Arizona Couple 'Arrested'

Pampa's Tourists-Of-The-Day Friday were a couple from Yuma, Arizona. Mr. and Mrs. George Frets were "ticked" as guests of the tourist development committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon. The couple received free lodging at the Pampa Hotel, dinner at Johnson's Cafe, had their car serviced at Odgen's Singair Service Station, received flowers from Parker's Blossom Shop and were escorted to the rodeo by Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Shultz. Mr. and Mrs. Frets had been visiting in Danville, Ill., and were returning to Yuma, and had come into Pampa on US Highway 60. Chief of Police Jim Conner made the "greeting arrest." Shultz, the host, reported Saturday that Frets told him of an occasion when he sold some Texas property to a man and has regretted it ever since. Frets, according to the story, worked at one time in a shoe store in the East. The firm went broke owing him about two weeks' pay. The store owner owned 40 acres in Texas which he agreed to give Frets to settle the wage debt. Later, Frets met a man coming to Texas and sold the property to the man for $50. The plot of land, located near Lubbock, has now made the purchaser a millionaire, as oil wells were drilled "all over the 40 acres." and Jim Sealy took third with 289 points. Results in the cutting horse contest were not available. Most of the cowboys were happy Saturday night that the rodeo was over but they were already making plans to enter the 13th Annual Top o' Texas Rodeo next year.

Kiwanis Club Hears Burnette

Affable Smiley Burnette, famous cowboy comic, entertained the Pampa Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting Friday with some of the songs he has written and some of his favorite jokes. Burnette's song and jokes were highly enjoyed by the Kiwanians and Ralph McKinney, president, asked him to go back to the piano after he had finished to sing his own favorite song, Burnette sang "My Home Town." E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth, who introduced the program, introduced the member of a special ensemble composed of members of the Amarillo Air Force Band, who played several numbers for the group. The band was led by Lt. Milton Stern, director. The Brown brothers of Berger, also on the program, played several selections. It was "Kid Day" at the meeting and several of the Kiwanians' children were present to see and hear "The Frog." Guests included Alvita Ream, Joyce Swope, Carro Shoaf, "Red" Richardson, Roy Tillotse, Howard Lee, Virgil Chappel, and Bob Bradbury.

HARRY

(Continued from Page One) announcement, Harriman sped to the ex-President's hotel suite for a brief conference and then began conferring with delegates in a drive to increase his support before the convention gets underway Monday noon. Halls Endorsement Carmine DeSapio, New York national committeeman and mastermind of Harriman's campaign, hailed the Truman endorsement as "inspiring and heartening news." He said support from the only living Democratic ex-President was "the greatest tribute that can be paid to any candidate." Mr. Truman, calling for a "free and open" convention, said he had "little faith in the value of the bandwagon operation or the reliability of political polls — a remark that drew an immediate reply from the Stevenson camp. Finnegan said that if there is a "bandwagon" for Stevenson it is "powered by the popular vote cast in various state Democratic primaries and the widespread support oaratic leaders from one end of this country to the other." He added that a check with most of the state delegations showed "no serious defections" among members previously pledged to the former Illinois governor. But he said "many regret that they must oppose Mr. Truman's views."

GENERAL'S BOOTS General Herbert L. Grills, commanding officer of Amarillo Air Force Base, is shown as he was given a pair of boots by Mayor Lynn Boyd in behalf of the citizens of Pampa for his support of the Top o' Texas Rodeo. Demos Considering Catholic For Veep

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 — UP — Democratic leaders are seriously debating whether to take a chance on stirring up a religious issue at their Chicago convention by proposing a Catholic for the vice-presidency.

Some highly-placed Democrats believe a Catholic vice presidential candidate might be just what the 1956 ticket needs. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York are Catholics frequently mentioned as strong contenders for the vice-presidential spot on the Democratic ticket.

In their private discussions on the eve of the convention, these Democrats give weight to three arguments: Stevenson's divorce hurt him politically in 1952, especially among Catholic voters. A Catholic running-mate would be a good antidote.

The U. S. Catholic population has increased 37.5 per cent since 1945 and now totals more than 33.5 million men, women and children.

At The Convention

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO (UP) — At the convention, NBC-TV has come up with a new what-is-it for the conventions—a midjet gyroscopic stabilizer. The gimmick, a one-and-a-half-pound number about the size of a baseball, will be used to steady NBC's portable camera. There are only three other such gadgets in existence and the Navy owns the other two.

As with every large scale operation, in which strange people wander in and out, the networks are suffering from a small rash of petty thievery at the convention arena.

Staplers, typewriters, paper supplies and other portable items have been lifted from their moorings. NBC reports a batch of waste baskets missing and CBS seems to have lost a whole TV set.

Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee took a tour of the CBS set-up at the International Amphitheatre and everyone at the CBS plant was very impressed by his friendliness.

"I've got to get in good with you fellows," explained the convention keynote. "You can make or break me Monday night."

Brad Kress, an NBC-TV cameraman here, tells the craziest story of the week.

Kress, after arriving here by train, hailed a cab, tossed his camera into it, then turned round to pick up the rest of his gear. The taxi promptly zoomed off.

Kress flagged a police car, they gave chase and caught the cab several blocks away.

The cabbie didn't bat an eye. Just looked at his back seat, turned to Kress and said: "um, where do you go?"

Add curious visitors to the Democratic clamor: Virginia Warren, daughter of Earl Warren, vice presidential candidate for the Republicans in States, by either major party, since Al Smith was defeated in the bitterly fought 1928 election campaign. Smith's Catholic religion was a major issue in that campaign, particularly in the heavily Protestant and traditionally Democratic South. His Republican opponent, Herbert Hoover, carried several southern states in the payoff.

It is noteworthy that some southern senators are among the Democrats who are now sympathetic to the idea of nominating a Catholic vice-presidential candidate.

Stevenson's divorce hurt him politically in 1952, especially among Catholic voters. A Catholic running-mate would be a good antidote.

The U. S. Catholic population has increased 37.5 per cent since 1945 and now totals more than 33.5 million men, women and children.

Red Cross. All of which goes to prove that the Red Cross is always available for emergency help when there is a disaster on land, sea or air.

According to statistics in the local Red Cross office, there were 176 persons working in local Red Cross activities during the month of July. Many of the volunteers worked as Gray Ladies, staff aides, board members, water safety instructors and aides. Last week a teenage girl came into the office to see if there was any work she could do. As a result, the water safety cards will soon be mailed to those who passed their tests in the recent program.

Jeannette Leith, president of the Kit Kat Klub, is working on the program that the girls will give at Amarillo Air Force Base on August 22.

The local Red Cross chapter still has one hospital bed, without mattress, to loan to those needing one. The chapter has many medical supplies to loan for the sick room if needed and also owns nine wheel chairs, four hospital beds and several pairs of crutches which are loaned out most of the time.

How To Pay It Off

"An easy way for any business to go broke," says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, "would be to adopt Uncle Sam's system of budgeting and accounting."

We couldn't be in more hearty concurrence. The manner in which our federal government runs its financial affairs is shocking, unrealistic and downright dishonest.
For example, Congress appropriates money in a single business year which it plans to spend over a number of years. Thus costs, in no way related to income, are piled high on the backs of the providers, the American taxpayers. Could you as a businessman, or as a homeowner, do the same? Obviously you could not. You must relate the expenses of a given year to the income you will make in that year. If you must plan expenditures over a long period of time, you can only do so if you have the accumulated cash or if you are willing to jeopardize your income over a corresponding long period of time. There is no other way for you or anyone else to operate.

But the government can and does do it differently. Especially in the realm of foreign give-aways and in the building of its military might, the government appropriates tremendous sums, and the unexpended residue after every year simply becomes a surplus held by any given department as that same department goes about getting an even bigger slice next year.

For example, in the year ended June 30, 1956, there is an estimated $3.9 billions of dollars still unspent. By all means, this sum should have reverted back to the taxpayers, or it should have been used to reduce the current budget. But it was not, nor will it be. It is just an added pot of loot which the government can spend any time it pleases.

Then there is the matter of setting up the budget in the first place. Any businessman knows that before he can set up any kind of a financial chart of his expenses and costs, he must reasonably know how much money he has to work with. But not the government. It goes ahead and decides just how much money it wants. This is broken down into its component parts, but the taxpayer is sent the full bill regardless.

If the government were operated on a realistic basis it would figure from a fixed income. But it does not. It just decides what it wants to spend and then does so. If the taxpayers can't provide all of the sum, that doesn't mean a thing. The government simply goes into debt for the difference, and charges the taxpayers with the interest as well as the deficit.

Try to do this yourself with your own business or personal affairs and see where you come out.
Let us take that $5.9 billion as a starter. Instead of permitting it to continue as a sort of unobligated obligation, suppose we apply it to the monstrous federal debt which is just over $272 billion. This would immediately reduce what we owe to something right at $220 billions. And this could be done without affecting our current budget in the slightest!

Even at 3 per cent interest, and we are usually paying more interest than that, such a reduction in our debt would save us $1,590,000,000 in next year's interest. This would further strengthen our financial position.

If this were done every year, we might conceivably retire even our astronomical debt. For the truth is that profligate though our government is, it is now collecting more money from the taxpayers than even it can spend in a given year! Fast as the government pours out the dollars, it does take a certain amount of time for the government to throw it away.

If the unexpended balance could be used to reduce our indebtedness, we'd be on our way out of this morass of debt, induced by socialist thinking in our midst. Certainly this idea is something our sons ought to think about. For remember, this debt must either be paid sometime, or it will be repudiated to our ultimate ruin.

What Price Integrity

A few voters with long memories will remember that a few months back, President Eisenhower vetoed a bill to exempt producers of natural gas from federal regulation.

At that time, he said he supported the "objectives" of the bill, but that he was rejecting the legislation because of the pressure by oil and gas producers. Final consideration of the bill was almost overshadowed by the announcement by Senator Francis Case of South Dakota that he had rejected a $2,500 campaign contribution from a lawyer interested in passage of the measure.

Eisenhower's statement roughly was that he personally favored the legislation as needed by the United States, but that he was vetoing it because of the tactics of proponents of the bill.

This week he has signed "with some reservations" a piece of legislation which will expand the so-called "security" program of the federal government.

The new law will lower the retirement age for women to 62 so they can start collecting three years earlier than at present; it will provide benefits for permanently disabled persons at age 50; it will bracket into the program more persons, including lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, optometrists — but not medical doctors; it will authorize states to bring their employees under the program. Oh, yes, it also boosts, effective next Jan. 1, the amounts employers, employees and self-employed persons will have to pay.

It seems to most thinking persons that a man of integrity who felt a piece of legislation was desirable and beneficial to the economy of the country would sign it instead of backing off in mock horror because a few persons — principally from his opposing party — are shocked at an offer of a political condition. On that basis, little legislation would be approved, because there are many pressure groups which hold a club of political support or denial of support over the heads of legislators and presidents. Labor unions are one of the more glaring examples with their political-action groups.

It also seems that if the social security legislation, which simply adds to an already bad law, is unsatisfactory to the extent that a man of integrity disapproved it, he should stand by his avowed principles and refuse to sign it.

But it's not the first time the man in the White House has claimed he stood for one thing and has taken actions which deny the truth of his statements.

Reader Contends Tariffs, Immigration Quotas Not Moral Questions

About six weeks ago I had an article defending my claim that tariffs and immigration quotas tend to cause wars. A Mrs. Esther B. Warner took me to task for this statement. I published her letter and my answer.

Now Mrs. Lucile Crain Crain, evidently a friend of Mrs. Warner's and one who evidently believes as Mrs. Warner does, writes as follows:
July 16, 1956

"Dear Sir:
"I have belatedly seen your column of June 22nd, expressing your views on immigration and the protective tariff. Placing these issues on the moral realm, and particularly impugning the moral principles of those favoring controlled immigration and protective tariffs, creates to my mind a confusion which makes a reasonable debate on these vital matters all but impossible.

