Ike's Routine In Hospital Is Stepped Up Slightly Today

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, continuing his "excellent" recovery from surgery, stepped up his hospital routine slightly today.
Mr. Eisenhower planned to get a first hand report on a White House meeting called to muster support for restoring congressional cuts in the foreign aid program.
White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the Chief Executive also would be up and walking about his bedroom in Walter Reed Army Hospital. This mid and brief exercise, increasing daily, is part of Mr. Eisenhower's recovery regimen.
Hagerty said Adams would report on the White House meeting. It was called by the administration to present its case for the Senate to restore the $1.1 billion the House slashed from the President's $4.9 billion foreign aid request.
Administration Spokesmen Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and foreign aid chief John B. Hollister were the administration spokesmen.
Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower "feels very strongly" about the aid bill which was slashed by the House despite the President's warning a cut would hurt national security.
Mr. Eisenhower showed he was steadily gaining strength by getting out of bed Monday and walking 100 feet in two trips within his hospital room. He required even less support than on his first 30-foot trip Sunday.
The President also increased his executive pace Monday when he rejected a Soviet invitation for all the U.S. military chiefs of staff to visit Russia this month.
It also was decided to hold the regular weekly meeting of the National Security Council at the White House Thursday. Vice President Richard M. Nixon will preside as he did after Mr. Eisenhower's heart attack last Sept. 24 in Denver.
Assumes Ceremonial Duties
Nixon also was called to pinch hit for Mr. Eisenhower in ceremonial duties. The vice president will act as host at a lunch Wednesday for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer at Blair House. It was not known whether Adenauer will be present. (See IKE, Page 2)

Capitol Hill Roundup

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's operation stirred new interest in Congress today on legislation to determine when a president is disabled.
Chairman Emanuel Celler of the House Judiciary Committee announced that his group will meet this week to decide whether to send a presidential disability bill to the House floor.
The Constitution leaves open the method of determining when a president is incapacitated and the vice president should take over. Celler's committee has been working on the problem since last summer—before the President's heart attack.
Other congressional news:
Foreign Aid: The White House called Senate Democratic and Republican leaders to a conference on the slashed foreign aid bill. The administration seeks to get the Senate to restore the $1.1 billion cut by the House from the President's $4.9 billion program.
Un-American: The House Committee on Un-American Activities summoned Negro singer Paul Robeson for questioning in its passport investigation. Committee Chairman Francis E. Walter said Communist conspirators are using U.S. passports to aid Soviet propaganda.
Academy: Rep. Errett P. Scrivner (R-Kans.) attacked spending $3.5 million to landscape the new Air Force Academy and $90,000 to build a "mansion" for the academy superintendent. He said the superintendent would be "living pretty high on the hog."
Health: The Senate passed an omnibus health bill aimed at aiding nurses' training, hospital construction and the nation's health in general. The bill — including five programs recommended by the administration — was sent to the House.
Money: Congress sent to the White House a compromise bill appropriating $548,930,967 to pay for running the State and Justice Departments and the federal judiciary in fiscal 1957. The administration asked for nearly $50 million more.

Exercise Speeds Ike's Recovery

WASHINGTON (UP)—A little exercise right after an operation is just fine. It boosts morale, tones up the muscles, and speeds recovery.
Some eyebrows were raised when President Eisenhower's physicians had him making short trips about his room only a day after his operation. But experts said today that this was precisely the right thing to do.
In the old days — back there before World War II — surgeons used to keep their patients glued to bed for days on end. They figured moving about would slow down the healing process.
But this idea has been out the window for more than a decade. Standard procedure now is to get the post-operative patients up and about as soon as possible.
Why so? Well, there are a flock of reasons. Perhaps the biggest is psychological. Nothing seems to buck up a patient's morale more than to get back on his feet quickly. And this in turn speeds the recovery process.
Another reason is that moderate exercise keeps the muscles more or less in tone.
This promotes a feeling of well-being while prolonged bed rest leads to muscle weakness and a sense of debility.
In the President's case, the experts said, there is still another reason why a little exercise is helpful. His operation involved the small intestine and exercise promotes the resumption of its activity. This, it is believed, will shorten the time a special drainage tube is needed.

Two Juveniles Are Jailed Here

Two 16-year-old boys are in County Jail following Juvenile Judge Bruce Parker's order Monday afternoon that they be held in custody for an indefinite period of time.
The youths were placed in custody for the Saturday night fight in which they pulled three younger youths from an automobile.
Juvenile Officer H. A. Doggett stated this morning that the placing of juveniles in jail will be the policy of the Juvenile Court in the future when the case warrants such action.

Segregation Vote Is Set

By LLOYD LARRABEE
AUSTIN (UP)—Democrats will get a chance to vote for or against racial segregation in the July 28 primary.
The State Democratic Executive committee decided Monday to put the issue on the ballot.
By voice vote and without dissent, the committee ordered a vote on these three propositions:
1. Mixing white and Negro children in public schools.
2. Inter-marriage between whites and Negroes.
3. Interposition.
Decide on Legislation
Specifically, the voters will say whether legislation should be enacted for continued segregation.
A report of a legal subcommittee presented by Hall Timanus of Houston said it was mandatory that the committee place the segregation issue on the ballot since it was presented with petitions signed by 153,668 Texans—More than 10 per cent of the vote in the last Democratic primary.
The petitions were circulated by the Texas referendum committee, headed by Robert Cargill of Longview.
The first proposition calls for a vote for or against specific legislation exempting children from attending an integrated school. The second provides a vote for or against protection against racial intermarriage.
The third question ordered a vote on interposition to "halt illegal federal encroachment."
Daniel Is Certified
The committee also certified places on the ballot for candidates for state office, including U.S. Sen. Price Daniel as a candidate for governor.
The action overrode an earlier protest by Reuben Senterfitt, San Saba attorney running for governor, who challenged Daniel's eligibility and called for his name to be barred from the ballot as a contender for the governorship.
Senterfitt cited provisions of the Constitution and law which he said bar a person from holding two offices at the same time, and state that no ineligible candidate shall have his name placed on the ballot.
Daniel's campaign manager, Joe Greenhill, an Austin attorney, said Daniel would welcome "any bonafide court test of his eligibility to run for governor."
Fort Worth was selected as the site of the state Democratic convention on Sept. 11.

Petitions For Paving To Be Accepted

The City Commission, at its regular meeting this morning in City Hall, announced that additional petitions for paving of streets will be accepted from those property owners that are willing to pay in advance for the paving of the streets adjoining their property.
The commissioners approved a plan whereby any property owner that wants the streets adjoining his property paved may do so by presenting a petition to the City Secretary and depositing a cashier's check with the City of Pampa for his share of the paving.
The cost of the paving will be estimated by the city engineer and any refund or additional charges will be determined by the contract.
The commissioners also approved the paving of half-blocks where it will adjoin existing paving. Any property owner that wishes to pave the street adjoining his property but is unable to do so because others do not wish to pave needs only to have those owners in the half-block his property is in to agree to the paving.
The commission approved the bid of J. L. Colville in the amount of $1995 for the extension and building of an apron on the culvert under Duncan near Alameda Park.
In other action, the commissioners approved the monthly bills of the city in the amount of $28,943.76.

Thanks So Much, Judge!

DETROIT (UP)—Louis Dononoff, 22, told the court he exceeded the speed limit Monday because he was "in a hurry to get to the lake and cool off." The judge obligingly sentenced Dononoff to five days in the "cooler."

County Sets Road Bond Election

The Gray County Commissioners court set July 14 as the day for the $650,000 road and bridge bond election in a meeting yesterday.
The court received a petition asking the election yesterday morning. The petition was signed by 98 qualified voters, 48 more than the 50 signatures required.
Between presenting of the petition and calling of the election, the court turned down a request by Gray County home demonstration clubs for a building to be erected for club activities.
The estimated cost of the building was $40,000. The court contended that the project was too expensive, because the fund for permanent improvements from which the funds were to come, were tied up in the hospital at the present.
In order for the road bond issue to pass, it must be approved by a two-thirds majority of qualified voters. Preparations for absentee balloting, which will start June 24 and will end July 10, were begun immediately by the county.
Funds from the bond issue will be used to erect five new bridges and lay four sections of road way in all parts of the county.

