Ike Still Undecided On Second Term Issue

Decision Expected On Return To Washington Saturday

By MERRIMAN SMITH
THOMASVILLE, Ga. —UP— President Eisenhower is still talking both sides of the re-election question as he prepares to end his Georgia holiday and return to Washington for the moment of final decision. The chief executive was scheduled to fly back to the nation's capital early Saturday morning.

For 10 days Mr. Eisenhower has been enjoying a hunting and golfing holiday on the plantation of Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey seven miles south of Thomasville.

According to persons who have discussed his pending second term decision with the President, he gives the impression of "leaning" toward running again, but he still discusses reasons why he should not make the race.

Hasn't Decided

According to politically astute persons who should know, the chief executive has not reached a final decision.

He doesn't have much time, if he sticks to his self-imposed timetable. The President said before coming south that by the end of this month he hoped to have marshalled enough information on which to base a final decision. He promised to announce it shortly after reaching the determination in his own mind.

Largely because Hagerty said here this week that he assumed Mr. Eisenhower would hold a news conference in Washington next Wednesday, Feb. 29, many GOP leaders raced to the conclusion that this would be the day of announcement.

Has Tested Himself

Even after the President's doctors two weeks ago said he should be physically able to handle the burdens of the presidency for another term, the President maintained certain reservations concerning his stamina and physical strength.

For this reason, his stay in Thomasville has not been just a luxurious rest. In a self-designed crucible, Mr. Eisenhower has been testing himself sternly. He has pushed himself physically by spending six or more hours a day hunting quail and wild turkeys. He played golf three times, including two 18-hole rounds. The full length golf games were weeks ahead of what his doctors had forecast. They thought it would be spring before he would go 18 holes.

Cars Tipped Over
The violent derailment of the dining car pulled two cars forward of it off the rails. They tipped over onto their sides. Three cars in the rear jumped the tracks but remained upright.

Michael Berov, who was in yard at the time of the wreck, said the calm following the wreck was amazing.

"There was a little colored boy with his legs cut off and he wasn't even crying," he said.

The dead were identified as Edward Q. Holloway, 63, of Wilmington, Del., a brakeman; Thomas Reed Johnson, 35, of Baltimore; Alexander Nero, 22, of Trenton, N. J.; Alfred B. Haupt, of Baltimore and Sidney Jackson, 80, a railroad porter of New York.

Nero, a university student, was en route to Yonkers, N. Y., to be married Saturday.

Five Killed, 90 Hurt As Train Jumps Track

SEVERN, Md. —UP—Survivors of a crack passenger train derailment said Friday it was "unbelievable" there were not more casualties when the New York-bound train jumped its rails here Thursday, killing five and injuring 90 others.

The 14-car Embassy Express left the rails as it was rolling at 80 miles an hour across a straight stretch of track on a marshy flatland Thursday night.

It was 24 minutes out of Washington and moving on a tight schedule toward New York when the air brakes locked suddenly and nine of the 14 cars bounded out of control.

Former Senator Injured
Five persons died and 90 were injured in the pileup that followed. Several of the injured were not expected to live. One of those injured less seriously was former Sen. Herbert R. O'Connor (D-Md.). He suffered a cut on the head.

The dining car swerved to the right as it left the tracks, slammed head on into a steel pole supporting overhead electric wires.

Negroes Walk And Pray In Race Dispute

MONTEGOMERY, Ala. —UP— Thousands of Negroes shunned their cars and walked to work Friday in a "spiritual demonstration," launched by song and prayer, against the arraignment of their leaders for staging a city-wide racial bus boycott.

Car pools, taxi ferrying employer-lifts and other devices by which the Negroes have avoided using buses for 11 weeks were abandoned. Suburban commuters parked their cars at the city's edge and joined the walking horde. "Not a single race-loving Negro will start his car or ride a car," the Rev. R. D. Abernathy told a throng he estimated at 5,000, which jammed the First Baptist Church Thursday night on the eve of "prayer-pilgrimage day."

There had been talk of marching on the county courthouse where Abernathy and 25 other Negro ministers among the approximately 90 Negroes under arrest were scheduled to be arraigned, but the clergymen urged their followers to go about their usual business—on foot.

They were indicted on charges of violating a little-used state anti-boycott law in an attempt to modify seating arrangements on the segregated buses. Instead of riding buses they formed car pools, or walked during the past 11 weeks. "We don't want a crowd of people at the courthouse," Abernathy said. "Anything could happen. We are peace-loving people. We will win this struggle through passive resistance."

Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., chief of staff, who met with the board, indicated the need for surgical equipment, suggested the addition of another crew in the operating room, and pointed out the need for an additional operating room. He suggested taking members of the board on a tour of the hospital during a heavy work-day.

Board members also discussed the personnel problem, the present need for nurses, and operating expenses.

POETRY LOVER LEARNED JUDO IN FEAR OF WIFE

LEICESTER, England —UP— Harold Frankel, a poetry lover, told a divorce judge that he learned judo wrestling to defend himself from his wife.

