Canal Firm Gives Egypt Warning

Personnel To Leave If Crisis Not Settled

By WILLIAM SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—The Suez Canal Co. has given Egypt two weeks to reach a settlement of the canal crisis before withdrawing its 500 key officials and pilots, informed sources said today. Such a move would paralyze canal operations.

The company, nationalized by Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser on July 26, set the deadline as Anglo-Egyptian relations worsened and there was talk in Cairo of an open diplomatic break.

A Laborite newspaper in London already was calling the five-nation war against Egypt.

British—and French—pressure increased sharply with the expulsion of two British diplomats from Cairo for "espionage" and a Soviet statement of all-out support for President Gamal Abdel Nasser in his firm stand against the West.

Britain was reported seeking alternate measures if Egypt refused to negotiate a Suez settlement.

Planning ranged from outright military seizure of the canal to a liberal party proposal for construction of a new canal or pipeline.

To Study Operations
The five-nations Suez Committee headed by Australian Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies meets today to study operations of the 10-mile waterway that supplies most of West Europe with its oil.

The committee was awaiting a reply from Nasser on when and where the committee would meet with him to discuss the canal dispute. But the committee has no power—it can only present the Dulles proposals for placing the canal under international operation.

Indian Minister V. K. Krishna Menon may hold the key to the situation. He flew to Cairo today for talks with Nasser, and Cairo sources said he would have a "decisive influence" on Nasser.

May Withhold Reply
Nasser was expected to withhold his reply to Menzies on the time and place until he has talked with Krishna Menon. Krishna Menon is the author of a "rival" plan which would set up an international "advisory" body for the canal but leave it in Egyptian hands.

Racketeer Arrested For Riesel Blinding

By WARREN FRANKLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The underworld empire of Johnny Dio, one of the nation's most powerful labor racketeers, tottered today with his arrest on evidence of masterminding the acid-throwing attack which blinded columnist Victor Riesel.

Dio, who was born John Dioguardia, was arrested by G-men Tuesday along with his brother Tommy, and two other garment district hoodlums.

The four East Side gangland figures and a fifth conspirator already had as a material witness in the case face arraignment before a U.S. commissioner today. They will be charged with conspiring to obstruct justice in arranging the April 5 sneak attack which took the labor columnist's eyesight.

Riesel, who is in Forest Park, Pa., for the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting, said only that he "was glad the FBI has made the arrests." He said he did not wish to presently say anything more because he expected to be called before a grand jury.

Says Dio Directed Attack
U.S. Attorney Paul W. Williams, who has paraded a host of secret underworld witnesses before two federal grand juries investigating the Riesel case and racketeering in the fur and garment industries, declared Tuesday night:

"Johnny Dio, among others, was the man who directed, instigated and arranged the payoff to (Abraham) Teitel in the acid attack on Victor Riesel. This is in direct relation to Riesel's planned testimony about labor racketeering before the federal grand jury."

Teitel was murdered on the lower East Side July 28. The FBI accused the small time thug of hurling the acid into Riesel's face when he walked out of a Broadway restaurant.

The underworld braintrust accused of planning the ambush attack were identified as:

John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardia, 42, described by a New York district attorney as "one of the most powerful underworld figures in the field of labor."

Thomas (Tommy) Dioguardia, 40, arrest record dates back to 1931. Co-owner of one of biggest fight stables in the East.

Charles Tuso, 44, record includes 10-year sentence in March 1931 for robbery. Sentenced to seven years in Sing Sing on gun carrying and robbery charges.

Domenico Bando, 47, arrested for narcotics violations, started 2½ year term at the federal penitentiary in Danbury, Conn., Jan. 13, 1954.

Charles Salvatore Carlino, 43, arrest record dates back to 1933, including felonious assault and attempted robbery.

The FBI said the "braintrust" conspired with Joseph Peter Carlino, 43, alias Joe Pilo, the "contact man," and Gandolfo Miranti, 37, the "finger man," to main-

Ike Asks For Support Of Suez Proposal

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower appealed today for world-wide support of the London conference proposal to internationalize the Suez Canal as the best way to "assure a peaceful solution of this great problem."

