Britain, France Won't Recognize Egypt's Suez Grab

London, Paris Reaction Is Angry

LONDON (UP) — Britain and France refused today to recognize Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal.

Government officials in both countries met in emergency sessions to map counter-action against the sudden Egyptian move.

Egypt promptly declared that it will allow no international body to question its seizure of the canal. Egypt's commerce minister Abou Nousseir said in Cairo: "No international organization is entitled to take up Egypt's nationalization of the Suez Canal company which, by law, is purely an Egyptian company."

Reaction in London and Paris was angry against Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's announcement of the seizure in a speech in Alexandria Thursday night.

Retaliation Move
The Egyptian move was clearly made as retaliation against the Western withdrawal of offers to help finance building of the $1.3 billion Aswan high dam to harness the Nile.

Parliament was furious and there were demands that the government meet "force with force." Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden condemned Nasser's "nationalization" of the Suez Canal as "arbitrary." But he withheld consultations with the United States, France and the nations of the British Commonwealth.

In Paris, French Premier Guy Mollet summoned an emergency cabinet meeting. At its end, French Foreign Minister Christian Pinchaux told newsmen: "The French government absolutely could not accept the unilateral measure decided by Colonel Nasser. The nationalization of the Suez Canal considerably harms the rights and interests of Frenchmen."

In Washington, State Department officials declined to comment until they could make a more detailed study. But it was evident they were taken by surprise.

At Port Said, at the Mediterranean entrance to the canal, Suez Canal company employees went to work normally. There were no changes in routine and ships navigated the vital east-west waterway without interruption. The only new feature in the situation was the presence of steel-helmeted policemen surrounding the company offices.

Nasser declared the nationalization of the vital 101-mile canal in a brilliant anti-Western speech to cheering thousands in Alexandria Thursday.

"The Suez Canal belongs to Egypt," Nasser said. He said the revenue from the canal would be used to finance the multi-million dollar Aswan High Dam project on the Nile.

Armed police immediately moved in to take over the Cairo headquarters of the Suez Canal Company, which has operated the lifeline between East and West since it was opened in 1869. Company offices and properties in Ismailia and Suez also were taken over. Naval units already were in position at both ends of the canal.

The Suez Canal Company is a nationally private company with headquarters in Paris. The British government, however, is the biggest stockholder.

Candidate's Charge Brings Tempest in State Senator Race

A charge by Lonnie Smith of Amarillo, candidate for State Senator, that incumbent Senator Grady Hazlewood, also of Amarillo, was using a Boys' Ranch stamp machine to mail out his campaign literature free of cost, caused a small tempest in the race today.

Hazlewood, contacted by Bill Johns, news director of KDA-TV, the station over which Smith made his charge via paid political broadcast, said the charge was too absurd to answer. Hazlewood contacted Cal Farley, founder of Boys' Ranch, in Colorado, Johns said, and Farley stated that the stamp machine is available at Boys' Ranch for the purpose of acquiring funds for the organization. Johns said that whoever used the machine was expected to make a contribution to the Ranch, and pay for the cost of the mailing.

In Court Martial Defense Calls For General

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (UP)—

Defense counsel Emile Zola Berman today requested the Marine Corps to produce famed Lt. Gen. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller, outspoken advocate of tough training methods, as a witness for Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon.

Berman requested that an order be issued for the production of the retired fighting veteran who won the distinguished service cross and five Navy crosses for heroism in action in Korea, four World War II campaigns and expeditionary service in China, Nicaragua and Haiti.

Before leaving on another mysterious "mission" in connection with the McKeon courtmartial, Berman said he wanted Puller here "around the middle of next week" as a defense witness.

"We consider him an authority on Marine training methods, that's all," Berman said.

The defense attorney left on his "mission" amid speculation that he also might be trying to arrange for Gen. Randolph M. Pate, Marine Corps commandant, to be a defense witness in the trial of the 31-year-old sergeant who led a platoon on a training "death march" in which six recruits drowned.

Crippled Swedish Liner Limpers Back Into Port

Survivors Of Sunk Ship Aboard

By JEROME BRAZDA

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — UP — The crippled Swedish liner Stockholm limped back to port today with the last group of 556 survivors of the sunken Italian sea queen Andrea Doria.

The 11,000-ton vessel, her bow peeled back like a sardine can from her collision with the Andrea Doria, turned into her pier 97 berth on the North River shortly before 10 a.m. c.s.t.

The arrivals aboard the Stockholm brought to 1,698 the number of known survivors of the 1,706 passengers and crewmen aboard the $29 million Italian luxury liner which was rammed by the Swedish vessel off the Massachusetts coast Wednesday night. The Andrea Doria sank Thursday morning.

Texans Go To Polls Tomorrow

By PRESTON MCGRAW

United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS (UP)— Texas voters will choose a new governor Saturday from six Democratic candidates, all crying for a cleanup in the statehouse.

The election is a Democratic primary. But in state races in Texas the Democrats have it all to themselves. The vote in the November general election is strictly for the record.

Democrats also will vote in nine congressional races and seven other state races. There are three referendum questions on the ballot brought about by the hot de-segregation issue.

These questions ask for "yes" or "no" answers on (1) mixing white and Negro children in public schools; (2) intermarriage between whites and Negroes, and (3) interposition.

Less Interest Seen
There are already laws on the books against whites and Negroes going to the same schools and against intermarriage. Saturday's vote will indicate to the legislature whether citizens want the laws continued.

In the 1952 Democratic primary, 1,350,752 votes were cast. Observers thought there was less interest in Saturday's election, however, and predicted a total of about 1,225,000 votes.

The candidates for governor are: U. S. Sen. Price Daniel; J. Everts Haley, a Canyon, Tex., rancher and historian; J. J. Holmes, an Austin contractor; former Gov. and U. S. Sen. W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel; Reuben Benterfitt, a former speaker of the state House of Representatives, and Ralph Yarborough, an Austin lawyer.

Shivers Declines to Run
Gov. Allan Shivers, an extreme conservative Democrat who has been in office seven-and-a-half years, longer than any other governor, declined to run again.

Shivers turned Republican on the tide of the election. Last May, in the Democratic state convention, U. S. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson wrested control of the Democratic party in Texas away from him.

Johnson, trying to hold a coalition of Conservative, Moderate and Liberal Democrats together and carry the state for the Democrats in November, has not indicated a preference in the gubernatorial race.

Twelve Democratic congressmen have no opposition Saturday. Eight others do. In the third district, Rep. Brady Gentry is not seeking reelection. Two candidates are running for his place.

Rayburn Unopposed
In District 5 (Dallas) Bruce Alger, the state's first Republican congressman since reconstruction, will be opposed in November by Democrat Henry Wade. Wade has no opposition Saturday.

Veteran House Speaker Sam Rayburn is not opposed. In District 2, one of Rep. Jack Brooks' three opponents is a Negro preacher, M. T. Banks of Beaumont.

Other races are for lieutenant governor, attorney general, the state supreme court, judge of the court of criminal appeals, state treasurer, land commissioner and agriculture commissioner.

Citizens Asked To Not Chase Police Cars, Ambulances

Representatives of the Pampa Police Department and the Duemel-Carmichael Ambulance Service this morning requested that all persons please refrain from following police cars and ambulances on emergency runs.

In recent months several tragedies have resulted in rescue efforts being hampered by the large number of persons who crowd around the scene.

Representatives of ambulance service report that every time an ambulance makes run outside city limits of Pampa large number of cars follow. This increased amount of automobiles on the highway hinders them in making their return trip to the hospital and in several instances recently cars have forced them off the roadway.

Chief of Police Jim Conner this morning urged all persons to please not rush to the scene of an accident or fire. The cars parking in the road hinder emergency vehicles in arriving at scene and the ambulances in leaving the scene with those injured.

Conner also requested that those persons at the scene of any traffic accident please remain at least 50 to 100 feet from the scene unless requested by police officers to aid in rescue efforts or the moving of damaged vehicles.

At several recent wrecks, including the one Thursday night, the large crowds which gather around the scene have hampered rescue efforts.

An example of the large number of persons rushing to the scene is the recent train-car collision at the Hobart Street crossing. The cars passing the scene were packed on the roadway so tightly that an emergency vehicle could not have passed through the area.

At the scene of last night's wreck the ambulance attendants were hampered in removing those injured by the large number of people that crowded around the wrecked car. If the crowd had remained far enough back from the scene the work of removing the injured would have been greatly speeded up, it was reported.

Conner concluded his statements by again reminding citizens that they are placing themselves in danger by crowding too close to the scene of any wreck or fire.

Burned Cross At House No Prank

BONHAM, Tex. (UP)— Sheriff Hoyt Ivey said today that he has a good idea who burned a cross in House Speaker Sam Rayburn's driveway Thursday night. He said it was not a prank.

Ivey said the suspect lives in adjoining Grayson county and is not under arrest. But he said he will take Lloyd Green, who saw the cross set up and fired, to look at the suspect's truck.

Green said he saw a man plant the cross, while a woman waited in a pickup truck. After the cross was burning, he said, the man got into the truck and drove away.

Rayburn, who is in Washington, dismissed the crossburning as a "boyish prank." But Ivey said it was neither a juvenile stunt nor a prank. Rayburn is running for renomination in a Democratic primary Saturday, but has no opposition.

Built By Carpenter
"It was either a boyish prank or it was done by somebody outside my district," Rayburn told reporters. "Because no people who live in my district would do a thing like that."

