Lawyer Denies Gift To Case Was A Bribe

LEXINGTON, Neb. — UP — A Lexington, Neb., attorney has admitted contributing $2,500 to the campaign fund of Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.), but denied that the money was intended to sway Case's vote on the natural gas bill now being debated before the Senate.

John M. Neff, 47, told United Press early Monday he would be willing to either testify before the Senate or answer questions by the FBI in connection with the matter.

Case told the Senate last Friday he rejected a $2,500 campaign contribution from an out-of-state lawyer who favored the Harris bill. Case said the action changed his thinking on the bill and he now plans to vote against it.

The bill would exempt from direct federal controls all producer prices of natural gas.

Neff said the money was given "with absolutely no strings attached." He would not say whether he had any connection with natural gas interests nor would he comment as to whether he had made any similar contributions to other national legislators.

When asked where the money came from and why he should be interested in the campaign fund of a senator from another state, Neff replied "I believe that is something that will have to wait until (See LAWYER, Page 5)

8,780 Poll Tax Receipts Given

Poll tax receipts, the count still incomplete, stood at 7,410 paid polls and 1,370 exemptions late this morning, according to a report from County Tax Collector Assessor Jack Back's office.

The last minute rush left Back's deputies overloaded with receipts to count. The final figure should push the record of "nearly 10,000" that were issued in the last presidential election, however, Jan. 31 was the deadline for paying the tax.

Dems Hit 'Treason' Charges

Expected To Be Big Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON — UP — Democrats Monday appeared to be keeping alive as a 1956 issue statements allegedly made by Vice President Richard M. Nixon during the 1952 campaign referring to the Democrats as "the party of treason."

Democratic presidential hopeful Adlai E. Stevenson and former President Truman agreed that Republicans had made such statements during the heated '52 campaign. Truman also charged that Nixon called him a "traitor."

But GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall refuted the charges. He released a survey of newspaper accounts of speeches, press conferences and other public statements made by Nixon. He said that nowhere could he find any instance of Nixon referring to Mr. Truman as a traitor or to the Democratic party as the party of treason.

Statement From Truman

In New York, Mr. Truman said Sunday that "what's the use of getting into a controversy with people who won't tell the truth anyway?" Referring to Hall's statement, he said: "They wouldn't keep that kind of reference in Republican headquarters."

Stevenson, celebrating his 54th birthday in Los Angeles refused to comment directly. However an aide said "we are not pinpointing the charge to any single individual, but (Stevenson)... believes that the Republicans used the treason device during the 1952 campaign as well as before and since that time."

Elsewhere on the political front, Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland predicted the Republican candidate will win this year's presidential election regardless of who runs. The California Republican said, however, "it will be a hard-fought contest."

Concede One Third Vote

Stevenson's Minnesota backers concede Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) no more than about a third of the vote to be cast in the presidential primary in that state March 20. The Minnesota Democratic primary will produce the first clear test between the two candidates for the presidential nomination.

The Chicago Sun-Times said that in a public opinion poll conducted in New York state showed Stevenson better than a three to one choice over Gov. Averell Harriman as the Democrats' presidential candidate.

Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy (D-Miss.) said the Eisenhower administration has completely ignored the South in appointments to cabinet and subcabinet posts. He said in a statement that "after a thorough search, the Library of Congress says that from among all of the Cabinet officers, their undersecretaries, assistant secretaries and assistants to assistants they found only one southerner."

Europe Warms Up

LONDON — UP — A warm front descending on Europe from the southern tip of Greenland brought relief Monday from a week-long cold wave that took at least 171 lives.

Cause of death ranged from traffic accidents on icy roads to suffocation from faulty heating devices. At least eight seamen were feared lost in a storm off Portugal.

France had the heaviest toll with 46 dead. There were 32 deaths in Italy, 29 in Britain, 20 in Germany, 11 in Denmark, eight each in Holland and Portugal, seven in Sweden, five in Switzerland, three in Austria and two in Yugoslavia.

The warming weather brought new perils. Pipes that froze and burst throughout Britain in the record cold began spewing forth water Monday as the ice melted. Officials reported 50,000 plumbers working overtime. Water shortages developed in many areas.

Water boards in many areas of Britain appealed to housewives to forego the usual Monday washday, while in Tonderden Parish church in Kent special prayers were said for persons with burst water pipes.

In other areas of Europe a sudden thaw followed by a freeze coated roads with treacherous ice.

City Digging Out From Heavy Snow

The sun shown on Pampa this morning for the first time since Wednesday, when a soft gentle snow began falling creating hazardous street and road conditions in the area.

City streets were being cleaned off with maintainers early this morning, and sidewalks showed the results of shovel-work. Traffic proceeded cautiously and slowly after two days of little moving transportation.

All roads leading in every direction out of Pampa were reported open this morning, according to city police, but Highway 70 north into Perryton was still considered hazardous. All highways were open in this immediate area, but reports

24 Dead In Five-Day Storm; Few Areas Get 30-Inch Snow

By UNITED PRESS

The sun broke out brightly Monday over the snow-bound Texas Panhandle and South Plains after a record five-day storm that left some cities buried under 30 inches of snow eased and moved to the north.

The storm left at least 24 persons dead over the state, mostly from traffic accidents and fires. Some, however died of heart strain brought on by pushing stalled cars or shoveling snow.

A new threat of light snow and freezing rain was posted for the state until early Monday when a cold front began breaking up over Arizona and lower California.

"The storm is pretty well to an end," a weather bureau forecaster said Monday. "No more precipitation is in sight."

A Mexican woman and her newborn baby were found dead in their home near Plainview—hardest hit of the cities—before police could get a doctor out in time to deliver the infant.

