WACO — UP — A former internal revenue deputy collector Wednesday faced a federal indictment that accused him of cheating the government out of $3,835 in income taxes.

William J. Finch, now a Midland, Tex., oil operator, was indicted yesterday in Waco, and was charged with reporting no taxable income for 1949, although he was alleged to have made $11,385 that year.

Finch is president of St. Ann's Oil Production Corp., of Midland. The indictment against him was one of 21 returned by the jury.

Another income tax evasion indictment was returned against Francisco Saenz Jr., former Duval county treasurer from Benavides. He also was alleged to have reported no taxable income for 1953, although the government contends he made $9,235 that year.

Houston real estate man Henry J. Bullock also was indicted for a charge of income tax evasion for the year 1953.

Night-Club Tax Cut Approved

WASHINGTON — UP — A proposed reduction in the tax on night-clubbing has been tentatively approved by a House Ways & Means subcommittee, it was learned Wednesday.

Informants said the subcommittee by a split vote Tuesday approved cutting the 20 per cent cabaret tax to 10 per cent. The tax is levied on food and drink consumed at places where entertainers or dancing is provided.

The secret action was taken as the subcommittee worked on legislation calling for numerous revisions in excise tax law. Announcement of all tentative decisions was withheld pending final subcommittee action on the legislation.

The proposed cut in the cabaret tax would result in a loss of an estimated $20 million a year in revenue. It faces tough sledding in the full House Ways & Means committee, if included in the subcommittee's final report.

In addition to the cabaret tax reduction, informants said the subcommittee tentatively approved new excise taxes of 10 per cent on electronic transistors, and 5 per cent on gas-operated garbage disposal units.

Hotel owners and musicians have sought outright repeal of the cabaret tax. They contend it has caused unemployment among musicians and entertainers by forcing hotel dining rooms to stop offering entertainment to patrons.

Profanity On TV Happens In Spite Of Censor's Efforts

By WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK — UP — The fluffs on two recent TV shows are the sort of things that give network censors the whim-whams.

On an Alcoa production, "Tragedy in a Temporary Town," actor Lloyd Bridges, enmeshed in a mob scene, let go with an unintentional cuss word, G--D-- that sent more than 500 viewers scurrying to their telephones.

And just a few days later, it happened again on "This Is Your Life." This time, Dr. Catherine MacFarlane, the guest of honor, used a mild expletive, D--, while she was recalling an old automobile she had owned.

All three networks have watchdog divisions which try to nose out profanity. At NBC and ABC the departments are called "continuity acceptance," at CBS, it's called the "editing" department, but their jobs are the same—to stamp out what the grade calls "blue" material.

Strange Things Happen
Despite their best efforts, however, strange things do happen.

It was on a Steve Allen show one night that a musician blew a sour note and Allen looked up and said: "What the h-- was that?"

Steve gulped, clutched his mouth and apologized immediately. As a result, the incident created no fuss at all.

At CBS, however, Noel Coward managed to stir up quite a ruckus when he turned out his TV version of "Blithe Spirit." Coward, despite the pleas of the network, refused to yank out an assortment of inguistic firecrackers during rehearsals.

The CBS censors blue-penciled the script, but Coward went on the air and with a rather spirited blitheness gave out with a double D-- and a single H--.

"We got quite a lot of mail on that one," says one CBS spokesman.

On rare occasions, the censors will permit mild profanity. When Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy staged "The Fourposter" on NBC-TV last year, Cronyn was permitted, at the climax of one scene, to say: "I'll be D--ed."

On a Robert Montgomery show which dramatized F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Great Gatsby," a character turned to Jay Gatsby at the end and said: "Jay, you're better than the whole D-- lot of them."

Justified by Dramatics
According to Stockton Hellfrich, who directs the fortunes of NBC-TV's blue-pencil division, both of these were passed because the dramatic moment justified them.

Non-professionals usually are cautioned before they go on the air, but even so, things do occur. It was during a radio interview that ballplayer Yogi Berra told about the three hits he had collected in his first day as a Yankee.

The sportscaster said he had noticed only two hits in the paper, that the commission of the third must have been a typographical error.

"H-- no," said Yogi, "it was a clean single to left."

Exchangiles Hear Myatt

The function and purpose of the Chamber of Commerce was explained to members of Pampa Exchange Club last night by Ed Myatt, president of the chamber. Myatt said the Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary organization of business and professional people that are investing their time in worthwhile projects. They sponsor and encourage any activity that will lead toward more dollars for more people in the community.

The Pampa chamber, consisting of over 600 members, is one of the largest in this area, he said. A total of 15 committees are set up to bring about important projects. The Aviation Committee is presently trying to arrange for airline service to Pampa.

The Canadian River Bridge project took the chamber 15 years to complete, he said, and the Hobart St. underpass project is now in its seventh year.

Responsibilities of the chamber include getting business here and keeping it in Pampa. Myatt pointed out the present need for a high class restaurant in town.

"For every person that moves to town, two persons are needed to serve him," he said in closing. W. T. Seitz was inducted into membership of the club last night. The Junior Exchange for the month, Frank Snow, was introduced by Jim Hopkins.

Ronald Waters introduced the speaker.

DUTY

And so it stands on the 1950 registration records today, unless someone has altered it: Dwight D. Eisenhower, independent. It was less than two months after that conversation at SHAPE, however, that the general publicly embraced the Republican faith. The occasion was in acknowledgement of the entry by friends of an Eisenhower slate in New Hampshire's March, 1952, presidential primary.

The general then indicated that he would run for President if he heard "a clear cut call to political duty." He heard it clearly enough, and all of the foregoing is significant now in demonstration of the fact that the current public yammer about his plans and Mr. Eisenhower's own self-searching for a decision are not new to him. He's been through all of this before, although with the circumstances somewhat altered.

Under no circumstances will I ask relief from this (SHAPE) assignment in order to seek nomination... and I shall not participate in the pre-convention activities," he said on Jan. 7, 1952.

But the pressure was great and the enthusiasm shown for the general in a series of presidential primaries was terrific.

After 106,000 Minnesota primary write-in votes, the general indicated in March, 1952, he might come home to campaign. On April 2 he asked to be relieved and actually shucked his uniform June 3, the day before his first political address at Abilene, Kan., the Eisenhower home town. Accusing the Truman administration of "craft and incompetence," he was off on his pre-convention campaign.

The first chess match ever staged between Pampa and Amarillo saw the two teams tie at three and one-half games each last night in Lovett Memorial Library.

The Pampa Chess Club was host to the recently organized Amarillo YMCA Chess Club in its second team match this month. Last week Pampa lost to the Tri-City Chess Club of Borger by a count of 9-3.

New Scout Executive Is Here

Yorel Harris, formerly of Roswell, N.M., has assumed his duties as the new Scout executive of the Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Harris has 26 years of Scouting experience, including 12 years as a professional. He entered the profession in Oklahoma, serving as a field executive and then assistant to the Scout executive. After moving to New Mexico, he was promoted to director of field staff, in which capacity he was serving when he accepted the position of Scout executive here.

Having served on the National Camping and Aquatic Staff, Harris had as his "hobby" the development of aquatics in the Boy Scout Program. Many Councils have adopted the use of a program he developed for the training of young men in aquatics. His former duties consisted of the supervision of professional men, development of Council program and advisor to Council Operating committees and development of adequate Council finances.

Harris attended the University of Oklahoma, where he was active in sports, is a member of the Masonic and Elks lodges and a Rotarian. He has been an active church member and lists as his hobbies, "sports" and "people."

Due to circumstances, the house for which the family arranged is not available and they are living in a hotel until suitable housing is found. A call to the Council office, 4-6845, in regard to housing would be appreciated.

Spearman Youth Is Still Missing

SPEARMAN — (Special) — Hansford County Sheriff J. B. Cooke reported this morning that there was no further news on Larry Dale, Davis, 11-year-old Spearman youth who has been missing since Monday.

Larry is the son of Bill Davis, who operates a trailer court in Spearman.

Larry boarded a Holt school bus Monday afternoon saying he was going to visit a friend. At the O. C. Holt farm, 15 miles south of Spearman, the boy got off and said, "I am going to see a friend," and started walking south across a field.

