Our Kids Were Good, Says Chief

"Last night was the quietest Halloween that Pampa has witnessed since I joined the police department in 1943," Jim Conner, chief of police, stated this morning.

He reported that practically all of the youths in Pampa had a night of good clean fun and that the reports of vandalism received by the police department were caused by a very small percentage of the local youths.

Conner expressed his thanks this morning to Pampa youths on the fine manner in which they conducted themselves last night.

Several reports were received by the police on eggs being thrown at cars and houses. Conner reported that most of those responsible were caught early in the night and that action would be taken.

Two reports of windshields being broken were received last night. Avery Caughey, 925 Denver, reported at 8:35 p.m. that boys had broken the windshield in his car.

Sometime between 9:40 and midnight last night, the windshield and radio speaker were broken in car of Philip Kimbley of Lefors while it was parked near the La-Nora Theatre.

The commode in the men's rest room at the La-Nora was damaged when a 17-year-old youth exploded a cherry bomb firecracker in it during the snow last night. Conner reported that the investigation of this damage had not been completed this morning.

A report that cars were being painted turned out to be the fact but the paint was water base paint which washed off. The boys responsible for the painting had painted their names on the cars and were easily located. They washed the paint off the cars and apologized to the owners.

One car load of youths were using a fire extinguisher on passing cars but when caught by local police it was learned the extinguisher was filled with water.

Conner reported that most of the egg throwing and other vandalism was pulled by pranksters on other pranks. Very few incidents were reported where vandalism was pulled on someone who was not pulling pranks.

At McLean, vandalism was very light. Jimmy Shelton, constable, reported. The only pranks pulled that he knew of were trash barrels turned over and a few windows being soaped.

In Lefors a saw-horse and some lumber were placed in the highway but no vandalism was reported, according to the sheriff's office this morning. The sheriff's department reported a very quiet night as far as that department was concerned.

Not So, Other Places

RAYTOWN (UP) — Some 500 teenagers, bent on revenge for a "raw deal," ran amok Wednesday night, egg-and-feathering a theater, barricading a city street, and beating a policeman with a club.

The yelling gang, both boys and girls—commanded a city dump truck, roused the town with a garbage-can "tom-tom" dance, let air out of car tires and damaged two police patrol cars.

The horde showed up at the Bay Theater where the manager, H.E. Brunson, has frequently called police for aid against rowdiness, and threw dozens of eggs at the theater front.

Then the gang smeared feathers in the "omelet."

Others of the marauders tore down a wooden fence and smashed up boxes, garbage cans and anything else in sight to make a barricade across a street. Then they all snake-danced through the theater.

A city dump truck arrived to clear away the barricade and the youths threw the two workmen out and took over the truck. They drove it around for a while then gave it back to the workmen, who fled in it.

Patrolman Hal Rickerson arrived on foot and a band attacked him. One youth beat him with a two-by-four piece of lumber. His arms and shoulders were badly bruised.

Police Car Egged

When a police car arrived the boys egged it and somebody threw a brick that took out the windshield. When Police Chief W. R. Montgomery arrived in another car, they leaped on the car and stomped in the hood and top. Constable Paul Anderson and Deputy Blair Mann arrived. The air was let out of their tires while they tried to the keep boys from soaping store windows. Somebody doused Mann with a bucket of water.

May Lose Eye

SAN ANTONIO (UP) — Gloria Reyna, 18, faced the possible loss of sight in one eye today when hit by a rock as she and a group played "trick or treat" during Halloween Wednesday night.

Authorities said the girl was hit in the left eye by a rock thrown by a group of boys. Doctors said the injury caused the fluid to drain from the eye and that she could possibly lose the sight.

Duo-Pianists Present Concert Here Tonight

Possessors of a unique and thrilling talent, Alfred and Herbert Teitchik, the gifted duo-pianist brothers from Texas who will present the second concert of the season at 8 p.m. today in the Junior High auditorium, embode in their playing and interpretations the warm and exacting quality, vision, and unlimited wealth that is native to Americans, tempered with the great musical traditions of their Austrian ancestry — the Austria of Mozart and Strauss. One noted music critic, says "It seems they have reached a perfection in duo-work which will be hard to surpass."

The Teitchik brothers had their earliest musical training under their father, old-world musician in Floresville, Texas, where they were born. When the family moved to Houston, the boys continued their studies under Aldridge Kidd, until they entered the Juillard School of Music in New York City, where they studied under the renowned Mme. Olga Samaroff-Stokowski. On graduation, they returned to Houston, where each got married, and then they began to teach piano in the city's public schools and in their own studio. During World War II, they both were assigned to military orchestras, but because their special talents were at once recognized they gave numerous two-piano recitals for the Armed Forces, thus gaining rich experience for the career they were to pursue.

To satisfy their own love of making music for audiences, the Teitchiks began giving two-piano recitals in Houston, in addition to their teaching. That started them off on their rich and fortunate careers together for their success was immediate and their popularity correspondingly grew with it in every state in the Union and in Canada. Their perfect blending of tone, their unusual programs were among the pianistic attributes that carried them to the top rank of their art.

Admission to Pampa's Community Concert series is by membership only and no single admission can be sold.

APPRECIATION BANQUET — Calvin Fraser, standing, is shown as he expressed his thanks to the citizens of McLean last night at a banquet in the McLean American Legion Hall honoring him and expressing the thanks of McLean for his bringing a factory to that town. Ed Landers, left, mayor of McLean, is shown as he counted off the Halloween hours. Others in the picture are Mrs. Ed Landers, to the left of Fraser, and Larry Fuller, right, who was master of ceremonies. (News photo)

Banquet Honors Factory Builder

The American Legion Hall was filled with a crowd of over 175 McLean residents and guests from neighboring towns last night as the city of McLean honored Calvin Fraser, president of Korm-O-uth Brassiere Co. of Gardena, Calif., which is opening a new factory in McLean in the near future.

Fraser told the group that "It won't be long until we can contribute something helpful to McLean as they have been contributing to us." He said that the factory would be in operation shortly after the first of the year.

He continued by stating that "I'll try to help the town of McLean and I feel that we will."

Rev. Buell Wells, pastor of the McLean First Baptist Church, opened the appreciation dinner with the invocation.

Following the meal Larry Fuller, master of ceremonies, introduced the Mayor of McLean, Ed Landers, who welcomed the visitors and honor guests to McLean.

Bob Izzard, news director of KQNC in Amarillo, gave the main address of the evening and welcomed the guests to the "last frontier of the United States." He told of the history of the settling of the Golden Spread area and told them that at one time this was the only area in the world where the cows chopped the wood and the wind hauled the water.

He told of the last Indian fight in the Panhandle at Adobe Walls, north of Borger, and of how a handful of Buffalo hunters and settlers held off a band of Indians.

He concluded by telling of the later history of the area and of the fighting of various droughts.

Fraser told the group that he was appreciative of all the work the citizens of McLean had done in preparing the building the firm was to occupy. He stated "I have just asked McLean for anything because everything for which I have asked had already been provided."

Fraser was accompanied by representatives of Sears and Roebuck who will purchase the products manufactured by the McLean factory.

The factory will be housed in a building containing 12,500 square feet of floor space. Volunteer work by members of the McLean Lions Club and other interested citizens has resulted in the building being completely renovated. The building is located east of the main part of McLean on the west-bound lane of Highway 66.

Hungarian Stalinists May Have Escaped

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

VIENNA (UP) — Communist Hungarians who were deposed at the height of the anti-Communist rebellion may have escaped to the Soviet Union, Budapest radio reported today.

They were the tough Communist Party Secretary Ernoe Geroc, former Premier Andras Hegedues who was ousted for Titoist Imre Nagy and Laszlo Pirocs, minister of interior and head of the hated secret police.

Budapest radio said there were "mounting reports" the three fled to Russia Tuesday night to escape the vengeful revolutionaries who now demand a Western-type democratic government in the one-time Soviet stronghold.

No Fighting

The radio report said there was no fighting in the burned out city for the first time since the start of the country-wide revolt a week ago.

"Budapest has finally spent a quiet night," the broadcast said.

A dispatch from Budapest Wednesday said it was rumored that the top three Hungarian Communists had fled to Russia.

Today's broadcast appeared to indicate the revolutionary authorities believed the reports to be true.

Demand Reds Drop German School Rule

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN (UP) — Rebellious East German students demanded removal of universities from Communist control today with the same type of criticism that preceded the Hungarian nationalist uprising.

A delegation from East Berlin's Humboldt University sent a telegram to the University of Budapest expressing support for Hungarian students.

In an anti-Communist, anti-Soviet stand the students attacked East Germany's Communist youth organization and demanded abolition of the compulsory study of Russian language and Marxism and free elections to student councils.

They also demanded decentralization of the universities and an end of military training.

Students encouraged by the Hungarian revolt demanded the right to withdraw from the "Free German Youth" organization and set up their own student organizations.

The demands were disclosed by the Communists themselves. In an effort to prevent open demonstrations, the Communists threatened the students with punishment but made some concessions and promises.

The Communist reaction indicated the seriousness with which the situation was viewed by the East Germany government.

Alfred Neumann, first secretary of the East Berlin branch of the Communist Party, rejected the demands as an attempt to split the youth movement.

Canal Blocked As Bomb Sinks Ship

By GEORGE PIPAL
United Press Staff Correspondent

CAIRO (UP) — An Egyptian communique said today that British and French bombers sank an Egyptian naval vessel in the Suez Canal, blocking the vital waterway.

The announcement of the continuing Anglo-French air raids came shortly after the Egyptian government announced it had severed all relations with Britain and France.

Communique No. 12 from Egyptian general headquarters said the "naval unit Akka" was hit by British-French bombs while transiting the canal near Lake Tim-sah.

The communique also said "four British planes were shot down over Alexandria during a raid in the morning. One was damaged. Two other planes were shot down over Cairo in the 1 p.m. (5 a.m. est) raid."

An earlier GHQ communique said Anglo-French bombers had attacked all Egyptian airports during the night and that the raids were continuing.

Three bombers dropped explosives on the Al Maza military airfield on the northern outskirts of Cairo during a raid which began at 4 a.m. and ended 35 minutes later.

In addition to announcing the break with London and Paris, an official government statement said Egypt is considering withdrawing from the United Nations because of its failure to "confront the imperialistic powers."

The night-long raids on Egyptian airfields was reported in communique No. 10 issued by the Egyptian general headquarters. It charged also that French warplanes had teamed up with the

England, France Diplomatic Relations Broken By Egypt

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

LONDON —UP— Egypt broke off diplomatic relations today with France and Britain and announced its Middle East military operations will proceed until the Israeli-Egyptian war has stopped.

The Earl of Home, acting leader of the House of Lords, made the statement to the Lords as the British air ministry announced it would bomb Egyptian airfields "relentlessly" until the Egyptian air force is destroyed.

Egypt Troops In Desert Surrounded

By ELIJAH SIMON
JERUSALEM, Israel: Sector (UP) — Israel Radio said today that Egyptian troops in the Sinai Desert have been completely surrounded by Israeli mechanized units.

Radio Rafah broadcast a warning to an estimated two divisions of Egyptian troops to "put down your arms before it is too late."

An earlier Israeli official communique had said only that the refugee-packed Gaza Strip had been cut off. Unofficial reports said the fighting in the Sinai Desert was virtually over.

Best of Egypt Trapped

The cream of the Egyptian army may be caught in the Israeli trap if the report is true. Egypt's best equipment includes British Centurion heavy tanks, and Soviet-built Josef Stalin III tanks.

