Tension Still High Over Ike's Decision

Conference Today Tells No More About His Decision

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower conferred for more than an hour with Republican congressional leaders Tuesday. But they said he gave them no hints about his second term intentions.

The House and Senate leaders reported after the White House conference that the second term subject did not even come up.

The meeting had been regarded as probably the last opportunity for Mr. Eisenhower to give GOP congressional leaders an advance tip on his big decision. Top Republicans expect him to make his second term announcement at a White House news conference some time Wednesday.

Discussed Farm Problems
But this expectation has not been specifically confirmed by the White House. The only firm word from press secretary James C. Hagerty is that Mr. Eisenhower "in all probability" will meet reporters Wednesday.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said the conference was devoted largely to the farm bill pending in the Senate and the Upper Colorado legislation in the House, with some mention of the highway bill.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, assistant GOP leader of the house, said none of the leaders asked Mr. Eisenhower his plans because "he probably would not tell us."

"Won't Be Long"
House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said he thought it "won't be long" before Mr. Eisenhower makes a definite announcement although there was no (See DECISION, Page 3)

Walter Rogers Thinks Ike Will Run

Congressman Walter Rogers, in a recent newsletter, says that Eisenhower's veto of the gas bill indicates that he will be a candidate for re-election.

Rogers predicted on Jan. 6 that if Eisenhower did sign the gas bill he would not be a candidate and if he vetoed the bill, he would be a candidate.

"It is very plain here in Washington," Rogers states, "that the veto of the gas bill by the President is saturated with political implications."

The Congressman protests the move in strong language. He says, "The veto of the natural gas bill by the President is one of the most effective blows that has been struck against States Rights in this generation."

"It is a great victory for the advocates of centralized government," Rogers continues. He concludes by expressing his regret that the President has chosen "to pursue a course that must result in a marked expansion of bureaucracy and bureaucratic controls with which we have so long been plagued."

It is generally believed that the Senate will adopt the 90 percent supports of basic agricultural commodities, as it starts debate on the farm bill. Rogers expects the president to sign the bill if it does contain the soil bank idea with 90 percent supports, but if it goes to the White House without the soil bank provisions, he believes that Eisenhower will use the veto.

Rogers has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives that will provide supports for feed grains including grain sorghums under the "Planview Plan". He says, "This same language will be submitted as an amendment to the Senate bill and we hope it passes in that body."

Administration Tries Compromise On Supports

By DAYTON MOORE
WASHINGTON — UP — The administration put out compromise feelers Tuesday in an effort to defeat 90 percent price supports for corn, cotton, peanuts and millable wheat.

The administration followed a divide-and-conquer strategy behind the scenes while on the Senate floor. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) set out to explode what he termed "misinformation and myths" spread by the Agriculture Department and Republican leaders.

Humphrey urged Senate approval of a Democratic-sponsored omnibus farm bill that would provide for a return to high rigid price supports, a $1.1 billion soil bank and a two-price system for rice.

May Restore Cotton Slash
The administration strategy was to win over senators crop by crop on the price support issue. Agriculture Department officials first indicated they would go along with a sizable increase in allotted corn acreage if flexible price supports are continued.

Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) disclosed Monday that the department probably would be willing to forget about a 1.55 million acre out in cotton acreage planned for next year if high rigid supports were defeated. An administration source later confirmed it.

The source said there was "considerable disposition" in the Agriculture Department to accept such a proposal "as trading stock" on the price support issue.

Vote to Be Close
And there also was a report that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson might raise dairy price supports in an effort to get some dairy state senators to vote for flexible supports.

The Senate will start voting on the farm bill next week, probably Monday, with the first vote on price supports. High rigid price support forces obviously were worried by the administration strategy.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture committee said the administration could win the fight by getting only three or four senators to switch.

LOS ANGELES — UP — Farm Management magazine said Tuesday first returns of its poll of 50,000 western farmers indicates that nearly two-thirds think Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson is doing a good job.

The vote was strictly along party lines, with 65 percent of the 4,000 first returns declaring the Republican party this year, showing 64.5 percent for the Democratic party and 35.5 percent for Benson.

DON CAIN ... to run again

Don Cain Seeks Second Term

County Attorney Don Cain announced today that he would be a candidate for re-election to a second term as County Attorney of Gray County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

Cain is 34 years old, married, has four children, and resides at 2004 Wilkison. He is a graduate of the University of Texas Law School and is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

Cain stated, "I appreciate the splendid cooperation I have received from the people of Gray County, and I earnestly solicit your further support and cooperation."

Tax Reports Are Due Here On April 1

Aubrey L. Jones, City Assessor and Collector of Taxes, reported today that, "All persons, firms, corporations and associations are required to file with the Assessor and Collector of Taxes of the City of Pampa, on or before the first day of April, each and every year, a full and complete statement, list or schedule, verified by affidavit, of all personal property situated in the City of Pampa and all personal property located elsewhere and subject to taxation in the City of Pampa, owned, held or controlled by them, or in their possession as agent, bailee, warehouseman or custodian on the first day of January, and shall in said statement, list and schedule, state the location and address of the owner."

The local tax office is now in the middle of the assessment period and those persons or firms that need help with their rendition should contact Jones as early as possible.

"In the absence of the properly executed rendition, on or about the first day of April, the property will be listed as unrendered and the Board of Equalization will proceed to render a value," Jones added.

One of the biggest problems faced by the tax office is that of people failing to notify the office of their proper mailing address. A large number of statements are returned every year because of insufficient address. This results in the taxes becoming delinquent and an additional penalty being assessed.

Jones also requested that when a new house is purchased or a loan paid off that the owner should notify the tax office of the correct mailing address as soon as possible.

Cold Wave Shoves Into The East

By UNITED PRESS
A cold wave shoved its way into the nation's eastern half Tuesday behind heavy snows in the North and scattered tornadoes in the South.

Temperatures dropped 20 to 25 degrees from the southern plains to the Ohio Valley. More cold was expected farther east and temperatures averaged 10 degrees below zero early Tuesday in northern Minnesota.

In the South, tornadoes injured four persons in Tennessee and hit in central Georgia a twister ripped through seven rural communities near Gallatin late Monday. It leveled two homes, damaged at least 15 others, and churned a three-mile-wide path of destruction for 15 miles.

