To the north Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army built up a solid 75-mile assault line and drove forward from its Meuse bridgeheads in a wave similarly directed against the Germans' last defenses protecting the homeland. From south of th Belgian city of Leuven (Louvain) to just south of Sedan, France, the First army was probing into the Adrennes forest along a route taken by the invading Germans in 1940 and toward one of the weaker links of the Siegfried line. The British Second army of Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey, operating under a cloak of silence since seizing Antwerp and pene-trating into the Netherlands, was reported moving up to the Albert canal just south of the Belgian border. There it was said to have un into the first organized resistance since jumping off from the Seine northwest of Paris.

The Germans declared they had eliminated a bridgehead across the Albert canal just north of Antwerp and they evidently were attempting to make a stand along that man-made barrier with its steep walls.

Patton's forces, too, in their push on a 50-mile front toward the German border from Luxembourg to Nancy, were meeting desperate resistance by Germans who had had time to get their breath while Patton reorganized his supply service. fly but the need up there was desperate and we knew it. So we went out. Our target was a point 1,000 yards from a small town. There were a lot of Jerries at that point, but we of course couldn't see them. Our problem was to hit the pinpoint.

"Flak was intense and accurate; the lead plane was forced to turn back and make an emergency landing. That complicated matters because I was now the lead bombardler-and for the first time. I was sick enough without that.

"But we did the job. Afterward we were given a large share of the credit for saving the whole show at Angio. After it was all over I discovered that while we were on the bomb run a piece of flak had gone right between my legs, ripping my flying suit on both sides. At the time I was too worried about releasing our mbs to notice the flak."

On another raid far into enemy territory, Lt. Van Sicnose guns, Nap and Nee, named for his home town. brought down a Me. 109 in a fight that lasted 80 minutes. When either firm, through its research work, found a cheaper way of making that metal, it passed the knowledge on to the other firm.

If either firm had been faced by stiff competition, it would have had to try to improve the quality of its metal. But this wasn't necessary any more.

Gradually, the German firm ac quired a financial interest in the American firm and thus obtained voice in its operations.

It so happened that the metal made by the American firm was used in tanks, planes and battleships. By its financial interest in the American firm, the German firm was able to know exactly the amount and quality of American armament.

Has your Regular Brand recently been tasting FLAT or BITTER?

Has it suddenly become an altogether "different" coffee, flavorless, insipid, and sometimes even acid? If it has, then your experience is like thousands of other housewives. And these, we might add, are switching overnight to Admiration. Many roasters have cheapened their blends with inferior grade coffees to "save" on ceiling prices. This has brought about changes in flavor, richness, and freshness. In most cases it has changed up the whole blend. Inferior coffees produce a bitter, acid-tasting cup unlike anything you've been accustomed to drinking. No wonder you don't like it!

Admiration Is Absolutely Unchanged

The same identical expensive coffees are used today in Admiration as were used 25 years ago. It costs us more to keep Admiration quality at its customary high level. But that's our worry and expense. The loyalty of Admiration's great family, of users is more important than immediate profits. No matter where you buy it or when, Admiration's rich, inviting flavor, its unique freshness and strength, its room-pervading aroma are found in every package. Buy a pound today and test this out for yourself.

This year, the presidential con-ention was held in Austin May 23; the governor's convention will be in Dallas Sept. 12.

Both conventions build up from the "grassroots": precinct conventions. Voters meet in their precincts, name delegates to county conventions; the county conventions select delegates to the state

August Helped Drouth Along

September showers may have eased the drouth pains but August certainly didn't contribute anything to the breaking of a tenacious cycle.

Records from Vernon W. Schaad. meteorologist in charge of the US department of commerce weather bureau at the airport, show that August cooked up an average mean maximum of 94.5 degrees with a top of 108 degrees. All the while only .83 of an inch of moisture fell and this was spread over 12 days.

Fortunately, nights were generally cool with a mean minimum of 71.2 and no night hotter than 77 degrees and one as low as 56 degrees. One fog was recorded in the midst of this odd pattern of weather which also drummed up seven thunderstorms.

Ten days brought weather of at the outset being a continuation of a record heat wave which had its inception late in July.

An Idea Worth Checking

phy, coordinator of the diversified occupations class operated through the local schools, has given food for considerable thought.

His belief that new emphasis will be given to vocational education after the war is a point in which we concur, for indeed we have believed for a long time that this trend was unmistakable. This is not in disparity of academic education. It is a natural outgrowth of our times.

Further indication of this trend is in the avowed plan of the federal government to operate through state educational departments in the establishment of area vocational schools for returning veterans. This is definitely in the air and the picture is shaping up fairly well in the minds of Texas educational authorities.

