Ike Shows Fatigue; Must Cut Work Load

Second Term Decision May Come In February

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — UP — President Eisenhower is showing signs of fatigue and will have to reduce his work load, his doctors announced Saturday night after the chief executive underwent an extensive physical checkup at Walter Reed Army hospital.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, White House physician, said it now appeared that it might be mid-February or possibly later before Mr. Eisenhower will be able to make a decision on whether his health would permit him to run for re-election.

Snyder said Saturday's medical tests at Walter Reed showed Mr. Eisenhower's condition is basically good.

'Normal' Convalescence

The physician, who has treated Mr. Eisenhower since 1945 pictured the President as going through a "normal" convalescence from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

But Snyder said there were some signs of fatigue, and he felt that the President should reduce his work load during the remaining weeks of his recuperation.

The President has been taking on an increasingly heavy burden of official duties since he left Fitzsimons Army hospital at Denver Nov. 11, and took up residence at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa. He has been meeting regularly with his Cabinet and National Security Council, and an general resuming active direction of the government.

90-Minute Examination
Mr. Eisenhower drove here from Gettysburg Saturday and underwent a 90-minute examination, including X-rays and fluoroscopic tests to determine whether increased activity had enlarged his heart. It was the first time he has been X-rayed since leaving Denver.

After the tests, Snyder went to the White House with Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of cardiology at Walter Reed, and Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commanding (See IKE, Page 2)

Food Profits Investigation Is Ordered

By GAYLORD F. GODWIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — UP — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said Saturday that President Eisenhower has agreed the administration must find out definitely if food middlemen are getting "improper" profits from the consumer's food dollar at the farmer's expense.

Benson ordered department economists to step up their continuing studies of marketing margins and farm production costs in an effort to pinpoint distribution of the food dollar.

The farmer's share of the dollar has shrunk from a high of 53 cents in 1946 to 40 cents now. Since the Korean war, the drop has been rapid. At the same time, retail prices have been rising and farm income has been falling, widening the price spread.

Marketing Charges
Economists have attributed the widening spread to marketing charges.

"I have discussed this vital problem with the President," Benson said in a statement. "We are agreed that we must definitely determine whether or not prices paid by consumers contain improper or excessive marketing charges and profits."

"Farmers are entitled to receive the very maximum for their products through efficient marketing service."

Benson has been the target of sharp criticism because of declining farm income. Some have come from members of his own party. The problems of huge surpluses, over-production, and declining incomes are certain to be major issues in next year's presidential campaign.

Head off Criticism
Saturday's order was regarded by some as an attempt to head off election year criticism.

"We know that some margins are too great and not justified," Benson said. "Although we recognize that in some instances processors and distributors have increasing costs which they must pay."

"The failure of retail food prices as a whole to reflect the decline in farm food products during the past year is recognized by the department as a real obstacle to a solution of the farm surplus problem," Benson said.

Projected School Census Estimates 12,297 By 1980

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer
(Second in a Series)

With the coming of a bond election for the proposed expansion program of the Pampa Public Schools, which includes a new elementary school and a new junior high school, a study of the scholastic population in Pampa and Gray County should prove interesting and possibly enlightening.

Within the past 25 years, or since 1930, the number of pupils enrolled in the public schools has increased by about 2,625, while during the same period the enrollment of Gray County schools has increased by 1,108 students. Total school enrollment in the city, during the school year of 1930-31, numbered 2,885 and the county enrollment totaled 5,092. Of course, enrollment figures for the county include schools in the city.

At the present time enrollment is conservatively estimated at 5,510 students, according to the report by Bert C. Blanton on Pampa's economic future.

However, figures released by the school board, show a scholastic census of 5,119 pupils, which may be accepted as a reasonably accurate figure. In the past five years, enrollment has increased by 939 students, or an average of 188 scholastics per year.

As projected into the future, the scholastic enrollment of Pampa Schools is estimated at 6,611 for the school year of 1960-61. This expected increase may be shown by years as follows: 1956 — 5,412; 1957 — 5,667; 1958 — 5,888; and 1959 — 6,105. By 1960, the number of students enrolled in county schools will number about 814 — making a total county enrollment of 7,425 students. The next 20 years will see an increase of 4,872 scholastics in the county, by 1980 the enrollment in the public schools of Pampa will have reached an estimated total of 11,092 students. The same year will see an enrollment of about 12,297 students in Gray County.

Pampa Families

The number of families residing in Pampa, conservatively estimated last July 1, totals 6,516. With a total population of 22,156 within the city limits, this indicates an average (See SCHOOL, Page 2)

Soviets Release Two American GIs

By RONALD WATERS

BERLIN, Dec. 10 — UP — The Soviets Saturday night released two American soldiers whose case had become a major issue in a mounting controversy over Communist East German claims to sovereignty.

East German propagandists, claiming that recent announced agreements with Russia superseded four-power control over the divided city of Berlin, had demanded that the two Americans be tried in an East Berlin court to prove the sovereignty of East Germany.

The U. S. Army identified the GIs as Pvt. Willi J. Holden, 19, of Poplarville, Mo. and Pvt. Richard L. Calbert, 22, of Kansas City, Mo.

The Communists announced their arrest last Wednesday on charges of attacking a cabaret actor in East Berlin.

The Soviets released the Americans Saturday afternoon after U. S. authorities handed the Communists a written demand for their immediate release.

Col. O. M. Barantini, Army chief of staff in Berlin, followed up the written demand with a visit to Soviet headquarters to see Col. Ivan A. Kotsinba, Berlin's deputy Soviet commandant. Shortly thereafter, the American soldiers were handed over to Lt. Col. Vernon Hammonds, Army provost marshal here.

"The men appeared to be in good physical condition, but they were admitted to the U. S. Army hospital for a routine physical examination," an Army announcement said.

"U. S. Army authorities will make a thorough investigation of the circumstances in which they were detained," the announcement added.

American officials sent the written note after the Reds hinted they might try the soldier in an East German court. Such a trial would be a violation of four-power agreements in Berlin.

The American authorities put the demand in writing after three previous demands, all made by phone. U. S. authorities handed the Communists a written demand for information about the alleged incident involving the soldiers' identity of the GIs and their immediate release.

The Red press and radio said the demand for a trial by an East German court was based on the contention that "the German Democratic republic is a sovereign state and the bandits attack took place in the capital of the German democratic republic."

Four-power agreements on Berlin exempt occupation troops from trial by East German courts.

Washburn To Appeal Conviction
WACO, Tex., Dec. 10 — UP — District Judge D. W. Bartlett said Saturday that if Harry L. Washburn wins a new trial on appeal it won't be heard in Waco.

A jury of 10 men and two women found Washburn, 39, guilty Friday night of murdering his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver, with an automobile bomb and sentenced him to prison for life.

Shuford Farmer, Washburn's lawyer, said his client "definitely will appeal" the sentence. After his conviction, Washburn said in a television interview that "I will be vindicated ultimately."

The case was tried in Waco it was the first murder trial ever televised live — because a jury could not be selected in San Angelo where the wealthy Mrs. Weaver was killed last Jan. 19.

"If it (the verdict) doesn't stay put, they'll endure sure have to transfer it (another trial)," Judge Bartlett said.

Furthermore, he said, he will not let Washburn out of jail in appeal bond because his sentence is more than 15 years.

UN Membership Issue Deadlocked

By W. J. BOYLE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 10 — UP — The United Nations Security Council in five and a half hours of debate Saturday failed to find a means of breaking the five-year deadlock on membership.

The Soviet Union demanded "proof assurances against 'surprises or accidents' in the Security Council or General Assembly blocking the entry of any of 18 nations in a 'package deal' to the UN."

The western countries in the 11-nation Security Council in turn asked what assurance the Soviets could give that all 13 western-sponsored and five Communist countries would receive approval as UN members.

The Soviet's proposed that the Security Council and 60-nation General Assembly sit concurrently to give state by state approval to the 18 applicants. New members need seven out of 11 votes in the council and a two-thirds majority in the assembly.

New Zealand and Brazil put forward a joint resolution calling for state-by-state approval in the council of the 18 nations with a recommendation to the General Assembly that all the group be approved.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev sounded his country's lack of faith in western promises and threatened to vote against a call for priority for the western proposal and to veto the resolution itself.

"Can anyone guarantee that after a decision is taken here in the Security Council that in the General Assembly each of the 18 nations would receive the required two-thirds majority," Sobolev demanded of the western members of the council.

He pointed out that not all of the nations who voted 52 to 2 with 5 abstentions in the General Assembly Thursday had publicly announced they would give their approval to all 18 applicants.

Pampan Charged In Incest Case
FREEMON L. DUNIGAN, 41, of 721 E. Malone, is being held in County jail after being charged with the crime of incest on his 15-year old step-daughter.

Dunigan voluntarily made a written statement Thursday night, before District Attorney Bill Waters, confessing the act.

Dunigan was represented Saturday by Attorney Jack Hood of Borger, who arranged for his bond to be set next Monday. At that time Dunigan may waive a preliminary hearing.

Surplus Grain To Be Given For Overseas

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — UP — The government is preparing to release thousands of tons of surplus grain to church agencies for overseas relief, officials disclosed Saturday.

Barring an unforeseen obstacle, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson probably will announce the action during the coming week.

Agriculture Department officials said Benson is taking a keen personal interest in the project as a result of urgent appeals from religious leaders to "share our surplus" with less fortunate people abroad.

Benson has discretionary authority, under Public Law 480 which Congress passed last year, to release all types of government-owned farm surpluses to voluntary relief agencies for free distribution to the needy overseas. So far, however, the Agriculture Department has released only commodities which were in danger of spoiling in storage, mainly dairy products and cottonseed oil.

A delegation representing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish relief agencies urged Benson at a meeting here last month to release 250,000 tons of wheat, 100,000 tons of corn products, and 80,000 tons of rice to fight the threat of "actual starvation" in many countries.

Agriculture Department officials had said previously that Benson was "sympathetic" to the request, but was not sure it could be granted under department policies forbidding any use of surplus commodities that would tend to displace normal commercial sales.

Officials said Saturday it now appears that all problems in connection with the project can be worked out, and that a favorable decision can be announced within a few days.

Church and congressional pressure for early action has been building up steadily.

Bi-Partisan Foreign Policy Support Urged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — UP — The Eisenhower administration is drafting an urgent new appeal for bipartisan support on foreign policy and national security issues, it was learned Saturday.

The appeal is designed to head off "partisan excesses" in discussion of foreign affairs and defense matters during the 1956 election campaign which may come at a critical time in East-West relations.

High administration officials said the appeal will be made by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at next Tuesday's White House meeting with Republican and Democratic congressional leaders.

This will be the first such bipartisan meeting attended by the President in many months.

The administration also will outline "in a broad way" its new $34.5 billion defense budget and a parallel request for $2,670,000,000 in new economic-military aid funds for non-Communist nations. (See POLICY, Page 2)

Viennese Girl With 'Hot Heart' Wants Rich, Lonely Texan

DALLAS, Dec. 10 — UP — Anna Maria Springer of Vienna, Austria, whose picture indicates she has plenty of Old World charm, asked a Dallas editor Saturday to find her a rich and lonely Texan to whom she can offer "a hot heart."

Miss Springer wrote Editor Bill Ruggles of the Dallas Morning News that she wants a husband from Texas who can afford to buy her a 1956 Chevrolet for a wedding present. She promised Ruggles a mess of Viennese schitzel if he delivers.

Her letter said: "American newspaper people are said to have a right understanding of extraordinary or original conceptions. At least, this is rumored here in Vienna.

"Well, I suppose I have a somewhat unusual idea and therefore I apply to you. I do not intend to immoderately occupy your precious time. Therefore, to cut a long story short; I should like to marry an American of your state.

"He should be a mature man and not exactly the poorest of the country. I am 26 years of age, five feet, five inches tall and reddish-brown haired. I earned the academic title 'Bachelor of Commerce' at Vienna University.

"I should like to offer with Viennese charm a hot heart to a lonely feeling man who is ready to present me with a Chevrolet 36 for a wedding gift. I am dreaming of Texas, this most beautiful state of the U. S., of its everlasting sun and of its strong, husky men.

"I should be very grateful to you if you would publish this heart's desire of mine in your largely circulating newspaper. Should my desire realize owing to your help, I shall be very glad to serve you with original Viennese schitzel at my wedding party."

Solon Says GOP Insults Labor Group

By HERBERT FOSTER
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (UP)—Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Saturday some Republican leaders are trying to "chastise and discipline labor with insults."
The Minnesota said the Democratic party welcomes the support of both labor and farmers and encourages them to play a role in party affairs.
Humphrey struck at recent statements by some GOP leaders that the newly-merged AFL-CIO, with 16 million members, would be a powerful political factor which could control one party.
At the same time, he said he doubted that labor would have to form its own party to make its voice heard. This was suggested Friday night by AFL-CIO President George Meany who said labor would set up its own party if it is deprived of activity in the existing parties.
"I doubt that," Humphrey said in an interview. "I don't think that labor union members have to worry too much about what some Republicans think." He added that the Democratic party "doesn't believe in class distinctions."
Humphrey criticized Sen. Barry F. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and Presidential Assistant Harold E. Stassen who voiced GOP fears of labor's political power. Goldwater is chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.
"We are not going to insult people and hope they are going to be chastised and disciplined—that's what Stassen and Goldwater and other Republican leaders are trying to do," Humphrey said.

Pope's Vision Reported In Vatican Paper

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 10—UP—The Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano Saturday published Pope Pius XII's account of the vision of Christ which came to him during his near-fatal illness last winter.
It was the first mention of the vision made in the newspaper, which is regarded as the unofficial voice of the Vatican.
The newspaper's account of the vision was based on notes made by "one of the few very devout aides who saw the Pope daily" and only four hours after the vision was said to have appeared Dec. 2, 1954.
The notes revealed that the first thing Pope Pius said when the aide entered his sickroom on Dec. 2 was, "this morning I saw the Lord."
The pontiff then described the circumstances of the vision, which the aide jotted down.
The aide put the notes in an envelope marked "to be opened after my death." Observers said. But when the news of the vision became public, the aide took the

103 Accidents In Panhandle Last Month

A total of 103 automobile accidents occurred on State and Federal Highways in the Amarillo District during this past month, with 74 persons injured and eight persons killed, according to J. W. Blackwell, Captain of the Texas Highway Patrol District 5.
Nineteen automobile collisions took place on farm to market roads, 18 occurred on county roads, and nine accidents were in small towns (under 2,500 population).
The principal violation contributing to the cause of accidents was speeding, with illegal passing listed as the second causative factor. Failure to grant right-of-way was the third main factor and driving while drifting was the fourth attributed cause. During the month of October, driving while drifting was the second principal violation causing accidents.
In November of 54 a total of 11 persons were killed, with 52 injuries and $64,554 encountered in property damage. For the past month, a total of $101,226 represents the estimated property damage.
Last October 87 injuries were reported, with 8 deaths, and a total vehicle damage of $99,299. Within the first 11 months of this year, a total of 89 persons have been killed on highways and roads, 763 persons have received injuries, and property damage has totaled an estimated $80,284.
In carrying out their basic duties of traffic law enforcement, the 20 Patrolmen of the district, composed of 26 Panhandle counties, investigated 149 traffic accidents during November and made a total of 600 traffic arrests. Of this number, a total of 355 persons were arrested for speeding and 38 were DWI arrests.

