Ford Planning New Medium Price Car

By REY W. BRUCE
 DETROIT, Feb. 14—UP—Ford Motor Co. now is engaged in one of the trickiest, most dangerous and most fascinating phases of the automobile business in readying a new make of cars for public sale. If everything works out as planned for the new medium priced car Ford is planning, it will be a highly profitable venture. If it doesn't, it could be very costly.

Getting a new make of cars ready for production costs hundreds of millions of dollars. It takes that alone to set up the factories to produce a line of cars.

In addition, decisions committing millions of dollars for special tooling, what the new car will contain in the way of features, the looks of the new car, and cost estimates of building it all must be made several years before the car will be ready for sale.

First Determine Price Range
 The first thing that must be decided is the price range the car will fall into. Then it must be determined whether there will be a market for the car. It must be decided what features a car must have to sell to that market and what it will cost to build that kind of car.

The production and cost men must determine what it will cost for each of hundreds of parts which make up an automobile. Of course, that involves determining what the steel for fenders and glass for windshields will cost several years in the future when the cars actually will be built.

In addition to the permanent investment for the factory, for each year's model there is a special tooling cost which runs into millions. Special tools are those built to do a specific job for a specific model. When the model run is completed, these tools have to be junked and new special tools built for turning out the next year's model.

In addition to the costs of the hundreds of parts making up a car, it is necessary to figure out how many cars will be made and sold so that a proportionate share of tooling costs can be figured into the cost of each car. If 400,000 cars are built, the tooling cost for each car is much less than it would be if only 200,000 were built.

Every step of the planning is filled with dangers. If the cost of any part runs higher than figured, it could wipe out the profit on the car if the error was big enough. But despite all the chances for errors, the cost analysts usually hit within a small fraction of one percent on their estimates made two years in advance.

The biggest danger of course is that the car might turn out to be a "lemon," one that the public just doesn't buy. Or that for some reason the market for the car turns out to be much smaller than anticipated.

All the risks are weighed carefully by the experts before they decide to go ahead with planning the new line of cars. But even then, the risk still is present.

Eating Habits Of Americans Criticized

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 14—UP—A New York physician has predicted that America "will become a nation of invalids, not only weak in body but also weak in mind" unless "there is a sudden and dramatic change in the eating habits of the people and a greater production of quality food free of chemical poisons."

Dr. W. Coda Martin was addressing the annual meeting of the Natural Food Associates. He has been a frequent critic in medical journals and at medical meetings of the mass uses of such insecticides as DDT and of chemical fertilizers.

Reviewing the national health picture, Dr. Martin suggested malnutrition definitely was a factor in many diseases and could well be a factor in a whole host of others, including mental diseases and cancer.

By mal-nutrition he included excessive uses of fats and sugar in the diet as well as diets containing foods contaminated with insecticides or rendered nutritionally deficient by having been grown in deficient soils with the aid of chemical fertilizers.

He told the meeting there are in the United States now 95,788,534 "chronically ill" persons, which is well over half the total population. He included in his total an estimated 32 million whose only symptom is overweight, 10 million who suffer from deafness, 20 million who have allergies, one million juvenile delinquents and three million mentally retarded children.

Perryton Voters Okay School Bonds

PERRYTON — Voters here approved a $360,000 bond issue to provide for new school buildings Saturday by a count of 621 for to 50 against.

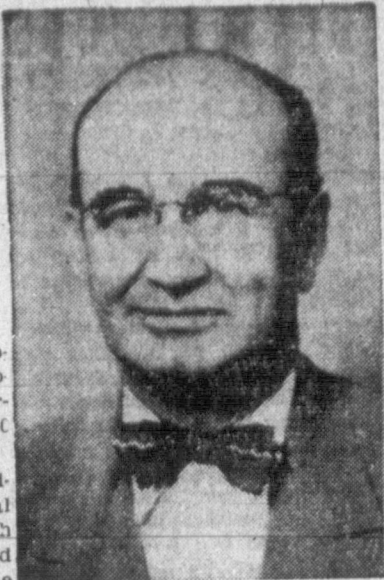

Included in the proposed building program were three principal units, an elementary building with 10 classrooms for the first and second grades, a building at the high school to house vocational agriculture, homemaking, band and chorus and shop.

The one story elementary will have classrooms with one door leading to an inside corridor and one leading to the outside. Each two classrooms will be connected by toilet facilities.

The cafeteria will be capable of accommodating 300 children at one time. Kitchen facilities will be located at one end, where they can be closed off for banquets and dinners.

If the vocational agriculture and homemaking departments are moved into the new building, the present high school building will take care of the expansion of the science and commercial departments.

A plan has been outlined by the school board so that the present bond issue with the bond assignment will continue to place the same amount into a sinking fund for the purpose of retiring the $360,000 fund. This plan will not increase taxes.

Doctors Move To Solve The Mystery Of Allergy Causes

NEW YORK — UP — The doctors who treat people for hay fever, asthma, hives, poison ivy, and tomato-beefsteak-chocolate-pork or what-have-you rashes, have organized themselves for a mighty effort to solve the mystery of allergies.

If these allergists should succeed, there will be no need for allergists. To carry out their campaign, they've formed the American Foundation for Allergic Diseases.

It's going to be quite a chore. Consider that "A" wallows in poison ivy with joyful abandon but "B" is agonized by itching and sores if he so much as touches it; that "C" cares not a whit how much pollen there is in the air but "D" is tormented with hay fever if there's only a little.

Some Think It Psychological

This reporter is in a position to tell you that some unquestionably competent medical scientists think allergies should be treated by psychiatrists. This is an extreme view, but its opposite view—all allergies, altogether of physical origin—is now old-fashioned. But no one knows now, just how "A" differs from "B," and "C" from "D."

The foundation has mapped out its research program into seven "areas." It No. 1 question is the "why" of the many ways body cells are affected by "antigens." In practically all persons an "antigen" such as a virus will start the cells producing anti-bodies against that virus. But only in allergic persons do substances which are harmless to non-allergic persons, start up the anti-body chemistry.

When these anti-bodies meet up with a new invasion of the antigen, whatever it is, you get the allergic reaction. So the No. 2 question is, can the formation of anti-bodies be prevented? If it can—and if the way is simple enough—that in itself could put an end to allergies.

Some Other Problems

The other questions are: The ins-and-outs of histamine in body chemistry; the ways enzymes are related to allergic reactions; the unknown processes by which some individuals can become "sensitive" to their own tissues; what, if any are the allergic factors in such degenerative diseases as rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis? And, finally, the influences of the emotions on allergies.

