Dems Demand Prosecutions In Dixon-Yates Power Issue

WASHINGTON — UP — Democrats Friday kept alive the Dixon-Yates issue by demanding prosecutions in the controversy and promising additional investigations.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler demanded that the administration prosecute officials responsible for what he called the "now-admitted wrongdoing" involved in the abandoned power contract.

Butler said the Dixon-Yates matter would provide a "real test of Republican promises to deal vigorously with any misconduct in government."

His statement was prompted by the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement Wednesday night that it considers the contract invalid. The AEC said there was a possible violation of the conflict of interest law in negotiating the contract and that it would pay no cancellation costs on it unless ordered to do so by a court.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of a Senate subcommittee investigating the Dixon-Yates matter, said that the AEC's action is "not the end of the fight." He said this group will "continue our investigation of the connection between the Eisenhower administration and the private power lobbies."

Butler said the AEC's finding of a possible conflict of interest in handling the contract was "outrageous."

The AEC said the possible violation involved the activities of Adolph H. Wenzel, New York investment banker who acted both as consultant to the government and as an official of the firm which handled Dixon-Yates financial arrangements.

Admiral Byrd Starts Antarctic Expedition

Crewmen Rescued From Ship

MANILA — UP — The Luzon stevedoring company said Friday that all hands aboard the British motorship Fakira were rescued before the vessel sank in the South China Sea about midnight (10 a.m. est Thursday).

A spokesman of the company said that all 52 crewmen of the Fakira were taken aboard the Liberian ship "Symphony" which rushed to the assistance of the vessel.

Forty-five members of the Fakira's crew were rescued at two lifeboats and the master and seven other men were taken aboard the Symphony Thursday night before it sank, the spokesman said.

The Fakira was listed by Lloyd's as a 6,711-ton ship registered in Karachi.

The Fakira had sent out distress signals Thursday night. The Symphony rushed to her assistance and reported that her No. 1 hold and forepeak were full of water.

According to a message received by the RCA communications center Friday from the S.S. Stanvac, the Fakira sank in position 13.26 north and 113.54 east which is about 600 miles southwest of Manila.

Trip May Foreshadow Permanent Settlements

By GWEN GIBSON

WASHINGTON — UP — Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd at the age of 67 set out Friday on his fifth Antarctic expedition — a venture he believes will foreshadow the first permanent settlement on the icy continent.

The famous explorer predicted at a news conference on the eve of his departure that Antarctica will become a land of permanent citizens, mostly civilians, living in villages of perhaps 500 persons when the present exploration ends in 1959.

"Eventually, this is the beginning of the opening of a great value to generations to come and to the preceding peoples of the world," he said.

Solon Supports Harriman

WASHINGTON — UP — New York Gov. Averell Harriman Friday gained a congressional supporter in his expected bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), who broke with Adlai E. Stevenson in the 1952 campaign over the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, announced his support for Harriman. Walter said he expects to go to the Democratic national convention next August as a "Harriman delegate."

Walter, chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee, said Harriman "is the only candidate" for the Democratic nomination who "has true appreciation of the No. 1 problem confronting the nation today, the threat to our security posed by the Russians who are intent on world domination."

Walter broke with Stevenson in 1952 when the former Illinois governor criticized and called for liberalizing the immigration act which Walter sponsored with the late Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.).

When Stevenson announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination again next year, Walter denounced him as "the laughing boy of American politics."

He said it was "inconceivable" the Democrats would choose Stevenson, considering the number of "outstanding Americans" available.

In other political developments Democrats continued their sharp blasts at the administration's farm program and the defunct Dixon-Yates power contract.

Farm advisers to the Democratic National committee came out for farm price supports at not less than 90 per cent of parity.

Thanksgiving Holiday Sees 16 Violent Deaths In Texas

By UNITED PRESS

The Thanksgiving holiday period in Texas left at least 16 persons dead from violent causes, including a dozen traffic fatalities, a United Press survey showed Friday.

A number of persons were critically injured in highway smashups around the state, posing the possibility that the toll from traffic might increase.

The worst single traffic smashup took four lives near Lufkin.

Shootings in Fort Worth left two persons dead, while a 14-month-old girl, Denise Brewer, was found floating in the driveway of her home at Amarillo. Her three-year-old brother, Mark, said she was hit by a car, but could shed no further light on the case. The child died of a severe head injury, and an investigation into her death was ordered.

Climax of Argument

One of the Fort Worth shooting victims was Mrs. Ernest A. Anderson, 47—a victim of a Thanksgiving night argument. Police said her husband admitted the shooting, which left Mrs. Anderson's chest riddled with .32-caliber bullets. The husband explained, police said, that he "just lost my head."

Officers quoted the husband, a former poolroom operator, as saying an argument resulted when he wanted to leave the house to play some dominoes and his wife accused him of wanting to see "some girls."

The other Fort Worth shooting victim was J. D. (Sparky) Bargsley, 36, a Texas & Pacific switchman. It occurred on a lonely gravel road Thursday night near suburban Haltom City, near Fort Worth.

Fort Worth officers said an automobile salesman surrendered, and admitted firing six .45-caliber pistol shots into Bargsley because "he threatened to beat me to death."

The salesman exhibited big red welts on his face, which he said were caused by Bargsley using a lead pipe.

Dated Estranged Wife

The salesman said he had dated Bargsley's estranged 26-year-old wife, Dixie, "five or six times," and the shooting was the outcome of this. He said the switchman accosted him as he left a liquor store and jumped into his car and forced him to drive to the scene where the shooting took place.

A Mesquite, Tex., youth, Elois Wayne Ainsworth, was killed when a piano he was helping unload from a trailer fell on him and broke his neck.

A two-car collision near Lufkin Thursday took the lives of Daniel Richard Berry, 19; Johnny M. Ayers, 19; Mrs. Q. W. Ingram, 25, and her three-month-old daughter, Branda Gail. All were Lufkin Negroes. Six other persons were injured.

Encarnacion Figueroa, 57, was killed Thursday night when the pickup truck in which he was riding collided with a Santa Fe train at a crossing on U.S. 87 near Lubbock.

Luther E. Dobbs, 17, and Donna M. Porterfield, 14, of Houston were killed in a two-car collision Wednesday night at a Houston intersection where police said there should have been a stop sign, but it was missing for some unexplained reason.

Mrs. William R. Lee, Lawton, Okla., was killed Thursday north of Bowie when the car in which she was riding went out of control and overturned several times.

CoC Head Makes S-D Day Statement

Ed Myatt, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, today called on every motorist and pedestrian in the community to observe the second national "S-D Day" — Safe Driving Day — Thursday, December 1, 1955.

He said that last year's S-D Day proved the success of such an effort by reducing the national toll of deaths, injuries and accidents. He added:

"The community's goal this year, as a year ago, will be to eliminate all traffic accidents for the 24-hour period. But, in making one day particularly safe, motorist and pedestrians should feel conscious of the responsibility to make every day safe."

Safe Driving Day is sponsored by the President's Committee for Traffic Safety in cooperation with many national organizations, and with the endorsement of the President and all 48 governors. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States and its member organizations throughout the country are cooperating. Mr. Myatt commented:

"Traffic safety begins with the individual. Every individual, whether a pedestrian or a motorist, has a responsibility for traffic safety. Traffic laws and safety regulations are designed for the public welfare and safety, but they are of value in accomplishing a purpose only to the extent that the individual complies to them and practices good old common sense."

"Safety is everybody's business."

Americans Celebrate Holiday

By UNITED PRESS

Americans around the world celebrated a thankful and peaceful Thanksgiving Day.

They concentrated on holiday meals, content with a nation at peace. The weather, cold but clear, cooperated in most areas.

Traffic accidents, one week to the day before the nation's SD day, marred the celebration in many areas.

A United Press survey showed that holiday traffic accidents killed 121 persons. Nine others died in fires and 15 in miscellaneous mishaps for a total of 145.

In Michigan, which led all states with 20 traffic deaths, five persons died in one two-car crash and four in another.

President Eisenhower set the theme for the nation's observance. He spent a quiet day at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm home, concentrating on his three grand-children. He carved a 40-pound turkey.

U. S. troops around the world may not have had the children, but they had the food. Turkey with all the trimmings was the menu.

In Korea, some 50,000 GIs spent a happy if homesick day just outside the Bamboo Curtain. Only a handful of troops had to eat in the bunkers.

Large Cotton Crop Predicted

WASHINGTON — UP — The Agriculture Department predicts a "very large supply" and an increasing surplus of cotton for the 1955-56 marketing year.

The department's periodical, "The Cotton Situation," said the 1955 crop is larger than expected consumption, and that the carry-over next August probably will be about 14 million bales, about 3 million bales larger than this year's carryover. The carryover has increased each year since the low of 2.3 million bales in 1951.

The cotton supply in 1955-56 is estimated at a record 25.9 million bales, some 2.4 million bales above supply last year and 1.3 million bales above the previous record of 24.6 bales in 1939-40. Acreage in cultivation on July 1 was 17 per cent below that of 1954, but the estimated average yield of 14.6 million running bales is about 7 per cent larger than the 1954 crop.

