Greece Wants U.S. In Cyprus Dispute

ATHENS—(UP)—Greece Monday demanded "decisive intervention" by the United States in the explosive Cyprus dispute.

Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis told a group of visiting news editors, "Greeks demand that the United States, which leads the world, intervene decisively in the quarrel."

"If the United States refuses to use its power to discipline the western world in favor of justice and liberty, one may be concerned about the future of the free world," he said.

Call Off Demonstrations
Greece earlier Monday called off nationwide anti-British demonstrations when a church leader warned that Communist elements were planning to create trouble during the meetings.

The demonstrations were called by Greek Orthodox Archbishop Spyridon in protest against British deportation of Archbishop Makarios from Cyprus and had the full approval of the angry Greek government.

The archbishop announced Monday the demonstrations had been called off just a few hours before they were to have taken place and warned that "hostile elements" were planning to disrupt them.

Although the government approved the demonstrations, it warned against any disorders and called out heavy concentrations of police and troops to protect British, American and Turkish nationals and property during the meetings.

Stone British Building
Rioting Greeks already had vented their anger Saturday by stoning British buildings and burning the Union Jack.

Worse disorders had been feared Monday when official church demonstrations had been scheduled.

Cyprus itself was reported ominously quiet, with a general strike at an end. Anti-British activity was small. A few bombs were thrown but nothing on the scale that was expected as a protest against the deportation of Makarios.

Observers in Nicosia said the stiff British crackdown after the arrest and deportation of Makarios was largely responsible for putting a clamp on large-scale operations against the British.

Nation Shivers In Cold

Midwest Digs Out After Blizzard

By UNITED PRESS
The northern Midwest dug out of a paralyzing blizzard Monday and much of the nation shivered in a late winter cold wave.

The first day of spring was only eight days away, but the midlands were thawing out from the worst storm of the whole winter season. Temperatures went as low as 24 below zero at Bismarck, N.D., and were on the downgrade from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

The fast-moving blizzard swept across the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan over the weekend. It killed three persons, hit snow depths of almost two feet, and piled up mountainous, road-blocking drifts.

One of the most pathetic deaths was that of Mrs. Ruth White, a South Dakota farm wife who set out with her husband, Cornelius, to fetch aid for their five children and relatives who were trapped in a snow-drifted car.

Mrs. White insisted on accompanying her husband because he is subject to fainting spells and she feared he would collapse and freeze to death.

She had no overcoats and had to walk by the roadside three quarters of a mile from a farm house. Her husband hurried on, summoned aid, and when he returned his wife told him "I'm really played out."

White, 32, hurried back to the farmhouse for blankets. When he came back the second time, she was dead.

Another tragedy was narrowly averted Sunday night at Rochester, Minn., where neighbors dug through a huge snowdrift to rescue a missing five-year-old boy.

The boy, Tommy Schwab, had been missing since mid-afternoon. His parents alerted neighbors, who recalled they had seen a group of children tunnelling in the big drift.

The neighbors grabbed shovels and started digging. They found the boy "limp and curled up" in the snow, protected by a tiny air pocket which his breath had formed around his head. It was not known how long he had been buried, but doctors said Monday he is not in serious condition.

The other blizzard victims were two Illinois National Guardsmen who died when their plane crashed in the snow near Sparta, Wis. A search party recovered their bodies Sunday.

Brush Fire Razes California Homes

TUJINGA, Calif.—UP—A three-alarm brush fire, fanned off early Monday by gale-force winds, was reported "pretty well surrounded" after destroying four or five fashionable hillside homes and forcing families to flee to safety.

A firefighting force made up of all available Los Angeles city and county firemen managed after several hours to encircle the leap-frogging flames which had raced out of control through nearby Haines Canyon behind winds with gusts up to 85 miles an hour.

Marvin E. Meador, assistant Los Angeles fire chief, said "at least four, and possibly five" 122,000 homes were burned. He said there were no reports of deaths or injuries. He pointed out, however, that the full damage of the fire was not known yet.

"We're pretty well surrounded it," another fire authority said, "but we are not yet at the point where we can begin patrolling. There are still several bad spots. The fire's still touchy as hell."