President Wants Air Chief To Get Look At Air Bases

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has challenged Russia to loosen its guard and let Gen. Nathan F. Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, have a good look at Soviet air bases.
That is the meaning of the President's rejection of a tentative Soviet invitation to all of the U. S. military chiefs of staff to visit Russia this month. Government officials said the United States will be happy to send its top military leaders to the Soviet Union later if Twining reports he could see something worthwhile during his forthcoming trip to the Soviet Union.
"If it's just a matter of drinking vodka and getting a stiff neck from looking in the sky at airplanes, we're not interested," one official said.
Twining, with Mr. Eisenhower's approval, late last month accepted a Russian invitation to visit Moscow June 24 for the Soviet air force celebration. He is expected to be in the Soviet Union about eight days.
The White House disclosed Monday that Mr. Eisenhower turned down a subsequent tentative invitation for Twining's colleagues on the Joint Chiefs of Staff to join him. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the Russians were told such a visit would be "impracticable now." But the door was left open for a later visit.
Hagerty said the reply included two important conditions for any future visit:
1: It is "not likely that more than two members" of the joint chiefs would visit Russia at any one time.
2: Any visit "would be with the understanding that their schedule within the Soviet Union would be so arranged as to permit maximum time outside Moscow for visits to those activities of special interest to their own services."

Supreme Court Rulings

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court has extended military law to cover more than 250,000 civilian dependents stationed with the armed forces in 63 foreign countries.
The court ruled in what a three-man minority called a decision of far-reaching importance that the civilian dependents overseas are not constitutionally guaranteed a jury trial and other legal safeguards enjoyed by civilians at home. Instead, they are subject to military courts-martial.
Justice Felix Frankfurter in a separate opinion accused the majority of deciding the issue without adequate "reflection."
The ruling came on the final day of the term along with a small avalanche of opinions and orders before adjourning until Oct. 1.
Among other things, court in a 6-3 ruling struck down President Eisenhower's 1953 order that banked all federal workers wherever employed into the employee security program. The majority held that — actively aside from a worker's own character — the order did not set up proper standards for relating a particular job to the national safety.
In the field of business, the court:
1. Threw out 43 government charges that E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. has been illegally monopolizing the cellophane market.
2. Ruled 6-3 that "fair trade" agreements between a manufacturer and an independent wholesaler are illegal if the manufacturer is also a competing wholesaler.
Justice Tom C. Clark delivered the opinion on military dependents. It upheld the convictions of Mrs. Clarice H. Covert of Atlanta, Ga.

Experts Examine Car For Clues In Killing

BOSTON (UP)—Fingerprint experts today examined a 1956 Cadillac found burning in a railroad yard Monday night in a hunt for clues to the gangland slaying of Bin's informant William F. Cameron.
The automobile, bearing New Jersey license plates, was discovered aflame in the sprawling New Haven railroad yard in Roxbury, N. J., woman visiting relatives here, was being questioned by police.
Authorities were hopeful the automobile would provide a link with the murder early Sunday of Cameron, who was reported to have had two bullets pumped into his head because he "squealed" on the hiding place of the last two suspects arrested in the $1,219,000 robbery.
Cameron allegedly rented a Dorchester apartment for Thomas F. Richardson, 49, and James I. Fa-

House Cites Robeson For Contempt Of Congress

WASHINGTON (UP) The House Committee on Un-American Activities voted unanimously today to cite Negro singer Paul Robeson for contempt of Congress.
The action came moments after Robeson refused to say whether he is a Communist. He shouted at committee members:
"You are the non-patriots and you are the un-Americans and you ought to be ashamed of yourselves."
Committee Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) immediately banged his gavel and announced the hearing adjourned.
"I think it should be," Robeson commented.
"I've stood just about as much of this as I can," Walter said. "You should adjourn this forever." Robeson snapped over his shoulder as he left the witness stand.
Walter huddled with other members and they voted unanimously to recommend that Robeson be cited for contempt.
The Negro singer was the first witness as the committee resumed hearings into charges that Communists have obtained American passports to travel abroad to promote Soviet propaganda.
Robeson has made many trips to Russia and other places abroad. The last time he sought a passport, however, it was denied after he refused to tell the State Department if he was a Red.
Series of Exchanges
To the committee today, he protested in a series of angry exchanges that the government is trying to "gag me here and abroad."
"It's none of your business what I think," he said.

Administration About Convinced Big Time Foreign Aid Will End

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA
By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration is just about convinced it must take a licking in Congress on the issue of big-time foreign aid spending.
Both parties are divided on the question. But the majority of senators and representatives are expected to support big reductions in proposed foreign military aid. The House voted a $1.1 billion slice Monday.
The House vote is accepted in politically sensitive Washington as fair notice that American citizens are beginning to question the use to which their tax money is being put. Politicians seeking to learn why military aid was relatively popular a year or so ago and today is severely reduced could come up with a couple of reasons without much effort.

Sustained High Taxation
One is the sustained high taxation of the U.S. voter. It is known around the world that the American citizen is a lucky devil with indoor plumbing and at least one automobile. Hot and cold running water and a Detroit heap, however, are not enough to ease the pain of the tax bite.
Taxes were high during the war. They eased off thereafter only to soar again in 1950 for Korean War rearmament. That was six years ago and the tax load is little diminished. A tax cut right now would take a lot of steam out of the effort to reduce foreign aid spending. It would give a congressman running for re-election something to say to the folks back home who protested against the flow of money overseas.

No tax cut is likely, however. The financially conservative attitude toward a prospective Treasury surplus this year is that it would be better to reduce the public debt a little bit than to reduce taxes, which further could cheapen the long suffering dollar. It is worth only about 50 cents, as it is.
A Look Overseas
For another explanation of the voters' chill on foreign aid the inquiring politician might look overseas. There is a feeling that some of the allies of the United States are somewhat less than doing their own part and are considerably less than stable. France, for example. From April, 1947, when the United States entered World War I, and over the years France has cost the United States quite a lot of money without ever quite getting off the floor. Most recently, from Indochina to Algeria, the cost has been terrific in one way or another.

The French people are in a tight spot. Their divisions which should be an important part of the western defense against Soviet Russian aggression are mostly engaged against colonial rebels in North Africa. There are influential members of Congress who feel that recent French history is sufficient warrant for the United States to go slow on foreign military aid.

Rain stopped the speech of a politician in the South. It always comes after a dry spell.
It's nice to go away on vacation to forget things, except how poisonous ivy looks.

Lemay Wants Cash For The Air Force

By JOHN W. FINNEY
WASHINGTON, June 12 —UP— Gen. Curtis E. Lemay urged Congress Monday to give the Air Force an extra $3.8 billion to increase B-52 jet bomber production and otherwise expand his Strategic Air Command.

After hearing Lemay's secret testimony, Chairman Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) of the Senate Military Appropriations Subcommittee said there is a "fair" chance his request will be approved.

"As far as I am concerned, I would give it all to them," he told reporters.

Would Favor Expansion
Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), another subcommittee member, said he would "favor extending the program some, but not that far," Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.), asked if he agreed with Lemay that B-52 said "I thought that before I heard him."

Chavez, who briefed reporters on the closed-door hearing, said the cigar-puffing Lemay, an expert on long-range bombing, recommended that his command be given about $8 billion a year for the next four to five years.

The defense budget for coming fiscal year provides about $5 billion for SAC out of a total of $16.9 billion in requested Air Force appropriations. Adoption of Lemay's proposal would fly in the face of President Eisenhower's recommendations and probably scuttle hopes for balancing the budget.

Khrushchev Sees Rich Tomorrow

LONDON — UP — Communist Party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev told a cheering crowd of workers in Stalingrad that the United States is the richest country in the world but "tomorrow we shall be richer," Moscow Radio reported today.

Moscow Radio quoted excerpts of the Communist leaders speech in Stalingrad where he and other Russian leaders received a thunderous welcome with Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia.

The speech was made at the site of the city's hydroelectric station to a group of workers.

"Abroad there are still people who think — and some of them even say — that things in the USSR will develop so that it will be possible to replace Soviet power by capitalism," Khrushchev said. "Can this happen, comrades?"

Moscow Radio said there were shouts of "No, they are far too weak," "It will never happen" and "let them run their own countries."

"We tell them: You can whistle for it," Khrushchev said. "There was laughter and applause."

"That is how naive people, the slave of capitalism, are reasoning," Khrushchev said. "The capitalists only sweat the working class. When we overthrow the power of the landlords, when the workers and peasants won their freedom, freedom for their people, take capitalists and their lackeys did not like it."