The disputed Gaza Strip along the Mediterranean Sea, packed with Arab refugees, was unofficially described as "no longer the immediate objective."

The official Israeli communique said desert forces overwhelmed the Egyptian post guarding Rafah in the nine-mile entrance from the Sinai Peninsula to the Gaza Strip. It said the Egyptians retreated and the strip was completely isolated from the rest of Egypt.

Unofficial sources said Israeli units dug in at the corner of the Sinai Desert triangle and were mopping up Egyptian forces within the area. They did not indicate how far toward the Suez Canal the triangle extended.

Other Israeli forces were reported striking swiftly from Eilat, the Israeli port on the Gulf of Aqaba just two miles from Jordan. Their objective appeared to be to secure the entrance of the Gulf from the Red Sea at the extreme southern tip of the Sinai Peninsula.

Earlier reports also said Israeli armed forces extended their area (See EGYPT, Page 2)

Planes Renew Fight

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UP) — British and French carrier and shore-based aircraft today renewed the offensive against Egyptian military airfields, an Allied forces communique said.

Four airfields which were bombed and strafed yesterday were attacked again, the communique said. Five more in the Nile delta and the Suez Canal zone were subjected to low level attack.

White House Scenes

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House: Since Israeli forces marched into Egypt last Monday, the lobby of the White House office wing has been jammed from early morning until well into the evening with reporters and photographers. The scene is reminiscent of the crisis days of World War II.

The old cabinet room just across from the President's office is a forest of microphones and motion picture cameras. They were set up in readiness to report any statements by Hagerty, Dulles or other key figures in the Middle Eastern crisis.

Hagerty tries to read a statement at a press conference in his office, but reporters in the rear can scarcely hear him. Three of the photographers fighting for pictures tester stop a small filing case, each giving the other merry hahas as they strive for a vantage position.

Whirring newsreel cameras and a blazing bath of floodlights make conditions even more complicated. Hagerty's temper flares and he shouts at the cameramen to quiet down.

Late in the afternoon, dozens of similar telephone calls go out from White House outlets—"Hon. Mr. Hagerty, please call me and tell the kids goodnight we're still tied up at the White House."

When the offices finally close for the night and the weary reporters and men and women of the President's staff wander down the driveway headed for home, the lobby outside the President's office looks like a well-upholstered trash heap.

Rumpled newspapers occupy virtually every chair and couch. Every subway is overflowing, and a sort of gymnasium smell prevails.

After a day of crises bulletins involving conflict thousands of miles away, one of the departing men says glumly to a companion: "Say, what ever happened to the election campaign?"

Opposition Spreads

PARIS (UP) — Opposition to Anglo-French military operations against Egypt spread rapidly throughout France today.

Left-wing groups called protest meetings throughout the nation as the public recovered from its first surprise at the news of French and British assault against Egypt.

Leftist organizations flooded the office of Premier Guy Mollet with protest cables and petitions as soon as news flared into huge headlines.

American Arms Help

WASHINGTON (UP) — American arms probably are being used against American arms in the confused fighting in the Middle East—but neither by design nor with approval of the United States.

There is little doubt among highly placed Pentagon officials that some U.S. weapons either given away under the military aid program or sold in private than arms are being used by both sides—and in a military venture which the United States strongly opposes.

Israeli Air Force in the battle over the Sinai Desert.

There was no report of casualties or damages. Official communiques yesterday reported nine persons killed in the raids on Cairo.

Communiques on last night's raids on Cairo said hits were scored on the military academy, a mosque, the Al Maza Hospital, the International Airport and several airfields and a few places in the Shoubra district.

Anglo-French bombers struck at Cairo three times yesterday according to the official reports. Raids also were reported on four other important Egyptian cities.

Egypt said yesterday its planes shot down 10 Israeli jet fighters in two air battles.

It was officially announced that a French Mystere IV jet fighter was shot down by the Egyptians in the first Anglo-French aerial attacks on Egypt.

(French Air Ministry officials in Paris said they had no reports on any French plane being shot down by the Egyptians. It was pointed out that the Israeli air force includes a number of Mystere jets supplied by France.)

Communique No. 8 issued by general headquarters announced: "British and French jet bombers attacked Cairo, Alexandria, Port Said, Suez and Ismailia, dropping incendiary bombs and high explosives. Seven persons were killed. There also was some slight damage to material and property."

Alexandria is Egypt's main seaport. Port Said, Ismailia and Suez are the key points in the Suez Canal Zone.

MID-EAST

"The military operation will proceed until the present conflict between Israel and Egypt has stopped. That is our sole aim. The sooner Egypt follows Israel's example and accepts our request, the less destruction there will be."

He said "our object is to employ the minimum of force on purely military targets," and he denied as "gross and bare-faced lies" Cairo reports that cities had been bombed.

Other Developments

These were the important developments in the fast-moving crisis:

—The British Air Minister announced his jet fighters using rockets destroyed 14 Egyptian planes on the ground, some of them Soviet-built Migas.

—Cairo said French and British planes had bombed a mosque, a hospital and other civilian targets. The government reported nine civilian dead.

—Egypt said French planes joined Israeli forces in the Sinai desert.

—Iraq declared martial law throughout the country, protested to the British and French governments against their actions and said it would send forces to aid Jordan if Jordan asked for them.

—The United Nations General Assembly was called to emergency session at 4 p.m. (est) to consider the Mideast situation.

—Egypt said it was considering pulling out of the UN because it had not acted against the "imperialist" nations.

—Israel announced its troops had sealed off the Gaza Strip from Egypt though it left open a small "escape corridor" to permit the 100,000 refugees packed into the tiny area to flee.

—Egypt's action in severing all relations with Britain and France was short of an actual declaration of war.

Britain Not Surprised

In London, official sources said Britain had expected the action in view of the Anglo-French "police" action against the government of President Gamal Abdel Naaser.

Today's bombing attacks were announced first by the Anglo-French command on Cyprus which said the allied air forces hit military airfields in Egypt and the Canal Zone starting at dawn today.

"A preliminary analysis of yesterday's bombing showed it was carried out with success and accuracy," an official announcement said.

Egypt's version of the bombing differed. A general headquarters communique said the British and French planes bombed all Egyptian airports during the night and that the raids were continuing today.

Aimed At Air Force

Officials in London said the air operations were apparently aimed at paralyzing the Egyptian air force before a huge Anglo-French expeditionary force attempts to seize control of the Suez Canal from Egypt.

Wholesale evacuation of Americans from the battle zone was speeded up today as the threat of a general war increased by the hour.

of control in Egypt's Sinai Desert. Capt. Naphthal Levin said the action "is proceeding according to plan and our forces have widened the area under their control."

The statement indicated the Israeli raiders may be making even greater gains in the area where Israel claimed a major victory yesterday.

A highly-placed Israeli source said the Israeli Army has inflicted more than 1,200 casualties on the Egyptians since the invasion was launched four days ago.

He said two Egyptian divisions—20,000 to 30,000 men—were thrown into the Sinai fighting.

Levin said an Egyptian truck convoy was attacked this morning along the main road west crossing the axis of the Sinai Peninsula. The action took place west of Bir Gafgafa, he said, and the Egyptians suffered some losses.

He also reported a "number of commando actions" in the Gaza strip in which he said two Israeli citizens were killed. Israel has reported it has almost cut off the Gaza strip from Egypt.

"Fresh Air" Is Ginger Rogers' Answer To Youth

By ALINE MOSBY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A universal reaction when fans see adult movie queens in person is, "how does she do it?" Ginger Rogers confessed her secret of seemingly eternal youth today—she sleeps outdoors.

This apparently is one reason why Ginger looked like Diana Dora's sister when the veteran star and the newcomer posed at a film festival earlier this year. The photograph from France showed what Hollywoodites have long noticed—that Ginger doesn't look much different now than she did in "Top Hat" that's on TV these days.

This is a delicate subject to bring up to a female, but this one has a forthright answer: "Fresh air." Anybody wandering at night through the backyard of her home could find Ginger and husband Jacques Bergerac sleeping under the stars.

"There's nothing like being outdoors," the actress insists. "Jacques and I sleep on the patio or on the lawn by the pool. The only time we can't be during the rainy season. We move the bed outside the middle of March again."

Ginger now is playing patient of David Niven in the movie version of the Broadway spoof on psychoanalysis, "On Men, On Women." Barbara Rush is the other star, and Ginger (48) and Barbara (23) look like contemporaries.

For any females in the audience interested in Ginger's other beauty secrets, they include no smoking, no drinking, tennis at least twice a week, a simple diet and soap and water on her baby-like complexion.

From High School To Walt Disney Star In One Jump

By ALINE MOSBY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Take a high school student... yank him out of class and make him a star in his first motion picture... how would he react?

Hal Stalmaster is just as excited and dazed as you would expect.

One day he was just another 16-year-old junior at Beverly Hills high school. The next day Producer Walt Disney nailed him to star in the little role in "Johnny Tremaine," which the old master hopes will hit as hard as did his fabulous Davy Crockett series on TV and in movie theaters.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

"YOUR HONOR, I OBJECT..." Second guessers and Monday morning quarterbacks always have brilliant hindsight. How well they pinpoint the boobos the coach made last week!

So it is with the trial in a lawsuit: After the jury brings in the verdict people can tell you how your lawyer should have conducted the trial.

But as with football, it's somewhat harder to look forward into the world of maneuvers and predict in advance how a particular move will make out. The future holds many surprises.

Our system of justice rests upon the "adversary" theory of a trial where both sides fight for real stakes in dead earnest.

Our U.S. Supreme Court, for example, will not give an "advisory" opinion to anybody—neither the President nor Congress—as to whether a proposed law would be constitutional. The court decides that point only in a real law suit with real people fighting for real stakes.

Our courts have an aversion to deciding a point of fact or law where each side does not present its views on the merits with skill, vigor, and good faith. They know how plausible one side can sound until the adversary has his inning.

So, during a trial the pressure is on. Each side tries to present the facts favorable to its cause and prevent the other side from presenting matters which are not properly admissible under the rules of evidence.

To make matters worse, unless your lawyer acts at once, say, when the other side offers a piece of testimony, he loses the right to get the court to strike it from the record at a later time.

Fully to protect you, your lawyer must plan your case so that if things go against you he can take your case "on the record" to a higher court if he feels that the trial court has erred. But alas, often he cannot claim the error unless he made a point of it at the proper instant during the trial.

If you ever sat on a jury, you may have wondered why some lawyer always objected to every little thing. He ought to have known, you think, that he was making the jury angry with him.

Well, this is why: If he had not, for example, moved to "quash the indictment," or objected to certain evidence, the higher court might not let him raise the point on appeal.

So even if he antagonized everybody in the court, the lawyer by the rules of our system of justice, still had the duty of "pro-

Johnny Tremaine is a fictional lad who falls in and out of adventures with true-life characters such as Paul Revere in revolutionary war times. Disney was searching for a small, young boy with an eager eye.

Hal, who looks very eager, was working last summer as an office boy for his brother, a TV casting director. One agent who spotted Hal running errands got him a job in a TV film playing the Rev. Bob Richards, the pole vaulter, as a youth. That was his first acting job.

Then another agent saw Hal and reported him to Disney.

"I asked my brother, ya know, and he said it was okay," Hal said excitedly at his first interview.

Hal was born in Los Angeles but his father, the late Irvin Stalmaster, once was a state supreme court judge in Nebraska. At Beverly Hills high Hal studies U.S. history, English and Spanish.

"I'd always planned to go into show business, but as a producer where you get a regular paycheck," he said. "When you're an actor you never know when you'll work. Now I'll wait and see what happens, ya know, after this Disney movie comes out. I may continue acting."

