Ike's Next Outing To Be In Georgia

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON — UP — Backstairs at the White House: While President Eisenhower's next outing will be to Thomasville, Ga., sometime in late February he still is itching to get to his favorite golf course at Augusta, Ga. He was close to flying out of Washington last weekend for a day or two in Augusta, but decided against it at the last moment. He still plans to visit Augusta sometime in April.

One of the wits of the Washington chapter of circus saints and sinners comes up with a sure way out of the farm price crisis—have Mr. Eisenhower sell the government's growing mountain of surplus agricultural commodities to the Ford Foundation.

Harry Hirschfeld, the beloved New York humorist and cartoonist, swears this is a true story about President Eisenhower. In fact, Harry says the President told him personally that the tale is true.

During World War II, just before a major Allied operation in Europe, the then General Eisenhower called British Field Marshal Montgomery into conference.

General Eisenhower told Montgomery that a division of British troops had to reach a certain point on the front "exactly on schedule."

The general pronounced the word "skedule" in the accepted American fashion, but Monty objected.

"No," the field marshal protested. "You have it wrong. The proper pronunciation of the word is skedule—the customary British manner. Where in the world did you learn such atrocious pronunciation?"

"I learned it back in Kansas in grammar school," said General Eisenhower.

Hirschfeld also swears to this one: A fellow crossing one of the Potomac bridges here saw a man sitting alone in a rowboat on the river below. The solitary boatman was shouting at the top of his voice, "No, No, . . ."

SWEET SIGHT—"Miss Sugar" of the Dominican Republic world's fair proudly displays her title at Ciudad Trujillo. She's shapely Marie Mendes, who cut the first cane to start the 1956 sugar cane cutting season.

The spectator raced for a policeman and reported there was a demented man in a rowboat shouting "no" to nobody.

"He's not crazy," said the officer, "just a White House 'yes' man on his day off."

Shortly before President-elect Kubitsek of Brazil arrived in Key West, Fla., a few weeks ago to visit Mr. Eisenhower, Cmdr. Edward L. Beach, the President's naval aide, looked around the chief executive's quarters on the naval base and decided that the pictures on the wall were awful.

Whereupon Beach went to the gallery of a well-known Key West artist, Van Noble, and borrowed five of her paintings to brighten up the room where Mr. Eisenhower was to entertain the Brazilian at lunch.

And Mr. Eisenhower liked the paintings so well that he kept them in his quarters for the remainder of his Florida stay. Which should help the sale of Mrs. Noble's paintings no little. Almost like being commissioned by the British crown.

Miss Universe Slightly Built Briton Is Key Dearly Loves Figure In Chaotic Jordan

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP — When you sit down to get folksy with the "most perfect woman in the world," the talk runs to salads, orange juice and black cows.

Hillevi Rombin of Uppsala, Sweden, happens to be "Miss Universe" of 1956. She dearly loves America, their salads and orange-squeezing and black cows. "I'll have to confess that she didn't know much about black cows until I introduced her to one. She said she had run into a brown Swiss in Switzerland, once. But Hillevi learns right fast. When I took her into the drug store in the Statler hotel and ordered a black cow she said "wow!" and smacked her pretty red lips over a ball of chocolate ice cream, with a fizzy coke pitched in the cup.

The 21-year-old cutie is tagged as perfect, because her measurements are. Something that Christian Dior would like to wrap a gown around.

She is five feet 7 inches tall. She weighs 129 pounds. Her eyes are blue, her locks are blonde and most important, the rest of her adds up to: bust 36, waist 23, and hips 36. Match that anywhere. And if you do you can add on Hillevi's chart that she has grace and charm and not only that knows how to handle reporters.

I thought it would be a good stunt to have the photographer gag it up and have me lift up the young lady so I could say that with "Miss Universe" up there I had the "weight of the world" on my shoulders.

She thought that was too corny. So we posed her in a sweater job with her hands caressing an illuminated globe. It probably was prettier that way, but the photographer didn't boot me for thinking.

One of Miss Rombin's prizes was a tryout with Universal-International pictures. She made her debut in a small role in "The Benny Goodman Story."

A slightly-built, stoop-shouldered Briton who has become known as Globb Pasha is a central figure in the chaotic situation in Jordan.

The recent riots that exploded all over Jordan from Amman, the capital, to Jerusalem, were directed primarily against the United States and Great Britain.

But they were directed also against Gen. John Bagot Glubb, commander in chief of Jordan's Arab legion.

Glubb's enemies are many and bitter. They call him "the emperor of Jordan." They say that he is the real power behind young King Hussein and that he directs Jordan policy.

Jordanian political groups, Egypt and Saudi Arabia, all want to squeeze Britain out of Jordan. In pursuit of that end, they are out to get Glubb.

To his enemies Glubb, for one thing, is a symbol of British "colonialism."