"Neither of these matters, it happens, is involved in the Commandment to 'love thy neighbor,' or in the Golden Rule. They are political and economic questions, which concern no one's basic political rights. While the Declaration recognized the 'unalienable rights' of man, its entire purpose was to spark the separation of the United States from its mother country, and the Declaration alone would have been of little effect in creating the freest society history has yet to record had it not been for the Constitution, which can be interpreted as a set of rules to maintain order and to implement within the borders of the United States the spirit of the Declaration.

"The 'rights' you mention are, therefore, not absolute. They are necessarily subject to rule of law of the society in which men choose to live. Moreover, perhaps the basic right of all, for persons and societies, is the right of survival and self-preservation, politically and economically speaking. Surely, as an American, you do not wish to see the most successful social pattern yet devised so altered that its tradition is destroyed. Would it not be the greatest threat to this society to permit entry here of millions of persons uneducated in the ways of liberty?

"Your questioning Mrs. Warner's moral right to use aggressive force to keep her neighbor from having people come onto her neighbor's land prompts a question to you. Would you have no recourse—or would you not take one—from the invasion of your own property by hundreds of Mexicans and Japanese? The question itself is a loaded one, too. Mrs. Warner would all probably do nothing about anyone 'coming on to her neighbor's land.' That would be a situation for her neighbor to handle; and the remedy, in our society, is not 'aggressive force,' but the force of law.

"The hoary free-trade argument that tariffs are the cause of war is one I am surprised to have you use at this late date, especially in the wake of two disastrous world wars, which have had the unparalleled effect of restricting political and economic liberty, particularly in the Western world.

"Surely our 'revisionist' historians, in what is now fortunately a spate of books on the subject, have made clear that these world wars are contrived by world revolutionists or their tools, for the purpose of achieving world domination. This country for many years now has rated as a low-tariff nation, and the tariff issue had nothing to do whatever with Franklin Roosevelt's coming to making us a party to World War II. And would you contend that the tariff issue was a factor in Harry Truman's catapulting us into the Korean War?

"Let us have an end, among American conservatives, to impugning ignoble and immoral motives to one another to try to substantiate untenable political and economic theories, and make sure that we know the true nature of our troublesome times before engaging in such confusing and destructive stuff as your piece, 'Better Jobs.'

"Very truly yours,
"Lucille Crain Crain"
My answer to Mrs. Crain's letter was as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Crain:
"This is in reply to your letter of July 16 asking some questions.
"Since I believe that any man of integrity will answer questions without evasion, I want to answer. There is no need for a person of integrity to refuse to answer questions.

"You asked, 'Would it not be the greatest threat to this society to permit entry here of millions of persons uneducated in the ways of liberty?' The answer is that it would not. It is the disregard of liberty of the people in the United States if refusing to let other people enter upon property of those who give their consent that is the greatest threat to society.
"All political actions are moral questions. It certainly would be a violation of moral law for me to try to stop anybody from coming onto Mrs. Warner's or your property whom you wanted to have enter onto your property.

"Certainly I would regard it an invasion of my property to have Mexicans or Japanese or anyone else, including Americans, enter on my property without my consent. But that doesn't give me the right to stop them going on somebody else's property who has given their consent. I have the government doing things that no individual has a moral right to do answer questions?"

Hall, White House Staff Angry Over Stassen's Drive

WASHINGTON — Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and the whole White House family, especially Chief of Staff Sherman Adams and Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, are furious over Harold E. Stassen's "Stop Nixon" drive. Only President Eisenhower's caution and restraint prevent them from expressing their scalding opinion of the disruptive movement, which has dumfounded all the "old pros" in politics.

Together with Vice President Nixon's close political associates, they attribute Stassen's idea and inspiration to a small liberal faction in New York, including bankers, industrialists and former military officers now heading great corporations. Several held suspect by the V.P. have denied that they support or finance the Minnesota, but their disclaimers are not accepted at face value.

The New York group has had numerous overseas associations, a perfect right to join with others to keep them from coming onto my property or anybody else's property who do not want them to come onto their property.

"I do not know anyone who will answer questions who believes in protective tariffs. Certainly I would contend that the tariff issue and the immigration quotas were a factor in the Korean War.

"As stated above, every political act is either in agreement with moral law or in disagreement. And I believe in the single standard of moral law. I don't believe the state has a right to do things that would be a violation of moral law if done by an individual. You and Mrs. Warner seem to think that if enough people do a thing that violates a moral law it done by an individual that it does not violate moral law.

"Before you try to defend protective tariffs, why not read the great thinkers of the ages on the subject? Frederic Bastiat probably explained the blessings of free trade better than any man who ever lived. . . .

I did not know Mrs. Crain intended her letter for publication so did not publish it. Now I have a subsequent letter from Mrs. Crain stating it was for publication.

Now I have answered all Mrs. Crain's questions. Will she answer the following questions?
"What standard of right and wrong do you use to determine whether a government act is right or wrong if you do not use the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule? Would you contend that it was not a violation of the Golden Rule for you as an individual to use aggressive force to stop John Smith from coming onto Bob Jones' land after having received Bob Jones' consent? If it is a violation of the Golden Rule for one person to do a thing, how many people have to do the same thing to make it in agreement with the Golden Rule?"
Will those people who defend the government doing things that no individual has a moral right to do answer questions?"

Government Getting More Control Over The People

By Thurman Sensing

It was the philosophy of Thomas Jefferson that "That nation is governed best which is governed least." Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The less government we have, the better—the fewer laws, and the less confided power."
Wise men down through the ages have recognized that there must be government, but that it should be a minimum of government. Love of freedom is based on the philosophy that government should always be the servant, not the master of the people.

This philosophy reached its zenith here in the United States of America, where individual initiative and ingenuity, spurred on by the incentive of the free enterprise system, made us the most productive nation on the face of the earth and brought more benefits to more people than any other system the world had ever known.
If we would face the facts, though, we must realize that in recent years there has been a decided tendency to give government more and more control over the lives of the people, that the trend has been to pass a multiplicity of laws. Thus we are departing from the Philosophy of Jefferson and Emerson; thus we allow government to become our master.

If we should have one Congress that did not pass any laws at all during its entire session, that might be the best thing that could happen to us. In fact, some Congress might well devote its time and attention to repealing laws instead of passing them.
The Congress just ended—the 84th Congress—would probably be considered by most people a good Congress, at least no better and no worse than the average Congress. It passed a number of bills during its two sessions that would be considered major legislation. But, aside from appropriating the necessary operating expenses of the Government, one could very confidently take the position that the nation would have been just as well off had none of this so-called major legislation been passed. Let's consider some of the major measures:

A revised farm bill was passed, but one would have trouble proving that the farm situation is any better than it was; in fact, no bill was considered that went to the heart of the trouble. A soil bank plan was set up—to pay farmers for not working. Commodities will still be raised to get government-guaranteed prices. Intensive cultivation will produce just as much as ever. The farm problem has not been solved.
A bill was passed "liberalizing" social security, taking care of young people longer and old people sooner. Those permanently disabled become eligible for social security benefits at age 50, thereby adding a new socialized aspect to the whole plan. It is an unsound system, based on a false premise and deceitful in operation.
Federal housing was continued, with approval of 35,000 units of public housing for two years, liberalizing mortgage terms for elderly persons and for urban renewal projects. Both individuals and cities think they are getting "something for nothing" because they are getting money from Uncle Sam. Who do they think gave Uncle Sam the money in the first place? What right has the federal government got in the housing business anyway?
In the first session, Congress appropriated $2.7 billion for foreign aid in fiscal 1956, and in the second appropriated $3.8 billion for fiscal 1957. There was no need to appropriate any money at all. In the first place, it would be difficult to prove that our foreign aid has ever done us any good; in the second place, more than the total of these two amounts was already available.
In the first session, Congress raised the minimum wage from 75 cents to $1 an hour. This whole philosophy of legislating minimum wages is fallacious. If a man is not worth $1 an hour, no law will make him worth it; and if he must be paid that or nothing, he will be paid nothing—and go on relief at the taxpayer's expense.
Congress passed a bill authorizing a $7.5 billion federal flood insurance and loan program. If the federal government is to protect us from flood disaster, why not from all other disaster? If not from all disaster, why worry any more—or why worry at all?
And so on.

Mac Writes Column In Waiting Room

By HENRY McLEMORE

ATHENS AIRPORT — I am tucked away in a corner of the transient's waiting room, hoping to get a column done before the TWA Super-Connie that is going to fly us to Cairo comes in from New York via Paris.

The manager here is getting to know us from our frequent stops, and he graciously fixed up a place for me to work. I'm at a little table amongst his souvenirs — dolls in native costumes, plates and saucers with the Parthenon painted on them, silk scarves, and embroidered shirts and blouses. As I trust I make a pretty picture, one employee must have thought I looked as if I needed something to write about, for he just handed me a batch of anti-British books and leaflets published by the National Committee For Self-Determination of Cyprus. I had seen most of the literature when I passed through on the way to Istanbul. There's no dearth of it; all the tables are loaded with it.

The literature is violent, to say the least. It reminds me of what I have heard of the anti-German propaganda of World War I—Bones and torturers. One of the booklets, entitled "One of the Greatest Crimes of This Century," has a cover sturdily decorated with two galleys against the background of a Union Jack.
Another booklet is devoted to Britain's alleged cruelty to Cypriot children, and on its covers, in bold lettering, are these questions: "Are You a Mother Too?" and "Have You Got Any Children?"
Inside, the language is inflammatory. A picture showing a British Tommy escorting a young man is captioned: "This young man is led into camp. Enraged soldiers are waiting for him there. After undressing him they will torture his naked, tender body; he shall be flogged with their hard whips." No pictures of habitual floggings or mistreatment are shown. But the implication is that the British soldiers prefer beating up youngsters to playing soccer in their spare time.

England, I understand, has protested against the use of international airport waiting rooms for the distribution of such vicious propaganda, but it's obvious that the Greeks have turned a deaf ear. Mary and I are a bit curious as to what our reception will be in Cairo. I have a feeling that as Americans we will not be greeted by a brass band, or be asked to ride through the streets in an open car — on a rail, maybe, what with our country's refusal to finance the Aswan Dam, and its reaction to the seizure of the Suez Canal.
Cairo will be the second city where we have thought it best to mind our P's and Q's. We didn't think it wise to throw our Western world weight around in Algeria, and in Cairo I'm going to limit my conversations to TWA people and the Sphinx. They're the only ones to whom I am going to risk any personal opinions of Colonel Nasser. And it would be just my luck for the Sphinx to start talking after all these years, and get me chased out of town.
The TWA Connie landed a few minutes ago and is parked out in front. That American flag painted on her side looks mighty good. I rather like the idea of landing in Egypt with that flag over my head. Those red, white and blue stripes, and those stars, never look so good as when you're a long way from home — and getting longer.

There are American cigarettes for sale on board, too. I'd rather have a plane carry those than gas-bis naked, tender body; he shall SHAPING UP—Earl "Pappy" Hollowell, 37, of Panama City Beach, Fla., is the defending overall champion in the veterans' division and in the vets' jump in the American Water Ski Association national championships at LaPorte, Ind., this month. Hollowell is shown in two photos as he practices for the big events. He conducts a water ski school in his home town.

The Pampa Harvesters in a pre-season grid poll conducted at the 24th annual Texas High School Coaching clinic which was held this week in Lubbock were picked in an unofficial tab to finish in second spot in the 1956 grid-revised 3-AAA district.

Amarillo's Sandies were nominated as the team to cope the 3-AAA football title this fall. The Berger Bulldogs were rated in third spot. Other teams which will comprise the 3-AAA are Plainview, Palo Duro of Amarillo, Lubbock High and Monterey of Lubbock, Palo Duro and Plainview have moved up a notch being in the 1-AAA district.

Wichita Falls was also given the nod in winning its district title. The Coyotes are in 7-AAAA. The Harvesters tangle with Wichita Falls, there, in their third game of the 1956 grid campaign.

Putt Powell, Amarillo sports scribe mentioned in his column recently that Dickie Mauldin will be a senior at Pampa High this fall.

George Bodey, Stinnett's outstanding fullback will be the lone representative from this area for the North in the annual North-South All-Star football classic to be held tonight at Jones Stadium in Lubbock.

