UN Vote On Algeria Brings French Bolt

Public Debate On Revolt Protested By Premier Faure

By GEORGE SIBERA
 PARIS, Oct. 1 — UP — France Saturday recalled its entire United Nations delegation because the UN voted to discuss publicly the nationalist revolt in Algeria.
 At the same time Premier Edgar Faure's government drew closer to solving another of its North African problems when Sultan of Morocco Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat delegated his powers to a cousin, gave up his throne and flew into exile.
 Faure ordered the "full French delegation" to the United Nations to return immediately to Paris, leaving the UN with its gravest membership problem since the Soviets walked out of the General Assembly and boycotted the organization for seven months in 1950.
 Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, who led the French delegates out of the General Assembly Friday night, conferred with Faure by telephone before the government order was issued. Pinay fully agreed with the move, a spokesman said.
 The foreign minister and his delegation were to fly to France Saturday night, as planned before the French Assembly by a margin of one vote put the Algerian problem on its agenda Friday.
 Ambassador Herve Alphand, permanent French delegate to the UN and his aides will return to France "very shortly" under the order, a spokesman said. The delegation in New York refused comment on the government order, except to confirm it had been received.
 Algeria is constitutionally a part of France and Pinay warned the United Nations before Friday night's vote that the uprising of nationalists in Algeria is considered strictly a French affair by his government.
 The United States and Britain voted with France in opposing debate of the Algerian issue. France was reported particularly incensed by the hostile vote of the Soviet bloc.
 Only a few days ago the Soviet Communist party boss, Nikita S. Khrushchev, smilingly told an anxious French parliamentarian delegation visiting Moscow that "Algeria and North Africa is strictly a French affair," a spokesman said.
 There was a sigh of relief from French officials who had put Arafat on the throne two years ago in hopes of discouraging nationalism that attended his exiled predecessor, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef. But nationalistic feeling boiled (See SULTAN, Page 3)

Doctors Giving Ike Little Work

By WARREN DUFFEE
 DENVER, Oct. 1 — UP — President Eisenhower passed the half-way point in his critical recovery period Saturday with his doctors in firm control of how far he can go in picking up the actual reins of government.
 The chief executive completed the first week of his recovery from a "moderate" heart attack by spending his second straight restful night without his oxygen tent. He was "relaxed and comfortable" but aides emphasized that he has not yet resumed his duties.
 Adams' Activity Confined
 Although one of the primary reasons for Adams' presence was to determine how fast Mr. Eisenhower can resume his presidential authority, it was emphasized that the former New Hampshire governor will be confined to the limits laid down by the medical experts.
 White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Adams will "in effect take orders from them and relay those orders to the other members of the government."
 Adams and Hagerty conferred for an hour and a half with the President's doctors at the hospital Saturday and Hagerty said afterward it is "a fair assumption" that the President may sign a few more routine papers during the next week, similar to two documents he signed Friday night.
 However, Hagerty told newsmen "I want to point out very clearly that (Adams) was asking for medical aid."

Few Youths Take 6-Month Army Service

By PAUL SOUTHWICK
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 — UP — The Army's new six-month military training program begins Monday and only 1,038 volunteers have signed up so far. But the Army is not yet discouraged.
 The number is far short of the 10,000-a-month rate the Army must achieve to meet its goal of 90,000 in the next nine months.
 And it looks like it won't meet its goal of 5,000 young men by the end of the year. But Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burgess says he is "not dismayed or discouraged." He anticipates a pick-up in enlistments when the Army starts selling the program.
 May Need Draft Authority
 However, should the voluntary program fail, the administration is certain to ask Congress again for authority to draft the young men into reserves, and that will kick off another big fight over universal military training which Congress has been loathe to accept.
 The 1,038 volunteers who have signed up enlisted in both the reserve forces and the National Guard.
 Under the six-month plan, a young man between 17 and 18 1/2 can avoid the current two-year draft by volunteering for active duty training for six months to be followed by 7 1/2 years in the ready reserve.
 How Plan Works
 In the reserve he must attend 48 weekend drill periods and two weeks summer training each summer, or take 30 days summer training.
 A National Guardsman is drafted if he continues his guard training until age 25. But if he volunteers for the six-month training he also can wind up his military obligation, draft free in eight years.
 The plan is an integral part of the administration's new program for building a combat-ready reserve of 2.9 million men over the next few years.

Eden Visits Elizabeth

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Oct. 1 — UP — Prime Minister Anthony Eden flew to Scotland Saturday to see Queen Elizabeth and possibly discuss the romantic life of her sister, Princess Margaret.
 Eden's weekend visit to Balmoral Castle was officially described as "the normal visit of the prime minister makes at this time of year." But Edinburgh's influential newspaper, the Scotsman, said Saturday morning that the official reason is being "viewed with increasing skepticism."
 The general though unconfirmed belief in well-informed London quarters was that some sort of statement soon would be issued to clear the air of gossip concerning the princess and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.
 Margaret also is in Balmoral. She has stayed in Scotland since Aug. 21 when she turned 25 years old and no longer needs the queen's consent to marry.
 Townsend, 40-year-old divorced father of two children, is in Italy, preparing to ride in a gentleman jockey's race Sunday at Merano. His tour of duty as air attache in the British embassy at Brussels is due to end shortly, and he is expected to return to Britain later this month for a leave.

Building Permits Total $287,775

Building permits during last month totaled $287,775 with 20 new residences and one new business. A total of 32 permits were issued in September as compared with 47 in August.
 Permits were issued for the remodeling of 14 houses, nine new car garages, and the remodeling of the Church of the Nazarene. Meads Bakery storage house on S. Barnes is the new business permit.
 In August, permits totaled $429,760 with four new businesses, 13 new residences, and the new Parish House of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

Shivers Demos Plan Big Huddle

By O. R. LLOYD JR.
 AUSTIN — UP — Democratic big-wigs carrying the conservative colors of Gov. Allan Shivers meet in a top-level huddle this coming week to name a successor to Wright Morrow, ousted as the party's national committeeman.
 Members of the state Democratic Executive committee will tackle the task at Fort Worth Thursday in a one-day session called by State Chairman George Sandlin.
 That night the governor speaks at a 410-a-plate barbecue sponsored by Tarrant county Democrats. The fund-raising affair kicks off a conservative campaign to control precinct, county and state-level political conventions next year.
 Shivers Mentioned
 The governor himself was prominently mentioned as a possible successor to the silver-haired Morrow, bounced by his political cohorts in a move to restore a working relationship with the National Democratic committee.
 Morrow, a Houston attorney, was sidelined by the national committee more than two years ago after he joined the governor and other top Texas Democrats in voting Republican. The defection followed a feud, which still continues, between Shivers and Adlai Stevenson over Texas' claim to the oil-rich tidelands.
 More than a dozen names were under consideration as a national committeeman, including that of the governor.
 Might Refuse Offer
 However, a high Democratic source privately discounted the possibility the governor would accept the post if offered.
 "Lots of committee members would like to see him named, but I don't think he would take it, and I don't think I would recommend that he take it," the source said.
 Some observers expressed belief Present Eisenhower's recent heart attack would bolster this view.

Peron Plan For 'Harem' Revealed

By W. H. MCCALL
 BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 1 — UP — The government disclosed Saturday that the Argentine revolution caught ousted "strongman" President Juan D. Peron in the midst of transforming an entire eight-story suburban apartment house into a mirrored-bedroom hideaway for a bevy of teen-aged girls.
 Police said Peron had evicted all the tenants from the building, which was located around the corner from his official palace in the fashionable Palermo district. He had installed Nelly (Nelly) Rivas his 14-year-old mistress, in the luxurious duplex penthouse apartment.
 The six lower floors were to have been occupied by other teenage girls recruited from the ranks of the Union of High School Girls, officials said.
 Halt to Love Palace
 But the revolution which snapped Peron's power last month halted his plans for a love palace before they were complete.
 The revelation about the apartment house was the latest in a series of government reports on Peron's private life which were designed to shatter his pose as an austere servant of the people.
 Meanwhile, provisional President Eduardo Lonardi put an end Saturday to the "state of internal war" proclaimed four years ago by Peron but announced that the "state of siege" Peron imposed on the country last month will remain in force.
 An official announcement said the "internal war" regulations imposed after an abortive revolt in 1955 were unconstitutional and charged that Peron "used them as a political instrument to suppress all freedom and rights" in Argentina.

County OKs Investment Of Bonds

Approval was made to invest the newly signed $350,000 bonds at the best possible rate with the Citizen's Bank and Trust Co. to draw interest until the time needed for construction of the Highland General Hospital addition in Commissioner Court Saturday morning.
 Architect B. R. Cantrell has a 60-day period remaining in which to draw up plans for construction.
 Minutes No. 28843 of the Texas Highway Department were accepted to be incorporated into the Commissioner's minutes. The minutes provide for a farm-to-market road from State Highway 373 at Lefors, west to FM Road 749 at Bowers City, or a distance of about 8.9 miles. The right-of-way is furnished free of cost by the state, and $30,000 is designated as the County's share of construction cost. Estimated state cost is $128,000.
 Mrs. Nina Sponemore of the County Welfare Office, requested aid for a cancer out-patient who requested aid a week ago. The request was granted.
 In other action by the commissioners, the Airport Board contract was signed with an agreement of harvesting the maize crop planted on 400 acres of agriculture lands located on Section 121, block 3 of the I and G.N.R.R. Co. survey. The County will receive one-fourth of the crop as rent for the property. Approval of bills was made, and the County Treasurer's monthly report approved.

Water District Hearing Called

The State Board of Water Engineers has called a hearing for the organization of a ground water conversion district to be held Wednesday, at 9 a.m. in the Memorial building at Panhandle.
 Any person whose land is included in or would be affected by the creation of this district may appear and contest the creation of the district. He may offer testimony to show that the district is or is not necessary, would or would not be a benefit to the land in the district.
 The creation of such a district would put the control of ground water in local hands rather than being controlled by the legislature.
 Forming the district may be parts (plans areas) of these counties: Carson, Armstrong, Donley, Roberts, Potter, and Gray.
 A temporary committee elected last spring to represent Gray County is made up of: Loyd Byrd, Fred Haldick, Irvin Cole, John Hamby, and George Saunders of McLean.

Price Support For Potatoes May Up Cost

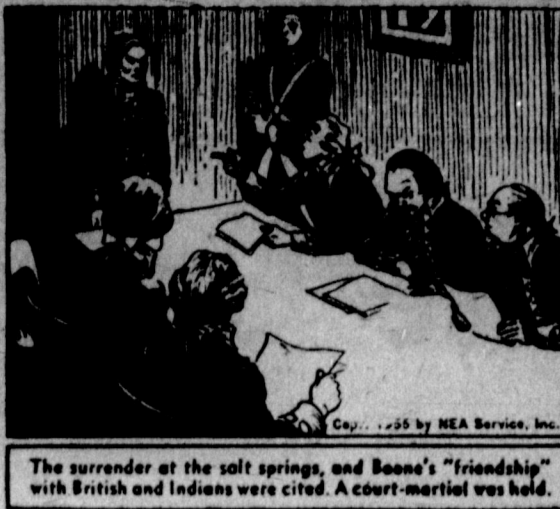

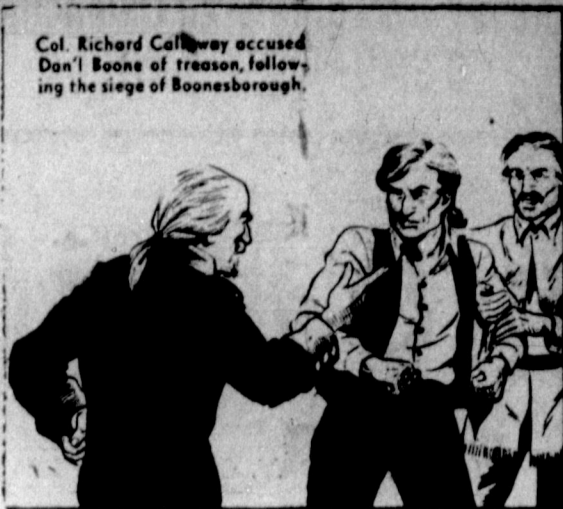

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—UP—Federal price-support subsidies approved for potatoes in Maine and two other growing areas may cause some increase in retail prices, a Department of Agriculture spokesman said Saturday.

But he hastened to add that potatoes are now so cheap that the prospective hikes "won't make much difference" to consumers. Furthermore, he said, if the increases get out of hand, the subsidy program can be halted.

Other growing areas may be added to the subsidy list soon. Or farm prices sagged to 60 cents per 100 pounds and less in many eastern areas last week. Officials said this was "about the bottom rung" and some farmers were complaining their revenue did not cover production costs. Prices were reported stronger in western areas

DANIEL BOONE

Col. Richard Callaway accused Dan Boone of treason, following the siege of Boonesborough.

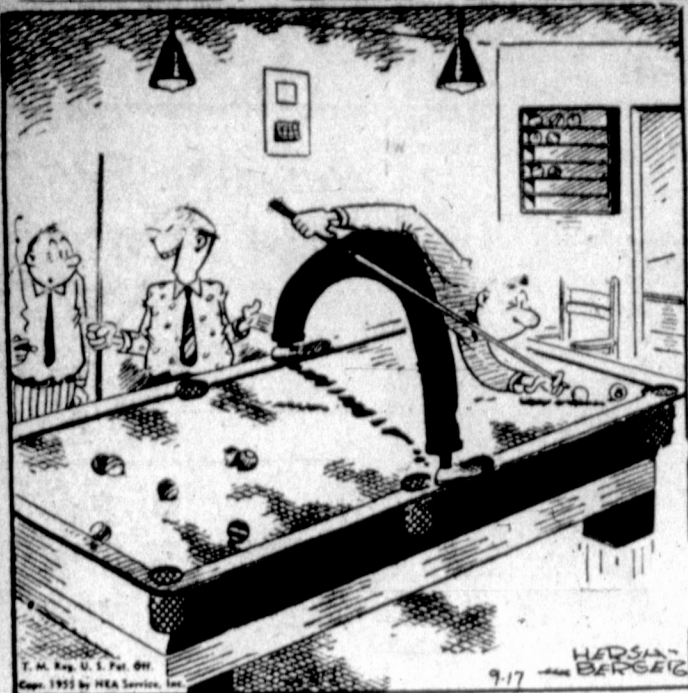

The surrender at the salt springs, and Boone's "friendship" with British and Indians were cited. A court-martial was held.