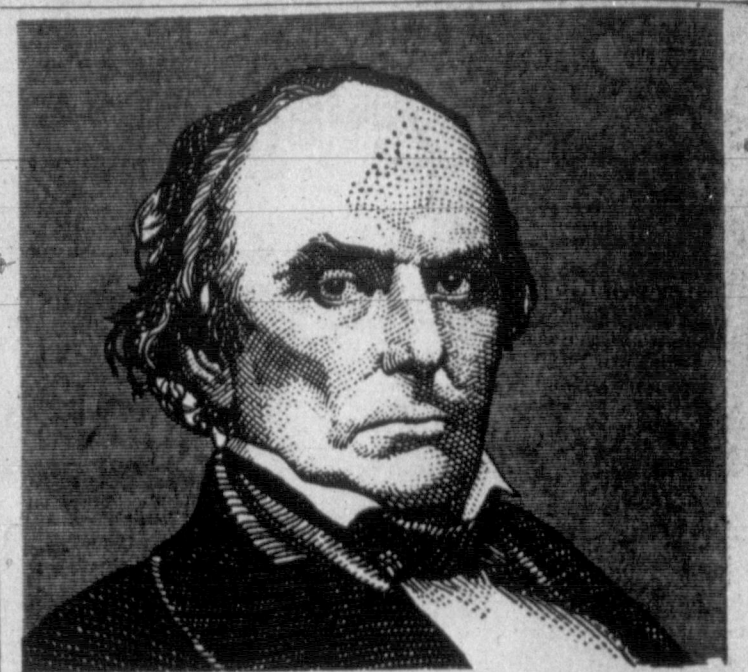

But ironically, the complaint is not simply that Glubb, a Briton, is commander in chief of the legion, by far the best fighting force in the Arab world.

Glubb's enemies say that he has been in Jordan so long and has so extended his political influence, that he is really the country's dictator. They say that he does not just represent British interference in Middle Eastern affairs. For all purposes, they say, he not only acts but thinks as a Jordan leader.

Glubb's bitterest enemy in Jordan is Soleiman El Nabulsi, leader of the opposition in parliament. "Glubb must go," Nabulsi said recently. "He is emperor of Jordan. He is no longer British, he is Jordanian. He knows the country people better than we do ourselves."

One reason for that is that Glubb and his fellow legion leaders go out and get to know the people, seeking Jordan's best youths for military service. The great landowners, of whom Nabulsi is one, stay in Amman.

Glubb, now 58, went to the Middle East in 1920 as a lieutenant of engineers in the British army. He has remained there ever since.

Solon Seeking Controls On Auto Builders

WASHINGTON — UP — Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) served notice Monday he will fight for enactment of a federal law to prevent automobile manufacturers from pushing dealers around.

He told the annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers Association there are signs of a "better relationship between the factory and the dealer" since his Senate Monopoly subcommittee aired dealer grievances at its General Motors hearings last year.

"The pressure which the dealers felt were used by the factories to compel them to distribute at their own loss more cars than the market could soundly absorb are apparently disappearing," O'Mahoney said.

He said manufacturers also have indicated a readiness to "make adjustments" such as GM's offer to extend its franchise agreements from one to five years.

But he said the economic power of the automobile manufacturers is so vast that dealers are still "basically 'at their mercy.'" He said rules for a "more equitable" factory-dealer relationship should be "established by federal law" so that the recent improvement in relations will "have a permanent status, and not be subject to fluctuation with the changes of managers."

O'Mahoney said one requirement should be that sales contracts between manufacturers and dealers be "enforceable in courts." The contracts also should "eliminate completely all oral orders or suggestions to the dealers by factory spokesmen with the threat of force," he said.

Navy Blames Weather For Missile Crash

PORTERVILLE, Calif. — UP — The Navy said Tuesday bad weather conditions were responsible for a guided missile from its control plane in flight and sending it crashing into an orange grove near a farmhouse.

The missile, described by a Navy spokesman as a remote-controlled "drone" aircraft, spun to earth Monday on a mission from an undisclosed base in southern California's Mojave desert, about 85 miles south of here.

The pilotless plane plowed a furrow 25 feet long and eight feet deep through the orange grove close to the ranch house of Robert E. Wolfram. Its fragments were scattered over a 100-yard area. There were no injuries or other damage. A Navy missile team rushed to the scene to retrieve the wreckage.

Any explosion that occurred was from the craft's fuel, the Navy said.

According to the spokesman the "major cause" for the missile getting away from its control plane was bad weather encountered during "a routine training mission of a test." The pilotless control plane, probably a jet, was guiding the drone's flight from "close wing position" at the time of the crash.

The Navy would not release detailed information on the drone, saying it was classified. However, the spokesman said it was considered a type of guided missile because it is remote controlled.

TRIAL

(Continued from Page One) inance because of Shoemaker's "inability" to be present. Defense lawyer Bert McDaniell, state representative from Waco, said Shoemaker could offer testimony that could not be obtained from any other source.

The motion was overruled by Judge Betts.

Testimony was offered by Joe E. Trautschold, Irwin Wilhelm, Robert R. Abernathy, Mrs. Vera E. Ridding and Sam Deeley, all of Waco.

Trautschold, a mill and shop company operator, said that someone nominated him and Wilhelm as directors at a stockholders' meeting in January, 1955. "Everybody said 'aye' and that was that," he said.

Was Never Active

He said he had never heard of a directors meeting being called and was not active in management of the company. "As near as I could tell, he (Shoemaker) was the king bee," Trautschold testified.

Trautschold said he personally invested $2,000 in stock of U.S. Trust & Guaranty, and that his wife put in about $3,000.

Wilhelm, an electrical contractor, said he dealt with Shoemaker personally when he bought 250 shares of stock in July of 1953 for $5,000. He said Shoemaker told him that it ought to double in value in a couple of years.

FIRMS

Saunders Now Chairman

J. Byron Saunders was voted in as chairman. The other commissioner is Mark Wentz. The governor appoints commissioners for six year terms. The terms are staggered so one expires every two years.