Israel Accuses Egypt Of New Incidents Along Gaza Strip

JERUSALEM — UP — Israeli spokesmen charged that Egyptian troops carried out two separate attacks on Israeli forces in the Negev desert Thursday. He said signs of increased Egyptian military-plane activities—in Israeli skies also were noted.

Gov. said Egyptian positions subjected an Israeli patrol along the armistice line near Kissufim Thursday to intermittent automatic fire twice within an hour. At the same time, he said another Egyptian force launched a diversionary attack on another Israeli patrol near Be'erly.

Gov. said the Israelis suffered no casualties and did not return fire.

The spokesman said that Egyptian anti-aircraft in the Be'erly area opened fire on an Israeli plane over Israeli territory on Wednesday.

The incidents came on the heels of a protest by Israel to the United Nations Security Council against what it termed "Egyptian aggressions." The Israeli government charged in its complaint that Egyptian troops opened fire 27 times in the past three weeks.

The Israeli press angrily denounced the Egyptian actions and stressed the gravity with which Israeli military authorities viewed the recent attacks.

There also was continued scattered attacks on British Prime Minister Anthony Eden for his recent speech calling for a "compromise" to solve the Israeli-Arab dispute.

ICC Rules Segregation Is Unlawful On Buses, Trains

WASHINGTON — UP — The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled Friday that racial segregation of Negro passengers subjects them to "undue and unreasonable prejudice and disadvantage" in violation of the interstate commerce act.

The disadvantage to a traveler who is assigned accommodations or facilities so designated as to imply his inherent inferiority solely because of his race must be regarded under present conditions as unreasonable, the ICC said.

The ICC's ruling was made in two cases, one brought by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People against a group of southern railroads; the other by the New York Negro against the Carolina Coach Co., Raleigh, N. C.

The commission ordered 12 railroads, a rail terminal company and the bus line to stop segregation by next Jan. 10.

The decision was another in recent ones striking down racial barriers — the most notable of which was the Supreme Court's decision ending segregation in the public schools.

The commission's decisions, in effect, discarded the separate but equal principle it set forth in former decisions. The first of these was brought before the commission two months after its formation in 1887. In that year the ICC ruled that disposition of the question "should aim at a result most likely to conduce peace and order and to preserve the self respect and dignity of citizenship of a common country."

The ICC declared Friday that present circumstances are far different from those in 1887.

"It is hardly open to question that much progress in improved race relations has been made since then and that more can be expected," the commission stated.

Ike Returns To White House On Dec. 20

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — UP — President Eisenhower will return to the White House about Dec. 20 and remain there — except for some weekend trips — until January 1, when he will be inaugurated.

The President, gradually rebuilding his health and his strength, plans to stay in Washington from late December until about mid-April, White House sources disclosed.

According to Mr. Eisenhower's current plans, he will make weekend visits to his farm home here. He also may make a number of flying visits to "the Little White House" at Augusta, Ga., National Golf Course.

But his staff members expect him to make the White House in Washington his headquarters and center of operations until at least April 19. His plans after that were not disclosed.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty has announced that Mr. Eisenhower will spend Christmas at the White House with his family.

By operating from the White House until mid-April, Mr. Eisenhower is expected to take a personal hand in the start of the Republican legislative program in the crucial election year. This program is now under study by administration leaders.

JayCees To Decorate Light Poles

Colorful Christmas decorations of silver and red garland will bedeck the streets of Pampa next Sunday as Junior Chamber of Commerce members undertake their annual project beginning at 7 a.m. with the decorating of light poles.

Tom Beard and Carl Hill are co-chairmen of the Christmas Activities Committee in charge of decorations. This committee is working under the Merchants Activity Committee of the Chamber of Commerce which is supplying the materials.

Bob Carmichael, president, urges all JayCees to turn out Sunday morning with hand wrenches and cotton work gloves. A pick-up and ladder will be furnished for each crew. Two trucks are being supplied by Hills and Hills Drilling Co. (contractors) and another truck is being furnished by Hukill and Son Automotive Electric Co. Carmichael estimates that the work will take all day.

Red bells on green rings (completed at the Cabot Shops) will fit on top of 125 lamp posts, and the garland will be wrapped around the poles. Tape or wire will be used to fasten the garland to be used around the rings and poles.

All decorations are now prepared and stored in the basement of the City Hall.

They will be placed on the following streets: Cuyler, Ballard, Foster and Kingsmill.

Government Stenographers Are Testing New Typewriter

WASHINGTON — UP— Government stenographers are testing a new typewriter with a "simplified keyboard." It has AOEUIDHTNS where A S D F G H J K L used to be.

The developer, August Dvorak of the University of Washington, claims that his keyboard will increase the typing speed of the average stenographer by 35 per cent. After she gets used to it, that is.

One reason why the present standard typewriter keyboard has been unchanged for the past 83 years is that millions of people have learned touch typing under the old system. Any fiddling around with the location of the keys would confront them with the necessity of unlearning all their old typing habits and learning new ones.

Since the federal government has 800,000 typewriters, and nearly that many stenographers to man them, the General Services Administration figures that it may be worthwhile to experiment with a speedier keyboard even if it means re-training a lot of typists.

GSA has picked 24 stenographers who will be trained four hours a day for 30 days in the use of the new keyboard. When they're ready, they will engage in a typing race against 24 girls using the old keyboard. The results will then be studied to see if the simplified keyboard boosts output enough to warrant serious consideration of all the problems that would be involved in switching to a new kind of typewriter.

Dvorak's system shifts the letters used most frequently to the positions closest to the fingers which normally do the most work. All the vowels, for example, are on the "home" row of keys, where the fingers normally rest.

The bottom row, which now has Z X C V B N M, becomes Q J K X B M W V Z. The third row up from the bottom shifts from Q W E R T Y U I O P to T, P Y F G C R L.

The top row changes from 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 to 7 5 3 1 9 0 2 4 6 8. Also there are changes in the placement of upper case symbols.

The net effect of the change

Eartha Kitt Will Quit The Cabaret For Television Role

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD — UP— Sleek, perfumed nightlifers who crowd into swank Mocambo these nights to cheer Eartha Kitt don't know it, but it's probably the last time they'll see the catlike singer in a nightclub.

Eartha's lonely voice and sexy lyrics have made her one of the top nightclub stars in the country. But the tiny singer confesses she's giving up smoke-filled cabaret's for a different life.

The girl who croons "C'est Si Bon" will forget singing to dance and act in her first "non-racial" role as "Salome" on CBS-TV's "Omnibus" Dec. 18, the first time a Negress has had the part.

Like most show folk, Eartha also is writing a book about her Cinderella life. And she wants to concentrate on doing more dramatic roles on the stage and TV.

"I don't want to become stagnant," she explained. "It's better not to stand still. You have to make progress."

Eartha moved about her apartment, a doll-like figure in a blue Japanese kimono. When she talks she gestures with her hands as when she sing "Santa Baby" and her other hit songs.

"My main concern is getting the book out," she went on. "Then I want to communicate with myself for a while. You can run around for so long, playing many characters, you can lose your true personality. I am tired of being a gypsy — I have bought the legendary house on 92nd Street in New York and will live there."

The book has taken me three years. I'm a very moody person," she frowned. "I only write when I feel like it."

"I hope to finish it next year. I write in longhand," she said, and picked up a thick manuscript. "This started as poetry, a way to express myself, more or less a diary. Then I was asked to do my life story and I wanted to write it myself."

Eartha's book will tell the story of the poor sharecropper's daughter in South Carolina who became a star of the Katherine Dunham dance troupe, the darling of Paris as a singer and a Broadway star in "New Faces" and "Mrs. Paterson." Now she'll play "Salome," a role done in films by Rita Hayworth and Yvonne de Carlo.

"I think 'Omnibus' is one of the greatest TV shows and I wanted to appear on it," she said. "My agent never thought they would hire me so I went to the producer myself. They suggested 'Salome'."

"Years ago I dreamed of starring on Broadway and a friend told me I never would in these times. Now here I am — co-starring with Michael Redgrave on TV."

"If my dreams can come true, why can't other dreams come true?"

Cross Burns In Houston

HOUSTON — UP— Roy C. King, a Houston Belt & Terminal Railroad switchman, told police Tuesday he found a burning cross on the lawn of his home Monday night.

But he said he thought nothing of it and notified police just as "a matter of form."

"We have no enemies and we belong to no organizations," he said. "We think it was just a teenage prank."

Reds Set Off Largest Blast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—UP—The Atomic Energy Commission announced Wednesday night that Russia has touched off the largest nuclear explosion since its atomic program began. The announcement indicated it was a hydrogen bomb.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said the blast, latest in Russia's 1955 test series, "was the range of negotiations."

A megaton represent the explosive equivalent of one million tons of TNT. The power of the blast indicated it was an H-bomb rather than an atomic "shot."

largest thus far in the USSR" was highly unusual. The AEC had disclosed on Aug. 4 that Russia had undertaken a new test series despite its call for a ban on all atomic and hydrogen weapons. A second explosion was reported Sept. 24 and a third on Nov. 10.

14 Blasts Announced The AEC had said some time ago it would not announce further Soviet atomic explosions unless "some information of particular interest develops." The size of the fourth shot in the series obviously occasioned Wednesday's announcement.

