Pocketbook Untouched By Religious Revival

WASHINGTON (UP)—If this country is experiencing a religious revival, it apparently hasn't reached the pocketbook level.

Although church membership has reached an all-time high the generosity of Americans toward religious causes has not increased proportionately.

In 1950, according to government reports, Americans gave about $875 million to their churches and other religious organizations. That was a little bet-

4-H'ers Are Named Leadership Winners

Six Gray County 4-H Club members will attend the Texas 4-H Junior Leadership Training Laboratory at Bastrop Park, August 27 to September 1, as winners in the annual 4-H Junior Leadership program, it was announced by Knox Parr and Miss Doris Leggett, Extension Service district agents, today.

The Gray County winners in the statewide program are Carolyn Theresa Anderwald, Route 2, White Deer; Sue Evans and Nancy Yvonne Tate, Route 1, McLean; Robert Dean Anderwald, Route 2, White Deer; Alvin James Dauer, Star Route 1, Pampa, and Bob Weaver, Route 1, McLean. These outstanding Gray County 4-H'ers were presented certificates at a county-wide party held in the American Legion Hall in Pampa Thursday night. The presentations were made by Miss Pat Broyles, ass't. home demonstration agent; and Robert Adamson, ass't. county agricultural agent.

The leadership lab is directed by Extension Service personnel. The 4-H Junior Leadership program is sponsored by United Gas in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A. & M. College System.

Miss Anderwald, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderwald. She is a senior at White Deer High School and a member of the Wayside 4-H Club. Miss Anderwald has been in 4-H work for eight years, and her adult leader is Mrs. J. S. Fugus. She has won high honors for her work in the dress revue, bake show, and food demonstration. In 1955 she was the Gold Star Girl in Gray County, and last year she was County 4-H Queen. This year she has conducted a county 4-H record training school. In her local club she has served as president, reporter, vice president, and secretary. She has also served as vice president of the County 4-H Council.

Miss Evans, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Evans, is a senior at McLean High School and a member of the 4-H Club of that school. She has been in 4-H work for six years and her adult leader is Mrs. O. O. Tate Sr. She has received high awards in clothing, vegetable demonstrations, dairy foods and public speaking. Sue's 4-H activities and demonstrations include gardening, canning and freezing vegetables, leadership, public speaking, and dairy foods demonstrations. She has served as reporter, vice president, and secretary of her local club and has been a delegate to the County 4-H council.

Miss Tate, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Tate, Sr. She is a junior at McLean High, a member of the school's 4-H Club, and has been a 4-H'er for seven years. Mrs. Tate is her adult leader. She has received top awards in the dress revue for a number of years, and has taken honors for baking, dairy demonstration, and vegetable team competition. She has also been a delegate to the State 4-H Roundup. Her 4-H demonstrations include gardening and food preservation, bedroom improvement, leadership, recreation, and clothing. She is currently president of her local 4-H Club and has also served as vice president, reporter and council delegate. Miss Tate has served on many planning committees of the County 4-H Council, and has also been president of that group.

Robert Anderwald, 15, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderwald. He is in the tenth grade at White Deer High School and a member of the Pampa Junior High 4-H Club. He has been a 4-H'er for five years and his adult leader is Tom Veale. Robert, who has been active in swine projects, has displayed grand and reserve champion barrows at county shows, and has displayed grand champion pens of three and litter of six at the Amarillo show. He has also been awarded the county medal more than 1 per cent—1.17 per cent to be precise—of their total personal income after taxes.

In 1954, the most recent year which official figures have been compiled, Americans gave approximately $2.35 billion to religious organizations. That was 1.11 per cent of their total income after taxes, or a dab less than 1950.

Giving to churches has hovered around the figure of 1 per cent of income throughout the past quarter century.

Airman, Wife Are Held After Child's Death

AUSTIN (UP)—A 28-year-old airman home on leave from Japan and his wife were held in jail today in lieu of $10,000 bonds each on charges of murdering their blind, two-year-old daughter, whose slowness to learn to walk annoyed them.

The airman is Allen Cahill Williams, and his wife is Helen Lois, 20. The daughter, Lillian Kay, was found dead in her bed July 28. Police Capt. Beverly Laws said both parents had signed statements.

"They both said that they hit her with their hands and with a hairbrush," Laws said. "They said they were trying to teach her to walk."

"The father says the mother hit her in the face with her closed fist, but she denies it. Both admit slapping her with their open hand. The child had bruises on her face and all over her body."

The little girl lapsed into unconsciousness about 6 p. m. July 28, Laws said. But her parents did nothing about it and went to bed at 1 a. m. She was still unconscious when they got up next day, he said.

They had coffee, and the mother went across the street to the fire station and asked if she could use a telephone. Firemen tried to revive Lillian Kay, but she was dead.

McKeon Braces For . . .

Final Summations In Court Martial

By H. D. QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent
PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UP)—Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, backed by Leatherneck rank and file, the highest brass and a living Marine Corps legend—braced today for an end to his "death march" court martial.

Defense and prosecution counsels will deliver their final summations.

The court martial of seven combat-tested officers will begin its deliberations late today or early tomorrow. A quick verdict was expected.

They must decide whether McKeon is guilty or not guilty of manslaughter, oppressing troops and drinking on duty in the presence of a recruit. A fourth charge, drinking in a single enlisted men's barracks, has been admitted by the accused sergeant.

McKeon faces a possible sentence of six years and three months in prison and a dishonorable discharge.

McKeon had marched his sky-larking platoon of 74 teenage recruits into the muck and tidal waters of nearby Ribbon Creek on the night of April 8. Six recruits drowned in the panic, the tragedy triggered a national demand for examination and explanation of Marine Corps training methods.

Emile Zola Berman, McKeon's civilian counsel, contended that Marine Corps training methods, and not the accused drill instructor, was responsible for the drownings. The testimony of his parade of witnesses has rallied the non-commissioned officers of this base to the defense of the sergeant.

Lt. Gen. Lewis Burwell (Chester) Puller, the most decorated and revered of all Marines, belittled his defense of McKeon and harsh Marine training before a jam-packed court Thursday.

Puller may have scuttled the prosecution's case with his sternly emphatic statement that the night march into the swamps was good military training and tactics, and not oppression.

His chest ablaze with campaign ribbons, Puller told the court that Gen. Randolph McCall Pale, Marine Corps commandant, "agrees and regrets that this man was ever ordered to trial by general court martial."

Pale, in testimony which stunned the court Thursday, said he did not consider the march oppression. He said if punishment were up to him he would probably demote the sergeant one stripe, transfer him for "stupidity" and never allow him to drill troops again.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Those Democratic who think Adlai E. Stevenson, already has the presidential nomination sewed up are surveying a field of five as possible choices for second place on the ticket.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee put himself in the field this week by pulling out of the race for the presidential nomination and throwing his support to Stevenson. But both he and Stevenson denied there was any deal to give him the vice presidential nomination.