By Russ Winterbotham and Ralph Lane

Boone testified that his motive was to protect women and children at Boonesborough. He was acquitted and promoted to major.

"He always makes easy shots look hard!"

but even there some of the crop had to be left in the ground to rot. Department spokesmen could not predict how much of the crop in Maine alone could approach $7 million. But one official said Maine growers indicate they plan to collect subsidies on 25 million bushels, more than a third of their harvest. At this rate, subsidy payments could approach $7 million. The potato aid program differs from regular price support operations. The government will not buy or store any potatoes, as it did in the late 1940's when huge surpluses had to be burned or dumped. Instead, the Agriculture Department will try to raise farm prices by subsidizing use of potatoes for starch, flour and livestock feed. Government payments of 80 cents per 100 pounds will be made for table-grade potatoes used for these purposes. Along with the Maine growers, farmers in Colorado and the early harvest areas of Oregon and Idaho have qualified for subsidies by setting up their own marketing control programs.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson announced the move to aid potato growers Aug. 23 in spite of their failure to heed his earlier warnings against over-production.

up in two years of bloody riots. The French finally demanded that Arafat step down to make way for a reform plan designed to give the French protectorate a form of home rule.

The sultan resisted French pressure for weeks before he stepped down in a move that probably saved Premier Edgar Faure's government from falling. But nationalist sources predicted the manner of Arafat's departure would prolong the crisis.

Nationalists Irritated

Arafat delegated his powers to his cousin, Prince Moulay Abdallah Ben Moulay Abdel Hafid, Hafid, 45, is a son of Morocco's first sultan under the French when they established the Moroccan protectorate.

He said, in a farewell statement, the prince would care "for affairs relating to the crown in conformity with the traditions of the royal dynasty and with our Moslem religion." He emphasized the decision was taken "without in any way renouncing our rights."

This irritated nationalists who wanted the sultan to abdicate in favor of a three-man throne council, promised by the French government to put the reform plan for a representative government into effect.

physical condition might compel him to withdraw from the 1956 presidential race were expected to weaken possibilities for a new friendship pact between conservative Texas Democrats and the national party leadership.

With prospects of a Democratic victory in 1951 noticeably brightened, Texas' bargaining strength as a pivotal party state might be weakened. Willingness on the part of the national leadership to forgive and forget by accepting Shivers as a successor to Morrow might wane.

A down-the-line Democrat, one who didn't stray in 1952, would likely be more readily acceptable.

There was also the consideration, an informed source pointed out, that should the governor accept the position, he would be open to the accusation he ousted Morrow to obtain the post himself.

"But that's certainly not the case," the source said.

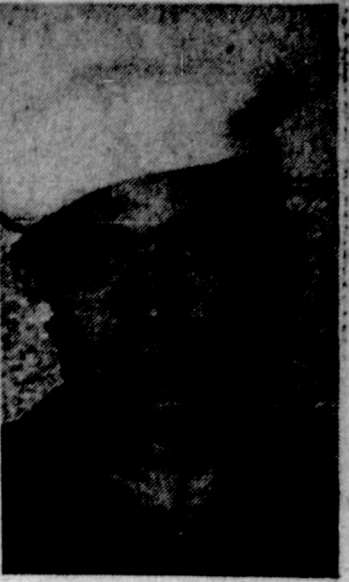

A special nominating committee was expected to gather prior to the Fort Worth meeting for a name-screening session.

Edward Badouh of New Braunfels, subcommittee chairman, said 14 names were before the five-member group, and added more might be submitted.

He said names now before the subcommittee included State Rep. J. O. Gilham, Brownfield; Jack Bialock, Houston; Wright Matthews, Dallas; U.S. Sen. Price Daniel, Liberty; Rep. Joe Kilgore, McAllen; Palmer Bradley, Houston; Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., McAllen, a former member of Congress; Cecil E. Burney, Corpus Christi, former president of the Texas State Bar; Elmo Burke Jr., San Antonio; S. Perry Brown, Beaumont, former national commander of the American Legion; Fred Korth, Fort Worth; former Gov. Dan Moody, Austin, the governor, and Sandlin.

Badouh said the governor has maintained "a hands-off policy" toward the nominating committee. "I haven't talked with him since I was named chairman," he said.

Sidelights Of Activities At Temporary White House

By WARREN DUFFEE
DENVER — UP — Backstairs at the temporary White House:

Maj. Gen. John T. Sprague, commanding general of Lowry Air Force Base where the temporary White House is located, is especially sympathetic toward President Eisenhower in his heart attack.

And he's also able to give the President's staff considerable hope.

Sprague suffered a similar heart attack two years ago, but the veteran airman shows no signs of it.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower have been flooded with flowers sent by well-wishers all over the country. But there are no flowers in the President's room at the Fitzsimons Army General Hospital.

Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son, recently was shooed away from the private elevator that takes passengers directly to the eighth floor tower suite where his father is confined.

The incident occurred during a earlier this week.

John's two-day stay at the hospital.

A young military policeman who failed to recognize the major curtly motioned him away from the elevator on the hospital's ground floor when the President's son approached it to go upstairs.

The younger Eisenhower, wearing civilian clothes, obeyed without protest and walked away toward a non-restricted elevator. But two alert secret service agents quickly brought the President's son back.

A stranger wandering at night into a darkened hallway just off the temporary White House press headquarters at Lowry might well think he had stumbled into a zoo full of snarling animals.

The hallway is lined with plain Army cots, where the weary newsmen get such sleep as they can on their round-the-clock watches.

But the assorted snores of the exhausted sleepers produces as weird a cacophony as ever assaulted human ears.

The roar of the snores has even tempted some radio men to record it for use on broadcasts.

Female Beauty Trend Has World Turned Upside Down Over 'Emotional Spasm' OK

By H. D. QUIGG

NEW YORK — UP — What's female beauty? Has the whole world gone bosom mad?

It's time we found out. The question seems to have been crying piteously for an answer ever since the straitjacket flapped from shimmied off into history in the late 1820's.

The trend toward topside inflation that began with the sweater girl 1930's has been, of late, on such a bosomy upturn that it has swelled to proportions — in America, at least — near to bursting.

In America, among men who know womanly life best, it's busts two to one, according to popular consensus. But what is the beauty posture of other countries? Alert to its responsibilities, the United Press sent a query to correspondents in nine other countries — romantic and exotic faraway places of the East and West.

Foreign Angle Checked

The newsmen conquered their own feelings and bent to the task of searching out what the local man-in-the-street looks to — or for — in adjudging women beautiful or sexy.

Where does he look first?

Well, the answers rolled in in wordy bundles done up with loving care. Seldom has a subject been covered with such caressing attention to detail. Boiled down, the beauty sectors took this stacked shape:

Java — Eyes and hair. "Gals spend much time on coiffures."

Philippines — The face. "Softness of eyes is real pulse-pounder."

Japan — The nose of the (so help me) neck. "The nose, smooth, white, is thought of by old timers as the tops in beauty. The feet come next, tiny, well-proportioned and cleaned carefully with pumice."

Iran Includes More Arks

Iran (where, as George S. Kaufman observed decades ago, one man's Meade is another man's Persian) — eyes "must be large," skin "must be slightly dark," neck "shouldn't be too stubby," and a generous soul: "She may have to share her husband with another three wives and countless concubines."

Spain — Chassis. "Plump, heavily bosomy, solidly seated."

France — The bosom. After that, the Frenchman's eye travels to the mouth. If a girl does not have — how shall I say — a sympathetic mouth, well, it is not encouraging to a man."

Egypt — Bosom and hips. "Big and heavy."

Hong Kong — Swinging hips. "Chinese women operate (with high-necked, long gowns) on the theory that the less a man sees the more he wants. They know how to promenade, hips swinging, but not coarsely, their heads held high, regally."

Make It a Pair

Sweden — Legs. This was the answer of the vast majority to a national newspaper what-do-you-look-at-first poll.

Well, that's the story. Glad we could get together. Too bad it had to be boiled down. Some of the details are remarkable. In Iran, for instance, tastes have changed. A few years back the perfect girl had to be fat. The parents of a prospective bridegroom used to take the girl to a public bath for a once-over, and "the right size hips were those which thoroughly covered a large-sized tray which she sat on."

And the Cairo man, who shall not be nameless, correspondent Farid Kamil, added one of the most poetic lines ever penned on the subject: "The general line today is to have them big in the bosom and heavy in the hips, slow and feminine and fertile."

Biggest Bull Market Gets Over 'Emotional Spasm' OK

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK — UP — America's biggest bull market which celebrated its sixth birthday on June 13th, got its first major shock Monday on a rash of selling touched off by President Eisenhower's illness.

Wall Street termed the selling an "emotional spasm" not likely to last long. It didn't. Next day there was a sharp comeback and another rally came Wednesday. And then, like similar situations in the past, there was a secondary reaction — a decline that wiped out part of the recovery.

In the six years and nearly four months this bull market has been growing, it rose from 161.80 in the Dow-Jones industrial average to 487.45 on Sept. 23, a gain of 325.65 points or 202 per cent.

Rails rose 300 per cent in the same period and utilities, 93 per cent. None of the interruptions in the rise was of broad scope. Monday's knocked down industrials by 6 1/2 per cent and the whole market about 6 per cent.

Was an Eisenhower Market

Wall Street termed the period since the election of 1932 as the Eisenhower market. In that period until a new bull market high was set on Sept. 23, the industrial average rose 217.22 points or 80 per cent from 270.23 to 487.45, the latter a record high.

Having achieved sensational gains, the market was in what the experts called a weakened, technical position, subject to wide declines on selling. Hence when the financial district was shocked by news of the President's illness over the weekend the first reaction was to dump stocks.

Orders to sell piled up in the brokerage offices. On Monday, specialists grouped these orders into huge blocks, ranging to 75,000 shares in United States steel. For every share sold there had to be a buyer and hence it took some time to open these stocks in the absence of buyers. The specialists had to buy vast amounts for their own account. They sold this on Tuesday.

Won't Hurt Business

Reassuring statements from market experts, business men, economists and government officials helped clarify the situation and resulted in a return to normal in the trading. No impairment was seen for business which is expected to set new high records in production, earnings and dividends for 1935 with big demand for all major lines going well into 1936. Business men announced readiness to carry forward expansion programs ranging to $500 million for the Ford Motor Co.

Sales volume for the five days amounted to 21.7 million shares, largest since the week ended Jan. 7. That was the week the margins were raised from 50 per cent to 60 per cent. It produced sales of 22,945,618 shares and saw the industrial average fall 8.79 points.

Averages closed the week as follows:

Industrial, 466.62, off 20.83 points from the previous week and the widest decline since May 18, 1940, when it declined 22.42 points.

Rails' Widest Decline

Railroads, 155.05, off 9.23 points and widest decline since July 22, 1933, when that average lost 10.37 points.

Utility, 63.05, off 2.36 points and 65 stocks, 165.56, off 7.95.

Dollar variation — in the Tuesday-Wednesday rally, the value of all stocks came back $4.5 billion from their $11 billion Monday loss. They gave up $1.5 billion of the recovery and closed the week off $8 billion.

Comparison with the close Aug. 30 would give no clue of the Monday break. In the month of September, the industrial average declined 1.56 points; rail, 2.09 points; utility, 2.96 points, and 65 stocks, 2.23 points.

Stock sales for September totaled 60,100,410 shares, the biggest September since 1932, and the most sales for any month since March. On Tuesday of this week the total for the year crossed the half-billion share mark, a new high for this period since 1931. Indications are the year's total will run around 700 million shares, most since 1930.

Here are a few of the week's net losses: Du Pont 11 7/8 points; Kennecott 10 1/4; Bethlehem Steel 9 3/4; Sears Roebuck 7 3/4; Santa Fe 9 1/4 and Union Pacific 9 1/2.

General Motors at its low for the week was down 11 1/8 points or more than a billion in value. It finished Friday at a loss of 1 3/8.

Continuing progress toward the development of a superior sprout inhibitor for use on stored potatoes is being made by plant physiologists of the Department of Agriculture.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Genesis 3:8-19

Wrong action produces a sense of fear. That person who defies his conscience always suffers a loss of personal power. He loses his sense of confidence. He is unable to summon his whole personality and focus it on the task which must be undertaken. The forces of his life become vagrants, each one hurrying off in a different direction on an independent errand without consulting with any of the others as to the main business in hand. Life gets out of control and the individual is no longer his own master.

All of us have had such experiences and they are anything but desirable. We try to bolster our waning spirits with bluster and bluff; we keep up a front for the public; but deep down inside our own consciousness we know it is all thought, O God, Thou dost never leave me, yet thou dost never dictate to me. I am left free to do the wrong that I may get credit for doing the right. But my freedom is my hazard, and my liberty is my entrapment. Amen.

Simplified Spelling System Is Rife

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer

It has long been known by men and scholars alike, that the English and American spelling system is poorly constructed, confusing, and even corrupt. Many linguists, phoneticians, and etymologists have advocated improved spelling systems, but few have done much in the way of reforming the wrongs so obvious to the many.

