SNOW QUEEN CANDIDATE

Mary Inman is a candidate for the Miss Snow Queen contest to be held in Perryton during Santa Day activities on Dec. 1. Pampa's entry was selected by the high school A Cappella Choir to participate in the event. Mary, a junior at high school, is a member of the Kit-Kat Klub, the Tri-Hi-Y, and A Cappella Choir. She was a cast member of the Junior play, and a runner-up for Oil Progress Queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Inman, 816 W. Kingsmill.

Mob Kills Caliph Of Fez In Morocco Palace Riots

Fight Preceded Meet With Sidi Mohammed Youssef

RABAT, Morocco, Nov. 19 —UP— The caliph of the holy city of Fez was stabbed to death by an infuriated mob Saturday in the courtyard of the Imperial Palace when he came to make his peace with the returned sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef.

The caliph's bodyguard also was killed and five of his followers wounded—two critically—in the palace brawl between followers of Ben Youssef and his ousted predecessor, pro-French Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa.

The caliph, a pro-French provincial official who was a backer of the former sultan, went down fighting when the mob attacked his group in a demonstration of fanatical loyalty to the re-enthroned Ben Youssef, just back from exile.

Stabbed in Back
 Caliph Mohammed Bernadi had a jeweled dagger in one hand and a pistol in the other when he went down with a fatal knife wound in his back.

The red-pantalooned Negroes of the imperial guard finally succeeded in restoring order.

Only Moroccans were involved in the murderous outbreak of violence. There were no French troops or officials at the palace when the trouble flared up at 11 a. m.

The "battle at the palace" was one of several bloody fracas reported Saturday in Morocco. In Marrakesh a mob burned a policeman to death after he had killed a man and wounded a woman in a riot that began when he man-

Three Top Demos Blast Republicans

By TOM NELSON
 CHICAGO, Nov. 19 —UP— The three top presidential possibilities of the Democratic party opened up Saturday night with bare-knuckle attacks on the Republicans and predictions of victory in the 1956 elections.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee took turns blasting the administration from the same speaker's platform.

Stevenson, only one of the three who is an avowed candidate for 1956, cut loose with one of his most sizzling attacks to date, taunting the GOP for having to "depend" on President Eisenhower to preserve party unity.

He charged that the GOP serves only "big business" and "special interest" and accused it of bungling virtually every program it has launched.

Truman Speaks, Too
 The Democratic "Big Three" spoke at a $100-plate fund-raising dinner attended by 2,500 Democrats at the International Amphitheater, site of the party's national convention next summer.

The party's elder statesman, former President Harry S. Truman, was scheduled to deliver off-the-cuff remarks to the assembly.

Stevenson predicted flatly that "we are going to win next year" and was joined by Harriman, who viewed Chicago as "our comeback town."

Kefauver also foresaw victory, but warned against any divisive struggle among the Democrats themselves.

Ave Praises Adlai
 Harriman devoted much of his address to citing the accomplishments of prominent Democrats, including Stevenson, who he said "laid the foundations for our recent (election) victories." He also had kind words for Kefauver and Mr. Truman.

Kefauver, expected to announce next month that he will seek the presidential nomination, said "there are bound to be contests in the Democratic party and I expect that some of them will be lively."

"But I hope that there will be no bitterness engendered and that we can all save our live ammunition for the Republicans," Kefauver said.

May Emulate HST
 For Stevenson it was his first speech since he announced his 1956 candidacy last Tuesday, and aides said it was designed to set the "tone" for his campaign.

If so, Stevenson indicated he may take off the gloves for 1956 and borrow a leaf from the "give 'em hell" book of Mr. Truman.

He declared that only the Democrats stand for "the principles in individual men and women in this country believe in and are proud of."

"The happy truth is that the Democratic party maintains an essential unity of purpose which does not depend upon the individuals who may carry its standard," he said. "And no other political party, I might add, can make that statement!"

Attacks 'Big Business'
 Stevenson reiterated charges that the "mists of illusion" of the summit meeting are rising, revealing that the cold war is back and "our security system is deteriorating."

He said foreign policy "cannot be devised with one eye fixed only on the budget, and the other on the divisions in the Republican party."

Stevenson attacked the GOP farm, conservation and other policies but swung hardest on his charge that it serves "big business."

He said "we see the sharp outlines of what can only be described as special interest government in Washington, something we have not seen since the Republicans were there last!"

"As Democrats we deny the soundness of helping only the large corporations with the pious hope that something will trickle down to the rest of us," he said. "We oppose special tax advantages to anyone, let alone a favored few. We oppose the policy of giving the lion's share of defense contracts to the large companies."

Just How Far Does Credit Go

DENVILLE, N. J. —UP— Police searched Saturday for a man who fortified himself with a couple of drinks and then walked into the Morris-town Trust Co., identified himself as a payroll messenger and asked for a $2,900 payroll.

The teller, Mrs. Olga Stevens, said the bandit, whose breath smelled of liquor, was gone before she looked at the slips of paper he had handed her. One read, "IOU $2,900. Thank you."

Marie Dionne Quits Convent Second Time

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 —UP— Marie Dionne, frailest and shortest of the surviving quintuplets, has left her cloistered convent life of silence and prayer for the second time and taken refuge in a hospital where two of her sisters are studying nursing. It was reported Saturday.

Sources close to the Dionnes said that Marie, still grieving over the death of quintuplet Emilie last year, was homesick for her sisters and suffered from a loss of appetite.

Olive Dionne, father of the 21-year-old quint, said he was told by telephone that Marie quietly left the convent of the Order of the Servants of the Most Holy Sacrament in Quebec City last Wednesday.

U.S., Reds To Relax Trade Restrictions

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 —UP— The administration intends to go ahead with its plan to relax some East-West trade restrictions despite the failure of the Geneva conference, it was learned Saturday.

Informed sources said the Commerce Department will shortly drop a whole flock of non-strategic goods from the list of items which now cannot be shipped behind the Iron Curtain without special export licenses.

Once it was apparent the foreign ministers meeting at Geneva had failed, rumors spread that the cold war would return in full force. These included reports that the move to relax trade barriers would be cancelled, that foreign aid would be stepped up, and that the effort to shave defense spending would be abandoned.

Denies Reports
 High administration officials publicly and privately denied the reports. And Secretary of State John Foster Dulles emphasized in his radio-TV address Friday night that he doesn't expect a return to the harsh policies of early cold war days despite the failure at Geneva.

Officials said the list of goods on which export restrictions will be lowered is expected to be drawn up by the first of the year. When it is made public, shippers will be able to export approved items to Iron Curtain countries without obtaining special export licenses.

The planned action, first announced Nov. 3, would not apply, however, to Communist China and North Korea. The embargo on all trade with these countries will remain in full force.

Non-Strategic Goods
 The list of non-strategic goods is expected to include such items as tobacco, hides, edible tallow, pencils, slats, wool rags and some chemicals. These already are being exported to the European Communist satellites under special export licenses.

The Russians are reported to be interested in buying U. S. farm products but the regular market prices are believed to be too high. Agriculture Department generally has balked at selling government surplus at cut rates.

Rodeo Group Will Discuss Recreation Park Development

A call meeting of the Board of Directors of the Top of Texas Rodeo Association will be held in the Chamber of Commerce offices Monday evening, Nov. 21st, at 7:30 p. m., when new work committees of the Association will be submitted for approval of the Board.

Bob Andis, president of the Association, indicated that discussion will also be given to a program of new construction at the Rodeo grounds which will be conducive to a bigger and better show. Plans being considered call for improvements to the stands and possibly the rearrangement of reserved seats and concessions.

Recreation Park, the home of the Top of Texas Rodeo Association, the Top of Texas Hereford Breeders annual Show & Sale, the Top of Texas Junior Livestock Show & Sale, the Top of Texas Livestock Judging Contest, the Pampa Siret Club, the Pampa Rifle & Pistol Club, the local Ham Radio Operators, is found in use practically every day and night.

The Top of Texas Community Building which has been constructed at Recreation Park by the Gray County Commissioners Court is truly a community project and is being used extensively by the various organizations of the City and County, as well as providing a meeting place for the many oil companies operating in this area.

At the present time, the Pampa Boys Club is using the Community Building as a temporary headquarters for their training program until permanent quarters are provided.

United Fund: $42,596.20

Contributions to Pampa's United Fund Campaign had reached $42,596.20 Saturday morning, according to Mrs. Emmett Gee, secretary of the fund.

The sum shows an increase of $1,016 since Friday morning, or some $4,576.50 short of the goal set at $47,173.

Anyone who has not been contacted may send their contributions direct to the United Fund of Pampa City Hall basement, or mail their contributions to the United Fund Headquarters, Box 2076.

Gray Commissioners Discuss Formation Of Water District

Two representatives of the North Plains Underground Water District met with the Gray County Commissioner's Court Saturday morning to discuss the possible support of a water district in Gray County.

John Hamley, spokesman, outlined the background of the North and South Plains districts saying that six Panhandle counties had re-formed the district last spring. Hamley represents part of Gray and all of Roberts County. They are calling on commissioner's courts in all the counties to share the cost of elections.

In order to hold the water district election, Hamley pointed out that it should be necessary to advertise the election, outline the district and polling places along with the names of judges. Two elected judges and two clerks would be needed for each box.

The ballot would determine confirmation of the district, an election of a board of directors, and a tax rate based on a 5-cent levy per $100 tax evaluation (using state and county evaluations).

Purpose of forming the district would be to regulate the spacing of water wells and the primary purpose of the tax fund would be to provide for clerks and managers to issue permits to drill wells and to keep records on the volume of production of each well.

Don Cain, county attorney, requested permission to write the Attorney General, John Ben Shepherd, for his opinion on the matter. Commissioners agreed to first find out if they were able to legally support the election before proceeding further on the matter.

In other action, Don Cain and Arthur M. Teed, representing the Gray County Bar Association, requested permission to distribute "Trial by Jury" handbooks to explain the purpose of jury trials and the duties of jurors. Teed explained the purpose of the booklet to the commissioners, saying that it would aid women in serving on juries and save the county money in new trials. Cain suggested ordering and distributing 3,000 pamphlets to prospective jurors, the League Commissioners agreed to follow through with this educational program, provide the matter is legal.

Sitting in on the Commissioner's session was City Manager Fred Brook, City Commissioner Vernon, and City Engineer James Cowan.

Like To Meet With High Officials

By NEIL MACNEIL
 GETTYSBURG, Pa., Nov. 19 —UP— The White House announced plans Saturday for a dramatic helicopter flight to ferry the government's highest officials to conferences at the President's Maryland mountain retreat early next week.

Preparations for the unprecedented air shuttle were rushed while the President relaxed at his snow-bound farm, chatting and playing bridge with some of his closest friends. A wet, sticky blanket of snow kept Mr. Eisenhower indoors.

Dr. Howard Snyder reported the President had a good night's sleep and was in "fine shape" Saturday even though he did more official work this week than at any time since his heart attack Sept. 24.

Schedule of Events
 Members of the National Security Council and cabinet will be airlifted to Camp Davis, the President's Maryland retreat, on Monday, unless weather forces them to drive. The council will meet Monday afternoon and the cabinet will assemble Tuesday morning.

Mr. Eisenhower will motor the 22 miles to Camp Davis early Monday afternoon and stay overnight for the cabinet session. It will be his first formal meeting with the council and cabinet since before he left for Denver Aug. 14.

Attending the security council meeting will be all of the regular members, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon and the secretaries of state, defense and treasury.

Acknowledges Mexico's Thanks
 Mr. Eisenhower's weekend house guests included W. Alton Jones, chairman of Cities Service Corp., and Mrs. Jones, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, chief of NATO defense forces in Europe, and William E. Robinson, president of the Coca Cola Co.

In addition to announcing the air-

T. W. C. A. Sets Water Hearings

AUSTIN, Nov. 19 —UP— Two public hearings in the Rio Grande Valley on control and distribution of waters from the proposed Diablo Dam were scheduled Saturday by the Texas Water Conservation Association.

Guy C. Jackson Jr. of Anahuac, chairman of a special five-member TWCA study committee, said his group will hold hearings Dec. 19 at Laredo and Dec. 20 at Weslaco.

Announcement of the public hearings following a meeting Saturday between Jackson's committee and Col. E. H. Hewitt of El Paso, commissioner of the International Boundary and Water Commission, in which "basic data on conflicts threatening the project" were aired. The boundary commission is responsible for water development of the Rio Grande, including construction of such structures as the proposed Diablo Dam.

Problems affecting construction of the dam were brought before the TWCA at its annual meeting in Galveston last month.

Jackson's committee will report to the TWCA board of directors Jan. 7, following the valley hearings.

CoC Board To Meet Monday

Something new will be used this year in building a program of work when directors of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development meet Monday noon in the Palm Room of City Hall for their regular monthly meeting.

In setting up the new work program the Phillips 66 Discussion Plan will be used. The plan originated and put into practice by Dr. Don Phillips, president of Hillsdale College, is designed to secure participation from any group in conference.

The plan calls for dividing the group into not more than five at each table. Each individual group selects a chairman and secretary, then proceeds to discussing projects which in their opinion should be included in the work program for the year.

All members of the Board of Directors and Committee chairmen of the Chamber are being invited to participate in setting up projects which will be pursued by the organization this year. An attempt is being made to incorporate new ideas from the entire membership. In order to get suggestions from every member of the Chamber, letters were sent out last week calling for suggestions, and, according to Ed Myatt, president of the Chamber, the response has been good.

Other items on the agenda for the meeting Monday will be reports from committee activities and approval of committee chairmen as appointed by the Executive Board.

MY ARGUMENT WITH A COMMUNIST

 Turn to page 21 of today's paper and let the Communist in our fictional presentation put you to an intellectual test. This Communist is bold, relentless and logical so if you are particularly sensitive, prepare yourself for some rough mental strain.

Would you, in our typical American's shoes, have any difficulty answering the Communist?

FLYING SUBMARINE—That's the idea being worked on by All-American Engineering Company of Wilmington, Del. Patent for the idea has been kept secret for several years by the Defense Department. Drawing above shows how it would work. At bottom is the submarine, gliding under water powered by a marine engine. In center is the same craft, marine propeller retracted within the fuselage, skimming the waves on retractable water skis. It is now operating on a jet engine with air intakes on the upper part of the fuselage. Using this second power plant, the craft takes off, resembling the standard swept-wing jet fighter, top. It is only in thinking stage of development.

New Hollywood Celebrity Is Agent Immortalized In Play

HOLLYWOOD — UP — One of the new celebrities in Hollywood is an agent who has the distinction of being immortalized in a Broadway play.

In "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?", Rock Hudson and Marilyn Monroe are caricatured, as is a top studio executive (also satirized in the movie, "The Big Knife").

But the most noticed character in the play is a powerful agent named Irving LaSalle who is supposed to be the devil in disguise. His real-life counterpart is Irving Lazar, one of the most important behind-the-scenes figures of the movie colony who, since the play, has enjoyed a new sort of fame.

Lazar runs the largest one-man literary agency in the county. His notable clients include Moss Hart, Cole Porter, Noel Coward, Ira Gershwin, Harold Arlen, George Kaufman and, of course, the "Rock Hunter" author, George Axelrod.

"I did a couple of things for George—more dough, berths on planes, and so on—that gave him the idea an agent is a powerful, impressive, omnipotent person," Lazar explained.

"It always was a gag between us. I would tell him there was nothing I couldn't do for him."

Lazar paused to consume his healthy lunch of fresh vegetables and yogurt.

"So he wrote me into his play."

NBC-TV's Mail Is Sometimes Screwball, Sometimes Critical

NEW YORK — UP — "Dear Sir," are just ordinary communications of the letter began.

"A friend of mine is going to the North Pole to open a butcher shop. He wants someone to go with him to paint the North Pole with red and white stripes."

The message addressed to the "National Broadcasting Company." It landed in that network's information department where it was duly read, answered and gingerly banked away in what is called the "56" (or screwball) file. Unhappily, NBC reported itself unable to provide a suitable nominee for the far-flung tansorial enterprise.

"We get about 15,000 letters a month," says Mrs. Kathryn Cole, the manager of the department. "Some are 56's, but most are letters of inquiry, criticism or appreciation. We answer all of the inquiries and criticism and much of the appreciative mail."

