Agnew Brands Allegations As Lies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spiro T. Agnew branded as "damned lies" Wednesday allegations he was involved in a kickback scheme in Maryland. He said he did not expect a grand jury to indict him and vowed he will continue to perform his duties as vice president.

"I have appearances scheduled," Agnew said in a calm voice. "I intend to keep those appearances."

Immaculate in a gray suit, he stood, hand in his suit pocket, at a podium before a background of blue curtains in Room 405 of the Executive Office Building. His audience, illuminated by bright television lights, were members of the Washington press corps. Five years earlier—to the day—he first had accepted the Republican nomination for vice president of the United States in Miami Beach, Fla.

Thus, the man who rose in three short years from the obscurity of county office to the nation's second highest office fought back at a news conference against charges that suddenly had darkened his career.

"I have no intention to be skewered in this fashion," Agnew said in an opening statement. "and since I have no intention to be so skewered, I have called this press conference to label as false and scurrilous and malicious these rumors and accusations that are being circulated."

Refers to Investigation

He referred to a federal grand jury investigation of him for possible tax fraud, extortion, conspiracy and bribery violations in connection with what has been described as the award of state and federal contracts in Maryland when he was both governor and vice president.

Agnew made these points:

—He denied "outright" one news report he was alleged to have received a $1,000 a week kickback. "...I am labeling them—and I think a person in my position at a time like this might be permitted this departure from normal language—as damned lies."

—Asked if he would consider stepping down temporarily until the matter is cleared up, he replied tersely, "I have not." He said he did not "intend to let it interfere with the execution of my vice presidential duties."

—He has "no expectation of being indicted." He said, "I am not going to face any kind of contingent thinking in that respect at this time."

—He has "not decided exactly" what he will do about the constitutional issues involved. No vice president has faced such a problem before. He said he would try to follow the advice of counsel.

—In 1968 at the time of his first vice presidential campaign, he recalled, he was "thoroughly investigated" of conflict of interest charges and was "exonerated."

He Confers with Nixon

—He said he had conferred with President Nixon for one hour and 45 minutes Tuesday to discuss the developments. He would not reveal what the President had to say, other than to relate the President expressed confidence in him. He said he believed a vice president should "stand on his own feet" and added he was not "looking around to see who is supporting me."

—He attributed the accusations being made to persons who are "in very deep trouble and are looking to extricate themselves from this trouble and are flirting with the idea that they can obtain immunity or reduced charges, perhaps, by doing so."

—Asked if he had ever received money for his personal use from any person, contractor or company doing business with the State of Maryland or with the federal government, Agnew replied "absolutely not." But he said it would be

Committee Files Suit For Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate Committee decided to file suit today in an attempt to force President Nixon to turn over tape recordings of his White House conversations on Watergate.

The committee's deputy chief counsel, Rufus L. Edmisten, said the suit, seeking a "declaratory judgment" that Nixon turn over the tapes, would be filed some time in the afternoon in U.S. District Court.

Committee sources said the suit would follow the argument used by the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, who has said in his suit that Nixon's argument that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers protects the tapes is not valid.

Cox said executive privilege in regard to the tapes has effectively been waived by the White House since "virtually all the participants in the conversations have already testified in one forum or another about these conversations."

"Thus, whatever the merits the case otherwise has for now withholding the direct and contemporaneous evidence of those discussions," Cox said.

Chief committee counsel Sam Dash will represent the Senate Watergate Committee in court. The senators have recessed for a vacation after hearing 38 witnesses in 37 days. There are still six or seven witnesses to testify before the first part of the committee's mandate to look into the 1972 campaign activities is finished.

"quite naive" to expect that campaign contributions do not come from contractors doing business with governments.

"I have nothing to hide," Agnew said in concluding the news conference.

"I will make available at the appropriate time and in the appropriate way to the appropriate parties as determined after consultation with my counsel whatever records, or my own body, for interrogation, whatever is needed."

—To hold hearings as soon as possible into the "dirty tricks" and financing, or wait until October;

—To hold hearings on those two subjects as a full committee or to split into two subcommittees;

—To allow television coverage of the latter two phases.

Committee vice chairman Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., says he wants subcommittees working simultaneously on the espionage and financing investigation, which would probably mean no television, in order to finish the committee's work by its Feb. 28, 1974, deadline.

Dash says he favors television coverage of the full committee as soon as possible when the hearings resume.

Still to be heard from in the Watergate phase of the hearings are Charles L. Colson, former White House special counsel; David Young, of the White House "plumbers" investigative unit; Howard Hunt Jr., convicted Watergate conspirator; William O. Bittman, Hunt's lawyer; and Kenneth W. Parkinson and Paul O'Brien, lawyers for the committee to Re-Elect the President.

Egil Krogh Jr., the head of the "plumbers" may also testify.

President Prepares Address

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — In the quiet of his mountaintop retreat President Nixon today planned to start polishing a preliminary draft of a television address he will make on the Watergate affair.

He flew by helicopter to Camp David Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by his chief speechwriter, Ray Price, for what apparently will be several days of work on the public defense he will make against charges of scandal in his administration.

A short time before Nixon boarded his helicopter at the White House, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew defended himself against allegations that have brought new troubles to the administration. Agnew, at a news conference, described as "damned lies" reports he was involved in a Maryland kick-back scandal.

White House aides said that Nixon may go on the air Tuesday or Wednesday evening, at least by the middle of the week, to answer the questions that persist on Watergate, despite the President's previous pronouncements.

The end of the first phase of the Senate Watergate hearings last Tuesday signaled the start of an all-out White House effort to prepare the President's major address on the subject. Since his last Watergate statement May 22, Nixon has been accused of participating in the cover-up by former White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

In addition to his television speech, the President will issue a lengthy "white paper," which his aides said would refute charges against him, point by point. There also was an outside chance that he would hold a full fledged news conference, his first since March 15.

The White House appeared to be shying away from Agnew while he is under investigation for alleged violation of federal criminal statutes involving building contracts in Maryland.

Nixon stopped short of a full public vote of confidences for Agnew when he issued a statement through a White House spokesman that "the fact that there is an investigation is no reason for the President to change his attitude or confidence in the vice president."

Courts Overtake Plans To End Bombing Early

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, victor in three more court skirmishes, will be able to continue its bombing campaign in Cambodia until the midnight Tuesday deadline set by Congress.

A Supreme Court justice, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City and a U.S. District Court in Boston turned back in Wednesday rulings attempts to bring an immediate end to the bombing.

At the same time, the Senate Armed Services Committee was continuing its probe into secret U.S. military operations in Indochina. The senators were told by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the Army chief of staff and former commander in Vietnam, that he did not know why falsified records of 1970 bombing missions in Cambodia were presented to Congress.

The false records, Abrams said, involved bombing missions that were conducted as deep as 150 miles inside Cambodian territory but were presented as having occurred inside South Vietnam or near the South Vietnamese border.

Hughes is incredulous. Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, was incredulous.

"We got information that was erroneous and you got information that was right?" Hughes asked.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., then pressed for an answer to his question. "Who ordered the falsification?" Abrams answered both questions.

"I just don't know," he said. "The whole thing had become so complicated I couldn't keep these things in my own mind."

Abrams said he personally approved secret bombing targets in Cambodia and their cover-up targets in South Vietnam. Abrams said there was another still-classified operation that neither Congress nor the public knows about it. He was invited to discuss it in executive session but declined, saying he did not know much about it and "it was terminated shortly after the command became my responsibility."

Abrams took the Vietnam command in late 1968.

Others testify

Wednesday told about bombing missions against Communist hospitals. Gerald J. Greven of Miami, said he had personally directed a fighter-bomber attack on a suspected underground hospital in South Vietnam in April, 1969. The Air Force denied Greven's testimony, saying he was "never ordered to bomb a hospital."

There were these court actions on the current bombing campaign Wednesday.

Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall again refused to issue an injunction to halt the campaign.

The 2nd U.S. Court of Appeals in New York overturned a lower court order to halt the bombing that had been obtained by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and four Air Force officers.

IN NEGLIGENCE SUIT

Longest Jury Trial Concludes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Esther Simonoff, a retired bookkeeper in her mid 50s, had never served on a jury in her life but her first time out was a dilly—apparently the longest jury trial in the history of American jurisprudence.

Mrs. Simonoff was one of 14 jurors who sat for one year and two weeks hearing a negligence suit against Lockheed Shipbuilding & Construction Co. and three of its employees in a 1972 tunnel explosion that took the lives of 17 men.

"I had never even been in a courtroom before," said Mrs. Simonoff. "But I was among the first panel of 12 and I've been here ever since July 24 of last year.

"It was a tremendous experience. It was enlightening. But would I like to do it again? No! No! No!"

Jurors Locked Up

The last five weeks Mrs. Simonoff, who says she hopes her husband and 30-year-old daughter can get accustomed to having her home again, was locked up nightly with the other jurors on the ocean liner Queen Mary, now a floating hotel at Long Beach.

"We knew we were setting a record," says Mrs. Simonoff. "The longest previous jury trial had been the Charles Manson case which went on for eight and a half months. We talked about it often and the fact they (the Manson jurors) were sequestered almost the entire time."

Lockheed and two employees—project manager Loren Savage and safety engineer Otha G. Ree—were convicted by the jury 13 days ago on 34 counts. Lockheed and Savage were found guilty of gross negligence in the miners' deaths, and violations of industrial safety laws, all misdemeanors.

But the jury was still deadlocked then on 16 charges against Ree, and was sent back to continue deliberating.

Astros Study Nation

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts, who took a couple of pictures Wednesday of the web spun by their spider-houselike, point their cameras at the northeastern United States today to study the effects of strip mining on the environment.

The 25-minute 11,000-mile picture-taking sweep from Montana to the South Atlantic Ocean was designed for Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma to evaluate the effects of strip mining in Ohio and Indiana and study the environmental changes in the Chesapeake Bay.

"These guys are doing great EREP (Earth Resources) passes," Flight Director Donald R. Puddy said Wednesday after the space adventurers completed their fifth picture-taking sweep of the trip. "We had a very profitable day from the overall scientific gain standpoint."

Dr. David C. Sweet of the Ohio Department of Development was to scrutinize the photos taken over the Buckeye State to see if the complex cameras aboard Skylab can be used for environmental quality, agriculture and forestry applications.

The coastal plain and Piedmont areas of North Carolina were to be examined by the space station instruments to help Dr. Charles Welby of North Carolina State University in statewide regional land use planning.

The pictures of Chesapeake Bay were to be correlated with data from unmanned satellites to help environmentalists know more about marine life.

Apparently adapting well to their unique zero-gravity world, Bean, Garriott and Lousma reported they were getting plenty of exercise now, following the advice of the Skylab 1 crew.

Wednesday afternoon the jurors disposed of the last of 92 counts they considered in the complex and technical case, acquitting Ree on eight and remaining deadlocked on the other eight, causing a mistrial.

Scene Recorded

After the final verdicts, Municipal Court Judge George Trammell III permitted reporters, TV and still cameramen and other newsmen with tape recorders to record the historic scene.

"I have never seen a happier group of people in my life," Trammell told the grinning jurors—five men, seven women and two women alternates.

