Government To Ask For More Surplus Disposal Funds

Program About To Outgrow Financial Clothes

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Agriculture Department may ask Congress to authorize additional spending authority for its surplus disposal program. The program is about to outgrow its financial clothes a second time.

The Commodity Credit Corp. already has used up more than $1 billion of its $1.5 billion spending authority to finance export sales of surplus farm commodities. Since the program has been operating only about 15 months and has about 17 months to go, odds are that the remaining spending authority won't last through the stretch.

Department officials are so pleased with the way the surplus disposal program is working out that a request for more funds—probably soon—is a cinch.

The surplus disposal program, authorized by the "agricultural trade development and assistance act of 1954" or Public Law 460, makes available CCC funds for use in selling farm surpluses to friendly countries for foreign currency.

When P.L. 460 became effective in July, 1954, it provided $75 million for financing export sales of farm commodities. Last year this was raised to $1.5 billion. Department officials haven't estimated how much they want it raised to fill out the three-year program which will end in July, 1957, unless Congress extends it.

Officers and directors of the Gray County Chapter of Infantile Paralysis were selected yesterday. Harold Miller, chairman, was re-elected to serve for another year. Other officers of the organization named are: Mrs. Rufe Jordan, vice - chairman; E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary; and Ray Evans, treasurer. Out-going vice - chairman was Mrs. Arthur Teed.

Art Smalley and Wedgeworth were re-elected to serve a three year term on the board of directors. Named as new directors were Warren Hasse, Jack Nichols, Joe Tooley, and Warren Fatheree.

Hold-over directors include Roy Taylor, Dr. E. S. Williams, Floyd Watson, Jeff Bearden, Archie Roberts of Letors, Fred Brock, Mrs. Arthur Teed, Paul Bruce of Letors, Mrs. Jordan, Miller, Evans, and Larry Fuller of McLean.

The treasurer's annual audit was approved by the board as well as a report given by Max Hill, treasurer of the March of Dimes campaign which recently closed. Net proceeds from the March of Dimes, after expenses, were $7,504. This sum will be divided equally between the local chapter and the national foundation.

Approval of bills totaling $66 was made.

Top Three Students Named

Top-ranking students of the 1956 class of Pampa High School were named this week.

Barbara Goodnight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Goodnight, was named valedictorian with an average of 96.10 during her four years in high school. She is a member of Tri-Hi-Y, the Latin Club, and the Tennis Club. On four occasions she has been named Lions Club Honor Student.

Carolyn Miller, who was named class salutatorian, averaged 91.10 for four years. She is president of the Tri-Hi-Y Council, vice president of the Junior Red Cross, and a member of the A Cappella Choir. Named as Spanish Club Queen, she was also a basketball team attendant. She lives with an aunt, Mrs. W. L. Loving.

Ted Swindle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Swindle, has earned the highest grade average for a boy. He tied with Betty Lou Hogsett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hogsett, for third place in the class. His activities include the vice presidency of the student body, membership in the Hi-Y and Spanish Club, the Quill and Scroll Society and membership in the Junior Red Cross Council.

Senate Defeats High Price Props

Arab Mobs Call For Israel Annihilation

Demos Say Elections To Be Decisive Vote

By DAYTON MOORE
WASHINGTON — (UP) — Democrats smarting under Senate defeat of their drive to restore rigid farm price props said Friday they will win the decisive vote on the farm issue in the presidential election.

The Senate Thursday voted 54 to 41 to knock out of its omnibus farm aid bill a Democratic provision restoring rigid 90 per cent price supports on cotton, corn, peanuts and rice.

Forty-one Republicans and 13 Democrats defeated the provision. Thirty-five Democrats and six Midwest farm belt Republicans voted for it.

Victory-flushed administration forces predicted they will cap their triumph with defeat of a Democratic provision to put 90 per cent supports on millable wheat. The Senate met Friday morning to continue voting on the political-potent farm bill.

The Democrats denounced the Republican victory and the Republican farm program in general. One House Democrat called for possible impeachment of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender of the Senate Agriculture committee called defeat of rigid supports and continuance of the administration's flexible support program a "disaster" for the price-squeezed farmer.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted President Eisenhower and other GOP candidates will suffer at the polls in November. Other Democrats agreed.

The White House said Mr. Eisenhower was "delighted" with defeat of rigid supports.

Republicans and Democrats set the stage for the fall campaign with acid exchanges as they prepared to vote. The entire membership of the Senate was present to go on record for the first time in 20 years.

The administration went all-out to defeat 90 per cent supports. Shortly before the key vote, Benson made concessions to senators from cotton and corn states who had feared political trouble if they opposed high supports.

The secretary made a firm offer support cotton prices this year at about 86 or 87 per cent of "fair price" parity and to forego a scheduled cut in cotton acreage next year. His offer was contingent on continuation of the administration's flexible supports.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.) angrily accused Benson of "trying to buy votes." Humphrey charged Benson with "unprincipled conduct." He said Benson had been "lobbying Congress, making any little deal to split our ranks."

Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) called for impeachment if reports Benson tried to make a deal on farm bill votes with three Democratic senators are true.

Polio Officers Elected

Officers and directors of the Gray County Chapter of Infantile Paralysis were selected yesterday. Harold Miller, chairman, was re-elected to serve for another year. ## Another Break-In Occurs Here As Station Is Hit

Another in the recent rash of break-ins occurred last night at Bennett's Truck Stop Service Station, 801 W. Brown.

The break-in was discovered at 1:35 a.m. by Sergeant Roan and Patrolman Kay of the local police department while making a routine check of the business.

Entry to the building was obtained by breaking out a pane of glass in a rear window. Chief of Police Jim Conner said that this was the same method used in recent break-ins and it is probably the work of the same group.

Approximately $4 in pennies and $2 in nickels were taken by the burglars. None of the merchandise in the station was reported as taken.

Adlai Says Governor Is G.O.P. 'Hatchet Man'

CHICAGO — UP — Adlai E. Stevenson Thursday night accused Illinois Gov. William Stratton of trying to become the GOP's hatchet man now that Vice President Richard M. Nixon "is officially on his own."

The charge was a tit-for-tat rejoinder to Stratton's free-swinging attack on Stevenson's record as governor of Illinois.

Stratton succeeded Stevenson in the Illinois governor's mansion, but had generally refrained from head-on collisions with his predecessor until he opened up in New York Thursday night.

He called Stevenson "one of the weakest" Democratic presidential candidates and said his Illinois administration was marked by "neglect... open scandal and grievous disaster."

Stevenson wasted no time in branding Stratton's attack as "hysterical" and charging that he is trying to achieve a national role as a Republican hatchet man.

"We Democrats have some curiosity about the composition of the Republican ticket," he said. "We know who is going to carry the flag, but there seems to be some question as to who will wield the hatchet."

"I gather that Gov. Stratton has entered the spring typhoid for that important post, in case Mr. Nixon falters now that he is officially on his own."

Stratton listed a mine disaster, prison riots, and alleged scandals in state purchases and counterfeit cigarette stamps as among the faults of Stevensons 1949-1953 administration.

Stevenson failed to make an attack on Illinois problems, leading to "the assumption that he couldn't do it nationally," Stratton said.

Car Is Damaged In Fire Here

A '55 Chevrolet, owned by the Henson Drilling Co., suffered slight damage this morning from a fire which resulted from the automatic choke sticking.

The call to the 500 block of west Browning was answered by the local fire department at 6:58 a.m.

Art Exhibit To Be Held Here For A Week

The annual art exhibit of the Texas Fine Arts Association, sponsored by the Pampa Art Club, opened today in Lovett Memorial Library. The show of 20 paintings will remain on display for one week.

Included in the exhibit are six oil paintings, 12 water-colors, and two drawings. The artists range from conservative landscape painters to modernist. Represented are three artists from Lubbock, and other towns in the state.

Mrs. O. W. Appleby, president of the club, extends an invitation to the public to see the show this week. A committee was at work this morning unpacking the crates. Prices of the paintings range from an $8 drawing of Flamingoes by Peggy Goldstein of Austin to a $300 watercolor of a "Padre Island Scene" by Joseph Cain of Corpus Christi.

Roderick Parkinson, instructor in architecture and commercial art at Texas Tech, is represented with "Enchanted City," a purchase prize belonging to the Texas Fine Arts permanent collection.

Petitions For Wet-Dry Election Are Issued Here

Petition forms needed to call a local-option election were taken out of the County Clerk's office yesterday by Rev. Carroll B. Ray, chairman of the prohibition organization here.

They will be circulated and returned within the next 30 days in an effort to call a wet-dry election in Gray County in May. A total of 2,080 qualified voters must sign the petition if the election is to be called. This figure represents 25 per cent of the number who voted in the last presidential election.