Atomic experts here have speculated that Russia is testing a new variety of nuclear weapons.

Russia has now been credited in public announcements with firing 14 atomic or hydrogen blasts. However, qualified sources believe the number might double the announced figures.

The United States, according to public reports, has fired 63 test blasts, the latest being last spring.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

There are always a certain number of families in the United States with serious financial troubles. At this time, the number is relatively few. To those few and to their creditors, this column should be of particular interest.

The principal reported causes which throw families into financial difficulties are: Inflation and high taxes, inability to resist "impulse" buying, combined with easy credit, illness or other emergencies, or just plain bad judgment and mismanagement.

Some people in financial difficulty, when threatened with legal proceedings to collect outstanding debts, seek the relief offered them by federal bankruptcy laws.

The purpose of bankruptcy laws is to permit an honest but unfortunate or weak debtor to surrender or account for all his property for the benefit of his creditors and in exchange be discharged of his debts.

Any adult who is insolvent may become a voluntary bankrupt by having his attorney prepare for him a bankruptcy petition, together with schedules of his assets and liabilities, and then file the same in the proper United States district court.

After the debtor is adjudicated a bankrupt he is required to appear for examination as to his assets in the bankruptcy court, and if he fully accounts for his assets and has not violated any of the bankruptcy laws he will thereafter receive a discharge of his debts.

If he is granted a discharge of his debts, he has started a new financial life as of the date he filed bankruptcy. The assets which he thereafter acquires cannot be reached to satisfy the old debts, nor will creditors be permitted to sue him on the old debts.

Dishonest debtors sometimes endeavor to gain advantages for themselves not allowed by the bankruptcy laws. In these instances, upon objections to discharge by creditors, they not only will be denied a discharge of their debts, but the courts will be prone to deal harshly with the offenders if they have violated the criminal laws.

The head of a family is entitled to claim as exempt any property which is exempt under Texas homestead laws, which in the ordinary case will be his home, household furniture, wearing apparel, the family automobile and tools of his trade or profession. However, if any of this property is covered by a mortgage or conditional sales contract may repossess.

Bankruptcy has a lasting effect upon a person's future credit and in the usual case causes the creditors to lose their entire debt.

Many bankruptcies could be avoided if the "overloaded" debtor would make a timely effort to sit down with his creditors and work out plans for reduced payments over extended periods.

(This column, based on Federal law, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

2 Mishaps Reported

Two collisions marred the Thanksgiving Holidays here yesterday, resulting in vehicle damages estimated at $445. No injuries were reported.

The first mishap took place on the 800 block of N. Gray and 200 feet south of Cook St. at 11:15 a.m. yesterday. Thomas Edward Gindorf, 820 N. Gray, driving a '50 Studebaker, was in collision with R. D. Green, 1915 Coffee, in a '49 Plymouth. Gindorf encountered damages estimated at $120. Green met with damages of about $175.

The second collision occurred at the intersection of S. Hobart and Wilkes at 11:54 a.m. Chris Williamson of Lark, driving a '50 Buick, was in collision with Mrs. Nadine M. Meers, 732 N. Nelson, driving a '54 Oldsmobile. Both parties met with estimated damages of $150.

Dr. W. G. Bauman, a veterinarian who examined Shorty Thursday night, said only a "remarkable response" would enable the steer to be entered.

He said the sickness would not affect the animal's prime beef but might cause its coat to turn dull and weaken it to a point where it would lose out in competition, schedule Saturday for its class.

Janice, a pretty farm girl whose Aberdeen Angus champion last year brought nearly $25,000 in all, maintained a constant vigil in the steer's stall at the International Amphitheatre.

"He doesn't seem to be getting better," she said. "But we haven't given up hope."

Janice said she bought Shorty II as a young calf from Lawrence Schliepe, owner of a pure bred Angus herd near El Paso, III. She paid $175 for him, $5 less than she paid for last year's champion.

The big exposition gets underway Friday night with an international horse show, livestock, grain and hay, meat and wool exhibits. Serious judging won't begin until tomorrow.

Livestock Show Opens

CHICAGO —UP— The 36th annual International Livestock Exposition opens here Friday night with a record entry of the nation's finest farm animals.

However, one important steer, the entry of the defending grand champion may be missing.

William Ogilvie, show manager, said a record total of more than 11,500 head of cattle, horses, sheep and hogs, valued at $5 million have been entered in the show.

A "doubtful" starter, however, is "Shorty II," an Aberdeen Angus steer entered by 17-year-old Janice Hallinger of Manly, Iowa, who showed last year's grand champion. Her entry came down with pneumonia earlier this week.

Dr. W. G. Bauman, a veterinarian who examined Shorty Thursday night, said only a "remarkable response" would enable the steer to be entered.

He said the sickness would not affect the animal's prime beef but might cause its coat to turn dull and weaken it to a point where it would lose out in competition, schedule Saturday for its class.

Teacher Shortage

The Indianapolis Star has shed a little light on the subject of what has been termed the "notion of teacher shortage." Every year, the Star points out, the hue and cry is raised by the proponents of government education. There is a dearth of teachers everywhere! Split sessions are occurring with great regularity! So on and so on with repetitious monotony.

Now the NEA is quite convinced that a teacher should be able to handle something between 25 and 35 students in a class. So far so good. According to the U. S. Office of Education, in 1930 there were about 900,000 teachers to over 21 million students. That was about one teacher to every 24.2 students. No problem in 1930. What about 1935? According to the same source, there are just about one million teachers to about 23 million children. Yet the national average of pupils per teacher comes to only 23 as opposed to 24.2 twenty-five years ago. In other words, the situation has improved rather than worsened.

Yet, the bold statistics don't tell the whole story. For it is true that there are some teachers in some schools who do have to handle classes of from 40 to 50 or even 60 pupils. Why is this?

The Star, the National Republic, and Human Events all combine to point out the answer. A great many of our teachers have been moved out of the classroom, into supervisory jobs. In other words, some teachers teach... others boss teachers, who teach. The expanding arm of bureaucracy, under which our entire governmental educational picture takes form, is now apparent. The great bureaucracy, empire is being built by getting fewer and fewer people to do the work, while a parasitic army of bosses is trained to emulate the commissars and regulate the workers.

The Star concludes: "It would appear then that the solution to the 'teacher shortage' is to put more teachers back in the classroom... It should be worth a try. It could save our millions of dollars and at the same time give our teachers smaller classes for better teaching."

Offhand we might be inclined to agree with the Star, were it not that the evil cannot be cured by even this drastic step. The disease with which our entire governmental educational system is suffering is endemic. The evil is at the root and cannot be cured by trimming the branches. However the growth is pruned, the same malady will reappear.

The malady is found in the combination of education and politics. Government has no business in educational activities IN ANY FORM. Government, an instrument of socializing and compulsion, is just not the proper instrument for disseminating knowledge that wisdom may come.

To bring a permanent cure to our educational problems, a separation must come between school and state.

The American Way

BETTER EQUIPMENT - BETTER WAGES

By George Peck

Justification for the existence of American industry lies in the fact that it makes capital and management available to the American worker, thereby enabling him to enlarge his contribution to our national income and also, at the same time, to make earnings for himself.

Let's use a very simple example by way of illustration. A man without tools is given an excavation job. Without equipment he is almost helpless, and his accomplishment is small over the course of a day, the week or the year. His performance would be greatly enlarged if a hand-shovel were made available to him. If, also, he were furnished with a wheelbarrow with which to carry dirt from one point to another, his achievement would be further increased. If someone were to loan him a steam-shovel and teach him to operate it, obviously his productive labor would be multiplied tenfold.

Working without tools, this man's work would have a very low market value. Equipped with a steam-shovel, on the other hand, his income would be increased many times. It is true in the latter case, that the man would incur certain expenses. He would have to pay for instruction in how to run the machine, rental for the use of it and for the fuel to operate it. But he would have an enormously increased gross income out of which to meet these expenses, leaving him a much larger net income for his labor.

This man would have very little expense for the rental of a hand-shovel, slightly increased expense if he rented a wheelbarrow, and much greater expense if he rented a steam-shovel. It is not reasonable that the income to the man who rented the steam-shovel should be much greater than to the man who rented him a hand-shovel? Is it not also true that the worker would be able to make a greater contribution to the national income if he uses a steam-shovel instead of a hand-shovel? Is it not a fact that the total income for all concerned would be greater if he uses a steam-shovel? Wouldn't it naturally follow that the worker would receive a greater income for his labor?

Which in the final analysis seems to indicate that better equipment makes better wages.

For larger income, of which his portion would be far greater than it would have been from his efforts with lesser equipment or no tools at all.

This simple illustration of the man with the shovel exemplifies what takes place in organized industry. Stockholders make capital available to industry; industry makes plant and machinery available to the worker, plus instruction on utilization of the equipment. The better the machinery an industry makes available to its employees, the greater are their industry's gross earnings resulting in greater facilities to insure the safety, health and comfort of the workers, increased wages for the workers, and quite reasonably a larger profit per employee for the company. The three partners of industry, therefore, all gain—higher profits for capital, higher wages for workers and reduced prices for the consuming public.