"If it's somebody from outside my district, it might be somebody who wants to affect the county conventions on Tuesday which the real Democrats of Texas are going to try to control," Rayburn said.

Air Force To Pull From Japan

WASHINGTON (UP)— Headquarters of the U.S. Far East Air Forces will be pulled back to Hawaii from Japan next July 1, it was disclosed today.

The future of the big air headquarters has been left unsettled by the hasty announcement last week that the U.S. Far East command would be abolished next July 1.

The FEAF is probably the largest part of the Far East command. The Pentagon announced on July 1 that Army Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer's Far East and United Nations commands would be pulled out of Japan, the United Nations outfit moving to Korea and the Far East segment merging into the Pacific command in Hawaii.

The Far East Air Forces becomes a part of Adm. Felix Stump's Unified Pacific command and will continue to be run by Air Force Gen. Laurence S. Kuter.

Actress, Son Got Separated

Editor's Note: Hollywood actress Ruth Roman, a survivor of the sinking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria, told a United Press reporter aboard the rescue liner Ile De France that her 31-year-old son had become separated from her during the wreck.

The actress was interviewed wearing a man's T-shirt and baggy man's pants tied around her waist with a yellow ribbon.

As Told To United Press
NEW YORK (UP)— I was sitting in the Belvedere room on the Andrea Doria with some friends.

It was shortly before 11:30 p.m. There was a feeling of gaiety as the passengers were dancing across the floor.

All of a sudden, there was an explosion like a firecracker and the ship immediately started to list. I took off my high-heeled shoes and ran down two decks below to get my son, Dickie, who is 31 years old. I knew something had happened but I didn't know what.

A sailor tried to hold me back but I pushed him aside and said, "I have to get my son." I entered our cabin and grabbed three blankets out of the closet, picked up my son in my arms and led him nurse to the top deck.

Arrest Try Ends In Collision Here

An attempt to apprehend the driver of an automobile wanted for leaving the scene of an accident Thursday night resulted in injuries to two Pampa policemen and a passenger when the patrol car in which they were riding collided with a truck owned by Haliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. at 5:55 p.m. at the intersection of Alcock and Hobart.

The injured patrolmen are Dan Lewis, 938 Bernard, and Bill Robinson, 837 E. Frederic. The two are being treated at Highland Hospital for injuries received in the accident.

The attending physician reported that Robinson received three broken ribs and minor bruises and that Lewis received lacerations and bruises.

The passenger in the patrol car, who was injured, is Robert W. Rapstine who lives northeast of Pampa. He is the owner of one of the cars which was damaged by the car that had left the scene of the accident.

X-rays indicated that Rapstine received damage to the cheek bone under his right eye. He was to see a specialist in Amarillo this morning to learn the full extent of the injury.

Two other passengers in the patrol car, who were riding with the officers to aid in identifying the car involved in the earlier collision, were not injured. They are Wesley Reeves, 1100 W. McCullough, and William Koen, 1708 N. Hobart.

Witnesses reported that the police car was going east on Alcock and approached the intersection against the red light as the Haliburton truck, driven by Gordon W. Rutledge, Pampa, was entering the intersection going south. The patrol car did not display a red light and the siren was not going, the witnesses stated. A spotlight on the right side of the patrol car was flashing however.

The left front fender of the patrol car collided with the right end of the front bumper of the truck. Damages to the patrol car were estimated at approximately $500 and the truck was reported to have received damages to only the point on the bumper.

Arrested for leaving the scene of the earlier collision was Marvin Marshall Mason of Amarillo. The '54 Plymouth which he was driving was in a collision involving three parked cars at 8:40 p.m. in the 600 block of W. Foster.

According to the report of investigating officers the Plymouth driven by Mason struck a '46 Chevrolet, owned by Robert W. Rapstine, which was knocked against a '33 Ford owned by Bob Carmichael, 700 N. Wells.

After striking the Chevrolet the Plymouth reportedly struck a '56 Ford owned by Bobby Dale Matlock, 615 E. Kingsmill. Charges were filed against Mason this morning in Corporation Court for leaving the scene of an accident.

Damages to the Plymouth were estimated at $200 and the Chevrolet encountered damages estimated at $125. The '53 Ford received damages estimated at $10 and the '56 Ford met with damages estimated at $75.

Bill Craig, candidate from Pampa for State Senator, stated today that he had completed a tour of the District in behalf of his candidacy for the office.

Craig pointed out that there are many varied groups of business and professions within the State of Texas. Likewise, within the 51st Senatorial District composed of Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler, Gray, Carson, Potter, Oldham, and Randall Counties. "We have big business, little business — merchants — farmers — ranchers — organized labor — unorganized labor — oil and gas — chemicals — together with all of the related industries that go with each of the counties above. All entitled to be represented in Austin."

"The citizens and voters of this district are entitled to equal, fair and impartial representation at our State Senate in Austin. Bill Craig promises and pledges that he will at all times, to the best of his ability, represent every citizen of his district fairly and impartially. Bill Craig is not now on the payroll of any group or special interest and he will not be in the future."

"Our State Government must have honesty and integrity based upon a sound economy. Bill Craig pledges to the people of his district he will fight for honest government and for a sound and economic government, and for fair and just representation of every man, woman, and child in his district."

Craig said that he, while in State Legislature, was the author of an amendment that provided for state funds to be paid to Boys' Ranch for the operation of the school. "If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it. Lewis Hyde, a contribution to the Ranch, and (Adv.) pay for the cost of the mailing."

Steel Strike End Nears

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The end of the 27-day steel strike hinged today on putting the new three-year agreement into formal language.
But that's not as easy as it sounds. The negotiators for the steel industry and the United Steelworkers union have agreed orally on all major economic issues but they are finding it rough to put them into writing.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (UP)—Steel industry and union negotiators announced today they have reached a "basis of settlement" for ending the 27-day-old steel strike.

The four-man negotiating teams for labor and management were to meet again this morning in an effort to put the finishing touches on the three-year contract that will end the billion-dollar walkout.
McDonald Voices Optimism
David J. McDonald, president of the USW, said he is confident a new contract covering 650,000 striking steelworkers will be signed within 48 hours.
He told reporters late Thursday that a new contract will be followed by a "substantial wage increase."

Both industry and union officials had believed they would be able to wrap up the negotiations Thursday. However, minor details that are time-consuming but necessary delayed the dramatic event.
Three Union Meetings
McDonald has scheduled meetings today with his executive board, with his Wage-Policy Committee, and with his negotiating teams for the individual steel companies at 2 p.m.
The new contract will call for a total package increase the first year of approximately 20 cents an hour and a total increase over the three years the contract will run of around 50 cents an hour, the experts said.
Under the industry's original five-year offer to the union, rejected as "shockingly inadequate" by the steelworkers, employees would have received 65 cents an hour over the life of the agreement—17 2/3 cents the first year alone.

ing 10 hours and 40 minutes after the collision.

At least seven persons died as a result of the sea tragedy, and two persons from the Andrea Doria were unaccounted for. One of the dead was a crewman from the Stockholm.

The disabled liner, its trim white hull disfigured by a gaping, ragged-edged black hole, was edged gingerly in a light drizzle by two tugs. The silent survivors many dressed in clothes given them by the Stockholm's passengers, crowded the gangways in their eagerness to end their 36 hour nightmare.

More than 100 persons were injured, several critically. Some of the injured were evacuated by helicopter to hospitals in the Boston area. Many others were brought back to New York where they were treated and released or hospitalized. The large percentage of the injuries, bruises and broken bones were suffered from sliding back and forth on the severely tilted deck of the Andrea Doria.

Some of the Andrea Doria passengers praised the Italian ship's crew for heroism. Others complained that the crew members did nothing to stem the panic that broke out sporadically, spoke to them only in Italian and shoved passengers aside in the scramble for lifeboats.

Captain Fraises Crew
The disheveled survivors, many of them weeping, arrived on rescue ships including the majestic Ile de France which turned back from a European-bound course to pick them from the dying Andrea Doria.

The captain of the Andrea Doria, Pero Calamai, arrived late Thursday night aboard the U.S. destroyer Edward H. Allen, apparently near collapse, and read a brief statement praising the action of rescue ships and his own crew.

He refused, however, to answer the shouted questions of newsmen about the cause of the collision.

Graham In Hurry To Die

DENVER (UP) — John Gilbert Graham, the airliner saboteur, apparently can't wait to be executed.

He appealed to Gov. Edwin C. Johnson Wednesday in a letter written from a death cell at the Colorado state penitentiary, to help him put a stop to lawyers' efforts to get him a new trial. Graham was convicted May 5 of planting a time-bomb in the luggage of his mother, Mrs. Daiste King, before she boarded a United Air Lines plane at Denver last Nov. 1.

The plane blew up in the air, 11 minutes after it left Denver. Mrs. King and the 43 others aboard were killed.

The Broken Record

History sure does move around in a circle. And from where we sit it looks as though a certain broken record is about to be re-played by the present administration in Washington.

The record got a crack in it when Henry Agard Wallace was chief of Agriculture and set up a magnificent scheme for plowing under crops and killing baby pigs. Even the socially inspired empire builders of the F.D.R. era found that the recording lacked something.

But apparently the Eisenhower administration will not learn from experience. The new Agricultural bill just signed by the President will pay farmers for plowing under immature crops of wheat, cotton, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco. The farmers by doing this plowing can split up a $1,200,000,000 melon among themselves, the melon grown by the non-farmers out of the sweat of their brows.