In reverse—from the Davy Crockett movie, "Johnny Tremaine" will be shown first in movie theaters next spring. It had been scheduled for a TV showing first in January. But Davy Crockett apparently fared sadly in theaters because he had been a television star first. This time Disney will try to recoup his $1 million budget from theaters first, and next season splice "Johnny Tremaine" into a TV series.

One disadvantage Hal has found to his new job is—he has to wear long hair for his role. The kids at school call him "Elvis."

Disney studio publicists hope the Tremaine series will have the teen-agers going in for tri-corn hats and pony-tail hairdos.

"The boys never would, oh, no," said Hal, looking horrified. "Girls might, though."

protecting the record" so that he need be he could also protect his client in the higher courts.

At every stage of a lawsuit, your lawyer must remember to make points against the possible day that a panel of thoughtful appellate justices will sit down calmly to review what was done in the excitement of a trial.

President To Call In Top Advisors

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower called in his top advisers today to plan what the United States will do — short of using military force — to "localize and end" the war in the Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower assured the nation in a radio-TV address Wednesday night that the United States will not get involved in the actual fighting.

But he said it is our government's "dedicated purpose... to do all in its power to localize the fighting and end the conflict."

One step toward that goal was being taken in the United Nations today. With U.S. approval, an emergency meeting of the U.N. General Assembly was being summoned to take up the Middle East crisis.

On Tuesday the United States was stilled by British and French votes in the U.N. Security Council in its efforts to get action by the world organization on the Arab-Israeli dispute. But in the General Assembly, where there is no veto, Mr. Eisenhower told the nation Wednesday night, "the opinion of the world can be brought to bear in our quest for a just end to this tormenting problem."

the Arab world from the Atlantic to the Persian Gulf.

Mr. Eisenhower addresses the nation again on the Middle East crisis, and other international developments tonight. But this speech, to be delivered at Philadelphia, will be a political campaign talk aimed largely at answering Democratic attacks on the administration's handling of foreign affairs.

Spoke As "President"

In his talk Wednesday night, Mr. Eisenhower said he was speaking as "your president" and not in his role as a candidate for reelection. He made these major points:

—The United States was "not consulted in any way... nor informed in advance" by Israel, Britain or France of their intentions to attack Egypt.

—The United States believes that in resorting to military force in their quarrels with Egypt, those three nations acted "in error." This country does "not accept the use of force as a wise or proper instrument for the settlement of international disputes."

—"We know" the three attacking nations "have been subjected to grave and repeated provocations" by Egypt. Nevertheless, their armed attack "can scarcely be reconciled with the principles and purposes of the United Nations to which we have all subscribed."

—There will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities. I therefore have no plan to call the Congress in special session.

Meets With Security Council

What other steps can be taken was being discussed by Mr. Eisenhower today with the National Security Council and the nation's military chiefs. The Security Council comprises the President's top advisers on international developments.

Consideration is being given to cutting off economic aid to Israel. However, the United States does not plan at present to cut off military aid to Britain and France.

The group also was concerned with planning what the United States will do if the conflict in the Suez area spreads, as officials fear it might, and flares across

Texas Political Pot Is Boiling

By UNITED PRESS

The President's plans to visit Texas drought areas after the election vied with foreign policy and a ban on H-bomb tests today as political leaders tried to clinch the state's electoral vote in the final week of campaigning.

President Eisenhower, prevented from coming to Texas as scheduled by the Middle East crisis, made a recorded speech in which he said he would visit Texas again within a few weeks to take another survey of drought conditions; said federal farm relief in the past three years has been triple the annual rate for the last 20 years, and reaffirmed his belief that high, rigid price supports won't keep the farmer prosperous in peacetime.

Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, speaking at a $25 a plate fundraising dinner at Austin, told Texas Democrats the Middle East conflict is "a shocking demonstration that our closest allies have lost confidence in current American leadership" and is "the direct result of the vacillating, indecision and lack of forthright action by the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles."

Program Rejected

"A farm program that collapses farm prices in wartime is worse than bad," he said. "It's bankrupt. It's certain to ruin farmers in time of peace."

The President said the emergency grain program, which has helped farmers in all but 21 of the 254 Texas counties, has totaled $43 million in three years in this state alone.

Gore attacked the administration's foreign policy and its stand on H-bomb tests at Austin.

"We have an administration characterized by indecision at home and dedicated to the preservation of stalemate abroad," he said.

He Calls Policy Failure

The policy of "massive retaliation," the Tennessee senator said, "has not kept peace in the Far East, the Middle East or anywhere else."

Gore said it is common knowledge that "we have already tested a 20-megaton hydrogen bomb. Furthermore, we can now build hydrogen bombs so large that they cannot be carried by any plane in existence."

Gore is a member of the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee.

Motion And Progress

Theodore Parker once expressed this idea: "Mankind never loses any good thing, physical, intellectual, or moral, till it finds a better, then the loss is a gain. No steps backward, is the rule of human history. What is gained by one man is invested in all men, and is a permanent investment for all time."

We could not take issue with Mr. Parker on this thought, were we to consider any given section of mankind's chronology. It has been painfully apparent that the human race has struggled to rise from oppression on countless occasions, only to find itself lashed down once more by oppression and excessive authority vested in its governments.

But, if we take the over-all view, possible only if we scan man's progress over thousands of years, then we would have to conclude that Parker is right.

Mankind has tended to progress gradually. He struggles, sometimes advancing, sometimes retreating, yet in the ebb and flow of the currents of life's energy, he does seem to advance three steps for every two he falls behind.

The point which Mr. Parker's all-too-over-simplified statement seems to disregard, is that during a period of retrogression there are many who see in the retreat a further advance. They mistake motion for progress.

Right now, for example, we are witnessing a return to barbarism, accomplished by the primitive reliance on brute force as exemplified by our massive and growing bureaucracy. This is not progress. It is movement, but it is retrogressive.

However, it is most likely that in time, this advance to the rear will build up such pressures that a reversal of direction will occur. The pressures will be so great that a thrust toward liberty and enlightenment will push us further toward progress than we have presently attained.

We are reminded that for thousands of years, mankind believed that slavery was a normal condition. Slaves were a type of property, vouchsafed by virtue of the classes into which men, theoretically, were born. George Washington labored to establish a nation in which freedom reigned. Yet he, personally, owned slaves to the date of his death. He saw nothing wrong in slavery, even as he struggled for freedom. And Thomas Jefferson, the great revolutionary in freeing human beings from excessive government, also kept slaves. Today, virtually all the world rejects the slave-master relationship.

For thousands of years human beings believed in the divine right of kings. Taxation without representation was viewed as a normal condition, since all persons were owned by their sovereign and existed only under his pleasure. The American Revolution blazed the trail of a new concept and, so long as the concept endured established a limitation on the powers of government to tax income, production and property. The limitation was conceived in the idea that there should be no taxation WITHOUT representation.

Now that we have taxation WITH representation, there are many who view it with disfavor. We are swallowed up with representation! And taxes go on as before. The difference becomes minuscule. Instead of taxing us by divine right, the government is taxing us by virtue of the necessity of supporting our hundreds of representatives and their subsidiary schemes and schemes.

To the taxpayer, the drain on his resources is just as severe, whether his money is taken by divine right or by the urgency of legislative payrolls.

Perhaps in another thousand years mankind will view all compulsive taxation as erroneous as we presently view taxation without representation. Perhaps in that passage of time, mankind will long for and establish a government which is truly based upon the "consent of the governed." Perhaps government foisted upon the unsuspecting and the innocent will be viewed as simply another type of limited slavery, which it is, and will in itself become as unseparable and as unsupportable as human bondage to slave masters.

If we take the long view, we must agree with Parker. Mankind has moved and will move forward. But, what an agony occurs during those periods of darkness when we lose our direction and revert to savagery.

The Nation's Press

NOT A CANDIDATE

(South Carolina News & Courier)

Some friends of the Independent electors seem disturbed because Sen. Harry F. Byrd has said he is not a candidate for any office. They wonder why the electors should support a man for President who isn't seeking the office.

In the United States, the idea that the office should seek the man seems to have been all but forgotten. In the early days of the Republic, presidential electors had the duty of finding the best man for the office. They did not base their choice on the best doorbell ringer or the most extravagant promises.

The spectacle of a man in a conical hat or other ridiculous raiment canvassing the byways and the hedges for popular support is not in keeping with the dignity of a prospective President.

Harry Byrd does not need another job. He does not need additional honors. If the people of the United States were smart, they would draft him for President. South Carolinians have the rare good fortune of a chance to express these beliefs with their Independent ballots Nov. 6.

The Welfare State Cannot Honor The Bill Of Rights

I want to quote for a couple of days from a radio address made by Henry Plowdewer (H. E. Spitsbergen), author of "Liberals and the Constitution."

I have read this book, "Liberals and the Constitution" and found it very informative. Later on I want to quote from the book.

Here is the way Plowdewer explains how "the Welfare State cannot honor the Bill of Rights."

"A secretary said to me that she heard patriotic leaders talking about the Bill of Rights, but could not determine from the remarks why it was so important."

"I said the Bill is very important. When a government fails to honor the inherent rights named therein, economic security, under any form of government, withers away."

"If the Soviet had honored such rights, especially the ones relating to property, the iron curtain would not have been necessary. Her neighbors would have been friendly. With friendly neighbors her people could be enjoying better homes, more food, greater travel privileges, higher standards of education and culture, and freedom of speech and religion."

"What communism brought them was imprisonment in an iron curtain, distrustful neighbors, permanent poverty, a crushing load of military equipment, denial of the inherent right to be independent of government for the necessities of life, and a political structure which made escape from oppression impossible. These tragedies came upon them because their inherent rights must perish when officials are entrusted with powers such as the Soviet leaders exercise. Indeed, the theory of inherent rights is ridiculed by them. Moreover, no Welfare State can honor that theory."

Political Doctrines Threatening Security
"Nevertheless, politicians and educators are plugging for legislation which will give our officials similar authority. They have convinced businessmen, students, statesmen, clergymen, and even leaders of patriotic organizations, that such legislation does not impair inherent rights."

"But, in fact it nullifies them. Free speech and property rights are the first to suffer."

"However, citizens see no threat to such rights, or to security, although their officials, in a manner similar to Soviet officials, determine wages and hours of work, set the terms of home-building privileges, specify the price of commodities, dictate business policies, tell farmers when to plant and how much. They fill secure although the taxing programs are designed to limit income, and to keep commodities off the market by storing them, destroying them, and reducing acreage."

"The Bill of Rights tells them that liberty means, the right to have jobs, business, property, homes and farms, without knocking down to political horns regulations. They answer: 'Security is more important than liberty.'"

"That doctrine implies that a government official may be trusted with unlimited taxing authority. It is the basis of Soviet tyranny. Nevertheless, it is accepted by leading citizens in every country. It is so deeply ingrained in them that they become indignant when one suggests that human beings so empowered are poor judges of liberty; that normal self-interest delusions will cause them to imagine that they are liberating redeemers even while they are violating all the inherent rights."

"The disregarded and wrecked Charters, Petitions for Rights, Constitutions and Bills of Rights, in every country, prove that such is true; and also prove that government officials resent instruments which limit their power. They bypass them by debauching the ballot, and by using false declarations of devotion, loyalty and compliance. Even judges do so."

Judges And Bills of Rights
"Judges, because of their relationship to government, have a tendency to endorse all its policies, including bad ones. That destructive tendency gains strength as government increases its authority over the individual and his property—moves to the left, sets up welfare state, obligates the taxpayer to banish all economic distress."