Ten men last week signed petitions asking for forms required to call the election.

Indications are that a wet movement is forming here, also, and that an organizational meeting will be held sometime in the near future.

South Wins First Big Segregation Issue

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Atlanta bureau chief of United Press is making an extended tour throughout the South to give a close-up report on the big issues in the desegregation controversy. This is the first of a number of dispatches on that subject.

By AL KIETTNER
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — UP — The white South has won the first big battle it chose to fight on the desegregation issue.

There is no blinking the fact that Autherine Lucy is not in the University of Alabama.

And the temper of this community is such that you get the feeling she never will be — the U. S. Supreme Court and all its power to the contrary.

The white people here say simply that Miss Lucy will return at the risk of her life.

Yet in the nearby state of Louisiana, with about the same Negro-white distribution, 235 Negro undergraduates have been admitted to three state colleges with little fanfare. They have equality in the classroom if not on the campus.

Not by Force

Why did that happen while Tuscaloosa exploded in a riot when Miss Lucy attempted to attend classes?

The answer seems to boil down to this: The South is not going to have racial integration thrust down its throat. There are signs everywhere that the prospect of eventual integration is being accepted. But it will come in the white South's way, and pretty much in the South's own time, or there will be bloodshed.

Here is the opinion of a filing station attendant near the university campus:

"Autherine Lucy would have been going to school at Alabama right now if she had come here right like other students. Oh, there would have been some argument, but she would be in school. But she showed up with a six-man escort, lots of hoopla, driving a Cadillac and throwing out hundred dollar bills to buy three dollar books. It just made people boil."

Manner Important

That's a white supremacy man talking and there is great question whether Miss Lucy would now be in the university had she come here meekly. After all, there are no other Negroes in school. But the fact remains that the manner of trying to get her admitted was of great importance.

Miss Lucy first applied for admittance in 1952. Rejected, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People took up her case and fought it through the courts. With the Supreme Court school decision of May 17, 1954, she was on solid legal ground.

But when she appeared here on Feb. 3 and was admitted, she was not just another student in the eyes of white supremacists. She was the symbol of the determination of outsiders to force a change in "the southern way of life." The riot flamed. There were many ashamed of it. But backs had been stiffened and they grew stiffer when newspapersmen from the North, and even from across the Atlantic, swarmed here.

There are voices here raised for moderation on both sides.

Unhappy Repercussions

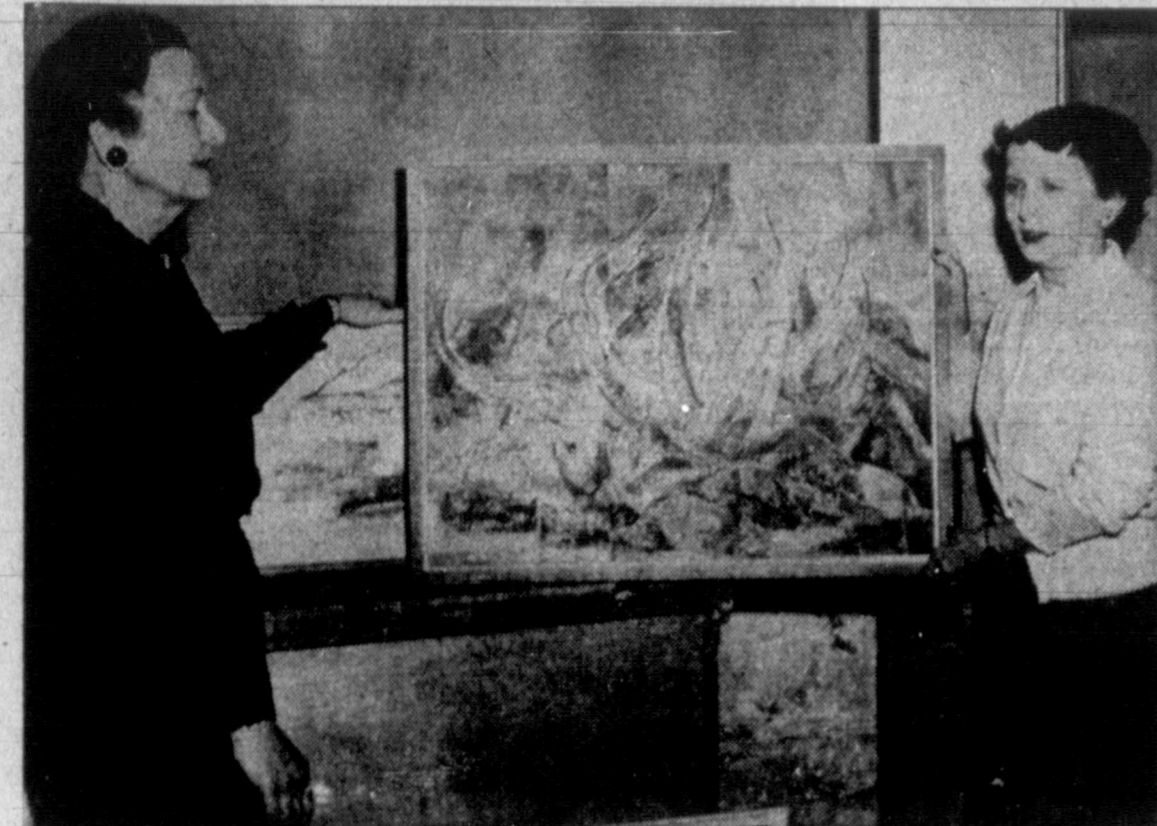

But the Lucy case has brought most unhappy repercussions.

Not far from here lies the world famous Negro college, Tuskegee Institute. Surrounding Macon county is good, rolling farm country much of it restored to fertility as a result of experiments conducted at Tuskegee. In the county there are four Negroes to every white but they have lived in tranquility for years.

Now state Rep. W. L. Martin has introduced a bill in the legislature to cancel Alabama's annual $375,000 contribution to Tuskegee, in the event a Negro entered an Alabama white college and stayed 10 days.

The Lucy case still is the main conversation piece everywhere here.

"The segregationists are convinced they won a terrific victory in the Lucy case. But, underneath, one can sense that they may wonder if they are not fighting a delaying action only."

Four Iowa Girls Jailed After 'Kidnap' Hoax

INDEPENDENCE, Kan. — UP — Four bright-eyed Iowa girls displayed no emotion Friday when City Judge Walter L. McVey sentenced them to 30 days in the county jail for sending 28 carloads of officers on a chase after two non-existent kidnapers.

When the girls admitted their wild story was a hoax, authorities were not amused. County Attorney Tom Crossman filed charges of disturbing the peace against all four. They pleaded guilty before McVey and, in passing sentence, he remarked that "your parents should take a hair brush to you when you get home."

Crossman said the girls "needed a lesson."

Sheriff Floyd Huggins, who directed the futile and short-lived manhunt, said all four spent the night in jail.

They were identified as Gloria Jensen and Louise Davis, both 18, and Jeaneane Fahrney and Judy Damman, both 17.

Told of 'Kidnapers'

Huggins said the girls, all from Newton, Iowa, walked into his office and told him the two kidnapers abducted them in Newton and forced them to drive to a point near Independence, where they smashed up their car. The girls said the kidnapers then fled on foot and they walked into town.

"We all agreed it was a foolish thing to do," said Gloria, a bespectacled lass who drove the car. "We just decided all of a sudden to take a ride. We hadn't thought of it before."

Ramsey To Run Again

AUSTIN — UP — Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey will seek re-election in a campaign "based upon a pledge to the people of Texas for honesty and integrity in all branches of our state government."

Ramsey announced his candidacy Thursday. The 52-year-old San Augustine lawyer will be trying for an unprecedented fourth term.

Ramsey called for "strict laws with penalties" to prevent members of the Texas Legislature from voting on legislation in which they have a personal or business interest.

He said, "Members of the Legislature should not vote upon or otherwise participate in any legislation in which they have a personal interest or in which they have a client who is interested."

"I will be a candidate for the office of lieutenant governor on the Democratic primary ballot," he said. "My decision is based upon a pledge to the people of Texas for honesty and integrity in all branches of our state government."

Three Candidates Announced

Ramsey's announcement raised to three the number of candidates for his post. The others are Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris and C. T. Johnson of Austin, who ran against Ramsey two years ago.

Johnson later filed suit over Ramsey's campaign expenditures. Johnson's charges resulted in an indictment by the Waco grand jury against Vern Sanford, executive secretary of the Texas Press Association, accused of making (See RAMSEY, Page 3)

Houston Children Die In Blaze

HOUSTON — UP — Two small children, left alone for a few moments, were burned to death Friday when a flash fire swept through their trailer home.

