Ike Sees Balanced Budget, No Tax Cut

President Says All Excise Taxes Should Be Continued

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower Thursday ruled out any tax cut now. He forecast a balanced budget both for this year and next, despite needs for increased spending at home and abroad. But the President, in his State of the Union message to Congress, said a tax cut can not be justified until such time as it "will not unbalance the budget." He said all excise taxes must be continued at their present rates. And the corporation income tax must be continued at the present rate of 52 per cent for another year. Unless Congress acts, these taxes are scheduled for reductions April 1.

No Red Move To Influence Papers Found

By HERBER FOSTER

WASHINGTON — UP — James O. Eastland said Thursday his subcommittee's investigation of communism among newspaper employees has found no Communist effort to influence the content of any recognized metropolitan paper.

Eastland's Senate Internal Security subcommittee Thursday summoned Otto Albertson, 48-year-old proofreader in the New York Times composing room, as the first witness in its second day of hearings.

A reporter asked Eastland (D-Miss.) whether either public or private hearings had uncovered evidence of Communist attempt to influence the content of a recognized metropolitan paper—as distinct from party-line publications like the Daily Worker.

"No," the chairman replied. "Of the first eight witnesses, including Albertson, seven were past or present employees of the New York Times. The eighth was David Fine, operator of a New York theater showing Russian films. Fine was not asked whether he was a Communist."

In an editorial prepared for its editions Thursday, the Times charged it has been "singled out" by Eastland's subcommittee for attack because of its stand on segregation, "McCarthyism" and other issues. But it said it will not allow Eastland or any other outsider to determine its editorial policies in any way.

Clayton Knowles, 47, veteran Times reporter in Washington and New York, testified Wednesday that he was a Communist from 1951 to 1952 while working for the Long Island Daily Press. Knowles said he knew nothing of Communist "conspiracy or intrigue."

Knowles, who said he voluntarily told the FBI and the subcommittee about his former Communist affiliation, now works for the Times in New York.

The Pampa United Fund campaign total is $44,908, an increase of $7,000 since Saturday, Dec. 31, according to Mrs. Emmett Gee, secretary. This sum is $2,270 short of the set goal of $47,178.

NO JURISDICTION ON SOUL, BUT THE BODY GETS 30 DAYS

DETROIT, Mich. — (UP) — A confessed shoplifter who tried to fit the words of a popular song, "Sixteen Tons," to his personal troubles was in jail Thursday.

Sherman Galvin admitted stealing from a downtown store but said he was "kind of like that guy in the song."

"I owe my soul to that store," he said. "If you send me to jail, I can't go."

Said Judge John A. Ricca, "Your body is my jurisdiction, not your soul. Thirty days."

Killer Of Two Sought

Airman, Teen-Aged Girl Friend Slain

GREAT FALLS, Mont. — UP — Air Force and civilian officers worked together Thursday in an attempt to locate the killer of an airman and his teen-age girl friend.

The young couple was killed Monday night and Tuesday morning in Chinese-execution type murders—the young airman in a "lovers lane" west of the city and the attractive girl on an isolated road north of the city.

The fully-clothed body of Pat Kalitzke, 16, Great Falls, unmarked except for the bullet hole in the back of her head, was found Wednesday afternoon by a county maintenance worker as he graded a road.

The man spotted the girl's dress about 20 feet down an embankment along the road. She had been shot at the top of the embankment and her body rolled to the bottom.

Found Tuesday was the body of her boy friend, A20 Lloyd Duane Bogle, 18, Waco, Tex., whom she had planned to marry. His body was found in the lovers lane with his hands tied behind his back by his own belt. The body was lying face down beside the car.

There were no indications of a struggle, said Cascade County Sheriff D. J. Leeper. He said the murder may have been committed by a person known to the airman. The airman was apparently kneeling when shot through the back of the head.

A coroner's inquest conducted by County Coroner C. E. Magner Wednesday night found that the youth died at the hands of persons or person unknown.

Magner said the young girl had been taken out of the killer's car and shot in the head as she traveled. The girl's hands were not tied.

"There is no evidence at present that she was molested or attacked," Magner said. "But further tests will be conducted."

Robby was discounted as a motive. The airman's wallet contained $5 in currency and an expensive camera was left in the car, which had been left in gear with the emergency brake on. The ignition switch, radio and headlights had also been left on.

Sheriff Leeper said officials at nearby Malmstrom Air Force Base were holding an airman who allegedly argued with the slain youth on the eve of the shooting.

County Officials In Amarillo Today

Several Gray County officials are in Amarillo today in a meeting with officials of the State Highway Department.

County Judge Bruce Parker and the County Commissioners were to meet with the highway officials to discuss ways of constructing a detour to be used when construction on the Hobart Street underpass is underway. G. K. Reading, Pampa resident engineer for the State Highway Department, and Wayland Merriman, consulting engineer for Gray County, accompanied the group to the Amarillo meeting.

The county proposes paying of a road between the Borger Highway and the Amarillo highway to take care of traffic between the two highways when work begins on the underpass. Several alternate suggestions were also to be discussed.

Farmers Due More For Raising Less

By DAYTON MOORE

WASHINGTON — UP — Farmers appear certain to get more income for raising smaller crops in this election year.

The Eisenhower administration, Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress, all advocate giving farmers millions of dollars for taking land out of production.

Democrats have been talking in the largest figures so far—a minimum of $750 million for such "soil bank" payments. Most reports have put the administration plan at about half this amount.

A Democratic proposal gaining support also would increase the income of some farmers by giving them federal price supports of from 90 to 100 per cent of the "fair income" parity level for high quality corn, cotton, peanuts, rice and wheat.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson stepped up his efforts to sell the administration program to Congress with two meetings Thursday with key senators. He invited GOP members of the Senate Agriculture committee and agriculture appropriations subcommittee to a hotel breakfast.

The Senate also asked Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture committee and Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), ranking GOP member of the committee, to a luncheon in his office.

Benson was to fly to Key West, Fla., later Thursday to confer with President Eisenhower on the final draft of the message the chief executive will send to Congress next Monday giving details of the administration program.

Ellender was picking up Republican support for his proposal to give high price support for high quality crops. Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R.S.D.) said he favors it and predicted Congress will approve it.

Mundt told a reporter that several members of the Senate Agriculture committee expressed approval at a closed-door session Wednesday, while none disapproved.

The administration plan is reported also to provide "payments in kind," as well as cash, for land taken out of production. These "payments in kind" would be in the form of surpluses of the crop now held by the government.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority, a special Army ordnance unit and the FBI tested and refuted the "minute missile" for hours, but could not identify it.

The mystery finally was solved by Robert Woods, a TWA radio maintenance man here who saw a picture of the mechanism in a Pittsburgh newspaper.

Woods ended the frenzied investigation by telling the experts the "mysterious" apparatus was merely a self-contained heater for a soldering iron.

"There, probably would have been no danger if it had been detonated in some way," Louis Reinbold, a CAA official said. "It may have been in the plane for a long time after emergency radio repairs were made."

Reinbold and his assistants took the same precautions "as if the mechanism were a time bomb."

"We didn't have the full story, so we went on the possibility of sabotage," he said.

The object was discovered by Capt. Lyle Ryan after his plane carrying 32 passengers had left Columbus, Ohio, on a Chicago to Washington, D. C. flight Tuesday.

Mystery Object Identified As Soldering Iron

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — UP — A small device found aboard a TWA airliner, which touched off a full-scale sabotage investigation and puzzled some of the nation's leading explosives experts, Thursday turned out to be a harmless soldering iron heater.