Meador said several families were forced to evacuate their ultra-modern homes in the new subdivision of Manzanita slopes. The Red Cross set up emergency headquarters to take care of the evacuees.

The fire was on the edge of Tujunga and some 12 miles north of downtown Los Angeles.

Johnson Hits Farm Bill

By DALTON MOORE
WASHINGTON—UP—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson said Monday that "the farm bill as it now stands—shorn of 90 per cent price supports... could compound our farm surplus problem."

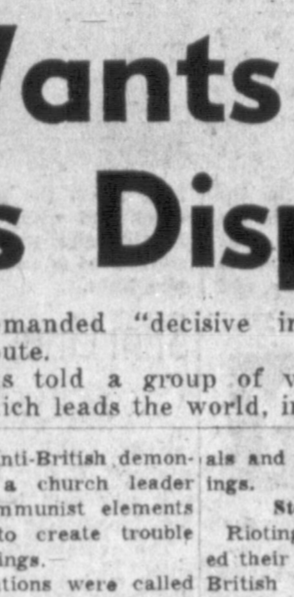

Johnson said killing rigid high supports and retaining the administration's flexible price support program as the Senate has voted to do may have these results:

"Fewer farmers will want to participate in the soil bank plan because of lower supports. And farmers will try to produce more and more in the hope that they will make up, in bulk, the income lost by lower supports on each item."

Kefauver Is Still Out Shaking Hands

WASHINGTON—UP—Only one presidential candidate was shaking hands with the voters Monday on the eve of New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), arrived in New Hampshire Sunday night for a final campaign swing through the cold New England state.

His principal opponent for the state's 12-member delegation to the Democratic national convention is Adlai Stevenson. But Stevenson has paid little attention to the primary.

Other developments:
1. Republican Gov. Christian A. Hester of Massachusetts said he is willing to run for vice president "if the President and the convention want me." But he said he is "not a rival in any way whatsoever" to Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

2. Negro Leader Thurgood Marshall warned that only pro-civil rights candidates will get the Negro vote this year. Marshall is general counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

3. House Democratic whip Carl Albert predicted the Democrats will increase their present 30-vote majority in the House this year. He predicted the Democrats would win the extra seats in the Midwest farm belt.

Stevenson's New Hampshire supporters—including almost every major Democrat in the state—are more enthusiastic than their candidate, Stevenson has said he assumes Kefauver will win.

Kefauver has said he will be satisfied with a majority of the delegates.

Two other Democrats—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan—also are in the race for at least some of the votes. They have not done any campaigning either.

The Republican ballot is dominated by President Eisenhower. But some delegates in the election are running pledged to Sen. GOP leader William F. Knowland and Chief Justice Earl Warren. Neither is an announced candidate.

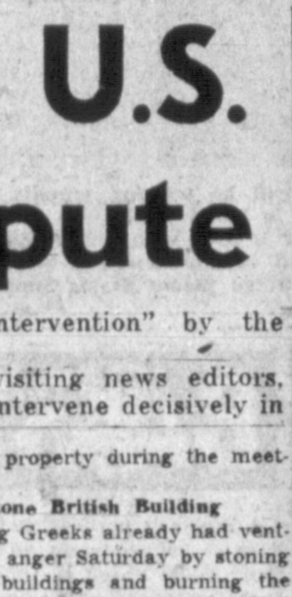

The trustees' action followed an investigation by a university committee formed recently to investigate the riotous demonstrations over the entrance of the 26-year-old Negro co-ed, later expelled herself for bringing charges against the university that she could not prove.

The trustees said three other students under investigation "have withdrawn from the university and will not be readmitted unless, at the completion of the investigation, their records have been cleared."

The trustees added that "investigation of other students will continue in the event of additional pertinent information."

A student leader who refused the use of his name said it was generally expected on the campus that Wilson would be expelled for publicly criticizing the university and state officials for admitting the Negro.

The board meeting was the first held since the secret meeting Feb. 29 after which it announced the permanent expulsion of Miss Lucy because she charged the trustees conspired to incite the riots.

More Farm Bill Votes Slated In Senate

WASHINGTON—UP—The Senate Monday headed into two more key votes on amendments to the omnibus farm bill.