Reds Arrest Clergyman

LONDON, Dec. 10—UP—Radio Moscow reported Saturday that Kung Pin-Mei, Catholic bishop of Communist-held Shanghai, and his "principal accomplices" were arrested two months ago as spies and subversive plotters.
The broadcast, quoting press reports from Red Peking, said six priests and police who arrested the bishop and his aides captured radio equipment and papers proving they were working for free China and "certain foreign powers."
It charged also that they were "plotting a counter-revolutionary uprising."
The radio report did not say how many persons were arrested, where they were being held, or when they will be tried. It was assumed here that the "accomplices" it mentioned were Chinese churchmen.
Informed sources here said the bishop's arrest may mark the beginning of a Communist crackdown on native priests in conquered China, who have been generally exempt from the persecution suffered by foreign missionaries.
The Moscow broadcast said the Red secret police "uncovered another spy ring" in Communist China in September.
"When arrested, the head of this organization, Bishop Kung Pin-Mei, and his principal accomplices were found to possess documents testifying to their criminal intention of setting up a widely-ramified espionage network and preparing a counter-revolutionary uprising," the broadcast said.

Four Mishaps Reported Here

Two automobile collisions occurred Thursday and two others took place Friday morning resulting in considerable vehicle damages.
The first mishap took place on the 100 block of E. Browning, 50 feet east of Rose, at 6:23 p.m. Thursday. Miss Edna June Kelp, 1907 E. Browning, driving a '55 Ford, was in collision with Billy Warren Timms of 516 Lowry, in a '56 Ford, Miss Kelp met with estimated damages of $75. Timms encountered damages of about $10.
The second collision took place at 9:55 p.m. Thursday on Browning, 50 feet east of Warren, George C. Johnson, 612 Deane Dr., driving a '51 Pontiac, was in collision with a parked '54 Ford belonging to Glenn R. McConnell. Damages were estimated at $125 for the Pontiac, while the Ford met with approximate damages of $45.
Another mishap occurred Friday morning at 8:32 at the intersection of Kingsmill and Frost. Roswell Dela Vicars, 303 N. Frost, driving a '51 Buick, was in collision with Jerry Bond, Rt. 2, driving a '53 Ford. The Buick met with damages estimated at $175, and the Ford encountered damages in the amount of $150.
A second collision Friday at 8:45 a.m. resulted in damages estimated at $150. The mishap took place on S. Reid and 15 feet south of Campbell. Johnny Miller, 724 E. Malone, driving a '55 Dodge, was in collision with Vernon D. Stillwell, 720 E. Craven, in a '50 Ford. Both parties met with damages estimated at $75 each.

Politicians Seek Small Donations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—Republicans and Democrats, harassed by soaring costs of political campaigns, have joined forces to ask for small contributions from the mass of average voters. They are planning a public service advertising campaign.
Both parties bought the idea first proposed by Philip Graham, publisher of the Washington Post and Times Herald, in a speech at the University of Chicago.
Democratic national chairman Paul M. Butler disclosed at a Beverly Hills, Calif., news conference Friday that a bipartisan appeal for contributions is in the works. He cited a public opinion poll indicating many voters were willing to make small campaign contributions but didn't know how.
While plans are still tentative, these additional details were learned here Saturday.
Graham contacted Butler and Republican national chairman Leonard W. Hall, who brought party sides to two meetings with the publisher.
Agreement was reached on a statement of principles which said in effect that citizen participation in politics is desirable and that financial support is one of the desirable ways to participate.

In the same year the number of families living within Pampa's metropolitan area is estimated at 15,410.

Some other interesting facts, as brought out by the report in Section V, are: the larger number of men than women in Pampa and the County 12,447 men as compared with a total of 12,281 women in 1950; the total number of Negroes being estimated at 623 in 1950 (county-wide); and the total population of rural-farm residents totaled 1,874 in 1950.

Reds Still Woo India

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 10—UP—Soviet Russia's top-ranking visitors continued to woo India with sugar-coated speeches Saturday. But their aides got down to hard economic bargaining.
Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev wound up a two-day visit to the Himalayan state of Kashmir, which is in dispute between India and Pakistan.
In their speeches, the visitors have asserted that Kashmir unquestionably belongs to India. They also have denounced Great Britain for separating the Indian sub-continent so as to separate Moslem Pakistan from Hindu India.
Reaction in Pakistan was angry. A foreign office spokesman in "The President's condition when examined today was good. He has felt well and looked well in all these later (post-Denver) weeks. He sleeps well, rests well and relaxes easily during the day."

"He has used sedation, and that only very mild, once since he left the hospital."
"The President's temperature has been normal. His pulse has been regular, never rapid, usually in the 60 or lower 70s. His blood pressure has been stable, rarely over 120 systolic, or above 80 diastolic, and never at an unsatisfactorily high or low level."
"His general circulation is excellent including the circulation in his legs and feet. Although there was an area of soreness of the President's chest in the first 48 hours of his illness, his breathing has been entirely comfortable during his entire illness."
"The blood clotting time has remained at a controlled level. The blood sedimentation rate has steadily declined and is now in the upper normal range for this attitude."
"The white blood count has remained at a normal figure since the early days following the acute attack. The serum cholesterol slightly, but continue within the normal range."
"Since the early period of hospitalization, the President's weight has remained below 172 pounds on a diet that rarely exceeds 1,800 calories a day and is usually within the limits of 1,600 to 1,800 calories."

3 Easier Home-Buying Credit Expected Soon By Industry

By ROBERT F. MORRISON
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—Industry experts feel certain the government will soon ease credit restrictions on home buying.

There have been hints from government officials that the declining rate of new housing construction may get some early attention. Actions by the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration to raise down payments and shorten repayment periods are only the more familiar and dramatic aspects of the administration's credit curbing.

More serious has been the Federal Reserve Board's move to reduce lending by the commercial banks to home mortgage financial institutions and ultimately builders. The Home Loan Bank Board, to which most savings and loan institutions belong, has also warned members to hold borrowing from the system to a minimum.

Cut From Credit Sources
The overall effect has been to cut off mortgage lenders and builders from the credit resources of the commercial banks and the home loan bank system.

Industry experts claimed to have foreseen the current mortgage money famine coming last spring. They said they feel that credit tightening aimed at the housing industry were "not so severe, but came at the wrong time." The money market was already drying up and savings declining, they have contended, when the government and the federal reserve board stepped in with a sponge.

Observers said they feel certain that the more "sophisticated" members of the administration now realize that "whatever bloom there was in housing is now gone and the problem is how to ease up on housing without disturbing the rest of the economy."

They conceded that an overall loosening of credit when the economy is bursting its productive seams already could be inflationary. But they insisted that when, and if, a way is found to slacken off on housing alone it will be done.

May Come Too Late
Experts now fear that any relaxation may come too late. Some builders reportedly already have cut back plans for 1956 "far lower than they have been in years."

Since planning must go on many months in advance of actual construction, this was considered ominous by some experts and industry economists.

"No one is optimistic" about 1956, an industry expert said privately.

Except for a spurt in August, the new housing construction rate has been falling since May. And, for the first time in 17 months, housing starts in September and October were below the same month in 1954.

How soon the administration will move was not certain. There have been statements to the effect that the administration's 1956 goal would be about 1.2 million housing starts and that efforts would be directed to maintain that level.

Death Is Urged For Dope Pushers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—Rep. Victor L. Anfuso said Saturday narcotics peddlers "like murderers and kidnapers" should receive the death penalty.

The New York Democrat gave his views in a written statement submitted to a House Ways and Means subcommittee investigating the narcotics traffic. The subcommittee will resume hearings here Wednesday.

"Our laws are too lax in meting out punishment to those who peddle narcotics among teen-agers," Anfuso said. "Those who sell dope to youngsters, ruining their lives forever, are committing a crime worse than murder." Chairman Hale Boggs (D-La.) said recently the subcommittee's investigations already have made it clear Congress should eliminate the last loophole through which a federally-convicted narcotics peddler can escape a jail sentence. Congress cracked down on federal judges in 1951 for being too lenient. A law was passed requiring mandatory jail sentences for narcotics peddlers, but it allowed judges to grant probation to first offenders.

Boggs said this last remaining discretionary authority should be removed. Anfuso said he hopes the subcommittee will approve his bill to establish a U.S. Customs Border Patrol and a U.S. Customs Border Patrol to "track" down narcotics smugglers in U.S. harbors, airports, along the coasts and borders.

Army Hikes Divisions

WASHINGTON—UP—The Army has increased the number of active combat divisions it will maintain next year from 18 to 19 but will reduce its forces in the Far East.

The 19-division goal announced Friday represents an increase of two over the strength the Army originally planned to maintain under the administration's "new look" military strategy.

The Army currently has 20 divisions. Its present strength is about 1.1 million men, but it is scheduled to drop to 1,027,000 by the middle of next year.

When its strength was ordered cut back to 1,027,000 men under the new plan the Army intended to maintain 17 combat divisions in the next fiscal year. Later, however, it revised its goal upward to 18 and now plans to maintain 19.

The Army's revised plans call for deactivation of the 23rd Infantry Division in the Panama Canal zone, and the 71st Infantry Divi-

Fumes Cited As Possible Cancer Cause

LOS ANGELES—UP—Deadly chemicals in the air from raw gasoline fumes and from automobile exhaust gases probably are to blame for the present increase in lung cancer, according to two top California medical men.

The doctors, Seymour Farber and Paul Kotin, told the American College of Chest Physicians Friday that if lung cancer continues to increase at its present rate, by 1970 one out of every 15 men in this nation will develop it.

"Some new factor has been at work in the past 50 years to cause this increase in lung cancer, and we think it is these compounds which have grown with the automobile industry," said Dr. Kotin.

University of Southern California pathologist.

He said the deadly chemicals need not be associated with thick smog as experienced in Los Angeles, but such chemicals are present in the air of every large city. This would account for the fact that city residents have more lung cancer than county people, he said.

Majority Of Farm Families Have Hiked Living Standards

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — UP—The majority of farm families have maintained and, in some instances, added to their standard of living in the last five years despite a drop in farm income, an Agriculture Department economist reported to the recent agricultural outlook conference.

Dr. Margaret L. Brew, head of the household management section of the Agricultural Research Service, said families on farms have made important additions since 1950 to their reserves of household goods and conveniences.

Dr. Brew attributed this to the fact that the number of families dependent on farm income is smaller, and also that farm families have increased their income from non-farm employment.

Smaller Number Farming

The farm population has been growing smaller. Figures show that income per family from farming has not declined as much as total farm income. Furthermore, increased income from non-farm employment does not show up in figures on total farm income.

The reserves of durable goods that farm families have built up over the last five years have helped considerably to maintain their standards of living, Dr. Brew said.

Farm family spending, she said, seems to have held up through 1954 and to be following the same trends as spending by all consumers.

Here are some examples of how farm families have increased their living standards since 1950:

In 1954 about 70 per cent of all farmers owned an automobile. In 1950 only about 63 per cent owned automobiles.

Most Have Electricity

More than 90 per cent of all farms had electricity in 1954 compared to 78 per cent in 1950.

About half of farm families had a telephone in 1954 contrasted with 38 per cent in 1950.

About 33 1-3 per cent owned home freezers in 1954 while only 12 per cent did in 1950.

Despite continued spending by farm families for home conveniences and facilities there is still need for improvement in living conditions, Dr. Brew said.

Agriculture Department economists expect overall farming costs in 1956 to average about the same as in 1955. Here is a summarized version of 1956 probable costs:

Tractors, farm machinery and personal property are expected to be up about 5 per cent.

Some Prices Lower

Fertilizer coats per pound are expected to remain at about 1955 levels with a slight decline possible.

Prices of feed can be expected to average somewhat lower than last year although not greatly different from current levels.

Feeder and replacement livestock are likely to cost about the same in 1956 as in 1955.

Wage rates for hired farm labor can be expected to increase a little next year.

These conditions add up to a prospect of lower average prices of feed and seed in 1956. This will in large part offset higher prices for many industrial items farmers use in their work.

If Farm Prices Are Low, Why Is Food Still So High?

Editor's Note: "If farm prices have fallen so sharply that the government is taking emergency action to help the farmers, why does food still cost so much?" That question, in many different forms, reflects a widespread puzzlement among housewives and others about the "spread" between farm prices and retail food prices. This explains why the spread exists, how great it is, and why it's likely to grow even greater.

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON — UP — The farmer gets considerably less than half of every dollar the housewife spends on food. And this "price spread" is expected to grow even wider.

Despite bumper crops and lower prices to farmers, the Agriculture Department predicts that the housewife's food bill in 1956 will average about the same as in 1955. This poses the question as to why retail prices don't come down proportionately to the decrease in farm prices.

The answer is in marketing and processing charges. They include labor, transportation, processing, wholesaling, retailing, profits of firms making and selling food products—in short, all the services connected with food handling. The cost of these services has increased steadily in recent years and the outlook for next year is "further moderate increases."

Cost Taken From Consumer

The cost comes out of the consumer's food dollar. The marketing bill for 1955 is estimated at $28 billion. This is 60 per cent of the $46.3 billion that housewives will spend across the grocery counter.

Kohler Urges Stand Against Union Rule

CHICAGO—UP—President Herbert V. Kohler of strikebound Kohler Co., said Friday industry must take a stand on "union dictatorship."

Kohler, uncle of Wisconsin's Gov. Walter Kohler, also is chairman of the Kohler plumbingware firm which has been battling a CIO strike since April 5, 1954. The strike by members of the United Auto Workers union erupted in violence and mass picketing that closed the plant at Kohler, Wis., for 54 days at one time.

Kohler said in a speech that industry in taking a stand on "union dictatorship" must decide whether it will settle the issue by "ducking it or meeting it, by surrendering or fighting."

"We are fighting for our survival and for the freedom of the individual," he said of his own firm.

In answer to a question, Kohler implied that he thought Walter Reuther, president of the UAW, is supporting union demands that might wreck the nation's economy.

"I am confident that Mr. Reuther is an inflationist and a socialist," Kohler said.

He answered a question as to how other industrialists might be persuaded to "stand up and fight" by saying, "perhaps they will be prompted by their love of liberty," and may be the "financial squeeze will help."

Most German Alimony Banned

BERLIN—UP—The Communist East German government Friday banned the payment of alimony except in special hardship cases. A new law provided that alimony will not be paid to women who are able to work and support themselves regardless of the grounds for divorce.

No Decision Reached

OTTAWA—UP—The Supreme Court Friday ended its unprecedented hearing into the trial and conviction of Wilbert Coffin but reserved its decision on whether Coffin should be hanged for the slaying of bear hunter Richard Lindsey, 37, of Hollidaysburg, Pa.

ter for farm produced goods. Forty cents of each food dollar goes to the farmer.

The Department of Agriculture computes the farmer's share and the marketing bill through use of a "typical market basket" for average wage earners or clerical workers in an urban community. The basket contains all farm-produced foods. Fish are excluded. In the latest report—July-September—all items of the market basket cost at retail $983.35. Of this, the farmer's share was $393.25, or 40 per cent. The 60 per cent marketing bill was $590.10.

The farmer does not get the same per cent of return on all items. For example, a pound loaf of bread in the market basket retails at 17.7 cents. The bread contains 0.912 pounds of wheat worth at the farm 2.5 cents, or 14 per cent of the cost of the loaf. The marketing bill—which in this case includes milling the wheat into flour, adding other ingredients and baking it into bread—is 15.2 cents.

Market Prices Fixed

Most of the marketing costs are fixed. They do not fluctuate like the prices received by farmers. Therefore lower prices at the farm do not bring anywhere near as much of a reduction at retail.

Furthermore, many consumers have been willing to pay for the convenience of getting foods already prepared or partly prepared for the table, and the processing cost in these is of course proportionately higher.

The present pork situation illustrates how the farmer is losing more money because of the low hog-on-the-hoof prices than the housewife is saving through cheaper meat buys across the grocery counter.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that fluctuations in average retail prices of pork ranged from a one per cent increase to a decrease of 11.6 per cent, depending on the cut or product, in the year ended Oct. 15.

The Agriculture Department's monthly price report shows that live hogs in the same period dropped 21.2 per cent.

WEEKLY GRAIN ROUNDUP

FORT WORTH — UP — USDA—

Weekly grain: All cash grains advanced this week as trading became more active in southwest markets.