Big Spring should be alert to possibilities in this field. The district has its pressing financial problems, of course, but here is a program that might be instituted without creating too heavy a financial load. It might be that a vocational unit might be set up within the school system itself. It might be that we could, by proper surveys, get the jump on other communities and succeed in attracting one of these area vocational schools.

If the latter possibility could be achieved, we see in it a golden opportunity to get what a large number of citizens long have wanted-a junior college. To be sure, the college idea would have to be an outgrowth, but in a good vocational school we would have the foundation upon which to proceed. If and when the veteran's program attained its major objective, its facilities might be readily utilized in a local educational program.

It is something worth looking into. The time to do it is now. The proper organization and presentation of facts might put us in a positoin to do something while others were thinking about it.

The War Today

By Dewitt Mackenzie Associated Press War Analyst

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, spokesman for the Nazi high command, is giving the German public a blunt disclosure of the reich's peril.

Dittmar even has gone to the extreme of picturing a backs-to-the-wall stand. He says his country's fate is indeed in the hands of the last reserves. Why should he be passing out such strong mustard to a public which until now has been told that Germany had the war in a sack?

We get the answer in General Eisenhower's declaration that "battles will from be fought on German soil." The Allies are massing men and armor for the assault on the reich's western frontier. The Russians have renewed their drive.

Dittmar is telling the approximate truth because the Nazi dictatorship dare not let the people come up against invasion without warning. They've been coddled along with Propaganda Minister Goebbels' lies about certain victory. Up until now the facts about German defeats have been withheld or sugarcoated.

The shock of discovering the brutal truth through an unexpected Allied invasion of the homeland would likely break morale so Dittmar is trying to bridge the huge gap between Goebbels' lies and the truth in an effort to create a spirit of

Meantime Hitler is combing the reich for every man and youth capable of carrying a rifle, and these "last reserves," as Dittmar calls them, will be thrown into the defenses of the Siegfried line in the west, and into the Oder river fortifications when the Red armies ap-

Col. Mullins Bellows, Shouts And Wheedles For Good Oil Bids

By DAVE CHEAVENS elated Press Staff

This is Col. M. M. Mullins of the oil and gas rights to about 40,000 acres of University of Texas land in 119 parcels.

"Five thousand, give me six," roars the colonel, presiding at his sixth consecutive auction. "Five thousand, give me six, sfx, six thousand give me seven, seven, who's got seven?"

This lease isn't so hot. It isn't anything like so hot as the one that Gulf Refining company just bought for 362,000, but it is fair and three bidders are interested. The tieless bald-headed man on

He waits. The bald-headed propped up on a chair. He ducks behind this map, pops out and shakes his head.

Mullins looks at the man in the grey suit. The man in the grey suit confers with his greyhaired partner. Both shake their heads. The big company buyer gets the lease, a quarter section pretty good Andrews county oil land, for $9,000.

sixteenth public auction of oil and in gas leases to University of Texas lands. It is typical, except that on this particular quarter section, Houston auctioning off leases on interest was NOT too keen. On some recent tracts, oil men with money to spend ran the bidding up to nearly a million dollars, and thousands change hands at the raising of a finger, the nod of a head, even a change of expression. At this sale, the bald-headed buyer for a major oil company, wound up his day by writing a check for more than a million dollars. Another major oil company shelled out close to a milllon, and one of the leading inindents striving for a foothold in a promising West Texas area, laid down more than $150,000 for half a dozen leases.

Since 1936, the board for lease of University lands has been offering the oil and gas rights to the public at auction. Prior to that, were disposed of by the sealed bid method.

The first such auction netted cash bonuses of $300,600-pretty small potatoes by contrast with the three million-plus that has been realized at each of the last three sales. The most recent netted $3,187,000. That brought the total from oil and gas royalties, versity's permanent fund to $46,-882,005.

The auctions, under direction of the board for lease of university lands, are conducted under provisions of law that specify the manner of advertising the leases and their terms. All leases carry gross production of oil and gas, as well as a cash rental of 50 cents per acre annually. Some specify that drilling must be commenced within a certain period of time, and be pursued diligently to a certain depth.

Any citizen with the cash in his pocket may pitch in and bid and he who pays the biggest bonus wins the lease. As a rule, the auctions are attended by approximately 100 persons, mostly representing oil companies or independent operators. Some are there in the hopes of exploring for oil, others hope to re-peddle their acquisitions.

Sometimes oil men themselves can NOT account for the way bids run, except that the spirit of competition is keen and often results

payment of unwarranted

"Sometimes," says Bascom Glies, land commissioner and member of the board for lease, "an oil man will just bow his neck and keep running up his bid to keep the other fellow from getting it. Semetimes he has good reasons of his own for wanting a particular piece of Always it's a good show, and many come for the vicarious thrill of watching the other fellow peel off millions.