Texas Western's grid drills will start Sept. 1, with around 80 prospects to be on hand. In a recent city golf tournament held at the Shamrock Course, Tommy Ryan took the championship flight title followed by Billy Holmes and Wilton Cole.

The Dumas Invitational Golf Tournament will be held at the Moore County Golf Course, Aug. 19. There will be four flights in the meet. The championship flight will consist of 27 holes with the other flights to be only 18. Three awards will be presented in each flight. Entrance fee is $3.

Received a phone call yesterday concerning the East-West Greenbelt grid classic scheduled to be held in Childress, Friday. Seems there is a lot of interest around the Top of Texas area about this tilt to be played. There should be Pampa High's outstanding guard Ed Strickland named to the West squad.

Also another area gragger Bob Williams, guard and tackle on the 1955 Perryton team was selected to be on the West aggregation. Bob was one of the tri-captains on last season's Ranger football squad. Both teams are to report in Childress today to begin practice drills.

cluded a seventh inning triple while Dobbek had a six frame double for his extra base blows for the night. Joe Kretschmar and Jim Martin each patted two hits apiece for top hitting laurels for the Oilers.

Ray Romero went the distance for the Sports in chalking up the win. He gave up 10 hits, including three doubles which curbed the visitors their final two tallies. The Oilers had previously posted a pair of runs on three hits and a base on balls in the fourth inning.

The Hobbs aggregation jumped on starter Buddy Woods in the first frame and chased him to the showers before he could retire the side. The Sports tallied five times in the initial inning.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP Orioles Thrash Yanks, 10-5; But Mantle Gets 40th Homer

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Baltimore Orioles routed rookie Ralph Terry and went on to 10-5, Saturday despite Mickey Mantle's 40th home run of the season. Hal Brown limited the Yankees to seven hits to beat them for the second time in his career behind an 11-hit attack that included three hits by Tito Francona and two each by Dick Williams and George Kell. The victory was the Orioles fifth in 11 meetings with the Yankees this season.

Brown, whose previous seven wins were scored against Kansas City and Detroit, experienced difficulty in only the seventh and ninth innings when the Yankees scored all their runs. Mantle climaxed the seventh-inning outburst with a towering three-run homer into the third deck of the right field stands.

That blow put the Yankee slugger 11 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record 1927 pace and made him the first Yankee to hit 40 home runs in a season since Joe DiMaggio hit 46 in 1937.

The three runs batted in raised Mantle's season total to 101, making him the first major leaguer of the year to go over the 100 mark. The Orioles hoped on Terry, who beat the Red Sox in his major league debut last Monday night, for three runs in the first inning on three hits, errors by Bill Skowron and Hank Bauer, and Gus Triandos' sacrifice fly.

Triandos' ninth home run of the season boosted the margin to 4-0 in the third inning and the Orioles routed Terry in the fifth with a three-run spurge featured by Triandos' two-run single. They added a single run in the sixth off Gary Coleman and two unearned tallies in the eighth off Mickey McDermott. McDermott homered in the ninth for the Yankees' final run.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—UP—Pedro Ramos, young Cuban right-hander, registered his sixth straight victory and outfielder Jim Lemon smashed two home runs Saturday night as the Washington Senators whipped the Boston Red Sox, 6-1.

It was Ramos' fourth victory over Boston this season. Ted Williams ruined Ramos' bid for a shutout when he slammed his 18th homer in the sixth inning, his second in two nights. The Senators still are seeking their first shutout of the year after 108 games.

Boston got seven hits to six for Washington. In addition to Lemon's two homers, which boosted the big outfielder's season total to 19, Clint Courtney hit a two-run triple in the fifth when Dave Sisler was shelved. Sisler yielded four of Washington's runs and hits.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 11.—UP—Pitcher Don Newcombe's string of consecutive scoreless innings was snapped at 39-1-3 Saturday by Stan Lopata's seventh-inning homer, but the Brooklyn Dodgers' ace right-hander went on to complete a two-hit 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Lose Third Straight Tilt, 9-7

PLAINVIEW — The Pampa Oilers suffered their third straight Southwestern loop setback, this being by the hands of the Plainview Ponies, 9-7, here Saturday night.

The Oilers started off like they apparently were going to break the slump they were in, by taking a 5-0 lead in the third. Pampa had lost two straight to league-leading Hobbs Sports before taking on the Ponies.

Plainview not taking a mercy on the Oilers fired across eight back-breaking runs in the fourth frame. Pampa pushed home two tallies in the top of the ninth but proved ineffective as the visiting rally was then halted.

Oilers' fine receiver Jim Martin and player-manager A. B. Cross were ejected in the fourth by the plate umpire due to the decisions he had been making.

Art Perina started on the hill for the touring Oilers and was credited with the loss. Ponies' Ross picked up the win for the host club. The Oilers meet the Plainview crew in a single action game Sunday afternoon here. Pampa concludes their long road trip here Monday and journey home for a nine day home stand hosting El Paso, Hobbs, and Plainview.

Oh Johnny Closed Strongly To Take Travers Stakes

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 11.—UP—Mrs. Wallis Gilroy's Oh Johnny, winner of two earlier stakes this year, closed strongly Saturday to win the 147-700 Travers Stakes, one of America's oldest races for three-year-olds, before a crowd of 22,050 at Saratoga.

The son of Johns Jay charged into the lead at the top of the stretch in the 87th running of the Travers and then pulled away under Hedy Woodhouse's urging to win by one and three-quarter lengths.

H. E. Jackson's surprising Tick Tock rallied after a poor start in the mile and one-quarter test and nipped Billy Sky strides before the wire to gain the place. Billy Sky Boy, who missed place money by a head, finished four and one-half lengths before Greek Spy. The time was a slow 2:06 1-5 and Oh Johnny returned $12.50, $6.40, and $4.70. Tick Tock, a four-time winner this year, paid $5.50 returned $7.70.

Oilers Lose Another One To Capable Hobbs Sports

HOBBS — The Hobbs Sports concluded their home stand here Friday night by clobbering the Pampa Oilers to the tune of 12-4 before a crowd of 532 fans.

The win for the Sports was their third in four starts against the third place Oilers. Ray Romero went the distance for the Sports in chalking up the win. He gave up 10 hits, including three doubles which curbed the visitors their final two tallies.

The Hobbs aggregation jumped on starter Buddy Woods in the first frame and chased him to the showers before he could retire the side. The Sports tallied five times in the initial inning.

Hobbs added another tally in the fourth, picked up three more in the sixth and notched their final three in the seventh and eighth frames. Carlos DeSouza and Dan Dobbek shared slugging honors for the hosts with each collecting three solid safeties. DeSouza's hits included a seventh inning triple while Dobbek had a six frame double for his extra base blows for the night.

Joe Kretschmar and Jim Martin each patted two hits apiece for top hitting laurels for the Oilers. Ray Romero went the distance for the Sports in chalking up the win. Good Hunting Expected During Next Duck Season

AUSTIN, Aug. 11.—UP—Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, predicted Saturday that Texas hunters will have a "very good duck and goose season."

He said that early rains are all that is needed to start ducks flying south. J. R. Singleton, a wildlife geologist, recently attended a central flyway council meeting. He told Dodgen that reports from the nesting ground are that "the excellent migration of last fall apparently will be repeated this year." Dodgen said fresh water is needed badly along the upper coast.

The lack of fresh water along the upper coast this year caused ducks and geese to congregate along the south coast. Dodgen said prospects for duck and goose hunting are also good in the Panhandle.

Top Jockey Richardson And Fraser Are In Eastern Finals

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 11.—UP—Ham Richardson of Westfield N.J., and Neale Fraser of Australia Saturday fought their way into the final round of the Eastern Grass-Court Tennis championships.

Southpaw Fraser, also 22, upset Vic Seixas, veteran Philadelphiaan and this country's top ranking amateur netman, 6-6, 6-2, 11-9.

NBA In New Decade

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By MAURICE PODOLOFF
President, NBA

Written for the United Press
NEW YORK (UP)—The National Basketball Association has just completed its first 10 years of operation.

We start our second decade with confident assurance soundly based on the experience of the last 10 years which have witnessed a gradual shift of ownership and operation of the teams to men dedicated to basketball. They have succeeded in recruiting the best players in the country and forming eight very evenly balanced teams. Never was the competition better and closer than last season.

That our efforts have been successful is evidenced by the steady increases in attendance which last season broke all records for the association as a whole and for a majority of the individual teams.

Basketball Building Boom
Responding to the demand for better facilities for spectators at our games new auditoriums have, during the last few years, been constructed in Syracuse, Rochester and Fort Wayne. These new buildings and the splendid older ones we have in the circuit have increased our capacities and the excellence of our facilities almost to the ultimate.

We have played an important part in the increase in the spectator appeal of the game itself by the adoption of certain rules of play:

A. We prohibit zone defenses.

B. Almost since we started we stationed two defending players in the positions nearest the basket.

C. One of our first rules prohibited a player waiving a free throw after a foul and taking the ball out of bounds.

D. We increased the width of the foul lane from six to twelve feet.

E. In addition to limiting the number of fouls per player we also penalize every four exceeding six per team per quarter.

F. A team, by fouls, can not have its playing strength reduced.

G. We have adopted a rule which has been hailed as a revolutionary and most beneficial one, a limitation on time of possession of the ball, the twenty four second rule.

day afternoons on television all over the country through the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company. Our contract with NBC has been extended for two more seasons.

The next stage of our development and growth is expansion into the many cities where new buildings are being planned or are in process of construction.

Two Categories In Organized Baseball

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By GEORGE M. TRAUTMAN
President, The Minor Leagues
(Written For The United Press)

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Every player in organized baseball finds himself in one of two categories: He is identified either as a major league ball player, or as a minor league ball player.

Quite frequently, a major league player of today finds himself to be a minor league player tomorrow. The same is true in reverse.

In either case, I like to think of him as being a truly professional baseball player. The main reason why a professional baseball player is a minor league player, even though that may be temporary, is because he makes more mistakes than does a major league player. And until these mistakes of commission or omission are corrected, he very likely will continue to be a minor league player.

Mishap
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UP)—Two race horses—Marian, a two-year-old filly, and four-year-old Miss Nell—were killed Thursday in a training accident at Saratoga. Both were killed after colliding while working out on the exercising track.

Better Now
CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago Cubs second baseman Gene Baker, hit on the left temple by Cincinnati pitcher Johnny Klippstein Wednesday night, said he "felt pretty good" Thursday night and expected to be back in the lineup in about four to five if X-rays taken in Cincinnati were negative.

day on the roster of a major league club.

Of this 6,000 total, approximately 30 per cent are first-year players, players who have come to the professional ranks from the high schools, colleges, or the sand lots. These young men have a great devotion to baseball, a desire to play the game, and to excel in it.

Success, Devotion, Akin
Players without this devotion will never reach the heights, and in my opinion, are a liability to I think of the national association (the minors) as being divided into two groups. I think of the players in our B, C and D classifications as serving an apprenticeship, to determine in each player's mind the question whether or not there is an opportunity for him in the professional field.

Players in the classifications A and above, are not far removed from major league opportunity. Because the national association is part of the professional game, it is the very foundation upon which the two great major leagues are founded and to which they must look for talent.

Texan Pulls Big Catch
SAVANNAH, Tenn. (UP)—A lanky Texan who says there's "no such thing as a day when fish won't bite" is undisputed "king of the catfishermen" with a haul of 1,350 catfish in 31 days.

Cigar-smoking Robert W. Hughes of Lufkin, Tex., finished so far in front in the month-long fishing marathon at Pickwick dam that no one bothered to figure out who was runnerup.

The outcome was what everyone expected. Hughes has won the title every year since the catfish derby was originated, with catches of 1,306 catfish in 1952 and '53; 1,070 in 1954, and 1,652 last year.

A shoe salesman who takes his vacation each year during catfish derby time, Hughes is an ardent defender of the lowly cat.

"Some folks look down their noses at the cat, but that's a mistake," Hughes said. "Anyone who has landed one of these Pickwick cats has had a fight. They're the fightingest fish to be found in fresh water."

No one could doubt that Hughes believes what he says, since he travels hundreds of miles each year just to take part in the derby.