They administer insurance companies with four main types of capital structures.

There is the stock company, organized like a corporation, whose idea is to make money for the stockholders. Policy holders have no voice in the company's operations. Whatever the company makes, after policies are paid and a surplus is set aside, goes to the stockholders.

Policy Owner Has Vote

Then there is the mutual company that has no capital stock. Any policy owner is a part owner with voting privileges. If enough policy holders could get together, they could change officials of the company or even divide its assets.

There also is the reciprocal company, in which every policy holder is the insurer of every other policy holder. That is to say if a loss can't be paid out of the reserves of a reciprocal company, the policy holders can be assessed to pay the difference. In Texas, this principle is modified to the extent that a policy holder can't be assessed more than one year's premium.

Finally, there are the Lloyd's companies, patterned slightly after Lloyd's of London. Lloyd's of London will insure almost anything. Lloyd's gets a request for insurance, underwriters meet in a coffee house and split up the risk between them.

Need Some Capital

If Lloyd's of London has to pay off, the underwriters have to get up the money. In a Lloyd's deal in Texas, however, 10 men would agree to put up $6,000 each to pay losses.

Whatever profit there was they divided between them. But if losses of the company totaled more than the $60,000 the 10 men had put into the company they paid off the $60,000 and the policy holders were stuck for the rest.

The new insurance law changed that. A Lloyd's company has to have the same beginning capital as a stock company.

Benson Urges Higher Prices For Farmers

CHICAGO — UP — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson Tuesday bluntly told pork processors to keep their marketing margins and profits in line and to pay farmers "as much as possible" for their livestock.

"This is no time," Benson said, "to take advantage of the American farmer. We simply cannot afford to let him carry the full brunt of increased processing and distribution costs, yet even increased profits, in other sectors of the animal industry."

Benson discussed the "very serious" current hog situation with the National Swine Industry Committee at a meeting he called.

'Tighten Up Your Costs'

The committee, headed by President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation, represents producers, marketing agencies, packers, distributors, retailers livestock organizations, and farm organizations.

"I urge you in industry to tighten up your costs," Benson said. "Keep your profits and margins in line with the historic pattern of a large volume, small margin industry. The livestock farmer is bearing more than the full brunt of price decline at a time when his costs are going up."

Hog farmers have come through a season "when hog prices have been substantially below production costs," Benson said. "Hog producers have suffered a substantial decline in gross receipts from farm marketings, while helplessly watching costs rise for nearly everything they buy. They have been caught in the web of a cost-price squeeze that hurts."

'Time for Plain Talk'

Benson said "this is the time for plain talk." Although farmers have received low hog prices, "the decline has not been fully reflected in pork values to the consumer."

He said the average marketing margin for pork in 1955 was 5 per cent wider than the previous record margin in 1954, and 13 per cent wider than the 1950-54 average.

"Both the retail price and the farm price average was lower in 1955 than in 1954," Benson said. "But the retail price declined less than the farm price, so the marketing margin increased."

Curtis, Back From Europe, Finds It's Cheap For Tourists

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP — Tony Curtis, the poor Bronx tough boy turned movie star, is back from Europe with a load of culture and the discovery that it's cheap for tourists after all.

Most returning travelers grouse about how Europeans make a fast buck from naive Americans.

But Tony and spouse Janet Leigh, formerly young marrieds from a world bound by Cro's on one side and the fan magazines on the other, lived for five exciting months abroad. They not only acquired culture — but got it inexpensively.

"You can eat anywhere very cheaply," insisted fast-talking Tony as he stretched on the couch of his living room.

"Wonderful little restaurants. Little hotels. Why do people complain they get cheated? On the boat I went down to third class to talk to a young New York attorney and his wife who were going over on less than $1,000 for the entire trip. Most anybody who saves can go to Europe these days."

Tony and Janet's acquisitions: "We bought a bunch of paintings."

His biggest bargain, he thinks, were two German cars. One is a three-wheeled tiny bug he picked up for $650 as a surprise present for Janet when she arrived in Paris after finishing a movie in Africa. The other is a plucky $8,600 model — "at least $2,000 cheaper than I'd pay for this car in this country."

"When we drive the three-wheeler in Beverly Hills cars pull over to the side to ask us what it is," he laughed.

The curly-haired actor even picked up a smattering of French for "laundry," "raccoon" and "brassiere" but the use of this vocabulary mystifies me. The word for "brassiere" he thought meant "good morning" and he used it as a greeting for weeks in Paris until he was wised up.

On this culture trip Tony worked in Hecht-Lancaster's "Trapeze," (filmed in Paris and possibly the best role of his career. The baby-soxers will be delighted to hear Tony wears tight tights and floats through the air on a trapeze.

Washington Grid Mentor Returns For Check Only

SEATTLE, Wash. — UP — Johnny Cherbeg, the deposed coach of the University of Washington football team, was scheduled to return to the campus Monday—but only to get his check.

University Vice President H. P. Everest, a prime target in a blast which Cherbeg leveled at the university after he was fired, said Sunday that the school may have a "salary obligation" to Cherbeg.

Everest based his statement on the fact that the board of regents recommended last month that Cherbeg be retained despite a revolt by the football squad which had started in the middle of last season.

It's a matter for Cherbeg and athletic director Harvey Cassill to work out, Everest said.