The victims were Judy Fitzgerald, 3, and her brother, Donald, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Don Fitzgerald.

First reports said Fitzgerald, a jobless handyman, and his wife, 22, who is expecting another child, left the trailer to make a phone call about a prospective job.

Fitzgerald, 27, said the children were playing on the floor.

"We were gone only a minute," he said.

Morehead State To Finish NCAA Berths

By UNITED PRESS
Morehead State, highest scoring major-college basketball team in the nation, Friday became the 25th and last team to enter the field for the NCAA tournament.

The Morehead Eagles became the Ohio Valley Conference representative in the tourney Thursday night by nipping Western Kentucky 84-80 in the final game of a special playoff. They qualified to meet Marshall of Huntington, W. Va., in a first-round tourney game at Fort Wayne, Ind., March 12.

Morehead, Western Kentucky, and Tennessee Tech had finished the season in a three-way tie for the Ohio Valley Title.

Western Kentucky downed Tech by the same 84-80 score Wednesday in the first game of the playoff, and held Morehead even at 66-66 midway in the second half.

But then the Eagles, who set a new record with a 96 points per game average this year, went on to win.

Morehead twice defeated Marshall, its first NCAA rival, during the regular season.

NCAA-bound Manhattan wound up its season with a 16-7 record by defeating Fordham 78-71 at New York despite 27 points by Jim Cunningham of the Rams.

NCAA-bound SMU will tune up for its first-rounder against Texas Tech by playing the Air Force All-Stars Friday night in a game Coach Doc Hayes hopes will keep the Mustangs from going "stale" before the tournament.

And national champion San Francisco, which meets UCLA in the tourney on March 16, entered a loud complaint against alleged discrimination against Don fans in the location of seats at Corvallis, Ore. Oregon State officials said the Dona got some poor seats because of their large request, but San Francisco officials said they should suggest to the NCAA that tourney games be played elsewhere in the future.

Clancy Fails To Return For Last Fall

Irish Mike Clancy made short work of Tokyo Joe in the first fall of the main event Wednesday night as he pinned him in 4:35 with a body press.

The first fall was rough as could be expected since only choking and eyegouging was illegal. Mike Clancy took a handful of sand from the corner box and threw it in Joe's eyes to take the advantage in the first fall. He then delivered a series of dropkicks and won the fall.

Tokyo Joe, determined not to lose to the Irishman, came back with everything at his command in the second fall and, although he could have pinned Clancy early, he continued to punish him with kicks to the midsection and back.

Clancy was kicked out of the ring several times and after fans and the referee, Bob Cowboy Ellis, got him back into the ring, Tokyo Joe pinned him.

He was unable to return for the final fall.

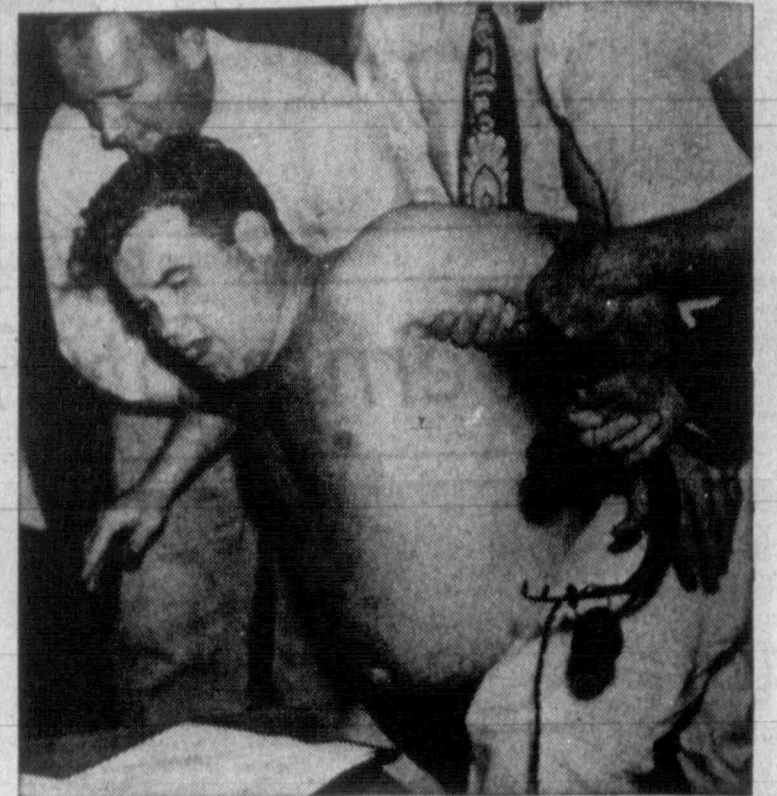

Gentleman Ed Francis and Tommy Martindale met in the second match of the night. They wrestled three falls with an hour time limit.

Martindale took the first fall in 14:39 with a reverse shoulder pin. He was an easy target for Francis though in the second fall as Francis pinned him in 8:43 with a body press after he had softened him up considerably.

The third fall went to Francis, although he was on the bottom. Martindale took a back flip off the ropes and had Francis under him but the referee counted on Martindale and gave the match to Francis. Both wrestlers had both shoulders on the canvas during the count.

Bill Parks and Frankie Murdoch wrestled for 15:16 minutes of rough tumble action in the warmup bout on Wednesday's card.

Parks took the fall and the match with a series of dropkicks and a final body press.

Santee Still Fights AAU Ban

NEW YORK —UP—Track star Wes Santee and the Amateur Athletic Union come up Friday for the second round of their court battle over his amateur standing, but indications were that the final decision still is far away.

The immediate outcome of Friday's hearing in New York state Supreme Court could be to determine whether Santee will be allowed to run in Saturday's Milwaukee Journal track meet in Milwaukee.

Santee, fastest American miler in history, was suspended from amateur track "for life" by the AAU and Feb. 19 on charges of accepting too much expense money. But last week Santee obtained a temporary injunction which held up the suspension and allowed him to appear in last Saturday's Knights of Columbus meet at Madison Square Garden.

Friday's hearing is in regard to that injunction, with Santee asking that it be extended and the AAU asking that it be ended.

Charles P. Grimes, attorney for Santee, said the usual procedure in such cases would be for the judge to reserve decision and to extend the temporary injunction until final decision is rendered. Should Justice Irving L. Levey follow that procedure, the way might be clear for Santee to race in Milwaukee.

At Milwaukee, meet Director Oliver Kuechle said he expected Santee would compete, if possible, but that the meet would be bound by whatever occurred in court. Kuechle foresaw the same type trouble in lining up opponents for Knights of Columbus meet last week.

All the regular starters in the K of C withdrew, fearing that they might endanger their amateur standing, for the Olympic games by competing against the lanky Kansas miler.

Schoolgirls Bid For Cage Titles

AUSTIN —UP—North Hopkins of Sulphur Springs played Academy of Temple Friday morning to open Class B action in the sixth annual interscholastic league girls state basketball tournament.

Thursday night New Deal and Buna won their way to the Class A championship game Saturday with semi-final victories. New Deal beat Emory 57 to 45, while Buna had little trouble in whipping George West 85 to 56. The two losing teams will play a consolation game today.

Following the opening Class B game Friday, Hawley meets Pearl and Balmorhea faces Ropesville and Collinsville plays Pettus in other matches in that bracket.

Class AA competition begins Friday night with Bellville playing Seagoville at 7:30 p.m. and Tullahoma meeting Angleton at 8:50 p.m.

Championship games in all divisions are set Saturday.

Frisco Don Coach Is UP Coach Of Year Again

NEW YORK —UP—Phil Woolpert, whose San Francisco Dons parlayed his defensive tactics into the longest winning streak in major college basketball history, Friday was chosen United Press coach of the year for the second straight season.

Woolpert, who concentrated on defense again this season while most coaches stressed offenses that boosted scoring to all-time highs, was elected in a nationwide poll of 319 sportswriters and broadcasters.

The slim, 40-year-old Woolpert received a remarkably high total of 128 votes, considering that 38 coaches figured in the balloting. He is the first coach to win the poll two consecutive seasons.

Harry Combes of Illinois was second with 26 votes. Frank McGuire of North Carolina was next with 23 and Tom Blackburn of Dayton was fourth with 20.

Earlier this week, San Francisco was voted the nation's No. 1 team for the second successive year by the United Press board of coaches and Bill Russell and K. C. Jones of the Dons won All-America berths on the United Press team.

Woolpert spends hours drilling his players in his man-to-man defense tactics. Stellar defensive play enabled San Francisco to sweep its last 26 games last season enroute to the NCAA championship. The Dons won their 25 regular season contests this season and risk a 51-game winning streak in the 1956 NCAA tournament.