Records of the Agricultural Marketing Service show net gains from Friday through Friday of 5c per 100 pounds on milo, 4 1/2c a bushel on white and yellow corn, 2 1/2c on wheat, 1c on barley and 1 to 1 1/2 a bushel on oats.

All grains, except barley, enjoyed better demand with inquiry coming mostly from feed interests.

Some export business was reported for wheat and milo. Supplies of milo were scarce, but offerings of other grains were ample for the demand in this area.

In the northern markets, offerings in most grains were limited, helping to boost prices.

Here are Friday's closing quotations—wholesale—carlots, Texas common freight rate points: milo, $2.15 to $2.20 per 100 pounds, the highest in months; white corn, $1.99 to $1.64 and yellow corn, $1.97 1/2 to $1.61 1/2, also the highest in several months; oats, 86 to 89c; No. 1 hard wheat, ordinary protein content, $2.30 to $2.40; and barley $1.18 to $1.22.

In Oklahoma, wheat advanced 1 to 2c a bushel. It brought $1.93 at Cuyamoc and Hooker, $2 at Blackwell and Lawton, $2.01 at Enid and Hobart and $2.02 at Oklahoma City and Yukon. Milo sold at $1.50 per 100 pounds at Frederick, $1.60 at Lawton, $1.70 at Clinton, $1.80 at Oklahoma City and Enid and $1.85 at Ada, Oklahoma.

Two Men Fined In County Court

Two cases were tried in County Court Friday morning with both parties entering a plea of guilty.

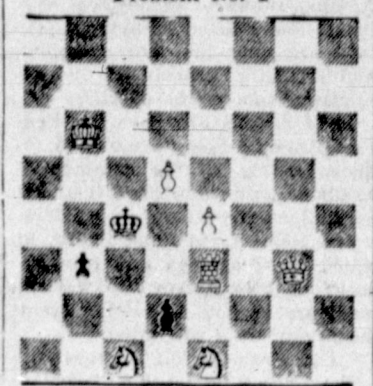

John L. Blackshire, 407 W. Thul, pleaded guilty to a charge of swindling with worthless checks. He was fined $1 and costs and made restitution. Blackshire was filed on by Paul Crossman for a check dated Nov. 19 in the amount of $12.50.

J. G. Smith, 728 N. Zimmer, pleaded guilty to a charge of concealing mortgaged property. He was fined $25 and costs.

MORTGAGE BURNED — Joe Hamlin and Mrs. R. C. Heaton, acting noble grands of the Oddfellow and Rebekah Lodges, burn the papers signifying that the lodge building is now debt-free. (News Photo)

Scientists Are Needed, Academy Says

WACO, Tex. —UP— A massive new number of scientists and engineers are needed annually, the Texas Academy of Science said today Saturday at its closing session.

Dr. John R. Mayor of Washington, a staff member of the American Association of Science, said current estimates indicate a need for 50,000 new scientists and engineers annually.

"It is clear that the need for 1955 was not met by college graduates in 1955," Mayor said, adding there is "no immediate prospect for improvement."

The Washington scientist was one of a panel of four viewing the current scientific manpower shortage. Another was Dr. T. S. Painter, former president of the University of Texas.

"Statistics on the teacher shortage are even more startling," said Dr. Mayor. He cited U.S. Office of Education estimates of a current dearth of 150,000 well-qualified elementary and secondary school teachers, and other predictions the shortage would increase.

Dr. Mayor said a primary hope for recruitment of scientific personnel in the future rests in the ability of secondary schools to create in their students "a desire for knowledge, an ambition to increase the fund of the world's knowledge through their own study and research."

Skellytown IOOF Burns Mortgage

SKELLYTOWN (Special)— The I.O.O.F. of Skellytown held their 14th Annual Roll Call in a special meeting Tuesday evening in the lodge hall. The highlight of the program was the burning of the mortgage.

Y. A. Knutson, past grand, was master of ceremonies for the program.

The program began with a song by the group led by Mrs. Carney Estes. Mr. Knutson gave the invocation, and called the roll for both the Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges. He also gave the history of the IOOF. The Skellytown Oddfellows lodge was instituted Oct. 24, 1941, with 10 charter members. The Rebekah lodge was instituted in Skellytown March 4, 1942 with 11 members. The first meeting place for the lodges was made possible by the generosity of Ike Hughes, former Skellytown druggist, now deceased. The Oddfellow lodge now has a membership of 101 including 21 past grands; the Rebekah lodge has 88 members and 21 past noble grands.

The lots for the new building were purchased in March 1950. The corner stone was laid Oct. 15, 1950 and the first meetings were held in the new building in February, 1951.

The building has been used by other organizations in the Skellytown vicinity in order to accommodate large crowds.

The Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges now own a steel and cinder block structure with 2600 square feet and valued at $28,800.

Joe Hamlin and Mrs. R. C. Heaton, presiding noble grands, burned the mortgage papers in a short ceremony. Hamlin made a short talk. The benediction was given by Mrs. Heaton.

Following the program, free barbecue was served to those attending.

Miss Addie Fern Lick entertained with piano selections during the supper.

Labor May Form Party

NEW YORK —UP— George Meany, president of the massive CIO - AFL labor union, warned Friday that the newly merged labor force would form its own political party if it is deprived of activity in the two existing parties.

Meany said the 16 million member union did not want a labor party but made it clear the union would not hesitate to form one if "deprived of its rights to exercise its political voice by endorsing candidates."

Meany made his remarks at the closing session of the National Association of Manufacturers, which had just heard Charles R. Sligh Jr., NAM board chairman, voice the fear that the merged union might attempt to "seize political control of the country."

The CIO - AFL president, who had just finished a conciliatory before the NAM convention, voiced his warning in a heated exchange with Sligh. The exchange took place in a corner of the nearly vacant hotel ballroom where the meeting had taken place.

Meany hotly disputed Sligh's expressed fear that the merged labor movement fight influence politics to such an extent as to become a "ghost government."

Attempts to ban political activity by unions could have an opposite effect, Meany warned.

Railroad Man Dies In Fire

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. —UP— A 49-year-old railroad man was killed Friday in a fire in his room in a hotel.

Firemen said A. R. Davis apparently suffered an attack of arthritis, stumbled against a chest and tipped the chest onto a gas heater. He died of burns.

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

School Bonds

By roundabout route, word has been received that it would be "wonderful" if The News would carry a series of articles emphasizing the "need for new school construction in the Pampa Independent School District" and if it would editorialize with "sweet persuasion" for enactment of bond issues to finance such construction.

This "word" comes, of course, from advocates of tax-supported, state-controlled public schools, and it comes at a time when there are opening campaigns to persuade the voters to approve substantial bond issues.

We need no persuasion to aver that Pampa needs more and better schools, but the schools we believe are needed are privately supported and parent-controlled institutions such as the Catholic Holy Souls School and the Saint Matthew's Episcopal Church School. Not that we believe private schools should be entirely branches of church organization, but because, at this time, the church groups seem to be the only groups with initiative and energy to develop schools.

It will be a strange day, indeed, when we fly in the face of our own conscience to publish deliberately advocacy of expansion of the state school system.

The government schools are established upon an immoral base. They rest upon the frightful conception that the state has a "right" to seize the wealth of individuals to build and maintain schools, that it has the "right" to compel parents to send their children to school, and it has the "right" to brainwash the young in any way its agents see fit.

To ask the editors of The News to endorse aggressive force, to persuade its readers to embrace this form of tyranny, is preposterous and presumptuous, suggestive that we might put popularity ahead of conscientious dictates.

It is our obligation as a functional newspaper to report the facts of community life — the news that bond issues are proposed, the pertinent items of debate thereon. It is our right to comment regarding such matters and it is our duty to our conscience to express these comments in full honesty.

We believe that the government schools are engaged in a consistent transgression of immutable, irrevocable and eternal moral laws and in persistent defiance of principles inherent in a free society; in particular, that freedom is an absolute. It is a fact embodied in the government school program that the physical freedom of individuals is contingent upon their contribution to the support of the state schools. (An ultimate situation is that you can be tossed into jail for refusal to pay school taxes.) Also a contingency of our freedom is that parents are obliged to send their children to schools or tutors approved by the state. (They can be jailed if they don't.) There are other contingencies too numerous to set forth here. But altogether they combine to dilute the freedom of individuals, thereby establishing liberty as a conditional privilege rather than an absolute right of men.

To this theory of "contingent freedom" we cannot subscribe. We believe the United States will be a greater nation when all its citizens unite in repudiation of the double standard that "makes lawful" for the state or the "majority" what is immoral for the individual.

Who is it that believes in the philosophy of "might makes right"?

Do you, the reader of this article, believe that a big, strong man because he is big and strong has the right to make a little, weak fellow bow to his will and do as he says?

We do not think you believe the big man has such a right.

But somehow in these United States the idea that a big group of people — the majority — has the right to make small groups — minorities — bow to its will and do as it says, is widely accepted.

The founders of our country rejected the idea that the majority had the right to make minorities support a certain church. Our forefathers' experience with tax-supported churches in other countries caused them to realize that tax support — government support — based on the philosophy of might makes right, is wrong for religion.

But the founders of our country, although they had had experience with the miseries inflicted upon minorities by government religions, had not had such experience with government education.

Therefore, in drawing up our Constitution they failed to place the same prohibition upon government schools that they placed upon government churches.

What is the difference in principle between "might makes right" churches and "might makes right" schools?

The Pampa Daily News does not think there is any difference in principle.

We think minority groups deserve as much protection from government force (taxation) in the educational field as they do in the religious field.

We think the philosophy of "might makes right" is just as wrong for schools as it is for churches.

Can any of you who read this show why it is not a contradiction in principle for government force to be prohibited from application to the religious field and endorsed for application in the educational field?

The columns are open and we await the replies.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

The American Crime Of Crimes IX.

The more one reads "A History of Our Country" by Muzzev, which is claimed to be in more high schools than any other textbook on history, the easier it is to see why the belief in collectivism and a planned economy is growing in our land. It is a natural result of having the children indoctrinated by teachers and authors of books that believe the state or the majority have an ethical right to do things that would be unethical and unjust if done by an individual.

In describing the period after the election of 1924, Muzzev writes: "The farmers had been growing poorer while the rest of the country was growing richer." Then Muzzev attempts to explain the reason. He mentions how the farmers had expanded during the War and went into debt and bought a lot of farm machinery and the prices dropped after the War. But he never mentions the real cause of the plight of the farmers. He never explains that there were not enough of the sons of the farmers leaving the farms so that with the increased machinery and increased productivity of plants there was an unnatural balance in wages in the city and on the farm. He never explains that organized labor, by its seniority and by its limiting apprentices, made it extremely difficult for the farm boy to move to town and learn a trade; that this kept a surplus of workers on the farm and permitted non-competitive fictitious wages for those in the unions reaping the fruits of their monopoly conspiracy. The result was that the farm workers, including the farmer himself, had to work two or three hours to buy for the product produced by union labor in one hour. And in many cases the farmer would be much better capable of producing more per hour than those protected by the labor monopoly.

Social Welfare Rather Than Profits

On Page 546 Muzzev tells how President Hoover, in November 1929, summoned a group of business men to the White House and asked them not to interrupt their programs for expansion or reduce wages. He makes this statement, after explaining that the government began to take steps to relieve economic distress.

He would leave the impression that economic distress could be relieved, by the government which President Hoover evidently thought was true, by having the city employers pay artificial wages two or three times what the farmers could earn.

Muzzev doesn't seem to understand that Hoover advocated the very thing that would continue the depression and the unemployment. He doesn't seem to know that in business both parties must be benefited and make a profit in every transaction if there is to be continued business; that the farmers did not make a profit when they had to work two hours to get one hour's product from union labor; that the way to restore prosperity was to correct the high cost of production so that more people would be benefited by lower prices.

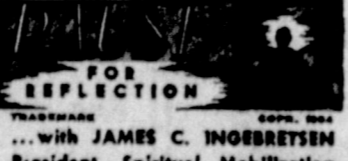

And since 90 to 99 per cent of all things are the result of labor costs, present or past, anything that froze artificial labor prices was bound to worsen the depression. In subsequent years the unemployment has been reduced by getting in the War and reducing real wages by the method of inflation.

Just how are the children attending school to understand economic law when the history writer, who was supposed to be an educator, did not himself understand economic law.

Then Muzzev continues on the same page that besides public projects for relief were added "plans" (suggested by professional men and businessmen, such as President Butler of Columbia, Professor Charles A. Beard, Gerard Swope, and Owen D. Young) advocating reforms in the organization and management of industry to make it serve social welfare rather than private profit.

That tends to show that Muzzev thinks that private profit hurts the poor. He doesn't know that private profit is simply reward for efficiency and there can be no full employment and an ever-increasing standard of living without profits; that losses made by the entrepreneur means eventually lower wages and lower standard of living.

With JAMES C. INGBRETT'S President, Spiritual Mobilization

Dr. Thomas G. Spates, Yale professor emeritus of personnel administration, gave American employers the other day some of the straightest talk they have had in many a moon. Addressing the 13th annual Employee Relations Conference of the Merchants & Manufacturers Association at Palm Springs, Calif., Prof. Spates charged, according to news reports, that management and unions are equally responsible for a current trend that is "destroying capitalism and the American way of life." He flayed employers for signing contracts that set up compulsory unionism — the union shop. "It's a low-down hypocrisy to talk about freedom in the United States," he reportedly declared, "when 70 per cent of all organized workers are under compulsory unionism." This situation he called "inconsistent with both Christianity and the American way of life." How much longer are we going to slumber and sleep before we finally wake up to the fact that a new form of slavery exists in this country — and that is growing by leaps and bounds?

West Allies Now Stronger In Middle East And Asia

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Unmoved by Khrushchev - Bulganin flirtations with India and Egypt in their attempt to weaken the Western Allies in the strategic Middle East and Asia, Washington and London have actually strengthened their position in this key area within recent months. They have done so by outflanking Nehru and Nasser, the Indian and Egyptian rulers, and, in fact, by showing some disdain for their elusive tactics in the East-West struggle.

It is true that the touring Russian dictators have won headlines from their sale of Communist arms to Cairo, and from their carnival journey through Asian countries — India and Burma. But it now appears that they achieved only paper triumphs. They made, as always, fine promises, but there was nothing solid behind their salesmanship. Cairo and New Delhi politicians, who are not without a store of worldly and cynical knowledge, accepted their vocal offerings with many grains of salt.

Although Nasser wants arms to achieve military equality or supremacy vis-a-vis Israel, he has assured Washington that he does not intend to continue to buy them from Czechoslovakia, a Russian satellite. He has indicated that the recent $80,000,000 purchase may be the one and only transaction of its kind. He denies that he means to tie up with the Soviet, militarily or economically.

What Nasser needs most is a loan of $500,000,000 or more for construction of the Aswan Dam on the Nile, which will increase Egypt's arable acres by about one-third, and the country's greatest need is more food. Without prior engineering or financial surveys on this vast and difficult project, Khrushchev offered to build it. But Nasser apparently weighed Khrushchev's promises against his performances in other fields.

Under both Stalin and his successors, Moscow has never made good on its grandiose pledges of material help. It defaulted on Hitler after the Ribbentrop-Molotov Pact of 1939. It failed to furnish promised machinery to Tito or Yugoslavia, leading him to break off relations. It milks its satellites instead of building them up.

Even now, while the Soviet fumbles and stalls on its agreement to erect a steel mill in India, the Henry J. Kaiser interests have negotiated a solid contract for construction of a steel plant in that country.

In short, the shrewd Nasser and Nehru know that the United States, whether through Governmental loans of money and machinery or technicians or private interests, can deliver the goods. So can England in its new era of prosperity. But neither Washington nor London

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

I am not familiar with any figures on the frequency of Meniere's disease but evidently this must be extremely common and perhaps is getting more so.

Certainly, I get many inquiries about it and many letters also from people who complain of attacks of dizziness or buzzing or ringing in the ears. Some of them may also be suffering from Meniere's syndrome.