The Georgia tornadoes caused minor damage but no injuries. Elsewhere in Dixie, winds as high as 50 miles per hour lashed a downpour at Nashville, Tenn.

The northern snows stretched from Missouri into northern New York state Tuesday. They were blamed for the death of three women whose car was smashed by a streamer during a blinding blizzard snowstorm, and they frustrated a Mississippi disk jockey's attempt Monday to "bomb" Chicago with 25,000 Confederate flags.

Bad weather also hit in the West, whipping Cheyenne, Wyo., with 52 mph winds and lashing the Pacific Northwest with a new storm.

Forecasters said the western storm would send new rains in ever-increasing amounts along the Pacific Coast from Washington to central California.

Shepperd Defines Interposition

AUSTIN — UP — Attorney General John Ben Shepperd Tuesday defined interposition as "a simple challenge whereby a state may properly limit the onrush of a government centralized in Washington."

Interposition is "not defiance," Shepperd said in a three-page letter to State Rep. J. Edgar Wilson of Amarillo summarizing the nature and history of the seldom-used doctrine.

Peace, Quiet Goal In New York City Now

NEW YORK — UP — New York City sets out at midnight Tuesday to restore some peace and quiet to its noisy streets with a drive against horn tooting.

The drive comes to a silent climax in two weeks when it becomes a fine or jail offense to nudge the car in front of you with your horn.

An anti-horn-blowing committee thinks the whole program will silence New York just as a similar campaign eliminated noise from the streets of Paris some years ago.

Toot to Cost $10 to $50
"It took just two weeks to make Paris a quiet city," said Arde Bulova, chairman of the Bulova Watch Co. and head of the committee.

It's taken New York six months to work out the details of its anti-horn-blowing campaign.

It was decided that New Yorkers are too fond of blowing their horns to stop it at the risk of a mere $5 fine. So the penalties were set at $10 to $50 with a 30 day jail sentence for super-determined horn blowers.

Will 'Educate Drivers'
The committee decided to put the fines into effect on March 15 and to call that Q-Day—Q for quiet.

The period between midnight Tuesday and March 15 is set aside for an educational campaign. Horn tooters get frowns and courtesy cards from policemen during this interim period.

At the end of the interim drivers are supposed to be thoroughly educated. Then police begin handing out summonses.

City To Drill 6 Test Wells For Water

The City Commissioners this morning discussed the exploration of water and the spacing of six test wells northeast of town in order to bring water lines into town.

Meeting with commissioners to propose the spacing of six test wells were: DeLea Vicars, H. H. "Shorty" Heiskell, and Wayland Merriman. City Manager Fred Brook was authorized to advertise for bids on about six wells. The exact amount was left undetermined.

Heiskell indicated that drilling on the wells could start within a few days from the date of contract. Restrictions and regulations of the underground water district were discussed and Bob Gordon, city attorney, pointed out that the present regulations could be amended. The wells will be sited about one mile apart, and the water rights or locations must be cleared.

Mayor Lynn Boyd signed the option and suggested that DeLea Vicars and Merriman work out the location of test wells.

The city sold half a mile of power line on the Clarendon Highway south for a sum of $500 to the Southwestern Public Service. Boyd said he would talk with R. A. Underwood, financial consultant of Amarillo, on the possibility of drawing up a brochure giving the financial situation of the city prior to a large bond issue. The brochure would contain data, information, Chamber of Commerce statistics, and a financial report.

The third reading of ordinance 448 dealing with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. franchise was approved.

Three bills, in the amount of $33,701, were approved. One bill in the amount of $1,666.80 for the new police uniforms, from Friendly Men's Wear, was okayed.

Air Force Launches Two Plane Crash Investigations

By UNITED PRESS
The Air Force Tuesday launched twin investigations into the almost identical crashes of two huge bombers which killed 15 men Monday.

The disasters near Dayton, Ohio, and Sedalia, Mo., occurred only three hours apart. Both bombers smashed into farm houses and exploded while trying to get back to their bases.

Officials at Whiteman Air Force Base said their investigation of the Sedalia tragedy got underway early Tuesday. It was headed by commanding officer A. J. Beck and included technicians from the Boeing plant at Wichita, Kan.

Eleven Airmen in B-50
An investigation was also started into the Dayton smashup. Authorities said the four-engine B-50 crashed and skidded wildly into three farm buildings, carrying 11 men to their deaths.

Three hours later, near Sedalia, Mo., a flaming B-47 Stratofort sheared off part of a farm home and crashed. The four-man crew was killed and a farm mother and her son were burned.

In both cases, the bombers had taken off on routine training missions only minutes earlier—10 minutes in Ohio and 11 minutes in Missouri. The planes appeared to develop engine trouble at almost exactly the same time and were trying to return to their bases when they crashed.

Another air tragedy was narrowly averted hours earlier in the Midwest. Seven crewmen bailed out of a refueling tanker plane when its No. 1 engine caught fire, but the craft made a safe landing (See AIR FORCE, Page 3)

6 Convicts Escape At Sugar Land

SUGAR LAND, Tex., — UP — Six convicts, armed and believed dangerous, stole a panel truck and escaped from central prison farm No. 1 shortly before 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Police set up roadblocks on two major highways, U.S. 59 and 288. The escapees were believed headed towards Houston.

Prison officials said one of the men had a .38-caliber revolver but he declined to say where or how the gun was obtained. One of the escapees—Alvin R. Keatts, 23, serving 35 years for robbery by assault in Dallas county, is considered dangerous because of the length of his sentence, officials said.

Keatts entered the prison less than a year ago, on March 21.

The other escapees were Harry Parker, 21, doing five years for forgery from Lubbock; Leonard Driggers, 21, five years for burglary from Kaufman, Dallas county; Vance D. Whitfield, 22, three years for burglary from Tom Green county; Robert M. Chestnut, 20, 10 years for theft in Brazos county, and James R. Webster, 21, five years for burglary in Crosby and Bexar counties.

Two Men Fined Here

Two men were fined in County Court yesterday, both entered pleas of guilty.

Donald Eugene Monday, 25, Orange County, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his license was suspended. He was fined $25 and cost. Monday was arrested at 6:50 p.m. Monday by city police at the Orange Courts.