If ever there was a wholesome invitation to iniquity, this is it. The idea back in the doldrums of the mid-thirties didn't solve any problems and it won't solve any now.

No nation becomes prosperous by destroying real produce in exchange for money which is not real wealth and only indicates that real wealth is in existence, somewhere maybe. And with paper money in usage, there is no real wealth to back in up at all, period.

It works like this. If you, as a farmer, don't think that you can take a chance on the weather or the market, why, get out the old plow again. The government will pay you $40 an acre for plowed under corn, $24 an acre for plowed under wheat, $70 an acre for plowed under cotton and $34 an acre for plowed under rice. Rates for plowed under peanuts and tobacco will be announced later.

Benson tacitly admitted that nothing would be paid to farmers if the crops were mature when they were plowed under. His reason was that he didn't think the public would favor such a payment. Which means, simply, that if he thought the idea would be popular, no matter how iniquitous it was he'd pay out on that, too.

We've got the answer now to a long life and a merry one. All we need is one acre of ground, a pretty good plow and plenty of seed. We'll sow it and plow it under several times a day. After all, every crop would be "immature."

So why take a chance on the vagaries of the weather and the market? This is better than a trip to Vegas. There's no gamble at all. And very little work. This is the best gimmick since the latest Rube Goldberg gadget. You get something for nothing.

There's only one fly in the ointment. It might just be that the American public won't like any part of this deal and they just might say so at the polls. We wonder where the Eisenhower administration would end if all the people who consume these products would decide that they would not put up the money for something they and nobody else were getting.

Well, time will tell.

Clearing House

Articles for this column are preferred to be 300 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed.

Dear Editor:

In your editorials you have constantly and consistently espoused the cause of free enterprise and a free economy but in the other sections of your paper advanced the cause of socialistic undertakings in Pampa at the expense of struggling free businessmen. I will list only a few instances of this hypocrisy which particularly affect me and my business.

The municipally owned, tax-supported swimming pool was given at least three front page spreads while the privately owned, tax-paying skating rink was denied requested coverage of legitimate news. I, e., presentation of proficiency badges for skating to over 100 Girl Scouts.

Pushed for the tax free socialist Youth Center project even though it is apparent by its very location that it will be of little help to the children in low income homes who are the most in need of it and who are concentrated in the parts of town farthest from the site. These people are already asking if this project is for the good of the community as a whole or just to perpetuate the city's vicious class consciousness.

Denied news coverage of the activities of Pampa's amateur roller skaters in statewide competitions even though they were carried by a local radio station.

It has long been a mystery to me how one can sleep at night while talking one stand editorially and refuting it through the rest of the paper.

Bill Watson

Editor's Note:

First, we would like to explain to reader Watson that there is not, nor should there be, any relation between what is advocated editorially and what is covered as news of general interest.

We most definitely agree that the municipally owned swimming pool is socialistic but that in no way affects the fact that it is of interest to many people in Pampa. Hence there is no inconsistency in editorially explaining the folly of the government being in the swimming pool business and also running news stories on the pool. Would reader Watson contend that it would be sound newspapering only to run news stories on individuals and institutions of which we approved editorially? Such a course of action would certainly ignore our responsibility to run in our news columns those items which we think would be of general interest to our readers.

We think reader Watson gets a little carried away when he contends the proposed Youth Center is socialistic for it is no more so than a group of individuals joining together to build a church. That it would probably have a tax-free status is true and this is certainly a mistake, just as it is a mistake for churches to be exempt from taxes.

The Youth Center, as proposed, is a voluntary effort on the part of individuals exercising their right of free association for a mutually desired end. Unlike the municipal swimming pool, one has the choice of supporting or not supporting the Youth Center and in this respect, there is no resemblance between the two institutions.

As for pushing for the Youth Center, we have given it wide news coverage because we thought there was a wide interest in the project.

The two instances related as to having news coverage "denied" finds no support in our editorial department inasmuch as those associates available for questioning know nothing of the instances. We would be happy, however, to discuss with reader Watson any items in the future he deems newsworthy though, of course, we would retain the right to the final determination of their worth.

Kind Of Men In National Labor Relations Board

In the last issue I quoted Senator Joe McCarthy's letter to Senator John McClellan, present chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

Now I want to quote what the House Committee on Un-American Activities is doing in investigation of subversive activities in the National Labor Relations Board. This is the way Dan Smoot puts it:

"Senator McClellan's subcommittee has been preoccupied with other matters since last November; but the House Committee on Un-American Activities has shown considerable interest in the alleged communist infiltration of the NLRB.

"The House Committee was, in fact, 'the other Congressional group' which McCarthy referred to as having collected information concerning past subversive activities in the NLRB.

"By the spring of 1956, the House Committee on Un-American Activities—having thoroughly established that the NLRB was formerly badly infiltrated—decided that it ought to find out what was going on in the NLRB now.

"Hence, the committee subpoenaed eight present employees of the NLRB to find out whether that important governmental agency is still infested with communists.

"But the NLRB employees would not testify. Each one of them presented a letter, directed to him by the head of the NLRB. The witnesses said the letters had been written after consultation with President Eisenhower and with Attorney General Brownell.

"Their letters cited President Eisenhower's Executive Order of May 17, 1954, forbidding employees of the executive branch of government from giving congressional committees information on loyalty and security matters.

"Congressman Francis Walter (Democrat from Pennsylvania, Chairman of the House Committee) termed Eisenhower's executive order 'incredibly stupid,' saying that it went much further than Truman's security order of 1948 which prohibited Congress from access to government files on the loyalty of personnel.

"Richard Arens, Chief Counsel for the House Un-American Activities Committee during the NLRB hearings, said to one of the witnesses who thus refused to testify because of the presidential order:

"If the restrictions preclude you from testifying respecting alleged Communist Party affiliations, activities or membership, then the National Labor Relations Board is putting down an iron curtain before the House committee, which is charged with ferreting out communists, and the communists who may be in the United States government. This is obvious, isn't it?"

"The witness replied: 'Well, this is a matter that I am just in between two fires here, sir. I am not asserting any personal privilege. I would like to answer questions if I am sure I am not violating the instructions I received from my agency. I wish I did not have this restriction, sir.'

"Richard Arens asked: 'How in the world can this committee ferret out communists in the NLRB if a committee of Congress cannot ask the witnesses whether or not they ever had Communist Party affiliations?'

"The witness replied: 'I am personally quite willing to answer questions. This is a conflict of authority between the executive and legislative branch. "This particular witness finally volunteered that he was not a communist. He said that he did not believe the National Labor Relations Board—or, by inference, the President—could restrict him from saying that much.

"But when asked whether he had ever been acquainted with Bruno Pontecorvo, an Italian scientist identified as a top atomic spy, the witness declined to answer.

"Richard Arens remarked: 'We feel that you have a supreme duty to this committee to supply information, notwithstanding some jeopardy that some bureaucrat may place on your job. . . . Were you ever knowingly in a closed Communist party meeting?'

"Witness: 'I respectfully decline to answer.'

"Arens: 'We have found hard core communist agents in the NLRB in the past. If prevented from going further in finding out who is doing now, it is time for the American people to find out why the iron curtain has been drawn between the committee and a bunch of bureaucrats who hide behind some kind of directive.'"

"One witness told Richard Arens:

"I agree with you that the committee has authority to go into all these questions. I agree with you that the executive branch has for years wrongfully kept this information from Congress.

"But, sir, I cannot jeopardize my position by testifying. If I were independent, and had no family to support, I would say, let the job go to the devil. But I can't jeopardize my dependents."

"And there the matter rests." The National Labor Relations Board has the power to make—and does make arbitrary decisions which affect every person in the United States. We, the people, pay the salaries and expenses of all NLRB members. We know that this agency in the past has been infested with, if not dominated by, communists. But we are not permitted to find out whether it is

Taxpayers To Be Nicked For Airline Bill

WASHINGTON—American taxpayers would be nicked for many millions of dollars under a Senate-passed proposal to hand hidden subsidies to a few great and profitable commercial airlines. Only a threatened presidential veto may kill what Controller General Joseph Campbell calls "an ungenerous burden upon the taxpayers."

Under existing law, the airlines are guaranteed an 8 per cent return on their investment. If profits fall below that figure, Uncle Sam makes up the difference. The present law also provides that, if the lines sell planes or other equipment, the money from the sale must be listed as income. The amount received reduces the subsidy paid from the Treasury.

The proposed amendment would relieve the firms from including money from these sales as income. They would simply put it in their pockets, with the result that the Federal subsidies would have to be dollars. They now total about $46,000,000 a year.

The scheme has been condemned in formal opinions by the Controller General, Budget Bureau, the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Commerce Department. Even Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, who is extremely partial to the giant airlines, did not approve it.

Nevertheless, under tremendous pressure by a few airlines' bipartisan lobby, it passed the Senate by a 63-22 vote. It has been reported favorably by the House Interstate and Foreign Committee at a special meeting, with the lobbyists confident of success at the current session. Their only fear is White House disapproval, which is also the taxpayers' only hope of release, according to opponents of the measure.

Under one estimate submitted to House-Senate Committees, the future cost to the taxpayers would be $101,000,000. Of this amount, a single firm—Pan American World Airways—would drag down $51,000,000. Only about $12,000,000 would be distributed among more than 30 small feeder lines, although it is their inclusion in the plan which rounded up so many Senate votes. The members thought they were helping local industries.