Perhaps some take pride in the fact that French is much more poorly spelled. Most solutions to the problem center around sound, and this is probably the best possible solution as well as the easiest.

In the times of Shakespeare in old Elizabethan England, people spelled words as they pleased. And everyone was pleased to spell them wrong, which was right according to their standards because there were no standards. No dictionary was used, since one had not been written. So the results were such horrible spellings as these: selfe, firt, grosse, possessae, vindes, encrease, growne, thinke, jooes, poore, and teares. (taken from the 1623 Folio of "Hamlet"). And these: feele, knowne, peece, urne, feare, passe, thumbe, and quarrell (from the First Folio of "Romeo and Juliet"). This should suffice to indicate that the English and a fondness for adding "e" to the end of their words.

Things were even worse, however, in the Middle English Period, as just a glance at Chaucer will reveal. Every high school student is familiar with...

When that Aprille with his shoures soote
The doghte of March hath perced to the roote,
And bathed each veyne in swich licour. . . (From the Prologue to "The Canterbury Tales").

George Bernard Shaw had some strong things to say about phonetics and spelling in his preface to "Pygmalion". A typical bit of Shavian satire follows:

"The English have no respect for their language, and will not teach their children to speak it. They spell it so abominably that no man can teach himself what it sounds like. . . German and Spanish are accessible to foreigners; English is not accessible even to Englishmen."

Perhaps shorthand systems are the solution, as he suggests in this preface, but certainly a system is needed that can express every sound in the English language, especially vowels.

The main problem in spelling words as they sound is that no two sections of the United States pronounce words exactly the same. But a happy medium can be found, as evidenced in radio, TV, and the motion picture.

Perhaps the key to simplified spelling will develop from a study of pronunciation and letter combination. Some suggestions follow:

The vowels are most inconsistent, since the pronunciation can not be indicated by the letter without resorting to phonetic means. For example "A" has four sounds, as in: father, apple, fate, and care. "E" has three sounds, as in: let, equal, and learn. The long "I" as in ice is a very common sound in English, and is represented in the International Phonetic Alphabet with the symbol "i" to convey

MILLER PHARMACY Monthly News

A Message from Joe Miller, "Your Pharmacist"

NATIONAL PHARMACY WEEK, October 2nd to 8th, has been set aside to remind you and ourselves that "Your Pharmacist Works for Better Community Health."

THERE ARE MANY other services we perform, but essentially our training as a Pharmacist, is to provide with proper safety, medicines that help you to get well and keep well.

COMPOUNDING PRESCRIPTIONS important enough to mean the difference between good health and bad, often life and death, requires a great mental concentration to avoid any possible error.

OUR WORKING HOURS are long because our Pharmacy is often open evenings and holidays when others can play. At the end of a long day we may momentarily feel that there surely must be an easier way to earn our daily bread.

BUT THERE IS really nothing else we would rather be than Your Pharmacist, and we thank you for the privilege of being able to serve.

EACH NIGHT we have the comforting thought that, because we are a Pharmacist, we can help folks like you to enjoy a healthier life.

"The Fellowship of the Saints, an Anthology of Christian Devotional Literature," edited by Thomas S. Kepler, is a valuable contribution to literature available to people interested in religion and the search for God.

Kepler is well qualified to edit this anthology of Christian devotional literature; he is Professor of New Testament Language and Literature, Graduate School of Theology, at Oberlin, a well-known college in Ohio. He has studied in the fields of the New Testament and the philosophy of religion in Germany and at Cambridge.

Professor Kepler has collected samples of the writings of 137 men and women representing all the ages of Christianity, including those representative modern writings that "may well live as the religious classics of the twentieth century." These "saints" have been canonized and cursed by ecclesiastics; they have spoken different languages lived in different countries and centuries, worshipped with different rites—but all have "described the sources of their (spiritual) power in classic prose that has continued to inspire." Some of those included are: Augustine, Blaise Pascal, Francis of Assisi, Martin Luther, Calvin, John Bunyan, John Woolman, Alexa Carrel, Harry Emerson Fosdick, and Reinhold Niebuhr. A brief sketch of the author's life and writings precedes each selection. In the Appendix a chronological table of great devotional writers paralleled with notable historical events makes clear the time perspective of each as well as the development of religious thought through the centuries. This table is valuable as a brief history of Christianity and will reward careful reading.

The term "saint" is used by different people with diverse connotations. Some mean those men and women who have become canonized by a church for their "holiness." They are now in an exalted place in heaven and entitled to veneration. Others use the term for people who have attained a high state of "holy" living. Professor Kepler has reserved three general qualifications for his use of the term (in the Preface): (1) Their interests must have concentrated on the life of prayer and devotion. (2) They must have left among their writings significant interpretations of the spiritual life. (3) They must have written in prose. Also, he has "tried to choose excerpts representative of significant periods or schools of religious thought. By this criterion, a selection from the writings of Mary Baker Eddy on Christian Science is conspicuously absent.

READY-PACKED — Don't be jured at the sight of these two watermelons inside a small-mouthed jar. Farmer Ed Burnett of Leavenworth, Kan., grew them there. He did it by running vines containing small melons into the jar. Then he covered the vines with straw for shade. The melons won't burst through the jar, either, because Burnett clipped the vines when the melons reached maturity.

Judge Frank E. Fulgram of the 79th District in Duval ordered the transfer because publicity in the defendants' home county made a "fair and impartial trial impossible."

Ships Warned of Attack
HONOLULU —UP— The Navy's Pacific hydrographic office has issued a warning to all merchant vessels that they face possible attack if they attempt to traverse Indo-China's Saigon channel. SMOGOGGLES—When the densest smog in history enveloped Los Angeles recently, 35 motorcycle messengers went on strike. They complained of poor visibility. Three said they were unable to breathe and suffered from severe nausea. After 20 minutes the walkout ended, when the men were equipped with the Army surplus gas masks they wear above.

Weekly Grain Roundup

FORT WORTH —UP— USDA— Weekly grain: Trading was quiet this week in Southwest cash grain markets. Only a few minor price changes were recorded by the Agricultural Marketing Service.

White corn advanced 3c and barley 2c a bushel. Yellow corn and milo held steady. Oats lost 1c and wheat 1-1/4c a bushel. These are net changes from Friday through Friday based on wholesale carlot quotations, Texas common rate points.

With the Texas corn crop about gone, prices strengthened for light offerings. No. 2 white corn closed Friday at $1.59 to $1.64 and No. 2 yellow at $1.51 to $1.56.

Bartley followed the upward trend at northern markets to bring $1.25 to $1.30, the highest in some time.

Supply of milo tightened up this week when rains in West Texas delayed harvesting. Prices closed Friday at $1.95 to $2.05 per 100 pounds.

Wheat declined since there was little domestic or export demand. No. 1 hard offerings brought $2.32-1.2 to $2.42-1.2 Friday.

Oats slipped a penny a bushel to sell at 79 to 84c.

At Oklahoma elevators, wheat was steady to 1c lower than a week ago. It brought $1.93 at Guyton and Hooker, $2.02 at Lawton, Enid, El Reno and Oklahoma City, and $2.03 at Bison, Hennessey and Hobart.

The Good And Bad Of Week's News

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

GOOD NEWS

1. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay announced that their governments are willing to guarantee Soviet Russia against any West German aggression. The guarantee would be given in return for a Russian agreement to unify Germany. The "Big Three" foreign ministers also warned the Kremlin that they will not recognize the East German puppet government. Nor will they recognize any Russian-East German agreements that might interfere with free Allied access to Berlin, they said.
2. The United States and other governments recognized the provisional government formed in Argentina after the overthrow of dictator Juan D. Peron. Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi ordered the release of political prisoners jailed by Peron. Argentine police uncovered nearly $30 million in gold coins and United States and Argentine currency which Peron, "friend of the worker," had cached.
3. In token of continued relaxation of West-East tension, the leaders of Soviet Russia sent unusually warm messages of sympathy to President Eisenhower on his illness. Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev said he learned with grief of Mr. Eisenhower's heart attack and wholeheartedly wished him a speedy recovery.

BAD NEWS

1. The United States and Great Britain learned with open alarm that Egypt planned to buy arms

Optimistic Crop Reports Pressure Cotton Market

By WILLIAM T. PLUNKET
NEW YORK —UP— Optimistic crop reports, in face of uncertainty about government plans for disposal of the existing surplus, kept a constant pressure applied against the cotton market this week.

In the fourth period of recessions, all deliveries dropped to seasonal lows with the 1955 deliveries taking the brunt of the selling movement. Nearby October resisted best in face of small delivery notices.

At Friday's close the list ruled 8 points higher to 69 points lower, or up 40 cents a bale to down $3.45 a bale from the preceding week.

Weakness in the Liverpool market exercised considerable influence over local market sentiment. Informed trade sources coupled weakness overseas with hedging against foreign growths, plus continuing rumors about the possibility of a U. S. government export subsidy.

Mention Possible Subsidy

Specific mention was made of a possible subsidy of four cents a pound, but official Washington sources knew nothing of the Liverpool rumor. However, it was pointed out that at the present time there is a three to four cent gap between the U. S. spot market levels and world prices.

Sellers also counted on a big boost in the private crop estimates expected to be issued next week prior to the government report scheduled for Oct. 10.

Preliminary ideas indicated a figure between 13% and possibly government's September figure of 12,873,000 bales.

Factors favoring a much higher crop figure said they labored under the impressions that the actual acreage planted to cotton is

Mitchell Says He Hopes To Cut Jobless

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Oct. 1—UP— Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Saturday he hopes to develop some answers soon to the problem of reducing unemployment to "its absolute minimum."

In a speech prepared for the San Pedro fishermen's fiesta Sunday, Mitchell said the 2.5 million unemployed persons in the nation "represent only a fraction of the total labor force"—3.3 per cent.

"But we will not consider the economy as at its fullest until that fraction is reduced to its absolute minimum," he said.

A study of unemployment, undertaken by the department last year, "will help us give answers within not too long a time," he added.

"There are areas that have special problems, small islands of unemployment in which dislocations have occurred in the wake of changing industry and changing times," he said. These are the object of "intense study" by the department in its analysis of the unemployed — who they are, how many can be employed and how many are actively looking for jobs, he said.

Mitchell also took the occasion to laud labor and management as having "reached a pinnacle of maturity which has resulted in an era of great labor peace."

"Many large contracts came up for negotiation this spring, and we saw them sign and secured with a minimum of friction," he said.

"Labor and management have confidence not only in the economy but also in their government. They know that the government will not interfere in their collective bargaining efforts."

The administration's "hands-off" policy toward labor disputes "has worked with great success" and the 65.5 million employed Americans "have profited from it, for now they share the fruits of their production more fully than ever before," he said.

Harvesters Dump Fort Worth, 21 To 6

Mauldin Scores Twice In First Pampa Victory

By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The high spirited wireless Pampa Harvesters trampled the Ft. Worth Tech Bulldogs by a score of 21-6 at Harvester Park Friday night before a shivering crowd of 2,500 fans.

The Harvesters took advantage of the perfect football weather and their weight advantage to rack up their first win for head Coach Jack Lockett.

Dickie Mauldin, 154 pound left halfback, went over for two of the counters and Bobby Dehis, 161 pound right half, broke loose on a pitch out from fullback Jesse Ring for the other touchdown.

The Tech Bulldogs, outweighed by 7 pounds per man couldn't seem to get the ball rolling at the right time as the Harvesters stopped them several times short of paydirt.

Pampa took the initial kick-off on their own 29 and marched the distance, racking up five first downs in 12 plays, for the first counter.

Dickie Mauldin raced around left end and into the end zone from the five to put the Green and Golders in front 6-0. They were never headed from that point.

The point was supposed to be kicked but the ball was fumbled and Fullback, Jesse Ring, carried it over. There was an off-side penalty assessed against the Harvesters and in the second attempt Cecil Reynolds converted.

After a fourth down pass play over from Bessent and retired the side.

Brooklyn ran its lead to 7-3 in the fifth as it kayoed Larsen, Jim Gilliam started it with a walk and stole second, Larsen was replaced there by Johnny Kucks, and Reese beat out an infield single to Joe Collins as Kucks was late covering the bag.

That's when Snider teed off on his king-sized homer.

The Yankees got two runs back in the sixth on three hits, Howard singled to left and Martin doubled over Snider's head in center to score him. Rizutto fouled out but Ed Robinson, batting for Kucks, singled to right to send Martin home with the Yankees' fifth and final run.

Brooklyn wound up its scoring in the seventh when as Campanella, Furlilo and Hodges hit consecutive singles which chased Rip Coleman, the third Yankee pitcher, Big Gil's blow brought home Campanella.

LSU Battles Rice To Tie

By JOHN COLTON
HOUSTON, Oct. 1 —UP— Louisiana State marched 79 yards to a touchdown that came with 22 seconds left to play Saturday to tie heavily-favored Rice 20-20 before 51,000 spectators in Rice Stadium.

The Tigers from Baton Rouge, who lost 28-0 to Texas A&M last Saturday night, played like a different team.

After Rice went ahead 20-14 in the fourth quarter, the Tigers marched to the tying score in nine plays. Vincent Gonzales, 22-year-old senior from New Orleans, went across for the marker.

Durwood Graham missed the extra point try that would have won the game for LSU.

Rice's last touchdown was set up when the Tigers' M. C. Reynolds fumbled on the LSU 10-yard line and Rice tackle Jerry Trask recovered, Fullback Orrville Hall went over for the touchdown.

Rice Halles Twice

Rice came from behind twice, scoring in the second and third periods. End Donald Gee went over on a five-yard pass from sophomore quarterback King Hill after LSU fullback Don Stinson tumbled on a pass from center in the second period.