In the meantime the atmosphere simmered from Cherbeg's denunciation of Everest, Cassill and Roscoe Torrance, an active alumnus in recruiting.

Well, actually lithographs. By Picasso. Matisse, Braque, very cheaply! the kid from the Bronx said.

"Janet also brought drums and sculpture from Africa. And we took 3,500 photographs!"

PAVING

The contract calls for a projected look at the city's estimated needs by 1965 in so far as sewer facilities are concerned. Particular emphasis will be placed in the survey on the north and west portions of town since these areas are showing the most development at present.

The commission approved the third and final reading of ordinance 446, which is the annexation of section one of the North-Crest Addition.

City Manager Fred Brook introduced a letter from the Borger Health Department requesting that they be allowed to purchase certain equipment no longer used by the City of Pampa. The commission decided to sell the equipment to the City of Borger.

Brook was appointed by the commission to attend the Youth Organization General Meeting to be held Friday as an observer.

PONTIAC'S CLUB DE MER—This low, two-passenger sports car with an aluminum body is one of five new experimental "dream cars" featured at the GM Motorama of 1956 in New York. Powered by a 300-horsepower V8 engine, it stands only 38.4 inches high. Most striking features are the dorsal fin which flashes up from the rear deck surface and twin bubble windshields. Headlight units disappear into the body when not in use, leaving a smooth front surface. Transmission is mounted behind the passenger compartment, providing more leg room for occupants.

Extra Police Patrol Bombay

BOMBAY, India —UP— Heavy police reinforcements took up strategic positions throughout Bombay Monday in fear of rioting on the eighth anniversary of the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

A police patrol opened fire on a milling crowd in the city's steaming slums Sunday, injuring two persons, and authorities feared more violence Monday.

Authorities called on all local security forces to prevent a repetition of the weeklong rioting in which an estimated 20 persons were killed here earlier this month. But there were reports of new demonstrations.

Judge For Segregation

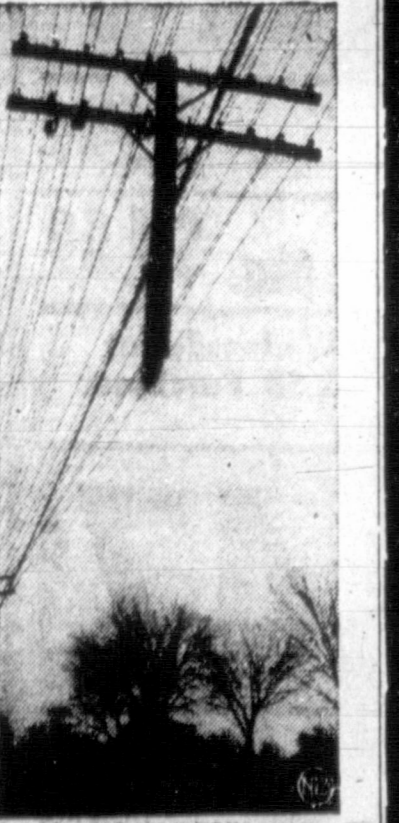

ATLANTA, —UP— Maj. Gen. Eugene Caffey, judge advocate general of the Army, appeared to put himself on the record Monday on the side of Southern racial segregation forces.

The Army's top legal officer delivered a short address to the Georgia House of Representatives. He said he had dinner in Washington recently with Rep. John J. Flynt (D-Ga.) at which Flynt let him read a copy of speech he made to the Georgia legislature last week.

"If I were going to make a speech I would hope to make one like that," Caffey said. The House applauded with enthusiasm.

Flynt's speech to the legislature was a bitter attack on the federal government and the U.S. Supreme Court for recent racial integration orders. Flynt also denounced the FEPC policies.

Wants West Coast Favored WASHINGTON — UP — Sen. Warner G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said Wednesday the Navy thinks West Coast shipyards need "preferential treatment" on bids to build merchant ships if they are to stay in business.

Pampa News Women's Editor

IF YOU'RE THE KIND OF MAN who throws his clothes on a chair, don't bother to read further than this. This is about how to take care of your hats, and if you're sloppy about the rest of your wardrobe, you sure don't care about your hat.

MOST MEN — even those who are neat, don't take proper care of their hats. It's a shame too, because a man is judged by the appearance of his hat as much as he is by the appearance of the rest of his wardrobe.

1. Benjamin Parrill, an expert on the care of hats — or "Hattiquette," as he calls it — says it is easy to take proper care of your hat.

Parrill, who is president of the Adam Hat Manufacturer, Inc., says if you want to make a hit with the ladies, you want your headpiece to look the best.

Parrill has some suggestions on the care of hats which are listed below. All have been tested in the Adam Consumer Research Laboratory of Corsicana, Texas.

1. When you're not wearing your hat, store it in a hatbox. Hat manufacturers want you to keep your hatbox for use between seasons. A hatbox keeps dust off a hat, and prevents it from getting dented or bent out of shape.

2. Dust should be kept off hats when you are using them every day too. If a hat is dusty, a drop of water will make a mud spot that will soak into the fur and be hard to remove.

A soft bristle hat brush is better than a whisk broom for use on a good felt hat. Always brush with the nap.

3. TAKE CARE of your hat when it gets wet. Push out the creases and dents, get the hat as even and round as possible, and if the brim is turned down, turn it up again. Turn out the leather. Now stand the hat — on the leather — on a clean, level surface and leave it there until it dries out naturally. Do not use artificial heat such as a radiator.