Sheriff Cooke and his deputies have contacted every farm house in the area and no one has seen or heard of the boy since he left the school bus.

The Hansford County sheriff's department is contacting nearby counties giving a description of the youth in a belief that he might have caught a ride.

EISENHOWER

Reached His Decision He then said that he had reached such a decision, but found that there were so many factors involved that his answer could not be expressed in a simple yes or no.

A fuller explanation to the American people was necessary. Furthermore, he would not go before the people or allow his name to go before the Republican convention until all concerned knew exactly who they were nominating and the many factors entering his life.

It was at this tense point that he said he did not know for certain that the Republican convention would want him after his speech Wednesday night.

Then he said he was asking the networks for television and radio time Wednesday night to explain his position in detail.

It was then that he permitted direct quotation of the single sentence, saying his answer would be "positively that is, affirmative."

Quickly, the outwardly placid chief executive said he did not intend to have his decision a subject for further conversations in the press conference.

Asked to discuss how he felt about his present state of health, the President said he would go into that Wednesday night. He did not want to discuss it at the news conference because it opened up a variety of questions which require time to discuss.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked about the reaction of Mrs. Eisenhower to his decision. He said she and other members of his family had said from the beginning that it was his decision to make and they would conform with whatever he decided to do.

Says He'll Be Truthful The President appeared quite thoughtful as a reporter asked him how he expected the issue of his health to come up in the campaign this fall.

Mr. Eisenhower said he would try to be just as truthful as he could about his condition. While some of his political enemies might regard him as stupid, he thought they believed he was honest.

Asked generally what he thought the campaign issue between the Republicans and the Democrats would be, Mr. Eisenhower said with deep conviction that he had a record established before the American people and this record would be his campaign.

Stands on His Record Was he hopeful of re-election if renominated? He said this would be in the hands of the American people and he would stand on his record.

Giving some background of how he arrived at his decision, he said he had consulted everybody he thought was a friend and some of whom he was not so sure. In response to questions, he reiterated his belief that for the best welfare of the country the presidency and control of Congress should be in the same political party. This, he reasoned, was the true fulfillment of the two-party system. He made these comments when asked whether he regarded the present Democratic control of Congress as a handicap to his administration.

Gambling Charge Is Filed

FORT WORTH — UP — The Tarrant county grand jury indicted a man Tuesday on a charge his marble board was a gambling device and the city attorney said he would fight to outlaw pinball machines.

The indictment named Homer Chokas, accused of keeping a gambling device in his 521 Club. The penalty, on conviction, is from 30 days to a year in county jail.

A five-ball machine was picked up at Chokas' club. Odds could be changed by lucky-or-skillful shots taken after feeding nickels into the device.

Assistant District Attorney Randall Riley promised quick action, setting the case for trial the week of March 19. His action is in conformance with a city council ordinance recently passed.

Pin-ball machine operators have indicated they will appeal closing down of their machines to the state Supreme Court. City Attorney Rhinehart Rouser said he will fight to prove the machines are a nuisance.

The ordinance was scheduled to become effective Saturday. But pin-ball machine owners won a temporary restraining order against its enforcement pending a hearing at 9 a.m. Monday.

Hostesses for the covered-dish luncheon were members of Circles 1 and 5.

The program was a style show, presented by the WSCS officers, featuring hats, shawls, stoles and jackets fashioned from literature about the duties of the various offices.

The invocation was given by Mrs. W. Purviance, and Mrs. Lee Harrah presented the devotional. About 50 women attended the event.

Youth Groups Feted At Mission Banquet

The Women's Missionary Union of the Central Baptist Church honored members of the Girls' Auxiliary and the Royal Ambassadors with a banquet recently in the church.

A moccasin ceremony, led by Mrs. Nolan Cole, preceded the banquet. Mrs. Curtis Prescott and Mrs. George Wing presented a vocal duet, "My Task," and the devotional on the Indian version of the Twenty-Third Psalm was given by Curtis Prescott.

Mission study for the various groups was held, with Mrs. Melton Burns and George Wing reviewing the book, "Beyond the Desert," to the Junior G. A. The study for the Intermediate G.A., taught by Mrs. Don Rosenback and Tommy Phillips, was taken from the book "The Papago Land," and the same study was taught to the Intermediate R. A. by Tommy Phillip. Mrs. Bob Anders taught the mission lesson to the Junior R. A., assisted by Mrs. Charles Terrell who reviewed the book, "Indian Life On New Trails."

About 75 persons attended the banquet and mission study.

June Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

WE CANNOT EXPECT TO LIVE WITHOUT ANXIETY but we can learn to put it to good use, counsels Ardis-Whitman in the February Reader's Digest. In an article condensed from Journal of Lifetime Living, the author says that nine out of ten people are immersed in problems they don't know how to solve, thus proving again that every normal human is a prey to anxiety, fear and a sense of guilt.

NOR WOULD it be good for us to be freed from the thrust of anxiety. The struggle without environment is part of our heritage and of the complex adventure of life. "If you despair," counseled Edmund Burke, "work on in despair."

In living with anxiety we can learn a wisdom that will lessen it. Don't add to real worries by piling on false ones. Often it is not the big problems which throw us but the little doubts and fears which grow like barnacles on a ship.

Neither should we add to present worries the burdens of the past. We can't help but regret our thoughtless deeds and our missed opportunities, but we needn't feel exiled from humanity because we have done wrong.

Perhaps the greatest folly is to keep trouble to oneself; often the path through the worst worry can be smoothed by the guidance of a friend. Finally, we would worry less about ourselves if we worried more about others, and if we saw our struggles as part of the vast struggle of a whole creation intent on growth.

IMAGINE WHAT it would be like to live in a country where handcraft artisans hammer out art objects exactly as their ancestors did 45 centuries before the birth of Christ.

That's the way it is in Egypt today, and a lucky thing it is, too, as far as beautiful ornaments are concerned.

David Margulies, president of the Around-the-World Shoppers Club has just returned from Egypt with this month's gift selection for club members.

The gift is a hand-hammered copper pitcher which makes a lovely bud or flower base to grace a window sill, mantel or other appropriate place in the home.

The pitchers, ornamented with carved illustrations of scarabs, were actually made within sight of the Great Pyramid of Cheops and the Nile River itself.

Margulies says that the ancient and powerful civilization of Egypt, epitomized by the pitcher, is still everywhere apparent when the visitor arrives today. Egyptian temples, built thousands of years ago, and still standing today, are masterpieces of architectural ingenuity. Great pillars raise themselves to heaven, holding aloft exquisitely carved marble roofs. The temples are full of magnificent statues of ivory, gold and marble and great stone statues weighing tons.

These temples are symbols of a civilization that set the pace for the future race of mankind. The Egyptians were the first to discover the movements of the planets. They devised the first accurate calendar—and made planning for the future possible. They were the first physicians and surgeons, the mathematicians. They were the first canal builders, ship builders, sailors and law-makers.

Margulies says a trip to Egypt today is a voyage giving man humility. To recognize the greatness of the Egyptian past is to recognize the debt that modern civilization owes.

Of course, it's impossible for most people to travel to Egypt, and that's why Margulies chose the pitcher for this month's gift selection. The pitcher in a small way brings some of the beauty of the past into the present.

The Around-the-World Shoppers Club, as a matter of fact, is based on the premise that many people who are not able to travel are nonetheless anxious to receive genuine handcraft articles from foreign countries.

Every month Margulies brings back a gift from some far away and interesting place. Previous gifts have included silk scarves from India, handcarved alabaster from San Marino, Delft from Holland and silver from Sheffield, England.

One thing that surprised Margulies more than anything else about Egypt was the fact that the ancient Egyptian women were experts at the art of cosmetics. They used lip-rouge, eye-shadow and even perfume. Margulies didn't bring any back with him this time. But someday he intends to go back to Egypt, and who knows then what he might decide to get?

"Flowers For Gracious Living" Brighten Cement-Surrounded New Yorkers' Lives

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK — UP — Delivery boys hand boxes of flowers to housewives here each week and the usual comment is, "Wonder what it is this time?"