But Mrs. Eileen Frankel was awarded a divorce anyway. She testified her husband twisted her arm behind her back, poured boiling water over her and banged her head on a concrete floor.

Frankel, secretary of the local poetry society, insisted, however, that he never actually used his judo methods on his wife.

Backers Say Auto Bill To Be Slow

WASHINGTON —UP— Backers of the Democratic plan to tax motorists and truckers to help pay for a national highway-building program conceded Friday the plan is a long way from becoming law.

The program cleared its first roadblock Thursday when the tax-boosting features were tentatively approved by the House Ways and Means committee. The group wrote into the plan iron-clad assurances that the new tax money would be used for nothing but highways.

Motorists and railroads are fighting the plan. They contend it favors truckers.

The plan would raise about $1.5 billion in new revenue over the next 16 years to pay for 15 years of expanded road building. It would provide an additional tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline, diesel fuel and special motor fuels and three cents a pound on tires and retread rubber.

In addition, the legislation would boost from eight to 10 per cent the excise tax on the manufacturers' price for trucks, buses and truck-trailers. Passenger cars already are taxed 20 per cent.

The taxes would go into effect July 1.

TRADE
Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) charged the administration concealed "astounding secret concessions" made to America's allies who want to trade with the Communists. He accused the administration of using censorship and classifying documents as secret to hide errors, inefficiency and poor judgment of certain government officials.

3rd Operating Room Planned For Hospital

The Highland General Hospital Board voted last night to petition County Commissioners Court to take bids on equipment for a third operating room at the hospital.

Equipment for the room will include an operating lamp, new operating table, surgical instruments, and an anesthetic machine at a cost of about $5,500. As discussed last night, the new equipment will result in increased operating efficiency. It will take between 60 and 90 days to receive a new adjustable table. Old minor operating table will be traded in on the new table.

Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., chief of staff, who met with the board, indicated the need for surgical equipment, suggested the addition of another crew in the operating room, and pointed out the need for an additional operating room. ## Kidnap-Killer Executed In Gas Chamber

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. —UP—Kidnap-killer Arthur Ross Brown died at 12:11 a. m. Friday in Missouri's cyanide gas chamber.

Brown was executed under the federal Lindbergh law for kidnaping Mrs. Wilma Allen, wife of a wealthy North Kansas City automobile dealer, from a fashionable Kansas City shopping center last Aug. 4.

Brown forced Mrs. Allen to drive her car across the Missouri line into Johnson county, Kansas, where he raped her and then fired two bullets into her head.

Brown stepped into the chamber at 12:09 a. m. and Col. James D. Carter, Missouri director of public correction, tripped a tray of cyanide powder into a pan of sulphuric acid.

Doctors, who pronounced him dead at 12:11, said it took the odorless white gas that formed only three minutes to snuff out Brown's life.

His last words were in prayer with two Catholic priests at the door of the chamber.

The victim of the sex-killer was the mother of two sons and the wife of William R. Allen, Jr. Her blood-stained clothing was found in her abandoned car, but her body was not found until three days later in a field near Stillwell, Kan.

Tibbets' Term Not Up This Year

A story in yesterday's News reported that Gray County Commissioner Oscar Tibbets of McLean would have to run for re-election this year. The story was in error as County Commissioner Jim McCracken, in precinct three, will have to run in compliance with a new state law that required the commissioners in odd numbered precincts to serve two-year terms and those in even numbered precincts were to serve four-year terms, effective in 1954.

Thus, the terms of commissioner Arlie Carpenter and McCracken will expire this year. The terms of commissioners "Nat" Lunsford, precinct two, and Oscar Tibbets, precinct four, will expire in 1958.

Shivers May Ride Race Issue To Fourth Term

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
AUSTIN —UP— Gov. Allan Shivers has proposed that the voters of Texas decide whether they want to try to avoid desegregation of their schools by the device of interposition.

Political circles immediately interpreted the announcement as a campaign spring-board for a surprising try by Governor Shivers at an unprecedented fourth election term.

Shivers suggested that interposition be approached in Texas from the viewpoint of all federal encroachment on state's rights, rather than segregation alone.

Interposition is an ancient legal maneuver which holds that the states can "interpose" their own rules whenever they feel a federal action violates rights reserved to the state.

Sovereignty Involved
"The problem" involved the basic right of the sovereign state to protest against encroachment by the federal government and the Supreme Court," he wrote George Sandlin, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and Will Crews Morris, chairman of the Texas Advisory Committee on segregation in public schools.

"Or, to put it another way, the question is the real meaning of the 10th amendment, which provides that powers not delegated to the federal government by the Constitution nor prohibited to the states are reserved to the states respectively or to the people. "It is my tentative conclusion that the interposition proposal, if approved by the people, should take the form of a recommended amendment to the U.S. Constitution, clarifying and strengthening the principle expressed in the 10th amendment."