SAB Chairman James Durfee has submitted a more conservative estimate of the cost. Based on actual sales of equipment, he says that, if the hidden subsidy scheme had been in effect for the last five years, it would have meant an additional $22,000,000 to the airlines. That figure will run far high—presently infiltrated by communists because—to put it quite bluntly, but accurately—the President of the United States, whose salary we also pay, says it is none of our business. It is hard to conceive how any person who uses the Ten Commandments as a guide to determine what is right and honest would refuse to answer any questions.

in the immediate future, for the changeover to jets will release a large amount of planes and other equipment for sale.

Chairman Durfee's figures destroy the contention that small, regional feeder lines would derive great benefit from the "giveaway." Of the $22,000,000, $21,498,000 would go to four great lines as follows: Pan American, $17,288,000; Braniff, $1,515,000; Delta, $1,400,000; Trans World, $1,295,000. The local firms would split only $502,000.

In Senate debate, it was noted that no other industry or individual enjoys the financial or book-keeping favors which Senate Bill 3449 and House Bill 8902 would confer on a few great and lucrative airlines. If a farmer sells a tractor, he must figure the payment he receives in this profit-and-loss accounting. Nor is he guaranteed an 8 per cent return.

FOR REFLECTION

...with JAMES C. MOORE BREWSTER President, Spiritual Mobilization

"I once heard it said that one of the characteristics of a planned economy is that it barks at the rich and bites the poor, and I think there is considerable justification in this description," says Roy Wenzlick in a recent issue of The Real Estate Analyst.

I agree. But much of the rest of what Mr. Wenzlick says, under the title "Freedom of Choice," seems inconsistent with his above-quoted statement.

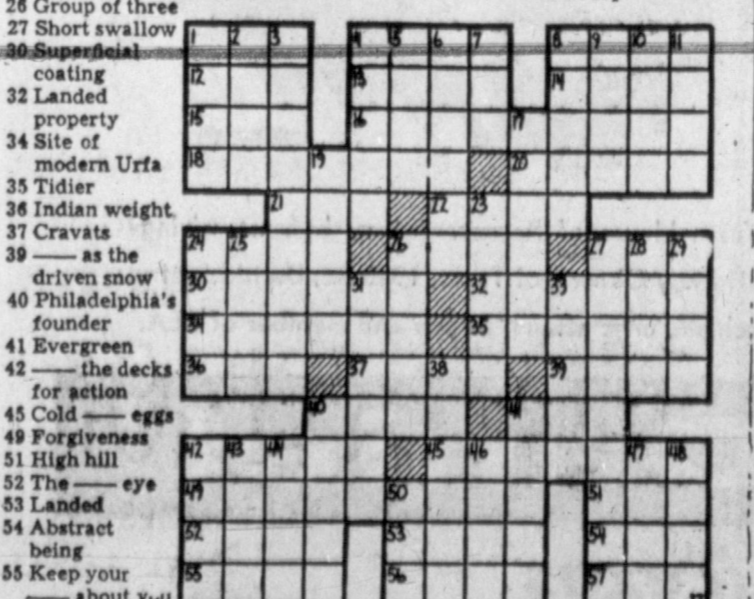

He thinks it gratifying that there are now only six American automobile-making corporations instead of the scores there used to be, apparently believing it was simply legitimate competition that eliminated the defunct motor car builders. But in fact it was the taxes and regimentation incident to World War II and the rest of the New Deal era that killed many of them. And current government policies, in the main similar to those that have prevailed over the past quarter century, tend to continue the trend toward limitation of choice in the automobile market place—rather than lead toward greater "Freedom of Choice."

City Visitor — Which is correct? "I am sitting" or "A hea is sitting?" "I don't know and I don't care. All I bother about is when she cracks, is she saying or is she lying."

Mac Remembers A City's Sounds

By HENRY McLEMORE

ISTANBUL — A city's sounds remain fresher in my mind than its sights, and I never realized this more fully than on returning to Istanbul.

The domes and the minarets of the Blue Mosque and St. Sophia silhouetted against the sky were familiar, but it was not until the sounds of Istanbul struck my ears that I really felt I was back again. The soft cooing of the pigeons that are everywhere. The shrill wailing of the ferries sailing across the Bosphorus, and the sea of Marmara. The jumble of voices on the Galata Bridge. The pounding of the taxi drivers on the sides of their cars to warn pedestrians. The plaintive calls to prayer by the priests from the minarets. The clop-clop of the horses and donkeys on the cobble-stoned streets.

These, and a thousand other sounds, made me feel as though I had never left Istanbul. It was just at the start of the Korean war that I was last here, and I remember that day well. I was sitting on the balcony of the Park Hotel, overlooking the Bosphorus just opposite Leander's Light house, when a waiter came out to say that President Truman had just ordered the Eighth Fleet into action.

All the Americans present said, "Good!" and we all spoke scornfully of the North Korean opposition, and how it would be just a matter of days until the fleet and the air had them under control. Little did we know that our soldiers were being committed to a war that they were not going to be allowed to fight to a finish.

The Park Hotel is still here, with its incomparable view, but it has had to take second place to the Istanbul Hilton. For that matter, so has almost every other building in the city.

The Hilton's introduction of the hamburger to Istanbul has definitely had its effect on Turkish eating. Quite a number of hamburger stands have sprung up on streets where only spiced lamb was known before. There aren't many American tourists in Turkey, and the great majority of the Hilton's customers are Turkish — and from all appearances, they like American food. They nearly all eat American cereals for breakfast, and scrambled eggs and buttered toast get a much heavier play than the continental breakfasts of jam, rolls and coffee. And the Turks seem to dote on chocolate milk shakes, all varieties of sundaes (one of which is called the Skyscraper), and even banana splits.

Truly, the Hilton is the new Turkey, so has almost every other building in the city.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

A small animal parasite known as an ameba poses an important health problem throughout the world. It is more in tropical and subtropical lands, but by no means can it be ignored in temperate climates. It is thought, for example, that nearly one resident in ten in the United States harbors this parasite.

Most commonly, the ameba causes difficulty by attacking the digestive tract and causing intermittent dysentery. It can, however, lodge in other parts of the body. Sometimes symptoms come on suddenly and severely with pain and tenderness in the abdomen, blood in the intestinal waste. And even death can result.

MANY, HOWEVER, either never have this severe reaction to the ameba or recover from it and continue to carry the parasites with or without less severe symptoms. This behavior of amebiasis constitutes a danger not only to the person who is involved but also to others, since the ameba can be spread just as well by a person who does not have symptoms as by one who does.

Amebiasis can resemble many other disorders. For this reason, its diagnosis is at the same time important and not the easiest thing in the world. Diagnosis depends on finding amebae usually in the intestinal wastes—and identifying them under the microscope.

Once amebiasis has been diagnosed—even when symptoms are mild or nonexistent—a prompt and vigorous treatment is in order. There are a large number of drugs which are used for this purpose, aimed, of course, at poisoning and killing parasites without harming the patient.

ALL OF THEM, however, have what is known as a narrow margin of safety; that is, they can react harmfully on the patient as well as on the parasite.

One of the most effective drugs is known as emetine hydrochloride. It is given by injection in all severe forms of amebiasis—providing the patient is able to stand it. There are other drugs, including some of the antibiotics, and some containing arsenic or other metals which also are used, usually by mouth.

These also have to be given with great care so that they will have the desired effect on the ameba without harming the patient.

THE AMEBA is acquired by swallowing it in food or drink. It is also carried from place to place by flies. Consequently, prevention depends on sanitation and the use of uncontaminated food and drink. Therefore, travel in certain areas of the world, particularly in the tropics or subtropics, still has its hazards.

PUT YOUR BEST FOOT FORWARD IN COURTING (Oroville, Calif. Mercury)

Sitting in a barber's chair where we could see the sidewalk, we saw an elderly dandy walk by. He was a widower. Ordinarily he dressed carelessly—was sloppy, in fact. We suspected something. Sure enough, a few weeks later he was married.

That man was a success in what he wanted to do. If he had remained sloppy in dress, probably she wouldn't have had him. Very likely, also, in his conversations with the one he courted, he had refrained from talking about his own shortcomings. If he was stinky, he didn't mention it. If he was hot-tempered or just plain mean, he was careful not to let her know.

All this reminds the writer of a visit paid to a U. S. library in the embassy in Montevideo. How in the world could the successful courting by an Oroville widower remind one of an American library in Uruguay, you may well ask?

By establishing these libraries all around the world for peoples of other countries to read in their efforts to learn about the customs and peoples of the United States, we are paying court to them, trying to influence them to admire and like us.

In stocking these libraries, do we observe the first principles of courtship? Do we place our best foot forward? Do we comb our hair, press our clothes and put on clean linen?

Looking through the catalogue of books of fiction in the embassy's library, the writer found six books by Erskine Caldwell, including "Tobacco Road" and eight by John Steinbeck, including "Grapes of Wrath." The two books mentioned had been translated into Spanish, and the Spanish translations were there, easy for the Latin of Uruguay to read.

"Grapes of Wrath" pictures California in a very poor light. No one reading it would want to live in California. Any "foreigner" reading it would be sure he would receive a poor welcome in the United States. "Tobacco Road" readers would not think well of the South. America to a citizen of Montevideo who read "Tobacco Road" would be a country peopled by imbred half-wits, lazy, shoddy poor white trash. The other books by Erskine Caldwell and Steinbeck are not at all flattering to their native land.

The Oroville widower is a much smarter man than our Department of State. He knows how to win a woman's hand.