LSU threatened twice in the second period when signal-caller M. C. Reynolds lobbed a 30-yard pass to end Joe Tumminello and Tumminello dropped it in the end zone. Reynolds tried again to end Billy Smith from 40 yards out and Rice fullback Page Rogers knocked it down in the end zone.

The Tigers scored their second touchdown in the third when Rice halfback Bryant Stone fumbled a handoff from John (Pinkie) Nisbet and LSU guard Don Scully recovered on Rice's 8-yard line. LSU fullback O. K. Ferguson carried three times and went over from three yards out.

Rice Evened Score

Rice evened the score at 14-14 half way through the third period on a 20-yard pass from King Hill to end Marshall Crawford, clinching a 71-yard drive in nine plays.

LSU, playing without the services of injury-benched Matt Burns, who sparked the Tigers 19-7 upset of Kentucky two weeks ago, stopped the Rice offense nearly cold.

LSU gathered in 180 net yards rushing to Rice's 77 and completed nine of 20 pass-attempts for 145 yards against 77 yards gained by Rice on six out of 11 aerial attempts.

Ferguson was the Tiger's leading ground gainer with 59 yards rushing. Hall led the Rice ground gainers with 46.

Score by periods:

Rice	0 7 7 6 20
LSU	0 7 7 6 20
Rice scoring:	Touchdowns, Gee (5, pass from Hill); Crawford (30, pass-run from Hill); Hall (5, run), Conversions, Hall 2.
LSU scoring:	Touchdowns, Reynolds (2, plunge); Ferguson (19, pass from Reynolds); Conversions, Graham 2.

Lamar Tech Wins Over Corpus, 29-2

BEAUMONT, Tex., Oct. 1 —UP— Lamar Tech scored a 29-2 non-conference victory over the University of Corpus Christi Saturday night.

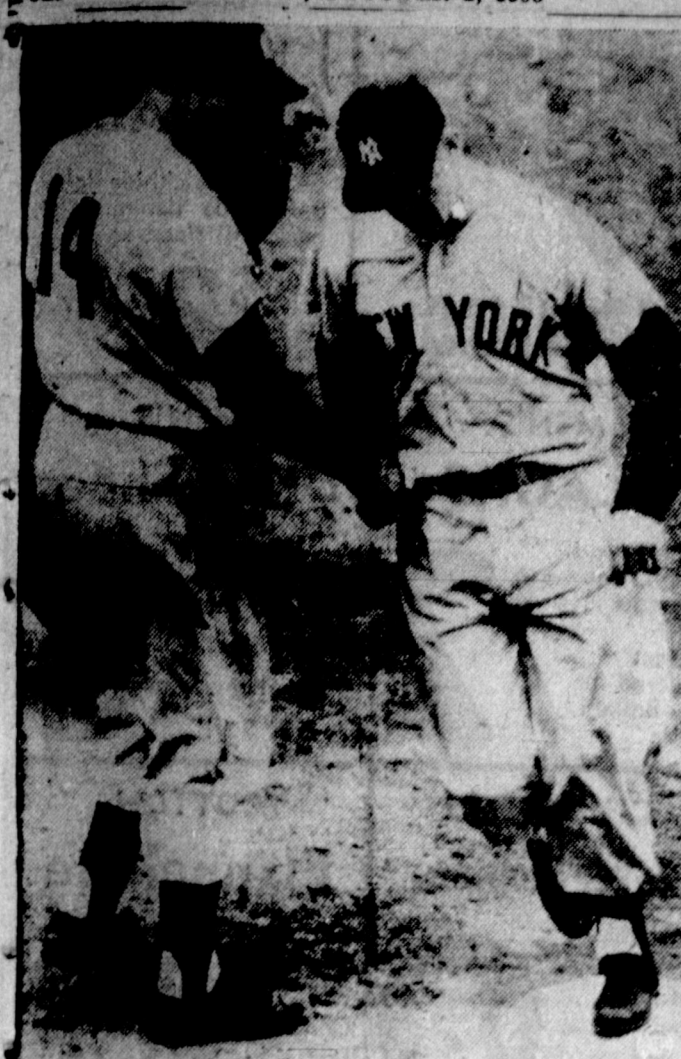

Lamar Tech held Corpus to 29 yards rushing and two first downs.

Freshman quarterback Donald Hartwick guided the Cardinals to three TDs and a blocked kick and a fumble gave Tech a safety and another six-pointer.

P.E. AT P.H.S.

Intramural flag-tag Team One defeated Team Three Tuesday night after dropping their first game to Team Two last week. The game left the three teams tied at mid-season after Team Two was forced to forfeit 1-0 to Team Three Thursday night.

Each team has two more games to play, meeting their opponents in single games. The last three games will be considered as a single elimination tournament if the three teams are tied at the end of the season. No games are scheduled for this week.

Team One got rolling early in the first quarter, and the final whistle was the only thing that could stop them. Capt. Lynn Don Garner won the toss and returned the opening kick-off to his 38. A tackling penalty at that point moved the ball to Team Three's 47. After failing to gain on the ground, Garner tossed to Buddy Lamberson for a 1st down on the 24. The Team Three line, aided by a penalty, forced the victors to the airline again.

Lamberson's flip to Garner carried to the 4 and Garner rammed at left guard on the next play to score. Lamberson rounded right end to make it 7-0.

A determined defense composed of Garner, Jimmy Jones, and Charlie Jordan forced Team Three to retreat 14 yards in three plays in the middle of the 2nd quarter. Capt. Earl Smith's 4th down 40 yard boomer was fielded by Robert Narcon on his 23 and smuggled through Team Three to a point 3 yards short of the hallowed ground.

Narcon set up the touchdown and he scored it on the next play with a hand-off around right end. Norman Olivolo broke through to block the attempted conversion by Garner.

The 3rd quarter found Team Three on the move with Smith and Charles Lerner in command. Lerner returned the kick-off to his 31. Smith raced around end on a keeper play to the 13, they alternated at lugging the ball to grind to the 8, and Smith popped over.

They trailed 13-8 after Lerner was stopped in the middle of the line trying for the bonus point.

Garner and Lamberson combined for Team One to dominate the 4th period. Lamberson took a Garner heave for 10 and added 33 more on foot. The same play worked for 10 and then 7, but Lamberson was covered on the 4th attempt, so Garner turned the attempted pass into a 12 yard, glided gallop around end behind a beautiful block valued at 6 points delivered by Mike McCloskey.

Garner was snowed under trying to find Lamberson again for the point after. Final score: Team One 19, Team Three 6.

Two Pampans Starters For Midwestern

WICHITA FALLS — Two Pampa gridders were in Midwestern University's starting lineup Saturday night when the Indians tangled with West Texas State at Canyon.

Darrell Wilson, 175 pound senior halfback, moved up to a first-string halfback post and Duane Miller, 190-pound senior, started at center. Wilson, in his fourth season at M. U. was elevated to a starting post when regular right half, Billy Martin, was injured last week in the Midwestern-Arizona State contest.

Martin suffered a broken nose and a cracked rib and will be out of action for about a month. Wilson is a Pampa high graduate.

Miller played his high school ball at Memphis, but his parents moved to Pampa following his graduation. He and left end Tommy Dozier of Batesville, Ark., will be Midwestern co-captains for the West Texas clash.

The Indians were beaten in more ways than one last week when the Arizona State Sun Devils took a 28-7 victory at Tempe. The Indians lost the services of three men for at least a month, and one man may be out the remainder of the season.

Starting right end Neil Whitaker, a 200-pound junior from Paris, suffered a serious knee injury, and the team physician may operate next week.

Cletis Cansler, reserve center from Tulsa, fractured his right hand and will be out of action until at least the California Poly game, Oct. 29. Martin is the other injury.

Midwestern defeated West Texas State last season at Wichita Falls, 14-7, and the Buffs have nine starters back from that game.

TWO MAIN EVENTERS

2 Main Events On Monday's Mat Schedule

Monday night should be quite a treat for local wrestling fans. The Pampa Shrine Club has lined up two main events. The first is 2 out of 3 falls one hour time limit between George Overhuls, Amarillo, and Frankie Murdock of Waxahatchie.

George Overhuls' Amarillo, famous all state footballer with the Sandlers is the master of the full Nelson and the drop kick and likes to stick with scientific wrestling but is capable of handling himself in any company.

Frankie Murdock, a former rodeo performer and boxer likes the rough style. His favorite finishing hold is the Python Sleeper. He is also famous for the Sherry Toe Hold and the Atomic Drop. If any of you fans doubt the sleeper hold Frankie is always glad to demonstrate.

The second main event of the evening is a no time limit affair with a referee's decision to settle matters which occupied after the main event last Monday night between Tommy Martindale of Milwaukee and Jim Austeri of Bronx, New York.

Martindale, one time Pacific Coast champion favors the rolling cradle lock while Austeri likes to use the back breaker.

It looks like a real exciting evening this Monday night at the Top O' Texas Sportsman Club. See you Monday night at 8.

Moore Sets Match With Randy Turpin

NEW YORK — UP — Archie Moore's next fight will be his defense of the light heavyweight crown against Randy Turpin in London, Jan. 10. Manager Charley Johnston said Thursday.

The match between 38-year-old Archie and England's Turpin, ex-middleweight champion, will be signed in New York about Oct. 19, when promoter Jack Solomons of London arrives.

Archie weighed 188 pounds last week when knocked out in the ninth round by heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, but Johnston said he could still be strong when pared down to 175 for a light-heavy defense.

The London fight will be his fifth defense of the crown he won from Joey Maxim on Dec. 17, 1952. He defended twice against Maxim and against Harold Johnson and middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

Wheeler Wins Over Silverton

WHEELER — The Wheeler Mustangs, after losing 9 of 10 games last year, racked up their second conference victory Friday night at Wheeler as they handed the Silverton Owls their first district 2-B defeat by a score of 31-7.

Plenty of action was on tap as the Mustangs scored repeatedly. Wheeler managed to score in each period and add one conversion in the last frame.

Returning letterman, Jim Porter popped over from the 1 to give Coach J. D. Atwell's charges their first counter in the first period. Then another member of the 54' club, Roger Topper, scored in the second.

Francis Pride took a pass from Harold Crossland for 29 yards and the third touchdown. Toppe then picked up another 25 yards and the score was 24-0 at the end of the third quarter.

Early in the last period Joe Jacob went over from the 1 and ended the Mustang scoring after the conversion by Harold Reid.

The Owls made a last quarter drive and Bill Stephens went over from the seven for the Silverton lone counter. W. D. Rowell made the point good but that wasn't enough.

Humorist To Speak At CC Banquet Here

Arthur (Art) Briese, humorist, writer, and human relations speaker of Hot Springs, Ark., will address members and guests of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development at the annual dinner meeting in the Senior High School Cafeteria on Tuesday evening, Oct. 18, at 7:30 o'clock.

His announced subject is "Skulduggery at the Old Crossroads." Advance reports on the speaker of the evening from coast to coast report much popping of buttons from the operations of this unusual speaker and entertainer.

Mayor Lynn Boyd, while attending a National Lumbermen's Association meeting recently, heard Briese, and his comment on the speaker was "He's a wow!" Chamber of Commerce officials expect a record attendance at the banquet.

Supplementing Briese on the program will be the championship barbershop quartet of the nation, "The Four Hearsensmen", of Amarillo. They will do several numbers including arrangements which made them national champions in Miami, Fla., recently.

Tickets for the banquet are approximately two-thirds sold. Four hundred and twenty-five plates are all that will be available for the banquet, and reservations should be made soon, according to Floyd Watson, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

GOP Women To Meet In New Orleans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 — UP—The board of directors of the National Federation of Republican Women will meet in New Orleans next Tuesday to chart strategy for the 1936 general election.

A press release said it will be the first time a national GOP conference has been held in the traditionally Democratic deep South. The board's immediate objective is to use Republican precinct womanpower more effectively in the campaign. The board also will form a "kitchen cabinet" to provide GOP women "with nutritious political recipes to serve their friends and neighbors with a cup of coffee."

The federation is headed by the wife of Rep. Carroll D. Kearns (R-Pa.). She said the "recipes on what's cooking in Washington" will include a breakdown of achievements of the Eisenhower administration.

Speakers at the three-day session will include Nelson Rockefeller, special assistant to the President of foreign affairs; Chauncey Robbins, executive director of the Republican National committee; James McMillan, assistant to National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, and John Brown of the Republican congressional committee.

The federation is currently holding regional conferences to insure more efficient operation of Republican women at the grassroots and sidewalk level. Plans to double the organization's membership will be discussed at New Orleans.

Peg O' Pampa

AH, ME! . . . Peg calls this colds and flu weather . . . one day you shiver and shake . . . and dress in your winter woollies . . . and the next day you roast . . . but Peg does think Fall is about the nicest time of the year here . . . just wish it would decide, though, to be either warm or cool . . . Enough on the weather . . . here's a poem Peg discovered that has a lot of good old "horse sense" in it, she thinks.

HORSE SENSE
A horse can't pull while kicking.
This fact I merely mention.
And he can't kick while pulling.
Which is my chief contention.

Let's imitate the good old horse
And lead a life that's fitting;
Just pull an honest load, and then
There'll be no time for kicking.
UNKNOWN

The end of all learning is to know God, and out of that knowledge to love and imitate Him: (John Milton)

THE VARIOUS AND INTERESTING vacations of Pampans still echo in this column . . . The Joe Fosters chose the fall of the year for their annual vacation trek . . . getting away from the "ole home town" is restful, as well as interesting . . . and it's just as nice to come back . . . usually with a greater appreciation of our fair city . . . This year the Fosters traveled in nine states and visited the capital cities of them . . . they also visited in British Columbia . . . They say one of their most vivid impressions was of the harbor of Vancouver, B. C. . . they described it as "spell-binding with the romance of foreign lands" . . . with ships that have traveled the waters of the world" . . . other impressions of the Fosters, in their own words, — "fruits in many sections were in abundance and very tasty . . . flowers in the botanical gardens and along the highways were in profusion and in hues that dazzle the eyes . . . especially the Lambert Gardens in Portland, Oregon, . . . the redwoods in Northern California are truly of antique growth . . . another place of interest was the Mormon Temple and organ recital in Salt Lake City, Utah" . . . they also relate that the highways were good almost the whole trip . . . and that they saw many other tourists even this late date in the year . . . Peg is sure glad the Fosters had such a nice trip . . . her globe-trotting spirit goes out to them.