He suggested that interposition be put before Democratic precinct, county and state conventions in May. It would be put on the primary ballot for the people to vote on, if the conventions decide it should.

Sandlin said he will refer the proposal to the legal subcommittee of the state Democratic Executive committee.

Comment that Shivers might use the interposition proposal as a basis for a campaign was brought on by his announcement earlier this week that he was "seriously considering" seeking re-election. He said he would make public his decision within two weeks.

Producer Is Looking For Some 'Cultural' Actors

By ALJNE MOSSBY
HOLLYWOOD —UP— A New York television producer is scouring the West looking for "stars" for his show — but instead of curves he wants them to be cultural.

Charles Romine producer of CBS TV's "Adventure," used to confine his cameras mainly to the American Museum of Natural History in New York and its film supply.

But this season the top-rated educational show is expanding its program under water, in foreign countries and all over the United States.

Last Sunday the program used the ocean floor of California's Catalina Island as its "studio." For the first time, live, mobile TV cameras were put under water in waterproof boxes to televise the "actors" of the deep.

Now producer Romine is talent-scouting for new spots for the unusual show.

"We hope to show a tuna fishing fleet off the coast of Lower California this spring," Romine announced as he packed for a "talent search" for more adventures in Portland.

"Then we'll take our live cameras to Catalina Island again to televise the wild life there. Most people don't know there are buffalo and wild bear on that island, right off California."

Romine also plans to train his "Adventure" cameras on San Francisco's Japanese section and on the snakes of Florida. And he's sent crews to Israel to photograph an "Adventure" program on the discovery of the historic religious "Dead Sea scrolls."

"Adventure" is proof TV audiences are fascinated by nature and education. Sunday-afternoon shows are one of few cultural efforts that save TV viewers from a steady diet of quiz programs, panel shows, Ed Sullivan and Liberace.

Even sponsors are realizing "Adventure's" impact. CBS nobly has carried the program for three years minus a sponsor, but now three are nibbling to buy the show.

Atomic Energy Expected To 'Solve The Cancer Problem'

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON —UP—Dr. Robert R. Newell of Stanford University expects atomic energy to "solve the cancer problem."

But he believes this conquest will come to pass through application of atomic radiation to research—not through its use as a cancer treatment.

Newell is professor of biophysics and director of the radiobiology department at Stanford University Hospital. His views on radiation versus cancer are reported in the current issue of "Research Review" published by the Office of Naval Research.

Radioactive isotopes — ray-emitting materials now produced in quantity by the Atomic Energy Commission — are widely used in treatment of cancer, Newell does not believe, however, that they are potential cancer cures.

Sky Is Limit

But in basic research with such tools, he says, "I really think that for the future the sky is the limit."

Newell discussed use of radiation in medical treatment and diagnosis and in biological research. He said the attack on cancer seems to produce cycles of alternate hope and disappointment.

"I expect," he said, "to see more of these disappointments before we adapt ourselves to what I think is the truth, namely that radiation per se is not the solution of the cancer problem."

"I do in fact expect to see isotopes solve the cancer problem. But they are going to solve it through fundamental studies in chemistry and physiology."

"When we really know what cancer is, then we shall be in a position to do something effective about it."

Newell said radiation in some cases has eased patients and even helped to control or prevent cancer.

Since radioactive materials became plentiful, they have been ingeniously adapted in a number of ways to therapy. There are cobalt-60 needles, much cheaper than radium.

Used Different Ways

Radioactive gold wire has been locked in small tubes of ordinary gold which can be inserted into the body. "Hot" gold or cobalt can be put in hollow nylon thread and sewn into and around tissue to be treated.

Radioactive gold and other elements suspended in liquids can be induced to flow into tiny areas not otherwise reachable. Radioline and radiophosphorus have similar uses.

Boron injected into a brain tumor can be made radioactive, by placing the patient in the neutron beam from an atomic reactor.

TV Most Complicated Gadget In Home Besides Your Wife

By WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK —UP— With the possible exception of your wife, your TV set is the most complicated gadget in your home.

The average set contains more than 1,000 components and several thousand connections. The chances are, like the workings of your frau's mind, it is a mystery to you.

For this reason, you're bait for the sly, the crooked repairman.

According to the National Association of Better Business Bureaus, most TV repairmen are honest. But because of the mystery surrounding the mechanics of the TV set, the repair business is a natural for sidewinders bent on bilking the public.

The national bureau places TV repair among the top half-dozen $75 problems in the nation.

$15 Million Lost Annually

Right now, according to the most conservative estimates, the American public is being swindled out of some $15 million each year for phony TV repairs. Last year, the 107 local Better Business Bureaus reported 107,732 inquiries and complaints from rankled set owners.

The abuses take various guises. One of the most common is the "flat rate" repair deal. In this one, the repairman offers to fix a set for an absurd price—$1 or $2. Usually the customer winds up paying $20, $50, even $100. The bureau likes to point out that it costs a qualified technician almost $5 to visit your home in terms of time and overhead.

