. on Monday at the Intermediate G.A. will meet at 4 p.m. and the Junior G. A. on Tuesday at the same hour.

The Teachers and Officers of the Sunday School will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. for a planning meeting and the newly elected presidents of the Adult and Young People classes will meet in a special session to study their duties at the same hour in the auditorium.

The mid-week service will follow at 7:45 under the direction of the pastor, Dr. E. Douglas Carver. Choir rehearsal will be at 8:30 p.m.

Thursday the Carol, Cherub and Celestial Choirs of the church will rehearse at 3:45 p.m. Boy Scouts meet at 7 p.m. Friday.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the church is leading in a revival meeting with the First Baptist Church of Cactus. He will return Monday from the meeting.

Thoughts

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Exodus 15:23-27
Life was designed for right living. In the museum they came upon a creature utterly unlike anything any of them had ever seen in all their lives, and before the crowd of youngsters could decide on what it was, they poured forth a tide of excited questions. At last one boy, a little more thoughtful than some of the others, said: "I don't know what it is, but I know one thing about it. It was intended to live on the dry land because it has nothing to swim with."

The discerning observer of humanity will note almost immediately that man was designed for right living. His whole personality is fitted to that kind of life.

This sense of "rightness" is an indication of abundant spiritual health. When we have the feeling that we are right over whole personal functions smoothly, easily, efficiently. Our mind is at ease, our body submits readily to authority, and all of life seems to be a unity. This in turn results in that strength and power which we have been studying for several days.

The knowledge that he is right makes a man frank and honest with all the world. He who is right has nothing to hide and nothing to fear. "I wonder what Eric is doing?" said a nervous mother. "Don't worry about that boy," his grandmother replied. "I can hear him whistling, and no boy ever whistles while he is in mischief." She knew full well that a merry

God loves to see in me not His servant, but Himself, who serves all. — Tagore.

And were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins. — Matthew 3:6.

True repentance is to cease from sin. — Saint Ambrose.

But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building. — Hebrews 9:11.

The Word tells us that God is the architect of the bridge, that He fashioned it through grace, that its cornerstone is redemption through the blood of Christ, and that its approach is by faith alone. — Woodbridge.

To the one we are the saviour of death unto death; and to the other the saviour of life unto life. And who is sufficient for these things? — II Cor. 2:16.

"But what can mortal man do to secure his own salvation? Moral man can do just what God bids him do. He can repent and believe. He can arise and follow Christ as Matthew did. — W. Gladstone.

In transgressing and lying against the Lord, and departing away from our God, speaking oppression and revolt, conceiving and uttering from the heart words of falsehood. — Isaiah 59:13.

Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all. — Holmes.

fears of the atomic hydrogen age were discussed recently by Dr. Ina C. Brown, Nashville, Tenn., professor of social anthropology at Scarritt College, in an address to women leaders of the Methodist Church.

She said some Americans are making the "Hokey"!! response—times are good for them and the homeless millions are far away. They buy speedier cars, newer television sets and refuse to believe that destruction may wait around the corner. "The sob crowd has given up all as lost and are resigned to whatever comes," the professor asserted. "Our hope seems to lie in adding to that number of persons who are willing to say 'Gulp' and go on from there with courage and faith."

Miss Constance Hallock, of New York City, formerly with the department of information of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., is enroute to Cairo, Egypt, where she will take up literacy work under Division of Literature of the National Council of Churches, in association with American Mission (United Presbyterian) of Cairo.

Miss Hallock will work in close cooperation with Dr. David Finney, a United Presbyterian, born and brought up in Egypt, where her people were United Presbyterian missionaries.

Dr. Finney is in charge of the literacy work of the mission at Cairo. Miss Hallock will work with English-speaking teachers, writers, and editors.

MAKING A GOOD LIFE

heart which expressed itself in whistling could not exist in a lad who was conscious of wrongdoing. Neither does an adult sing when he is conscious of guilt.

O God, thou hast made me for happiness, for a sense of power, for great achievement, and complete self-mastery. Thou hast made no room in my being for evil-mindedness, and whatsoever there is of evil in me is an enemy to my best and a destroyer of my life.

Is there anyone with whom you have had a disagreement, the memory of which disturbs you? Try making an overture for the purpose of clearing up the misunderstanding. Do not wait for him to come to you; go to him. The spiritual relief is worth all it will cost you.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. NELSON FRENCHMAN, Pastor
 United Pentecostal Church
 1046 W. Brown Street

CHRISTIAN APPAREL

I Samuel 17:38,39—

And Saul armed David with his armour, and he put an helmet of brass upon his head; also he armed him with a coat of mail.