American Planes Make Most Intensive Strikes

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American planes flew their most intensive strikes in a month today against Communist insurgents menacing Phnom Penh and Cambodian troops were able to push back the city's defense perimeter almost two and a half miles to the south, field reports said.

A Cambodian Air Force plane circled the capital Thursday, playing music and dropping leaflets urging that all young men volunteer for the army and help defend the city. Military sources said Brig. Gen. Cha Kim Eng, commander of the national police, was replaced due to "irregularities" in the government's new military draft. They said his men spread out through the city and picked up men illegally for induction into the army under the nation's new draft laws. Several hundred impressed into the army illegally were released.

In the northern provinces, military sources said government forces are retreating on both Highways 6 and 7 towards the city of Skoun at the junction of the two roads 35 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. The sources said some of the retreating soldiers were wounded during their evacuation and helicopters were airlifting them to Phnom Penh.

The U.S. Embassy denied that American aircraft were involved in a third bombing mistake Sunday which killed between 11 and 15 persons at the including rare B52 raids flown near the capital in daylight. Field reporters said the B52s dropped their bombs on suspected rebel positions near Prek Ho, nine miles south of the city.

The U.S. Embassy denied that American aircraft were involved in a third bombing mistake Sunday which killed between 11 and 15 persons at the village of Veal Svov, five miles south of the capital, and implied that this mistake was made by the Cambodian air force.

"There were no U.S. air strikes within a 1,000 yards of the area," an authoritative embassy source said. "There were, however, four (Cambodian) T28 sorties."

Field reporters said heavy American air strikes were placed south and west of Phnom Penh, including the daylight B52 strike 1,000 yards from government front lines at Prek Ho, where the government's southern defense perimeter is located nine miles south of Phnom Penh.

Today's heavy bombing followed a disclosure Wednesday in Washington by Pentagon spokesman Lt. Gen. Daniel James Jr. that the Air Force Tuesday flew the highest number of raids in four weeks against Cambodian rebel strongholds.

James implied that about 50 bombing sorties, one mission by one plane, were flown in response to the "increased threat" posed by rebel troops threatening Phnom Penh. Bombing runs in the country in recent weeks have averaged 40 a day.

The Cambodian high command said government troops today reopened Highway 1 along a 20-mile stretch east of the capital with only "weak enemy resistance."

Arab Guerrillas Reject 'Seventh Suicide Squad'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A spokesman for the Palestinian guerrilla movement said today the "Seventh Suicide Squad," which claimed responsibility in a letter to two Beirut newspapers for last Sunday's Athens airport attack, was a "fictitious and nonexistent organization."

Spokesmen for various Palestinian guerrilla organizations have denied responsibility for the attack, in which three persons were killed and 55 persons wounded while they waited to board planes to New York and Geneva.

In leaflets delivered to the newspapers, An Nahar and Al Anwar, the "Seventh Suicide Squad" said, in a statement to the American people:

"We have discovered that in order to make you understand us and realize our right to live, we must begin to defend ourselves against all those who seek to exterminate us."

"We have decided to adopt your criminal methods and teach the first lesson to the people which is undertaking a campaign of extermination against us," the leaflet said.

Tornadoes Skip 'Round Local Area

The "Seventh Suicide Squad" was not previously known. But a guerrilla leadership spokesman said the leaflet confirmed guerrilla claims that the Athens incident was aimed at "distorting the image of Palestinian struggle and justifying terrorist operations against the Palestinian people."

The spokesman said the Athens attack, and the hijacking last month of a Japan Air Lines 747 jumbojet, were engineered by Israeli intelligence agents to justify future Israeli attacks against the Palestinians.

The Palestinian guerrilla leadership held a two-day conference in Damascus to discuss the two incidents and possible Israeli reprisals against the guerrillas, Palestinian sources said.

An editorial carried by Falastin al Thawra (Palestinian Revolution), the newspaper of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), said the two incidents "serve American and Zionist objectives, even if those who carried them out were neither American nor Israeli."

Tornadoes were seen in the air near Groom and Berger last evening but they never touched the ground. Gray, Roberts, Hutchinson and Carson were under a tornado alert last night.

Pampa received 11 inches of rain last night to bring the total for the year to 19.90 inches.

Elsewhere across Texas, tornadoes were seen in the air near Liberty and the National Weather Service spotted tornadoes near Beaumont and Orange on its radar screens.

Weather in the Pampa area should continue partly cloudy with a slight chance of late afternoon and evening thundershowers.

No important temperature changes are expected. The high today and tomorrow should be near 90 and the low should be in the mid-60s.

Winds will continue today at 10-20 mph, changing to 5-15 tonight. There is a 20 per cent chance of rainfall today and tomorrow and a 30 per cent chance of rain tonight.

Eight Bodies Uncovered, Bizarre Slaying Victims

HOUSTON (UPI) — Jail trustees gouging through three lime-soaked graves Wednesday night unearthed the bodies of eight young men apparently the victim of a "perverted, sadistic clown" who sexually molested them and buried them in a boat shed during the last two years.

Police confirmed that the nine refugees—the two engineers, their wives and five children—made the first successful escape across the wall since February, 1972.

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Looking cool, calm and collected on your daily schedule is a feat on the job is one thing.

Managing the same well-groomed, well-rested look on a trip is a whole new struggle. But it can be done... it's just that the effort is greater.

We have before us some travel tips from a woman who, at 30 years, has logged more than 500,000 miles, mostly on business. She's Virginia Marincsak, corporate trainer for Lanvin-Charles of the Ritz, and one of only three women vice presidents in the corporation.

Her opening suggestion: Try to sleep on a long plane flight. It's easier if you put on eye pads, which not only block out light but do good things to keep the eyes rested.

Watch Your Eating
Another seasoned jet traveler I know watches a cabin fill up and if he notices four empty seats on the jumbo, he climbs into his airborne "bed" and gets a full quota of sleep.

Some other suggestions from Ms. Marincsak:
Don't attempt to crowd too much into a vacation schedule.

Watch what you eat. A trip shouldn't ruin your shape and your diet shouldn't ruin your trip.

Drink a great deal of water... helps clear the system. And water lets the skin respond normally to the dramatic temperature changes encountered in travel.

Remember your special vitamins or prescription drugs and bring along an adequate supply.

Have major beauty services — cut, color, permanent, etc. — Done before you go.
GO.

Travel Light
Be aware of the jet lag, the feeling of disorientation after crossing several time zones. Don't expect to be your usual self for as long as a day or two after arrival. I've found that if possible going to bed for a few hours on arrival gets me off to a better start the whole day.

Since the cabins of the jets are extremely drying, always apply moisturizer generously before boarding.

Wear comfortable clothing. And don't kick off your shoes or your feet might swell to the point you can't get them back on.

Remember your travel mirror, one with a magnifying glass on one side, regular on the other. It packs in a small case.

Travel light as possible. Keep hand luggage to a minimum. Ms. Marincsak uses a small beach duffel bag and skin care treatments in plastic containers.

In between jet stop-overs or on long train or auto trips, a splash of a light cologne can do wonders for the skin and spirits. If it's a motor trip, try to make it a leisurely one. See some of the countryside instead of whizzing past it.

A great addition to a car is a wide-mouthed vacuum jug filled with ice and water. The ice is free at most motels.

Lawyers Try To Remove Watergate Taint

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Bar Association (ABA) is considering what to do about the taint some say has been placed on the legal profession by lawyers involved in the Watergate affair.

A resolution introduced early in the 96th annual ABA Convention referred to "shocking, shameful conduct" on the part of such lawyers and suggested that ABA recommend that those who have admitted guilt be disbarred summarily.

But a later version by the association's drafting committee toned down the language to omit the "shocked dismay" and instead merely cited "alleged instances of professional misconduct."

The resolution denounced "any unethical action which might cast aspersions upon the integrity of the profession" and called for "prompt and vigorous disciplinary investigation and appropriate action."

Both ABA President Robert W. Meserve of Boston and President-elect Chesterfield Smith of Lakeland, Fla., have deplored the involvement of so many lawyers in Watergate-related matters. But they say discipline can come only from state bars and courts.

Nevertheless, ABA is establishing a new National Center for Disciplinary Enforcement to assist state and local bars in their disciplinary activities.

The resolution must be acted on first—possibly in revised form—by the entire ABA Assembly and then by the ABA

House of Delegates, a smaller, policy-making body.

At hearings before the assembly resolutions committee Tuesday, the only opponent of any resolution whatsoever on this subject was Sen. J.M. Hernandez-Sanchez of San Juan, who said the association should not involve itself "in a political issue."

The assembly resolutions committee was asked by James W. Hewitt of Lincoln, Neb., to recommend that the ABA withdraw its approval of a uniform probate code which has already been enacted in modified form in Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho and North Dakota, with other states about to act.

Boys Ranch Schedules Annual Rodeo Activities

Approximately 10,000 people are expected to celebrate the Labor Day weekend by attending the 28th annual Boys Ranch Rodeo at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Two performances of the rodeo are scheduled at 2:30 p.m. at the Ranch's Rodeo Arena where more than 150 boys will be riding calves, steers, bulls and bucking broncs.

All of the 385 boys who make their home at the Ranch will have some part in the rodeo, either as contestants or working in the many behind-the-scenes activities. The older boys will ride professional rodeo stock under R.C.A. rules.

The rodeo is also a traditional home-coming for those who have graduated from the Ranch and are members of the Boys Ranch Alumni Association. More than 2,500 boys have lived at the Ranch since it was founded by Cal Farley in 1939 and many travel long distances with their families for the rodeo.

An added attraction will be big barbecue sandwiches that will be prepared and sold by the boys for only $1.

Reserve box seat tickets for $2.50 are available at the Boys Ranch office, 600 W. 11th Street in Amarillo, or can be obtained by writing to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, P.O. Box 1890, Amarillo, Texas, 79105.

General admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

IS THIS CULT NECESSARY? The exploitation of MM

By Rod MacLeish

This is by way of being a protest against the invasion of the privacy of someone who can't protect herself.

There is something dreadfully wrong with the current Marilyn Monroe cult — from Norman Mailer's garish coffee table book with its jacket showing Miss Monroe's face in living color and dying hope, to the magazine covers, photo exhibitions and re-exploitation of her sex symbolism.

The thing wrong with all of this lies at the confluence of death, sex, tragedy and illusion. By now everybody knows that Marilyn Monroe emerged from a garbled and miserable childhood into a repeatedly shattered maturity which was subdivided into the public image of a sexpot and the private labyrinth of an unlivable life. She died a suicide in her middle thirties.

The movies and life live far apart. The movies are public dreams from which we fashion the symbols of our nostalgia for everything we cannot be and never had. No starker difference between the public dreams and the private complexity ever existed than the difference between Marilyn Monroe's public squishiness and her private hells. Exploitation of that is what the cult is all about.

To what end? None, aside from the dollars to be made. We learn nothing new from the pop invasion of this sad lady's late privacy — just the old, worn lesson of pain.

De Mortuis nil nisi bonum, as the Latin proverb says... of the dead speak nothing but good. That which is respooken of Marilyn Monroe to amuse us this summer, isn't good. Not for her. Not for us.

Teen caught between her religion and horse

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have always been a horse lover, and at age 13, I finally got my own horse. Now, two years later, we are sort of a team.