The Dons begin defense of their title March 16 against UCLA, the Pacific Coast Conference champion, at Corvallis, Ore. San Francisco must play in the NCAA competition without Jones because he is ineligible for the tournament.

Basketball Bonanza Tonight Will Benefit Cancer Drive

Six Panhandle Industrial Basketball teams lined up to score at least 500 points in the first night eliminations of the Cancer Benefit Industrial Basketball Tournament.

Noblitt-Coffey downed Culberson Chevrolet 95-86 in the first game and Skellytown dropped Phil-Tex, Borger, 75-65, in the second contest. Borger's Ready Mix champions dropped the tough Groom five 92-76 in the last game to end the first night round.

Culberson and Noblitt-Coffey battled through the first quarter and the Chevrolet dealers led the Pontiac Chiefs, 24-21 at the end of the period. The Chiefs came back in the second quarter and took the lead by 46-44.

The lead changed hands four times again in the last half as the two teams dueled to a dramatic finish.

The Chiefs, Pampa champions, seemed to be in better condition as the fourth period scoring surge netted the locals their first victory in the tournament.

Roy Poole led the winners with a total of 34 points while Bob Dunn paced the Chevrolet five with 35 for the high honors of the game.

Paced by Jim Woods, who dumped in 49 points for the high scoring honors of the night, Skellytown downed Phil-Tex, Borger, in the second of the three game card.

The Phil-Tex five took an early lead but by the end of the first period Skellytowners had tied it up, 23-23.

Following the short intermission, Skellytown moved ahead and had a 43-38 advantage at halftime.

It was still anyone's game though as the teams moved into the final period. Skellytown has a 55-50 lead and stretched it to 75-65 as Woods dumped in nine more points in the final frame.

Ready Mix and Groom tangled in the final game of the first night eliminations. The Groom five took an early lead as the Ready Mix five was cold from the floor. The Groom five made the first seven points to take a 7-0 lead. Later in the first frame the Groom five still led 11-4 but the Ready Mix five seemed to be warming up and trailed 17-11 at the end of the first quarter. Groom still led, 42-34, at the half time but Ray Tidwell garnered 16 points in the third to help in the game-high scoring of 26 points, and win 92-76.

Bill Clifton and Harold Robinson were high for Groom as Robinson dumped in 21 and Clifton 20.

Noblitt-Coffey and Ready Mix will be fighting it out in the first game tonight at 7 while Skellytown and Stanalind Oil, who drew a bye in the first night, will play at 8:30. The tournament will be concluded Saturday night.

The Tournament is a benefit for the Gray County unit of the American Cancer Society.

Raiders Lead In Statistics

EL PASO —UP—Texas Tech's Border Conference champions wound up with top team statistical honors, and Red Raider players hogged individual leads in final 100 totals reported Friday.

Tech led in offense with a 79.3-point per game average and in field goal shooting with a 41.1 marksmanship percentage.

Jim Read held onto his scoring lead with a 20.9-point average, and his Red Raider teammate Eugene Carpenter was the best field goal shooter for the second straight year.

Carpenter hit 117 of his 252 shots for a 46.4 per cent completion average from the field. Bob Roth of Arizona State sank 80 of 88 foul shots to take over the free throw leadership and Ray Burrus of West Texas snapped an average of 13.8 rebounds per game to 13.5 for Read to wind up on top in that respect.

DINNER HONORS LOTT—Marshall Formby, member of the Texas State Highway Commission is shown above congratulating Guy Lott, district engineer from Amarillo, on the plaque presented to Lott at a dinner honoring him last night at the Country Club. two illegal contributions to Ramsey's campaign.
Ramsey was first elected lieutenant governor in 1950. Last Oct. 6 he also became Democratic national committeeman for Texas, his appointment having been approved by both conservative and liberal factions of the party.
Ramsey said that two years ago he warned against "parasites" who "were bilking an unsuspecting public through deceitful insurance stock sales and fraudulent investment schemes out of millions of dollars."
He said stricter laws covering such investments were passed last year, adding, "Like any good architect, my ambition and pledge is to see the job through to complete assurance of full protection to the public in all phases of government."
"In order to accomplish this," he said, "the government must effect rigid rules of conduct and exacting controls over such blind forces of influence."
"I strongly advocate to the people," and went on, "and will urge the Legislature to enact legislation regulating all phases of lobbying."
"I strongly recommend laws which will require anyone appearing before the Legislature or a legislative committee to register and disclose (1) the name of the client on whose behalf he appears, (2) the fees which he is receiving, and (3) the expenses incurred in connection with such representation. Criminal penalties must be provided for violations," he said.
Ramsey also called water a major campaign issue, adding, "The people of Texas are vitally interested in a sound water and soil conservation program. Cities and towns, through the implementation of recent state laws, are making substantial headway."

12 Members Of Family Die In Fire

OXFORD, Pa. — UP — Twelve members of one family died shortly before midnight in a fire that destroyed their two-room wood and cardboard shack on the borough limits.
Police said the victims, all Negroes, included Mrs. Katherine Twyman, 35, nine of her eleven children and two grandchildren. The children ranged from 2 to 20 years old.
Mrs. Twyman's husband, John, 37, was in Baltimore Thursday night and returned early Friday to find most of his family wiped out by the blaze.
State police said there were no indications of foul play but an investigation was ordered to "piece things together." They said a pot belled coal stove in the 20-by-30 foot shack was believed to have started the fire.

English Girls Like Texas, Rest of U.S.
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — UP — Two footloose English girls said Friday they're going home with good jobs and happy memories of "gulleless" Texans and "romantic" American men.
The London girls, Doreen Jacobs, 26, and Norma Clayman, 25, came to the United States without jobs last June. Since then they have had a wonderful time roaming through 14 American cities and they plan to visit six more before they go home.
They liked San Francisco, "as a city to live in" and Las Vegas, New York, the Grand Canyon and Texas.
"Texans are so enormous," Doreen exclaimed. "And gulleless. They'd no more dream of telling you a fibber than flying in the air."

Lions Club Hears Refugee From Lithuania

John Rees, refugee from Lithuania, in a speech to the Lions Club yesterday, stated, "It is a tragic mistake to assume that Russia is an enemy of America. It is really the oppressors of Russia, the small group in control of the Kremlin, that is the enemy."
Rees knows first hand of conditions behind the Iron Curtain, having been in the underground movement opposing the Russian occupation of Lithuania.
The invasion of Lithuania by Germany precluded Rees' deportation to Siberia as part of a large group being sent from his area.
During the German occupation, Rees worked for the German Army as an interpreter interviewing Russian prisoners of war. The information obtained was passed along to British Intelligence.
When the Russians re-entered Lithuania, Rees and his family decided to escape—and eventually came to America.
New members of the Lions Club introduced at the meeting were Merle Allen and Stanley Burnham. Henry Gruhen thanked all the members for their efforts in making the minstrel a success.

Dinner Here Honors Engineer Guy Lott

Marshall Formby, member of the Texas State Highway Commission, stated, "Guy Lott has the knack of inspiring workers under him," at a dinner honoring Lott, district engineer for the State Highway Department from Amarillo at the Country Club last night. The dinner was in recognition of Lott, being named, "Engineer of the Year," by a professional engineer's society.
A plaque "in recognition of his many years of service to the State of Texas in the program of designing and building better highways... for his exemplary leadership in the selection and training of highway engineers," was presented to Lott by Fred Thompson, chairman of the highway and transportation committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the affair.
Formby pointed out that the project mile cost of highways in Lott's district was low and that he paid the highest salaries to employees, that he is looking forward to seeing Lott in road building business for many more years.
Lott has been district engineer at Amarillo for the past 16 years, during which time many improvements have been made to highways in the 17 counties in the district.
Formby stated that the highway department now has 52,000 miles of paved highways in the state, 27,000 miles of which is farm-to-market roads. Eventually there will be 35,000 miles of farm-to-market roads.
"There are more underpasses on the program than the budget will allow," Formby stated. Regarding the Hobart Street underpass, he assured those attending the dinner that the "state will give all the

DRY SKIN, ANYONE? Rough, flaky, and maybe finer-lined than it ought to be? If that's the trouble, you may be letting yourself in for Father Time's inroads earlier than you want or deserve. For ways to arm yourself in defense, listen to the Hollywood expert, Max Factor, Jr. He says spore out your baths. Too much hot water and soap scale (that's the soap you don't QUITE wash off) can do more to age the looks of your skin than a flock of birthdays. Especially if the soap is harsh.

HIS SUGGESTED strategy? Fewer baths, especially if your skin is also itchy. If your nails break, if you spring hangnails. For the baths you take, draw a second tub for rinsing off a-l-l soap. Use a creamier soap. Add a few drops of bath oil to your tub. And if you live in a hard water area, for goodness' sake use a water softener.