They're not blasé, they're flower-starved city dwellers who subscribe to a curious new kind of flower service. It might not succeed if the customers didn't live in cement-surrounded lives.

They pay a monthly fee for a weekly floral surprise package. The idea, as so often happens, originated in three different minds at approximately the same time.

"We thought," said one of the two young men responsible for one of the ventures, "that people here must be crying for some breath of natural life."

The two young men, one from California and one from Texas, pooled their time and money and set up "flowers for gracious living" six months ago.

At approximately the same time Luther Greene, a producer of documentary films and a friend of Doris Duke's, heard that Miss Duke had leftover flowers at her greenhouse in Somerville, N. J.

"I got the idea of charging people so much each month and sending them a box of flowers each week, whatever was in most plentiful supply that week," Greene explained.

Miss Duke, who has continued the operation of the greenhouse established at the Duke farm by her father, agreed to let Greene try the plan.

It went so well they ran out of flowers, Greene confessed, and had to start buying flowers outside the farm to fill the orders.

In both cases, you take what the men decide is the best flower of the week. Most of the customers live in Manhattan and don't set foot on a blade of grass from one month to the next.

A Modest Plan
"Ours is a fairly modest plan," explained Stanley Randal, a 30-year-old bachelor from Dallas, who operates the second flower delivery service. His silent partner is Jason Lane, 26-year-old head of the research department for a broadcasting network.

"We send a dozen flowers each week for $12.50 a month. Some weeks it's roses, others chrysanthemums or gladioli."

Greene believes in "masses of flowers." He practically blankets his customers with blooms for a $10 weekly fee, sometimes sending 25 carnations, 25 roses and a dozen snapdragons in one huge box.

All three men keep a discreet silence about their customers, although they admit some of the orders fascinate them. One man was JUICY, ORANGE-HUED Louisiana yams, with cottage cheese and fruit-juice touches, make excellent loaf.

COOK'S NOOK

Louisiana Cajun Recipe For Yam Cottage Loaf

By GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Marie Louise Comeaux of Lafayette, La., told us how to serve Louisiana yams. She is director of the School of Home Economics at Southwestern Louisiana Institute in Lafayette in the heart of the French Cajun country. Here is her recipe for mashed Louisiana yams pineapple juice, lemon juice and pecans, all rolled in corn flakes.

YAM COTTAGE LOAF

(Makes 4-6 servings)

One and one-half cups mashed, cooked Louisiana yams, 3 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups crushed corn flakes, 1 cup creamed cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon pineapple juice, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/4 cup finely chopped pecans.

Combine yams, eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 cup corn flakes. Beat until light and fluffy. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, 2 minutes. Combine cottage cheese, juices and remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt; blend. Add pecans; mix well.

Spread remaining 1 cup corn flakes on waxed paper. Spread half of yam mixture on corn flakes in a rectangle about 8x3 inches. Top with cheese mixture. Cover with corn flakes. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Serve with Butter Sauce a la Creole and garnish with parsley and lemon slices, if desired.

BUTTER SAUCE A LA CREOLE

Melt 1 tablespoon butter over low heat; add flour and blend. Gradually add 1/2 cup water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Add 3/4 tablespoon butter, 1/4 cup water and 1/4 cup lemon juice; mix well. Beat 1 minute. Serve over Yam Cottage Loaf.

Pressured Miller Case

Who can say where pressures come from and how they are exerted?

An interesting case in point is one involving the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, Inc., a group made up of 24 different women's organizations which are, for the most part "conservative," rather than New Deal in their concept.

But when the chips were down, the WPCND flinched.

The organization has invited and had scheduled an address by Manuel Miller of Bethel, Vt., husband of Mrs. Lucille Miller who has been carrying on an almost single-handed fight against government conscription. It was the Millers, it will be remembered, who were driven from their home by U. S. marshals with tear gas and guns when Mr. and Mrs. Miller refused to obey an order declaring Mrs. Miller insane and ordering her sent to an insane asylum in Washington, D. C.

The Millers, who publish a mimeographed sheet called the Green Mountain Rifleman, have been bitter and successful in an all-out fight on Communism and Communists in Vermont. They were successful in exposing for the New York papers and ultimately the FBI and others in Washington, the operation of a Communist cell in Vermont and in breaking up the organization.

As a result of all of the national publicity connected with the case of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, he had been invited to address the WPCND but at the last minute the organization cancelled out his address and substituted that of another. A copy of the letter from Mrs. David Daniel Good, national president of the Society for Constitutional Security and chairman for the joint convention of the 24 organizations, follows:

"Dear Mr. Miller:

"After the recent release of a copy of the Conference program the reaction has been such that the consensus of those most interested is, that it is not wise to present a subject at this time which is so complex. It is not because we feel less desirous that full justice be done in America, but we are all working for the preservation of unity in the organization, and must avoid confusion on a complicated issue. American justice is sometimes delayed but it eventually will prevail, which is the opinion of all.

"With much regret that the invitation to you to address the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, Inc., must be recalled, and with the feeling that you will understand, I am,

"Sincerely yours,
"Lettitia W. Good,
"Mrs. David D. Good, Secretary
"Osceola Mills, Pa."

Now we'll admit that the subject is a touchy one, for the Millers have questioned the right of the federal government to operate peace-time conscription of soldiers, holding that such action violates the constitutional amendment which prohibits any form of "involuntary servitude." They have also fought Communists in this country.

It is not easy to come out flatly and say that you are opposed to military conscription — particularly when there is such great pressure from so many fronts in favor of such conscription. Those who take such a stand must do so from a sense of obligation to fight for constitutional liberty and be prepared to continue the fight on whatever front presents itself. In other words, such fighters must be consistent or they find themselves embarrassed with questions they cannot properly answer and ends up by agreeing with the collectivists that such powers are "right" for government to possess.

And apparently there are not sufficient numbers of the participating organizations in the conference who are willing to stand up to the kind of pressure that results when government has whipped up a "popular" stand for increase of governmental controls over our lives. For the invitation to Mr. Miller was recalled.

The argument that the "subject" is too complex for the group to hear is sheer nonsense. Other speakers discussed such complex matters as "Atoms in Peace and War," "What Have They Done to the Constitution?" "Let's Save America," "America and the United Nations," etc., etc. Surely none of these topics is less complicated than anything that Mr. Miller might have to report on what has happened to the Millers since they challenged the Communists.

The really unfortunate part of the whole thing is that these groups of women are supposed to be fighting the good fight for the preservation of the Constitution of the United States. They are the highly "conservative" groups which are supposed to be greatly concerned with the attacks of government on our Constitutional rights. If these groups decline to hear Mr. Miller because he is too "complex" there is little likelihood of his being heard in any organization.

As we said at the start, where pressures come from and how they are exerted are points of interest to those seeking to expand the rights of all Americans to greater liberty and freedom.

Answering Reader's Labor Profit Questions

I want to continue to quote from a letter from A. H. Riley of Odessa, Texas, asking me numerous questions on profits, wages and union labor. His sixth through nineteenth questions are as follows:

(6) "...How many billions should General Motors have made?" (7) "Do they use UNION LABOR?" (8) "Are U. S. Steel's wage earners union men?" (9) "Are American working men doing a lousy job of producing for their employers?"

(10) "What are you employers doing to combat the so-called menace of union labor?" (11) "What wage and labor policies do you offer non-union men on COMPETITION with the labor unions?" (12) "Do you offer higher wages?" (13) "Is competitive free enterprise unwilling to COMPETE with labor unions?"

(14) "Who sets the wage pattern in industry?" (15) "How many employers are setting patterns?" (16) "How many are following a 'copy cat' policy with regard to wage scales?" (17) "Is the Lincoln Electric Company pay plan unethical?"

(18) "You have questioned the ethics and honesty of labor unions. Do you maintain that all employers are honest?"

(19) "Would it be unethical and dishonest to advocate profit-sharing as a means of combating labor unions?"

My Answers

(6) All they could possibly make on a free market basis. The reason is that the share holders have to distribute these profits in order to benefit them, and if they spend it for their own enjoyment they will be buying labor and increase the real wages of all workers. If they give it away the recipient will spend it or if they invest it in tools to make more profits later, it will make a demand for labor and increase real wages.