We [me and my horse] were selected to represent our county at a six-state horse exposition. I was thrilled, but here is my problem:

The horse show falls on the same dates as the High Holy Days, and I am Jewish!

What can I do? This means everything in the world to me, and I am really not all that Jewish, but my parents are, and they won't hear of my taking part in the horse show on the High Holy Days. I am so unhappy about this I am becoming deeply prejudiced against Judaism. What can I say to my parents to convince them that horses mean as much to me as their religion means to them?

LOVES HORSES

DEAR LOVES: I can't think of anything you can say to convince them. Even the it's a dead heat, they win, because they're the parents, and you're the minor. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which is ruining my life. I have been to doctors everywhere and none of them can help me. In fact, several of them have suggested I am "imagining" things, but I KNOW I'm not.

I can smell a strange unpleasant odor about myself all the time. I bathe every morning and put on fresh underwear, but I still smell bad. After I've done my housework, I bathe again and put on fresh underwear. No improvement. It is not perspiration, either. I use plenty of soap, deodorant, and cologne, but I can't get rid of that terrible odor. Even tho no one has mentioned it to me, I know they can smell it, too, so I don't ever get close to anyone.

The doctors say I am a healthy woman. My scalp is always clean [I don't even have dandruff!], and I brush my teeth and gargle several times a day. And it's not my feet, either.

Please tell me how to get rid of this terrible odor! I can't live like this any longer.

SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE

DEAR SMELLS: Go to one more doctor. A psychiatrist. He may be able to sniff out the answer.

DEAR ABBY: My dad has been bald for 18 years or longer. I have seen pictures of him when he had hair, and they just don't look like Dad.

Mom got him to get a hairpiece—the kind they cut and style for the individual. When Dad came home with it he looked so strange to me. He is 39 years old, Abby, and he doesn't have to look like a kid of 20. Mom is crazy about it, and I'm not sure whether Dad wears it to please Mom or himself, but he wears it all the time.

I can't get used to it. Do you think he ought to wear it or not?

HIS DAUGHTER (Age 18)

DEAR DAUGHTER: If Dad likes it, he should wear it. Keep quiet. You'll get used to it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Baby Feeding Problems

COLLEGE STATION — Feeding problems may develop early with infants.

"Some problems stem from lack of understanding from parents," according to Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "For example, parents may not realize how quickly a baby can sense their attitudes toward a particular food."

"Since a baby doesn't have preconceived ideas about foods, new ones should be introduced in a positive and pleasant manner," the specialist said. In addition, parents may find an infant's appetite varies from meal to meal or day to day. "Don't be concerned — it's a natural pattern for all children," she added.

"Baby is a good judge of how much food he needs — and as long as he gains weight gradually and appears healthy, parents can be assured he's eating enough."

Busy time off HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Barbra Streisand took time off from her self-imposed hiatus from movies to record the title song from "The Way We Were" in which she co-starred with Robert Redford.

German record favorites BONN (UPI) — When West Germans go record hunting, musical comedy tops the list, with popular tunes running a close second.

A survey by a private organization said 44 per cent preferred musical comedies or operettas while 43 per cent voted for popular tunes from the Top 20 chart.

German folk music was another favorite, followed in order by opera, marches, beat, classical music, jazz and language records.

Old man Z, who used to hold down the South seat in the auction bridge columns, still plays duplicate bridge. His bidding is old-fashioned but his dummy play is what you would expect from the hero of hundreds of auction hands.

His jump to four hearts was an overbid, but North had some extra values for him.

West opened the king of diamonds and shifted to the queen of spades. Z won in his own hand and drew trumps and ruffed his last diamond.

He remarked, "Milton Work would turn over in his grave if he saw my next play. I have an absolute sure play for my contract by cashing dummy's ace

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10

Your birthday today: Repeated discrepancies between what you plan and the reality imposed by outside forces challenge you to make unusual advances in work skills, competence, economy. Relationships thrive. Today's natives usually do something about conditions they don't like.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Bring your workweek to a proper conclusion, avoiding last minute revisions, additions, side issues.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Stay out of factional disputes; attend what is important to you personally. Youthful examples should inspire you to achievement.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Take it easy, save your energy for more propitious moments. Romance cools off if questioned or confronted.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Promises turn out to be beyond possible fulfillment, little or nothing is left to fill the gap. Tolerate the moods of mate or companions.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Neglect of necessary routines would be only too human now. Pause for a brief rest and meditation, then get back into the swing of it.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: With calm discussion you can reconcile almost any difference. There's considerable work at hand to attend as well.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: The fewer complaints you offer, the better off you are, as nobody seems able to do much to change things.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your energy rises again and you can finish off the workweek in a passing moment of minor triumph.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Much of what comes to your attention is theory or speculation, unsupported by actual experiences.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: What seems confusing to you is merely the high range of people's temperamental expression. Don't get upset.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Seek the simple joys of existence, rest if you're tired, get medical or technical advice for any persistent problems.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Dramatic events seem unlikely. Relax and enjoy being yourself. Long past memories come back for a replay.

Middle East Truce Still Shaky

By United Press International
Three years after the guns officially fell silent, and killing in the Middle East war ended, peace remains as elusive as ever.

The third anniversary of the end of the war of attrition between Israel and Egypt found troops Wednesday on guard along all fronts.

On the Arab side, UPI correspondent Thomas Cheatham reported from the Suez Canal front, soldiers fought only boredom and bugs.

On the Arab side, Egyptians and their allies are still trying to settle their differences while expressing pessimism about the long-term prospects of peace.

Israeli threat of imminent attack against their positions in Syria and Lebanon.

The 10-man executive committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), the chief guerrilla group, began meeting Tuesday to consider possible Israeli response to an attack Sunday by two Arabs on passengers at Athens airport.

On another front, Radio Cairo said Wednesday that Egypt and Libya will meet again in Tripoli, Libya, to draft a resolution on the proposed merger of the two nations next month.

An Egyptian government source said the talks have produced "extremely good" results so far, although other political sources said there were difficulties based on Egypt's desire for a "go slow" approach and Libyan insistence on an immediate and complete merger.

An Israeli sergeant named Danny sipped a soft drink on the East Bank of the Suez and reflected on events since Aug. 8, 1970.

"We all hope it stays this way," he said. "Both sides want it this way. We and the Egyptians are afraid of resuming the fighting. It is hell. There is nothing to gain by it."

Internationally, peacemakers at the United Nations and elsewhere remain unable to heal the wounds of the Middle East.

Originally, the cease-fire there was intended to last 90 days. It has lasted three years and some diplomats believe it could last indefinitely.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir said recently that it was in the interest of both Israel and Egypt to continue the armistice. When it began, she said, "no one expected the cease-fire to last 90 days, much less three years."

On the other hand, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt has said he will resume the fighting if the Israelis continue to refuse to withdraw from Arab lands it took during and after the 1967 six-day war.

In Damascus, guerrilla sources said the Palestinian guerrilla leadership met to study what they consider an

Television In Review

By JACK SAUNDERS
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Have you ever wondered about those TV game shows? What it's like to be a contestant? Can anyone get on—and win?

This reporter, in a private capacity, was curious about just these questions, and so after watching a National Broadcasting Corporation game show called Three On A Match - seen 12:30-1:00 in the afternoon - I wrote to the address flashed on the screen to see if I, too, could become a contestant.

I received a postcard telling me to go to a midtown New York hotel—the New York Sheraton—any Thursday. On July 5 I went to take their test, which consisted of 32 multiple-choice questions, three choices per question, and which were much more difficult to answer than those asked on the show. A score of 90 per cent or better was needed to pass—29 or better of the 32 questions right—and I was told by the contestant coordinator that fewer than 10 per cent passed. But, although I guessed on three or four of the questions, I did succeed in getting a passing score.

Personal Questions Asked
Then the contestant coordinator—Don McCoy—asked me a few personal questions, and I figured that since I was engaged I would have a good chance to get on. McCoy asked me, "Do you think you would make a good contestant," and I answered, "I'm not always an emotional person, but I get very happy when something goes right for me—I was very happy when I got engaged."

After I left the interview—which, including the test itself, took all of 20 minutes—I wasn't too sure I'd ever get on, and, if I did, how far in the future it would be.

So I was in shock when a week and a day later—hardly an "unlucky" Friday the 13th of July—McCoy called me at home to ask if I was available for taping the following Tuesday.

I showed up very nervous but thinking to myself that the worst I could do was win a consolation prize—$50 worth of candy bars or some similar item.

They Practice Game
The other contestants, McCoy, the contestant coordinator and I practiced the game. Everyone seemed to know the answers to the questions but none of us seemed to be very lucky at making matches, the whole object of the game, the way prizes could be won.

Although three shows were taped that Tuesday, there were quite a few contestants to go on ahead of me, so I wasn't sure if I would get on that day, but I waited around, ate lunch—which I had to pay for—in the NBC Commissary, and after lunch was told, "Okay, Jack, you're on. Be emotional!"

It was a very surrealistic feeling, seeing the audience from the vantage point of the panel. I looked across at host Bill Cullen, around at my two fellow panel mates and found it difficult to believe that I would be seen by millions of people in a few weeks.

Time ran out before any conclusion was reached, and I had to come back the next day to find out my fate.

Collecting Recipes Is Cooks Favorite Hobby

By BOBBYE COMBS
Recipes listed today are from the files of Rosalie Hollingwood, 712 E. 16th St., who loves to collect old recipes, some which have been used in her family for many generations, and some collected from friends. The recipes she is sharing with many of her friends are a combination of old and new favorites.

Mrs. Hollingwood moved to Pampa in 1957 from Tulsa, Okla., met and married her husband, Jim, in the old Central Baptist Church of Pampa, where they still attend.

Hollingwood is employed by the Cabot Corp. Machinery Division and they own and operate their own business, Hollycraft Saddle & Leather Co.

They have one son, Jim, who will be in the eighth grade this year.

Rosalie is a member of the Top o' Texas Home Demonstration Club and her hobbies, besides her family, are needlework, painting, knitting, sewing and working part time for her husband.

She stated, "Most of all I just enjoy living."

By MRS. ROSALIE HOLLINGWOOD
BARBECUE SAUCE & RIBS
Combine: 1 bottle chili sauce, 1 bottle soy sauce, and two cloves of garlic, chopped fine.

Parboil ribs (you can use backbone), about 20 minutes. Drain. Cover with sauce and let stand several hours. Grill ribs until crisp and brown — about 20 to 30 minutes.

SCALLOPED POTATOES
two-thirds pound Monterey Jack Cheese
Potatoes
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
1/2 cup flour

Make a layer of cheese in a greased 9-inch casserole, then a layer of potato slices; repeat. Put cracker crumbs on top. Mix eggs, milk and flour; pour over first mixture, lifting cheese to let the egg mixture run underneath. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

NOTE: If preferred, use one-third cheddar or longhorn and one-third lb. Monterey Jack cheese. This is what I use.

CABBAGE SALAD
Approximately 2 lbs. shredded cabbage
1 green pepper, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
2 cans pimientos, chopped
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon mustard seed

Set the above aside while you cook the following:
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
Boil this for 3 minutes. Cool completely. Pour over first mixture. Stir and refrigerate.