Most of the bidding isn't blind. The sales are advertised months in advance, and the board for lease-made up of Giles and two members of the board of regents -prints thousands of prospectuses, locating the land. That always includes a detailed description of each separate tract. Also, prospective buyers are urged to in-spect the lands put up for sale.

The auctions are no place for an amateur, and if you bid successfully, you had better have the cash in hand or in the bank. It's a strictly business, cash-on-thebarrel head proposition, and when you buy a lease, you pay for it on the spot.

Any Crop Which Stock Eat Is Good Silage

Any crop which cattle will eat makes good silage provided it is put in the silo correctly, says E. R. Eudaly, dairy husbandman for the A. and M. College extension service.

Corn, grain sorghums and sweet sorghums are the varieties most often used for trench-stored feed, but Johnson and sudan grasses while not as good as corn and sorghums, also make excellent silage. But all of the legumes such as alfalfa, clovers, soybeans, cowpeas and peanut vines, as well as white and sweet potatoes, carrots, beets and other vegetables also are easily adapted to sileage. The same is true of the grains which will keep indefinitely and can be fed to any kind of livestock.

Grains should be dampened as they are put into the silo, and it also is best to grind the ear corn and grain sorghum heads as they in. In this form they pack and keep better, and there is less loss in feeding.

For feeding cattle it will be better to grind threshed grains-oats, wheat and barley-as they are put into the silo. For horses, hogs and poultry, however, the grain need not be ground. Although whole grains and grain sorghum heads keep well in a silo without grinding, cattle digest ground-grain better, Eudaly says. It is better to do the grinding as It goes into the silo because it is slightly damp when taken out and does not grind well. Also, each day's feeding would have to be ground since the damp grain would mold 12 to 24 hours after being exposed.

Statement has been received here from the War Food administration that reports are groundless that huge amounts of protein meal and feed grains are being shipped to other countries, causing shortages in feed supplies at home. Since the war, livestock and poultry have increased mere rapidly than production of feed and all exports of protein meal have totaled less than one-third of one per cent of the amount used at home, it was stated.

AUSTIN. Sept. 7-"Breakfast should supply everyone, young and old alike, with from onefourth to one-third of the day's food needs," says Dr. Geo. W. Cox. state health officer. "In or-der for a growing shild to get this much of his day's requirements, would materially increase meat he needs a hot substantial break production for the amount of feed fast consisting of cereals or whole grain bread, fruit or fruit juices, egg or meat, and a milk drink,"

Dr. Cox discussing the dietary needs of school children says further, "In many homes the line of least resistance is followed. The children when offered food at breakfast time may reply that they are not hungry, they do not have time, or in some instances will even say that breakfast makes them sick.

"Older children, especially girls of high school age, sometimes deliberately go without breakfast in order to keep from increasing their weight. This is both foolish and dangerous. They deprive themselves of body building material when they fall to eat nourishing food. Faulty netrition with its health hazards often results. In the young child this means that resistence to disease is lowered and the processes sfor developing and maintaining health definitely are handicapped, Whether young, middle aged, or older, a good health practice is to break your fast with a good breakfast. The day's first meal is an important one. Parents cannot escape the obligation to see that their children are fed properly at the day's beginning."

With the Pearl Harbor blow, plunging the nation into war, the tanker movement of oil was subjected immediately to the enemy submarine menace which virtually cut off coastwise tanker transportation. The load fell back on overland transportation, which meant the tank car fleets of the various oil companies. and the response was revolu-

problem has been solved. Because fuel oil, of war demands for petroleum and the necessity for the rails handling record breaking volume of other traffic, this problem, no doubt, will exist until the war has come to an end.

At the beginning of the war Cosden Petroleum Corporation owned tank cars. Since December 7, 1941, through August 31, 1944, these cars have travelled 103,-954,431 miles through 46 states of the union, the District of Colum-

> The official figures released by the Interstate Commerce Commission show that Cosden tank cars for the calendar year of 1942 travelled more miles per ear in that year than the cars of any other company in the United States operating 100 or more cars. Cosden tank car performance was compiled from a record of 123,272 tank cars owned by 46 companies. The was 52.5 per cent above the average of all of the petroleum cars in the United States. The figures for 1943 have not been completed, but Cosden cars made a better performance record in 1943 than in 1942.

This record was made possible by a number of factors. Cosden maintains its own tank car repair shops in Big Spring and at no time have more than one-half of one per cent of the fleet been held out of service because of major repairs. Excellent maintenance coordination in directing tank cars to points at which products were available, prompt loading and unloading, seven days per week, 24 hours per day, use of expeditious routes, movement of cars in trainload blocks wherever possible, cooperation of the railroads and production of products at the Big Spring refinery, in demand for the war effort plus the cooperation of the local plant with the overall represented in the Petroleum Adpolicy and directives determined ministration for War and the Ofby the Petroleum Administration fice of Defense Transportation for War and the Office of Defense conferences which determine rout-