(7) I believe some of the employees are union members. Some are not.

(8) I presume most of United States Steel members are union, and some are not.

(9) Some American workers are doing a splendid job and some are doing a lousy production job. They are really not working for their employers. They are working for themselves and the employer is not really paying their wages. Their wages are being paid by the production of other workers. All wages, in order to be permanent and an ever-increasing wage, must be paid by production.

(10) Trying to get the workers and the public to understand that employees in the long run would be better off materially, and happier, if they earned their wages on a competitive basis rather than on a threats-of-strike monopoly basis.

(11) I advocate that workers be hired on a competitive free market basis.

(12) To some employees more, to some less.

(13) Competitive free enterprise is perfectly willing to compete with union labor provided the federal law gives the union employee no advantage in securing employment over the non-union worker. Union men are not willing to compete with non-union men. They know they cannot compete with non-union men who realize they must benefit their customers in order to have a permanent job, unless the unions have a monopoly.

(14) The wage pattern in industry in a free economy is set by paying each and every man all he produces. What he produces is measured by letting every worker help establish values.

(15) All employers and employees are setting values under a free economy.

(16) I do not know.

(17) As I understand it, the Lincoln Electric is an incentive pay plan, which is perfectly ethical.

(18) Certainly not, but in the long run a dishonest employer has a harder time than an honest one. The public will take care of a dishonest employer under a free market.

(19) I am inclined to believe that it is unethical and dishonest to advocate profit-sharing as a means of combating labor unions. The reason is that profit sharing, and not sharing losses, is a form of socialism. It tends to make class out of employers and employees. It has a tendency to give the employee an inferiority complex. It tends to make him feel he is a ward of his employer; that he is not his employer's equal in individual responsibility. It tends to relieve him of individual responsibility and self-reliance. It tends to exalt the employer and make him think that he is his brother's keeper rather than his brother's helper. It tends to make him believe in the feudal system of lord and vassal.

On the other hand, profit and loss sharing is perfectly ethical and benefits all who can afford the risk of loss. It makes the employee better understand the problems of producing wealth and giving the customer the greatest possible profit by his purchaser.

BID FOR A SMILE

A little Negro boy came to school one morning. His face wreathed in smiles. He told the teacher that he had a new baby brother. Teacher — "What is his name?" Boy — Nicodemus. Some days afterward the teacher asked how little Nicodemus was getting along. The boy looked somewhat perplexed for a minute. Then he brightened. Boy — Shucks, teacher, we call him Abraham now. We found we already had a Nicodemus.

N. A. A. C. P., Israel Backers Jeopardize U. S. Interests

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Two groups of racial extremists are jeopardizing American interests at home and abroad by their bold and almost unprecedented interference with the Eisenhower Administration's solution of grave national and international problems. Their behavior has been the topic of serious discussion in Cabinet and Congressional circles, although negatively ballot-box considerations prevent needed ventilation of the situation.

The two groups are the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the over-zealous advocates of all-out Administration support of Israel in its recurrent conflicts with the Arab states. Besides stirring domestic discontent, unrest and hard feeling, they have caused a dangerous decline in American prestige and influence overseas, even among our Allies.

Kremlin propagandists have seized upon the results of this interference to engender enmity and distrust of the United States, according to diplomatic advices to Washington. Tass Agency reporters, now under Congressional investigation as nothing but Russian spies, flood the cables and the mails with detailed and gaudy reports of these episodes.

The foreign press in friendly lands has highlighted the Autherine J. Lucy case at the University of Alabama. Having no racial problems themselves, they conclude that Eisenhower-Dulles professions of sympathy for downtrodden peoples behind the Iron Curtain is so much hogwash.

A Danish university has invited Miss Lucy to apply for admission. In short, the favorable reaction abroad to the Supreme Court's decision has been supplanted by the Moscow, fostered belief that the U. S. Government practices discrimination against helpless citizens. Nobody reports that more than 2,000 Negroes have been admitted to colleges throughout Dixie.

The NAACP's well-paid lawyers and agitators helped to inspire Miss Lucy's attempt to enter the university at Tuscaloosa. It was behind the Negroes' transportation boycott in Montgomery, Ala., which resulted in 115 indictments of the promoters.

It finances and provokes suits against cities, states, school districts, recreation authorities, railroads. It now proposes to bring action against what it calls eight "recalcitrant" Southern states. Most of its lawyers and field agents are from the North.

Constitutional lawyers point out that NAACP's course is in complete disregard of the Supreme Court's ruling and outlined integration procedure. That tribunal recognized that the process must proceed slowly and unevenly, depending on local conditions and sentiment. For this reason alone, it fixed no time limit, referring the problem to Federal District Courts for regional handling.

Finally, the NAACP's rash and provocative conduct has been condemned by such good friends of the Negro race as Adlai E. Stevenson and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Likewise, the Zionists' violent protests against shipment of 18 tanks to Saudi Arabia has placed us in an extremely bad light. It has precipitated charges that the Administration's foreign policy is a wishy-washy, on-again-off-again thing of poor repute.

The facts are distorted. It is not pointed out sufficiently that the tanks were forwarded under a 1951 agreement, made by Harry S. Truman, that permitted us to build a huge air base at Dharran in Saudi Arabia. Not only is this the Western Allies' nearest airfield to vital Russian factories and oil fields, it is our principal defense of Anglo-American petroleum concessions without which we could not win a global war. This oil is Moscow's most prized objective.

It is accidental that the controversial shipment coincided with current Israeli-Arab tension in the Middle East. Nevertheless, extreme Zionists picketed the docks, forcing the temporary embargo that placed the Eisenhower Administration in a ridiculous position.

Representative Emanuel Celler, Brooklyn Democrat, intimated that "oil interests" had reached the White House, and forced the President to approve the sailing. Other Zionist spokesmen protested in undiplomatic terms. In language that might furnish justification for his recall, Ambassador Abba Eban made heated and indiscreet charges against the Administration.

So far, even though the two groups have tremendous political power in the great cities and electorally influential states, President Eisenhower has resisted their importunities with rare courage. He has been praised generally for the nation's welfare above thought of votes in November.

New Deal Idea Said Thrift Was Selfish

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In the early phases of the first New Deal the medicine-men of the cult compounded a potion of boss-fixer powder, huck, branch-water and Maryland corn and, with jets of smoke spurting from their hairy ears, threw our people into a state. They said, in effect, that whoever had any money should spend it. It made no difference what whoever bought.

The big economic idea, an innovation which tortured the souls of all traditional and biblical Americans, was that thrift was selfish and, carried to its logical extreme, would ruin a country which even then had some life-like aspects of devastation, especially along the Pennsylvania between New York and Washington where hundreds of idle men were shacking in hollowed-out old factories and squatting over twig-fires warming cans of mulligan. The old hobo jungles of the west had been mere hearsay for many years and anyway these people were not 'bos by the cut of their jib, but workers when they could get it to do.

That was a hard, hard time and the sorcerers of the New Regime did not have to resort to spelling-blocks to get across their message. If people who had money did not send it into action these coarse-looking characters and many others in all directions might fix them up a club and take it.

That, of course, would have been contrary to law but the cops had flinched in some simple disorders rather than lock up or shoot hungry men and cold and the next development might be revolution. We were consoled, conjured, exhorted to practice extravagance so that a retailer would be emboldened to order some new stock and put a clerk back on the payroll and the jobber and manufacturer would rub their hands and exclaim, "Ah! At last the rainbow," and slip the clutch of commerce into gear again.

Many Americans did send it in, too. Less glib individuals sat back and reflected that, just the same, if they should spend it all up they would be no better off than the busted guys whom they were admonished to relieve lest they be looted by force and violence. In that case, they too would be members of the rabble in good standing and so immune from the same wait and woe.

The ultimate cure for this acute distemper was gifts of printing-press money by the government to individuals, especially farmers, war, inflation, war again and then the postwar booms to renew the supply of things and stuff that people could not buy when they were loaded with inflationary wages during those wars, especially Roosevelt's.