"Under such a political structure judges have to follow Administration policies to keep the country from going into an immediate economic tailspin. They, therefore, kid themselves into believing that inherent rights have not been impaired no matter how many farmers, employers, or merchants go to jail for resisting arbitrary legislation; or how many small farms and small business firms crumble because the government forced too many advantages to the big ones; or how it uses taxes to promote and not authorized and for schemes which experts say will result in national bankruptcy; or how much authority which, for economic reasons, belongs to the States is transferred to Federal officials."

'States Forced to Surrender Jurisdiction'
"Under the Constitution the Federal Government had very little jurisdiction over the individual where the Bill of Rights was involved. That was so because in general laws relating to education, business, property, crime, employee and employer relationships, free speech and religion were to be matters between the State and her citizens. Hamilton, therefore, did not deem a Bill of Rights necessary. But Patrick Henry, and many others, were so fearful that the Federal officials, in spite of the Constitution, would seize jurisdiction over such matters that they

Only Lull In Scandals Comes When We Are Diverted

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CHICAGO — The Western Conference, an elastic group of state universities and semi-private institutions which have had illicit football relations for more than half a century, has discovered anew the original sins of the rogue sport. The group is now known as The Big Ten. It has been known also as The Big Six and The Big Eight.

A recent "committee" report said the current regulations concerning free tuition for athletes and cash wages sweetly-called "subsidies" are an invitation to hypocrisy and deceit. This discovery was made first in 1905 in a series of articles on The Big Six written by Ned Jordan, an undergraduate at the University of Wisconsin. The editor of Collier's was Richard Lloyd Jones, a recent alumnus of Wisconsin who later became a great warrior of journalism against quack medicines, the backward Colonel Mann of Town Topics and Tammany. His like does not live in the journals of today.

The football expose was his least hazardous if personal and economic implications. In the war which exterminated many predatory fakers promising to cure yellow fever and other pleagues with tincture of sassafras and branch-water, Mr. Jones proved that many of the newspapers were financially dependent on the advertising from patent medicines and that quacks not only bled the poor of their money and diverted them from the best available medical counsel but struck at freedom of the press.

The Ned Jordan who wrote the football series of 1905 later established a company manufacturing the Jordan Automobile which was popular for some years but finally went the way of the Chalmers, Maxwell and many others. Jordan's series was acclaimed on the campus at Madison, Wis., until he told the truth about his own Alma Mater. Then his picture was turned toward the wall because Wisconsin was a very wicked institution herself, as many of the undergraduates well knew.

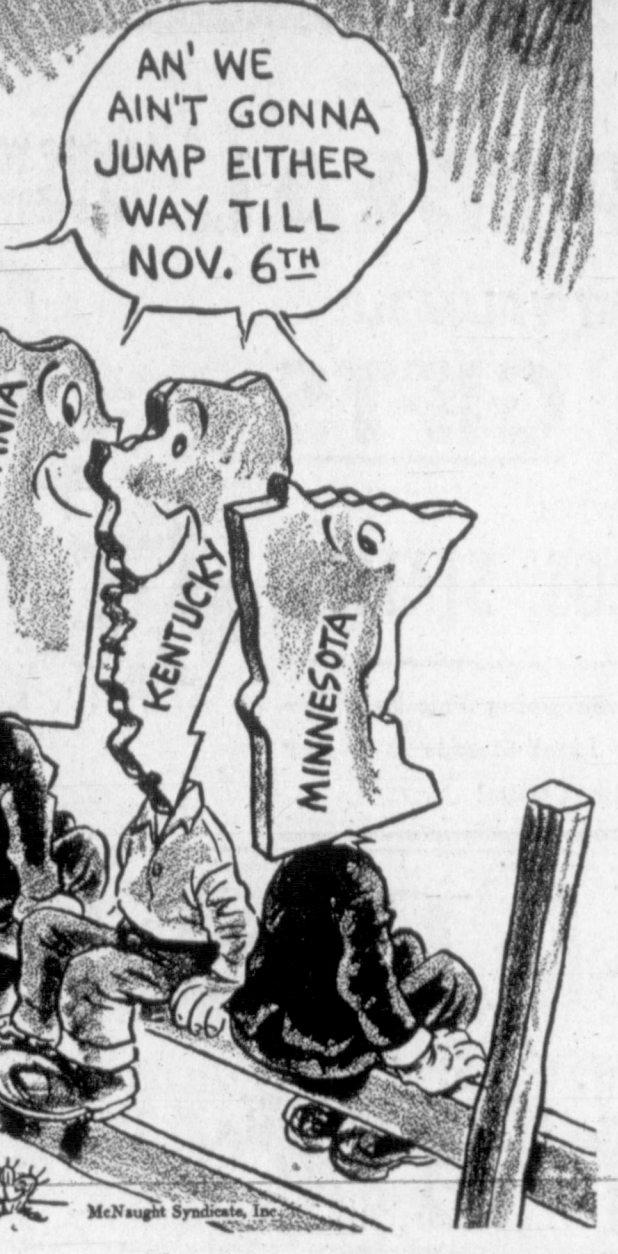

In searching history on this topic I confirm my impression that Football always has been a corrupt influence in our higher education. The periods between scandals are only lulls when we are diverted.

The magazines of those days, including even the Outlook and the Review of Reviews, carried dozens of articles exposing conditions which have been revealed anew.

insisted on the Bill of Rights. "What they feared so much was brought about by the Civil War Amendments. Such amendments laid the foundation for the social-welfare laws whereby the Federal Government ejected the states from their constitutional jurisdiction, and dissolved the original Bill of Rights with a new one which indicated the States as oppressors of the individual."

"The social laws were intended to bring Heaven to earth. But they increased monopolies as well as the penalties on individual integrity, thrift, energy and efficiency; and, besides, impaired the protections against the shiftless, thriftless, inefficient, inadequate and careless. The converse of an objective of the Bill of Rights."

Everybody's Doing It

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Senator Warren G. Magnuson's ownership of stock in a Seattle radio station is justified by two trade journals on the ground that "Everybody (in Congress and the Administration) is doing it." The two publications are Broadcasting and Variety, organs of the television and theatrical and movie fields, respectively.

In fact, the Magnuson-Longie campaign has developed into a battle between magazines. Most of the accusations by Governor Arthur C. Langlie against his Democratic opponent are drawn from certain publications. Roving reporters of conservative sympathies describe the contest as one of the "dirtiest" in the nation.

In attacking Magnuson's 3.24 percent of KIRO stock, estimated to be worth $40,000, Langlie charges there is a "conflict of interest" because the Senator is Chairman of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. This body has jurisdiction over legislation and appointments affecting the Federal Communications Commission, which has the power to grant or withhold radio and television licenses.

Under an article entitled "Political Fingers in TV Pie," Variety lists the following Capitol Hill and White House figures as having a proprietary interest in radio and television firms:

William H. Jackson, special assistant to the President, KOTV in Tulsa; Howard Pyle, another White House aide, in KVAR in Phoenix; Dilon Anderson, a national security adviser, in KTBC-TV in Houston; Interior Secretary Fred A. Houston, in KHAS-TV in Hastings, Neb.

Although it is not a full list, here are a few of the prominent members of Congress with radio or TV holdings: Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's wife, "Ladybird," in KTBC-TV in Austin, and WKTX-TV in Peoria, Ill.; Senator Clinton P. Anderson in KGGM-TV in Albuquerque; Senator Joseph C. O'Ma-choney in KFBC-TV in Cheyenne, Neb., and KSTP-TV in Scott's Bluff, Neb., and Senate Minority Leader William F. Knowland in KLLX in Oakland.

The Magnuson holding has been injected into the Washington Senatorial struggle because KIRO now seeks a television license in Seattle. KIRO's principal rival is Saul Haas, important Democratic politician and former U.S. collector of Customs.

When rival applicants charged that Haas had used "political influence" to acquire KIRO in 1953, the FCC ordered a hearing. On these complaints, although Examiner Thomas H. Donahue gave some credence to the charges, he approved KIRO as the outstanding applicant. His report has the approval of the FCC's Broadcasting Bureau. It was also pointed out that a Treasury investigation had cleared Haas of any wrongdoing.

During this hearing, Examiner Donahue denied Haas' rivals an opportunity to try to prove that, as managing editor of the Seattle Union Record in the '20's, Haas had pursued a pro-Moscow editorial policy. Another hearing was ordered because of this ruling, and more than 100 editorials supporting the then Bolshevik program were submitted.

Paul A. Porter, former FCC Chairman and Haas' lawyer, refused, as he said, to "dig up" these charges by answering them. He did, however, maintain that the Union Record had often attacked Moscow for undermining the labor movement in this country and elsewhere. Again, Examiner Donahue and the Broadcasting Bureau thought the charges not pertinent to KIRO's record and capabilities, and recommended in favor of Haas.

The FCC is still to hear oral arguments on the application, but no date has yet been set, although the proceedings have been dragging since early 1955.

Graduation Day At The Seventh's NCO Academy

By HENRY McLEMORE

MUNICH, GERMANY — This was graduation day at the Seventh Army's Noncommissioned Officer Academy, and there wasn't an egghead in the class.

This isn't said disparagingly of eggheads. I am one myself — in shape if not content — and wouldn't say a word against them. In this electronic age the Army needs soldiers who can talk to guided missiles in their own language, and who understand the workings of machines so human they suffer from five o'clock shadow and like butter, not mayonnaise, on their sandwiches.

But one gains the impression, every now and then that the Army, in its attention to specialists, overlooks that most important individual in an Army — the combat leader. When the whistle blows, there is no doing without him. No matter how many high-brows you have running mental hotboxes in the rear echelons, the showdown soldier is the one up there looking the enemy in the eye.

The Seventh Army, Noncommissioned Officer Academy, founded here seven years ago by the Seventh's present commander, Lt. General Bruce Clarke, has but one over-all purpose — to train non-coms. These men are the backbone of any army, and if we didn't have them I'd think twice before buying any more Savings Bonds.

Ask any soldier to name the two most important jobs in combat and you'll always get the same answer — the battalion commander and the platoon sergeant. Armies rise and fall on how these two key jobs are performed.

Since its founding in 1949 more than 28,000 students have taken and passed its four-week course. The Academy had tough sidding at first. The old-time sergeants had no patience with the idea, and told returning graduates: "Don't come back here with any of your newfangled ideas and tricks. We got our stripes the hard way."

General Clarke solved this problem in typical fashion. He simply ordered ALL first sergeants to attend the Academy. When they returned they were filled with the old Academy spirit.

"When a noncommissioned officer finishes the course here," General Clarke told me, "we want him to (1) have the ability to recognize his responsibilities, (2) have a willingness to assume his responsibilities, (3) have the confidence to apply his technical knowledge, (4) have the leadership techniques that apply to his office, and, (5) have the high personal and professional standards that must be maintained in the noncommissioned officer corps."

The General told me that no matter how good an army is, or a division is, it will increase in efficiency by fifty per cent on the day that every — I repeat every — noncommissioned officer fulfills his duty to the hit.

"There just isn't any overestimating the influence of the knowing, solid, proud NCO," he said.

The NCO's leave the Academy with pride in this position: The vital part they play on a winning team is hammered into them. This pride is evident from the minute a visitor steps on the campus — once one of Rommel's headquarters. Graduation day is always a special occasion, with a review, a party for all hands, and an address by a general officer of the 7th Army. This time it was General Clarke who spoke to the class and a large gathering of German dignitaries. It was difficult to determine who was the prouder — the men or General Clarke.

After the exercises there was a parachute jump by elements of the 11th Airborne, a demonstration by helicopters in which a platoon of infantrymen were dropped behind an enemy line and then picked up after the completion of its mission, and a scout and sentry dog show.