Current talk among Democrats here indicates a belief that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.), who broke precedent to become an avowed candidate, and Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) will be the chief contenders.

Kefauver Vote Puller
Here is a rundown on the five most discussed candidates:

Kefauver—In two campaigns for the presidential nomination, has shown great vote-pulling power at the grass roots and more appeal to farmers than Stevenson; many of his national convention delegates are urging that he be given second place if they are to swing to Stevenson; unpopular, however, with many party professionals and with some of his fellow senators with whom he would have to work if he were vice president.

ALBERT WOOLSON
... dies Thursday

Funeral With Military Honor For Union Vet

DULUTH, Minn. (UP)—The body of Albert Woolson, the last Union soldier, will lie in state today and Saturday before his funeral Monday with full military honors.

Woolson, 109, died in St. Luke's Hospital here Thursday at 10:45 a.m. EDT to pass the entire armies of Lincoln, Grant and Sherman into history. Death was attributed to lung congestion which brought on a coma into which he lapsed early Saturday.

Although Woolson's heart fought gallantly for life and rallied the old campaigner at times when the end seemed near, doctors knew he had no chance to survive.

Only Crosses Remain
With his death, all that was left of the Union army which fought to preserve the federal union were rows of white crosses in military cemeteries and statues on battlefields like Gettysburg, Shiloh and Bull Run.

Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago announced Woolson would be given full military honors at his funeral with Lt. Col. Augustine P. Donnelly, Fifth Army chaplain, officiating at the services.

Woolson, who joined the Union army at the age of 16, will be buried in Parkhill Cemetery in this Lake Superior port.

The Fifth Army Band, a color guard, military pallbearers and a National Guard escort — 109 men strong for each year of Woolson's life — will accompany the casket to the grave.

Air National Guard aircraft will fly overhead during the funeral procession and members of the sons of the Union Veterans Organization including a wife and drum corps from Akron, Ohio, will meet the casket at the cemetery gates.

Defense Officials Attending
Representatives of the Defense Department also were to attend services.

A living party of eight men will fire a salvo in salute to Woolson at the grave as taps are played.

President Eisenhower expressed sorrow when informed of Woolson's death.

"By the death of Albert Woolson," the President said, "the American people have lost the last personal link with the Union army. His passing brings sorrow

No Action Planned, However, Unless 24-Nation Meet Fails

By WILLIAM SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON — UP — Britain and France prepared a Middle East expeditionary force today in expectation Egypt would rebuff Western plans to put the Suez Canal under international control.

Anglo-French leaders made it clear they would not act unless a 24-nation conference starting Aug. 16 fails to restore international authority over the West European lifeline.

In the meantime the British high command began organizing an amphibious force for action in the canal zone and both France and England rushed ships and new jet planes to the eastern Mediterranean.

Britain chose Lt. Gen. Sir Francis Festing, former commander of British forces in the Suez Canal zone, to head the amphibious assault force. He is familiar with the entire Suez setup.

France chose Gen. Jean Gilles, 54, commander of the French 25th Airborne Division and inspector-general of airborne troops, to command the French forces and said he would use British bases at Cyprus and Libya in coordination with the British. Gilles, who won fame for bold airborne strikes in Indochina, was commander of French troops in Laos.

Takes Big Preparations
Britain began calling up reserves, dispatched squadrons of twin-jet Canberra bombers to the Middle East, began taking war vessels out of mothballs and alerted units in Cyprus for action.

Anglo-French leaders, while condemning Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, made it clear they would respect U. S. wishes and hold off military action until all else fails. But they were approaching a near wartime footing.

Tickets To Rodeo Are Going Fast

Tickets for the Top of Texas Rodeo, to be held at the Rodeo Grounds in Recreation Park next week, were going fast at Rodeo Headquarters this morning, according to Murray Sealey who is in charge of ticket sales.

Reserve seat tickets are available for each of the performances. Sealey stated, but the supply for Wednesday and Saturday night is small.

According to Sealey, anyone desiring reserve seat tickets for any performance of the rodeo should purchase them by Saturday afternoon in order to have a choice of seats.

Plenty of general admission tickets are available for the performances of the rodeo, Wednesday through Saturday, and an additional 500 bleacher seats are being erected on the north end of the grounds, Bob Andis, president of the Rodeo Association, announced this morning.

The prices of the general admission seats are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12. Reserve seats are 50 cents in addition to the general admission price.

If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it. Lewis Wade, (Adv.)

Aspirants' Comparative Strength
He said he hopes the delegates will then vote for Stevenson. Most of them are expected to do so, although the delegation is not bound by the unit rule and Harriman may pick up some of its votes.

A United Press tabulation shows Stevenson now has 497 indicated first ballot votes to Harriman's 166.

But in Chicago, Harriman's headquarters claimed that the governor has 341 "definite first ballot votes."

Democratic liberals: some Stevenson backers believe their candidate has become so identified with the South that a balanced ticket calls for an aggressive liberal on the ticket, as the leader of the 1948 convention fight which caused a Southern walkout, he is viewed with much suspicion by Southern voters, although he has joined the "team" and made his peace with many Southern senators and party leaders.

Kennedy—A Roman Catholic who presumably would appeal to this religious group where Stevenson was supposed to be weak in 1952 because of his divorce; rates as a liberal who has appeal to some of the Democratic conservative; is opposed by Democrats who believe he would be weak in the farm belt and by some who fear the religious issue would be injected into the campaign in heavily Protestant areas.

Sen. Albert Gore (Tenn.)—Viewed as a moderate with appeal to both the New Deal and Southern wings of the party; opposition would regard him as too much in the Stevenson image and as one who would provide no balance for the ticket except in a geographic sense.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. of New York—A Catholic and a liberal with the advantages and disadvantages which each of these qualifications carries; unlike the others named, he has no congressional experience to give him a presidential running start as a presidential agent in Congress.

SMILEY BURNETTE
... Pampa bound

Cowboy Comic Classed As 1-Man Show

Smiley Burnette, cowboy comic, coming to Pampa to be in the Top of Texas Rodeo, rates among the few people who are classed as a one-man show. A few years ago Smiley took several entertainers along to help do the show, but when there wasn't time to do all the things the audience knew Smiley could do, they raised such a fuss that the entertainers were sent home and Smiley was left to do the show all by himself.

When asked about his show, Smiley had this to say, "In the 170 pictures that I have made, one would think I would be clear out of tricks to do on the stage that no one has seen, but I have never left the studio see some of the things I can do. I hold them back to present on the stage as surprises."