Now we find our situation exactly the opposite and exactly the same. We are in the throes of the greatest prosperity, the most lavish industrial and economic boom in all history but in danger of going to smash any minute unless we continue to spend our money. If we play cagey, saving our surplus, now that we have got the new cat, the sales will slacken and the back-up will reach the factories and mines and Prosperity will have done us in by loading us with every little thing our hearts desire.

Last summer, the British began to twitch and squirm because they were too happy. This is a weird phenomenon, I assure you, considering how sallow and gritty the voluptuous life is which fills the soul of an English toiler with well-being.

He regards as a sampling of regal splendor a week end or a fortnight at the seashore among strangers in a crowded boarding house with one W.C. to a floor and no bath because, after all, there's the sea, you see. He can close his eyes and tremble with sensual rapture over a pint of bitter beer and a kipper in his hostess's pants; and he will settle for a motorized roller-skate to strand him on his serpentine highways most of his holiday and gas him with the fumes of a million other cans like his own.

But he thought he was having a wonderful time and he certainly was spending millions and millions of quid less and less worthy for the first time since the industrial boom preliminary to World War II. He had bought or signed up for millions of little houses and flats with that built-in squalor which is the true genius of English housing and he had borrowed far into his future.

Suddenly realizing all this, his masters in the Exchequer said it would have to stop. This prosperity was a terrible menace because they were spending money they ought to be saving for hard times.

So, to bring the bewildered Britons up sharp, the Exchequer said let there be hard times now with reduced spending and therefore reduced production, thus reduced payrolls and curtailed employment which is the same thing as increased unemployment. Some of the pundits actually said England was suffering from over-employment.

At the General Motors luncheon in the Waldorf a few weeks ago, Alfred Sloan said one customer had complained that when he drove into his garage, his new car was so wide he couldn't open the doors to get out. Then, backing out to open the doors, he looked back and said that it wasn't all in.

Iowa State Fair lovers—that's how the marriage of Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier seems to be shaping up, and I for one am happy about it. The general manager of the wedding has slipped the collar of his imagination and each day sees a new and inspired addition to the April festivities in Monaco.

The man Prince Rainier has placed in charge of the carnival is undoubtedly a genius, with more than a touch of P. T. Barnum and Florenz Ziegfeld in him. The show he has already lined up — and he has more than a month to go — proves that his interests range far and wide, like a bird dog at a hand; a corps de ballet; a football team, and a stupendous array of tightrope walkers and trapeze artists.

I have it from my agent in Monaco that this is just the beginning. He claims there'll be a midway with ferris wheels, hoop pitching, guess-your-weight scales, salt water taffy counters, and a shooting gallery. The good ladies of Monte Carlo will be asked to quit playing the red and black for a while and to retreat to their kitchens and parlors to whip up cakes, pies, cookies, quilts, spreads, and afghans for judging. There'll be fireworks every night, with such spectaculars as Niagara Falls and the Last Days of Pompeii. There'll be dancing in the streets from dawn till dawn.

All this will provide a delightful change from the standard royal wedding, which is as stuffy as a day coach in midsummer. None of those somber, staid proceedings for Monaco! There'll be processions, but they'll be swinging, swaying, and strutting to Satchmo's "When the Saints Go Marching In" and "Muskrat Ramble."

FOR REFLECTION

...with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization

Vice-President Nixon has disclosed that more than $100,000,000 in U. S. Government loans will go to Brazil to develop a government-owned steel mill there.

These and other economic aids to our southern neighbor are assertedly being provided to encourage "a strong stand against Communism."

But what is Communism but state socialism spelled with a capital C and pronounced with a Russian accent? And what is state socialism if it is not government appropriation of private property?

When our political leaders use American tax dollars to finance foreign politicians' taking out of private ownership industries such as steel, we are actively promoting the very thing we profess to be trying to prevent!

Perhaps Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah has the right idea when he says he's going to quit paying taxes to support such nonsense.

It is accidental that the controversial shipment coincided with current Israeli-Arab tension in the Middle East. Nevertheless, extreme Zionists picketed the docks, forcing the temporary embargo that placed the Eisenhower Administration in a ridiculous position.

Kelly-Rainier Wedding To Be Better Than State Fair

By HENRY McLEMORE

Iowa State Fair lovers—that's how the marriage of Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier seems to be shaping up, and I for one am happy about it. The general manager of the wedding has slipped the collar of his imagination and each day sees a new and inspired addition to the April festivities in Monaco.

The man Prince Rainier has placed in charge of the carnival is undoubtedly a genius, with more than a touch of P. T. Barnum and Florenz Ziegfeld in him. The show he has already lined up — and he has more than a month to go — proves that his interests range far and wide, like a bird dog at a hand; a corps de ballet; a football team, and a stupendous array of tightrope walkers and trapeze artists.

I have it from my agent in Monaco that this is just the beginning. He claims there'll be a midway with ferris wheels, hoop pitching, guess-your-weight scales, salt water taffy counters, and a shooting gallery. The good ladies of Monte Carlo will be asked to quit playing the red and black for a while and to retreat to their kitchens and parlors to whip up cakes, pies, cookies, quilts, spreads, and afghans for judging. There'll be fireworks every night, with such spectaculars as Niagara Falls and the Last Days of Pompeii. There'll be dancing in the streets from dawn till dawn.

All this will provide a delightful change from the standard royal wedding, which is as stuffy as a day coach in midsummer. None of those somber, staid proceedings for Monaco! There'll be processions, but they'll be swinging, swaying, and strutting to Satchmo's "When the Saints Go Marching In" and "Muskrat Ramble."

The selection of a football game as part of the pre-nuptial gaily was a stroke of pure genius, nothing less. In all the history of weddings, none has ever had a game of football as an integral part of it. The teams that will be playing have not been announced, but I imagine they have been notified of the honor and are already working on new and suitable plays for the game, such as "the honeymoon huddle" and "very fair catch."

And in a game of this sort there will be no penalty, I trust, for holding.

With the Kellys as Irish as they are, I would not be surprised if Notre Dame were one of the teams asked. It will be Monaco's first glimpse of American football, so Notre Dame would be a nice choice. It represents our football at its very best, and while all its players aren't named Murphy, Duffy or Callahan, all the boys conduct themselves as Irishmen when on the field. I haven't heard whether or not the game will count in the 1956 national ratings, but I imagine it will. It would be a nice touch for a player, to be able to say he earned All-American recognition at Grace Kelly's wedding.

The general manager of the wedding will be making a mistake if he does not invite the UCLA card. The Monaco folk would get a big kick out of seeing the students do their amazing tricks with the hearts. They could form a big heart and then spell out "Prince Rainier Thinks Grace Is a Dear," and then, "Grace Thinks Monaco Is Simply Grand and Is Happy To Be the Number One Gal of the Land."

Miss Kelly wouldn't be a bad-looking cheerleader, either. Maybe that's what the general manager plans to do — have Miss Kelly, complete with pomps, lead the cheers during the game, and the Prince serve as drum major... or the marching band between the halves.

We're all crazy if we don't go to Monaco in April — even if we have to row over. It will be worth it!

Is Giant's Lockman Trade Bait?

PHOENIX, Ariz. — UP — Is Whitley Lockman trade bait?

On the eve of the official opening of spring training the New York Giants' camp buzzed with speculation about veteran Whitley Lockman after brand-new Manager Bill Rigney gave the veteran something of a "brush off" in sizing up his lineup.

After Rigney had spoken at length to newsmen about this rookie and that he was asked point-blank whether Lockman, the oldest Giant in point of service stands now.

"Well," said Rigney, "I'd like to get more punch in the lineup. Fellows like Dusty Rhodes, Bob Lemon and Gail Harris will get a chance to prove it. If they don't make it then Whitley would be available."

"Whitley will help us even if he's on the bench," said Rigney.

Lockman who will be 30 years old June 25 is in the $25,000 salary bracket and therefore a fairly expensive man to be kept on as a bench warmer. Lockman had a .280 batting mark in 114 games with the Giants last season, his eighth full year in a New York uniform.

Mustangs Go Into NCAA Playoffs With 12-0 Mark

By UNITED PRESS

Southern Methodist, with the Southwest Conference title already under its belt for the second straight year, finished its season in a burst of glory Tuesday night against Rice.