Of course, not all of those who have ringing and buzzing in the ears have this condition, but some of them may, even though they have not yet learned that the cause is considered to be Meniere's disease.

THE SEAT OF THE DIFFICULTY almost certainly lies deep in the ear. It is commonly believed that there is an accumulation of fluid or dropsy in the deep portion of the ear called the labyrinth. This condition does not often develop in young people but past the age of 45 it becomes increasingly common; since there are more of us in the later years of life than there used to be it would certainly not be surprising if Meniere's disease was actually more common than it used to be.

Recently, I have learned of a new theory on the cause of this condition. This theory, which is based on some careful studies, suggests that it is the result of a chronic progressive neuritis in the labyrinth with the formation of a kind of crop of blisters. The theory also proposes that the symptoms are the result of breaking of the blisters from time to time. Whether correct or not, I do not know.

ANYWAY, APPARENTLY some patients who drink a lot of fluids find that an attack comes on a few hours afterwards — probably because of the increased accumulation of fluid in the labyrinth. This has given a clue leading to the use of some forms of treatment aimed at cutting down the intake of fluids or removing excess fluids from the body.

SHE'S GOING TO MAKE HIM OVER — Debbie Reynolds, engaged to marry Frank Sinatra in "The Tender Trap," tells him that first she's going to reform him. The M-G-M CinemaScope comedy-romance, based on the Broadway stage hit, co-stars David Wayne and Celeste Holm. Now playing at the LaNora.

Here Are 10 Tips For 'Tender Trap'

Girls who have their matrimonial sights set on an elusive bachelor might take a tip (or rather, ten tips) from Debbie Reynolds, Celeste Holm, Jarma Lewis, Lola Albright and Carolyn Jones. All these ladies spend all their time trying to catch Frank Sinatra in M-G-M's hilarious comedy, "The Tender Trap," based on the Broadway stage hit. And here are the rules which they either did (or should have) followed:

1. Make a Marriage Plan. Decide what kind of man you want, but don't be too specific or you'll never find him.
2. When you think you've found your knight in shining armor, don't telephone, write or wire him. Let him call you. Many a highly eligible Charlie shudders every time the phone rings.
3. If you're not in love with the man, don't tell him you are. This can lead to unexpected complications.
4. Don't copy his tastes. Don't tell him you've read all the books he's mentioned. If you happen to admire a play which he doesn't like, say so. Lovely conversation brings out the best in people.
5. Don't try to remodel him on your first date. So you hate pink shirts. Don't tell him so. Bid your time, and when the proper moment arises, you'll know it.
6. Act surprised when he calls a second time. One girl we know picked up the phone and said, "Oh, you." She couldn't understand why he never called again.
7. Take a second look. If he asks you out a second time after you've refused the first invitation, you may see something in him that you missed the first time.
8. Don't be afraid of a difference in age. As long as you don't feel like a child bride or Dracula's mother with him, forget the age question.
9. If in doubt, invite him to your home and see how he looks in familiar surroundings. Watch his reaction to family, friends and pets.
10. Don't trust "chemistry." The heroine of "The Tender Trap" refuses a dinner date with the hero because she doesn't feel the right chemistry when she's with him. Two weeks later, when she sees him slouched in a basket chair—something happens. And in two short months the tender trap is sprung!

Navy Plans Small A-Sub

WASHINGTON—UP—The Navy plans to build a small atomic submarine with a revolutionary-type hull. It will be more maneuverable and faster underwater than the Nautilus—the first atomic-powered submarine.

The vessel will have a flat-sided, fish-like hull design that may lead to a revolution in the shape of underwater craft. It will be about half the size of the 3,000-ton Nautilus and more comparable to the efficient attack class submarines of World War II.

The maximum underwater speed of the new sub will exceed the 25 knots credited to the Nautilus when it is submerged.

The Navy also announced that three conventional diesel-powered submarines in this year's shipbuilding program will be changed to the new hull design. The atomic sub also is a change in plans and not an addition.

Abilene Eagles Smother Sunset, Tyler Lions Stop Baytown

Eagles Fly Over Sunset 33-6 In Eagles' Nest

ABILENE, Dec. 10 — UP — The high-flying Abilene Eagles took one more step toward successful defense of their AAAA high school football championship Saturday by defeating the Sunset Bisons of Dallas in Fair Park Stadium, 33-6.

Fullback James Welch scored three times for the Eagles while Glyn Gregory contributed the other two touchdowns. The single touchdown for Sunset came on a third period, 33-yard sprint by Robert Robinson.

As Abilene won its 22nd consecutive game — including regular season and playoff games — the mastery of ball-handling employed by the Eagles again displayed itself.

self, David Bourland threw a 45-yard pass to Gregory for Abilene's third touchdown.

No plans have been made as yet for the meeting place for the Abilene Eagles and the Tyler Lions for the AAAA championship next week. The Lions defeated Baytown Saturday at Baytown.

It was announced in the press box at Abilene that school officials of both schools probably will get together at some midway point Sunday to select a site for the championship game next week.

In the first half of Saturday's game there was not a penalty flag thrown, but some infractions broke out in the last two quarters with Abilene being assessed two 15-yard penalties and three majors being stepped against Sunset for a total of 43 yards.

Tyler Lions Breeze Past Baytown Ganders 20-0

BAYTOWN, Dec. 10 — UP — Tyler's terrific Lions moved into the Class AAAA schoolboy finals against Abilene Saturday with a methodical, surprising decisive, 20-0 victory over unbeaten Baytown.

Coach Buck Prejean's powerhouse, with all-state quarterback Charles Milstead living up to his lofty reputation, ripped apart Baytown's rugged defense to score in each of the last three quarters.

The Lions drove 71 yards in eight plays for their first touchdown. Milstead tallied from the four-yard line after hitting Ken McGuire and Mickey Trimble for pass gains of 30 and 19 yards.

Then Milstead kicked the first of

Stinnett Strikes Rangers 27 To 19

CHILDRESS, Tex., Dec. 10 — UP — The Ranger Bulldogs, trailing 20-6 at halftime, threw a terrific score into Stinnett Rattlers during the final half Saturday, but the Rattlers beat off the rally and went on to win 27-19 in a quarter-final Class A playoff game.

Approximately 2,500 shivering fans made their feet in the fourth quarter as the Rangers threatened to go ahead and did close the gap to 20-19.

However, Stinnett struck for another score in the closing minutes and had the ball deep in Ranger territory as the game ended.

Ralph Hicks, Stinnett halfback, provided three of the touchdowns and Freddy Thompson, halfback, made the other. Larry Dawson plunged for one extra point and passed to end David Hadden for another.

Fullback George Bodey plunged for one.

Take Lead on Fumble

The Rattlers took the lead on the seventh play of the game after Dale Keadie, guard, recovered a Bulldog fumble on the Ranger 25. Five plays later Hicks went over from the four. After holding Ranger on downs, following the next kickoff, Stinnett struck again when Hicks made the first stand-out run of the game, going 79 yards.

The next score, which put them out front, 20-6, was just as spectacular with Thompson breaking through the line, picking up good downfield blocking and galloping 89 yards.

The run came on the first play of the second period. Ranger, making its second sustained drive, took over following a punt to their own 26 and drove 74 yards for their first score.

Chicago University To Have Its First Grid Team Since '39

CHICAGO — UP — The University of Chicago hoped Saturday to field a football team by the time the 1957 season rolled around.

Once the scourge of the Big Ten under Amos Alonzo Stagg, the Maroon abandoned the sport in 1939 when former Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins took a dim view of the evils of big-time football.

A faculty committee appointed by Chancellor Lawrence A. Kimpton to study the issue recommended Friday that Chicago resume football on a non-conference, free-lance basis.

It was expected the recommendation would be approved, and that football would be resumed by Chicago during the 1957 season.

Garland Owls Smother The Texarkana Tigers 44 To 18

GARLAND, Tex., Dec. 10 — UP — Bobby Boyd scored three touchdowns and passed for another as the Garland Owls smothered the Texarkana Tigers, 44-18 in a Class AAA high school playoff game in Garland Saturday.

Boyd tallied on runs of one, 19 and 63 yards, and passed to end Lowell Baker for 13 yards and another touchdown to lead a vicious Garland offense that picked up 49 yards — 397 of which came on the ground.

Garland took an 18-0 lead in the first period, scoring every time it had the ball. The first Garland touchdown came with five and a half minutes left in the opening period, with fullback J. R. Wynne plowing up the middle from nine yards out. Quarterback Arthur Douglas missed the extra point.

One minute later halfback Chuck Bailey took a handoff from Douglas and skirted right end for 17 yards and the second Garland score. Boyd's kick was no good.

With one minute, five seconds left in the first period, Garland upped its lead to 18-0. Wynne speeded 22 yards up the middle for the touchdown and Boyd again missed the extra point.

Boyd scored twice in the second quarter, getting one and 19 yards for the touchdowns. Guard Roger Brand converted after the second touchdown to give Garland a 31-0 halftime lead.

Two more Garland touchdowns came in the third quarter — one on a 63-yard run by Boyd on the first play of the second half and the second on a 13-yard pass from Boyd to Baker. Brand converted once and Garland held a 44-0 margin at the end of the third period.

Denver Panthers Drop Dallas In Eighth Milk Bowl

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 10 — UP — The Presentation Parochial Panthers of Denver beat the Oak Cliff Panthers of Dallas, Tex., 18-0, Saturday to win the eighth annual Milk Bowl football game.

The game is for boys 10 to 14 years old and weighing under 110 pounds. It is sponsored by the Alamo Heights Lions Club and the proceeds go Boys' Homes of America and the Lions' League for Crippled Children.

John Mazuca ran six yards for the first Denver touchdown in the first period. He had taken it to the six-yard line on a previous play with a run of 43 yards.

Harvesters Bounce Back And Top Portales 56-43

The Pampa Harvesters bounced back after taking a licking in Clovis Friday night to defeat the Portales Rams 56-43 in Harvesters Field House last night before a small but enthusiastic crowd.

Coach Aud Smith, who defeated the Pampa Harvesters last year, had only two of his 54 Rams playing last night when he invaded Harvesters fieldhouse but one of them racked up 23 points for the top honors of the game. Barry Stone, 6 ft. 4 center for the Rams, was literally up in the air last night as he counted for more than half of the Rams' points.

He sank six field goals and 11 free throws. The Harvesters couldn't seem to keep him from shooting without fouling him. He tied with Pampa's Jerry Gee in the gratis point division, however, as Gee counted for 11 of 15 chances from the line. Stone sank 11 of 15 also.

Coach Smith, who played only six toys, had one boy out of his starting lineup with stomach cramps and felt he was at a disadvantage in trying to stop the Harvesters again this year.

The Harvesters, out to avenge the upset last year, seemed to gain strength from the beginning and pulled out to lead the Rams at the end of the first frame by a 13-8 score after they came from behind early in the game.

Gene Brown dumped in two field goals and Dickie Mauldin counted for a free throw to pull the Green and Golders out in the lead.

The Harvesters held the Rams to only five points in the second frame and counted for 17 themselves to stretch their lead to 30-13 at the half.

Wesley Bales, counted for four of the Rams five points in the second quarter with two field goals. Barry Stone counted for the other with a free toss.

The Harvesters' Brown counted for six points with three field goals and Mauldin counted for four with a pair. Buddy Sharp sank one field goal and Tommy Gindorf one. Jerry Gee counted with three more of his 11 free tosses in the frame.

The foul was committed as the buzzer sounded and the fans did not hear the official's whistle.

Barry Stone counted for nine Harvesters a little rattled. They points in the last frame while the counted for three field goals and Harvesters totaled 14.

Pope counted for two more and Gee sank his last four free throws. The Green and Golders' will Brown dumped in one more field travel to Plainview Dec. 12 and to goal and Mauldin got three via Phillips Dec. 15 but will be back the free throw toss. Carroll Cole in Harvesters Fieldhouse for a dumped in a free toss to account game with Palo Duro on the 15th.

for the Harvesters' last point which made the score 56-35. The Rams put on the full court press and had the inexperienced two free tosses to make the 56-43.

Despite the substitutions, the Green and Golders still seemed to remember the Rams upsetting them last year and kept pumping them in.

The Harvesters counted for 11 points while they held the Rams to only seven, with Barry Stone counting for all of them.

The Green and Golders who counted in the frame were Brown, with one field goal, Gee with one field goal and three free throws. Jerry Pope with two points and Buddy Sharp with another field goal.

Jerry Pope had the Rams Johnny Cole in the corner for 15 seconds as the frame ended.

Coach Clifford McNeely substituted freely in the last quarter as all the Harvesters left the bench. The score told the tale, too, as the Rams cut the 41-20 lead to 13 points as Stone sank two more free throws after the crowd had gone on the court to congratulate

Saylor System Has Maryland Over Sooners

UNIVERSITY Park, Pa., Dec. 10 — UP — The Saylor System's 10th annual college football ratings released Saturday listed Maryland's mighty Terrapins as the nation's top team.

The system, perfected by Penn State economist Roger B. Saylor, counted seven "bowl" teams among its top eight.

Following in order behind Maryland were Michigan State, UCLA, Texas Christian, Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Ohio State and Mississippi.

Ohio State, which won its second straight Big 10 championship, is prevented from making two consecutive bowl appearances. The Buckeyes were in the Rose Bowl last New Years Day.

Rounding out the top 10 were Texas A&M in ninth place and Notre Dame and Auburn, tied for 10th.

Saylor saw little to choose between Maryland and Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, Michigan State and UCLA in the Rose Bowl, and Texas Christian and Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl. But Georgia Tech rated a nod over Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl and Auburn was the pick over Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl.

Rams Rated Over Green Bay Packers In Sunday's Game

By UNITED PRESS

The Los Angeles Rams are 6 1-2 point favorites to defeat the Green Bay Packers Sunday and qualify to play host to the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's championship game Dec. 26.

Coach Sid Gillman's Rams hold a half-game lead over the runnerup Chicago Bears. Los Angeles can clinch the Western Division title by winning or tying, regardless of whether the Bears win or lose against the Philadelphia Eagles at Chicago.

The Bears are favored over the Eagles by 7 1-2 points and can capture the division crown for the 12th time by winning, providing the Rams lose.

All 12 NFL clubs end their regular campaigns Sunday but only the Rams-Packers and Bears-Eagles titles have any title significance. The Los Angeles contest figures to draw at least 75,000 fans and the Chicago clash about 50,000.

The Browns, who clinched their sixth Eastern Division title in as many tries last Sunday, end their regular season by entertaining the Chicago Cardinals. Quarterback Otto Graham and guard Abe Gibron of the Browns will be honored at special ceremonies.

The San Francisco Forty-Niners are at home to the Baltimore Colts, the New York Giants visit the Detroit Lions and the Washington Redskins entertain the Pittsburgh Steelers in the other wind-ups.

Port Neches Defeats Alice 14-7

ALICE, Tex., Dec. 10 — UP — Norman Dorsey ran for 59 yards in the last two minutes Saturday to give Port Neches a 14-7 victory in the state district semifinal playoff before 10,000 fans.

Alice came from behind with slightly more than two minutes left to tie up the game, 7-7. Alice led in penetrations, 4 to 2.

Dorsey, a speedy guard, ran for the winning touchdown on the first play from scrimmage after the Alice kickoff went only 10 yards.

Port Neches scored first by marching 71 yards from the opening kickoff. The score was set up on two passes — one from Bobby Falkout to Norval Adams on the 28, and another to John Goodwin on the Alice 19. Bobby LaBorde went over from the 19 for the Port Neches touchdown, and Gordon LeBoeuf booted the extra point.

Port Neches drove to the Alice 19 as the first period ended, but lost the ball on downs after throwing two incomplete passes. Alice took over and went 63 yards to the Port Neches 19, where it lost the ball on downs. But Alice recovered the ball when Port Neches fumbled and moved it on to the seven-yard line before Goodwin intercepted a pass for Port Neches on the one-yard line.