And David girded his sword upon his armour and he assayed to go; for he had not proved it. And David said unto Saul, I cannot go with these; for I have not proved them. And David put them off him.

David could not wear this equipment into battle, they belong to another man. David saw that the apparel Saul had given to him had never been proven in battle. David needed something that would protect him, something that had been proven through test. Neither can we go into this Christian warfare upon another man's experience, it will fail us in time of need.

There are some things that a person must have in his or her life in order to fight successfully, and we quote Apostle Paul from the book of Ephesians 6:10-18:

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of His might.

Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.

Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand.

Stand therefore having your loins girt about with Truth—and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation for the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of Salvation, and the Sword of the Spirit, which is the WORD OF GOD: Praying always with all prayer and supplication for all saints. This apparel you can wear, it has stood the test. Put it on.

Half-Way House

A survey of thinking abroad in America indicates there are widespread convictions that there exists a Half-Way House in matters economic and political—a sort of Middle Road wherein the evils of total collectivism and laissez faire capitalism are eliminated and the advantages of both systems converge.

Those who believe in socialism nearly always accuse capitalism of a series of grievous faults. They say that capitalism hurts the vast majority for the benefit of a small minority of individuals. They say it tends to produce widespread poverty among the masses, and concentrates wealth in the hands of a small group of coupon clippers.

The inveterate socialist wants to do away with private capitalism and replace it with state capitalism, i.e. the use of force to control capital. He believes that production for "need" instead of "profit," would tend to enrich all equally. Therefore, he favors government ownership or control of all means of production and distribution.

Recently, we have seen a modified form of socialism advocated. Some who oppose capitalism are still loath to accept the complete regimentation of socialism. They prefer the less radical position of what could be called "interventionism." They say their "middle-of-the-road" convictions regarding the economy are half way between laissez faire capitalism and total collectivism. And they find in their position the advantages of both systems and none of the evils of either.

The position of the interventionists is unquestionably popular. It could be stated by the interventionist that capitalism tends to give the whole cake to the capitalist, that socialism steals all profits from the risk-taking capitalist and awards all benefits to the worker. So, a system half way between should have merit. The government, therefore, is called upon to act as referee, to determine what part of the goodies created by capital and labor should be granted to either side.

But actually, this is fallacious reasoning. For the conflict between freedom, in which capitalism thrives, and slavery, in which socialism blooms, is irreconcilable. Compromise is not possible. And the interventionist instead of finding a "middle way" has actually pronounced a third way which could be called "mislaicos" or simply, socialism spelled backwards.

The characteristic of capitalism is that it functions in a natural environment, in which it deals with profit and loss. Through profit and loss, the customer is enthroned as king, and keeps a tight rein on all capitalistic operations. A profitable business or industry will tend to expand; an unprofitable one will tend to shrink. The customer is the determining factor.

But in total socialism or even "mislaicos," the customer has been dethroned. The force of government is called into play to determine which businesses shall succeed, and ipso facto, which ones shall fail. The customer is replaced by the bureaucrat, the braintrustee, the survey and the bolstered statistic. And this is true whether controls are instituted through "socialism" or "interventionism."

Thus, all attempts to create what could be called a "modified" form of capitalism will fail utterly. One does not modify freedom. Any attempt at modification is by its nature, a violation of freedom and comes under the heading of slavery. It is a trite but understandable truism that the world cannot exist half slave and half free.

It is for the critics of capitalism to realize that their efforts to do away with what appear to be evils in the capitalistic system will inevitably create evils greater than the ones they seek to cure. Any step away from freedom is a step, not toward compromise, but toward slavery.

Whatever evils may exist when freedom is practiced tend to their own correction by the practice of more freedom. Whatever evils which are propounded through the force and violence of socialism or interventionism tend to the propounding of still further evils by further use of socialism and interventionism.

These two opposite things cannot be compromised. We will either support slavery or we will support freedom. There is no half-way place between them.

WHERE'S THE UNITED NATION?

(Indianapolis News)

It is strange, indeed, that the United States government feels compelled to take unilateral action to guarantee Israel and its Arab neighbors against aggression. The offer appears to include even the use of armed force by United States troops.

Where is the United Nations anyhow? Isn't it time America started doing a better job of minding its own business and quit trying to horn into every border quarrel on earth?

The U. S. was set up for such policing jobs as Secretary Dulles seems so eager to undertake. If the U. N. won't take on such jobs—and in an effective manner—its bankruptcy should be admitted. Then the free and peace loving nation could take a new approach to the problem of peace with freedom and justice.