Donald Ray McMinn, 26, 312 N. Christy, pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault on L. V. Thompson of Borger. McMinn was fined $25 and costs. He was previously charged with failure to stop and render aid, and was arrested Saturday afternoon about six miles south of town.

Segregation Meet Turns Into Circus

HOUSTON — UP — A mass meeting on the pros and cons of segregation turned into a circus Monday night, featuring heckling, walkouts and a Confederate flag-waving rendition of "Dixie."

The musical highlight was supplied by oil driller J. M. Wren. He nearly broke up the meeting when he jumped up to lead the crowd of 200 in the singing.

A housewife, Mrs. John R. Barnett, joined Wren to wave a big Confederate flag, and others in the audience joined in, waving smaller flags.

During the singing, others in the audience paraded, carrying placards lettered with "southern free men speak," "peaceful co-existence," "never mix races," and "down with L. (little) FEPC."

A half-dozen police guarded the doors.

Pro-segregationists walked out of the meeting, called by the Houston school board, when pro-integration speakers got up to talk. One school board member, James M. Delmar, followed the pro-segregationists out of the meeting.

Recreation Program Set in Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) — A recreation program for the youth of Shamrock is being planned. Thirty parents met in the Community Building recently to launch the program.
At the invitation of Shamrock Community Council, composed of representatives of most men's and women's clubs of the city, the parents gathered to learn the results of a recent poll conducted among Shamrock High School Students. Gary Hill, president of the Shamrock Student Council, reported that a large majority of boys and girls favored a community meeting place and a diversified program of wholesome fun.
A steering committee of eight women was named to check the student questionnaires for suggested games and sports; investigate teen-age recreation programs in nearby cities, and then make recommendations to the membership. Named to the committee were: Mrs. Roy Scrivner, chairman; Mrs. Lyman Benson, Wm. P. Holmes, M. W. Yarborough, Perry Bear, Al Ryan, Sol Blonstein, and Walter Pendleton, Jr.
Mrs. Henderson Coffman, community council president, opened the meeting with the explanation her organization would do everything in its power to assist in organizing a youth program and equipping the Community Building to handle a variety of games and entertainment if the parents wished it.
It was decided the program would include a well rounded activity schedule which would include dancing, sports such as ping-pong and shuffleboard and craft activities.

Celanese Has Good Safety Record

Celanese Corporation of America announced today that its manufacturing plants and research laboratories had continued their low accident frequency rate during 1955 with a rate of 1.6 lost time accidents for every 1,000,000 man-hours worked. By comparison, the national average for all United States industry in 1954 (latest year available) was 7.2 lost time accidents per million man-hours worked.
The company further improved its already impressive fire prevention record during 1955. Fire loss at all Celanese plants totaled $2,895,000, or an average of $37.00 per fire, compared with a total of $3,608,000 and an average of $59.00 in 1954. The average fire loss for all U. S. industry in 1954 (latest year available) was $4,058.00.
The annual inter-company safety competition, and the Harold Blanche safety award emblematic of that honor, was won by the Newark, New Jersey, plastics materials manufacturing plant. The plant worked a full calendar year without any lost time injuries. As of January 1, 1956, the Newark plant had an accident-free record of 3,328,950 man-hours worked. This accident-free record is still intact, as of this date.
Certificates of commendation in Harold Blanche Safety Award competition were won by the following plants and laboratories, Rock Hill, S.C.; Belvidere, N.J.; Bridgewater, Va.; Clarkwood, Texas; Bishop, Texas; Linden, N. J.; Newark, N.J. chemical plant, and the Newark plastics plant.
During 1955, the National Safety Council voted its highest recognition, the Award of Honor, to the Newark plastics plant for exceeding 3,000,000 man-hours of work without a lost-time accident. The council also granted awards of merit to the Cumberland, Md.; Rock Hill, S.C., and Bridgewater, Va. plants.
In January 1956, Celanese inaugurated an off-the-job safety program in all plants and laboratories in an effort to help employees and their families avoid home, traffic and other off-the-job accidents.
Non-occupational statistics for 1955 show that, for every employee injured at a Celanese plant, there were ten employees injured at home, on the highway, or at recreations. The company hopes to reduce the number of off-the-job accidents by making use of safety practices and techniques developed in its on-the-job accident-prevention program.

Wolf Creek Dam Hits Snag

PERRYTON — (Special) — The proposed rebuilding of Wolf Creek Dam hit a snag when the bids were opened by the county commissioners last Tuesday afternoon. There were two bids submitted and the lowest one was nearly $100,000 higher than the bond issue voted by county citizens last year.
The Classen Construction Co. of Beaver bid $248,448 and the J. W. Morgan and Son Construction Co. of Muskogee, Okla., bid $378,165. No Texas firms entered a bid, and County Attorney Jack M. Allen said this was probably because the Texas Highway Department was letting a number of highway bids in Austin the same day.
The commissioners have thirty days in which to accept or reject bids, and the court will meet again Monday afternoon to consider what to do.
County citizens voted $150,000 last year with which to rebuild the dam, and the county commissioners put an additional $75,000 from the park fund into the dam fund. This made a total of $225,000 which was thought to be adequate for the job.
The principal difference between the amount of the two bids that were received lay in the cost of concrete. The Classen Co. estimated $140,000 for concrete while the Morgan company estimated $280,125.00.
The Classen Co. figured $42,000 for steel while the Morgan Co. figured $52,000. They were far apart on the figure for waste excavation. The Morgan Co. figured $18,000 while the Classen Co. estimated only $6,000.
It will be at least a week before any decision is reached on what course of action to take. It may be that the bids will be called again in the hole that a lower bid may be received.

Perryton Test Wells No Good

PERRYTON — (Special) — The city drew a blank in their search for a new water supply at the county fair grounds.
Two test holes, drilled by H. H. Heiskell of Pampa, turned out to be dry. City manager J. B. Whigham said the test hole drilled near the ball park hit the red bed at 304 feet and had little water sand. The well drilled in the southeast corner of the fair-grounds hit red bed at 357 feet and was likewise lacking in water sands.
The city is now negotiating for some sites in the southwest part of town to drill more test holes. While the supply of water is adequate now, city officials are looking to the future in attempting to locate another source of water for city use.