Stalled automobiles and buses left hundreds of persons stranded during the storm. Fifteen passengers of a stalled bus near the Texas-New Mexico line, west of Amarillo, were rescued after the driver stumbled eight hours through a blizzard to get help.

Another bus stalled during the night in the little town of Glen Rio, N. M., but the 23 passengers got (See PANHANDLE, Page 5)

Three Dead From Drinking Anti-Freeze

Three people were dead today after drinking anti-freeze in a motel at Alameda yesterday afternoon, Sheriff Rufe Jordan reported.

Betty Louise Eumice, 24, also known as Betty L. McNeil, died in the motel yesterday about 1:30 p.m.

Charles Gary, 29, of Bowling Green, Ky., and Mary Faye Gallagher, 20, died between 4 and 5 a.m. today in the Groom Hospital. Bruce Burkett, 36, of Tempe, Ariz., is in County jail here and will probably be all right, according to Jordan.

Gary, who talked to Sheriff Jordan yesterday afternoon in the Groom Hospital, relayed the macabre chain of events leading to the death of the two girls and later himself.

Jordan said that Gary told him the four got together in Amarillo and started for Oklahoma City in one of the girl's car and trailer house. The snow storm stopped them in Alameda, where they rented a motel room.

Jordan said the four had been drinking gin and when their supply had run out, they decided to "make" something to drink out of antifreeze. They rigged up a bucket and hose, with the hose running through water and into a container which would catch the "alcohol."

The sheriff reported that the four had purchased some grape juice to go with their lethal drink.

Shortly after four had consumed a portion of their deadly concoction, Betty Louise became sick and lay down on a bed. Gary told the sheriff that the girl made very little noise and when they looked at her a short time later, she was dead.

They called Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Shelton and Constable J. D. Fish of McLean, who later called undertaker J. C. Claborn. Claborn took the body to McLean and Mary Gallagher and Gary were taken to the hospital at Groom where they died early this morning. Burkett was later brought to jail here.

Jordan reported that the Eumice girl's body was to be shipped to Jacksonville, Fla., and his department was trying to find relatives of the other two dead.

Fiend Slashes Boy's Throat 'For Reaction'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — UP — Thomas Lynn Johnston, 24-year-old apprentice embalmer with an apparent fetish for knives, slashed a seven-year-old boy to death in the washroom of a downtown theater Sunday.

"I wanted to see his reaction when I cut his throat," Johnston explained to police. "I just thought it was a good idea."

The victim, Ronald Wendorf, attended the movie matinee at the Studio Theater with his brothers, Billy, 10, and Bobby, 7. Ronald went to the washroom alone and Johnston admitted watching him leave and following him, Detective Herbert Kunz said.

Johnston told the detective he grabbed the boy and pulled him into a cubicle of the room and stabbed him in the throat. When Ronald screamed, Johnston slashed his throat and cut his face, he said.

Theater Manager William R. Sanderson heard the scream and accosted Johnston as he came down the stairway from the washroom. Johnston was carrying a bloody pocketknife in his hand, but Sanderson held him until police arrived.

The detective, who booked Johnston on a charge of murder, said police were checking sex and erotic interest in knives as possible motives in the slaying as Johnston did not know the boy.

Police said eight knives, besides the knife used to slash the boy, were found in Johnston's room over a mortuary, along with a book entitled "The Knife."

Driver Of Stranded Bus Tells Of Experience

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Bus driver John D. Hearon, 38, spent eight torturous hours on foot battling a blizzard Saturday night trying to find help for his 15 snowbound passengers. He walked more than 10 miles before he came to help, and by then was totally exhausted and suffering from frostbite. Here he tells from his hospital bed of his ordeal.)

By JOHN D. HEARON
As Told to United Press
TUCUMCARI, N.M. — UP — The bus I picked up in Amarillo stalled in this drift between Adrian, Tex., and Glen Rio, N.M., which is right on the Texas-New Mexico border. It was about 9 in the morning. I guess we were a little closer to Adrian than Glen Rio.

I was going about 25 miles an hour when I hit this drift in a deep cut. Snow was about waist high and we couldn't move the bus. No one got excited, though. We had about a half tank of fuel, so there was no immediate worry about heat.

We figured we'd just sit tight until help came. I knew when we didn't arrive at Tucumcari, someone would be sent after us. I also thought someone might come up in another car. The only thing we had no food nor water, and some of the passengers hadn't eaten since the day before. I ate before I left Amarillo.

No Help In Sight
Along about 2:30, there still was no help in sight and we were running low on fuel. I had used quite a bit trying to get the bus unstuck. I decided the best thing to do was to go for help. I told the passengers to keep together in the bus and which way I was headed.

Although Adrian was a little closer, I went toward Glen Rio because I wouldn't have to face the wind so directly. I was wearing my regulation uniform—trousers, jacket, cap, gloves and low shoes.

When I started walking, the snow got in around my feet and on my pants legs and froze. Although it made walking harder, the frozen snow cut the wind and probably with my walking kept my legs from freezing.

I raised my jacket to cover my mouth and nose for protection. While it was still daylight, I came on several stalled cars and three of them had people in them. I stopped to get warm in them. They were almost out of fuel, too.

The blowing snow and cold wind hurt my eyes. I lost all sight in the left eye, and when I got to Glen Rio, I just barely could see out of the left one. All I could distinguish was a glare of light. Both my eyes were hurting.

I got off the highway several times after dark. I knew I was off the road by the depth of the snow and had to flounder around until I could get back on. A lot of the time, the only way I could tell where the road was, was by judging the distance between telephone poles and fence rows.