The letters, many of them post-marked from distant world corners, contain many surprises.

For instance:

The woman in Münster, Ind., who asked NBC to send her a broken-down microphone for her kids. The girl in Buffalo, N.Y., who asked if she could buy Arlene Francis' hat. The man in Toledo, O., who wanted to buy films of some shows to show in an Australian theatre. And one postcard from California that went: "Please send me some used snow."

"We had one 56 in California," said Mrs. Cole, "who sent us letters for a year and a half. He would write one line in blue and the next line in red. He liked Alice Faye—he wanted us to put her on television."

Of course, many of the letters are just ordinary communications of complaint.

"Right now," said Mrs. Cole, "Martha Raye is receiving more criticism than anyone else. The letters say she's much too low and coarse."

"In radio the biggest complaints are about the daytime serials we dropped like 'Sun, Moon, Stars' and 'Life Can Be Beautiful.' Until people got used to it, 'Monitor' also drew a lot of adverse criticism."

"Last year, we got a whole lot of criticism about our children's programs, 'Honey Dooey' and 'Pinky Lee.' But since we organized our Children's Committee, we haven't received one complaint."

Comedian Jerry Lewis, Mrs. Cole said, also was a frequent target until recently—for poking fun, the letters indicated, at people who had blown a fuse in their brain-works.

Nudists and Tobacco Spitting

Letters of inquiry also get a big play in Mrs. Cole's catch-all division. They include posters such as the whereabouts of Frank Munn (he died in 1933), whether Arnold Stang is married, eyes, and he has three kids) and the location of the nearest nudist camp (referred to the nudist and Special Events Dept.).

Also, one inquiring inquiry from Commerce, Tex., asking if NBC-TV cared to carry a tobacco spitting contest (they didn't, even though the winner was reported to be gunning for 25-foot, six inches).

"We try to answer all letters," explained Mrs. Cole, "we try to build up a good feeling even when they call us strikers."

Plenty of EXTRA in this SPECIAL

THIS ONE is the news-maker that's front-page big.

This one is the new Buick SPECIAL for 1956—the biggest bundle of high-powered energy and high-fashion luxury ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

Just a quick listing of some certain facts will give you the picture.

First—its engine is a big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine with an all-time high in horsepower for this Series—and an engine that hits the record book at a neat 8.9 to 1 compression ratio.

Second—its getaway—with the double-action take-off of the new Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—is spectacular even at only part throttle—and comes with a new boost in gas mileage to boot.

Third—on ride, this new SPECIAL is more than great—what with all-coil springing, and torque-tube stability, and a new deep-oil cushioning, and a whole new front-end geometry that adds a wonderful "sense of direction" to the car's travel.

Fourth—on room, luxury, interior finish—there's never been a Buick SPECIAL like this before. From the big, broad seats to the stunning new instrument panel—there's new decorator smartness and quality throughout.

But get the picture on price, and you have the biggest reason why this sizable automobile is so extra special a buy.

For this Buick comes to you at a figure so close to those of the most widely known smaller cars, the difference in price is small change.

So—come in and see and sample this beauty. You'll find it, we finally believe, the biggest package of automobile at anywhere near its budget price.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow in the only Dynaflow Buick built today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

TOYS FOR THE NEEDY

Pampa firemen are already working on toys for the needy for Christmas. Paint is needed to put some of the play-worn toys back into shape. Shown here are T. D. Snow, left, and Elmer Darnell as they work on a scooter. The firemen have most of the toys in shape and need more toys. All persons having broken toys or toys the children are tired of are requested to bring them by and let the firemen make some child happy Christmas morning with a toy they would not have received otherwise.

MARIE

There was no official confirmation from the hospital, but Marie was known to have been seen there Friday.

Marie was the most deeply affected member of the L'Orne family when Emilie died Aug. 6, 1954 during an epileptic seizure. It was only after a year at school and in seclusion with her family that Marie felt able to take up again the rigid life of a novice in a nunnery.

Always Been Frail
When Marie first entered the convent on Nov. 3, 1953, she said that "since my childhood I have nourished the desire of entering a religious order."

Marie was the tallest of the quintas at birth and for many days her life hung in the balance. As a child she wore a black eye patch to correct an eye ailment and she is the only one of the quintas to wear glasses.

As a child, a tumor was removed from one of her legs, leaving it slimmer than the other one.

Marie gave up her claim to her share of the fortune amassed by the quintas when she entered the convent to devote most of her time to praying for men killed in World Wars I and II and sewing priestly vestments.

Members of the order are allowed to speak only after dinner and supper and during occasional visits from outsiders separated from the Roman Catholic sisters by heavy iron grillwork.

On July 16, 1954, eight months after entering the convent, Marie suddenly left, "for health reasons." One report said she had broken her leg. Another said the rigorous life was too much for her.

Also Quit Cliche
Her departure came at almost the same time that Emilie was found wandering in a daze on a Montreal street. Emilie went to a Ste. Agathe Convent, where she died. Marie went home.

After Emilie died, Marie enrolled at the Marguerite Bourgeoys College in Montreal to study sewing and French literature. She gave up her studies after three months, however, "for reasons of health."

Marie stayed with her parents in Callander, Ont., for nearly a year, helping her mother with cooking and housework in the family mansion that the quintas' fortune built.

Others Not Talking
Then, on Sept. 12, Marie went back to the convent again to take up her rigid training.

There had been no inkling of any difficulty until word came that Marie had come here to join her sisters Cecile and Yvonne who are studying nursing. Annette is studying to be a music teacher at Marguerite Bourgeoys College. Neither Cecile nor Yvonne could be reached at the hospital. They have avoided interviews ever since they began their training two years ago, and the hospital's policy is to protect their privacy.

Golf Club Members Quit After Negroes Appear On Course

ASHEBORO, N. C., Nov. 19 —UP—The municipal golf course will "definitely close" within five months unless "something is done" about the resignation of white members following the appearance of Negroes on the links, a club spokesman said Saturday.

At least 20 of the 170 white members of Asheboro municipal golf course have resigned since 10 Negroes played earlier this week in the first incident of its kind in North Carolina following the U. S. Supreme Court ban on public park segregation.

The members each pay $42.50 a year for golfing privileges but the course is open to anyone who pays a greens fee. The revenue from memberships, and fees covers course operations. No funds are provided by the city.

"The course will definitely close unless something is done about it," said Edward D. Cranford, chairman of the three-man commission which operates the self-supporting course, "but there is nothing we can do about it."

Cranford said the course can continue operating until April but if revenue falls below the level required for maintenance, it will be closed or put up for auction.

He said there would be no attempts to bar Negroes from playing and "we are permitting them to play like the law says. The Supreme Court has ruled and there is nothing we can do about it."

Eight of the Negroes appeared on the course Wednesday and two more Thursday. Cranford said their actions indicated they played as a "test case."

Mrs. Hicks Dies Saturday

Mrs. Goldie Ann Hicks, 22, of 600 N. Roberts, died at 1 p.m. Saturday in Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Hicks was a member of the Pentecostal Holiness Church and was a Pentecostal Holiness minister of the Great Plains conference. Her last revival was held three months ago at Alanreed. She moved to Pampa about a year ago from Oklahoma City, Okla.

She is survived by her husband, Noland Hicks of Pampa; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hooley of Norman, Okla.; five sisters, Mrs. Jewel Sandt of Tecumseh, Okla., Mrs. Opal Rioux of Ridgecrest, Calif., Mrs. Fay Evans of Shawnee, Okla., Mrs. Mae Caldwell of Amarillo, Mrs. Wanda Hicks of Marietta, Okla.; six brothers, J. R. Hooley of Macomb, Okla., Warren Hooley of Enid, Okla., Tommy Hooley of Hannibal, Mo., Merl Hooley and Earl Hooley, both of Pampa, and Charles Hooley of Amarillo.

Funeral services will be held at the Pentecostal Holiness Church of Shawnee, Okla., tomorrow at 3 p.m. Rev. F. N. Greene, pastor of the Pentecostal Church at Healdton, Okla., will officiate.

Burial will be at Tecumseh Cemetery under the direction of Gaskill Funeral Home of Shawnee.

Nobody Knows For Sure Who Started Sending Xmas Cards

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP — Some of the first Christmas cards carried these messages: "And many sweet returns." "Here's Christmas come again!" "Be privileged to see." And "to my friend."
But who started the business of sending greetings to friends on Christmas? Nobody knows for sure but it's likely it was an English shop-keeper named Henry Cole.
Way back in 1843, Cole commissioned a Royal Academy artist, John Colcott Horsley, to design some cards of greeting suitable for the Christmas season. Horsley's design showed a Victorian family gathered at the feed-board and added a few words of sentiment about giving to the have-nots on the day of Christ's birth.
Cole's printer struck off a thousand copies and Cole sent a few to his friends and offered the rest for sale in his shop. They are the earliest examples of the now-familiar Christmas card that have come to light.
Some of Cole's cards are included in a vast Hallmark collection of relics in the card business, displayed at the Washington Post and Times-Herald book fair going on here.
The idea of folding cards is not new. Back in the 1870s there was an unusual card about Robin Hood and his "quest for a Yuletide dinner." The card was folded into four sections and during the unfolding a story was told with the third section showing the Robin being served and the last showing the diners dancing in glee after a full meal.
The cards for the Yule season don't go far afield from the originals. Both contemporary and modern art are prominent, but the emphasis seems to lean to the real story of Christmas. Scenes of Bethlehem, carol singers and the like.
We still find snow scenes, like we do in the "over the hills and through the woods to grandmother's house we go" cards that have been coming out for many years. Santa still is in evidence in many of the cheaper cards and in some of the more expensive ones.
Birds, though, seem to be dis-

Perryton Girl In Twirlers' 'Who's Who'

PERRYTON — (Special) — Glenda McGibbon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen McGibbon of Perryton and a sophomore in Perryton High School, has been notified that she is listed in the 1956 Library Edition of "Who's Who In Baton Twirling."
She was selected by officials of the National Baton Twirling Association, Janesville, Wis., in conjunction with the editors of the nationally circulated Drum Major Magazine as one of the outstanding men and women in the twirling field.
This achievement is even greater when the figures show more than 130,000 twirlers are active in the U. S.
Glenda attended the Craterville Twirling School at Cache, Okla., in 1953, where she was selected as one of the top three twirlers. She has attended twirling schools at Gunnison, Colo., and WTSC, Canyon, Ariz. At Canyon, she assisted Bob Roberts, famous baton instructor, for the first two weeks of camp.
Glenda is a twirler of the Ranger Band, vocalist for the Stars Band, participates in FTS, Thespians, Chorus, plays on the Rangerette basketball team and was selected for Who's Who in the 1955 Ranger year book.

One Of Largest Harvests In Years Being Produced In '55

By GAYLOR P. GODWIN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 — UP — The world's farms are pouring out one of the largest harvests of major foods in history.
This is the opinion of the Agriculture Department's foreign agricultural service after an analysis of the world food situation.
"Early prospects for 1955-56 indicate that world output of major foods may be slightly larger than a year earlier and may exceed the previous record output of 1953-54," the service said. "Since carryover stocks were large, supplies are expected to be sufficient to permit some increase in consumption of a number of foods and a continued build-up of total stocks during 1955-56."
"This would be similar in several respects to the situation in 1953-54. Last year, world consumption of food was at about the same level as production and stocks of many staple foods were about as large at the end of 1954-55 as at the beginning."
Big Grain Crops
Early forecasts of the 1955 bread grain crops—wheat and rye—indicate a total world harvest of about 265 million tons, about the same as the previous record crop of 1953 and nearly 5 per cent above that of 1954.
In Canada, one of the world's largest wheat producers, conditions for the crop have been much better than a year ago and production is expected to be about 85 per cent above that of 1954.
Crop conditions also were more favorable for wheat this year in the eastern European countries as a whole. In the Soviet union crops are "substantially" larger than last year and the wheat output may be the largest ever.
Throughout the rest of Europe the wheat crop is about as large as a year ago but the quality is much better. France again will have substantial quantities for export and Italy with a crop larger than in 1954 will require smaller imports.
Smaller Harvests
The main European countries reporting smaller crops than a year ago are Portugal, Spain, the Scandinavian countries, The Netherlands, Britain and Ireland.
Asia's wheat crop is nearly as large as in 1954. Declines are in prospect for Africa and South America. There are prospective increases in Australia.
Total production of rice will depend to some extent on final weather conditions in India where floods were prevalent during the early part of the growing season. Japan has reported a record rice crop and conditions in several southeast Asia countries indicate some increases over last year.
Rice production in the United States was reduced about 15 per cent because of reduced acreage

December 1 Is SD Day

December 1 can be a milestone in the constant fight against traffic accidents and their resultant deaths, according to one of the top traffic safety officials in this area.
That opinion was given today by Capt. J. W. Blackwell, commanding officer of District 5 of the Texas Highway Patrol, which comprises the 26 county region with headquarters at Amarillo.
Capt. Blackwell pointed out that December 1 has been designated nationally as S-D Day (Safe Driving Day) by Presidential proclamation and that Governor Shivers has issued a similar state-wide proclamation calling upon the citizens of Texas to join in a cooperative effort for greater traffic safety.
The head of the local area Patrol reminded motorists that strict observance and obedience of the traffic laws will assure a 24-hour period without traffic accidents on that day but, more importantly, it can set a pattern for year-round safety on the streets and highways.
"S-D Day can be a milestone in the constant fight against traffic accidents and their resultant deaths," Capt. Blackwell said, "by showing, through the cooperative effort of every motorist and every pedestrian, that the tragic loss of human lives and property is not an inevitable evil which must be tolerated."

Perryton Has Quartet Show

PERRYTON — (Special) — "Parade of Quartets", which presents barber shop singing at its best, was presented by the Perryton Lions Club in the school auditorium Thursday night.
Featured in the production were four of the Panhandle's best known male quartets, headlined by the famous Four Hearsamen of Amarillo who won the 1955 International Grand Championship in Miami, Fla.
In addition to the Four Hearsamen, the other quartets present were Cheer-O-Keys, the Hi-Fi, the Panhandle Aires, also the Amarillo SPERSQSA Chorus. These initials stand for Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.
Members of the headline Four Hearsamen are Dick Gifford, Dwight Elliott, Wendell Heiny, and Dean Watson.
The Cheer-O-Keys, dressed like Indians, include Bob Davis, Troy Jordan, Bob Damon and Warren Tuckness. The Hi-Fis are Amarillo's newest quartet and include Dean Kelley, Bennie Gollehon, Jim Restine and Roy Lowe.
The Panhandle Aires, who dress like bartenders, are Walter Corwin, Moon Ott, Gordon Coleman and Robert Colmer.

Reds May Want Mongolia In U. N. For Future Security

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
Soviet Russia probably is thinking of the future in insisting that Outer Mongolia be admitted to the United Nations.
There is no good reason why this ill-defined area of grazing lands in eastern Asia should be given UN membership.
But Russia is obviously eager to get the "People's Republic of Mongolia" recognized by the world as a sovereign nation.
One reason is that Outer Mongolia one day may be the cause of a clash of interests between Russia and Communist China.
For Outer Mongolia really is a part of China, even though Chinese rule over it always was loose. Outer Mongolia is closely tied to the Soviet Union now. As a member of the UN it would, of course, vote with the Soviet bloc.
But the Chinese Communists have shown increasing determination to extend their rule, in time, to all the lands once ruled by the old Manchu emperors.
The Chinese Reds invaded Tibet, over which China claimed sovereignty in 1950.
It has been reported frequently since then that the Peiping government was looking forward to the day when it also would claim Outer Mongolia.
Red China's desire to increase its influence in Outer Mongolia has been plain.
As soon as the Communists got into power in 1949, they insisted that they be permitted to station an ambassador in Ulan Bator, the Outer Mongolian capital. Russia was compelled to consent, though it had previously refused to admit a Chinese Nationalist diplomatic representative.
Now China has been connected with Ulan Bator by a railroad. On the Mongolian side, the line was built by Russia, but it is unlikely that Russia was enthusiastic in cooperating in the construction of this communication line.
Outer Mongolia has an area of about 600,000 square miles. It is so loosely defined that reference books disagree on its exact size. It has a population of about 1 million almost entirely nomadic herders. It has the distinction of possessing the most livestock per capita of any country in the world.
Russia got a foothold in Outer Mongolia in 1921. Troops of the Chinese Republic had occupied it in 1919, in a re-assertion of sovereignty. The Russian aided Mongolian revolutionists in throwing the Chinese out.
Then a so-called people's government was formed. Nominally it was a limited monarchy, ruled by the living Buddha of Ulan Bator. In 1924, the "Mongolian people's republic" was proclaimed. It was the first "people's republic" on the Soviet pattern.
Since then, it has been a Russian satellite—but it may not be always.