Alice drove 91 yards in the fourth period, but lost the ball on downs on the Port Neches five. Then Alice took a punt on its own 33-yard line a few minutes later. Halfback Ronnie Capps threw a pass to Bobby Almaraz on Port Neches 30, and Almaraz went on to the four before he was pulled down from behind.

Capps went over for the touchdown on the next play, and Touchdown Wood kicked the extra point to tie up the game 7-7 with slightly more than two minutes left.

'Little Olympics' Underway 28th

By HALE MONTGOMERY
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 —UP— A selective field of some of the finest amateur athletic talent in the locker rooms of the nation's colleges will empty into town here Dec. 28 to kick off a six-ring week-long carnival of sports and officially open the winter season of this bayou city.

There will be enough athletic talent in old New Orleans to make a college coach weep with sheer want. Just like the gumbo soup in this Creole country, which has a little of everything in it, the carnival is a mixture of six separate sports all underway in dazzling progression during one full week, capped by the Sugar Bowl football game Jan. 2.

Boxing, oddly, takes the first poke at the start of this "Little Olympics," getting on the go Dec. 28 at Municipal Auditorium. Then the sports stairway of stars leads right through tennis, basketball, track, a sailing regatta, up to the pinnable, the gridiron classic.

The whole is known commonly as the Sugar Bowl week and is sponsored by the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association. The association is a private group, the only one in the nation which sponsors a major football game since the remainder of the bowl organizers are now municipal bodies. Mid-winter functions year-round gathering its strength to put on the big one-week extravaganza.

Pittsburgh will represent the East this year in the Sugar Bowl football classic and Georgia Tech, a perennial bowl team, will be the other corner as the best from the South. The kickoff on the afternoon of Jan. 2 in a magnificent stadium seating 82,000 promises to touch off a really fine gridiron clash, with or without reference to the racial clouds which gathered recently over Pitt's plans to use a Negro player.

The game has grown from the 1935 Tulane-Temple inaugural fracas when the sponsors had trouble filling a 22,000-seat stadium through three additions to the stands to today's handsome 82,000-seat steel and concrete bowl which will be packed with lucky ticket holders.

Although the lists are not complete for all the competing athletes in every event, preliminary lineups have Syracuse University's boxing team meeting Louisiana State University, Syracuse is bringing two NCAA champions to the ring for the three-day boxing card. LSU lost two NCAA champs from last year's squad, but always throws up a fine collegiate leather team.

Davis Cupper Vic Sixas, Tom Brown, Jr., and Eddie Moylan head up a preliminary list of tennis stars who start swinging Dec. 29 and crown a Sugar Bowl champ with Saturday's final matches Dec. 31. The New Orleans Country Club courts will host the net events. Basketball moves in Dec. 29 at the polished Loyola fieldhouse with defending Sugar Bowl champion Notre Dame from last year paired against Alabama's Crimson Tide on opening night. The University of Utah's tall cagers meet the Marquette University quintet in the other match. The opening round winners clash Dec. 30 for tournament honors.

Robinson Still Delighted With 'Miracle' Knockout

CHICAGO — UP — Sugar Ray Robinson, still amazed and delighted at the quick knockout over Carl (Bobo) Olson that made him the first middleweight ever to win the world champion three times, said Saturday. "It seems almost like a miracle."

He added, "I am a Christian. I did the very best I could and left the rest to God."

At 35, he scored the most glorious victory of his long career Friday night on an upset knockout over 27-year-old Olson at 2:51 of the second round before 12,441 wildly yelling fans in Chicago Stadium and recaptured the 160-pound crown for the second time.

His second thwarting of the ancient ring axiom: "They never come back," was achieved at the very hour when life seemed darkest for him.

News That Hurt
Shortly before the fight, he was tagged with an $87,000 federal tax lien, and Chicago newspapers were front-paging the gangland slaying of his former business associate, Alex Louia Greenberg.

Robinson and Joe Louis a few years ago had the Detroit distributing rights for Greenberg's Canadian Ace Brewing Co.
The slender Negro with the little mustache went into the ring a 3-1 underdog because most experts and betting men thought "his legs were gone" and that he could not go 15 rounds in the nationally televised and broadcast fight against the aggressive Hawaiian-born Bobo from San Francisco.

But Robinson didn't let Olson last long enough to answer the $84,000 question about the legs. He rocked Bobo early in the second round with a right to the chin, and staggered him a minute later in an exchange with a left hook to the jaw. Then he began barraging Bobo and finally dropped him with a left hook and a smashing right to the jaw. The explosive right blasted Bobo to his back on the canvas.

His Third Knockout
Game Bobo writhed about on the floor but was unable to lift himself as Referee Frank Sikora waved the 10-count above him. He suffered the third knockout and eighth defeat of his career in the fourth defense of the crown.

It was Olson who had forced the fight in every minute except during the final barrage. However, the retreating, side-stepping and circling Robinson landed the more effective punches.

Sugar Ray won the first round on the score sheets of the two judges, John Bray and Ed Hintz, 10-9, but Referee Sikora called it even 10-10. The United Press had Sugar Ray ahead 10-9.

The noisy crowd of 12,441 paid a gross gate of $139,725. The net gate was $139,725. In addition, the TV-radio fee was $75,000. Olson's 35 per cent of all net receipts amounted to $66,475, and Robinson's 25 per cent was $47,482.

Olson Has Weight Problems
Robinson weighed 159 3/4 pounds the heaviest for any title bout during his regimine as welterweight champion and twice middleweight ruler. Olson, who was reported to have had weight-making difficulties, scaled 159 1/4.

However, Olson did not blame weight-making for his defeat—his third suffered at the fists of Sugar Ray. He blamed martial difficulties. His wife is suing him for divorce. And he blamed the difficulties with a former manager, who also is suing him.

He said, "I warmed up for 40 minutes in the dressing room. But I just couldn't get going when I was in the ring. I just didn't have it because I wasn't sharp in my mind for the fight."

Editors Note: Dr. Joyce Brothers, cute blonde psychologist, won "The $84,000 Question" TV show by answering questions about boxing. Here she put her knowledge of boxing to work as a reporter for the first time, covering the Bobo Olson-Ray Robinson middleweight title bout Friday night.

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS
Written for United Press
CHICAGO — UP — I couldn't have been more wrong. And I couldn't be happier about being wrong.

I thought for sure Bobo Olson would win, which shows what sort of fight expert I am. But I guess a lot of other people guessed wrong, too.

It was a thrilling victory for Sugar Ray. He did what no other man in modern boxing history has done. He retired as champion of his weight class and came back to regain his title.

So they'll have to rewrite that boxing adage, the one that says, "They don't come back." They do come back, or at least Sugar Ray did.

Not only that, but he came back twice. He lost the title in England to Randy Turpin in 1951, and won it back in New York the same year.

So his knockout victory was really an historic moment and I was thrilled to have been there at ringside.

They say that pound for pound Robinson was the best fighter in the last quarter of a century. Judging by the way he fought Friday night, perhaps he still is.

He seemed to be the calmest person in Chicago Stadium. I was impressed by the way he relaxed in the clinches, as if conserving his strength.

He went about his task like the old pro he is, and when he saw his chance he took it.

Bobo Jittery
By contrast, Bobo seemed a little jittery. He even seemed that way at the weigh-in Friday.

The first round seemed very close, but I thought Robinson took it on points, 10 to 9.

He was ducking and slipping punches beautifully, and if his footwork and reflexes have slowed it certainly wasn't apparent.

From the historical point of view, it's interesting to note that two other middleweights—regained their titles, but not after retiring. Those two were Tony Zale, who was introduced to the crowd Friday night, and Stanley Ketchel, my favorite fighter although he was considerably before my time.

Mistake Less Costly
I picked Olson to win because he had such a big advantage in youth. I'm glad I wasn't that wrong on "The $84,000 Question."

Speaking of television, it brings the fights to millions who couldn't otherwise see them, but it can never take the place of being there in the crowd.

Somewhat, seeing the fight from an easy chair in your living room isn't the same. You don't get caught up in the crowd spirit like you do if you're there.

I was flabbergasted when the knockout came. I was as excited and happy as I was on "The $84,000 Question."

I can't be sure but it seemed to me Sugar Ray was crying with joy. I know I was.

Southwest Conference Turns Thumbs Down On Texas Tech

By ED EITE
DALLAS, Dec. 10 —UP— The Southwest Conference Saturday turned thumbs down on proposed membership of Texas Tech and Houston, declined to modify Texas A&M's probation and made more flexible its rules on assessment of penalties.

By its action, the conference again refused to enlarge its membership of seven schools, but supporters of Texas Tech let it be known that they probably will keep bringing up the issue, probably again next May at the annual spring meeting.

They mustered four votes to get the Texas Tech admittance motion off the table, where it had lain since May, 1954, but failed to get the fifth vote needed for two-thirds majority on a motion to invite Texas Tech to submit an application for membership.

No Announcement of Vote
There was no official announcement of the vote, but Tech Athletic Director DeWitt Weaver agreed with newsmen who surmised that his support came from Texas, Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas A&M, Arkansas had been counted upon by Tech backers as possibly swinging to their side in the show-down vote this time.

The motion to invite Houston, believed made by Baylor, died for want of a second.

The faculty committee also announced retention on a retainer basis of an investigating agency.

Giant Willie Mays Signs '56 Contract

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 —UP— Willie Mays, who led the New York Giants in most departments last season, got the jump on his teammates again Saturday by signing his 1956 contract.

Although the terms of his new pact were not disclosed, it was believed the popular center fielder received a $5,000 increase over his estimated 1955 salary of $27,500.

That would bracket May with shortstop Alvin Dark, who has a holdover two-year contract of $65,000, as the Giants' highest salaried players.

Mays enjoyed one of his greatest seasons during the 1955 campaign. He led the National League in homers with 31, four more than Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski, and also was the league's slugging champion with a mark of .659, based on 145 hits for 382 total bases.

The General Research Company of Dallas and Houston, to help the conference office conduct inquiries into reported rules violations. Private investigators have been used for two years, but on a spot necessity basis.

Won't Lift A&M Ban
The committee rejected a proposal to lift the post-season ban on Texas A&M athletic teams as it applied to spring sports and it was pointed out that the required annual review of the two-year Texas A&M probation next May would come in time to take care of all spring sports except basketball.

The penalty as it applied to Aggie football teams was not discussed. Exact terms of penalties against member schools and individuals were shunted aside in favor of an amendment giving the committee the right to assess disciplinary action "as it sees fit," in order to make "the penalty fit the degree of crime" so to speak.

The existing rule called for mandatory one year probation for schools or one year suspension for athletes for any first violation of recruiting rules. Second offense penalties were virtually unlimited.

Job Promises Illegal
The committee also made illegal the "promise of employment, scholarship, a loan or any type of assistance for any other persons as a means of influencing an athlete." Promise of employment was the only illegal stipulation mentioned in the existing rule.

Proposals were defeated to give schools a 90-day notice prior to assessment of a penalty and to make athletes ineligible at all schools if he knowingly violates recruiting rules instead of at the affected member. The committee pointed out that the new flexible penalty rule could cover the latter situation.

Several reports of rule violation investigations were made by the conference office, but no action was taken on any of them.

The committee put off until the May meeting a decision on whether to also hold an annual meeting in September; put off until a meeting at the NCAA convention in Los Angeles next month whether to continue the conference pre-season basketball arrangement.

It also approved use of a fifth official for football games, the moving of the conference tennis meet to Waco May 10-12, set the cross-country race distance at two miles, set the conference swim relays at Rice Jan. 14 and swim championships at Austin May 15-17.

Big Ten Wants To Televisize Sell-Out Games
CHICAGO — UP — The Big Ten wants permission from the NCAA to televise sell-out football games and "more flexibility" in the NCAA-TV plan.

The conference also asked for a continuation of regional video to provide continuity. It believed that regional games should be shown in succession and be preceded and followed by national games to eliminate a "hop, skip and jump pattern."

The Big Ten's request for more flexibility was intended to make possible the televising of sell-out games and other contests of national and regional interest. The conference said, however, it had "no specific suggestions" for changes.

There was a discussion of the Rose Bowl pact, which has two years to run, but no action was taken on the agreement with the Pacific Coast Conference.

A proposal of coaches to expand the football season from nine to 10 games was rejected.

Ladies' Match, Grudge Battle Set For This Wednesday Night

The Pampa Shrine Club has scheduled two main events on their mat card for Wednesday night December 14th at the Top of Texas Sportman's Club.

The first main event, a 2 out of 3 fall one hour time limit, brings together two girl wrestlers. Dot Dotson and Mary Jane Mull. These two girls are both newcomers to Pampa; but not to the ring. They are two of the outstanding girl wrestlers in the United States today. They will put on a show that will be worth the price of admission.

The other main event will be a tag team match of Bob Geigel and Dory Funk vs. George Overhulls and Leo "The Lion" Newman. This match is a grudge match and has no time limit.

DOT DOTSON ... to wrestle here

The trouble all started last week in the second main event when Newman couldn't be kept out of the ring. He helped Heff in obtaining the last fall over Funk. Funk turned on the referee George Overhulls, then Overhulls and Newman both went after Funk. Big Bob Geigel came to the aid of Funk.

After quite a bit of slugging among the four the ring was finally cleared. The fight broke out again in the dressing room. The chairs began to fly and after a few bloody noses and cracked heads the wrestling commissioner, Homer Anderson, Sheriff Rufe Jordan and deputy, Buck Haggard, got them separated and escorted Overhulls and Newman to another dressing room.

Overhulls proceeded to referee the last event between Gorgous George and Bob Geigel. Geigel won the match in two straight falls. Overhulls and Geigel got into it again. Overhulls reversed his decision and gave the entire match to Gorgous George.

The crowd was very much displeased with the decision as well as Geigel. When Overhulls announced his decision, Geigel punched him again.

After all the wrestlers calmed down, Howard Threatt, the club president signed them for a no time limit match, and suggested that they show their ability in the ring instead of the dressing room.

So all you fans who like to see rough wrestling with a little blood mixed in had better not miss this one. Anything might happen.

Tickets will be on sale at the Modern Pharmacy with no additional price this week and with all proceeds going to Pampa Shrine Club's Crippled Children's Fund.

Harvesters Fall To Clovis Wildcats

Drop Second Game Of Season By Nine Points

The Pampa Harvesters dropped their second game of the '55-'56 season to the Clovis Wildcats Friday night by nine points as neither team substituted until the last frame and then only because one of the Green and Golders fouled out. The final score was 57-48.

The Green and Golders who defeated Tulla, Vernon and Quanah for their first three victories of the season, were felled by the Tulla club in Harvester fieldhouse Tuesday night and again Friday night by the revenge-hungry Clovis Wildcats. The Hornets ended their home win streak at 48 games.

The Harvesters have defeated the Wildcats for the past two seasons with ease but the Wildcats, who gave up 91 points to the Harvesters last season, caught up with the Green and Gold cagers after a halftime score of 22-20 and went on to stretch their lead to nine points before the final stanza ended.

Bob Gentry, top scorer for the Wildcats with 15 points, was the first player to score and that came on a free toss, but, Dickie Mauldin and Jimmy Enioe came back with a field goal and two free points to give the Harvesters a three point lead which was the longest lead either club held until third frame when Bert Richardson sank a 25-ft. jump shot to make the score 41-37 with the Wildcats in the lead.

After the fourth frame got underway Richardson, still hot, dumped in two more free goals and one 20 ft. net swisher to put the white striped Wildcats ahead 45-39.

After that the two Gentry boys and Richardson scored freely with Keith Blair also picking up two points on a personal by Jimmy Enioe.