"For instance, I do several sound effects like outboard motors, flies, bees, airplanes and racing cars. Also I sometimes do a lot of tricks on the piano when one is available. The studio didn't know until two years ago that I could even play one. Of course I make a specialty of making people laugh. Singers are 30 cents a dozen. I spend most of my time on the stage making people laugh. That's what they need. They all have some concern or trouble of their own, and they are hungry to laugh all the way down to their shoes. I try to see that they do it."

"If the audience is mostly kids, I have a scad of jokes that are sure fire to make kids scream. And the same for adults. I know that if a gag does not get a laugh, it's not me, it's the audience, because I have tried it out hundreds of times before and it would not be left in if it wasn't funny. In all the years I have been facing audiences I have to confess that I have as much fun as they do because laughter is catching."

People attending Smiley's performance can be assured of seeing an unusual personality. He is a master of over 100 musical instruments and composer of 300 songs among them "Hominy Grits," "Mama Don't Allow No Music," "Ridin' Down the Canyon," "Lasy Day" and many others.

He can be seen in person at the Top of Texas Rodeo next week.

"God Bless You, Yankee . . ."
Albert Woolson, Last Survivor
Of Abe's Civil War Army, Is Dead

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 3.—UP—Albert Woolson, the last survivor of Abe Lincoln's Civil War army, died Thursday at the age of 109. The old soldier, an obscure drummer boy who outlived 2 million other "boys in blue," ended a glorious, bloody chapter in military history when his last breath left him at 9:45 a.m. ed.

Woolson had been in coma at St. Luke's hospital for five days, ever since early Saturday morning. His tough old heart fought for life with a strength that astounded his doctors. But they knew there wasn't a chance—that he would survive the fatal lung congestion.

Woolson's death wipes out the last living vestige of the armies which fought and died to preserve the federal union.

Only White Crosses

All that is left are the rows of white crosses in military cemeteries and the stone and bronze statues on such battlefields as Gettysburg, Bull Run, Shiloh and the Virginia wilderness.

In the South, three old men survived of the Confederate armies which tried to beat the Yankees and failed gallantly.

They are John Salling, 110, of Siant, Va., Walter W. Williams, 114 of Franklin, Tex., and William A. Lundy, 108, Laurel Hill, Fla. When Salling heard Woolson was gone, he said "God bless you Yankee. I hope you go to rest. I hope to see you sometime."

Ulysses S. Grant III, descendant of the greatest of the Union generals, said at Clinton, N.Y., that the death "marks the end of a great epic in our history."

"May he rest in peace and rejoin the happy comradeship of the boys in blue who preceded him," Grant said.

Woolson, who never actually saw battle in the war, will probably be buried Monday at Parkhill cemetery in this iron shipping port on the banks of Lake Superior.

A military escort — 109-strong for every year of Woolson's life—will accompany the casket. Six enlisted Army men will be pallbearers and military planes will fly over Duluth. The old man's last salute will be taps and a salvo from an eight-man firing party.

In his last years, Woolson loved his cigars, birthdays, the newspapers he could barely read, and visits with old friends. On Memorial Day, established in memory of his fallen comrades, he generally led the town's parade. But on last Memorial Day he entered the hospital for the last time.

One of his old delights, the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, was long a thing of the past. The organization, once 400,000-strong, could muster only Woolson and six other oldsters when it held its last encampment at Indianapolis seven years ago.

Ranks Closed

Then the other GAR members began to fall away until, with the death of 111-year-old James A. Hard of Rochester, N.Y., in 1953, Woolson was the only Union soldier left. He was the GAR's senior officer by that time.

Woolson's death means the last of the GAR. It also wipes out the nation's civil war veterans pension fund, which paid Woolson $129 a month for his service with the Union.

Woolson was born in Watertown, N.Y., on Feb. 11, 1847. He spent his youth in the East and once heard Lincoln debate the slavery question. When the war came and Woolson's father lost a leg at Shiloh, his son — now a 16-year-old Minnesota boy — took his place.

Young Woolson joined the colors on Oct. 4, 1864, when the war was almost over. He became a drummer boy in Company C of the First Minnesota Heavy Artillery and went to Tennessee, where he served in various garrisons.

On Sept. 27, 1865, the young soldier was mustered out and returned to Minnesota to take up a hard pioneer life.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

THE LIFE OF a newspaper woman holds lots of surprises, adventures, and unexpected trips and acquaintances, believe me. Now that my work here at The News is drawing to a close and I look back over these past few weeks, I know I wouldn't have taken anything for the experience.

There were many times I just knew I wouldn't get my copy in by the deadline, times I made five phone calls to find out one name, times I took pictures and they didn't turn out, and times I dressed and drove places to get stories and there were no stories.

Then there were the times I sat in on courts, attended club meetings and banquets, listened to gubernatorial speeches, and covered fires and wrecks. I never could name all the things I did, all the places I went, or all the people I met, but I enjoyed every bit of it. As for knowledge, journalism expands over a limitless amount. Each new story brings in facts and figures a good newspaper person should know. Talking to Fire Chief Ernest Winborne about the work of firemen; Police Chief Jim O'Conner about law; Mrs. Libby Shotwell about Red Cross; Ray Duncan about the Jaycees; Mrs. Hattie Holt about the Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. Jim Nation about golf; Yorel Harris about Boy Scouts; J. E. Williams about the old days in Pampa; A. A. Schuneman about banking, and W. J. Ragsdale about employment has taught me so much. This could go on and on

Manners Make Friends

If you live in a neighborhood where others take pride in keeping their yards looking beautiful it isn't fair to them to let yours become neglected even though it is your land. Your neighbors have a right to look at it. One neglected yard can hurt the appearance of a whole neighborhood.

Baptist Church WMU Has Western Meal

The Hobart Street Baptist Church WMU circles met for the monthly luncheon meeting in the church dining room. The luncheon was carried out with a western theme.

Following lunch, Mrs. Mage Keyser conducted the business meeting. The Luna Terry Circle with the Girl's Auxiliary presented the program. The meeting was closed with a prayer.

A summer night with "nothing to do" can profitably be used as a night to catch up on beauty. A face cleansing (clef) with baby oil takes off the day's makeup and relieves sun-caused dryness. The oil stays on all evening. Fingernails get a five-minute soak (center) in baby oil. Then the cuticles are rubbed with a rough terry towel. Even ragged cuticles can be soaked into softness this way. White baby lotion and a rest with the feet up round out the evening of pampering.

Make Yourself An Evening Date With A Baby Oil Beauty Touch-Up

By ALICIA HART

NEA Beauty Editor

Every girl turns up with a night she didn't expect to have on her hands. A date gets sick or the party's called off or the bridge game folds. And there she is with a whole lovely evening to herself.