North Carolina To Be Roughest OU Opponent

NORMAN, Okla. — UP — Bud Wilkinson, coach of Oklahoma's national champion football team, regards North Carolina as the Sooners' toughest opponent at a d Colorado as the team most likely to pull a sleeper on Oklahoma next fall.

"I don't mean to discount Notre Dame and Texas," Wilkinson says in the 1956 brochure out this week, "but our opener with North Carolina here Sept. 29 will be as hard a game as we play all year."

"Last year they held us 13 to 6. This year they will be soundly prepared by their new coach, Jim Tatum."

While Wilkinson didn't make mention, it's hardly a secret there's no love lost between the two coaches. Tatum, Wilkinson's immediate predecessor at Oklahoma, has come out the loser in his only two battles with Wilkinson's Oklahoma teams, 7 to 0 in 1954 and 20 to 6 in 1955, both in the Orange Bowl.

Tatum's losses to the Sooners came while heading the Maryland team. He took over the North Carolina job last spring.

Wilkinson said Oklahoma will continue to use the split-T offense, which has given him a .919 coaching record, but there may be some new serif added.

Big Return
SALEM, N. H. (UP)—A $1,173 daily double was returned at Rockingham Park Thursday after Cable Lead ($10.80) and Fighting Andy ($182.50) won the first two races. It was the largest payoff thus far this year in New England.

Bout Signed
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Raoul Raton Macias of Mexico City, NBA world bantamweight champion, has been signed to meet Larry Bataan of Manila in a 10-round non-title bout at the Hollywood Legion Stadium on Sept. 5. The bout will be televised nationally.

PROS WIN, 26-0

Browns Display Scoring Ability, Whip All-Stars

CHICAGO (UP)—An "ordinary" pro offense, which included a record four field goals by Lou "The Toe" Groza, was more than good enough to whip the 1956 College All Stars. Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns said today.

"Our defense looked a lot better than it did in last year's game," he said, overlooking the 1955 loss by a 30-27 score when he had avenged it by Friday night's 26-0 count. "Our offense was just ordinary."

The Browns displayed expert basic football, though, intercepting two of the All Stars' 10 passes and permitting the collegians to complete only two attempts for 12 yards.

It was good basic football, too, when the pros recovered two of three All Star fumbles, held the collegiate offense to 121 yards rushing and gave Groza fine protection for his four field goals.

Groza kicked the ball over the crossbars from the 45, 37, 31 and 34 yard lines as well as converting after both Cleveland touchdowns to ring up 14 points for the night, an individual performance eclipsed only by Don Hutson's 19 points for Green Bay in 1940.

It was a new All Star game record for field goals, too, both for an individual and for a team. The individual mark was set by Ohio State's Tad Weed when he kicked three field goals for the All Stars last year. The mark had been set by a team in 1939 when Ward Cuff kicked one field goal and Kenn Strong two in a 9-0 New York Giants win.

PANHANDLE OUTDOORS

A report from State Game Warden P. D. Moseley from Canadian is to the effect that bob white quail will suffer greatly from lack of natural food in the eastern and northern parts of the Panhandle, if rain doesn't appear in the next few days.

Mr. Moseley stated that in the Wolf Creek area around Lipscomb the rainfall has been very light this summer and surprisingly the quail hatch has been good. There is a heavy population of this year's birds along the creek with practically no winter food in prospect at this time.

Mr. Moseley stated that some of the ranchers in that area have disposed of their cattle due to the drought. Rock Cowan in particular has a large ranch lease without a cow on the outfit. This situation isn't typical of the Panhandle in general. In certain parts of this country there has been enough rain to provide ample amounts of vegetation for both game birds and animals plus domestic livestock.

Almost every time I am out in bird country I notice a new covey. I counted 16 young birds over on White Deer Creek the other day in one covey. These birds appeared to be about six weeks old.

Powell Combs of Amarillo and the Amarillo Suckerrod Company recently stated that in order for man to help the bobwhite species via the pen-raised bird method, that first we had to learn how. Perhaps Mr. Combs is correct in this statement. Usually when a pen-raised covey is released the birds are simply taken to the wild and turned out.

Mr. Combs stated that he has figured out a way that would be more successful. The idea is to construct a pen about 25 feet square out of chicken wire with the top being about one foot in height with a feeder and water fountain container in the center. Place the birds in the enclosure for a few days, then rip off the wire around the outside and leave the top which should have brush over the wire. Place this pen near water and keep feed in the feeders when necessary. Of course, it is difficult to explain the exact plan as Mr. Combs described it, but a few more ideas along this line, if possible. To me one ranch is about as good as the next when it comes to bagging the prong horn.

Last year, the hunters appeared at Dalhart from all parts of the state including Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston.

Many of the ranchers in the past have refused to charge the hunters for hunting privileges, however the shooting allows the owners to charge up to $40 for hunting rights if they desire.

Three Tied For World Open Lead

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO, Aug. 11—UP—Money pressure bothered the front-runners in Tam O'Shanter's "world" tourney Saturday and Walter Burkemo, Ted Kroil and Australian Peter Thomson ended up with nine under par 29s to share the lead after 54 holes.

However, they had no bulge on the field for deadlocked one stroke behind them were Marty Furgol, Bill Casper Jr., and Jerry Barber at 208, while at 209 there was a five way tie. Mike Souchak, Fred Hawkins, Jay Hebert, Johnny Palmer and Bill Nary.

Both of the 36-hole front-runners were hurt by the pace in the chase for the $50,000 top prize in the $101,200 tournament. Bo Winstler, tied with Cary Middlecoff for the midway lead at 135, blew to a horrible 76 for a 211 total while Middlecoff scrambled all the way to a 75 for a 210 score, sinking a 20 foot chip on the 18th green to save one stroke.

Burkemo Has Hot Round
Burkemo, from Franklin, Mich., had the hottest round of the day among the leaders, a six under par 66 which lifted him from the pack into the pace-setting position. Thomson, who had been one stroke off after 36 holes, had his worst round of the tourney, a 71, but still managed to stay in the battle, while Kroil, also a stroke off with Thomson at the midway marker, matched that tally.

The rest of the 138 shooters fighting for the $50,000 top prize in the $101,200 tournament. TCU Favored To Take Grid Title?

LUBBOCK, Tex. —(UP)Nineteen of the sports writers attending the Texas High School Coaches Association clinic picked Texas Christian University to win the 1956 Southwest Conference football crown.

The writers picked the way they think the teams will finish after a conference with coaches of six of the seven schools in the conference. TCU won the title last year.

Here's how the writers voted:
TCU 130 points — 16 first places and three seconds; Texas A&M 107 points, second in 1955, picked to finish second again — two first places and 10 seconds.
 Baylor was picked to finish third, Texas fourth, Arkansas fifth, Rice sixth, and Southern Methodist seventh.

MOSCOW (UP)—Arkady Vorobyov, a 22-year-old Moscow medical student, bettered his own world record in the light heavyweight class Friday in Russia's pre-Olympic sports festival. Vorobyov had a total lift of 462.5 kilograms (1,017.5 pounds), topping his old mark of 460 kilograms (1,012 pounds). He also topped his own world mark in the two-hand snatch with a lift of 143 kilograms (314.6 pounds).

Former College Sprinter Is Lucky To Make Olympic Trip

TODAY'S SPORTSMAN
By BOB GRIMM
United Press Sports Writer

Thane Baker, the former University of Kansas dash who now runs for the Air Force, said today he was "really lucky" to land a berth on the United States Olympic team.

The lanky Baker, who holds three world-records plus a flock of meet marks across the country, said he was mighty discouraged last spring about his chances of getting on the Olympic team.

He suffered two muscle injuries in early competition this year that nearly wrecked his hopes of getting into proper shape for the Olympic trials, such as happened to Dave Sims of Duke.

Baker suffered one of the injuries June 15 at an inter-service track meet in Los Angeles after he tied the world record in the 100-meter event.

"It was pretty discouraging, but I was lucky to get into shape in plenty of time for the Olympic trials," Baker said.

The six-foot, 160-pound sprinter will represent the United States in three events, the 100 and 200 meters and the 400-meter relay.

Of the three, the 200-meter is Baker's best event, although he was edged out of first place in the recent Olympic trials by Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian College.

Baker favors the longer events because "you have to have more time to actually run and feel out the race."

He holds the world record around a curve at 200 meters with a time of 20.6, established in the Air Force meet in California this spring.

"In the 100 meter or 100-yard dash you have to put on the power and try to get a good start," he said, "but in the longer races, a fellow can actually run his own race and confuse his opponents by slowing down and then speeding up to throw them off."

Baker, stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus, works on speed sprints once or twice a week.

In high school, Baker was regarded as not too great a prospect. He ran the 100-yard dash in scholastic competition, and his best was 10.1.

"I really developed when I got to college," he said. "I ran before but I didn't know how."

Baker credits his college coach, Ward Haylett, for developing him as a runner. Under Haylett, who coached 30 years at Kansas and guided the 1936 Olympic team, Baker chopped his time in the 100 from 9.5 in his sophomore year to 8.4 as a senior.

Baker has been in the Air Force since June, 1954, and will be eligible for discharge in December. He credits his success with improving his running.

North Romps Past South

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UP)—The North manhandled the South 32 to 18 in the Texas schoolboy all-star football game Friday night and the fact should cause a deep glow of pride to Texas Christian University supporters.

For, not only was TCU coach Abe Martin the tutor of the power laden North crew, but six of the talented schoolboys on his squad are ticketed to wind up in TCU freshman uniforms.

One of them, quarterback Jackie Sledge of New London, was voted the game's outstanding back with his flawless guidance of the victorious North during the buildup of a two-touchdown first half.

Two others, halfbacks Marvin Lasater of San Angelo and Jackie Spikes of Snyder, gained 108 yards rushing between them and each hauled in two passes. Lasater's for 24 yards and Spikes for 47, as they picked up two of the North's five touchdowns.

Line Play in Line

Tackles Alvie Martin of Dallas and Donald Floyd of Midlothian, also headed for TCU, opened gaping holes on offense for Spikes, Lasater and fullback Ed (Wahoo) McDaniel to romp for big chunks of yardage. And, the sixth Horned Frog-to-be, back Sherrill Hendrick of Fort Worth, got in his share of tackles on defense.

Sledge and his sub, Don Meredith of Mount Vernon, gave a crowd of more than 14,000 a pleasing exhibition with their signal calling, faking and passing. Meredith flipped one 17-yarder to end Robbie Robinson of Dallas for one of the North's four period scores. Robinson, a converted back, won outstanding lineman honors as an end.

McDaniel, the game's big ground gainer with 92 yards, scored two touchdowns on short plunges.

Bobby Lackey Shines

The South had little to crow about until the final half when Wesleyan's Bobby Lackey took over at quarterback to engineer two scoring drives that kept the game from being more of a rout. The victory broke a deadlock in the 22-game series as the North won for the 10th time against nine South victories and three ties.

North's Polished Cagers Whip Low Flying South Club, 81-43

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

LUBBOCK (UP)—The annual North-South All-Star basketball game hasn't seen the likes of tiny Avoca's marvelous Max Williams in its 12-game history. And it was a shame the game wasn't closer so he could have performed even more.

The stubby little 5-10 guard who has three times won all-state schoolboy honors, played but 17 of the 32 minutes, as his favored North squad rang up two scoring records and contributed to another in walking to an 81-43 victory over an undermanned South.

Williams, a polished ball-handling wizard, scored only 16 of his team's points, but the record crowd of 6,800 in Texas Tech's beautiful new coliseum got a dazzling display of passing, ball-stealing and shooting while he was in there.

He received 41 of the 42 votes cast for most outstanding player and got a rousing ovation when Coach Doc Hayes finally pulled him for good late in the third quarter with the score 55-28.

Williams wasn't the whole show by any means, as the North rang up the series' biggest winning margin of 38 points, the highest one-team total of 81 and helping set a new total point record of 124.

Junior Fitts of Tahoka, who received the only other outstanding player vote, lowering A. C. Black of Dallas Gene Arrington of Amarillo and Gerald Copp of Krum all chipped in mightily in the sham-bles. Hayes' team made of the South squad tutored by Ken Loeffler of Texas A&M.