Smith Resigns Insurance Post

By O. R. LLOYD JR.

AUSTIN — UP — Garland Smith unexpectedly resigned as chairman of the Texas Insurance Commission Wednesday because, he said, a new chairman could "carry out the new program of the board more effectively."

Smith issued a prepared statement lashing out at "the promoters" who, he said, "have learned that their best defense, apparently, is to attack the board, individually and together."

"It has boiled down to a simple choice of whether the board or its critics will regulate insurance in Texas," he said.

His resignation was added to a situation started by the failure of the U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco. Some 5,600 investors had deposited a total of $5.8 million with the company.

Some 140,000 other persons had insured some policies with a subsidiary. The failure of U.S. Trust and Guaranty was the second insurance scandal in Texas in three years.

The new chairman of the Board of Insurance Commissioners will be J. Byron Saunders, who has been a member of the board since 1953. Smith did not resign from the commission, only the chairman's post. He has been a member of the board since 1952 and chairman since 1953.

Smith read a three-page statement at a news conference. Then he nominated Saunders to be chairman of the commission. Mark Wentz seconded the nomination, and Smith promptly got up and gave the chairman's chair to Saunders.

Saunders said in a statement that "there has been considerable resistance to the effort to have a strong commission."

"There seems to have existed the idea that the insurance commission should be seen very little and heard not at all," Saunders said. "We realize that our responsibility is tremendous. We are determined to answer this challenge by giving Texas the strongest insurance regulation in the nation, and we intend to reach that goal within the year."

Out of Politics
He said that "insurance regulation is out of politics and it is going to stay out."

"There is a lot of room in Texas, but there is no room for those who are expecting to prey upon the public with their insurance schemes. As far as this board is concerned, those operators might as well start packing their bags now," Saunders said.

Smith said in his statement that the board under his administration "has enforced the law more vigorously than any other board."

"But we are accused of laxity," (See SMITH, Page 2)

Shivers Lauds Insurance Commission

AUSTIN — UP — Gov. Allan Shivers Thursday praised the Insurance Commission for "doing one of the finest jobs the insurance commission of Texas has ever done, under the most trying circumstances."

The governor told a news conference he was "particularly proud" of the commission's policy announced this week of re-examining all Texas insurance companies through audits by certified public accountants.

Shivers said he felt Garland Smith had done a "grand job" as chairman of the commission. Smith stepped down Wednesday as chairman of the commission and was succeeded by J. Byron Saunders. Smith continues as a member of the commission.

No Special Session
The governor expressed belief that Saunders "will do an outstanding job as chairman. I think we will see some real action."

However, Shivers indicated he saw no necessity for a special session of the legislature, which has been urged by some legislators and others.

"What reason is there for a special session?" the governor asked. Shivers said he felt the Insurance Commission has "as much help as it needs right now, with help of the CPA's," in examining Texas insurance companies. He added that the liquidation division is in "pretty good shape," and if they need additional funds, he will provide money from the governor's deficiency fund.

Hits 'Politics'
The governor spoke out against "political aspirants" whom he accused of attempting to make political capital of the insurance situation.

"There are always those who want to take political advantage of a misfortune," he said.

Polio Cases, Deaths Show Sharp Decline

WASHINGTON — UP — Polio cases, deaths about 25 per cent in 1955. Drops were down about 40 per cent.

Slightly more than 29,300 Americans got polio in the first year of the mass Salk inoculation program. In 1954, the total was more than 38,400.

Final death statistics for 1955 will not be available for some time. But experts predicted the 40 per cent decline on the basis of figures available for the first nine months of 1955. Deaths for that period were estimated at 640 compared with 1,120 for the same period in 1954.

Dr. C. C. Dauer, author of the U.S. Public Health Service weekly disease report, said his "educated guess" is that about three-fourths of the drop in polio last year was due to a "natural decline in the disease."

"Most of the rest was probably due to vaccinations," he said. "But there is no way to be sure because relatively few persons were inoculated compared to the population as a whole."

The case figure for 1955 was considerably lower than the epidemic year of 1952 but still higher than several low postwar years.

In 1947, for instance, there were only 10,827 cases. The peak year was 1952 with 87,879. Both 1948 and 1951 were below the 1955 estimates.

Master Impostor, Demara, Jailed In Florida

CHARLES TAYLOR

KEY WEST, Fla. — UP — The king of deceivers, brawny Fred Waldo Demara, nursed a king-sized New Year hangover in the Key West city jail Thursday as authorities tried to trace a string of worthless checks.

Known as "the master impostor" who has fooled preachers and prison officials, educators and the officers of two navies, Demara was hauled out of a motel room here

Wednesday and clapped in jail on charges of vagrancy and passing $50 worth of bad checks. The burly 6-foot-man was red-eyed and unshaven and clad in a soiled white sports shirt and baggy khaki trousers.

Demara told police investigator Al K. Albertus he came to Key West "to commit suicide among other things." Police found a loaded and cocked .38 caliber revolver in his motel room that was littered with whisky bottles. In his latest escapade as a deceiver deluxe, Demara was an assistant warden of the Huntsville, Tex., state prison using the name of Benjamin W. Jones and the education credentials of a Dr. Benjamin W. Jones, president of Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, who said he had never heard of Demara.

When confronted with his identity, spotted in an old magazine by a prisoner, Demara stomped out of the Huntsville institution and disappeared.

But prison officials said there was no crime they could charge him with and that they had been satisfied with his work as an officer in the prison's maximum security unit.

Albertus said the FBI is investigating a report that Demara passed a worthless $130 check in Houston, Tex.

In 1952, Demara was discovered posing as a surgeon in the Royal Canadian Navy. It was reported he performed successfully an "impossible" lung operation during combat in the Korean war even though he never attended a medical school and never had completed high school.

He also has posed successfully as an American sailor, a Trappist monk, a deputy sheriff and a doctor of philosophy.

Revolt Against Taxes Put Poujade in World Spotlight

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The sudden rise of Pierre Poujade in French politics is an important development. It may be an ominous one.

Here is a man who two years ago was unknown outside of his home town of St. Cer in southwestern France. Population 3,200. He was eking out a living from his little bookshop-stationery store.

He decided that the French tax system was unfair to the small shopkeeper and decided to do something about it.

He organized an anti-tax campaign. He started urging shopkeepers to refuse to pay taxes.

His movement snowballed. Before long the tax collectors and assessors in some small towns were being mobbed.

Poujade's movement became a national rage. He claimed one million supporters. The government said he was exaggerating.

Poujade boasted in the campaign for Monday's parliamentary election that he would win 80 to 90 seats. Nobody in authority believed him.

When the returns came in it proved that Poujade had obtained about 2.2 million votes. He won 51 seats in the 626-seat National Assembly which runs France.

Neither Premier Edgar Faure nor former Premier Pierre Mendès-France, leaders of the two big political coalitions, won anywhere near a majority. They are saying in Paris that it may take five weeks or more to form a government based on a coalition of the two coalitions.

One thing alone is certain—the government, when it is formed will be an unstable one.

Poujade's 51 seats will be important in any critical vote, and this is where Poujade looms as a possibly ominous figure.

Just Against Taxes
He has no policies, national or international, except that he does not like the tax system.

"We will cross that bridge when we come to it," he said of his lack of political program.

He has announced that he will not take part in any government. He did not himself even run for a seat in parliament.

There Poujade will be, without responsibility, ready to attack any government legislation, ready to help overthrow any premier.