The President also said he is "glad" Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is willing to meet with representatives of the London conference to discuss the Suez crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower's statement was read to reporters by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as he left a two-hour meeting with the President. Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, sat in on the latter stage of the meeting in the President's office.

The meeting was Mr. Eisenhower's first with Dulles since the 22-nation London conference on the Suez.

Conciliation Seen
"This program was conceived in an atmosphere of friendly conciliation and, in my opinion, ought to rally behind it the support of all the nations and peoples that believe in the processes of international justice and conciliation," the President's statement said.

"The United States government and, I believe, the American nation completely support the 18-nation proposal thus arrived at in London, which, fully respecting the sovereignty of Egypt, would assure the peaceful solution of this great problem."

Dulles said the destruction of an American Navy plane off the Red China coast a week ago also was discussed during the White House meeting. But he said the main topic was the Suez crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower returned to the capital Tuesday night wearing a healthy golf tan. His arrival from the West Coast ended a week spent at the GOP National Convention in San Francisco and vacationing at Pebble Beach, Calif.

The President ended his golfing holiday two days earlier than expected. He faced a heavy schedule of appointments that made his plans to spend a long Labor Day weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm indefinite.

High on his appointment list—probably sometime Thursday—was a meeting with GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall to make plans for opening the President's campaign for a second term.

Economic Study Group Completes Discussions

The Chamber of Commerce sponsored economic study group number 1, which has been holding sessions weekly for the past 17 weeks, finished the series with a meeting in the Pine Room of the Pampa Hotel this morning with a discussion on capitalism.

The group, in finishing the last lesson, voted to hold an extra session sometime during the month of September to review the 17 lessons and to give more time for individual guests and discussion periods.

Economic Study Group number 2, will be invited to join the original group for the next session which will be a dinner meeting. An effort is being made to secure an outstanding authority in the field of economics to be present at the September meeting as guest speaker.

Moderator for the two classes just completed were Johnny F. Campbell, moderator of Class number 2 while Cameron Marsh, Mack Hiatt and E. Roy Smith moderated Class number 1.

Administration Expects 1956 Budget To End Up In Black

By ROBERT F. MORISON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration expects to spend more money in the current fiscal year than ever before in peacetime and end up $700 million in the black. But no tax cut appeared in prospect.

The latest look at the budget released Tuesday night estimates spending in the fiscal year ending next Jan. 30 at $69.1 billion. Receipts—mostly from individual and corporation taxes—are expected to hit a record $68.8 billion.

That would leave a surplus of $707 million—nearly double the surplus of $354 million estimated last January. But officials said that is still not enough for a tax cut.

Congressional fiscal experts disagreed with the figures. They said they expect the surplus to reach $2 billion despite the increase in spending.

Record Collections Made
Budget Bureau Director Percival F. Brundage told United Press that since only about seven weeks of the new fiscal year have gone by "it's too early to discuss tax cuts... that can be faced when Congress reconvenes."

But Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey said last January that a surplus of between $2.5 billion and $3 billion would be necessary before tax reductions could be undertaken.

Although it didn't start out that way, last year wound up breaking peace time revenue collecting records as receipts reached $68.1 billion. It was the boom which brought in record revenues and balanced the budget, overcoming an original anticipated deficit of $2.4 billion and leaving a surplus of $1.7 billion.

The administration last January estimated spending at $65.9 billion and receipts at $66.3 billion.

More Defense Spending
The upward revision in spending for the most part will pay for an extra $2.4 billion needed for crop support and the new soil bank programs. The administration also will spend an extra $453 million for defense—mostly for military construction and research programs.

The rise in expected expenditures indicated that the Eisenhower administration was having difficulty holding the line on government spending. It managed to cut outlays its first full fiscal year in office—1954—as the Korean war was being brought to a close and the heavy wartime spending ended.