The North clogged up all the lanes on defense against Loeffler's famed five-man weave attack and hit 6.4 per cent of its field goals to 28.7 for the South. The South couldn't muster a single star, but Pete Markle, Houston, who scored 12 points, and R. A. Davalos, who got 10, were the only ones who had any luck at all firing at the basket.

It was the North's eighth victory against four for the South in the series.

Top Action Slated For Swimmers

DETROIT, Aug. 11 (UP)—U.S. swimmers were impressive enough as they set many new American records last week in the Olympic trials, but they will be even better in the heat of the actual competition at Melbourne, Team Coach Bob Muir predicted Saturday.

"They all are real competitors," he said. "They have the knack of doing their best when it's really needed, and we know it will be needed in the Olympics."

Dan Ferris, the sage secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union who has been watching international sport for many years, agrees with Muir's summation.

"Our people are good, tough competitors, and that's an essential, because most of the other nations' swimmers are just as capable of being inspired to new records on the day and in the race they really want to win," he said.

Muir was particularly pleased with the overall power of his team.

"We have depth three-deep," he said. "Injury or a bad day won't kill us. If one man or girl is having a bad day, we still have a one-two punch at them."

Thirteen American long-course (50 meters, 50 yard or 55-yard pool) were set, during the four days of swimming in the 50-meter eight-lane Brennan Pools at Detroit, which wants to be host to an Olympics just as soon as it can win the award.

Dick Hanley, Reid Patterson and Bill Woolsey all bettered the 87.1 Olympic mark for 100 meters freestyle, with Hanley best at 56.7.

Bill Torrey's 2:19.9 was a new U.S. mark for 200-meter butterfly and Shelly Mann, Nancy Simons and Jean Rosazza all had new American records and bettered the Olympic mark in 100-meter freestyle, with Mann best at 1:04.6 compared to the Olympic mark of 1:05.5 by Judit Temes of Hungary.

Schmidt Strong Exponent Of PCC Get Tough Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Victor O. Schmidt, the usually mild commissioner of the Pacific Coast Conference, stood today as a strong exponent of the PCC's "get tough" policy in the wake of his smashing attack against booster clubs which made illegal payoffs to athletes.

Schmidt told the Commonwealth Club of California Friday, that such boosters have embarked on a "species of propaganda" ever since the conference levied a series of drastic penalties against four member schools this year for violations of the athletic code.

At the same time, he said, neither UCLA nor Southern California, two of the most heavily penalized schools, "should be judged by the gratuitous statements of boosters or groups expressing certain sentiments."

A strong move for accession from the conference developed in the Los Angeles area, where both were banned from the Rose Bowl, fined and had numerous graders placed on the ineligible list for taking under-the-table payoffs.

AWAITING AN ANSWER

Little LEAGUERS

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent

One of the strangest protests heard in Little League has been filed in New York City.

The Kingsbridge All-Stars want a ruling on a game they played against a team composed of Puerto Rican Little Leaguers.

It seems the umpires were picked for their knowledge of Spanish, which is fine on the surface — except for one minor item. They knew no English.

So when two runs scored under questionable circumstances on a fielder's choice, Mike LoBello, the Kingsbridge manager, squawked.

He found the umpires knew only four words — ball, strike, out and safe. So he refused to allow his team to finish the game and field an official protest.

Trouble is, there is some doubt if any Little League officials in New York can speak more than four words of Spanish.

Mickey McConnell and Charley Muse put on a clinic in Canton, O. The Little League director asked Muse, Pittsburgh's scout, what he had noticed.

"The infielders play too shallow," said Muse. "The batters should go back another foot and a half in the box. They're standing up too close. It gives the pitcher a chance to overpower a boy."

"Those are the two big flaws I've spotted everywhere," says McConnell. "Managers have got to work on them. If batters move back in the box, there will be fewer strikeouts. And with the infielders back, more batters will be thrown out at first base."

Des Moines is the most rapidly growing part of Little League as far as new fields go. The flock of mail from youngsters has caused in the Des Moines sports pages to chew up a lot of space with LL news and results.

Boone, Ia., came up with the nearest trick for putting a field together. Its Little League park is built alongside a big grain elevator, which does an effective job of blotting out the sun in the late afternoon. There's no such thing as a sun field.

Schenectady's 1953 World Series runner-up and 1954 champions still are a formidable outfit. With eight ex-Little Leaguers in the lineup, the Schenectady entry rolled right into the Babe Ruth League's regional finals.

Steve Buchheim, 15, does the pitching and he's tough to beat. Almost six feet now, he throws arm motion. Another familiar name is third baseman Billy Masucci, who was the star of Schenectady's '54 champs.

Al Schacht will put on his comedy routine for World Series final in Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 24. Masie Chan, who won $100,000 on one of those quiz programs for knowing the Brooklyn Dodgers, will be on hand to study the Little League phase, in case anybody has that category open on television.

Al Dekdebrun, Cornell back of 1946-47, has been the big pusher as the Little League program spreads throughout the Buffalo area. Dekdebrun runs a sporting goods store at nearby Amherst and he has been named the LL director for that region.

Certain varieties of garnets are hard enough to cut and polish gem stones, and also are widely used for watch jewels.

Blue Sparkler Victorious

MAYS LANDING, N.J., Aug. 11 (UP)—Blue Sparkler, a four-year-old filly from the Woodland Farm, scampered to an upset victory in the $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap Saturday after Nashua had been scratched because of an attack of colic.

Nashua, who was the odds-on choice for the rich invitational race, was withdrawn earlier in the afternoon when Alfie Robertson, one of his handlers, noticed he was ill.

Veterinarians were called to Nashua's stall and gave the big colt an anti-spasmodic injection. Although the ailment was not considered too serious, it probably will sideline the world's leading money-winner for several weeks.

Steals the Show

In the absence of Nashua, the race then shaped up as a battle between Find and Mister Gus, but it was the fleet-footed Blue Sparkler who "stole" the show and the winner's purse of $65,000.

Taking the lead at the outset of the mile and one-eighth event, Blue Sparkler, with Sam Boulmetis urging her on, remained in front all the way to win by a half length. Skipper Bill, another outsider, gained the runner-up spot by a nose over Find.

Blue Sparkler carried 113 pounds over a fast track in 1:49 4-5—more than two seconds off the track record—and paid $19.40, $9.00 and $5.40 across the board. Skipper Bill, with Joe Regaluto up, returned $8.60 and $5.40 while Find, ridden by Eric Guerin, returned $4.40 to show.

Mister Gus is Fourth

Mister Gus, who had won the Arlington Handicap in his last start, finished fourth while Bardstown, Manotick and Wise Margin brought up the rear of the reduced field. Jet Action also was scratched.

It was Blue Sparkler's fourth victory in seven starts this year. The chestnut daughter of Knave High won the Champlain Handicap at New York last week and previously accounted for the Molly Pitcher and the Regret Handicaps at Monmouth Park.

A crowd of 33,232 turned out in the hope of watching Nashua strut his stuff for the first time at Atlantic City. The fans moaned loudly when it was announced that "Mr. Millions" had been scratched but they still witnessed an interesting race.

Good Fishing Is Forecast In Gulf

By JOHN COLTON
United Press Sports Writer

A kingfish run in the Gulf and big trout hitting all over the bay promises some real action for Texas Gulf coast fishermen this weekend.

Offshore boat operators report some of the biggest kings of the season are being brought in, along with plenty of big red snappers, and there's no sign of a letup as long as the weather holds.

The big trout apparently are running wild in Galveston bay. Most camps have plenty of bait, including good supplies of live shrimp although the shrimp are disappearing from their regular haunts and fishermen are working a little harder to get 'em.

Weather prospects are good. Houston forecaster Ted Swaim predicts a sunny weekend with gentle to moderate, mostly southerly winds.

Most bay camps report the water clearing and very little wind. San Leon and Seabrook camps report good catches of nice speckled trout from 3 to 6 pounds with Five-Mile Pass, the Bulkhead and Red Bluff reef in Galveston bay paying off in quantity.

Water is clearing at Matagorda, and oldtimers are looking for a redfish run to start any time. Plenty of big reds reported in West Matagorda bay.

Inshore and offshore fishing at Freeport is perfect. However, the bait situation is slowing down inland fishing.

Water is clear at Galveston with mackerel and sand trout biting. Some of the mackerel off the T-head pier is running to four pounds.

Good specks at north jetty; mackerel at the south jetty.

Bill Ellis at Port Aransas reports the Gulf calm and clear and early anglers getting mackerel and kingfish in close, plenty of tarpon, saltfish and snapper way out.

Bill says trout fishing down his way is very slow due, probably, to the live bait situation—scarce, but prospects are favorable for the weekend.

Large trout being pulled in between markers 65 and 83 at Padre Island and fishing under the bridge at night, with artificial bait, is reported excellent.

Trout, whiting, pompano and mackerel on Padre's Gulf side.

Live bait is available at Padre. Also at Corpus Christi.

Watch Those Strokes

By JULIUS BOROS
Written for NEA Service

A common fault of the average golfer is trying to hit the ball too far.

This note may help in correction.

The average player should gladly settle for a drive of between 175 and 200 yards. He should put his eyes on a spot that far down the fairway. Control of the ball is vastly more important than distance.

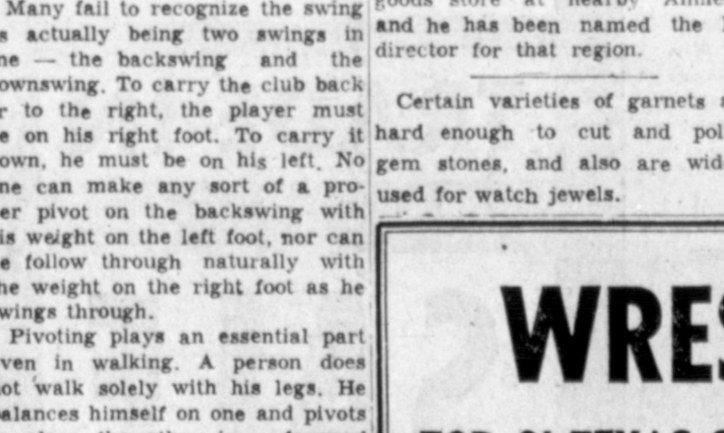

Many fail to recognize the swing as actually being two swings in one — the backswing and the downswing. To carry the club back or to the right, the player must be on his right foot. To carry it down, he must be on his left. No one can make any sort of a proper pivot on the backswing with his weight on the left foot, nor can he follow through naturally with the weight on the right foot as he swings through.

Pivoting plays an essential part even in walking. A person does not walk solely with his legs. He balances himself on one and pivots to place the other in a forward position. Pivoting in a golf shot is just as simple as pivoting in walking.

NEXT: Peter Thomson on trap play.

French Gypsy Left Hi-Fi Jazz Record

(Approach to High Fidelity)
By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent
Before World War II started, an outfit that called itself "The Quintet of the Hot Club of France" had a solid reputation among jazz lovers in Europe and the United States.

The quintet was actually a show case for Django Reinhardt, a French gypsy with a maimed hand, and Stéphane Grappelly, a violinist of the Eddie South and Joe Venuti school.

Django was one of the world's great guitar players; he died in 1953 at the age of 43. As far as anybody knows, he never had anything to do publicly with the electric guitar so popular nowadays.

But he had a drive and a style that was unmistakable, and he left behind at least one recording that will not offend the ears of the modern high fidelity enthusiast.

This is London's "Swing from Paris" (LB810, 10-inch, 33 1/3 RPM, FFR curve.) There are seven pieces on the record, recorded between 1934 and 1939 when the quintet was in its heyday.

Quality Not Too High
The quality is not what London gets into its records now, but it is a couple of cuts above what passed for the best in that period. Five of the pieces are Reinhardt-Grappelly originals.

The other two are "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "Three Little Words," which illustrate the talents of Reinhardt and Grappelly better than the tunes they wrote themselves.

"Swing from Paris" is a part of the somewhat limited classical jazz catalogue sold under the London label in the United States.

The others all were recorded by British outfits. The recording quality is high, in some cases exceptional, as is the case with most of the performances.