Poujade, 35, red-faced, handsome, athletically-built, hoarse-voiced, is a cross-carrying orator. He affects rough-and-ready sports clothing, with a muffler round his neck.

"A Heap of Manure"
He has called the National Assembly "a heap of manure." In the campaign his strong-arm squads broke up election meetings all over France. He says he will "hang" any man elected on his own ticket who does not follow his orders.

Poujade may turn out to be just a temporary wonder-boy. A lot of people who voted for him were just protesting against the French political mess.

But other men who turned out to be dangerous started out as he has done. Who does not remember the strong-arm squads who used to break up meetings in Italy and Germany? Poujade's enemies call him a Fascist and an anti-Semite. Just what he is going to do remains to be seen. But his emergence certainly will make the French political situation even more unstable.

I was in the Senate," Shivers said. Under questioning he said that person had run three times for "high state office," and had opposed him for the governorship.

The governor did not identify whom he was speaking of, but the reference apparently was directed toward Austin attorney Ralph Yarborough, who has been defeated in one attorney general's race, and in two campaigns for the governorship.

Promises Thorough Clean-up
With actions now being taken, Shivers said, "the insurance industry will emerge with new vigor and added respect, and the people will realize that this commission is doing its job for the people of Texas."

"We intend to clean up the industry, and do it quickly and thoroughly," the governor said.

Shivers sharply criticized efforts to organize creditors of defunct companies, such as U.S. Trust & Guaranty Co. of Waco, recently placed in receivership. "None of these politicians and would-be politicians know how much they (the creditors) are going to get," the governor said. He added that he has full confidence in the state liquidator.

"I guess some of the politicians see a fertile field," he said, referring to the liquidator's efforts to organize creditors of defunct companies, such as U.S. Trust & Guaranty Co. of Waco, recently placed in receivership.

Man Gets 3 Years For Forgery

Three persons charged with forgery and passing were tried in 31st district Court yesterday with one being sentenced to a prison term and the other two receiving probated sentences.

Paul Hunter-Carter was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary on the forgery charge after pleading guilty and waiving trial by jury. The sentence was passed by District Judge Lewis Goodrich.

Goodrich gave Homer and Lola Wedgeworth five year probated sentences on the forgery charges. The two were charged separately, pleaded guilty to the charge and waived trial by jury.

Carter also faces similar charges in several other counties, according to District Attorney Bill Waters' office.

he said. "We have put more promoters out of business than any other board but we are accused of coddling them."

"When we put them out, then we are accused of persecuting them. Vicious and malicious innuendo about bribery and corruption is circulated against the commission and its staff, but I would note that in every instance the source and authority for such allegations are promoters we have put out of business or else henchmen in their pay."

Other Highlights
In other developments in the state insurance scene:

Fidger F. Tammyer of Dallas, president of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants, said he has "no idea" whether all Texas insurance companies can be audited within the next year. The commission announced Tuesday a plan by which every one of the 1,200 to 1,400 insurance companies with home offices in Texas will be audited, Tannery said it will be two weeks or longer before "minimum audit standards" can be worked out. He said a question about whether the audit of every company can be completed in a year "is about like asking 'How long is a piece of string?'"

The commission scheduled a hearing Thursday to give representatives of four insurance companies chance to show why they should not be barred from doing business. The companies are the Dallas Fire and Casualty Co., and the American Atlas Life Insurance Co., both of Dallas, and the U.S. Life Insurance Co. and Southern Medical and Hospital Services, both of Waco. The commission alleges that the two Waco firms are allied with "U.S. Trust" and are allied with the two Dallas firms. The two Dallas firms are allied with all American Home Lloyds and Home Service Casualty Co., both of which are now in receivership.

Tokyo Rose To Be Freed January 28

WASHINGTON — UP — The American-born Tokyo Rose once received a tongue-in-cheek citation from the U.S. Navy for "greatly contributing to the morale" of American fighting men in the Pacific theater. She could have received the death penalty in her San Francisco trial for her disjunctive propaganda program that was liberally laced with sex and sedition.

At one point, she campaigned during intensive jungle fighting against the anti-malarial drug, atabrine. Service physicians ruefully reported later her suggestions that the drug caused sterility had some effect on GIs.

But in the main the unconvinced troops found her propaganda merely amusing and welcomed her sentimental, pre-war record selections.

Platinum-haired Axis Sally received a 10-to-30 year sentence for her wartime broadcasts to troops in the European theater. She began serving her sentence in March, 1949, and will not be eligible for release until 1959.

Ex-Cons Jailed In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH — UP — Three ex-convicts, one a woman, were in the Fort Worth city jail Wednesday because two detectives found a 10-to-30 year sentence for her wartime broadcasts to troops in the European theater. She began serving her sentence in March, 1949, and will not be eligible for release until 1959.

them shopping for pistols. Detectives J. D. Curtis and G. W. Hale watched them buy two guns at one store Tuesday, and another weapon at a second place. The officers arrested the group and found a fourth pistol on the woman. The men, both on parole from San Quentin prison in California, and the woman had $700 with them.

The trio is suspected of theater robberies in San Antonio and El Paso, and of other robberies in California.

ROCK 'N' ROLL IN RUSSIA—These youngsters in Leningrad enjoy a ride on a rocking pig. It's Russia's counterpart of the rocking horse, so popular with children in the West. Pigs or horses, the idea is to have fun, no matter which side of the Iron Curtain you happen to be rocking on.

Ike To Submit Farm Program

KEY WEST, Fla. — UP — President Eisenhower will submit a new farm program to Congress next Monday, the White House announced Wednesday.

The President will submit a special message to the House and Senate following shortly after his State of the Union message which will be delivered to Congress Thursday.

Mr. Eisenhower has done some work on the agriculture message since he arrived here Dec. 28 and press secretary James C. Hagerty said Wednesday the President would do more work on the farm program before the message goes to Congress.

The President Tuesday got two big jobs behind him—completion of his State of the Union message and the annual federal budget message. The State of the Union message will go to Congress Thursday.

FUN AFTER FLOODS—Even in the face of tragedy, this little girl finds time for play. Trying on a pair of high-heeled shoes at the Marysville, Calif., Red Cross headquarters is Shonnie Lee Butler. The two-year-old evinces from flood-stricken Yuba City added a cheerful note to the scene, where clothing was being distributed to flood victims.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

"What's your name?" would seem to be a simple and easily answered question. Yet, the variety of answers which many people give in response thereto is surprising. For example, take this hypothetical case:

Albert Charles Smith died and his lawyer filed the petition of probate for his estate, entitling it: "In the Matter of the Estate of Albert Charles Smith, also known as Charles Smith, also known as A. Charles Smith, also known as A. C. Smith and also known as Charley Smith."

With such a simple name, what did Mr. Smith do to make the probating of his estate so complicated?

When Albert Charles Smith was born, the attending physician filed a birth certificate with that name. During his school years, his friends called him "Al."

Mr. Smith went to college and decided that his name would look more distinguished if he wrote it "A. Charles Smith," and he was so regarded. His college diploma carried that name.

Starting out in business Mr. Smith took a job that required him to write his signature many times a day. To simplify the work, he signed his name "A. C. Smith." His bank account and telephone number were recorded that way. Mr. Smith lost a part of his identity, since there were eleven "A. C. Smiths" listed in his telephone book.

Mr. Smith decided to get married and he rushed to the courthouse to get his license. Without giving the matter much thought, he told the clerk "his name was 'Charles Smith.'" The name was recorded on his marriage certificate.

Mr. Smith bought a house, and the lawyer who handled the transaction asked for his full name. The deed was registered at the courthouse under the name "Albert Charles Smith."