Both amendments involve proposed two-price systems for wheat and rice. The systems would bring all rice and wheat consumed domestically by human beings under high rigid price supports.

Final voting on the big bill was expected by Wednesday. But that might be delayed if the Democrats make good their threat to renew their drive to restore blanket rigid price props on five crops.

Administration forces knocked blanket props out of the omnibus bill last week in two votes. But the administration won the second time only with the tie-breaking vote of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

That encouraged the Democrats to try again.

Other developments:
LOBBYING
The new Senate lobby investigating committee sought a "quality staff." The bi-partisan eight-man committee began to function after the election of Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) as chairman. Previously, the committee was stalled by a political wrangle over procedure.

AUTOMOBILES
The Senate Automobile Marketing Subcommittee summoned Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Co. The subcommittee is investigating automobile marketing practices including alleged bootlegging and gimmick advertising.

Congressmen Say Decree Is 'Abuse Of Judicial Power'

By WARREN DUFFEE
WASHINGTON—(UP)—Ninety-six southern congressmen threw their powerful support Monday behind "all lawful means" to upset the Supreme Court's school segregation decision.

In a strongly worded "declaration of constitutional principles," 19 senators and 77 House members Sunday night denounced the ruling as a "clear abuse of judicial power" that has sown "hatred and suspicion" throughout the South.

They commended states for lawful attempts to resist integration but called for all citizens to "scrupulously refrain from disorder and lawless acts."

Milder Than Original
The statement was considerably milder than the original draft, which some southern lawmakers refused to sign. But it was one of the strongest criticisms of the high court by a group of congressmen in recent years.

In the declaration, the southerners said "we pledge ourselves to use all lawful means to bring about a reversal of this decision, which is contrary to the Constitution, and to prevent the use of force in its implementation."

They contended that the court had no constitutional authority for its ruling and accused the high tribunal of "unwarranted exercise of power" that is "creating chaos and confusion in the states principally affected."

They warned that "the public school systems of several states may be destroyed by 'outside agitators'... threatening immediate and revolutionary changes."

Weighty Declaration
The weight of the declaration is shown clearly by the positions of power many of its sponsors hold in congress. They include the chairman of nine standing Senate committees and one special committee. Many of the House's more prominent figures are also signers.

Riot Leader Expelled By University

By ROBERT S. MCNEILL JR.
TUSCALOOSA, Ala.—UP—Leonard Wilson, 20-year-old pre-segregation student leader at the University of Alabama, has been expelled for his part in the campus race riot that preceded expulsion of Negro co-ed Autherine Lucy, it was announced Monday.

The university board of trustees said it had expelled Wilson, suspended four other students, and approved disciplinary action against 25 others.

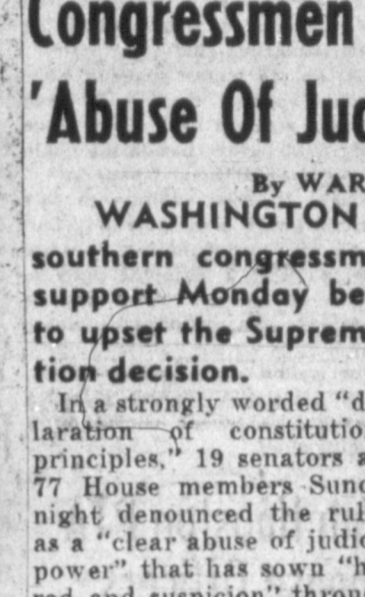

The trustees' action followed an investigation by a university committee formed recently to investigate the riotous demonstrations over the entrance of the 26-year-old Negro co-ed, later expelled herself for bringing charges against the university that she could not prove.

The trustees said three other students under investigation "have withdrawn from the university and will not be readmitted unless, at the completion of the investigation, their records have been cleared."

Court Studies 2 Cases

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULTON
WASHINGTON—UP—The Supreme Court may act Monday in two important cases dealing with the right of the military to court-martial civilians who accompany the armed forces to foreign lands.

The government has sought a ruling on this issue to clarify military jurisdiction over some 20,000 civilians employed overseas and 250,000 civilian dependents.