Montevideoans are smart. Their country is one of the most enlightened in this hemisphere. Having read one of those books, a citizen of Montevideo would consider himself immensely superior to an underprivileged citizen of the United States. He would scorn a union with the Californians who mistreated the newcomers from Oklahoma, or the low-caste Tobacco Road inhabitants so lazy they ate raw turnips rather than cook meat.

Pampa News Women's Editor

YOU CAN HAVE THAT SUNNY LOOK which is so attractive and popular out California way, if you use the beige shades in base and powder, says Hazel Rawson Cades, beauty and grooming editor of the Woman's Home Companion. With these use very soft toned rouge and perhaps a subtle combination of gray and blue eye makeup.

LIPSTICK should have a lively look but not be a "screamer," advises Miss Cades. A light clear red will suit almost any complexion and go well with different costume colors. It's particularly compatible with the popular beige and when wearing yellow with a little green in it, rose lipstick may prove more flattering.

JACKET dresses are just about the neatest, most becoming and versatile fashions to wear through the day and into evening, both in the city and the suburbs.

These dual summer fashions, reviewed in the Woman's Home Companion, come in both princess and sheath silhouettes. Pink and white striped cotton with stripes running horizontally is used for the princess-line jacket dress which looks as cool and luscious as a strawberry sundae. When the jacket is removed it reveals a decollete top with button-trimmed draped bustline.

The sheath with scooped neckline is of beige linenlike rayon and cotton fabric. Its cover-up jacket has brazelet length sleeves and perky collar. It will take the busy career girl through a business day right on to dinner and the theater.

WHEN every cooling device, including your palmetta fan, is battling a record-breaking heat, these 10 ways to keep cool — courtesy of Max Factor, Hollywood beauty expert — will come in handy:

1. As cooling as an Arctic breeze is this device for keeping make-up fresh: Use only the lightest weights — as light-as-a-feather fluid make-up, for instance. After fluid make-up, pat face with a damp sponge to which you've added a skin freshener.

2. For a skin that feels like an ice cooler's, squeeze the juice of a lemon into your bath water. Have water tepid, not cold. Avoid icy showers.

3. Buy your summer shoes a RUTH MILLET

"I wish John would get a job this summer," a mother said about her 15-year-old son.

"But," she added sadly, "he doesn't seem the slightest bit interested."

Why should he be interested in getting a job? Everything he has ever wanted that money could buy his parents have bought for him.

They aren't a wealthy family. But by putting their children's wants ahead of their own they have managed to hand over anything the kids insist they have to have.

No wonder John isn't interested in a job. He doesn't have anything to work for. He gets a good allowance. If he runs short dad obligingly foots the bill for a dance and a corsage for John's girl.

If he wants a piece of sporting equipment, dad buys it. And then his parents both wonder why he hasn't enough get-up-and-go to land a summer job.

His dad tries to spur him on by talking about the lawn he mowed, the paper route he carried, the job he had jerking sodas when he was a youngster.

"When I was your age I was earning all my own spending money," his dad says.

And he blames his boy for not being as ambitious and hard-working as he was.

Mothers-Daughters Honored With Tea

A Mother and Daughter Tea was given Sunday afternoon in the Odd Fellow's Hall by the new mother advisor of the Theta Rho Girls' Club, Mrs. V. J. Castka, with the assistance of the advisory board.

The serving table was set with a blue linen cloth with a centerpiece of assorted ivy, and with the emblem of the Theta Rhos, the Blue Bird, perched on a branch of the ivy. On the table also were the refreshments which consisted of pineapple frosted punch with multi-colored mints carried out the peach napkins carried out the color scheme of the Theta Rhos of peach and blue.

The program was prepared by Annett Potter. It consisted of Carolyn Teague and Margaret Austin singing "The Wayward Wind," "Down In Bermuda," and "Now is the Hour"; Mildred Johnson playing a selection on the piano, "Nearer My God to Thee"; and Cathy Smith playing two numbers on her electric guitar, "Near the Cross," and "Chimes Waltz." Brenda Galbreth was in charge of the games.

Those attending were Mrs. Oran Daffron and Pat, Mrs. Melvin V. Bailey and Nancy, Mrs. Leonard Radcliff and Mildred and Jessie, Mrs. Marie Oglesby and Rita, Mrs. J. E. Smith and Cathy, Mrs. Howard C. Pruitt and Betty, and Mrs. Robinett Willis and Nancy.

Others attending were Mrs. Bill Potter and Annett, Mrs. Carl L. Galbreth and Linda and Brenda.

The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. J. L. Carlton, 1313 Duncan, at 2:30 p.m. July 20. Mrs. Roy Tinsley was in charge of the business session.

Mrs. J. C. Vollmert, guest speaker, gave a talk on the three-month European tour she and her husband took last fall. Included in her talk was descriptions of the different countries they visited such as Germany, France, Ireland, Italy, and Holland.

Christian Science Services Set

The value and importance of right motives in daily living will be emphasized at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Love" will include the following (454:17-21): "Love for God and man is the true incentive in both healing and teaching. Love inspires, illumines, designates, and leads the way. Right motives give opinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and action."

The freedom-giving power of divine Love will also be brought out in the Scriptural readings which include the following (1 John 4:18): "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear:"

Improve Your Appellate Judiciary

VOTE FOR JUDGE ALTON B. CHAPMAN

FLOYD COUNTY FOR ASSOCIATE JUSTICE COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS

"We can do nothing but predict a victory for Judge Chapman in his race for Associate Justice. Judge Chapman is as capable and deserving a Christian man as we have ever known. With the Courts of our land in hands as devoted and capable as the hands of Judge Chapman American Justice in both criminal and civil courts will continue to be a lighthouse throughout the world."

The above quote was taken from the July 12th issue of the Texas Spur, a newspaper in the town where Judge Chapman finished high school, where he served as County and District Attorney and for the last 19 years as District Judge.

His record on appeals, when the cases tried are compared to the cases reversed, is better than 98 per cent perfect.

Every Lawyer of his District has endorsed him.

Alton is a brother and uncle of ours and we will deeply appreciate your vote for him.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

A grant of $10,000 has been made by the "Fund for the Republic" to United Church Women for "educational work in race relations." Mrs. T. O. Wedel of Washington, D.C., president of United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches, announcing the gift, said: "The grant will make possible a series of workshops in key communities, with the purpose of alerting and educating women of the churches on civil rights and civil liberties, uniting the strength of church women to a more potent force in obtaining the rights which our Christian faith seeks for all peoples, helping to make the total community aware of the implications and dangers in the denial of rights to any persons, and of studying how to deal with controversy, how to work with people who differ without alienating them, and how to create understanding between those who hold opposite views."

The members of this choir are graduates of Methodist Schools in India. Some have been teaching in mission schools. They will bring with them drums, tambourines, ankle bells, and Bibles in four languages. They have been singing constantly before church and civic groups since their arrival in the United States a few months ago.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

CLAUDE H. HARRIS, Pastor
Hobart Street Baptist Church

A Friend That Sticketh Closer Than A Brother

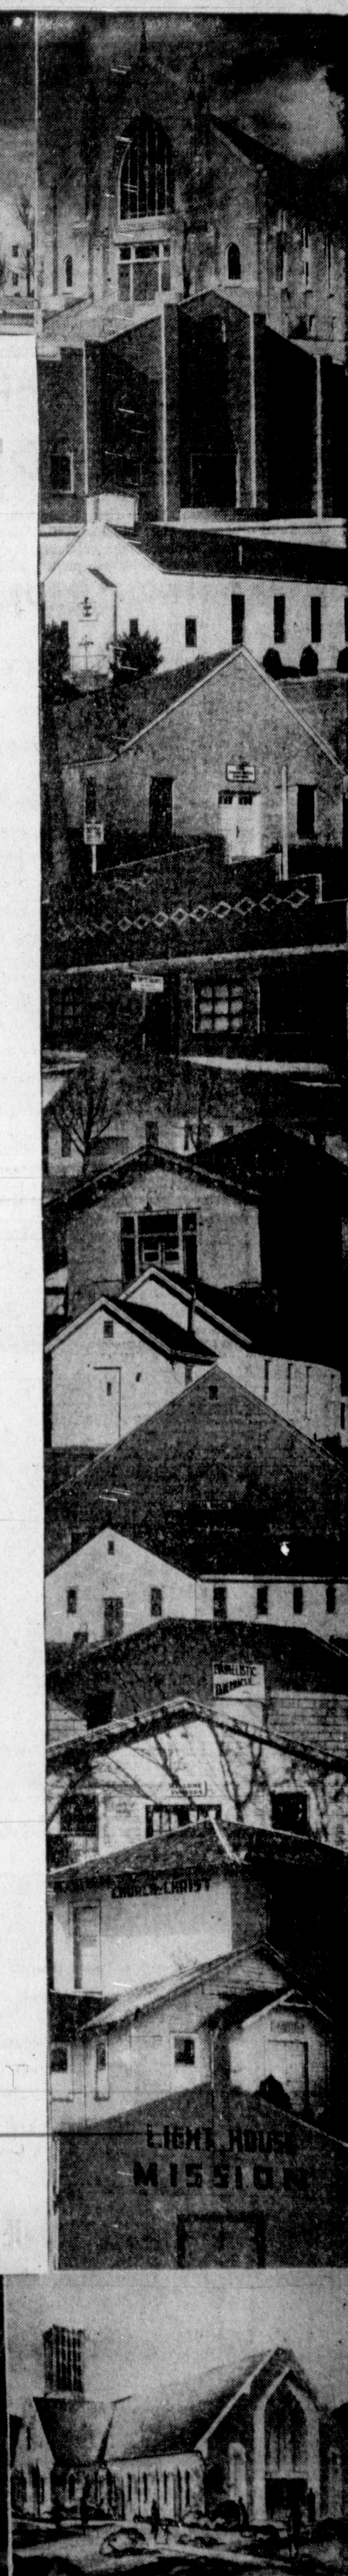

Every individual soon discovers that he needs a friend that will stick. Fair weather friends are not worth too much in this world of trials. Well-wishers are usually plentiful as long as everything is going well but the friendship that we need is one who knows us and will faithfully stand by us in spite of our imperfections.