A life insurance agent had previously written a policy for Mr. Smith under the name, "Al C. Smith." During his middle life, Mr. Smith took out other policies from another agent, and all of them carried the name "Albert C. Smith." He took a position with a railroad and appeared on the pension roll as "A. C. Smith."

Mr. Smith owned some securities and several pieces of real estate and also owed various bills. They were all listed under varying combinations of his name.

Then Mr. Smith made his will under the name of "Albert C. Smith." A year later he died; and that is when his attorney started working and trying to find out just who Mr. Smith was and what he owned.

Of course this case is imaginary, but it illustrates how difficult and costly such a practice can be.

Every person should use the name appearing on his birth certificate and should make sure that all documents which have a legal bearing, such as school diplomas, deeds, to property, certificates of stock and bond ownership, and insurance policies, carry the same name. This will often avoid complications in the probating of an estate.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

"THE MOST SURE-FIRE TRICK we've ever learned in the simple art of making pancakes," say the editors of the new Esquire Cookbook, published by McGraw-Hill. "Take any recipe, even the one that's on the back of a box of Bisquick, and use more water, or more milk, by half again at least, than they tell you to. And don't grease the griddle or skillet. Instead, learn to get it to the precise point of heat where your cakes won't stick, and they will come out so crisp and thin that you could read a newspaper through them."

NOW AS FOR US, the editors continue, "we found that the griddle or skillet was at the right point of heat when a few drops of water, thrown on it, began to emulate so many drops of quicksilver. A silver-dollar size dab of the thin batter will make a perfect pancake-size cake, not greasy, not limp, but golden crisp and paper-thin, ready to be gorgeously endowed with butter."

PATE DE LIEGOIS from Restaurant Astrid, Brussels. Cover 1 pound chicken livers with salted water and simmer gently, lid on, for 20 minutes. Drain, dry well on paper towels, and at once put through finest blade of meat grinder; then put through grinder again. In mixing bowl put 1 cup soft unsalted butter, work smooth with 2 teaspoons dry hot mustard, 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves, 1-2 teaspoon grated nutmeg (fresh-grated best by far) and 1/4 cup grated mild onions. Add the ground liver and 2 tablespoons (thin-sliced) truffles (canned are fine) cut about 1/2 inch squares; mix gently but thoroughly. Pack firmly in small earthenware terrine or crock — empty Dundee marmalade jar does fine. Chill well, serve as needed. Keeps indefinitely if stored cold.

CREAMY ONION SOUP long cooking and crumbled bread make it thick. Peel 4 pounds of onions — red if you can get them, or the regular yellows — and slice them paper-thin. Cook them a little in butter, stirring so they get soft but not brown. Pour on 4 cups water and 1 can concentrated beef soup or 5 cups of good beef stock. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Now crumble one bunch of stick bread and add to the soup; this dissolves and makes the soup thick. Add salt and pepper, and let it simmer for 7 hours or so; don't let it boil. Just before serving, add 1/2 pint-heavy cream. Huge servings for 4, generous helpings for 8.

A FANCY SNACK Sautéed Swiss Sandwich. A fancier version from the New York Athletic Club. Sandwich Swiss cheese between a slice of ham and a slice of chicken breast (cooked). Put this between two slices of French or Italian bread broken into small bits. Simmer all day, or until soup takes on consistency of a puree. Before serving, add 1 pint of thick cream.

Importance Of Good Nutrition Explained To Merten HDC By Miss Helen Dunlap Merten Home Demonstration Club held its first meeting of the new year recently in the home of Mrs. Bob Brandon, Cities Service camp. A talk on good nutrition and its importance was given by Miss Helen Dunlap, county HD agent. She stated that good nutrition provides food for body building and repair (proteins, minerals and water), regulators so the body can use other materials and to help the body run smoothly (vitamins, minerals and proteins), and fuel for body energy and warmth (sugar, fats and starches). Good nutrition brings about joy and happiness, Miss Dunlap advised, as "good health makes our work and our troubles seem less of a burden." And good nutrition aids beauty and personality, bringing about good posture, good muscle tone and good bone structure. Miss Dunlap stated that eating well-balanced meals will control weight problems also, and advised teaching good eating habits to children.

Manners Make Friends If a woman is secretive about her age, don't ask questions designed to place her in a certain age group. The woman who has never told you her age won't appreciate being asked how old she was when she was married, and a few minutes later how long she has been married, or when she was graduated from high school or college. If a woman wants to keep her age a secret, let her.

COOKING IS MUCH akin to love," write the editors of the book, "in that every last man who ever wrote on either subject has started out with the assumption that you knew what they were talking about." "But we figure it won't help you much to know that 'blanche' means remove skins, as from almonds. What you want to know is how to get the skins off the almonds. And if you don't know what in the world a truffle is, you certainly haven't got to spare—can't do truffles on your pantry shelf. If you want to know what you can use instead of truffles in that mouth-watering recipe you're considering, with the help of our glossary section, we hope you can translate the most elaborate gourmet recipe into huzzahs from your guests, even if you're a rank beginner."

"Certain Navy Captain" Has Collection Of Earrings And High-Heeled Shoes

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK—UP—A certain Navy captain will arrive soon in Washington with a collection of earrings and a lot of high-heeled shoes. "It came as a complete surprise when I got word on Nov. 4th that I had made captain. I was speechless." "Gigi," as her friends call the very feminine captain, could be a lady admiral, but since that is the rank held by the head of the Navy Medical Corps, it is unlikely she'll move up to it. Only a handful of women have joined the Navy as doctors since legislation was passed after World War II permitting them to enter the regular Navy. Started in 1948, Dr. Saranero had first joined Navy in 1943 as an assistant surgeon with the rank of lieutenant. She opened an office in Brooklyn after the war, then returned to the Navy after the legislation made it possible. "As a doctor, I enjoy taking care of patients," the captain explained. "In Naples I took care of servicemen's families, and I also had time to work at my specialty, Hematology. I don't know yet what my job will be in Washington." It is important for a woman working in a man's world to have a life after-hours in her own home, Captain Saranero said. She also believes that frills are as important to a woman as gold braid is to a Navy captain. And she has plenty of both.

Spent 18 Months in Naples "It's really wonderful," Captain Saranero said. She is spending a vacation with her parents in Brooklyn after returning Dec. 22 from 18 months Navy duty in Naples, Italy. She reports to Washington on Jan. 15 to work at the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. "I had just made commander the first of September," the attractive, 44-year-old doctor said.

PORK-NOODLE CASSEROLE Serve pork chops in a goodie casserole. Place 4 cups of cooked wide noodles in the casserole. Dilute 1 can of tomato soup with 1/2 cup water and to it add 2 tablespoons of grated onion, 1 teaspoon of salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Pour over noodles. Place browned pork chops on noodles. Cover casserole and bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour.

Can't Go South? Try Ham-Tropical!

NOW THAT THE COLD WEATHER IS HERE, we yearn for warmer climes. But not all of us can pick up stakes and trek for the yellow sands. However, we can create an illusion of sun and color on our dining room table in the foods that we serve and the ways that we serve them. For instance, what could be more gay or provocative than a slice of pink succulent ham, garnished with golden pineapple, yellow banana and crunchy white coconut? Try this for Sunday dinner next week, and banish thoughts of the cold outdoors!