Somehow, the mere fact that she didn't expect to have this night, fact that her dress is pressed and lovely, the fact that she was looking forward to her original plans—these things make the evening not lovely at all.

When they were much younger, women solved the problem of what to do with such an evening by messing in mother's jewelry or by painting the back of the bedroom door cerise or experimenting with cutting off a pair of slacks. The results were awful and the evening depressing.

But the mood of disappointment and discontent hangs on. It makes it impossible for a woman to do the laundry or that much needed mending or mend the baby's toy. It seems too mean to do such bothersome tasks during an evening planned for fun.

The most satisfactory way to spend an evening is on one's self. First, take off all the makeup with baby oil and cotton balls. Work until the last cotton ball comes away clean. Then cover the face with a fine film of baby oil and settle into the tub for a good long soak with suds and bath oil.

After the bath, get into a comfortable bathrobe and settle into an easy chair with all the manicure equipment, a mirror and hairbrush.

Remove the old nail polish and shape the nails. Soak the nails in a shallow dish of baby oil for about five minutes. A rough terry towel should be used to rub the cuticles back.

Give the hair the long-neglected hundred or more strokes with the hairbrush. Work up from the back of the neck. Put the head down between the knees and brush hard from the scalp to the ends.

Use a good lotion, like a baby one, on the hands and rub it in well. Rest with the feet up while doing this.

And then get to bed early and don't read too long. This is an evening well spent and most women find it doesn't leave them with the sense of self-irritation that painting the door cerise does.

Local Girl Honored With Bridal Shower

The former Miss Nancy Coley was complimented with a bridal shower in the parlor of the First Methodist Church recently. Hostesses were Mmes. Coy Palmer, Cecil Williams, Aubrey Jones, Frank Metcham, G. E. Groninger and Waldon Moore.

The honoree was presented a corsage of white feathered carnations and her mother, Mrs. Robert Coley, and the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. J. D. Wilson of Canadian, were presented with white carnation pompon corsages.

The serving table was covered with an organza cloth over turquoise satin and the centerpiece was an arrangement of white asters with turquoise ribbon and tulle. Flanking the centerpiece were crystal appointments and turquoise candles.

Serving the double wedding ring cake decorated with the bride's chosen colors was Miss Johnny Lee Smith. Miss Nita Joe Massengale presided at the punch bowl.

RUTH MILLET

How long have you been putting off doing the things you really want to do? Are you kidding yourself that you will do this "when the children are older," do that when "George is making more money," do something else when "we get a home of our own"?

No matter how long it has been it's been too long.

You have been wasting your time, living in the future instead of in the present. You are refusing to admit that you really are just making excuses.

You may not be able to do exactly what you want to do right now, or get exactly what you want to get. But if you give your wants a little thought you'll see that if you can't get exactly what you want you can try for a reasonable substitute.

You don't need to put off doing things with your husband "until the children are older."

If you plan, you can work in a weekend trip now and then, or your husband has a day off.

You don't have to put off fixing up the house until George is making more money.

Together, the two of you can do countless things to make your home more livable and more attractive. Why wait until you wish if you can make small improvements right now?

You may live in a small apartment or a rented house that isn't very convenient or attractive. But you don't have to put off entertaining friends until your setup is just the way you want it.

You can figure out numerous ways of entertaining a few people if you really want to. So why not be strengthening your friend ships right now instead of kidding yourself that you can't return hospitality until you get that dream house?

Presiding at the guest register was Miss Lynn Followell and Misses Jo Wanna English and Marilyn Myatt assisted in the gift room. Music was furnished throughout the afternoon by Miss Cynthia Duncan.

Approximately 90 guests attended or sent gifts. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. D. Wilson, Mrs. William Flint, Mrs. Rhea Wilson, all of Canadian and Mrs. R. J. Saylor Jr. of White Deer.

More than 20 youth participated in the Youth Activities Week, which will be climaxed Sunday night when the youth present the entire program for the regular worship service at the church.

'Fine Print' Drags Out Steel Strike
By ROBERT G. SHORTAL, United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—"Fine print" non-economic contract details dragged out today the "inevitable" settlement of the nation's crippling steel strike.

David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers president, declared Thursday night, "today will be the big day."

But another top union official told the United Press: "We thought we would have this thing in the bag yesterday."

"Our goal for ending the strike is today, although some hitch may prolong the inevitable until tomorrow."

Negotiators of both sides worked into the night Thursday to end the industry's costliest and third longest strike, entering its 34th day. Both sides said formal signing of the contracts needed only agreement on non-economic details.

Crucible Signs Contract
The 650,000-member steelworkers union formally ended its strike against the nation's 13th largest basic steel producer Thursday night.

Crucible Steel Company's 13,000 workers in three states went back to the mills today with the signing of a three-year pact in the strike's first major break.

Crucible makes specialty steel at plants in Midland and Pittsburg, Pa., Syracuse, N.Y., and Harrison, N.J.

One still smaller steel company, Lukens Steel, had signed with the union Monday. Lukens employs 4,000 at Coatesville, Pa.

"While Crucible may be the 13th in production, it is the first to sign with the USW," McDonald said at the agreement ceremony.

The week long delay in ending the strike which was "settled" last Friday caused grumbling and resentment on both sides of the still-active picket lines.

"I'll believe it when I see it," said one Pittsburgh picket Thursday. "We were led to believe it has all over last week, but we're still here."

An official of one of the big steel companies said a "serious blunder" was made when negotiators made a "big show" of signing a basis of agreement a week ago for ending the strike.

"They led the public to believe the strike was over and it wasn't," the management critic said. He intimated that McDonald had "bluffed" the big steel industry into commitments while still important, remaining clause remained to be worked out.

The nation's steelworkers have been on strike since midnight June 30. The walkout has cost an estimated $2 billion so far and 10 million tons of lost steel production. NS Ins 1-18 Library Picnic

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

C. HERBERT LOWE, Pastor
Seventh Day Adventist Church
Pampa, Texas

"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." 1 John 2:15.

In this statement the apostle sets forth a serious indictment of the lovers of the world. Why is "the love of the Father" not in the lover of the world? The answer is that the natural consequence of love for the world is separation from God. Furthermore, it is impossible for any to discern the truth while the world has his affections. The apostle James goes so far as to say that "friendship with the world is enmity with God." James 4:4.

Whenever the world comes between an individual and God, the vision is beclouded, the sensibilities are benumbed to such a degree that it is impossible for him to discern sacred things.

God's appeal to all such persons is: "Draw nigh unto God, and He will draw nigh unto you. Cleanse your hands ye sinners, and purify your hearts ye doubleminded. Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness." James 2:8,9.

Those who have stained their hands with the pollution of the world are required to cleanse themselves from its stains.