For sure no minutes bring us more content, than those in pleasing useful studies spent. — John Pomfret

THE COFFEE PUT ON EACH YEAR by the Twentieth Century Clubs of Pampa was a huge success again this year . . . they held it in the Lovett Library this year rather than in the Country Club . . . the table was lovely with a large Bible at one end . . . with what looked like dried plants behind it and candles on either side . . . really very effective . . . Peg bets Al Curry had something to do with it . . . Inga Pratt did a wonderful job as master of ceremonies . . . and the book review by Mrs. E. N. Jones, wife of the president of Texas Tech, was so interesting . . . she is the first person Peg has seen to give a book review without a note of any kind . . . it was about a woman who traveled from Missouri to Mongolia in a wagon with her young son . . . It tickled Peg's curiosity to see if it were based on a real person's experiences . . . Loula Grace Erdman wrote it . . . Peg just would like to know if there was a big crowd there . . . Peg spied Wanda Campbell all in black . . . she looked lovely . . . first time Peg had seen her for a long time . . . guess she's been busy taking care of her young "uns" with a new baby and all . . . also saw Mack Hubbard . . . Mrs. Taylor Price . . . Mrs. Jack Merchant . . . Frances Cree . . . Theresa McKinney . . . Mary Johnson . . . Shirley Morgan . . . looking very stunning in navy blue . . . Viola Jordan . . . Hazel Hahn . . . Adeline Foster in a cute reddish dress with red fluff at the collar and cuffs . . . and a bright red hat . . . Zenobia Holloway . . . and . . . Peg's memory has run out.

POYTOURRI . . . Understand Mrs. Guy Cargile is in Chicago with her daughter . . . Mrs. Jimmy Hayes who lives there . . . she was Pat Cargile . . . guess it's Pat's birthday so her mother went up there to help her celebrate . . . the ladies of the Episcopal Church are still hard at work on things for their bazaar . . . Peg hears it's not just the women that are working, too . . . it's quite a site to see Buck Miller and Zenith Deer stringing candy on a wire . . . and doing other "more masculine" jobs . . . sure nice of the men to lend a helping hand . . . heard Ted Hicks is out of town . . . believe she went to Dallas or somewhere like that . . . heard Nelle Ralston had a unique birthday not too long ago . . . she doesn't have a big enough place for a party so she invited everyone to her birthday party at a friends house . . . with the friend's knowledge and permission, of course . . . Ah, me . . . it's been so long since Peg has had a birthday party . . . Johnnie Davis Smith . . . now living in Borger, is in Worley Hospital . . . heard she underwent major surgery . . . best wishes for a speedy recovery, Johnnie . . . the men's group of St. Paul Methodist Church entertained the ladies Tuesday . . . Jim Hill is president of that group . . . John McFall, Ira Carlton, May Bell Carlton, Corrine Waller and Lucille Schaffer were in charge of the arrangements . . . Richard Hughes spoke to them on his tour of the Holy Lands . . . a very nice affair . . . Mr. and Mrs. George Whitten both had birthdays Thursday . . . quite unusual for a man and wife to have been born on the same day, eh? . . . Thursday was also the wedding anniversary of the Coyle Fords and M. W. Stocktons . . . congratulations to Lyle and Arlene Matthews on the birth of their son . . . Jeanne and Al Bell have been pouring over literature on Mexico . . . guess they plan to make a trip that way in the near future.

Never regard study as a duty, but as an enviable opportunity to learn to know the liberating influence of beauty in the realm of the spirit for your own personal joy and to the profit of the community to which your work belongs. (Albert Einstein)

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE METHODIST WSCS on its 15th anniversary . . . the ladies of the First Methodist Church had a lovely tea Wednesday in observance of it . . . The centerpiece was lovely . . . English hestier and wild thistle that someone picked along the roadside in East Texas . . . very simple and very lovely . . . Mrs. Luther Pierson, who helped with the serving, looked lovely in a shiny, grayish-looking dress, that just belonged in with the silver appointments on the table . . . they served the most interesting miniature pies . . . Al Curry and Katie Key were helping with the serving . . . they both are so busy . . . don't see how they do it . . . Katie certainly has had a lot of things going on lately . . . guess it's best to keep busy though if you don't wear yourself out . . . sweet Mrs. H. H. Boynton was there . . . believe she was the first president . . . looked so nice in a blue dress . . . and Mrs. Carlton Nance is such a gracious hostess . . . Peg just loves tea like that.

WITH THAT ON MIND . . . Peg will wander off to read a stimulating book . . . and sign off for this week. As Always, Peg

Miss Yvonne Hendricks Becomes Bride Of Harold Comer In Service In Canada

Miss Yvonne Jeanett Hendricks of Sarnia, Ontario, Canada, became the bride of Harold Lee Comer of Pampa at 7 p.m. Sept. 16, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Sarnia, The Rev. D. St. Clair Campbell, B. A., B. D., officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fred Hendricks of Sarnia, Ontario, formerly of Pampa; and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Comer, 528 N. Nelson, Pampa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of blush silk satin. The bodice was styled with short sleeves, an Empire waistline and a v-neckline outline with embroidered Alencon lace appliques accented with seed pearls. The bouffant skirt that swept into a chapel train was designed with lace and seed pearl appliques down each side. She wore elbow-length satin gloves and a strand of cultured pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her finger-tip veil of blush-colored French silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white gardenias, pale-pink miniature roses and stephanotis.

Miss Charlotte Ruth Hendricks, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a princess-style dress of American Beauty Rubicon satin. The bodice was of imported Chantilly lace, and the bouffant, waist-length satin skirt was accented with lace appliques down one side. She wore matching satin pumps and her headpiece was a satin band with rosettes of lace net and sequins on each side. Her gloves were wrist-length, and she carried a nosegay of American Beauty roses and dusty-pink carnations.

Miss Joyce Needham of Sioux City, Ia., and Miss Mary Sinclair of Sarnia, Ontario, were bridesmaids. They wore identical princess-style gowns of dusty rose Rubicon satin. They were fashioned with bodices of imported Chantilly lace and waist-length skirts of satin. They wore matching satin pumps and headbands of satin with rosettes of lace net and sequins on each side. They wore short white gloves, and carried nosegays of American Beauty roses and dusty-rose carnations.

Jarold Comer, twin brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Jake Finney of Plainview, and Carroll Williams of Grand Rapids, Mich.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hendricks wore a Dior gown of blue Chantilly lace over taffeta with matching accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias, Mr. and Mrs. Comer were unable to attend. The couple was married before an altar flanked by palms, ferns and baskets of white gladioli, and backed by candelabra with white tapers. The pews were marked with white tapers, trailing ivy and satin bows.

A. E. Harris, organist, played the traditional wedding marches for the professional and recessional. Vocalist was Keith Williams, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Sarnia Riding Club. The serving table was covered with a white floor-length cloth of linen damask. The three-tiered

RUTH MILLETT

Here is a letter that may be an eye-opener to mothers and fathers whose sons and daughters were married this summer.

It is from a wife of five years whose husband's parents were so interested in their son's marriage and so "good" to the young couple they came close to wrecking the marriage.

The wife writes: "My husband's parents planned our wedding day and had a hand picking out our furniture and the house that was to be our first home.

"It was such fun for them, they kept saying, I agree they were having the time of their life, but it would have been so much more fun for us if we could have done all those things alone.

"From the very first they weren't satisfied to know their son was happy, but they had to share each happiness.

"They showered us with presents. Each week they bought us something new for our home or something new to wear. Most people would say we were lucky. But I felt I was being smothered and that my husband's parents had a strangle hold on us they would never let go.

"They were so 'good' to us they made us feel obligated to spend a great deal of time with them. Soon we even lost contact with our friends because with both of us working we only had time for our in-laws.

wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and encircled by flowers and tulle. At either end of the table were white tapers in silver candelabra and the bridesmaids' bouquets.

For the wedding trip to Texas, the bride wore an emerald green wool sheath dress, trimmed in satin, with cinnamon accessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

The couple will reside in Austin, where the bridegroom will enroll in the University of Texas to study law.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School in 1932. She was president of the Pampa Sub Deb Club and attended Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., where she was a member of the student council, annual staff, dormitory staff and League of Women Voters. She is a senior at Michigan State College, East Lansing, Mich.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School where he was a member of the student council, Hi-Y, National Latin Society, A Cappella Choir, Taping Club and took part in the junior and senior plays. He attended Texas Technological College, Lubbock, and received his B. A. degree from Texas A&M College.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. R. J. Bean, Ford Cowan, Harvey Landrum, S. S. Jackson, James Seitz, W. H. Carr, Orval Christophers, Frank Gracey, J. V. Patterson, Troy Hopkins, Joe Cunningham, and R. W. Beck.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MATURE PARENT

V. is a young acquaintance of ours. She telephoned me recently in some excitement. "I've got my driver's license!" she announced. "It's just come. I'm driving mummy to the dentist in an hour. Haven't you got somewhere to go that I could drive you? I'm very careful so you don't have to be afraid. Oh, please think of some place you have to go after I leave mummy at the dentist!"

I thought of one; and an hour later, joined V. and her mother in their car.

Almost as once, they became engaged in a dispute over the best route downtown. V's mother insisted on a side street that would avoid highway traffic; V. declared the highway safer and faster. The argument had become uncomfortably tense when V., flushing, suddenly erupted into frankly abusive impudence to her mother.

"We drove in silence for about 10 seconds. Then V's mother said, "What do you think of a girl who talks like that to her mother, Mrs. Lawrence? What would you do about a fresh kid like this?"

I offered no suggestions. By the end of another five minutes, I realized that asking me what I'd do about V's impudence was all that her mother intended to do about it.

Since then, I've wondered what might have happened if this parent had said quietly, "V., please stop the car. I want to get out." And getting out, added, "You were right to resist my interference with your driving. I am right to resist the rudeness with which you did it. So I'm taking the bus to the dentist's."

I'm pretty sure that instead of leaving resentment behind her, V's mother would have left thoughtfulness and repentance behind her.

A child's impudence is always a direct challenge to parents' honesty. It calls for two straightforward declarations: the admission that he has offended you; the proposal that we have offended him.

Nobody enjoys assault by children's impudence. This is a reasonable position we don't have to defend by anger, because anger shuts our ears to the vital message the impudence is delivering. Always this message is, "I don't trust your justice and good will."

Anger at impudence is futile as slapping a little boy to stop him slapping his sister. He'll just pinch her when we aren't looking; and the impudent child will find a new way, too, to express the feeling we've denied him. Instead of telling us how and why he distrusts us, he will just tell other people how and why.

'Permanent' Collar Stays Give Trouble

Style-conscious men may find the appearance becomes progressively worse. Wrinkles in the metal stay tend to shorten its length. This results in the excess cloth in the collar bulging and causing the collar to finish improperly.

Technicians at the Joliet, Illinois, research and educational center for the laundry industry point out that this shirt is constructed with a tapering neckband so that it can be worn as an open collar sport shirt or buttoned as a dress shirt. A collar constructed with this stay can be bent or curved to give any desired shape or set to the collar front.

This particular construction offers big headaches to laundrymen, the A. I. L. technicians say. The metal strip bends during washing, causing wrinkles in the stay that will not press out. As a result the pressed collar appears very irregular in area above the stay and along the edges. Repeated laundering wrinkles the metal further and Wrinkles in the metal stay tend to shorten its length. This results in the excess cloth in the collar bulging and causing the collar to finish improperly.

A. I. L. advises men who are particular about their shirts, and women who shop for them, to watch for any shirt with wide flaring collar and permanent stays. Shirts of broadcloth, oxford cloth and even spunrayon sport shirts often develop the rough appearance, also.

Mrs. E. N. Jones Of Lubbock Presents Book Review For 20th Century Coffee

Mrs. E. N. Jones of Lubbock, wife of the president of Texas Technological College, reviewed the book, "The Far Journey" by Louisa Grace Erdmann, at the coffee presented by the five Pampa Twentieth Century Clubs recently in the Lovett Library.

The book is the story of Catherine Montgomery of Grafton, Mo., who marries Edward Dulaney, an "Easterner" on his way West, who stops to work in his uncle's store in Grafton to earn the money for his trip. Mrs. Jones stated that Edward's idea was that "you have to go West to grow." After years of waiting and many difficulties, Edward sets out alone for Moberlie, a town that has grown up around Fort Elliot, and is called "the promised land."

When Edward is delayed in returning for Catherine and their son, Ned, Catherine decides to set out for Moberlie in a wagon, accompanied by her son and her Uncle Willie, described by Mrs. Jones as having the "soul of a poet and the complete irresponsibility of a tramp." The story deals with her adventures, difficulties and growth by the trip and her hardships, especially after Uncle Willie is killed by some runaway horses and she must go on alone.

