Demos Meet In Ft. Worth

Conservative, Fight Boils Liberal Bitter

By O. B. LLOYD JR.

UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT
FORT WORTH (UP)—A bitter fight between conservative Texas Democrats and the party's liberal wing, loyal to the national Democratic ticket, boiled up today as the one-day state Democratic convention got under way.

U.S. Sen. Price Daniel was expected to be officially certified as the party's gubernatorial nominee, but he faced a battle with the liberals in trying to get a favorable state executive committee.

The present executive committee early today adopted the report of a credentials sub-committee which heard 15 contested delegations. It held for the liberals in four instances and for the conservatives in 11. The four liberal counties totaled 150 votes out of 1,888 on the floor and the 11 Conservative counties totaled 482 votes.

Floor Fight Due

A liberal spokesman had promised that if the ruling of the credentials committee went against them, they would carry the fight to the convention floor.

Seating of these delegations gave the conservatives, on paper at least, a bare working majority in the convention. But the bitter aftermath of the Daniel - Ralph Yarborough gubernatorial campaign left the issue in doubt.

Liberal - loyalists were believed virtually certain to attempt to seat their delegations from Harris and other counties when the convention itself opened this morning in Will Rogers Coliseum.

The loyalists are also demanding other considerations which may throw the convention into turmoil today. Among these are:

1. Unqualified endorsement by Daniel of the Democratic nominees for president and vice president. Daniel said he would support Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver this year unless some issue of states' rights, such as the tidelands question in 1952, should drive him away.
2. Acceptance by Daniel without question of district caucus nominees for membership on the 62-member State Executive Committee to be picked by the convention.

Daniel has said he will leave a free hand to the convention, but said he believes those who opposed him in his close race with Yarborough should not be picked for the Executive Committee.

Adopted at 2:30 a.m.

It was about 2:30 a.m. today before the pro-Adlai Shivers executive committee, which goes out of existence today, unanimously (See DEMOS, Page 3)

Solon Charged After Crashup

NORMAN, Okla. (UP)—State Rep. Joe E. Johnson, Stillwater, Okla., was free on bonds totaling $15,000 today on three charges of first-degree manslaughter.

A Cleveland county grand jury indicted Johnson as the result of a two-car collision near Lexington, Okla., Aug. 11 that killed three Texans.

Johnson was accused of driving car crashed head-on into one driven to the left of the center line. His car was driven by J. C. Chadwick, 25, Perryton, Tex. Chadwick and his two daughters were killed.

Grace And Prince In New York

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT
NEW YORK (UP)—A radiant and relaxed Princess Grace of Monaco arrived today with her husband, Prince Rainier III, for a six-week visit and said, "It's wonderful" to be home.

The royal newlyweds obviously were happy as they talked to reporters aboard the liner United States before it docked at 8 a.m.

They baby they expect early in February was their favorite topic of conversation, as with any expectant parents.

Their only disagreement so far has been over a name for the hoped-for heir to the throne of his 270-acre principality.

"We've decided on about three different names," the former movie actress Grace Kelly said. "We change them so often that we don't want to say which name we're considering. We don't want to commit ourselves yet."

Normally Republican Main GOP By Re-Electing A Democrat

By RAYMOND LAHR

UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT
WASHINGTON (UP)—Normally Republican Maine jolted the GOP today by re-electing Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie and piling up a much heavier vote than usual for Democratic candidates for Congress.

One Democrat wrested a House seat from the GOP in Monday's election, and a second ran a photo-finish against a six-term Republican House member. Only in the third of the state's three congressional districts did the Republicans hold their own.

Under its state constitution, Maine elects its governor and members of Congress on the first Monday in September. By filling congressional seats two months ahead of the other 47 states, it is sometimes a weathervane to show

Protest Use Of National Guard

Segregationists Would Impeach Gov. Chandler

By UNITED PRESS

Segregationists called today for impeachment of Gov. A. B. Chandler in protest against the use of National Guardsmen in battle dress ending rioting against integration by escorting Negro pupils to former all-white schools at Sturgis, Ky., and Clinton, Tenn.

States rights leaders held a huge rally Monday night at Morgantown, Ky., and denounced Chandler and Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee for calling in National Guardsmen armed with bayonets and tanks.

In a different kind of protest at Raleigh, N.C., Gov. Luther Hodges, who sponsored a strong constitutional safe-guard of school segregation in North Carolina, was hanged in effigy.

National Guardsmen in battle dress ending rioting against integration by escorting Negro pupils to former all-white schools at Sturgis, Ky., and Clinton, Tenn.

Wires President

But in Texas, where state rangers and local officers refused to escort the Negroes past segregationist picket lines the Negroes had achieved today only momentary entries to school houses.

At Texarkana, Tex., where two Negroes were turned back by white pickets at a junior college campus Monday, a Negro leader wired President Eisenhower and Gov. Allan Shivers for armed escorts.

Integration attempts also failed Monday at Clay, Ky., near Sturgis, and at two schools in Houston, Tex., where the Negroes had no police escort.

States rights leaders addressing a rally of 4,000 persons at Morgantown protested bitterly the presence of a full battalion of National Guard troops camped on Sturgis school ground and 50 guardsmen at Clinton.

Vote By Acclamation

A resolution calling for Chandler's impeachment was voted by acclamation by the crowd overflowing the Union County courthouse after a 45-minute speech by Jack Kershaw, states rights party leader from Nashville, Tenn.

Kershaw, vice president of the Tennessee Federation for Maintaining Constitutional Government, also criticized President Eisenhower, calling him a "race mixer" and "federal dictator," and at Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Kershaw accused Stevenson of wanting "even stronger civil rights measures than proposed by the vicious Democratic Party platform."

Five Named To Post On BCD

The agenda for the City Commission meeting this morning, which was expected to be light, turned into a work session for the commissioners as several items were added at the last minute.

Following the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting and the recognition of visitors, the commissioners approved the payments of the monthly bills of the city in the amount of $20,319.92 and the payment of library bills in the amount of $145.05.

Five persons were named to the Board of City Development to replace those whose terms had expired. Those appointed were: Paul Crouch, Panhandle Packing Company; Dudley Steele, Cabot Company; Elmer Fisher, IGA Grocery; Tom Farwell, Hughes Companies; and Elmer Fite, Fite Grocery.

Proposes Troop Ban

The impeachment resolution and an enjoining Chandler from further use of troops replacing normal civil authority at Sturgis was opposed by Wright W. Waller Jr., Union County chairman of the Kentucky White Citizens Council.

Integration-by-escort has been successful only at Clinton, where boycotts of mixed classes by white pupils gave way to a full scale back-to-school movement.

But Sturgis school authorities watched further developments in almost total boycott of the high school by white pupils Monday.

British, French Give Warning To Egypt

By WILLIAM SEXTON

United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—Britain and France agreed today to use force against any interference with the operations of the Suez Canal.

Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Premier Guy Mollet pledged to "resist by all appropriate means" any such interference and "any action incompatible with justice and respect for international obligations."

It was a blunt warning to Egypt that France and Britain will act swiftly against mistreatment of their nationals in Egypt as well as against any attempt to upset the normal operations of the canal.

Officials refused to say whether Britain and France had agreed to take the dispute before the United Nations. Informed sources had said earlier that Eden and Mollet were considering giving the crisis a "fast run" through the Security Council before taking any drastic steps. Eden and Mollet met here this morning.

A meeting of almost equal importance was taking place in Paris where directors of the old Suez Canal Company decide whether to withdraw European pilots from the canal and force Egypt to a showdown. Such a move might close the canal.

Fears Mass Resignation

Cairo dispatches said Egypt feared a mass resignation and that this explained President Gamal Abdel Nasser's attempt Monday to wrest the initiative from Britain and France by proposing a new Suez conference. Britain rejected that immediately as "not new."

Egyptian sources believed that tying up the canal through a mass resignation might lead to immediate Anglo-French intervention since British and French economy is geared to successful operation of the canal.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, originally opposed to U.N. action in the dispute, was reported from Washington to be swinging behind the idea of laying the issue before the Security Council.

Russia May Use Veto

Previously Dulles has been cool to the idea for fear that Russia would use its veto to block any settlement favored by the West.

Russia already has made considerable propaganda hay from the dispute with almost daily broadcasts supporting the Arabs.

Egypt also was said to be cool to U.N. action through fear of a Western veto. A spokesman Monday night said any move to bring the argument before the United Nations might drag on for years.

Well-informed sources in London said a "fast run" through the Security Council would give the Dulles plan nations an important moral edge now lacking in the luez dispute with Egypt—regardless of a Soviet veto.