If we would find a true friend, one that will stick, we should look the right place. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." That word comes from the Bible. The Bible stands ready to introduce us to A FRIEND THAT STICKETH CLOSER THAN A BROTHER.

Adam and eve walked with Him in the cool of the day. He showed them the marvels of His creation. They had companionship with Him and found His consistency true. He never failed them, but rather, made provisions for them, even, after they had sinned against Him.

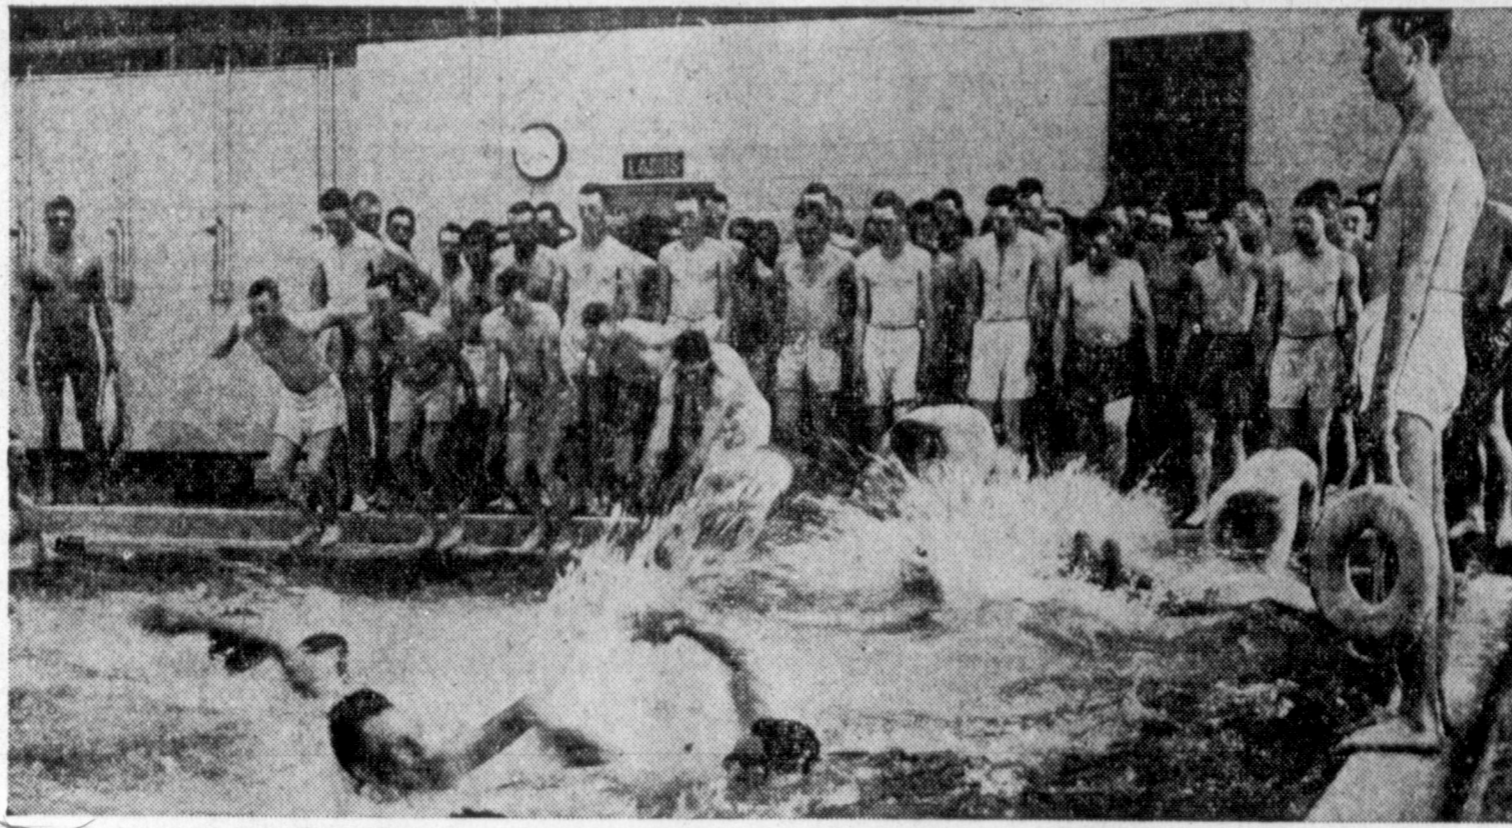

Enoch walked with this Friend, who is the Creator of the universe, and found the fellowship so well-pleasing, both to Enoch and to his well-beloved Friend, that Enoch was translated that he should not see death. This man lived in such a way that he gained this testimony from God: "That he pleased God." A friend that will walk with us through the trials of life and then take us home to be with Him is worthy of our showing ourselves friendly toward Him.

The Psalmist knew this Friend. He declared that in His presence all his wants were supplied. The Psalmist had fellowship with this Friend in green pastures and beside still waters. When the man's spirits were low his good Friend served to stimulate and restore his spirits. The Psalmist knew that while walking with his noble Friend he would ever pursue paths of righteousness, and that gives satisfaction of the highest degree. Though the way might get dark and shadows of the most horrifying caliber fall about him the Psalmist had no fear, because his Companion was with him. Not only would this Friend see him through every experience of life on earth, but this man had the utmost satisfaction that he would dwell, LIVE, in the house of the Lord forever. That is an introduction to a friend that will stick. His in the New Testament is Jesus, the Christ.

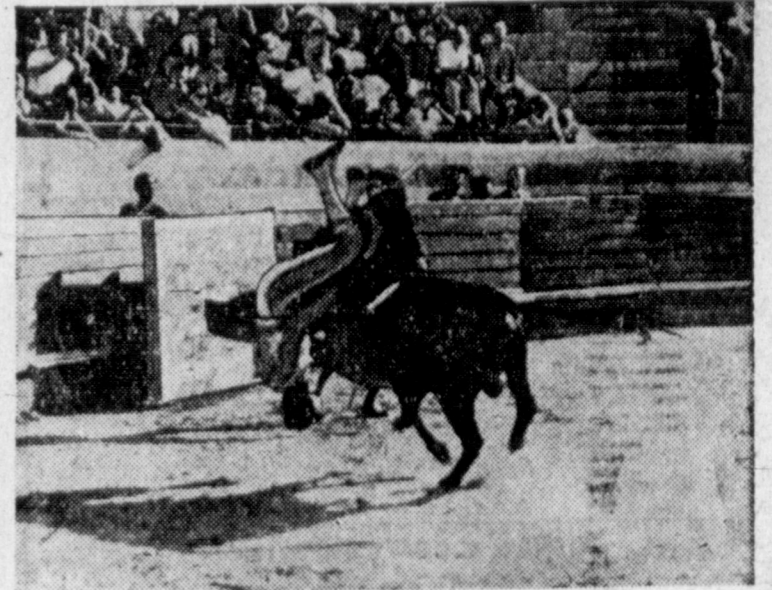

DAD'S OWN PRIDE—New York Yankee outfielder Hank Bauer, left, is making like a real photographer as he aims a camera at a photo of Mrs. Bauer and their new-born baby in Yankee Stadium. Yankee manager Casey Stengel is cocking an approving eye as he holds the picture for Hank to snap.

POOLING THEIR TALENTS—Marine recruits must now take swimming instruction at Parris Island, S.C., where six trainees drowned in a disciplinary night march through tideland swamps last April. Here, some trainees are shown participating in the 10-hour course which includes instruction in all phases of swimming exercises and life-saving.

IT'S A STRUGGLE—Harry L. Whitney, American matador from Texas, was subjected to some rough treatment by an enraged bull in San Lorenzo De El Escorial, Spain. After being knocked to the ground twice, top photo, the bull gored Whitney, below. Nevertheless, Whitney won the hearts of the Spanish audience by killing two bulls, the first of which he dedicated to his Spanish onlookers.

MOUNTAIN MAGIC—Ice skating star John Letengarder seems to be straddling the mountain in the background at Sun Valley, Idaho. John was testing the new Olympic-size outdoor skating rink at a resort hotel and taking a busman's holiday as he executed some mighty fancy ice maneuvers.

STRIPPED FOR ACTION—A young lady is feeling the heat in Paris, and she's decided to go swimming in a pool dressed in her birthday suit. The hot weather is just more than this tiny tot could "bare."

BATHING HORSES FOR HEALTH—Some thoroughbred racers in the surf at Half Moon Bay, Calif., are regaining their health in the water. The animals were suffering from leg ailments and they benefit from the therapeutic effects of swimming in the salt water.

LOVE GAME—Beautiful Eleanor Tanin enjoys a rousing set of tennis whenever she can find a spare moment from her busy schedule on CBS Radio's "Gunsmoke," in Hollywood. This talented young lady also enjoys swimming and a strenuous game of golf.