Freedom Of The Press And The Newspaper Unions

I thought I pretty well understood the meaning of the Taft-Hartley law as to how it applied to labor unions. Then I read an article published by the Committee for Constitutional Government summarizing an address made by Attorney Joseph C. Wells to a group representing Ohio Daily newspapers.

Mr. Wells is a member of the law firm of King and King of Washington, D. C. and has long been interested in the problem of sound labor relations. He was a friend and supporter of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft and is an authority on the Taft-Hartley law. Here are some of the things he told the newspaper men in Ohio as to how labor unions are taking over the newspapers and how the Taft-Hartley law is not being enforced:

"I believe that developments in newspaper unions during the past few years have created a clear and present danger to the freedom of the press. I believe also that current and prospective developments in these unions, and the union movement as a whole, tend to sharpen and increase that clear and present danger.

"These developments add up to two simple facts. First, the newspaper unions have acquired the power to halt the publication and distribution of many (or most) large metropolitan newspapers and some in less populous areas. Second, the leadership of these unions (the professional unionists) have developed the irresponsibility necessary for the exercise of that fatal power. These facts are evidenced by the fate of the Brooklyn Eagle, the Philadelphia Record, and other newspapers. They are stark, blunt facts which the newspaper business must face and correct unless it is willing to abandon freedom of the press to union control.

"However unpalatable the thought may be, it is clear that a press controlled by unions is not a free press. If these unions can destroy the Brooklyn Eagle because its publisher fails to meet pay demands, they can destroy another because its publisher fails to meet pay demands, they can destroy another because its publisher prints facts or opinions derogatory to the union, or the union's allies, or its political candidates, or its position on foreign affairs, economics, or philosophy. Worse, if these unions can destroy, they can also license continued existence in exchange for 'editorial cooperation.'

"Today American labor unions are moving to consolidate the two largest federations of unions into one parent federation. In numerous other moves, they are attempting to reorganize and strengthen positions and alliances—economically and politically. To the extent that they are successful—and they are making progress—and the power that newspaper unions already have over the press will be strengthened.

"The danger to all freedom implicit in a union-controlled press is obvious. Less evident, perhaps, is the manner in which this danger to a free press has come about, and the manner in which the danger can be lessened or dispelled.

"The power which the American Newspaper Guild put into operation to close the Brooklyn Eagle and the Philadelphia Record was the result of a series of events and trends in the union movement, and perhaps, to some degree, the result of a peculiar sophistry of thinking which has infected so many people in this generation.

"In a sense, it is inaccurate to say that a strike caused the demise of the Eagle or the Record. In many industries, a strike will not destroy a business, nor even seriously injure the business. Indeed, in many instances, a strike has had no substantial effect on continued operations. This is true because in those industries unions cannot compel all employees to strike, and employers can, if they wish, hire replacements for striking workers.

"The newspaper business differs from these other industries in two important respects. First, employees in unionized mechanical shops (composing room, press room, etc.) are presently working under closed shop conditions. Therefore, if an employee in a union newspaper continues to work after a strike call, he will lose his union membership, or he will be fined. If the employee loses his membership or fails to pay his fine, he will be effectively blacklisted in every union newspaper and print shop in the United States.

"Second, employers in other industries are able to hire replacements for employees who go out on strike. The newspaper publisher has the same right, but ordinarily cannot hire a sufficient number. He cannot because any newspaper mechanical employee who works as a strike replacement will be blacklisted by the newspaper union which represents his craft. Also, the newspaper unions have successfully limited the number of apprentices to be trained in the printing crafts. The result is that a scarcity of skill exists, making it impossible to recruit any substantial number of skilled craftsmen.

"It is a well known fact that since 1947 closed shop contracts have been illegal. The valiant efforts of the late Senator Taft of Ohio brought this about. Nevertheless, closed shop conditions continue to exist in the newspaper business.

"Another factor contributing to the publishers' inability to oper-

Ike's Illness Shows Up Political Faking

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's illness throws a clear and honest light on the political faking in which leaders of both major parties indulge in during normal times. It refutes National Chairman Leonard W. Hall's claim that their record, even under Ike, has endeared it to a majority of the people.

In short, it proves that there has been no real rebuilding of the GOP.

It also suggests that the Republicans must henceforth pursue a middle-of-the-road course, or even swing slightly leftward, to remain in power. Party conservatives of the Taft wing accepted Ike only grudgingly in 1952. They adopted him only because he could win, not because of his philosophy and principles. Taft was the professional's real preference. Ike was the idol of the amateurs.

Even now, the Knowland-Bricker-Capwell reaction questions his domestic and foreign policies. They regard him as too New Dealish on domestic problems, and too sympathetic to the Truman-Acheson foreign program.