Skip the use of alcohol rubs while skin is dry or rough. Use instead, when you step out of bath or shower, a nice lotion—soothing, absorbent; in fact a dry skin will sop it up like a dry sponge sops up water.

IF YOU HAVE a head cold, it doesn't help your feelings any to know that your eyes are bedimmed, your nose is a raw-looking red or shines as brightly as a headlight.

For ways to camouflage these ravages — Max Factor, Jr. claims once they're hidden, you'll start feeling better — listen to these tips.

Give yourself a fresh-from-scratch make-up as many times as you need to in order to look your usual pretty self. Look better so as to feel better like a doctor orders.

If there are dark circles under your eyes, using a cream tinted eraser in stick form — it's as easy as pie to stroke it on and feather it into your foundation — will provide a wonderful camouflage and a morale builder to boot.

If your nose has been inflamed by too many Kamp tissues, a compressed cream-powder, puffed on as often as needed, will help subdue rosinness and velvet a whole face to look remarkably fresh for the little grooming effort spent.

It says tear, softly outline them with an eyebrow pencil and apply eyelash makeup to the upper lashes only. This will camouflage their depressed state. Brows should be accented for crisp grooming, as usual.

Lipstick in the bright crushed rose shade will be your best decoy for flagging—smoother's glances away from feisty eyes, a red nose, or a wobegone face, sums up the expert.

PRACTICE MAKES pretty! That's the modern maxim from the March "Seventeen," which suggests perfectly practicing these steps to bring you face to face with a prettier you.

1. Choose a foundation a scant shade lighter than skin tone. Dot foundation on chin, nose, forehead and cheeks. Use fingertips to blend and smooth. Blot with tissue to leave a light, lasting film.

2. Apply rouge only if very pale. Smile to find cheek "cushions". With tip of one finger lightly touch on three tiny dots of color forming an inverted triangle. Spread and blend to a blush with another finger.

3. Face powder should be a tinge lighter than your foundation. Puff on firm pats of powder where base went before. Puff downward to spread, evenly over face and neck. Brush downward to whisk off excess.

4. Using a lipstick brush, outline top lip in two center to corner strokes. Outline lower lip. Fill in the color with lipstick itself or with flat of the brush. Set three minutes and blot.

5. Use eye make-up subtly, and only for dates. Brush brows to remove powder; darken brow hairs with sketchy pencil strokes. For gala occasions shadow lids from center out with eyeshadow matched to your eye color. With skin held taut, draw lash-line line at eye- corners with eyeliner. When applying mascara (only to upper lashes), look down and brush up, giving an extra swoop to outer corners.

Household Equipment Dating To 1806 Included Among Antique Show Displays

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK —UP— Some of the nostalgia is missing at the national antiques show this year.

Unless, of course, it is possible to find any woman who will become nostalgic at the sight of a wooden wash tub on a hand-pumped vacuum cleaner that is a combination of a churn, an automatic jack and a pogo stick. The annual antiques show at Madison Square Garden keeps expanding to include memorabilia from more nations and knickknacks rescued from more attics. This year among the 600,000 items and 200 exhibits are two displays of household equipment dating back to 1806.

An antique technically is 100 years old or more, but in the field of household gadgets, even a brief 10 years turns an appliance into an antique in the eyes of most women.

So the sight of yesterday's labor-saving devices has so far brought only shudders and sighs of relief from women touring the antiques show.

The round wooden wash tub on display is dated 1806, and has a board attached.

Life got brighter by 1888 and somebody painted a wondrous work-saving washer bright red. It was mechanical, so long as a woman's arm held out. Cradle-like basket fitted inside the wooden bowl. To wash the clothes a woman had to push and pull the basket across the curved, corrugated wooden surface. An astute advertising man named it the "perfect" washer.

Even the all-copper washing machine that was used in the Calvin Coolidge home for 16 years looks like another century antique.

If the sight of these relics from the good old days isn't enough, there are words reprinted from a turn-of-the-century magazine to convince any modern girl that grandma didn't have it so good.

"A woman while washing should stand with one foot obliquely in front of the other," the homey article advised. "This correct position of the feet causes one to lean forward from the hips, not the upper back... leaning forward from the hips throws the chest forward and really expands it."

"If the position of the feet is changed from right to left once in a while and if washing is done according to these rules (and with the use of a certain brand of soap) it can be made a most helpful physical exercise."

The second most helpful physical exercise around the house in those days must have been vacuuming the floor. One 19th Century vacuum required the woman to stand in front of a shoulder-high metallic contraption, anchor it to the floor with her feet, and then pump up and down on a leather-sided bellows to suck up the dirt.

No wonder women didn't start playing bridge until the 20th Century.

Pampans To Attend Methodist Meeting

STAMFORD — Election of new officers will be the major item of business when the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference Women's Society of Christian Service has its annual meeting here Wednesday through Friday.

Speakers will include Mrs. W. E. Horton, Jr., Houston, president of the South Central Methodist Jurisdiction Women's Society of Christian Service; Soon Ai Lee, Korean student at McMurry College, Abilene; Gladys Ponce, Lima, Peru, McMurry student; Mrs. J. N. R. Score, Dallas, assistant director of the Texas Methodist College association; Mittie Shelton, Waco, retired missionary to China and Mexico; and Rissela B. Talmantia, McMurry student from Chihuahua, Mexico.

Special music groups will include the Haskell High School Chanters directed by Hubert Bell; St. John's Methodist church, Stamford, choir directed by Mrs. Welby Callicotte; and the McMurry Chanters.

Students from the McMurry speech department, under the direction of Professor William K. Clark, Jr., will present "Alcohol, Menace To Society" Friday morning.

Fifteenth anniversary dinner will be held Wednesday, in the Stamford High School cafeteria. Mrs. C. C. Coffey of Lubbock, conference president; and Mrs. Sam B.

Manners Make Friends

When you leave your telephone number for someone to call, be sure to leave your name also. One busy executive says he makes it a flat rule never to call a number unless the person who asks him to call leaves his name.

No one likes to play the guessing game of calling a number, not knowing who will answer.

Cook of Pampa, secretary of promotion, will be on the program. There will be a fellowship tea hosted by the Hamlin WSCS Thursday, at 5:30 p.m.

Officers and program personnel from Pampa and the area include Mrs. Sam B. Cook of Pampa, conference secretary of promotion; Mrs. W. W. Adcock of Pampa, secretary of children's work; Mrs. Kermit Lawson of Panhandle, conference recording secretary; Mrs. W. D. Fisher of Canadian, Pampa district president; and Mrs. E. C. Hofmann of Shamrock, Pampa district secretary of promotion.

Sammie McLallen Of Hereford Wins Texas Homemaker Of Tomorrow Title

Texas' Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is Sammie McLallen of Hereford.

The brown-eyed 18-year-old Hereford High School senior received the highest score in a written homemaking examination taken by 12,489 graduating senior girls in 182 of Texas' schools.

She will receive a $1,500 educational scholarship to the college of her choice from General Millie, sponsor of this $100,000 homemaking scholarship program which enrolled a quarter million girls in more than 10,000 of the nation's high schools.

She and her school advisor will tour Washington, D. C., colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Philadelphia April 8-12. Miss McLallen will be a candidate for the Betty Crocker American Homemaker of Tomorrow $5000 scholarship award which will be made at the nationally televised American Table banquet April 13 in Philadelphia. Receiving the second rating in Texas was Eunice Foster of Hawkins. She will be awarded a $500 scholarship as Texas' Award of Honor winner in this homemaking project.

Miss McLallen, who wants to be a homemaking teacher, is not sure just which college she will attend on her $1,500 scholarship. "I want a college education," she says, "because I believe college will not only help me adjust to life as an adult, but it will also help me in my ultimate goal of homemaking. And I want to be a teacher because I want to be able to help others be better homemakers too."

Homemaking is her favorite subject. "I began to learn homemaking by the trial and error method when I was just a little girl helping Mother around the house," she explains. "I learned to cook that way too. I'll never forget my first lemon chiffon pie. It looked beautiful, but it almost took a sledge hammer to break the crust!"

Of all homemaking duties, she prefers sewing. She began by making clothes for her dolls, and now makes most of her own clothes. She is also interested in interior decorating and is now in the process of redecorating her own room.

HE "WROTE" THE BIBLE—John Cardwell of Chicago, Ill., really knows the Bible, and he should. After all, he copied it in longhand. The 89-year-old retired railroad telegrapher, shown above checking some passages, says he got more meaning out of the Bible by copying it word for word than he ever got by reading it. And he says he has read it through 105 times. Cardwell began his copying task after reading about a woman who copied the Bible in 15 years. He did it in only six years and two months.