Pet Coyote Observed After Biting A 7-Year-Old Girl

DALLAS —UP— A neighbor's pet coyote that savagely attacked a seven-year-old girl and bit her four times as she swung on the porch of her grandparents' home in South Dallas was held Tuesday for rabies observation. The animal leaped up on the porch of the E. H. Faulkner home late Monday and attacked Judy York. When Mrs. Faulkner was attracted by her granddaughter's screams and came out on the porch, the coyote bared its fangs and started menacingly toward her. Faulkner, a 60-year-old Dallas city employe, stomped and kicked the animal off the porch as it advanced on him. The York girl was bitten three times on the head and once on the arm. Doctors said one of the head wounds was so deep that the coyote's fangs scraped the child's skull. Three stitches were needed to close the wound. Lloyd E. Ward, 24, who owns the animal, said he bought it less than a year ago as a puppy and that it was a full-blooded coyote. He said his small daughter frequently played with it, and that it had never shown any vicious tendencies before. Ward, however, said he intended to destroy the coyote—about as big as a medium-sized Chow dog—after holding it for the 10-day observation period. He said the animal apparently slipped its leash in his back yard shortly before the attack. Policemen J. H. Strickland and J. T. Slaughter said a neighbor had cornered the coyote after the attack and was holding it at bay with a shotgun in his back yard when they arrived. When the officers called to the animal, it acted "very friendly" and walked over to them and let them slip a rope around its neck, they said. The York girl and her brother, Ronnie, 9, go to their grandparents' after school and wait for their parents, who work, to pick them up later.

Adlai Says Ike Should Call Meeting

NEW YORK —UP—Adlai Stevenson suggested Monday night that President Eisenhower use the prestige of his office to call a meeting of southern white and Negro leaders "before the situation gets out of hand." Stevenson, who is campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, told newsmen he has been "very disturbed by mounting tensions in the South" and said "I think the situation merits the prompt attention of the President" to avoid "further disorder and damage to the nation's reputation abroad." Stevenson was in New York to meet campaign workers and to plug his new book, "What I Think," a collection of his speeches and articles since his unsuccessful presidential bid in 1952. He said he thinks the "great moral influence and great moral prestige" of the presidency should be used to call white and Negro leaders together "to explore ways and means of allaying these rising tensions." Stevenson also told newsmen that his remarks on the segregation question Saturday in Hartford, Conn., did not indicate any change in his stand. He declared in Hartford that the Supreme Court decision banning segregation in public schools did not permit "repudiation or rejection."

In northern California growing asparagus is a tradition and a science. In the heart of the asparagus-growing delta lands, Mrs. E. C. Portman from Stockton is noted for her asparagus cookery. From her British forebears comes her recipe for Asparagus Rabbit Royal. It dates back to Elizabethan days.

Mrs. Portman has found that either canned or fresh asparagus can be used in most of her recipes. When the fresh is on the market, she substitutes cooked fresh asparagus for the canned variety used in the following recipes.

(Makes 4 servings)

One tablespoon butter or margarine, 2 cups grated Cheddar cheese (about 1/2 pound), 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, 1/4 cup beer or milk, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 No. 300 can California white asparagus, 4 slices whole wheat toast, cut in strips, salt and pepper, paprika.

Melt butter or margarine over low heat. Add cheese and cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Add mustard, Worcestershire sauce, monosodium glutamate and beer or milk, blend. Add a small amount of cheese mixture to egg; mix well. Add to remaining cheese mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Heat asparagus to serving temperature; drain. Arrange on toast strips; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with cheese sauce and sprinkle with paprika.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

IF WOMEN HAVE THEIR WAY THIS YEAR — and when don't they? — men's fashions will be as stylish as their automobiles: slim, sleek lines, lots of color and convertible tops. That's the word from Miss Caye Christie, who knows what she's talking about. As fashion consultant for the Frank H. Lee Co., and a woman who has broken the barrier into the men's apparel field, Miss Christie has been spreading the gospel of women's influence in men's fashions, and taking notes on what's happened so far.

AND IF YOU DOUBT that women have a hand in menswear purchases, let Miss Christie straighten you out — but quick. "Department stores report that three out of every four purchases of men's furnishings are made by women, or by men accompanied by women," she declares. "In specialty shops, the figure is one out of every two purchases."

The result of all this is that, for the first time since the Revolutionary War, men are really becoming the fashion spectaculars. Their suits boast the "natural look," their shirts have taken on pleats and pastel colors and their shoes are the latest low-cut styles.

"Even their tops are convertible," says Miss Christie. "Where before, a man had one hat which he wore on all occasions — from raking leaves to full dress affairs — today's well-dressed man has a complete hat wardrobe, with colors to match his suits and with styles for every occasion."

How did all this come about? The answer is a simple one, reports Miss Christie.

"Women have taken what they've long known about color and style and have put it to use in the menswear purchases they make or influence," she says. "And menswear manufacturers have responded by designing clothes that appeal not only to men but also to the American woman and her acute style sense."

ALL THE FASHION SIGNS show that sportswear in 1956 will consolidate and refine major trends in spring collections. Costume coordinates, tremendous variety and new styling in knitwear, slim silhouettes, the spectator look are all key aspects of sports fashions that promise to grow as the year goes along.

Separates will go on being highly related in coordinations, foregoing color contrast in preference to color harmony either through blending tones or exact matching. Since most separates are coordinated within the bounds of slim silhouettes, the trend is away from printed skirts, which tend to "break up" the look.

The spectator look is one close to the costume consciousness of future sportswear styles. Started in resort collections, it encompasses classics, such as shirtwaist dresses and sweaters and skirts carefully integrated. It's a quiet, casual look that veers away from the boldness of Italian-inspired casuals, or the exoticism of Oriental inspired fashions. These latter trends continue and will add to the

Shamrock's City Elections Get Hottler

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock's City officials election will be the hottest contest in years. There are now three candidates for mayor and seven for council places.

A mayor and three councilmen will be named in the city election on April 3.

Candidates who have filed since last week when Hubert Worley announced for mayor and E. C. Hunter, Harry Frye and John Hrncliar, Jr., filed for council, are: For Mayor: Guy Hardin and Bob Douglas.

For council: R. L. Skipper, Hubert Tindall, Jack Stroup and Matt Lewis.