BROILED HAM TROPIC STYLE

- 1 slice smoked ready-to-eat ham, 1" thick
- 2 green tipped bananas
- 2 slices canned pineapple
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 1/4 cup New Orleans molasses
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/4 cup pineapple juice (from canned fruit)

Cut fat on ham and stick with cloves. Place in center of broiling pan and surround with bananas cut in sections and pineapple slices. Brush all with melted butter. Combine real New Orleans molasses, mustard and pineapple juice. Spoon molasses mixture over ham and fruit. Place in pre-heated broiler and broil ham 4-5 minutes. Turn ham and pineapple slices, spread with more molasses mixture and broil another 4-5 minutes. Remove banana sections and pineapple rings to warm plate as soon as they appear done. Serve ham surrounded with fruit. Makes 4 servings. (ANS)

Loose Hamburger Good For A Group

Nearly everyone likes hamburger patties, but there are advantages, too, in serving "loose" hamburger. Scooped from a heated pan and spread on buns, it can be served quickly to many persons. Second helpings are ready immediately. Moreover, "loose" hamburger can be endowed with delectable flavors.

Such a tasty "spreading hamburger" recipe has been developed and tested by the home economics institute of Deepfreeze Home Appliances. It's reassuring to make a few casseroles of the dish ahead and have them on hand in the home freezer, ready to heat for any number of guests that may drop in.

Here's how it's made. (Ingredients are for four to six servings, but the recipe may be multiplied without changing proportions.)

- 2 lbs. hamburger sprinkled lightly with monosodium glutamate
- 2 slices bacon cut into quarter-inch pieces
- 1 medium onion (chopped fine)
- 1 small bunch celery (chopped)
- 2 cans tomato soup
- 1 can water
- 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Fry bacon with onion in 10-inch skillet until onion tenders. Add hamburger and celery. When light brown, add the other ingredients and simmer 1 hour.

Chill in refrigerator to stop the cooking process. An automatic defrost model will readily dispose of the steam. After packing and sealing in a family-size casserole, store in a home freezer up to six months. To heat for serving, unseal casserole and bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven about 45 minutes or until heated through.

For an extra flourish, slice buns and grill in 1 tablespoon garlic butter for 5 minutes in heated 8-inch frying pan. Serve filled with loose hamburger, suggested accompanying "munchery": Carrot curls sliced with a potato peeler, smoked cheese-stuffed celery and tomato wedges.

Nutritional Value

In addition to the protein, minerals and vitamins supplied by meat, other characteristics recommend it for the diet. Meat makes the meal more satisfying — it "sticks to the ribs." It aids the digestion of other foods by stimulating the flow of the digestive juices.

Turnover Apple Pie Has Special Appeal Short Ribs Give Variety To Menu

The special appeal and the surprise feature of this heavenly tasting apple pie is that it's reversible. While it's baking, the single crust is on top. When the pie comes out of the oven and just before serving, a large plate is placed over the top and quickly flipped so the flaky crust is on the bottom and the tender juicy apple slices embellish the top. You'll want the apple slices to be happily and decoratively so start by choosing a crisp, fine-grained apple like the all-purpose Washington Winesap which will hold its identity and flavor under the baking, and cut the slices slightly thicker than usual.

TURNOVER APPLE PIE

- 3/4 cup maple-blended sirup
- 1 tbs. butter or margarine
- 1/4 tsp. cinnamon

Apricot-Rice Stuffing For Roast Fowl, Pork

Gourmets prefer this Apricot-Rice Stuffing with roast duck—but it adds taste appeal to any roasted fowl or to roast pork. It's easy to fix, with rice as the starchy base for the stuffing and apricots as the main seasoning. To make:

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped celery (Mixed stalks and tops)
- 1 sprig parsley, chopped
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 3 cups fluffy, boiled rice
- 1/2 teaspoon savory seasoning
- Salt to taste
- 1/4 pound dried apricots

Cook celery, parsley, and onion in the melted butter or margarine for a few minutes. Add to rice and dry seasonings. Wash and dry the apricots—then cut into strips and mix with the rice and seasonings. Recipe makes enough stuffing for a five-pound duck.

January is a good time to buy summer clothes from the resort sections. Then, when the first hot day strikes, you're all prepared.

Dash of allspice
Dash of mace
Winesap apples, pared, cored and cut in 1/2-inch slices to make 4 cups
Pastry for one-crust pie
Combine sirup, butter or margarine and spices in saucepan. Heat until butter is melted stirring well. Place sliced apples in 9-inch pie pan and pour sirup mixture over them. Roll pastry 1/4 inch thick, cut several slits, and place over top of apples, allowing pastry to extend 1/4 inch beyond edge of pan. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 45 mins., or until crust is browned and apples are tender.

When ready to serve, place another 9-inch pie pan or serving plate on top of pie, turn pie upside down so crust is then on bottom, making an open-faced pie. Serve plain, or with whipped cream or cheese. Makes 6 servings.

During the winter months, it's difficult to find new and unusual main dishes liked by both Dad and the children. For conformity, some home-makers find themselves preparing similar cuts of meat the same way week after week.

Spiced short ribs, according to meat expert Reba Staggs, have unique flavor, which results from braising the meat with spices and fruit. Just try them—you'll probably have helpers in the kitchen next time you prepare this new winter dish.

SPICED SHORT RIBS

- 3 pounds beef short ribs
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons lard
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup prunes
- 1 cup dried apricots

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 3 tablespoons vinegar

Dredge meat with flour and brown in lard. Pour off drippings. Season and add water. Cover and simmer for one hour. Add prunes, apricots, and mixture of sugar, spices and vinegar. Continue simmering one hour or until tender. 6 servings.

Lard Facts

You know—Lard is a rich energy producing food. Lard is 97 per cent digestible. Lard makes a very tender and flaky pie crust. Lard adds flavor to food, whether used as shortening or for frying.

Lamb Steak Dinner Pleases The Palate

What a colorful platter of foods to serve for dinner—lamb steaks, broiled tomatoes, whipped potatoes, and buttered broccoli! A planked lamb steak dinner such as this is as pleasing to the eye as to the palate. Broil the steaks as to the plating and arrange the potatoes as a border.

Planked Lamb Steak Dinner

- 4 lamb steaks
- Salt, pepper
- 1 package frozen broccoli
- Butter
- 2 tomatoes, cut in thick slices
- Buttered bread crumbs
- 3 cups hot mashed potatoes
- 1 egg, slightly beaten

Broil tomatoes, whipped potatoes, and buttered broccoli with a few tablespoons melted butter. Sprinkle crumbs over tomatoes. Season potatoes with 3 tablespoons butter, egg, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Arrange broccoli and tomatoes around steaks; using a pastry tube, flute potatoes around meat and vegetables and finish cooking steaks. Sprinkle steaks with salt and pepper. 4 servings.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
When you are a defender, if you don't always pass to overruff, if you merely discard, your chance to overruff may come later, and in the meantime the declarer has weakened his trump position. This principle is illustrated in today's hand.
It must be admitted that West's double of two clubs was quite risky. He felt, however, and with considerable justice that he might collect a handsome penalty if the cards were in favorable position and that he would lose very little even if he failed to succeed in making the doubled contract. This is true of a contract of two of a minor suit or one of any suit, since game will not be made even if contract is fulfilled.
West opened the queen of diamonds and continued the suit, giving East the chance to lead a third diamond. South ruffed with the queen of clubs, but West was careful to discard a heart instead of overruffing.
South next took the heart finesse and took dummy's ace of hearts before West could discard any more cards in that suit.
South led a low spade from the king, correctly putting up the king when East played low. The spade went to East's ace, and East led a fourth diamond. South ruffed with the jack of clubs, and this time West overruffed with the king in order to return a low spade.
Declarer hopefully ruffed in dummy, but East overruffed with the eight of clubs. Now East could lead his last diamond or heart to make sure that West got the setting trick with the nine of clubs.
The contract wasn't an easy one to defeat, partly because the king hearts turned out to be worthless. If West had overruffed with the king of clubs on third round of diamonds, however, South would have made his doubled contract without much trouble.