It was a happy gala day at a school dedicated to the training of that extremely valuable man — the combat NCO, to whom no mission is too dangerous, no sacrifice too great.

Intervention May Cost Russians

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia's murderous intervention in the Hungarian rebellion is likely to cost it dearly in East Asia.

Correspondingly, the position of Communist China is likely to be strengthened.

Soviet leaders have been representing themselves as the enemies of the "Western colonialism" which the newly freed countries of East Asia so bitterly detest.

They have spoken out vigorously in favor of the principle of non-interference in the affairs of other countries.

This propaganda has been conspicuously successful in "neutral" countries like India and Indonesia, which regard the non-interference principle as a basic point in the search for world peace.

Of course, such men as Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and President Sukarno of Indonesia are smart enough to know that Communist rule of the East European satellite nations has been possible only because of Russia.

Russian Argument Successful

But Russia has succeeded in putting over the argument that the satellite governments were free and sovereign.

The Soviet troops who fired on unarmed crowds of men, women and children in the streets of Budapest showed the utter falsity and cynicism of this propaganda.

Nehru, who led India's long struggle for independence from Britain, and Sukarno, who fought a war against the Netherlands, can hardly fail to realize that, whether they say so or not.

In India, Indonesia and other East Asian countries the Hungarian intervention seems pretty certain to react against the Soviet regime.

A quiet struggle for political and economic penetration is developing in East Asia between Russia and Red China.

China's influence is likely to be strengthened now at Russia's expense because the Peiping regime can still represent itself as an enemy of colonialism and a supporter of the non-interference principle.

The Western democracies, of course, do not look at it that way. They point to Red China's intervention in Korea, to its fomenting of the Indochinese war, to its swallowing up of Tibet.

The East Asian Belief
But to a lot of East Asians, in DRAUGHTY—This four-foot-high stein has a built-in sobriety quotient—its 40 pounds are much too heavy to lift many times. Cathy and Eddie Christel are dwarfed by the $200 import, which is on display at Holyoke, Mass.

the instances of Korea and Indochina, the Chinese Communists were fighting "Western colonialism"—the United States in Korea, and France in Indochina.

As regards Tibet, China always claimed sovereignty over it even in the days of the Manchu emperors.

China, culturally and racially, is far closer to East Asia than Russia ever could be. Red China never has been a Soviet satellite. Its leaders, Mao Tse-tung and Chou-En-Lai, ruling the world's most populous country, undoubtedly feel they are as good as anybody in the Kremlin.

It has been reported that Mao sent a friendly message of encouragement to the Poles at the very time that Nikita S. Khrushchev was trying vainly to browbeat them into submission to Moscow. If the message really was sent, even if its arrival in Warsaw about the time Khrushchev went there was a coincidence, it was significant.

Phillips Case To Resume In December

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Power Commission will resume a hearing Dec. 3 on an eight-year-old case involving an investigation of the natural gas rates of Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

FPC Examiner Joseph Swerdling postponed the hearing when staff attorneys said certain exhibits pertaining to a study of the company's rates had not been prepared.

Attorneys for Phillips complained they could not cross-examine three previous staff witnesses until staff attorneys revealed how they intend to use the written rate increases by Phillips to nine pipeline companies distributing natural gas throughout the United States have been consolidated with the original case involving an investigation of the company's rates.

The proposed increases amount to a total of $5.3 million. All of the rate increases have been suspended by the FPC, but some of the additional money is being collected, subject to refund.

The investigation was started eight years ago Monday. In 1951 the FPC ruled it did not have jurisdiction in the case, but the Supreme Court in 1954 ruled it did.

LEON DENNEN REPORTS:

Anti-Russian Uprisings In Satellites May Roll Iron Curtain Back 500 Miles

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. —
(NEA) — Anti-Russian convulsions now sweeping the Red world may roll the Iron Curtain back 500 miles.
This is the belief of Western experts who have made a sober appraisal of the political upheavals which have rocked Hungary and Poland and which threaten East Germany.

They foresee a long struggle in which ultimately the Russians will be compelled to withdraw from Berlin to their own border with eastern Poland, near Lwow.

None of these experts foresees any quick triumph for Western-type democratic ideals in the satellite countries. However there is limited hope that the uprisings in Poland and Hungary may have gotten beyond the power of the new Communist premiers to control within purely Titoist channels.

"It is foolhardy for the free world to assume that the upheavals in Poland and Hungary represent the restoration of democracy in West German Social Democratic leader now visiting this country, told this correspondent.

Widely regarded as one of the West's outstanding authorities on communism in the satellite countries, Heine has long headed the forces fighting against Moscow's East German puppet regime.

He added: "While there is no doubt that communism is fighting for its life, it is evident that Hungary and Poland will now be ruled by domestic Communist dictators — rather than directly by Moscow."

A similar view was given by a satellite representative at the U.N. Said this emissary from behind the Iron Curtain, "there is no doubt that there is a revival of nationalism in the satellite states." But, he said, "the system of totalitarian communism still remains unchanged."

This is evident even in Yugoslavia, where "Tito has established the right to be independent from Moscow but Yugoslavia remains in the Soviet sphere."

Cautioning against undue optimism, the satellite official said: "The ostensibly anti-Russian national communism represented by Gomulka in Poland and Premier Imre Nagy in Hungary is in reality Moscow's usual strategy of introducing a Trojan Horse when communism is in trouble."

Premier Nagy's new "popular front" government in Budapest is unlikely to change the political atmosphere in the country.

Only 60-year-old Bela Kovacs, former secretary of the Smallholders Party who was named to Nagy's new government as Minister of Agriculture, is revered by patriotic Hungarians as a symbol of Hungary's resistance to Moscow and communism. He had been in a Communist prison since his arrest in 1947 when he was charged with being an "American spy."

BACKWARD RUSSIAN PUTSCH? Western experts foresee eventual withdrawal of Soviet control — and Iron Curtain — from Berlin to eastern Polish border as result of satellite uprisings.

(Late reports said he was with revolutionary forces in the country.) Former Premier Zoltan Tildy, the other non-Communist, named to the government, is lauded by the people as a collaboratorist who betrayed Hungary to the Communists in 1945.

All other members in the "new" Cabinet are long-time Communists associated with Premier Nagy and therefore tainted with having approved the use of Soviet troops to massacre Hungarians.

In Russia's five other satellites—Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Romania—old-line Stalinists still are in command.

In Poland, the largest of Moscow's satellites, Wladyslaw Gomulka was freed from prison and returned to power as a popular symbol of resistance to Russian domination.

However, according to reliable information which has just reached this correspondent from Poland, Gomulka, prior to assuming power, had spent several weeks in Russia, taking the "cure" at Sochi in the Caucasus in conditions of great luxury and upon invitation of Premier Bulganin of Russia.

Was this meant to persuade Gomulka and incidentally the Polish Communists that Moscow no longer bore him a grudge?

Like Imre Nagy, Gomulka is a life-long Communist. Instead of representing the disintegration of Moscow's empire he could be Moscow's answer to it—probably a reluctant answer but one accepted by the Kremlin as the only means of soothing the discontented and desperate people behind the Iron Curtain.

Gomulka might, under the cloak of nationalism, be a means of reintroducing effective Communist control of Polish life and government.

Whether he, as Imre Nagy in Hungary, will succeed even to the same extent as Tito has in Yugoslavia is by no means certain.

Moscow, in the view of competent observers, may have waited too long to put on a more acceptable face, and what the "national" Communists have to offer now may be too little and too late for nations held so long in bondage.

The upheavals in Poland and the insurrection in Hungary have penetrated deeper into Soviet-controlled territory than either the East German uprising of 1953 or even Tito's anti-Stalinist rebellion in 1948.

Despite the emergence of a sugar-coated "national communism," the empire of Communist states—stretching from East Berlin almost to the Mediterranean and embracing more than 100 million people — is being torn by its most severe crisis since it was forged by Stalin in the post-war years.

Pampa News Women's Editor

IN THE FIRST HISTORY OF AMERICAN COOKERY to appear in print, the various influences on American kitchens, cooks and cookery, from 1565 to 1956 are revealed. Hero of the group, which includes American, English, Spanish and Chinese pioneers, is the modern businesswoman. The title appropriately enough is "The Everlasting Pleasure" and the author is Kathleen Ann Smalzer. The colonial housewife, the nineteenth-century drudge, and the Gibson girl also play parts in the drama of American homemaking she unfolds in her book.

TO A SURPRISING extent, considering the enormous variety of influences in this country, people take French cooking as the standard of excellence, according to Miss Smalzer. Nevertheless, when it comes to preparing vegetables, the author says the Chinese are a second to none. In her book, she tells how the fine tradition of French, creole cooking began when French "casket" girls rebelled against eating corn meal dishes. Called "casket" girls because of the hampers of personal belongings they carried in their voyage to the New World, the girls were taught Indian cooking secrets, and learned to combine their French cooking with native American ingredients. The author relates also how the Chinese, who came to California during the early nineteenth century, learned new ways of making a living after the forty-niners "discovered" the delectable foods we now lump together under the names of "chow mein" and "chow suey."

As prime influences in any cooking, Miss Smalzer stresses "time" and "availability." She demonstrates how the rich soil, the climate, and abundant crops have contributed to American cookery, as she takes a dining and kitchen tour, moving from the first New World settlement in Jamestown, inland, up to New England, and back down and across the land. And, stopping off as she does to sample the richness of a Colonial dame's table, heavily laden with such dishes as turtle soup, boiled turkey with oyster sauce, and "macaroni pie," to check the ingredients for a New England "lobster stew," "baked beans," and "potatoe Pye," hers is a gourmet's holiday.

Still, the author isn't too nostalgic for the old days when the preparation for a tantalizing dish like "chestnut soup" must have occupied the "cook most of the day. Nor does she feel the "nineties" were particularly "gay" for the housewife, the little woman had to wrestle with an unpredictable work range, and canning called for concentrated effort from sun-up through sun-set.

According to Miss Smalzer, it was only after the scientist, the home economist, and the business-man got together, and refrigeration, freezers, stoves, and food packaging were perfected, that the housewife "got out of the kitchen," and was freed for more leisure time.

Miss Smalzer, who confesses to a weakness for Southern fried chicken and country ham, was born in Wabash, Ind. The author of "Press Pass," and co-author of "More Than You Promise" (with Dorothy James Roberts), she has worked in the newspaper and public relations fields. Before embarking on writing "The Everlasting Pleasure," she travelled over 10,000 miles through the South, the Midwest, the Middle Atlantic and New England in quest of heirloom recipes and other original material for her history.

If you have red hair, this season is the time to play it up. Designers have brought out whole costumes, from head to toe, in taupe. They're aimed at making the red-head look stunning.

TART, RED cherries are the foundation on which this unusual cherry-lemon meringue pie is constructed.

Cook's Nook

Cherry Pie Is Weekly Treat For A Busy Married Student

BY GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor
 In Yorktown Heights, N.Y., as in thousands of other American towns, the presidential campaign is taking the social spotlight. Mrs. William L. White, a busy member of the local Republican party, mother of two children, usually gives her "like" parties at night when the young people are in bed. To make her "Come to the White House" evenings appealing to the men, Mrs. White plans her supper menu carefully.

before serving, she adds a quick meringue and browns it, or a fluff or whipped cream.