Dinner To Honor Oil Workers

PERRYTON — (Special) — Plans are being made by five civic clubs of Perryton to honor the people of this area connected with the oil industry with a chicken dinner on Tuesday, December 6.
The event will be held in the Veterans Memorial Building. Tickets will be given to all members of drilling crews, seismograph crews, service companies and anyone connected with the oil industry. These men and their families are invited to the chicken dinner as guests of several of the companies which sell supplies to the drilling and producing companies.
The chicken dinner is sponsored by the Lions Club, Rotary Club, Jennie June Club and the Jaycees.
Tickets will be sold to Perryton business firms by the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by C. A. Sooter.
The B&PW Club will be in charge of cooking and serving the food and the Jaycees will be in charge of the physical arrangements.
The attendance committee, to welcome the oil people to the chicken dinner, is composed of Glen McGibbon, Joe Foster, Gordon Shaekeford and C. A. Sooter.
It is planned to have an informal program, with plenty of music and not much speaking. It is designed to get the oil people acquainted with Perryton folks, much as the successful "Newcomer Party" in the summer. Most of the people working for the drilling crews, etc., have moved here since summer, and this December 6 party is to get them acquainted with the people of Perryton.

Perryton To Host Scout Meeting

PERRYTON — (Special) — Perryton will be host to the annual meeting of the Kiowa District, Boy Scouts of America, on Tuesday night, November 22.
The meeting will be held in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist church, with dinner being served by mothers of Scouts in Troop 49, sponsored by the Methodist Men.
All registered Scouters in the Kiowa District are invited to attend. The Kiowa district includes Booker, Darrousett, Follett, Beaver, Logan and Perryton.
This will be the final meeting for field Scout executive Dave Agnew, who has been transferred to a post in Wisconsin. Paul Biesemeyer of Pampa, Adobe Walls Council executive, will be present for the meeting.
Alton Boxwell of Perryton is chairman of the Kiowa District. Vance Apple is vice chairman and Gene Davis of Beaver is commissioner. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

Dependable insurance is like that, too. It's too late to apply for it when trouble actually strikes. After an accident or loss has occurred, there's no going back to buy better insurance if the policy you have proves unsatisfactory.

The Aiming Stake

By KAY FANCHER
2nd LIEUTENANT
474 F. A. BATTALION

It's been a long time since there has been a column in this newspaper, exclusively devoted to news of the National Guard, and we're glad to be back.

There have been a lot of changes since the last time a column of this sort appeared, for instance; we are now the 474th Field Artillery Battalion (155mm Towed), instead of an Observation Battalion. Of course, that's old news, but each week, we'll try to bring you some new news of the Guard in Pampa and surrounding communities. You may also have noticed the name at the head of this column. Any Artilleryman will know what an Aiming Stake is, and we would like to use this Aiming Stake to fire a few thoughts of our own in the right direction each week.

Talking about that new news, there have been a multitude of recent changes in Guard units in Pampa, mostly to do with personnel. As you know, we now have three different units meeting each week at the National Guard Armory, East of Pampa on Highway 60. Headquarters Battery, Service Battery and the Medical Detachment, all a part of the 474th FA Bn. Headquarters Battery is now commanded by 1st Lt. Jerry D. Farley who was formerly a member of the Battalion Staff. Lt. Farley took over from 1st Lt. James O. Harris who is moving to Battalion S-2.

Service Battery is now under the command of 1st Lt. Robert A. Smith who is moving from the staff and replacing 1st Lt. Winfred L. Veale who is going on inactive duty.

The Medical Detachment is commanded by Lt. Terry Culey, who is better known in Pampa as the Assistant Coach of the Pampa Harvester Basketball Team.

There have been some other changes also in the Officer ranks: 1st Lt. Lloyd E. Zmolony is moving from Motor Officer of Service Battery to the same job in Headquarters. 1st Lt. Robert E. Imel will now act as assistant S-3 instead of Battalion S-2. 1st Lt. William C. Davis will leave his staff position as Liaison Officer to become Service Battery Motor Officer, replacing 2d Lt. Monty L. Cotter, who will become Battalion Motor Officer. Lt. Cotter will also be assigned as Pampa Service Center Commander. 2d Lt. Lawrence W. Hurdle will move from Communications assistant, Headquarters Battery, to Service Battery Ammo Train Commander. 2d Lt. Charles A. Adamson has already moved from Headquarters Battery to Battalion Communications Officer, and 2d Lt. Kay L. Fancher is switching from Headquarters, Battery Motor Officer to the Battalion Staff as a Forward Observer.

There is a brand new Officer in the Battalion, 2d Lt. Robert L. Harris, who has been assigned as Headquarters Battery Commo Assistant. Lt. Harris has just transferred into this unit from the 112th Cavalry in Lamesa.

This started out to be a short note in order to get re-acquainted, but it is beginning to get a little long winded. We'll close up shop today by trying to pass on a few plaudits to M-Sgt Lewis C. Gallimore, the Battalion Sergeant Major. Sgt. Gallimore was sworn in before the entire Headquarters Battery last Monday night, for the third straight time. He smiled when it was all over. I think he was kind of happy to be one of the oldest members of a darn good unit.

By the way, we want you to look for the Battalion's entry in the Santa Day Parade in Pampa, which isn't too far off, and remind Service Battery Members that they have an all day drill, today, November 20, 1955.

Curt Schaffer, 'Flying Farmer,' Operates Farm Near Groom

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of five articles on supervisors of Gray County Soil Conservation Districts. We wish to acknowledge the help given to us by Jack Douglas, work unit conservationist, as both advisor and interviewer.)

Curt Schaffer has been a member of Gray County SCD Board of Supervisors since August of '54. He owns and operates his own quarter-section of land, about 18 miles south of here, and is known over the county as a flying farmer. Flying Farmers aviation club and has been flying for the past two years. He likes to fly over his neighbor's farms to see how they are progressing. He also uses his plane for personal travel, keeping it in a large barn-type garage, farm land, Curt raises 86 acres of wheat and about 30 acres of grain. On the remaining 44 acres he raises feed for his cattle. In the winter, he usually runs about 30 head of cattle.

Born one mile west of his present farm, Curt attended Grandview High School and graduated from Groom High in 1933. Being a 4-H club member all his way through school, he won three trips with the club, participating in the State Fair at Dallas ('32) and the International Livestock Show in Chicago ('33). Ralph Thomas, county agent, accompanied the group.

A farmer for all of his life, Curt bought his farm in '34 and . . . "broke it up from sod when there was nothing here." In 1935 he married Oma McDowell, a junior in high school, from White Deer. They now have two children, Leon, 19, who is a freshman at Clarendon Jr. College, and Marlene, 17, a senior at Groom High School. Leon helps his father cut wheat and maize for neighboring farmers during the summer, and has worked hard in years to assist him farming.

Curt is a great believer in soil conservation practices, and recommends contour chiseling for letting the water through the soil to build up under ground and to prevent erosion. He also practices stubble mulching.

forms to practice soil conservation," he states, Curt is 100 per cent behind the Gray County Soil Conservation Service and district, believing that they are making wonderful progress in helping a great percentage of cooperators (ranchers and farmers) as well as the general public.

Theaters Here Participate In Audience Poll

Pampa's theatres are participating in the national audience awards poll now being conducted among the motion picture patrons of the country through Nov. 27.

Patrons will cast their ballots for the best picture of the year, the best performance by an actress and the most promising new male and female personalities. All feature pictures, foreign or domestic, released and shown between Oct. 1 of '54 and Sept. 30, 1955, are eligible as candidates for the election. Personalities to be chosen must have appeared in one or more of the eligible pictures.

Exhibitors over the country have made nominations of pictures and performers to appear as candidates on the ballot. Included are at least 20 names in the best picture and best performance categories, and at least 20 in the most promising new personalities categories. More than 19,000 theatres across the nation have been invited to participate in the election by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, Inc., sponsor of the awards.

Tuberculosis is a chronic relapsing disease which costs the American people over $500,000,000 a year, most of it in tax money.

PROCLAMATION
WHEREAS, in these times of world upheaval it is necessary for Americans to appreciate fully their heritage of freedom and to rededicate themselves to the preservation of basic American principles; and
WHEREAS, The All-American Conference to Combat Communism, made up of fifty-four national organizations, representing a total membership of some fifty million individuals, is once again engaged in a program designated as "KNOW YOUR AMERICA WEEK" to bring the full force of an informed citizenry to bear on democracy's present-day problems; and
WHEREAS, it is essential that the City of Pampa make this occasion a notable expression of community interest, as is being done in many other cities throughout the nation, now
THEREFORE, I, Lynn Boyd, Mayor, do proclaim the period from November 20 to November 26 as "KNOW YOUR AMERICA WEEK," and I hereby call on all of the citizens of Pampa to contribute freely of their time and resources to participate in the commemoration of "KNOW YOUR AMERICA WEEK," in order to defeat communism and preserve human freedom.
Signed: Lynn Boyd

5 New Wells Near Perryton

PERRYTON — (Special) — Five new locations were announced in Ochiltree county last week to keep the oil activity in full swing. Two of the new locations are south of Farnsworth near the recently completed Buckhaults and Russell wells of Union Oil Co.
The R. H. Fulton No. 2 Stump is located in Section 15, Blk. JT, TWNG Survey, located seven miles south of Farnsworth.
The Shamrock oil & Gas Corp. No. 1 Grabel is located in Sec. 14, Blk. JT, TWNG survey. This well is located about seven mi. south of Farnsworth, just west of the new Buckhaults well and near the well staked last week by R. H. Fulton and the J. M. Huber Corp. on Grabel land in Section 32, Blk. JTM.
The Superior Oil Co. No. 1, L. H. Lance, is located in Sec. 6, Blk. 13, T&NO Survey, located about four miles east of Farnsworth.

Chess Expert Addresses Lions Club

By RONALD WATERS Pampa News Staff Writer The world's blindfold chess champion, George Koltanowski, demonstrated his remarkable memory faculties Thursday before the Pampa Lions Club.

Using a blackboard divided up into 64 squares, with names of cities and local men on each square, he demonstrated how the knight would move to every square on the board, naming the square and indicating the chess notation.

Dr. Aggie Vot, president of the Tri-City Chess Club of Borger, expressed out the squares on the board as they were named off by Koltanowski, who had his back turned to the board.

He used the telephone number of Lions Club Sweetheart, Cynthia Cottrell, and the number from a bill of Congressman Walter Rogers on two of his squares. He studied the board only for two minutes.

Koltanowski compared his memory with a gramophone record in the back of my head," saying that he actually could not explain this faculty. In his tours over the world, he has learned to speak seven languages simply by listening to the natives speak.

He closed by urging the Lions Club to donate a trophy to the Pampa Chess Club for the Panhandle Open Chess Tournament to be held here next August.

Harvesters Drop Westerners 20-7 For First District Win

Colorado Clips Iowa St.

By GENE MEAKINS
BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 19—UP—Colorado wouldn't allow Iowa State within a long punt of its goal Saturday, rolling to a 40-0 victory on a muddy field in the last Big Seven Conference game of the season for both teams.

The smallest crowd of the season here, 12,500, watched Colorado's sophomore backs earn a 12-0 half-time lead and pad it with 14 points in each of the final two periods.

Colorado is tied for third place with Kansas State in the Big Seven. Iowa State never crossed its own 46-yard line until three minutes remained in the final period. At that point, quarterback Mike Reeves recovered a fumble on the Colorado 44. But Colorado's line drove Iowa State back on the next play to the losers' 45.

Harvester Offense, Defense Working To Near Perfection

By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Fighting Harvesters, still retaining that never-give-up spirit, took advantage of a fumble on the Westerner's first play from scrimmage and broke into the winning column Friday night in Jones Stadium before a small crowd.

The Harvesters jarred the Westerner safety man loose from the pigskin on the kickoff and recovered it on the 11 yard line but to no avail because they were offside.

Later, after a penalty had been marked off and the kickoff was returned to the Westerner 33, Robert Benton was hit at the line by the entire forward wall of green-shirted Harvesters and the ball again squirted from his hands this time to be recovered by Don Jonas.

The Harvesters, fired up to win, then drove from the Lubbock 33 to paydirt in only seven plays picking up three first downs and six points with Dickey M ku-p wndiloei ing over from the one yard line

GOAL LINE STAND THAT DIDN'T WORK

The Pampa Harvesters are shown here as they scored their second touchdown against the Lubbock Westerners Friday night in Jones Stadium. The counter was made when Buster Baird, shown in the center of the photo with the ball, climbed over the mass of linemen stacked up in front of him. The only identifiable players are Lubbock's number 65 to the left, Quarterback Calvin Warren and Pampa's number 65 on his face in front of the official, David Mullins. Gain Only 77 Yards

Iowa State gained only 77 yards net on the ground, and lost a total of one yard on two completed passes.

Tailback Bob Stransky, a sophomore from Yankton, S.D., who replaced the injured veteran Homer Jenkins, scored Colorado's first two touchdowns on four-yard sweeps. Wingback Emerson Wilson also scored twice.

Iowa State moved to its own 46 after the opening kickoff. But center Roger Lindwall intercepted quarterback John Breckenridge's 11-directed pass and returned it to the Iowa State 34.

Stransky scored after his 19-yard run put the ball on the Iowa State 10.

Colorado Drives 74 Yards

Late in the second period, Colorado drove 74 yards with Stransky sweeping left end on a pitchout for the score. It was a 40-yard pass from quarterback Dick Hyson to end Frank Clarke that put the ball within scoring range.

Wilson got both his touchdowns in the third period, one on a two-yard plunge ending a 67-yard march, and the other a one-yard smash culminating a 45-yard drive.

A short Iowa State punt deep in its own territory and a 40-yard Colorado march brought about the final touchdown, scored by quarterback Sam Maphis and fullback John Bayuk on short plunges.

Sooners Roll Over Nebraska And Win 8th Straight Crown

By CHARLES WIESNER
LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 19—UP—Mighty Oklahoma, ruthlessly battered a game Nebraska team into submission, 41-0 Saturday to win its eighth consecutive Big Seven Conference title.

It was the last Nebraska game under Coach Bill Glasford, and the Huskers put all the spirit they could muster into it.

But the Nebraska drive lasted less than one period as Oklahoma's hard running backs and jolting linemen stopped every Cornhusker thrust and tore repeatedly downfield for offensive gains.

The Orange Bowl-bound Sooners made it 54 straight games without a loss in Big Seven play, and racked up consecutive victory No. 28 in the current string.

Threatens Only Once

Nebraska threatened only once against the Sooners, the nation's top team.

That was in the first period, when the Huskers went to the six. But fullback Bennett Morris of the Sooners killed the threat by intercepting a Rex Fischer pass on his own goal line. Morris ran the ball out to his 32, and with two minutes left in the period, the Sooners drew first blood. Quarterback Jay O'Neal smashed over from a yard out and Carl Dodd converted.

The Sooners scored their second touchdown just before the half ended when right halfback Robert Burris plunged over from the one-yard stripe. The conversion attempt failed, and Oklahoma led, 13-0, at the half.

The Sooners ended any doubt of their superiority in the third and fourth periods.

Fight For Every Yard

Although the Huskers made them fight for every yard, Oklahoma scored with 10 minutes remaining in the third period. Burris went over from one yard out and Billy Pricer converted. On the next to last play of the third quarter, Tommy McDonald went over from a yard away, and Pricer again converted for a 27-0 third period lead.

Left halfback Clendon Thomas scored on a six-yard dash for the fifth touchdown with six minutes remaining and Dodd converted.