The foundation was formed some time ago by the American College of Allergists and the American Academy of Allergy. Now that it is organized it is looking for $1.1 million (as a starter) with which to get its program underway. Most if not all is expected to come from various philanthropic funds.

Freeman Causes Ohio State Cager Allen To Transfer

DAYTON, Ohio — UP — Robin Freeman, Ohio State basketball ace, was named Monday as a factor in the transfer of Buckeye player Mike Allen of New Lexington, Ohio, to the University of Dayton.

Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn Sunday night quoted Allen as saying he switched schools because Freeman "ran" the Ohio State team and has said Allen wasn't a "good player." Blackburn spoke during his weekly television program over a local station.

Lashing back at charges of "tampering" hurled by Ohio State Coach Floyd Stahl, Blackburn flatly denied that either Allen or another Buckeye sophomore, John Snyder of Defiance, had been encouraged by Dayton officials to change schools.

Liberty Not Bestowed

Despite the popularity of the works of John Stuart Mill, one of the first profound thinkers in the realm of the philosophy of liberty, there appear to be repeated efforts to cast the great libertarian into eclipse. His Essay on Liberty, considered by many as the basic work on this subject, has never been out of print since it first appeared in 1859, nearly one hundred years ago. Nonetheless, his detractors continue to search for flaws in the works of the master builder, and from collectivists on the left, as well as from alleged conservatives who plan to use force against the collectivists, the barrage descends.

Latest to take up the cudgels is Russell Kirk, who periodically executes an end run across the no-man's land between opposing ideologies. His latest effort in this direction is to be found in the new Wm. F. Buckley Jr. publication, "The National Review," for the week of January 25.

Here, Kirk for his thesis relies mainly on the works of James Fitzjames Stephen, classed by Kirk as "a forthright man of affairs and scholar of high attainment."

According to Stephen, who is perhaps more forthright than forthright, the basic flaw in Mill is that he actually believes in and advocates individual liberty in the face of all the political tyranny which exists and has always existed. Says Stephen, liberty is like fire. It is good or bad, depending upon individuals, circumstances and conditions.

Mill, according to Stephen, Kirk, et al, suffers in his work, by "inadequate understanding of human nature and history."

A reading of Mill, should one undertake that pleasure, would establish that it was Mill's purpose to understand the meaning of liberty, rather than to quarrel over human nature and history. It was Mill's purpose to show the characteristics of liberty, and how humanity might benefit by a universal adoption of liberty as a philosophy of conduct.

Mill makes no prediction that humanity will adopt his philosophy. He is content to expound it, and in this respect neither Stephen, Kirk, nor a score of others have been able to prove Mill wrong.

It may be true, indeed, it is demonstrable, that history shows humanity in a poor light when it comes to liberty. Periodically, all manner of slavery is invoked in the name of liberty. And it is the habit of human beings to congregate about a political center, expressing infinite faith in that center, and abandoning their own individual liberty for some temporary or fancied advantage.

Does this disparage liberty? Not at all. It serves, instead, to disparage humanity, and to elevate liberty. That liberty is desired and desirable, no one can successfully dispute. The mere fact that it is difficult to perpetuate liberty is not wise to declare that a love of liberty is possible only among the naive.

Kirk cites the discussions in Germany which occurred prior to the Hitler reign of terror against the Jews, as indicative of the fact that liberty has no practical value. After the discussion, the winners took force into their hands to perpetuate as violent and bloody a program as was ever instigated by men against their fellows. This, says Kirk, proves the impracticability of liberty.

On the contrary, it proves the practicability of liberty and the impracticability of politics. For it was politics and violence which followed when liberty was abandoned. To blame liberty for what happens when liberty is abandoned is specious logic.

For that matter, Kirk apparently labors under a delusion that liberty can some way be perpetuated by some form of government. But liberty and government are antithetical. The one does not sustain the other. Kirk insists that if Kerensky had not relied upon Mill, he might have ordered General Konev to put down the Bolsheviks prior to the October revolution. But Kerensky was an instrument of government and the Bolsheviks, a separate and more violent instrument. The one destroyed the other, and in the process liberty for the people vanished before it had time to condense from the dream world.

Liberty is not bestowed by any government. It occurs naturally before government is organized to take it away piecemeal.

We are grateful that Kirk, having assisted Stephen in "demolishing" Mill, returns to remind us that despite its flaws, Mill's Essay on Liberty is still a provoking source of thinking in the realm of liberty. We would suggest that Kirk re-read Mill in terms of liberty, rather than in terms of political retaliation.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

To a physician whose professional memory goes back 20 years or more, what has happened to lobar pneumonia seems almost incredible. This infectious disease of the lungs caused by a germ called the pneumococcus was one of the most widespread of the acute diseases and a real killer not long ago.

In a typical case the disease starts suddenly with a severe "chill" generally lasting from 15 to 30 minutes or so.

Treason Called "Social Security"

In the last issue I was quoting from letters from Rose Wilder Lane taking me and every other employer to task for paying social security taxes. I continue to quote from her letter.

"I shall now explain the difference between paying taxes and the treason called 'Social Security.'"

"Paying the so-called Social Security tax is not merely paying a tax. It is engaging in the destruction of the American Government."

"For this reason: Every dollar you pay (in 'Social Security' tax) transformed into a debt charged against other Americans, now babies or to be born in this COUNTRY. This debt is also OWED to these future American citizens, who must pay it in order to be paid it. As this scheme is expanded, by 'extending its benefits' to larger and larger numbers of Americans and by increasing the amount of these 'benefits' and lowering the age at which people expect to receive them (that is, by increasing the numbers of persons to whom they are owed) the amount of the debt increases. This means that the amount increases which the 'benefited' MUST pay in order to get these 'benefits' returned to them minus the costs of collecting and distributing them."

"The time will INEVITABLY come, in any country as it came in the German Republic, when the burden of this debt will be too great; Americans will not be able to keep on paying it. It will then be a debt that this Government owes to its citizens and cannot pay them."

"This time will come inevitably, because the scheme is a fraud; it is the same scheme that a famous or infamous - or croaky - Ponzi worked for awhile in Boston some years ago. Like all Governments, he had no money and did no productive work to make money. He simply offered something for nothing; he promised to pay enormous interest on money trusted to him for, he said, 20%, or 40% or 50%. I forget exactly, almost immediately he first sucked up who gave him money. The news spread rapidly, of course; his office was mobbed by crowds of eager savers begging him to take their money, and to take back the huge interest he paid them and invest it again and again for them. He took in millions of dollars and kept on giving back a percentage of them, and so getting more, from which he paid more interest. The scheme worked, as long as more suckers kept on giving him more money than he gave back to them. It collapsed when they didn't give him enough to equal the amount of interest that he had promised to return to them. And the famous Ponzi was arrested, tried, and sentenced to a long term in jail."