Buddy Sharp came into the game replacing Tommy Gindorf late in the last frame and then Carroll Cole got into the game when Jimmy Enioe fouled out. Enioe, anxious to stop the Wildcat's scoring, fouled four times early in the last quarter.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

Not since the early day buffalo hunters moved into the Panhandle have so many buck deer been killed in this area. From reports gathered here and there it looks as if there might easily be fifty pronghorn deer killed in Hutchinson county alone. Roberts county is also furnishing plenty of bucks for the hunters, we haven't received a report from Hemphill county at this time.

However, J. Evetts Haley, high plains rancher, stated that the sought after animals, down around Canadian are feeding on wheat, miles from the typical deer range, which is something unusual. It could be that the range is nearing the saturation point and that the animals are searching for "greener pastures".

One hundred and twenty five is usually near the number of bucks annually harvested, at least for the last five years. If the rest of the Panhandle measures up to the area north of Berger and Pampa, the figure could exceed two-hundred and fifty.

It has always been said that it takes cold weather to make the Bucks move, and evidently this is correct, considering the kill record as compared to last year's, when it was so hot during the season.

The turkeys haven't fared so well, that is there aren't as many on the range as we had last year. Considering the fact that hunters are allowed one hen this year the kill is running high.

The lucky hunters, the ones that will have their names selected for the public quail hunt on the state game refuge near Canadian are in for some good shooting.

There is a surplus of birds on the refuge and the Game Dept. is allowing six hundred birds harvested. This is the first time in history that such a shoot has been conducted.

"It is sound conservation to permit hunters to harvest surplus birds", said the director of Wildlife Management of the Texas Game and Fish Comm. "Our studies show that the land can carry only so many birds. Besides, we find that up to 75-80 per cent of the annual quail production dies off naturally — if not taken by the hunters."

Sixty hunters will be allowed to participate in the hunt with ten pairs being accommodated on Dec. 2, and the same number on Dec. 17 and Jan. 1. Each party of two hunters will be permitted not more than three bird dogs. However it is not necessary to bring dogs.

There are not as many ducks in the Panhandle at this time as there has been in the past but never has there been a time when these migratory birds were in any better shape. The mallards are simply rolling with fat.

The current deer and turkey season is taking some of the pressure from the ducks and geese, however, there are quite a few fellows setting their limits quite regularly. Jolly bag on ducks is five with a possession limit of ten birds.

INFORMATION NEEDED
A. S. Jackson, senior biologist stationed at Canadian has asked all the Game Wardens in the Panhandle to assist him in keeping a record of kill during the deer and turkey hunt. Sometimes it is difficult for the wardens to contact all the hunters in the field. If you have any information as to who killed what and where and when, the wardens, and Mr. Jackson will appreciate it if you will forward this information on to the nearest game warden or to Mr. Jackson at Canadian.

This information is needed in order to set future dates and bag limits for the hunting season that we will have each year.

We have run this information before but will mention it again. Mr. Jim Nix, of the Nix rainbow trout farm has several thousand trout that can be purchased for twenty five cents each. These fish run from five to ten inches in length. Almost all of the spring fed lakes in the Panhandle, we believe, will furnish ideal habitat for these fish.

It is surprising why more people don't stock a few rainbows. These fish can be fed just like chickens, and will grow at a fast clip. The Frank Phillips Men's Club recently placed several thousand of trout purchased from Mr. Nix in the club lake.

Southwest Jobs Reach New Record

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 10—UP—Non-farm jobs reached an all-time high in Arkansas; Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas in October, the regional office of the U.S. Department of Labor said Saturday.

The non-agricultural employment totaled 3,860,000, or 4,700 above that of September and 102,200 above October a year ago. The previous high record was 3,859,000 reached in December, 1952.

Each of the four states shared in the gain during October. Louisiana had the best — 2,000 workers — while Arkansas followed with 1,900 additional job holders.

Oklahoma and Texas, with employment already at record levels, reported gains of 400 each. In Oklahoma, nonfarm employment reached a new high while Texas reported the largest October job total of record.

The agency said large over-the-month gains occurred in the trade and government segments, reflecting the advent of the Christmas shopping season and the beginning of another school year.

Employment held relatively steady in the manufacturing, services and finance, insurance and real estate industries.

Seasonal declines were reported in the mining, contract construction and transportation, communications and utilities groups. Employment in each major industry division, however, was well above October, 1954 levels.

The number of factory workers in regional held relatively steady at 767,000 in October. A decline of 1,600 workers in the durable goods group slightly overbalanced an increase of 1,100 in the non-durables segment.

Yuletide Cosmetics Gift For Small Girl Helps Her Begin Good Grooming Habit

Toiletries for little girls come especially packaged for giving this year. A set may include a light, delicately-scented cologne, a bath mitt and her own hand lotion. The cologne will keep her out of the precious perfumes on mother's dressing table, mother hopes. The bath mitt encourages her to

Diamond Jewelry Is A Lasting Gift

There are few who won't agree that, large or small, the diamond is one of the most magnificent of all gems. Enhanced by settings of platinum, karat gold or palladium, often combined with colored stones, the diamond's sparkling beauty is well nigh irresistible. Be it a single gleaming ring stone or a shining profusion set in a majestic necklace.

Because of the diamond's tradition of rarity and the great skill necessary to perfect its beauty, people tend to forget that they can buy interesting diamond-set jewelry for far less than $100, according to the Jewelry Industry Council. This comes as a particularly happy reminder just before Christmas, when budget-minded shoppers are looking for something fine and lasting for those very special people on their gift lists.

There are, for instance, dainty gold lockets, pendants and earrings set with small diamonds, available for as little as twenty-five dollars. A ring set with a single colored stone circled with a narrow rim of diamonds, a bracelet charm a-twinkle with tiny diamonds, a watch with few diamonds set in it and a gold pin centered with a diamond are some of the many attractive pieces available for one hundred dollars or less in virtually any jewelry store in the United States.

For men, too, there is dress jewelry set with diamonds — studs and cuff links of mother-of-pearl, each piece centered with the sparkling light of a small diamond.

Men's Accessories Provide Ideal Gifts

There's a double-barrelled approach to men's fashion this winter. Latest reports from the Jewelry Industry Council are some of the many new-making design trends in men's jeweled accessories.

For the man who likes his jewelry to be interesting, different and sometimes dramatic, there is the trend toward larger sizes, greater use of color, unusual shapes and motifs. For the man who dotes on conservative styles, there is new jewelry in smaller proportions with quiet — but not apologetic — designs and patterns.

Both design treatments are applied to nearly all men's jeweled accessories, cuff links, tie clips, watch bracelets and belt buckles, to name a few. There is, in short enough variety in jewelry to interest a man and keep him in fashion.

The variety is not confined to style, either. Christmas shoppers will be glad to know that jewelry is showing men's jewelry in a price range that welcomes budget shoppers, too.

Also included in Christmas displays for men are items they are known to like and certain to appreciate: wrist watches, for instance, stone, emblem and initial rings, and beautiful sets of evening jewelry. The jeweler is indeed the one to see for suggestions on what to buy and advice on what to choose, according to a man's own special tastes.

Hand-Paint Dishes To Save On Gifts

By KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer

Handsome, sparkling glassware, hand-painted with motifs to suit your fancy or your decorating scheme, opens up a pleasant, inexpensive hobby for homemakers. You don't need to be a great artist or journey far afield to learn the techniques.

Materials can be assembled on a trip downtown, and your "studio" is as close as your kitchen table.

A young homemaker who's been dabbling in the art herself tells us personalized, hand-decorated ash trays, coasters, bowls make lovely gifts at a very moderate cost. Motifs to paint can be selected from wallpaper samples, greeting cards, gift wrapping paper, seed catalogues.

Basic materials needed are clear, unadorned, popular-priced glass plates, tumblers, or whatever you wish to choose at variety hardware or gift stores. Special easy-to-get paints which contain ceramic-like colors are manufactured for hard-surface painting. They can be found at hobby shops, department stores — if youself centers or artists' supply-stores. These aren't costly, either.

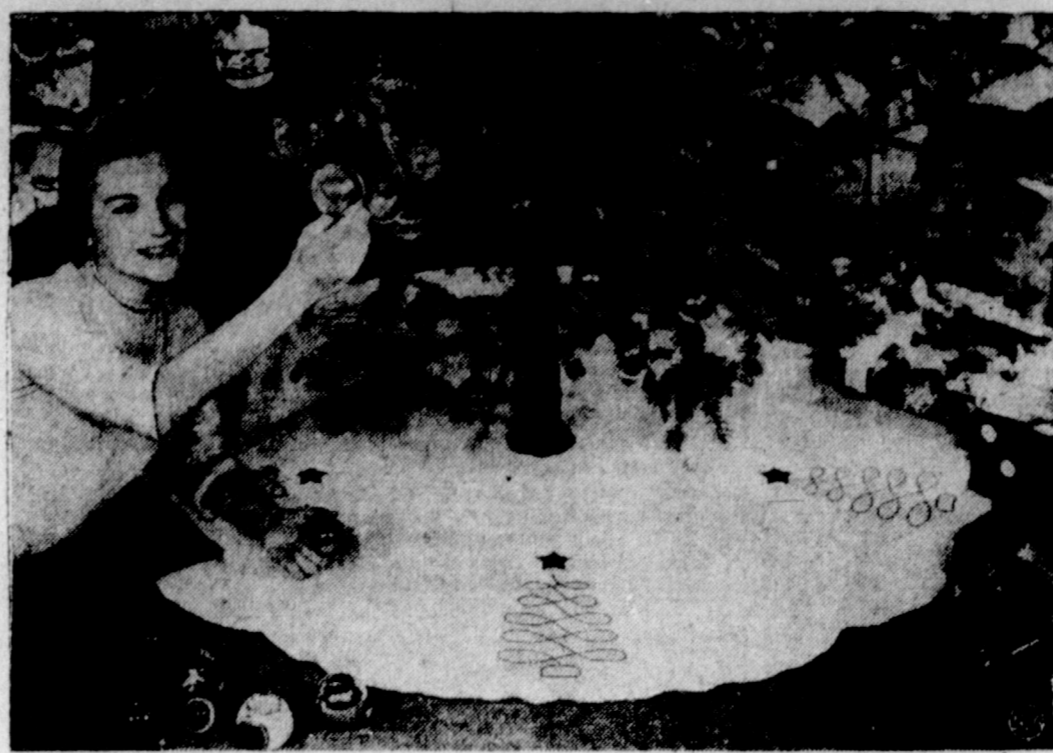

Painting should be done on the outside of glassware so that colors won't come into contact with eating or drinking surfaces. Clean the outside thoroughly to remove all film and grease before you start to apply the design.

If the decoration is a single design — say a rose from a wallpaper sample — cut out the pattern and hold it in position inside the glass with masking tape.

Trace around the design on the outside of the glass with a fine brush dipped in black or another basic color paint. As soon as outline is dry, remove the paper pattern and fill in all areas that are to be one color. Let dry, then go on to next color. Mix the colors in separate glass containers or work from the paint jars.

The glassware should air dry from 12 to 14 hours. Then, line them up on a baking tray, slide them into a cold oven and let temperature climb slowly to 300 degrees. Maintain this temperature for 15 minutes, turn off heat. Don't remove glasses until oven has cooled down again.

Fired in this manner, the decorations should last a long time under ordinary usage.

Adding to the season's gaiety is this ornamental Christmas tree skirt in white felt, decorated with soutache braid. Top braider attachment on the sewing machine facilitates braid stitching.

Christmas Tree Skirt Is Easily Made And Adds Finishing Touch To Season

By KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer

Festive finishing touch for the Christmas tree — a glittering skirt of shimmering baubles — is a decorative skirt to circle the base under the branches.

If you like the idea but find the price tags on the gorgeous ready-made too rich for your budget, get out sewing machine and scissors. The basic design is simple and ornamentation can be light and lovely or richly elaborate.

For partial to the skirt pictured here because the tree motif is pretty by itself. If you have the time and enthusiasm, additional stars could be cut out and sprinkled over the shown surface. After the holidays, the skirt can be packed away until next year.

The fabric is white felt lined with red and green soutache braid circling the border and tracing the tree outline. Red — a green stars are tacked down at the top of the trees.

To duplicate this effort, you'll need 1 1/2 yards of white felt 54 inches wide; 1/2-yard red felt; 1/2-yard green felt; 12 yards narrow green soutache braid; 14 yards of narrow red soutache braid; red and green thread.

Cut a 54-inch circle of white felt. Fold circle in half and cut along fold to the center to make the slash opening which allows easy placement of the apron underneath and around the tree. At the center, cut out a small circle about four or five inches in diameter to accommodate tree trunk.

Shape the outside edge to form five shallow scallops. On right side of felt, pencil the loop design of the tree in the center of each scallop.

If you're a little unsteady on tracing the design free-hand, lay it out before you start on graph paper. Rub dressmaker's chalk on back of paper, and trace line on felt with blunt end of pencil.

Using the top braider attachment on your machine, stitch the soutache braid along outline. Skirt pictured has two trees in green, three trees in red braid.

Trim the edges with two rows of braid. The green braid next to the edge, then the red. The edge of the small center circle is finished the same way. You can leave about 18 inches of braid at each end if you want to tie the apron around the tree base. Knot the ends to prevent unraveling.

Cut five stars from red and green felt and hand sew above top of each tree.

Perhaps you'd like to make an extra one as a gift. If so, here's a suggestion from a woman who cut out and helped to sew 12 similar skirts last year. Instead of slashing to the center, and cutting a hole out of the middle, leave the decorated circle whole. Do, however, stitch the red and green braid circles in the middle. This will permit the person receiving the skirt to use it as a table covering if she prefers. Or she can open up the circle for her tree.

And a postscript tip from the same gal: If your daughter spies the decorative felt circle, she'll want to enlarge the center opening slightly, add a waistband and walk off in it to a holiday party. Which will leave us back where we started — swathing the Christmas tree base with a clean white sheet!

Pointers On Buying Christmas Luggage

According to luggage manufacturers and retailers, people buy more luggage at Christmas than at any other time of the year, indicating that travel accessories are at the top of a good many gift lists. These tips from the Luggage Association will serve as a handy guide for those who plan a luggage gift this year.

1 — When buying a set, remember that matching luggage is more fashionable — and easier to locate at claim desks. If it's a single piece, try to correlate the color and styling with other luggage already owned by the receiver.

2 — Ask the salesperson to point out the latest colors, designs and convenience features. Luggage is a "fashion accessory" as well as a necessity, and should contribute to the prestige of its owner.

3 — Check construction and covering according to how the luggage will be used most often in travel — some types of transportation call for more rugged baggage than others.

4 — Select a type of luggage in keeping with the receiver's packing habits, depending upon whether he or she prefers to use hangers, pack flat or roll garments.

5 — Value-wise, look for securely anchored handles, sturdy hardware, even stitching and carefully fitted linings.

6 — Monogramming will discourage borrowing of the luggage by others, make it a more personal possession.

Men's Gift Problem Solved By Hankies

Men are sometimes a problem when it comes to selecting Christmas gifts but they needn't be with the vast selection of Irish linen handkerchiefs available to please even the most particular. Famous for fine quality — always appealing to the menfolk — there are Irish linen handkerchiefs for sports, business or formal wear — for "blow" and for "show" at prices nicely within the budget.

For the sportsman, Irish linen handkerchiefs come in handsome solid colors — yellow, gray, pink, of course, as well as the darker shades including black — attractive prints in many shades and whites with neatly printed borders. Cord, hand — hemmed or hemstitched white Irish linen handkerchiefs are always in the best of taste for all occasions and monograms may be tailored or elaborate in white or in colors.

Seasonal Dress-Up For Mature Women

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor

All the amusing, attractive accessories and clothes in the department stores for holiday wear make some mature women feel just a touch of envy. Perhaps their waists are too large to bear the conspicuousness of a glistening belt. Perhaps they feel a gold dress is a little, well, too youthful for their station. The earrings may not do at all.