The invocation for the coffee was given by Mrs. Homer Johnson, and Mrs. Bruce Pratt was master-of-ceremonies. Mrs. Pratt introduced the presidents of each of the clubs

First Methodist WSCS Presents Tea In Observance Of 15th Anniversary

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church celebrated its 15th Anniversary with a tea in the church parlor recently. Charter members of the Society were honor guests. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Carlton Nance, president, and Mrs. H. H. Boynton, first president of the WSCS.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Sam B. Cook, conference secretary of promotion; and by Mrs. W. W. Adcock, secretary of children's work. Each charter member present was recognized. The table was covered with a handmade heirloom linen cloth. The centerpiece consisted of an epergne filled with purple English thistle and purple heather, around which were hung clusters of purple and pink grapes, set on an antique silver reflector. Encircling it were jasmine leaves. Flanking the centerpiece were three-branched silver candelabra with pale pink tapers. Tiny French pastries were served hot from a covered silver tureen. Other pastries and leaf-shaped sandwiches were on a revolving silver server.

The past presidents served as hostesses and alternated at the coffee service. They were: Mmes. W. B. Campbell, F. W. Shotwell, Sam B. Cook, Luther Pierson, G. F. Benson, Loyse Caldwell, and Coy Palmer. One past president, Mrs. W. Purviance was out-of-town, and Mrs. Horace McBea is deceased.

Ancient And New Problems Of The Soil Is Program Given To Civic Culture Club

Members of the Civic Culture Club met recently with Mrs. R. E. Dauer, with Mrs. M. M. Moyer, president, in charge of the business meeting.

The program, "Relationship of Ancient and New Problems," was under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Townsend. Mrs. Townsend took her presentation from the article, "Conquest of the Land Through Seven Thousand Years" by W. C. Lowdermilk, formerly assistant chief, Soil Conservation Service, put out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

Mrs. Townsend reported that the record of men, nations and civilization is written on the land — mankind's struggles through the ages, with more failures noted than successes.

"From these failures and successes we may learn much of profit and benefit to this young Nation of the United States as it occupies a new and bountiful continent and begins to set up house for a thousand or ten thousand years — yes, for a boundless future," she quoted. Mrs. Townsend reported that Pearl Harbor awakened the American people to the fact that it is a "dangerous world" filled with the "fear of privations, brought on by restriction of the exchange of the goods and necessary things of Mother Earth" — filled with the needs of food and raw materials.

"A just relation of peoples to the earth rests not on exploitations, but rather on conservation — not on the dissipation of resources, but rather on restoration of the productive powers of the land and on access to food and raw materials," she quoted.

She told of the complexities involved when farmers of the soil grew more food than needed, releasing others to do other tasks.

"The partnership of land and farmer is the rock foundation of our complex social structure," Mrs. Townsend quoted.

She went on to tell of the civilizations of the Near East of the Sumerian peoples of Mesopotamia, and of Egypt, what has been learned of the agricultural systems of these times, and the lessons learned from the past.

Guests were Mrs. Delta Wharton and Mrs. Clara Barnes of Columbus, Ohio, visiting Mrs. Townsend.

Members present were Mmes. A. D. Hills, A. C. Houchin, Henry Link, M. M. Moyer, H. G. Roberts, W. C. Scott, J. B. Townsend and R. E. Dauer.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Friend Grace. Never miss the daily write-ups in our fine paper, most fond of you. Although we haven't met, keep wondering who you are. Your sincerity means so much to us folks. An old saying - If the shoe fits - wear it.

Regarding the fortune teller, not with a capital letter, receiving and pretending giving religious orders. First a her living - she denotes first to her own service. I'll say they're much in the wrong, not genuine. She's a great pretender intruding of the law.

Dear Grace Friend. My husband and I always read your column and we like it. I would like for you to write something about the people who drop kittens on the highway.

Dear N. F. W. You have summed it up very well when you say that such persons are thoughtless and cruel.

Miss Anthony Is Honored At Coffee

Miss Amelia Anthony of Girlstown, near Whiteface, was honored with a coffee Friday morning in the home of Mrs. W. A. Spoonemore, 617 N. Gray. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Spoonemore were Mrs. Rufe Jordan, W. A. York, Julian Key, H. H. Boynton, Jess Clay and Roy Dawson.

Guests were received at the door by Mrs. Jordan, and Mrs. Dawson presided at the guest register.

The serving table was covered with an imported white linen hand-drawn cloth, centered with an arrangement of pink asters in a wicker basket.

Refreshments of coffee, doughnuts and sweet rolls were served. Mrs. Key presided at the silver coffee service.

During the coffee, Miss Anthony spoke on Girlstown, stating she now has 67 girls there. Plans are underway for a new dormitory which will house some 60 or more girls. Miss Anthony told the women that the girls in Girlstown are provided with an "Early American" home atmosphere, with Bible study to be held each evening. She said the girls are taught to be good wives and good mothers, leaning to cook and other essentials for their "career."

Approximately 50 women attended the event.

Rubber base paints should not be applied on wallpaper because the paint is so highly resistant to water that soaking or steaming off wallpaper later is a difficult job.

Put a little salad oil in molds to be used for gelatin salads. This makes serving easier.

The U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis was opened Oct. 10, 1845.

"Always plenty of HOT WATER with my ELECTRIC Water Heater!"

says Mrs. Buford Dulin DENVER CITY, TEXAS

"We have five electric water heaters for our home and motel, and we have found that electric water heating is economical. All you have to do is install an electric water heater and forget it."

"We have the water heaters in closets, right where clothes are stored. Because electric water heating is so safe and clean, the clothes are absolutely safe from fire and soot."

"The rooms in our motel stay much cleaner with the electric water heaters. And, of course, while the water is hot, the electric water heater is cool and doesn't heat up the house or the motel rooms in which they are installed."

"We have four small boys and we have absolutely no fear of letting them play around the electric water heaters. We know there is no danger of being burned." Want economical, clean, safe water heating? Then you want modern water heating. Of course, it's electric.

PICTURE NEWS

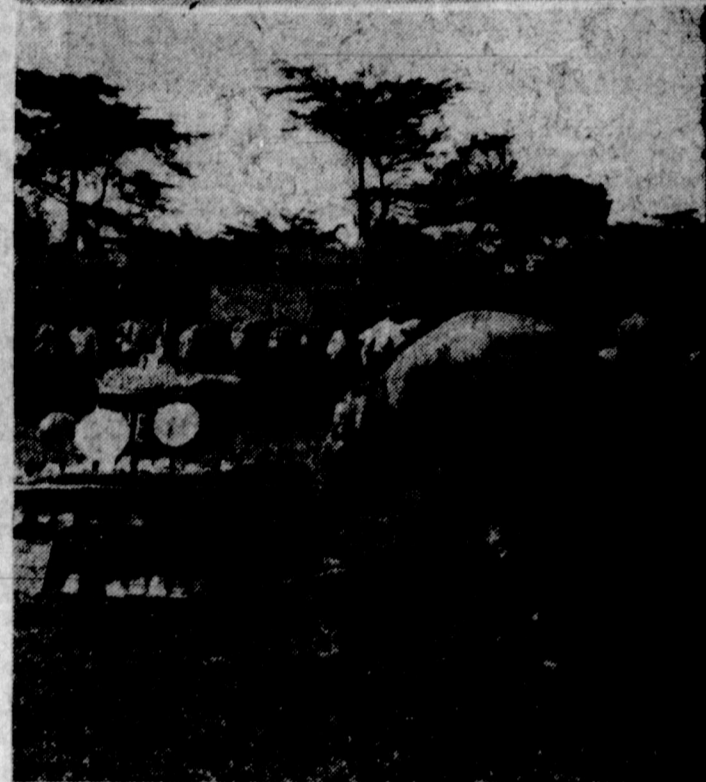

RESISTING ARREST—Cheeta, a tiny monkey, ran away from an animal nursery in Marietta, Ga., and had roamed about for 30 hours when she decided to inspect an aircraft plant. Guards gave chase and finally cornered her, and Air Police Sgt. Lewis Cannon is trying to convince Cheeta that she had better not try to monkey around with the law.

THINK OF THE FUTURE—A cousin of the alligator, this baby caiman was imported from South America by a New York pet firm. It's only seven inches long now, but it may grow to 20 feet when it matures, and the creature won't be so nice to have around the house.

SOMETHING TO ADMIRE—A lad in Berlin must realize that travel is broadening as he views the emblems from many places attached to the rear of an auto. The display seems to hold more interest for the boy than a stamp album or a geography book.

HAVING A BALL—Some baby elephants from the Ringling Bros. circus helped Pennie, newcomer to the Fleishacker Zoo in San Francisco, celebrate her birthday. A three-layer cake is in the middle of the circle with Pennie, top photo, as the guests dance around her. Pennie had to be restrained by a chain so she wouldn't eat the entire cake by herself, below.

SHAPING UP—Ten members of a newly-formed ballet troupe strike graceful poses in an appropriate setting—a boulevard in front of the Eiffel Tower in Paris. The unit, now giving its initial performances in the French capital, has selected a name to live up to. It's known as the "Ballets de la Tour Eiffel."

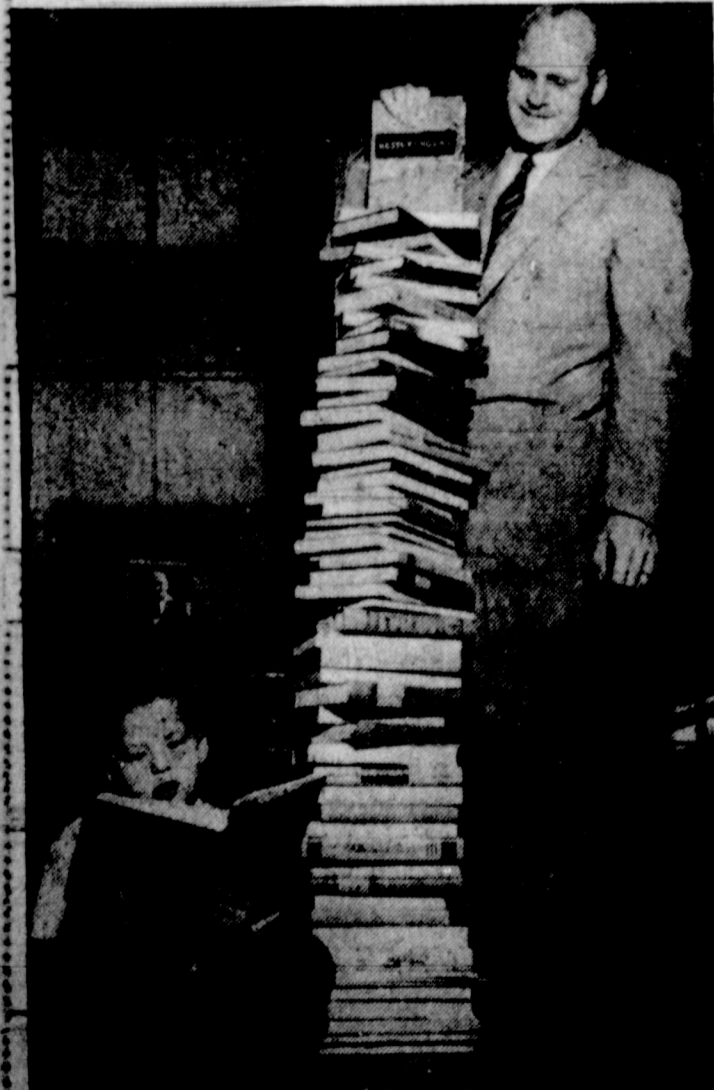

MODEL BEHAVIOR—This tiny model's expression indicates she may prefer wearing skirts to pants, but her cute outfit is as practical as it is attractive. The sturdy poplin pants and jacket come in orange or teal and are lined in matching flannel. White knitted collar and cuffs are added.

A LAUGHING MATTER—The hilarity of "No Time For Sergeants" seems to be overwhelming some of those rehearsing the play in New York. Actor Andy Griffith, left to right, producer Maurice Evans, Ira Levin, who adapted the play from the novel, and director Morton DaCosta are all in on the joke. They were about to entrain for New Haven, Conn., for tryout.

LOYAL FANS—Kansas City Athletics fans are shown mobbing outfielder Enos Slaughter for autographs. They had been allowed on the field for a close look at the A's before the team's final home stand of the 1955 season. Yankees and Dodgers notwithstanding, these folks root for their own team.

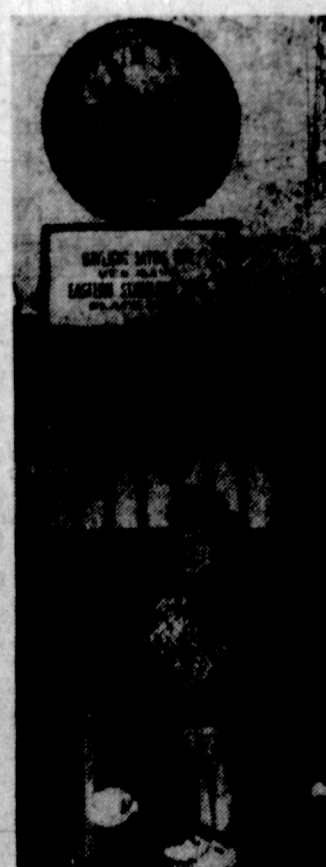

OVER HIS HEAD—Larry Pattern, who's just started kindergarten in Grand Rapids, Mich., is overshadowed by the basic textbooks he's due to study between now and the time he enters high school. Jay L. Pylman, Assistant Superintendent of Schools there, adds one more—number 87—but Larry isn't worried. He can't read yet, and pictures tell a story.

INSPIRATION—A talking bird that often appears on TV inspired this new bathing suit. It may seem odd that a black crow could be used in this manner, but fashion designers claim crow black differs from raven or charcoal, is sleek and shiny.

KIDS FROM SPAIN—Spanish students, clad in 16th Century costumes, give a sidewalk concert in Brussels, Belgium. The minstrels are from Madrid and are singing their way across Europe. Having been through France and Belgium, they were heading for Germany and Italy to give their concerts for appreciative music lovers in those countries.