"So this fraud called 'Social Security' will work, as it worked for fifty years in Germany, as long as the Government can compel productive workers to pay into the Treasury more than the Government pays out in 'benefits.' More, because of course all the collectors and bookkeepers and check-writers and filing clerks and managers and inspectors and Executives who handle the scheme must be paid from the receipts. The fraud will collapse, as it did for Ponzi and for the German Weimar Republic and for the Roman Empire, when the suckers stop paying in more than they get out of it."

"And the time will inevitably come, because the debt constantly increases (by increasing the sums paid into it, and promised to be paid out of it), and because economic prosperity does NOT constantly increase, in any existing semi-free economy. And no Government can support or maintain an economy; it is the taxpayer economy that supports a Government. Even if the Russians were the truth, and a Government could make people productive and prosperous, by preventing saving and by inflating the currency with worthless money, still the economy today is international and no Government can control what other Governments do. These States and all Europe were booming in 1929; when credit collapsed in Europe, credit collapsed here."

"In an economic recession, or depression, people can live on their savings, and on loans or charity from others who have saved more. What happens when their savings have been taken into 'Social Security' and changed into Government debt, payable to them?"

"What happened to Ponzi's scheme happened to the German Weimar Republic in 1932. Bismarck had started the fraud there; it was Karl Marx's idea, and sold it to Bismarck. It worked, increasing all the time, from the 1880's to 1932. That winter, the unemployed in Germany could not continue to pay the Social Security tax; therefore the Government could not continue to pay its 'benefits,' on which - after fifty years - All Germans were depending for their food, shelter, heat. Even the remaining employed workers had been drawing 'benefits' of one kind or another, to eke out their take-home pay after tax deductions. When the 'benefits' stopped, they starved, they suffered from almost-freezing cold in their unheated rooms, their minds were affected by hunger and cold; they rioted and robbed in the streets, the police could not keep order; the policemen were not getting their own 'benefits,' either. And what was to blame for all this suffering and disorder and personal danger in the streets? The Government. The Weimar Republic, that had taken their money and promised to support them, and did not do it."

"This isn't saying, of course, that persons who believe it and support it and contribute to it now are traitors. They do not know what they are doing. If they did, I do not believe that they would do it."

If He Runs Again, Ike Would Get Labor Vote

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON - President Eisenhower will duplicate his 1952 feat of polling a sizable labor vote, if he runs again, regardless of the position taken by the AFL-CIO leaders in next November's campaign. He carried almost every industrial district four years ago, despite the unions' unanimous endorsement of Adlai E. Stevenson.

Ike's popularity with the workers has been cited in current debates on future labor strategy at Miami, where the AFL-CIO Executive Committee has held its first formal session since their merger. A major problem before them has been whether the new organization shall swing behind the Democratic nominee, or preserve an attitude of official but nominal neutrality.

Nonpolitical officers, and there are many of them among the 144 affiliated unions, argue that it would damage the new body, if it started out as an admittedly partisan faction in its inaugural year. It would be especially injurious, in their opinion, if the labor forces suffered a second successive reversal in opposing Ike.

As with the politicians, the uncertainty about Ike's running again perplexes and confuses the labor leaders. Only he and Chief Justice Warren, according to all polls, command enough strength among the 15,000,000 membership in the houses' declared opposition.

Thus, if the hierarchy were sure Hiller, leader of the National Socialist Workers Party. They did not want Communism; every vote for Hitler was (they believed) a vote against Communism; and he promised to restore law and order and to pay their Sozialpolitik (Social Security) 'benefits.'

"The present prosperity in these United States is no more permanent than the New Era of the 1920's was. Americans have proved that we can weather any economic depression, climb out of it and make a greater prosperity than before it; Americans did that in the major 'crashes' and 'panics' of 1873, 1893, 1907, 1917, 1929, 1932. The evidence indicates that free men can and will overcome depressions - in a free economy, or almost free economy - anywhere, any time."

"But what will people do, anywhere, when literally MILLIONS of them lose their jobs, clutch at their 'Social Security' benefits as life-savers - and find that those promised 'benefits' are not there? When, in such an emergency, their food, shelter, lives and their families' depend upon their Government's paying them a debt that it promised to pay, and does not pay; then what do they think that Government? Does it hold their respect, their loyalty, their moral support and active defense against its enemies? Or do they still love Ponzi?"

"I say that this Marxian fraud, called Sozialpolitik in Bismarck's Germany and Social Security here, is treason. If it is not stopped, it will destroy American Government as certainly as it did destroy Bismarck's Germany."

"This isn't saying, of course, that persons who believe it and support it and contribute to it now are traitors. They do not know what they are doing. If they did, I do not believe that they would do it."

U.S. Could Have Affected Red Attitude In Revolution

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

When the National Broadcasting Company recently flashed on the television screen a jerky string of old newsreel shots of the Russian revolution, padded with trash of no value, my own interest in the faithful and ghastly event was sharply stimulated. We are almost all victims of our ignorance and the worst of that might be that this ignorance is imposed upon us. True, we have been too busy or too dull to inquire, but the truth is so widely strewn and covered with dust that few can find it even by intelligent study.

Of late I have drawn upon the information and opinion which my old friend and colleague, Karl Bickel, the retired president of the United Press, accumulated on many journeys to and across Russia in the days before the purge. Mrs. Bickel took advantage of these opportunities to acquire Russian and Oriental fabrics, jade, crystal and other attractive gewgaws which she purveyed to retailers in New York. They have never done the conventional book so the material which Karl freely gave me in reply to a limited original inquiry is still original and historical.

"I don't see the general Russian position as you see it," he wrote. "Fundamentally Communism, as I understand it, even without the things put into it by the Russians, producing a thing a great deal different from what Marx intended, would not be for me, or any section of American life. I'm not afraid of Communism and I'm not even apprehensive of the Russians. I'm not concerned about Russian propaganda because I saw a lot of it and saw it being made in a small way and I know it is clumsy, stupid and non-understanding."