NOTE: Add pimiento last thing before serving.
ORANGE DATE CAKE
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
one-third cup buttermilk
1 cup chopped dates (optional)

1 cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons orange rind
Cream shortening, sugar and eggs. Add other ingredients. Bake 350 degrees, and just before cake is done, prepare 1 cup orange juice and 2 cups sugar, bring to boil. Cook and stir until all sugar is dissolved. Pour over cake while both are hot. Let set before serving.

FRESH APPLE CAKE
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup shortening
4 eggs
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
4 average size apples, sliced
1 cup nuts, (optional)

Cream shortening, sugar and eggs. Add other ingredients as listed. Apples should be last thing added. Bake 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done at 350 degrees.

PECAN PIE
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup white Karo
1/4 teaspoon salt
two-thirds cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
9" unbaked pie shell

Prepare ingredients above as listed and bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees or lower for 30 to 40 minutes, or until done. Testing with a knife blade will come out clean when pie is done.

LEMON CAKE PIE
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter
2 eggs yolks, beat together
juice of 1 lemon
3 tablespoons flour
Mix all of the above ingredients together with 1 cup milk. Beat whites of eggs until fluffy. Fold top mixture into egg whites. Bake 350 - 375 degrees approximately 30 minutes. Cake will form and come to top. Use unbaked pie shell.

Recipe For Phase IV Stew

With higher food prices facing everyone, the best answer for diminishing portions could be a return to more old-fashioned cooking, Texas Department of Agriculture home economists report.

The stew that builds all week is one possibility. To keep things contemporary, the Department has named it Phase IV Stew.

First use the stock of any meat — drippings from boiled or roasted meat, ham or roast fat, even canned stock if necessary. A soup bone, round steak bone, chicken bones — any bone with marrow and a bit of fat or meat adds to the flavor. Add salt and pepper as desired.

Simmer the stock slowly and add chopped onions, garlic, thyme, dried red pepper or any other spices which the family likes. As the week passes, whenever you cut the tops off carrots, trim cabbage, lettuce, or celery, add these. Any washed greens go into the pot. Leftover corn, carrots, beans, squash, meat loaf, sausage, roast, chicken — almost anything but peanut butter can go into the pot.

The secret is to simmer it each day while as you add; then let it cool and put it into the refrigerator until the next meal when more leftovers go in. Leftover potatoes, mashed or boiled, lend to the heartiness of the stew.

Turning to meats, Mrs. Clyatt noted that they are selling at or near ceiling prices.

"Generally best beef values will be chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, ground beef and beef liver. Some markets offer ground beef with soy protein at attractive prices.

"Pork is scarce. "Smoked cuts getting special attention are boneless hams — both whole and portion, the semi-boneless ham half, and the five-pound canned ham."

The specialist said prices will fluctuate on fresh fruits and vegetables, but most will be on the high side.

Items in best supply at the most reasonable prices include bananas, cantaloupes, watermelons, plums, peaches, grapes, nectarines, pineapples and cherries.

Also cabbage, carrots, hard shell squash, corn, purple hull peas, Southern varieties of peas, radishes, okra and green onions.

For crisp biscuits, place 1 tablespoon of bacon drippings into a shallow baking pan, heat in oven at 450 degrees while you are mixing the biscuits. Roll the dough to about 1/4" high. When cut, the biscuits should be greased on both sides with the melted drippings and placed in the hot pan to bake for twenty minutes or until browned.

Serve with a salad plate of sliced tomatoes, carrot and cucumber sticks, and fresh green onions.

Turkey Roast Picnic Fare

COLLEGE STATION — With picnic season in full swing, consider an easy turkey roast for the next outing.

"Since a two-pound frozen roast cooks in just two hours, it can be prepared early the morning of the picnic — or the day before," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, pointed out.

"It's ideal for sandwiches — especially since there's no need to prepare a whole bird first.

Other advantages include ease in slicing, no waste (it's boneless), and flavor appeal.

"For extra flavor, blend a little rubbed sage into softened butter. Spread butter on bread and add turkey slices."

Change of Diet

In the gaslight era, people of moderate means ate mostly solid, filling foods — meats, poultry, fish, potatoes, bread, and starchy vegetables like dry beans and peas. Fresh fruit was expensive, and hardly anyone ate salads.

An elephant in captivity can consume 500 pounds of hay and 60 gallons of water in a day.

Weekly Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — Food prices will stay relatively high because of three factors, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

She cited "increased production costs, strong consumer buying and the general inflation we are experiencing" as food-cost boosters.

"Fryer chickens and eggs, released from the price freeze, will undoubtedly have price increases in order to reach a better balance between production and marketing these items," the specialist predicted.

"Egg prices already have increased — and in most instances, best values will be found on medium and small-sized eggs.

"Avoid buying eggs stacked several inches above the top of coolers or displayed on tables — the quality of these eggs will drop rapidly."

Turning to meats, Mrs. Clyatt noted that they are selling at or near ceiling prices.

"Generally best beef values will be chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, ground beef and beef liver. Some markets offer ground beef with soy protein at attractive prices.

"Pork is scarce. "Smoked cuts getting special attention are boneless hams — both whole and portion, the semi-boneless ham half, and the five-pound canned ham."

Home Economics At A Glance

When a child tells a lie, parents' natural reaction is to uncover the truth — but uncovering the reason for it is more important, notes Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Can low-acid foods using a steam-pressure canner. Bacteria spores which cause food poisoning from botulism are killed at a temperature of 240 degrees F., says Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Don't turn off an air conditioner if it'll be used again soon. Running it constantly at a low speed and moderate temperature is more beneficial than running it at high speed for short periods of time, according to Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Texas A&M University System.

Add salt to a brief, cool water washing to help set soluble dyes in silk, wool, rayon and cotton fabrics, suggests Mrs. Becky Culp, clothing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Unless kitchen carpet has a "water barrier," — a coating between the backing and padding — water can seep through and cause deterioration of the foam rubber pad, warns Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Don't buy more fresh fruits and vegetables than you can use and store without spoilage, advises Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Government Predicting Higher Jump For Food Prices

United Press International
 New government predictions indicate food prices will jump higher this year than they have in any year since 1947. As the Department of Agriculture released its predictions this week, the price of wheat rose to record levels.

A bushel of wheat which sold this time last year for $1.75, went for $4.14 on the commodity market in Chicago. Agriculture officials said 1973 food prices would be 20 per cent over 1972 levels—the biggest jump since prices climbed 21 per cent 26 years ago.

In more bad news for the consumer, the Department of Agriculture said meat prices in the second half of the year will be well above the first six months.

At present, beef prices are protected by a government freeze until Sept. 12, but consumers have found meat counters empty or understocked, and producers have blamed the price ceiling.

Cost has Increased
 In Texas, for instance, the Neuhoff Brothers Meat Co. of Dallas said the cost of processing has increased—but the firm cannot pass on the increases to the consumer because of the price freeze, and so loses $100 on each head of cattle slaughtered.

"We're not buying any cattle and won't resume slaughtering until the ceiling prices are taken off," said Vice President J. B. Neuhoff.

The situation has caused several packing houses to close, laying off thousands of meatcutters, while supermarkets have had to ration what beef they have to sell, some restaurants are sold out of beef, and cattle rustling and wildlife poaching is on the increase.

In Detroit, the manager of Wrigley Supermarkets encouraged shoppers to consider rabbit as an alternative to beef.

Rabbits Distributed
 "In fact," said Howard Ferguson, "Wrigley has just received two truckloads of fresh rabbits which are a good value for the consumer." He said the rabbit will be distributed to Wrigley's 88 stores by Thursday.

Food store ads in newspapers were pushing lamb, turkey, hams and fish, and generally not advertising beef. The few ads that mentioned beef cautioned "as supplies last."

A notice in a full-page ad for a chain of grocery stores in the San Francisco area announced, "Due to the uncertainty of beef supplies, beef is not being advertised. However, we will have beef at the lowest possible prices."

In Atlanta, a spot check of 20 restaurant at random showed eight were out of beef or would be by the end of the weekend.

Eight more Los Angeles packing houses said Tuesday they will close down at the end of this week. Nine Southern California slaughterhouses have already closed.

1,200 Out of Work

The closures to come will wipe out at least 90 per cent of the area's weekly retail beef production and put more than 1,200 more packing house employees out of work," according to Cal Santare, spokesman for the Western States Meat Packers Association.

"We are talking about an output of 15 million pounds of beef a week and the slaughter of 25,000 cattle a week."

New York City Consumer Affairs director Betty Furness said meat wholesalers who usually supply butcher shops and restaurants received only 40 per cent of their normal weekly beef supplies.

Large super-market chains, which deal directly with meat packers, received only 57 per cent of their weekly supply. Miss Furness said increased supplies in fish offset the beef shortage.

In Texas, wildlife officials reported an increase in killing wild deer, which are not in season, and cattlemen say there is a "vigorous" increase in cattle rustling.

Trusty truckers
NEW YORK (UPI)— Why do professional truck drivers slow down at night? Because they know visibility distance decreases by 20 feet with each additional 10 miles per hour, says Clark Equipment Trailer Division.

Motorists can help prevent their eyes from playing tricks on them at night by pausing before pulling onto a highway from a brightly lit place, shifting their gaze while driving and training themselves to look beyond their headlights.

By BRUCE MEYER

United Press International
 Unlike some rock journalists, I haven't had too much trouble over the past couple of years finding music I like. Despite the moaning and gnashing of teeth from a few writers, there is plenty of top-notch rock'n'roll around.

On the other hand, there does seem to be a shortage of really innovative, creative groups and individuals. Virtually all of the music enjoying mass popularity right now is limited to further exploration of the rock topography of the 1960s.

There has been little of the Beatles-Stones-Dylan-Byrds-Hendrix sort of boundary-stretching innovation in the past year or three; a sort of conservatism has crept in. Follow the pattern, don't rock the rock.

As I said, this does not mean no good music is being made. But the innovators of the '60s have faded—and those we must assume will appear in the '70s have yet to make an entrance—with one or two exceptions. David Bowie is one of those exceptions.

Bowie has quite consciously made himself the focal point of a whole new branch of pop music (including, notably Lou Reed and Mott The Hoople), which in stereotypical journalistic fashion I will label with a hyphen: androgynous-rock.

Fulfillment
 Bowie is the fulfillment of all the apprehensions of the big band generation when first confronted with long hair and unisex fashions. His hair is carefully styled, short on top, long in back; his thin, graceful body kept virtually hairless; his cheeks powdered, eyes shadowed, eyebrows plucked, lips sticked.

But his appearance (which must be seen to be appreciated) is basically a gimmick to attract attention; the old theory that the more you freak 'em out, the more free publicity you get, word of mouth. What really counts is the music, and Bowie's music is something special.

There are only a handful of rock lyricists who can even stay in Bowie's league; he is a master of conveying emotions through a minimum of words. His "Rise and Fall of Ziggy Stardust" album (RCA LSP-4702) was the best of 1972, not only because of the driving pover of its rock'n'roll, but because he told its strange story with the clarity of a novelist—and the delicacy of a poet.