Celanese Sales Level Increase Seen

NEW YORK — Celanese Corporation of America foresees an annual sales level well in excess of $300,000,000 by 1960, Harold Blanche, president, told members of the New York Society of Security Analysts, Inc., Monday.

The outlook is reflected in the Corporation's capital expansion program, which contemplates expenditures of $100,000,000 during the next five years to expand and diversify operations. It is estimated that this investment would generate additional annual sales of $125,000,000.

As now planned, expansion capital will be invested principally for facilities of the Company's Chemical and Plastics Divisions, Blanche said. In the case of the Textile Division, which currently accounts for the largest part of the Celanese sales dollar, efforts will be principally concerned with stimulating sales and markets to bring existing facilities up to 100 per cent capacity operations, he said.

Included in future Textile Division operations, he noted, is the conversion of some facilities to meet the expanding demand for Arnel, the Company's new tri-acetate fiber.

Since introduction to the trade two years ago, Blanche said, Arnel has achieved gratifying market acceptance, being now employed in more than 20 fabric constructions and used by more than 300 garment manufacturers. Combining luxurious appearance and ease-of-care characteristics, this apparel fiber seems destined for an important position among synthetic textiles, he said.

Other recent developments cited as indicative of acetate's significant present position and future potential were: Adoption of Fortisan-36, high-strength saponified acetate, for various industrial uses; recent emergence of new markets for acetate such as blankets, carpets, mattress battings, upholstery and cigarette filter tow, and the strong trend to non-woven fabrics, in which acetate is readily adaptable, for apparel, home furnishings and other end-uses.

In addition to progress by Celanese textiles, prospects appear bright for continuing growth in the Chemical, Plastics and Foreign Divisions of the Company, the president reported. Among highlights of division operations he cited were the following:

Chemicals — From originally a supplier of chemicals for other divisions of the Company, the Celanese Chemical Division has broadened its market base to develop external markets and achieve greater autonomy. Less than 25 per cent of the division's 1955 sales will be internal and the proportion of external sales is expected to increase.

The division is now marketing over 40 chemicals and about 40 per cent of current sales comes from products introduced since 1949. A new plant in Point Pleasant, West Virginia, which started production in April, is making fire-resistant hydraulic fluids and has processing equipment for production of chemicals for plastics, textiles, automotive specialties and diverse industrial applications. Research and development are being aimed at products closer to the consumer.

Plastics — This year's sales are currently running about 10 per cent above the level of 1955, which was a record sales year for the Celanese Plastics Division. One important product contributing to higher volume is Fortical, a cellulose (See CELANESE, Page 3)

Air Force Plane Still Missing

TOKYO (UP)—American planes and Japanese search today to find a trace of a U.S. Air Force weather plane missing since Monday when it flew into typhoon Emma to track the course of the dangerous storm.

Sixteen men were aboard the aircraft, a B-50 reconnaissance bomber. The Air Force discounted the possibility the B50 had been shot down or strayed over Soviet territory. A spokesman blamed only the typhoon.

Thirty-eight U.S. Air Force planes and ten Japanese maritime safety ships criss-crossed a 70,000 square mile area midway between Japan and Siberia during daylight hours and B29s were ordered out tonight to look for lights.

But rising seas dimmed hopes of finding the Americans since high waves can conceal a floating man on a life raft.

Reports from Korea, delayed because of disrupted communications, said the typhoon killed 11 persons in a glancing sidewise at Korea before spending itself in the Japan sea. Eleven others were reported missing.

The Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women will begin its fall activities with a reception for new and prospective members at 8 p.m. Sept. 18, in the City Club Room. Mrs. Walter Bowen, president, has announced.

Mrs. Luther Roberts of Amarillo, formerly of Borger, will present a book review for the program.

Anyone transferring from a different branch and anyone interested in becoming a member is invited to attend, Mrs. Bowen stated.

The basis of eligibility for members in AAUW is a degree or 60 hours of study in a college or university on the approved list of the National Association of University Women, explained Miss Mary Reeve, membership chairman.

Anyone who does not know whether or not her college is on the approved list may contact Miss Reeve or her assistants, Mrs. Earl Casey and Miss Joy Parnell.

On the agenda for the first meeting will be an explanation of the study groups planned for the year, Mrs. Bowen stated. Study groups have been arranged for cooking, photography, literature, bridge and interior decorating. Anyone interested in joining a study group may contact Mrs. N. G. Kadingo, Mrs. Bowen pointed out. Study groups are open to anyone who is interested, as well as AAUW members, she explained.

Carolyn Anderwald Named Bake Queen During County's HD Achievement Event

Miss Carolyn Anderwald, 17, member of the Waysides 4-H Club of White Deer, was named county baking queen Saturday in the county-wide achievement event held in the Legion VFW Hall. Her two products, muffins and cookies, will be frozen and entered in the district contest, to be held during the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo next week. Winners of second and third places were Miss Sue Evans and Miss Nancy Tate respectively, members of the McLean 4-H Club.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Anderwald of White Deer, Miss Anderwald has been active in 4-H Club work for a number of years. In 1954 she won the County baking contest and this year, she has just returned from a 4-H leadership training camp in Austin.

The home demonstration club of Gray County prepared educational exhibits in competition with each other. Winners were Bell Club, first place, with an exhibit showing the comparative value of a quart of milk with a number of common foods; Hopkins, second, with an exhibit on the need for lining a skirt to help hold its shape; and the Goodwill Club, third, with an exhibit showing appropriate containers for freezing foods. Fall planting of bulbs was illustrated by the Merten Club, electrical wiring by the Sunshine Club, and tailoring equipment by the Worthwhile Club.

June Talk

Pampa News Women's Editor

FALL FASHIONS HAVE BURST into flaming reds, says the September "This is Your Life" issue of "Seventeen" magazine, which reports a three-alarm blaze: sheaths, separates, and raincoats. Among the new red "shoestring" sheaths is a slender wool-knit jumper with a back-strapped, scooped neckline and an eyelet-iced white cotton shirt. A brilliant red bulky-knit, wool sheath is very much like an elongated sweater. One leather belt binds its waist while a miniature one binds the neckline.

INCENDIARY separates include a bold red plaid matchstick coat without sleeves or collar and a matching red plaid straight skirt. Coat and skirt are worn with a white long-sleeved silk shirt. Luxuriously soft and full is a red nylon fleece skirt, banded with three bold, black stripes. It's topped by a long-sleeved black slipover; long-fringed black scarf adds a dramatic touch.

Two quick-drying coats of red can brighten up those rainy days; one, a wide, wide raincoat, has a rib-length French policeman's cape attached, and shiny brass buttons while, the other, a straight coat of water repellent wool and cotton felt boasts double-breasted wooden buttons.

NEAT well-matched separates will turn male heads in classes and corridors this Fall. The magazine suggests that girls forego any sloppy, shirt-tails and ill-fitting sweaters, and dress for school with well-mannered care.

One trim, boy-tailored outfit featured by the magazine combines a wool flannel blazer jacket and wool tweed skirt. A pencil-gray dress with gracefully pleated skirt and high round neck, has its own boxy jacket of bright red corduroy. The desk-set's favorite, the jumper to mix and match with many blouses, comes this season with a new look: full-skirted with bodice cut in weskit style.

FOLLOW three easy steps to dance floor popularity: (1) Wear a bouffant skirt (2) Pick a snug waistline and (3) Choose a pastel hue.

That's the fashion trend reflected in the issue which offers a collection of romantic dance dresses which take all three steps to ensure plenty of cut-ins.

One short strapless formal is frosted with embroidery in pink and green, and draped with pink rayon taffeta mesh beneath the shirred bodice. Layers and layers of misty pink tulle ruffles follow the skirt and strapless bodice of another dance dream, deep flounce of tulle foams its hem.

A velvet V traces a pretty new line over bare shoulders and neck on a floating short formal in a

Mrs. A. M. Nash, member of the Merten Club gave the recipe for a German chocolate cake and iced the finished cake. Mrs. T. H. Kelley, member of the Bell Club, showed ways to decorate and how to entertain at a Scottish party; and Mrs. John Johnson, president of the Goodwill Club, demonstrated the preparation of peaches for freezing.

Two 4-H girls giving demonstrations with Miss Sue Evans, member of the McLean Club, showing the preparation of okra for the home freezer, and Miss Gusie Lane, member of the Pampa Junior 4-H club, who iced and decorated a party cookie.

All club exhibits and individuals received appropriate ribbons in the contests which they entered.

Judges in the county contests were Mrs. Janie Fletcher, Carson County home demonstration agent; Miss Norma Lantz, homemaking teacher, LeFors High School; and Mrs. Jim Smathers of Pampa, home economist.