No one knows exactly what prompted the flurry of activity with rumors of more candidates still to file before the March 3 deadline. It is the first time in more than six years that city council jobs have been contested and only one time in recent years have voters had a choice in the selection of a mayor.

That was in 1949 when incumbent Mayor Douglas made his first bid for the office defeating R. S. Tiedel 195 to 182.

Wadey, Hunter, Hrncliar and Frye were talked into filing by a group of local citizens when the three outgoing council members stated they would not seek reelection. It remains to be seen whether any or all of these four will stay in the race now that other citizens have indicated their willingness to serve.

County Attorney Guy Hardin, who recently announced he would not be a candidate for re-election, filed Tuesday in the race for Mayor. His term as county attorney expires next December 31.

The decision of Mayor Douglas to seek a third term was made known with his filing on Wednesday. He was first elected in 1952, defeating R. S. Tiedel, and then re-elected without opposition in 1954.

R. L. Skipper, salesman for Mead's Bakery, filed Tuesday as a fourth candidate for the three council jobs. He is a member of the DeShazo-George Post of the American Legion. Skipper sold insurance in Mineral Wells before moving to Shamrock four and a half years ago.

Hubert Tindall, the fifth candidate to file for council, is a long-time resident of Shamrock and a successful businessman and rancher. He has never been a candidate for office before.

Two additional council filings came Wednesday: E. O. (Jack) Stroup and Matt Lewis.

Stroup, member of the city governing body for the past two years announced two weeks ago he would not be a candidate for re-election but changed his mind this week. He is owner of Shamrock Builders Supply and has been active in civic and community affairs for several years, including a two-year tenure as co-chairman of the St. Patrick's Day Association. He is a member of the American Legion, 405 and the Booster's Club.

Matt Lewis, last to file, is a pioneer city businessman here. He served a tenure on the Shamrock school board many years ago and has been active in the business and civic life of the community for 30 years.

Danger From Reds

Communism in this country is a divisive word. It is not that its meaning is obscure. Anyone can dig up the dictionary definition. It is that the implications of communism mean different things to different people.

There are some who insist that the communist threat has been largely overrated. Among the supporters of this school of thought will be found large numbers of the self-elected professoriat who manage to conclude that anti-communism is a threat to academic freedom.

However, we are concerned here with two major groupings which have coalesced because of the threat of communism, both of which groups accepted the threat as real. These two groups could be delineated as the "danger-from-communism-abroad" and the "danger-from-communism-at-home" groups.

Let us assume at the outset that followers of both schools of thought are sincere. And let us also concede that there is some merit to both positions. But from a standpoint of logic, both dangers cannot be equal. What is important is that we assay the dangers as we find them and reach a firm conclusion therefrom.

Let us consider the danger from a broad approach. What evidence is there of this danger? It is considerable. The writings of Lenin, Stalin and company make this emphatically clear. The actions of the Kremlin hegemony in gobbling up satellite regimes verifies a belief that the writings are intended to be acted upon and are not mere philosophic musings. The realms of findings unearthed by government committees which reveal that enemy agents have been planted within our own government to work for its downfall, provide the final proof that INTENTIONS of communist domination of the world originate in Moscow.

What are the chances that the world scheme of the Reds can be implemented and executed? They are not nearly as real, nor as imminent as the intent. Gains for Moscow have largely occurred at the conference table, not on the field of battle. The Russian high command apparently shies at the thought of committing itself to conflict, although many opportunities offer. And for the execution of an armed invasion of this country by the Red army, it is unlikely.

Russia has air power. But planes cannot deliver enough men or equipment by themselves to support an invasion. Ask the American commanders who led at Omaha beach, at Okinawa and Iwo Jima, Ask the ghost of Hitler. You don't capture land mass by airborne troops. You probably don't do it without air assistance, either. But, to launch a successful invasion against a hostile shore a vast naval force is imperative. In this field the Russians are hopelessly outclassed. And unless the shape of the earth is changed, the millions of Russian foot soldiers simply cannot wade over to this country.

There is no doubt that Russian communist intentions include the ultimate capture of America. It is apparent, however, that the capture, if it should be finally attempted, must occur through some other avenue than conventional warfare. It is also apparent that devastation bombs will not necessarily lead to capture. They merely devastate and reduce the value of the ultimate prize.

Now let us examine the danger at home school of thought. Here, danger becomes more imminent from communism rather than from communists. The theme of the communist revolution is to overthrow the capitalist system. Without any help from Russia, the American government is doing a pretty good job in this direction.

By use of the graduated income tax, farm subsidies, control of money and currency, a large and growing debt, inability to balance the budget, governmental propaganda through government schools, and regulation and domination of enterprise, PLUS A FEELING OF FEAR OF RED INVASION, the politician has caused such a dependency upon large government that the differences between the Russian government and our own become increasingly academic. There are, of course, still remaining stark differences. But the growing willingness of the leaders of both nations to get together and iron out difficulties causes us to realize that they have more things in common than many had at first supposed.

Here is a very real danger . . . not of invasion, but of subversion. For, by means of this general dependence upon government, the great ideals of independence and liberty which are uniquely American could be overthrown without a shot being fired.

An example of this danger is to be found in the recent merger of two un-American, violent and vicious organizations, the CIO and the AFL. These immoral extortionist outfits have placed at their helm a man who says he is against communism, George Meany.

Here is what Mr. Meany says: "Somewhat or other, many in our American business community are not sufficiently alert to the danger of world communism. Their most serious error is that they believe that communists at home are the main communist threat."

But isn't Mr. Meany actually saying, "Don't worry about communism at home. (We could even adopt it if we wanted to.) What we must do is oppose communists abroad."

George Meany is undoubtedly opposed to a Russian invasion. But he appears to be in favor of a socialized invasion by his dupes into the halls of private and free enterprise. He says he favors free enterprise. But by his actions we could conclude that he really favors his own personal legal power to do as he pleases with other people's enterprise.

To sum up, it would appear that the danger from abroad, though existent, cannot be practically implemented by the Russians. However, the danger from at home is real, is urgent, and is being implemented by the actions of our own politicians and acquaintances.