Bowie's latest album is "Aladdin Sane" (RCA LSP-4852). The refrain of the title track goes, "Who Will Love Aladdin Sane?" and it's a most appropriate question. Many like this album, many hate it. But it's such an admixture of Bowie's ultra-theatrical weirdness that Aladdin will have few lovers—far fewer than the more approachable Ziggy.

I think "Aladdin Sane" will go down as a transitional album, a bridge from the previous "Hunky Dory" and "Ziggy Stardust" to whatever lies ahead for Bowie and his guitarist-arranger Mick Ronson. As such, I recommend it highly.

And as long as we have a writer or two around with as much creative talent as Bowie, I can enjoy the music from lesser artists as well—and feel secure about the future of rock.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
 Attorney General

AUSTIN — When a purchase is being negotiated between a seller and a buyer, the two parties normally try to work out the arrangement most satisfactory to both of them, even down to the details of delivery and, if applicable, servicing.

The average seller is well aware that his business reputation and volume is based on "satisfied customers," and their word of mouth. And, the average consumer not only wants to get his money's worth, but subconsciously, may want to establish a dependable retail relationship.

Of course, the careful customer wants to have a warranty in writing, and an experienced merchant is just as anxious not to promise any more than he can deliver. That all works well, as long as there is a one-to-one bargaining arrangement.

But all too often, misunderstandings occur, for example, when a third party enters the picture, after installment purchase contracts have been sold to a lending or financing institution. This is commonly referred to as "selling paper."

This third party keeps the operating capital of a retailer or consumer lender from being tied up, and gives him broader financing opportunities. From a practical standpoint, such arrangements can help the consumer obtain the things he wants and needs on the "budget payment plan."

But it can also cause drawbacks for a consumer, if the consumer later wants to withhold a payment as a means of getting the seller to make good on, or make repairs to, an article which has proven unsatisfactory.

Under the "holder-in-due-course" doctrine, which exists in Texas and most other states, the original seller's liability to the consumer for shoddy merchandise or service ends when the third party note holder takes over, and becomes a "holder-in-due-course."

In Texas, the harshness of this old controversial law doctrine has been softened some, because of a law which requires that a 30-day grace period must be afforded the signer of a retail installment contract.

Also under our state law, when a note is assigned to a third party, the person who buys the contract must send the purchaser a notice which contains the following warning in bold type:

"If you have any complaint or objection regarding the goods or services covered by the contract identified in this notice, or any claim or defense relating to such contract, you must notify us within 30 days from the date this notice was mailed."

If a complaint or objection is lodged within that 30-day period, the responsibility for settling the complaint lies with the original seller.

In other words, our law has the effect of deferring holder-in-due-course immunity until the consumer has had a reasonable opportunity to test and try the goods.

Regardless of where your payment obligation lies — with the seller himself, or a subsequent note holder, you should be very careful not to take this obligation lightly. If you fail to keep up your payments, because of illness or economic hardship, or because you believe that there is a defect in the goods, the seller firm can sue you for the balance due.

In this event, you should be notified of the intent to sue through a summons. A summons to appear in court will contain the name of the seller and the name of the buyer; show the amount claimed due; identify the court of action, and instruct the defendant as to when he should appear in court.

Do not take the chance of losing the case, and the property at issue, by default — by failing to respond to the situation and the summons.

If you can afford a lawyer, do so. If you cannot pay an attorney, consult your local legal aid service.

And do not put off seeking legal advice. If you wait until the last week or the last minute, you may find that it's too late for a lawyer to have time to prepare your case and - or arrange his schedule to represent you.

Sometimes, these judgment suits can be settled out of court. If you were involved in one which did come to trial, however, it would behoove you to present your case. If the judge does not hear your side of the story, he can base his decision only on what he does hear from the plaintiff. You could lose by default.

MAKES SMALL PROFIT
 HOUSTON (UPI)—Texas International Airlines has announced a profit of $206,900 — four cents a share — for the second quarter, and its first 12-month profit since 1967. Airline president Francisco A. Lorenzo reports first half net losses of $269,000, down sharply from a loss of $1.5 million incurred in airline operations during the same period a year ago.

REPORT RECORD SALES
 SAN ANGELO, Tex. (UPI)—Monarch Title Manufacturing, Inc., has announced record sales and earnings for the six months ended June 30. Net income of $192,113 from consolidated operations represents an increase of 48 percent over the same period last year, according to president and chief executive officer Edward P. McNamara.

To match the energy output of a hummingbird, a normal man would have to consume in one day 285 pounds of hamburger or 370 pounds of boiled potatoes.

Watergate Committee To Study 'Larger Pattern'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the Senate Watergate Committee resumes hearings after Labor Day, it will pursue the suggestion that Watergate was only an incident in a far broader campaign using secret agents and secret funds and manipulating the government's resources to retain political power.

The committee ended its first phase of hearings Tuesday and adjourned until September. Through 37 days of testimony from 39 witnesses, the committee concentrated on the break-in at Democratic National headquarters last summer and the effort after it went awry to conceal from public attention who planned it, approved it, learned of it and financed it.

But always there was an undercurrent of testimony and documentation suggesting that Watergate was one piece in a larger pattern. Its purpose apparently was to keep informed on Lawrence F. O'Brien, an old Kennedy ally whose competence as Democratic national chairman, documents showed, drew the White House's concern.

The evidence and testimony touched on but hurried past much more — the employment of at least one undercover spy who looked into the sex and drinking habits of political opponents; the attempt to sabotage the political fortunes of potential rivals; the instructions to make the IRS a political weapon; the "enemies list" and the suggestion that all administration actions, contracts, grants, penalties, inspections, audits and the like, be taken with an eye on their political fallout.

"Dirty Tricks" Aspect
 That investigation is called the "dirty tricks" aspect of the committee's business. Also to come is an investigation into whether political favors were promised — or coercion used — in the effort which succeeded in raising $50 million for Nixon's re-election fund, the largest ever amassed.

There have been suggestions, for example, that dairymen gave money through their political action committees in promise of an increase in milk prices supports. American Airlines' has admitted it gave money out of corporate funds, in violation of the law, and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has suggested other firms were also guilty. The recess which sent the senators home created an empty stage which Nixon is expected to fill with a "white paper" responding to the testimony against him. It will be made public next week. Both Cox and the committee went after the tape recordings which, since the spring of 1971, have taken down every word spoken in two of Nixon's offices and over four of his telephones.

The White House has been adamant about refusing to release the tapes and has shaken off compromise proposals, such as private review by a highly regarded outsider. Tuesday, White House lawyers declared that neither the courts nor Congress can force Nixon to release the tapes — even if keeping them secret would undermine either the prosecution or the defense of future Watergate defendants.

Committee Under Pressure
 Under pressure to render some sort of judgment while Watergate hampers the President's conduct, the committee may in September issue an interim report, drawing conclusions from what it has heard. Advisers H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman were the President's foremost defenders. They said information about the administration's involvement in the cover-up was kept from them by Dean Haldeman said he listened to the disputed conversations and found Dean had misinterpreted what was said to support his story.

Committee Under Pressure
 Under pressure to render some sort of judgment while Watergate hampers the President's conduct, the committee may in September issue an interim report, drawing conclusions from what it has heard. Advisers H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman were the President's foremost defenders. They said information about the administration's involvement in maneuvers cloaked in secrecy and only barely surfaced during the testimony heard so far. These include:

—The employment of former New York policeman Anthony Ulasevic as a fulltime political spy. He testified only slightly about his activities, gathering information on the sex lives and drinking habits of both foes and friends. Within a few days of the incident in which a girl drowned in a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Ulasevic testified, he was in Chappaquiddick, posing as a newsman and asking the most embarrassing questions.

—The attempts to sabotage the presidential primary campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who, in the polls of the spring of 1972 led Nixon by a considerable margin. One aspect involved a smutty phony letter under the signature of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., accusing two of his rivals in the Florida primary, Muskie and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., of sexual misbehavior.

200 or More on List
 —The purposes of the White House "enemies list" of 200 or more names.

—The "black advance" project of White House lawyer Charles W. Colson. This was a schematic program of disrupting the scheduled appearances and plans of political opponents.

—The effort to manipulate public opinion by presenting Nixon as besieged by Communist-financed demonstrators. Former White House chief of staff Haldeman admitted in his testimony that he wrote "good" and "great" on the margin of a memo reporting there would be obscene and violent protest when Nixon attended a Charlotte, N.C. rally honoring evangelist Billy Graham.

—The attempt to revise the public image of Daniel Ellsberg, defendant in the Pentagon Papers trial. The attempted burglary of the office of Los Angeles psychiatrist Lewis Fielding apparently was part of this plan.

Model 4230 — makes an ideal second set and is attractively styled to look great in the kitchen, bedroom or den. It's perfectly sized, too — for tables, shelves or bookcases.

Model 4360 — has its own swivel pedestal base to give you great viewing from any angle... and also makes a great second set. Handsomely styled, too!

Model 4736 — shown in Mediterranean styling — is also available in Contemporary and Early American. Each is compact in size (only 36" wide). Yet gives all the fine furniture styling you expect from Magnavox.

NEW 1974 VIDEOMATIC SOLID-STATE COLOR TV

THE VIDEOMATIC COLOR SYSTEM is a one-button color system that does everything you'd expect... plus more! Like automatically adjusting its own picture to changing room light — to give you the proper balance of color, brightness and contrast — day or night... so you get a sharp, clear picture in any room, any light! And, even with its pre-set controls, you can still adjust the picture.

HIGH RELIABILITY... is assured because every Magnavox solid-state color TV is subjected to one of the most grueling testing programs in the entire industry. Each — not just one or two — is preconditioned with a high-stress, high-voltage operational test to simulate the critical "breaking-in" period in your home... because Magnavox wants your color TV to work perfectly at their place before it gets to your place!

100% SOLID-STATE MODULAR CHASSIS... lets you enjoy better performance, far greater reliability and much easier serviceability. There's not a single tube to burn out or cause damaging chassis heat. And, with plug-in circuit modules as well as IC's and transistors — if servicing should ever be required — it can usually be done right in your own home... quickly and economically.

SUPER BRIGHT™ PICTURE TUBES... for the brightest, sharpest clearest pictures ever from Magnavox! In all consoles, there's the black Matrix tube... and in all 17" and 19" diagonal models there's the revolutionary new In-Line tube.

1 FULL YEAR WARRANTY on ALL 1974 Magnavox Color TV
 If anything goes wrong with your TV during the first year and it's the fault of Magnavox, it will be repaired — with no charge for labor or parts. And, if your picture tube becomes defective within two years, it will be exchanged for a new tube. In the first year, Magnavox pays for installation; in the second year you do.

WORRY CLINIC

Gregory thinks this clergyman is guilty of undue conceit by demanding to be called "Doctor." But educated pastors have a greater need for that "Doctor handle" in front of their names than do school teachers: Seminars have cheated them of such degrees too long!

CASE X-582: Gregory D., aged 29, is a high school teacher.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "the clergyman of our church attended college but didn't go to seminary."

"However, he has recently been granted an honorary D.D. degree."

"And now it seems to have gone to his head, for he insists that everybody address him as 'Doctor.'"

"Yet I understand that former President Herbert Hoover had nearly 90 honorary doctoral degrees, but I never heard that he ever insisted on being called 'Doctor.'"