If the court agrees to examine one or both cases, however, no final ruling is expected until next fall at the earliest. The appeals concern the murder convictions by court-martial of two women who killed their husbands.

In addition to announcing whether it will accept these and a batch of other appeals, the court will deliver some opinion—perhaps an important national security case. Then it will recess until March 26.

One of the court-martial cases stems from the conviction in England of Mrs. Clarice B. Cover, 36, of Atlanta, Ga., charged with the 1948 murder of her husband, M. Sgt. Edward E. Cover, in Iraq. She won her freedom in federal district court here and is now at liberty on $1,000 bond. Federal District Judge Edward A. Tamm ruled that the section of the Uniform Military Code under which she was convicted is unconstitutional.

Chief Justice Ben Moore of Charleston, W.Va., delivered a concurring ruling in the case of Mrs. Dorothy Krueger Smith, daughter of Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, retired, who was convicted by a court-martial in Tokyo of stabbing her husband to death. She is now serving a life sentence in the reformatory for women at Alderson, W.Va.

School Board Petitions Out

Petitions are being circulated for two places on the Pampa School Board of Education. Over 20 names are required on the ballot.

Frick and Rose will be placed on a ballot for public vote on April 7, at which time the school board election will take place.

PEWTER, POSTERS AND BASKETS

— et voila! Your bedroom overlooks the Champs Elysee! So says a recent issue of "Seventeen" Magazine which featured accessories with a French accent, designed to make your bedroom a Parisian "chambre" on pennies.

FIRST FRENCH touch is hanging cafe curtains in a typically French Provincial print at your windows, says the magazine. Then mount a colorful map of France in a narrow frame of walnut or fruitwood. An unusual companion piece would be a Parisian kiosk dish-towel snatched from the kitchen and framed like a picture.

Borrowed from southern France is the trick of graciously placing baskets of fruit and flowers around the room. Add a pewter mug for pencils — which might have been picked up at the famous French flea market.

BABY

A mother's permission for some kind of behavior can often cause Baby to let up on it. One mother found when she asked her toddler if he wanted to play "being the baby" for a while that his competition with his new brother became less painful to him. He could be the baby when he wanted, to be a boy when he wanted.

Some hard-worked mothers seem to have a constant time of it with their baby's accidents. If they aren't hitting themselves with a toy, they're falling down the stairs. Sometimes it's an age, sometimes it's a tense Baby. Consultation with a doctor who's a good listener may help.

Slim Lines Accent Spring Coats, Suits

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The prettiest Easter Parade in years will star slim fashions worn with big, blossoming hats.

The combination of stem-like suits, and coats with lightweight but bulky hats, is no accident. It was planned that way to re-create the romantic, reedy look of the early 1900's.

This year's slim lines are not straight ones. They are supple, slightly curvy and, with many of the suits, semifitted. They take into account bustline, waistline and hipline and give them gentle curves.

In coats, these slender, easy-to-wear lines take the form of a fluid, unrestricted silhouette. Coats may be narrow or they may be full but the all-over impression is one of slim ease. With this narrow line, designers have used top interest expressed in Empire lines of seaming, capelet sleeves and dropped shoulder lines. It's this top interest that so clearly marks a coat as being spring, 1956.

The mandarin coat and the caftan coat, both with simple lines, take on elegance for spring through embroidery or pretty silk print dresses to make up a costume.

In suits, the fresh look of the shorter jacket has erased the long tunic. These are soft, fem-jackets entirely devoid of a hard, tailored look. Most of them are softly rounded at the waistline.

Depending on detailing of fabric for interest. Skirts are slim but not rigid and many have pleats or back panel cuts. Many skirts are gored for walking ease. And even pleated skirts fall into slender lines.

Sybil Connelly, Irish Designer, Predicts Styles Will Go Very Feminine For Fall

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK — UP — A week in Manhattan:

Fashion is at "a strange crossroads," Irish designer Sybil Connelly said when she arrived here to appear in various cities with her Dublin-made dresses.

Miss Connelly says she couldn't quite decide which direction the change would take when she worked on her spring and summer collection. But now she has made up her mind.