The more I walked, the more my legs ached, and I was cold clear through. I fell down at least three times but I knew I had to get up and go on. I was afraid to stop because I knew I would never start again. The thing I thought about most was just to get through and get some help.

I lost all sense of time and I don't have any idea what time it was when I got to Glen Rio. I don't know how long I walked. When I saw that light it was too weak to shout very loud for help, so I started whistling. Someone heard me because three or four men came along and helped me to a gas station.

They began warming me up and giving me emergency treatment and then the ambulance and doctor arrived and I knew that help was on the way to the passengers.

Central Tire Works Features Best In Recaps, Snow Tires

Ever since the invention of the wheel man has been having wheel trouble. In our modern age the hooter has developed into tire trouble.

Have your tires retreaded the modern way to enjoy extra thousands of trouble-free motoring on trouble-free tires.

Most Modern
Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic, 4-3781, can do the job for you because this firm has all the most modern equipment to do precision work.

Wardie Maddox, owner and operator of Central Tire Works, declared "We in the tire business once had to put up with obsolete machines and limited knowledge of tire repairing and recapping."

That situation has changed completely within the last decade. Now we detect almost 100 per cent of all weak points in a tire. Because of our accurate inspection, we are able to go to work and put a tread on a sound tire carcass.

Like New Tire
"Our recap will run and perform just like a new tire."

Today's cars are more sensitive to an out-of-round tire or to an unbalanced tire. Central Tire Works has the newest machine which quickly locates the lightest point in the tire, and enables Central Tire experts to over-come two major faults: 1—out-of-round condition; and 2—out-of-balance condition.

In the retreading process Central Tire completely removes those faults by placing the proper amount of rubber at the light spots.

Soon this new machine will be in just about every tire shop in the United States. Central Tire has this machine now.

Recap Truck Tire
Central Tire also has a very successful method to recap truck tires, a method many larger shops dare not use because of the expense and production slow-down. This is a sure shot method for capping truck tires.

Central Tire has owned the new Band Type Bacon Truck Tire Mold for nine months, and has capped more than 600 tires without a single tread failure due to workmanship or material.

When To Recap
This firm has proved many times it can retread a tire and make the tire run like new. Central Tire Works recommends that you have your tires retreaded before the old tread impression is worn off.

Many other shops still use the old, high pressure tire molds which are round enough, but the tread design of them does not conform with the new style wheel, a factor which makes the recap out-of-round.

Bacon Molds
Central Tire Works employs the new, famous Bacon Molds which are modern in every respect. These molds produce beautiful retreads which any one will be proud to own.

And any one can own a tire retapped at Central Tire Works. Central Tire prices are not the highest, and still are not the lowest. Central Tire does not try to compete with shops using low grade material and cut prices.

Central Tire Works does invite you to come to the plant at 618 E. Frederic to inspect the new molds, and to inspect the stock of raw retreads.

Snow, Mud Tires
See the snow and mud tires, just the thing right now! The deep treads will pull you through. Wardie Maddox hunted until he found this tread to give the maximum traction in rough going.

Look over the Bacon Mold which can retread just about every size of passenger-car-tire, and truck tire—even the largest used in the Panhandle. Other equipment includes machines to do section repairs on all tires, including big tractor tires.

Precision Buffer
Be sure to look at the new Precision Buffer which makes tires perfectly round automatically—no margin to make an error. Maddox uses this buffer before he applies the new tread.

Drive in—let Wardie Maddox show you around Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic. Compare the materials and the workmanship and you will trade at Central!

Dust Stoppers
Aluminum Storm Windows
(Pat. Pending)

• The First and only Proven Aluminum STORM WINDOWS to be manufactured in Texas.
• Over 11,000 units sold and installed in past 24 months which is proof of their success.
• Each DUST STOPPER is custom built to fit your windows, not a stock window fit with expanders as is the case with many storm windows on the market. The difference is as great as there is between dime store eye glasses and ones fitted by a specialist.
• Do not be fooled into buying storm windows that do not have weather stripping such as most Eastern types which you will recognize because of their half screens, as they will not keep out the dust and dirt. FHA requires weatherstripping in all double hung windows for new construction whether they be made of wood, aluminum or steel. So why do you think a storm window without weather stripping will keep out dirt?
• All DUST STOPPERS are 100% weather-stripped.
• Installed by Factory trained Installation Crews, working direct out of factory with the latest type equipment, and the experience of how to use it. We have turned down several prospective dealers as they wanted to install the Dust Stopper themselves but did not have proper experience or equipment necessary to do the type of an installation that we require.
• The next time you think of storm windows, remember the above facts and let our trained engineers show you the difference. For free estimate call or write

Will you be my Valentine?
Your sentiment is eloquent when you say it with flowers from Roberta's Flowers, 217 N. Ballard, 4-3309.

Beautiful Corsage
How eloquent is a corsage of red roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, sweetheart roses, gardenias, orchids, all arranged with a touch of Valentine's so she-or-he will remember your greeting forever.

Eloquent Bouquets
Flowers are always beautiful, always appreciated, and most appreciated at the bedside. In this season flowers will bring your Valentine greeting, and will be like wonderful medicine in restoring health.

How eloquent is each bloom in a bouquet of tulips, jonquils, wedge-wood blue iris, the always-popular spring flowers; or of red roses, yellow roses, stocks, gladiolas, chrysanthemums, carnations—white, red or peppermint, acacia.

Scots heather, pussy willows either natural or in colors.

At Roberta's, too, they can show you the bud vases, heart-shaped Valentine vases, rainbow vases, milk glass vases and plant holders, branched plant stands, and many other gift items to complete your home decorations for more gracious every-day living and for special occasions.