Conversely, the poorer and less efficient the plant facilities made available to the workers, the lower are the gross earnings, resulting in lower safeguards for the safety, health and comfort of the employees, smaller wages for the workers, a smaller profit per employee for the company and higher prices for the consuming public. All three partners are the losers thereby.

These basic, economic facts are the answers to certain individuals who condemn certain industrial companies, by relating their supposedly large earnings per employee. They fail to take us through the industrial "curtain" by not telling the whole story. This is unfortunate because it is not in the interest of the American people as a whole and particularly of the workers themselves to engender class hatred.

American workers are indeed fortunate that tools are made available to them, far superior to those furnished to workers elsewhere in the world. There is possibility in a case here or there where capital takes more than a reasonable share, but over the broad field of industry as a whole, companies that are earning high net profits per employee, are paying higher wages to their employees than is the case with companies that are not earning high net profits per employee.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

How To Raise Wages

I want to finish the last installment of an article written by Rev. Edmund A. Opitz pointing out that union labor has been paid for the $300,000,000 it gave to the National Council of Churches of Christ of America. It has been paid, as Rev. Opitz points out, by the things that misguided organized religionists have said that completely violate the Jewish and Christian standards of justice.

These organized religious bureaucrats do not really represent the great body of church members. Most of the church members do not even know how they are being misrepresented. This is the way Opitz finishes his article.

How to Raise Wages

The only way to raise wages is to increase the productivity of labor. But the last thing the unions can claim is an interest in increased productivity. On the contrary, union strategy, based on the theory that the economy has only a certain number of jobs, relies on the slowdown, on featherbedding, on seniority and the liberty device that slows down production. From what source, then, does the union expect to draw its increased wages? Obviously from accumulated capital. This idea stems from one of the oldest economic fallacies the Wage Fund Theory, the theory that wages are drawn from capital. Economists of last century and this have exploded this notion many times. Recently the job has been done again in an excellent little book by W. H. Huttt entitled The Theory of Collective Bargaining (Free Press, 1934). Even without intricate analysis, a moment's thought should convince anyone that if capital is used to pay wages capital would have been used up long ago.

"These and other union fallacies have been labeled as the violence which is inherent in all union activity. The major union weapon is the strike. Everyone has a right to quit work; but in a strike, the workers do not simply walk off their jobs, they try to prevent anyone else from accepting the jobs they have vacated. If a striking union did not have a license to use violence on would-be strike-breakers it would lack the necessary and minimum condition for being a union. Violence is not incidental to trade unionism, it is an essential part of it.

"Theological Rationalization. "Once the nature of unionism is seen, one is led to inquire into the climate of theological opinion in which the necessary violence of union activity is rationalized. The customary rationalization is in terms of the class struggle ideology. A sample of this thinking is taken from the writings of John C. Bennett. He says, "... violence is itself one of the things in this world which is in the long run self-defeating, but then he immediately qualifies this sweeping observation. He goes on to say that while such is clearly the case in war, it does not hold in 'direct action which may be accompanied by violence against a class so small in number (the capitalist class) that when once its power of ownership is taken away it ceases to be a dangerous opposition and can be treated with moderation."

"The Violence of Immoral. "Writing on the same topic, the usefulness of violence in the class struggle, Reinhold Niebuhr, also of Union Seminary, says, "The Middle classes and the rational moralists... are wrong in their assumption that violence is intrinsically immoral." In deciding whether or not to implement a policy with violence, he says, the considerations are pragmatic, resting on the answer to such questions as "How great is the immediate and less inclusive value which is sacrificed for a more ultimate and more inclusive one?" Apparently, for this theologian, there are no other than pragmatic guides, for he says, "It is well to note that even in the comparatively simple problems of individual relationships there is no moral value which may be regarded as absolute."

This from a theologian is startling indeed.

"In view of such whitewashing of union tactics, such high-sounding support of violence from professional moralists, the $300,000,000 gift from the CIO to the NCC was hardly extravagant."

At this point, it is certainly astonishing that men like Reinhold Niebuhr would contend that there is no moral value that may be regarded as absolute. In other words, he is joining the pragmatists, the socialists and communists that deny that there is absolute eternal moral law.

None of these men dare to attempt to defend their positions where they had to answer questions without evasion as they would before a court. Their theory that organized union labor can raise wages levels in most fallacious. The reason is that the whole purpose of labor unions is to create a monopoly, to take away from an individual his right to be rewarded in proportion as he produces on a voluntary basis.

As this column has repeatedly said, organized labor never added a nickel's worth of wealth to the country. But it has prevented billions of dollars' worth of wealth from being created. It has done this by strikes, by sabotage, by featherbedding and by seniority. And wealth that is not created can not be distributed either as wages or profits, and profit is nothing but the wages for efficiency.

Massachusetts Compulsory Auto Liability Insurance

By RAY TUCKER

PRECEDENT.—Ray Tucker is on vacation. While he is away there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by William H. Heath, Editor, Haverhill (Mass.) Gazette. —END PRECEDENT

HAVERHILL, Mass. — Massachusetts is unique as the only state that has compulsory automobile liability insurance. It was a pioneer with this method of compensating victims of automobile accidents. It continues to be a pioneer after 27 years. Other states from time to time are tempted to follow and the rates for 1936 "are Massachusetts trail. Sound instinct or the intervention of Providence or both thus far has prevented such emulation.

The system looks like one of those easy-to-take nostrums that automatically cures a serious ill. People are going to drive automobiles. Other people are going to be killed and injured in automobile accidents. It is unjust for the innocent victim of an automobile accident to be unable to collect compensation from the author of his misfortune. Since most motorists will not voluntarily carry insurance, in order to accomplish justice, all motorists should be compelled to carry insurance. Such is the theory of the compulsory insurance law.

The law requires that each motorist carry insurance to the amount of $5,000 and $10,000. The $5,000 policy is designed to cover injuries to one person in an accident. The $10,000 policy is designed to cover injuries caused other persons in the same accident.

Experience soon proved that the $5,000-$10,000 coverage was insufficient. Juries generally are generous when awarding damages in automobile accident cases, because they suffer from the delusion that the rich insurance companies can afford to pay the poor victims about any amount they demand. Thus, today liability insurance of $25,000-$50,000 is common and some policies are written for $100,000-$300,000.

Rates are made annually by the insurance company, generally in late October or early November. On an election year, the date of the announcement is likely to be determined by the trend of the rates. It is going downward, the announcement will come before election, so the party in power can boast that it reduced rates. If it is going to be upward, the announcement will be delayed until after election day.

The state is divided into regions in an attempt to make the rates reflect accident experience. Thus, in some regions, where the accident rate is low, the insurance rate will be no more than a third of the head of organized religion fail to understand is that whatever is produced will-nilly has to be distributed in order to benefit its owner. It is too bad that these leaders in organized religion have to hide behind the pulpit or their position and thus put themselves in a position that makes it indeed very difficult for them to understand the moral laws that govern economics.

from the Massachusetts field, it probably would be the only alternative to enable a motorist to obtain liability insurance. They have to recognize that, if the state got into the unprofitable casualty insurance business, it would be tempted to go into profitable phases of the enterprise, and eventually they would be out of business altogether in Massachusetts.

This seems to be an amazing possibility for the state in which Paul Revere aroused the countryside to arms against an oppressive government. But if Paul were alive today, he would find reason to ride again, for Massachusetts has become a state in which centralized authority is deeply entrenched and in which devotion to welfare "compulsory" in the automobile liability insurance system is significant. So is the strange theory underlying the system—that every person with the ability to get an automobile registered and to pass the test for a license to drive it has an inalienable right on the highways.

This is a theory comparable to that which holds that every person able to draw a feeble breath is as clearly entitled to life insurance as the person in perfect health.

Sheriff — Hey, there's no swimming allowed. — Why didn't you tell me that before I got undressed? Sheriff — Well, there's no law against that.

EAST AND WEST HAVE MET at last in Helena Rubinstein's exciting new Oriental make-up, created in her Fifth Avenue salon by Rod Barron, make-up director. Featuring a "pagoda-shaped mouth" and upturned brows and eyes, this Eastern look makes any American girl look more alluring. Here are step-by-step directions for going Oriental.

SHAPE THE BROW with an upward flare at the end. Using a brown pencil, shape the eyebrow almost straight but rather full to the corner where it is tilted upward. Over the brown brow trace a few feathery marks in black pencil to get a black-brown effect. Then the eye is lined with black pencil. Trace a fine line around the upper lid. Slant the outer corner at the same angle as the brow. Shape as is shown. Then line the lower lid, bringing the mark up to meet the wing. Next apply blue-green eye shadow in an arc. Begin in the center of the lid and shade the shadow out to both corners so the most intense color is centered. Over the blue-green shadow, directly in the center of the lid, apply just a finger-tip of silver eye shadow to produce a high light.

Now for the "pagoda-shaped mouth." Apply a light beige make-up base to provide the skin with a porcelain tone. Cover lips well with base to disguise the natural lip line. This should be done before eyes are made up. Then using a true red lipstick, outline the pagoda mouth with a brush, giving an upward tilt at the corners. The mouth should also follow angle set by brows. It is best not to blot the lipstick. The color should shine like beautiful Chinese lacquer.