He has extended instead of curtailing the Social Security system. More money was spent on farm price supports in 1954 than in any previous year. He favors Federal aid to health and education. He has not cracked down on labor.

He has favored government development of several power projects. He has permitted the Department of Justice to indict numerous Wall Street corporations and law firms.

Defying the "isolationist" wing, he has assumed heavier military and economic commitments and responsibilities around the world than did F.D.R. or Harry S. Truman.

Nevertheless, they concede that it will be difficult, perhaps impossible, to win without him. Whether they like it or not, he has remade the Republican Party in his image. If his supporters enjoy control on Capitol Hill and in the National Committee, there can be no return to a small, conservative or moderate group.

During a strike is the fear of violence and intimidation which may be heaped upon both employer and employees who fail to halt work after the commencement of a strike. It is, of course, true that this fear is present in every industry, but because of the nature of newspaper operation, the opportunities for violence and intimidation are perhaps greater and more difficult to prevent. It is, for example, difficult for the publisher to give protection to his distribution employees when they are working outside the newspaper plant with all its valuable equipment. It is relatively unprotected and particularly subject to sabotage.

Three Sisters In Rome Get Fame In Dress-Making

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

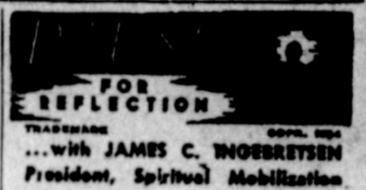

ROME — Three young women, the Fontana Sisters, Micol, Giovanna and Zoe, have achieved an amazing success not only in the creation and manufacture of luxurious gresses but in wakening the knuckles of the French monopoly which had become very snug not to say supercilious, toward the sucker parvenu Americans. How it ever came that an almost mythical male named Christian Dior, doing business in Paris, could "decree" that American women of fashion, indeed, almost all American women, should go flat-chested again, I have not bothered to inquire. The pursuit of the truth to the investment of time and effort.

At any rate, this Dior subtly but suddenly became a power in the women's garment industry, an important vein of our domestic American commerce which thrusts across the country. There have been contenders in the Parisian center of fashion for this magic publicity of Dior's and the profits therefrom. But I am given to understand by my authority on such matters that Dior is now the dictator, as you might say, of the Parisian phase of this grim, yet frivolous, business.

The Sisters Fontana, of Rome, are not princesses, nor countesses nor even aristocrats. They are working girls, needle-women from Parma, who hit Rome in 1939 and started a small shop, doing much of their own sewing, which they had learned from their mother. It is said that the women of their sort had been doing this sort of thing for 200 years, but you believe that on your own responsibility. It may be true, but I am cautious and I do not even know that there were commercial designers and dress-makers to the restricted supply of quality folks that long ago.

Micol, is the one who runs the front end of the shop on the via Liguria and also, apparently, puts in long days buying, boasting and draping, festooning and crimping stuff on the chassis of patient patrons, mostly from overseas. She quit school at 14 to sew and buck the world, and her personal experience has included the death of a daughter who would be about 18 now, she is taking the show on the road again, for the second time, exhibiting the Roman Fontana line in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago and, finally, starting in November, in Las Vegas. There she is booked into Helden Kattelmann's Rancho Vegas, where Joe E. Lewis earns x-her a week making people laugh and loses, on the average, that much or more at the crap table.

Miss Micol on the contrary, will come away with as much as she collects because, not meaning to rap the principal commerce of Las Vegas, she earned her money the hard way, and thinks gambling is for fools. She is gay and, like

...with JAMES C. INGHRTSEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization.

At the recent 78th annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Philadelphia, Loyd Wright, president, asserted that the time was ripe for a "bloodless revolution" to restore "ancient liberties." These liberties he said, according to The New York Times, are endangered by departures from fundamental principles of individual freedom.

"We have drifted down the path of paternalism," he continued, "looking more to security and abandoning the good old American traits of thrift, dignity and work, independence and pride of accomplishment."

Mr. Wright assertedly blamed the decline upon the tendency to align with opposing factions and pressure groups.

"Government of the people, by the people, and for the people has become government of the people by the pressure groups and for the pressure groups," he asserted.

And without a doubt the boldest and most successful of these pressure groups is the union labor clique. Since it succeeded in getting passed the Wagner Labor Act some two decades ago, freedom in America has become increasingly rare and costly. In more than one instance its price has been the life of its defender. When are we going to end this scandalous situation and restore to all Americans their God-given heritage of freedom?

phony stuff to which the professional are prone when they are kidding themselves and their voters.

There is irony in the spectacle. Eisenhower has been the most non-political President in American history. But he found it impossible not to be a partisan. Now, his unfortunate heart attack has exposed and discredited the breed more thoroughly than if he had planned it that way.