It becomes increasingly apparent that President Abraham Lincoln was correct when he foresaw that if this country ever fell it would be because of betrayal from within, rather than by assault from without.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Answering Reader's Labor Profit Questions

I have a letter from A. H. Riley of Odessa, Texas asking me to publish his letter and answer his various questions. He ends his letter by saying, "Will Mr. Hoiles meet these questions head on, or will he duck, sidestep and get on his bicycle? Yours for plenty of open discussion of the union labor question."

I am under obligation to Mr. Riley for thinking out loud on this very, very important question of profits and wages. The letter has so many questions that I'll have to print the questions and answer them in installments. I have numbered them so that I can answer by numbers where an answer is necessary.

The letter is addressed to the Odessa American, which is a sister paper of Freedom Newspapers. I quote from his letter:

"Editor, Odessa American:

"In your edition of Friday, Feb. 3, Mr. R. C. Hoiles, whose column parallels your two-column editorials in more ways than one, made the statement: 'This labor union question should be openly discussed. Any questions?'

"I respectfully submit the following in answer to Mr. Hoiles request for questions and an open discussion:

(1) "To WHOM do you preach? To the American working man? To the employers? To the widows and orphans of the men who have died out in the oil patch?"

(2) "Did you read all of that same edition of the Odessa American?"

"Feb. 3, page 2, upper left hand corner of the page: (in part) 'Big Corporations Counting Profits, More Than Expected. General Motors expected one billion dollar net profit mark . . . U. S. Steel's net profits increased 89 per cent.'"

"Feb. 3, page 11, 4 col. headline: 'Odessa Men Burn to Death.' Ponder these headlines and stories under them before you answer my questions."

(3) "Now Mr. Editor, do you and Mr. Hoiles think that a billion dollars is insufficient profit for General Motors?" (4) "Should U. S. Steel's net profits have increased MORE than 89 per cent?" (5) "How MUCH more?"

My Answers

(1) I do not aim to preach to anyone. I simply utter that which I sincerely believe to be true and add my unit of influence to all other units of influence and let the results work themselves out. That means that I speak to the American working man, to the employers and to the widows and orphans of the men who have died out in the oil patch and to everyone who is interested in these vital subjects.

(2) The answer is no.

(3) I could not make an intelligent opinion as to whether a billion dollars is insufficient profit for General Motors until I knew their profits in former years and their invested capital. The owners of the stock and the buyers of the products are the final judge of whether the profits are insufficient or sufficient. Since I am convinced that all profits on a free market basis benefit not only the stockholders but every human being, the larger the profits the better.

I do not think on a free market basis can ever be too high. I base this on the belief that in a free economy where government gives no individual any advantage in producing wealth, the gain of one is the gain of all. Free enterprise is not like gambling or war or things secured by fraud or aggressive force where the gain of one is the loss of another. In free enterprise the loss of one is the loss of all.

The man who can make two blades of grass grow where one grew before and do it at a profit benefits not only himself but every human being.

If General Motors can make a bigger profit percentage on sales or percentage on investment capital, they are benefiting everyone. The profits of the stockholders of General Motors are much higher to those in the smaller income brackets than those in the larger income brackets. No one knows, of course, what the actual net profits to the stockholders are.

And since all profits on a free market basis are beneficial to everyone, there can be no profits that are too large. That, of course, is premised on the idea that the profits are secured without fraud or special privileges.

(4) If the management were selling on a competitive basis and buying labor on a competitive basis, if United States Steel could have increased their profits more than 89 per cent it would have benefited everyone in the world.

One cannot intelligently judge whether an investment is good or bad by taking the profits for one year. A 15-year average is a much better guide as to whether an investment is good or bad.

(5) Make all the extra profits they can make on a free and unhampered market basis.

Eisenhower And Nixon Have Split The Demos

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Republican team of Eisenhower and Nixon, delicately or not, have produced an almost unprecedented state of Democratic disruption and demoralization on Capitol Hill. They have plugged the opposition into a controversy dividing powerful individuals and factions and sections over Civil Rights and management of the South's precious liquid—oil and gas.

After three years of preventing an open split between Northern and Southern Democrats by skillful compromises and personal appeals, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson finds them falling apart. With only a single deserter—Senator J. Allen Frear, Jr., of Delaware—the consumers' faction from the great industrial cities and states voted against the natural gas bill supposed to benefit Texas-Oklahoma-Louisiana producers.

The ordinarily good-natured Texan has grown irritable toward colleagues and once friendly Capitol Hill reporters. He denies that there is a serious movement to unseat him. He resents insinuations that he "forced" the natural gas bill through the Senate, or that he sought to stifle a lobby inquiry.

But there is no denying that he has lost control of his once dependable majority on other social, economic and political issues. The basic and irreconcilable differences between the metropolitan and the plantation factions, North and South, which he has compromised heretofore, are now in the open. Worse still, it will be impossible to keep them from crating confusion in the nomination and election of a Democratic candidate.

Neither Adlai E. Stevenson nor Governor Averell Harriman can devise a satisfactory compromise. Although the natural gas controversy did not provide such sensational headlines in the House, where Speaker Sam Rayburn demanded passage of the measure, an equally tense situation exists in the lower chamber.

President Eisenhower has not escaped unscathed, and relations between the White House and Capitol Hill Democrats are bound to suffer. They are so incensed at Ike, who was counted on to approve the measure, that they assail him harshly for the first time.

"I have known of Presidents standing on two sides of a question," said a high-placed Democrat. "But this is the first time a President has taken three sides. In his veto message, Ike says he favors, the bill, hates arrogant lobbyists, and wants to protect consumers."

"He can't have it all three ways at once. The only moot question was whether the bill would profit Southern producers at the expense of Northern consumers. A more constructive veto would have given us an indication of what kind of legislation he wants. He preferred to play politics."

Regardless of the measure's merits and Ike's equivocal posture, he now enjoys the role of protector of Northern consumers, Democrats and Republican, against Southern Democrats, as represented by the Johnson-Rayburn leadership. His status is ironic, for he vetoed a

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

"I had 'milk leg' after childbirth ten years ago," writes Mrs. N. "and am now having more trouble. Would you write on this subject and thrombophlebitis and whether anything can be done for it?"

This and other correspondence indicates the need to discuss this subject again.

Perhaps the best way to start is to describe the conditions that are involved and the names which are used for them.

First, phlebitis. This is an inflammation of the inside lining of the veins, usually those of the legs. If there are blood clots inside these blood vessels the condition is called thrombophlebitis.