WHAT'S YOUR favorite dream? Whether you see yourself in a palace ballroom or a dashing sports car, there's a perfect perfume to match your dreams, says the November issue of Seventeen magazine which offers this perfume guide to help you find the just-right scent for you. To discover which label is yours, just follow your dreams and find out:

Lanvin Arpege — You daydream to a background of Mozart and Brahms

Chanel No. 5 — You'd rather own a single terrific dress than half a dozen so-so numbers

Houbigant Chantilly — You're so feminine you learned all about baseball to please your best beau

Nina Ricci Coeur Joie — You daydream about clothes; you were first in your crowd to wear sari clothes

Helena Rubinstein Command Performance — So many gay things "just happen" to you, you hardly have time to daydream

Charles of the Ritz Directoire — You're a golden girl, calm but with a sparkle that sparkles unexpectedly

City Emeralds — You have a redhead's temperament, so you just naturally dream of emeralds

Marcel Rochas Femme — Your date's the one every other girl in your crowd is secretly in love with

Yardley Flair — The way you wear a sweater and skirt makes others wish they hadn't dressed up

Tussy Midnight — In your pet dream you always meet the Prince at a fabulous costume ball

Christian Dior Miss Dior — You've never met the boy you could not wind around your little finger

Elizabeth Arden On Dit — Sometimes you're sweet and gently, sometimes a sparkling sophisticate

Lentheric Tweed — The dream

Fur touches everywhere this year. They're on dresses, coats, suits, hats and even at the hemline of evening gowns.

Navy blue gets black accessories for fall and winter. Use garnet or emerald green for a flash of color in hat or jewelry.

Membership Is High In Two Church Areas

Total membership of the two major Texas Methodist Episcopal Areas - Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston-San Antonio - is 643,710, according to latest figures. According to Albert C. Hoover, Chicago, Ill., church statistician, there are now 9,813,278 members in the church at large. This represents a net gain of 90,126 over the 9,223,152 reported a year ago in the United States and its possessions.

Including Methodist membership in the portion of Texas included in the New Mexico Conference, Texas membership is 655,658. Territory in the New Mexico Conference includes that west of Odessa, and the Pecos river. Included in the Dallas-Fort Worth Area are the North Texas, Northwest Texas and Central Texas Conferences. Houston-San Antonio Area includes Southwest Texas, Texas and Rio Grande Conferences. Rio Grande is the Latin American conference and includes all Latin churches in Texas and New Mexico. Total figures do not include Negro churches.

There are 1,101 preaching places in the Dallas-Fort Worth Area, 1,059 in the Houston-San Antonio Area, making a total of 2,160, plus 39 in the New Mexico section, making a total of 2,199 in Texas.

Director Hoover pointed out that if all the Methodist (nation-wide) figures include Negro churches) were to march to church, they would form a line extending about 530 miles - or the distance between Chicago and Lincoln, Neb.

Giving for all purposes amounted to $384,490,613 - a gain of more than $29,000,000 over the $345,410,448 contributed for all causes the previous year. Break-down of the contributions includes $28,023,670 paid on principal and interest on indebtedness - nearly four million over the previous year. Methodists paid $108,382,753 for new buildings and improvements in the denomination's 39,554 preaching places. This represents a gain of nearly $14,000,000 over last year's expenditures for new buildings.

Church school membership increased to 6,811,498 - a gain of 236,921 over last year's 6,574,577. Average attendance at the Sunday school was reported at 3,528,290.

Methodists Set W.S.C.S. Workshop

FORT WORTH - Seventeen Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service Conferences from a five state area are expected to attend the first of a series of ten regional workshops on "World Understanding" to be held at Camp Annon Carter here Wednesday, Nov. 30, through Friday noon, Dec. 2. Sponsored by the Woman's Division of Christian Service, the workshop is being held in the home of Eva I. Shipston, Indian, Kiyo Tanaka, Japan, and Violeta Cavallero, Uruguay. Louise Robinson, a former member of the Division's Department of Foreign Work, will be the team coordinator. Division representatives expected in attendance are Thelma Stevens and Mrs. C. A. Bender, Mrs. J. Russell Henderson and Mrs. Earl Cotton, both of Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. A. G. Clifton of Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Mrs. Velma Jeter of Orange, are representatives from this region who met earlier in New York City to make arrangements for the workshop, which is being directed by the Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities and Foreign Departments of the Division.

Each conference represented at the workshop will be expected to conduct a similar workshop at a conference-wide basis.

Attending the workshop as special guests will be members of the Texas State Council of Methodist Women, who will have their annual session in the Worth hotel here Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3-4.

Official delegates by conference, include the following Texans: Texas Conference - Mrs. J. E. Humphries, Edgewood; Mrs. Lamar Clark, Richmond; Mrs. B. P. Sanders, Tyler; Mrs. W. E. Hubbard, Houston; and Myrtle Howard, Henderson; Central Texas Conference - Mrs. E. L. Reid, Cleburne; Mrs. Sam A. Barnes, Fort Worth; Mrs. J. Virgil James, Hamilton; Ruby Mae Hope, Waco; and Mrs. Joel Hoover, Lorena.

Northwest Texas Conference - Mrs. C. C. Coffey, Lubbock; Mrs. Henry Cusick, Amarillo; Mrs. Sam Cook, Pampa; Mrs. W. J. Bryant, Stamford; Mrs. E. T. Pittard, Anson.

South Texas Conference - Mrs. O. N. Beer, San Antonio; Mrs. R. O. White, Rankin; and members of the state council.

West Texas (Latin American Conference) - Mrs. O. B. Coe, Waco; Mrs. J. M. Rodgers, Victoria; Mrs. Clara Watkins, Austin; Mildred Davis, Dallas.

Texas Conference (Negro Conference) - Mrs. Esther Rice, Bryan; Mrs. M. J. Corde, Marshall; Mrs. L. B. Felder, Houston; Mrs. Charles B. Murphy, Houston; and Mrs. M. J. Davis, Houston.

Rio Grande (Latin American Conference) - Mrs. Lea Garza, San Antonio; Mrs. Jose Espino, San Antonio; and Mrs. Oscar F. Garza, El Paso.

W. Washington, D.C. or the Foreign Policy Association, 345 E. 46th St., New York, N.Y., may have a nearby chapter with such information. Two fine examples of community action in World affairs are the Minnesota World Affairs Center and the Detroit International Institute.

Women In The Church

The honorable Isabel Catto, of Great Britain, is the newly-chosen president of the World Young Women's Christian Association. She succeeds Miss Lorraine Reid Barnes who held the post for eight years.

In a message to the women of the Methodist Church across America, the Woman's Division of Christian Service, of the Board of Missions, has commended to them the activities and interests of the Commission of Churches on International Affairs (CCIA), an arm of the World Council of Churches. To the individual churches, women of the Division says: "Concern yourself with the issues on which the churches have position and competence to act. Familiarize yourself with what has been done by the CCIA and tell your neighbor and others about it. A less cynical attitude in international affairs can result from a widespread understanding of the legitimate part that the churches can play in international affairs. Support the positions of the churches in your community so that they can become realities. We cannot, for example, urge better race relations in other parts of the world unless we remove the beam from our own eye. We cannot deal with the problem of poor housing in Asia and Africa unless we are willing to develop a standard of housing consisting with our national wealth and opportunities."

The Interdenominational Church Peace Union notes with approval that in many U.S. communities, church groups discuss such subjects as the United Nations or German reunification. "There may be relief committees seeking money clothes or jobs for refugees and help for immigrants, overseas, or books and magazines for foreign schools and libraries," says the Union. "Survey your community's resources. Find out what is being done to further international understanding, what could be done, where volunteers are needed. Many churches and synagogues are and should be sources of information on community action. A national organization like the League of Women Voters, 1028 17th St., N.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Matthew 25:14-30

Ignorant sinning is no less destructive. It should be said that ignorance of the nature of sin does not in the least reduce the havoc it works inside the spirit of the sinner. Stomach ulcers do not know any consideration for the man who is ignorant of their relationship to worry. Prejudice works its dreadful injury unobserved even by the victim. But the damage is the same as if it had been deliberate. It is highly necessary, then, to have a clear understanding of the nature of sin if we are to guard against it. There was a leader in a rural congregation who became excessively irritable as a result of carrying heavy responsibilities. After giving away a few times his temper he found it easier and easier to surrender, and finally he so far lost control of his emotions that he was caught up into an uncontrollable rage almost daily. Within a few months it became necessary to confine him to an institution. They called it a case of "mental derangement," but the truth is he sinned away his sanity and did it ignorantly.

On the other hand, much sinning is a direct result of weakness. We have never learned to discipline the forces of life and vagrant impulses suddenly seize control and rush the personality off to disaster. We see the dangers, we regret our actions, but we seem helpless to do anything about the matter. But whether sinning is a result of ignorance or weakness, we have a right to expect good religion to come to the rescue, and that is exactly what will happen if it is given a reasonable chance.

Thou hast been patient with me, O God, while I have sinned against thee and against my own life, but that is because thou art my Father, and thou knowest the material of which I am made. For thy long-suffering I am grateful; in the hour of weakness I seek thy help, Amen.