How faith advanced to spiritual understanding of God provides the discords will be brought out in the answer to sin, lack, and other Lesson - Sermon entitled "Substance" at CHRISTIAN SCIENCE services Sunday. From the King James Version of the Bible will be read the following (Romans 14:22): "Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God." Among the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (23:16): "Faith, if it be mere belief, is as a pendulum swinging between nothing and something, having no fixity. Faith, advanced to spiritual understanding, is the evidence gained from Spirit, which rebukes sin of every kind and establishes the claims of God."

The Golden Text is from Hebrews (11:1): "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." The Very Rev. Myles P. Moynihan, pastor of HOLY SOULS CATHOLIC CHURCH, announces that the series of lectures on the Christian Faith, which were conducted prior to Christmas, have been resumed. Rev. P. J. LeFevre, assistant at the Parish, is again conducting the series.

This "Information Forum" is presented to the public at no charge as a gesture of good will on the part of Holy Souls parishioners towards their neighbors of all faiths. The Forum assemblies at the Parish all, 500 N. Ward, each Wednesday at 8 p.m. Each week a different phase of the Christian religion is presented to the audience and following the address the meeting is open for questions and discussion. A question box is provided for those who wish to bring prepared questions to the meetings. The meetings terminate with a social hour, during which light refreshments are served.

Father Moynihan extends a sincere invitation to the people of Pampa to come Wednesday nights to hear these lectures. Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, Kingsmill and West streets, has announced his sermon topics for Sunday as follows: "The 11 morning worship, 'Public Enemy Number One'"; and for the 7:30 evening worship: "The Man Who Made Satan Take Down His Sign." Mrs. Gordon Bayless will sing a solo, "Oh Rest in the Lord," by Mendelssohn at the morning worship. Mrs. Harold Craddock and Mrs. Denver Allen will sing a duet at the evening service.

Monday the Intermediate Girl's Auxiliaries will meet at 4 p.m. The Junior Girl's Auxiliaries will meet at the same hour on Tuesday. The Sunday School superintendents and Training Union directors will meet Tuesday evening at 7:15 for a special planning meeting in the church parlor. Wednesday the teachers and officers, Sunbeams and Royal Ambassadors will meet at 7 p.m. The pastor will conduct the mid-week service at 7:45 p.m. and the Celestial choir will present the special music. Thursday the Cherub, Celestial and Carol choirs will rehearse at 3:45 p.m. The Boy Scouts will meet Friday at 7 p.m. A friendly welcome awaits everyone who worships at the First Baptist Church.

Cat-Menu-Of-Week Is Advertised In Paris

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS - WASHINGTON—UP—I did a little ditty the other day about the feeding of dogs and promised that I would follow through on cats. I'm kind of sorry I did. Turns out, according to the best minds in France, that a lot of tabbies do better at the table than a lot of people and most dogs. That is if menus have anything to do with it. Three Paris outfits, the Cat Club, Le Club des Amis des Chats and Le Cercle Feline de Paris now advertise cat-menus-of-the-week. The French government tourist office in New York was kind enough to send me some sample menus. While a dog can get along, partly on table scraps and partly on vitamins and partly on stuff fed by the left hand when nobody is looking, the puss has to be fed four times a day. The four-meal-a-day cat's meow menu: Monday Early morning: 3 tablespoons of boiled milk. Noon: 2-4-5 ounces of beef heart with raw carrots. Evening: 4-5 ounces of fish with one tablespoon of liver pate. Before bed: Three tablespoons of boiled milk. Tuesday Early morning: 1 tablespoon fortified vitamin food. Noon: 3-1-2 ounces of beef hash with cooked vegetables. Evening: 5-1-5 ounces of rabbit in aspic, with one tablespoon of rice. Before bed: 3 tablespoons of boiled milk. Wednesday Early morning: Same as Monday on the boiled milk. Thursday Early morning: 3-1-2 ounces of lamb with vegetables. Evening: 5-1-5 ounces of fish. (Please note the difference between this evening and Monday evening. There is no explanation on menu why a cat needs one ounce more fish on Wednesday evening.) Bedtime: The same old three tablespoons of boiled milk. Friday Early morning: Same old 3 big spoons of boiled milk. Noon: 3-1-2 ounces of beef heart with cooked vegetables. Evening: 2-4-5 ounces of calves liver with rice. Before slumber: Ditto on the boiled milk. Friday: Same as Monday. Saturday: Same as Tuesday. Sunday: Same as Wednesday. You can see that a cat, even in Paris lives a rather monotonous life diet-wise. But the French government tourist office says: "For variety, other delicacies such as asparagus tips or a slice of lemon may be added to menu, depending on season and taste of individual cat."

Handy Tools - NEW HAVEN, Conn. - UP - Thieves added insult to injury when they looted an automobile dealer's safe of $2,500. They cracked open the safe with the dealer's own tools. Largest freshwater fish is said to be the ruuso, a type of sturgeon found in Russia, especially in the Amur River. This fish reaches a weight of a ton and a half.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

WILLIAM J. CLOUD, Pastor

Faith is such a triumphant attitude of the entire personality toward life that no circumstances can overwhelm it. Rather does every misfortune make some new opportunity for faith to assert its validity and claim victory.

From the study of the New Testament we can recall many instances where stalwart heroes had faith to live by, which also was adequate to die by, thus giving meaning to life and hope for eternity. John the Baptist, Peter, Stephen, James, Paul, are a few whom you will recall. What was the central motivating passion of each? What basic conviction would you say held each steady?

Jesus, of course, is our supreme example of one who had a faith to live by. It also was adequate for him to die by. It is not possible to put it too dramatically in his case.

"Under an Eastern Sky,
Amid a rabble cry,
A man went forth to die,
For me!
Thorn-crowned his blessed head,
Blood-stained his weary tread,
Cross-laden on he sped,
For me!"

Then followed hours of horrible suffering. Condemned by his church, rejected by his people, betrayed by his disciples, denied by his bosom friend, he hung there in excruciating agony. But there was his unquenchable faith by which he had lived, and in that supremest of all tests it still stood. He fell back on God! Then from the cross came its Victim's dying word, a cry of surest confidence, of supremest trust, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." What a person believes determines what he is and does. A person's faith is what he lives by.

A Wonderful War

Americans are a pugnacious lot. We must be, else we would scarcely be making all the moves we are making which might conceivably lead us into another major war. There is scarcely a nation left on earth in which we maintain an attitude of complete objectivity. In virtually every land, we have our paid bureaucrats hired to influence the local governments by means of favors, finances and foolishness right out of Washington.

Right now there is a dandy situation hotting up on the international grid. The Jews and the Arabs are stalking each other across the Gaza strip like a couple of stiff-legged hounds, bristling and growling with rage.

We are in a delightful position. Our membership in the United Nations inclines us to favor the Jews. Through the U.N. we gave early recognition to this new nation, ignoring, for the most part, the enforced exodus of something like a million Arabs driven out with nothing but their own meager personal possessions. So, as members of the U.N., we should get into the hassle. We ought to send troops over to support the new State of Israel at whose birth we helped to preside.

There is another reason for this, also. The Russians have swung their tiller over and are now busily engaged in supplying arms to Egypt. We don't seem to be able to pump up much affection for the Kremlin hierarchy. So, it looks like a safe bet to back Israel.

But, wait a minute. A number of fine American business firms have heavy investments in Arabia, Egypt, and the Near and Middle East. These firms are doing a good job, a part of which is to provide this nation and the world with a workable supply of oil. American interests are well developed and satisfactorily functioning in the area controlled by the Arabs. We cannot just abandon these American taxpayers to the fortunes of war. They must be protected. Fine — then we must send troops to support American interests in the Near East.

There is another point, too. Our government has, at Geneva and elsewhere, done everything it knew how to assure the Russians that we were friendly and did not wish to oppose the Communist advance on principle. What a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate to the Kremlin that we are their friends. What better way, than to take up arms with them against a common foe? We did it before in the case of Germany. Certainly we could do it again.

This is marvelous. We now have a completely balanced picture. American troops should be sent to help Egypt. American troops in the U. N. should be sent to help Israel. We can exercise our tendency to pugnacity on both sides, and win, regardless of the outcome.

Of course, it is to be expected that some Americans might resent participation on both sides, but surely our political savants can overcome their objections. Here is a made-to-order war which would operate on the same basis as a good insurance policy. Actually, it would work just like an election. The same people back both major candidates and cannot help but win, whoever gets in. Why not extend the same policy to war, which in itself is nothing but the belligerence of politics applied to the field of battle?