In 1955 a further decrease was made of about $2.2 billion. However, spending rose last year to $66.4 billion, a rise of nearly $2 billion.

An informed source said that the "reasonably conservative" basic figures on which revenues are estimated auger well for business at least the rest of this calendar year. Corporate profits, as in January, are expected to total some $43 billion, about the same as last year while personal income is expected to hit a new annual record total of $325 billion.

Corporate profits so far have exceeded the estimate and were expected to rise further. Personal income in June was over the estimate and was expected to head upward the rest of the year under pressure of wage increases and continued high level employment.

Congressional fiscal experts were "surprised" that the surplus in view of the continued boom and heavy tax collections, is not "about twice" the $707 million estimated. They told United Press the $68.8 billion in receipts, despite its record proportions, is "on the low side."

Here is a comparison of the actual spending and receipts in fiscal 1956 and the expected budget for the current year:

1956 (actual)	1957 (estimated)
Receipts $68.1 (B)	$69.8 (B)
Spending $66.4 (B)	$69.1 (B)
Surplus $1.7 (B)	$707 (M)

Unlocked Box
Yarborough representatives asked the committee to refuse returns from Box 16 in the Arlington Heights area of Fort Worth because the box did not have a lock on it. It went to Daniel, 578 to 258.

The Democratic Executive Committee of Kerr county certified the results in 16 of 18 boxes, but refused to certify the results in boxes 14 and 18.

Each of these boxes contained three more votes than there were names on the tally sheets. County Chairman J. S. A. Spice, said he probably would report the discrepancies to the state chairman.

Yarborough's headquarters in Austin claimed late Tuesday that he had picked up 1,180 votes in the official canvass in four counties — Karnes, Wichita, Nueces and Limestone.

Adjustments Fail To Alter Results

DALLAS (UP)—Sen. Price Daniel's apparent victory in the governor's race was clouded today by election disputes in Dallas and Tarrant counties.

There were numerous other corrections and adjustments in various counties as county executive committees certified the returns from Saturday's Democratic runoff between Daniel and Ralph Yarborough.

But these changes—some for Yarborough and some for Daniel—failed to materially alter the results.

The final report of the Texas Election Bureau, with complete, unofficial returns, showed Daniel with 498,125 votes and Yarborough with 494,578—a margin of 3,547 for Daniel.

Dallas County Fight
The biggest dispute has erupted in Dallas county, where Yarborough sustained the defeat that crushed him. Daniel led the county 68,409 to 48,122.

G. Ray Lee, Yarborough's Dallas county campaign manager, was granted a temporary restraining order Tuesday by District Judge Sarah T. Hughes which prevented the conservative-minded county executive committee from certifying the vote.

Miss Hughes scheduled a hearing at 2 p.m. today to determine whether the order, filed by Lee on behalf of Yarborough, should be dropped or made a permanent restraining order.

If she grants the permanent order, Yarborough officials will have a chance to check the vote before it is declared official.

The county executive committee met in the courthouse Tuesday night in the courtroom Tuesday night and sending it to Austin.

But it was notified of the restraining order and was unable to canvass the governor's returns although returns from the attorney general's race, three legislative races and a constable's post were certified.

The meeting finally turned into something of a rowdy session with newsmen and photographers being ejected from the courtroom.

Another big uproar occurred in Tarrant county (Fort Worth) where a subcommittee, armed with the full authority of the county Democratic executive committee, threw out returns from Precinct 120.

This is a largely Negro precinct in the Lake County section of Fort Worth and the returns which the committee refused showed 1,036 votes for Yarborough and 26 for Daniel. Final TEE returns showed Daniel beating Yarborough in Tarrant, 37,536 to 34,263.

It was discovered that in Precinct 120 the names of voters suddenly started appearing in alphabetical order on the poll list instead of the order in which they voted.

Mrs. C. M. Allen, election judge in 120, said all returns from 120 are valid. Asked if there were any irregularities, she replied: "All I can say is that the election returns are valid."