Examine your imagination. Does it conjure up fancies that plague you? Does memory continue to bring up hateful scenes that harass you? Are you harassed by the long line of undone duties that pursue you? Is your religious faith helping you?

Thoughts

Shall I not visit them for these things? saith the Lord; shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this? - Jeremiah 9:9.

Vice and virtue chiefly imply the relation of our actions to men in this world; sin and holiness rather imply their relation to God and the other world.

Her priests have violated my law, and have profaned mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither have they showed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them. - Ezekiel 22:26.

Sin spoils the spirit's delicacy, and unwillingly deadens its susceptibility. - Parkhurst.

And the Lord said unto Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil? - Job 1:8.

Obedience, submission, discipline, courage - these are among the characteristics which make a man. - Samuel Smiles.

By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God. - Romans 5:2.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast; Man never is, but always to be, a Pope.

So shall I have wherewith to answer him that reproacheth me: For I trust in thy word. - Psalms 119:42.

Build a little fence of trust around today; Fill the space with loving work - and therein stay; Look not through the sheltering bars upon tomorrow; God will help thee bear what comes of joy or sorrow. - Mary Butts.

For Adam was first formed, then Eve. - I. Timothy 2:13.

Divination seems heightened and raised to its highest power in woman. - Alcott.

And as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God. - Galatians 6:16.

There was never law, or sect, or opinion, or so-called, marginally goodness, as the Christian religion doth. - Bacon.

Texans Still Talk About Jim Navarro

Down in South Texas they are still talking about a little man named Jimmy Navarro and a flood relief campaign that brought help to more than 50,000 persons. Here is why:

In just 20 days, the Rev. James Navarro, a stocky little preacher who pastors three churches and lives in Houston, interviewed more than 6,000 persons, raised 200,000 pounds of food and clothing, enlisted the aid of 25 volunteer workers per day, set up other campaigns in nearby cities and produced the United States Air Force into flying the goods to Tampico, Mexico, in 18 Air Force transport planes.

And the reverberations from Bayou City campaign haven't stopped yet. "Brother Jimmy" as he is called, is still dickering with the Mexican government and construction workers to get one and two-room houses built for the refugees until something more permanent can be done. He will return to Tampico in a few days.

This is not the first campaign of its kind Navarro has started, however. Last year, he started another crusade that resulted in help for about 40,000 other persons in the Rio Grande Valley floods.

Navarro - one of Texas Baptists' strongest links in the bridge of friendship and evangelism between the Spanish-speaking and the English-speaking peoples of the state.

A native of Detroit, Michigan, he started a Houston church in the middle of a street and built it into a thriving congregation of 173 members. He started another congregation under a tree and shepherded its growth from a tent through the construction of its own buildings and facilities. And recently, the little Latin-American firebrand helped start still another church in a private residence. Today, he is the pastor of all three congregations and has three offices - two at the churches, one at home.

Navarro receives an average of 50 letters per week, does most of his ministerial studying before 7 a. m. and after 11 p. m., works an average of 18 hours per day and is called from bed often.

His family counseling program - from families with broken homes, about to be married - ministers wayward children or young couples to 15 persons per week.

The Southern Baptist work among the Spanish-speaking people of Galveston, Freeport, Angleton, Alvin, Rosenberg, Richmond, Baytown, South Houston and Pasadena was started under his leadership. A former missionary for the Union Baptist Association at Houston, the little preacher founded the Houston Mexican Baptist Association and has been the association's president for the past three years. He is also a member of the executive board of the Mexican Baptist Convention of Texas and a trustee of the Mexican Baptist Orphan Home in San Antonio.

Some Israel Women Are War Objectors

The first women conscientious objectors to war known to history are in the State of Israel. They came as a result of a conscientious program which requires all unmarried Israeli girls to serve two years in the army behind-the-front auxiliary jobs. The Israeli Government provides for conscientious objections for unmarried women only; no provision is made for men. The principal group which opposes war is a branch of Orthodox Jews, who maintain that it

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

C. HERBERT LOWE, Elder
Seventh Day Adventist Church
Pampa, Texas

This week we have observed one of America's finest holidays, the true spirit of which is felt most fully perhaps, by our fellow citizens who have adopted this great land as their home, while many who were born and reared here, daily partaking of its protection, its freedom to travel about, its opportunities to work at a chosen profession or trade, or to enter into some business enterprise, and the privilege to worship God as their own conscience dictates, take these blessings all for granted, failing to recognize or appreciate the cost and sacrifice by which they were purchased.

America is often spoken of as a "Christian nation," while actually, less than half of our population professes Christianity, or at least are members of any Christian communion. The question therefore arises, "What is the Christian's responsibility toward these, our neighbors?" The answer is best illustrated in the parable of the Good Samaritan.

The Samaritan had fulfilled the command, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This Samaritan represents Christ. Our Saviour manifested a love for us that the love of man can never equal.

When we were bruised and dying, just as every person without Christ is, He had pity on us, He did not pass on the other side and leave us helpless and hopeless to perish. He beheld our sore need. He undertook our case, and identified His interests with those of humanity. Pointing to His own example, He says to His followers, "These things I command you, that you love one another;" "As I have loved you, that ye also love one another." John 15:17; 13:34.

Divine truth exerts little influence upon the world, when it should exert much influence through our practice. The mere profession of religion abounds, but it has little weight.

We may claim to be followers of Christ, we may claim to believe every truth in the word of God; but this will do our neighbor no good unless our belief is carried into our daily life. Our profession may be as high as heaven, but it will save neither ourselves nor our fellow-men unless we are Christians.

As we express our gratitude for all of our blessings at this season, let us not forget the responsibility that is ours as Christian, and as we accept the challenge, "... let the peace of God rule our hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body; and BE YE THANKFUL." Colossians 3:15.

Bulldogs Come From Behind To Upset Harvesters 12-6

The Borger Bulldogs came from behind in the last half yesterday to upset the Harvester's homecoming and defeat the Green and Golders 12-6.

The final count was made with 1:31 left in the game. It came on a 34 yard touchdown pass from Quarterback Bob Page to End Ed Guthrie. The point failed but the T.D. gave the Bulldogs a 12-6 lead when the final gun sounded.

The two teams, both hampered by the stiff southwest wind, played the first four minutes of the game inside the Borger 10 yard line. The Bulldogs fumbled the pigskin on their eighth on the second play of the first half but the Harvesters were unable to count in four plays.

The Bulldogs tried to punt against the stiff wind and managed to get the ball out to their 19 yard line. The Harvesters took over there and took it over from the 13. Donnie Mountain took the handoff and sprinted right end for the first and final Pampa touchdown of the day. The extra point try by Cecil Reynolds was blocked by Eddie Marcus, Bulldog guard.

The second period found the Harvesters facing the wind and also gave the Bulldogs a passing advantage. The period was uneventful as far as scoring was concerned but Bobby Dehls intercepted two of Borger's passes late in the first.

A pass intended for Gary Braden was intercepted by the Harvester defensive linebacker with 3:20 left. He took the pigskin on his own 28 and with several key blocks returned it to the Borger 46.

After the Pampa offense bogged down the Bulldogs, still trying to score before the half, tossed another pass, again to Braden. Dehls again went up and pulled the ball down. This time he took over on the Pampa 22 and again returned it to the Borger 48.

The Pampa offense couldn't get on clicking and again lost the ball on downs.

Borger took over on his own 40 after a series of penalties against the Harvesters but were unable to get off a play.

The halftime gun sounded with the Harvesters holding a 6-0 lead. The third quarter found the score tied at 6-6 after the Borger Bulldogs racked up four first downs in a row and Bob Page rolled out from the 17 and went over for the counter.

The point after try was wide. The Bulldogs drive on this counter began with the kickoff which they took on the 38 yard line. They never gave up the ball until it was in the endzone.

In the fourth period Pampa had a good touchdown drive going when the Quarterback, Buddy Sharp tossed an aerial to Don Babcock which was good for the first down. The pass was good for 20 yards but Babcock fumbled when he was hit hard on the 19.

Borger then took over and started their final scoring threat which gave them the game.

Borger's Gary Braden took the ball on his own 43 yard line and raced through the middle to the Pampa 19. At that point Borger received a clipping penalty which gave them the ball on the 31 yard line with first and 25 to go.

Then the Pampa pass defense crumbled as Borger completed the 31 yard pass and ended the scoring.

TCU Frogs Can Cop SWC Crown By Defeating SMU

United Press Sports Writer Text: The Southwest Conference championship will be hanging in the balance for Coach Abe Martin's host team in the wake of a stunning 21 to 6 upset of Texas A&M by an aroused Texas team at College Station Thursday.

Martin had been hoping fervently for just such a break to help him key up his players, who just might have gone into the SMU fracas with a bit of nonchalance if only personal prestige had been at stake.

Coach Ed Price's Texas Longhorns cooperated magnificently with their finest game of the season as they dominated the 61 year-old Thanksgiving Day rivalry almost completely to the astonishment of a sellout crowd of 41,800 on the Aggies' own Kyle Field.