"We tell them: let us live in peace. In other words: Co-exist. We shall not interfere in their affairs but let them not interfere in ours. We shall firmly follow our road—the great Lenin road."

U. S. Chamber Manager To Visit

are expected to bring a showdown in the long-standing argument over whether the administration is letting the United States fall behind Russia in air superiority. Chavez said the subcommittee will begin work on it late this week or early next week.

Lemay has warned that under present plans the Soviets will have twice as many long-range bombers as the United States by 1958 and by 1960 should be able to knock out this country in a complete surprise attack.

Indictments Returned In Court Here

The June term of 31st District Court opened at 10 a. m. yesterday with empaneling of a grand jury which returned 15 indictments by 4:30 p. m.

Named in the indictments were Airman Harold Simons, Robert Golden, David Castello, Edwin Roberts, and a former Airman, Raut Duentis, all indicted in the Sept. 14 burglary of Cecil Wilkerson in Pampa.

The five were arrested in connection with the break-up of a burglary ring in April in Amarillo.

Other indictments were returned against David William Kennedy Jr., car theft; Harlan Belt, Courtney Bair and Cap Mayberry, all second offense DWI; Harold Ray Norton and Lynn Roy Bowie, both on robbery by assault; Lee Riley Welch and L. I. Bolden, forgery and passing.

Two indictments for forgery were returned against another man who is not yet in custody.

The new grand jury, with Mack Hlatt Jr. as foreman, will serve until the fourth Monday in September.

After returning their indictments the jurors were adjourned until further call.

At the same time, Dist. Judge Lewis M. Goodrich announced that petit jurors who were summoned to report at 10 a. m. June 18 will not report until July 16.

Refugee Escapes

LONDON (UP)—A young Pole, brought to England as a member of a visiting archery team made a dramatic break for freedom Sunday under the noses of his Communist teammates, it was disclosed today.

The refugee was handsome 22-year-old old Roman Kazimierzcyk who joined his brother and mother in England. They were deported by the Russians in 1941, escaped to England and had not seen Roman in 15 years.

His rescue was staged with the help of a group of Polish refugees now living in Britain and carried out despite the careful watch kept on the archery team, whose members were making their first visit outside the Iron Curtain.

The Polish Embassy joined in an unsuccessful search for Kazimierzcyk and forced the remaining members of the archery team to move from a small British hotel to the Embassy itself.

The international archery tournament opened at Great Park, Windsor, near the castle that is the residence of Queen Elizabeth. It is also near Slough in Buckinghamshire, the home of Kazimierzcyk's brother Joseph.

The two brothers made contact last Saturday and agreed to make the escape attempt of Sunday.

At noon Kazimierzcyk walked past the Communist security guards into the team's dressing room where his 33-year-old brother Joseph was waiting.

The two brothers sprinted out a back door and into a waiting car containing members of London's free Polish community.

Pampa Girls Attend Rainbow Assembly

Sixteen Pampa girls are in Houston this week attending the Grand Assembly of Texas, Order of the Rainbow for Girls. They left by chartered bus Sunday and will return Thursday. While in Houston the girls will attend meetings and do some sight-seeing. Adults accompanying them are Mmes. Crystal Hankhouse, Mae Jo Larson and Ollie Ruth Hedrick. Among the Pampa girls at the grand assembly is Miss Shirley Hankhouse, who will be a grand chair member during the event. She serves as Charity for the local assembly. Other officers attending are Miss Sylvia Grider, Hope; Miss Carol Rose Miller, chaplain; Miss Kay McMurray, treasurer; Miss Patty Hoover, Religion; Miss Sharon Griffiths, Fidelity; Miss Marilyn Mills, outer observer; and Miss Ann Boosa, choir director. Others taking the trip were Misses Joyce Snow, Kristi Brown, Sandra Palmittier, Martha Marsh, Marianna Perkins, Daline Kiff, Eloise Carille and Amelda McLean. Two White Deer girls, Misses Kay Guyer and Rose Helen Fields, went in the same bus as the Pampa girls, as well as three girls from McLean. Of the adults attending, Mrs. Larson is Past Grand Fidelity of the state assembly. She is the daughter of Mrs. Crystal Hankhouse.

Marjorie Waterfield, Dr. W. L. Campbell Are Married In Home Rite In Canadian

CANADIAN — (Special) — Marjorie Waterfield of Canadian and Dr. W. L. Campbell of Pampa were united in marriage at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank Chambers, Canadian. Rev. Jim Mitchell of the First Christian Church of Canadian officiated for the single-ring ceremony. For her wedding, the bride wore a navy blue dress with white accessories, a beaded hat and a corsage of white roses. For something borrowed and something old, she carried an heirloom, point-lace handkerchief. Mrs. Chambers, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Chester Thompson of Pampa, serving as bestman. Vows were exchanged before a fireplace, flanked by tall baskets of yellow gladioli. For the reception following the ceremony, the serving table was covered with a white Madras cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white daisies, flanked by tapers in silver holders. Mrs. Thomas Jones of Amarillo, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the silver coffee service. The wedding cake was three-tiered. For the wedding trip, the couple is visiting points in Arizona and California via automobile. They will leave from Seattle, Wash., for Victoria, B.C. and Vancouver, from where they will go by train to Lake Louise and Banff in Canada. They will return to Pampa July 1. Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A.

Jane Talk
By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

IN A SPORTS MINDED COUNTRY like the United States perhaps it is not phenomenal when an athletic uniform suddenly emerges from that category and takes on tremendous fashion significance. But within the story of such a metamorphosis are usually milestones that point up something that is phenomenal in the way of inspiration, creativity and leadership behind the revolution. Such is the story of the swimsuit during the past decade. . . . and such is the story of one visionary designer who turned the nightmare of "tank suit" exposure into a rewarding fashion experience for millions of American women. Her name is Rose Marie Reid.

FIRST AMONG swimsuit designers to dispel herself of the illusion that all figures were good ones, Rose Marie Reid set out to create a swimsuit that would flatter the "Average" woman. Her theory, revolutionary at the time, was to shape the swimsuit to the woman rather than creating an inflexible uniform that demanded perfection from the figure and spotlighted its every deviation. Clue to this new approach was the swimsuit's inner construction; Every design began with a bra ingeniously devised to compensate a small bust or to accommodate a full one and to flatter in either case. In cutting the swimsuit, she introduced the device of reverse grains, working fabrics in reverse patterns to provide elasticity or rigidity as needed throughout the body of the suit. Added to this was an inner panel which provided genuine girdle control from within so that the ultimate effect was that of a one-piece foundation garment actually designed into the swimsuit. Such innovations as strapless suits, torso length adjustability through "magic length" designs, metallic fabrics for swimming, intricate embroidery on lastex, new uses of color and new weaves in elasticized fabrics were some of the technical contributions made to the industry by Rose Marie Reid. Perhaps the most revolutionary of all was her introduction not only of a new design but of a whole new era in women's swimsuits.

Things To Consider In Buying Swimsuit

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
Now is the season when teenagers go shopping for a new bathing suit or for the second or third one that water-loving young people find necessary. Here are some hints for deciding on a suit while in the store. To get into the suit, grasp it at the waist and pull up. Pulling from the top or bottom portion is more difficult and may stretch the suit out of shape. Get into the bra portion of a one-piece or the top of a two-piece the same way one gets into the regular bra — by leaning over into it and then hooking or zipping. Strain on hip seams and the rear end should be checked by bending over again. There should be tension, but no exaggerated pull or hopping up. There should not be a diagonal pull from the back seam to the underarms that causes the bra portion to pull down, in a one-piece. The fit of the bra and length of the suit should be assured by putting arms over the head, the top of the suit should not rise or fall. Sit on a chair, face toward the dressing room mirror. Be sure the suit doesn't cut in around the thighs and that there is ample coverage. Check, of course, that there are no rough interior seams that scratch or chafe. If there are, try to find another of the same suit. Often, there may be a defect in an individual suit.

TO BE MARRIED
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olsen, 907 Twiford, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Shirley, to Charlie McCray, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCray, 609 N. Sumner. The wedding is planned for June 22, in the First Christian Church.