Court Okays Tax Refund

AUSTIN—UP—The State Supreme Court Wednesday upheld refund of taxes paid under the 1949 Texas Citrus Commission act which was held unconstitutional.
Akin Products Co. brought suit in Hidalgo county against the state to recover taxes the company claimed were paid to the state under the dures of an unconstitutional law.
The trial court granted a summary judgment to Akin Products. The Supreme Court upheld that ruling, in an opinion written by Chief Justice J. E. Hickman.
The state contended it should not be compelled to refund the taxes because they were spent for purposes of the act and were for the benefit of the citrus industry and not for the state as a whole.
"It may be true that respondents received some indirect financial benefits from the taxes paid by them, but the problem here is not to undertake to determine the amount, if any, which their businesses profited by the tax," the high court said.
"Obviously, that would be very difficult, if not impossible, to determine and would be decisive of nothing if determined. Controlling fact in this case is that these taxes have been paid under the dures of an unconstitutional act. They should therefore be refunded regardless of what industry may have been benefited by them," the Supreme Court said.

Reuther And Truth

Walter P. Reuther, the man who, with his brother Victor, once wrote from Russia that we must all "work for a Soviet America," made some revealing statements recently as to the purpose of the new AFL-CIO merger. Or, more accurately, Reuther explained what was NOT the purpose of the labor boss marriage. Said he, the leaders of the two giant collectives "are not building a new powerful economic pressure group or a political bloc."

After this declaration, which for phoniness ranked with the Baron Muenchhausen yarns, Reuther went on to explain that he and his goons would keep right on exerting economic and political pressure for a guaranteed annual wage, for federal aid to education, for public housing and more social security.

Reuther denied that there was anything communistic or socialistic about these things. To deny this, of course, he had to overlook the declared and outspoken objectives of communism and socialism. But since he could overlook the obvious purposes of the merger, it was easy for him to overlook the equally obvious communism and socialism inherent in his pressurized demands.

The occasion for his remarks was a debate which the union boss had with Charles R. Sligh Jr., board chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers. And Mr. Sligh, although committed to defend free enterprise, apparently knew so little about it that he said: "I will add the labor unions have done a great deal of good for the country," thus revealing that confusion and misstatements could be made on both sides of the labor-management issue.

For sheer, outright untruth, however, Reuther won the debate hands down. Having falsified both the intent and purpose of the merger, and the intent and purpose of helping create a Soviet America, Reuther explained that whenever union funds are collected for political purposes, such collections are always voluntary.

This will be news for the millions of subjugated and terrorized dues-paying victims of the labor bosses who have been compelled to contribute. The "voluntary" payment of money into a union political fund is on the same basis as the "voluntary" payment of income taxes to the federal government.

You are told to pay. You pay. If you fail to pay, things happen to you. So, in order that these things (always unpleasant) don't happen, you pay. And this is called "voluntary."

This debate between Reuther and Sligh should wipe the slate clean for anyone who has been confused as to the methods, the purpose, and the intent of the socialistic labor movement in America.

To set the record straight it seems almost redundant to explain that the purpose of the AFL-CIO merger is to provide labor bosses with a larger and more powerful political-economic weapon by means of which they can practice their profession, which is extortion.

There is considerable talk, much of it justified, that both George Meany of the former AF of L and Reuther are disgusted with their lack of control over their dupes at election time, and may now organize their own third party. It will be a labor party, by means of which greater economic and political power can be theirs.

If the purpose of the merger is not political-economic, what is it? For what other purpose could it have occurred?

As to the over-all intentions of the leaders of this vast racket, let no one misunderstand that they are aiming at creating a communist-socialist empire in the United States. Marx, Engels and other communists repeatedly called for a militant, all-powerful labor movement. In fact, their theme song went something like this: "Workers of the world, unite!"

Social security, government controlled and dominated schools, government housing and government guaranteed wages, are all part of the communist-socialist scheme.

That Reuther and Meany are ideologically compatible to communism and socialism is self-apparent. Why else would they advocate communist-socialist programs?

As for Mr. Sligh, he should learn that the union movement in this country has done untold harm and no good whatsoever. If conditions have bettered since the advent of labor bossism, it is because of the vigor and the flexibility of the free enterprise system and in spite of all such men as Reuther and Meany have ever been able to do.

The awakening may take awhile. But sooner or later the American people generally will come to know the truth about the union movement and what it has done to this country. Meanwhile, it behooves every right-thinking American to learn to beware of the falsehoods and the propaganda of such men as Reuther. Nothing but danger, violence and disaster looms from the union bosses.

What Kind Of Man Writes U.S. History Most Children Study?

Readers of this column will remember that I quoted extensively from David S. Muzzey's "A History of Our Country," which it is claimed is used in more high schools than any other history of the United States.

I didn't really believe it was history. I thought it was propaganda to get children to believe in not depending on their own initiative but to believe in an ever and ever bigger government; that their only security and their general well-being depended upon discarding national government and adopting a one-world government. In short, I was horrified at the kind of a book our conscripted children were compelled to study.

I wanted to know more of the background of the author of this history. I noted that he was author of a book "Ethics as a Religion." I thought if I read that book I would get a better idea of the character of the man that so many people were trusting to teach their children. "Ethics as a Religion" was published in 1951.

It is almost unbelievable that people that profess to be Christians or those who believe in the ethics taught by Jesus Christ and the Prophets of the Old Testament and the Commandments and the Golden Rule could be willing to support the kind of indoctrination their children are getting from Muzzey.

He tears the Jewish and Christian religions to pieces. His "Ethics as a Religion," is vague and without definitions. He tears down and has no substitute. He wants people to be good but he doesn't define what good is.

He starts out on Page 3 by setting aside the Golden Rule as a guide of human conduct. Listen to this: "Since the attainment of ethical status is the chief end of life, the development of these latent capacities in one's self and in others is the serious task of the adherents of ethical religion."

There's nothing wrong, of course, with that statement, but listen to this: "And the method which it prescribes for the accomplishment of this task differs from the two rules of conduct most generally recommended, namely, the categorical imperative of Kant and the Golden Rule of the Gospel. The former bids us so to act that our conduct could be taken as the universal norm; the latter bids us to do to others as we would have them do to us. But neither counsel is quite satisfying. For no sane man would presume to set up his own conduct as a pattern to be followed. Nor should our treatment of others be based on what might be expected from them under different circumstances. This is unrealistic and even suggests something in the nature of a bargain. The rule: So act in all your relationships, in the family, in business, in politics, in the professions, as to elicit the best in others, and in so doing will enhance your own worth. This is the very sum and substance of the ethical imperative."

But he doesn't say what the "best" is. There is no guide. The means is not necessary, according to Muzzey. It does not predetermine the results. Golden Rule "Now whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do you even so to them" means, if it means anything, that if you do not want to be robbed or lied about or blackmailed or plotted against, you must not do those things to any other individual. It also means, if it means anything, that if you have made an error and are in trouble and want to be helped, in the way of a counsel or a gift or loan, that you should be willing to do that to others when they are in trouble.

In other words, it means that you should love your neighbor as yourself—not better nor less.