There are all the obvious capers, too—replacing tubes when they're not needed, overcharging for parts.

President Giovanni Gronchi Of Italy To Visit Washington

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy seems to believe that his country should play a much bigger part in Western Allied affairs.

Gronchi is to arrive in Washington Monday for a state visit to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Dispatches from Rome indicate he will do some frank talking about American foreign policy and about Italy's importance.

Gronchi's view apparently is that Italy, which before World War II was a top-ranking power, has been shunted to a diplomatic side-track.

It is reported he will have some criticism to make regarding the present set-up of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which Italy is a member, and regarding American-foreign policy in general.

Normally, any such talk would be made by Italy's premier, Antonio Segni.

Things Have Changed

But since Gronchi was elected president last April 29 for a seven-year term, things have changed in Italy.

Italy's two preceding post-war presidents, like the president of France, were figureheads. Their role was largely ceremonial.

Gronchi no sooner had been inaugurated than he started to make himself a spokesman of Italian policy, domestic and foreign.

He caused considerable anxiety in the United States and other allied countries, for one thing, by calling for "an opening to the left."

This was immediately interpreted as implying that he thought the Communists and their fellow-traveling left wing Socialists ought to be permitted to play an active role in the government.

What he really aimed at, it appears now, was to change the policies of the dominant Christian Democratic party, which he helped to found, so that it would attract voters from leftist lures.

Wants Alliance Broadened

He does seem to believe that the North Atlantic Alliance should be broadened by the inclusion of economic as well as military aid and that American foreign policy should be more flexible if it is to oppose Communist infiltration effectively.

But Gronchi has shown no sign that he wants to change Italy's firm pro-western policy in any way.

Gronchi is 68 but looks much younger. He loves politics. He served as an under secretary to Benito Mussolini. But he broke with fascism over the murder of Something new under the sun! This is an experimental Bell Solar Battery installation at Americus, Georgia—where, for the first time, the sun is furnishing power directly to a telephone line.

New idea! Sun power for your telephone calls

Thanks to a remarkable telephone invention called the Bell Solar Battery, energy from the rays of the sun may someday send your voice over telephone wires...

by Don Davis, Telephone News Reporter

Remember how you used to flash messages with a mirror on a bright, sunny day? Or burn holes in dry leaves? Well, you were using "sun power." A simple form of it, yes—but it was still power converted from the greatest source of energy man has ever known—the sun.

For centuries, men have been intrigued with the idea of capturing and storing up

Old Sol's limitless energy. But up until just recently, no one had found a practical way to do it.

Now telephone scientists have come up with the first workable device to do the job. It's called the Bell Solar Battery. Not since the birth of atomic power has any discovery promised more benefits. Certainly, no other form of power starts with greater natural advantages. Sunshine is super-plentiful and it doesn't cost a dime.

LOOKS ARE DECEIVING
The Bell Solar Battery isn't nearly as awe-inspiring in its appearance as it is in its potential. It looks like a square tray full of small disks, each about the size of a quarter.

The heart of the Bell Solar Battery is sand—common, ordinary sand. From sand, specially prepared silicon disks are produced (and this is where it took years of hard work and a lot of know-how) which are capable of converting sunlight directly into electrical power.

NOW BEING TESTED

How will this remarkable invention affect your telephone service? And how soon? It's still too early to say exactly. Right now, some of the answers are being worked out in the town of Americus, Georgia, where an experimental installation of Bell Solar Batteries is supplying power to amplifier stations on rural telephone lines. And doing it very well, it might be added.

Simple in appearance, this Solar Battery is made up of 432 wafer-thin silicon disks electrically linked together. There are no moving parts to wear out nor any corrosive chemicals.

OUT OF THIS WORLD

Like many telephone inventions, solar batteries will have uses in other fields. Indications are that they can be used as a power supply for low-power portable radios and similar equipment. And like so many other telephone inventions, the Bell Solar Battery is dramatic proof of the lengths to which telephone scientists will go to find new ways of improving what is already said to be the finest telephone service in the world.

This time, they've even brought the sun into the act.

Bonus Sought For Farmers In Soil Bank

By DAYTON MOORE
WASHINGTON — UP — Sen. Bourke B. Hickenloper proposed Friday that corn farmers be given a fat bonus for taking soil bank payments in surplus grain.

The Iowa Republican offered his plan as an amendment to the omnibus farm bill which the Senate debated for the third straight day. A vote on the measure was not expected before next week or later.

The farm aid bill calls for a $1.1 billion "soil bank" and rigid 90 per cent price supports on corn, cotton, peanuts and millable wheat. It also calls for a two-price plan for rice and higher supports for dairy products.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson told a national television audience Thursday night farmers are "not on the rocks" or "depression-bound."

But Benson said the nation's huge crop surpluses "smothering farm prices and income." He said the surpluses were caused by the old 90 per cent rigid support program ditched by the administration in favor of flexible supports.

He called on the public to back the flexible support program. He urged his audience to "make your wishes known" to members of Congress.