A LONG DIP—Mrs. Amy Hiand, 32, of Long Beach, Calif., is lifted from the waters of the Strait of Juan de Fuca, 2 1/2 miles from Victoria, B.C., Canada. She failed to swim the 20-mile strait from Port Angeles, Wash., to Victoria.

FELLED BY MOOSE—Indians' first sacker Vic Wertz lies on the ground near first base after colliding with Yankees' Bill "Moose" Skowron during a Cleveland-New York game in New York. A Cleveland trainer is aiding Wertz and Tribe catcher Harold Naragon is bending low as other Cleveland players look on. Wertz was taken out of the game which Yanks won, 9-5.

FAMILY WORKOUT—Olympic team wrestler Dale Thomas finds his practice exercise in East Lansing, Mich., includes most of the family. As his three sturdy sons pace along beside him, two-year-old daughter Suzie rides his shoulders. Thomas is a Michigan State physical education instructor.

AWAY ALL BOATS!—A long string of motorboats makes a picturesque splash as they zoom their way through the waters past Hallandale, Fla. They were photographed during the Annual Gold Coast Marathon Race for motorboats. Starting from Miami, the boats raced to West Palm Beach and back to Miami for the watery finish.

AFTER THE BRAWL IS OVER—This wild melee, looking like the brawl to end brawls, is actually a staged fight scene, being filmed in Elstree, England. The shenanigans are necessary for a scene in the film, "The Good Companions." Out of the dangerous-looking pile-up of stars and extras, the actors emerged unscathed.

Re-Elect
JESSE JAMES
State Treasurer
• Proven Honesty
• Proven Efficiency
• Proven Ability

PROVEN HONESTY—Jesse James has handled over $8 Billion of the people's money without loss of so much as one cent. The State Auditor's annual report and continuous audit repeatedly verify this fact.

PROVEN EFFICIENCY—Jesse James, through efficient administration during a period of constantly rising prices, has reduced costs per dollar handled by 46.7%.

PROVEN ABILITY—Jesse James has increased income on depository interest earned on current State Funds by almost 2,000%. This income was $105,000 annually when Jesse James became Treasurer, and now is over seven times the cost of operating the State Treasury—resulting in a profit of almost $2 Million annually for the people of Texas. A $30 Million deficit in the General Fund existed when Jesse James became Treasurer. Today, there is no deficit.

PROVEN RESPONSIBILITY—Jesse James learned financing the hard way. When his father died, he helped his mother rear and educate nine brothers and sisters on a meager income. He worked first as a cotton farmer near Thorndale, then as a merchant in Cameron. He also worked his way through college where he studied business and finance. He was elected three times to the Texas Legislature, where he worked conscientiously to improve the financial condition of the State of Texas.

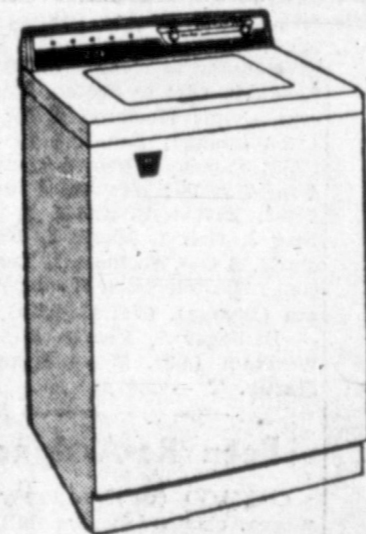

PROVEN RESULTS, NOT PROMISES—Jesse James made no elaborate promises when he first asked voters to elect him State Treasurer. His campaign for re-election advances his proven record of service, experience and accomplishment; his platform is economy, efficiency and courtesy, based on a proven record of honesty, integrity and fairness to all.

FIRST OLD AGE PENSION MONEY—Jesse James, as a legislator, authored and sponsored Texas' first omnibus tax bill, a measure which provided the first money paid to old age pensioners.

JESSE JAMES sincerely solicits your vote and active support.

Oilers Trounce Ballinger, 28-6

San Angelo Colts In Town For Three Games

Thursday night at Oiler Appreciation the Pampa Oilers displayed an unusual firing attack as they humiliated the Ballinger Westerners, 28-6.

Oilers left-hander stylist Ernie Bartolomei twirled the complete route in picking up his ninth win against five setbacks. Bartolomei fanned four Westerner batters and gave up only four walks. He also contributed to his own winning cause as he blasted out his third homer of the season. The only big inning the visitors had occurred in the seventh, when Bartolomei started to weaken as they scored five tallies. Ballinger had picked up one marker in the sixth.

Pampa's booming bats displayed unusual fire works as they completely overwhelmed the Ballinger Westerners. The visitors had six hurriers take their turn on the mound before the Oilers could be quieted for the night. John Wortham started on the hill for Ballinger and was touched for the loss and now has a 4-9 mark.

The Oilers started off their fine display of firing power in the second frame. Pampa's fine receiver Jim Martin walked. First sacker Bob Flores then smacked a double. Rookie shortstop Joe Kretschmar came thru with a single sending Martin home. Second sacker Frank Kempa singled allowing Flores to race in. A. B. Cross, the Oilers' capable player-manager singled. The lanky left-fielder Jim Robinette proceeded to single, which brought in Kretschmar and Kempa.

Len Tucker, the dashing center-fielder was issued a pass to first in the second. Cross then was tagged going into third as he tried to beat Wortham's wild pitch thrown at the plate. Martin batting for the second time in the inning singled in Robinette. Then the second of six hurriers, Leach came in to try his luck against the onrushing power of the Oilers. Flores in his second fling at bat in the inning singled bringing Tucker and Bruza across.

The Oilers' winning hurler, Bartolomei poled his round tripper of the night with the bases empty in the third frame off the first pitch heaved by the astonishing Leach.

Tucker found his luck with Leach being quite good as he connected on a four-bagger but with a mate, Robinette on board. Robinette had got on base with a fielder's choice.

In the sixth, the Westerners had that bad nightmare feeling as the Oilers frankly had the Westerners in the palm of their hands as they rounded up 13 runs. Not being satisfied with the score at the present, 23-6, the Oilers concluded their night array of blasting power as they collected five tallies in the seventh for their last scoring march of the game.

The Pampa Oilers met San Angelo tonight at 8, in Oiler Park in the first of a three game series with the Colts.

A shower for Joe Kretschmar will also be observed which will come about in the fifth frame.

Hoyt Benedict, a right-hander for the Oilers, with a 9-4 record for the season will probably get the nod for the starting assignment against the Colts.

Professionals Play Rough, Not Dirty

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Professional football, getting set today for another bone-jarring season, will hear the usual number of howls about "dirty football" but you can take it from Earl (Jug) Girard of the Detroit Lions that the pros play it rough—not dirty.

Girard, starting his ninth season in pro football despite his comparatively small size, isn't a polyanthra. He admits that, occasionally, there is a certain amount of dirty football and there always will be a few guys around trying to scatter your teeth.

"But that kind," he grins, "is marked for the infirmary in the very next huddle."

This isn't the attitude of a man who has been treated with kid gloves. Jug in his eight seasons has suffered broken ribs, a fractured wrist, a bad knee injury, slashed legs and a few black eyes here and there.

Speed Responsible Factor
"But the actual reason for most of the injuries," he says, "is the fact that football has become such a lightning-fast game and the men are so much bigger and faster. You'd be surprised how many of those 240 and 250-pounders can run the 100 in about 11 seconds. When they hit you going full tilt, something has to give."

Yet there's no doubt whatsoever, he'll admit, that pro football because of its very nature is a rough, rock 'em and sock 'em business.

The two roughest teams, from his personal standpoint, are the Philadelphia Eagles and the Washington Redskins.

"When those babies belt you," he grins, "down you go."

Pro Football's Toughest
His individual nominees as the toughest linemen in pro football are:

- Don Joyce and Gino Marchetti of the Baltimore Colts.
- Hardy Brown, San Francisco 49'ers.
- Don Paul, Los Angeles Rams.
- Ed Sprinkle and George Connor, Chicago Bears.
- Don Cole, Cleveland Browns.
- Laverne Torjeson, Washington Redskins.
- Chuck Bednarik, Philadelphia Eagles.

Those, at least from personal experience, are the men most happily avoided on the football field by Earl (Jug) Girard.

"And," he adds hopefully, "I hope all the other linemen in the league don't feel slighted and set out this season to prove they are tougher than the ones I named."

Because, while he doesn't feel pro football is downright "dirty," he does admit that it's rough enough to suit the hardest character who ever put on a pair of shoulder pads.

Hobbs Take San Angelo As Squabble Developed

An intracub squabble that erupted into a dugout fight between San Angelo Manager Art Bowland and his second baseman, Sherwood Brewer, highlighted Southwest League action Thursday night.

Their sparring broke out in the Colts dugout in the seventh inning of a game the Colts lost to league-leading Hobbs 7-4. During the process of removing the pair from the park, they started their battle all over again and Brewer was "cooled off" for a spell by the Hobbs police department.

The Hobbs victory widened the Sports' league lead to eight games as second-place El Paso lost to Roswell 5-4 on a three-run triple by Jerry Linneman which Texas outfielder Pedro Osorio misjudged. In other league action, Plainview stopped Midland 12-7 with Russ Burns contributing two homers; Ernie Bartolomei pitched Pampa to a 19-6 victory over Ballinger and kicked in with one of three Oiler homers, and Richard Jack won his 13th game as Carlsbad snapped a four-game Covia winning streak 9-4.