"But to pretend that Soviet Russia is not a great force in the world, to pretend that the Russian Socialist state has not already had a great and important impact on our thinking would be to ignore the basic facts of our existence in the last 25 years. It was plain to me as early as 1923 that the Russian revolution was the biggest thing that had come into the world since the birth of Christ; that its impact on the thinking of the world, in men and women and their lives and in money and property and civic rights, would be deep and important. And there is no question in my mind that the impact of the social and economic philosophy of the USA is now beginning to have impact on Russian thinking. They react more slowly because they are infinitely more suspicious than we are. Their minds are deeply rural. Today Russia sees in America the world's greatest city slicker. You can still smell the cowboy on the boots of any Russian. He knows it and likes it. It is basic that in the next 500 years, or more Russia will be one of our most important social and international problems."

"Kerensky missed his boat for lack of guts and a will to dominate. If he had had a bit of Napoleon in him, he could have kept his seat, easily. Raymond Robins (an American political agent of the old Chicago Hull House revolutionary clique which produced Sidney Hillman) left Russia about 1919. I never met him although he died at his place just north of Tampa (Bickel lives at Sarasota) only about a year ago. He had a 'big' in with the Lenin crowd and if our state department had followed his advice the whole Russian picture today might have been very different."

(Mr. Bickel refuses to believe Robins' bad reputation. But Robins certainly did not oppose Communism, he was a political crony of Harold Ickes who favored a "modified Communism" in the United States. Robins cracked mentally and disappeared for a spell in his old age.)

"The Russians asked him to bring over a lot of retailers, engineers, school organizers, etc., and had our government supported that the whole line-up could have been swung along American lines, although I think it would have been basically socialist. But that was too great a job for the State Department to swallow. It was suppressed and so was Robins. The original Reds under Lenin weren't the Asiatic gang that dominated after his death."

"Most of the things we hate about the Russian administration come to them honestly from the background of government they got from the Romanoffs. The Russian of today is merely an old-time Russian with a new lacquer smeared over him. He is 90 per cent Russ and 10 per cent Communist but his Communism is strained through a Russian mentality and personality. Karl Marx would rear back in horror if he could see what the native Russian personality and Marxism have created in Russia."

"Ivy Lee (the Rockefeller's press agent) about 1925 was trying to do a propaganda job over there. He told me it was impossible to hire an American who could understand what the Russians were trying to do and evaluate and interpret it. They had a basket of new stuff, probably old enough to students of Socialism but without any link with the world as we knew it in 1925."

"In the '30's there was a lot of fooling around among the American oil people - Standard, the Rockefellers, the Sinclair interests, etc., for oil concessions. Neither side trusted the other and the U.S. people either wanted too much of the Moscow pipe got scared of them. The Dutch, British and French oil interests were constantly threatening to declare war if the Americans got a concession. The threat of war in the late '30's and early '40's was very real. Russia was absolutely unarmed for 20 years after the revolution and any army certainly could have captured Moscow. They were very weak in the air, too, and terribly scared of a French-Polish or British-Finnish attack. You have got to weigh those fears and the scars or them to evaluate Russian policy today."

CRACKER BARREL

When they first thought it up, the term "foreign aid" meant Aid to America. At least, that's what the American taxpayers thought it meant. Foreign countries, willin' to aid America, were to be given financial assistance and you and I were to foot the bill. But now we're paying' foreign countries to be neutral or even hostile to us (as is Nehru's India), and it can only be explained by the fact that givin' money away has become a habit with our government. It's a Bad Habit and it doesn't make much sense.

JOANTHAN YANK

It is their belief that organized labor is now powerful enough to be independent. They think it can achieve bread-and-butter objectives more effectively by trying to elect friendly members of Congress and State Legislatures.

Finally, and especially in view of the natural gas bill's revelation of an irreconcilable feud between Democratic conservatives and liberals, the neutralists maintain that it would be almost fatal to become a mere annex of that Party. They would stand to lose all influence within the GOP, which normally controls so many states and industrial centers outside the Democrats "in the bag" for more than 20 years, and, judging from their happy situation should continue.

Mac Thinks The Zest Is All Gone From Valentine's Day

By HENRY McLEMORE

It's a good thing I am not in grade school these days, for I would be sure to horrify all the other pupils and the teacher on Valentine's Day.

From what I gather, Valentine's Day today is a gentle, sweet and lovely occasion with each pupil trying to outdo the other in making everyone happy. They exchange delicate little valentines all covered with lace and tender sentiments. When I was knocking around the second and third grades in my knickers and black-tipped stockings, it was everybody for himself on Valentine's Day, and the winner was the one who could inflict the most punishment on the others by the wickedness of his valentines.

We took particular delight in letting the teacher have both barrels of our childish venom. I remember Miss Wheeler and I know her now to have been a pretty, sweet girl of twenty or thereabouts, but to us on Valentine's Day she was an orgie. I worked as hard as Michelangelo ever did on the Sistine Chapel making crude valentines to leave on her desk. I drew her with teeth as big as saucers, ears the size of doormats, and straggly hair that a witch wouldn't wear to a Halloween party. Of course, our childish bravery didn't allow us to sign these valentines. We just tucked them under the papers on her desk and thought was her horror when she looked at them.

We gave the little girls in our class a good going-over too. Now,

I understand the teacher sees to it that each little girl gets about the same number of valentines, but when I was learning to read and write it was the pretty little girls who got all the valentines. If the homely little girls got any at all they were ones that portrayed the homeliness and made capital of it.

There can be no doubt that Valentine's Day is a much nicer day now than it was. The same is true of another day - April Fool's. When I was little we spent weeks planning devilment for April Fool's Day. One of our particular delights was to save up our pennies and buy cheap chocolates which we'd hollow out and fill with the worst-tasting soap we could lay our hands on. Then we would offer this candy to any unsuspecting soul and practically break our sides laughing when they bit into it. We spent hours concealing a rope across a dusty road so as to trip up anyone who passed by.

All this makes us sound like little horrors. I guess the truth of it is that we were children - and children, like everything else, have improved - but I still can't help but feel that Valentine's Day has lost some of its zest.

I guess it's a good thing I'm not back in school for I'd spend more time in the Principal's office than he did. The wear and tear on his belt would be considerable, often as the clock struck, and the notes I had to take home to my family from the Principal would make a ten-volume set.

VOTING WAS entirely on the well dressed appearance of nominees, not on the amount of money each one annually spends for his clothes, nor on his financial, social or business position," Mr. Adams said, in announcing the 1956 list of ten best dressed men.