"I feel that this easy-fit thing has been evolving for several seasons and it has reached its peak," she said. "You know, men don't like it terribly."

"I think women are going to start looking very feminine. They will start dressing for men."

This will rule out straight, loose daytime clothes, Miss Connelly predicted. We'll show off our shapes from dawn through dusk. "It will happen," she added, "in next fall's collections."

PRODUCERS Hit 'Medic' Censor

HOLLYWOOD, March 10—UP—The producers of the "Medic" TV show Saturday accused Francis Cardinal Spellman of "an unwarranted and very disappointing use of your high office" for action which they said led to the cancellation of a TV showing of the birth of a baby by caesarian section.

NBC television network officials and church spokesmen, however, denied that the cardinal had anything to do with cancelling the scheduled Monday night episode in the "Medic" series. NBC said the birth sequence show was canceled because the network believed it "would be unsuitable for home audiences."

A show featured earlier in the series will be shown in place of the birth feature.

The cancellation followed disclosure that the Rev. Timothy J. Flynn, director of radio and television for the archdiocese of New York, had written the network protesting the scheduled program.

"Father Flynn's letter was inspired by the cardinal," charged "Medic" producer Frank LaTourrette. "We know that for a fact."

LaTourrette, who once studied for the priesthood, said he and James Mosher, the show's writer and coproducer, had wired a protest to Cardinal Spellman.

Onslaught Of Winter Hits In Texas

By UNITED PRESS One of the bitterest onslaughts of winter, packed with snow, sleet and freezing rain, rolled south across Texas Monday in the green-tracks of spring.

Potentially, the snow, sleet and freezing rain and sub-freezing temperatures stood to cost fruit and truck farmers millions of dollars. A dip to freezing last week nipped thousands of fruit-trees that had been lured into bloom by springlike temperatures.

The weather predicted for the rest of Monday and Monday night "could well finish them. Hard Freeze Predicted The same is true for vegetables and grass over the top third of Texas, where a hard freeze is predicted for Monday night.

At 9:30 a. m., the temperature at Dallas and Fort Worth was 31 degrees and falling. At Mineral Wells, steady sleet was whitening the ground and it was below freezing. It was coating the trees. As far south as Waco, in Central Texas, farmers were expecting freezing rains or snow, with a maximum of about 45 degrees Monday and a minimum of 25 degrees early Tuesday.

Expected to Spread The Department of Public Safety reported freezing rain and sleet from Midland to Abilene. The chief forecaster at Abilene said the sleet and freezing rain was expected to spread into North Central and East Texas Monday night.

He said it would spread as far south as San Antonio Monday night and that points as far south as College Station and San Antonio could expect freezing rain and ice-glazed roads.

The Fort Worth weather bureau issued a special warning for the Fort Worth-Dallas area. It said occasional freezing rain or sleet will cause dangerous driving conditions. A hard freeze was predicted for Monday night, with temperatures dropping into the middle 20s.

Freezing Rain at Marfa Marfa had freezing rain, sleet and snow. Light rain fell along the upper coast. Partly cloudy and cold weather was predicted for Tuesday.

So far, there was no frost or freeze warning for the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where millions of dollars worth of truck crops are in the fields.

Grazing was beginning to come out in pastures in North Central and East Texas, and a hard freeze will set it back for weeks. It will also retard plowing and the planting of early field crops.

The temperature plunged to a

More Bad Weather Could Hurt Texas' Crop Outlook

JUMP 3-34 MORE BAD AUSTIN—UP—Sub-freezing weather Monday night, in the wake of last week's cold snap, could wipe out Texas' commercial peaches and severely damage other crops, Agriculture Commissioner John White said Monday.

The bitter cold predicted overnight "may pick up where last week's cold weather left off" in North Central and East Texas, White said.

The agriculture commissioner pointed out that the current weather pattern closely parallels that of last year, when two mid-March freezes wiped out Texas peaches and set back the vegetable crop.

White said that prospects for a peach crop already were very poor due to earlier freeze damage. More sub-freezing weather, he said may wipe out the crop entirely in the north and eastern sections of Texas.