The Senate debate over rigid price supports is expected to be the hottest of current congressional session. Benson has said he would recommend that President Eisenhower veto any bill containing a rigid price provision.

The Iowa senator's amendment would leave flexible price supports on corn, but would give farmers a two-way premium if they took payment "in kind" instead of cash, for shifting allotted acreage to a conservation crop.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet.

GOOD NEWS

1. President Eisenhower made two important gestures of good will toward the free countries of the world. First, the President offered to use a part of the enormous American food surplus to aid the countries of Western Europe which are suffering severely in the sharpest, longest cold wave of the century. He followed up this move by freeing $1 billion worth of uranium for the peaceful development of atomic energy. Half of this will go to foreign countries outside of the Iron Curtain. "This action... is an earnest of our faith that the atom can be made a powerful instrument for the promotion of world peace," the President said.

2. United States forces took the lead in maneuvers in the Far East which gave a plain warning to the Chinese Communists against aggression. Six countries out of the eight which belong to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization held maneuvers on the coast of Thailand. In a larger, purely American operation, United States forces held impressive atomic warfare exercises at Iowa Jima, off the coast of Japan. Both maneuvers were a hint to the Reds that the Southeast Asia treaty may soon cease to be the "Paper Tiger" they call it.

3. West Germany notified the United States, Great Britain and France that it is willing to negotiate the payment of a cash contribution to the maintenance of Allied forces on its territory under the North Atlantic Treaty. A one-year agreement for the payment of such a contribution expires on May 5. West German Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer had announced that he would pay nothing.

BAD NEWS
1. Speakers at the Congress of the Russian Communist party in Moscow blue-printed plans for a world-wide drive for political and economic penetration of free countries under the guise of "peaceful co-existence." The theme of the speeches was that the world can be conquered for communism without resort to war. There was no indication in any speech that the Russians are willing to make any concessions which might make their "co-existence" talk a reality instead of a subversive propaganda weapon.

2. Pro-Western Green Premier Constantine Karamanlis won a close parliamentary election victory over seven combined opposition parties. One result of the election was to bring the outlawed Communist party back into active politics, disguised as the "united democratic left." "Undoubtedly the Communists increased their power, prestige and influence," Karamanlis admitted in a United Press interview. The election, and the bitterness of the defeated opposition, threatened to bring a long period of instability to a key Mediterranean country.

3. A serious revolt developed in West Germany against what his opponents call the "one-man rule" of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The revolt, long smoldering, was dramatized by the defeat of the 80-year-old chancellor's forces in the state government of North Rhine-Westphalia, richest and most populous of the nine West German states. The revolt threatened to slow up Adenauer's rearmament program.

SALT LAKE CITY — UP — Judge Phil L. Hensen ordered Mrs. Irma S. Turner to pay $5 or spend a day in jail for driving the wrong way on a one-way street. She chose jail, but instead on bringing along one of her five children. The sentence was hastily reduced to two and a half

Europe Gets Relief From Bitter Cold

LONDON — UP — A North African warm front Friday eased winter's grip on most of Western Europe where at least 858 persons have died in the worst cold spell of the century.

Britain, Spain and Portugal still suffered from snow and cold. Elsewhere the warming breezes from North Africa brought a measure of relief, but also touched off fears of thaws and resultant floodings.

Deaths attributed to the weather since the first icy front moved down from Siberia Feb. 1 showed: France 201; Italy 156; Germany 87; Yugoslavia 79; Britain 70; Denmark 28; Belgium 31; Portugal 27; Sweden 26; Austria, Holland, and Spain 24 each; Greece and Switzerland 20 each; Turkey 17; Norway 12 and Finland two.

Eight persons died in a fire Thursday in northern England when a blowtorch, being used to install hotwater pipes to heat a factory, was knocked over. The three-story textile mill in Keighley was gutted.

Snow isolated three British cities of Margate, Ramsgate and Broadstairs, with a total population of 100,000. Roads connecting the three communities were closed by drifts.

French weathermen predicted more snow and cold in Paris. But the situation elsewhere in France improved. Temperatures rose along the Riviera and railway traffic was nearly back to normal.

Rescue workers Thursday found an Algerian worker riveted to a tree by ice at Lille. He had been frozen to the tree for 48 hours in six below zero temperatures. Medical authorities said his arms and legs may have to be amputated.

Six Missing Planes Found

MIAMI — UP — Six small planes missing since Thursday in the Caribbean with 16 American missionaries aboard were found Friday at the Cuban town of Niquero, the Coast Guard said. The passengers were reported safe.

The planes, part of a group of nine light aircraft on a goodwill mission, had vanished on a 200-mile overwater flight from Camaguey, Cuba, to Kingston, Jamaica.

The missionaries, members of the Church of God of Prophecy of Cleveland, Tenn., left Miami two days ago on their Christian fellowship mission through the Caribbean area.