"The foremost men's wear experts of the country, including designers and stylists of men's clothes, were members of the jury. Their verdict has resulted in the first truly democratic list of ten best dressed men," Mr. Adams continued. "The title of best dressed man is not a synonym for fame or money. It depends on how wisely a man spends his wardrobe money. Correctly fitting clothes that suit the occasion, no matter what they cost, make the well dressed man."

Mr. Adams pointed out that the Made-to-Measure Guild's list of ten best dressed men includes men with occupations ranging from merchandising and selling insurance, to brokerage and the practice of law.

"This proves that any man, no matter what his business or profession, can be best dressed if his clothes are correctly fitted to his individual measurements and are properly coordinated," Mr. Adams said.

Mr. Adams explained that the research and educational program of the Made-to-Measure Guild

WHOOPEE! WE TOPPED BORGER

By TOMMIE ELLIS
WEST TEXAS STATE FIELDHOUSE, CANYON, Feb. 13 — Pampa's fighting Harvesters flexed their basketball muscles here tonight stretched a two-point first-quarter lead to eight points watching.

The Harvesters, evidently out to win, played almost perfect basketball throughout the entire game after a miscue the first time they had the ball gave Borger a two-point lead. The Green and Golders then settled down and played one of the best games of the season. Hustle was the primary difference in the two clubs as the Harvesters were constantly pressing defensively and offensively. Pampa relaxed with 3:15 left in the final period and began a stall that netted them another four-point lead as Borger, in a do-or-die effort, tried to gain control of the ball.

The Harvesters went ahead of the Borger Bulldogs in district crowns won in the six years of 1-AAAA district play with four championships while the Bulldogs have captured two.

Borger won the first contest of this season by a 63-57 mark and

John Malaise, Broncho coach, won the toss following the Pampa victory and chose to play the first district playoff game in Pampa. That contest will get under way tonight in Harvester fieldhouse at 8 o'clock.

The following two games, if three are necessary, will be played Friday and Saturday nights in Odessa. Officials of both schools met in Canyon and made the decisions which will give Pampa fans a single contest at the regular admissions prices.

The officiating, done by Harry Hess and Red Meisenheimer, was as good as any in the state as neither Pampa fans nor the Borger fans could discredit them. Boos came from both sides of the gym at times but they were not directed entirely to the officials.

The Pampa cagers began a stall with 3:15 left in the final frame as the Harvesters, decidedly underdogs, took the second, 66-65 in the only overtime game in the northern half of the district.

This third meeting was the payoff between the two teams to decide which would represent the north division in the district deciding playoff with the Odessa Bronchos who had won the south half with a five-one record.

Pampa's Dicky Mauldin was the big gun for the Harvesters as he paced the McNeely cagers with a total of 23 points and is dumped in five field goals and 13 of 15 free shots. He counted for his first 12 tries.

All the Harvesters fared well in the final contest last night with rebounding, defense and offense working to near perfection. Borger's five seldom took a second shot at the hoop as Pampa's Tommy Girdorf, Buddy Sharp, Dicky Mauldin, Gene Brown and Jerry Gee all seemed to be in just the right spot for the rebound.

Jerry Pope came into the contest late in the second frame and had second place scoring honors as the Harvesters led the Bulldogs 30-35 as the first half ended.

Both Pampa and Borger played a tough game in the first frame as the score was knotted at 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, and 14. The Green and Golders took the advantage with a field goal to make the first quarter score 15-14.

The Green and Golders stretched their lead to five points by halftime as Gene Brown added another four points in the second frame. Buddy Sharp dumped in one net swisher and Jerry Pope racked up seven points. Jerry Gee hit a free toss and Tommy Girdorf and Dicky Mauldin were held scoreless.

Mauldin dumped in several but was called for traveling each time. Borger came back in the third quarter, and cut the Harvesters' lead to two points at one time but the Green and Golders led going into the home stretch 50-45.

The Harvesters' longest lead came in the final period as 11 points separated the two clubs at one time.

Statistics Show SMU Is Ahead

DALLAS — UP — Want to know why Southern Methodist has been so successful in leading the Southwest Conference basketball race and earning a No. 8 ranking nationally?

Then take a look at the official conference statistics which show Coach Doc Hayes' charges — not just one or two of them, but all of them — stand a 50-50 chance or better of sinking every shot they take from the floor.

In 445 pops at the basket in seven league games, SMU players have rung the bell on 224 of them, or 50.1 per cent of the time.

On top of that, they've hit 79.4 per cent of their foul shots, 166 out of 209 gratis throws to lead the pack in that respect as well.

Rice comes closest to matching the Mustangs from the floor, but has connected on only 43.1 per cent, while Texas is the runnerup from the foul line with a 76.9 per cent.

The Mustangs have averaged 87.7 points per game to 73.5 for Rice and own the second best defensive record behind Arkansas' 64.3 with 68.7.

Over the full season, the Methodist's marksmanship isn't quite so good but at 43.6 per cent accuracy from the field is leading the loop. Texas is tops for the season in free throws, hitting 76.7 per cent.

Among the individuals in league games, Louis Estes of Baylor is tops with a phenomenal 60.4 per cent proficiency, followed by Larry Showalter of SMU at 55.3 and Joe Durrenberger of Rice at 54.3. From the foul line, it's Ronnie Morris and Jim Krebs of SMU and Raymond Downs of Texas in a tight race with 85.4, 85.3 and 85.2 per cent accuracy.

For the season, Downs has hit 50.6 per cent of his field goal efforts to 50.4 for Temple Tucker of Rice and 48.6 for Durrenberger, while Downs also is tops at the foul line with 85.5 per cent of his free shots finding their mark. Morris is second at 83.3.

LEAD STRETCHER — Gene Brown, 22, is shown coming in for a layup in the final seconds of the Pampa-Borger clash that gave Pampa the championship of the north division of District 1-AAAA. Jerry Selfridge is shown as he tries to stop the shot. Max Miller stands helpless as Brown made the lead-stretching field goal and gave Pampa a 66-58 victory. (News Photo)

Who'll Win? US or Russia

Australia Prepares For 1956 Summer Olympics

NEW YORK — UP — Who'll it be? The United States or Russia for the team championship of the 1956 summer Olympics?

That's the question most of the sports world is asking since Russia's resounding triumph in the winter games at Cortina, Italy, earlier this month. While the answer isn't going to come until Dec. 8, it's a question that doesn't concern Australia.

For that sports loving continent, imbued with intense national pride, is going all out to make the XVI Olympiad at Melbourne, Nov. 22-Dec. 8, the most successful one since World War II. It doesn't care which country wins so long as the games surpass those in London in 1948 and those in Helsinki, Finland, in 1952.