These include "Traditional Jazz Scene 1935 (LL1242)," "Modern Jazz (LL1185)," "Parade of the Pieces (LL1338)," "Back to the Delta (LL11340)," and "Traditional Jazz (LL1184)."

With the exception of "Modern Jazz," which was recorded with the RIAA curve, all the others were recorded with the FFR curve. They are all 12-inch 33 1/3.

In general, the two-best bands on these records lean somewhat to a cross between Papa Celestin and Turk Murphy's work. That is to say, a easily-accented rhythm and an emphasis on ensemble work, rather than blasting solos.

Applause in Background

Except for "Back to the Delta," they were recorded under the sponsorship of the British National Jazz Federation and have a good deal of the applause of lathered-up listeners in the background.

Students of jazz will find a wealth of material in these records for comparison with American Dixieland. They will find that much of it sounds as though it may have been recorded in New Orleans or on the west coast.

The British Dixielanders are pretty serious about their work. An exception is the "Parade of the Pieces" record, recorded by Harry Gold and an eight piece outfit.

He works on such pieces as "South," "Bush House Blues" and "Ory's Creole Trombone" with such gusto that a listener would suspect he might be ready to make some changes in the traditional style.

Dyed-in-the-wool Dixieland fans are likely to find "Modern Jazz" a little boring, though it ought to please the modernists. Actually it is considerably less radical than what sent the sophomores before rock and roll reached its present popularity.

Drought May Cost Texas Farmers $750 Million

By UNITED PRESS
Agriculture Commissioner John White thinks that the monumental Texas drought may cost farmers and ranchers as much as $750 million this year.

He says it could cost even more, depending on how soon it rains generally and how many crops can recover. Every day the drought continues, the less good it will do this year's crops.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, in its latest report on Texas crops, said that unless it rains soon, it will be too late to help at all in saving crops that should mature this fall.

For months, the only areas that have gotten any rains are the Panhandle and sectors along the Gulf Coast. Weather forecasters see no immediate hope of rain.

A high pressure area in the Gulf of Mexico is keeping moisture-filled clouds out of most of Texas. This could be broken up by a tropical hurricane.

Loss on Cotton
White said Texas is expected to produce about 400,000 fewer bales of cotton this year than it did in 1955 and this will cost farmers $100 million.

He estimated farmers will lose $100 million each on wheat and grain sorghums. The rest of the loss will be suffered on such crops as corn, vegetables, peanuts and range, pastures and livestock.

"It just gets worse and worse," he said.

White says that if the drought continues, the cotton crop estimate may have to be revised downward.

Besides farmers and ranchers, many cities and towns, including Dallas and Fort Worth, are suffering water shortages. Dallas, even with a rationed water supply, is using water almost too salty to drink.

Tour by U. P. Man
Roddy Mims, a United Press photographer who was born in West Texas, traveled from Odessa to Dallas recently, talking to county agents and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) men.

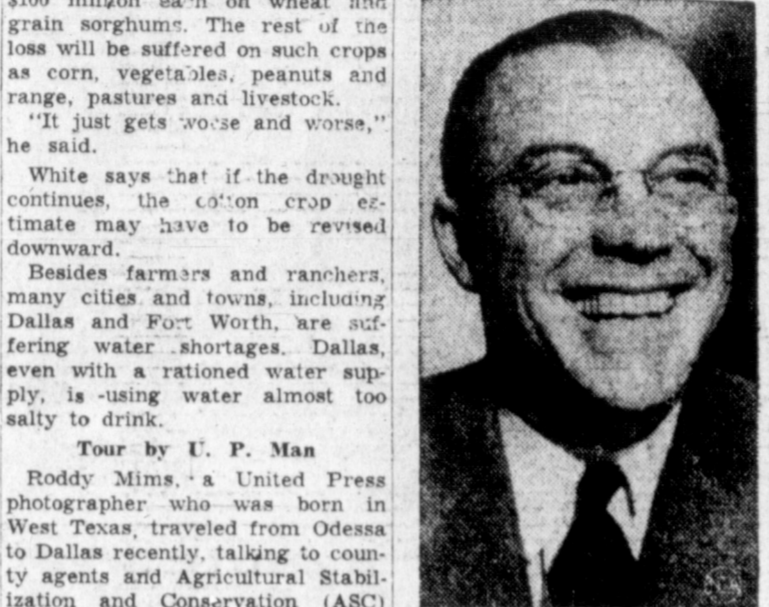

Odessa has had about six inches of rain all year. Normally by July 1, it has had 13 to 15 inches. The area between Odessa and Midland normally is one of the state's great cattle raisers.

But stockmen are selling off herds of cows that took years to build as beef cattle and the number of cattle in the area is reported to be at an all-time low.

What crops are alive around Midland on dryland farms are withering. Cotton is six to 10 inches high around Midland. In a good year, it would be waist high. Swinging eastward around Colorado City where the agricultural section really starts, Mims found maize and cotton barely above ground. Summer dust storms are becoming more frequent and sweeping away topsoil.

Plowing Goes Ahead
Agriculture agents said terracing wouldn't help, that the soil would simply blow away or pile up. Nevertheless, farmers were plowing their fields and hoping for rain.

The ribs of cattle and sheep around Sweetwater were showing. One ASC man said he knew ranchers who had "$500 worth of feed

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
Today's hand is taken from the fascinating new book "Contract Bridge for Three," by George S. Coffin. This game comes closer to real bridge than any other version of three-handed bridge I have seen.

The North cards are turned face up before the bidding (assuming that the empty seat is that of South, and he plays the dummy hand in its regular turn no matter which player becomes declarer. West always bids first, so that the two partners have one bid apiece before South has a chance to speak.

If South becomes declarer, the play is normal. If West or East becomes declarer, the declarer's partner keeps his cards and plays them. This is usually more difficult than the ordinary play of a hand.

In the hand shown today, South could see the exposed North hand before he made his bid of four hearts. Strangely enough, South should have bid four spades instead of four hearts.

At hearts, South must ruff the second diamond, give up a spade trick, and is made to ruff another diamond. South draws trumps, cashes the ace of spades, and gives up another spade trick, hoping that the player with three spades will have no more diamonds. But West wins the trick and can lead two more diamonds, for South has run out of trumps.

South could save a trick by drawing only two rounds of trumps, but he cannot make four hearts against good defense. Four spades is, however, unbeatable.

At spades, South ruffs the second diamond and leads a low spade. He is made to ruff another diamond, leads out the ace of trumps, and then proceeds to cash winning cards in hearts and clubs. West can eventually ruff something with the queen of spades, but South still has a trump to retain the lead.

'Iron Horse' Scared Most Everybody

ALBANY, N.Y. (UP)—A hulking smoking iron beast roared through the countryside between here and Schenectady, N.Y., 125 years ago today. It couldn't have caused much less excitement than an invasion from Mars.

The monster, coughing clouds of smoke and sparks, was the first steam locomotive to draw a passenger train in the United States. It scared crew, passengers, spectators and horses in the fields.

The first passenger locomotive, the DeWitt Clinton was a quaint affair of iron, weighing slightly more than three tons. It was less than 12 feet long—about the length of a modern automobile—and huffed along on only four wheels.

The engineer and fireman stood in the open, balancing gingerly on a dangerously narrow platform. The passengers weren't any more comfortable—or safe.

They rode in two ordinary stage coach bodies, slung on special frames with flanged wheels to keep them on the track. They were at the mercy of fiery pine cinders from the smokestack and of the track itself.

That first 35 miles of primitive track between the two cities was made of stout wooden rails anchored to granite blocks and topped by long iron straps. Occasionally, the pressure on

LABOR DAY

LABOR DAY STAMP—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield has announced that a special three-cent stamp to commemorate Labor Day will be placed on sale at Camden, N.J., on Sept. 3, 1956. The model of the blue stamp was developed from the central subject of a mural in Washington, designed by Lumen M. Winter.

Peg O' Pampa

LIFE IS settling down into its old routine for most of Pampa, today . . . although the mothers of small children will no doubt be living with the rodeo for many days, yet . . . perhaps even a few weeks . . . through the attitudes and play of their children . . . four fabulous ways of roping and romping have left their mark . . . the Parades were fine . . . Peg liked especially the float that the Business and Professional Women's Club made up . . . with the old and the new woman depicted . . . we will take the desk in preference to the washtub and scrubboard most of the time . . . but the pipe seems to be coming back . . . the Shrimers made a good showing, too . . . we wonder who did all the work and sweating over their lavish yellow and red float? All in all it was a good week.

THE TIME FOR SUMMER vacations is growing shorter, and it seems that there are a great many people who have just had a trip, or are hurrying to get one in before the Fall season with its social events begins and the children are back in school to tie one to one's home for the winter . . . Helen Webb has gone on what sounds like a very different and interesting trip . . . a house-trailer party with several friends . . . the Ivey Duncans have just returned from Eagle Nest . . . Ann Hestler is going to visit Dorothy and Frank Ponce in Colorado . . . Paula Mitchell went to California for a wedding . . . her daughter went along . . . as did Catherine and I. B. Hughes . . . there was quite a bit of conversation connected with this . . . all were of the opinion that it is grand that I. B. was not afraid to go on a trip with all those women . . . perhaps it is because they are all so charming and will make the trip most enjoyable . . . Leone and Loyal Davies have been to Canada . . . Joe and Patzy Rogers have returned recently from Mexico . . . the Greely Warners and the twins have gone west on a vacation . . . Dr. and Mrs. Huff, Helene and Ruth went to Flagstaff, Arizona, to visit an uncle . . . and were expecting to go to Gallup, New Mexico, for the annual Indian Ceremonials . . . Beverly and Kay Fancher are in California visiting . . . Don and Marion George are going to Santa Fe this week . . . Ruth and Harvey Nensiel's daughter, Donna Ikard, and her husband, John, have returned to the United States from Germany . . . they landed recently in New York and may be home in Pampa by now . . . John is out of the Armed Forces now and they are going to live in New Mexico . . . and so it goes, and so go all the people in Pampa. It appears . . . is anyone left in town?

MOST EMPHATICALLY there are people left in town! . . . Florence Jackson is entertaining her sister . . . and last week Mill and Howdy Boyd visited with her . . . Evelyn and Otis Nace entertained during the week . . . Henry Gordon was seen downtown with his mother and his aunt who are visiting here from Pennsylvania . . . Colette Dow has three extra children making life interesting for her . . . they are Bill's nephews and niece . . . the Bob Hammes have relatives visiting with them . . . Major W. B. and Marguerite Scarborough, from Georgia, and their young daughter . . . busy, busy times.

INTERESTING THINGS PAMPANS ARE DOING DEPARTMENT: Clayton Husted's son Darrel is studying in Rome this summer . . . and if that isn't fine enough . . . he is going from there to Paris to study at the Sorbonne university . . . he wants to be a writer, but he wants to write in French . . . rather than exclusively in English . . . a fine ambition . . . and one we hope that he will see realized . . . it is good to hear about things like this!

FALL CLOTHES are the central interest at the moment . . . the new fabrics are the central interest at the moment . . . the new fabrics are coming into the stores . . . Dollar Day was jammed with people . . . and the fabric sections of the stores seemed to be the busiest . . . Peg's fingers itched to grab all the materials in sight and begin at once to sew . . . the colors and textures are more beautiful each year the tones in the beige and orange sections of the color wheel are very much in evidence both on dress racks and on fabric tables . . . this year the "elegance" to which all the fashions are geared, or keyed, seems to be the "Edwardian" line . . . we wonder what Christine Schneider and Claudine Vail will make of them . . . and the new bucket hats . . . we expect them to use their usual flair for fine craftsmanship and come up with a really special wardrobe . . . hope we didn't frighten them with these comments . . . for they will not have to TRY to live up to them, they will just automatically DO IT!