The Sooners wrapped up the scoring with a Robert Derrick touchdown plunge in the closing minutes and Sturm booted the final point.

Three players, Nebraska's fullback George Cifra, and Oklahoma's tackle Byron Searcy and fullback Bill Brown, were ejected late in the game when a fist fight broke out.

The game was played in 40-degree temperatures before a crowd of 28,000.

Turkey Shoot Is Set Today

The Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club is sponsoring a "Turkey Shoot" scheduled for this afternoon. The shoot will be held in the indoor range at Recreation Park and will begin at 1.

All shooting will be done from 80 feet with 22 caliber rifles. You may bring your own or the club will furnish rifles and ammunition.

The entry fee will be $1 and will cover the cost of the ammunition. Any profit will be used to teach junior boys an d g i r l s the use and handling of firearms.

Targets will be placed at 50 feet and three types will be used. The bustible bullseye, a half dollar size clay disk that breaks when hit, a usual 50 ft. single bull target, at which two shots will be fired. The two shots closest together will be the winner. The third type bullseye will be the luck type. A 6 by 8 inch sheet of paper with lines 1 inch apart will be used. The person that cuts the most lines with five shots will be the winner.

The shoot is sponsored by the Pampa Rifle and Pistol club for the purpose of raising money to help Junior Rifle Clubs.

The shoot will be the largest the Pampa Club has ever sponsored. Special matches are scheduled for junior shooters.

Reynolds kick was good to give the Harvesters a 20-7 ball game at the end of the third period.

Neither team was able to count in the final frame but the heads-up work of Jerry Hopkins stopped the Westerners on the Pampa 27. Hopkins figured out the play and dropped Bobby Polk for an eleven yard loss.

The Green and Golders took over on their 40 and veteran signal caller Budtia Sharp ground out the clock end the game and gave the win-hungry Harvesters their first conference victory over the Lubbock Westerners by a score of 20-7.

Pampa took the pigskin on the 44 after the kickoff and without giving ground or relinquishing the ball scored after picking up four first downs.

The Harvesters drove to the seven and handed the ball to Pampa's break-away runner, Rickie Gardner who scooted through a wide

Texas Tech's Jack Kirkpatrick Guides Raiders Over College Of Pacific, 13-7

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 19—UP—Jack Kirkpatrick, a third string quarterback came off the bench Saturday to steer Texas Tech 58 yards in the fourth quarter for the touchdown that gave the Red Raiders a 13-7 victory over College of the Pacific.

A sun-baked Dad's Day crowd of 16,500 fans watched Tech score in the first quarter on a 52-yard march, Pacific take the lead with a 73-yard parade in the second quarter and go ahead on half-back Ken Swearingen's conversion effort.

Tech came from behind on half-back Hugh Fewin's foot plunge into the end zone at 3:41 of the final quarter.

Kirkpatrick directed the Raiders 58 yards after halfback Don Cornell's punt had gone only 18 yards to the Tech 42. With halfback M. C. Northam, fullback Lonnie Graham and Kirkpatrick carrying, and passes from Kirkpatrick to Fewin and end Ken Vahey, the Raiders moved to the Tiger 4. Northam went to the goal and Fewin carried over.

Tech, who held an edge in total offense, 277 yards to 218, lost one scoring chance in the third quarter when Ronnie Herr fumbled going into the end zone. Fullback Lynn Swanson recovered.

Ohio State Wins Crown; Michigan Loses Bowl Bid

By LLOYD NORTARD
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 19—UP—Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy ran roughshod over Michigan in his final college game Saturday to lift Ohio State to its second straight Big Ten title with a 17 to 0 victory which knocked the Wolverines out of a Rose Bowl bid.

Cassidy, the 21-year-old senior from Columbus, Ohio, raced 146 yards in 28 carries in the finest running display at Michigan Stadium since the days of Tom Harmon as a record crowd of 97,369 watched.

The fleet-footed Cassidy scored Ohio State's first touchdown on a two-yard smash in the fourth period and set up a 17-yard field goal by end Fred Kriss in the second period with his shifty running.

The Buckeyes added a safety when fullback Don Vico tackled Terry Barr in the end zone and a second touchdown on Vico's one-yard smash in the closing minutes.

Can't Repeat in Bowl
Ohio State can't make the Rose Bowl trip since the Buckeyes played at Pasadena last New Year's Day, Michigan State, which claimed second place in the Big Ten as a result of Ohio State's victory, is certain to get the bid.

It was Ohio State's first victory here since 1937 and stretched to 13 straight games the Buckeye conference winning streak. They won seven in a row last year and six straight this season. Both Ohio

State and Michigan now have won the Big Ten title outright a record eight times.

Cassidy had to share honors with a stalwart Ohio State line anchored by Ken Vargo, Jim Parker, Frances Machinski and Leo Brown. Michigan was kept in its own territory until early in the final period when a pair of pass completions moved the ball barely across the 50-yard line.

Play Gets Rough
There were no threats in the first period but Ohio State took command in the second period and marched from its own 23 to the Michigan 7 before Kriss kicked his field goal.

Michigan held Ohio State inside the five yard line after the Buckeyes took the second half kickoff but Ohio State staged a 52-yard scoring march which Cassidy climaxed on the first play of the fourth period with his plunge over center. Play became rough in the closing minutes during which Ohio State picked up its final eight points and Vico's touchdown.

Frogs Rip Rice Owls 35 To 0

By ED FITE
FORT WORTH, Nov. 19—UP—Texas Christian ripped Rice's defenses apart from port to starboard Saturday as the nation's seventh-ranked team sailed into the Cotton Bowl with a 35-0 Southwest Conference victory before 28,000 fans.

Five players divided the scoring honors as quarterback Charley Curtis directed a choice blend of passes with a cruching ground attack to send TCU on long goal-yard surges in every quarter.

Gang tackling tactics on practically every play held TCU's All-America half back candidate Jimmy Swink to 66 yards and one touchdown, but the attention the Rice defenders paid to the elusive Swink left the door open for his mates to run rampant.

Throws For First Score
Curtis flipped four yards to end O'Day Williams for the first TCU touchdown in the opening quarter, fullback Vernon Hallbeck smashed 22 yards and reserve quarterback Dick Finney raced 18 for second period touchdowns, halfback Vernon Taylor caught a 12-yard pass for one in the third and Swink got his on a two-yard plunge in the fourth.

Fullback Harold Pollard tacked on each of the five conversions and TCU racked up its eighth victory in nine starts to clinch second place in the conference standings and a possible first place shot at front-running Texas A&M stumble over Texas Thanksgiving day.

Texas A&M is ineligible for any post-season activity.
Swink Held to Low Total
While Swink was being held to his lowest rushing total of the season, Hallbeck, Taylor and Pollard helped run TCU's ground total to 250 yards and Curtis' passing accounted for 133 more.

Swink now has gained 1,152 yards in nine games for an average of 8.2 yards for 134 carries and ran his scoring total to 113 points—tops in the nation.

Meanwhile, TCU's rugged defenders anchored around center Hugh Pitts kept Rice's attack ineffective. The pre-season title favored Owls got no closer than the TCU 36-yard line until the fading moments when they mustered a drive down to the seven against reserves.

Of Rice's five fumbles, visitors turned only one of them into a first down as they drove 73, 34, 75, 32, and 68 yards to gain their biggest margin in history over Rice.

Princeton Pounds Dartmouth; Wins 14th Ivy League Crown

PRINCETON, N.J., Nov. 19—UP—Halfback Bill Agnew brought Princeton its 14th Ivy League football crown in a driving snow storm Saturday by crashing eight yards for a fourth period touchdown that whipped Dartmouth, 6 to 3.

Dartmouth, an underdog by 12 points, shot into the lead early in the second period when quarterback Bill Beagle kicked the first field goal of his college career from the 18-yard line. But Princeton took control of the game in the second half and finally bolted from behind on Agnew's touchdown.

The victory before 20,000 hardy spectators gave Princeton the Ivy title with six victories against one defeat and an overall season record of 7-2.

Princeton opened its winning drive late in the third period, gaining control on Dartmouth's 36 after stalling on Dartmouth's one on the previous drive.

Score by periods:
Princeton 0 0 0 6—6
Dartmouth 0 3 0 0—3
Princeton scoring: Touchdown, Agnew (8 run).
Dartmouth scoring: Field goal, Beagle (11).

Both teams looked ragged offensively, with a total of 11 fumbles in the contest.
It was a scoreless game at half-time, but the fireworks exploded in the second half kickoff. Vince Gonzalez returned 26 yards to the LSU 35-yard line. On the next play, Johns bulled through center, found himself in the clear, and sprinted all the way to score. Durwood Graham converted.

LSU mounted the only sustained drive of the game early in the fourth period. Starting from their own 25, the Tigers broke Gonzalez, Johns and O. K. Ferguson loose for good gains.

Ferguson skirted wide around left end for the 20-yard scoring play. Graham's kick was low.
Runs Back Kick for 88 Yards
The Louisiana State Kickoff then was grabbed by Underwood on his own 12-yard line. He broke for the east side of the field and dashed down the sidelines 88 yards to score. Only one Tiger tackler ever got close to the Arkansas speedster.

LSU chalked up a heavy statistical advantage, with 302 yards from scrimmage to 94 for the Razorbacks.

Mustangs Defeat Baylor

By LLOYD LARRABEE
WACO, Tex., Nov. 19—UP—Quarterback John Roach threw two fourth-down touchdown passes Saturday to lead Southern Methodist to a 12-0 victory over Baylor in a rough-and-tumble Southwest Conference game.

The lanky, 6-foot, 4-inch back guided the Mustangs to markers in the first and third periods in the contest played before 20,000 fans in Baylor stadium.

Late in the first quarter, Roach completed an eight-yard aerial to halfback Charlie Jackson, standing in the end zone beyond the reach of Baylor tacklers.

Guides Team to Second Score
Midway in the third period, Roach guided Southern Methodist from its 31 yard line to the 16, where he fired a fourth down pass to end Willard Dewwealt, standing alone in the end zone. The 69-yard drive was covered in 10 plays.

The victory was Southern Methodist's second Southwest Conference victory against three losses, while it was the fourth loss for Baylor against only one win. The shutout marked the first time Baylor had failed to score in 59 games.

Southern Methodist stopped Baylor scoring threats twice, once on the SMU 2, in the first period, and in the third period at the 17.
Baylor Bogs Down
Late in the first period, Baylor moved to the Southern Methodist 2 on runs by halfbacks Del Shofner and Reuben Saage, but bogged down when Shofner was dropped for a four-yard loss by SMU end Tommy Gentry, who played outstanding defensive game.

Roach was backed up by the running of halfback Don McHenry, fullback Ray Masters, and Jackson. Roach completed six of 10 passes for 101 yards.

Baylor halted a second period scoring threat by Southern Methodist which moved from its own 6 to Baylor 5, where the ball went over after an incomplete pass.

Terps Drop Washington; Finish Unbeaten Season

By BOB SERLING
COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 19—UP—Maryland completed an unbeaten season Saturday with a 19-0 victory over George Washington, but the Terrapins did not look much like an Orange Bowl team doing it.

The Terps rolled up three touchdowns in the first half to give Jim Tatum his third undefeated season in nine years as Maryland coach, but the Colonials—25-point underdogs—completely outplayed the Terrapins in the second half before a crowd of 20,000.

Co-Capt. Ed Vereb led Maryland's sputtering and sluggish attack with two touchdowns that took him only one point short of an all-time Terp scoring record of 97 in one season. Unfortunately, Maryland never got close enough in the second half to give him a chance to crack the record.

Maryland jumped off to a lead the first time it had the ball, driving 68 yards in five plays and scoring on a 41 yard pass from Lynn Daigault to end Russell Dennis.

The Terps counted again in the first period after Jack Davis recovered Bob Sturm's fumble on the Colonial 26. Vereb scoring from one yard out. Then the teams battled on even terms until the closing minutes of the first half, when Maryland finally got its split-T hitting on all 11 cylinders.

The Terps marched 60 yards in three minutes. Vereb cr a s h i n g through guard for the final score. It was a moral victory almost for George Washington, but the Terps had something of an excuse with several of their better backs sidelined by injuries.

The victory sent Maryland into the Orange Bowl game against Oklahoma with a 15-game winning streak dating back to the middle of the 1954 season.

Deer and turkey hunting is in full swing here in the Top Of Texas as the hunters having better than usual luck. This northern part of the state produces larger bucks than are found in most other parts of Texas. It isn't at all unusual for a buck to field dress one hundred and fifty pounds or more.

This year in Hutchinson county one may hunt practically all game found in these parts at one hunting field club at Wichita Falls in 1954 which was one of the outstanding trials in the Southwest for a number of years.

This club was so successful due to the fact that the Hagood ranch people were kind enough to allow the outdoor sportsmen to use the ranch as a field trial ground.

Most of the trophies were carried to Okla., and out of this area, if it wasn't for the fellows from that state we just wouldn't have a trial.

There were three full days of running with more than one thousand birds being moved on the courses. The judges, when announcing the winners of the gun dog stake remarked that it was a very difficult decision to make due to the large amount of bird work displayed and further added that any dog in the stake could usually win first in an average trial. There happened to be a number of championship dogs entered in this particular event.

Winners were for this stake—Moe's Victory Boy, pointer male owned and handled by R. L. Loveley, Fairview Okla. 2nd. Amarillo Babe, pointer female owned and handled by Jim Bell, Amarillo, 3rd.

They took game, points and all as they left in a hurry. These types of violations are of the serious nature and will probably result in the violators having their hunting rights revoked plus a sizeable fine.

Houston Drops Villanova To Celebrate Homecoming
By JOHN COLTON
HOUSTON, Nov. 19—UP—Houston passed for two touchdowns and added two more via the fleet feet of Kenzie (Scotter) Stegall to celebrate its 10th homecoming Saturday with a 20-14 victory over Villanova.

Stegall, a 22-year old senior back from Corsicana, Tex., was the difference, bringing the Cougars from behind in the second period with a 30-yard scoring sprint, and topping it in the third period with a 50-yard dash down the sideline.

Fullback Donnie Caraway, who has racked up 197 yards rushing this season but never scored, spotted his first touchdown, going over from the two-yard line after a fourth period 46-yard pass from Don Flynn to back Ronnie Logam.

Score on Pass
The victory was Houston's fifth in eight games this season. Villanova, beaten nearly all season and looking for its second victory in nine games, took command of the game at the start, but lost steam after a 63-yard drive that began in the first period and ended in the second when quarterback Davey Parr scored on a short pass from Villanova quarterback Bill Magee.

Villanova's third period score came when fullback Tony Egro carried the ball 26 yards in six plays and Magee passed to end Mike Boruch for 25 yards, Egro going over from the one-yard line.

Wins Statistics
Houston racked up 228 yards rushing to Villanova's 110, but gained only 118 yards with five passes completed out of 14 to Villanova's 194 yards on 17 completions out of 35 attempts.

Louisiana Upsets Arkansas

By BILL HUGHES
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 19—UP—Louisiana State University combined vicious defensive play with dazzling broken field running by halfback Levi (Chuck) Johns Saturday to upset Arkansas, 13-7.

Johns made one scoring dash of 65 yards, and racked up a total of 107 yards on 17 carries.

The lone Arkansas touchdown also brought the crowd of 35,000 to its feet when Ronnie Underwood returned a fourth quarter kickoff 88 yards to score.

Both teams looked ragged offensively, with a total of 11 fumbles in the contest.
It was a scoreless game at half-time, but the fireworks exploded in the second half kickoff. Vince Gonzalez returned 26 yards to the LSU 35-yard line. On the next play, Johns bulled through center, found himself in the clear, and sprinted all the way to score. Durwood Graham converted.

LSU mounted the only sustained drive of the game early in the fourth period. Starting from their own 25, the Tigers broke Gonzalez, Johns and O. K. Ferguson loose for good gains.

Ferguson skirted wide around left end for the 20-yard scoring play. Graham's kick was low.
Runs Back Kick for 88 Yards
The Louisiana State Kickoff then was grabbed by Underwood on his own 12-yard line. He broke for the east side of the field and dashed down the sidelines 88 yards to score. Only one Tiger tackler ever got close to the Arkansas speedster.