Auxiliary of DMF Has Business Meet

The Auxiliary of the Doherty Men's Fraternity, gasoline and production, met in the clubhouse west of Pampa for a short business session. Nougats of red carnations were given as prizes to the winners of a scrambled word game. Games of canasta and bridge were also played. Refreshments of pie and ice cream was served. Those present were Mmes. C. S. Batson, L. F. Batson, O. U. Batson, Eugene Bentley, Al Beuselink, W. L. Boosa, I. U. Bryant, C. P. Conover, N. E. Dulaney, James Morey, Max Bolie, J. P. Wilson, E. H. Eaton, A. W. Griggs, W. R. Hardin, F. L. Hogsett, W. C. Hutchinson, J. O. Knox, E. E. Leland, M. D. Millegan, des Shelly, Dennis Stillwell, Roy Walker. Welcomed as a new member was Mrs. Pat McAllister. Hostesses were Mmes. W. R. Hardin, A. W. Griggs, Roy Walker, and Dennis Stillwell.

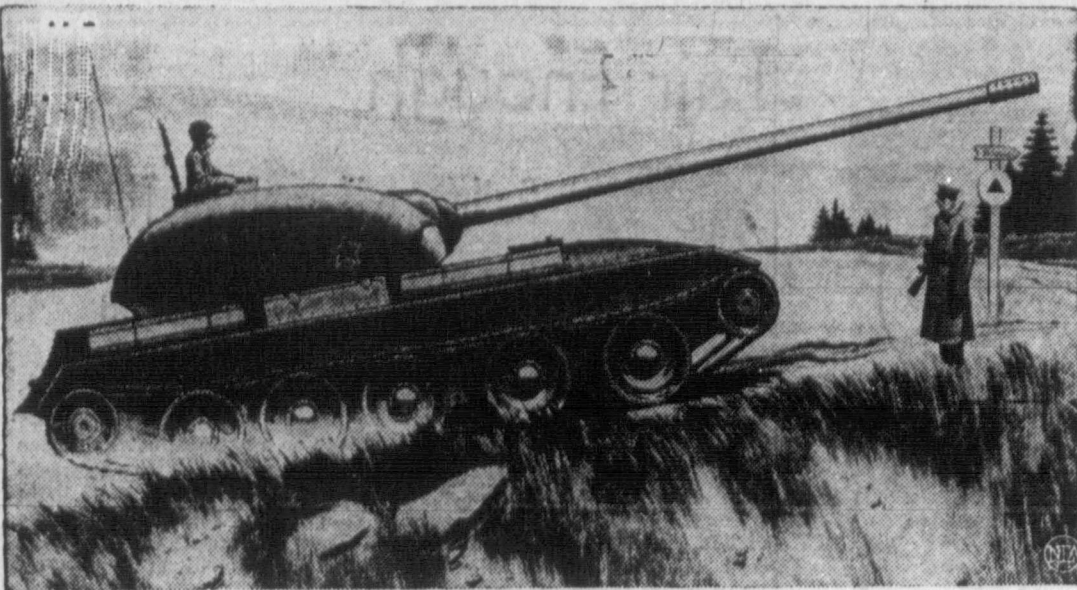

Cynthia Hogsett Feted On Birthday

Cynthia LaJean Hogsett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derrel B. Hogsett, 417 Magnolia, was honored on her seventh birthday, with a party in her home. Refreshments of cake, ice cream and lemonade were served. Favours were of individual bottles of bubble blow. The group played pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey and watched movie comedies for entertainment. Moving pictures of the children playing out-door games were taken. Guests present were Joy Jennings, Sandra Kenemer, Andrea Buzzard, Mark Buzzard, Phyllis Atwood, Susan Owen, Janice McCain, Danny Hogsett, Mrs. J. L. Love, Mrs. Frank Hogsett, the hostess, Mrs. Derrel B. Hogsett, and the honoree.

NEW SOVIET "KILLER" TANK—Among the deadly new weapons said by U.S. Army sources to have been developed by the Soviet Union is the new Russian medium tank, the K-1, Khrushchev. As described in the June '56 issue of True magazine, the tank has approximately twice the combat range of our medium tank, the 45-ton M-48. Other advantages of the Khrushchev may include faster speeds, greater maneuverability, more powerful engine, smaller silhouette and more powerful guns.

Opposing Unions

At long last, American business men appear to be waking up.

They are learning 1) that "Labor" does not necessarily go along with the labor boss, 2) that labor bosses can be successfully opposed, and 3) that for the good of the American commonwealth the labor bosses had better be opposed.

The change in the general atmosphere in the business-labor field can be traced directly to the big labor merger wherein the AFL and CIO crowded into the same tent. At that moment, American business apparently became frightened.

In the past, it has been the policy of altogether too many business men to do business with the labor bosses. They have had an extremely selfish motive in so doing. They have apparently felt that if they, as individual producing units, could side in with the labor bosses and thereby avoid labor squabbles, that they could steal a march on their competition. A number of utterly scandalous labor contracts were signed by otherwise staunch business leaders, simply as a device to curtail other producers in the same field.

Thru the years, however, these business men discovered that signing contracts with unions got them little but additional labor pains. Instead of being grateful for the favors they received, the labor bosses redoubled their efforts among "friendly" business leaders. Their appetite was insatiable. Their demands, however satisfied, were always just that much larger next time. There was just no end to the aggressive tactics of the unions.

Finally, with the CIO-AFL merger, many managers saw the light. They realized, albeit belatedly, that labor bosses were NOT interested in getting a good deal for the workers. They were simply on a power drive, based on political ascendancy, with nothing short of the taking over the whole country as their goal.

The collectivist nature of labor unions was finally made clear. The labor movement was recognized as an arm of the socialist revolution. Labor bosses, even those not nominally connected with the communist party, were nonetheless busily engaged in furthering the aims and objectives of communism.

Management sold them out in instance after instance to secure peace from the forward legions of collectivism. And these same legions beat and bullied the workers to the point where they feared to show their true convictions. Thus the workers paid their dues and cringed under the double onslaught. For it must be apparent to even the casual observer that the labor movement would never have grown to be the threat it has become without the active assistance of management. Had business men been a little more adroit they would have seen the direction of the wind many years ago.

But convinced by their own faulty reasoning, they concluded that if they met the demands of the labor bosses, all would be well. Now, many of them know how wrong they were. Instead of securing them success from labor difficulties, the signing of a union contract has frequently merely precipitated them into one labor conflict after another.

May 11 issue of "U. S. News and World Report" carries a story which shows how the labor unions can be defeated at the polls. The Chamber of Commerce has finally dared to come out into the open and oppose the corrosive influence of the labor bosses.

Herschel C. Atkinson, executive vice president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, has given some quick rules to follow in defeating labor boss efforts. While these rules apply principally to political elections, many of them can be applied to elections within a company where the workers are being cajoled and coerced into parting with their dues, that a labor boss may live in luxury.

Here is Mr. Atkinson's advice:

- Workers are not blind followers and will listen to both sides.
- The "ranks of labor" alleged to be a solid front behind the labor bosses, have many schisms. These can be split according to the issues at hand.
- Workers want the facts. Management has them. Management's facts can be substantiated and should be, in front of the workers.
- Employees should not be driven into a single political camp. If they keep one foot in each major party, they have a wider appeal to the workers.
- Employees are basically conservative. They tend to become more so as they mature. These conservative tendencies can be relied upon.
- Employers should match the union in spending money prior to any election. This really pays off.
- Small business can be organized to resist labor union blandishments.

If this long slumbering realization crystallizes we face good times in this country. The labor bosses should and must be opposed, if we are to have the greatest possible development of wealth and plenty for all.

Beliefs That Result in War

III.

In the last issue I was quoting from Opitz' article in The Freeman magazine. The article ended by stating that the one world government, if it is to have power to stop predation, must be granted such power. Then Mr. Opitz continues thusly:

"So far this is very simple. But the next question has never been answered satisfactorily: Who will police the constabulary? In other words, what is to be done when predatory men gain control of the constabulary, or when predatory impulses begin to crop out in its personnel? There is no weapon devised for defensive purposes which cannot be used for aggression. Likewise, a police force and an army, organized for defense, either may be used offensively.

"This problem of defensive force turning aggressive has not yet been solved on a small scale where the constable is your next door neighbor and thus pretty much under the collective thumb. How much more complicated is a world constabulary, even in concept! Imagine all the weapons of the world melted down and reformed into a gigantic gun capable of blowing us all to smithereens. Who will aim this gun? Who will pull the trigger? It is just conceivable that an American and a Russian might not find it easy to come to any agreement on either of these questions. But it is inconceivable that the very existence of such a weapon would not touch off a struggle to gain control over it. Whatever the label pinned on this struggle, it will actually be world war. Which points up the dilemma facing any effort to gather up a monopoly of world force in advance of any effective public opinion as to the manner in which this force shall be used.