Low Pressure Hits The Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A low pressure area of squalls drifted slowly westward in the lower Gulf of Mexico today, raising a danger of possible high tides along the Texas and Mexican coasts.

The weather bureau planned to send a reconnaissance plane into the big disturbance this afternoon to check for signs of development into a full-scale tropical storm.

The weather bureau said in a 4 a.m. est bulletin that the low pressure area carried winds which ranged locally from 30 to 40 miles an hour with scattered squalls.

Rough seas and tides from two to four feet were expected along the lower Texas coast and small craft from Corpus Christi, Tex., southward, were warned to remain in port.

The low pressure area was centered about 300 miles southeast of Brownsville, Tex., and was moving westward about five miles an hour. The weather bureau described its center as "vague and ill defined."

CELANESE

(Continued from Page 1) Icee propionate molding material, introduced in 1955, which has taken a big share of the molded pen and pencil business and looks promising for telephone sets and numerous other applications. Good acceptance also has been achieved by polyvinyl acetate emulsions, used in making water-base latex paints for interior and exterior surfaces, to an extent that plans are being considered to expand PVac production to meet demand.

Increased demand for acetate sheeting prompted expansion of sheet-casting facilities in the Belviders, New Jersey, plant to nearly double production capacity. By early 1957, a new plant in Houston will start producing Fortiflex, a polyolefin with unusual rigidity, heat resistance, chemical inertness and other property advantages over conventional polyethylenes. Sizeable markets for the resin are foreseen in such end-uses as bottles and containers, piping, housewares, electrical appliances, packaging and industrial products.

Foreign Operations—Celanece Mexicana, S.A., has grown from a one-plant venture in 1946 to a diversified five-plant operation with assets of $25 million pesos ($42,000,000). The first Mexican-made nylon has just come into production in the Ocotlan plant. Other products made by Celanece Mexicana include acetate and rayon filament yarn and staple fiber, rayon tire cord and the Zord fabric, purified cellulose from cotton linters, cellophane, polyvinyl acetate emulsions and fabricated polyester products. The company also carried on product and market development work through pilot facilities.

Celanece Colombiana, S.A., likewise has achieved commercial success, having quadrupled production since 1951, and now produces acetate yarns and staple fiber, fabricates polyester resin products and supplies polyvinyl acetate emulsions to the paint industry. Celanece Venezolana, S.A., has not yet matched progress of the Mexican and Colombian companies, since it is operating in a hard currency country where sizeable textiles imports have caused severe market fluctuations.

Canadian Chemical and Cellulose Company, Ltd., has excellent growth prospects. The mill at Prince Rupert, B.C., originally a producer only of high alpha cellulose for processing into cellulose acetate, has been redesigned so it also can produce paper pulps and dissolving pulps for rayon manufacture. Mill capacity is expected to be expanded to nearly 500 tons of pulp per day. Canadian Chemical and Cellulose, which also produces and sells chemicals and acetate filament yarn and staple fiber, recently reported $19,636,660 in sales for the first half of 1956. This compares with sales of $18,172,529 during the comparable six months last year.

Hotel Report Friday

George Cree Jr., chairman of the special hotel committee, will return to Pampa tomorrow from Honolulu where he has been attending an advanced management school and will immediately start work completing plans for the hotel survey report meeting which will be held in the Cabot auditorium in the Hughes Building at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Ilyron B. Hockenbury, president of the Hockenbury System of Harrisburg, Penn., will attend the meeting and make the report. It is expected that some decision will be reached at the Friday meeting which will determine whether or not a campaign will be sponsored to sell stock for the building of a new and up to date hotel in Pampa.

Pampans interested in hearing the report are invited to be present, according to Chamber of Commerce officials.

Quiet Night For Pampa

Law enforcement agencies of Pampa reported a quiet night Monday with only three drunk arrests being made by the police department.

The fire department reported that they did not receive an alarm from 6:08 p.m. Sunday until late this morning.

DEMOS

The Democrats of Texas are split between the Conservatives, who have backed Gov. Allan Shivers, an Eisenhower supporter, and the Liberal-Loyalists, who supported Stevenson for president in 1952 and expect to do so again without qualifications.

On Monday, the executive committee certified Daniel a 3,171 vote winner over Yarborough in the Aug. 25 runoff primary in which some 1.4-million votes were cast. It was the closest gubernatorial primary in Texas history.

Harris county (Houston), with 270 votes—the largest block of delegates in the state—went into the conservative column, according to the committee's decision, but the Liberal delegations were seated from Bexar (San Antonio) with 81 votes and Jefferson (Port Arthur-Beaumont) with 37 votes. Liberal elements were also seated from Wichita county (Wichita Falls) 31 votes.

The Conservative delegation from Tarrant (Fort Worth) with 96 votes, was seated and conservatives were declared the official delegates from El Paso, 34 (13) and Jim Wells (14) counties, among others.

Yarborough told the United Press he would not oppose in any way the action of the executive committee.

"I will file no protest to the certification of the executive committee. When the umpire calls the third one a strike, the batter returns to the bench."

Then he quoted from the Apostle Paul: "The past is passed. Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth into those things which are before, I press toward the mark."

Daniel issued a statement early today in which he said: "I am certainly pleased that the State Democratic Executive Committee has adopted the report of the canvassing sub-committee. I am humble and grateful to the Democrats of Texas and shall do all I can to be worthy of the confidence reposed in me."

The official canvass lowered Daniel's margin over Yarborough slightly. The Texas Election Bureau's final count gave Daniel a 2,843 vote lead, or 172 votes more than the canvassing committee's count. A total of 1,392,831 votes were tallied. Daniel received 698,001 and Yarborough 694,830.

The real battle had shaped up, all along, over the executive committee which will run the Democratic party in Texas for the next two years.

This was the reason for the hard fight over the contested delegations. The liberals, particularly, want a committee faithful to the national Democratic nominee this time instead of the pro-Shivers group that has ruled since Shivers has been in office.

Daniel is not expected to resign his Senate seat until after the Nov. 6 general elections for he may face another hard fight, this time against former Gov. W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel. Although he ran third in the primary, O'Daniel has vowed to run again as an independent or on the Constitution party ticket.

Pampan's Mother Dies

Mrs. W. M. Hawkins, mother of Mrs. Clyde M. Vanderburg, 1123 Charles, Pampa, died at 10:20 p.m. Monday in Fresno, Calif. Funeral arrangements are pending here with Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Born Aug. 4, 1881, in Douglas County, Mo., Mrs. Hawkins lived in Borger from 1928 to 1944, where her husband was a carpenter. She moved to Pampa in 1944, living with Mrs. Vanderburg until 21 months ago when she went to California to live with another daughter, Mrs. Thekla Malamthy.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Elma Vanderburg of Pampa, Mrs. Edna Hollman of Fresno, Calif., Mrs. Leona Valentine of Newark, N.J., Mrs. Alta Haddock of Fort Worth and Mrs. Malamthy of Fresno, Calif.; one son, M-Sgt. Francis Hawkins of Anchorage, Alaska; one brother, George Turnbull of Fresno, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Minnie Shockley of Fresno, Calif.; 10 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

2 Mishaps Reported

Two collisions which occurred within the city limits Monday were reported to the local police department.

The first of the two collisions was at 9:25 a.m. at the intersection of Starkweather and Foster. Mrs. Hubert Ray Lake, 721 E. Browning, driving a '50 Hudson, was in collision with Claude M. Moss, Duncan, Okla., driving a '56 Ford. Damages to the Hudson were estimated at $65 and the Ford encountered damages estimated at $200.

The second collision took place at 8:58 p.m. on Cuyler, 300 feet south of Brown. Leonard E. Flinchum, Pampa, driving a '55 Buick, was in collision with John M. Pettit, 852 S. Faulkner, driving a '52 Plymouth.

The Buick encountered damages that were estimated at $200 and the Plymouth met with damages estimated at $100.

GRACE

(Continued from Page 1) by Christian Dior. Her blonde hair was pulled back tightly in a French twist as it was on her wedding day. Her pink fur felt hat, she said, was made by a milliner in Monte Carlo. She said she has no special plans to shop for maternity clothes here, but she does hope to buy "a lot of things" for the baby.

The orderly press conference aboard ship was in sharp contrast to the hectic scene when the movie star sailed on April 4 for her Monaco wedding.

"I do think it was unfortunate that so many of the press were sent to Monaco so early," the princess said. "I'm sure that people all over the world got awfully tired of reading about us. I know I did."

The new princess did most of the talking at the news conference. When the prince was asked if his marriage had made a considerable change in his life from his bachelor days, he burst out laughing and his wife answered, "Well, I certainly hope so." Asked if he had noticed an increase in the number of tourists in his principality since his marriage, the prince drew a laugh by saying, "I think there are more tourists from Philadelphia, anyway."

June Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

FALL FASHIONS HAVE BURST into flaming reds, says the September "This Is Your Life" issue of "Seventeen" magazine, which reports a three-alarm blaze: sheaths, separates, and raincoats. Among the new red "shoestring" sheaths is a slender wool-knit jumper with a back-strapped, scooped neckline and an eyelet-iced white cotton shirt. A brilliant red bulky-knit, wool sheath is very much like an elongated sweater. One leather belt binds its waist while a miniature one binds the neckline.

INCENDIARY separates include a bold red plaid matchstick coat without sleeves or collar and a matching red plaid straight skirt. Coat and skirt are worn with a white long-sleeved silk shirt. Luxuriously soft and full is a red nylon fleece skirt, banded with three bold, black stripes. It's topped by a long-sleeved black slipover; long, fringed black scarf adds a dramatic touch.

NEAT well-matched separates will turn male heads in classes and corridors this Fall. The magazine suggests that girls forego any sloppy, shirt-tails and ill-fitting sweaters, and dress for school with well-mannered care. One trim, boy-tailored outfit featured by the magazine combines a wool flannel blazer jacket and wool tweed skirt. A pencil-gray dress with gracefully pleated skirt and high round neck, has its own boxy jacket of bright red corduroy. The desk-set's favorite, the jumper to mix and match with many blouses, comes this season with a new look: full-skirted with bodice cut in weasel style.

FOLLOW three easy steps to dance floor popularity: (1) Wear a bouffant skirt (2) Pick a snug wristline and (3) Choose a pastel hue. That's the fashion trend reflected in the issue which offers a collection of romantic dance dresses which take all three steps to ensure plenty of cut-ins. One short strapless formal is frosted with embroidery in pink and green, and draped with pink rayon taffeta, each beneath the shirred bodice. Layers and layers of misty pink tulle ruffles follow the skirt and strapless bodice of another dance dream, deep flounce of tulle foams its hem. A velvet V traces a pretty new line over bare shoulders and neck on a floating short formal in a

Carolyn Anderwald Named Bake Queen During County's HD Achievement Event

Miss Carolyn Anderwald, 17, member of the Waysides 4-H Club of White Deer, was named county baking queen Saturday in the county-wide achievement event held in the Legion VFW Hall. Her two products, muffins and cookies, will be frozen and entered in the district contest, to be held during the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo next week. Winners of second and third places were Miss Sue Evans and Miss Nancy Tate respectively, members of the McLean 4-H Club. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Anderwald of White Deer, Miss Anderwald has been active in 4-H Club work for a number of years. In 1964 she won the County baking contest and this year, she has just returned from a 4-H leadership training camp in Austin.

The home demonstration clubs of Gray County prepared educational exhibits in competition with each other. Winners were Bell Club, first place, with an exhibit showing the comparative value of a quart of milk with a number of common foods; Hopkins, second, with an exhibit on the need for lining a skirt to help hold its shape; and the Goodwill Club, third, with an exhibit showing appropriate containers for freezing foods. Fall planting of bulbs was illustrated by the Merten Club, electrical wiring by the Sunshine Club, and tailoring equipment by the Worth-while Club.

Low Pressure Hits The Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A low pressure area of squalls drifted slowly westward in the lower Gulf of Mexico today, raising a danger of possible high tides along the Texas and Mexican coasts.

The weather bureau planned to send a reconnaissance plane into the big disturbance this afternoon to check for signs of development into a full-scale tropical storm.

The weather bureau said in a 4 a.m. est bulletin that the low pressure area carried winds which ranged locally from 30 to 40 miles an hour with scattered squalls.

Rough seas and tides from two to four feet were expected along the lower Texas coast and small craft from Corpus Christi, Tex., southward, were warned to remain in port.

The low pressure area was centered about 300 miles southeast of Brownsville, Tex., and was moving westward about five miles an hour. The weather bureau described its center as "vague and ill defined."

Icee propionate molding material introduced in 1955, which has taken a big share of the molded pen and pencil business and looks promising for telephone sets and numerous other applications. Good acceptance also has been achieved by polyvinyl acetate emulsions, used in making water-base latex paints for interior and exterior surfaces, to an extent that plans are being considered to expand PVC production to meet demand.

Increased demand for acetate sheeting prompted expansion of sheet-casting facilities in the Belvidere, New Jersey, plant to nearly double production capacity. By early 1957, a new plant in Houston will start producing Fortiflex, a polyolefin with unusual rigidity, heat resistance, chemical inertness and other property advantages over conventional polyethylenes. Sizeable markets for the resin are foreseen in such end-uses as bottles and containers, piping, housewares, electrical appliances, packaging and industrial products.

Foreign Operations—Celanese Mexicana, S.A., has grown from a one-plant venture in 1946 to a diversified five-plant operation with assets of 325 million pesos ($42,000,000). The first Mexican-made nylon has just come into production in the Ocotlan plant. Other products made by Celanese Mexicana include acetate and rayon filament yarn and staple fiber, rayon tire cord and tire Zord fabric, purified cellulose from cotton linters, cellophane, polyvinyl acetate emulsions and lubricated polyester products. The company also carries on product and market development work through pilot facilities.

Celanese Colombiana, S.A., likewise has achieved commercial success, having quadrupled production since 1951, and now produces acetate yarn and staple fiber, fabricates polyester resin products and supplies polyvinyl acetate emulsions to the paint industry. Celanese Venezolana, S.A., has not yet matched progress of the Mexican and Colombian companies, since it is operating in a hard currency country where sizeable textile imports have caused severe market fluctuations.

Canadian Chemical and Cellulose Company Ltd., has excellent growth prospects. The mill at Prince Rupert, B.C., originally a producer only of high alpha cellulose for processing into cellulose acetate, has been redesigned so it also can produce paper pulps and dissolving pulps for rayon manufacture. Mill capacity is expected to be expanded to nearly 800 tons of pulp per day. Canadian Chemical and Cellulose, which also produces and sells chemicals and acetate filament yarn and staple fiber, recently reported $19,636,660 in sales for the first half of 1956. This compares with sales of $18,172,529 during the comparable six months last year.

Quiet Night For Pampa

Law enforcement agencies of Pampa reported a quiet night Monday with only three drunk arrests being made by the police department.

The fire department reported that they did not receive an alarm from 6:05 p.m. Sunday until late this morning.

The sheriff's department reported that action by their department continued to be light with hot check cases taking most of their time.

adopted the report of the credentials sub-committee.

The Democrats of Texas are split between the Conservatives, who have backed Gov. Allan Shivers, an Eisenhower supporter, and the Liberal-Loyalists, who supported Stevenson for president in 1952 and expect to do so again without qualifications.

On Monday, the executive committee certified Daniel a 3,171 vote winner over Yarborough in the Aug. 25 runoff primary in which some 1.4-million votes were cast. It was the closest gubernatorial primary in Texas history.

Harris county (Houston), with 70 votes—the largest block of delegates in the state—went into the conservative column, according to the committee's decision, but the Liberal delegations were seated from Bexar (San Antonio) with 61 votes and Jefferson (Fort Arthur-Beaumont) with 57 votes. Liberal elements were also seated from Wichita county (Wichita Falls) 31 votes.

The Conservative delegation from Tarrant (Fort Worth) with 96 votes, was seated and conservatives were declared the official delegates from El Paso, 33 (13) and Jim Wells (14) counties, among others.

Yarborough told the United Press he would not oppose in any way the action of the executive committee.

"I will file no protest to the certification of the executive committee. When the umpire calls the third one a strike, the batter returns to the bench."

Then he quoted from the Apostle Paul: "The past is passed. Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth into those things which are before, I press toward the mark."

Daniel issued a statement early today in which he said: "I am certainly pleased that the State Democratic Executive Committee has adopted the report of the canvassing sub-committee. I am humble and grateful to the Democrats of Texas and shall do all I can to be worthy of the confidence reposed in me."

The official canvass lowered Daniel's margin over Yarborough slightly. The Texas Election Bureau's final count gave Daniel a 3,243 vote lead, or 172 votes more than the canvassing committee's count. A total of 1,392,831 votes were tallied. Daniel received 598,001 and Yarborough 694,830.

The real battle had shaped up, all along, over the executive committee which will run the Democratic party in Texas for the next two years.

This was the reason for the hard fight over the contested delegations. The liberals, particularly, want a committee faithful to the national Democratic nominee this time instead of the pro-Shivers group that has ruled since Shivers has been in office.

Daniel is not expected to resign his Senate seat until after the Nov. 8 general elections for he may face another hard fight, this time against Governor Gov. W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel. Although he ran third in the primary, O'Daniel has vowed to run again as an independent or on the Constitution party ticket.