There has been some doubt in many places of the world — outside Australia — of Australia's ability to stage the games successfully. There has been more criticism of Australian planning than there has been praise.

Perhaps there was a time when that criticism was justified. It is not any more.

For with the opening of the world-wide sports spectacle more than nine months away, Melbourne is further advanced in its planning and construction than either London or Helsinki was six months before these cities held the games.

The writer recently returned from a two week visit to Australia, going there as a guest of Qantas Empire Airways, to inspect all the Olympic facilities, and to star laying the groundwork for the United Press' coverage of the games.

Auburn Placed On Indefinite Probation

AUBURN, Ala. — UP — Auburn bore up manfully Tuesday under a record punishment of the Southeastern Conference executive committee for violating grant-in-aid football recruiting rules.

The committee, it was announced Monday, has placed Auburn on indefinite probation, barred it from post-season game participation at least for next year, and threatened a ban from all athletic competition unless it makes positive steps to prevent further violations.

Athletic Director Jeff Beard gave strong indication that Auburn will take its punishment without protest, although technically it can appeal at the annual conference meeting next December.

Auburn, ironically, is host to that meeting scheduled to be held at Point Clear, Ala.

The committee, at a secret meeting in Atlanta last Thursday, reviewed the case of Auburn's $1,000 offer to the Beaubie twins to accept grant-in-aid scholarships and added the probation to a $2,000 fine that SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore had already levied.

Hal Herring, an assistant football coach, had paid the money to Harry and Robert Beaubie of Gadsden, Ala. The brothers accepted the $1,000 but told their father, a minister, who returned it and reported the case to Moore.

The punishment Auburn received was the stiffest ever handed an SEC member for a football recruiting violation and matched only by the 1952-53 Kentucky basketball suspension in connection with the fix scandals.

Moore, in announcing the executive committee action, said it applied only to Auburn's football program.

Tech Coach Gets Staff, Boys Ready

LUBBOCK — UP — Coach DeWitt Weaver got his exas Tech athletic staff ready for spring training Tuesday with the addition of two new aides to his coaching ranks and a change in assignment for another coach.

E. F. (Junior) Arterburn, formerly an assistant coach at Oklahoma A&M, will report Wednesday as backfield coach and Tom Ham, who played guard for Tulsa and Mississippi State, will replace Aubrey Phillips as freshman coach. Phillips moves up to the varsity as a line coach.

Arterburn, 36, quarterbacked Weaver's 1951 Border Conference champions. He served as player-coach at Great Lakes Naval Training Center the next two years, played a year with the professional Chicago Cardinals in 1954 and then joined Cliff Speegle's Oklahoma A&M staff last year.

Phillips captained the Tech team in 1951 and then also moved on to the pro ranks. He coached at Florida in 1953 and at St. Petersburg in 1954 before coming to Texas Tech.

All contracts of the coaches are for one year except Weaver's.

Pro Golfers Start Play In Texas Today

SAN ANTONIO — UP — Most of the major money players in professional golf go into action in Texas Tuesday with a $3,000 pro-amateur at the Oak Hills Country Club serving as a warm-up to Thursday's start of the $20,000 Texas Open.

A similar pro-am tourney Monday was won by Billy Erfurth, a San Antonio pro playing out of Oak Park, Ill., with a three-under-par 69.

Erfurth picked up $200 for his efforts in the Monday $2,000 pro-am tournament. Four golfers tied for runner-up honors one stroke behind him with 70 totals.

Second-place finishers were Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Howie Johnson of Houston, Marty Furgol of LeMont, Ill., and Bob Hamrick of Freeport, Ill. Each of them took $100 in prize money at the Fort Sam Houston course.

In a team event, two foursomes tied with 61 totals. One team consisted of Bob Morris of the Dallas Country Club, Lt. Col. Webster Wilder, David Knuss and John Burgess, all of San Antonio.

The other foursome was made up entirely of San Antonio talent. Included in this group were Earl Jacobson, Ken McManus, Lt. Col. H. E. Wandel and John Oliveria.

Raiders Meet Texas

AUSTIN — UP — Texas Tech plays the University of Texas in a non-conference game here Tuesday night after whipping Hardin-Simmons 70 to 55 in Abilene to remain atop the Border Conference standings.

The Red Raiders were paced by Eugene Carpenter, their 6-8 center, with 24 points against Hardin-Simmons Monday night. He had plenty of help from DuWayne Blacksher, who scored 20 points. Delnor Poss was high for Hardin-Simmons with 15 points.

Tech led most of the way in the game, taking an eight-point advantage mid-way in the first half and holding a 42-28 edge at halftime.

The Red Raiders controlled the backboards against the shorter Cowboys, snagging 73 rebounds to 40 for last place Hardin-Simmons.

The Tech team now has a 6-2 conference mark to remain a solid favorite to represent the Border Conference against the Southwest Conference champion in the regional playoff to determine which team goes to the NCAA championships in March.

Title Bout Scheduled Wednesday

The Pampa Shrine Club has completed the matches for Wednesday night, Feb. 15th, by signing a tag team affair with Dizzy Davis and Tokio Joe, two top notch stars, vs. Mike Clancy and Cowboy Carlson, two of the roughest and toughest in the game.

This should be a thriller; there is likely to be trouble when Tokio Joe begins to use his judo cuts, and his opponent may use anything to defend himself. This will be the first time Tokio Joe has appeared here and he is teamed with a good partner, Dizzy Davis.

Most fans know that Mike Clancy and Cowboy Carlson can do. Don't forget that "Gentleman" Ed Francis is putting his Junior World Heavyweight Championship belt up in a 90 minute two out of three fall bout against "Big Bob" Geigel. Geigel is out to win, this one as he has not forgotten that he lost the Southwest Champion belt by not defending it at the proper time.

Tickets are on sale at Modern Pharmacy, phone 4-6888. They are going fast, as everyone wants to see these matches. All proceeds go to the Pampa Shrine Club Crippled Children Fund.

We have had to advance prices in order to get this match. Tickets are $1.75 for ringide, $1.50 for reserve bleachers, $1.25 for general admission and 50 cents for children.

Adultery Is Charged By Korean Vet

MINNEAPOLIS—UP—A young Korean war veteran has won a divorce on charges that his wife committed adultery and gave birth to a baby while he was in a Communist prison camp.