MILK LEG, which is also called phlegmasia alba dolens, is a phlebitis of a particular vein in the leg (the femoral) which results in a whitish swelling of that limb.

These conditions may follow a blow or some other injury. Heart disease is an important predisposing cause. Sometimes they develop after an infection, an operation, or childbirth (particularly milk leg). At times they start without any obvious cause at all.

Most cases of phlebitis or thrombophlebitis are rather acute at the start. As in any other acute illness, therefore, rest in bed is desirable.

IF THE INFLAMMATION involves a leg vein, the leg is generally raised and heat is applied. All of these measures are designed to reduce inflammation and aid the circulation.

Other methods — such as injections — have been reported favorably. Sometimes such treatments are enough and rapid and complete recovery takes place.

Acute phlebitis is painful and annoying but it is not as much of a problem as the chronic variety which sometimes seems to last interminably.

Pegler Disappointed In Paper Backing Meany

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have often saluted the Tablet of Brooklyn as the best Catholic Diocesan paper in the United States, and its managing editor, Fat Scanlan, both by inference and in plainer terms, as the best editor in this phase of our press. It is with more sorrow than respect, therefore, that I find them both praising George Meany, the boss of the combined rackets of the AFL and the CIO, on the occasion of his speech opposing commerce with Soviet Russia, the enemy be thus nourished by our business to carry on sly and sinister works among us.

Meany is about 25 years behind Westbrook Pegler and a hundred other journalists who recognized and opposed this evil when Roosevelt and Walter Reuther, Meany's partner in power in the new combination, were joyously consorting with Communists while Meany was bumbling along as a docile, sedentary bureaucrat of a thoroughly vicious political phenomenon. If Meany had said then that which so belatedly he says today, to the applause of the Tablet, Mr. Scanlan and some of the prelates, he made no impression on the memory of a pioneer in this difficult but, to honest Americans, ever-delightful contest. The truth is that he never opened his mouth against any phase of Communism until now and, further, that he has joined these last few years a contemptible gang of opportunists of Tom Dewey's adherence to destroy and crush, even to death, Joe Ryan, the one man who personally kept Harry Bridges and the Communists of the CIO Longshoremen's Union off the Eastern seaboard and the Gulf. Ryan made Meany what he is today, promoting him from the penit list without But for Ryan, Bridges would have seized the remainder of the African ports during the war and would control their commerce now.

There is nothing to indicate that Meany had anything to do with this repulse.

Ryan did it himself and, moreover, while other unions of the AF of L were keeping loyal Negro workers on the penit list without hope of full membership, Ryan not only welcomed Negro dockers to his conventions at the same Commodore Hotel where Meany made this speech, but elevated them to regional officers. While Ryan was doing this, Meany kept a still tongue in his fat head, a silent, compliant political agent of the party which, however painful the truth may be to Harry Truman, did load the Labor Relations Board, the State Department, Agriculture, the Treasury and the Department of Justice with Communists, meaning in a shorter and uglier word, traitors. That is the party which Meany served all this time through his rising influence in the AF of L, which was and is today an appendage of the party of the Communists.

Mr. Scanlan is a savvy man who knows his way around the seamy phases of politics and unionism. Thus, he knows that Meany's own home union, the plumbers, is rotten with graft, extortion and more primitive crime in locals across the land and that George has never exerted himself to any effect at all against a condition which must be a challenge to any man aspiring as Meany does to the respect of the Catholic community.

I am sincere in saying that I sadly regret this editorial by a fine paper which has had in my opinion the strongest moral influence of all our press, religious and worldly, these last 15 or 20 years. Mr. Scanlan has fought strongly and at times has taken risks which only a few of us colleagues know to expose Communists and less forthright enemies allied with them but professing to oppose them, including fakers of religious aspect. But he knows that George Meany previously never hit a lick against Communism or against old-line union racketeering, either.

George Meany was one of those miserable pilgrims who went crawling to the Sing Sing cell of Joe Fay, secretly, however, and on business so indecent that he has never dared to say what it was. Fay had betrayed labor which Meany, in a factious inanner of speaking, represents by the free choice of the working stiff. It is hard to find anyone to respect in this morbid situation.

No Comparison Is Seen Between Mac and Santee

By HENRY McLEMORE

It is pretty difficult for me to recall working up over Wes Santee for quite a while, has been a star for a long time, and could not have been unaware that what he was doing could, by a slip-up, cost him his Amateur standing in the Olympics. If you take it under the table you always run the risk of somebody lifting the tablecloth at an embarrassing moment.

Still another reason for my lack of sympathy for Santee is that he was a piker; he sold his services too cheaply. As one of the country's premier track stars, and as a man who could make a meet a howling success or just a so-so affair, he charged bargain basement, fire sale, rates. His pay would amount to about the cheap transportation in the country if you could have bought a ticket aboard him. I don't know how many miles he ran for the pitance he got, but I'll bet it would work out to fewer cents per mile than most common carriers. He might have had a family plan and a half for all I know.

What I do know is that even with his drawing power he should have had nothing to show for it, according to A. A. U. rules — or he should have gotten a lot more than he did. As for the AAU officials who offered Santee the money, I feel about them the same way as you do, but if you have known them over the years, as I have, it couldn't have come as any surprise to you. Many times the man behind the badge is a middle-aged juvenile who still smells of Junior high school and who is, at the moment behind the ears and what is worse, he often is a pompous, dictatorial, self-inflated bore.

Santee must have known the

San Francisco Dons Can Become Best College Team Of All Time

Time Out With Tom
By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The All-Star game will be played at Hobbs, Thursday, July 19. Off day for all clubs, July 19.

The Southwest League opens Tuesday, April 17, closes Thursday, September 6. 144 games will be played in 142 days, each club playing each other club 16 games, 8 at home, 8 abroad.

San Francisco's peerless Dons, atop the United Press ratings Tuesday for the 13th straight week, face an opportunity to set three records that could establish them as the best college basketball team of all time.

The Dons maintained their almost monotonous domination this week when 32 members of the 25-man United Press board of coaches picked them No. 1 in the nation. The coaches also slotted Alabama, Iowa and UCLA among the top 10 teams in the biggest shakeup of the select group since the early weeks of the season.