2 Mishaps Reported

Two collisions which occurred within the city limits Monday were reported to the local police department.

The first of the two collisions was at 9:25 a.m. at the intersection of Starkweather and Foster. Mrs. Hubert Ray Lake, 721 E. Browning, driving a '50 Hudson, was in collision with Claude M. Moss, Duncan, Okla., driving a '56 Ford. Damages to the Hudson were estimated at $65 and the Ford encountered damages estimated at $200.

The second collision took place at 8:38 p.m. on Cuyler, 300 feet south of Brown. Leonard E. Flinchum, Pampa, driving a '55 Buick, was in collision with John M. Pettit, 852 S. Faulkner, driving a '52 Plymouth.

The Buick encountered damages that were estimated at $300 and the Plymouth with damages estimated at $100.

by Christian Dior. Her blonde hair was pulled back lightly in a French twist as it was on her wedding day. Her pink fur fell hat, she said, was made by a milliner in Monte Carlo. She said she has no special plans to shop for maternity clothes here, but she does hope to buy "a lot of things" for the baby.

The orderly press conference aboard ship was in sharp contrast to the hectic scene when the movie star sailed on April 4 for her Monaco wedding.

"I do think it was unfortunate that so many of the press were sent to Monaco so early," the princess said. "I'm sure that people all over the world got awfully tired of reading about us. I know I did."

The new princess did most of the talking at the news conference. The impeachment resolution and one enjoining Chandler from further use of troops replacing normal civil authority at Sturgis was proposed by Wright W. Waller Jr., Union County chairman of the Kentucky White Citizens Council.

Integration-by-escort has been successful only at Clinton, where early boycotts of mixed classes by white pupils gave way to a full scale back-to-school movement.

But Sturgis school authorities watched further developments in an almost total boycott of the high school by white pupils Monday.

2 Arrested On Driving Charges

Two persons were arrested over the week end by city police on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Arrested at 4:50 p.m. Saturday in the 1000 block of Ripley St. was Charles Bogie, 28, of Amarillo. There was no accident involved. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs plus three days in jail.

The other arrest occurred Sunday at 6:40 p.m. when John D. Young, 34, of 538 Crawford, was picked up by police on S. Hobart. There was no accident involved and Young pleaded not guilty. Bond was set at $500.

Not Guilty Plea Heard

Maxine Leroy Bingham of 742 E. Campbell was released on $1,000 bond after pleading not guilty to charges of aggravated assault on his wife.

Bingham was charged with aggravated assault on his wife, Emma Jean Bingham, Saturday night at Ralph's Place on the Berger Highway.

He was tried Monday afternoon at which time he entered a plea of not guilty.

Standard Of Living

Have you thought much about your standard of living lately?

Compared to that of your grandfather it probably seems that you have made quite a bit of progress.

But compared to what it could be it still isn't much.

For it is lower than you have a right to have it to the extent that you pay taxes to the state and federal government.

These taxes which lower your standard of living are taken from you in many ways, the most open of which are the income and sales taxes.

Much of the money which is taken from you; it is argued, goes to raise the standard of living of others.

And now comes Gunnar Myrdal, executive secretary of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe.

That would be reactionary. The trend is not in that direction, says Gunnar.

No, the executive secretary of the United Nations Economic Commission would raise the standard of living for Asiatic, African and European by reducing the standard in the United States.

Have you ever considered what part of your earnings you would be allowed to retain to spend on your own standard of living if you were taxed so that the wealth of you and others citizens of this nation were redistributed throughout the world?

When you pay your bills next month pause for a moment and contemplate the future this United Nations official has in mind for you.

Shall we call it slavery?

THE NATION'S PRESS

HOW BRITAIN ASKED FOR IT

The most curious point in the communique on the Suez situation cooked up at London by Secretary of State Dulles and the British and French foreign secretaries is the exaggerated care with which they indorse the right of any nation to nationalize any assets within its boundaries.

The pertinent passage reads: "They do not question the right of Egypt to enjoy and exercise all the powers of a fully sovereign and independent nation, including the generally recognized right, under appropriate conditions, to nationalize assets, not impressed with an international interest, which are subject to its political authority."

One may ask why Mr. Dulles felt obliged to subscribe to a statement of this sort, which, on its face, constitutes an invitation to any foreign nation to nationalize any American investment which may have been made within it.

First, as an internationalist, Mr. Dulles has to go along with the idea that anything done by the United Nations is somehow hallowed. And, in December, 1952, the U. N. general assembly passed a resolution attesting the right of nations to nationalize whatever they chose.

selfes hooked, as Mr. Nasser's Egyptian press agents have hastened to point out. Egypt, states its Washington embassy, has as much right to nationalize the canal as "the British government had when it decided, in the interest of national economy, to nationalize its railways, coal industry, and the Cable and Wireless company."

Indeed, there is an embarrassing parallel, for Britain, thru the acts of the Socialist government which held power from 1945 to 1951, had given prior approval to the very principle that Nasser now applies. So some fancy legal footwork was indicated, with the result that the London communique tries to draw a distinction to the effect that the canal is not in the same category with British expropriations, in that it is "impressed with an international interest."

But the Egyptians have an answer to that, too. They point out that, in article 8 of her 1954 agreement with Egypt to evacuate British troops from the canal zone, Britain recognized the canal as "an integral part of Egypt." And the British information services concede that the Suez Canal company is registered as an Egyptian company under Egyptian law. Thus, as far as legalities are concerned, Britain has put itself in a box. The partial British mobilization may just be a first clenching act to register general indignation. But, if so, Britain ought to be pretty sore at itself. Its Socialist government gave Nasser a precedent for what he has done.

Corrupted Teachers Corrupt Their Pupils

In the last issue I attempted to give evidence that Government schools corrupt the teachers and the pupils. I used so much space as to why teachers in government schools were corrupted that I did not have space to show that a government school teacher was bound to corrupt the pupil if there were no counter influence to save the pupil from becoming corrupted.

My contention was that any person who believed that man could do collectively by way of the state acts that would be wicked if done by an individual was corrupted, that the teacher was corrupted because he would not contend that he as an individual teacher would have a moral right to use aggressive force to make people help pay his salary who did not want to use his services. Yet he was corrupted into believing that the representative of the majority was not violating moral law by doing collectively what would be evil if done by him as an individual.

According to Jesus' standard of evil, the government teachers are corrupted since they will not answer questions as they would before a court about the kind of ethics they are teaching. Remember, Jesus said, "... men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For everyone that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be proved. But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God." (John 3: 19, 20, 21).

My contention was that the government teacher thus did not have an eternal standard of right and wrong, that he was therefore a law unto himself and was thus corrupted.

Means Predetermine Results

The wise and real thinkers of the ages on human problems have contended that the means used predetermine the results. Job observed, "They that plow iniquity, and sow wickedness, reap the same."

Government schools are sowing iniquity when they force people to pay for teachers and text books they believe will corrupt their children. They are sowing the wind. Here are some similar conclusions by more recent thinkers. "Him only pleasure leads, and peace attends. Him, only him, the shield of Jove defends. Whose means are fair and softness as his ends." (Wordsworth).

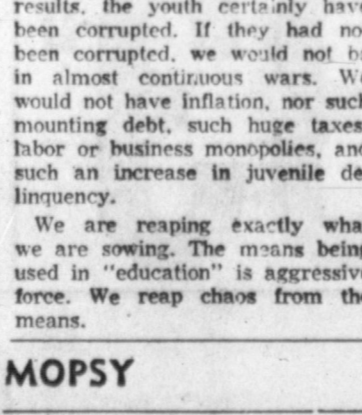

"The doing evil to avoid an evil cannot be good." (Schiller). "In labor as in life there can be no cheating. The thief steals from himself." (Emerson).

"The end directs and sanctifies the means." (Sir John Wilmot). Most of our learning comes from imitation. When the teacher has learned from corrupted teachers taking the place of God, giving men exclusive professional right to educate other people's children, he is not a good person to be associated with the youth of the land as far as moral order, moral law and moral sequence are concerned. He cannot train or educate by example the belief in the Decalogue. For this reason he has to teach a human relation based on might-makes-right or pragmatism that there are no eternal principles, no moral order, no moral law. He has to teach whatever works is right. He has to abandon all the eternal verities and the Decalogue.

If we use the pragmatic test of results, the youth certainly have been corrupted. If they had not been corrupted, we would not be in almost continuous wars. We would not have inflation, nor such mounting debt, such huge taxes, labor or business monopolies, and such an increase in juvenile delinquency.

We are reaping exactly what we are sowing. The means being used in "education" is aggressive force. We reap chaos from the means.