Let them show you how beautiful a floral nosegay is! A brassy sniffer filled with gorgeous, fragrant blooms! For the mantle piece, coffee table or bridge table. Every guest will admire it.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

ALMOST EVERYBODY IS IN FAVOR of doing over rooms in the home every few years or so. For many, however, this desire never gets out of the wishing and planning stage. Unfortunately, it's just too expensive to consider. Well, it doesn't have to cost a fortune to redecorate a home. Modern homemakers have found that they can cut costs as much as one-third by doing the job themselves. The floors, for example.

A BRIGHT NEW floor can make all difference in the world in the appearance of a room. It can turn a dim, depressing room into a bright and cheerful one where the sun just seems to shine all the time. This transformation can be accomplished easily with the new smooth surface floor products now on the market. Congoleum-Nairn, for example, has products especially designed for do-it-yourself installation.

The products that a housewife can install herself include linoleum tile, vinyl tile, rubber tile, vinyl asbestos tile, cork tile and asphalt tile. It's wise for housewives to stick to tile products rather than attempting an installation involving linoleum or vinyl sheet goods. These two products require the skill and experience of a mechanic with years of experience if a satisfactory job is expected.

Each product has particular advantages for certain rooms in the home. For example, if you are thinking of a living room floor that is a concrete slab laid directly on the ground, then vinyl tile or a special linoleum product called Rancheite is your right answer. For a kitchen floor that is of wood construction a rubber tile, a linoleum tile, or a vinyl tile will make a good flooring. Where moisture has to be contended with, Vinylbest (a vinyl-asbestos tile) or asphalt tile will take care of this problem most satisfactorily.

No matter what kind of floor you want to cover or where it is located there is a smooth surface resilient floor product you can install yourself. If you have any question about what product is best for your particular room, write to the manufacturer.

Square Meal Diet Includes Counting Calories If You Carry A Lunch Box

Here's the last of a seven-day diet on keeping your weight in check with a "Square Meal Diet," prepared by a consumer specialist for the National Dairy Council.

By MRS. DOLORES I. ELLIOTT (Written for NEA Service)
If you carry your lunch when you're dining, take cold sliced meats or fowl or eggs or cheese or a combination of these, with lettuce and one thin or two very thin slices of lightly buttered bread or two crackers.

You can also take tomato, carrots, celery, lettuce, radishes or green pepper rings, and - or fresh fruits in season.
Order a half pint of milk or take it in a vacuum bottle.
Clear hot soups carry well in a vacuum bottle, too. Mixed salads travel well in plastic or paper cups in cool weather.

Here's the seventh day's menu for your 1400-calories-a-day "Square Meal Diet":

BREAKFAST
1/2 cup orange sections
1 poached egg
1 thin slice toast

"This Revolutionary Faith" Is Studied By Circles Of First Methodist Church

Circles of the First Methodist Church met recently to continue their study "This Revolutionary Faith."

CIRCLE ONE
Circle 1 had its meeting in the home of Mrs. W. A. Wagoner, with the circle chairman, Mrs. G. F. Branson, leading the business session.

Mrs. Ed Williams was the study leader. All members participated in the discussion of the lesson, "The Story of Jimmie Yen and the Youth Crusade" was given by Mrs. Ralph Thomas. Refreshments were served to the twelve members.

Next meeting will be Feb. 15, with Mrs. G. F. Branson 2125 Christine. Mrs. Glenn Radcliff will be co-hostess.

CIRCLES 2 AND 3

Circles 2 and 3 met in the home of Mrs. E. V. Ward, with Mrs. Melvin Stephens as co-hostess.

Mrs. Ken Meaders opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Aubrey Steele is study leader. Mrs. Roy Johnson talked about the work of Dr. Frank Laubach who teaches illiterate people to read. Mrs. Paul Bowers told of Jimmy Yen's work in the Philippines and China. Mrs. W. Purviance closed the meeting with a prayer.

Twenty-one members attended. Next meeting will be Feb. 15, with Mrs. Purviance, 802 W. Francis.

CIRCLE FOUR

Circle 4 met with Mrs. Bob McCoy. Mrs. R. W. Lane, chairman, opened the meeting with prayer and conducted the short business session.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell, taught the lesson, discussing the various hungers of mankind. An article, "We Too Can Read" by Frank Laubach, was discussed by Mrs. T. M. McBrayer.

Mrs. Lane closed the meeting with a prayer. Present were eight women. Mrs. A. B. Ostruth, 2008 Mary Ellen, will be hostess for the Feb. 15 meeting.

CIRCLES FIVE AND SIX

Circles 5 and 6 met in the church parlor with Mrs. H. P. Dosier Sr. as hostess. Mrs. Dosier read the scripture. Mrs. J. E. Kirchman, sturdy leader, was assisted by Mrs. Dosier and Mrs. R. I. Davis. The meeting was closed by a prayer by Mrs. Joe Shelton. Sixteen women were present.

Mrs. R. E. Hamm and Mrs. A. R. Killen will be hostesses in the parlor for the Feb. 15 meeting.

CIRCLE SEVEN

Circle 7 met in the home of Mrs. J. D. Kenworthy, with Mrs. John Brewer as co-hostess. Mrs. Charles Shelton, chairman, opened

Trial-Run Pancake Supper Presented By Episcopal Guild

St. Margaret's Guild of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church held a "trial-run" pancake supper for members, their husbands and families, recently in the Parish House.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Harry Creel and Miss Ollene McShan. A business meeting and program followed the supper. Mrs. S. J. Meador Jr. led the opening prayer and presented the devotional. Harry Creel, guest speaker, talked on "England and the Papacy."