Next week's ballot will be the final of the 1956 campaign and will represent the coaches' choice for the regular season national champion.

An 80-Point Margin
San Francisco's point-total this week was 338 out of a possible 350 for an 80-point margin over Dayton, which wrestled the No. 2 rating from Illinois by a single point. Of the three coaches that did not pick San Francisco first, one voted for Dayton, another for fifth-ranked Louisville and the third for sixth-ranked Alabama.

The coaches based their ratings on games played through Feb. 25. Alabama, kingpin of the Southeastern Conference following its week-end upset over Kentucky, made the biggest jump of the week as it moved five notches to sixth place. Iowa and UCLA each advanced three places to the No. 9 and 10 rankings, respectively. UCLA has won 13 straight games after a poor season start.

North Carolina State moved up one place to fourth, swapping last week's rating with Louisville. Alabama, Southern Methodist and North Carolina, occupied the sixth to eighth spots in that order.

Other Point Spreads
Dayton had 257 points to 256 for Illinois; N. C. State had 187, Louisville 157, Alabama 133, SMU 145, North Carolina 84, Iowa 67 and UCLA 56. Points are distributed on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, nine for a second, and so on down to one for a 10th-place vote.

Vanderbilt, Temple and Kentucky, ranked among last week's top 10, dropped out of the honored circle to fill the No. 11, 12 and 13 spots, respectively. Utah was 14th, Duke, St. Louis and Cincinnati were tied for 14th place, followed in order by Houston and Kansas State. Ohio State and Holy Cross tied for 20th.

The games this week most likely to affect the ratings are Illinois vs Iowa; Dayton vs Cincinnati, and the annual Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

Zaucha, towering, 220-pound native of Detroit, played 130 games for the Red Sox last season but his batting average was a mere .238. The Red Sox also picked up veteran first baseman Mickey Vernon in a winter deal with the Washington Senators.

CLEAWATER, Fla. — UP—The Philadelphia Phillies stamped the first phase of infielder Granny Hamner's comeback "approved" Tuesday when they signed him to a 1956 contract estimated at $23,000.

Hammer, hobbled by bad legs last season, indicated his complete recovery during preliminary workouts. The Phillies would not talk contract until he had proved he could stand up under the pressure of the training grind.

Infielder Bobby Morgan, first baseman Marv Binaylock, and pitchers Chick Pieretti and Seth Morehead also agreed to terms.

We think we have a legitimate gripe coming and don't know who to gripe at. We received the all-state basketball selections Sunday and found that Pampa's only player named was Dicky Mauldin and he was all the way down on the honorable mention list.

We felt sure that if Mauldin was on the list Gene Brown would be also. Didn't see his name anywhere. We would like to know "who goofed"? It was our privilege to vote for the all-district team but we couldn't vote for Pampa boys. We voted for both Borger's hotshots but someone evidently slipped up.

Max Miller was the fourth high scorer for the northern half of the 1-A-AACC district play and both Pampa's Mauldin and Brown were above him. Miller made the all-state team and Brown, who was third high scorer, didn't even get a mention. What gives?

Jerry Hall led the district and he was only on the third team. Mauldin was second in scoring and he only made the honorable mention list. We don't mean to be running Miller down but we think someone has overlooked a couple of Pampa Harvesters.

Could it be that the Harvesters have to be exceptionally good to make the all-state team where others can be just "good" and make it. Guess the Green and Golders have to win state to place even on the second or third teams.

Other players of the northern division of the district who placed on the list were Jerry Hall, third team; Dicky Mauldin, Pampa; and Max Hood, Lubbock. Amarillo failed to place on the mythical roster.

Well the SMU Mustangs have done it again. They won the Southwest Conference championship on free throws. They hit a fantastic 92-plus from the gratis line Saturday to down the Arkansas Razorbacks 80-72 in the title clincher. In three days of a weak defense and strong offense the free throws seem to make the difference.

Raiders Mustangs End Play Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

Texas Tech and Texas Western deeded for the Border Conference lead with 7-4 records--play their last loop games Tuesday night and Wednesday against different opponents.

Should either team lose the other can win the title outright by taking its game. A win or loss by both teams will result in a playoff to determine the representative of the Border Conference which will play Southwest Conference champion Southern Methodist in NCAA playoffs.

Texas Western will have a tough game on its hands Tuesday night against West Texas State in Canyon, while Tech probably will have an easier time against New Mexico A&M in Lubbock Wednesday.

Tuesday night the Red Raiders set a new school scoring record by whipping the Miners 117-90 to move into the first place tie. Tech's previous high mark was 113 points, scored against Arizona State this year.

DuWayne Blackshear and Jim Reed scored 28 and 24 points, respectively, to lead Tech and Jim Babers scored 30 for TWC.

The bonds would be used to finance construction of a modern high school plant and repair of other buildings. The official election call climaxes weeks of campaigning by parents, womens clubs, and civic organizations. Based on a straw vote started three weeks ago by the Shamrock Texas, proponents of the measure believe the bonds have an even chance to pass. Observers say there is less objection to be heard publicly than three years ago when a half million dollar bond issue was defeated by a vote of 427 to 286. Site of the proposed new school plant lies on the east edge of town, running east of Second Street, and south to "Cemetery Road." The 27 acre tract is being acquired at cost of approximately $10,475. It would be equal distant from the north and south parts of the city in regard to the present division of pupils in the ward buildings. Simultaneous with the official election call, the School board announced the selection of M.A. Hargberg & Company of Dallas, to handle proceedings of the $60,000 issue. The firm was selected after trustees interviewed representatives of seven reputable bond houses operating in Texas. The bonds would be issued on a 20-year option. Herbert Brasher & Associates of Lubbock, recently named as architect, has submitted drawings to the Shamrock board and received tentative approval. The buildings would include auditorium, gymnasium, cafeteria, science laboratory, library and study hall, and special rooms for band, industrial arts, agriculture, home economics, and administrative offices in addition to classrooms. The program, which has been listed by Chamber of Commerce as the No. 1 community project for the past three years, has been unanimously endorsed by most of the clubs in Shamrock. Most civic organizations have taken the position Shamrock faces a crisis, citing loss of several families because of existing school facilities and the danger of losing many more unless the present "disgraceful" condition is corrected. Opponent of the bond issue have given no indication of an organized effort to defeat it.