LSU chalked up a heavy statistical advantage, with 302 yards from scrimmage to 94 for the Razorbacks.
Gerald Nesbitt was the best Arkansas ground-gainer, carrying the ball 43 yards in 10 carries.

SWC Says TCU Is Team For Cotton B

By ED FITE
FORT WORTH, Nov. 19—UP—The Southwest Conference announced officially Saturday what had generally been expected for weeks, that it had approved in a mail vote provisions by which Texas Christian became the automatic Cotton Bowl host team.

The vote was necessary because Texas A&M—the possible champion should it defeat Texas Thanksgiving Day—is under probation and ineligible for post-season play because of recruiting rule violations.

The approved vote provides "that (the conference) representative to the Cotton Bowl game would be that team, not prohibited by conference action from playing in post-season contests which has the highest ranking in the final football standings, with the same provisions for ties as in former years."

Texas could still tie TCU for the championship should it beat Texas A&M and TCU lose to Southern Methodist next week, but TCU still would get the nod under the old provisions that in case of tied standings, the team which beat the other would get the bowl berth.

TCU clinched second place by beating Rice 35-0 Saturday and could take the championship by beating SMU while Texas beat Texas A&M.

No action was expected to be announced in regard to a guest team for the Cotton Bowl until next Saturday, but it was believed that Navy would be extended the bid if it defeats Army that day.

Gets Charley Horse
NEW YORK—UP—Charley Connerly, the New York Giants' No. 1 quarterback, may see only limited duty against the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday because of a charley horse high up on his right thigh.

There were three full days of running with more than one thousand birds being moved on the courses. The judges, when announcing the winners of the gun dog stake remarked that it was a very difficult decision to make due to the large amount of bird work displayed and further added that any dog in the stake could usually win first in an average trial. There happened to be a number of championship dogs entered in this particular event.

Winners were for this stake—Moe's Victory Boy, pointer male owned and handled by R. L. Loveley, Fairview Okla. 2nd. Amarillo Babe, pointer female owned and handled by Jim Bell, Amarillo, 3rd.

They took game, points and all as they left in a hurry. These types of violations are of the serious nature and will probably result in the violators having their hunting rights revoked plus a sizeable fine.

Houston Drops Villanova To Celebrate Homecoming
By JOHN COLTON
HOUSTON, Nov. 19—UP—Houston passed for two touchdowns and added two more via the fleet feet of Kenzie (Scotter) Stegall to celebrate its 10th homecoming Saturday with a 20-14 victory over Villanova.

Stegall, a 22-year old senior back from Corsicana, Tex., was the difference, bringing the Cougars from behind in the second period with a 30-yard scoring sprint, and topping it in the third period with a 50-yard dash down the sideline.

Fullback Donnie Caraway, who has racked up 197 yards rushing this season but never scored, spotted his first touchdown, going over from the two-yard line after a fourth period 46-yard pass from Don Flynn to back Ronnie Logam.

Schoolboy Playoffs Shape Up; One Major Upset Friday Nite

By UNITED PRESS

Fort Worth Paschal's 21 to 14 defeat of Fort Worth Arlington Heights was the only "stunner" to disrupt the parade of district champions into the state schoolboy football playoffs Friday night.

There were other upsets scattered throughout the schedule—final one of the regular season for Classes AA and A and for many of the Class AAA and AAAA teams—but on the whole, the program tended to follow the form chart.

Paschal's victory put it in a tie with Aylington Heights and North Side for the district lead and left the Panthers needing only a victory over North Side next week to move into the playoffs opposite Dallas Sunset.

The Playoff Picture

Other playoff spots earned this week end included: Class AAAA—El Paso High in 2, Sunset in 4, Tyler in 5 and Houston Reagan in 7. Baytown in 8 had already won. Abilene was the favorite in 1 and Corpus Christi Miller in 6.

Class AAA—Snider in 1, Garland in 2, Gainesville in 3, Temple in 5, Port Neches in 6 and Victoria in 7. Texarkana in 4 and Alice in 8 had already sewed up post-season honors.

Class AA—Burkburnett in 3, Crane in 6, Ballinger in 7, Breckenridge in 8, Terrell in 11, DeKalb in 14, New London in 15, Jasper in 16, Hillboro in 18, La Vega in 19, Killeen in 20, Lockhart in 23, Bay City in 25, Refugio in 26, La Marque in 27, Floresville in 30 and Sinton in 31. District 29 was muddled by Del Rio's defeat of Uvalde, leaving those two clubs tied with Eagle Pass.

Class A—Stinnett in 1, Springlake in 2, Ozona in 6, Ranger in 7, Albany in 8, Lewisville in 10, Glen Rose in 11, Talco in 14, Lindale in 15, Gaston in 16, Joaquin in 17, Woodville in 19, Granger in 22, Luling in 24, Deer Park in 26, Vanderbilt in 27, and Rio Hondo in 32. Llano, Burnet and Mason wound up in a triple tie in 23-A.

Previously determined playoff representatives were Hale Center in 3, Sundown in 4, McCamey in 5, Chillicothe in 9, Rockwall in 12, Van Alstyne in 13, Alto in 18, Crosby in 20, Franklin in 21, Sealy in 23, Bandera in 28, Hondo in 29, Three Rivers in 30 and Hebronville in 31.

16 Remain Unbeaten

The week's action trimmed the state's undefeated-untied list to 16 and undefeated but tied to seven. The perfect record teams were Abilene, Tyler, Corpus Christi Miller and Baytown in AAAA, Garland and Alice in AAA, Stamford, Spur, Terrell, New London, Refugio, Killeen and Weslaco in AA and Chillicothe, Lewisville and Vanderbilt in A. Unbeaten but tied were Phillips and Nederland in AA and Stinnett, Albany, Ozona, Deer Park and Hondo in A.

Knocked out of the perfect list were Wichita Falls in AAAA, Graham, Gladewater and Gonzales in AA and Albany in A. First defeats

GROOM TIGER SQUAD

The Groom Tigers, who had a 6-4 season and who were tied for the second spot in the district are shown here. They won their homecoming tilt Friday night by dropping Vega 52-19. FIRST ROW — left to right Max Reno, Bobby Husted, Ernest Weller, Donnie Black, Leon Anglin. SECOND ROW — Billy Homer, Eldon Jones, team managers; Mike Garmon, Johnny Brooks, Doug Whately, Steve Homer, Ed Pair, Maynard Britten, Martin Hermesmeyer, manager. THIRD ROW — Ernest Lewis, Frank Neal, Gerald Hermesmeyer, Denny Kotara, Ronald Homer, Dan Witt, Alan Babcock. BACK ROW — Bill Clifton, coach Bobbie Dove, Melvin Britten, James Weinheimer, Kenneth Friemel, Pat Weinheimer, Johnny Eschle, Willard Smith and Head Coach W. M. Bates.

Groom Blasts Vega In Homecoming Tilt

GROOM — The Groom Tigers wound up their '55 football season Friday night with a 52-19 victory over Vega. The victory saw the Tigers close out their first homecoming festivities and their season with a 6-4 district record and an impressive 5-8 season record. The Tigers finished in a tie for second place in the 1-2 district by dropping games only to Gruver and Claude.

The Tigers will lose five seniors and two boys will be ineligible to play next season.

Ronald Homer, Doug Whately, Kenny Kotara, Bobby Husted and Donnie Black will graduate this season.

The Groom Tigers scored 46 points before the Vega Longhorns could stop them. The counters came in each of the first three periods with two in the first, three in the second and two more in the third.

Vega then managed to come up with 19 points while Groom was making six. The Groom offense was led by Gerald Hermesmeyer as he scored three touchdowns on three runs that netted 175 yards and 18 points.

Pre-game activities saw a parade of ex-Tigers and the crowning of the Football Queen, Miss Louise Harrell, a junior student was crowned by Tiger captians and was attended by Martha Kirk, Sandra London, Rose Helen Fields and Janet Holland.

Shriners Sign All-Star Card

The Pampa Shrine Club is determined to see that the local wrestling fans get the best in wrestling. They have scheduled another double main event for Wednesday November 23 at 8 p.m. at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club.

Dory Funk the ever popular rancher from Umbarger is signed to meet Danny McShane who wrestles out of Hollywood, California but really is just a misplaced Texan.

McShane, one time lightweight champion of the world, is a very tough wrestler as well as a scientific wrestler, which makes him very hard to beat. But Dory Funk is not a push over for any one and can get just as rough as anyone.

With Dory being off of probation now this match should be a toss up.

The other main event, will be Bob Geigel vs. Jack O'Reilly. Geigel, the all American Footballer from Iowa University, specializes in a step over arm lock. He is also former Southwest States Champion. He is very rough and rugged as the fans that were out last Wednesday night saw him go a full hour with no fall against Art Nelson.

Jack O'Reilly the Australian Champ is also as tough as they come. He has appeared in Pampa before and the fans that have seen him in action know that he is capable of taking care of himself. So mark the night November 23 on your calendar for a night of good clean fun, with all proceeds going to Pampa Shrine Club's Crippled Children's Fund. Tickets are on sale at Modern Pharmacy. There will be another bout added.

Brothers Meet On Gridiron For First Time

CLEVELAND — UP — Ed and Dick Modzelewski, the brothers who gained football fame at the University of Maryland, will play against each other for the first time Sunday when the Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers clash at Municipal Stadium.

Ed (Big Mo), a 215-pounder, will start at fullback for the Browns. Dick (Little Mo), a 245-pounder, will be at defensive tackle for the Steelers.

The Modzelewskis played together at Har-Brac, Pa., high school and at Maryland. They also were together with the Steelers until last Sept. 7 when Pittsburgh traded Ed to the Browns.

The Modzelewskis share a double home in West Natrons, Pa., during the off-season and their families will be here to root with mixed emotions. A group of fans from West Natrons also will be on hand to honor Big and Little Mo with an assortment of gifts.

Florida Universities Must Meet, Says Board Of Control

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — UP — The University of Florida has been ordered to cancel a 1956 football game with Rice University, if necessary, in order to schedule a game with Florida State University.

The two universities were given an ultimatum by the all-powerful state board of control Friday to play each other next year.

Florida President J. Wayne Reitz, who protested the order, was told the legislature insisted on the match.

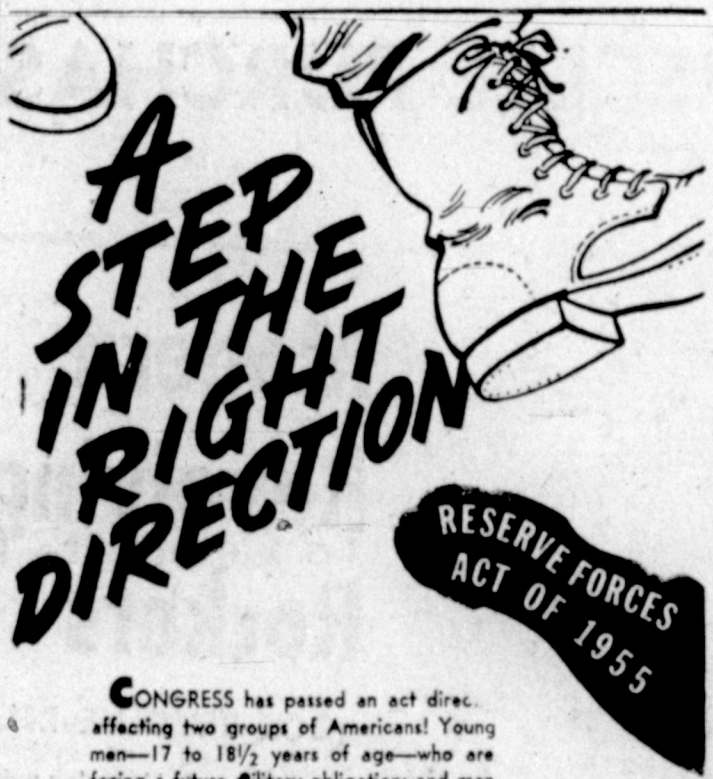

"I am not opposed to athletic relations between the two universities," Reitz said, "but I would like to ask if the game is of such importance that we should cancel a game already scheduled or fail to sign contracts with two games already negotiated."

"Yes, it's that important—it's a must," he was told.

Board chairman Fred Kent said the game with Rice should be cancelled, if necessary, since "it obviously was contracted for after our wishes were known."

Florida's 1956 schedule calls for games with Auburn, Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Mississippi State, Louisiana State, Vanderbilt and Miami in addition to Rice.

CONGRESS has passed an act directing two groups of American Young men—17 to 18 1/2 years of age—who are facing a future military obligation; and men who already have served 1, 2, 3 or more years of active duty and have been separated since August 9, 1955.

YOUNG MEN, according to provisions of the Reserve Forces Act of 1955, may become draft-deferred by enlisting in the Army Reserve for eight years. Only six months of that enlistment must be spent on active duty training—after completion of high school.

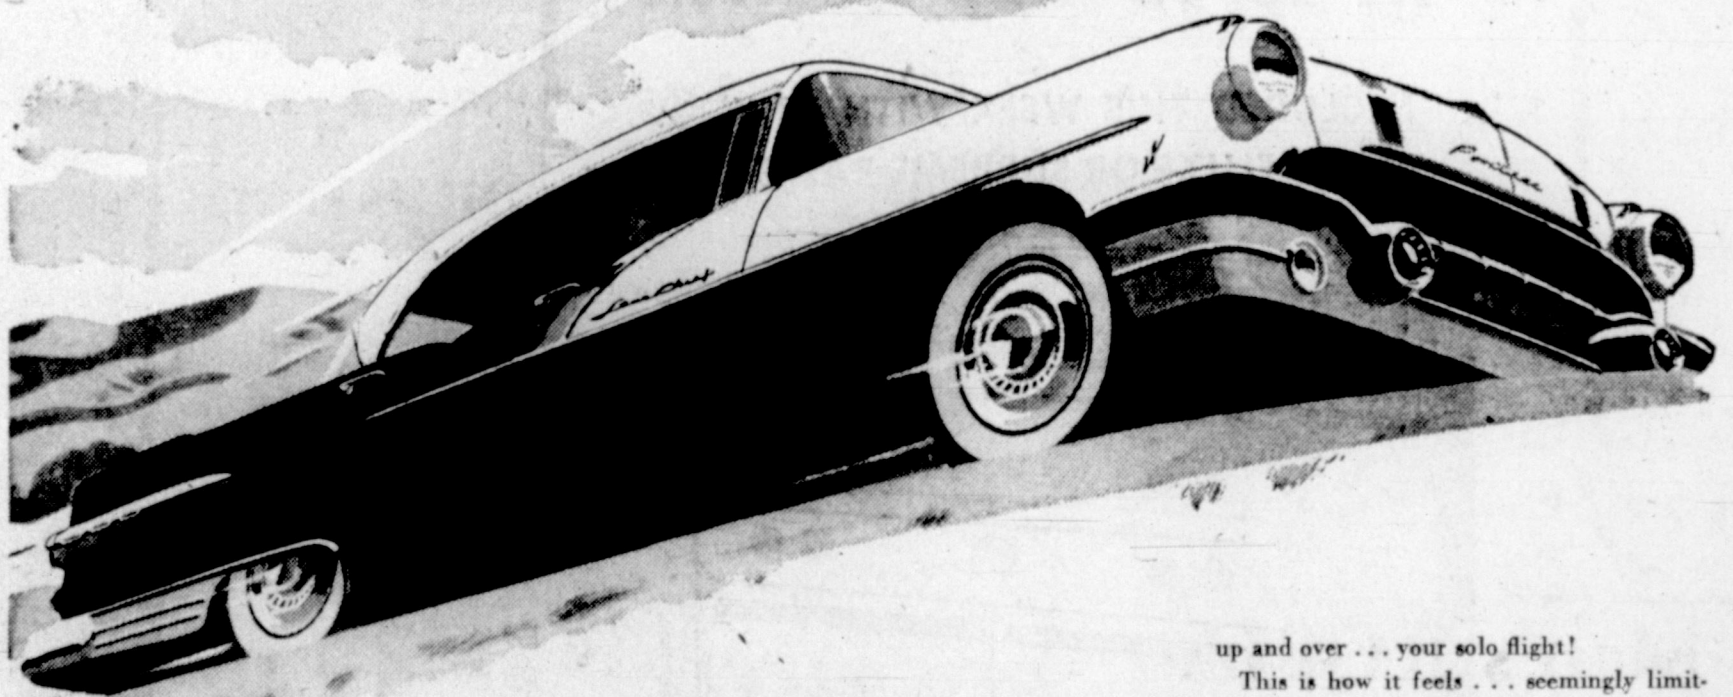

MEN WHO HAVE SERVED on active duty can complete their Ready Reserve obligation by serving satisfactorily one year with an active Army Reserve unit. Any remaining military obligation will be completed in the Standby Reserve in which participation in reserve training is not required.