The store is a sort of double-parlor on the third floor of a house which seems to be an old dwelling, reached by a form-fitting elevator, an architectural marvel found in many Roman buildings. Elevators were not invented when these houses were put together so genius has contrived to use narrow stairwells for elevator shafts. This can't hold three, but they have to be skinny. There is no sign outside and the entrance to Fontana's is by way of a little alley with a little foliage. The only identification is a penciled but faded "Fontana" on a panel about one-inch high by six inches long, on a pillar where the little alley begins.

I would not undertake to say that Rome has taken the play away from Paris in this occult business of gratifying the vanity of women with money, but the battle certainly has been joined and these working girls, the Fontana sisters, have been leaders on the Roman side. Some of the Parisians grew so nasty that they drove some American women out of town determined never to spend another dollar for anything there again. They were reveling in a fabulous South American trade which now has abated and the American victims of a plainly intentional rudeness will never have to bring them back.

I should have noted with the subject, but I offer the rash judgment that whereas a Roman costume adorns the woman, the Parisian woman always seems to dominate her and reduce her to the status of a clothes-horse. When babes are rising forty, as most of the few who can pay such prices are, they want to share the billing and the approval with their apparel. There are no such freaks in Roman style as the so-called a-line and s-line, and no individual is presuming to decree that next season women must wear bustles or suffer slings and arrows of scorn.

Everything Gets Bigger And Better But Phone Booth

By HENRY McLEMORE

Under its unofficial motto, "Bigger and Better," nearly everything in the United States increases in size as the years roll along.

Offhand, I can think of only two objects which have steadfastly retained their shape and size—Mickey Rooney and the telephone booth.

About Mickey we can do nothing. Nor would we if we could, he being private property.

But the telephone booth—well, there's something for a man with the public good at heart to work on. It is a public necessity, used by hundreds of thousands of Americans each day, but it is still the upright coffin it was when the first user pinched himself into one around the turn of the century.

Utilities which men and women do not have to get inside of to use have doubled and tripled in size. Refrigerators, stoves and phonographs, to name a few. But the exacting dimensions of the phone booth have remained constant. When it comes to altering them, telephone booths are treated with a reverence usually reserved for the birthplaces of poets and presidents, and churches designed by Wren.

The size isn't all that needs changing on phone booths, either. There's the matter of lighting. There do the people who service them get the light bulbs they use? They just can't be bought anywhere.

Out of curiosity I unscrewed one the other day—and it wasn't an easy task to find it with the faint glow it cast—and examined it. Delicate little thing. About the size of an egg you'd expect a half-hearted sparrow to lay. I looked it all over, trying to find what power it was. It didn't have any markings, but I would say that it was

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

WOMEN ARE USUALLY "BUSY AS BEES" but I didn't think it would inspire a new type of facial cream. And maybe it didn't. But there is a new cream on the market that incorporates "bees' food" which is said to give a silk and satiny complexion. Here is what Alicia Hart, NEA beauty editor, has to say about it.

THERE ARE introduced now and again, beauty products that cause quite a hoopla among women. Those who can afford these products rush out to buy them, just to see if they really can look 16 again.

The answer is they can't. Those who can't spend more than an occasional amount on lipstick needn't feel that they are going to be old and dowdy while the lucky ones go on, like Dorian Gray, looking in their teens.

Those who think they can stop time deserve to be disappointed. They oughtn't to want to do it. Certain tested and approved products, some of them in the medical realm, can really help women with specific problems. Some, not quite so medical in nature, can be of assistance in some cases.

Such a product is the "royal jelly" now being used in several very expensive preparations. It's the queen bee's food, we're told, and contains all manner of vitamins.

IT IS NOT for the woman who watches her milk money. It's for the woman who buys a hat for one occasion. She will enjoy using it, because it's certainly very dear. The rest of the female population can sit back and wait. If, indeed, these women start looking 16 again, it's the time to raid the milk money kitty.

This element was originally used in a cream put out in one-ounce jars by a well-known cosmetics house. Many others use it now.

CONSUMER STUDIES indicate that some mothers make the same mistakes when giving their little girls home permanents. Because they are waving children's hair, they think that it is more delicate and easy-to-wave than an adult's. Actually, the opposite is true. For a successful curl, be sure to follow home wave directions carefully as they have been designed for children's fine, difficult-to-wave hair.

Points to remember when waving your child's hair: Follow directions to the letter and do not cut timing in half. After giving your child a home permanent, if the curl seems lighter than you wish it, remember that shampooing immediately will soften the curl without shortening the life of the permanent.