4. Turning out the leather after a perspiring day preserves the life of a hat. With the leather turned out, perspiration and hair-oil evaporate and dry out, instead of being transferred to the hat.

5. The folding opera hat. Never store a folding opera hat collapsed. This weakens the springs and wrinkles the fabric. Instead, open the hat and stand it on the crown.

When collapsing an opera hat, hold the top of the hat against the chest, grasp the side brims and press evenly. To open hold upside down by the front brim and tap the edge of the back brim smartly against the palm of the other hand, letting the top shoot out.

6. Straw hats. A straw hat can be kept clean and fresh-looking much longer if it is brushed regularly with an ordinary whisk-broom.

If a straw hat gets wet, first wipe off the surplus water with a clean dry cloth.

Parrill has one final word of warning. Don't let hat check girls or others pile your hat up with other hats. Be a complainer on this point, because nothing pushes a hat out of shape quicker than the weight of other hats on top of it.

Reports From Committees Presented During Delta Kappa Gamma Meeting

A business meeting was held recently by the Delta Kappa Gamma Society in the City Club Room, with Mrs. M. Roy Sullivan, president, in charge.

The meeting opened with group singing, led by Mrs. Joe Page. Miss Claudia Everly, vice-president, called the roll, which was answered by reciting the Greek alphabet. Mrs. P. O. Gaut, scholarship chairman, reported on a notice from the state committee on Miss Nancy Whitcombe of Wales, now teaching in the Cleburne school system and attending school in this country. The women voted to contribute to the Foreign Women's Educators' Fund for Miss Whitcombe.

Mrs. Robert Sanford gave the Council of Clubs report, and Mrs. Aubrey Jones told of the recently formed Gray County unit of the Governor's Committee for Refugee Relief. Members were asked to consider ways in which the club can assist this program.

The program was under the direction of Miss Claudia Everly, program chairman; Mrs. Clementine Morgan presented a short quiz on the club constitution, and Miss Nova Mayo spoke on teacher certification and requirements. A report of a survey entitled, "Would You As a Teacher or Parent Encourage Your Child to be a Teacher," was given by Mrs. Lulu B. Owen.

Several vocal selections were presented by a sextet composed of Mmes. James Webb, Joe Page, Owen Moore and Misses Mary Dean Dozier, Mary Reeve and Bernice Larsh. They were accompanied by Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams.

Following the meeting, refreshments of coffee, heart-shaped cookies and mints were served. Decorations followed a Valentine theme. Hostesses were Mmes. J. B. White, Robert Sanford, R. A. Ziegler and Miss Exa Fay Hutton.

Next meeting will be a reception at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 25, in the City Club Room, honoring members of the Future Teachers Club. About 50 persons attended the meeting.

Miami Library Board Holds Benefit Night

MIAMI — (Special) — Roberts County Library Board members held a benefit night in the Legion Hall recently. Games of bingo, "42" bridge canasta dominoes and old maid were played.

The Miami study clubs sold tickets. Mrs. J. D. Faris was awarded a heart shaped cake made by Mrs. J. L. Dumiven. Pie, cake, coffee, and pop were also sold. About 75 attended.

Total receipts were $137.10 to be used for up-keep of library in the county court house.

Board members are Mrs. Sam Bowers, chairman; and Mmes. Fred Gordon, Miles O'Loughlin, Loren Grantham, Bill Wiley, Jack Woodford, E. E. Bridwell, J. V. Patterson, George Philpott and Frank Heare.

Apple and Cheese fanciers will applaud individual salads of bright red apple slices and cheese. To prepare, core red Delicious or Winesap apples and slice into quarter inch rings. Spread apple slices with mayonaisse or cream cheese softened with French dressing. Stack 2 or 3 apple rings on a crisp lettuce leaf for each serving. If desired, centers may be filled with chopped nuts.

A diet need not be a grim affair entirely without desserts. Here, TV singer Dorothy Collins whips up a low calorie dessert. There are many such recipes for desserts that look and taste good.

Dorothy Collins Uses Her Imagination To Keep Dieting From Becoming Grim

Here's the second of a seven day series on keeping your weight in check with a "square meal diet," prepared by a consumer specialist for the National Dairy Council. Today a TV star tops off the menu with her own experiences in keeping trim on three square meals a day.

By DOLORTHY COLLINS
Star of TV's "Hit Parade"
(Written for NEA Service)

A diet doesn't have to be grim. Whenever I need to trim off a few pounds to appear to advantage on your TV screen, I haven't suffered.

Instead I've used a little imagination to make dieting more fun. I happen to love the look of a pretty dessert but I don't like what it does to my hips. So I've worked out a compromise: I have my dessert but without the calories.

If you have a real poundage problem, you'll have to stay away from all desserts for some time. But if you should feel an irresistible urge to stray from your diet, have a dish of custard rather than a couple of chocolates.

The gelatin desserts are particularly good because they offer both taste and eye appeal. Snow pudding and coffee whip happen to be favorites of mine but you can work out your own variations of this gelatin theme.

You can't, of course, use sugar in making these desserts but you can use any one of the artificial sweeteners now on the market.

And if you ever feel that you simply can't pass up a piece of candy one more day, here's a tip: have a single mint and let it melt on your tongue just before dinner. It will help cut down on your appetite and satisfy your craving for something sweet without giving you a guilty feeling about your diet.