ONE WAY TO BE SURE OF GOOD EATING is to make calories your friends, advises Dr. Charles Glen King, Executive Director of The Nutrition Foundation. Science continues to find evidence that minerals, vitamins, and the amino acids of proteins are more efficiently used when supplied by the calorie-containing foods in which they occur naturally. Results of research caution against skipping breakfast or other meals as a means of cutting down on calories. Besides the loss of alertness which follows this practice, there is a reduction in the effective use of food nutrients. Essentials needed for building and maintaining healthy tissues may be lost from the body.

AT THE UNIVERSITY of Nebraska the effect of proteins in meals spaced at different intervals was studied. When the daily supply of protein was furnished in only two meals, there was wasteful loss from the body of nitrogenous substances needed for tissue building. Dividing the same proteins evenly among three meals restored balance and the losses of essential nitrogen decreased. Another study points up this need for timing, and emphasizes besides the selection of calories for the company they keep. At the University of Wisconsin, investigators found that the way the amino acids are supplied in the diet affects the way the body uses them. They recommend a ratio of amino acids as they occur in high quality proteins, as in meat, fish, eggs, poultry, milk, cheese, and other dairy products. Your chances for balancing amino acids are favored, they say, when animal proteins are supplied with each meal. Balanced combinations may also be obtained with cereals, vegetables, or fruits are eaten with animal proteins. Combinations of cereals with milk, meat with beans, or fruit with cheese are examples.

When body weight becomes excessive through eating too much and the diet is indiscriminately selected, calories can become foes instead of friends. Whether reducing or following another type of balanced diet, make calories your friends by planning meals to include high quality proteins, fruits, vegetables, and whole grain or enriched breads and cereals. With selections from this wide variety of foods it is easy to follow two prime requisites for good eating: Food must look attractive and taste as good as it looks!

NUMEROUS ROUTES lead to good breakfasts and no one way is the only way. It is the distinction that counts — a breakfast that insures each individual a fair share of the needed nutrients for the day. It is high time for the defense of those who do not follow beaten paths in their choices of good breakfasts, choices which often prove to be excellent, nutrition-wise. Traveling their independent ways are the children who like peanut butter or toasted cheese sandwiches for breakfast. On a different route are the people who prefer a bowl of soup or chowder to start the day. There is nothing so revolutionary about these breakfasts. Europeans long have had cheese and soup for the first meal of the day.

Any of these breakfasts can meet acceptable nutrition standards if they include a vitamin C-rich fruit, extra enriched toast or bread for energy and B vitamins, plus milk for children. In the sandwich meal, cheese and peanut butter are excellent protein foods. Cream soups are avenues for introducing milk for those who do not like to drink it.

Bread will be the basis of many of these meals. Scientists have shown that the cereal breadstuffs and the popular bacon 'n' egg meal are, calorie for calorie, equally efficient. The protein of bread, or cereal, staves off hunger and prolongs efficiency. The day's protein needs are best utilized if some protein food is eaten at each meal.

Whichever route is chosen, a good breakfast will be the destination if it follows the way of: A vitamin C-rich food such as a citrus fruit; a protein-rich food such as eggs, meat, bread and milk, or cereal and milk. Sandwiches of cheese or peanut butter are protein-rich foods, too. Additional servings or enriched toast belong in the pattern for sufficient energy and B vitamins.

Music Clubs Plan Junior Festivals

The Seventh District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, is making plans for Junior Festivals, to be held in March, Miss Mattie Mae Swisher of Hereford, seventh district director of junior festivals, has announced.

The festivals will be held in three divisions—Lubbock and Quanah, Mar. 10; and Hereford, Mar. 17. Teachers and counselors should inform the director of the division in which they wish to enter pupils of the number of entrants they expect to have so entrance blanks can be issued in time, Miss Swisher reported. Deadline for returning entrance blanks with entrance fees is Mar. 2, in Quanah and Lubbock and Mar. 5, in Hereford.

All members of Junior Clubs, 15 years of age and under, whose dues are paid, are eligible to enter. Music teachers may organize their studios into Junior Clubs to make their students eligible to enter the junior festivals.

Primary purpose of the festivals is to encourage and inspire young students to greater effort toward artistic achievement and provide a basis for musical attainment.

Further information is available from Miss Swisher, 108 W. 8th St., Hereford.

Women Change Hairdos, Hemlines And Husbands, But Not Good Luck Charms

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK — UP — Women change their hairdos and their hemlines and their taste in husbands, but when it comes to good luck charms they'll take the same old four leaf clovers grandma trusted.

Our superstitions are highly reliable, reports a young lady who specializes in designing charm bracelets. The horse may have lost out to the horseless carriage, but the horseshoe has never been threatened by the rubber tire so a good luck piece.

Our sentimental moods are something else again, Sheila Tucker added. You simply can't predict what women will pick as sentimental mementos.

Some 2,000 Charms Miss Tucker spends her days in a small Fifth Ave. jewelry shop which boasts the world's largest collection of charms. If the 2,000 bracelet charms in the store don't fit your needs, Miss Tucker will sketch your sentimental favorite and have it made up.