Cherry Lemon Meringue Pie

One package instant lemon pie filling, 1 can pitted cherries, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 egg whites, 9-inch crumb pie shell.
 Prepare lemon pie filling according to directions on package, substituting juice drained from cherries for part of the liquid. Spread cherries in bottom of 9-inch crumb pie shell. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup sugar. Pour pie filling over cherries. To make meringue, beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add remaining sugar, beating until meringue holds peaks. Spread on chilled pie filling. Spread and seal well to the edge of crust. Brown in 500-degree F. (Extremely hot) oven, about 20 minutes.

Skelly Schafer Club Plans Supper Meet

Secret pal gifts were exchanged by the group, and Mrs. North was presented housewarming gifts from the members. Mrs. L. Barrett and Mrs. L. F. Karlin will be hostesses for the November meeting, it was announced.

Children Entertained At Halloween Party

Members of the children's department of the Pentecostal Holiness Church were entertained with a Halloween Party recently by their teacher, Mrs. J. B. Caldwell, 532 Roberts, assisted by Miss Carol McBroom.

Perryton Club Has Talks On Nutrition

PERRYTON — (Special) — The Jennie June Club met in the home of Mrs. Paul Williams, with Mrs. Clyde Ragsdale and Mrs. Bill Allen as hostesses.

Mrs. Warren Cudd led the business session, and Mrs. Jim Dunlavy was welcomed as a new member.

Jack M. Allen discussed the nine proposed amendments to the Texas constitution to be voted on in November. Mrs. Ann Jennings, head of the home economics department of the Perryton schools, spoke on nutrition, and a skit was presented by Misses Linda Moon, Kathleen Littau, Judy Cobb, Trula McGarraugh and Bonnie Witt.

Rock 'n' Roll? Paris Marks Its Own Time

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS (NEA) — All is quiet on the French rock 'n' roll front. How long this will be true is another matter.

"Rock Around the Clock," fresh from stirring riots in Britain, has left the Parisians keeping their own time.
And for good reason, one orchestra leader says.

On Bridge ● Jacoby

Written for NEA Service
Many experts would bid four spades with the West hand rather than allow South to play at game in hearts. Four spades would, of course, be set one trick, but this would be better than allowing South to make a game.

West opened the deuce of spades, and South ruffed immediately. . . . Deceit drew trumps with the ace and queen, after which he took the ace of diamonds and lost a finesse of the diamond jack to West's queen.

West saw that his side was going to win no tricks in spades or hearts, and only one trick in diamonds. Three club tricks were needed to defeat the contract.

Without a second's hesitation, West returned the deuce of clubs after winning the diamond trick. South didn't dream that West was underleading both the ace and king. Deciding to play West for the jack of clubs, South played low from the dummy. East put up the jack of clubs and was amazed to discover that this held the trick.

East recovered from his surprise in time to return a club, and the defenders took two more tricks in that suit to defeat the contract. If West had led the king of clubs on the first round of that suit, South would have recognized the situation and would have lost only two club tricks.

SYMBOLIC—Rising 212 feet above the campus, detached tower entrance of the new chapel-library building at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, symbolizes the partnership of college, church and the arts in Wittenberg's program of education. Sculptured figures on face of tower are, from top, Milton, Leibniz and Bach, symbolic of the cultural heritage of Christianity. On the chapel side of the octagonal tower are figures of Paul, Augustine, and Luther, symbols of man's best thinking on Christian truth and of man's deeds in response to their faith.

tra leader says. The French just don't have rhythm, according to Boris Vian.
With rock 'n' roll, it's like having five minutes to eat an all-day sucker—you've got to have time.
But here and there in Gay Paree the nervous American music is creeping into cellar fun spots. Even Vian at the Tabou, post-war existentialist crier - night club on the Left Bank, has bowed slightly to rock 'n' roll.
He wrote a sweet little thing called, "Rock Me, Oh Juliette," as a song-and-dance act for Juliette Greco. She will create it shortly, probably with American movie actor Eddie Constantine, a great fav-

Proof of this is that 30,000 copies of the record, "Seeds of Violence" were sold in eight weeks, plus 10,000 records of "Rock Around the Clock." But the music hasn't stirred listeners to break up the furniture as in the United States or Britain. In Paris the sensuous fury of the rhythm is joke material.
"But one never knows how catching such a new form of hysteria can become," a psychiatrist said. "The only comforting thought is that it, like all other fads, will pass."
"After all, rock 'n' roll is only a little more frenzied than the Charleston or the Black Bottom of my student days and not so different from swing, boogie-woogie and other post-war forms of jazz."

Chem Firms To Exchange Ideas
HOUSTON (UP)—A prominent German industrialist said today his firm, Waseg-Chemie, one of Germany's biggest chemical firms, will "share know-how" with America's Celanese Corp.
"No, it is not a merger—just an agreement to share know-how," said Berthold Von Bohlen und Halbach, a member of the German industrialist family of Krupp.
Von Bohlen, board chairman of Waseg-Chemie, arrived Tuesday with his wife, and Dr. Heinrich Gattineau, president of the German firm. He said he wanted to "tour Houston."

Groom Highway Taking Shape
GROOM — (Special) — Groom's new four-lane highway through town is taking shape. The curbing has been completed and the dividing island between the east and west bound lanes has been completed within city limits. One coat of asphalt has been put on the caliche base and is holding down considerable dust which has been covering the adjoining area whenever the wind blew.
Arrival of cold weather will delay the finish coats of gravel and asphalt which will be used at a later date to top the road. New street lights for the highway through town are planned and when placed in use will give Groom the appearance of a modern city to the traveling public.

Heard Through The Barryl

By BARRY A. LITTMANN
Pampa News Sports Editor

The injury is still out on Monterey. There have been conflicting opinions as to its relative speed and type of offense. Coach Jack Lockett has stressed the fact all week in his practices that the Lubbock boys are fast and big and use a variety of formations. This morning the "poop" sheet came into the office from Lubbock and it says things entirely different.

Monterey is supposed to be small and slow and weak offensively. All week the Fighting Harvesters have seen nothing but different formations that Monterey is supposed to use. Coach Lockett has tried to impress upon his boys the fact that Monterey likes to play a wide open brand of football. As he put it, "wild and woolly" like Texas used to play.

Looks as though the Monterey boys are attempting some propaganda to possibly let the Pampa Harvesters down. However, after a hard week's work, the Harvesters are ready for anything that Monterey has to throw at them.

They may have their hands full. The line is headed by Jerry Blair, who was all-district AAA last year as the Plainsmen competed in the three A circuit. Blair weighs 198 pounds and is tough as nails according to Lubbock writers, Fred Baker, an offensive end, is 6-3 and 173 and when he isn't eating passes, he's putting out of danger and playing a defensive halfback.

Last week, while getting thrashed by the Amarillo Sandies, they had four starters on the bench with injuries of one sort or another. Two of them, quarterback Arlen Fluke and guard Jerry Graham were ready to go this week. Still on the sidelines are Billy Adams, the left halfback and defensive end Steve Withcer.

This ought to be one of the toughest ball games of the year for the Harvesters. Both teams will be searching for a win. The Harvesters haven't had one in many weeks and from the looks of things this week, they'll be in the right spirit in Lubbock tomorrow night as they attempt to rack up victory number three.

Our good friend Stanley Brake, main cog in the bowling leagues throughout the city of Pampa reports that most of the Men's teams in the city bowling leagues will make their appearance in the Men's Panhandle Bowling Tourney in Amarillo. This week the Cabot Office team will bowl and next week, Tex Evans, Bulck, Brown and Hinkle, Cabot Shops, Friendly Men's, Your Laundry will all get their chance. If any of you want to have some fun on an evening, take a run out to the alleys and watch these different teams compete. Some pretty good bowlers hit the alleys every night.

Three Cities Look For Big State Team

DALLAS (UP)—At least three cities will be considered for taking over the Texas City franchise when Big State League directors meet in Waco Nov. 11.

President Hal Sayles said Jack Boles, who operated the Texas City franchise last season, will not do so next season, but that Harlingen, Temple and Tyler are being considered as replacements.

The Waco meeting will be a continuation of the league's annual fall meeting which was recessed in September in Abilene. At that time, Abilene, Corpus Christi, Victoria and Beaumont interests all said they would operate next season. Port Arthur, Wichita Falls and Waco said they "probably" would field teams.

Sayles said the three prospective members could take up the Texas City franchise or that of any other city which doesn't plan to be in the league.

Charlie Curtis Ready To Go For TCU Frogs

By UNITED PRESS
Texas Christian's stock was up a little today after Coach Abe Martin announced that quarterback Charles Curtis would be out for action Saturday against Baylor.

TCU's star quarterback was released from the hospital Wednesday after undergoing clinical tests for a kidney injury received in Tuesday's scrimmage. Tests showed the injury to be a minor one.

However, Martin said he might start Dick Finney at quarterback if TCU kicks off to Baylor. Texas Aggie Coach Paul Bryant sounded a warning Wednesday. He told his team, currently atop the Southwest Conference heap, that "this Saturday, I think Arkansas will be the best team we've played this season and we'll have to play our best game yet."

The Southern Methodist Mustangs, preparing to go against the Texas Longhorns at Austin, worked on punting under pressure and rushing the passer. They expect the Longhorns to be out to win this one for Coach Ed Price, who Wednesday announced he was resigning effective Dec. 31.

Pros Reach End Of Era; Browns Weak This Year

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (UP)—Professional football is starting unevenly today at the end of an era.

For six years, or ever since they joined the National Football League, the Cleveland Browns have been in the championship playoffs every season. Three times they won the world championship and three times they were runnerup.

But this year they have won only one game in five starts and lie buried at the bottom of the league's Eastern Division.

There are two factors which produced this unexpected turn in the Browns' fortunes. One was the retirement of quarterback Otto Graham. The other was "Dodgeritis," the creeping effects of reflexes slowing under the years.

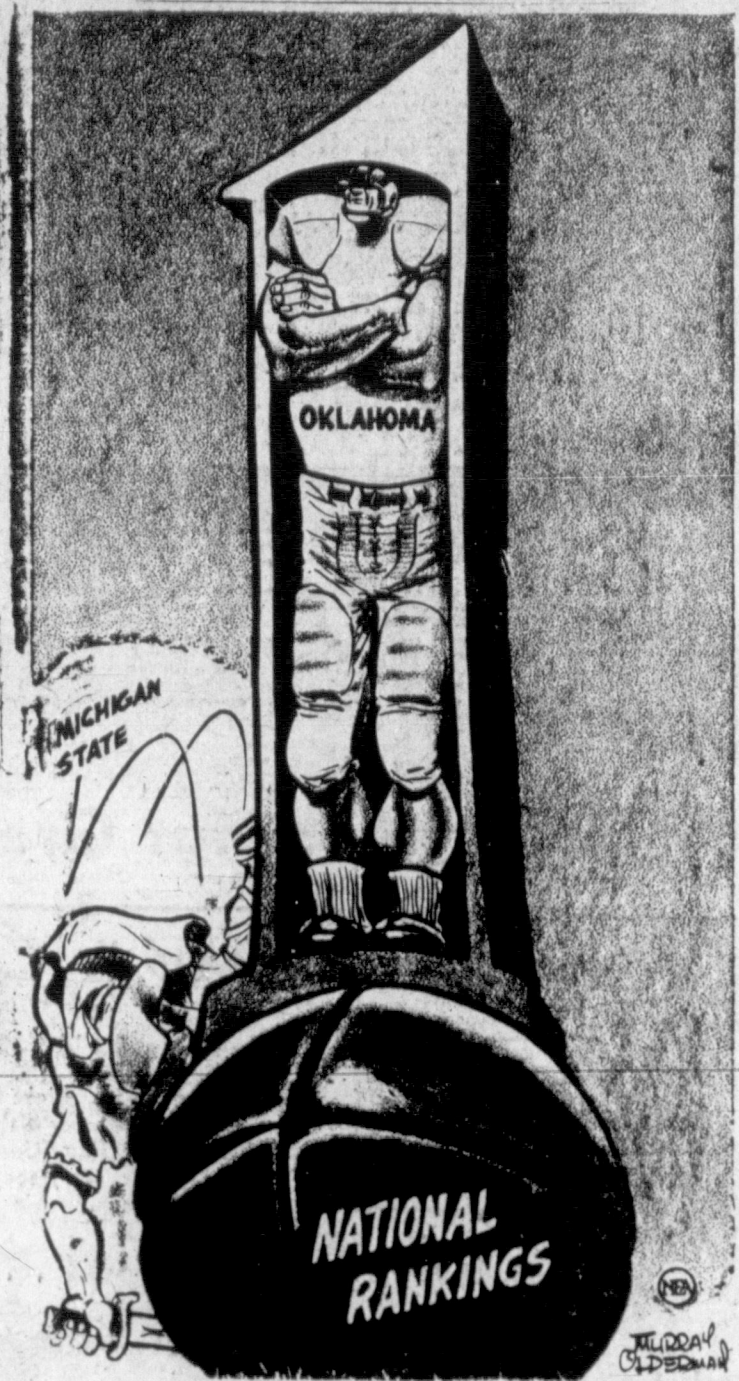

Graham Sparked Attack

The loss of Graham had to have a terrific effect on the club as a whole, nor is this a knock at his successors—George Ratterman, Ebe Parill and Tommy O'Connell. It was simply that, in six years as the whip-cracker of the Browns attack, Graham had convinced every one of the Browns that he was the man who made them go.