"It will be answered that there is just such an effective public opinion in the almost unanimous desire of the world's people for peace, but this answer has to be qualified in important respects. Peace is a by-product of other conditions; and while many people say they want peace, few know or want the things that make for peace. Moreover, the peace each man or nation wants is peace on his own terms; what looks like peace to Smith does not look like peace to Voronky. Public opinion on behalf of peace is either nonexistent or too feeble. Where it does muster some strength it almost always relies on wrong means.

"How else can we account for this century's deep involvement in senseless war while all the while it proclaims its dedication to peace? Some wars in history have had at least the surface appearance of rationality; the results could be measured by additional territory, slaves, gold, and the like. War is one instrumentality for the attainment of such ends; not the best one perhaps, but neither is it an entirely incongruous one. But to invoke world war as a means of achieving brotherhood, eliminating aggression, nations, and establishing perpetual peace is little short of insane! World Wars I and II produced their evil results utterly heedless of the grandiose official and popular declarations of why these wars were fought.

"Both wars received official and popular endorsement as crusades to stamp out 'aggressor nations.' But the military action in neither case had the precision which marks a successful police action. Each was characterized by the brutal, senseless, and purposeless force that marks a natural cataclysm like an earthquake. In short, these wars are symptomatic of social ills which lie beneath the surface. They indicated that modern society is in various stages of disintegration as its main ideas lose their power over men's minds.

"The League of Nations was a reaction to World War I, as the United Nations was a reaction to World War II. Both organizations were based on a faith in large-scale political action which is entirely unwarranted by experience. 'An assemblage of states will no more produce a universal moral order than a lot of lobsters thrown into a pound will produce a remnant of lobsters,' William Aylott Orton tells us in his book The Liberal Tradition (pp. 238-239). He continues, 'If you pretend that such ethical values as peace, freedom, justice are going to be secured by an international organization of bombing planes; then you merely multiply the occasion on which physical force may be plausibly invoked, and invite a perpetuation of that political chicanery of which, this past quarter century, all decent men have had a bellyful. The relation of political realities in ethical values is not one of means to ends. To suppose that the tangible aims and purposes of the great powers will be subordinated to ideal ends by the creation of an international assembly that they 'hemselves will convolve and con-

"This problem is too deeply rooted to be affected, let alone cured, by the application of external political panaceas. Modern societies lack cohesion. The natural ties that bind men in community have weakened, and the resulting damage cannot be repaired by external patching. A barrel is held together by hoops around the outside; but conceivably the staves could also be held in place by interior lines of force. Only something analogous to these internal fasteners can hold society together: lacking these, society has nothing comparable to barrel hoops to hold itself together. The problem would be serious even if things were static; but they are not. If an irresistible force is exploding inside the barrel, no strengthening of the hoops around the outside will prevent the staves from flying apart. Our society is in the grip of just such a centrifugal force, and although it appears benign, it is actually tearing society apart. Unless it can be annulled, the erection of a world-wide political mechanism to prevent society from committing suicide will be as futile as trying to heat a room by holding a match under a thermometer. "All men desire peace," remarked Thomas a Kempis, "but not many desire the things that make for peace." Unless men know what things make for peace, they cannot desire them. Without this knowledge they may unwittingly start off on a course of action whose first steps seem innocent enough but whose last step is war. Almost no one intends the last step, but it is difficult to avoid this end if one takes the first steps toward it." (To be continued)

Nationalism Spirit Is Rising In U.S.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Only a determined demand by President Eisenhower himself can rescue major portions of his legislative program from foreign aid in the face of a rising spirit of nationalism that is tantamount to a rebirth of isolationism. The growing opposition to a hands-across-the-seas policy culminated in a Wisconsin Republican's refusal to renominate Senator Alexander Wiley.

The opponents of continued generosity represent the remnants of the Taft faction, and, although few in number, they are a powerful and resourceful group. To greater or less degree, they include Senate Minority Leader Knowland of California, Mundt of South Dakota, Dirksen of Illinois, Hickenlooper of Iowa, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Jenner and Capehart of Indiana.

Moreover, in both House and Senate, they have the reinforcement of many Democrats.

Such erstwhile internationalists as Representative James P. Richards of South Carolina, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, favor a more restrictive program than Ike has proposed.

The measures facing defeat or curtailment are basic to the theory of collective security and recovery. In Ike's opinion, The $4.9 billion grant for foreign economic and military assistance has been slashed by about a billion, although some of the funds may be restored in the Upper Chamber.

Stubborn resentment has been shown against authorization for American participation in the Organization for Trade Co-operation. Industries and labor unions which have suffered from tariff reductions and imports, especially in textiles, watches and other light consumer commodities, protest against placing their profits and livelihood at the mercy of an international organization.

"The Bricker Amendment, which restricts the President's treaty-making authority, also has strong support with the new isolationists. In addition to the fact that 1956 is a re-election year, when legislators are always tense and nerves, no strengthening of the hoops around the outside will prevent the staves from flying apart. Our society is in the grip of just such a centrifugal force, and although it appears benign, it is actually tearing society apart. Unless it can be annulled, the erection of a world-wide political mechanism to prevent society from committing suicide will be as futile as trying to heat a room by holding a match under a thermometer. "All men desire peace," remarked Thomas a Kempis, "but not many desire the things that make for peace." Unless men know what things make for peace, they cannot desire them. Without this knowledge they may unwittingly start off on a course of action whose first steps seem innocent enough but whose last step is war. Almost no one intends the last step, but it is difficult to avoid this end if one takes the first steps toward it." (To be continued)

Gailmore Harranged The Public With Propaganda

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — In 1944, when Tom Gailmore was trying to carry the fight to Roosevelt, a strange character appeared on a local broadcast in New York under the auspices of the electronics corporation of America. He favored Roosevelt and "democracy." He called himself Williams S. Gailmore, but this was the alias of a crook who had been caught stealing an automobile. He could have been prosecuted on other charges, but he accepted a pleasant term of banishment to a sanitarium on the charitable pretext that he was the victim of a "compulsion neurosis" which forced him to commit crimes against his will.

Gailmore's sponsor was the Electronics Corporation of America which manufactured highly secret items for military radar devices under an exclusive contract for a $6,000,000 order. Samuel Novick was president.

Toward the end of the war in Europe, the Russian armies lured the survivors of the Polish forces into the open in Warsaw to be slaughtered by the Germans. The Russians held back at the outskirts of Warsaw until the Poles were destroyed and then took over the ruins as the Germans fell back westward. During the ensuing confusion, the Russians set up a dummy government called the Lublin committee to establish a "democratic" regime for Poland.

Night after night, under Novick's auspices, Gailmore harangued the New York public with praise of the Lublin committee, abuse of the Polish government in exile and derision of all efforts to oppose the Soviet apparatus. Gailmore had other local sponsors, but Novick was his bread and butter. Having butchered the captive and helpless flower of the Polish army and many leading civilians in the Katyn massacre, and seduced the remainder of Poland's best manhood into a hopeless uprising against the Germans, the Russians now had no military problem remaining in Poland.

Gailmore had been a sneaking figure in two New York newspaper shops where he and an accomplice plotted themselves in the radio department. One accomplice had laughed at the stupidity of the American Publishing Company which permitted them to poison the broadcasts.

The American Broadcasting Company under Ed Noble, a favored new dealer who had acquired great wealth in radio, was very high on Gailmore. Noble was just about to present Gailmore as a sustaining

Mac Writes In Diary Over Atlantic Ocean

By HENRY McLEMORE

Dear Diary: I am writing in you somewhere over the Atlantic Ocean on the way to Madrid. We left Idlewild Airport in New York at five p.m., and the stewardess says we don't stop until we get there. That'll be about ten in the morning, Spanish time.

We nearly missed the plane. When it was called I was getting a shoeshine. Mary was buying an English-Spanish dictionary, and neither of us heard it. They were just shutting the door when we got there. There weren't any seats left so we could sit side by side, and I looked for a while as though we were going to cross the ocean with me way up front by the pilot and Mary way back in the tail, a long walk apart.

But the stewardess, a nice Spanish girl with black hair and eyes, fixed us up. She moved around some people who weren't married, and got us together. It's good for us that she did, because everything I need is in Mary's leather duffie bag.