The Mustangs' 89 to 75 victory over the Owls set two new scoring records—most points in one season and best average per game.

The win also gave SMU a perfect 12-0 conference mark to take into the NCAA playoffs, the first time a SWC team has won all of its loop games since Texas turned the trick in 1947.

An individual battle for top scoring honors between Raymond Downs of Texas and Richard O'Neal of Texas Christian was decided in the other two games as the Longhorns whipped Texas A&M 98 to 70 and Arkansas finished second with a 90 to 71 thumping of the Frogs.

Downs scored 33 points to push his season total to 222 points and win individual scoring honors although O'Neal hit 34 points in an effort to overtake the Longhorn.

O'Neal, who took the individual scoring title last year with a record 382 points, ended this season with 309 points to finish second. SMU's 89 points last night ran its season total to 990 points—five better than the record he set.

Mustangs set last season. Their average of 82.5 points per loop game was slightly ahead of the 82.1 posted last year.

Behind second place Arkansas, which ended the campaign with a 9-3 record, came Rice with an 8-4 mark.

Texas nosed out two teams for fourth place in the final standings. The Longhorns finished with a 9-7 mark while Texas A&M and Baylor tied for fifth with 2-9 records.

TCU, which came in second last year with Arkansas, landed in the cellar this year with a 2-9 record.

Baseball Players Have Extra Day To Sign Contracts

By UNITED PRESS

This is Leap Year Day—an extra "last chance" the big league baseball players get this year to sign their contracts before being officially classified as holdouts.

Twenty-five players, including such stars as World Series ace Whitley Ford of the Yankees, former batting champion Bobby Avila of the Cleveland Indians, and all-star shortstop Harvey Kuenn of the Detroit Tigers were among the unsigned going into the final hours before Wednesday night's midnight deadline marked the official opening of spring training.

The Yankees and the Phillies have the most problems—five unsigned players each.

Many Unsigned Here's a rundown of the almost-holdout situation by team:

Brooklyn — Shortstop Chicago Fernandez.

Chicago Cubs — Pitcher John Andre.

Milwaukee — Infielders George Crowe and Jack Dittmer, outfielder Wes Covington.

Philadelphia — Pitchers Curt Simmons, Bob Miller and Ron Mrozinski, catcher Gus Niarhos, infielder Roy Smalley.

Pittsburgh — Outfielder Bob Clemente.

Baltimore — Outfielder Dave Philley.

Boston — First baseman Norm Zauchin.

Washington — Catcher Clint Courtney, infielder Tony Roig, outfielder Roy Sievers.

Cleveland — Infielder Bobby Avila, outfielder Gene Woodling.

Detroit — First baseman Earl Torgeson, shortstop Harvey Kuenn.

New York Yankees — Pitchers Whitley Ford, Jim Konstanty, and Tom Morgan, infielder Billy Martin, outfielder Irv Noren.

Teams all signed — Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, New York Giants, Chicago White Sox.

Graduation at Camps While front-officials work overtime today to corral some of these unhappy warriors, managers and coaches are winding up affairs at the rookie camps operated by each team. That means it's "graduation day" for some of the more talented youngsters who are being asked to stick around for drills with the varsity.

Around the camps: Lefty Mel Parnell of the Boston Red Sox, led to five wins in the last two seasons by a knee injury, reported he's in top shape to try for a 21-victory season like he had in 1953.

Manager Al Lopez of Cleveland said the Indians' top hitter of last season, Al Smith with .306, will inherit Larry Doby's No. 3 batting position and may drive in more runs than Larry "because he won't strike out as much."

Hughes to Be Starter Jim Hughes, former relief ace of the Dodgers, said he'll try to regain a berth on the world champions as a starting pitcher.

Jackie Brandt, International League "rookie of the year" as an outfielder, will be given a shot at shortstop by the Cardinals.

"Bonus baby" Hardmon Killebrew, a third baseman last year, will battle Roy Sievers for the Washington first base job left vacant by the trading of Mickey Vernon.

Red Murff, top pitcher of the Texas League last year, impressed in a workout with Milwaukee.

Noblitt-Coffey Downs Culberson In 65-63 Game Noblitt-Coffey's Industrial basketballers downed Culberson Chevrolet Co. Monday night, 65-63, to clinch the league crown. The Pontiac dealers have gone undefeated through five games and have only one loss.

Roy Poole and Gene Brown paced the Noblitt-Coffey five with 18 points each. Jim Corley dumped in 12 and Bill Phillips counted for eight.

Lynn Garner and Robert Keel counted for two each while Bob Cantrell sank three.

Frank Bonner was the high point man of the night for Culberson with 20. He is the Culberson five's highest scorer for the season. Jerry Gee, former Harvester, was busy dumping in 12 and McDowell pumped in 10. Others scoring for Culberson Chevrolet Co. were Hernandez, eight; Howard, seven; and Kuntz, five.

Noblitt-Coffey's final contest will be played March 8 against the cellar-dwelling Panhandle Packers, one game behind in the schedule, have lost all of their four starts.

The Stanolind Oilers are second in the league standings with a 3-2 record while Culberson is third with a 2-3 season mark.

All Industrial League Basketball games are played at 8 p. m. in the junior high school gym.

Time Out With Tom

By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Got another gripe. We were informed that Raul "Rabbit" Ramirez was selected to take the place of Dalton Park, Fort Worth, in the Western Division of the National Golden Glove Tournament in Chicago this week. We now find that Ramirez went along just for insurance.

If Park couldn't make his weight he would then let Ramirez fight in the 118-pound class. Seems that someone is getting a bit of a dirty deal since Ramirez went only for a chance to fight.

We could have been misinformed from the beginning but we got it straight from Duke Nally. "Ramirez has been selected to take the place of Park in the Chicago matches," he told us on the phone.

Ramirez may have enjoyed the trip and the publicity he got for making the trip but he still should have been told that he was merely an alternate who would take the place of a fighter that was making the trip but might not make his weight.

Park lost his first fight in the Chicago matches by a TKO. Personally we don't think Ramirez would have been knocked out by anyone in his weight. He was the only fighter that stayed three rounds with Scooter Darden for a long time. Darden has knocked out several of Pampa's best fighters that out-weight Ramirez.

We are still wondering what has happened to the all-district cage roster this year. We thought we would have it for publication last Sunday. We failed to get it. Guess Fitt Powell is having a hard time figuring it out this year. We will have it out just as soon as we get it.

Our guess for the first string all-district is:

Player	Position	Town	P.N.
Dicky Mauldin	G	Pampa	114
Max Miller	G	Borger	102
Don Eddleman	C	Lubbock	94
Gene Brown	F	Pampa	113
Jerry Hall	F	Borger	132

Warren Hasse, sports director and "Bo-owner" of radio station KPDM, was named as ramrod of the ticket sales campaign. We feel sure he will do a good job as it just is the boss at calling a ball game.

Tickets are on sale now and if you don't want to get them just call the "Bert" park or radio station KPDM.

Grava Seitz has scheduled 10 exhibition games for the Oilers prior to league play. Home dates for the pre-season contests are April 4, 7, 8. The other games will be played out of town.

Confidentially we would like to see the Oilers meet the Gold Sox at least one time this season. Those to the surprise of absolutely no one, San Francisco Wednesday became an official entry in the NCAA basketball tournament and also the immediate favorite to pick up all the marbles.

The streaking Dons, who won the tourney last year, made themselves eligible for a title defense Tuesday night when they crushed College of Pacific 87-49 at San Francisco to clinch the championship of the California Basketball Association with a perfect league record and their 48th straight overall victory.

That moves the Dons into the NCAA regions at Corvallis, Ore., with a March 16 date against the Pacific Coast Conference champion—not yet determined but, probably UCLA. The Dons, rated the nation's No. 1 team by the United Press board of coaches with a perfect 22-0 record for the year, are the 11th team to land a berth in the 25-team NCAA carnival.

Most Lopsided Win San Francisco's bid-clinching victory was its most lopsided of the season. After trailing by 5-4 in the opening minutes, the Dons raced to a 47-23 halftime lead and rambled home from there.