For those who feel somewhat deprived of the fun of the season because of any of these reasons, here are a few nominations for strictly holiday wear that might do well for grown women.

A red velveteen housecoat. Get one that sweeps the floor, even if you usually wear the short kind. Have the festive fun of coming to breakfast in it, even if only once a year.

A sari-sheer silk scarf with gold threads. This is an inexpensive item, but as crisp and gay as new snow. Wear it with your suit or coat, or just from a pocket, if you've a mind.

A white tailored blouse with holly embroidery. This you may do yourself or you can buy it. There is nothing overyoung about such an item, but it is definitely seasonal.

Flowers. These can be for a house for yourself. But a woman never gets too old for flowers. If your choice to have them in your home, they will complement your seasonal spirit as surely as a corsage.

A festive flourish is added to the portrait Christmas gift by decorating the white folder which commonly holds it.

Give Clever Touch To Christmas Gifts To Make Your Offering A "Standout"

By KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer

Wrap your Christmas presents with a dash of ingenuity to make a modest gift the stand-out package under the Christmas tree. It also puts expensive packaging materials to fullest advantage.

At this date, the ingenious touches that interest me the most are those that don't require great artistic ability nor exotic materials. Here are some tips gathered from many sources that seem helpful to me.

From a young southern belle comes a tip for pepping up the perennially popular gift — the new picture portrait of you and the family. The simple white folders in which photographers plant such portraits take on a more festive appearance with a little home art work.

Exquisite Christmas wrapping papers, for example, that are not particularly seasonal in pattern, can be trimmed to size and glued to the folder covers. One elegant effect was created with a gold and white paper; another with a gold and silver flecked paper.

Bits of braid, velvet ribbon, sequin strings or fabric scraps can also be used, either on top of the paper covering or against the solid white. One lovely folder was decorated with red velvet ribbon glued down as a border on the white, then edged with gold decal striping.

A leftover piece of green moire yielded enough material to cover the two sides of a triple folder, and the back was covered with a gold metallic paper from the Christmas supply store. Cutouts might be used, too.

Another novel package decoration comes out of the pastry tube. The "frosting" is actually super-thick soups made by heating with a rotary beater a quantity of soap flakes or chips and a tiny bit of water.

Squeezed through the tube, the thick foam designs dry hard and firm. While the soups are still wet, you can sprinkle bits of glitter on top or add small ornaments.

Broken strings of beads which are no longer of any use, could supply enough bright touches to liven up several soapy snow designs.

As you wrap packages, a small pile of ribbon scraps begins to accumulate. The wastebasket is not the place to shove the scraps. Wait until you have several, then put them together in one truly fancy fiesta bow.

Even my fumbling fingers had no trouble with this bow. You just cut the ends of short scraps on a slant, twist the piece in the middle. Then pile up the pieces in a star-shaped pattern using the longer ones on the bottom, shorter ones toward the top.

Build the bow up to any desired size and tie all the ribbons firmly together in the center, leaving ends long enough to fasten bow to package. The effect is very professional looking whether you use multi-colored pieces, several shades of one color or all metallic.

Holiday Gowns Are Short, Sweet

For after-five gatherings from now on are these two short and elegant dresses by Camen. Silk-faced peau de soie (left) with princess lines has crystal-pleated flounce and nylon tulle petticoat. Simple lines (right) are used for dress that has French lace over pale pink satin and jeweled neckline. — By Galie Dugas, NEA Women's Editor.

Cloth With Panels Adapts To Season

At this time of year, any woman who can put her sewing machine through its paces has it humming like a hive of bees. She's whipping up gifts, promised articles for the church bazaar and a new dress or two for the coming holiday parties.

As machine operation becomes more automatic, even beginners can boast of the fancy stitching effects that catch the eye. One of the newest machines has a push-button operation that, says designer Vittorio Necchi, is as easy for a beginner to maneuver as it is for an experienced needlewoman.

With some practice, it's possible to create on a machine original designs with stitches and appliques which formerly involved many hours of patient handwork. I've known several homemakers who developed specialties they could machine-sew at home and sell on order to push up pin money receipts.

In our small town, where stores seldom offer such services, one friend specializes in monograms and special appliques. Simple bed, bath or table linens touched with the elegance of a handsome monogram show no signs of losing popularity as gifts. With the improvements in machine stitching, monograms sized proportionately to the article are as beautiful and far easier to execute, she says, than those done by hand.

Once you get the hang of fancy stitching, my friends tell me, it's a great temptation to overdo the ornamentation. While there are limits to the amount of tricky embroidery you can add to a dress or skirt without spoiling the effect, there ARE clever novelties which eat it up.

festive tablecloth. This consists of a basic, solid-colored cloth with removable panels ornamented to suit the occasion. In the design, panels are threaded in place on the cloth with ribbons pulled through buttonholes. Decorative stitching on individual panels carries the theme.

French Fragrance In Christmas Bottle

Designed for the favorite Christmas gift fragrance — a popular French scent now appears in a new bottle.

The perfume is one that's neither light nor heavy, but a happy halfway. It became popular with women who visited Paris and found it in shops there. It is now imported, already packaged and sealed, for women who don't feel up to going to Paris for their fragrance.

The new bottle is pine-cone-shaped, of Lalique glass. It's green, topped with a golden cap and tied with a holly-red ribbon. The bottle and box are small, but luxurious looking.

Easily-Made Storage Bag Will Speed Wrapping, Spur On To Early Mailing

By KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer

Remember the week before Christmas last year when you were standing 12th in line at the post office, juggling 14 packages and trying to keep two spurling children in check?

You scolded yourself for getting caught in the last-minute crush. It did it, too, and this year, with record-breaking shopping crowds anticipated, the folly of ignoring the "mail early" advice will carry a worse penalty.

Perhaps one reason we're slow to tackle the tedious wrapping and mailing job is because we don't have a simple, organized plan for big packages. The large packages with heavy trims:

Some of the mailing rules you should know include:

1. Parcel post packages over eight ounces may be sealed. All sealed prepaid parcels at fourth-class postage rates must carry authorization for postal inspection. Address labels usually have this use to make a canvas bag with pockets for materials.

Grommets across the top support the bag on cup hooks above a work table or on the back of a door near a counter or table. If you have a soft spot in your heart for a friend, make her one, too, as a pre-Christmas present.

Directions for making the canvas holder pictured were worked out by the National Cotton Council designers at my urgent request. The holder requires a yard of striped canvas and a yard and a half of solid-colored canvas.

Cut a piece of solid-colored canvas 31" x 41". Hem four sides. Put three-inch hem top and gottom, 2 1/2-inch hem on sides.

Cut three small pockets from striped canvas 6" x 6". Cut two large pockets 10" x 24". Scissor pocket is 5" x 13 1/2" x 11". At lower edge of large pockets cut two-inch square from each corner. Seam sides of cut-out square together and turn pocket right side out.

Hem pocket top and seam bottom of pocket to the solid-colored canvas.

Rubinoff And His Violin Thrill Pampans During Concert And School Appearances

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

"Rubinoff and His Violin" thrilled Pampa audiences during his two concerts, one in the evening and a special student matinee in the afternoon. He was sponsored by the Pampa Altrusa Club.

Rubinoff began his concert with his own composition, "Dance of the Peasant," portraying the gayety and pathos typical of his native Poland in his early youth; and went on to the beautiful and touching "Clair De Lune" by Debussy. His next two numbers were the lively "Hora Staccato" by Dnicu-Heitler, and the moving "Warsaw Concerto" by Adinolfi.

He closed the first part of his program with three popular numbers — "Three Coins in the Fountain," which sounded as if it were written just for the violin; "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White," the appealing love theme from the motion picture, "Underwater"; and "The Ballad of Davy Crockett."

The last number deserves special mention, as he played it in 15 characteristic styles. This probably had the most audience appeal of his program. His "Indian" rendition made a person think of all the Western movies he had seen; and his "Scotland" style sounded just like a bagpipe. He interspersed the "styles" with little flourishes, including making violin "laugh." He played the ballad in the style of "Crazy Otto, Carnegie Hall, Waltz a la Strauss, Mambo, Ireland, Israel, "The Bee" a la Jack Benny, R. R. Train, Boogie Woogie, Draget, Circus Gallop, March (John Phillip Sousa) and the "Low Down Blues."

Highlights of the second portion of his concert were "Rhapsody In Blue" by Gershwin and Chopin's "Polonaise (Opus 53)." It was the premier performance of both as violin solos.

His other numbers were "When Day is Done" by Katcher; his own "Fiddlin' The Fiddle," the first jazz violin solo in America, written and introduced in 1925; and the popular violin solo, "Souvenir" by Drdia.

He closed his program with "Square Dance Fiddlin'" which included excerpts from "Arkansas Traveler," "Oh Susanna," "Little Brown Jug," "Ragtime Annie," "Coming Around the Mountain," "Oh Dem Golden Slippers," "Soldier's Joy," "Silver Lake," "Red Wing," "Little Liza Jane," "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Mocking Bird," "Buffalo Gals," "Chicken Reel," "Down Home Rag," "Hoe Down," "Turkey in the Straw," "Home Sweet Home" and "Good Night Ladies."

Rubinoff endeared himself most to his audience, in his informal talk following the concert. He told of playing in eight Pampa schools in his two days here and of playing for the Rotary Club. He stated that Pampa had some fine school children, voicing the wish that they could hear more "good" music.

He played a portion of "White Christmas" and reminisced about his first coming to America. He told the audience that "we people" who came from Europe, "who have been kicked around," really appreciate what a great land, and great land of opportunity, is America.

He then played "White Christmas" while the audience hummed, and closed the program by playing the national anthem, while the audience sang.

In an interview when Rubinoff first arrived in Pampa, he stated that he came to Pampa from Plainview and Brownfield, and recently spent 2 1/2 months in Canada.

He told of playing for President Roosevelt, who gave him some sort of a citation. He proudly pulled a quite worn, and crumpled, picture from his pocket of himself with President Eisenhower. He explained that Ike said his playing was "better than medicine."

Rubinoff also proudly displayed his "Will Rogers watch" which is engraved, "To the greatest fiddler in the world." He added that he and Will Rogers were great friends.

Rubinoff has a busy schedule, playing in the schools of the towns in which he gives concerts, as he did in Pampa. It is quite obvious he likes the young people, and enjoys playing for them. He said to be sure to mention what President Eisenhower told him: "The richest child is poor without music."

He also explained how much work it is preparing his concert numbers. He pointed out that it took him four months "working day and night" to arrange the "Ballad of Davy Crockett," improvising, changing, taping, and recording it.

Rubinoff also mentioned that his wife was from Wichita Falls, where his son, now 11 years old, was born.

Barbara Ann Gaudet Given Birthday Party
Barbara Ann Gaudet was honored with a party for her ninth birthday recently in her home.

Games were played and refreshments of cake, ice cream and soft drinks were served.

Those present were Jaime Cohea, Karen Hildebrand, Mary Lee Kay, Carlene Sexton, Joy A. Shultz, Patricia Howard, Nelly Olson, Brenda Thompson, Linda Cox, Virginia Lowe, Terry Tucker, Linda Nelson and Reeves Gaudet.

"It is through you we can continue to teach our girls a spirit full of love — direct them to think nobly — training them to have patience and care in molding their lives — helping them to build strongly and solidly a FAITH in God — to help guide their minds in the training of their own eyes and hearts to render service to others.

"We are enclosing a partnership card. Although this is small, it carries our personal depth of gratitude for your gifts and for joining hands with us to build a strong fence around the face of the cliff, rather than to pick-up the wreck at the bottom."

Miss Mary Kay Holmes Becomes Bride Of Virgil Snell In Shamrock Ceremony

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Miss Mary Kay Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Holmes, became the bride of Virgil Snell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Snell in a candlelight ceremony Nov. 25.

Rev. Frank Beauchamp, pastor, read the formal single-ring service in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

Vows were exchanged before a background of baskets of emerald, jade and lemon leaves, woodwardia, huckleberry and plumose fern. Cathedral tapers burned in wrought iron candelabra which formed an archway in the center. The altar rail was draped with white satin and garlands of fern. Lighted tapers tied with bows of maline and fronds of fern marked the bridal aisles.

Mrs. Cabot Brannon, organist, played "I Love Thee" by Greig, Schubert's "Serenade," "I Love You Truly" by Bond, and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Mrs. Lyle Holmes, aunt of the bride, sang "At Dawning" by Cadman and "Because" by d'Hardelot. She was accompanied by Mrs. Brannon who played the traditional wedding marches and "Ave Maria" by Schubert during the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of magnolia brocaded satin styled with a low portrait neckline and caplet sleeves. She wore a demilength tunic over a bouffant pleated floor-length skirt. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls.

She carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses, gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Julia Beth Holmes, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Maynette Derr of Alameda, Calif., Miss Ann Leftwich of Childress, and Miss Margo Robertson of San Angelo. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Janet Jones of Amarillo and Miss Nona Pendleton.

The attendants wore identical dresses of shrimp pink chiffon over taffeta. They were designed with strapless long-torso bodices edged with a band embroidered with seed pearls. Tiny boleros with shirred sleeves were worn with the dresses. The bouffant waltz-length skirts were of chiffon over taffeta and net. Their headresses were bandeaus of sheer black outlined with tiny velvet ribbon and had short veils. The attendants carried bouquets of white carnations with lemon leaves.

Candles were lighted by Janis Ruth Holmes, sister of the bride, and Gail Holmes, cousin of the bride. They wore identical dresses of shrimp pink taffeta. Their headbands were of white carnations. Joe Snell, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Carroll Valentine of Sherman, Bill York of Lubbock, James Henderson, Bryan Close, and Tommy Holmes, cousin of the bride. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Holmes wore a dress of navy blue taffeta with a hat of ice-blue satin. Mrs. Snell, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of Dior blue crepe with a small felt hat in matching shade. Their corsages were of white gardenias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Holmes, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Traffic Safety Quiz Highlights Program At Meet Of Twentieth Century Allegro

"There were over 2400 traffic fatalities in Texas during the year of 1954," stated one of the true, true-false questions asked in a traffic safety quiz conducted by Mmes. Creel Grady and Price Doster, Jr. at a recent meeting of Twentieth Century Allegro in the home of Mrs. Charles Hickman, Jr. Mrs. George Cree Jr. was co-hostess.

Winners of the quiz were Mmes. Bill Craig and Ray Duncan who received Christmas wrapping paper and ribbon as prizes.

Mrs. G. M. Walls, president, led the business meeting. She reminded committee chairmen that the Federation reports are due and need to be mailed before Jan. 15. Mrs. Cree, chairman of public welfare, reported on the club's Christmas project.

Mrs. Walls read the Christmas story, "The Other Wise Man," to the group. It told the story of the other wise man who wandered for years trying to find Christ to present him with three precious jewels. He sold two of his jewels to help the sick, feed the hungry, and clothe the poor. As the years went by, he had only one jewel left. One day, 33 years after he first began his quest, he heard that Christ was to be put to death on the cross. He rushed with his precious jewel to save Him, but again fate stepped in and circumstances arose so that he gave away his last jewel to save the life of a Christian girl.

Following the reading, refreshments of Swedish Christmas bread and coffee were served.

Those present were Mmes. Don Cain, Bill Davis, James Evans, James Leverich, Sam Pruitt, J. E. Thompson, Jerry Thomas, Bill Waters, Robert Karr, Craig, Doster, Cree Hickman, Duncan Walls, Grady, and a new member Mrs. Jack O. Miller.

Next meeting will be held Jan. 3, in the home of Mrs. James Evans with Mrs. David Price as co-hostess. Mmes. Bill Waters and Jerry Thomas will be in charge of the program, "The Universal Unit — the Family."

Mrs. Mary E. Holt Is Complimented With A Party For Her 84th Birthday

Mrs. Mary E. Holt was honored recently in the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hattie Holt, 533 S. Russell. Co-hostesses were her grand-daughters, Mrs. R. C. Grider, Mrs. Ralph Milliron and Mrs. J. L. Simmons.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth over pink satin. The centerpiece was an oil-painting of the honoree painted in Japan from a photograph. It was flanked by pink tapers in crystal candelabra.