Plans were made for the regular pancake supper the Guild is sponsoring from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Parish Hall. Committees appointed included Mmes. Bill Felter, William E. West and Bill Thomas, tickets; Mmes. Charles Bruce, James Harris, Eddie Roberts and Bill Ragsdale, decorations; Mmes. Kay Bruce, W. F. Zapf and Harry Creel, clean up; Mmes. Clem Followell, Bob Plummer, Paul Henton, George Rorback, James Harris, William E. West, George Richmond, Eddie Roberts, E. K. Baumgartner, and Messrs. James Hart, Clem Followell and Bill Ragsdale, food; Mrs. S. J. Meador Jr. and Misses Ruth Huff and Ollene McShan, serving.

Milk and butter will be furnished by the Borden Company; eggs by the Superior Egg Company of Wellington; pancake mix, syrup, shortening and napkins, by Fite Food Market; and coffee by the Wapples-Platter Company.

Tickets at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12 years of age will be sold by Guild members or at the News Service, 113 W. Kingmill.

The Young People's Service League will assist the Guild with the supper.

About 40 persons attended the "trial-run" supper.

Delicious waffles that sing with flavor are made by adding spicy fresh apples and a sprinkling of cinnamon. For a 6-waffle recipe, sift 1/2 tsp. cinnamon with the dry ingredients, then fold 1-1/2 cups pared, diced red Winesap apples into the batter.

Political Campaigns

It has frequently seemed to us that political campaigns were of greater value than actual elections. Amid all the noise and confusion of the hustings, at least various and sundry views are usually expressed.

Whether the views are honest and sincere or not, at least they have the merit of winning vast general attention. However, all too frequently, the election is merely a mechanical process whereby popularity is determined on the basis of a majority, and the issues are submerged in the surging forth of the successful personality.

In 1952, as an example, two widely divergent views were presented to the voting public. Mr. Eisenhower captivated vast audiences by his assertion that there was a "mess" in Washington. If only he were in Washington, he stated, he'd put an end to the rotten socialism that had been so prevalent in the regime of Harry Truman, F. D. Roosevelt and their cronies.

Where did he stand on the various issues? Why, he was for states' rights. He was opposed to federal aid to education. He favored a large-scale reduction in taxes. He favored an end to government intervention and reliance on the free enterprise system. He didn't like FEPC. And he particularly didn't like the wishy-washy attitude put out by Dean Gooderham Acheson with respect to foreign communists. He was certain that our international position would be strengthened if we showed a firm hand. And as for communists in this country, he wanted them thrown out by the government.

Now, all of this was refreshing conversation. Meanwhile, Adlai Stevenson with brilliant vocal footwork dodged issues, skirted opprobrium, and generally performed entertainingly with his soft shoe partner, John Sparkman.

It was a good show. The American people were led to believe that Ike meant what he said. They rejected the machine-tooled candidates of the Democrats and cast a majority of votes for the man who promised a crusade.

O course, it wasn't long before the American people realized that the Eisenhower promises were nothing at all but conversation. The alleged "mess" in Washington seemed to have like mess-merized. Ike stopped talking about cutting taxes and switched to the old refrain about balancing the budget. He appeared to show a stout front to foreign communists, but after taking the wraps off the Seventh Fleet in Formosan waters, he began to sit down with his Russian pals thereby giving them more encouragement than they had had in years.

He fired a few Reds in government, but the process was instrumental in censoring the most redoubtable red hunter in the land, Senator Joe McCarthy. As for states' rights, his personally selected Chief Justice ruled that the South has no states' rights. The desegregation ruling has abrogated states rights for more than the highly controversial FEPC ever would have.

As for federal aid to education, and farmers and doctors, and so forth, he is for it. He is for an expanded public works program costing some $4,000,000,000. He wants a federal highway program, more public housing, continuation of high taxes, foreign aid increased and extended indefinitely, and a sharing of our wealth and know-how with all our potential enemies.

This total adoption of the socialist program by the man who said that he was opposed to socialism has rather taken the wind out of the Democratic sails. For some years they had been campaigning for socialism. Now, they are caught in the position of merely advocating "me too."

All of which brings us to the realization that things are worse today than they were in 1952. At least then, even if insincere, some persons were publicly giving the reasons why we should not continue on a program in violation of our American heritage. In 1956, no spokesman for the American way of freedom and independence appear in either major party.

Truly, we are far gone in the swamp of socialist fever. It is increasingly doubtful if we can ever recover. Meanwhile, the election itself becomes an insignificant event in which we select a contest from a field of two, both of whom advocate the same things. Even the hustings have lost their color. We can vote for socialism. Or we can vote for socialism.

The vine of American liberty is withering at the root. It is obvious that the political arena offers us no way out.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

Many parents have serious problems with their adolescent children of which eating habits are often one. Q - Our 16-year-old daughter weighed 145 pounds in the summer of 1954. She then cut down on her food and a month later entered school weighing 125 pounds. Late last spring she developed a strong craving for sweets, started eating heavily, and went up some 30 pounds in a few months. For the last three weeks she has been eating only 200 to 300 calories a day in fruit and hard-boiled eggs but has lost only 4 pounds and in fact today she gained a pound. Do you think this might be glandular trouble? - M. J.