"Hardly a woman comes into the store who doesn't have a good luck charm on her bracelet," the attractive brunette said. "Four leaf clovers and horseshoes are the favorites."

She doesn't even try to out-guess their sentimental favorites. One girl from Ohio wrote into "The Marchal" shop and asked them to make up a gold charm in the form of Gregory Peck wearing a full dress suit. She wanted the jaw of the model hinged so that when it opened she could read the inscription "I do" engraved inside.

The most macabre sentiment Miss Tucker recalls was from a woman who ordered a charm in the form of a tombstone, inscribed exactly as her father's tombstone was.

One young woman who had completed her psychiatric treatment ordered a charm in the form of a room with a tiny couch, a woman's figure reclining, and a man seated next to it taking notes.

Women generally look for decorative charms, Miss Tucker said. Men who order sentimental charms for women are fond of commemorating special dates.

Calendar Popular — "The calendar charm is one of the most popular of all time," she said.

One of the reasons charm bracelets have gained in popularity in recent years is their new mechanization. The tiniest charms have moving parts. The latest Marchal charm Miss Tucker designed is a tiny gold flash bulb camera. By flipping the wheel a tiny flint sparks and gives the effect of a flash bulb going off in the minute reflector.

"People pay from three dollars to $500 for charms," the designer said. "The only one that ever stumped us was a man who wanted us to exactly reproduce his invention. The invention was such a complicated gadget we couldn't match it."

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

EDWIN L. HALL, Minister
St. Paul Methodist Church
Pampa, Texas

RELEASE BY SHATTEREDNESS

"There came a woman having an alabaster cruse of ointment of pure spikenard very costly; and she brake the cruse."
—Mark 14:3.

The house was filled with the odor of the ointment. And the secret of that was the shattering of the lovely translucent alabaster cruse.

I have caught a singer doing that. I set near the choir in the church. Sometimes I can catch a nervousness that becomes a trembling, and the eyes begin to glisten, and I understand — there is something broken inside and the song is given pervasive and penetrating power to fill the house and to reach the heart.

Whence comes the efficiency of that teacher in the Sunday school causing boys and girls to love their Lord and the house of the Lord? The secret of it is shatteredness. Bereaved and brokenhearted she releases all the preciousness that she had gathered through many years and finds her own manner, with the inventiveness of love, of anointing the feet and head of Jesus.

And men have preached who after the sermon slipped out the back door ashamed to face the people because they had done so poorly. There was something broken inside. And that was the sermon which touched men's hearts.

The alabaster cruse, release by shatteredness, it was symbolical of the shatteredness of Jesus when he should hang upon the Cross and the fragrance of his deed should be released in the whole house of humanity.

AROUND THE SPORTS WORLD

AMBUSHED—Some real Paiute Indians at left whooped it up in a War Dance in Las Vegas to the amazement, and possible fright, of the folks getting off that plane. A sheriff's posse was also on hand on horseback to add further realism to the setting. This, of course, is not the usual greeting that strangers get in Nevada. It was a little something extra and just for fun.

A HELPING CHAMP—Heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano shows tiny Paul Courtemanche, of Brockton, Mass., how to use the gloves. The Rock, who is sporting a "Tonight I Am A Mother" badge, and the lad who was stricken by polio, were on hand at a ceremony aimed at combating the dread disease.

TWO THINGS AT ONCE—When Mrs. John Sisich, left, puts eight-month-old Gael in a plastic crib near the shoreline in San Francisco, she's able to enjoy a swim, too, with her friend, Jean Duba. The water isn't exactly warm, but it makes nice wading.

IT'S HIS—Dartmouth College senior Richard W. Kurts, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., is putting finishing touches to his model of Ullr, Norse god of skiing. Kurts made the model for the competition held annually among students on the campus at Hanover, N. H., and it won. Then it was done in snow.

CUE QUEEN—Japan's billiards queen, 40-year-old Noriko Katsura, lines up a shot during an exhibition match in Manila. Unbeaten in 15 home matches, Miss Katsura made it 16 in a row by outstroking Angel Cataylo, the Philippines' No. 2 billiardist, 250-243 in their straight rail (no corners) exhibition.

SO FAR SO GOOD—Dr. Harry Price, a 29-year-old dentist, is shown making what he thinks is the first water ski jump ever made indoors. Four men towed him up the ramp with a rope to perform this feat at the annual National Boat Show in Chicago.

SLED, AHOY!—After a heavy snowfall in Leavenworth, Kans., Eugene Ryan got out a 16-foot-long bobsled he used as a small boy and invited 20 youngsters for a ride. Ryan hauled the kids on the sled behind his auto for 60 miles, and a good time was had by all.

TRYING HER LUCK—Lissome Cynthia Patrick, one of Hollywood's new starlets, is all set for some spear fishing in the Pacific Ocean. She was vacationing at Laguna Beach with her fishing equipment, a far cry from the old way of sitting around with a pole and waiting for fish to come to you.