OR COULD IT?—A small commuter in New York's Pennsylvania Station looks like she's wondering how she happened to miss that certain train. The big wall clock is faster than her tiny watch which just "couldn't" be wrong.

HEADED FOR A REST—The British battleship HMS Vanguard, world's heaviest armed vessel, is about to join the mothball fleet. The decision climaxes a year-long battle by Sir Winston Churchill to keep the ship at the head of the British fleet. Now Britain will be without a battleship for the first time since British admirals designed the first "dreadnaught" at the turn of the century. The 43,500-ton vessel, launched November, 1914, will be kept at a high state of readiness in case of emergency, while its crew of 1650 will be transferred to a new guided-weapon ship.

Public Opinion May Cause Gasoline Price War Laws

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—UP—Donald C. O'Hara, associate counsel of the National Petroleum Association, doubts the present Congress will pass laws to end gasoline price war or curb alleged abuses in the supplier-dealer relationship.

But he also warns that 1954 is an election year and anything can happen, especially if public opinion takes sides in a controversy. Hence, he suggested that if abuses exist, the industry should clean them up so vote-conscious congressmen need not feel compelled to act. O'Hara voiced his opinions this week in a little-heralded speech to the Ohio Petroleum Marketers Association at Cincinnati. His words are significant. During the past summer he kept daily tabs on price-war and "abuse" hearings conducted by the Senate and House subcommittees on small business. He also is on speaking terms with legislators interested in whether big business is oppressing small competitors.

Some Action Proposed
The house subcommittee, headed by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) has filed its report and Roosevelt has introduced "remedial" legislation to safeguard the independent dealer. The Senate group, headed by Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), is withholding its report pending new inquiries in New Jersey and Virginia. Roosevelt's committee also is interested in these areas and plans hearings early this month in Richmond and Bristol, Va.

O'Hara gave his audience a resume of alleged abuses revealed at the hearings. Substance of them was that suppliers started or supported price wars; that company policies, such as short-term leases, were responsible for the high turnover and the financial losses of dealers; and that suppliers forced their dealers, most of whom are supposed to be independent businessmen, to handle certain lines of tires, batteries and accessories.

He quoted dealer testimony that out of 210,000 service stations in the nation, 65,000 or one-third, closed or changed hands last year. Then he quoted supplier testimony that, instead of operating a "sucker" game, they wanted dealers who could make money because this, in turn, meant more money for the company.

May Radically Change Setup
"This brings us to the next question," said O'Hara. "Is Congress about to pass some laws which will radically change the present setup in oil marketing? The committees have heard proposals for legislation which included compulsory long-term leasing for dealers, divestment of marketing from suppliers, limitation of refinery runs, elimination of tax amortization, and the depletion allowance, and new and more stringent anti-trust laws."

"But," he said, "I think Congress is not likely to adopt such drastic legislation in the near future. It is a simple political fact that important legislation rarely results immediately from a bill introduced by any member of Congress."

"Nevertheless," he warned, "under our system of government, Congress not only is a legislative body but it is a public sounding board. Thus, in this case, we have seen that many major suppliers have had a re-examination of their dealer policy and some have announced specific changes."

Ochiltree Has Another Oil Discovery

PERRYTON—(Special)—Another oil discovery and gasser in the Perryton area this week boosted the excitement set off a week ago by the Woodson Oil Co. Perry unit, which comes as a good will with lots of gas.

Since then, the Union Oil Co. No. 1 J. Russell, located five miles south of Farmsworth, recovered 101 barrels of 39 gravity oil on a 13-hour test through perforations from 7,954 to 7,962 feet.

Though perforations from 7,888 to 7,902 feet after 500 gallons of acid, it made 10,000 to 50,000 cubic feet of gas per day and swabbed two barrels of 38 gravity oil per hour for 10 hours.

The day after the Woodson well came in the Texas Co. announced that their No. 1 Cutter-A, located five miles southeast of Perryton, flowed gas at the rate of 4,090,000 cubic feet in a one hour test from 7,136 to 7,952 feet in Morrow sand. Recovery of 110 feet of gas cut mud and one gallon distillate.

Meanwhile at the Woodson well, located just south of the city limits, testing is continuing on a pay zone just below the one which flowed 56 barrels per hour through a 58 inch choke. The oil was 45 gravity and was produced from 7,470 to 7,503 feet. Gas volume was 5,000,000 cubic feet.

Unofficial reports from the Woodson Company indicate that their next well will be on the 77 acres owned by the City of Perryton. The Woodson-Perry will be developed as a dual producer and the company plans to drill at least 43 wells in the block of approximately 5,000 acres southeast of Perryton.

Company officials are in Perryton this week and say they plan to move their field headquarters from Breckenridge to Perryton.

Oil Leaders Gather For Dallas Meet

DALLAS, Oct. 1—UP—Oil markets and future relationships with the federal government in the handling of natural gas will be the chief topics when the top leaders in the Petroleum industry gather in Dallas Monday for the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association annual meeting.

The 26th meeting will find 90 per cent of both the state's oil and gas production represented. The Texas industry produces 43 per cent of the nation's crude oil and 53 per cent of its natural gas.

Albert L. Nickerson of New York, president of the Socony Mobil Oil Co., will discuss worldwide demand for oil and future marketing prospects.

Clayton Orn, general attorney for the Ohio Oil Co., Findlay, Ohio, will speak on the question of federal control of natural gas.

Progressive Education

"Just what is progressive education?" This question is frequently asked by those who like to pretend that our government educational system is the best possible, and that the word "progressive," good in itself, must of course be descriptive of something completely worthwhile when coupled with education.

In order to understand "progressive" education we must turn first to John Dewey, who is known as the "father" of progressive education and is one of the chief exponents of pragmatism in education. Mr. Dewey's point of view respecting education was that it is more than the process of getting knowledge and understanding into the student. Dewey puts it this way: "Education is the fundamental method of social progress and reform. All reforms which rest simply upon the enactment of law, or the threatening of certain penalties, or upon changes in mechanical and outward arrangements, are transitory and futile."

In short, Dewey sees in education a FORCE to be wielded by the educator, vastly more potent than mere government, and infinitely more subtle. Dewey is not content that children be informed. He wants them informed according to a pre-determined slant, so that they may become instruments in social progress and reform. This is the nucleus of "progressive" education. It is education with a purpose.

Knowledge is not an end in itself, according to the pragmatic concept which these thoughts foster. Knowledge must be applied... and here is the kernel of the progressive movement in education... in a practical manner BY THE EDUCATOR, not the educated. The student becomes merely the instrument in carrying out a predetermined policy inaugurated by the educator.

Under the urging of this "progressive" education concept, government schools are the only answer. In no other manner could a single, unified social reform occur. Educational efforts must be coordinated. If children are trained to think independently they could, and unquestionably would, thwart the "progressive" educator. Therefore, conformity with the predetermined concepts of the educators is an essential.

Here are some quotations from "Education Today" by John Dewey, published in 1940: "It is the business of everyone interested in education to insist upon the school as the primary and most effective instrument of social progress and reform in order that society may be awakened to realize what the school stands for, and aroused to the necessity of endowing the educator with sufficient equipment properly to perform his task." "The teacher is engaged, not simply in the training of individuals, but in the formation of the proper social life." "The teacher always is the prophet of the true God and the usher in of the true kingdom of God."

Dewey is pre-eminent in criticizing all efforts to teach the individual. He wants the individual "integrated into society." He complains: "In our American democracy aims have, until recently, been stated in terms of the individual, not in those of the society he is to be educated for." Then he praises the methods of Soviet Russia, Hitlerized Germany, the Australian aboriginal and the ancient Athenian because they had or have "societies that can be defined in definite terms."

Dewey goes on to institute the thought of "joy" through learning. He deprecates the discipline necessary to teach the basic rules to children. He said that: "Learning is not necessarily a disagreeable process... that is the discovery, or rediscovery, of modern progressive education."

It is this thought, which has brought the so-called "democratic" process into the classroom. Instead of having an informed teacher busily engaged in informing the students, the students frequently are called upon to vote as to what they would like to study and how. The aim is to make them well-adjusted, happy, tiny motes of life in a gigantic SOCIETY. Individualism is contrary to the "progressive" spirit of education according to Dewey.

However, Dewey is not without followers. One of his most ardent supporters is professor Theodore Brameld of the University of Minnesota. Brameld has helped to put out a book entitled: "Workers' Education in the United States." Brameld says: "We do not want the democratic community to make a fetish of the decadent doctrines of yesterday... rugged individualism and 'free enterprise.'" Then he reports that labor bosses have concluded that education should be "the newer broad type rather than the old-fashioned type, and that most schools should treat society as a set of evolving institutions rather than trying to inculcate fixed principles." On pages 52 and 53 in this book, Brameld with candor praises the Marxian "impulse" in this country. He also has warm words for the Fabian Society and other socialist groups. Brameld holds up as an example the Russian Revolution. He also praises the trade union movement as an exponent of progressive education since it is dedicated to re-making society along a single collectivized form rather than adhering to the concept of laissez faire. Brameld sees education "playing an important creative role in replacing rugged individualism by some form of democratic collectivism." There is much, much more of the same in scores of books in our government library.

To sum up, "progressive" education is indoctrination aimed at molding students to a new social order. It is dependent upon "collective" action, and functions best through controlled government schools. It seeks to make students happy rather than informed and wise. It is a political tool in the hands of the unscrupulous who wish to re-make America in the image of the Soviet.

Advantages Of Government Of Laws

In the last issue I tried to explain somewhat the difference between a government of men and a government of eternal laws. Laws that no man made nor no man can unmake. Now I want to try to point out how great the advantages would be if we had a government of eternal laws; of laws that never change with time or place; of natural laws that are the nature of things; of divine laws, of common laws that apply equally to all men, of a providential law.

One of the greatest advantages would be that if we had a government of eternal laws men would know exactly what to count on from the government. Then men could plan ahead for years and years and know that the government would not change. That it would continue 25 or 30 or 100 years or 1,000,000 to stand for these eternal principles.

They would not need to devote a great deal of their time to try to figure out and speculate and guess what the government was going to do the next day or the next month or the next century. They could devote all their time and energy in developing their facilities so that they could be of service to themselves and their fellowmen. They would know that what they created could be distributed in a way that they believed would serve mankind. They could know that they could use their conscience and would not have to be a party to any form of tyranny.

If we had a government of eternal laws rather than a government of exalted, ambitious, willful, changeable unprincipled men, the cost of government would be practically nothing. Practically all that would be produced could be used for the betterment of mankind.

If we had a government of eternal laws we wouldn't be worried about the value of the dollar constantly purchasing less, because the government of willful unprincipled men were constantly increasing credit by way of deficit financing through the banks.

If we had a government of eternal laws we would have money that had almost a constant purchasing power. Conscientious men who did not want to be a charge on society could keep their savings in the form of credits and know they would have money that would buy practically as much as a dollar they saved.

If we had a government of eternal laws — that is, natural laws, divine laws or common laws — it would be a great factor in promoting peace and goodwill.

If we had a government of laws that respected human initiative of every other person in the world, we would not have tariffs and immigration quotas that are bound to lead to almost continuous war.

Republic Possibility

If we had a government of laws, we would have a republic. That is, we would have a government that was limited to only doing things of a public nature. It would recognize that an individual had certain inalienable rights that the government never, under any circumstances, had a right to interfere with. That the only purpose of a government was to preserve these eternal, inalienable rights that belong not to labor unions or farmers or business men or publishers or class but to ALL persons.

If we had a government of eternal laws that applied to every subdivision of government, local, state and federal and national, we would not have millions and millions and millions of local and state laws that took away from individuals their God-given rights to choose.

We would not have such local laws as government schools, libraries, zoning laws, licenses, government fire departments, etc. Fire departments would be owned by insurance companies that would charge in proportion to the amount of service rendered and not like it is charged when operated by a government of men, which charges for fire protecting from vacant lots that cannot burn down and charges more insurance for a fireproof building than it does for a firetrap building.

Hard On Politicians

If we had a government of eternal laws a lot of lazy, incompetent men with their feet in the public trough would have to go to work and render the kind of a service that others were willing to voluntarily pay for and did not need to be forced to pay for with a policeman's pistol. That there would be two profits in every transaction — the buyer and the seller. Both would be gainers while under a government of men, in many cases, only the politician gains and the producer of wealth loses.

Yes, what we need more than anything else to reduce the labor required to satisfy human want, to develop character and goodwill, is to have more and more people in a government of eternal, natural, divine, common, providential laws instead of a government of whimsical men.

The excitable Bostonian wants to know why the Army Engineers, the Signal Corps and the Navy cannot construct and operate the system. For one thing, they do not have the number of qualified personnel. Secondly, if they did, they would have to drop all other work, including flood relief in his Yankeland.

Opponents object because so many officials of these favored firms have been on the Eisenhower payroll. They also served under F.D.R. and Truman for the simple reason that they are acknowledged experts in the field of communications, a vital national defense arm.

'56 Political Campaign To Be Nastiest Since 1928

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "Corruption" charges against the Eisenhower Administration on the basis of two national defense contracts forecast that the 1956 Presidential campaign will be the nastiest, the most bitter and the most illogical since the Hoover-Smith clash in 1928.

The two contracts under Democratic attack, it is generally conceded, are necessary to the national defense in an atomic and airplane age. The terms were announced as soon as preliminary negotiations had been completed. They differ in no essential respect from numerous transactions entered into by the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations during and after World War II. But they have been cited as clinching proof that Ike favors "big business."

In view of these facts, an examination of the transactions becomes pertinent and important. It will also furnish a preview of what the voters may expect when the two parties join combat less than a year from now.

The first contract involves the Air Force's arrangement with the Western Electric Company and the American Telegraph and Telephone Company under which they will build an air defense communications network to give advance warning of a flight of enemy bombers carrying atomic missiles against the United States.