Ratterman, before his injury, and Parill and O'Connell all have made a valiant effort to fill the gap. They were tackling an impossible task simply because they didn't have the team's confidence that, like Graham, they could spark the impossible.

Ed Price Quits His Texas U. Post

ROOM FOR ONLY ONE!

AUSTIN—UP—Ed Price, the most successful Southwest Conference coach, resigned his job Wednesday after his 1956 Texas Longhorns dropped five of their six games and he had been hanged in effigy.

The resignation is effective Dec. 31. Price still had another year to go on a contract calling for $12,500 per season.

The athletic council accepted the resignation "with regret" and indicated that no action would be taken toward naming a successor until after the season ends.

Price's resignation left the university with two top posts to fill. Veteran Athletic Director Dana X. Bible is stepping down to modified service at the end of this school year. Price had been mentioned as a possible successor.

There is a possibility the athletic council may combine the two jobs, as Bible wishes to remain in an advisory capacity.

Price, a quiet-spoken, 47-year-old Texas post, had a conference record to date of 20 victories, 11 losses and one tie, better than any of his rival coaches in the powerful Southwest loop can muster. His overall record is 33 victories, 26 losses and a tie.

He's Second Oldest
He was the second-oldest head coach in point of service in the conference, bowing in that regard only to the veteran Jess Neely of Rice. He joined the University of Texas coaching staff in 1936, moving up to the head coaching post in 1951 when Blair Cherry resigned when pressure was brought to bear as a result of losses.

But this year, his Longhorns have won only one game—from Tulane—while dropping games to Southern California, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Rice. In the past two weeks, he has been hanged in effigy three times. Price also faced criticism at mid-season last year, but his team won four of its last five games and the athletic council gave him a vote of confidence after the season ended.

Pressure Not Factor
Price, in submitting his resignation to Bible, said there was "no official pressure" exerted upon him in making his decision.

He said he was resigning "for the good of the team, the university and the thousands of loyal, interested supporters who have been so helpful to all of us in the past."

"There might be differences of opinion as to the cause or causes, but we can all agree on one thing: We are not having a happy season."

"In such situations the head coach always is held accountable. This is fair enough; he is the one who is ultimately responsible. I do not propose to present any elaborate defense or alibi. I will merely say that I always have done my best, and so have the assistant coaches and the players themselves."

Price, a native of Corsicana, Tex., started in football, basketball and baseball as a student at the University of Texas. He coached at Hillsboro and El Paso high schools before returning to the university in 1936 as line coach. He served in the Navy during World War II.

Aggies Move To Victory On Ground
By ED FITZ
United Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (UP)—Coach Paul Bryant's fifth-rated Texas A&M football team doesn't throw the ball around very much, but when it does, the chances are pretty good that it'll be a telling blow to the opposition.

The alert and aggressive Aggies have completed only 26 plays in their five victories and a tie, but just about one out of every four has been a touchdown strike.

To make it more confusing for this week's opponent, Arkansas, and the others to follow as the Aggies bid for their first Southwest Conference title in 15 years is the fact that the pitch is apt to come from most any angle and from one of several pitchers.

Passes With Last Two
Their last two victories—the most crucial ones supposedly in the championship drive—over defending champion Texas Christian and top contender Baylor came as a result of touchdown passes.

Neither was tossed by the Aggies' usual passers, quarterback Roddy Osborne or his relief man, Jimmy Wright.

Against TCU in the wake of hurricane force winds and driving rain, the Aggies picked up momentum in the final quarter and set out 80 yards to erase a 6-0 TCU lead. They got down to the eight-yard line.

There's This for Example
There, little Don Watson, the 150-pound plug of dynamite, drifted out to the left after a handoff as if he was setting out on one of his usual sweeps at the TCU end. Suddenly, he stopped and lofted a pass into the end zone where halfback John Crow had sauntered unnoticed. That touch-down and halfback Loyd Taylor's extra point won it 7-6.

Last Saturday night at Waco, the footing was drier but the setup was about the same. The Aggies were trailing Baylor 13-12 in the final period when they staged another typical late surge down to the Baylor five.

Crow tore out along the line on an apparent cutback play, braked to a halt and flipped a pass to end John Tracey who had slipped unnoticed behind the defensive secondary into the end zone. That won the game 19-13.

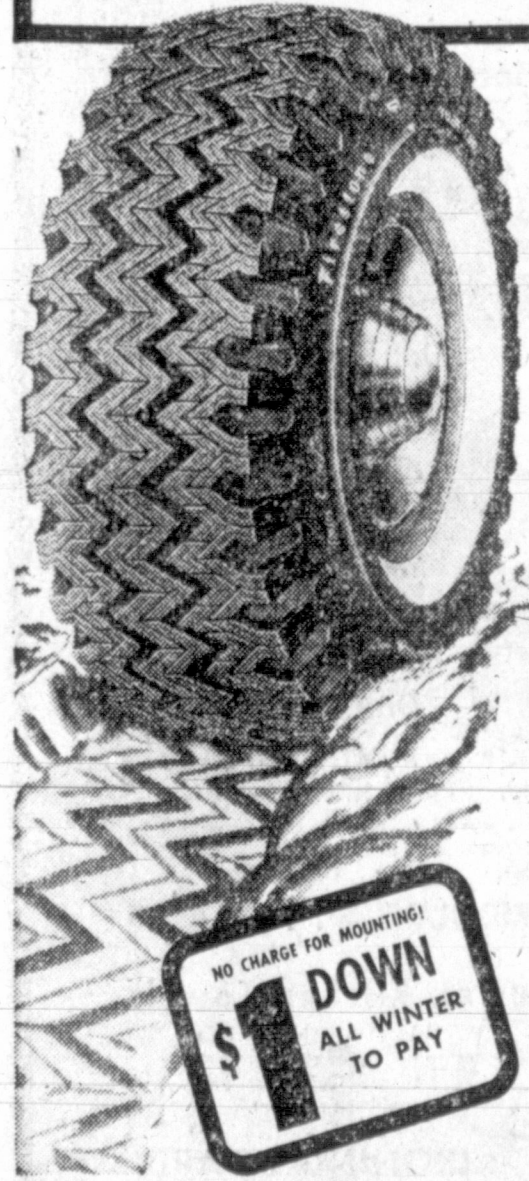

There may be many more passes thrown Saturday in the other games around the conference in which Baylor plays TCU at Port Worth, Southern Methodist tangles with Texas at Austin and Rice entertains Utah at Houston.

But, chances are they won't be as productive as those the Aggies choose to throw at College Station.

Queen To Be Crowned At White Deer

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Coronation of the Football Sweetheart will highlight half-time activities at the Panhandle White Deer football game at Bucks Field Friday night.

The Sweetheart was selected by secret ballot of the football team early this week. Finalists in the voting were: Joyce Ballard, Joy Kotara, and Marilyn Kotara. The Sweetheart will be one of these three. The other two will serve as attendants. Their escorts will be: Maynard Kotara, Jerry Mills, and Dwayne Clemens, tri-captains of the team. Class representatives who will serve as attendants to the Sweetheart are: Peggy O'Neal, Senior; Sandra Mercer, Junior; Mary Ann Freeman, Sophomore; and Kathy Bennett, Freshman.

Other Senior members of the Bucks team who will escort them are: James Warty, Ernie Rausch, Buddy Stevens, and John Parsons.

PINNING TIME — Peggy O'Neal, head cheer leader of White Deer High School, demonstrates with tri-captain Jerry Mills how the colors will be pinned on in the pre-game pep rally before the White Deer Panhandle game Friday night at White Deer.

Other highlights of the traditional Panhandle-White Deer football game week-end will be the bonfire, to be held at the baseball field here Thursday night, and the color-pinning ceremony.

In the Pep Rally Assembly Friday afternoon, at 3:00, the annual color-pinning ceremony will be held. In this traditional ritual, each football player selects a girl who pins to his shoulder a ribbon of blue and white, the school colors.

These are worn by the boys throughout the game, and returned to the girls, on the field, at the conclusion of the game.

Plans for the game festivities are under the direction of the Pep Squad. Peggy O'Neal is Head Cheer Leader. Other Cheer Leaders are: Priscilla Moss, Mary the Buck Band, under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Ledbetter. Mrs. Ledbetter is also Pep Squad sponsor.

Music for the bonfire, pep rally, and game, will be presented by Ann Freeman, and Carolyn Baker. Other musicians are: Tommy McGee is Drum Major; Twirlers are: Joy Kotara, Sandra Mercer, Carolyn Anderson, Joyce Ballard, and Nancy Lester.

Coach Holladay's Bucks, with a 3-1 record, will go into the game as underdogs, as they meet the Panhandle Panthers, who last week defeated Canadian 24-7. The Panthers have won one conference game, while the Bucks lost their conference opener to Stinnett by the same 24-7 score. Both are members of District 1-A.

Marion Now In Indian Manager Race

By UNITED PRESS

Marly Marion offered himself as a new "big name" candidate to manage the Cleveland Indians today a few hours after Leo Durocher bowed out of the picture.

At the same time, Kerby Farrell — the man who seemed to have the job "locked up" a month ago and may still wind up with it — was unanimously acclaimed the American Association's manager of the year.

Marion, who resigned after a stormy session with Chicago White Sox officials last week, announced he would be "interested" in talking to Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg about the vacant job. Marion's statement came shortly after Greenberg's announcement that Durocher could no longer be considered a candidate.

Marion disclosed in St. Louis that he already had a "feeler" from Greenberg. He said he planned to discuss the job with Greenberg but that no time or place had yet been set. Marion already has been succeeded at Chicago by Al Lopez — the man who started the coast-to-coast furor by resigning as the Indians' pilot at the close of the campaign.

The 43-year old Farrell, meanwhile, was unanimously voted the manager of the year in the AA by the league's baseball writers. He led the Indianapolis Indians to the pennant, play-off title and to the Little World Series crown over Rochester of the International League.