Any who think they can serve the world and love God are doubleminded. One may think he can serve God and mammon, but though he professes to love Christ, he has lost all sense of his obligation to God. He may think he can have this world and gain the world to come, but he will lose both unless he cleanses his hands and purifies his heart through obedience to the pure principles of truth.

"Greater love hath no man than this; that a man lay down his life for his friends." Said Jesus. And how are we to know that we are assuredly his friends? "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you."

What Is Union Goal?

The leaders of the combined AFL-CIO announced some time ago that a vast new drive would be underway soon, for the enrollment of the million of free men and women who do not as yet bow to the union. The announced target was two-fold. Main organized effort was to be centered in the South with retail clerks across the land receiving a good deal of coercive attention.

At the moment we are not familiar with the success or lack of it that the unions have been experiencing among the clerks. But, the big push to blitz southerners into the labor camp has apparently come a cropper. In case after case the southern workers have given the labor bosses the bum's rush.

But the announced intent of the slave masters of this sort of human cargo has caused us to peer into the membership records of the bemused to discover what the situation truly is.

Back in 1950 labor bosses were claiming, although they never got around to opening their records, that they controlled some 16 million souls. Now, in 1956, these same dictators indicated that they hold some 16 to 16½ million workers in thrall. In six years, this is a pretty poor showing, especially when the labor bosses can truly boast that they have the help of the federal government and all manner of immoral and compulsive viciousness on their side.

As things stand, about one in every four gainfully employed workers submits to the dues-extracting fingers of the labor bosses. This is approximately the same ratio which pertained six years ago. And, in view of the resistance presently meeting the labor bosses' blandishments we are beginning to wonder just where the union movement is heading. Could it be that unionism is reaching what economists term the point of diminishing returns?

Let's look at it this way. A good many of the persons who surrender their freedom to the big boys, do so under the belief that they can attain certain advantages over their fellows by joining. Whether there are actually ANY advantages to be gained is not the subject with which we are presently concerned. The point is that some persons seem to think so.

But for a person to have certain privileges and advantages over his fellows, it must follow that these other fellows do not have these privileges or advantages. If we look at the unions in this light we will see immediately that they are not concerned with bettering the condition of the working man as a whole. Instead, unions are an exclusive club which depend for their exclusiveness on the fact that everybody DOESN'T belong.

What would unions be like if everyone did belong? Obviously, they would amount to nothing. If a union couldn't promise that its members would get more than non-members, how could it possibly operate? It stands to reason that there must come a point in unionizing efforts where it would be to the advantage of unions to reflect membership.

From a standpoint of economics, while it may be of temporary advantage to a union for everyone to be robbed so that a limited number can receive the benefits of that robbery, it must be that if everyone is robbed, so that everyone can benefit by the robbery, that no benefit at all could possibly accrue. This is the fallacy contained in every subsidy.

If many are robbed for the benefit of a few, that is one thing. But if everyone is robbed, and in turn, everyone robbed must be rewarded, then the purse will be empty and the robbery becomes futility.

Union leaders have given no indication that they are aware of this inescapable result of anything approaching total membership. But the fact must remain, whether they understand it or not.

For those who believe in the American ideal of a classless society, the class consciousness engendered by unions should come as a distinct shock. For this class consciousness not only separates employe from employer, but it separates worker from worker, to the harm of all.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Sure Freckle Prevention is:
5:30 out of the Sun.

Many people, including some men, have asked how they could prevent or get rid of freckles.

Q — I find it embarrassing when I begin to show blotches on my skin. I've heard of some pills that might correct this, but wonder about them. Can you tell me? — Mrs. R. R.

A — It is assumed that the blotches on the skin are freckles and result from deposits of pigment in the skin as a reaction to summer sunlight. These will appear only on portions of exposed skin and generally fade partially or entirely in the winter. There is no pill which will remove them and lotions or ointments designed to bleach them have little effect. It is possible to lessen the freckles in some cases by use of sunburn lotions and ointments which filter out certain of the sun's rays. Often, freckles can be concealed by cosmetic preparations.

Finally, a person who has a great many freckles, and who is distressed by them, can usually make them less conspicuous by staying in the shade.

Q — What is the difference between a chocolate and an ordinary cyst of the ovary? — S.M.

A — A cyst is a kind of sac usually containing a liquid or semi-solid. A chocolate cyst is one which contains a dark-colored liquid which is really retained blood.

Q — Will you please say something about a "D and C" operation? — Reader.

A — The full name for this is dilatation and curettage. This means that the cervix or neck of the womb is scraped and the inside wall is scraped either for purposes of treatment (usually of some menstrual disorder) or for diagnostic reasons.

Q — Several months ago I found it necessary to see my doctor because of tingling in my fingers and toes and tingling of my legs. He diagnosed anemia and I am receiving vitamin B12. Also, for several years I have had some arthritis in my hands but the B12 has helped me. I still suffer some numbness of my hands during the night and wonder if it could be arteriosclerosis. — Mrs. R. D.

A — One would suspect that the writer has pernicious anemia as well as arthritis of the hands. Pernicious anemia is often associated with numbness and tingling of the limbs. Hence the trouble Mrs. D is having may come from either the anemia or the arthritis or both; she does not need to seek a further cause in arteriosclerosis.

Q — I understand that people engaged in the painting of luminous dials with radium are subject to tumors of the bone. My little girl has been chewing on a watch dial painted with luminous paint and I wonder if this constitutes a serious risk. — Worried Reader.

A — It is true that years ago when the painting of luminous watch dials first began, there was serious difficulty. Safety measures are now in effect, however, and I have not heard of any such difficulty for years. There is little chance that your little girl will get enough radium from a single dial to do her any harm, but she should be discouraged from the practice.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Political Helplessness of Business Hurts Everybody

III. The above heading is so important that I want to continue to quote and comment from the General Electric's News Letter issued to their management. I quote:

"Is Business in Politics Now?"

"This might not be important if business and politics were wholly separate. But the businessman who says he's not involved in politics is kidding himself—dangerously. He may not be active in party politics. He may not read what's going on in his State Capitol or in Washington. He may not even vote.

"But whether he's politically inert or not, a businessman is in politics up to his ears. In this era in which big government delves deep into the lives of everyone, affecting his welfare from birth to death, no businessman can logically say that what politicians do or fail to do is strictly their affair—not his. A head-in-sand approach to the ill-repute of business with both the public and the politicians can only endanger business and all the people business serves.

"What Must Be Done?"

"What's to be done? How can the people be shown that the function of a good business is to serve them, not to take advantage of them? How can business get it across that the size of a company is a measure of its competitive success in serving people, not of its ability to oppress them? What can business do, not selfishly but with the public interest in view, to bring about favorable public attitudes toward the wonderfully productive role of business in our society?"

"Finally how can the politicians be shown that failing business is bad politics, the route to retirement—not to re-election?"