The agriculture commissioner reported results of a survey over the past weekend by Texas Department of Agriculture inspectors and county agents of damage from last week's milder cold snap in the East Texas fruit and vegetable region.

While no accurate estimate of losses to date is yet available, here is what on-the-scene agriculture spokesmen said about crop prospects, even as the new onslaught of winter bore down on the area: In the Gilmer vicinity, Elberta peaches are gone and the later blooming varieties may be endangered Monday night.

The strawberry crop near Wimbora has been hurt severely but previous damage to vegetables was only spotted. It is feared remaining vegetables will suffer Monday night, however.

Local garden vegetables at Nacogdoches already have been killed. Light spotted damage was reported Monday night.

Girlstown Decision Awaited AUSTIN—UP—A five-member advisory committee Saturday weighed a request by the operators of Girlstown, U.S.A., that it be allowed to remain in operation.

A decision was expected within 10 days on the appeal by Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of the home for girls, against an order by the State Department of Public Welfare which would revoke the institution's license.

Miss Anthony, testifying at the end of a three-day hearing Friday, vigorously denied charges by previous witnesses, who said girls were punished by being struck with brooms and other objects at the home near White Face, in West Texas.

She also denied that she had referred to the parents of the girls as "prostitutes and drunkards." Earlier witnesses claimed she made this statement and also testified that some employees at the home were themselves intoxicated at times.

Miss Anthony called herself "just a little country girl." She said, "I have only the works of Girlstown, U.S.A., on which to stand. I have not claimed that I set the world on fire. I have no laurels. Faith is the only security I have."

Miss Anthony was cross-examined by Lubbock county District Attorney Travis Shelton. He asked her if earlier witnesses had lied.

The Democratic leader's comments were contained in a statement released before resumption of Senate debate on the politically touchy farm bill. The Senate faced showdowns Monday on two-price plans for wheat and rice. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) sought to knock out the rice plan, and Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) and other wheat-state senators wanted to put one in for wheat. Carlson's proposal would provide price supports at 100 per cent of parity for domestic wheat consumed by human beings in the United States—usually about 60 per cent of the crop. A wheat farmer could use the rest of his harvest for livestock feed, store it against later crop failure or sell it for export at the prevailing world price.

3 Charges Heard In Court Here

Two persons pleaded guilty and one not guilty to charges in County Court today.

Sloan Day, Delhi, Okla., pleaded guilty to a charge of swindling with a worthless check and was fined $1 and costs and made restitution for the check. He was fined on by S. C. Bowers for a check in the amount of $20 dated Feb. 18, 1956.

Jess Carl Partien, 738 N. Barnes, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and his bond was set at $500. He was arrested by city police Saturday afternoon at the intersection of W. Wilks and Brown.

Success Seen In Senate Lobby Probe

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH WASHINGTON—UP—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson said Monday that the Senate's investigation of lobbying will be "fruitful" despite delays in getting it organized.

The Texas Democrat said he regrets that some people believe the delay in launching the investigation will limit its scope of effectiveness.

In rapid-fire weekend activity the lobbying investigating committee finally cleared its major hurdle—a partisan dispute over rules—and named Sen. John L. McClellan chairman. Immediately the group began searching for a "quality" staff.

McClellan promised all possible speed. But he cautioned that it would be possible to organize the staff in which an important investigation quickly.

The investigation was ordered by the Senate after the furor which developed over a $2,300 campaign contribution offered to, but rejected by, Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) during controversy over the natural gas bill.

Sen. Ralph Flanders (R-Vt.), natural gas bill, said Sunday that "four or five men a day" from the oil-gas industry came to see him during Senate debate on the measure.

Flanders said he told them he thought they were "overdoing it." He said the men were "not professional lobbyists" and "did not seem to be part of an 'organized effort.'" But he added that their efforts were "highly concentrated."

Flanders, appearing on a television program (Celebrity Parade, ABC), emphasized that "lobbying is a useful institution." He said lobbyists have a place in the legislative picture just as lawyers for the defense and prosecution have a place in the judicial.

Born in Clay County, near Wichita Falls in 1887, she came to the Panhandle when she... "was so tiny that (she) scarcely remembers coming." In 1891 the Worleys settled on a section where the town of Hereford now stands. "In that day, you might say we were squatters," she says.