Tonight, San Angelo moves to Pampa, Ballinger to Plainview, El Paso to Hobbs, Carlsbad to Roswell and Midland to Clovis.

Braves Streak Runs To Five; Blank Giants; Redlegs Lose

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
The Milwaukee Braves are beating the vaunted power hitters of the Cincinnati Redlegs and Brooklyn Dodgers at their own game.

Generally regarded as a team built around pitching, the Braves have rolled to 19 victories in 22 games since July 2 with a power-packed lineup that has averaged 6.7 runs a game. During the same period the Redlegs have averaged 4.4 runs while compiling a 12-11 record and the Dodgers have averaged 5.1 while winning 13 of 22 contests.

Hank Aaron, Joe Adcock, Ed Mathews and Bobby Thomson are the "big sticks" in the drive. This "fearsome foursome" has averaged a composite .331 for the 22 games while connecting for 29 homers and driving in 83 runs.

How They Stack Up
The 22-game breakdown on the four sluggers is as follows:

AB	H	R	BI	Avg.
Aaron	80	34	6	.423
Adcock	67	22	10	.328

Aaron knocked in four runs with his 15th homer and two singles and Thomson whacked his 14th round-tripper Thursday when the Braves routed the New York Giants, 11-0, to run their latest winning streak to five games and increase their first-place lead to 5½ games. Gene Spawley was touched for nine hits but breezed behind a 16-hit assault to his fifth triumph.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, completed a sweep of their three-game series with the Redlegs with a 5-3 victory behind Roger Craig's six-hitter. Roy Campanella hit a three-run, fourth-inning homer for the Dodgers while Frank Robinson and Ted Kluszewski homered for the Redlegs. The victory moved the Dodgers to within a half-game of the Redlegs but they trail Milwaukee by six games.

Rookie Fred Waterman and veteran Howie Pollet collaborated in a four-hitter to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-0 decision over the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 14-9, in their NL games.

Pollet saved Waterman after the young right hander walked the first two batters in the ninth to help the Pirates score their third straight win with the aid of a throwing error by Sam Jones, Homers by Wally Moon, Ken Boyer and pitcher Harmon Whelmeier enabled the Cardinals to kayo Robin Roberts.

Mickey Mantle's three hits led an 11-hit attack that gave the New York Yankees an 8-5 decision over the Chicago White Sox in the American League. Don Larsen limited the White Sox to one run in the last six innings to pick up his sixth win while Jack Harshman suffered his seventh loss.

37-Year-Old Pitcher Is Still Trying For Major Leagues

TODAY'S SPORTS TRAIT
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By WILLIAM CLARK
United Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UP)—At a time when most 37-year-old pitchers start yearning for Florida retirement homes, a 16-year campaigner named Al Pappalardo is gunning for one more shot at the major leagues.

The knuckle-throwing Memphis pitcher in the Class AA Southern Association may not be just indulging in mere pipe dreams. Following a brilliant 23-7 record at Oklahoma City of the Texas League in 1955, "Pappy," as Chick fans call him, recently reached the halfway point of the current season with a league-leading 16-5 mark.

Despite his advanced years and three previous major league stints, Pappalardo firmly believes he has a good chance to return.

"If a fellow takes care of himself," Al says, "I see no reason why he can't be plenty effective even at 40 or 45. Although I'm not worrying about it too much, I really think I can still make the grade up there."

Pappalardo's "Sunday pitch"—a lancing, unpredictable knuckleball which he controls beautifully—thus far has had Southern Association hitters swinging at phantoms. Although much of the blaze is gone from the old fast ball, the six-foot four-inch righthander still throws it occasionally — "especially strong from centerfield."

Boasting a 2.9 earned-run average in a notorious hitters' league, Pappalardo recently pulled a minor miracle by winning three games within five days, all in starting roles. The most notable was the league all-star game.

The balding Diverson, Ill., native dates his career back to 1940. After an unimpressive debut, Pappalardo served four years in the service and returned to pick up in the Texas League. Two years later, the now-defunct St. Louis Browns beckoned and for the next three seasons Al shuffled between the Browns and the Texas loop.

In 1950, with the Boston Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals, the much-traveled veteran won six games while losing only two for his best major league mark. Single, and in top physical condition, the lean knuckleball ace strongly believes he's now at the peak of his long career. The 23 victories at Oklahoma City a year ago bolstered his confidence and helped his control. Once a major problem, control is now a Pappalardo trademark.

Strong-armed and able to take his starting turn every fourth night, Dickie baseball's "Old Man River" won't be completely happy until he gets that major league call. With his current pace making him a serious threat to become the Southern's first 30-game winner since 1905, Al feels he has the qualifications.

But with typical candor the Memphis bellwether concedes: "They may not want me anymore. I plan to keep on plugging for the Chicks and see what happens."

The Whole Town Is Getting Baffled About Cincinnati Reds

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent

CINCINNATI (NEA)—This is Cincinnati, a perennial second division town, in this season of Birdie Tebbetts, home runs and pennant hopes:

An elderly woman of close to 70 walks up to the ticket office and says she wants to buy a good seat. "First base side or third?" the man behind the window asks.

"I want to be on the center field side," she says. "I've never been to a game before, but all I hear around is how wonderful Gus Bell is, so I want the nearest seat to him that can be bought."

This is an illustration of why the once-dodgy Reds expect attendance at Crosley Field to go above a million for the first time in the downtown taverns around Fountain Square, the Terrace Plaza lobby, on a golf course or in the busy Chay Tower office building, there is only one topic people discuss — baseball and the Redlegs.

Politicians at city hall are interested. It now is more than a game to them. The Reds have become part and parcel of this city and a yagoo-rumor that Owner Powell Crosley, dissatisfied with parking conditions, was considering shifting the franchise brought out a political call for the city to buy the franchise. A few of the more vocal-conscious office-holders have started legislation to enable the city to bid for it.

Cincinnati's last pennant was won in 1940. Since then it has been a mystery, to the casual visitor, that the club has been able to survive. Cincinnati is on the smallish side, as major league cities go, and red never caught much enthusiasm for baseball around town. But Gabe Paul, the quiet and competent general manager who has put this team together, points out a few things.

"We get more than 56 per cent of our attendance from outside the city," he says. "They come from the horse country around Lexington, Ky.—only a short drive—or Louisville or Hamilton and Dayton, O. On some Sundays here we get busloads of people up from the deep south. Charter trips come in from as far away as Birmingham."

This season native Cincinnatians are turning out. You never had much trouble buying a ticket to a game in the past, but now even the club's official fan newspaper carries a box proclaiming that ticket orders will not be taken by telephone.

In the last couple of years an ambitious program of special "nights" for civic groups and corporations put the Reds' attendance at a respectable mark, considering the team's place. The "nights" are on as usual this season, but they are hardly needed.

The power-hitting team Paul assembled for Manager Tebbetts has the fans coming out in droves. There is no specific hero who brings 'em out. With radio announcer Waite Hoyt, the old pitcher, whooping it up, you find Ed Bailey as big as Ted Kuzsowski to some people. Whole clusters of fans will give Roy McMillan a booming cheer when he steps to bat. Others go for Frank Robinson, the left fielder who has been the big surprise.

Anahuac Risks String Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Feather-weight Kid Anahuac of Mexico City risks a string of 15 straight victories in his New York debut tonight against stocky Miguel

Berrios of Puerto Rico at Madison Square Garden.

Their bout will be televised and broadcast nationally over NBC network at 10 p.m. EDT.

Berrios, an aggressive body-punching specialist, is favored at 13-5 to win the 10-rounder because of his greater experience against "name" fighters.

CHICAGO (UP)—Jockey Willie Hartack has 72 winners to his credit with only two days of the 36-day Arlington Park meeting remaining. The 1955 national champion rode three winners Thursday for the second straight day.

MARGIN FOR ERROR—Use a club with which you can reach the green without prosing.

By SHELLEY MAYFIELD
Written for NEA Service

Average golfers have a tendency to underclub.

They pick out a 6 iron when it would be correct to use a 5 or a 4.

Always employ a club with which you can reach the green comfortably without forcing or prosing.

Even when they select the right club where a perfect shot is required, beginners frequently land in a bunker or leave themselves short if they are off ever so slightly.

So use a club which gives you a margin for error. Judge the distance by imagining what would be required for a perfect shot to reach the green or hit the pin. Then take, in the example of the irons, a 5 rather than a 6.

That's a good safe rule for the average golfer.

Geologist Says Red Oil Trails U. S.

HOUSTON (UP) — An internationally-known oil geologist said today that Russian oil production averaged 1.4 million barrels a day in 1955, less than one-fifth the total U.S. production for the same period.

However, said Dr. J. Brian Eby, just returned from a 22-day tour of Russia, Russia's oil output has shown a sharp increase during the past year due mainly to new discoveries in the Ural-Volga region, 1,000 miles east of Moscow.

Eby said the facts and figures were the first to be released by Russia in 15 years. He disclosed them in a speech prepared for the Gulf Coast Petroleum Writers Association.

Eby toured Russian oil facilities as a special writer for World Oil, an international oil publication. A series of articles on the Russian oil industry will begin in World Oil Aug. 15.

Eby said that between the years 1945 and 1955, Russia's oil production increased slightly over one million barrels a day while U.S. production for the same period was advancing by two million barrels a day while U. S. production for the same period was advancing by two million barrels daily.