The cost is estimated at $240,000,000 a year, possibly $2.4 billion over a 10-year period. Controller General Joseph Campbell, an Eisenhower appointee and old friend, has ruled that the Air Force cannot go ahead with the project without first obtaining authority from Congress. He has agreed, however, to reconsider his decision.

Congress, it seems, had authorized construction of an adequate defense system and has appropriated money for its initial stages. The appropriate committees have been kept fully informed of the elaborate and costly nature of the project, if the nation is to be fully safe-guarded.

As was customary in the past, the Air Force hastened the start by entering into contracts, confident that the funds would be forthcoming when necessary. F.D.R. and Truman frequently proceeded on this basis, issuing mere "letters of intent," when speed was essential.

Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic House leader, now asks why the award should go to these two firms. The obvious answer is that they are the only ones capable of handling such a vast job.

The excitable Bostonian wants to know why the Army Engineers, the Signal Corps and the Navy cannot construct and operate the system. For one thing, they do not have the number of qualified personnel. Secondly, if they did, they would have to drop all other work, including flood relief in his Yankeland.

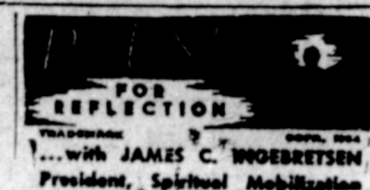

The second transaction concerns the government's agreement to guarantee the financing of the Harvey Machine Company's aluminum plant on the Columbia River. It has also been denounced as a "supercorrupt and scandalous" deal in favor of "big business." Here are the facts:

The contract was negotiated in 1952, during the Truman Administration and before termination of his "Korean police action." His military advisers warned that a vast supply of aluminum would be required for war emergencies, especially as the "cold war" threatened to explode into a global conflagration.

The Government then contracted to permit rapid amortization of the $75,000,000 cost, and to buy a certain amount of the product. It also agreed to advance funds for an immediate start. Acting on these pledges, the company bought land and proceeded to build.

F.D.R. and Truman resorted to these same devices many a time. In fact, Roosevelt gave unusual favors to the Kaiser and Reynolds aluminum interests for political reasons. Hating the Mellons, he wanted to break that Republican family's alleged monopoly in this field.

It so happened that Congress failed to appropriate funds for both the air network and the Harvey contracts. The Harvey people could have collected an estimated $70,000,000, almost equal to the government guarantee, for breach of contract.

At first blush, this seems to be a rather clever bon mot. But a little thought caused me to question its accuracy.

I recalled that Abraham Lincoln, John the Baptist, Martin Luther, and Frances Willard — to name only a few — were persistent critics of their times. And fine statues have been erected in prominent places to all of them.

True they were vilified while they lived — and some of them were martyred — but, after their deaths, they were signally honored. We humans, perverse in this as in so many other things, seem bent on stoning our prophets while they live — and then immortalizing them in stone after they are gone.

Thus, if there is any blame for these transactions, it rests on the body of which McCormack is one of the most influential leaders.

Down South Sensing Says Farm Price Decline Is Not Serious

By Thurman Sensing

FARM PROSPERITY — It is being generally noised around that the question of FARM PROSPERITY will be one of the major questions involved in the political campaigns of 1956.

There are those who are complaining that the farmers of the country are having a depression while the rest of the nation is enjoying prosperity.

It is true that farm prices have fallen — down 4 per cent for the first six months of 1955. Also, further decline is expected for the third quarter. But there are SEVERAL FACTORS that discount this decline as being serious:

FIRST, the decline in farm prices has not been precipitate but very slow. SECOND, the per capita income to farmers is very little, if any, below what it has been. This is due to the fact that the United States is diminishing agricultural land. In 1929, one out of four Americans lived on the farm; today, one out of seven.

THIRD, farmers still have plenty of assets to back up their position. They stack up something as follows: real estate, $91 billion; household effects, $50 billion; cash and investments, $22 billion — total $163 billion. Against that total, farmers owe only $18 billion.

One theory widely believed for a long time has apparently been DISPROVED in the last two or three years; namely, that general prosperity depends upon agricultural prosperity. We are certainly having general prosperity, and it has not depended upon farm prosperity. Or if it has, then we have really been having farm prosperity regardless of all the claims to the contrary.

Actually, THE FARMERS THEMSELVES do not seem to be too much worried; they are continuing to buy farm machinery, automobiles, and general merchandise in the rural areas in a big way.

It is to be suspected that MOST OF THE HULLABALOO we are hearing about farm prices IS BEING RAISED BY POLITICIANS who are trying to make the farmers think their lot is an unhappy one and that if they (the farmers) just vote for them (the politicians) so talking, all their (the farmers and the politicians) troubles will be ended.

TAX RELIEF IS COMING — Just as surely as we have a national election next year, we shall have tax cuts next year. There will be rumblings of dissent from financial conservatives, and for sound reasons, but still taxes will be cut — for it is election year, and NOTHING APPEALS TO VOTERS MORE THAN TO HAVE THEIR TAXES REDUCED.

Republicans may want to cut the taxes one way, and Democrats may want to cut them another — BUT THEY WILL BOTH WANT TO CUT THEM. It is really hard to see which party is going to get any clear political gain over the other party by doing so because we shall have a Democratic Congress and a Republican Administration and both sides will probably claim the credit for whatever is done.

It is not likely that sound financial and economic considerations will have anything to do with the way the tax-cutting is handled.

It is generally recognized by most economists that cutting corporation taxes is the best way to give a boost to a nation's economy, because it not only provides more money for distribution to millions of stockholders, but it also provides more money for expansion and creation of new jobs. But it is unlikely that in this forthcoming election year corporation taxes will receive much, if any consideration — BECAUSE CORPORATIONS DON'T HAVE VOTES!

The main relief will probably be given to small incomes, with perhaps thousands of them being dropped from the tax rolls altogether. Some disproportionate relief will be given large incomes, and some excise taxes may be reduced or abolished that are POLITICALLY UNPOPULAR.

Before you START SPENDING your Federal income-tax savings, however, it might be well to suggest you bear in mind that, generally speaking, local and state taxes ARE GOING UP. There

BID FOR A SMILE

The well-known Indiana farmer, George Ade, said: "Here is a good story told me by Maurice Barrymore many years ago. A very attractive Englishman was visiting in Boston. One of the native Bostonians was showing him about the city and pointing out objects of interest. They were driving past Bunker Hill. The Englishman did not wish to make too pointed a reference to a conflict which might recall the fact that once we were at war with Great Britain, so he merely indicated the monument crowning the eminence and said, 'Bunker Hill.' The Englishman looked first at the hill and then at the monument and asked, 'I say, who was Mr. Bunker and what did he do to the Hill?' The American was forced to be really explicit. He answered, 'You don't understand. This is where Warren fell.' Adjusting his monocle and surveying the tall shaft from top to bottom, the Englishman remarked, 'Killed him, of course!'

REPUBLICAN PHILOSOPHY?

In his speech to the State Chairmen of the Republican National Committee in Denver, Colo., President Eisenhower said that he had "a very deep and biding belief that if a political party is not held together by a common faith, a common conviction, in certain fundamentals, then it is not a true political party, but is merely a conspiracy to gain power."

We heartily agree, but we submit that this "common faith" must be clear and precise enough to be understood by all, and also, that it must be consistently applicable to domestic and foreign policies. The President's explanation of his own "Republican creed" is, unfortunately, far from clear and precise, and therefore — if it cannot have much meaning, for the President merely said that he endorsed the Lincoln platitude — that the function of government is to do for the people what the individual cannot do at all, or do so well for himself, and in all those things which the individual can do for himself, the government ought not to interfere.

Such a statement is no clearer than "of the people, by the people, and for the people," or "the public welfare" clause of the Constitution. Indeed, the President warns that such phrases have been "falsely used by demagogic types to mean that an ever-wise and ever-loving governmental bureaucracy takes over all the functions of living." But he still makes no attempt to clarify where the dividing lines or stopping places should be. In regard to both individuals, and the 48 states — what Republican "faith" or "conviction" or "principle" establishes any standard for deciding what they can and should do for themselves? And who is to be the judge? If these questions are not even raised, let alone answered, how can a political party possibly evolve or agree upon "a common faith"?

At the President's press conference last August 4th, at the adjournment of Congress, he cited four items of Administration-proposed legislation which he still considered "absolutely vital to our future," meaning that he considered his Federal proposals "absolutely vital." These were his programs for school construction, health insurance, highways, and water resources. Now — just so happens that there are strong convictions — especially within the Republican Party — that some or all of these fields do not require Federal subsidy and action, and that these are areas in which the people and the states both can and should help themselves without the Federal government. Since there are no established rules by which to judge, this inter-Republican controversy destroys and possibility of "a common faith" on such fundamental matters.

Republican spokesmen have argued for twenty years that the Federal government is much too big and busy, that it is up to its ears in debt, and that it has no money to aid anyone, except what it takes away from the people and the states. By what kind of logic can it be argued that "the people" or "the states" cannot afford something, when those are the only sources from which the Federal government can get the money with which it "aids" them? How does President Eisenhower answer this obvious question when he insists that Federal subsidies are "absolutely vital" for schools, health insurance, highways and water resources? He doesn't! And that is precisely why there is no "common faith" or "fundamentals" within the Republican Party, although the President says that "there must be!"

If the New and Fair Deal philosophy is to centralize more and more power in Washington through Federally managed and subsidized programs — then surely the Republican Party ought to agree on some different philosophy, and not just muddle along with a wishy-washy, diluted version of the same thing. What's the matter with an opposing philosophy of decentralizing Federal power, by returning some tax powers to the states so that they will be able to keep their own original resources at home, and thereby help themselves without Federal intervention? This used to be a Republican philosophy — but its proponents are growing silent. Why?

The Sept. 19th issue of NEWSWEEK offers this clue. Republican state chairmen, it says, believe that their best chance of electing a Republican Congress is to "unite" behind the "popularity of Ike" and thus offer the voters "a convincing show of unity." Thus, "the President will be able to get almost any bill through if he considers it important enough to label it an Eisenhower measure and make the vote on it a test of loyalty to his program."

Soviet Housing Experts To Observe U.S. Methods

By ROBERT F. MORISON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (UP)—Russian housing experts are scheduled to invade Washington Monday on the start of a month-long coast-to-coast tour to see how Americans build homes and apartments.

Headed by I. K. Kozulia, Soviet minister of construction, the group may attend the opening of the National Association of Homebuilders' new national housing center, then be guests at a reception. They are scheduled to leave Tuesday night to start their cross-country tour at Boston.

Unless there is a mixup in schedule, the visitors will meet Vice President Richard M. Nixon at the center dedication ceremonies Monday noon.

To Tour Country

From Boston, the Russians and their NAHB hosts and guides will go to New York, Fort Wayne, Ind., Chicago, Barrington, Ill., Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Tucson, Tyler and Austin in Texas, New Orleans, Cleveland, and back to Washington at the end of the month for a round of conferences with industry and government housing officials.

The visit is a part of the Russo-American exchange plan. Groups of American and Russian farm experts recently exchanged visits.

The Moscow housing officials' visit points up the difficulties the Soviets are having with their building programs, many of which have been criticized by the Russian press. Even their leading newspapers, Pravda and Izvestia, have been critical.

Population Increasing in Russia

Russia's major problem is to solve a housing shortage aggravated by an increasing population and World War II devastation. Her housing experts are placing great reliance on precast, reinforced concrete sections to build houses, apartments and factories.

The technique is to build molds, arrange either twisted steel rods or heavy steel wire in the molds, and then pour in concrete. The concrete is dried in kilns.

The Russians turn out sections for walls, ceilings, floors and beams in this way. The sections are then hauled to building sites like blocks and assembled.

Throughout Russian publications and broadcasts, emphasis is on building apartments, not individual homes.

Another Russian concern is to save steel by using the prefabricated concrete.

Stop To Consider....

What is man's proof of the existence of God?

Something infinite and universal, and yet something earthly and un-mystical and comprehensible.

A force that dwarfs nuclear energy as the father towers over the child.

A force which man has discovered, debated, loved, feared and even abandoned in his sophistry.

A force which is indispensable to human happiness and human progress. And she calls herself FREEDOM.

FREEDOM is a force of awful destruction.

There are many things which cannot survive her. Despots cannot.

Nor can slavery, nor sloth, nor hatred, nor fear, nor Godlessness. FREEDOM destroys all men and all things seeking to diminish her. FREEDOM destroys any idea which puts the hand of man against her.

FREEDOM is a severe and implacable force which neither loves nor hates, gives nor takes . . . but simply exists.

And simply be existing, FREEDOM destroys, sometimes slowly, oh, very slowly, the false prophets and their handiwork.

FREEDOM is creation.

She creates the wealth of nations.

She creates the great acts of human progress in all things.

She creates light by which man can examine himself and his neighbor and the things around him.

She creates inspiration for man to seek his God and his God's truth.

And in this, FREEDOM is man's avenue of approach to God.

FREEDOM is the enemy of Government.

Invariably, inevitably Government — and the men who are government find FREEDOM standing in the path of their desire; and they are destroyed by FREEDOM.

FREEDOM supports no Government and tolerates few.

FREEDOM demands of Government but one thing: That it try to preserve a free and unhampered market so that every man gets what he produces — no more, no less.

FREEDOM demands of Government what Government cannot endure: Consent of the governed.

FREEDOM is not patronage nor security, nor subsidy, nor conformity.

She is hard and exacting and just.

She is the political religion of all good Americans.

She is the element of greatness in every man, in every society, in every nation.

FREEDOM is the joy of living, and the promise of the future.

And believing these things to be true, we have chosen to call this a

Freedom Newspaper

and in all things undertaken, we will endeavor to do honor to her name.