Here's the second day's menu in your "1400-calories-a-day" "Square Meal Diet":

BREAKFAST
Small sliced orange
1 soft-cooked egg
1 thin slice toast
1 medium pat butter
3-4 cup whole milk

LUNCH
Medium slice meat loaf
2-3 cup peas and carrots
¼ cup cottage cheese on salad
3-4 cup whole milk

DINNER
1 large cube steak, broiled
2-3 cup green beans

Mrs. Ronal Patton Presented Shower

A kitchen shower was presented recently for Mrs. Ronal Patton, the former Nelda Swain, in the home of Mrs. Joe N. Key, 1810 Hamilton.

Guests were registered in a red, heart-shaped book tied with a white bow. The honoree was presented a corsage fashioned from measuring spoons and tied with red and white ribbon. Entertainment consisted of a balloon game.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth and had red tapers in crystal holders flanking the centerpiece. The centerpiece was fashioned from kitchen gadgets arranged around a large red candle and three red hearts with the names "Nelda and Ronal" and the date "Dec. 30, 1955" engraved in white. Smaller hearts accented the arrangement and the base was of white stereofoam. The centerpiece was presented to the honoree.

Refreshments of punch, cookies and red and white mints were served. Mrs. Archie Maness, aunt of the honoree, presided at the punch bowl.

Attending were Misses Ruth Steward, Charlene Koenig, June Koenig, Lottie Wills, Donnie Southard, Treva Dean, Sally Graves, Delores Lovinggood, Mary Neil Willis, Beth Slagle, Betty Prescott, Jean Harrel. Others present were Mrs. Otto Patton, mother of the bridegroom; Mrs. Winford Swain, mother of the honoree; Mrs. Roy Harrel, sister of the bridegroom; and Mrs. Archie Maness, aunt of the bride. Seven others sent gifts.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

EVIDENT THOUGHTS—When a Chicago newspaper photographer visited St. Vincent's Orphanage, he noticed this group of youngsters watching him at work on an assignment. He forgot all about his original job. For him, the children, from left to right, seemed to embody: entrancement, eagerness, suspicion, forwardness, wonderment, blaseness, and innocence.

REASON TO BE FRIENDS—Lisa Mary and her little lamb, Liselotte and her small doe are a familiar sight to the community near her father's farm in Ransberg, Switzerland. The child is the favorite playmate of the friendly animal whose life was once saved by Liselotte's father. The doe was nursed back to health and freed by the farmer. Now it frequently returns to visit the family and tag at the little girl's heels.

RECRUITERS—Marine Sgt. Dorothy Walker welcomed a new fellow-recruiter in Cleveland, O. He's Sgt. Harry Stepanick, a Korean War veteran and career Leatherneck since he joined up in 1947. Stepanick, 25, is a native of Hartford, Conn., and is related to the last czar of Russia.

NEW ARRIVALS

HERE TO STAY—All wrapped up in the excitement of getting to America is seven-month-old Frank Foto, left, who arrived by ship in New York with his parents. Frank seems mighty happy at the idea of going to live with his grandmother in Brooklyn. Nine-month-old Edeltraud Kozak, center, is less pleased at the thought of coming to this country. She and her parents left their native Bavaria to live in La Plata, Md. They were admitted under the refugee relief program which authorized 209,000 refugees to make homes here during the three years ending next December 31. Tiny Gertrude Zollmer was definitely sad, however, when she arrived, right. From Danzig, Germany, the tot and parents headed for Fort Wayne, Ind.

SHE'S BEING PRACTICAL—It's not at all glamorous, but that knitted helmet and gay shirt helped this shrimp processor ward off the cold at Marathon Key, Fla. Workers found the weather best suited to frozen shrimp as a sudden winter storm made temperatures drop in that area.

BOMB TARGET—Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini walks past a Boy Scout as he leaves his residence in Milan, Italy. He has been going about his daily tasks as Archbishop of Milan with apparent unconcern about the recent attack in which a terrorist threw a bomb through a window of his palace. Damage was heavy but no one was injured since the palace offices were empty.

FAMILY REUNION—Mrs. Emilie Hetzel, 90, oldest member of a group of 220 Germans recently repatriated from Poland, watches her 70-year-old daughter, left, burst into tears of joy upon meeting her son at Buechen, Germany, near Hamburg. Serving in the West German Customs Service, the son was there to welcome his mother and grandmother home. The two elderly women had a lot to be happy about—at long last.

GOLDEN GIRL—At a fashion show in Manhattan, model Cindy Lint tried to stick to the right color. She displayed her 14-karat gold bathing suit in the Hotel New Yorker's Golden Thread Room, and nothing could have been more appropriate than that.

SHE GOES WITH THE HOUSE—When the original owners of a home and nine acres of land sold their property in Aurora, O., they offered Peggy, a Great Dane, in the bargain. The current owners, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Brown, fell heir to the five-year-old guardian of the property, and now Peggy patrols the woody acres and keeps it safe for them.

ON TOP OF MOUNT SANTIS—That's where these antennae are being installed by Swiss workmen. Switzerland's TV network is the highest in Europe, because the signals must be beamed over 8000-foot peaks of the Swiss Alps. This has greatly increased the cost and technical difficulty of establishing Switzerland's TV network.

Garland Smith Resigns From Insurance Board

AUSTIN—UP—Garland A. Smith resigned Monday as a member of the state board of insurance commissioners.