Another team may be added to the NCAA field Wednesday night when Texas Tech can clinch the Border Conference championship by beating New Mexico A&M at Lubbock, Tex. Tech's heavily favored to win this one and, with it, a first-round berth in the NCAA tourney against Southern Methodist, the Southwest Conference champion, on March 12.

Tech moved into first place in the league while idle Tuesday night when Texas Western, which had been tied for the lead, was beaten by West Texas State 80-79 at Canyon, Tex., on a long set shot by Lawrence Overcast with six seconds left.

SMU tuned up for the tourney by beating Rice 89-75 to finish with the first perfect league record (12-0) seen in the Southwest Conference since 1947. Big Jim Krebs paced the Mustangs with 30 points and they set a league record with a final average of 82.5 points per game.

Other Major Games In other leading games Oklahoma A&M nipped Wichita 65-42 in overtime as V. R. Barnhouse tallied a basket and two free throws in the closing minute; Cornell jolted Princeton Ivy League title hopes with a 73-68 setback, putting the Tigers two games behind league-leading Dartmouth in the

The Harvester golfers are Melvin Chisum, Bill McLeod, Bert Watkins, Don Prigmore, and Leslie Howard. Let's go Harvesters.

The Harvester golfers, coached by Weldon Trice, have knocked over the strong Amarillo Sandies four times already this season. This is not generally the case as Amarillo stops Pampa in golf almost every year.

The Odessa Bronchos seem to be the only thing in the way of Odessa going in their way.

N. Carolina State's Hopes Look Better

RALIEGH, N.C. — UP — North Carolina State's hopes of successfully defending its Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship picked up Wednesday with word that star center Ronnie Shavlik might be available for limited action.

Wolfpack followers were plunged into gloom Saturday night when the big senior from Denver broke his wrist during the final regular season game apparently ending his college playing career.

Dr. A. E. Harer, team physician, said that Shavlik's wrist would be in a cast for about six weeks and that he would not be able to play in the annual tournament beginning here Thursday.

Tuesday the cast was replaced with a leather brace made by orthopedic specialist Allen G. Talley Jr. The brace which looks like a aluminum strip on the underside of the arm to prevent the wrist bending.

Shavlik worked out Tuesday but coach Everett Case said it was too soon to tell whether or not he will be able to play.

Shavlik's injury Saturday night quickly changed the complexion of the tournament and eighth-ranked North Carolina replaced the fourth-ranked Wolfpack as favorite. The Tar Heels lost two out of their three meetings with State this year.

Others considered possible winners include Duke ranked 15th nationally and Wake Forest. Duke, which split in two meetings with State during the regular season is paired in the same bracket with the Wolfpack.

Pickles to Help Olympics CHICAGO — UP — The National Pickle Packers Association has devised the "Pickle Olympic Mile" to help raise funds for the National Olympic Fund. During the organization's convention at Sacramento, Calif., March 8, a mile of pint jars of pickles will be placed around the capitol building and passersby will be asked to buy a jar. The association said it hoped to raise $5,000.

loss column; NCAA-bound Memphis State ripped Northwestern Louisiana 78-65; George Washington trounced Georgetown (D.C.) 92-77; Arkansas dubbed Texas Christian 90-71; and Texas routed Texas A&M 98-70.

Dartmouth hopes to move a step nearer the Ivy League title by beating Yale Wednesday night. Six teams already picked for the National Invitation Tournament will see action—Dayton meeting Duquesne and Xavier (Ohio) meeting Louisville in two all-NIT games, and NCAA-bound Canisius visits Syracuse.

CHICAGO — UP — The St. Louis Golden Gloves team tightened its hold on the team championship, as it led Wednesday in its quest to be the first team to win three straight championships.

St. Louis with 14 points, moved six boxers into Wednesday's quarterfinals. It has representatives in the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pound classes.

Pampa's Raul Ramirez was sidelined after Fort Worth's Dalton Park made his weight in the Chicago matches. Park was defeated in his first start by Don Eddington, St. Louis.

Park had won an unpopular decision over Ramirez in the Texas State finals last week but it was thought that he would be unable to make his weight in the Chicago Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

The second main event will see the ever popular Tommy Martindale going against Frankie Murdock who is also popular with a lot of the fans.

SF Dons Can Lick The Best In previous years, the NCAA championship team always entered as a unit the team that won the title then took five members off its own squad, plus 10 from other clubs to round out the squad. The team that won the title, also sent along its coach as the head mentor. "Top college teams always are just as good as the top AAU clubs," said Coach Bob Feerick of Santa Clara. "As you'll recall, I believe the Peoria Caterpillars beat Kansas by one point in 1952 and Phog Allen of the defeated team then went along as the assistant coach." The method of selection is a mystery to Newell. "If the NCAA picks an all-star squad for its team in the playoffs, why doesn't the AAU do the same thing?" Newell asks. "You can bet the AAU wouldn't go for a plan like that." It is Newell's belief that most any top-ranking college or AAU team that has been playing together for a couple of years could beat an all-star team that had only a few practice sessions.

TEEN TOPICS

By HELEN STEWARD

Today is Feb. 29 — or do you call it Leap Day?

If any of you girls want to get a glimpse of your true love, tonight is the night. According to an old superstition, if you watch your front door through a mirror over your shoulder, at precisely midnight, your future husband will walk through the door. At least that is what the Little Harvester says.

Don't know what he's doing out roaming around and walking through doors at that time of night, but who knows what's going to happen on Leap Day?

If you are still up — and you probably will be studying for tomorrow's exams — give it a try. What have you got to lose, brother walks through the door, don't take it too hard.

Speaking of exams — we are right in the middle of them. Today saw the passing (or the flunking) of second and fourth period tests. Tomorrow first and fifth periods will suffer, and Friday finishes up with third and sixth period tests.

Friday finishes the fourth six weeks period, too; and leaves us with only twelve more weeks of school.

And, Seniors, check this: graduation is exactly three months from yesterday.

Proceeds from the Senior Play have been tallied. Before expenses and each senior's percentage was taken out, there was $923.

We may get to graduate in fine style after all.

Mysterious little notes saying, "Please report to Mr. Edmondson's office," were handed to several students last week.

Shivers To Tell His Decision

AUSTIN — UP — Gov. Allan Shivers will be seen and heard on a Texas-wide television network Thursday night when, he says, he will announce whether or not he will seek a fourth elective term.

Shivers, who has served three terms and said friends are urging him to run again, declined Wednesday to reveal his plans, and told newsmen: "I will have some remarks to make on that subject Thursday evening."

There have been widespread, but unconfirmed, reports that Shivers will declare himself out of the 1956 gubernatorial race Thursday night and U.S. Sen. Price Daniel will declare himself in March 12.

Daniel disclosed Tuesday in Washington that he will make public his future political plans in a radio-television broadcast March 12. But he wouldn't hint what he will say.

American cars, trucks and buses used 46.5 billion gallons of gasoline in 1955.

"Gosh, what have I done?" was the general reaction of students who received them as they crept cautiously to the office.

Twenty-three seniors were gathered there: Mr. Edmondson looked over the silent group and said, "Congratulations, you have been elected to membership in National Honor Society."

Members of N.H.S. are chosen on the basis of scholarship (at least an 85 average) and service to the school. Only 48 are chosen out of approximately 250 members of the junior and senior classes.

New senior members are Gwen Barrett, Mary Ann Becker, Cynthia Cantrell, Larry Cox, Sylvia Davis, John Dial, Gene Emerson, Bill Hogan, Twila Holland, Bennie Hollis, John Jones, Lee Ledrick, Russell Pickett, Mary Pippen, Joan Robertson, Dixie Robinson, Melvin Romine, Wayne Smith, Helen Steward, Ed Strickland, Dan Teed, Jimmy Wagener, and Anita Wedgeworth.

Junior members are Bill Atkinson, Jackie Bourland, Malcolm Brown, Cynthia Duncan, Jimmy Edwards, Rhona Finkelstein, Debra Franklin, Tommy Gindorf, Reeves King, Lu Koch, Nancy Moore, and Jeaneane Price.

Earl Cooper will be president of Pampa High School next year. He was elected last Tuesday after a heated campaign.