"Why should a clergyman be so desirous of thus being addressed by that 'Doctor' handle in front of his name?"

WHY USE DOCTOR?

For many years I have agitated that all seminary students be granted an earned doctor's degree if they graduate from a college and win their diploma from 3 more years at the seminary.

But many diploma mills have arisen in the U.S.A. where ambitious folks could "buy" a variety of fancy-sounding doctoral degrees for any sum from $250 up to $1,000.

Teachers don't need the "doctor" handle as much as do clergymen.

For regulations usually stipulate that teachers must have at least 4 years of college and often a Master's Degree or more.

So the public automatically realizes that a teacher is usually a well educated person. Alas, that isn't the rule in the field of religion.

For many splinter sects have clergymen who may not even possess a high school diploma.

Yet they are referred to as "Reverend" and thus enjoy the same presumed educational status as a clergyman who has spent 4 years in college and at least 3 years at a seminary.

That's one of the chief reasons why clergymen are so eager to obtain a legitimate doctoral degree.

For it thus sets them apart from emotional sects where the pastors are almost illiterate. Yet the real test of any pulpit orator or local pastor, is not his past collegiate accomplishments.

No, indeed, for he should be judged on his present ability to hold a congregation enthralled by his public speaking skill and his number of religious conversions!

Stated bluntly, if you can "deliver the merchandise," what difference does it make how many or how few years you spent in our school system?

Often when I am on lecture tour, the Chairman of the meeting will expand on my educational background and "five earned college degrees, including the Ph. D. and M.D."

Admittedly, this prestige-building introduction may help create greater credibility for my remarks.

But as far as I'm personally concerned, I'd just as soon have the Chairman say:

"Here's Doctor Crane. If you read his column in our daily newspaper, you already know him well. If not, you'll soon become acquainted."

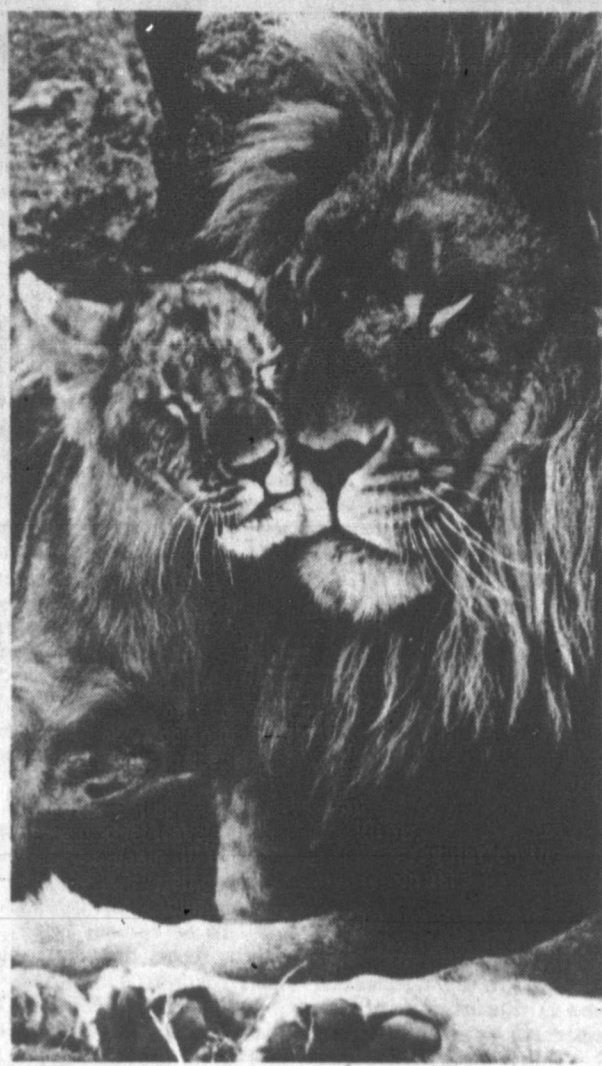

Once when I was at our Chicago Executives Club, the Chairman spent 10 minutes reading the many awards Admiral Byrd had received, but the Admiral then grew irate because one minor award had been omitted!

Actually, a Chairman should be able to build up a speaker's pedigree in 2 minutes and then let him prove his metal by what he says and does at the podium!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Welton, Indiana 47158. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Dear Consumer

Children's Clothes: Coping With Growth

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs

How our youngsters grow.

You may not have noticed their growth during summer, but you find out when it's time to get them ready for school and the fall and winter seasons.

Since all families struggle with this problem, sharing solutions can be helpful.

One mother I know puts away a small sum every week during summer. By fall she has a nest egg for the shoes, socks, shirts, jackets her four boys need.

Another tells me that her daughters' dress-up outfits are always bought at a local thrift shop. Run by volunteers for the benefit of a community charity, the shop buys—and then resells—only those used garments that are in excellent condition. Since youngsters almost always outgrow their Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes faster than they outwear them, thrift shops are good places to buy children's clothing. (And by selling the outgrown clothes to the thrift shop, you have extra money for newer clothes.)

Here are other tips on getting the most for your money when you shop for children's clothing.

- Take time to comparison shop. Look in different kinds of stores: discount stores, small neighborhood shops, mail order companies and department stores. Compare prices, brands and quality. Keep in mind how long you expect the clothes to be worn—one season? two? or more?

- Look for sturdy construction. Are seams straight, unpuckered, strong and wide enough to avoid fraying? Are pockets reinforced? Do zippers work smoothly? Are buttons sewn securely?

- Read care labels and fabric content labels. If fabric is not washable, add expected dry cleaning costs to the price of the garment.

- If fabric is not Sanforized (only 1% shrinkage) or pre-shrunk (only 3%), garment may shrink out of size.

- If ironing is required, remember that your own time is worth money.

- When buying sleepwear for small children (sizes 0 to 6x), be sure to buy garments made of flame-retardant fabrics.

- With rainwear, realize that "water repellent" fabrics only shed water. Usually, only rubberized or plastic-coated garments are waterproof. Girls' fashion boots, incidentally, are seldom waterproof. For foul-weather gear, look for labels that say "waterproof."

- Don't guess at sizes— they vary from brand to brand. Have your child try on each item before you buy it. This is a must, of course, with shoes—both feet, since each of us usually has one larger foot.

- Look for clothes that will grow with the child. Stretch fabrics are a boon. So are small children that are made with special "grow" features, such as extra sets of snaps and hidden hems that you can let down by pulling a single thread.

- There are several Federal government booklets that may be of interest to you: Clothing and Fabric Care Labeling (free); Clothing Repairs (25 cents); Fibers and Fabrics (65 cents); Look for That Label (free) and Removing Stains From Fabrics (20 cents). All are available from Consumer Product Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Make check payable to Superintendent of Documents.

Maria Callas To Make Appearance

LONDON (UPI) — Maria Callas, a native of Brooklyn whose voice and temper made her one of the world's great opera divas, plans to sing publicly next month for the first time in eight years.

And already everyone is worried about black market tickets.

Concert spokesmen at the Royal Festival Hall where she will sing Sept. 22 said they would use an unprecedented system for selling tickets to frustrate black market operators.

Miss Callas will sing a program of songs, arias and duets with Italian tenor Giuseppe di Stefano, one of her favorite partners in the golden days when she reigned as queen of divas.

The 49-year-old soprano and onetime temperamental darling of opera goers around the world has said she felt her singing was not at the peak it should be and she needed further study. As a result, did not sing in public for eight years while she continued studies. In the past few years she has devoted some time to teaching, and now apparently feels she is ready once again to appear on the stage.

It already was apparent her first singing appearance since 1965 will create tremendous ticket demands — and black market interest.

The concert spokesmen said tickets were being sold by mail only.

"I think this is the first time we have ever done this," he said.

In another move to curb scalping, the concert organizers said they would limit tickets to two per customer.

"The last time she was at the Festival Hall, black market people queued up," Miss Callas' agent said. "There were advertisements in the Times and Telegraph for tickets at $125 each. The touts made more than we did. They made no effort at all and we did all the work."

Music critics said her return would highlight the 1973-74 season.

A concert spokesman said the Royal Festival Hall holds 3,000 persons and he predicted demand to exceed that by far.

"Miss Callas has never retired, so this is not a comeback," her agent said. "I am sure the public will love her."

Although she has not sung recently, Miss Callas did return to the public eye in April when she directed a version of Verdi's opera, "Sicilian Vespers," in Turin, Italy.

Critics panned the production and said singers moved around the stage like wooden figures. Afterwards, Miss Callas called a news conference to blast the critics and defend the performance.

In recent years her private life gained more attention than her professional life. She and husband Giovanbattista Meneghini, an Italian industrialist, were divorced in 1970 and European gossip writers still fill columns with stories of her once-warm friendship with shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis.

Acrobatics springs from prehistoric times in China.

Bank Raises Interest Rates For Loans

J.E. Gunn, manager of the Spearman - Pampa Federal Land Bank Association of Pampa, announced today that the billing rate of Federal Land Bank farm and ranch variable interest rate loans is being increased from 7 per cent to 7 3/4 per cent effective Aug. 1, 1973.

The rate on rural residence loans is being increased from 7 1/2 per cent to 8 1/4 per cent. The variable interest rate loan plan which was introduced by the Houston Bank in July, 1969, lets the rate "float" over the variations in the money market.

"Continued high interest rates in the money market have made it necessary for the bank to take this action. Interest rates have risen rapidly since early 1973 and the bank has delayed action until this time in order to determine whether or not these rate increases were temporary," Gunn stated.

The bank recently marketed an issue of bonds which sold at an average effective cost of 7.6 per cent.

"It now appears that present interest levels will probably not change materially until the end of the year," Gunn stated.

The Federal Land Bank of Houston makes long-term real estate loans on farm and ranch land and rural residences throughout Texas and now has more than 775 million dollars in volume of loans outstanding. The local association makes and services loans in five counties.

Officers and directors of the association are W.B. Jackson, Pampa; O.C. Holt, Spearman; Paul Bowers, Pampa; Virgil Brock, Canadian; B.W. Renner, Gruber; and Lynn Davis, Morse.

GROWING-UP EXERCISES NO. 3

Walking a line

(Marjorie Craig is the author of Miss Craig's 21-Day Shape-up Program for Men and Women and Miss Craig's Face-Saving Exercises — both best-sellers. She has directed the exercise program of Elizabeth Arden Salons for 21 years and has worked on physical rehabilitation with men, women and children at the Neurological Institute of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, N.Y.)

By MARJORIE CRAIG
If you notice that the new walker is constantly toeing in, or turning his feet out or moving in a flatfooted way, then exercise is called for.

Find a straight line on the floor. You can use the edge of a rug or a line on the floor or in the pattern of your linoleum. The line should run at least 10 or 12 feet.

Do this exercise yourself, playing follow the leader with the toddler behind you. Then turn around and have him precede you down the line, as the leader, so you can check that he's walking properly.