There would, of course, be the tendency to divide the nation. Some would favor, we suppose, that the fighting men south of the Mason-Dixon line would support Israel, while the fighting men north of the Mason-Dixon line could support Egypt — or vice versa. But this might tend to inject a note of sincerity into the conflict and is to be avoided.

A total and complete mixing of all military personnel would be preferable, we feel. Men from the same outfits, with the same training, should be split up and sent to either side. This would have the meritorious result of creating a totally objective attitude on the part of the fighting man. He would just fight, caring nothing for the outcome. Experiments in this line were conducted in Korea with entirely satisfactory results. A whole war was carried to a conclusion without any kind of a decision being made, and for which few, if any, knew the reason in the first place. What a perfect setting for a similar conflict, and on an even grander scale.

Since our economy is geared to belligerence, such a war as we are outlining here would have a stimulating effect, generally. We could even extend the conflict indefinitely by sending reinforcements to either side which appeared to be losing. Ideologically this same idea was carried out in Korea, so it wouldn't be as though we were blazing a totally new trail.

Of course, there is a perfectly honorable alternative. We could refuse to get ourselves involved in the scrap on either side. But, since we are so naturally pugnacious this is unlikely.

From the standpoint of our commitments in the area in question, we are honor bound to fight on both sides. The only other alternative which is equally honorable, is to get out and stay out. Despite the general acceptance of warfare as a device for curing bad ideas, we'll support the alternative.

For heaven's sake, let's not get involved!

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Behind "Inevitable" War.

Some close reasons are convinced there are actions of man that bring on war. Frederic Bastiat, the great French philosopher and statesman, contended that where goods do not cross borders, interference such as tariffs; that soldiers would cross borders. In other words, there would be war.

Ludwig Von Mises, the great Austrian philosopher and economist, contended about the same thing. Von Mises wrote "Human Action," which is a masterpiece on human relations.

If we go way back, Jesus had about the same idea as to what brings on war. Remember he said that he who takes up the sword will perish by the sword, and the government interfering with people freely exchanging goods and services is taking up the sword.

The latest thing I have read on the causes of war was issued by Ralph Courtney from his publication under the heading of "Behind 'Inevitable' War." I want to quote how Ralph Courtney explains what brings on war. From here on Mr. Courtney is speaking:

"The peoples of the world have become involved in a succession of hot and cold wars, despite the fact that, almost without exception, they have wanted peace. Simple love of country does not explain these wars. Peoples do not fight because they resent the cultural accomplishments of a neighbor. Nor do they go to war because of the private trading of another country's nationals. Wars, past and present, are occasioned when governments overstep the boundaries of their homelands, either to impose an element of the national ideology on others, or to further the economic interests of their nationals abroad.

"The Government of the Soviets is now operating to spread its Marxian ideology in other countries, just as in earlier times, the State undertook to spread the ideology of its Church. With the separation of Church and State, religious wars came to an end. The pretensions of the Soviets must be met by the strength of an alternative idea. The United States is challenged to set up a Republic so squarely and fairly constituted on its own ideology that neutrals will spontaneously recognize its superiority and its own people will not listen to other ideas.

"A second conflict, playing into this ideological struggle, stems from the use of political might to further trade and investment abroad. In the spirit of a former century of 'imperialism,' governments are still competing, behind a screen of their nationals, for material and markets. They want to keep to their politico-economic habits. Yet wars of economic origin will only cease when Business and Politics, like Church and State, function independently.

"The role which the United States is playing in these two kinds of world conflict is founded neither on American Constitutional ideology nor on the American tradition of private business competition. The truth is that this country has borrowed extensively from the Marxian ideology in handling its problems and, as in other central states, its private enterprise is subject to political control. The assumption seems to be that our battles can be won, not by idea and fact, but by influence and propaganda.

"To the average citizen the causes of war remain obscure. The conflicts he has lived through during the last four decades are, in fact, directly attributable to the centralist social philosophy of the times. Only a continuation and aggravation of present conditions can be expected from capitulating to an ideology that points to still more political control.

"The time has perhaps come to reappraise the present situation in the light of what a renewal of American Constitutional ideology might mean, not only for this country, but also for the rest of the world.

The above seems to me to be sound reasoning. If we would get back to the ideas of the Declaration of Independence, peace and good will would prevail. Better jobs for all would be the result.

EAGLE ROCK, Cal. — The Washington news letter, "Human Events" says 400,000 people could be lopped off the government payroll (which now numbers 2,882,000 people) WITHOUT ELIMINATING A SINGLE SERVICE. This would save 3 billion dollars a year and cut everybody's taxes TEN PER CENT. But it would be 400,000 fewer votes that the politicians could count on, so I guess they'll never do it.

National Whirligig Solons Increase Resistance Against Integration Decree

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, March 9—Southern members of Congress finally created a determined and last-ditch organization to reinforce their states' resistance to all attempts to implement and enforce the Supreme Court's edict against school segregation. Not even in John C. Calhoun's day was there such united opposition to the Federal Judiciary, which could also be directed against the Executive Arm of the Government.

Several years ago, they formed their strength when they shored a loose group known as the Committee of 78 in the House. With Representative William M. Colmer of Mississippi as Chairman and Representative Howard W. Smith of Virginia as Floor Leader, it blocked Harry S. Truman's Civil Rights Program, especially his demand for a Fair Employment Practices Act. As now, it had the support of enough Republicans to command a majority.

With President Eisenhower's election, the Colmer-Smith group virtually disbanded, figuring that it had won its major battle. But the anti-segregation decision has led to its reactivation. Moreover, a similar organization has been formed in the Senate under the leadership of two of the South's most influential and respected figures — Senator Walter F. George of Georgia and Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

This Congressional reinforcement contributes new strength and needed prestige to the South's resistance movement. Whereas the fight had been conducted by State Legislatures, state judicial bodies and newspaper editors, it will now be directed and guided by some of Capitol Hill's ablest legislators.

Senator Byrd has called for "massive resistance" in his first formal utterance on the subject. Henceforth, every Thursday in the House, with segregation Day in the House, with speeches designed to depict certain elements of the opposition as possibly Communist-inspired. The House Committee on Un-American Activities is co-operating closely.

The selection of Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi as Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman marks the Dixie bloc's greatest advance. Rarely has a committee change — coming at this particular moment — affected a great national issue so radically. The late Senator Harry M. Kilgore of West Virginia, former Chairman, was pro-labor, anti-monopoly, not too interested in racial problems. He was such an extreme liberal that he voted almost 100 per cent for Roosevelt-Truman legislation on social and economic matters. Eastland and Kilgore rarely agreed on any question.

The Mississippi member has derided the Supreme Court. In his new position, he can hold up all Civil Rights Bills, and give sanction to the anti-segregationists. He may be able to block confirmation of Simon E. Sobeloff as U. S. District Judge at Richmond. As Solicitor General, Sobeloff has declared in favor of school segregation.

In preparing for the next stage in the racial controversy, Southern legislators enjoy unprecedented power on Capitol Hill. Here are the Senate Committees which they control, and it should be noted that almost the same situation exists in the lower chamber:

- Agriculture — Ellender of Louisiana; Armed Services — Russell of Georgia; Banking and Currency — Fulbright of Arkansas; Finance — Byrd of Virginia; Foreign Relations — George of Georgia; Government Operations — McClellan of Arkansas; Judiciary — Eastland; Post Office and Civil Service — Johnston of South Carolina; Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is Majority Leader, and Senator Albert C. Gore of Tennessee will head the Lobby Inquiry.

FOR REFLECTION

...with JAMES C. INGEBRETTEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization

Two men in a small restaurant were discussing waste.

Said the first, "If people didn't waste anything, think how many other people wouldn't make any money."

Replied the second, "That's true."

But is it true — however widely accepted this popular viewpoint may be?

Webster defines waste as follows: "To expend needlessly, carelessly, or without valuable result; to squander."

If we accept this definition, I do not see how we can justify waste from an economic standpoint. It is true of course, that certain people will "make money" from the wasteful spending of others. But it is not true that the same expenditures, more prudently made, would eliminate the possibility of a profit being made by these same people. They might — or might not — have to change their business. But a transaction to be economically sound must be profitable to both parties to it. Any other kind of transaction, regardless of how profitable it may appear to be to one of the parties, weakens the overall economic situation.

Waste of economic resources is like a dripping faucet: the water company "profits" when you pay your bigger — than — necessary bill; but the drips have performed no useful service, and the money paid out for them has simply "gone down the drain."

BID FOR A SMILE

General — Defendant, when you tried to go to West Berlin to get some capitalist groceries, and the guard asked you the purpose of your mission, you are said to have growled at him. Is that correct?

Soldier — Yes, sir, but not with my mouth. That was my stomach.