The honoree, who was taken ill and hospitalized just before the party, was unable to attend.

Mrs. Holt, one of 12 children, was born in Hickory County, Mo., Dec. 3, 1871. When she was 10 years old, she traveled with her family to Kansas by oxen, through wild Indian country.

"It was slow going until we traded the oxen for horses and then we felt like we were flying," she stated. "The gold rush was on in Montana about that time and my dad thought that gold was practically hanging on trees. It took a lot of money to live in those days—even if coffee was just 25 cents a pound."

Mrs. Holt came to Pampa Jan. 2, 1931. In addition to her grandchildren, she has four great-grandchildren.

Guests attending the party were Meses, Sannie Sullivan, Vivian Duesterhas, Sue Myers, A. N. Thorne, Rena Belle Anderson, Doris Wilson, H. C. Wilkie, A. French, W. H. Lewis, Homer Kitchen, O. A. Davis, Sybil Qualls, Ola McAfee, Ellouise Welborn, J. E. Simmons, Beulah Ross, D. L. Brown, Gertrude Dwight, Frances Kotara, Emma Lou Scarborough, Sally Baker, Fern Fleming, R. K. Douglas, Lola Lard, Kenneth Dwight, Angie Skinner, Ruth Howland, and Helen Commander; Messis, and Meses, O. L. Allen, Pres Rozell; Roy Robertson.

And Meses Sylvia Grider, and Mary Lou Douglass; and Messrs. Robert Grider and R. C. Grider. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Holt of San Antonio, son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Holt.

HDC Women Plan A Coat, Suit Revue For Party Tuesday

Women who were taught how to tailor in leader-training meetings this fall will wear the coats and suits they made in a revue at the annual Christmas party of the Gray County Home Demonstration Council, in the Lovett Memorial Library Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Warminski, member of the Bell HD Club, will be narrator.

In the construction of these garments, 22, leaders were taught to alter their patterns before they cut the wool fabrics. The testing was done by means of muslin garments, cut by the patterns selected. These muslin garments were fitted. These alterations made were transferred to the paper patterns before the wool garments were cut. The women who have difficulty buying ready-made coats and suits especially wanted to learn this method of pattern alteration.

Some of the finished garments were made by identical patterns, yet the resulting garments look different. The reason for this is that the leaders selected fabrics of different textures and colors. Women wearing these garments will style them at the same time, in order that the public may see the result of selecting different textured materials.

Beside the coat and suit revue, the women have planned a recreational program. They made their own decorations.

The women are inviting the public to come to the party to see the results of the tailoring schools. There will be no exchange of gifts, and the refreshments will be simple.

MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Spencer, 524 S. Cuyler, announce the marriage of their daughter, Clarine, to E. Neill Laycock, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Laycock of Wheeler. The wedding was held Nov. 25, in the First Baptist Church of Amarillo, with Rev. L. E. Goodwin officiating.

BAUBY

One doctor said that he knew the text books said Baby's teething couldn't cause fever or bowel trouble; but he'd seen it time and time again. Chalk up one for the mothers. They knew it all the time.

It's a very encouraging moment when Baby begins to learn what's expected of him in relation to toiletting. But don't expect that the first week of good results means the end of soiled diapers. He may rebel or he may just be having good luck. Be consoled that you're on your way, and you don't force the matter.

Pretty soon the hot-water plate or bowl won't hold enough for Baby's appetite. Many mothers switch to children's china bowls. However, if you have a Baby who throws things on the floor, better seek out a metal or plastic plate that's more durable.

A flavorsome sausage - apple casserole: cut unpeeled apples into wedges and place in bottom of greased casserole; arrange pork sausage links over them; sprinkle with brown sugar and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

MAKE FRIENDS MANNERS

If your teen-age son has accumulated too many possessions for his room so that it can never be made to look tidy, don't go in some day and start throwing away things you consider "junk." Have him decide which things to save and which to throw away.

The privacy of one's own room isn't real privacy if a mother sees the throwing away of possessions without consulting their owner.

GREETINGS NICE PEOPLE! Don't tell us we know... Man, woman or child, you're decorating. There is definitely a creative trend in our Christmas activities this season. Everyone, but everyone, seems to be thinking less and less about the "look" and concentrating upon their own personal touch to the festive holiday atmosphere.

It takes you to make an argument. (Anna Faye)

LOOK AT HOMER JOHNSON f'example. A busy man. Who'd have dreamed he'd come with a truly lovely original centerpiece? He made it for the tea dance last Saturday. For those of you who didn't see it, it was a conical-shaped tree, all bejeweled and snowy and topped with an exquisite tiny angel. All the crystal on the red satin-covered serving table was flocked with "snow" and glitter. Now who ever heard of such a thing? Hosts and Hostesses were as gracious a group as any social butterfly (or just plain ordinary type of tea-dancer could hope for). Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Batson, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Malone, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Homer D. Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Jarrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ralph McKinney.

The characters and lives of men determine the peace, prosperity, and life of nations. (Mary Baker Eddy)

PLEASE SANTA . . . A sequency black cocktail dress like that of Maxine Rose's . . . a beautifully haughty Siamese cat like Bill and Eleanor Waggoner's . . . some of Mary Hill's composure . . . Lois Marsh's versatility . . . booking on the proposed skiing trip to Santa Fe the 10th of January . . . Joe Rogers is getting it up . . . There'll be the Howard Weavers, the John Bradleys and others . . . Maria Stein's vivacity . . . and Fran Noblitt's bridge know how.

Moral indignity is jealousy with halo. (H. G. Wells)

THE HARD WORKING decorating committee (eight couples and a few generous strays) for the Country Club Christmas formal must not be overlooked. . . Theirs is a real labor of love . . . for five or six weeks now they've met and worked under the guidance and loving-kindness of Claudine Vall . . . Results are fabulous! . . . What did we do before we wore that superlative to shreds?

If you want something done, give it to a busy man. He'll have his secretary do the job! (L. C. McCandles)

LAST SUNDAY Country Club members surprised Hilda Duncan with a birthday celebration. Hilda, looking like a Christmas pixie in up-turned slippers and tordador pants, cut a lovely cake donated by Lulu Kuhn . . . Wasn't there to count candles but she's at least 16, wouldn't you say?

Too many of us, when we accomplish what we set out to do, exclaim, "See what I have done!" instead of saying, "See where I have been led." (Henry Ford)

ANYONE HAVE A COPY of the lovely reading given by the reviewer at the tea Tuesday? . . . We'd love to publish it for all to enjoy and benefit thereby . . . Hostesses Mrs. Marvin Overton, Mrs. Clifton High, Mrs. Hardy Hicks and Mrs. Louis Clark used a gold theme with stunning arrangements of gilded fruits, gourds, pinecones and even coconuts. The white tumbled tree in the foyer drew lots of comment . . . It was decorated with ribbon-tied Christmas balls. Among the guests were the always-friendly Ruth Spearman, Libby Shotwell and Nina (pronounced Neena please) Spoonemore.

Men occasionally stumble over the truth, but most of them pick themselves up and hurry off as if nothing had happened. (Winston Churchill)

FOR ALL OF YOU WHO HAVE ASKED . . . The Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will hold their annual table-setting contest again this year . . . sometime after the first of January. Proceeds always go for some worthy cause. It is hoped that the men's civic clubs will have entries this year . . . to make it even more interesting.

What we need the most is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds. (Mary Baker Eddy)

OPTIMISTS CLUB MEMBERS are busy peddling Christmas trees. Clay Crossland, Newt Serest, Mack Harmon and Bill Garrett are among those giving of their time. Tommy Ellis says he and Mason James and John Schofield wasted time shaking mountain snow from the trees . . . it snowed here immediately afterward!

As dew never falls on a stormy night, so the dews of His grace never come to the restless soul. (A. B. Simpson)

TOWN TRIVIA . . . The O. B. Worleys' prolific cocker spaniel presented them with a litter of nine pups . . . Ruth Spearman is taking a college course . . . don't know what the subject is but approve! . . . By the time you read this there will doubtless be a fifth member of the very nice Cliff Braly family. Eleanor is taking it radiantly! . . . Ever been lucky enough to have Margaret Nichols help you with your Christmas shopping? . . . Notice Calvin Jones, Iowa guard, was chosen for the All-American football team . . . Ever notice that the "doctor" who advertises a potent medicine on TV is also the "eye specialist" in another commercial? . . . Nice to see Mr. I. B. Hughey out again after his recent illness.

MRS. GEORGE SCOTT and Mrs. George Snell, two women with a reputation for doing such things well, did it again with their gold and white luncheon bridge this week. Favors were gold and white Christmas trees. There was a lovely white tree made of turkey feathers . . . Mrs. Scott's newly decorated home is in luscious shades of brown.

DON'T FORGET . . . to see "The River," the wonderful technicolor film of India . . . It's one of the international films made available for us by the Adult Education program. You may purchase tickets at the box office if you haven't already bought a season ticket . . . the annual Girl Scout banquet . . . It's not until January the 13th, but that'll be here before you know it and reservations must be in early.

ALL THIS PARTY TALK may give our menfolk the impression that we gals think of nothing else, but from all reports they'll not be neglected. Wangle, if you can Betty Whitney's recipe for sugar cookie tree like the one she made last year.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MEYERS' young son is struggling with age-old problem of an anticipated brother or sister. He asked mama if she'd get mad at the baby when he was naughty! Mrs. Meyers was honored with a baby shower last Saturday at Bunny and Max Hukill's. Attending were Sue and Bill Derington, Nick and Jane Kadingo, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hukill.

GINA, the Bill Dow's toy French poodle, sports a chic plaid overcoat these chill days . . . Ninety-three-year-old Uncle Billy Frost was spotted walking to town during snow flurries this week. "Good for his health," he says.

TOUGH THOUGH IT IS to think about such things at this festive time but there are those in Pampa whose drab deprivation will continue unchanged. If you want to do something about it call Nina Spoonemore at the County Welfare office. Nina says that arrangements are being made for the adoption of displaced children from various countries by people in this county.

It's been so nice.
Till next week

WD Teacher Feted For Years' Service

Miss Clauda Everly was honored with a 30-year service tea recently by the White Deer High School faculty during the recent homecoming period.

In the receiving line were Miss Everly; Huelyn Laycock, superintendent of schools; Mrs. Roy Sullivan of Pampa, president of Delta Kappa Gamma; Lawson Shaw, high school principal; and Mrs. J. W. Everly, mother of the honoree. Guests were registered by Mrs. Marsene Weaks and Mrs. Eleanor Webster.

The honoree was presented a corsage of rose carnations. Recorded background music was arranged by Hobart McDonald.

The serving table was covered with a white embroidered cloth over rose and was centered with an arrangement of rose chrysanthemums. Refreshments of cake, coffee and nuts were served.

Mrs. Lawson Shaw and Mrs. Huelyn Laycock presided at the coffee service, and Miss Marie Carreker served the cake. Assisting with the serving were Miss Geraldine Rampy and Mrs. H. R. Ledbetter.

About 125 persons attended from White Deer, Pampa, Plainview, Amarillo and Panhandle.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MUREL LAWRENCE

The day Eric's mother found him trying to open the bathroom cabinet, she spanked him. For he was attempting this feat by kneeling one leg on the washbowl while balancing the other on the toilet seat. Appalled by the possibilities of his position, she grabbed him — and spanked him. Quite hard. Ten minutes later, her four-year-old sought her out. Sliding up to lay his head against her hip, Eric murmured plaintively, "Oh, how I love you, Mommy. You're the best Mommy in the whole world."

This flattering protest impressed his mother. Even as she embraced him in forgiveness, she thought, "Gosh, if this is what spanking can do, it's wonderful. It's not only made my point about bathroom climbing — but won me new devotion besides."

She's a little too credulous, I'm afraid. Though spanking has probably ended Eric's bathroom climbing, it has not increased appreciation of his mother. We don't get it that easy. It's sensible to accept this tough reality so that we won't develop any exaggerated trust in spanking's power as a discipline instrument.

A spanked child will often protest increased devotion to us, not because he feels it but because imagining he does softens the sting of his humiliation by us. By convincing himself that his Mommy is the world's best one, Eric makes his necessary submission to her endurable.

His protested affection does not mean that her spanking has reached his reason with realization of the perils of bathroom climbing. It doesn't mean that he has gained the slightest understanding of the protective love which motivated her spanking.

His protest simply tells us that a spanked child didn't enjoy painful humiliation — and will think twice before exposing himself to it again.

This is spanking's usefulness — making a fast change in a child's action. By arousing Eric's fear of more humiliation, we may end the action whose danger he can't appreciate — and get safer, changed conduct. That's the end of the line. Spanking can take us no farther. Its instruction extends no deeper than the tingle in the skin it strikes.

To make spanking serve us, we need appreciation of both its usefulness and its limitations. It's become disreputable discipline because neither was appreciated. Parents asked too much of spanking.

Now many of us feel great fear of it. We have discarded it as a useless brutality, though the real brutality is not in spanking itself, but in greediness that wants it to teach everything.

Navy, Standard Oil 'Trade-Out' Needs Congress' Support

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—UP—Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas said Saturday he will take no action on an Elk Hills naval oil reserve "trade out" proposal by Standard Oil Co. of California "without specific approval of Congress."
This may be difficult to obtain, Elk Hills, in which California Standard holds a one-third interest, is the Navy's richest petroleum reserve. Congress wants it kept on a stand-by basis for national emergencies.
The company put 8,541 acres into the Taft, Calif., reserve in 1942 under a "unit" contract with the Navy which entitles it to one-third of the underground oil — about $1.6 billion worth. This was done because its properties checkerboarded the 37,000-acre Navy reserve which President Taft established by executive order in 1912.
Trying to Negotiate
The company, since 1951, has been trying to negotiate an arrangement whereby it would take its share of oil from a so-called shallow reserve and leave the Navy in sole possession of deeper pools. This would be carried out over a period of 20 years or longer.
Chief opposition has come from Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services committee which keeps a sharp eye on navy oil reserves.
The Washington Post and Times Herald quoted him recently as saying California Standard "wants to get too much oil." He added that he didn't think it was "a good business deal" and "that he had written Thomas to that effect."
Must Await Approval
Both Thomas and Navy Undersecretary Thomas S. Gates told the United Press in separate interviews that they must await congressional approval. Thomas said that DeGoyler and McNaughton, Texas oil engineers, had surveyed Standard's proposition and that the Navy "passed the report right over to the House and Senate Armed Services committees."
"We will not make a move without the committees' approval," he said. But he added that California Standard has a perfect right to request that it be allowed to extract its oil from the shallow deposits.
Gates said "it is up to the company to request congressional hearings if it wants them." The Navy, he commented, is making no such request.

HE'S ZOO UNHAPPY—Looking glumly into space is "Andy," the sad-faced orangutan at the Bronx Zoo in New York City. He seems to agree with a lot of visitors to the city who say New York is a nice place to visit but "I wouldn't want to live there." "Andy" would give anything to be back in Borneo, but he's "barred" from traveling.

 Let's Go Shopping
 One of these days I must go shopping. I am completely out of self-respect. I want to exchange the self-righteousness I picked up the other day for some humiliation, which I say is less expensive and wears longer. I want to look at some tolerance which is being used for wraps this season. Someone showed me some pretty samples of peace. We are a little low on that and do not never have too much of it. And by the way, I must try to match some patience that my neighbor wears. It is very becoming to her, and I think it might look well on me. I might try on that little garment of long-suffering they are displaying. I never thought I wanted to wear it, but I feel myself coming to her, and I must not forget to have my sense of appreciation mended and look around for some inexpensive everyday goodness. It is surprising how quickly one's stock of goodness is depleted.—Author Unknown.