PHOTOGRAPHY is becoming a national habit . . . even the most inexpensive cameras are excellent, and films have been developed (no pun intended) to the point that anyone can take good pictures, whether "still" shots or movies . . . so many have movie cameras now . . . and we wonder if those who have them are aware of the possibilities of their back yards as movie theaters? . . . Nina Spooner, more certainly is . . . she had a party one night lately . . . and after a dinner of chicken and all the trimmings under the trees in her shady backyard . . . the guests were treated to a show, with Mexico as the featured attraction . . . first there were "still" slides of Mexico City (Ronald Waters took them recently) . . . then movies of Mexico City, too . . . and some movies of the Spooner's own backyard, showing her beautiful red roses . . . (and some cute children, too, according to Peg's informer) . . . after hearing about this, Peg tried it out, and must report that it is the finest way to see pictures and home - movies . . . cool, comfortable, and lots more room . . . and a double treat for any children that happen to be allowed to stay up to watch.

YOU ARE LUCKY
If you have heard Ethel Dunigan tell stories about her boys . . . they are wonderfully amusing!
If you know Vivian and Loretta Wilkinson . . . a very marvelous couple, a joy to be near.
If you get an invitation to Bob Hamm's summer home on Grand Lake in Oklahoma . . . Agnes and Emory Morris have just returned from it, lucky people.
If you have seen a superb example of a home decorated and furnished in the traditional manner, with perfectly beautiful antique furniture . . . clever kitchen brightened by antique china and glass . . . Paula Mitchell's home, of course.
If you have visited with Ivy Duncan at Idlewild.
If you have eaten Pebble Carter's peanut brittle . . . the melt-in-your-mouth-goodness is one-of-a-kind.
If you have eaten Catherine Richie's meringues . . . fit for the most demanding gourmet's table.
If you have eaten Sara Meaders' famous pecan fingers, made from a recipe handed down in her family.
If you have sat down to a meal that Harvey Nensiel has barbecued . . . just name your flavor — beef, chicken, or pork.
If you have Lucy Miller for a grandmother — she is quite a student of the Bible, and one of the city's most charming ladies.
And if you have a talent or an interest in something and have some time to devote to it.

WHY DON'T THEY INVENT . . . a lotion to put on children before they go out to play that would keep them from getting any dirt on them, even if they play in the mud . . . feet that won't hurt after hours of Dollar Day tramping . . . a typewriter that will give out with ideas as well as with letters . . . a carpet that will take itself up and give itself a good cleaning, so that we wouldn't have to run the vacuum cleaner (lazy us) . . . poppicles that won't drip . . . even on the hottest day . . . a dishwasher that would not just wash the dishes, but would load itself and wash off the table, too, (how lazy can you get?) . . . and above all, a foolproof method of getting Mr. Peg to fix up all the little things that are broken and not functioning around the house, that Mrs. Peg could fix, we want it understood, if she just had the time and the inclination!

In the words of the old autograph book writers, "yours till butter flies."

Shirley Jeanette Keel Becomes Bride Of Paul Coronis In Double-Ring Rite

Miss Shirley Jeanette Keel became the bride of Paul B. Coronis in a double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Aug. 4, in the First Baptist Church. Dr. E. Douglas Carver officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Keel, 1210 S. Hobart, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Bill Coronis, 911 Fisher.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported canton satin with brown accessories. Mrs. Coronis was attired in a beige and tan dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white gardenias.

Decorations in the church included baskets of pink gladioli, palms, and candelabra with pink tapers. Miss Eloise Lane was organist, and Miss Christine Pierce sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The serving table was covered with an imported cloth of pink silk linen and was centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets. The three-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with pink roses, was topped with miniature wedding bells.

Miss Carol Hughes presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Sue Dodds and Miss Jan Harvey served the cake. Background music was provided by Miss Judy Neslige, and Mrs. Jack Imel registered the guests.

For the wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the bride wore a dress of pink embroidered linen with white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Upon returning, the couple will be at home at 221 W. Tyng, Pampa.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School and attended West Texas State College, Canyon, and North Texas State College, Denton. He is now employed by the J. C. Daniels Motor Company.

So in Mrs. J's position, I should have to encourage my child to tell the truth.

I'd say something like this: "Son, I went off my track when I helped you deceive Dad. For a moment, I lost my bearings — and decided a lie was good. I don't really believe this. So I am practicing what I advise you to do. I am confessing the truth of my mistake to you as I hope you'll confess the truth of yours to your father."

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Writes Mrs. J.: "My 16-year-old boy recently damaged his father's car. To avoid trouble, I paid to get it fixed without my husband's knowledge. Last Sunday as he was washing the car, he became suspicious. The boy lied to him and I backed him up. Now I'm wondering if I did the wrong thing. Would you advise my encouraging the boy to tell the truth?"

Have you always told him to trust telling it?

If so, you have made telling it safely to him. Now that he needs safety to meet your husband's anger, it's pretty confusing to suggest that telling the truth is dangerous.

Let me quote some impressive dialog from a movie every parent in this country would do well to see. Titled "Rebel Without a Cause," it's the story of a son whose moralizing parent reverses himself on truth-telling at the moment of the boy's moral crisis — and suggests deceit instead:

Boy: You've always told me to tell the truth. You think you can just turn that off?

Parent: You can't be an idealist all your life! Nobody thanks you for sticking your neck out. You know you did wrong. That's the main thing, isn't it?

Boy: You better give me something fast. Aren't you going to stand up for me?

The late James Dean was a gifted young actor. He seems to be speaking for your child and mine when he singles out the two words "stand up!" — and cries out their need for their steadfast strength when their grows weak and wavering.

If, in such crises, we also waver, denying the moral value we have preached, we orphan the child twice over. First, he loses us as the reliable guide he's always trusted to know the wise path. Second, he loses his belief in the wisdom of his own path.

Our betrayal snatches from him not only trust in us personally — but in everything we have said was true. In chaos and disillusion, our child may rush out into far worse "trouble" than the one we have tried to avoid.

New, longer hair styles are welcome, but they can get very wind-blown in the summer. Make a habit of tucking a scarf or kerchief into the pocket of sailing dungarees, sun dresses or open-car driving clothes.

Too tight a bra can be as warm as a furnace in the summer. If you've ignored it till now, get one that supports but doesn't bind.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mable Teague, 864 S. Sumner, Pampa, and C. C. Teague Sr. of Mineral Wells. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Foster, 617 Magnolia, Pampa.

Decorations in the parlor included two baskets of white gladioli. Miss Eloise Lane played the traditional wedding marches and Miss Ramona Meadows sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white chantilly lace over taffeta. The moulded bodice was styled with a square scalloped neckline and the full skirt was ballerina length. She wore elbow-length lace mitts that came to points over her hands. Her white sandals were fashioned with tiny white flowers imbedded in the glass heels. Her short veil of white nylon tulle fell from a satin pillbox hat accented with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses over a Bible.

For "something old," she wore a family diamond ring and her pearl necklace was "something borrowed." She wore a blue garter and placed a penny in her shoe.

Mrs. C. E. Baggerman was matron of honor. She was attired in a street-length sheath dress of white lace over mint-green taffeta. She wore matching accessories and carried a Colonial bouquet of mint-green carnations.

Marshall Johnson served as best man. Ushers were H. L. Kenner Jr. and Jack L. Kenner.

PATTERN AGAINST PATTERN

There has been a sharp upswing in the use of pattern in recent months. This new trend is due, in part, to a universal demand for relief from the severe plainness that has characterized the first several decades of the age of Modern design. In an effort to express only the "light, clean, fresh and simple" — designers have put pattern, as we are used to thinking of it, aside for the most part, and placed the strongest emphasis on color, form, and structure.

Today, while we are not abandoning the simple, clean concepts of basic design, we are once again using the arc, the circle, and the deft irregularity of shapes to add enrichment to our room plans.

This brings us to the questions of "How much pattern?" and "Can pattern be used against pattern?"

"How much" depends, usually, on the size of the room. If you wish to use pattern against pattern, choose a wallpaper pattern that has a good deal of open space (see sketch above) . . . and choose patterns on upholstered pieces that are sympathetic with the wall design. Be sure that colors blend, and that one pattern does not completely dominate the other.

Keep floors and draperies to a solid color.

When you buy your home furnishings, it is well to remember as you select each piece that it is a prized possession that will live with you day after day, year after year. We remember this, always, in selecting each and piece we offer you. So do come in, shop assured.

'PARDNERS'

Six-gun pals Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis shoot straight at the funnybone in "Pardners," a Technicolor musical Western showing at the LaNora Theatre through Wednesday. Four new songs by Sammy Cahn and James Van Heusen sparkle among the laughs in the Paramount comedy, which co-stars Lori Nelson, Jeff Morrow, and Jackie Loughery, with John Baragrey and Agnes Moorehead.

No Actor As Temperamental As The Sea, Or A Fish

(Allan Mosby is on vacation. Today's column is written by producer Leland Hayward on his production, "The Old Man and the Sea.")

By LELAND HAYWARD
Written for the United Press
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — There's no actor as temperamental as the sea unless it's a fish. Both have relentless determination and a predilection for the unexpected and they are both obviously anti-Hollywood.

We have been dealing with both of them in the film production of the Ernest Hemingway best-selling book, "The Old Man and the Sea," a story that has only two stars — Spencer Tracy and a big fish, a marlin. It's an under statement to report that the sea and the fish did not show thoughtful cooperation during the filming.

That portion of the Gulf of Mexico which licks at the shores of Cuba is as warm and beautiful as an actress, and just as unpredictable.

Those calm mornings at sea when we were preparing the boats and cameras for a day of shooting were frequently twisted into choppy, rolling nightmares the minute Spencer Tracy appeared.

The waves that tossed Tracy in his fishing skiff were kicking at our camera barge at the same time. It was a lucky moment when Tracy and the camera synchronized their rolls and were able to work together.

When we abandoned cameras and went to lunch, the sea would stretch out smoothly while we gulped black beans and rice.

The sea was only waiting for the Hollywood invaders to come back so she could snarl again.

While we were engaging the sea in Cuba, Hemingway was in Peru fighting it out with the fish. He had the job of "casting," or casting for the other star in the picture — a marlin. There's probably no man in the world with more affection for the sea and its inhabitants than Hemingway. For almost six weeks, armed with tackle, camera and persistence, he and a fishing crew prowled the seas off Cabo Blanco on the big marlin hunt.

Catching the sea was a secondary consideration. Hemingway can catch anything that swims. But the big problem was persuading the marlin to ham it up for the cameras. Marlin won't leap, sound or surface on cue. They fight the hooks and the cameras in their own primitive fashion.

At any rate, Hemingway and his party caught four enormous marlin and recorded their hostile antics on color film. It was, I should say, a triumph of film over fin.

Anything Can Happen After Convention

NEW YORK (UP) — An expert on past political performances produced a flock of facts and figures today that seem to prove only one thing—anything can happen between the start of the party conventions this week and the end of vote counting next November.

Though not designed to aid election bettors, the data assembled by Mrs. Meryle Rene Evans of the New York Historical Society may help settle any friendly campaign-year wagers on who did what to whom when.

Want to bet, for example, that the Democrats will nominate a candidate for president on the very first ballot at Chicago next week? On the basis of the party's previous 31 national conventions, the odds might appear to be slightly in your favor—one ballot has been enough 16 times previously.

On the other hand, Mrs. Evans' records show the Democrats have averaged 10 ballots per convention, and hold the record among all major parties for long balloting. Delegates to the 1924 convention went through 102 rollcalls before settling on John W. Davis on the 103rd ballot.

The Republicans, with an average of five ballots per convention, have never taken more than 26 rollcalls. That was in nominating James A. Garfield in 1880. He won a close election only to be assassinated four months after he took office.

Who Is Elvis?
NEW YORK (UP) — Elvis Presley may have the sympathy of 71 per cent of the nation's teenagers and the idolatry of 11 per cent. But 18 per cent hasn't the vaguest idea who "The Pelvis" is. A youth research institute survey said many of the 18 per cent never had heard of the rock-'n'-roll singer, while others misidentified him as a comic strip character, Southern senator, evangelist, mystery novel detective and radio news commentator.

Wires Perspire, Die

"FREEZERS PAY FOR THEMSELVES IN PRIZE WINNING PERFORMANCE!"