The whole tenor of the book is that we must change without knowing what the change will be. On Page 47 Muzzey says: "Nor is it true to say that Christianity has never been tried." It has been tried for nineteen centuries in the Western world called "Christendom" and we live in a world today disgraced by strife, oppression, fear, war and the rumors of war."

Had we practiced the Golden Rule as individuals and as nations we would not have had the wars we have because we would not have had tariffs, immigration quotas, collective bargaining, the Federal Reserve System, confetti money, long periods of unemployment, nor "education" based on the fallacy of the divine right of the majority or that might makes right. Of course, when Muzzey doesn't define what is "good" or "best" in man, he of course can endorse government schools and still not be out of harmony with "good" or "best."

On Page 146 he writes: "In the middle years of the last century, for example, a courageous fight was waged by the advocates of free public education against the privileged classes who could not see why they should pay taxes for the schooling of other people's children. They were blind to the fact that a generation growing up in ignorance and unprotected against the temptations to lawlessness was a greater threat to their own security than the comparatively small demands which the cost of the schools and teachers would make on their pocketbooks."

They were not blind as Muzzey contends, that a generation growing up in ignorance was harmful to everyone. They simply knew that "education" based on the opinions of the majority of voters would be a handicap to education rather than an assistance to education; that it would make it infinitely more difficult for the youth of the land that wanted an education to get it. They knew that the means used of aggressive force or that "might makes right," would produce beliefs that men should get things on an involuntary basis rather than a voluntary basis.

The Biggest Myth Of course, Mr. Muzzey does not define "good" nor the "best" in man. He professes to oppose myths, but he is a worshiper of the worst form of mythology, that the means do not predetermine the results; that you can explain what you do not understand; that good is determined by the majority or by might; the myths of the divine right of the majority to exploit and plunder the minority or any individual. And this is the kind of a man that has been handicapping and hampering our children in understanding ethical law. How can a man that contends there aren't any principles or creeds, which he repeatedly condemns, and believes we must have change for change sake, really be of any worth in developing character in the youth of the land?

Cigarettes, Food Good Index Of U.S. Economic Condition

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The American people's smoking and eating habits furnish almost as good an index of current and future economic conditions as statistics on industrial production, employment and profits, according to Washington experts. Current figures on these human trends forecast a good year for 1956.

When wages are high, men and women smoke more. Even much more significantly, they tend to buy cigars and cigarettes instead of chewing and pipe tobacco or roll-your-own stuff. In good times, they are more careless, or fastidious, and they toss away a cigarette before it is half-finished.

In fact, one of the late Andrew Mellon's tax and financial assistants used to walk the streets, scanning the gutters before he submitted his final reports on prospects. He gathered other data, of course but he always studied the shifts of discarded butts, and the pieces of cheap to more expensive brands of tobacco.

If the butts were small, he concluded, people weren't feeling too optimistic about keeping their jobs and were economizing. Same thing if they were smoking pipes instead of shrouding themselves in cigar smoke.

On Mellon's suggestion, I interviewed him because "the greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton" said that his forecasts has "been unusually reliable. Partial to small-sized Pittsburgh stogies himself, the multimillionaire Cabinet member always smoked them until they almost scorched his thin lips, good times or bad times.

On this basis, Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's reports of tobacco prospects and 1955 performances delight experts at Treasury, Commerce and Federal Reserve. They indicate that Americans will light up next year with more expensive brands than ever before. They say more difficult for the youth of the land that wanted an education to get it. They knew that the means used of aggressive force or that "might makes right," would produce beliefs that men should get things on an involuntary basis rather than a voluntary basis.

The Biggest Myth Of course, Mr. Muzzey does not define "good" nor the "best" in man. PAUSE FOR REFLECTION

...with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization.

"We must be gardeners and not mechanics in our approach to world affairs," says George F. Kemmen in his book, "Realities of American Foreign Policy."

As I read that, I thought of Jesus' several parables likening the kingdom of God to seed that is sown. In the first, you will remember, some brought forth "an hundred-fold, some sixty, some thirty."

In the second, although the sower "sowed good seed in his field," "while men slept," an "enemy came and sowed tares."

And, in the third, a man took "a grain of mustard seed" and sowed in his field; which indeed is the least of all seeds; but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree; so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof."

Perhaps a restudy of these parables would lead us not only to a wide-awake alertness in regard to our foreign policy but also to a realization that, while not even all the good seed is going to produce a full crop, in the long run the seed of the kingdom will produce a tree under which all who desire can find shelter.

Is it solely this seed of the kingdom of God that we are sowing in our conduct of foreign affairs—or is the good seed already rather badly mixed with tares?

Daring NBC TV Show Tells Part Of Red Revolt Story

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The National Broadcasting Company recently produced a good historical television fill-in on the Russian revolutions of March and November, 1917, and the continuation of the Communist imperial war for world conquest down to the present. Of course no single TV production, probably no effort in any medium, can tell the whole story with all its conflicting phases. Yet NBC has made a good start and, more important than the actual act—revived for us in this show, has done something to remind the American people that we never have known much about this terrible subject and have forgotten much that we did know.

So all of us who respect truth and try to keep history reasonably honest should offer thanks and congratulations on a daring venture.

The subject is dangerous and attacks upon it call for daring because many people would like to suppress the facts of their own complicity. There were many native Americans who, in 1917, thoughtlessly rejoiced at the news of the overthrow of the Russian imperial house. The Czars had a bad reputation among us, probably worse than they deserved because they were constantly hammered by propaganda here and had no machine of their own to create a counter-force. However, we have always been sanctimonious about the brutality of Czars and dictators in other countries and our loud bathing of a native instinct. At the time of the Kerensky revolution in March few Americans had the sense to realize that this probably meant the elimination of the great Russian armies and the release of many German divisions to attack us in the West. That did happen after some futile efforts by Kerensky and the generals.

Kerensky was a weak fellow. He has been living in New York for many years now, shunned by the few remaining traditional imperial Russians and the Communists as well. A man who was secretary to a member of his ephemeral cabinet came along in recent years to a position of influence over Marshall Field in his lurid exploits in tabloid political journalism. This man is Gregory Zilboorg, a doctor specializing in psychiatry.

Although most of us were pleased to hear the startling news of the first revolution simply because we had no sense of the obvious immediate consequences, others did know what it meant in the long run, and rejoiced nevertheless. It almost meant victory for the Germans, Austrians and Turks, and

My own curiosity has sent me to great libraries where I find much information which I had by the vision of my generation and was quickly forgotten. Our people were more angry over prohibition in its early, experimental days, than we were over lateful developments in Russia, Germany and the Balkans which in recent years have imposed military conscription on us as a permanent phase of our economy, citizenship and state.

Unquestionably we and the British let Leon Trotsky, then known as Bronstein, walk out of New York and into Petrograd—and if there was a secret deal in Washington and London to this effect, as it would seem there must have been, it has never been revealed. So not all the story of this continuing disaster can be depicted in riots and Cossack charges of Russian civilians. Much of it was told in day-by-day news items in old government prints and private files and much of it has never been told and never will be.

Mac's Christmas Tree Is Still Up In Living Room

By HENRY MCLEMORE

Here's a conundrum for you: What's as brown as a berry, Limp as a rag, And has the exquisite color Of an old burlap bag? Give up? The answer is — our Christmas tree.

Oh, yes, it's still up. I tried to take it down a week ago, but Mary wanted it a few days longer. I'll have to admit that it isn't bothering anyone. Up until a couple of days ago it kept me awake at night with the noise it made shedding, but now it is finished with that, and is as bare as a fish skeleton, which it closely resembles.