Joe Curran Was A Willing Stooge

SAN FRANCISCO — There is not the slightest doubt that Joe Curran, now sitting on the Committee on Ethics of the AFL-CIO, was a knowing and willing accomplice and stooge of the Communist Party throughout the war.

On the other hand, Harry Lundberg, president of the Seafarers' International Union of the AFL, has been an exuberant, bellicose Red-baiter for many years. He despises Curran and he never tires of taunting him with his meagre record as a seafaring man and his habitual absence from those anti-Communist riots which Lundberg's men call beefs. Curran never took part in the rough-house on either side of the Communist issue when the AFL merged with the CIO.

Lundberg had the painful alternative of pulling out of the great job-trust and going it alone, like the United Mine Workers, or submitting to the humiliation of technical membership in the CIO under Walter Reuther and in technical fraternity with Curran. The political penalty for secession was so great that Lundberg stayed in the AFL but he still hates the CIO and speaks only with loathing of Curran and Reuther.

He has contempt for George Meany for many reasons, but he grimly recalls that when he and his white caps went inland to capture the fruit and vegetable pickers and packing-house workers from Harry Bridges and hand them over to Dave Beck for the team-sterve of pulling out of the team-sterve. Meany did not show up for the bloodshed. Meany had begged Lundberg to drive Bridges back to the docks.

"He is just another of those lousy labor statesmen," Lundberg said. "The bum puts Curran on the Ethical Committee so he can hand the New York waterfront over to Bridges, and yet they keep talking about keeping the Communists off the docks."

Throughout those years, I too kept a close watch on Curran. The bum, as Lundberg calls him, once threw a picket line around the New York World-Telegram and uptown office of Scripps - Howard because they published disclosures of Curran's collusion with the Reds. I walked through them several times. There was not a sailor in either mob. They were typical Union Square riff-raff sent up from the Daily Worker. I had learned to spot that kind in the Newspaper Guild whose meetings were crawling with them. I pointed out that Curran was screaming that we were terribly short of salmon to deliver the stuff to Soviet Russia, but could spare enough pickets to man a whole flotilla. At that the bum called in his riff-raff.

Throughout those years a captive member of Curran's Soviet front, a sailor in good standing attended the meetings every week. I got not only the authorized minutes but supplementary personal report of matters censored from the record. And, of course, I was collecting a file of Curran's official

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D. "Why do a person's feet perspire summer and winter?" Mrs. T. asks. "Please explain why a person will perspire excessively even in cold weather," J. R. inquires.

"Please help me with my problem," pleads Miss M. O. "Ever since I can remember I have perspired a lot. I try not to, but I can't help it."

It is easy to see how having a wet skin all the time would be a nagging annoyance. M. O. hit the nail on the head when she said she "tried" not to perspire but it happened just the same. The reason is that the sweat glands lying in the skin cannot be controlled by the brain.

The amount of sweat which they empty out is regulated by the sympathetic and parasympathetic nervous system which act independently of the mental processes.

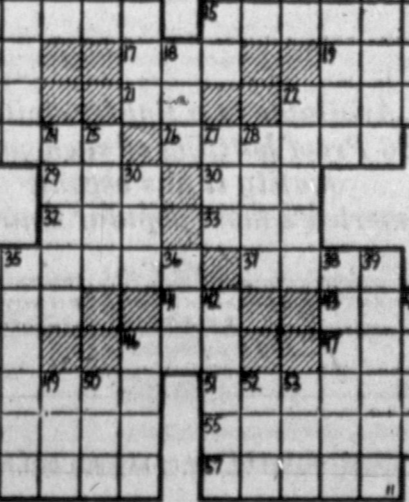

Blushing is another phenomenon which most of us have also discovered cannot be consciously controlled. WHY SOME PEOPLE are troubled with excessive perspiration and others are not is hard to say.

Occasionally abnormal sweating is the result of carrying too much fat, a toxic goiter, incomplete recovery from a serious illness, or some other easily identified physical cause.

But often it exists alone and in people who are perfectly healthy. In such cases the finger of suspicion points at the nervous element and perhaps this is partly inborn rather than anything acquired.

Some victims of excessive perspiration, for example, also show other nervous signs such as tendency to easy blushing, a spastic colon, or just being "high strung."

IF A PHYSICAL cause cannot be found, as is usually the case, to account for the difficulty, what can be done? Anything which acts favorably on the sympathetic nervous system including appropriate exer-

Eisenhower Steals Demo's Thunder

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's "liberalization" of the once conservative Republican Party confronts the Stevenson-Kefauver forces with an enormously difficult problem. He has stolen their Roosevelt-Truman thunder on many social and economic fronts, although he required the help of Democratic legislators on Capitol Hill.

However, the fact that he needed and welcomed aid from the opposition in putting over his legislative program should not advantage his opponents in the campaign. Their argument that he got more support from Democrats than from his own leaders — Senate Minority Leader of California and Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, in particular — enhances instead of detracting from the President's leadership and proposals.

In making this argument, as they did on the floor of Congress and at their recent convention, the Democrats may be committing hari-kari. They can hardly criticize Ike's general philosophy of when, simultaneously, they claim credit for supporting him on Capitol Hill, and accuse GOP members of deserting him.

Ike has only to ask, and he will do so when he takes to the radio and television hustings: "If my legislative recommendations for meeting domestic and foreign problems were not good, as Governor Stevenson and Senator Kefauver maintain, why do you take credit for enacting them into law? You can't have it both ways."

Ike does not need four more years in the White House to "liberalize" the Grand Old Party. He has already moved it slightly to the left of dead center, which grieves many ultra-conservatives of the Old Guard. He needs four more years only to make his reforms become permanent, and not merely a passing and expedient political fancy.

In almost every field, he has outmaneuvered the Democrats. He has amplified the Roosevelt-Truman program of foreign aid and alliances. Within his province — the Federal Government — he has advanced the cause of Civil Rights far beyond his predecessors' accomplishments. His appointment as Chief Justice, Earl Warren, handed down the decision for school desegregation.

With several queer quirks and political handling of the 1954 Agricultural Act, Ike and Secretary Benson have matched Democratic generosity to farmers. With an assist from the Democrats, Eisenhower approved an increase of the hourly minimum wage to $1. He approved broadening of the Social Security Act in a way that will benefit thousands of 62-year-old women and 50-year-old disabled workers.

Almost everyone of these economic and social changes were opposed by the Republican Presidential candidates of the last 30 years — Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, Landon, Wilkie, and, although he was more sympathetic to them than his associates, by Thomas E. Dewey.

Under a conservative President, and if they did not need him so badly at the head of their national ticket, a majority of the Republicans in the House and Senate would have voted against all of these Eisenhower-Roosevelt-Truman innovations — a "political heresy."

If re-elected, Ike's only task will be to keep the GOP from slipping back to McKinley-Harding-Coolidge-Hoover days. If he can do that, he thinks that a refurbished Republican Party can remain in power for another 20 years.

The American Way

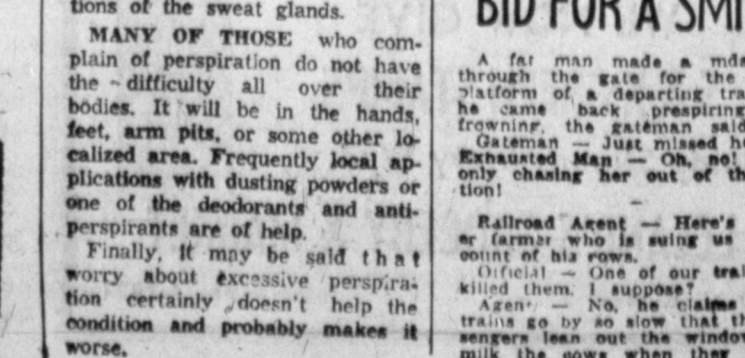

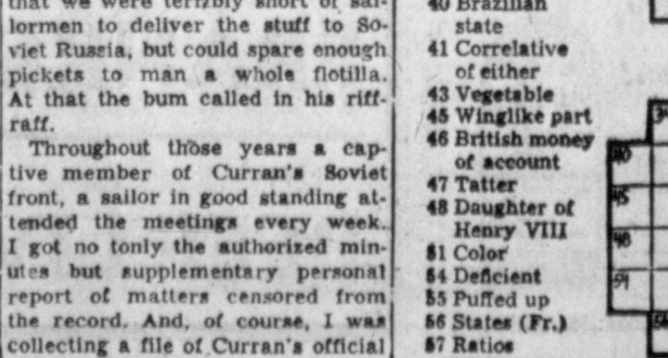

THE DEMOCRATIC-REPUBLICAN NEW DEAL. By JOHN T. FLYNN. A national political campaign again opens before us. We witness the battle for the nominations in crowded conventions. There is debate over the platform, nomination speeches, wild demonstrations and finally, two great warriors appear before us as candidates for the presidency. However, no matter what the orators pronounce, or what the platform says, or who the successful candidate is, there will be no real or fundamental difference between them. There will be one big, overmastering issue: the candidate and which party will for the next four years administer the New Deal?