Rude Ending to Aggies

So effectively did Texas write a rude ending to Texas A&M's Cinderella-like season, that Coach Paul Bryant's probation kids could muster only three first downs — all coming in their lone scoring surge in the second quarter — 20 yards rushing and 47 passing.

The defeat was the Aggies' first against four victories and a tie in league play, but it dropped them into second place in the standings behind TCU, which owns a 4-1 record.

A tie or a victory for TCU against SMU would give the Horned Frogs the title to go along with the Cotton Bowl bid, while an SMU victory would push the Aggies back into the throne room by the rear door. Even then, the bowl bid couldn't be theirs because they're under probation for recruiting violations.

Aggies Score First

Jimmy Wright scored the Aggies lone touchdown from one yard out after his 34-yard pass-run play to halfback John Crow had set up the score during an 80-yard march.

But, that was the only bright spot on an otherwise dull day for the erstwhile pace-setters as Texas drove 30 yards in 95 seconds to go ahead 7 to 0 on a 25-yard pass from Walter Fendren to Menan Schriever and Johnny Elam's conversion with 10 seconds to go in the half.

After that, Texas A&M never could muster 10 yards in one series and Texas drove 46 and 34 yards for last-quarter touchdowns to salt it away. Fendren scored one from seven yards out, added the extra point and then another after Ed Hawkins dove two yards for the other one.

Texas halted the touted Aggie running game up the middle with seven and eight-man lines sparked by center Johnny Tatum and guard Herb Gray and very capably backed up by fullback Dalano Womack, and confused the Aggie defenses much of the time with running plays to the weak side of an unbalanced line.

While TCU is scratching for its title against SMU Saturday, there will be another loop finale going on at Houston between winners Rice and four-times beaten Baylor.

Navy, Notre Dame, TCU And Mississippi Are Favorites

By UNITED PRESS

Navy, Notre Dame, Texas Christian and Mississippi will be the favorites in the biggest games Saturday when the 1955 college football season comes to an end in a blaze of traditional glory and conference championships.

Navy and Army both were slated to move to Philadelphia Friday for their 96th annual service gridiron classic there Saturday, and the last word was that the Middies remain favored by seven points.

In another game only typical of many long-standing rivalries being renewed, Notre Dame, the nation's highest-ranked independent team will be the choice by 10 points to gain its ninth win in 10 starts at the expense of Southern California.

Texas Christian, the host team for the Cotton Bowl game, is a 14-point favorite over Southern Methodist in a game that has suddenly taken on new significance. That's because TCU, now can clinch the Southwest Conference championship by winning this one, thanks to the stunning 21-6 upset handed Texas A&M by Texas Thursday.

Aggies Score First

The Aggies went into that nationally televised Thanksgiving Day tussle a 13-point pick, needing only a victory to gain their first league crown since 1940. And they scored first when Jim Wright bucked over from the one in the second quarter.

But the Aggies missed the extra point and that was their last chance. Aroused Texas scored 10 seconds before halftime on Joe Clements' 25-yard pass, went ahead on Johnny Elam's conversion, then pushed the Aggies around throughout the second half before clinching the game on fourth-period touchdowns by Walt Fendren and Ed Hawkins.

Mississippi, like Texas Christian, can clinch a league title — the Southeastern — by making good as a seven-point pick over Mississippi State Saturday.

Three Other Hopelists

If Ole Miss stumbles, the title could wind up in the hands of Auburn, Georgia Tech, or Vanderbilt; all of them favored in their separate games. Out of this group will come the host team for the Sugar Bowl and possible Texas Christian's Cotton Bowl rival, Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team, hopes to finish a perfect season Saturday and is the day's most lopsided choice at 35 points over Oklahoma A&M.

Little Miami of Ohio, which has been mentioned as a Gator Bowl possibility, kept those hopes shining brightly Thursday by winding up a perfect season with a 14-0 triumph over Cincinnati.

The holiday also was a happy one for Wichita, which finished in a 15-0 for the Missouri Valley Conference championship by crushing

Arizona Coach To Direct Border Stars

PHOENIX, Ariz. — UP — Dan Devine, the former Michigan State assistant who is in his first year as coach at Arizona State College, will direct the Border Stars All-Star team against the Skyline League eleven in the Salad Bowl game Dec. 31.

The announcement that Devine would be assigned border coaching duties was made following a poll of coaches. His assistants will be Sammy Baugh of Hardin-Simmons and Warren Woodson of Arizona.

Since DeWitt Weaver of Texas Tech coached the last Salad Bowl team representing the Border Conference, he is not eligible this time. Arizona State finished second in the 1954 Conference race under Clyde Smith, who was succeeded by Devine.

Arizona State won the 1955 championship by defeating the University of Arizona Saturday night.

Phil Dickens of Wyoming will tutor the Skyline stars in the benefit game here Dec. 31.

Final Match Ends With The Referee In A Daze

The fans were treated to some exciting wrestling Wednesday night at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club along with some scientific wrestling which got rough in spots.

Kit Fox the Comanche Indian and Leo "The Lion" Newman wrestled 20 minutes and fought to a draw. Newman tried to use the belt of his robe on Fox. Fox took the belt away from Newman and tied him up in the ropes; He was left hanging there as time ran out.

The first main event went to Bob Geigel in two out of three falls.

Geigel took the first fall in 16 minutes four seconds with a flying head scissor.

Jack O'Reilly came back to take the second fall in 5 minutes 11 seconds with his Australian Neck and Leg Cradle.

Geigel took the 3rd, and final fall in 5:46 with a spinning arm lock. This pleased the crowd very much as Geigel was the favorite.

The second main event was really something to watch between Dory Funk and the former Lightweight Danny McShane.

McShane wore a beautiful Red & Blue jacket with his name down the front. He also wore some tape on his right elbow — which he used to his advantage — all through the match.

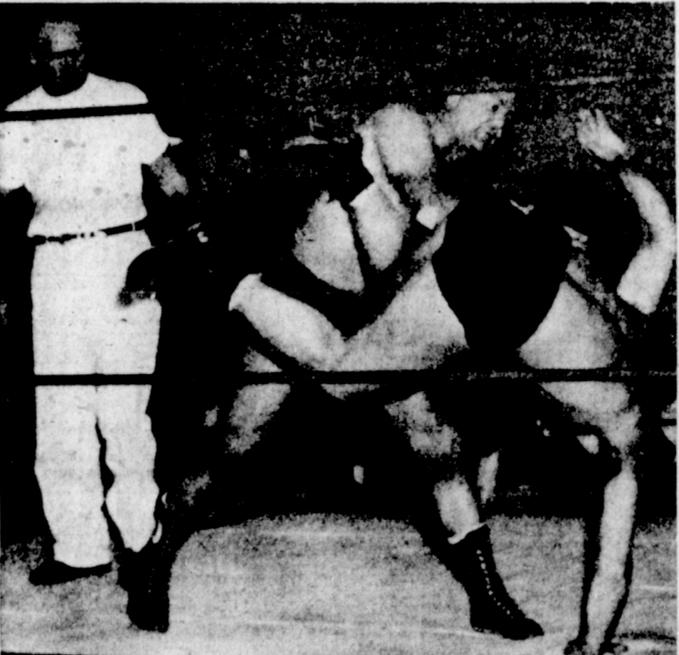

McShane took the first fall in 13 minutes 31 seconds with the Atomic Drop. Funk came back to win the second fall in 7:14 with a steppover toe hold.

The third fall Dory kept trying to remove tape from McShane's arm to no avail.

McShane hit the referee (Dutch Schultz) and while he was down McShane made his pin on Funk and was counted out by the referee.

After a conference with the referee he reversed his decision. McShane had already left the ring and was on the apron. Funk tossed him back in the ring by the hair and made the pin in four minutes 23 seconds to take the match two falls to one.

It was a good show to watch as Danny strut like a Bantam Rooster and when Funk was awarded the last fall the roof almost fell in.

AND OVER YOU GO — Shown above is Danny McShane as he got one of his few legal holds on Dory Funk Wednesday night at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club. The action was part of the last and main event of the wrestling match. McShane had taken a poke at Funk and hit the referee. Referee Dutch Schultz counted Funk down while he was still dazed from the punch. He reversed his decision when he found out McShane had laid one on him.

ACC Puts On Good Show But Loses To Howard Payne

BROWNWOOD, Tex. — UP — Abilene Christian College put on the most spectacular show Thursday, but Howard Payne played the best football and defeated the Wildcats 21 to 4 before 4,200 fans.

Abilene Christian students and faculty members completed an 83-mile "torch of victory" foot relay from Abilene to Brownwood minutes before kickoff time.

They had hoped this would spur their team to avenge a 20 to 13 victory by Howard Payne last year, but it didn't work out that way.

The two teams battled to a scoreless tie in the first quarter, but after that Howard Payne took over. Jack Cromartie, Howard Payne end, intercepted an ACC pass just after the second period started and ran 32 yards for the first score. Jerry Millsaps converted.

The Yellowjackets scored twice in the third period, one a one-yard plunge by fullback Dave Smith and a 23-yard pass from Millsaps to Cromartie. Millsaps made both conversions good.

Abilene Christian's only score came late in the third period on a fumble recovery on the Yellowjackets' 14 and pushing with line plays to the six. A penalty moved the ball to the HPC one from where ACC quarterback Marvin Cheek hit center for the touchdown. Gene Boyd missed the conversion try.