IN EITHER CASE, it's a STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION—for YOU —for YOUR COUNTRY. For full information about the two new active reserve programs, contact:

THANKSGIVING IS STEEPED in much tradition... we usually hear the timeless story of the Pilgrim fathers... of their setting aside a day of Thanksgiving for God's goodness to them...

He who receives a benefit should never forget it; he who bestows should never remember it. (Pierre Charron)

UNDERSTAND THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS of the First Presbyterian Church had a gala party Thursday night out at Marie and Bud Johnson's place... they held it in the barn and had loads of fun...

Ingratitude is a mask of selfishness. (Anonymous)

THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT A HOUSEWARMING that always appeals to Peg... after all, a house becomes a home through the people living in it...

While no offering can liquidate one's debt of gratitude to God, the fervent heart and willing hand are not unknown to nor unrewarded by Him. (Mary Baker Eddy)

POTPOURRI... understand Dr. and Mrs. W. Purviance... and Mrs. Purviance's sister from Illinois... who is visiting them... went to Oklahoma City last week for the Iowa State - U of Oklahoma game...

Many favors which God giveth us ravel out for want of hemming, through our own unthankfulness; for though prayer purchaseth blessings, giving praise doth keep the quiet possession of them. (Thomas Fuller)

THINKING BACK ON THANKSGIVING... Peg starts thinking of poetry... and here is one of her favorites...

LET US BE THANKFUL

Let us pursue our special task... And go our separate way... But let us all give gratitude... On this Thanksgiving Day...

HERE AND THERE... Spied Norma Phelps driving around the other day... talking earnestly to another lady whom Peg couldn't see... understand the women of the First Christian Church were treated to a glamorous fashion show...

WORDS HAVE BEGUN TO FAIL PEG... so... with this thought, which Peg sincerely believes in... Peg will say goodbye... "Get into the habit of looking for the silver lining of the cloud, and when you have found it, continue to look at it, rather than at the leaden gray in the middle. It will help you over many hard places." (A. A. Whitte)

As ever, Your Peg

Miss Ina Jo Hawthorne of Amarillo became the bride of Richard A. Cole of Amarillo at 3 p.m. Nov. 13, in the First Christian Church of Pampa. Rev. Richard W. Crews officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hawthorne, 501 E. Foster, Pampa, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. John Celestain of Oswego, N.Y.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chantilly lace and French tulle over satin. The fitted lace bodice, accented with mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls, was styled with a scalloped portrait neckline and short scalloped lace sleeves.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown trimmed with mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. Her jewelry consisted of a single strand of baby pearls and pearl earrings belonging to her aunt. She carried a bouquet of white roses with pink centers.

Miss Betty Hawthorne, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a dress of sable brown crystalline fashioned identical to that of the matron of honor. She wore matching hat and mitts and carried a bouquet of gold mums.

Candlelighters were Sandra Hawthorne, cousin of the bride, and Barbara Spinks. Both wore identical dresses of amber crystalline, styled like that of the bridesmaids. Their flowers were wristlets of gold baby mums.

Sherry Edwards, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was attired in a floor-length dress of light yellow crystalline, fashioned like the other attendants' gowns, with matching hat and mitts. She carried a basket filled with yellow baby mums.

All the feminine attendants wore a single strand of baby pearls, a gift of the bride.

Dicky Mauldin, cousin of the bride, served as best man.

Miss Judy Green, Donald R. Dunham Betrothal Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Green of Manteca, Calif., announce the engagement of their daughter, Judy Claudette, to Donald Richard Dunham, son of Mrs. T. G. Green of Pampa and the late Mr. Dunham.

Miss Green attended Pampa High School before moving to Manteca. Dunham attended school in Payette, Idaho, and is now engaged in the painting business in Pampa.

No definite date for the wedding has been set.

MRS. RICHARD A. COLE (Photo by Koen's Studio)

Groomsman was Frank Holland, and ushers were J. C. Hopkins and Jimmy Enloe. Ring bearer was Eddie Mac Edwards, cousin of the bride.

The couple was married before an altar decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and flanked by candelabra and palms. Mrs. Lewis Meers was organist, and Miss Mary Windsor sang "Ave Maria" and "Always" On Wings of Air.

The mother of the bride was attired in a dress of gray lace over gold taffeta with light gray and steel gray accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The serving table was covered with a yellow net cloth over brown linen and was caught at the corners with miniature wedding bells.

The centerpiece was an arrangement of bronze mums. The all-white wedding cake was three-tiered.

Background piano music was provided by Miss Barbara Joan Spinks. Miss Mary Windsor served the cake, and Mrs. Betty Noil presided at the tea service.

Guests were registered by Miss Dorothy Ann Ayers.

Other members of the house-party were: Mmes. John Spinks, Chester Mauldin, C. V. Timmins, Roberts Valliant, John Ayers and Ann Edwards.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore an imported flared gray suit with light gray and navy accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

The couple will be at home at 1005 Florida, Amarillo.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School and attended banking school in Amarillo. She is now employed by the Amarillo National Bank.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE Should we punish a child who has confessed wrongdoing — and declared his remorse?

The mother of an 11-year-old boy wants to know. Early this month, he twice played hooky from school. Now he's confessed and protested his remorse. His mother thinks that conscience has punished him enough; his father doesn't. For two weeks, he's banned all use of the new bicycle Edward took on his truant days. Both the boy and his mother resent this punishment as too drastic. She asks, "What do you think?"

I think Edward's remorse can't be too real if he resents the atonement asked by his father.

And that his mother would do well to register the reality that Edward has incurred debt to other people. It can't be discharged by the phrase "I'm sorry." Like other debts, moral ones can only be paid by sacrificing action.

Early this month, Edward decided to behave like a special person, didn't he? He helped himself twice to privileges which other children have to deny themselves. By allowing his parents to believe him in school when he wasn't, he ducked his responsibility to them.

By this unfair treatment of his group and family, he's incurred moral debt to them. The fact that we say, "We forgive you, Edward," does not change his position as our debtor. All it does is pile more obligation to us on Edward.

If we care about his self-respect, that's not what we want at all. We want him free of obligation. And we want him to free himself from it.

That's exactly what his father is trying to help him do. He's trying to arrange things so Edward can look us straight in the eye again.

I suggest that this loving purpose be explained to his son — and that his wife support it.

We mothers have many tricks to keep children irresponsible.

One is substituting our "forgiveness" for their own atonement for wrongdoing. Any parent warden gets us about this maternal trick of depriving children of the chance to pay their own penalties by saying, "Mommy understands. Mommy forgives you, dear."

So lets not kid ourselves that keeping Edward dependent on our personal pardon is a loving trick. It is not. It just makes personal domination of him easy as pie.

By taking over the job of exonerating him ourselves, we can keep him our baby forever so that he never grows up, and never learns how to exonerate himself.

Decorative Shelves Are Handy, Sturdy

Most women are veritable collectors of dainty dusting powders and refreshing colognes, plus a myriad of other beauty aids. Sometimes, however, it is a formidable problem to display them conveniently — and attractively — in the average bathroom, where a single cabinet may provide the only shelf space.

The answer is simple, if you have one or two free wall areas. Just put up additional shelves — some of the new plastic shelves now available — to accommodate the pretties of your feminine luxuries. They offer a surprisingly inexpensive and effective way to achieve order. At the same time, these colorful shelves lend a decorative note to the bathroom just as they enhance a breakfast nook or kitchen alcove when used as plant and knick-knack shelves.

All the new plastic creations, one of the most interesting to amateur decorators is the collection of new plastic shelves known as Selfix because you actually "stick" them to the wall. No nails or screws are needed to make them adhere to smooth tile or flat wood or plaster surfaces. And once they have thoroughly dried, they adhere indefinitely. Here is the simple procedure to follow when putting up these sturdy 4 by 14 inch utility shelves:

Moisten the adhesive-coated wood backplates into water. Work the water into the adhesive with your finger until it has a gluey consistency. Then place the shelf in the desired position on the wall, pressing it firmly for two minutes. Let the shelf "set" for 24 hours and it is ready to use.

These plastic shelves are the newest member of a "family" of Selfix accessory items which include hooks, towel bars, soap dishes, toothbrush and tumbler holders. They are designed in such striking colors as black, green, yellow, red or white, to harmonize or contrast with any bathroom color scheme. They are available now in most leading variety stores, and many chain and hardware stores.

Black HD Club Has Home Freezing Talk

PERRYTON — (Special) — Mrs. Herb Butt was hostess to the Black Home Demonstration Club recently.

During the business meeting, members voted to finish their work on the club houses, rather than hire outside help.

Mrs. O. J. Crain presented a demonstration on Home Freezing. She showed how to freeze a complete meal. Freezing hints were presented to each of the group.

Guests were Mrs. Kenneth Pope and Mrs. Sid Beck, Jr. Members present were Mmes. Buddy Chain, Bill Hall, C. U. Pope, L. J. Crain, G. A. Berger, Dean Leighnor and Bill Brown.

BETROTHED

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Nance, 1334 N. Russell, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Judy, to Donny Hutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hutton of Dalhart. The wedding is planned for Dec. 27, in the First Methodist Church.

Comics, Television, Movies And Children Discussed At 20th Century Cotillion Meet

Twentieth Century Cotillion met recently in the home of Mrs. Charles Brauchle. During the business session, Mrs. J. B. Maguire, John Campbell, Stanley Chittenden, W. W. Hopkins, J. B. Jr., president, reported on the fall conference for the board of directors and club leaders, held at the Federation headquarters in Austin.

Mrs. Maguire stated that the highlight of the conference was a panel discussion, "FWC Makes Tangible Progress In An Intangible Field—Mental Health." Panel members included Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, director of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Hygiene at the University of Texas; Dr. Bernice M. Moore, consultant, home and family life education and Texas Education Agency; and Dr. Henry Bowman, professor of sociology at the University of Texas.

Mrs. R. J. Sailor Jr. discussed "Mental Health For The Older Child," and Mrs. Lee Moore Jr. had as her topic, "Comics, Television, Movies and Children."

"If we, the parents, will begin with ourselves by not getting emotionally upset, then we can relax and enjoy our families and help them to build happy personalities," Mrs. Moore pointed out. "Parents can help children to discriminate among the different comics, movies and television programs, thus receiving a worthwhile experience."

This gives a sense of sharing and companionship which is television's greatest asset to the family.

"As parents, it is up to us to see that comics, movies and television do not absorb our children to the exclusion of other more worthwhile interests; that each child is an balanced daily fare of sleep, food, physical and spiritual stimulation, responsibilities and relations."

Coffee, tea, sandwiches and cookies were served during the social period.

Mrs. Kenneth Lard of Amarillo, N. Edgemont, Los Angeles, Calif.

The bride was graduated from Kellon High School and West Texas State College where she was a member of Alpha Rho Tau. She has been district clerk of Wheeler County, for the past year and is editor of the literary quarterly, "Harlequin." The bridegroom is a graduate of Los Angeles City College and is a free-lance writer.

After a brief stay in Wheeler, the couple will be at home at 1340 N. Edgemont, Los Angeles, Calif.

Barbara Frye And H. C. Bukowski Jr. Married In Nevada

WHEELER — (Special) — A candlelight service in the Green Wedding Chapel in Las Vegas, Nev., recently united in marriage Miss Barbara Frye, daughter of C. G. Frye of Chickasha, Okla., and Henry Charles Bukowski, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bukowski Sr., of Temple City, Calif.

Justice of the Peace John F. Mendoza read the single-ring ceremony before a banked arrangement of fern and pink roses and white tapers in candelabra.

The bride wore a street-length dress of turquoise velvet, fashioned with a delicate neckline and fitted bodice flaring into a bouffant skirt. Her accessories were pearlized brown. For something old, she wore an antique hair clip fashioned of amber and semi-precious stones.

Margie Roundtree Feted With Shower

A bridal shower was held recently in honor of Miss Margie Roundtree, bride-elect of Buddy Moore, in the home of Mrs. T. C. Carter, 1424 Williston. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Carter were Meses. W. W. Russell, Weldon Steward, Isla Campbell, Robert Burns, Don Hutchins, Ervin Pursley, T. T. Tillery, A. C. Cox, D. W. Coffman, A. C. Houchin and Joe Carlton.

The honoree was presented a corsage of white carnations and orchid mums tied with orchid ribbon. Mrs. D. E. Roundtree, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. E. C. Moore, mother of the prospective bridegroom, were given corsages of white carnations tied with orchid ribbon.

Guests were registered by Miss Cynthia Cantrell and Miss Carol Miller. Background piano music was provided by Miss Jane Carter and Miss Betty Russell. In the receiving line were the honoree, Mrs. Roundtree, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Carter.

The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over orchid, centered with an arrangement of orchid mums in a cut-glass bowl. Flanking the centerpiece were white tapers in crystal holders.

Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts and mints were served. Miss Carol Roundtree served the cake, and Miss Nancy Moore presided at the punch bowl.

Approximately 40 persons attended the event.

Miracle Fibers Used In Shoes

Just about any of the so-called miracle fibers you've heard about can be found in today's shoes. For example, Dacron and Orion are used as sewing threads in shoes because of their special features of wear resistance, increased strength, etc.

Nylon finds various uses, not only as a sewing thread but for the mesh treatments in stylish footwear. Rayon is another synthetic fiber that's used as a backing material in some footwear.

But many of the "old" fibers still perform miracles in footwear. Leather is composed of fibers — and it is known as the oldest of the "miracle" fibers.

Many of the design treatments seen on women's shoe vamp are made with silk thread. Cotton is another common shoe fiber — used as a thread, or for shoe linings. Linen is used widely for women's shoe uppers in summer footwear. The hemp fibers may make a rope sole or lining or part of an upper.

Wool also plays a role, such as hannel uppers in dressy shoes for women. A wide variety of plastic materials composed of synthetic fibers have many uses in shoes: in shoe uppers, outsoles, insole, trimmings, lining, etc.

The shoe industry is constantly on the alert for new developments in fibers or materials, whether it be a new synthetic fiber or a new development of an "old" fiber. Its aim is simple and basic: an endless search for new developments that can make still better shoes.

First Methodist Church Circles Finish Study Of Indian Americans At Meetings

All circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met during the week to conclude their study on the Indian Americans.

CIRCLE ONE
Circle 1 had its meeting in the home of Mrs. J. G. Lyons. Sweet rolls and coffee were served. Mrs. G. F. Branson opened the meeting with prayer. During the business session, the Christmas luncheon was discussed. Hostesses will be Meses. G. F. Branson, Glenn Radcliff and A. B. Whitten, and it will be held in the home of Mrs. Branson at 11 a.m., Dec. 14.

The study leader, Mrs. Ralph Thomas, presented the last chapter of the study. Mrs. Lee Harrah gave the devotional. Thirteen members were present.

CIRCLES TWO AND THREE
Circles 2 and 3 met in the church parlor with Mrs. George Eyer and Mrs. Roy Johnson as hostesses.

Mrs. H. H. Boynton opened the meeting with a devotional on brotherhood. Mrs. Raeburn Thompson spoke on and showed slides of the Navajo Methodist School in Farmington, N.M.

The two circles divided into separate groups for their business, and a brief summary of the study. Mrs. Melvin Stephens urged everyone to continue helping the Indians with their interest, prayers, talents, and gifts. A silver offering was collected to send to the Methodist Indian schools.

Mrs. Lutes announced all circles will meet Wednesday for a covered dish luncheon. Next meeting will be a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. W. W. Purviance Dec. 7.