A - It is barely possible that there is some glandular trouble involved in this problem. It is much more likely, however, that this 16-year-old girl is eating sweets or something else on the sly. It is incredible that she would not lose weight on a 200-to-300-calorie diet and in all probability her urea-nitrogen or other hiding places would reveal some surprises. Q - MY TEN-YEAR-OLD girl has nose bleeds two or three times a week for no reason at all. They

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Two More Union Labor Arguments

For the last several days I have been presenting the usual arguments that labor unions give trying to justify their existence. I have been attempting to explain their fallacies. I want to mention a couple of more arguments that I have heard by persons who seem to believe that labor unions can do something for the working class of people.

One employee contended that it was to the interest of the employer to pay the workers high enough wages so that they were contented.

Contented Cows His argument was that contented cows gave more milk and for this reason he contended that a contented worker produced more work. My answer to this in the first place was that the man was not a cow; that he had a mind of his own and wanted to develop.

Then I explained that if a man was completely satisfied he wouldn't feel it was necessary for him to improve and develop and become more useful. It would have a tendency to make him stagnant. Of course a man should be satisfied that he was getting as much for his work as anyone else would pay him, and he must be getting it or he would be taking another job.

Workers might try to kid the employer that they are working for him for less than they could get someplace else but there are usually other conditions that make his net reward more on the job he has than he believes he could get over a period of time from another job. Otherwise he would take the other job.

Don't Want To Move

Another argument that workers quite often use which, of course, has some merit to it is that they are acquainted in the town they live in and have friends there and do not want to move to another town. This is especially true if there are only a few employers in that particular trade.

But if all people took the attitude that they did not want to move where their services were the most needed, and therefore, the wages higher, there would be mighty little progress. In fact, the United States would hardly have been settled if people were tied to a certain geography. Progress comes from men being willing to move and pull up stakes and take a job where there are better opportunities. Usually the surplus labor in a community is taken care of by the younger workers before they are settled, moving from the territory where there is a surplus of labor.

Surplus Workers

We have a nice example of the ill effects of workers wanting to stay in the same place and not move or change jobs because they like the work and they like the location. We have $8 billion surplus of farm products because more people want to stay on the farm and do not want to inconvenience themselves by learning another trade or moving. If the wagon makers and harness makers contended that they could not learn another trade or move, we would have a great surplus of harnesses and wagons and buggies.

Labor unions, instead of correcting this maladjustment, perpetuate it by interfering with the law of supply and demand in different locations. Wages, of course, are worth more in certain places than others and at certain times than at other times.

Primary Cause of Unemployment

One of the primary causes of unemployment is the labor unions freezing wages to a point where there are not two specific profits—the buyer of labor as well as the seller of labor. When both parties to a transaction do not believe they are going to improve their well-being, there ceases to be employment; there ceases to be exchange of labor. And since business is nothing but an exchange of labor, when the exchange of labor ceases or decreases, our production goes down and our standard of living stays down until that maladjustment has been corrected.

Instead of correcting it in the normal way in the depression of the 20's and 30's, organized labor froze the wages, and in order to try to correct this imbalance, the government went off the gold standard and began to cut wages by increasing credit used as money.

There's no discussion needed more than whether or not organized labor by creating monopolies can increase the standard of living.

Any questions on the subject?

hormone treatments should be begun somewhat earlier—perhaps 5 or 6 years old—and if not successful then the undescended testicle should be brought down, by operation. In any event, it should be corrected before the age of puberty.

Q - We have a son of four who has been having trouble with his knee. About a month ago he woke during the night and cried because he could not move his leg. This lasted the whole of the next day and he could not walk at all. The X-ray shows that one knee does not have as much calcium in it as the other. What do you think we should do? - Mrs. A.

A - One cannot make a diagnosis from this description but it certainly sounds as though this youngster should have careful tests to see if the cause can be definitely determined and something done about it before it has done him any harm.

Queen's Visit To Nigeria Shows Concern For Area

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Queen Elizabeth's current visit to Nigeria emphasizes Anglo-American concern over another vast and strategic frontier in the widening combat with Russian Communism, which has already obtained a threatening foothold along North Africa. British Majesty does not spend three weeks in one of the continent's most torrid and most primitive places simply for reasons of courtesy or ceremony.

Although far more backward than India or China, Africa is heading for the same goal of independence from British, French, Belgian and Portuguese domination. Although it assumes many different forms from South Africa to Egypt—Mau Mau massacres in Kenya and Nigeria's desire for a Central Federation within the British Commonwealth—the local rulers and natives insist on breaking away from white subjection.

Their wants are of the bread-and-butter, bacon-and-beans kind rather than aggravatingly political or ideological. They do not know the meaning of communism, although this may be a danger, never having heard of Marx, Lenin, Stalin or even Khrushchev. Their needs—and demands—are a more even break in land ownership, employment, wages, education, medical facilities, social progress.

But the Communists are slowly infiltrating even the darkest hinterland, promising paradise in whatever pleasant forms each native mind conceives it to be. They have won some recruits among the "intelligentsia," including many who were educated at Oxford, Cambridge, the Sorbonne, Harvard, Columbia. Dissatisfied with their lot in a white-dominated society, they preach discontent.

The successes of their more advanced kinsmen to the North have been infectious. Egypt and the Sudan have broken away from England. In Morocco and Tunisia, the rising against the French flares into violence periodically, upsetting Ministries in Paris. Extremists threaten to drag South Africa out of the Commonwealth.

The British are trying to meet the problem sensibly but cautiously. They realize that 3,000,000 whites cannot submerge 200,000,000 Africans forever, no more than they could do in India. They aim to prepare the natives, or enough of them, for self-government under the Crown's remote and benevolent supervision.

The question is one of timing. To move out too soon—might lead to anarchy and tribal wars, a fertile field for Communist penetration of the most violent kind. But to stay too long might precipitate bloody outbreaks like those in Kenya and Morocco.