The divorce of Airman Harry P. Benjamin Jr., 23, was revealed Sunday by Judge Levi M. Hall of Hennepin county district court. Hall said the divorce was granted Thursday. It apparently came as a shock to Benjamin's 20-year-old wife, Charlene. The young woman, staying with her parents at Worthington, Minn., gave newsmen conflicting stories about the divorce. At first, she denied that it took place and also denied the birth of the baby. Later, she said Benjamin divorced her in order to enter the Air Force Academy, which has married men. They plan to re-marry after he graduates, she said.

'Oscar' Nominees To Be On Television Show Saturday

By ALINE MOSBY HOLLYWOOD—UP—The 1956 Oscar nominees will be unveiled on television Saturday — and this year the show has been remodeled to guarantee "no embarrassment."

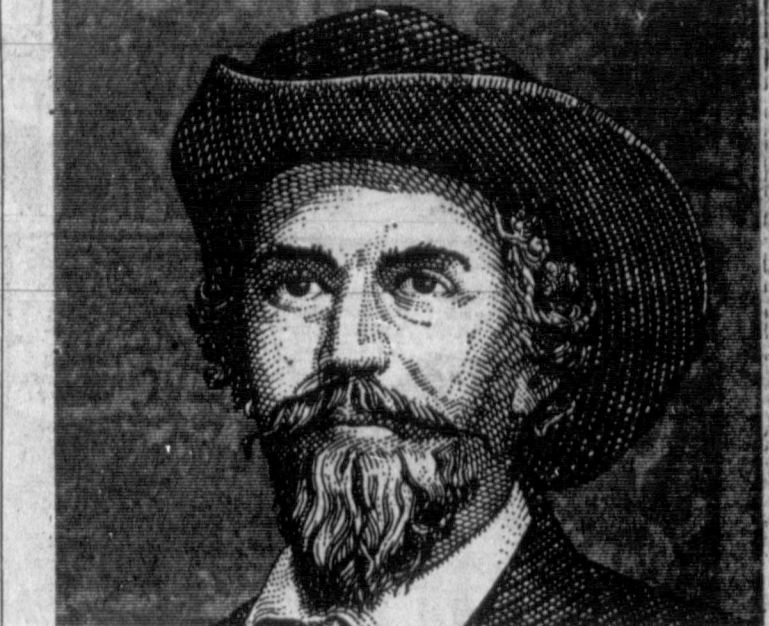

Last year any star who had a remote chance to cop a nomination sat in on the telecast. When the nominees were announced, the cameras caught the disappointed faces of the losers. But this time kindly NBC-TV will not let that happen again. "Not one prospective nominee will be on camera unless actually nominated," is the firm resolve of Alan Handley, producing the show for the network. "This way there is less chance for embarrassment." NBC started telecasting the nominations only last year. Handley admits he then didn't think it would be much of a show. But it snared one of the highest ratings of any 90-minute spectacular. "We jazzed up the 1955 show with elaborate effects," he said. "We thought the show wouldn't have much appeal. But we underestimated the marquee value of Hollywood glamour. The academy awards, after all, is the oldest established floating crap game." For this year's show the prospective nominees will all gather in NBC's Burbank studios. Susan Hayward, Spencer Tracy, James Cagney, Ernest Borgnine, Glenn Ford, Marissa Pavan and Frank Sinatra are among those expected to be nominated. Other stars who will help announce the nominations include June Allyson, Ann Blyth, Tony Curtis, Deborah Kerr, Dick Powell, Judy Holiday, Celeste Holm, Edmond O'Brien and Clark Trevor. The technical awards will be flashed on the screen on cards while clips from last year's winning films are shown. The top acting nominees will be revealed by a surprise method — when clips from their movies appear on the screen.

up, Price - Waterhouse, the accounting firm that counts the votes, had to let somebody in on the results for the first time. Veteran film cutter Bill Hornbeck was sworn to secrecy. Hornbeck is editing clips of the winning acting roles. The can of film will be sealed and opened only on the telecast. Price - Waterhouse is preparing the cards that announce the other winners. "We have no idea about the nominees," Handley insisted. "Some people always think this isn't on the level. But it is. The secrecy makes five times as much work for us."

"Okav, Okay, Imogene! So you're NOT a tomboy!"

Newest Hollywood Beauty Drives Gold-Painted Car!

HOLLYWOOD — UP — Hollywood is a-flutter Monday over its newest headline-making beauty—a South American actress who's so rich she makes the local film stars look like paupers.

Leonora Amar, a brunette with cream-colored skin and an hourglass figure, sauntered into town four weeks ago and dazzled the film colony.

She moved into a $125,000 Beverly Hills mansion. She bought the $100,000 gold-painted Cadillac that Judy Holiday drove for that movie, "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

She had just whipped back from Paris with a new $100,000 wardrobe. Earouh she picked up one of the Aga-Khan's diamond rings for $165,000. And on a dull afternoon she bought an apartment house on swank Wilshire Blvd. here.

After hearing the grapevine buzz on this mysterious beauty, I visited her home to see what the town's richest star is like.

Leonora turned out to be an heiress from a wealthy Brazilian family, and the star of 16 Mexican films.

"I would like to act in pictures here. I love to act. If I don't have any good offers I will produce my own picture," she said calmly.

"I have been offered black-and-white films here but I wish to appear only in color. And not with just any mans. Only with Marion Brando or Gregory Peck. High-class mans."

Leonora is from Therobolas, a small town "like Santa Barbara" near Rio de Janeiro. Her rancher father, she said, subdivided his large land holdings when "a gambling hotel came in and the land price went up."

At 16 she left home to travel. In Mexico City "I met some producers at a party and they put me in a picture." The shapely, vivacious actress, who says she's 23, also scored as a popular singing star on Mexican records.

When I met Leonora I was momentarily blinded by her nine-carat diamond ring, diamond earrings and gold bracelet with diamonds spelling her name. She staged an impromptu fashion show of some of the Rouff, Fath and Dior gowns she brought back from Paris. One $3,500 gown was of draped pink chiffon with a pink stain-and-fox coat.

"I keep most of my jewelry in the bank," she said excitedly. "I am afraid of burglars. I only brought 10 fur coats and stoles here. The rest I left in Mexico City."

Besides clothes and jewelry, she collects houses. She keeps homes in Mexico City, Acapulco and Rio.

Will Study Rural Churches

DALLAS — UP — The Baptist General Convention of Texas plans to survey some 2,400 rural churches in Texas to learn what makes them "tick or not tick." Dr. Charles Myers of McKinney, chairman of the rural advisory committee, said the survey would be made of churches in communities of less than 2,500 residents.