How long will your daughter's home wave last? That depends upon the texture and rate of growth of hair. Her wave may last from six to twelve months. Or, if the child wears her hair short and has frequent hair cuts, she may need a new home permanent every three or four months.

Pythian Sisters Set Dinner For Monday

A business session was held recently by the Pythian Sisters in Castle Hall.

Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in the Hulsey Building on South Cuyler Oct. 14 and 15. Plans were also made for a covered-dish dinner to be held Monday in Castle Hall in honor of past chiefs. Mrs. Fannie Mae Payne, district deputy, has been invited to attend and will make a Founders' Day speech.

It was announced that the Pampa Temple has been asked to exemplify the balloting at the district meeting, to be held in Borger Nov. 19. Mrs. R. W. McElroy, Mrs. Ken Huey and Mrs. Herbert Coker have been asked by the district deputy to fill the chairs of manager, excellent junior and past chief at the meeting.

Refreshments were served during the social period. Attending were Mrs. G. R. Fugate, J. C. Hopkins, R. W. McElroy, Carl Sexton, A. L. Weatherred, A. C. Parsley and Herbert Coker.

The wide range of this year's fashions leave lots of scope for self-analysis. For example: a straight skirt implies reserve, dignity; wear one when you feel that way. If you feel casual, don't kill the mood with a pencil-slim encasement; choose a fuller cut that harmonizes with your feelings.

Pampa Hosts Sandies In Loop Game

Press Box Views

By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

WELL TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT The Sandies however have more experience when the first chapter of the 1-A AAAA district will be told. Lubbock will meet Odeasa, Midland hosts San Angelo, Abilene comes to Borger and the Amarillo Sandies will venture to our fair city to tangle with the Fighting Harvesters.

We have been reconsidering since we heard the scouter's reports on the Sandie condition and speed and we still come up with a tough game for the boys from Amarillo. We still think if the Green and Golders can hold the Sandies in the first period they will go on and win the game by one point or more.

We know that the spirit sometimes can overcome the odds and comes out on top and that's what we think will happen at Harvester Park tonight when the teams fight it out.

According to statistics the Pampa backfield averages 162 while the Sandies average 156. That would mean the Harvesters have a six pound advantage behind the line.

The Harvesters will meet the Sandies in 1-A AAAA district play at 8 tonight in Harvester Park for the annual "game of the season" which has come off since 1950 when they were put in the same district. Amarillo has won 16 of the 24 games since that date but the teams have broken even in their last 14 meetings.

Amarillo has more men returning this year than the Harvesters but still some experts say the game will be a good one. Amarillo's new coach, Joe Kirbie, has changed their formations and has the boys in better condition than most of the previous teams accord-

Miami Two-Point Underdog In Tussle With Notre Dame

By UNITED PRESS
Ambitious Miami of Florida, shooting for this game for three years, is a two-point underdog against unbeaten, untied, unscored Notre Dame under the Miami arc-lights Friday night in a big inter-sectional game that kicks off an important weekend of college football.

But Notre Dame has injury worries with five regulars listed as "doubtful" starts.

Both teams will carry high national rankings into this fray before an expected capacity crowd in the Orange Bowl—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish currently standing No. 5 in the nation, according to the United Press board of coaches, and once-beaten Miami is ranked No. 13 (an "omen").

UCLA, last year's national champion, also will be seen Friday night in another feature of one of the best Friday night schedules of the season. The Bruins will be 27 point favorites over Oregon State, but there'll be a few state backers at those odds.

Archie Still Top Heavy Contender

NEW YORK—UP— Archie Moore is still ranked top heavyweight contender in Friday's issue of the Ring magazine's ratings — perhaps the early harbinger of a return title fight with Rocky Marciano next June.

SMU Favored Over Missouri
Southern Methodist has lost both games to date, but those were to Notre Dame and Georgia Tech (No. 4 in the national rankings). Friday night the Mustangs are 14 point favorites to get on the victory trail against Missouri.

Houston is rated a six-point favorite in a Missouri Valley Conference game against Detroit, the team that crushed Wichita a week ago, 41-0.

Also on Friday night's program are Richmond-Citadel in the Southern Conference and Colorado-State, Idaho State in the Rocky Mountain Conference.

Although old Archie was knocked out in the ninth round on Sept. 21 by Marciano, "the fighter of the month," his great stand against the unbeaten champion kept him atop the contenders' heap.

Big Bob Baker and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson remained at No. 2 and No. 3, respectively; but Nino Valdes of Cuba rose from seventh rung and replaced Don Cockell of England to fourth position because of his kayo over Cockell.