FULL OF HOPE—Gloria Ponte, of New York, expects to find plenty of that cold white stuff on which to ski when she gets to Colorado. She's shown at the airport waiting to board a plane for Denver, headed for Aspen and a lot of winter sports.

DUTCH TREAT IN WINTER—The picturesque windmill near Leliden, Holland, is one of the many that skaters must pass as they glide swiftly over the ice. They were all engaged in a traditional 40-mile skating tour over the frozen canals, as well as working up their appetites.

LUCK SHOULD RIDE ALONG—Three young adventurers stand on the stern of the 40-foot boat they hope to take from Singapore to Nice, France. They are, left to right, French Commando Lt. Bernuzeau Roland of Saigon; Simone Moncharmont, a French schoolteacher who wants to write a book about the voyage, and Jacob Crane, Annapolis, Md., owner of the boat.

Southeast Asia 'Paper Tiger' Is Showing Signs Of Life

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

That Southeast Asia "Paper Tiger," as the Chinese Communists call it, show signs of coming to life. "Paper Tiger" is what the Reds call the eight-nation Southeast Asia Defense Alliance.

It was signed in Manila on Sept. 8, 1954. Its members are the United States, Great Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

The alliance is called officially the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Unlike the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe, it has no standing military force. It has been, as the Chinese Reds say, a paper alliance only.

But broadcasts by the Red Peking radio show that the Communist government is displeased over two recent developments.

Purely American Games

These are the maneuvers held off the coast of Thailand last week by small forces of six of the SEATO nations and the impressive atomic warfare exercises held on Iwo Jima off Japan ending Monday. The Iwo Island games were purely American.

Nor can the Chinese Communists be pleased at apparently authoritative reports from Formosa that the United States and Nationalist China will hold some really big joint maneuvers soon.

There is to be a conference of the SEATO countries in Karachi, Pakistan, starting March 6. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will lead the United States delegation.

Reports from Far Eastern capitals forecast that some delegations will make a strong bid for the formation of some kind of permanent, ready-for-action military force.

The advisability of bringing Nationalist China, South Korea and Viet Nam into the Southeast Asia alliance undoubtedly will be discussed.

These three countries all have big, combat-ready armies.

Face Red Aggression

They also are the three countries which, above all others in East Asia, face the danger of the Chinese Communist aggression against which the SEATO alliance was formed.

For various reasons, the United States and Great Britain have been reluctant either to form a standing SEATO striking force or to admit to the eight-nation alliance the three countries mentioned.

But more and more American and British military men stationed in the Far East are coming around to the view that it would be smart to form even a tiny standing SEATO force.

Such a force could be strengthened as time passed.

More important than the actual strength in numbers of a defense force would be the establishment of a central headquarters at which staff officers of all eight treaty nations could co-operate.

No dramatic results are expected at next month's Karachi conference. But all aspects of Southeast Asia defense will be discussed. And it may not be too long before the Chinese Communists stop calling the SEATO alliance a Paper Tiger.

'Running Diplomat' Tells The Gospel Of The United States

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — You might say that Allan Nelson literally runs his legs off to see America. Allan calls Berkeley, Calif., home. He is a diplomat of sorts, since his main job is to peddle the gospel of Uncle Sam across the back 40 acres of the world.

Since he has been working for the United States Information Agency, mostly shouting our cause, and also mostly running while shouting.

This 39-year-old big hunk of man is a nut on marathon running. So what if he only finished 55th in the famed 26-mile Boston marathon race? What Boston winner can lay claim to having finished a 54-mile grind down in Johannesburg, South Africa.

The "running diplomat" did. Allan didn't win that one either, but because of his stamina and hard talking in interest of America he was invited to join up with a Johannesburg harriers club.

During an interview I had with him, Allan was proud to display a medal he got for finishing.

"Finishing, not winning, is the thing in South Africa," he said.

The running ambassador has been in a lot of marathons. The annual Turko marathon in Finland in 1950, for one.

"And I'll have you write it down, sir, that I won at least one race," Allan said. "It was the dipsa race, in Marin county, California in 1950."

Anyhow, in this 54-mile thing in Africa, Allan wasn't used to all of the obstacles. Like stepping on the tails of sleeping lions.

The diplomat had a car following him, loaded with orange juice, and "the cheapest keds the government could afford."

Between the waking up of lions and tigers he had other miseries.

"Most of what I needed," Allan said, "was corn plaster."

Nelson is enroute to California for a holiday with the folks. His next assignment will be as public affairs officer in Goteburg, Sweden.

"Wherever I go I trot," he said.

"And when I was in training for things I didn't win I used to jog along five, 10 or 15 miles before breakfast. And while I was jogging I liked to stop and talk to people. That is what I have been doing overseas. I get to learn the language of the people. Learn their way of life."

Mule Breeder
According to records, the first mule bred in the United States was bred by George Washington. The jack was presented to Washington by the king of Spain.
