Forced Squandering

Well, now we've heard everything.

For a long time foreign potentates have found themselves in a delightful position respecting the U. S. treasury. They didn't have to ask or beseech the U. S. government for money. Nothing so crass as this. All they had to do was intimate that Russia was anxious to give them a little money, build a dam for them, send them arms or equipment, and things began to move.

Promptly a diplomat with bulging pouch would appear on the scene. This emissary was fairly loaded with good will and loot. Especially loot. He demanded nothing of the despot with whom he dealt. No reciprocation. No respect. No agreement. Nothing. The only question asked: would he PLEASE take some of the filthy green stuff off our hands?

Feigning reluctance, and after exacting a number of promises from us, the foreign Poobah would acquiesce.

This little game has gone on for years.

But now the chickens have come home to roost. A while ago, Defense Secretary Wilson submitted a budget estimate. Now no one in his wildest imaginings would say that Charlie is parsimonious with other people's money. The budget was a whopper. It was gargantuan. Colossal. To understand the figure you needed a degree in calculus. To see the end of it, you could use the equipment at Palomar. But what happened? Congress donned its diplomatic striped pants and tried to press an added billion and a half on Charlie's outstretched but overloaded arms.

For a wonder, the move failed.

But the idea seemed so good that it was tried again. When President Eisenhower submitted his own astronomical calibrations on what he planned to do with the Internal Revenue loot, he included a minor item of $1,898,700,000 for the atomic program. But the House Appropriations Subcommittee took a look at this paltry sum and promptly earmarked another $400,000,000 for this same purpose.

Mr. Eisenhower, let us give him credit, has protest-

So also has Atomic Chairman Lewis Strauss. However, there is a reported line-up in the Congress which will jam that money through and into Mr. Eisenhower's atomic fist whether he likes it or not.

This could be called appropriating money with a vengeance. It follows the lead established in dealing with foreign kings and rulers. Why be reluctant to take the money? The poor, dumb, docile taxpayers will put up any amount for any purpose virtually without pro-

Everyone familiar with the process has known for years that the custom of the budget-makers is to ask for at least two of everything. The reason is that they expect their request to be slashed and consequently are quite prepared to accept about 50 per cent of what they

In recent years this slashing has been modified almost to the point of non-existence. But it's a new date in history when these mammoth demands for plunder are scorned and new millions heaped on top of the most outrageously enlarged demands imaginable.

How we wish that these knight errants of the land of plundermania would get fired and have to go to work for private enterprise. Then they'd quickly find out what it's like to have to provide that money.

Rules Of Arriving

Compensation For Employees Since I believe a lot of our confusion comes from trusting statements made on the employeeemployer relation problems by men who have not had experience. in selecting employees, I am reproducing a letter I wrote to Bishop Fulton J. Sheen about an article that appeared August 5 in his syndicated newspaper column. It follows:

August 10, 1956

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen Catholic University of America Washington, D. C.

Dear Bishop Sheen: I usually read your weekly articles in the Los Angeles Examiner. In most every occasion I find them in harmony with the Golden Rule and the Decalogue.

I, thus, was surprised and shocked to read the last two sentences in your article published August 5 under the heading of "Wrong Emphasis on Wealth." The article closed with the following:

". . . . The ultimate goal must be to give labor some share either in the management, ownership or profits of the wealth invested.

"Labor must become more capitalistic, by being given some capital to defend; capital must become more proletariat by admitting that those who sweat at machines have some right to profits, as well as those who receive checks from quarterly meetings."

I am inclined to believe that that leads people to believe that there is no definite way of arriving at wages and profits that are in harmony with the Golden Rule and the Coveting Commandment. From these two statements one would not know how a manager of business should arrive at wages and salaries that should be paid to his employees. It doesn't seem to me that it is a very trustworthy guide, that if you employed a manager to run a business and gave him no more instructions than that, he would have to come back to you in every case to know whether or not that wage was right and proper.

I wonder if you would be willing to submit to a test to see whether you are trustworthy in discussing the employer-employee problems. It is my contention that a man who will not answer "yes" or "no" to questions about what he is advocating, that the questioner can answer "yes" or "no" without contradicting himself by subsequent questions, has not thought the subject through, and, thus, is not trustworthy on that subject.

I am perfectly willing to answer "yes" or "no" to the following question, or to any other questions that you might want to ask on the subject that you will answer "yes" or "no" to. At the end of the question I am putting "yes" or "no". Will you please cross off the one that does not apply? Should employees be selected on the rule of competition - the workers who will do the most for the compensation paid? Yes. No. If your answer is "no", should they be selected on a non-competitive rule? Yes. No.

Should they be selected by rotation? Yes. No. Should they be selected by seniority? Yes. No. Should they be selected by workers' needs? Yes. No. Should they be selected by force

Should they be selected by the whim of the employer? Yes. No. If your answer is "yes" to the first question, then how could the employer give the employee some share in management, ownership or profits of the wealth invested? And if employees are to be given something above what other workers will do the same job for, then how are those workers who are to have a gift wage to be selec-

Your last sentence implies that the man who sweats at a machine does not get a profit. Is not his wage a profit? Would he work if he did not think he was benefited either spiritually or materially? In private competitive enterprise do not both parties in a transaction believe that they are making a profit? If they do not so believe, why are they a party to the transaction?

It is understood that wages are more than money wages; that they include an opportunity to learn and develop one's faculties; that they include healthy working conditions and permanency of employment,

I am convinced that a lot of our trouble comes from confusion as to the rules and principles to be used in selecting help and the amount of reward they are to receive; that any statement that causes confusion and adds mystery to this human relation is 3 disservice to mankind and is thus a violation of the Golden Rule and the Coveting Commandment. If your answer is "no" to the first question, I would greatly appreciate it if you would advise me of the method or rule we should use in selecting employees for the

Oilers Idle Sunday, Play Plainview Tonight

Pampa's Oilers, idle yesterday because of wet grounds, take on the Plainview Ponies tonight at 8 o'clock in Oiler Park.

The Oilers took the first two of a three-game stand against the league leading Hobbs Sports but the cool front which came into the Panhandle Saturday and dumped rain on the Top o' Texas left the grounds too wet Sunday for a game.

Plainview, in fifth place and only one-half game behind fourth place San Angelo, is also only two and a half games behind the Oilers.

BEDROOM TELEPHONE?

You've probably wished dozens of times that you had a telephone in the bedroom. Many people have felt the same need at one time or another. That's why so many of them are having an extension telephone installed in the bedroom . . . where it's handy for those late-at-night calls, stops those "blind" telephone answering trips in the dead of night.

You'll be surprised at how extension service adds up in terms of convenience and pleasure. You'll be surprised, too, at how little it costs. And you can put in an extension telephone anywhere in the house, wherever it serves your family best.

What They Said At Chicago

Adlai E. Stevenson, accepting his second Democratic presidential "Four years ago, I did not seek he honor you bestowed upon me, This time as you may have noticed, it did not come entirely unsolicited. And there is another big difference. That time we lost. This time we will win '

... After an interval of marking time and aimless drifting. . . history's headlong course has brought us. . . to the threshhold of a nev America. . . "I mean a new America where poverty is abolished and our abundance is used to enrich the lives of every family. .. a new America where freedom is made real for all without regard to race or belief or economic condition ... a new America which everlastingly attacks the ancient idea that men can solve their differences by kiling each other.

... I do not propose to make political capital out of the President's illness...but if the conditions of President Eisenhower is not an issue as far as I am concerned, the condition and the conduct of the president's office and of the administration is very much an issue."