For what looms as the top game on Saturday's huge program—Army vs. one-point favored Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich. — the Cadets have been strengthened by the return of halfback Mike Ziegler, who had been ineligible for disciplinary reasons.

Saturday will mark the first day of "regional" television under this year's NCAA gridiron plan, instead of a "game of the week." In games that will be seen in different areas, Holy Cross and Colgate are even money; Wisconsin is picked by seven over Purdue; Colorado is favored by seven over Oregon; and Southern California is picked by seven over Washington.

Here are the Ring magazine's latest ratings:
Heavyweights—Champion Rocky Marciano, 1-Archie Moore, 2-Bob Baker, 3-Hurricane Jackson, 4-Nino Valdes, 5-Earl Walls, 6-Ezzard Charles, 7-Heinz Neuhaus, 8-Don Cockell, 9-Franco Cavichil, 10-Ray Layne.
Light Heavyweights—Champion Archie Moore, 1-Floyd Patterson, 2-Harold Johnson, 3-Willie Pastrano, 4-Yulio Lopez, 5-Bob Satterfield, 6-Gerhard Hecht, 7-Joej Maxner, 8-Randy Turpin, 9-Willi Hooper, 10-Chuck Speiser.
Middleweights—Champion Carl (Bobo) Olson 1-Charley Humes, 2-Ray Robinson, 3-Rocky Castellani, 4-Eduardo Lausse, 5-Holly Mims, 6-Milo Savage, 7-Tiger Jones, 8-Bobby Dykes, 9-Gene Fullmer, 10-Gil Turner.
Welterweights—Champion Carmen Basilio, 1-Tony DeMarco, 2-Ramon Fuentes, 3-Johnny Saxton, 4-Virgil Akins, 5-Vince Martinez, 6-Del Pinnagran, 7-Maurice Harper, 8-Hector Coftance, 9-Isaac Logart, 10-Chico Vejar.
Lightweights—Champion Wallace (Bud) Smith, 1-Jimmy Carter, 2-Duilio Loi, 3-Ralph Dupes, 4-Frankie Ruff, 5-Cisco Andrade, 6-Ken Lane, 7-Orlando Zulueta, 8-Joej Lopez, 9-Johnny Gonzales, 10-Arthur Perley.
Featherweights—Champion Sandy Saddler, 1-Ciro Morasan, 2-Ray Farnochon, 3-Teddy Davis, 4-Carmelo Costa, 5-Billy Kelly, 6-Hogan Bassey, 7-Lauro Salaw, 8-Fred Galliana, 9-Flash Elorde, 10-Shigeru Kaneko.
Bantamweights—Champion Robert Cohen, 1-Willie Towell, 2-Mario D'Agata, 3-Billy Peacock, 4-Hilare Pratesi, 5-Andre Vailgnat, 6-Raton Macias, 7-Chamrean Song-Kitrat, 8-Jose Lopez, 9-Emil Chemama, 10-Little Cesar.
FLYWEIGHTS—Champion Pascual Perez, 1-Leo Espinosa, 2-Young Martin, 3-Danny Kid, 4-Dai Dower, 5-Jake Tull, 6-Tony Campo, 7-Nazzareno Gianelli, 8-Oscar Suarez, 9-Memo Diaz, 10-Hitoshi Misako.

Maryland, ranked as the nation's No. 1 team, is a prohibitive 26-0 choice over Wake Forest.

Other Big Games
Here's how the odds-men view some of the other big games Saturday:
Even money—Dartmouth-Brown.
Favored by six points—Cincinnati over Xavier, Auburn over Kentucky, Minnesota over Northwestern, Georgia over North Carolina.
Favored by seven points—Michigan State over Stanford, Texas A&M over Nebraska, Rice over Clemson, Harvard over Cornell, Navy over Pittsburg, Marquette over Kansas State, Kansas over Iowa State, Ohio State over Illinois, Oklahoma A&M over Wichita, Mississippi State over Tulane, Baylor over Arkansas, Mississippi over Vanderbilt, Wyoming over Colorado A&M.
Favored by 10 points—Oklahoma over Texas, Georgia Tech over Louisiana State.
Favored by 13 points—Princeton over Pennsylvania, Yale over Columbia, Iowa, over Indiana.
Favored by 14 points—Texas Christian over Alabama, Penn State over Virginia, Florida over George Washington.
Favored by 15 points—California over Washington State.
Favored by 20 points—Duke over William and Mary.

Coaches H. W. Callan and C. H. Keeton have been drilling the Pirates hard on fundamentals and their split-T offensive plays this week in preparation for the Bucks who will be shooting for an upset.

Callan has named center Larry Rider and guard-end Benzell Rippey co-captains for the game. Both are seniors and have been standouts for the Pirates for the fast couple of seasons.