"Fortunately for the nation, there is an answer. And the answer is not to try to silence the opposition in our democracy, the right of anyone to seek his ends through lawful means should be unquestioned. To argue that the opposition to business has no right to fight is to undermine our democratic society.

"A Two-Part Program"

"The answer to businessmen's political problems is to get politically important themselves — to convince the public and its representatives that for the good of everyone, businessmen also must be listened to, encouraged and treated fairly. The road to political effectiveness lies along a two-part program of first deserving and getting the respect of a majority of the people, and then, second, of making sure that businessmen's ideas of right and wrong are forced to be reckoned with by any politician intent on getting elected or re-elected.

"Part I—Deserve and Get Public Support"

"Part one of the program is non-political. But it's an essential prerequisite for political effectiveness, as for operating effectiveness as well. This means businessmen must behave right, make sure no general complaints about business are justified, and equally sure any exceptions to this are cleared up promptly and voluntarily. They must turn out good products, and advertise and price them fairly. They must pay their people right, and treat them right. They must do an ever-better job of satisfying people's proper hopes for dignity and extra human satisfactions from their work."

The writer of this brochure is a little vague in the last paragraph. He does not specify what business must not do.

It is hard to believe that business can properly defend business unless they, themselves, have clean hands.

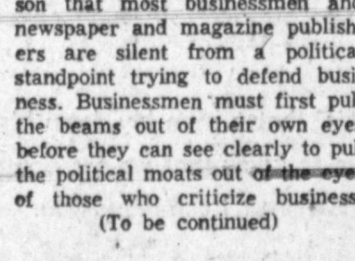

The writer of this article does not tell how businessmen can successfully defend and explain the benefits of private competitive enterprise who advocate protective tariffs or laws that permit them to borrow money at less than a free market rate, nor business concerns that enter into a union or closed-shop contract, or even an open-shop contract, that take away from a single, solitary employe his right to make an individual bargain. It's difficult to see how businessmen can defend business if they are a party to anything that gives them or any one else special privileges.

And undoubtedly that's the reason that most businessmen and newspaper and magazine publishers are silent from a political standpoint trying to defend business. Businessmen must first pull the beams out of their own eyes before they can see clearly to pull the political moats out of the eyes of those who criticize business.

Another New York-Miami Air Route Being Sought

WASHINGTON — Two of the nation's financiers — Floyd Odium and Howard Hughes — are involved in Northeast Airlines current effort to operate a third New York-Miami air route in competition with Eddie Rickenbacker's Eastern Airlines and Ted Baker's National Airlines.

Two other prominent figures are involved in the controversy before the Civil Aeronautics Board, which may be carried to the White House because of its politico-financial implications. George E. Allen, President Eisenhower's crony and Gettysburg neighbor, is a director of Atlas, Odium's huge investment corporation, which controls Northeast Airlines.

Jacqueline Cochran, Odium's wife and the nation's foremost aviatrix, is a director and partial owner of Atlas. She is also a Republican candidate for Congress from California. Hughes, multi-millionaire plane builder and motion picture producer, and largest stockholder in Trans World Air Lines, recently merged his Hollywood enterprise, RKO, with Atlas.

Northeast is one of eight airlines which has asked CAB to permit it to share the New York-Miami run, an extremely profitable and congested route, with Eddie Rickenbacker's Eastern Airlines and Ted Baker's National Airlines.

If granted the license, Northeast would probably hook up with Pan American's South American extension at Miami. However, Pan American also seeks a New York-Miami grant on its own behalf.

Tripe has drummed up strong support throughout New England for this deal. With a display of propaganda which violates CAB regulations, he has enlisted in his campaign such contrasting and opposing figures as Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

In fact, every New England delegation on Capitol Hill backs the Northeast-Pan American venture.

None of these men, it seems, know the inside story of the proposal, as CAB experts see it. It is regarded in aviation circles as an operation in high finance.

Odium has picked up northeast airlines at an average price of $3 over a period of years, according to CAB files. It has been listed as high as $12 during the past year, presumably because of its current expansion effort and prospects.

He owns 379,918 shares of common in Atlas, which has a total of 8,890,000 shares under the recent reorganization, and he has 968,172 under option warrants. His wife also has a considerable interest. Hughes' Atlas holdings total 961,618 shares. Allen's Atlas holdings are not known. It has been charged at CAB hearings that Hughes has agreed to permit Odium to vote his shares.

Northeast Airlines itself is a losing proposition. It is worth about $6,000,000, and under the Government's guarantee of an 8 per cent return, it nets about $400,000 a year in profits. But — and this is the salient point for heavily burdened taxpayers — it must dredge down $1,800,000 each year in Federal subsidies to pay this $600,000 in profits.

National Airlines has offered $5.58 a share for the stock which Odium bought for an average of $5. National, which has been off the subsidy rolls for several years, unlike Northeast and Pan American, also promised to absorb Northeast's annual subsidy of $1,800,000, saving that amount for the taxpayers. Odium, however, would not even discuss the transaction.

Rickenbacker and Baker deny that there is need for a third line between New York and Miami. They argue that the air space down the Atlantic Coast is overcrowded now, and they envisage possibility of another Grand Canyon catastrophe, National and Eastern, both subsidy free, have ordered more than $500,000,000 worth of new turbo-prop and jet planes. A CAB examiner has reported that a third competitor might throw them back on Federal relief.

We might have much less JUVENILE DELINQUENCY if juvenile delinquents who don't want to be educated had to go to work for a living instead of being forced by the government to HANG AROUND A SCHOOL until they get to be a certain age. Any kid who really wants an education can get it by makin' passing grades.

The most encouraging headline I've seen recently read, "Optimism Favors the Death Penalty."

That gives you a general idea of the sort of fix we're in. But our scholars strive constantly to keep the boy, they were gettin' headlines for, that Queen Elizabeth I of England was a man. The Spanish government then spoiled things by publishing the reports of Elizabeth's doctors, who had been in the pay of the Spanish Ambassador. They made pretty dull reading, but any bookworm who plowed through them came out pretty convinced that the Queen was a woman. At first, the scholars tried to get off the hook by bolting that King Alfonso had forged all the evidence. But he, though pleasant, was indolent, and it was hard to see why he would sit up all night forgin' antique Spanish and early English when there was nothin' to be gained from it. There was a great lull in scholastic publicity for a while until, along about the time I got married, some smart cookie came up with the idea that Benedict Arnold wasn't a traitor. The University of Ohio lauded that up by buyin' and publishin' the "Sir Henry Clinton Papers" from the heirs of the British general that Arnold sold out to. Since then the scholars have been tryin' to prove Shakespeare didn't write Shakespeare.