In another sense, it will be a contest to determine which party will have in its hands the fantastic billions which politicians now do business.

Let there be no obtusation about what the New Deal means. In its inception it was merely a label used by Franklin D. Roosevelt to sell his party to the people. Its obvious objective was to promote a set of laws and policies which were expected to revive the capitalist system so badly damaged by the crash. Mr. Roosevelt had denounced President Hoover as a reckless spender. But having launched a program of spending billions for "recovery," the politicians — of both parties — began to see with expanding delight the immense political possibilities of government taxing, borrowing, and spending.

Our national politicians could never buy very many votes with a couple of billion dollars in taxes. But when Roosevelt and the Democrats began spending six and eight and ten and then more and more billions, they discovered that they could buy votes in immense groups — not with just pitiful little handfuls to individuals, but with billions for this and billions for that, all going to various large minorities. Then, for the first time in our history, a president was enabled to stay in power for four successive terms.

For quite a while the muddled Republicans grumbled and muttered against all this spending. But presently first one and then another Republican "statesman" began to perceive the tremendous value of this taxing, borrowing and spending. Whether it was on peace or war, these grotesque

Heard Through The Barryl

By BARRY A. LITTMANN
Pampa News Sports Editor

We might as well get it over with today. Late last night, in the wee small hours, we unwrapped the old Crystal Ball and took a good look. We'll admit that this is a dangerous way to begin, but we'll get all the "Oh, my goodness, how could you pick TCU over A&M" stuff over with this week. No use waiting until the season is over, 'cause if the Ball should happen to be right, who'd believe us??? Without further comment, we go forward, ... blindly.

There is no doubt that the Southwest Conference is full of surprises. That was proven last YEAR. Rice, an almost prohibitive choice to win SWC laurels, finished dead last. Didn't win a conference game. The Texas Aggies, selected by "experts" far and wide to find a home in the cellar, finished second, even having the nerve to upset TCU 19-14 for the Christmas-only conference loss. Baylor with a new head coach, Sam Boyd, may have the unity to go along with the material and slip in ahead of either TCU or the Aggies. And so on down the line it goes. Texas U. bears watching. Arkansas, under Jack Mitchell, might upset the Aggies. Rice has to be better than last year's debacle. SMU might hurt, but don't count on it.

We gotta go with Texas Christian. They've got their great All-American halfback Jim Swank around for another year, a great center in the person of Jim Williams and Don Cooper, a Perryton lad, who will be in the running for A-A honors, a tackle, Stuey. They've got some big horses in their backfield too; Chuckin' Charles Curtis, Ken Wineberg, Jimmy Shofner and Vern Halbeck, to name a few. This team was second to Oklahoma in rushing last year with a 283.7 yards per game average. All their first-string linemen are veterans too. If, and what an if, Charlie Curtis can stay in one piece, and there are no other key injuries, TCU should cop the duke again.

Just because we select A & M for second, don't think they can't finish first. They sure can. Paul Bryant is a smart coach, recruits well; too well as a matter of fact. A couple of years ago the Aggies paid a stiff penalty for the nonsense — probation and a bowl ban. This year, they're all friends again, and things could happen. So cast a wary eye toward Agland. The only guy that's absolutely sure of being in the starting lineup opening day is full back Jack Parsons. He averaged better than five yards a carry last fall. John Crow, a much-esteemed halfback, should be at halfback if he can stay off the injured list. Quarterback is anyone's guess, and center is Reddy Osborne, who lettered at halfback last year. Bryant will switch nose around in his backfield, Jimmy Wright, last year's quarterback, is also in contention. The line has somewhat more depth than it did last year, although Bryant may not have the overall experience to emerge at the top of the Leap. That's why we must string along with TCU.

With George Bauer stepping up (or is it really down) to Athletic Director, and assistant Sam Boyd at the helm for the first time, things could look up for the Bears this year. Last year, they were hit hard with injuries and violations. The time is drawing near, said some wise old owl, and before too many days go by, the Men of Lockett will have their first game under their belt. Friday night they open up their season with Austin Hi Mustangs of El Paso. After Saturday's good workout with the Perryton Rangers, spirits are high in the Harvester camp. The defense looks fine, and the offense, although it didn't show much lustre Saturday night, is gradually rounding into shape. Coach Lockett singled out both his first and second units of the line for praise. They've worked hard, gotten into shape and are ready to "pop the leather" for real Friday night. The backfield, working diligently this week to learn the different plays and patterns, should be flashy and fast, if not deep. Most of the halfbacks can carry the mail well, and a surprise or two should be in store for some of the Harvester opponents before too long. The Quarterback Club, long-time boosters of the Harvesters have been attending the practices with regularity. Not all of the members, of course, but every day a few of the men come out and watch the festivities. The Club may be one of the reasons that the Harvesters will be successful this year. With men such as president Warren Fatheree devoting much of their spare time to the boosting of the local high school, the players will extend themselves as a token of appreciation for the fine work being done in their behalf.

And, don't worry, after we get well enough from the abuse to venture into the unknown again, we'll see what the Ball prophesies on a national scale. Until then, the line forms to the right.

Harvesters Work Hard; Open Friday Night

The time is drawing near, said some wise old owl, and before too many days go by, the Men of Lockett will have their first game under their belt. Friday night they open up their season with Austin Hi Mustangs of El Paso.

After Saturday's good workout with the Perryton Rangers, spirits are high in the Harvester camp. The defense looks fine, and the offense, although it didn't show much lustre Saturday night, is gradually rounding into shape.

Coach Lockett singled out both his first and second units of the line for praise. They've worked hard, gotten into shape and are ready to "pop the leather" for real Friday night. The backfield, working diligently this week to learn the different plays and patterns, should be flashy and fast, if not deep.

Phelps and Newman Win At Sportsman Club

Don't think that all was peace and quiet last night at the Sportsman Club. It wasn't. All three events had the customers on their feet, alternately screaming for one of the combatants' Mood, or the referee.

In the first event of the evening, Dixie Davis, that 220 pound lad from Houston took on Shoulders Newman in a 20 minute time limit match. Before most of the customers could get settled, Old Dix with his trusty Back Breaker, pinned Newman in 11 minutes flat. The semi-final match saw Rocky Meyers and Ricki Starr, ballet shoes and all, hook up in ding-donger. Starr, rough and ready, one the first fall at 15:24 with a leg to neck press and won the second fall in 1:05 with a fierce arm twist. No one liked the fact that Ricki Starr won the match, not even referee John Tollas. So, at the conclusion, both men, Bonny

NUMBER 54 — Len Tucker is shown going past the Oiler "receiving line" after hitting a circuit clout in the fourth inning last night. Johnny Bruzga stands by waiting to bat and El Paso catcher Warren watches to make sure Tucker touches home.

Oilers Lose Third Game; One More Chance Tonight

Tonight will be "back-to-the-wall-night" for the Pampa Oilers. They pushed themselves into that position by virtue of an 8-3 defeat tacked on them last night by the El Paso Texans. It was the third win in a row for the high-flying Texans who will be looking to wrap up the series tonight.

Pampa had a chance to win the ball game. As a matter of fact, they had two or three chances to win the game. Or least, knock out the Oilers. Or least, knock out the Oilers. Or least, knock out the Oilers.

At College Station, coach Paul Bryant was far from satisfied with an hour-long scrimmage by his Texas Aggies and commented: "We still haven't looked like a football team, and the worst thing of all—we seem to be satisfied. We haven't had any fire or zip since we started practice and if we don't pick up in a hurry we'll get lamed by Villanova (in the week opener, Sept. 22)."

Bryant said he planned to move Bobby Conrad, a former signal caller who's been running at halfback, to quarterback to try and solve the critical man-under situation caused by injuries to Roddy Osborne.

At Dallas, SMU coaches had to cool off some tempers after the players stared up at each other during what coach Woody Woodard described as "one of the hardest-hitting workouts we've ever had." Woodard was happy as a lark at the enthusiasm.

At Houston, Rice coach Jess Neely commented that the weather was nice but that the Oilers' workout was not. Neely said he was disappointed—that things did not go well.

Baylor coach Sam Boyd also was dissatisfied with his squad's progress on offense after watching movies of Saturday's two-hour scrimmage, but got some pleasure out of watching Doyle Taylor run five yards for one touchdown and hit halfback Del Shofner on a pass play that covered 80 yards for another.