SAYS MRS. JIM McFARLIN
901 BINKLEY, DUMAS, TEXAS
who owns TWO Electric Freezers

Winner of 92 ribbons out of 97 Moore County Fair entries in three years, Mrs. McFarlin knows the prize winning support her two home freezers give her. Prize winning food entries at County Fairs must not only LOOK FRESH but must BE FRESH. That home freezers win prizes on both counts is proved by Mrs. McFarlin who prepares many of her prize winning entries IN ADVANCE, freezes them and eases to victory each year.

You, too, can have prize winning food entries at the family meal table with your own home freezer. Freeze vegetables from your garden, buy foods in quantity when prices are low, freeze foods (even whole meals) in advance when you have the time. Then, you're ready for any meal, from one to ten (or more) in minutes... just heat and serve! You'll be the prize winning meal-maker for your family.

Electric home freezers come in upright or cabinet models, in many sizes, to fit your needs in space and in use. See your Reddy Kilowatt Dealer. Get ready now for late summer freezing of fresh garden foods.

Limp as a diabolic, the model plane hangs on its supporting frame just seven and one half seconds after the current was turned on. Tests like these will help engineers in their search for heat resistant metals.

Back-Seaters Backed
PITTSBURGH (UP)—Nagging, back-seat drivers got the blessings of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council today. The safety experts said back-seat drivers act as "co-pilots" to keep the man behind the wheel intent on his job and thus cut down traffic accidents.

Nebraska leads all other states in production of alfalfa meal, with more than one-fourth of the national output.

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Roberta Jean Huggins, 25, indignantly refused to sign a speeding ticket Wednesday and declared: "I was not doing 75 miles an hour although I may have been going 74."

A Late Spender
DES MOINES, Iowa (UP)—William Gell, 70, produced a tin box stuffed with some $9,700 just as authorities were about to place him on a medical hardship roll. A bachelor living in a house condemned by health officials, Gell said he had been storing the bills in a box for 15 years to spend "in my old age."

Battle Of Wits With Amateur Smugglers Looms

NEW YORK (UP)—Customs inspectors at the world's busiest international airport are ready for the annual battle of wits with America's amateur smugglers.

They can tell you right now that three out of four will be women.

The biggest crop of European tourists ever will be returning in the next six weeks, and many will pass through New York International Airport. They will be lugging with them the loot of their overseas swing and a few will try to get it past Uncle Sam without paying duty.

The battle will be a lop-sided one, for the customs men know every dodge from the perfume hidden in the modest lady's bra to the Swiss watch in the cookie box. They have become such psychologists that a level stare usually is enough to bring a blurted confession.

One of the inspectors explained why more than 70 per cent of the "smugglers" will be female.

"In many cases, these women don't want their husbands, who went sightseeing while the wife shopped, to know how much money they spent."

Billion-Dollar Oil Question Is Before Supreme Court Now

(Weekly Oil Column)
By RICHARD C. SIZEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Three miles or three leagues? That's the more than a billion-dollar oil question now before the Supreme Court.

It involves ownership of rich submerged oil lands off the Louisiana coast from three to 10.5 miles out.

The court's decision may ultimately affect the boundaries of other coastal states.

At stake are billions of dollars in present and future bonus bids, rentals and royalties from oil and gas leases in the area.

In 1953 Congress passed a law giving the states title to the offshore lands, three miles seaward or to their "historical boundary."

The historical boundaries of Texas and Florida on the Gulf of Mexico were set at three leagues or about 10.5 miles. These states were given a greater seaward extension than others because both formerly were possessions of Spain, which historically had claimed sovereignty three leagues out.

The boundary of Texas also had been fixed at three leagues when it came into the Union.

Because Louisiana was at one time a Spanish possession and for other reasons, the state claims its historical boundary should also be three leagues. But the government contends that Louisiana came into the Union as a territory and that all the land originally belonged to the United States by purchase.

California, also a former possession of Spain, has a seaward boundary of three miles.

May Challenge Claim

There is a possibility it may challenge the government's claim if Louisiana wins its dispute, Alabama already has challenged the three mile limit in another suit before the Supreme Court.

Should the court's ruling leave the three league boundaries of Texas and Florida questionable, there is a possibility that the government then may sue to move their boundaries back.

There also is another question involved, especially of Louisiana, that could add many more miles of rich oil lands to that state, depending on the court's ruling.

This question is whether the boundary should follow the contour of the shoreline or go straight from one point to another. It has been estimated that the disputed zone in some sections may be as much as 40 miles wide, depending on the way it is determined.

News In Brief

Lots Of Monkey Business
NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Eight fugitive monkeys from a pet shop led police and several hundred volunteers on a frenzied chase Friday. Four monkeys were caught but the remaining four were still at large. The pet shop owner said a chimpanzee escaped from his cage and opened up the monkey cage. The monkeys then slipped through a transom to freedom.

Scottish Smiths Most Numerous
LINVILLE, N.C. (UP) — 'Tis a fine thing when Smith and Brown are more Scottish than MacTavish. Scottish clans and promoters of the Highland Games gathering here checked the 1956 census in Scotland. Their figures showed, they said, that Scotland has more Smiths than any other name with McDonald second and Brown third.

Roof Goes Sailing
CHARLOTTE, N.C. UP — Now it's flying barn roofs instead of saucers and authorities are stumped. Mrs. Frank Middleton of Derita said the roof sailed off her barn Thursday night, flipped three times and landed in the yard. Weathermen found no signs of a freak tornado and police could discover no signs of an explosion.

Beer Routs Bandit
LOS ANGELES (UP) — Mrs. Gladys Hayward, owner of a liquor store, was restocking her shelves Friday when an armed bandit entered and demanded "all the money you got." Mrs. Hayward gave him all she had—but in beer. She flung quart beer bottles at the surprised bandit until he fled.

"Mut" Rattles Rattler
NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Mut, a tiny mongrel dog, held a five-foot diamondback rattlesnake at bay Friday just a few yards from where two baby girls were playing in their backyard. "He barked at it, lunged at it and kept it away until we could get someone with a hoe to kill it," said the father of the two girls and owner of three-year old Mut.

Rainier Mustache Acclaimed

Crude Oil Shows Increase

WASHINGTON (UP) — Crude oil stocks totaled 279,043,000 barrels on Aug. 4, representing an increase of 2,08,000 barrels from the previous week, the bureau of mines has reported.

Texas had 123,442,000 barrels, an increase of 1,309,000 barrels. Other stocks on hand: Kansas — 9,462,000 barrels, down 260,000 barrels; Louisiana — 16,840,000 barrels, up 887,000 barrels; Oklahoma — 27,102,000 barrels, down 98,000 barrels; California — 27,327,000 barrels, down 89,000 barrels.

First Ballot Vote Totals

CHICAGO (UP) — Adlai E. Stevenson now has 814 1/2 indicated first ballot votes for the Democratic presidential nomination, according to the latest United Press tabulation.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, in second place, has 209 1/2. It takes 686 1/2 votes to win the nomination. "Favorite son" candidates of various states hold 273 votes among them, and 330 1/2 votes were still listed as unknown.

The figures will be subject to change as arriving delegations hold weekend caucuses and react to the pressures of contending leaders.

Plant-Quarantine Inspector's Big Job Keeps Him Busy

By GAYLORD F. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The plant-quarantine inspector's job is monumental. It is his duty to keep diseased animal and plant life and destructive insects out of the United States.

The veterinarians, entomologists, plant pathologists, and technically-trained helpers who make up the guard section of the Agriculture Department's plant quarantine branch thus protect the health of all plant and animal life in the United States.

One case for which the test tube guardians must be on the watch is in transient field workers who cross the border from Mexico to Texas cotton country with their few possessions in pick sacks — which also contain remains of seed cotton infested with the destructive pink bollworm, and mangoes and other fruit, hosts to the Mexican fruit fly.

About 500 highly trained agricultural research service inspectors are stationed at border, sea, and air ports to enforce the plant-quarantine laws.

GONE WITH THE WIND—Flanked by rigid ranks of sailors and a contingent of big brass, including Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, a harassed sailor gallops in full pursuit of a runaway bass drum (dotted line). The drum blew across the parade ground during ceremonies at the Fleet Air Arm at Lee-On-Solent, England. The wind-powered drum finally came to a screeching halt after plowing through the ranks of a contingent of Wrens.

By UNITED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) on presidential adviser Harold Stassen's campaign to replace Vice President Nixon on the Republican ticket this fall with Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter:

"Harold's campaign against... Nixon was like an airplane that had no gas. It was a boomlet that never got off the ground. It's gone with the wind now."

NEW YORK—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt on the role of the United Nations in world affairs:

"I would favor United Nations control of all the important bodies of water used for world commerce—including the Suez Canal."

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—A grim woman music lover on a musical suite of three movements composed by an electronic brain and performed by a string quartet.

"Why, it does away with the need for human composers."

NEW YORK—Thin and tired Mrs. Helen Subbagh, 27, of Palo Alto, Calif., whose brief marriage to a Moslem turned into an Arabian nightmare, on wives in Iraq:

"In Iraq, the men marry for one reason only—to have a slave."

THAT'S HOLLYWOOD—Ava Gardner needed a grass skirt for her new picture, "Little Hut," in which she is stranded on a desert isle. Would a little old Hawaiian skirt do? Not for the movie moguls. So they had no less than famed Parisian designer Christian Dior whip up the skirt and bras outfit that Ava models above.

Sen. Humphrey, Who Once Tried To Oust Conservative Demos, Wishes He Hadn't

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO (UP) — One of the swashbuckling crew who four years ago tried to thumb Southern conservatives out of the Democratic party now wishes he hadn't.

He is Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, a small, smart man, who has a pretty good chance to be nominated for vice president of the United States.

Humphrey's pretty good chance would be considerably better today but for his record of left wing Democratic activity which was a successful operation at the start and a political bust in the windup. Insofar as it has political significance, the record began mid-way in the 1948 Democratic National convention.

comes from way down South in Dixie where the court house gangs and the voters up the creek forks remember all too well the Humphry of 1948-52. They never heard of the Humphrey of the past four years who has changed his mind considerably about the place of the South in the Democratic party.

It would be asking much of the Southern conservatives this year to accept a civil rights plank which they don't like along with two sweethearts of ADA such as Stevenson and Humphrey to head their presidential ticket.

Civil Rights Fight
The conventioners at that moment were confronted with a yes and no but maybe plank on civil rights which had been whopped up by a resolutions committee eager to avoid the issue and a fight. Humphrey challenged from the floor, proposed and won adoption of a plank which produced a bolt of Southern Democrats who formed a state's rights party which nominated South Carolina's J. Strom Thurmond for president. Thurmond won 39 electoral votes.

Harry S. Truman was elected, however, without a solid South and Humphrey was convinced he and his plank had brought about the dawn of a new political day.

The senator had a hand in making the 1952 civil rights prescription a bit harder for the South to swallow than his brew of 1948. But the new plank had not held the North and East for the Democrats although it again chipped away Southern support.

Tried To Make Up
Humphrey has devoted considerable time, thought and effort in the past four years to squaring himself with Senate Democrats. He could not hope to square himself wholly with the extreme conservatives, but he did what he could. He latched on to Adlai E. Stevenson, the moderate candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. He opposes Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, who is standing fast in 1956 about where Humphrey stood in 1948-52.

The senator did not pull out of Americans for Democratic Action, (ADA) the fighting New Deal-Fair Deal splinter group which would teach the Democratic party to fly on its left wing. Humphrey had no part of ADA's public rebuke of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas, and Speaker Sam Rayburn, Texas, for what the left regarded as reactionary policies. The senator has made a lot of character with most of his Democratic colleagues in the Senate. They like, and admire him.

Stevenson Likes Him
Stevenson obviously would be pleased to run with him this year if both could be nominated. Humphrey is a top campaigner, fit to take on the Republican's Richard M. Nixon, and that isn't faint praise.

The faint praise for Humphrey

COLTS AT PLAY—In this case, they're sea horse colts. Baby, left, just a minute or two old, propels himself toward a stalk of coral, where "twin brother" has a little fish taken hold. Sea horses traditionally cling by their tails and catch passing food on the fly. This scene is from a new true-life film, "Secrets of the Reef," a full-length drama of life beneath the sea.