He Spurned His Mother's Advice

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Don't shoot the pie-aner player; he's doin' the best he can. He ain't no Paderewski, he is just our handy-man. This quaint and homespun feller, at who you scoff and sneer is just a grass-roots genius an' he does it all by ear. He never reads no lessons and he cannot read a note, but he kin play you any piece that ever has been wrote.

"Oh, Frankie and Johnny was sweet-hearts; oh brother, how they did love! Swore to be true to each other; as true as stars up above. He was her man; he done her wrong!"

He come from down the county, and when he landed here, he told the boys his last advice from his mother, dear. She said "Remember sonny, to beware the wiles and tricks of wicked city slickers and stray clear of politics. Hold high the family honor and preserve our precious name. Oh spurn the wage of infamy; the base rewards of shame. And never, sonny, never should you play a sordid part in politico-wickedness; you'd break yore mother's heart."

Well, flesh was weak, temptation strong an' sultan done his worst. This boy became an alderman, a wayward step; his first.

"Oh the roosters they grow tall; grow so gosh — amighty tall but they eat them spurs an' all — in Cheyenne!"

An' so he set his feet upon the pathway to perdition, completely disregarding his old maw's fond admonition. Per judge he run; he run fer mayor, he run fer county clerk. He run fer any darn old job that didn't call for work. He got elected constable; appointed referee.

ree. He got elected Senator' t Washington, D.C.

"The general got the Croix D Guerre — The S.O.B., was never there! Hinky-Dinky, parley-vo!"

He practiced thrift an' stinginess; he didn't smoke nor chew. All frivolo indulging with our hero, was taboo. So time went by an' peopl' kind of got to know this party. Hi language it was rugged and hi bearing coarse and hearty. He started calling S.O.B.'s; all enemies he plastered, with fighting words equivalent, but rugged than dastard.

"Rather be in San Antonio a 'clerk' in a store, than a chiel en-breasted captain in the quarters master-corps. Oh tell me how long do I have 'to wait —"

It got so little kids engaged i childhood's happy games would listen to his broadcast for novelties in games. They called each other epithets that rhymed with "ditch and 'holse" an' juvenile & iniquity the nation did arouse.

He called the U.S. Congress bums and wrote such dirty screech on people said: "We wonder o what meat this Caesar feeds. "An ignoramus," said Baruch, as Jimmy Byrnes yelled "Liar!" As Nixon an' MacArthur, too, an' A fred Wedemeyer.

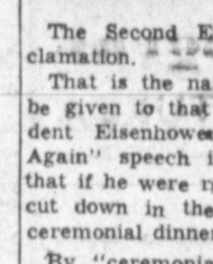

"I'll be 13 years old pretty soon an' my mammy don't allow me t spoon. Well, if I can't spoon at 13 I gotta eat my mammy what the hell do she mean?"

So now the story sad you've heard about this little man, s' shoort not this little feller, please, he does the best he can!

Mac Says President's Social Duties Too Wasteful

By HENRY McLEMORE

The Second Emancipation Proclamation. That is the name I believe will be given to that section of President Eisenhower's "I Will Run Again" speech in which he said that if he were rejected he would cut down in the participation of ceremonial dinners and the like.

By "ceremonial dinners" I assume he means not only formal gatherings at the White House festive traditions, but highly unnecessary duties of the President of the United States.

I wish that a list of the appointments of the President for a whole year could be published. It would cover reams and reams of paper. I am sure, and I am just as sure that a fifth of them could have been by-passed without endangering his firm grip on the reins of the Ship of State.

The President belongs to the people, all right, but when a man has the most overpowering job in the whole wide world, there must be a limit to the time he has to give them as individuals and small groups.

As much as he would like to no President in these days should be burdened with greeting such diverse groups and persons as the United Pen Women of the Northwest, the farm girl who raised the biggest Rhode Island rooster in her state, the Grand Master (an wife) of the Benevolent Order of Jupiter Pluvius, Senator Throttle favorite hunt and uncle, the Tuban "Choral" Group, and the Poe Laureate of the West.

You'll find similar appointments all through the President's date book! He greets them in his study, in the Rose Garden, and in the Blue Room. He talks with them and poses for pictures with them. This might have made a little sense back in the days when the world was a fairly peaceful place; but those days are long gone.

Just take the needless handshaking a President does.

Laboratory experiments, in which I was the guinea pig, revealed a monumental waste of time and energy by a President in handshaking. Mary conducted her experiments in our laboratory right here at home. To make more authentic I dressed up like a President often does — cutaway striped frockers, high silk hat — and shook hands with Mary. Timing was accurate. Mary using her electric clock on the stove. We had no device to measure the energy I used, but all I can say is that after three or four thousand shakes I felt as exhausted as a pun handle.

It takes our experiments showed, an average of four seconds for a man in a receiving line to shake hands and say something like "How do you do?" "Glad to meet you," and "Nice to see you."

At the end I was hoarse and had cut my "Presidential" greeting down to a plain "Shake," and "Pu it here." A real President, of course, couldn't do this.

By reading the lives of all our past Presidents Mary and I arrived at an estimate of how many times all our Presidents had shaken hands. It was 132,853,511 times. At four seconds a shake, that's a whole lot of time wasted. We figured the energy used as more than enough horsepower to move every "lawn" in the United States three times a day for a hundred years.

Tomorrow we are going to begin experiments on ceremonial dinners. We are going to stage one and try to find out how much energy our Presidents have consumed saying such things as "Please pass the biscuits, Ambassador." "Won't you have another helping of squash, Lady Beatrice," and "My, that's good pie, even if I do say so myself."

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Mrs. J. writes that she has a 24-year-old son who has all the requirements for a flying job on the airlines but he is only five feet, five and a half inches tall and should be five feet seven. His one ambition, she says, is to fly and she wonders if there is not some way by which his height can be increased.

This is a common concern of parents. Even if it develops when the youngster is still growing there is not much that can be done about it and certainly nothing holds much promise at the age of 24. Sorry!

Because it is a matter of interest to so many people, however, it is worth discussing.

THE WORRY about small size is usually restricted to boys. What should be understood is that the rate of growth varies from one youngster to another, and a boy who seems small up to his teens may suddenly shoot up and end considerably taller than those who were bigger than he at an earlier age.

For practical purposes it should also be said that there is no special injection, exercise, or food which has much effect. The diet almost certainly has something to do with height, but a well-balanced diet with enough to eat is probably all that is necessary. There is a possibility that vitamin B-12 will be useful in this respect but only time will tell.

THESE FACTORS, however, do bring up some interesting matters about growth in general. The human body grows most rapidly before birth. Increase in size continues to be rather fast for a year afterwards. On the average a baby's birthweight is tripled in the first year. Height and weight keep increasing until maturity, though more slowly and irregularly.

There is a more or less normal pattern of growth for each child. One of the most ingenious ways of measuring this pattern is by means of the Wetzel grid, which if followed for long enough, seems to show whether a particular child is growing as he or she should.

Library Is Set Up To Honor Scout

SPEARMAN — (Special) — A memorial library has been established for Joe Hatton, Jr., a former Spearman Eagle Scout, by D. R. Davis of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Davis keeps the library open evenings and week ends, in his Broadmoor home, to further all Scout work and help more Scouts to become Eagle Scouts.

Young Hatton had lived in Spearman several years when his father, Joe Hatton, was Hanstford County agricultural agent. They later moved to Colorado Springs.

He was an active Eagle Scout and had been awarded the Good and County award by his pastor, of the First Presbyterian Church. He was killed in a car accident.

Davis was actively engaged in Scouting many years before his retirement.

What's the best line of play for the slam in today's hand? Should you try to ruff out low diamonds in the dummy, or is some other line of play better?

To play for the diamonds will give you substantially less than an even chance. After West's opening trump lead, you can ruff only two diamonds in the dummy. This will leave you with two losing diamonds unless each opponent starts with exactly four cards in the suit or unless you get some lucky break.

A better chance is available. You can develop dummy's hearts if East has one or both of the missing high cards in the suit. The odds are 3 to 1 that East will have at least one high heart.

You allow dummy to hold the first trick with the seven of clubs. Next, you lead the queen of hearts from the dummy. You intend to discard a diamond if East plays a low heart.

As it happens, East puts up the ace of hearts. You ruff with the queen of clubs and return the eight of clubs to dummy's nine.

This puts you in position to lead the jack of hearts from the dummy. East plays low (as he must), and you discard a diamond. West is able to win the trick with the king of hearts, but you can afford to give up one trick.

West returns the king of diamonds, as good a try as any, and you win in your hand with the ace. Now you lead the ten of clubs to dummy's jack. This draws East's last trump and enables you to lead established hearts from the dummy. You can easily discard all of the low diamonds, fulfilling the slam contract.