Leonard Sachs in Title Role of film "JOHN WESLEY"

Grain Storage Meeting Set In Lubbock

PANHANDLE — Prof. Ira L. Williams, head of the Agriculture Engineering Department of Texas Technological College at Lubbock, has sent word to the Extension Service here inviting all interested to a grain storage conference at the college on Friday, Feb. 17. In his letter to County Agent H. M. Nichols, he especially invited farmers, grain handlers, builders of grain storage structures, erection and grain moving equipment dealers, farm managers and other agricultural workers.

'John Wesley' To Show At Lefors Church

LEFORS — (Special) — The motion picture "JOHN WESLEY" is coming to Lefors, and will be shown at the First Methodist Church on Wednesday, Feb. 15th at 7:30 p.m., according to the pastor, Rev. Wesley Daniel.

The feature-length film is in Eastman color and was produced by the Radio and Film Commission of The Methodist Church in cooperation with J. Arthur Rank. It brings to the screen for the first time the dramatic and colorful life of the dynamic and colorful 18th century evangelist and educator.

John Wesley's miraculous rescue from a burning house at the age of five, at the beginning of the film, forecasts the dramatic and eventful life which unfolds in this story of a man of slight stature but of impelling influences upon his contemporaries and upon history.

The English clergyman thought his venture in America as a missionary to the Indians in the Georgia colony was a failure, but it was the kind of failure which opened the door to the discovery of a religious certainty he had been seeking.

Furthermore, this discovery in which John Wesley felt his "heart strangely warmed", led him to face mobs unafraid, and to ride 250,000 miles on horseback, changing the masses of English people from a low state of moral degradation to sturdy and happy uprightness.

His "enthusiasm" was frowned upon by the Tory leaders of the Church of England of that day, but it was this new-found enthusiasm which enabled him to influence so many phases of the life of English-speaking peoples.

His appeal to the common man, his establishment of schools, his lay preaching and societies, finally his sending of supervisors for the movement in the new world after the American Revolution — all these make the film one which will be long remembered.

Rev. Daniel explained that while the film is being released only to Methodist churches during the initial period, the public is invited to see the picture at the Lefors Methodist Church.

At 9:15 a.m., W. S. Allen of the Texas Extension Service located at A. & M. College of Texas, will present the subject of "Selection of Storage Structures and Construction Recommendations". This well-known engineer has been in Carson County on numerous occasions.

"Grain Drying, Conditioning at Texas Tech", will be presented by Williams.

Other subjects to be discussed include, "Drying and Conditioning of Grain" in both commercial and farm units; "Fumigation and Pest Control"; "Pure Food and Drug Regulations Pertaining to Farm Storage of Grain"; "Grain Handling Facilities and Equipment"; discussions of "Farm Storage Facility Loan Program" and concluding with a panel discussion.

Dr. Don Ashdown, well known entomologist, now of Lubbock but formerly of PanTech Farms, will preside during the afternoon program. Coffee will be furnished at mid-morning and mid-afternoon. There will be no registration fee. The only expense being $1 for luncheon at the Student Union Annex.

Wheeler Voting Strength Is Up
SHAMROCK — (Special) — Voting strength in Wheeler County is greater this year than in the last regular election year, 1954, or the last presidential election year, 1952. Thurman Rives, county tax assessor-collector, has announced 2,440 poll tax receipts were issued and 47 exemptions written prior to the January 31 deadline.

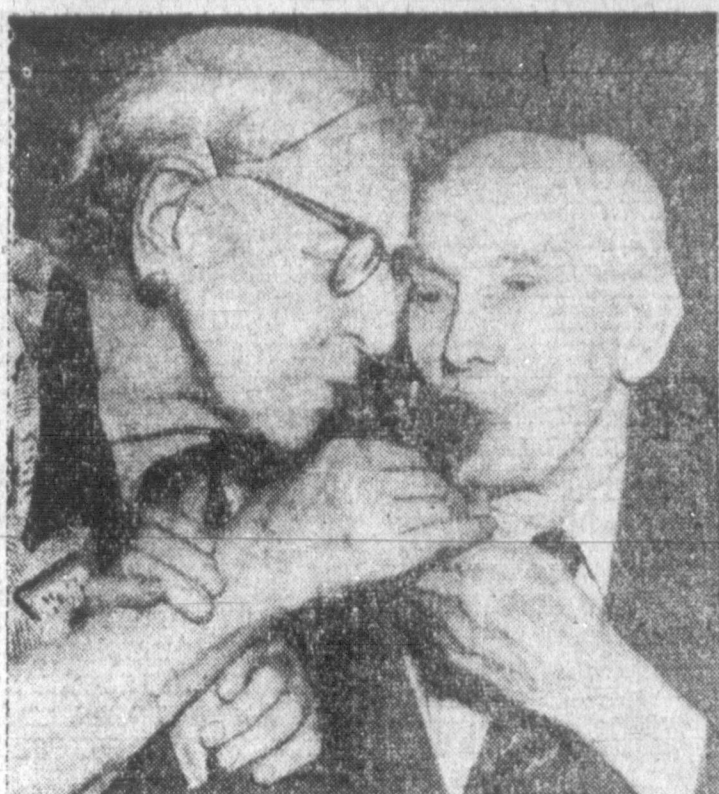

This year, the county voting strength of 2,487, plus the number of persons over 60 years old and exempt is almost double that of 1954. Only 1,456 poll taxes and exemptions were issued. In 1952, the last presidential election year, poll taxes and exemptions totaled 2,265.

Strangely, in 1953, a non-election year, poll taxes and receipts totaled 2,348. Rives pointed out that more exemptions will probably be issued. Persons who become 21 years old up to 30 days prior to election day will be eligible to vote if they obtain exemptions.

William T. Frieley, president of the Association of American Railroads, would like everybody to know that the nation's railroads last year at their best passenger safety mark in three years. During the 12-month period there was only one fatality for each one 1.8 billion miles of passenger travel.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pickles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't cut too deep into the take-home. She has all the recipes.

And speaking of frying pans and aprons — and the like, don't sell short on the angels of the press. The Women's National Press Club baked a $29,000 dish when they put out their booklet called "who says we can't cook." That's not all. They're still selling 'em at about 55¢ a copy a week.

TOAST TO HAPPINESS—Henry Forster, 94, and his wife, Ella, 91, drink a toast to their 70th wedding anniversary. Secret of their "long and wonderful marriage," according to Mrs. Forster, is that "we never went to sleep on a quarrel." They were married in 1886 in Chicago, Ill., where they still live.

Other business of the session was that the council accept applications for the job of additional night marshal at a salary not to exceed $224 per month.