Queen Elizabeth's Ministers diplomatically sent her to model colony. The three zones of Nigeria—North, East and West—have their own elected legislative bodies, with substantial power over domestic matters. The British Governor General may veto legislation jeopardizing imperial interests, but the incumbent, Sir James Robertson, has never had to exercise this authority.

Federal Aid To Schools Means Federal Controls

By Thurman Sensing

It seems to be necessary to tell the centralized planners—and to remind ourselves—over and over that federal aid to schools means federal control of schools.

Every time federal aid is proposed, the planners come forth with glib statements that their plan does not include federal control—but if we have any sense at all we should know that any such statement simply is not so.

It is only natural that the federal government should control that which it subsidizes, and we should recognize that fact. Moreover, the history of federal aid shows that it is a fact, regardless of what may be said about it.

For an example in education, when the Smith-Hughes Act was passed in 1916 providing federal aid to vocational education, its proponents insisted time and again during the debate prior to its passage that "federal aid will not mean federal control."

But this control has increased since then year by year. Now, if you look in the book, Administration of Vocational Education, which is issued by the Government Printing Office and which sets forth the specific requirements that must be met by states in order to get this aid, you will find this sentence: "Each state is required to submit a plan which must meet with the approval of the Federal Office of Education." This one sentence alone assures federal dictation.

Now the President proposes a five-year program of federal aid to the states for school construction—and again it is stated this will not mean federal control. But we should know that it will just work out that way. When the federal government provides money for this purpose, we should know that it will soon be telling the states how the buildings should be constructed whether the students should be segregated, what type of teachers to employ and many other things that should be left up to the local authorities.

And above and beyond all this, perhaps the best hope for thwarting this whole movement will come from sources that would be expected to most vehemently support the Administration in its recommendation. This would be from those Congressmen who say they will introduce an amendment to the proposal requiring complete integration of schools in all states that are to receive any federal aid. This would undoubtedly hoist the proposal on its own petard and mean its end, not only in this Congress but in any foreseeable Congress. It would be nothing less than poetic justice for these friends of federal aid to schools to help kill it.

And above and beyond all this,

And above and beyond all this,

THE NATION'S PRESS

THE DANGEROUS VICTORY

(The Wall Street Journal) Seven years ago the Government filed Sherman anti-trust law charges against the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and demanded that the parent firm divest itself of much of its control over the twenty-one operating companies that span the nation.

A. T. and T. must also, the Government said, give up Western Electric, its manufacturing subsidiary because A. T. and T. bought most of its equipment from Western Electric. Western Electric was additionally charged with having illegally bought up competitors.

The Government and the telephone company did a lot of sparring during those seven years. And when the bell rang ending the last round the other day as a consent decree was signed in Federal court, the Government claimed a great victory.

Not at all, if the case of the transistor patent is to be taken into account. One executive reported that his royalty fees amounted to only 1 1/2 per cent of his selling price. This, he said, was a small price to pay for what A. T. and T. spent on teaching its patentees the know-how to use the patents. "We could never have afforded the basic developmental work they put into transistors."

In four years, other executives agreed, transistor development reached a point of perfection it took the vacuum tube 30 years to reach. And in the same four years the price of transistors dropped from $30 each to 30 cents each under A. T. and T.'s leadership and guidance.

Now anyone has access to all the 8,600 patents possessed by A. T. and T. Many of them have undoubtedly not reached the stage of perfection reached by the transistor; many of them, perhaps, are really only the beginnings of some new developments in communications. And it may be that some will never be developed since A. T. and T. has no longer any control over them.

For even the Government cannot expect a company to explain the workings of 8,600 patents to everyone who wants to know how they work. Nor can the Government force a company to do so.

Largely, the same is true of the patents of the International Business Machines Corporation, which in a similar settlement agreed to turn over for free some of its patents and to license others.

So it may turn out that these are dangerous victories the Government boasts about. The settlements in these cases indicate a belief that everybody's patents should be everybody's also. But this is a philosophy that strikes at incentive; new ideas and new inventions may be lost.

Such Government victories may turn out to be far more costly for the nation than for the companies.

REFLECTION

Editorial by JAMES C. INGEBRETSON, President, Spiritual Mobilization.

Columnist Bill Henry, writing in the Los Angeles Times, said recently: "...his (President Eisenhower's) state of the Union message... was so all-encompassing and Mother Hubbardish that it stole much of the Democrats' thunder—it is hardly possible to think of any piece of legislation which the Democrat-controlled Congress might pass which was not asked for, in some way or other, by the President."

True, Eisenhower seems to have so completely ransacked Old Mother Hubbard's political hand-out cupboard that the Democrats may indeed find it completely bare of any more tempting bones to proffer us hungry voters. But whether or not the fare we are to be offered by both the Republicans and the Democrats will prove to be nourishing to the body politic is, I would say, another question entirely. For, as all smart dogs are aware, the bones we get back are merely the ones we laboriously gathered together in the first place and which, in the take-em-away, give-'em-back process, have had a good bit of the meat stripped off them.

The time element will not permit a cancellation of the game and "Because of the win over Borger the Harvesters and their coach, Clifton McNeely, are looking forward to meeting the tough Lubbock five."