Thinking Cap Wins
NEW YORK—UP—Christiana Stable's Thinking Cap won the $25,000 added Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park Thursday after Nashua, the prohibitive choice, was scratched because of the muddy going. Thinking Cap ran the mile and five-eighths in 2:41.25 and paid $2.70. Westward Ho and Sweet Christ, the only other horses in the field, finished in that order.

Yankees Plan Trip to Japan
NEW YORK—UP—The New York Yankees minus Phil Rizzuto, Joe Collins, Gary Coleman and Tom Carroll—leave by plane Saturday morning on the first leg of their trip to Japan. Players who left New York immediately after the World Series will join the squad either at Chicago or at San Francisco.

Lane Hunts Manager For Cardinals
ST. LOUIS—UP—Frank Lane, new general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, went shopping Friday for a field manager and additions to "a very fine nucleus" that would make the club a pennant contender in 1956.

He said he had three men under consideration for manager and revealed the names of two of them, present Manager Harry Walker and Freddie Hutchinson, pilot of Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Lane's 27-year-old former general manager of the Chicago White Sox, said the terms of the three-year contract he signed Thursday with the Cardinals was "mutually satisfactory." It included an attendance bonus clause and a salary "in excess" of the estimated $10,000 a year the American League team paid, he said.

The players considered by Lane to be the "nucleus" are Stan Misiak, Red Schoendienst, Wally Moon, Bill Virdon, Ken Boyer, pitchers Harvey Haddix, Tom Poholaky, Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who will return from Army Service, Larry Jackson, "a born relief pitcher," and "one or two others."

Lefors, White Deer In District Contest

The district 1-A Lefors Pirates tangle with the White Deer Bucks in a "Dad's Day" game at Lefors tonight in Shaw Park. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock as will all conference games for the remainder of the season.

The Pirates own a 2-1 record for the season and a 1-1 record in conference games.

Tonight's game will be played in honor of the Pirate players' dads, who will wear cards with their son's number on it and will view the game from special seats near the field. This is the second year the affair has been held and plans are being made to identify the fathers with their sons more distinctly for the crowd.

Welterweights—Champion Jerry Herring and Royce Gee, Hearing broke his arm against the Clarendon Bronchos and Gee suffered a trachea knee before the season started.

Coaches H. W. Callan and C. H. Keeton have been drilling the Pirates hard on fundamentals and their split-T offensive plays this week in preparation for the Bucks who will be shooting for an upset.

Longhorns Out For Revenge Against Mighty Oklahoma

By ED FITE

DALLAS—UP—The nation's longest football winning streak—owned by the University of Oklahoma Sooners—will be endangered here Saturday by a revenge-bent University of Texas team seeking to break a precedent that has seen Oklahoma try to avenge its loss to Texas in this 50th renewal of a storied rivalry that dates back to the turn of the century, but in quarterback Joe Clements and halfback Walt Fendren Texas believes it has the ammunition to electrify a sell-out crowd of 75,504 and a regional television audience.

The odds-makers have established Oklahoma a seven-point choice to extend its winning streak to 22 straight games and break a precedent that has seen Oklahoma try to avenge its loss to Texas in this 50th renewal of a storied rivalry that dates back to the turn of the century, but in quarterback Joe Clements and halfback Walt Fendren Texas believes it has

Southern Methodist will be a 14-point favorite Friday night to beat Missouri in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas and erase its ill-dinction of being the only Southwest Conference team without a victory this season.

Baltimore Gets Raves In Pro Loop

BALTIMORE—UP—The prophets on the National Football League were unveiling their crystal balls once more Friday in anticipation of the forthcoming weekend schedule, and if one team looms as the mystery that any NFL fan would like to see the undefeated Baltimore Colts.

Rigney Tabs Youth As Giant Hope

NEW YORK—UP—Bill Rigney, the National League's youngest manager at 37, indicated Friday that he'll be banking on his younger players next year to improve the New York Giants.

Rigney, who officially took over "the biggest job in baseball" Thursday, named Willie Mays, Don Mueller, Whitey Lockman and Alvin Dark as certain fixtures for 1956 and said he expected "younger fellows like Ramon Montant, Foster Castelman and Gail Harris to come along" and fill needed spots in the infield and on the mound.

"Pitching is my biggest concern," he said, and second base comes next. I'll be counting on Castelman at second, Harris at first and Montant and Alan Worthington to bolster the mound corps.

The former Giants' utility infielder signed a two-year pact calling for considerably more "than what I got at Minneapolis."

The quiet, slightly greying Rigney replaced fiery Leo Durocher at the New York helm.