Smith's resignation, effective immediately, was announced by Gov. Allan Shivers. The governor said he accepted the resignation "with regret."

Smith stepped down earlier this month as chairman of the Board of Insurance Commissioners. He has been ill and hospitalized for more than a week.

"My doctor has advised me that in order to regain my health I must rest for an indefinite period of time," Smith said in his letter of resignation to the governor.

Smith, a member of the insurance commission since April 1, 1952, said in his letter of resignation:

"Under the circumstances, I hesitated to resign only because I knew I would be accused of 'quitting under fire.' I have been the main target of criticism, and in my heart I know that most of the criticism has been unjustified.

"Any error I have made has been one of judgment. I can face my maker with a conscience clear of any sense of wrong-doing. There will always be criticism of individual actions as long as human beings are struggling with complicated questions of fact, law and policy to which there are no all-satisfactory answers," he added.

"Of a different pattern, of course are the politically-inspired attacks that have obscured the true situation," Smith said.

"Also, a few newspapers have apparently been more interested in sensational headlines than in constructive, factual reporting. Naturally, I feel that I have been made a whipping boy, and the realization is not pleasant. At the same time, I know that the real motive has been to strike at you (Shivers) by attacking me," Smith wrote the governor.

Shivers accepted Smith's resignation "with regret" and said, "The campaign to clear up weak and unsound Texas insurance companies started while Garland Smith was chairman of the Board of Insurance Commissioners."

Smith served as chairman of the three-member agency from Oct. 15, 1953 until earlier this month when he stepped down and J. Byron Saunders became chairman.

"I know that his strongest desire was to strengthen the great Texas insurance industry," Shivers said of Smith.

"Acting largely on Mr. Smith's recommendations, the legislature at its last session enacted laws to give the board of insurance commissioners long-needed authority. His desire to see continued the program which he started is commendable. Although he is presently being criticized for closing some companies which were created illegally and operating unsoundly, I believe the future will commend him for initiating this worthwhile program in the face of criticism."

"For his sake and that of his family, I wish him a speedy recovery. He has been a long-time personal friend," the governor said.

Smith formerly served as an executive assistant to the governor, before he was named to the insurance commission.

Open House Is Postponed

DALLAS—UP—Dr. Cosette F. Newton said Monday she had postponed a scheduled open house Tuesday of her home which she says she will sell to a Negro in a fashionable section of Highland Park. She said she was postponing the open house indefinitely because of "threats of rioting and violence." However, she said she would be at home to explain why she is delaying the open house.

She has had a running feud with neighbors for more than a year over the appearance of the property, particularly a model of a ship in the backyard.

Negotiations Continue In Electric Strike

PITTSBURGH—UP—Negotiators in the 106-day strike of the International Union of Electrical Workers and Westinghouse Electric Corp. were reported Monday hammering away at the basic issues of general wage increases and a controversial time study program for non-incentive rate workers.

Neither side commented officially following the second consecutive Sunday session of their bargaining representatives, but it was indicated the talks had reached the "whittling down" stage.

The strike started last Oct. 17 when 44,000 IUE workers walked off their jobs demanding an immediate 15 cent an hour wage increase under the re-opening clause of their existing contract which runs until next Oct. 15. They also asked written assurance that the company's new time study program for day-rate employees would not result in wage cuts.

The company has insisted it must have a new five-year agreement to match that signed by the IUE with the company's major competitor, General Electric Corp. last fall.

JIM CRACKS

By JIM DEAN

LAST TUESDAY, the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce had as its guest speaker a man named Jack Perry, a wholesale beer distributor.

Mr. Perry is a man engaged in a legitimate business under the existing laws of our state and country.

There are some who may wish to debate the morality of such an enterprise, but I will not go into that phase at this time. There is something of far greater importance at hand.

Mr. Perry apparently believed he had reason to think his means of earning a livelihood would soon be placed in jeopardy by virtue of a proposed local option election on a prohibition issue. And, in defense of his position, he took the opportunity to pronounce his opinions on the subject.

Since the publication of his remarks, officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce have come in for considerable verbal abuse from the "dry forces" of the city. The JayCees have been accused of supporting the "wets."

It would be nice if I could take this means to come to the defense of the JayCees as an organization which had opened its doors to one side of a political issue, and in so doing had drawn the wrath of the opposition upon its heads.

But, alas, the JayCees have not so "sinned."

The poor JayCees were caught in a situation deserving of O. Henry's pen.

And for all who are interested in facts without emotionalism, here's how it happened:

Each year, the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsors a "Pay Your Poll Tax Campaign." They don't wait until they have a special ax to grind... it's an annual project... just pay your poll tax, that's all.

Each year, the JayCees are furnished with posters which urge "Pay Your Poll Tax."

The JayCees are given these posters by the wholesale dealers in alcoholic beverages.

And, as a member of the organization which supplies the posters, Mr. Perry was invited to speak to the JayCees in connection with the annual "Pay Your Poll Tax Drive."

Mr. Perry saw his opportunity and he took it. He not only told them to pay their poll tax, but he told them why he would like for them to pay it.

In defense of their organization, the JayCees have argued that they support neither side of a political issue... as anyone familiar with the organization knows full well.

I would like to be able to write... "Hooray for the JayCees! They are a brave bunch who believe in the basic American idea of public debate; that both sides of an issue have a right to be subjected to scrutiny in a public forum and they here courageously supplied that forum."