CIRCLES FOUR, FIVE AND SIX
Circles 4, 5 and 6 met in the church parlor with Mrs. Ben Ward and Mrs. O. G. Smith as hostesses. The devotional on brotherhood was given by Mrs. H. H. Boynton.

Mrs. H. R. Thompson was the commentator for the slides shown on the Navajo Methodist Indian Missions in Farmington, N.M. The slides were shown by Mrs. W. W. Adcock and Mrs. Loyce Caldwell.

Mrs. T. M. McBrayer led question and answer period on the work being done by the National Council of Church Women.

Each circle held its own business meeting.

CIRCLE SEVEN
Circle 7 met in the church-parlor with Mrs. W. W. Adcock as hostess. Mrs. Charles Shelton reported on the last general meeting. Next general meeting will be Wednesday. Mrs. Hunt will give a report on Indian religion. A covered-dish luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. Don Duggan and Mrs. V. E. Langley presented the study. Mrs. Adcock showed a film on Navajo painting. Mrs. H. R. Thompson showed slides on the Farmington, N. M., Indian School. Attending were 14 women.

First Baptist YWA Installs Officers

The Carney Young Women's Association of the First Baptist Church held installation of officers recently. The program was entitled, "Christ For The World."

Opening prayer was led by Beth Spencer. Next meeting the girls will take a basket of food to a needy family for Thanksgiving.

During the social period, the Lillian Rogers Circle served refreshments of punch and cookies.

Attending were Beth Spencer, Sally Pullen, Zelma and Delma Franklin Kay Kelly, Jayne DeLeon, LaVada Naylor, Wanda Langford, Jane Brown, Charlotte Runyon, Sandra Noblitt, and Sheila Shelton. Counselor is Miss Exie Seright.

The sheath is everybody's favorite this year. If you have a special pet, don't wear it to death. Instead, get your dressmaker to copy it in several colors and fabrics. Or do the copying yourself.

Good time to get rid of last year's hats (that you planned to wear again but won't) is right now. That way, you'll allow yourself sufficient time in which to buy replacements.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

When a boy telephones a girl she doesn't say, "Thank you for calling" before she hangs up. If she wants to she may say, "It was nice talking to you."

Girls are supposed to act pleased — but not grateful — for a young man's attentions.

Twentieth Century Allegro Has Study On Hopi Indian Culture And Education

Members of the Twentieth Century Allegro study club met recently in the home of Mrs. Sam Pruitt with Mrs. Don Cain as co-hostess.

Mrs. Charles Hickman Jr. and Mrs. Price Doster Jr. led the discussion, "Education," the third study in the Adult Education course, "Ways of Mankind."

The record, "Desert Soliloquy," by Len Peterson was played prior to the discussion. It told the story of a Hopi Indian boy who is faced with a decision which will determine the course of his life . . . to leave his home, family customs, and traditions for the "white man's" university, and the possibility of losing the Hopi way by living and learning among the white people.

The Hopi tend always to think of themselves as part of a group, the women were told. They do not like to compete. Teachers report that when they play basketball, they do not keep score. Their ceremonies do not give important parts to individuals, but generally emphasize uniform participation by all, it was explained. The Hopi feel close ties to their fellows and are reluctant to leave their villages to seek work or fortune.

"We may admire the educational ways of the Hopi or some other society, but we cannot emulate them without altering the fabric of our own culture," Mrs. Hickman stated. "A child reared by Hopi methods is not well trained for modern American life, though he may be ideally suited for the co-operative efforts necessary to getting a living on the southwest desert."

Mrs. Doster, quoting from record said: "Be proud of your heritage but don't be afraid to take from other worlds what might be useful."

Mrs. G. M. Walls, president, conducted the business meeting. Mr. Floyd Watson reported on the children's story hour at the library.

She stated that orange juice and cookies were served the children. Helping her as hostesses have been Mmes. Bob Karr and John Frisby, Mmes. Don Cain and George Cree Jr. volunteered to serve as hostesses this week.

Angel meringue pie and coffee were served. Those present were Mmes. Ben Fallon, Creel Grady, Jim Leverich, James Evans, Bill Craig, Jimmy Thompson, Ray Duncan, Bill Davis, Bill Waters, Walls, Cree, Watson, Karr, Hickman, Doster, Pruitt, Cain; and a guest, Mrs. Clem Richardson of Georgetown.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 6, in the home of Mrs. Charles Hickman Jr. with Mrs. George Cree Jr. as co-hostess. The program will be on traffic safety.

Auxiliary Of Legion Has Business Meet

A business and social meeting in the Legion Auxiliary, compared membership in the Auxiliary to an oak tree; she stated that the American Legion Auxiliary had its roots firmly planted in Legion soil, and the years of growth were symbolic of the years of service given by each unit and departmental president. The leaves on the membership tree are the members themselves, she pointed out. This is the time of year when old members renew their dues and new members are urged to join, she told the group. Mrs. John Frisby was welcomed as a new member. During the social period, refreshments were served by Mrs. Shotwell and Mrs.

MR. AND MRS. GARY BAKER

Mary Elizabeth Mann And Gary Baker Exchange Vows In Simple Home Rite

Nuptial vows were exchanged at 3 p.m. Nov. 13, by Miss Elizabeth Mann of Hopkins and Gary Baker of Pampa in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker, 612 Doucette. Rev. Ennis Hill officiated for the double-ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mann of Hopkins. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sleeveless, ballerina length dress of white faille. The fitted bodice was styled with a scoop neckline, edged with floral appliques, and she wore a corsage of white carnations at her waist. Her waist-length veil of illusion fell from a white half-hat.

Miss Paula Baker, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a long-torso blue taffeta dress with a scoop neckline and bouffant skirt. Her corsage was of blue carnations.

Carroll Copeland served as best man.

Pianist was Johnlyn Michell, and Miss Anna Sue Davis sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mann wore a two-piece dress of gray faille, and the bridegroom's mother was attired in a pink wool jersey dress. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with an imported Swiss linen cloth, centered with an arrangement of blue and white mums. The two-tiered wedding cake, decorated with blue wedding bells, was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath a wedding bell.

Mrs. Fabian Haiduk served the cake, and Mrs. Charles Reeves presided at the coffee service.

For the wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a matching jacket over her wedding dress. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The couple will reside in Longview, where the bridegroom is manager of Moses' Variety Store.

Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated from Pampa High School.

Party Is Presented For Couples' Class

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Goodner and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Delashaw were hosts to a social honoring members of the Couples' Class of the First Methodist Church in the church parlor.

A Thanksgiving motif was carried out in the decorations. Games were played, and refreshments of pie, candy, coffee and hot chocolate were served. Present were Messrs. and Mrs. Roy Johnson, Flaudie Gallman, Ben Graham, Henry Link, Malcom Denson, Clyde Medkief, and Rev. W. W. Adcock.

Children attending were Sara Nan Delashaw, Susie Johnson, Elizabeth, Charles and Mary Graham, Dale and Jerry Goodner and Wayne Denson.

Fashion has a many-splendored look this year. Even little velvet slippers for at-home wear glitter and gleam with stones and braid.

The turban appears in many guises this year. Some are warm and woolly, some are jersey and drapable, some are golden and truly Oriental.

Girl Scout Activities

Brownie Troop 5 of Horace Mann School met recently. Mary Shewmaker received her Brownie pin. The presentation was made by Mrs. K. L. Wofford. The girls worked on ceramic Christmas gifts for their mothers. They played games and sang songs.

Brownie Troop 15 of Sam Houston school met with Mrs. J. A. Hoover, leader. Mrs. Bob Childress is assistant leader. A short business session was held and the girls did leather handcrafts. Linda Watson was a guest. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Childress.

Brownie Troop 60 met in Horace Mann school for an investiture service and tea for new members and mothers of the girls. Girls invested were Linda Biggerstaff, Barbara Holt, Evelyn Shelton, and Cheryl Hooley.

New officers for the troop are Sue Horton, president; Johnnie Beth Walker, vice-president; Karen Richardson, reporter; Linda Biggerstaff, treasurer; Charlotte Moore, game captain; and Cheryl Hooley, song leader. Games were played and refreshments were served.

Brownie Troop 59 of Woodrow Wilson School met in the school cafeteria. They worked on turkey decorations for Thanksgiving. They played out-door games and practiced their Brownie promise. Mrs. H. E. Saum is leader. She was assisted by Mrs. J. D. Skaggs and Mrs. F. A. Word.

Brownie Troop 27 of Sam Houston School met recently. They opened the meeting with a pool and mirror ceremony. Calendar sales were distributed to the girls to sell. They played out-door games and sang songs. Mrs. H. H. Hahn is leader, and Mrs. Ronald Hubbard is co-leader.

Intermediate Troop 29 met in the Girl Scout Little House. They painted dish towels for the Little House and played games. Mrs. Bob Gordon is leader.

Brownie Troop 3 of Horace Mann School met in the basement of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. Mrs. Jack Seals is leader. New members welcomed were Linda Adcock and J'Neil Taylor. The mirror and Brownie promise ceremonies were held. The girls sang and played games. Calendar sales were reported to Mrs. J. R. Stewart, assistant leader. A fund-raising project was turned over to Ms. Merle Allen, and subscription money to the American Girl magazine was given to Mrs. J. C. Blakemore. Both are assistant leaders.

The "Brownie Story" was reviewed by Mrs. Seals, and the girls began work on Christmas gifts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kenneth McGuire and Mrs. Joe Tipton. Mothers attending were Messrs. John Osborne, W. T. Stauber, W. H. Copenhaver, Claud Taylor and W. M. Adcock.

Girl Scout Troop 42 met in Woodrow Wilson School cafeteria. Fourteen girls were present. Leaders are Mrs. L. L. Millren, Mrs. Kenneth Gray and Mrs. Earl Champion. Patrol 1 was in charge of refreshments. The girls worked on Christmas gifts and practiced folding the flag. They discussed the troop birthday party to be held Dec. 9. An investiture service was held for Jenny Ann Goff and Kathy Forker.

Mrs. H. M. Brown directed the meeting of Intermediate Troop 17 in the absence of Mrs. Joe Wells, leader. The girls divided into patrols. Patrol 1 made a newspaper, and Patrol 2 made Thanksgiving favors for the hospital. Patrol 3 worked on a library sign and exhibit.

Firemen's Auxiliary Makes Party Plans

The Firemen's Auxiliary met recently in the home of Mrs. Elmer Fuller, 305 N. Roberts. A short business session was led by Mrs. Ernest Winborne, vice-president. Plans were made for a Christmas Party and buffet supper, to be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 15, in the home of Mrs. Paul Jones, 855 S. Banks.

Next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 1, in the home of Mrs. Arthur Clark, 1121 Neel Road.

Members present were Mmes. Paul Jones, Will Powers, Charles Elliot, Elmer Fuller, and Ernest Winborne. Guests were Mrs. Charles Everett of Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Tom Haggard and Mrs. Jessie Kay.

BABY

How to keep a baby who's a restless sleeper warm? One mother puts a sweater on him, along with his sleeping bag. Another pins a blanket to his shoulders. Another pins a light blanket around him. Don't tuck him in so that he can't get loose.

Many mothers are in a hurry to get their babies into blue jeans or blue denim overalls. If you buy Baby such adult clothing, don't get the very stiff denim that's good for adults. It scratches his legs and cracks, rather than wrinkling, at the knees.

On mother sneaks into Baby's room after he's asleep and puts

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE DUNGAN

Mary Frances Jones, Eugene Dungan Are Wed In Parsonage In Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The parsonage of the Church of Christ in Shamrock was the scene of the recent wedding of Miss Mary Frances Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Jones of Shamrock, and Eugene Gerold Dungan of Pampa, son of Mrs. Paul Eaton of Hydro, Okla.

Nuptial vows were exchanged at 8 p.m. Nov. 4, in a double-ring ceremony with the pastor, G. B. Stanley, officiating.

Miss Helen Neaville, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a navy blue knit suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Harold Ledbetter of Pampa served as best man.

The bride was attired in a knit suit of powder blue, accented with black accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Jones wore a dress of grey wool with black accessories. Mrs. Eaton, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of maroon wool complimented with black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley. Mrs. Stanley presided at the guest register.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth with a floral centerpiece of white pompons and blue satin streamers inscribed with another toy in his bed along with his blanket, stuffed animals and favorite saucer. She finds that he will play with the "new" toy in the morning and let her catch 40 more winks.

My Argument With A Communist

By THADDEUS ASHBY

Reprinted from FAITH AND FREEDOM

Reading Time: 12 Minutes

Would you know this man for what he is? He lives in Westchester, dons Brooks Brothers clothes, commutes to Wall Street on the 8-12, and brings home $25,000 each year. This man is a Communist. Intelligent, logical, completely consistent, he fences so well that the author of this fictional story finds himself backed into a corner by his own creation. The author tries to fight his way out. The Communist does not shout or get angry, but he wins most arguments. How would you get out of this corner?

He was a handsome man. You wouldn't know he was a Communist.

In his early forties, tall, with slim aristocratic hands and wavy gray hair, he wears Brooks Brothers clothes and smokes a pipe.

The things he says are delivered in a faintly British, Ivy-League accent, so cultivated you can't believe his ideas are stained with blood.

Such a civilized man, educated in our best universities, could not possibly desire bloody treason to flourish over us.

The Communist Country Squire

He crossed his legs, puffed on his pipe and pressed his long finger tips together:

"Now, honestly," he said, "does it sound so horrible to kill people for the good of the race? The average Christian condones it, doesn't he? Scratch a Christian and you'll find what I call a Communist. Oh, he'll say, 'I abhor your methods, but I admire your ideals.'"

"What Communist ideals do Christians admire?" I asked him.

"We'll for example, public education is a form of communism, is it not? It takes from each according to his ability and it gives to each according to his need—whether the man who pays the taxes likes it or not. It's a form of compulsory equality to give all children a chance at education."

The Communist's eyes twinkled as he said this. He looked bland, comfortable, elegant—stretching his long legs toward the hearth. The fire danced—a log crackled, a coal exploded—light flickered on his tweeds. He looked very like a Tory country squire.

He was one—almost. We sat in his Westchester home—a station wagon reposed in his garage—pointers snoozed in his kennels—fruit hung heavy in his orchard—and fat sheep grazed in his pen. Everything like a Tory country squire. His farm even lost money.

He commuted to Wall Street on the 8-12, read the New York Times while sitting as dummy with his club-car bridge partners. Only flaw: he wasn't a Tory. But this was no drawback to his friends. It stamped him as a regular. A leftist is a conformist in his part of Westchester.

How could anyone suggest he might be a Communist? Let them try it. He'd smile and say: "After all, I believe in public education, minimum wage laws, old age pensions. I'm sure that makes me a Communist."

His friends would laugh with him. They liked him for his urbane wit. And how he would plunge into any and all community activities. Group participation? He put his friends to shame—volunteering to serve on everything. Boy Scout Councils. PTA programs. He officered half a dozen service clubs. Headed a fund drive (successful) for the community meeting house. On opening night he modestly helped serve doughnuts and cider.

He seemed surprised when they nominated him President of the Community Council, which ran things. He declined graciously—and recommended a substitute he was sure they'd approve. When the children wanted to put on a play depicting life in their community, he volunteered to write the play for them. It wasn't narrow, or confined; it emphasized their part in the world. A great success; the ladies spoke afterward about what a "warm feeling of belonging" it gave them. And their husbands said, "Yes, indeed."

He talked about "integration" and necessity for group action and how society must live and love as an "organic whole." Nobody challenged these ideas. One and all had been to good Ivy-League Schools.

He lived in a huge remodeled Quaker farm house, at least 200 years old. Pegs instead of nails held the floor boards together and an old black kettle squatted over the hearthstones.

Nobody could live in such a house—nobody could come from such an early American family—nobody could belong to so many good clubs—and still be a Communist.

If some snide rumor-monger spread such slander, his friends scoffed:

"How can anybody be a Communist with $25,000 a year? Besides we knew him at school." And that ended that.

But my ruminating was ended too. He was phrasing anew the question he had put to me.

"Isn't it true," he was asking, "that Christians are inclined toward Communist ideals—such as public education?"