Seek More De-Segregation

WASHINGTON — UP — The American Veterans Committee urged governors of 12 Southern states Monday to follow Maryland's example and de-segregate their national guard units. The message was sent to governors of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Louisiana and Virginia.

Want Immigration Bars Lowered

WASHINGTON — UP — AFL and CIO spokesmen urged Congress Monday to lower immigration bars as part of a general overhaul of the hilly-disputed 1952 McCarran-Walker Immigration Law. Victor G. Feather, assistant to CIO President Walter P. Reuther, proposed doing away with fixed country-by-country quotas and recommended admitting about 250,000 immigrants a year. The ceiling now is 154,000. Walter J. Mason, AFL legislative representative, agreed.

Cotton Acreage Set

WASHINGTON — UP — The Agriculture Department has allocated 45,308 acres among six states and Puerto Rico for the 1956 extra-long staple cotton crop. The allotments include 15,770 acres to Texas, compared with a 1955 allotment of 15,964 acres, and 8,424 acres to New Mexico, compared to an 8-529-acre 1955 allotment.

Say La Prensa to Be Returned

BUENOS AIRES — UP — Reliable sources said Monday President Pedro E. Aramburu has promised to return the confiscated newspaper La Prensa to its rightful owners "very soon." The source said Aramburu gave this assurance to radical leader Silvano Santander during a recent conversation between the two men.

"She doesn't really coach us," Lily Lodge, actress daughter of former Connecticut Gov. John Lodge, said. "She just lets us live with her for a while. It is a wonderful privilege."

Miss Hayes directed plays for the girl scouts when her daughter was a member and said disparagingly that all the girls' mothers "bring forth their little hobbies" to teach them to the scouts.

She looked at the screening of the movie, "My Son, John," her last Hollywood venture, and said she wouldn't make another picture. Her face had "aged the wrong way," she later told a friend. And she felt she had over-acted the role.

Age Doesn't Soften South Korea's Syngman Rhee

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
Advancing age does not seem to be softening up President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

Rhee was 80 years old last March. He has been active in politics since he was 19.

It might be thought that by now he would be getting into a philosophical state of mind.

On the contrary, he seems to be getting tougher and tougher. Many allied leaders fear that some day he will start to back up his frequent angry words with deeds.

That might mean involving the United States, among other countries, in a big war.

Every now and then Rhee demands that the United Nations cancel the Korean armistice and start the war again.

In fact, he threatens to attack North Korea himself, knowing that he would bring in Communist China against him—and taking it for granted that the United States would have to go to his support.

Dispute With Japan
Now Rhee is involved in an increasingly bitter dispute with Japan.

It was announced last Thursday that South Korean naval vessels would fire on any Japanese fishing craft that violated what is called the Rhee line of territorial waters. If the Japanese boats are accompanied by vessels of the new Japanese navy, so much the worse, it was added.

The Rhee line was set about three years ago to protect Korean fishing "rights." It extends from 60 to 75 miles off the coast of South Korea. It is aimed specifically against Japan, Korea's neighbor across the 100-mile Korea strait.

The Japanese are both alarmed and angry over the threat. Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu has announced that he will appeal to the United Nations if the threat is actually carried out.

Rhee is a valuable ally in that he bitterly hates communism. He hardly can be blamed for hating Japan too. He underwent imprisonment and torture in fighting Japanese domination of Korea, and was an exile for 35 years until Korea was freed in 1945.

Nation's No. 1 Patriot
The white-haired, quick-tempered, diminutive Rhee is Korea's No. 1 patriot.

But it seems fair to suggest that Rhee is a little too tough, and that he may be building up trouble for Korea in the years to come.

He rules a population of 25 million. His army of about 650,000 men ranks among the largest half-dozen fighting forces in the world. But Communist China has a population of 580 million and an army numbering in the millions.

Japan, which has 90 million people, is just starting to rearm with the blessing and support of the United States.

South Korea is never going to be the dominant power in East Asia. Maybe Rhee ought to make Japan a friend instead of an enemy.

Editor to Return Home
NEW YORK—UP—Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, editor and publisher of the great independent newspaper La Prensa, announced Tuesday that he plans to return to Buenos Aires from exile early next week. It has been forehanded since the overthrow of Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron in September that La Prensa, which he had seized and made a propaganda organ, eventually would be restored.

to give the proper roll in the back tuck in a rat.

There's one slight hitch in the French twist hairdo. To be becoming, it should be worn by women whose ears fit fairly flat to their heads. That doesn't stop the resourceful models, though. They stick their ears back with collodion, a liquid adhesive.

New York Women Assume Pale Look And French Twist

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK—UP—Pale faces and French twists are the two latest fads among this town's prettiest females.

It sounds a little like a description of nervous secretaries eating French pastry during the morning coffee break.

Actually it describes new makeup and hair styles. The pale-faced look first popped up in Italy, where young glamour girls started painting their mouths with almost colorless lipstick. In recent months it has been catching on with increasing numbers of sophisticated fashion models and actresses.

"It makes you look a little bit younger, for one thing," Candy Jones Conover, model agency director, said. "It suits a fairly sophisticated personality, though. A naturally vivacious girl with high color shouldn't wear it."

And White Talcum
The former model said some of the girls also mix a little white talcum powder with their regular face powder to give a paler, translucent look to their skins along with the "chalky pink" lips.

Here's how Gaby Rodgers, a blonde actress now appearing on Broadway in "The Heavenly Twins," manages her pale-faced look:

"I put on powder pink lipstick and then I powder over it," she explained. "One of the tricks to the look is to wear rather pronounced eye makeup. I use lots of mascara, but with the pink lips and light powder I don't look as if I'm heavily made up."

Men like it, Miss Rodgers said. She finds she gets a lot of compliments on her eyes since she toned down her lips. And she finds women studying her curiously, which indicates that the fad attracts the kind of attention that could easily turn it into a nationwide fancy.

Now for the French twists. Models must keep ahead of average women in their hair styles, since they pose for magazine pictures which will be used six months from now.

Straight Over Ears
The French twist is their latest solution to their hair problems. They brush their hair back in a sleek line over the ears and tuck it under in a vertical roll that's pinned like a snug sausage from the nape of the neck to the crown.

Once you get the hang of twisting the hair into a flat roll and securing it with the kind of bone hair pins grandma used, it's a simple way to wear your hair, the models report. If it is too short

Helen Hayes Has Broadway Theater Named In Her Honor

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK—UP—Helen Hayes, leading lady of the American theater, has received a brand new honor.

A Broadway theater was renamed for her Monday night, which makes it more difficult than ever for the unassuming person to shine through the glittering personality.

Miss Hayes is not one of those actresses who has had trouble living up to the glorified legend that has built up around her in 50 years in the theater. But she's had a set appeal puzzled Hollywood producers, she explained, so there was a 17-year lapse between her first movie and her second.

Miss Hayes drove to the theater for the name-changing ceremony Monday from the home she and her husband, Charles MacArthur, own near Nyack, N.Y., with a pretty young actress beside her in the car.

This is only the latest of numerous young people interested in the theater who have lived with the MacArthurs since their daughter, first timid appearance as Helen Hayes Brown, age 6, in Washington, D.C., her career is a well-documented history of hard work, repeated success and unflinching modesty.

But as a woman, Miss Hayes has had unexpected hobbies, done endless thoughtful deeds and consistently poked fun at herself, the actress.

"I wasn't combustible," she told an interviewer who once asked her what had happened to her promising movie career. Her lack of set appeal puzzled Hollywood producers, she explained, so there was a 17-year lapse between her first movie and her second.

FOR A SELECT CLIENTELE—This Christmas tree is worth $18,790, because it's made of 60 mink tails and is decorated with jewels. Displaying it is its creator, Mrs. Alice Daly, San Francisco artist and designer. She designs Christmas cards and bizarre gifts for "people who have everything." Her collection includes $2,500 pearl dog collars and a $25,000 Christmas card.

Airmen Are Undecided About Continuing Grievance Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Attorneys for two airmen who lost their $10,000 federal court slander suits against a lieutenant colonel who called them vulgar names said Tuesday they will decide Friday whether to pursue their grievances through military channels.

U. S. District Judge W. R. Wallace said Monday in dismissing slander litigation that remarks attributed to Lt. Col. Walter Callahan of New York were "undeniably vulgar and offensive."

But the judge ruled that Callahan was not acting in line of duty when he uttered the remarks and that vulgar and offensive statements were not ground for slander under Oklahoma law.

Wallace pointed out that the two 21-year-old complainants—Airmen 2C John F. Crozman of West Lynn, Mass., and Airman 2C Miles Miller of Marysville, Pa.—had recourse in military courts.

To Decide Friday

Charles Hicks, attorney for the two airmen, said Tuesday he would not see his clients again until Friday and they would decide then what steps, if any, to take next. The airmen were unavailable for comment at Tinker Air Force Base here, where they are stationed.

The remarks attributed to the colonel, who now is stationed at Westover Air Force Base, Mass., were unprintable.

The judge, in a written opinion, said the abusive statements nonetheless caused no injury to the airmen "in their profession or business."