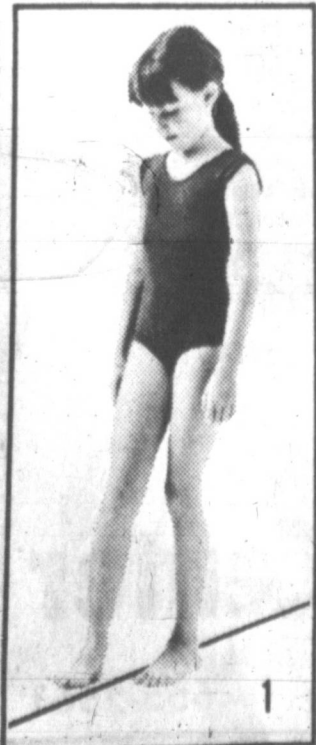

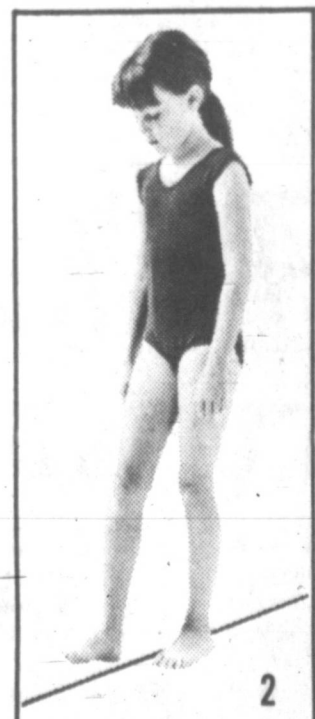

Walk with the line between the two feet and with the feet exactly parallel to the line, pointing straight ahead.

Walk so that the heel touches the floor first. Turn foot inward (the foot is turned so that it is parallel with the line). The outside border of the foot touches the floor next.

The ball of the foot and toes touch the floor last. Make sure the knees bend over the foot, not inward or outward. Do a few times every day. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

OU To Vie For Crown

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Sooners head football coach Barry Switzer Wednesday said the two-year probation levied against the University of Oklahoma by the Big Eight Conference may keep his team out of the bowls but not out of a run for the national championship.

"I know I'm a fighter, competitor and a winner and I know the people around me are," Switzer told an alumni group.

"Our goal is to win the (conference) championship and the national lead," he said. "We hope the team that represents the Big Eight in the bowls is second best—that they have a loss on record to OU."

Two hours before Switzer spoke in Tulsa, the Big Eight announced that OU had been stripped of its 1972 conference championship and placed on two years probation, keeping it out of all post-season bowl games and limiting televised games only to those for which contracts already had been signed.

The Sooners had been found guilty of 10 football violations, three basketball violations and one general transgression of conference rules. Six of the football violations related to freshman quarterback Kerry Jackson, who was ruled ineligible for play this season.

Jackson's Galveston, Tex., high school records had been altered when he went to OU, which led to the Sooners forfeiting all games Jackson played in last season, including the Sugar Bowl victory over Penn State.

Switzer said he talked to Jackson by phone Wednesday morning.

Seldom have records been more deceptive than in the case of Jon Matlack.

The talented lefthander of the New York Mets has been on the losing side of 14 games this season and figures to wind up as one of the top losers in the National League, but rival players would be the first to admit that Matlack is one of the most imposing young pitchers in the league.

Wednesday night he posted a two-hitter while pitching the Mets to a 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Matlack, posting his ninth victory of the year, turned in his 10th complete game as he struck out nine and walked two. The only hits he allowed were a leadoff single by Willie Davis in the first and a leadoff single by Manny Mota in the fourth.

"My fastball has really moved great in the last two games," said Matlack, who beat St. Louis, 7-3, in his last outing while striking out 11. "I try to tell myself if I can keep my walks down to two or three per game, and if I can get a couple of runs I can win. There's definitely room for improvement, though. Gaining experience is the big thing. I need to improve my control a little bit and refine my changeup. I still got a lot to learn."

Jerry Grote drove in the only run of the game with a second-inning single as the Mets beat Andy Messersmith. The loss cut the Dodgers' lead in the NL West to three games over Cincinnati.

In other NL games, Cincinnati edged Chicago, 4-3. Atlanta downed St. Louis, 4-1. Pittsburgh topped Houston, 4-3. San Diego blanked Philadelphia, 3-0, and San Francisco nipped Montreal, 2-1.

New York beat Texas, 3-2. Boston defeated Kansas City, 9-4. Baltimore downed Minnesota, 6-1. Cleveland routed Chicago, 13-1. Milwaukee whipped California, 8-2, and Detroit edged Oakland, 3-2, in American League games.

The Reds scored all their runs in the fourth inning to defeat the Cubs and hand Ferguson Jenkins his 11th loss in 21 decisions. A two-run triple by Tony Perez and another triple by Bobby Tolian highlighted the rally. Fred Norman went 7 1-3 innings to gain credit for his ninth victory in 11 decisions. His overall record is 10-9.

Mike Lum and Dusty Baker homered during a four-run fifth inning to power the Braves to victory over the Cardinals. Hank Aaron chipped in with a triple during the four-run fifth. Ron Schueler and Phil Niekro combined on a five-hitter for the Braves, with Niekro making his first appearance since his no-hitter last Sunday.

Pirates Down Astros
Jim Rooker and Bob Johnson combined on a six-hitter as the Pirates downed the Astros and moved into second place in the NL East. Rooker allowed five hits in six innings of work and Johnson gave up only one hit over the last three. Richie Zisk's run-scoring single capped a three-run sixth inning that gave the Pirates the triumph.

Tom Gets PGA Nod

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The form book points toward Tom Weiskopf but nobody was overlooking Jack Nicklaus in the 55th Professional Golfers' Association Championship which began today.

Weiskopf, from nearby Columbus, is the hottest thing the world of big money golf has known since Byron Nelson reeled off 11 straight victories in 1945.

The 30-year-old Weiskopf has finished in the top five in his last nine tournaments and won five of those.

That kind of consistency spells championship form and the majority of the other 147 men in the field make Weiskopf the favorite. That goes for Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, men who have dominated the championship circuit in recent years.

But Nicklaus, still only 33 and apparently with many years still ahead of him, is not exactly in a slump himself. He has won four times on the tour this year and stands third in earnings behind Australia's Bruce Crampton and Weiskopf with $200,424. His crime is that he has faltered in the three major events which preceded this week's 72-hole run over the beautifully manicured Canterbury layout.

But Nicklaus is far from through and he has as much desire for the big ones as the next guy. One more title and he becomes the biggest major winner of all time, an honor he now shares with the legendary Bobby Jones with 13 victories.

"I want to win this one, maybe even a little more than usual at this point because I haven't won one (major title) this year," Nicklaus says.

Trevino was unbrave with his game. He passed up the Westchester classic a week in New York to get a feel of Canterbury's 6,853-yard, par 71 layout, but Wednesday he said: "I'm still not mentally prepared."

Johnny Miller, complained of being tired but he confessed to a liking for the major tournaments.

"I get up for the big ones," he said on the eve of the tournament.

Player, the defending champion from Johannesburg, ruled himself out of the running, while Palmer, who never has won the PGA, said his chances depended upon his putting.

Higginbotham's ruling was the latest in a complicated legal battle between the WHA and the NHL.

The ruling apparently prevents the NHL from invoking the reserve contract clause. That clause, similar to one in professional baseball, allows a team exclusive rights to a player.

WHA attorneys say Higginbotham's ruling frees the WHA from NHL suits stemming from player raids.

Last November, Higginbotham barred the NHL from enforcing the reserve clause, saying it violated certain antitrust laws.

The suits by NHL teams against the fledgling WHA were consolidated here. They included the Chicago Black Hawks' suit against the Winnipeg Jets for the raiding of superstar Bobby Hull, and the Boston Bruins versus the Philadelphia Blazers over the league-jumping of Derek Sanderson.

Ironically, Sanderson and the Blazers didn't hit it off. The Blazers bought Sanderson off and he returned to the Bruins. The financially troubled Blazers franchise was sold at the end of last season to a group of Vancouver businessmen.

Higginbotham said in his ruling he was hopeful the NHL-WHA feud could be settled with a trial, perhaps later this year.

Bobby Lee Hunter Now A Free Man

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Convict boxer Bobby Lee Hunter, a bronze medal winner at the 1971 Pan American Games, is free after six years behind bars.

Sentenced to 18 years for manslaughter in 1967, the 23-year-old Hunter was granted a parole by the state Pardon and Parole Board Wednesday, because of his prison record—not his boxing prowess.

As soon as he was released, Hunter went to the bank, withdrew money received from ABC-TV for a documentary on him and headed for his native Charleston to buy his mother some clothes.

"I feel I am a much better man today," he said. "I feel as though I have paid my debt to society and am going to prove to society that I am not only a boxer but a good citizen."

Hunter won an AAU championship and bested a Marine Corps champion after being introduced to boxing in the prison recreation program.

The 5-foot-2, 112-pound flyweight went to Cali, Colombia, accompanied by a correctional officer as part of the prison rehabilitation program.

He won the bronze medal and was touted as a possible member of the U.S. Olympic boxing team in 1972 but was defeated by a 17-year-old high school student in the trials at Fort Worth, Tex.

Now he has job offers from the training camps of Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali and plans to ponder them while working for a Columbia construction firm.

and guard Paul Howard, are expected to see plenty of action against Washington. The other two allstars on the Broncos' roster are defensive end John Grant and safety Charles Hinton.

The Redskins, having lost their opening pre-season game to Detroit last weekend plus the services of backup quarterback Sam Wyche who suffered a fractured cheekbone, will probably take this one more seriously than the Broncos, who will be anxious to test their rookies. Washington Coach George Allen believes in winning every game, including pre-season contests.

The Denver-Washington contest is the only one on tap for Friday night, but there are seven games scheduled for Saturday night, three more for Sunday night and another for Monday night.

On Saturday night Green Bay is at Buffalo, Baltimore at Atlanta, Chicago at Houston, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, New Orleans at Miami, St. Louis at San Diego, Dallas at Oakland and Pittsburgh at Minnesota.

The New York Giants will be at New England, the New York Jets meet San Francisco at Tampa, Fla. and Cleveland is at Los Angeles on Sunday night. Detroit visits Kansas City on Monday night.

Not A Bad Idea

Parents in a County in California and elsewhere are taking individual action to assure as near as possible that their families will be fed during the government-induced meat shortage.

One of the actions has been to buy freezers so that supplies of meat can be kept within the household. This is simply a transfer of the meat inventory from the store to the home at a date further in advance of consumption than was previously the case. The rationale is three-fold. First, the possession of a freezer permits purchases in larger quantity. Second, it permits purchases of tomorrow's meat at today's prices. Third, it offers some degree of certainty that meat will be on the table.

Although the cry of "hoarding" invariably comes up, we don't think people should be criticized for exercising common sense in the face of a serious government disruption of the food supply. If anything, the rush to buy freezers is symptomatic of optimism. It indicates that people retain some confidence that current government disruption of the electrical supply will not be pursued to the extent that domestic users will not be cut off for long periods of time. It indicates a faith that some meat will be available at some price for the indefinite future.

For many years Mormon officials have been counseling members to keep on hand a few months supply of food-stuffs. Other religious groups are beginning to see the merit of that advice and are following the example set. In general, grains such as wheat and rice are easier to keep and do not cost as much to buy. To know how much to keep on hand, you can figure that one cup of the dry grain—when cooked—will sustain a man for a day.