"I don't know what you're driving at," I said, finally. "Do you mean to say that agreeing or partly agreeing with Communists about something makes a Christian 'communistic'? If so Senator McCarthy is threatened with overwork. Surely many Christians partly agree with Communists on some issues—eating and sleeping for example. But they don't believe in shooting people for political reasons—as you do!"

He had a way of assuming superiority; if I got angry—he would feign boredom. "Don't they?" he asked. And his forehead plowed itself into ridges of irony. "Don't they what?" I answered, miffed.

"Don't Christians believe in shooting people for the benefit of the majority? Don't they believe in shooting people who actively disagree with them as to what the government should consist of? Which is to say—don't they believe in shooting people for political reasons?"

I laughed at him. "Surely not. At least, none of the Christians I know do." "Don't most Christians believe in sending a man to jail for—well, take a practical example—for refusing to pay his school tax?"

As he bore down on a point of logic his faint British accent bit off his words.

"Making him pay taxes is not the same as shooting him," I protested. "Isn't it? What if he resists arrest?" The smile played around his eyes.

"Well, he... He doesn't have to resist arrest." I mumbled. "No," he said, as he leaned back and glanced into the fire for an instant. Then he said: "But suppose this man believes in private property, just as you do, and suppose his convictions tell him that his property shouldn't be taken from him for communal or collective use." The Communist blew smoke from his nostrils straight at me. "Don't you believe the collective should exercise its right to shoot him?"

"Certainly not! That's a Communist idea!" Angered my voice.

"So you call shooting people a Communist idea? ... It is." He moistened his lips, then continued: "But is it only a Communist idea? Suppose your individualist—let's call him Henry—suppose Henry refuses to pay his school taxes. Then what?"

He picked up his pipe, and tapped it thoughtfully. He looked at me. "Then what happens?" he asked gently.

"If Henry won't pay his school taxes? Why... the sheriff orders his house to be sold for back taxes." I answered, faintly impatient.

The Communist fingered his pipe. He smiled with such an air of patience he looked positively saintly;—and said:

"But Henry doesn't believe in these taxes. Henry's a reactionary. He barricades himself in his house; Henry calls his house his castle."

"His house would be sold anyhow," I said, "by the bailiff of the court."

"Now come down to practical action," urged the Communist, a little insistence in his voice. "Henry won't get out of his house. He claims it's his castle, regardless of the court order. Henry hollers through the door that he won't come out, and orders the sheriff off his property. He resists all the sheriff's efforts to persuade him to yield peacefully. Does the sheriff who goes up to Henry's house carry a gun?"

"Well, sure. All sheriffs carry guns." I conceded it cheerfully.

His Home Is Our Castle

He got up and leaned against the old Quaker mantelpiece. A gray Picasso reflected the firelight—the wave of his hair repeated the gray lines of Picasso's brush strokes. He looked down his well-bred early American nose at me. Biting very slightly into his pipemstem, he spoke from between closed teeth:

"And if Henry resists arrest, the sheriff might—in carrying out his duties laid down by the law of the collective—shoot Henry dead? First the sheriff reads Henry the law, then he orders Henry out of his own house. Henry refuses to listen. The sheriff counts ten, and pulls the trigger. It would not be the sheriff's fault if he shoots bullets into Henry's heart or brain. Not the sheriff's fault if Henry dies from lead poisoning from wounds inflicted on him by order of the court which represents the people. The people empowered the sheriff to do anything necessary to enforce the law of the land. In this way 'the people' killed Henry—your sacred individualist who believed his home was his castle."

"Are you serious?" I asked at last.

"Suppose for the argument, that I am serious. Then answer the question," the Communist ordered me. "Would the sheriff be empowered to shoot Henry down?"

"It's possible," I admitted carefully, "—in an extreme case. If Henry wouldn't submit to authority peacefully, he might be shot."

The Communist removed a linen handkerchief and delicately tapped his lips with it, hiding his triumph.

"We're back to my main point," he said pleasantly. "In the process of dispossessing an individual who refuses to pay—for example—his school tax, most Christians believe that if he resists their will, the sheriff might just possibly be forced to shoot him."

"Well-I-I," I frowned, not wanting to admit anything quite like that; "... yes—most Christians would admit that in extreme cases a lawbreaker should be shot..."

The Communist quickly shook his head. "Don't change the subject. You brought up shooting people for political ideas. Now don't tell me you really class Henry's resistance against the school-tax idea the same as lawbreaking—the same as stealing and murdering. Because I don't believe you do."

"A Communist does, of course. In the Communist society all crimes are committed against the people, not against individuals. We carry out your Christian ideas a little further."

"That's news to me," I said, "that Communists follow any Christian ideas..."

"Oh, certainly." He said. "I've heard people on your side defend state schools on grounds that Christians believe the fortunate should be forced to educate the unfortunate. While we believe the state should provide not only education—" he smiled again—"but also the other necessities man needs to sustain life. Some necessities rate higher even than education—such things as food, clothing, shelter, medicine, employment. No Christian who believes in public education, or tax-supported poor relief of any kind, can really object to the ideals of communism."

"What about your methods?" I demanded.

"Do you call our methods so different?" he feigned innocence behind a cloud of smoke. "Most so-called Christians, you just admitted, would force Henry out of his own house because he refused to pay his school tax. Let's not labor the point. You admitted that if Henry resists being dispossessed of his home—his castle—he may be shot. That's what we believe too."

"But," I objected, "you believe in shooting men down for many other things—political crimes, too!"

"Certainly," he remained unruffled. "Your so-called Christians permit shooting a man down who actively disagrees with them on paying school taxes. We're more than willing to shoot a man who disagrees with us on anything. The principle is the same. You see..."

"How is it?" I interrupted.

Throw Henry Out

He turned his hands palms up. "Follow me: Your Christians will shoot Henry for refusing to pay school taxes. Yet Henry didn't commit a violent crime, but a political crime. We shoot a man who disagrees in 'any' way with our ruling minority. The fact that your laws are passed by a majority of the minority which votes, doesn't change the principle. We are simply honest about it. We don't claim to believe in individual rights. We believe the welfare of the community always takes precedence over the individual."

"But," I declared, "Christians honestly do believe in individual rights!"

"Yes," he drawled. "While out of the other corner of their mouths they order the sheriff to throw Henry out of his home for back school taxes! And if Henry resists, you admit you give the sheriff the power to shoot him down like a dog."

We've Got The Youth

The Communist relighted his pipe. He summed up his apparent victory thusly:

"So even avowed Christians believe the collective possesses rights superior to the individual. But they won't admit it honestly, as we Communists do. That's why we will win. We're not afraid to carry ideas to their logical conclusion."

"Do you think you'll win?" I asked. "I don't."

"It's obvious," said the Communist. "Extremists, willing to follow an idea all the way, always win over political moderates."

"I agree with you there," I said. "But not all of us are moderate Communists. Some of us admire extremists like Washington and Patrick Henry, men who believed in extreme freedom."

The Communist waved that away. "I'm not concerned with what you believe," he said. "I'm concerned about the children who will do the voting when you're dead. We've got them."

"Now you're changing the subject," I said. "I thought you were talking about us old fogies."

"I'm talking about who will win. Our ideas will win because we've got the voters of the future."

"Nonsense," I objected. "You haven't got them."

"Just let me tell you," he said. "We're soft-pedaling communism just now. It isn't popular. We're manufacturing Socialists. And when communism comes we won't call it communism. We won't even call it socialism. We'll call it democracy. But we're teaching kids to shoot Henry. The kids who vote in our democracy will be so conditioned to socialism, they won't object to its gradual slide the rest of the way into communism. They'll see the logic of it, and they won't see the logic of anything else."

"You're bragging," I accused. "You've got a long way to go."

"All right! Stop me if I'm wrong," he challenged. "We've eradicated rebelliousness against socialism. We've made the ideas behind socialism acceptable everywhere. Socialism is handed down from generation to generation now."

"Not everybody accepts it," I resisted.

"Never mind exceptions," he pushed on. "Try and find a daring young rebel nowadays. I mean one who'll revolt against us. I mean one like Henry whom you just shot. Try and find one who'll challenge the absolute truths we've laid down."

"I didn't know you believed in absolute truths," I said.

"Here's one," he said. "Men must be forced by government to help one another, to do good to one another. Absolute? Why, it's closed to further debate for lack of a rebel to uphold a contrary proposition!"

"This idea has won the field. It holds the status of an absolute, never-questioned truth."

"I know some pretty close reasoners who question it to death," I said.

The Latest Thing For 30 Years

"Crackpots," said the Communist. "I'm talking about college students. 'He who holds the youth holds the future.' It's a funny thing. Students are successfully taught to question all so-called absolute truths—such as God, morality, any kind of theology; in fact, any kind of ethical absolute—such as 'Thou Shalt Not Steal.' We teach them to poke that one full of holes. It belongs to the 'myth' of private ownership, a 'selfish' doctrine."

"But look," I pointed out. "Aren't you afraid they'll challenge the absolutes of leftist politics? Maybe they'll question the idea that they should be forced to be their brothers' keepers."

"You would think they would," the Communist admitted. "But we're further along than you think. Who challenges any of our ideas on today's campuses?" he asked, leaning toward me.

"The old radicals would challenge us," he remembered. "Take the idea that the lucky must be forced to help the unlucky. They would challenge that idea merely because it is accepted by millions. They would attack it for no better reason than because most all college professors seem to believe it. They would revolt against all such established doctrine because youth must challenge authority. Rebels would revolt against socialism because socialism now smells stuffy, rank with years, hoary with the moss of tradition and age."

"But the old radicals don't live, today. Don't you see that we're winning our battle?"

"You sound reluctant," I said. "As if you were sorry to see the old rebels die off..."

"I am," he said. "But it's a law of nature. I'm a sort of old-fashioned rebel myself, and I too am doomed to die," he shrugged. "But rebels are hard to get rid of. Do you realize we had to kill off almost every one of the original Bolshevik revolutionaries? They hated the government under the Czar. They continued to hate it under communism. They died for progress, as I must, unless I can adjust to the new conditions. Communism has no use for rebels. That's why it is winning..."

"I don't understand you," I said. "It sounds like a contradiction..."

"Just ask yourself if I'm right," he said. "Ask yourself where are the rebels?" he demanded. "We've bred rebellion out of youth, completely out. They accept our absolute truth that the rich must be forced to 'keep' everybody else—completely without question."

"I believe you've got yourself hoist on your own petard," I said. "How can communism succeed by destroying rebels? If you've bred out all rebelliousness, who will fight your revolt? Don't you need rebels on tap?"

"Don't be old-fashioned," he warned. "We don't follow Lenin any more. We don't expect a bloody revolution in this country. We are achieving communism via majority vote. Slower, but surer. Like a glacier."

"Look at how much we've done. Compare the ten points of the Communist Manifesto with present-day American laws. Look at the way those ten points have crept into the American mind. Even your so-called conservatives and libertarians believe in them. Socialism, social consciousness, a 'social conscience,' 'advanced political thinking,' has been the daily diet in academic circles for at least thirty years. For three decades it's been the very latest thing."

"Ask yourself: Where are the rebels who revolt against ideas merely because they're not new? Where are the kids who search for the latest, most original concepts? Intellectually, they're dead..."

"We don't want rebels. We're breeding robots who accept the commandment that the government should force other men to be their keepers. The kids swallow it, as if it were a great Christian principle. I am forced to keep my brother—therefore my brother should be forced to keep me. It's logical. And with enough people believing it, we don't need any rebels. The revolution becomes a thing of the past, already accomplished. I don't say only that we will win. I say we've already won."

His eyes glittered at me as he watched his words sink into my brain.

I sat there, my hands tightening on the chair-arm. The fire hissed—ice cubes tinkled in his glass.

I had let him push me around until he had backed me into this corner.

How had he done it?

He had done it by getting me to appear to agree with his premise. He had maneuvered me into admitting that most Christians agree with Communists on the means.

The means is force. Force the fortunate to keep the unfortunate. Force the lucky to keep the unlucky. Chain the wise to the fools. Yoke the adventurous to the timid. Bind the industrious to the irresponsible. Christians, or at least the "so-called" Christians, had swallowed it all—I had to admit it. For the good of society, they even condoned shooting Henry.

What Would Jesus Have Done?

Was there any value in challenging the Communist's "absolute" truth which he and his comrades beguile so many of us into swallowing without question? Were all the rebels against the premise of collectivism dead and gone?

"Listen," I said to him. "You're right that many who think that they are Christians agree with you. But you're wrong that all the rebels against your premise are dead. I can think of quite a few. All over the country little groups are meeting, in churches and homes, chewing over the issues. People are looking for the answer as they never have before. Sooner or later the individuals in these groups will challenge your premise as well as your methods."

"Drop in the bucket," said the Communist, hiding a polite sneer.

"So were you Communists, just thirty years ago." "We were organized for action," he said. "We knew what we wanted. I've heard of those who think they're revolting against the Communist premise. They meet. They resolve. They talk. And talk. But they compromise and come out with their watered-down copy of communism. I still say: Scratch most Christians and you'll find what I call a Communist."

I smiled. I wondered how the Christian individualists meeting everywhere would answer—the many young in heart of all ages, the warm-spirited youths from eighteen to eighty, the seekers with bright healthy faces, so full of questions, so eager to fight any idea which would enslave anybody. They would never ask that anybody be forced to support their plans or ideas. I thought I knew what their answer would be.

Who Made Me A Divider?

How should one answer that Communist?

Particularly that ticklish point that most Christians are willing to risk shooting a man who refuses to pay taxes to support government charities. Pondering St. Luke 12:14, one might perhaps find the Christian answer in Christ's response to the planners and dividers who would use force to make men divide their wealth with one another.

Christ said: Man, who made me a judge or divider over you?

Should Christians presume to do here what Christ would not?

Stop It, You Brute!

PARADENA, Tex. — UP — Two red-haired, pilot-packer women where downright irritated when police tried to arrest them for drunk driving Thursday.

It took five gendarmes to turn the trick.

Patrolmen E. D. Richardson and D. C. Thomas said they stopped the two women—Tommye Beach, 30, and Shirley Waters, 28, both of Houston—and promptly got slapped.

A wrestling match followed, during which three more officers arrived and joined in the fray. The burly policemen finally managed to haul the two women off to jail. Shirley was charged in justice court with carrying a pistol and aggravated assault and in corporation court with being intoxicated in public. Tommye was charged with carrying a pistol and drunk driving.

No date was set for a hearing.

U.S., Canada Rigs Up 24

DALLAS — Active rigs in oil fields of the United States and Canada for the week of November 14, 1955, totaled 3048, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company. This compares with 3024 reported a week ago, 2979 a month ago, and with 2759 in the comparable week of 1954. A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks shows:

Pacific Coast, 145, up 3;
Oklahoma, 367, up 3;
Kansas, 193, up 5;
Rocky Mountain, 265;
Canada, 199, down 2;
Ark-La-Tex, 171, down 5;
West Texas and New Mexico, 608, up 24;
Gulf Coast, 602, up 3;
Illinois, 134;
North Texas, 364, down 7.

Federal grading and stamping of beef was started by the Agriculture Department May 1, 1927.

Cord of Thanks
Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me,
And may that be no meeting
Of my arms at close of day,
But such a tide as moving seems
Asleep,
Too full to give sound or foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home,
Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark,
And may that be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;
For though from out our bosom
Time and tide do ebb and flow,
My heart's still here as high as yours,
And so my arms to surround
you will,
And so my arms to surround
you will,
And so my arms to surround
you will,
And so my arms to surround
you will.

Let's Go Shopping
One of these days I must go shopping. I am completely out of self-respect. I want to purchase the self-respect which I picked up the other day for some humiliation which they say is less expensive and wears longer. I want to look at some tolerance which is being used for wraps this season. Someone showed me some lovely samples of space, are a little low on that and one can never have too much of it. And by the way, I must try to match some patience that my neighbor wears. It is very becoming to her and I think it might look well on me. I might try on that little garment of long-suffering they are displaying. I never thought I wanted to wear it, but I feel myself coming to it. Also, I must not forget to have my sense of appreciation mended and look around for some inexpensive everyday goodness. It is surprising how quickly one's stock of goodness is depleted.