You know, I'm getting sort of attached to that tree. The worse it looks the sorrier I feel for it. I don't believe I could cut it up and use it in the fireplace, any more than I could raise a little pig and then barbecue it.

The more I think of it, the more I believe that I will keep that Christmas tree standing right where it is all year long. For more than one reason, too.

It gets pretty hot in our living room during the summer, and, as you know, there are few things which cool a man off like stretching out in the shade of a tree. Think of how simple having a tree in the house will make picnicking. No driving miles through traffic, no lugging ice buckets. No ants. No poison ivy.

We can decide to have a picnic at noon and have the sandwiches spread out under the tree in half an hour. And if we forget anything — ah, one always does on a picnic — no getting mad. We'll be able to hop up and be back from the kitchen with the salt, or pepper, or paper napkins in a jiffy.

Having a Christmas tree up all year will make Mary and me a more interesting couple to our friends and acquaintances. An eccentricity or two always has that effect. Let a husband take sither lessons and his wife keep bees and everyone who knows them will think of them as vital, out of the ordinary, amusing, and an altogether worthwhile and happy pair.

Even people we don't know, and never will know, will pay us the compliment of wondering what sort of folks we are. People walking along the street, or passing in a car, and seeing a lighted Christmas tree burning brightly on Labor Day evening are bound to pause, and consider. Some might even express the hope that some day they'll be able to meet the family which celebrates Christmas for three hundred and sixty-five days.

I haven't overlooked the advantages of already having my tree in place and decorated when next Christmas rolls around. None of this shopping from tree lot to tree lot, trying to find one that is exactly right. No rooting around for last year's decorations and finding half of them broken.

There the tree will be, slightly petrified, but ready for action. It won't be green, but then what is wrong with a brown tree? They spray them every color in the rainbow, these days, and brown is just as good as pink or white or yellow.

One more thing. The base of the tree covers a big, worn spot in the carpet, and a man wants his home to look as good as it can.

WHAT'S IT TAKE TO GET A DEGREE?—Albert Knute, senior at John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio, sits amid one professor's answer to that question. A survey conducted by the Rev. Fr. James J. McQuade of the university's department of religion found that the average college degree requires: 2000 30-minute lectures, purchase and study of 50 books, book reports on 150 other volumes, 25 term papers, 800 study assignments, 68 pencils, nine bottles of ink, six reams of paper, 50 semester examinations, 650 class quizzes and 4000 hours of personal study. The survey did not include the amount of brain power used.

Phone Firm Seeks End Of Strike

SAN ANGELO, TEX. —UP— Spokesmen for the General Telephone Company of the Southwest, which serves six states, were hopeful Wednesday that an agreement might soon be reached with the company's 2,300 striking employees. The strike is in its fourth day. Members of the Communications Workers of America (CIO-AFL) have asked for a new contract granting wage increases and fringe benefits. Negotiators met late into the night Tuesday but failed to report any tangible gains after the meeting. Sixty stewards and national officers of the union are in town. They met in the Crystal Ballroom of the Cactus Hotel with local union members and later announced that "the entire national strike chest of the CWA will be placed at this local's disposal." "We are prepared to fight this out for a long time," strike director Jack Limmroth said. "We've dug in, and if we have to we can dig ever deeper." The strike revolves around wage differentials in the six-state area served by the utility. Long distance service was curtailed although supervisors man a need switchboards. The company has exchanges in 232 cities and towns. San Angelo is its headquarters. Exchanges extend into Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico, Louisiana, and Arizona.

REDS WARNED OF Aggression
WASHINGTON —UP— Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland has warned the Russians against thinking they might get away with aggression during an election year in the United States. Knowland told the Women's National Press Club Tuesday night that no man can know what the Russians or their associates may be planning this year. But the California Republican added: "If they plan to take advantage of this year for some further adventures of aggression and are counting on our nation being so paralyzed by a great presidential election that it is unable to function to meet such a challenge they are making Democrats Leader lives."

Senate Democratic Leader Johnson told women reporters Russia's aggressive aims do not discriminate against Democrats or Republicans "but against all Americans, and as Americans we must respond."

Rotarians Push Sale Of Tickets

Yesterday's meeting of the Pampa Rotary club found President Jim Chase urging the membership to sell as many tickets as possible to the Crozier Revue which is to be held Friday in the junior high school auditorium. Two performances are scheduled to be held, according to Chase. The 3:30 p.m. matinee is for children and Friday morning school visitations by club members will promote sales for that afternoon's event. The matinee tickets sell for 35 cents.

At 8:00 p.m., another performance will be held, largely directed toward adults and tickets for this show are $1.00. The program will feature feats of magic, including the Houdini escape trick, as well as a varied musical renditions by an outstanding musical ensemble.

The club program for the day featured Warren Hasse who gave an outline of 1955's big news stories. Hasse also offered the predictions of several authorities on the prospects for 1956, concluding his talk with amusing incidents in the sport world during the year just passed.

Jim Farriah, junior Rotarian for the month of December, introduced his successor for the month of January, Mike Price.

Lewis Hackley, owner of Tri-state Office Equipment, was inducted into the club after a brief introduction by Quentin Williams.

Tax Man Urges Early Filing

Employers can help employees file income tax returns early, Walter C. Bowen, Administrative Officer in Charge of the Pampa Internal Revenue Office said today. Business concerns that issue W-2 tax withholding statements now make it possible for their employees to file their returns early. This assures quick refund for thousands. There should be no delay in getting a refund for those who file a correct return now. Taxpayers are urged to study their instruction booklets so that when W-2 statements are issued they can get their refunds without delay.

Tongay In Try For Freedom

MOBILE, Ala. —UP— Russell Tongay, the "Aquatot" father, sprinted from his guard to brief freedom Tuesday night after feigning helplessness during a four-day train journey from Los Angeles. The controversial swimming instructor, serving a 10-year manslaughter sentence for the death of his tiny daughter Katy in a 33-foot exhibition dive, was being returned to Florida after a previous escape.

Authorities said the once-burly ex-Coast Guardsman bolted from his Pullman stateroom-bed as the train began moving from the station and outdistanced prison officer Gib Powledge in a five-block foot race.

"Why I had no idea in the world the man could even move," Powledge said wryly. "We had to lift him to dress him, and when we got off trains we had to tote him to wheel chairs. He'll go in chains the rest of the way."

Tongay was captured hiding under a mid-town residence and placed in a solitary cell in the county jail to await new train connections Wednesday.

In New Orleans last Nov. 13 Tongay had similarly used hidden strength to elude another prison guard in a race across a parking lot after slipping from a restaurant with a group of patrons while the officer was paying for their meal.

"PAMPA'S FRIENDLY DEPARTMENT STORE"

It looks high priced ...but it's the '56 Chevrolet!

THE NEW BEL AIR SPORT COUPE—one of 19 high-priced-looking Chevrolet models.

Who wouldn't mistake this handsome new Chevrolet for a high-priced car! It looks strictly "upper bracket" with its bold new Motoramic styling... its longer, lower hood... its proud new grille that spans the full front end. Even the details would do credit to an expensive car... like the sleek, high-fashion taillights (the left one hides the gas cap!). But, even beyond the costly appearance of its Fisher Body, Chevy gives the high-priced cars a run for their money. For it's one of the few great road cars built today! It brings you the added security of nailed-down stability on turns and lightning acceleration for safer passing. Horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205! All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters. Of course, Chevrolet has safety door latches in all models. In addition, you can have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost. There's a new Chevrolet just made for you. So come in and highway-test it.