By TOMMIE ELLIS Pampa News Sports Editor Johnny Claunch game through with his second knockout of the 1956 Amarillo Regional Golden Gloves Tournament to win the 147 high school championship crown for the Pampa Optimist fighters. He is the first Optimist mitterman to take a title as all other fighters that haven't already been eliminated will go for the crown Monday night, weather permitting. All fighters were stranded in Amarillo Friday night after the bouts and probably won't be home until Tuesday. It is reported that two gymmen from Borger were lost between their homes and Amarillo sometime Friday night. Gary Wills will be going for the 105-pound championship on Monday night. He will be facing Robert Francis of Borger in his final bout. Wills defeated Robert Carter, Wellington, Tuesday night and Eddie Gonzalez, Plainview, on Wednesday. Francis stopped Jimmy Bond, Canyon, Tuesday and Wesley Hudgins, Amarillo, Wednesday. Raul Ramirez will fight in the 118 pound championship division. Ramirez was the champion of the 112-pound high school bracket last season. Ramirez defeated Gary Watt Friday night to advance into the finals. Gary Wilhelm, last year's 118-pound high school champion, will meet Wayne Tedder in 128-pound title bout Monday. Wilhelm has stopped Buck Ramsey, Amarillo, and Jay Johnson was unable to appear for the Wednesday night bout. Jesse Ring will tangle with Manny Perez in 135-pound final fight. Perez, a well known Amarillo mitterman, stopped Jerry Lamar, Pampa in the Friday night bouts and T. B. Bacs, Canyon, Wednesday. Ring, who was ill for both the Pampa and Borger District tournaments, won

Russia, Austria Dominate Seventh Winter Olympics

By PETER UEBERSAX CORTINA, Italy.—UP—The winter Olympics, dominated by Russia and the individual feats of Austria's Toni Sailer, produced an avalanche of records and bitter defeats for Canada and Norway.

When the Olympic torch flickered out Sunday night in the shadows of the Dolomite Alps, Russia's superbly conditioned team had given a hint of the power it will unleash at the 1956 summer games. Russia pulled an unprecedented feat by winning the unofficial team championship in its first appearance at a winter Olympiad.

The Soviet stars chalked up Olympic and world records with effortless grace in speed skating and climaxed their brilliant showing by winning the ice hockey title Saturday night with a 2-0 triumph over Canada.

Middlecoff Adds Phoenix Open To Wins

By PAUL CORCORAN PHOENIX, Ariz.—UP—Cary Middlecoff, first apparent to the crown Ben Hogan wore as king of professional golf, Monday added the $15,000 Phoenix Open championship to his list of triumphs, although he had to share the headlines with an unheralded amateur.

The United States entered one of the best teams it has sent to the winter games. Its gold medal performances, as expected, were produced by figure skating stars Hayes Alan Jenkins and Tenley Albright. The Yanks wound up sixth in team scoring with 54 1-2 points.

Actually, Olympic officials recognize only individual performances, and Sailer emerged from the record 947 entries as the finest performer in the 32-year history of the winter games. He became the first to win all Olympic titles in a single branch of sports by sweeping the three men's Alpine skiing events — downhill, slalom and giant slalom.

Ponies Stop Hogs; Meet Texas Friday

By ED FITTE United Press Sports Writer The Texas Longhorns, who finally chalked up their first loop victory last week after five futile attempts, will be the only league rival to get a shot at front-running Southern Methodist on this week's outwest Conference basketball schedule.

Coach Thurman (Blue) Hull's sophomore-tinged Longhorns invade Dallas, where SMU hasn't lost to a college foe in nearly two years, to try and spoil the Mustangs' perfect 6-0 league record in one of two games on tap Tuesday night.

'Money Over ABC's' In US

LONDON.—UP—British athletes were warned Monday that American universities place money ahead of knowledge. The Sunday newspaper, "The People," advised British athletes not to accept free scholarships from United States schools because "there is little sports for sport's sake across the Atlantic."

The newspaper also disclosed to British readers that American football players use a "new type" rip-away jersey which tears when it is grabbed by a potential tackler. The jerseys mentioned became popular in the U.S. about 15 years ago.

Amateur Jim Tom Blair, Jefferson City, Mo., and Jimmy Demaree, Klamath Lake, N. Y., wound up in a tie for third with 280.

Blair, playing in the same threesome with Middlecoff, pressed the former golfing dentist through the first 12 holes of the final round Sunday. When he birdied the par-four 12th hole, he drew even with Middlecoff.

Other triple gold medal winners in past Olympiads were Norway's speed skaters, Ivar Ballangrud and Hjalmar Andersen, but both failed to sweep the four speed skating races on the Olympic program.

CARBURETOR SAVES GAS BY 'JET-ING'

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that saves gasoline by "jet-ting and vacu-mating." It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits cars, trucks and tractors. The manufacturer, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-70 State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or send your name and address on a post card today.

Blair, son of Missouri Lt. Gov. Jim Tom Blair II, gambled on the 15th to get on the green with his drive, and his failure to do so broke the duel between the two. The ball dropped into a water hazard—added since the tournament was last played here in 1954—and Blair took a penalty stroke to play the ball. He finished the hole with a double bogey.

Middlecoff, who already had won the Bing Crosby Open and placed second at Palm Springs in 1955, showed an opportunistic nature by promptly sinking a five-foot putt for a birdie on the 16th hole. Then on the 18th, his second shot narrowly missed the pin and put him in position for an eagle on the long, par-five hole. He didn't make the eagle, but he sank an easy birdie for the tournament's top prize money of $2,400.

Blair, who said he had no intention of giving up after his trouble on the 15th, sank a spectacular 20-foot putt on the 16th but could do no better than a 70 for the final 13 holes. Souchak earlier had finished with a two-foot birdie on a 18th for second place money. He said after the Phoenix Open he planned to leave the tournament trail to return to his home at Memphis, Tenn., and complete a book on golf. He hopes to get back in action for the Houston Open.