One year later they moved to the North Draw, six miles southwest of Wildorado. She attended country school in Deaf Smith County and later went to public schools in Amarillo. At the age of 15 years, Mrs. Carter attended Goodnight College, a school founded by Mrs. Charles Goodnight. Later she attended Dr. Nunn's Academy at Amarillo and Amarillo Business College.

She was married to Frank M. Carter in 1909, who was working for an oil company at the time. Later he became manager of Armour and Company.

They lived 14 months in Galveston in 1914-15 when the storms were raging. She recalls the flood of 1915 that came in from the bay and undertowed everything to leave the sea wall standing like a stark and bare wall. In 1918 Frank M. Carter died.

The Carters returned to Amarillo in 1915. During this time she kept boarders in a private home and made most of her money making dresses for other people.

For the next three years she "attended" college with her son Frank at the University of Southern California. He obtained his degree in petroleum geology at the University of Oklahoma in 1921, the same year they made a home in Pampa.

Six years after oil came to this area, the Combs-Worley Building was built by Mrs. Carter's mother and Albert Combs. This became the place where the Carters now maintain their office. About this same time, the City Hall, Court House and Schneider Hotel were built.

Frank Carter started in business with a clothing store located on the first floor which he later sold the first office building in Pampa, to Silas Faulkner.

In 1927, Mrs. Carter inherited a portion of the Combs - Worley Ranch and there is very little she doesn't do on the ranch to this day. She helps with branding the cattle; breaks in saddle horses, rounds up cattle, and generally does the work of two men.

"I was raised to work," Inez says, and she has proved it through the years with determined effort and work for worthwhile civic progress.

Ten Umpires Named In Southwest League

By BOB MILBURN Sports Editor San Angelo Standard Times

SAN ANGELO, March 12 — The 10 man Southwestern League umpire list is complete. The list shows all 10 have had at least one year of experience with two of them having 15 and 14 years each in pro ball.

Only two holdovers from the old Longhorn League are on the list. Mickey Umphlet, one year in pro ball, returns along with Matthew Ryan who has had two years in the Longhorn and one in the Mountain States. Umphlet now makes his home in Dallas but was originally from Norfolk, Va., Ryan hails from Brooklyn.

Merlin (Mert) Gardner, signed as a free agent, has had two years experience in the Florida State and Sooner State Leagues. Frits Brown, also signed as a free agent, has served two years in the Sooner State. His home is in Hartford, Kan.

Pat Vastano, another free agent, spent his two years pro experience in the Kitty and Cotton States circuits. He is from Brooklyn. Jack Graham, purchased from the Evangeline league, has two years experience in the Kitty and Evangeline.

Wayne E. Lipp, signed as a free agent, served two years in the Cotton States League and umpired in the Big State playoffs last fall. Burney Smith, another free agent, has had 14 years experience spending last year in the Big State.

Clyde "Tony" Defate, the dean of the staff at 40 years of age, has had 15 years experience, spending time in the Texas and American Association, Big State and Longhorn Leagues. He has been out for several seasons. He resides in Lafayette, La.

Alton Felton, a graduate of the George Barr School and a Dallas resident, was purchased from the Sooner State League where he umpired two seasons.

Gardner, at 34, is the youngest of the group while Lipp is the tallest and heaviest at 6-3 and 340 pounds.

Longhorns Join Southwest Conference Baseball Race

Championship favored Texas last week; the Aggies defeated Sam Houston 4-1 after earlier victories over Sam Houston and Houston; Baylor edged Sam Houston 5-4 after bowing to the same club 8-5, and TCU beat Texas Lutheran 6-0 after being blanked 6-0 by the same club.

The Longhorns open their season with a two-day stand Monday and Tuesday at Austin against Sam Houston State, beaten twice by Texas A&M and once by Baylor in four starts against Southwest Conference foes. Sam Houston beat Baylor once.

Then, Friday and Saturday at Austin, the always-strong Oklahoma team moves in for two games after a Thursday stopover in Dallas against undefeated Southern Methodists.