Rhona Finkelstein defeated two boys to become vice-president, which is something of a record.

The juke box that was installed in the cafeteria a few weeks ago has been a big success. Students really appreciate music with their meals.

Incidentally, if there are some records not on it that anyone would like to have on it, Lee Ledrick says to let him know.

The volleyball teams traveled to Big Spring last week end to a tournament. They had an exciting time getting tangled up in a dust storm. They had an accident that wasn't too serious, but they got stranded in Plainview and had to spend the night there.

This weekend, the Harvestettes travel to Lamesa.

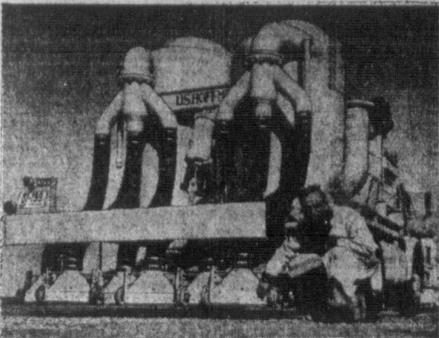

It is nice to see May Young back in school after her stay in the hospital in Amarillo.

Buddy Sharp is limping again because of trouble with the same knee that kept him off the football field. Buddy was in the hospital for a while, too.

We heard that building plans for the youth center have been submitted for approval.

Open house is March 5 at PHS. Plan to attend and see what goes on "on the inside."

This turned up on somebody's doordrums that got tacked to Mr. Swadley's bulletin board: "Meanwhile back at the oasis, the Afabs were eating their dates."

BIG SWEEP—The world's largest vacuum cleaner, weighing almost 30,000 pounds, is demonstrated at the Friendship International Airport in Baltimore, Md. Designed for cleaning airport runways, it can clean two million square feet of runway in an hour. Stunt Girl Ginny Kruse Has Wildest Job In Television

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP — A girl named Ginny Kruse has the wildest job in television. She has been run over by sheep, splashed by mud, nipped at by a tiger and kissed by movie stars.

Ginny is Hollywood TV's only "stunt stand-in." For some reason, contestants on NBC-TV's "Truth or Consequences" like to do stunts in front of millions of viewers. It's up to Ginny to test the stunts in rehearsal.

"They have to be timed, and the lighting fixed," she explains. "And we have to make sure they are safe for the contestant."

Thus Ginny is exposed to any danger or discomfort.

Once, doubling for a contestant to be picked later from the studio audience, she had to stick her head through a hole in the scenery. On the other side a tiger lunged too close for comfort.

"I scraped the skin off the bottom of my chin while pulling my head out in a hurry," she says. "After years of watching contestants on giveaway shows, she knows how various types react. In dress rehearsal she has to register embarrassment, happiness, shyness, horror and fright. She tries to "put myself in the contestant's shoes and react the way they'll react."

Ginny stands in for three or four contestants for each show. She often wears coveralls and a bandana for her unusual job. This attire comes in handy for such stunts as being splashed with mud. Many of the tricks, such as the tiger gag, are modified for contestants after Ginny tests them.

The vivacious brunette has done stunts with pigs, water buffalo, seals, snakes, bulls, bear, cats dogs and ducks.

The most fun, she thinks, are stunts in which the contestants (Ginny in rehearsals) are kissed by such stars as Cesar Romero, Tab Hunter and David Niven.

Once she stood in for a small boy contestant and was shot at (with blanks) by Guy Madison. Her worst injury was when a mechanical bicycle ran wild "and my vertebrae were shaken loose."

Her weirdest experience was being hypnotized as a test for that USC coed who, while in a trance, refused to pick up $100,000 on the show last fall.

Despite the discomforts, Ginny likes her job.

"It's a lot of fun — and much more interesting than sitting in an office and typing all day!" she laughs.

Great Lakes Freighters carried some 87.5 million tons of iron ore in 1955 to set a peacetime record for such cargo.

France Getting Angry Over U.S. Policies In Viet Nam

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
France is getting increasingly angry over United States policy in the Indo-Chinese state of Viet Nam.

The situation could develop into a serious quarrel. President Ngo Dinh Diem of Viet Nam is building himself up to the status of a dictator.

He is not only strengthening his personal authority but is steadily squeezing France out of his country, which was a French protectorate for 70 years.

The United States strongly supports Diem. France, which named him premier in June, 1954, did so only at American insistence.

Since then Diem has succeeded in ousting playboy Emperor Bao Dai and making himself president. France now is accusing the United States of helping Diem to eliminate all French influence in Viet Nam.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau made the accusation openly in a speech to the French senate in Paris last Thursday.

"I believe the United States has made a mistake in trying to eliminate France from Viet Nam for its own benefit," he said.

Pineau intends to take up the issue with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles during the conference of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization members which starts in Karachi, Pakistan, next Tuesday.

He has been instructed by his government to protest strongly against American policy. He will hold that "anti-French" sentiment by the United States in Viet Nam is weakening the whole Allied position in Southeast Asia.

In doing so, Pineau will seek the support of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who also will attend the Karachi meeting.

French displeasure over the situation in which the United States is replacing France in Viet Nam.

France has good reason for worrying over the Viet Nam situation. Diem has demanded that France remove its remaining 20,000 troops from Viet Nam.

Radio France-Asia in Saigon, Diem's capital, was closed down Sunday at his demand after having been France's chief broadcasting station in Southeast Asia for years. The same day, it was announced that any Viet Nam court official who keeps French citizenship will be dismissed effective Wednesday.

The United States has supported Diem because it felt that conditions under the reign of Emperor Bao Dai led to the victory of Indo-Chinese Communist leader Ho Chi Minh.

This victory, climaxed in the battle of Dien Bien Phu, led to the partitioning of Viet Nam. Diem now rules South Viet Nam. Ho Chi Minh rules the northern part, above the 17th parallel of latitude.

One reason for Diem's squeeze against France is that France is trying to do business with Ho, to reach an agreement which would salvage some of its rich-business interests in North Viet Nam.

France feels that it is compelled to do this in view of its enormous losses in Indo-China. It feels also that United States policy threatens it with more losses.

France has good reason for worrying over the Viet Nam situation. Diem has demanded that France remove its remaining 20,000 troops from Viet Nam.

Ford Wins at Stock Car Racing "Olympics"

HERE'S FORD'S RECORD AT NASCAR'S DAYTONA BEACH NATIONAL SPEED WEEK

FIRST In Sports Car Acceleration
A Ford Thunderbird set a new record for American production sports cars, sprinting a measured mile from a standing start in only 40.5 seconds—reaching a top speed of nearly 150 mph.

FIRST In Top Speed — Class 4
A Ford "Six" took top honors in the flying mile for class 4 American production passenger cars.

FIRST In 100-Mile Convertible Race
Ford V-8's took first and second place in the National Convertible Championship race. Ford not only won over all cars entered, but it also topped the all-time record for the Grand National Championship race.

FIRST In Over-All Performance
Ford won the Pure Oil manufacturers award by gaining the greatest number of points for the best performance of ANY MAKE OF CAR in this great 2-week stock car racing "Olympics."

The Ford V-8 again showed its taillight to all competitors in the "Olympics" of stock car racing at Daytona Beach, Florida.

In blazing across the finish line Ford demonstrated once more the sizzling performance that keeps it the largest-selling V-8 in the world. No other car in the field could match Ford for getaway "git" . . . for straightaway acceleration . . . for all-around roadability. To see exactly how the other cars trailed behind Ford, see the chart at the top of this page.

One of the secrets of Ford's performance is the tremendous torque (wheel turning power) developed by Ford engines. For example, Ford's new 225-h.p. Thunderbird Special V-8 engine develops more torque than any other engine in the low-price field. This means quicker response, smoother running in the kind of driving you do. Just a gentle nudge of Ford's accelerator and whoosh! You pass in instants when instants count!

Ford now offers this mighty 225-h.p. engine with any Ford Fairlane or Station Wagon model with Fordomatic. What's more, these engines are coming off the assembly lines right now! So why wait? Come in today for a Test Drive. Find out for yourself about Ford's exciting performance. Find out why Ford is the V-8 with the world's biggest following!