We are flying on Iberia Airlines and it's all Spanish. The plane is a big Super-Constellation, and most of the passengers are Spanish. They look a lot more proper than Mary and I do, and they don't make as much noise as American travelers.

They are a lot neater, too. Quite a few of them sit straight up, with their hands in their laps. Maybe they'll change when the champagne which I see coming gets all the way around.

Mary and I aren't neat on the plane. Already our little space looks the way our den at home does on Sunday morning.

The pilot, who speaks good English, has just announced that we are flying at 20,000 feet and will stay that way until we get nearly to Madrid.

The stewardess and the steward are serving dinner now, and I hope I get what the man across the aisle has. He has a shrimp cocktail, some wine, lamb chops, vegetables, salad, soup, and some sort of fancy dessert. I hope my lamb chop is a little bit better done than his, though — his is a little too pink in the middle. I like mine almost burned up.

It doesn't seem ten minutes since we ate dinner, but here they come again with more food. This time it's sandwiches, fruit, coffee, and cheese. I'm not hungry, but I am going to take some in case I get hungry in the night.

People are going to sleep now, and when people get ready to sleep, they can't act very dignified. A banker — even a proper Spanish one — looks like every other man when he takes off his coat, loosens his tie, kicks off his shoes, and gets all curled up.

I have been to Madrid before, but Mary hasn't, and I wish I hadn't told her those stories about how well I knew the town, and all that. She is soon going to find out that I exaggerated a little.

I'm getting sleepy, Diary, so I'll see you in the morning — in Spain.

One of the most pitiful things of our century is that no matter where in the world he goes, nobody seems to be able to hear what Harry Truman says right. The reporters on his campaign train once thought they heard him say "I like old Joe" (Stalin). But, a long time later, Harry said he never said it. Then the reporters, in Washington, thought they heard him say that the investigation of Communism was "a red herring." But after he quieted President and got back to Kansas City, he said he hadn't said that. Then he got over to Italy where a totally different lot of reporters thought they heard him say the guy who planned the Anzio Landing was a "squirrel-head." But the very next day, Harry said he hadn't said that either. All of this is very confusing for the Democrats who never know what Harry is not going to say next. But if there's one thing sure, it is that Harry himself is no "squirrel-head." You simply can't compare him to a thirty little squirrel who saves his acorns and always remembers where he has made his last crack.

There's not much to see out the window. Nothing but clouds, and they aren't much to see when you are looking down on them.

Reds Cheer Tito By The Thousands

MOSCOW, June 12 — UP — Hundreds of thousands of cheering Russians broke through security lines and mobbed Marshall Tito Monday when he arrived in Stalin-grad with a pledge that Yugoslavia would march "shoulder-to-shoulder" with Russia.

The visiting Yugoslav president, accompanied by Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev, arrived in Stalin-grad by train Monday morning to a wild welcome that disrupted their touring schedule.

The throng, pelting Tito and Khrushchev with flowers, broke through militia and army cordons, surrounded the statesmen and moved off with them from the station through the city, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported.

Turns Out Despite Heat
Moscow radio said the crowd, which it estimated at "hundreds of thousands," turned out despite a 102-degree heat and delayed Tito's tour through the war-ravaged city.

In a speech on the decorated station platform, Tito paid tribute to "this heroic city which inflicted the most decisive blow upon the Fascist invaders."

"I wish you, dear comrades, many successes in your constructive and creative work to achieve an even better life and for the victory of communism throughout the Soviet Union," the Yugoslav leader added.

CHICAGO, June 11 — P — Dr. Jonas Salk said Monday it is "not unrealistic" to hope that full immunization against polio will be achieved.

Salk, developer of the polio vaccine, said the hope may lie in reducing the number of "carriers" of the disease in the population rather than in the number vaccinated.

He spoke at about 10,000 doctors from over the nation opened the five-day 108th annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Leonard Scheele, surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service, reported there were 75 per cent fewer cases of polio among children inoculated with Salk vaccine last year than among unvaccinated children.

Scheele said the attack rate was 6.3 per 100,000 in vaccinated children, most of whom had only one shot, and 29.2 per 100,000 in unvaccinated children.

Scheele also assured doctors that the vaccine as now manufactured is safe.

"Unquestionably we now have a vaccine which is standing up under the most careful scrutiny with respect to safety and effectiveness," he said.

Salk said the "ultimate requirements" for full immunization "seem not unrealistic of achievement."

Miss Fillingim Is Named 4-H Delegate

WHEELER — (Special) — Evelyn Fillingim, Wheeler County 4-H Club member, was elected alternate District Delegate to the State 4-H Council. She was one of the seven nominees for this position and the election was held at the District 4-H Camp held at the Harrington Camp, June 4, 5 and 6th. A very vigorous campaign was carried on during the first day at the camp, at which time all the nominees made their campaign speeches.

Having been a 4-H Club member for eight years, Evelyn has a very interesting record and has credited herself with several honors. She has conducted various projects such as clothing, foods, meal preparation, food preservation, dairy food, yard improvement, bedroom improvement and livestock. She has held all offices in her club and has been county chairman of County 4-H Council for two years. County Dress Revue and Bake Show top honors have gone to Evelyn for the past two years, as well as being a member of the two girl teams winning the Dairy Foods Demonstration for two years and the Vegetable Demonstration this year. Evelyn's sister, Ruth, is her partner in the vegetable demonstration and they will represent District I in this demonstration at the State 4-H Roundup this year.

As additional club work, Evelyn has been a Junior leader for two years. Part of her work has been helping the younger members in her club carry on their demonstrations and complete their records as well as helping train four teams and two individuals in Dairy Foods this year.

The State 4-H Council is composed of twelve girls and twelve boys representing the twelve Districts in the state. Evelyn, the alternate delegate from District I, will attend the State Council in the event the delegate cannot attend. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fillingim.

Actress Donna Reed Wants To Build A Home In Africa

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The usual wall of movie stars returning from Africa movie locations is how dangerous and miserable it all was—but Donna Reed calmly says it was so "heavenly" she wants to build a home there.

Janet Leigh, Deborah Kerr and even that intrepid explorer, Humphrey Bogart, came home from the dark continent with tales of Mau Maus, tarantulas and crocodiles. The idea of fragile Donna tramping through the wilds in a pith helmet had her press agents dreaming up stories about perilous adventures.

But Donna shrugged she doesn't know what all the fuss was about — she thought Africa was "a lot like Honolulu."

"Africa is a great place for a honeymoon," Donna declares. "The only thing that's against it is it's so far away. But when the jet airliners operate regularly, I predict it will be a terrific tourist attraction."

Donna and her husband, producer Tony Owen, found one resort, Malindi, on the east coast of Africa that was "the most beautiful place we've ever seen." They weren't bothered by bugs and the tab was only $10 a day for room and board. The only disadvantage was the natives woke them up at every morning for tea.

"Nearby was a blue lagoon and we picked out a spot for a house," Donna went on. "My husband was never so healthy and happy in his life. Of course, the way they work there it would take forever to build a house — but it wouldn't cost much."

Tony and Donna visited Africa to make a picture for their independent company. Donna has joined the many stars who now beat high taxes by producing their own pictures — Bill Holden, Jeff Chandler, Robert Mitchum, Marilyn Monroe and many more.

Another wall in Hollywood is how tough it is for an actor to turn producer. But the brunette Oscar-winning actress laughs that off, too.

"MGN has an office in Nairobi. There have been so many pictures made in Africa that they have it

Snead Has Chance In US Open Meet

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE (Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.) BY OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Sam Snead still liked his chances today as he looked forward to the one that always go away.

Change Of Mind For Nashua's Boss

BY RAY AYRES NEW YORK (UP)—The attitude of trainer James Fitzsimmons towards Nashua has changed these days until now the veteran horseman is more concerned with delivering the brilliant colt safely to the breeding farm than in adding to his record earnings.

Spends Time in Stall So Nashua will spend most of his time in his stall during the remainder of this season and race only four or five times. He then will be shipped to Spendthrift Farm near Lexington, Ky., for the breeding season next spring.

It's a risk every time he comes out of the stall, said Mr. Fitz in revealing that Nashua would have few opportunities to add to the record $1,102,854 the colt already has amassed. There will be no long shipping trips, either, for the brilliant son of Nasrullah who was purchased for $1,250,200 by a syndicate headed by Leslie B. Combs II, owner of Spendthrift Farm.