Other game this week will find SMU at Sam Houston Friday and Saturday, Texas A&M vs. Texas Lutheran at College Station Wednesday and at Seguin Saturday night; Baylor vs. Texas Christian at Waco Monday and at Fort Worth Thursday, and Baylor vs. Houston at Waco Friday and Saturday.

Rice doesn't open its schedule until March 19 against Texas Lutheran.

SMU and Texas A&M are undefeated to date, while Baylor has broken even in two starts and TCU has won one of four games.

Fantastic Putt Boosts Suggs' Lead In Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. —UP— Louise Suggs' ability to come through under pressure on the final green with an 18-foot, downhill-sidehill putt boosted her into a longer lead in earnings on the women's golf circuit Monday as a result of her triumph in the Women's Titleholders tournament.

The little pro from Sea Island, Ga., curled the tricky shot into the cup on the 18th green Sunday for a 72-hole total of 302 in this "Masters tournament for women."

A few minutes later, freckle-faced Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., who has won this tournament six times, good on the 18th green, needing a 13-foot putt to tie Miss Suggs and sent the match into a playoff. She missed.

Miss Suggs, who matched Miss Berg's final round score of two-over-par 74, thus boosted her money winnings on this year's golf tour to $3,871. It was her second championship of the winter, following a triumph in the Havana Open, and her third in this tournament—tying her at that figure with the great Babe Zaharias.

However, there was glory for Miss Berg, too. At the finish, golf immortal Bobby Jones presented her with the Glenn Collett Vase Trophy for the lowest scoring average on the pro circuit last year.

Betsy Rawls was tied for third place by Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., both with 308. Betty Jamson of San Antonio was fifth at 309.

Hitters Take Limelight As Pitchers Allow 18 Homers

By UNITED PRESS The pitchers are supposed to shine in spring training but the hitters started Sunday, collecting 139 hits, including 18 homers, in eight major league exhibition games.

The managers shuffled 54 pitchers into those contests and the batters showed who was boss from Florida to Arizona by making 100 runs. Thirty-seven of these were produced by the 18 homers.

Even the pitchers got into the long-range hitting act. Right hander Vernon Law of the Pittsburgh Pirates hit a four-run homer to pace any 11 to 1 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics and left Infielder Ted Lepcio hit a grand slam homer off rookie right hander Ralph Maueriello and drove in one other run to lead a 17-hit attack that crushed the Brooklyn Dodgers 17 to 5. A crowd of 11,370 watched the Red Sox defeat the world champions for the second straight time at Miami, Fla.

Outfielder Henry Aaron hit two consecutive homers over the 43-foot centerfield fence at Bradenton, Fla., and Bill Bruton also homered to help the Milwaukee Braves whip the Philadelphia Phillies 8 to 2. Aaron's drives were the first ever to clear that part of the wall.

Communists' New Soft Policy To Undergo Its First Test

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Foreign Analyst The new "soft" policy of Communist infiltration in Western European countries is about to undergo its first test.

This new policy was laid down at the recent 20th Communist party congress in Moscow.

It calls upon Communist parties in foreign countries to work with the Socialists and other left wing groups in parliament instead of resorting to violence.

The first test of the policy is coming up in Italy, which has the biggest Communist party—about 2.5 million members—in Western Europe.

Italian Communist party leader Palmiro Togliatti returned to Rome Tuesday from the Moscow congress to find himself faced by a revolt of a strong Red faction which believes in being tough.

Claim Strong Support The rebels—somewhat optimistically, perhaps—claim to represent about one million party members.

Possibly they didn't read the newspaper accounts of the Moscow proceedings, in any event, Togliatti and other party leaders demanded a return to the "revolutionary line."

It will be interesting to see whether Togliatti can restore party discipline. If he can't, he will be in trouble—and so will Moscow.

Now hearing his 68th year, Togliatti has been a Communist since the end of World War I.

Togliatti has been under attack before by the hot heads in his own party. Undoubtedly Moscow will be watching to see how he does this time.

There are 2,055,139 volumes in 31 different libraries on the University of Michigan campus.

A special convention committee will meet Sunday prior to the state executive committee meeting to discuss convention arrangements and make recommendations to the state committee.