The JayCees, and other organizations of that type are natural forums for discussion of every topic under the sun. Each week speakers come to present their views. The members of the JayCees listen, and it is up to the individual members to decide if anything worthwhile was advanced.

In this case, the JayCees did not ask for one side of the issue... it came as a surprise to them but they probably will, in some future meeting, call for speakers representing both sides of the issue. This, they should do, for it is the American way.

If the civic clubs like the JayCees are to be abused for exercising this form of free speech, then it is time we were getting deeply concerned for our freedoms.

The stalwart workers for either side of the issue should not be afraid to have the opposition heard in public meetings.

If they believe they have sound arguments to prove their case, what is there to fear?

Of what value is a faith that

Japan To Speed Rearmament

TOKYO—UP—The United States and Japan Monday announced agreement on a long range plan under which Japan will speed rearmament by paying less to the United States for support of American troops here.

Under the agreement, Japan will cut the amount it contributes to the support of U. S. troops defending Japan by 50 per cent of whatever increase the nation makes in its annual defense spending.

Thus, if Japan boosts defense expenditures $50 million it will cut its payment to the U. S. by $25 million.

The Old Way
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — UP—Seventeenth century Massachusetts had a sure cure for juvenile delinquency — the death penalty. Records in the Harvard Law School Library show that in 1648 it became a capital offense for a boy over 16 to "curse or smite his parents" or for a "rebellious son" to disobey his father. The law stood until 1680.

No Defense Pleaded In Abortion Case

PHILADELPHIA — UP — Bartender Milton Schwartz, his beautiful wife, Rosalie, and Mrs. Gertrude Silver pleaded no defense in municipal court Monday to charges stemming from the abortion of Mrs. Silver's daughter, 16-year-old heiress Mrs. Doris Jean Osterreicher.

Mrs. Silver pleaded to a charge of being an accessory before an abortion causing death and the Schwartzes pleaded to charges of abortion causing death.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll immediately began hearing testimony to aid him in determining punishment.

The 22-year-old honey-haired girl died in the Schwartz apartment last Aug. 24, two months to the day after she eloped with Earl Osterreicher, a Miami Beach motorcycle policeman.

Mrs. Silver and the Schwartzes were also charged with abortion and conspiracy. The Schwartzes are to be tried later on a charge of perjury. None of the additional charges were presented in court Monday.

In a last-minute move, special assistant District Attorney Samuel Dash combined the trials of Mrs. Silver and the Schwartzes. Mrs. Silver had been scheduled to go on trial later.

Mrs. Silver's attorney, Morris Wolf, told the court that his client was "near the breaking point" from the strain.

Mount Rushmore, South Dakota, which rises 7000 feet above sea level, is the highest elevation of solid granite between the Rockies and the Atlantic coast.

$50,000 Asked For Suffers

WASHINGTON — UP — Congress was asked to vote $50,000 to right a 100-year-old wrong assertedly done to John A. Sutter of gold rush fame.

It was a gold strike on Sutter's land that started the California gold rush of 1849.

Rep. J. Arthur Younger (R-Calif.) introduced a bill to authorize a $50,000 payment to Sutter's descendants. He said it was based on claims Sutter himself presented to congress before he died.

The money would be in compensation for land owned by Sutter under Mexican grants, which miners "grabbed" under claims it was public domain. Sutter had a fort and a large surrounding area on the present site of Sacramento, and a hill at Coloma, Calif., where the original strike was made.

One of Sutter's descendants, Mrs. Anna F. Young of Daly City, Calif., lives in his district, Younger said.

He said that House committees in 1876 and again in 1880 recommended payments to Sutter, but "abrupt" adjournment of congress in the latter year prevented final approval. Sutter died here in 1880, still seeking compensation.

"According to the records of this House," Younger said, "this claim of John A. Sutter is a just and proper one... even at this late date, I think the congress should approve this claim, which our own committees at the time he claim was filed declared just and proper."

Designer Says Impulse Buyers 'Nervous Wardrobe' Victims

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK — UP — Women who buy clothes impulsively are victims of "nervous wardrobes," says Mr. John, a designer who doesn't believe in sugar-coating the truth, even with customers.

The hasty purchases add up to a clothes closet containing some good and some bad choices, he continued, but rarely produce one perfect outfit.

"You have a lovely dress and you wear it with a lousy hat," the designer said bluntly. "Or the hat is beautiful but you wear it with a lousy dress. Nothing is coordinated. That's what I call a nervous wardrobe."

Drives Points Home
Mr. John, who likes to drive his fashion points home by using unexpected words like "lousy" and "rubbish," interrupted the interview in his mirrored 57th Street shop when someone rattled the door, locked for the night a few moments earlier.

It was Marlene Dietrich. She wanted to choose hats to take with her on a trip to Europe. While she tried on chiffon turbans and berets on one side of the mirrored room, Mr. John returned to continue the interview.

"There is one of the most organized women I've ever seen," he said, nodding towards Miss Dietrich. "She is the exact opposite of the woman who collects a nervous wardrobe."

Suits Her Purpose
"You can make the most beautiful hats in the world and she will say 'no...no...no' to all of them unless they suit exactly the pur-

ion. You shouldn't always buy the most fashionable hat, for instance. Buy a hat for the kind of life you lead and the kind of husband you have."

All cured and smoked items should be kept in the refrigerator until ready to use.