Avoids Chances "We don't want to take too much out of him by shipping from place to place for races or by hard drills for a strenuous campaign. I don't want to take too many chances on having him injured. I don't want to take anything that they bought for breeding by working him to death," said Mr. Fitz.

Actually Nashua has not been a difficult horse to train although some of the traits he displayed as a juvenile did little to make Mr. Fitz happy.

Nashua had a habit of trying to "prop" by stopping suddenly when he got to the front. He was a curious colt and enjoyed sight-seeing when he was supposed to be racing. He didn't care for the whip too much in those days and would slow down under a lashing rather than try harder.

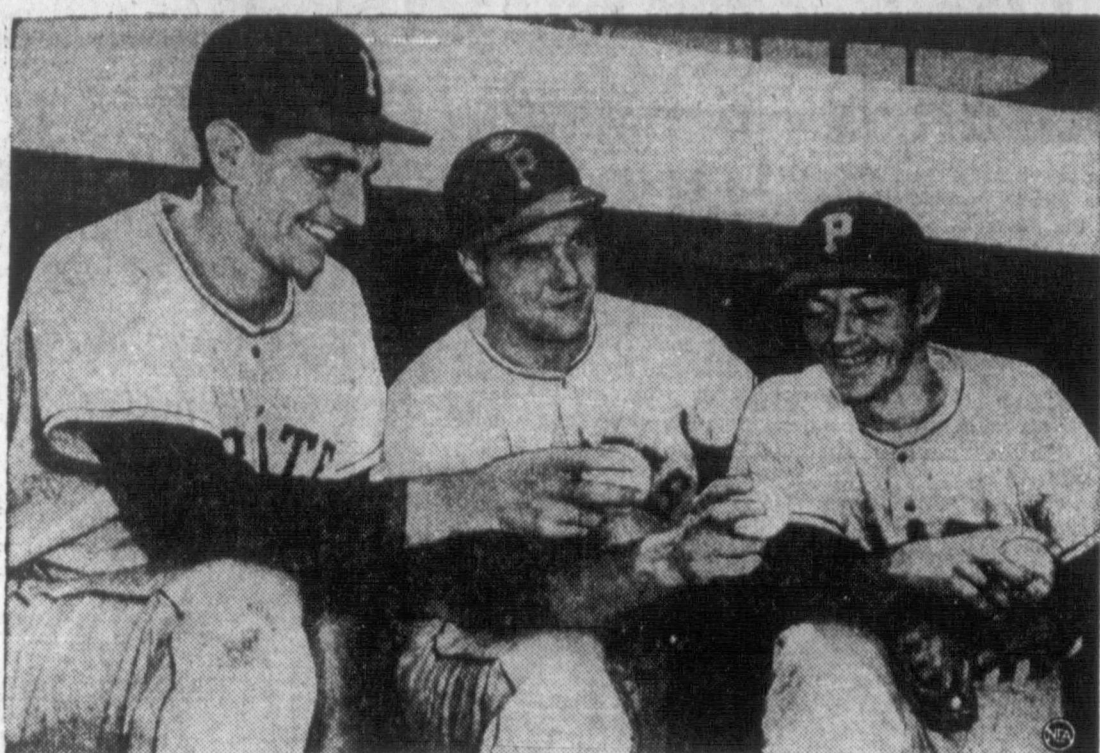

Nashua never is left alone. Groom Al Robertson Jr. with him all day long and watchman Jim Driscoll is outside his stall all night. Nashua never leaves out of the barn without a stable pony as a snare.

Wild Red Berry and his partner, Gene LeBelle, took the main event tag team match over the Golden Terror and Rip Rogers, Monday evening at the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club arena.

Gene and Berry won the first fall on a disqualification by the Terror and Rogers. In the second fall, the Terror and Rogers, tagging each other, frequently, went on to take Berry and Gene in 7:24. Gene and Berry won the tag team match as the Terror and Rogers were again disqualified.

In the semi-final event, Andre Drapp took two straight falls from Kay Duran.

A draw was called in the first event between the Terror and Red Berry.

Brewer Twirls Three Hitter As Red Sox Clip Indians

BY FRED DOWN United Press Sports Writer Coach Dave Ferriss' tip to slow down his delivery was credited today with enabling Tom Brewer of the Boston Red Sox to reach stardom in a big hurry.

Brewer, a 24-year old right-hander from Wadesboro, N.C., took the former Red Sox pitching star's advice and says "It's the big reason" he now owns a glittering 9-1 record and a 2.41 earned run average. Brewer leads the American League in victories and his eight in a row are a season high for the majors.

Williams Raises Average Tom was touched for a run on a walk and two singles in the second inning but allowed only one more hit the rest of the way.

Al Smith, Chico Carrasquel and Al Rosen homered for the Indians in the afternoon game, enabling Cal McLish to pick up his second victory with relief aid from Ray Nariski.

The Baltimore Orioles dealt the Detroit Tigers their third straight setback, 5-4, when Bob Nieman blasted a 430-foot two-run homer in the fifth. Hector Brown won his third game, taking over for George Zuverink in the eighth.

Mantle, Schoendienst Lead All-Star Polling NEW YORK (UP)—First returns from the nation's baseball fans in the All-Star balloting to day pegged Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals as the top vote-getters for their leagues.

Mantle, far out front for the American League center field post, had a total of 3,258 votes in the tabulations being compiled this year by the office of Baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

Schoendienst, leader in a run-of-the-mine crop of second basemen in the National League, had a total of 2,330 votes.

The balloting for American League players in the early going was running true to form with seven of the eight early leaders

Runner-up to Schoendienst in the early voting was his teammate, right fielder Stan Musial of the Cardinals with 3,237 votes. Roy Campanella, the Dodger catcher, led his post with 2,160 votes.

Fans are voting for the All-Star candidates to be the starters in the game at Washington on July 10, through newspapers, radio and TV stations and other agencies in all parts of the nation. Pitchers will be selected by the rival managers, Walt Alston of the National League and Casey Stengel of the American.

Dons To Receive Award Wednesday SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The University of San Francisco basketball team will be presented with the United Press trophy, symbolic of the national college championship for 1955-56 season, Wednesday night.

Coach Phil Woolpert and his players will receive the new trophy for having been voted the nation's No. 1 team by the United Press Board of Coaches. Richard A. Liffin, United Press Pacific Division manager, will make the presentation.

San Francisco, which ran its string of consecutive victories to a record 85 in sweeping through a 29-game season and its second straight NCAA championship, was voted tops in the nation every week of the past season in the United Press ratings.

Oilers Break Losing Streak Down San Angelo Colts, 8-4

Ernie Bartolomei's five-hit performance enabled the Pampa Oilers to get back on the winning side, downing the San Angelo Colts, 8-4, Monday in Oiler Park. The Oilers opened up the first inning with a three run outburst.

Stan Angelo's Moe Santurmo homered over the left field fence in the fourth with nobody aboard but in the sixth, the Oilers were able to pick up two more runs. Bruzga who had been walked by Colt pitcher Phipps, scored from third after Joe Kretschmar had filed out to San Angelo's center fielder, Peanuts Browning. Oiler hurler Bartolomei doubled into center field driving in Frank Kempa, who had reached first on a fielder's choice.

In the seventh, Jeff Williams, Colt first baseman, was hit in the back by a pitched ball thrown by Oiler pitcher Bartolomei, and scored the only run in that frame when Herman Charles singled. Colt, second baseman, Sherrod Brewer blasted a drive over the left field fence in the eighth.

The Oilers sat down on three straight pitches by Colt twirler Phipps in the seventh, bounced back in the eighth frame to drive two more across the plate. Kempa enabled Bruzga who had walked, to pick up a run as he lined a single into right field. Bartolomei doubled to left field sending in Phipps, p.

In the ninth, the Colts put a scare into the Oilers, getting three base runners on, but could only squeeze across one run as two were stranded.

Bartolomei, pitching one of his finest games for the Oilers this season, struck out two, while allowing only two base on balls. Colt hurler, Phipps struck out only two Oilers while giving up three base on balls.

The Oilers meet San Angelo tonight in the last tilt of the two game series. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

By UNITED PRESS The Hobbs Sports are making signs of staying atop the Southwestern League the rest of the season, but the Plainview Ponies refuse to be shaken far off the pace.