The New York Giants, who have been unusually active so far this winter, hired ex-Yankee star Tommy Henrich as a third base coach and an instructor for their weak hitters. Henrich, who has been out of baseball since 1951, had an opportunity to see the Giants at close range when he substituted for ailing TV announcer Frank Friach during the last two months of the season.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former Michigan State halfback Billy Wells has been granted terminal leave by the Army and will be able to play for the Washington Redskins for the remainder of the National Football League season. Waivers have been asked on tackle Slug Witucki to make room for Wells.

Area Game Of The Week: Wellington-Perryton Game Tops Area Football Card

This Friday night a clash of great importance in the Class AA race comes into the Pampa News area when the Wellington Commodores visit the Perryton Rangers.

The Pampa News felt that a game would provide a lot of interest to its readers, therefore this game gets the nod as the Area Game of the Week.

The host Rangers, 5-2 on the season are going to have their Commodores, 5-1-1 this year. They have met three common foes — Clarendon, Phillips and Childress. The Skyrocks beat Clarendon, 23-13 and Childress 26-0. Phillips trounced Wellington 44-0. Meanwhile the Rangers upended Clarendon 45-7, and blasted Childress 25-6. Phillips shaded the Rangers 29-12.

Perryton has one of the top scorers around the Panhandle as its offensive leader. Dan Pearson, a 156-pound quarterback, has scored 12 touchdowns this year to rank way up high in the ranks of Class AA scorers this year.

The Skyrocks play a wideopen game with two quarterbacks, Elbert and Wilkins, the leading runners. They also do their share of passing too to round out the attack. The Skyrocks beat another team in this area, 37-6 earlier this season when they used the Lefors Pirates as bait for their high scoring machine.

Other games in this area Friday night include Lefors at Memphis, Stinnett at Gruver, Panhandle at White Deer, Canadian at Clarendon, Childress at Shamrock. The Pampa News will have complete coverage of these games in the Sunday edition.

Baseball's Popularity Makes For Customer Rise

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP)—Baseball's continued rise in popularity has a hot three-team pennant race right down to the wire were singled out today as the reasons for a "record" turnout for National League games in 1956.

A total of 8,649,567 fans paid their way into the league's parks during the 1956 season, representing a 12.7 per cent increase over 1955 and a new all-time high for a "normal" year, according to figures released by National League Publicist Dave Grote.

The tight pennant chase, involving the Dodgers, Braves and Redlegs, was given as main reason for the big increase along with the continued rise in the sport's popularity since 1908 — the last previous year in which three teams battled for the flag right through to the end of the season — when 3,512,108 fans paid their way in.

The NL's all-time record attendance prior to World War II was 5,446,532. That mark was set in 1930 and stood as the league's all-time high until 1946.

The 1949 season was the league's banner campaign in which 9,484,718 fans flocked to the parks. The 1956 figure is the greatest since 1949 and topped the 1955 mark by nearly one million.

Four clubs — and significantly the ones that finished in the first division — went over the one million mark, while two others, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, went over 900,000.

The Braves led all clubs with a 2,046,331 figure. Brooklyn was next at 1,213,562. Cincinnati was third at 1,125,928 — a new club mark — and St. Louis was fourth at 1,029,773.

Pittsburgh was fifth with 949,378, Philadelphia sixth with 924,798. Chicago seventh with 720,118 and New York last with 629,179.

There are only five games this week because the Colts-Redskins game at Baltimore was switched to Dec. 23.

Lebaron Hampered

Eddie Lebaron, Washington's top quarterback, has been hampered by injuries but the club suffered its worst blows when Vic Janowicz, No. 2 scorer in the league last year, and quarterback Al Dorow were hurt in automobile crashes. Janowicz will miss the entire campaign and Dorow is just now rounding into form.

The Lions (5-0) defend the league's only perfect record against the Forty-Niners (1-4) Sunday at San Francisco. The Lions are picked to win because of their strong defensive platoon.

The other selections for Sunday's games with won-lost records in parentheses: Bears (4-1) over Rams (1-4) at Los Angeles; Cardinals (4-1) over Eagles (2-3) at Chicago; Giants (4-1) over Steelers (2-3) at Pittsburgh; Packers (2-3) over Browns (1-4) at Milwaukee.

NFL Has Few Hurts; But Those Hurt Are Key Men

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

There have been relatively few serious injuries in the National Football League so far this season but the victims include nearly a dozen top players.

The Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns, Pittsburgh Steelers, Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins have lost the most key players.

George Shaw, Baltimore's fine second-year quarterback, was put on the 30-day injured reserve list last week with a knee injury and won't play again until late in the campaign.

Ratterman Sideline

George Ratterman, Cleveland's No. 1 quarterback, is sidelined with a knee injury and may miss the rest of the season. Don Colo, team captain, saw little action in the club's first three games because of an Army injury.

Lynn Chandnois, leading scorer for the Pittsburgh Steelers, suffered a shoulder injury against Cleveland last Sunday that will sideline him for the rest of the campaign.

Marv Matuszak, one of Pittsburgh's top linebackers, will be out three or four weeks with a shoulder injury received in that game.

Bill Stribling, Philadelphia Eagle offensive end, broke a leg bone last Sunday playing against the New York Giants and will miss most of the remaining games. Bobby Thomason, No. 1 Eagle signal-caller, is nursing an ankle injury.

Eddie Lebaron, Washington's top quarterback, has been hampered by injuries but the club suffered its worst blows when Vic Janowicz, No. 2 scorer in the league last year, and quarterback Al Dorow were hurt in automobile crashes. Janowicz will miss the entire campaign and Dorow is just now rounding into form.

Wheat Crop Prospects

AMARILLO (UP)—Rains in the Cross Timbers area and the Low Rolling Plains during October have revived prospects for a winter wheat crop, the Santa Fe crop report said today.

However, the railroad crop reporting service, said that high winds over some of the reported land have blown some of the soil away and left much of the area susceptible to erosion.

The report said harvest of sorghums in the irrigated areas of the high plains continued.

Picking of cotton in the Pecos-Fort Stockton area was going ahead, with good yields reported. Hand pulling is under way in the high plains with strippers just starting in a few defoliated fields.

The report said machine harvest in the high plains area would not become general until after a killing frost. Harvest of lettuce and carrots continued in the high plains.

The report also said that October rains provided sufficient moisture to germinate wheat and other fall seeded grains in most of Oklahoma.

Wheat which was planted in Oklahoma before the general rains is up to a good stand. The rains delayed cotton picking in some areas. A large part of the corn, sorghum and soybean acreage was either used for fodder or silage or was grazed off by livestock, the Santa Fe's agricultural agents reported.

Rain also helped crops in New Mexico, although the moisture delayed cotton picking in the southern part of the state and some damage was reported to cotton and late hay. The moisture benefited winter wheat and other fall-planted grains in the east central sections of the state, but because of the dryness, few farmers had seeded their ground.

Christmas Plans Start In Perryton

PERRYTON — (Special)—Plans are under way for the Christmas Parade in Perryton which will be held Dec. 4, at 2:30. Five choirs and three out of town bands have already accepted invitations to take part in the celebration.

Choirs who have accepted the invitation are Pampa, Liberal, Phillips, and Berger. These choirs and one from Perryton will make their appearances at the high school auditorium at 3:15 after the parade.

Bands who have indicated they will take part in the parade are Libermal, Wellington and Follett. From members of the bands and choirs, including those from Perryton, will be selected a "Snow Queen" to reign over the festivities.

Santa Claus will make his first appearance of the season at the parade, and will have gifts for all the children. He will return each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday thereafter until Christmas.

Three Perryton twirlers took top honors at the area twirling contest held at West Texas State College last Saturday. This is the third straight year these girls have won this honor and one member won first in individual competition.

The trio were Sydney Slack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Slack, Jayne Todd, daughter of Jack Todd and Donna Hoots, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hoots. Miss Slack is the Drum Major for the Ranger Band and Miss Todd and Miss Hoots are twirlers. The band is under the direction of B. D. Walker.

Miss Slack won first place in individual performance over 150 other contestants, while the three together won the ensemble top honor.

could not be present. Rev. Cook showed slides he had taken while he and his family were doing missionary work in Old Mexico, Latin America and Porto Rico.

Officers of the Ochiltree Farm Bureau are Harry Reimer, president, B. H. Peckenpaugh, vice president and Jake LeMaster, secretary.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT 1

An ad in a recent paper indicates that certain persons are conducting a write-in campaign against Arlie Carpenter for Commissioner of Precinct 1 in the General Election to be held on November 6, 1956. Arlie Carpenter does not think that such accusations as those made in the ad need answering, but he would like to set the record straight.

This ad stated that Joe Clarke is willing to serve as Commissioner if elected by write-in vote. If he is so willing to serve, why DIDN'T he pay his filing fee like all the other candidates and run for office in the Primary? Is he afraid of what people might say about him in an honest and properly conducted election? Do the persons who are paying for his ads expect special favors of him in return for this?

He states that he has constantly opposed Thos. Y. Pickett & Co. as evaluation engineers for Gray County. During the ONLY six years he served as commissioner, he voted FOR hiring this firm as the county's evaluation engineers each time the question was submitted to him. His vote is recorded in Vol. 6, Pages 74, 271, and 567 of the Minutes of the Commissioner's Court. Does this sound like he opposes them?

Are the evaluation engineers an issue in the coming election? If so, Arlie Carpenter respectfully requests you to ask any member or former member of the Board of Trustees for the Lefors Independent School District their opinion about this matter, as they have consistently hired this firm each year as their evaluation engineers. These trustees are as follows:

- | | | | |
|-----------------|-----------------|------------------|----------------|
| James Gotcher | C. H. McCullick | John Oldham | R. A. Nipper |
| R. B. Brown | U. H. Hall | H. C. Little | Geo. Thut |
| W. C. Maples | F. J. Linquist | B. C. Johnson | C. E. Vincent |
| F. P. Brown | D. C. Echard | Watson Burgess | C. H. Butrum |
| Ed Bryant | D. E. Davis | Maurice Upham | R. M. Watson |
| John Roberts | O. B. Grant | Bruce Hall | G. W. Hesse |
| C. J. Trusty | Roy Jeffreys | A. M. Clardy | Bill Webb |
| Bud Cumberland | H. D. Dunn | J. P. Cox | Ben Williams |
| Dexter McDowell | J. V. Guthrie | Guy Barrett | Ervin Taylor |
| C. C. Mullings | B. D. Vaughn | Charlie Pechacek | Geo. Williston |
| N. C. Jordan | M. C. Tibbetts | Floyd Bull | J. G. Wheeler |
| W. R. Combs | Fred Browning | W. C. Breining | Ed Burg |
| W. T. Hill | Ed Brock | Mrs. R. C. Ogden | Scott Hall |
| Fred Woodall | W. B. Minter | E. Baccus | Bill Thompson |

While he served as commissioner, he was farming two tracts of land, the Walter Hagler's farm in Donley County and Mrs. McKinney's farm west of Pampa; also, he was contracting terracing work in Gray, Roberts and Hemphill Counties. Does this sound like he will stay on the job and be available at all times?

Arlie Carpenter has served as Commissioner of Precinct 1 for a total of 16 years, and during this time he has never missed attending a Regular Commissioner's Court Meeting. Arlie Carpenter stands on his record, and his vote on each issue is recorded in the Minutes of the Commissioner's Court. You are requested to inspect this record.

Arlie Carpenter respectfully requests your vote and support for the office of Commissioner of Precinct 1 in the coming election on November 6, 1956. His experience qualifies him for the job. He promises to be fair and just in all his decisions and to serve every person on an impartial basis.