There is no code of ethics among Turkish merchants. Not toward their rivals, anyway. They all insist that the other fellow's jewels are window glass, that his leather will rot before you get it home, that his scales are rigged, and that he is just one jump ahead of the police. And there is no use asking one merchant for directions to the store of another. He knows, all right, but he will shrug his shoulders as if he never heard of

Arrive In Turkey On First Of The Month

By HENRY McLEMORE

ISTANBUL — If you are planning to visit Turkey you would be wise to arrange it so that you arrive on the first day of the month.

Then, having arrived on the first, make it a point to be the first customer in a shop after the doors are opened. This will insure you a bargain, no matter what you are buying. There is a deep-rooted superstition among Turkish merchants that the first customer of the day — and his feeling is tripled when the day is the first of the month — must not be allowed to get off the premises without buying something.

If he misses this sale, the merchant feels that hard luck will be his lot for days, and to prevent it he will practically give away his merchandise. The only thing the customer has to be sure of is that he really wants something when he walks into the store. There is no such thing as saying a polite "No, thank you, Not today," and walking out. He will be implored to stay, and if that doesn't look as if it will work, the merchant will literally block the door with his body, threaten to yank down the shutters and seal the buyer in.

For the visitor from a country where the fixed price is accepted, and there is no such thing as bargaining, buying in Turkey is an experience, to say the least. This is doubly true in the Grand Bazaar, where the fat cat askdron bears no relation whatsoever to the selling price.

At first, the American buyer feels self-conscious, and hesitates to laugh in a merchant's face when he quotes a price — but not for long. He soon catches on to two things: one being that the opening bid is just to get things going. The second is that the Turkish seller would be terribly disappointed if there were no haggling. He doesn't want you to pay the first price and walk out. That takes away all the fun of doing business. The merchant wants you to sit down, share two or three cups of coffee with him, tell him about America, about where you are from, how you like Turkey, what made you come to Turkey, how long you are going to stay, and where you are going next.

All this time you bargain. If he opens with, say, ten Turkish pounds, you laugh and offer two pounds. He knows that is too low, and he knows you know it is too low. Finally, after what may be hours of arguing, a compromise is reached. It is usually about half the original price.

They tell about a very ordinary sort of fellow who got suddenly rich by striking oil, and who got away with his money — headed and snuggled, always trying to impress those with whom he came in contact with his great importance.

One day he rushed into the railway station, laid a twenty-dollar bill down at the ticket seller's window, and said: "Follow — Give me a ticket. Ticket-agent—Where to?"

"Follow — Anywhere. If I don't make no difference, I got business all over."

Majors Launch Plan To Save Minor Loop Levels

NEW YORK (UP)—Major league baseball launched an all-out effort today to save the game at the minor league grass roots level.

A six man committee plunged into the job immediately after Commissioner Ford Frick assigned it to the task with a directive that if the minors should collapse, the entire structure of organized baseball would be threatened.

By ED DUDLEY

Written for NEA Service

Most golfers have as their major flaw the grip.

The interlocking grip is mastered by most. The little finger of the right hand overlaps the forefinger of the left. The left thumb fits into the hollow of the right hand. The right thumb runs down the center of the shaft.

Once past this, the duffer goes wrong. He grips the left hand too weakly, the right too strong or vice versa.

The idea of the grip is to get the "feel" without being tense.

The hands should work together as you swing the club, the right pulling, the left pushing. Poor balance between the two gives you a bad grip.

At the start, I used a baseball-type grip. This gave me more power, but less control. I switched to the overlapping grip and have been a better golfer since.

One other common fault of the average golfer is the grip on himself. If you can't hold your hands on a golf club well, then why not hold yourself together, too? A misadvised shot isn't a felony.

Don't go haywire when it happens.

Confidence is most important. The player must depend on his own efforts. Confidence can be developed only through thought and study.

Oilers Flip Indians In Opener

Take 16-10 Decision

The Pampa Oilers put their scoring attack in high gear as they massacred the Midland Indians, 16-10 at Oiler Park, Thursday night.

Flashy southpaw for the Oilers, Chuck Bogan picked up his seventh win against only two setbacks but he had to help from the sturdy ace right-hander Buddy Woods who came on in the seventh.

Bogan in his hurling stint for the Oilers fanned only two Midland batters and gave up four walks. Woods struck out two and gave up only one walk in his brief appearance on the mound for the locals.

The Oilers fine third baseman Johnny Bruza and the dashing center - fielder Len Tucker paced the local blasting barrage. Bruza potted two round trippers and went two for four at the plate. Tucker was two for three. Len's blows were all singles but the fleet-footed center fielder for the Oilers added another stolen base to his list.

Midland started off the game both offensively and defensively like they were going to completely baffle the Oilers for the night. The Indians sent home runs in both the first and second frames to take a 2 to 0 lead before the Oilers could get their booming bats to go.

The Indians starting hurler Fred Hoffman kept the Oilers in check until one out in the third frame when the Oilers finally cut loose on the visiting hurler.

Pampa finally got their firing attack going in the third as Bruza smacked a homer with Tucker on base. Tucker had got on base with a walk.

The Oilers really came to life in the fourth and fifth innings as they rambled home six and five runs respectively. Bruza added his second four bagger of the night which occurred in the fourth. Jim Robinette and Jim Martin potted round trippers for the Oilers in the fifth.

Midland scraped home two tallies in the fourth. Glen Selbo doubled and Juan Inaguirre doubled Selbo in. Then Ike Jackson blasted a double enabling Inaguirre to race home.

The Indians added a lone marker in the sixth. In the seventh frame the visitors fired home five big runs their biggest scoring plunge in the game and had the tying runs on base when the Oilers player-manager A. B. Cross summoned Woods from the bullpen to take over the local hurling chores. Woods mastered the Indian batting strength as he kept the visitors in check through his brief duty on the mound for Pampa. The Indians left three men stranded in that seventh inning uprising.

Thompson came on to relieve starter Hoffman in the seventh as he blanked the Oilers in the seventh and allowed only two scores in the eighth in his fling on the hill for Midland.

In the eighth for the Oilers they added two runs for insurance protection. Felix Guzman who replaced Cross in the seventh at the right field post singled, Tucker was then issued free transportation to first. Martin smashed a double allowing Guzman and Tucker to cross the plate. Martin was tagged as he over ran the second base bag.

The Oilers and the Midland Indians hook up in the second of a three-game series between the two clubs tonight starting at 8. Pampa's home stand will conclude Saturday when the Oilers take to the road for nine days.

NO PLATE LIKE HOME—Don Hoak of the Chicago Cubs evaded a tag by Gil Hodges when the Brooklyn first baseman took a poor relay from Pee Wee Reese after Ernie Banks doubled at Ebbets Field. Backing up was Sandy Koufax as Monte Irvin watched.