The return of soph quarterback Curtis Shaw to full speed after nursing a throat infection since start of drills marked practice at Texas where coach Ed Price worked his Longhorns against plays used by Southern California. Guard Dick Lowrey was hospitalized with illness.

Texas Christian took things fairly easy again, but spent much of the afternoon session with tackling practice after devoting the morning drill to punting and punt returns.

At Houston, Rice coach Jess Neely commented that the weather was nice but that the Oilers' workout was not. Neely said he was disappointed—that things did not go well.

Chips Are Down For Brooks

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

It could be "put up or shut up" today for the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have been babbling a long time about catching Milwaukee but not doing anything concrete about it.

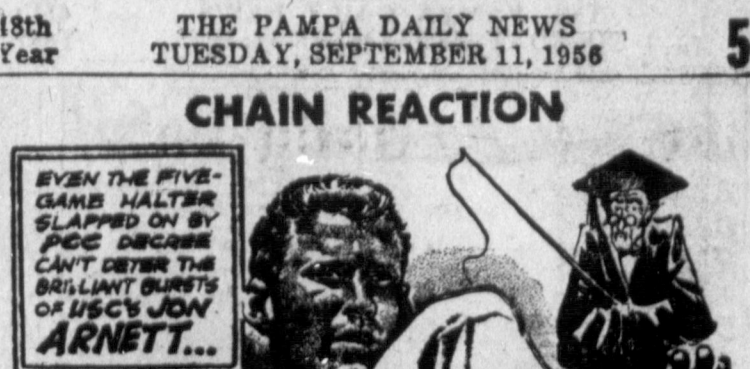

Veteran Sal Maglie, the 38-year old ex-Giant right-hander, gets the chance to pitch the Dodgers into a tie for first place today and if the Brooks can beat Milwaukee ace Bob Buhl — a trick they have failed to do in seven previous tries this year — they will own at least a share of the National League lead for the first time since last April 28.

While the Braves and Dodgers are at each other's throat in the first of a two-game series Cincinnati, in third place three games off the pace, will meet the New York Giants in the first of a two-game set.

"Naturally, I'd like to knock off Brooklyn in both games," said Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, "but I think the pressure is more on them than it is on us. We're on top and they have to catch us. A split would still leave us in first place and it would mean two less games for Brooklyn to play."

Wants 'Em All Haney, however, said the Braves weren't shooting for an even split. "We want to win 'em all now," he declared.

The little Milwaukee skipper announced that Andy Pafko, the ex-Dodger, would play left field in two games at Ebbets Field. There was also a possibility that rookie Felix Mantilla might be at shortstop in place of Johnny Logan, suffering with a slight rib injury.

It's Stanford On Coast ---Strictly For Talent

(Third of a series.)
By LYNN O. WALDORF
Head Coach, California
BERKELEY, Calif. — (NEA) — Stanford is a solid choice to win the Pacific Coast Conference championship in 1956.

And I would like to straighten out a misconception that the Indians rate that accolade only because of the PCC penalties imposed upon UCLA, Southern California and Washington.

Even before the eligibility action of the conference fathers, you would have had to say Stanford was at least a co-favorite to appear in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Coach Chuck Taylor — and believe me, Chuck, it's not my intention to put you on the spot — has a passer of All-American contention in John Brodie, and a tackle who has already attained that reputation in Paul Wiggins. I watched them run by often enough in our Big Game last year to know that Stanford has the type of backs (Paul Camera and Gordy Young) and pass-catching ends (Jerry Beattie and Gary Van Gaidler) to blend into a balanced attack.

For his new regime at Washington, Darrell Royal has two of the best in tackle Dick Day and fullback Credell Green. To run the Oklahoma split that's being installed, the Huskies plan to spring one of the likeliest sophomores on the coast, Luther Carr.

Oregon State, a surprising second.

and in our sector last season, has another good team coming up, but the Harvesters will no longer have the advantage of catching any opponents by surprise. John White rates among the best tackles in the land. The single wing style of attack is in the hands of Joe Francis at tailback and Sam Wesley, a tiny wingback, both regulars in 1955.

Oregon, which closed fast a year ago, could be a revelation if the Ducks iron out some problems of depth in the line. An excellent attacking crew is led by Jim Shanley at halfback and Jack Morris at fullback.

My own squad at California should be improved. Several players lost to us in 1955 because of injuries are again available, including fullback Jerry Drew, a fine and fast runner. Ron Wheatcroft will resume his normal position after a sophomore debut at tackle.

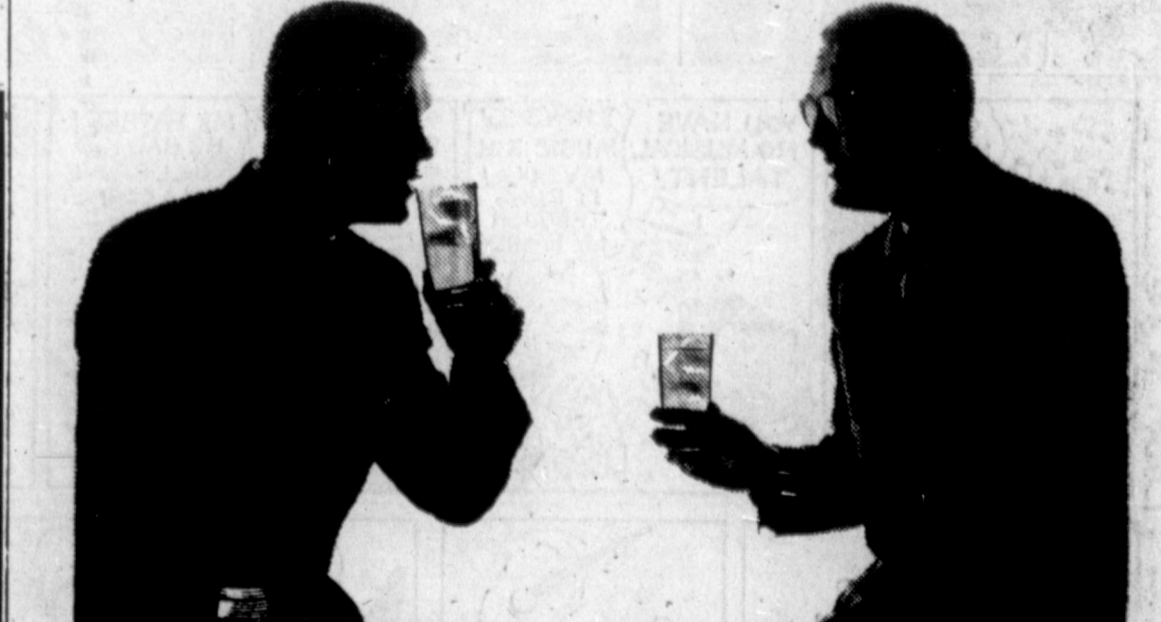

Washington State is something of an unknown, since new coach Jim Sutherland will introduce many new players. Idaho has one of Skip Stanley's better squads, including Jerry Kramer, a 230-pound guard, but the Vandals are plagued as always by lack of depth.

The independents on the coast are led again by College of the Pacific and San Jose State. This is the year COP brings out the heralded Dick Bass, a breakout sophomore back. San Jose features Mel Powell and tackle Jim Hughes.

NEXT: Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State analyzes the midwest.

For over 100 years, people have been discovering something "new" in old Kentucky . . . a different bourbon remarkably free of bite.

It has the best features of sweet and sour-mash bourbon. It's a step better—mellow-mash, the exclusive Yellowstone way of achieving full-bourbon flavor with light body.

Miss America Beats Press To The Punch In Interview

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP) — The new Miss America, blonde Marian Ann McKnight of South Carolina, beat the "smart guys" to the draw in her first meeting with the press corps.

She came up a winner although she won none of the honors in the preliminary judging during a hectic week of the Miss A pageant. The pretty queen from Manning, S.C., opened up her own conference before the reporters had a chance to wag a tongue.

The five-foot five-inch beauty handled herself so well during her first news conference that she (Advertisement)

"I'm still numb," she said. "When Leonore Slaughter pinned the Miss America ribbon on me, she stuck me right hard. I was numb, I guess and I didn't even feel it."

places like London, Rome, Paris, and Sicily. The tour is expected to net her at least $50,000. Her year-long reign as Miss America of 1957 includes a ban on marriage.

Marian (35-23-35), is in love, of course, as most teenagers are. The lucky guy is Johnny Gamling, a first lieutenant in the Air Force stationed at Shaw Air Force Base, Columbia, S.C.

Boyfriend Calls
Johnny called Marian after she won Saturday night and said: "When will I get to see you, darling."