The Sports took over the league lead May 19 and have not been dislodged since that time, while Plainview has been the most tenacious challenger by staying one to four games behind throughout the span during which the Sports have played .750 ball by winning 18 of 24 games, including the last six in a row.

Jim Heise bested El Paso's Howie Anderson for a 5-4 Hobbs victory Monday night to stay 2 1-2 games ahead of Plainview, which romped on Ballinger's Ralph Mason, while Clovis trampled Midland 13-3 and Pampa whipped San Angelo 8-4 in other games.

The clubs close the current series tonight with Midland at Clovis, El Paso at Hobbs, Carlsbad, Ballinger at Plainview, and Gene Lippold for a 13-7 victory.

Poirier, Ortega To Be Rematched NEW YORK (UP)—Middleweights Gaspar Ortega of Mexico and Gene Poirier of Niagara Falls, N.Y., will be rematched for another TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena next month because of Monday night's close 10-rounder, won by substitute Ortega on a majority decision.

Promoter Teddy Brenner said today, "I'll bring them back again on July 16 or 23."

Ortega, whose long-range counter-punching and superiority in the exchanges earned the verdict, was substituting for Danny Giovannelli of New York, who sprained an ankle in training. Nevertheless, Gaspar was favored at 6-5 in a last-minute betting switch.

It was an excellent fight, in which each bled from the nose—Ortega profusely. And Poirier suffered a bruised neck under his right eye. Ortega was bounced to the canvas for a "slip" in the eighth round. Each was knocked back onto his heels several times. Poirier was groggy in the sixth and Ortega's knees were buckled in the seventh.

member of the U.S. Olympic team. But, first, he wants another crack at Sime in the NCAA, AAU and Olympic trials—with a hope that he won't get left at the post again.

The muscular Morrow, a 20-year-old college sophomore like his two chief rivals—Dave Sime of Duke and Leamon King of California, has lost only one century dash in over three years and has been clocked as low as 2:08 with a seven-mile tailwind.

Sime beat him in the Drake Relays and was five yards out front by the time Morrow got away from the starting blocks.

Morrow's coach, astute Oliver Jackson of Abilene Christian College, felt that Sime beat the gun and the runners should have been called back, but he didn't enter an official protest.

The high knee action, leg drive and "perfect hip roll" enabled Morrow to close all but one yard of that gap on Sime, but the lead was too great.

Morrow has been working all spring trying to improve his start. "I've been trying to get better arm action out of the blocks," he says. "Last year I was starting too low. Coach (Jackson) and I have been using movies of some of my starts in an effort to cure my trouble."

Jackson, with an eye on the upcoming NCAA and AAU championships and the Olympic trials, has brought Morrow along about a week to 10 days behind his schedule as a freshman when he hit his peak the first week in June and was timed in 9.1 seconds in the 100 and 20.6 in the 220 at the NAIA championships here.

"His starts now are much superior to earlier in the year," Jackson said as he embarked his team for the prolonged stay on the West Coast.

Morrow indicated in late May at the Gulf Coast AAU meet in Houston that he was nearing peak form when he tied the world 100 meters scored at 10.2 seconds.

Morrow, who is the national AAU 100-yard champ, already has been to Australia, making the trip under AAU auspices last winter to win 12 straight races, including a wind-aided 9.3 century.

He beat Hector Hogan, one of the three men who hold the official, world's record of 9.3, in one of those races in Australia.

Now, he has his sights set on going back in November as a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

But, first, he wants another crack at Sime in the NCAA, AAU and Olympic trials—with a hope that he won't get left at the post again.

Purpose of the meeting is to find out how many city bowlers are interested in competing in the American Bowling Congress tournament scheduled to be held in Fort Worth, the spring of 1957.

Brake states that entries for this tourney come from all over the world and those planning to enter need to have their names turned in soon.

Turned Pro FORT WORTH (UP)—Ken Edwards, former University of Oklahoma golf star and Fort Worth city champ in 1954, has turned professional and will become an assistant to pro Raymond Gafford at Ridgela Country Club here June 15.

Heavy Schedule ABILENE, Tex. (UP)—The 1956-57 Hardin - Simmons basketball schedule includes Midwestern, Southwestern, Centenary, Howard Payne, Murray (Ky.) State, Texas and North Texas in addition to the Louisiana Invitational Tournament in Shreveport and the regular Border Conference schedule.

Game Set CANYON, Tex. (UP)—A December tour against Middle Tennessee, Tennessee Tech and Murray (Ky.) State is included in West Texas State's 1956-57 basketball schedule in addition to home games against McNeese, Centenary, North Texas and New Mexico and the regular Border Conference slate.

Baylor Bound WACO, Tex. (UP)—Carl Mitchell, a six foot, two-inch basketball player from Phillips, Tex., has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Baylor University next fall. Coach Bill Henderson announced going back in November as a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

Spike Jones Says Rock 'N' Roll Tunes Are 'Horrible'

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Those rock 'N' roll tunes Elvis Presley and the other new singers shout may be sensational to the teen-agers, but to Hollywood's eminent music critic, Spike Jones, they're "horrible."

Spike complains the songs such as "Heartbreak Hotel" and "Blue Suede Shoes" are lousing up his business.

He's the original tune-slaughterer. But how can you slaughter a tune, he sighs, that's already a mess? He charges that today's popular tunes sound just as wacky as the satires his orchestra of automobile horns and train whistles has been doing for years—only his were just for fun.

"It's murder when you're in the business of depending on pop tunes to satirize," is his lament. "Each year I think the songs can not get any worse, but they do."

"Most pop tunes border on the ridiculous now. We're really painted into a corner. We can't make them any worse!"

Spike delivered his tale of woe while escorting me on a tour of Hollywood's jazz night clubs (appearing with a celebrity is one way to get a table). Although a date with Spike is not exactly like a date with Clark Gable, it's educational. The murderer of music is an expert on musicians and what they play.

"We used to satirize standard tunes but now if we try that the teen-agers don't know what we're satirizing," he said. "They don't know 'Deep Purple' from nothin'."

"Last year at least we had 'Davy Crockett.' But this year we're stuck with Heartbreak Hotel." For my show now (at the Moulin Rouge here) we finally did it as 'Heartbreak Motel.'"

For another number Spike didn't even bother to satirize the Gale Storm rock 'N' roll record of "Why Do Fools Fall in Love." He just put on the record and did pantomime to it.

"We dubbed a sneeze on the record and you don't notice much when she stops singing and starts sneezing," said the poker-faced Jones.

The worst blow of all, he continued, was when he worked up a satire on another "jump" record by a popular group, The Platters. "Fifty per cent of the people in the audience applaud—they think it's a wonderful imitation," he groaned. "They don't even know 'So we tried to satirize another song, 'Transfusion.' We gave up. When I can't make a song worse you know it's horrible!"

Student To Make Washington Trip

WHEELER — (Special) — Joe Van Zandt of Wheeler will be one of four Texas youths to attend the 26th National 4-H Club Camp to be held in Washington, D.C., June 12 to 20.

Joe will meet the other members of the Texas delegation in Dallas to make the trip to Washington. While there he will serve as an usher for the general assembly on June 17.

During his stay in the capital city, Joe will have an opportunity to meet President Eisenhower and make trips to Mt. Vernon, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the Agriculture Research Center in Beltsville, Md.

Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Van Zandt and is a student at Texas A&M.

'POSSUM'S MEOW'—When a 'possum was orphaned through the loss of his mother, he went, naturally enough, to an orphanage. The mother cat at the Happy Homes orphanage in McCallen, Texas, took the homeless youngster into her family of four kittens. Three of the kittens are shown, above, at the dinner table, but 'possum was smart—he got there first.

The "teaching staff" of the little, one-room school is Mrs. Gladys M. Johnson, second from right. The "student body" consists of Thelma Watson, 11, left, her 13-year-old brother, Murray and Sherolyn Minchow, 14, right. All are children of ranchers in the Bates Hole area. Sherolyn, whose home is farthest away, rides to and from school on horseback.

Student Goes To Boys State

William Whitener, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Whitener of Wheeler, has been chosen as the local representative to Lone Star Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Sunday, June 10, at the University of Texas, in the lobby of Roberts Hall. The first assembly is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday.

Purpose of Lone Star Boys State is to acquaint the young people of Texas in the operation and functions of state government, thus enabling them to come back and help inform other youngsters in order that better citizens may be developed.

Whitener's trip to Boys State is sponsored by the West-Passons American Legion Post of Wheeler.