Newcombe Spins Four-Hitter; Bums Tip Braves; Yanks Lose

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

At the rate he's going, big Don Newcombe can become Brooklyn's biggest winner since Dazzy Vance, but even more important from the Dodgers' point of view, he can become the man to pitch them right into the world series.

Newcombe spun a flashy four-hitter to lick the league-leading Milwaukee Braves, 3-0, Thursday for his 16th victory. It was his second straight shutout, his seventh straight triumph and it extended his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 24.

The huge 242-pound right-hander now needs only seven more victories to become Brooklyn's biggest winner in a single season since Vance clicked off 23 conquests in 1924.

Newcombe, who pitched the Dodgers to within two games of the league lead Thursday, feels he has a good chance to win at least 23 games this year.

Thursday, he struck out 10, walked none and allowed only two base runners to advance as far as second.

Ray Cross matched Newcombe's shutout pitching until the fourth inning when Carl Furillo smacked his 14th homer. Roy Campanella's two-run homer in the seventh clinched the game for the Braves.

Cincinnati also gained on Milwaukee, climbing to within a game of the Braves with a one-sided 10-2 decision over the last-place Giants.

Redlegs Move Up, Too

The Redlegs broke the game open when they routed Johnny Antonelli with a six-run burst in the seventh. Ray Jablonski's grand slam homer highlighted the frame while Stan Palys also homered during the uprising. Frank Robinson contributed his 25th homer to help rookie Tom Acker to his second victory.

Reliever Herm Wehmeier singled home two runs in the eighth inning as the Cardinals swept a three-game series with the Pirates, 7-5. Wehmeier came to Wilmer Mizell's aid in the second inning when Mizell injured his back. He picked up his sixth victory of the season and ran his lifetime record against Pittsburgh to 29 wins and 10 losses. Bob Friend suffered his 10th loss as the Pirates went down to their eighth straight setback.

The Phillies and Cubs were not scheduled.

The Cleveland Indians narrowed the Yankees' lead in the American League to seven games by beating the New Yorkers, 4-0, on southpaw Herb Score's four-hit pitching. Score struck out seven batters en route to his 11th victory. Loser Tom Sturdivant was nicked for homers by Bobby Avila, Preston Ward, Rocky Colavito and Chico Carrasquel.

Jackie Jensen drove in nine runs with a homer, triple, single and sacrifice fly in leading the Red Sox to an 18-3 rout against the Tigers. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Willard Nixon coasted to his fifth victory even though he gave up 12 hits, including a homer by Al Kaline. Jensen's nine RBIs were only two short of the American League record held jointly by the late Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees and Rudy York, then with Boston.

A's Edge Orioles

A seventh inning single by Enos (Country) Slaughter broke up a 2-2 tie and gave Kansas City a 3-2 triumph over Baltimore. The Orioles built a 2-0 lead on homers by Willie Miranda and Gus Triandos but Harry Simpson's 17th homer with one on off loser Mike Fornieles tied the score in the seventh. Singles by Hec Lopez, Joe Ginsberg and Slaughter then produced the winning run. Jack Crimian was the winner in relief of Alex Kellner.

Les Moss connected for a three-run homer off Bob Wiesler in Chicago's 5-4 victory over Washington. Ellis Kinder, Chicago's third pitcher, gained the 10th victory of his big league career.

Chicago, climbing to within a game of the Braves with a one-sided 10-2 decision over the last-place Giants.

El Paso Trims Pioneers; Hobbs Clips Roswell, 11-2

By UNITED PRESS

Clovis baseball fans were treated to both the ridiculous and the sublime Thursday night as the El Paso Texans trimmed the Pioneers for the fourth time in a row.

Five innings of near-perfect baseball were sandwiched in between opening and closing wild frames. El Paso sent 10 men to the plate for five runs in the first off Bob Jurecko and Clovis tagged Mike Gazella freely in the first two stanzas.

Then, Gazella retired the next 16 men in a row and Jurecko settled down to allow only one single and no walks until El Paso erupted for seven runs in the last two innings, including a pair of two-run homers by Don Sinton and a solo blast by Gazella.

Elsewhere around the league

Hobbs' Jim Grimm kept the Sports seven games in front of the pack with an 11 to 2 verdict over Roswell; Jonas Gaines' pitched Carlsbad to a 5 to 2 decision over Plainview; Pampa racked Midland 16 to 10, and Bob Leach tamed San Angelo as Ballinger took an 8 to 2 decision.

Tonight, Carlsbad remains at Plainview, Midland at Pampa, El Paso at Clovis, Hobbs at Roswell and San Angelo at Ballinger.

Infinite Baffle Falls Into Three Groups

(This week's column was written by R. T. Bozak, who makes high fidelity speaker systems using the infinite baffle. He probably is the country's leading exponent of the infinite baffle in speaker systems.)

By R. T. BOZAK

(Written for United Press) The piano string needs a sounding board, the clarinet reed needs a wooden horn and the xylophone bar needs a tuned cylinder or resonator to bring out the full beauty of its vibratory vibrations into full bodied sound.

As there is a variety of musical instruments with various types of bodies and with qualities peculiar to them, so there is a variety of loudspeaker baffles of various shapes and differing performance qualities.

The baffles fall into three general categories, even though there is a wider variety of shapes. These are: the infinite baffle, the horn, and the tuned or resonator type. The infinite baffle is one of the oldest and the most simple. It derives its name from the theoretical premise of infinite distance of path length between the front and back of the loudspeaker cone so as to totally isolate the sound from the two sides of the cone. Its common phase and practical form is the completely enclosed box or wall mounting.

As one might deduce from its physical nature, the infinite baffle is a passive device; it does not add anything to the sound from the loudspeaker. Those who are primarily interested in purity of tone find this a decided virtue.

Thus, it is the perfectionist's choice. Because of its lack of coloration, it cannot cover up or make up for deficiencies of a poor bass driver and consequently not many manufacturers dare recommend and use it with their loudspeakers.

Horn Also Baffle

The horn is also an old baffle but not always clearly understood. In its simplest form it is like a megaphone; it concentrates and directs the sound. It sounds louder because it is more concentrated and not because there is more sound. When one says a horn is an efficient device he means it sounds louder within the axle of its beam.

This beaming property makes it ideally suited to announcing systems and to movie theaters where it gives the effect of presence to the image on the screen.

These same properties are frequently objected to by the home music system perfectionist because they do not simulate concert hall quality, where he experiences a broad source and is enveloped by a complex maze of reflected sound. When used for bass frequencies, the horn is extremely critical both as to construction details and size.

Both the infinite baffle and the horn afford a purity of tone but give different subjective qualities. The former produces a broad source of sound simulating concert source of sound, gives spectacular effects but does not give sustained satisfaction to the concert goer.