We hope the government will desist from interference with the food supply in the near future and that the shortage will not get so bad that we will be down to mealtless days or weeks. Nevertheless, no one can predict how much damage a politician will do the country, so it is better to be prepared. As to "hoarding," a human being ought to be at least as smart as a squirrel!

Appearance Of Piety

Persons who attend meetings of government agencies learn to keep their eye on the bouncing dollar. If, for instance, you are observing a meeting of the State Board of Education, it will help you to know that the dollar is in the textbook adoptions. For the sanction of the board as to which book is appropriate for the classroom means that hundreds of thousands of tax dollars will go to that textbook publisher.

Assemblyman Robert Burke of California pointed out to his constituents a recent example of how the state board played fast and loose with equity in order to favor a publisher. In a given subject area, the board makes a pretense of fairness by inviting one and all publishers to submit potential texts. In the particular case cited by Burke, none of the offerings was acceptable to the board. But instead of rejecting all, thus giving all publishers a chance to come back on an equal footing with one another, the board tentatively adopted a title of which it did not approve and then directed that the written material encompassed by the title be changed. The tentative adoption subject to revision had the effect of throwing all but one of the publishers out the door, and letting that one stand alone inside the threshold.

The tentatively adopted text was rewritten and re-presented to the board five months later.

The board still didn't like the result. It asked for additional revisions. As Assemblyman Burke described it: "The revised revisions which were recommended to them amounted to a major overhaul of the textbook with well over 20 pages of new material and literally hundreds of word and phrase deletions. One June 14 the State Board of Education, following the recommendations of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Department of Education, gave final approval to this controversial textbook."

Well, having watched political decisions by the score, we are not surprised. And we are equally sure that the reader is not exactly shocked by the revelation that bureaucrats and quasi officials play hankey-pankey with the rules. What interests us is the lip service that the state boardmen gave to fair play before they broke the rules. They let all the publishers come through the same door before they took one of them by the hand to lead him through the bureaucratic maze to triumph. The school boardmen might have kicked the unsuccessful publishers in the teeth to start with, but that would have spoiled the appearance of equity. To judge by their behavior what the state boardmen wish is to enjoy a reputation for objectivity, while they play a little favoritism on the side.

RAY CROMLEY Decisions Bypass Civilians

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many Americans were shocked recently to learn that even the secretary of the Air Force did not know about the secret bombing raids on Cambodia of several years back — until he read accounts in the press.

Many people realized for the first time that a law passed by Congress in 1958 put the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries outside the chain of command. They were severed from control over military operations. Worse yet, a system was set up whereby on very sensitive issues they are sometimes literally kept in the dark on what is being planned and even on what is going on.

Yet these men are responsible for the training, morale and readiness of our armed forces. They are directly responsible also for procurement and manage the spending of a hefty portion of the total U.S. budget.

This extraordinary setup may make sense on paper. It does not work satisfactorily in practice. It means that civilian authority in the Pentagon — the Defense Department's overseeing on crucial issues — rests in the hands of two men, the secretary of Defense and the deputy secretary of Defense. And the White House, of course.

Despite the ability, the loyalty and the integrity of the men in the military services, for our system of government this is too thin a layer of civilian control. It does not provide for sufficient give and take discussion and checks and balances on crucial issues before orders are given.

The problem actually is not "control" of the military. The problem rather is that before crucial secret orders not open to public or congressional discussion are given to the military men to carry out, there should be a larger civilian group in on the discussions. The civilian Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries, for one thing, have more leeway in stubbornly questioning or criticizing decisions by the Defense secretary or even the White House than do military men. Their careers are not at stake. They can speak as equals, not as men required to take orders.

It is furthermore, ridiculous, considering their great responsibilities and the caliber of men necessary to do these jobs, that the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force are outside the chain of command and frequently left out of the Pentagon top policy planning.

End Of The Trail

One of the most deplorable and saddening sights of my life I saw at Kabul in Afghanistan. I saw literally hundreds of hippie-type people, youth from many countries, especially from the United States, on the streets of Kabul. These young people, many of them, have come from as far west as Antwerp and Paris. They have come down through the Balkans, through Turkey and Iran, into Afghanistan. Some went up to Nepal, and some planned to go down into India, and so on.

I had heard about it, but I did not realize the meaning until I got to Kabul and saw these young people on the streets, most of them very poorly dressed, very dirty, many of them very emaciated, due to the fact that they had not had anything to eat for a long time.

They come in there and they live on drugs primarily. They can do this, because the drugs in Kabul are cheap, relatively speaking. With hashish, (a potent extract of marijuana - Ed.) they can sustain their addiction there on about 40 cents to 60 cents a day, and when they have this much drug they do not care for food. They lose their appetite and they lose their weight, and get down to where they are just skin and bones.

I tried to talk to them. They had a dullness about their eyes that was just unreal. These are young American kids, 15, 18 years old. They are a tragic proof of what is happening as far as our drug addiction problem is concerned. -Gen. Lewis Walt, U.S.M.C. (Ret)

Question Box

QUESTION: Are we in the United States falsely worshipping economic growth, based on a growing national product?

ANSWER: Apparently some persons in the United States are giving great stress to so-called economic growth, and basing it on the foolishness called gross national product. But there are others who seek some sound and moral basis for human action.

Gross national product seems to be based on the total spending in the nation for goods and services, including government spending. Naturally it will continue to show higher dollar amounts each year, since government spending continues to increase, and the politicians and political bankers continue to expand the supply of paper money and credit to boost inflation. It is those factors which are largely responsible for the chaotic conditions in the country these days.

There are some other persons who see the entire economic situation as evil. This includes some sincere young people who say they wish to leave the United States because of its corruption. Many of these have had no opportunity in school to encounter true economics, and morality of action.

They fail to see that the bulk of persons really are moral, and are interested primarily in being honest with their fellow man. However, they may have abandoned principles when they have attempted to turn their problems over to politicians rather than to insist on standing on their own two feet.

Whether it is possible to reverse this trend of reliance on political action to solve human problems may be questionable. But there is nothing wrong with economic growth per se. It is only when one abandons principle and begins to worship economic growth instead of abiding by the great moral codes, that a people begins to decline.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

It is commonly stated that ostriches hide their heads in the sand upon sensing danger. The World Almanac notes that this belief is false, as the ostrich either runs or fights when it is endangered. Ostriches can run at speeds up to 37 miles per hour and have been known to kill men and even horses with blows from their sharp toes.

BRUCE BLOSSAT America is 'hurt' Japan's bulwark

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Japan, perhaps the most uniquely vulnerable "great power" in modern times, doesn't want the United States to falter economically, and to be gravely hurt by Watergate, to loose preeminence as a world leader.

So it is not mere diplomatic politeness, nor traditional Japanese courtesy, which led Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka — during his visit here — to blunt his country's vexations over President Nixon's unilateral, secretive way of taking actions with heavy impact upon Japan.

Under pressure from U.S. newsmen he met before seeing the President, Tanaka conceded what I reported more than a month ago from Japanese sources — that when America, without warning, suddenly stuns its ally with something like the crucial soybean export curb, Japan begins to think seriously of alternative supply bases like fast-developing Brazil.

Tanaka says, too, that Japan foresees a changing world in which key power relationships will be less narrow and more "bulti-faceted." That means, plainly, joining economic and political arrangements which embrace not only free Western Europe but also the two Communist giants, Russia and China.

But at least two or three dozen times Tanaka went out of his way to declare in the clearest possible terms that Japan today and for the foreseeable future considers the United States the great cornerstone of its economic and other links to the world beyond its compact islands.

Anyone who thinks that its mere "nice talk" from a visitor doesn't understand the Japan of 1973.

Its whole outlook is governed (one might say haunted) by its deep sense of vulnerability. Really the smallest part of its concern is military safety. Skill, totally dependent upon us for defense. Japanese leaders would not like to see our Asian military presence severely reduced.

What responsible Japanese never forget in any waking hour is that, while they are today the world's strongest economic power as gauged by gross national product, they are almost entirely barren of supporting natural resources. Cut off from foreign supplies, they would shrivel quickly. Furthermore, they live by trade with others.

Tanaka reminded his reporter listeners that Japan's crucial oil lifeline, reaching to the Middle East, is 7,000 nautical miles long. To support the world's third biggest steel industry, it finds vital iron ores in Australia, Africa, South America and elsewhere.

This country is at once its great food storehouse, its chief supplier of coal for steel-making, its source of high technology machinery and other goods, and its vast market.

There is sophisticated diplomatic talk here and abroad about new, more complex world power ties in which Japan would play a key though now undefined role. The Japanese want to do this if they can just figure it out how.

Yet in Asia, their natural arena, they venture cautiously, ever mindful of bitter memories of their pre-World War II domination. Europe hardly has scratched the surface with Japan.

So, while changes are coming, Tanaka talks hard stuff when he says endlessly that it is America that counts most. With all our troubles and vexatious ways, we remain Japan's rock of certainty, the great anchor for those floating islands whose economic miracle is so great and yet so fragile.

There's only one corner of the universe you can be certain of improving, and that's your own self. So you have to begin there, not outside, not on other people. That comes afterwards, when you have worked on your own corner. — Aldous Huxley, English biologist.

H. L. Hunt Writes

GRAIN FOR RUSSIA That watchdog of fiscal affairs, the General Accounting Office, has verified what some U.S. Senators have been saying. The grain deal negotiated with Russia by the Administration has cost the citizens of the United States hundreds of millions of dollars.

The GAO breaks the costs down into these two general categories: (1) subsidy payments amounting to $300 million; (2) the rise in the cost of food, manufactured from grain or dependent upon it, has run into untold millions of dollars.

These are the facts of the grain deal so far as the citizens of the United States and their family budgets are concerned. These are the immediate by-products of the arrangement with Russia. The Russian government and the people of that country, on the other hand, can count their blessings.

A Mule's A Mule!

President Nixon's popularity has now fallen so low I understand that Pat is now going to P.T.A. meetings under an assumed name. We perfectionists should try to remember that no man ever came into the Presidency better-qualified than Richard Nixon. Reminds me of General Grant, when he expressed his concern for a certain officer. Another General protested: "Why, sir, he has been through ten campaigns!" "So has that mule yonder", replied Grant, "but he's still a jackass". Integrity outranks experience. American Way Features

Death By Starvation

I am the Christian mother of six children; we are constantly being persecuted for our faith in God. Today we are again sentenced to death by starvation because of the arrest of our husband and father, the only breadwinner of our family.

On October 7, 1972, my husband, Nikolai Georgievich Baturina, was seized and arrested. Having arrested him, the Rostov authorities concealed his whereabouts for five days. For his ministry in the Gospel of God he has already served 13 years in Russia's prisons and in exile; he is now in Rostov prison (Z 59/1). He is in bad condition. My repeated petitions and requests for an interview with him have been categorically refused. I am afraid that he will die as a martyr for his faith in God, like Nikolai Khmara and Vanya (John) Moiseyev.

My dear brothers and sisters in Christ, on the foundation of Golgotha, and all people of good will who love their neighbor and desire truth and justice, which bring peace to the earth, we beg you: to raise your voice to God who is able to send defense and help.

Mrs. Valentina Baturina