County Chairman Tom Ward, a Yarborough supporter, said the law will require the County executive committee to certify these returns from Precinct 120. He said if they were not certified, the voters who cast legal ballots in the precinct would be disfranchised.

Buddy Thompson, former Fort Worth city councilman and an election judge himself, said the county grand jury may meet in special session to go into the matter.

Paper Says Vote List Is Incorrect

FORT WORTH (UP)—At least 11 persons whose names were on the official voting list at contested Precinct 120 in last Saturday's Democratic runoff did not vote, the Fort Worth Press said today in a copyrighted news story.

Precinct 120 is a largely Negro precinct. It went 1,026 votes for Ralph Yarborough to 26 for Price Daniel Saturday. The Tarrant county Democratic executive committee charged "apparent fraud" in the precinct and refused to certify returns from it.

Carl Freund, who wrote the Press' copyrighted news story, questioned Negroes whose names were on the voting list. The election laws specify that the name of each voter shall be entered on the list when he receives his ballot.

Freund reported that Delbert Williams, whose name was on the list, was in the Veterans Administration hospital in Dallas recovering from a serious lung operation when the runoff was held.

Amanda Williams has been visiting in California for a month, according to her nephew, Amanda Williams. Freund questioned George Williams, who told him: "No, sir, I didn't vote. I got a poll tax, but I didn't get a chance to use it."

Freund said he looked at his poll tax receipt. It was blank. If he had voted, it would have been stamped. Willie Lee Birdow said Herbert Williams, his father-in-law, couldn't have voted because he didn't get back from a week's visit to Palestine until Monday.

Delbert Williams, who had the lung operation, was lying on a couch at home when Freund talked to him. He said he didn't get home until Monday, and had been in the hospital for 32 days. His wife's name was on the voting list, but he said she didn't vote either.

Yarborough Group Investigating Pledge Scratching

PECOS, Aug. 29 (UP)—A group of Ralph Yarborough supporters today formed a committee to investigate reports that many ballots were counted in Saturday's gubernatorial runoff which had the pledge to support the Democratic nominee scratched out.

A group of Yarborough supporters led by Billie Sol Estes and "Coot" Worsham of Pecos formed the committee to investigate these charges.

"It has been a known fact for many years the Republicans have voted in the Democratic primaries but nothing could be done," Estes said.

"But when I continue to hear that election workers state that they know that ballots were counted that had the pledge marked out, I want everyone to know that I personally will do everything possible to investigate these claims and see that these illegal ballots are thrown out."

"The law reads that a ballot may not be mutilated in any manner and that such ballots must be voided."

"The Democrats of Texas have every right to select their candidate for governor of the state of Texas without the Republicans openly destroying the pledge to support the nominee of the Democratic Party and then voting their choice for the candidate on the Democratic ticket," he said.

Police Chief Jim Conner this morning announced the addition of a new patrolman to the city's police department.

Billy T. Henderson, 26, will be assigned the 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. shift and will be assigned to work with Sgt. Dennis Ross, Conner said.

The new officer lives at 820 N. Davis, is married and has one child. Before taking the position in the police department, he worked in various jobs in the oil fields. He is a veteran, a former member of the Air Force.

Demos Only Party Concerned With Nation's Farmer Plight?

By TOM NELSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
SIOUX CITY, Iowa (UP)—Aldai E. Stevenson said today that the Democrats are "the only party" that is "concerned about the farmers' plight."

The Democratic presidential nominee said that "historically" the farmer has "gotten in trouble" under Republican administrations, and "prospered" under the Democrats.

He said he and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, came here for a regional party meeting to "hear the farmers' story" and learn how to "drive this story home" to the people.

Stevenson and Kefauver flew here from Portland, Ore., where they attended a conference of party officials from the Pacific Northwest Tuesday.

Says Democrats Concerned
Stevenson said in his remarks prepared for delivery here that "our party has always been the party—and the only party—that is concerned about the farmers' plight today."

Stevenson said for every $4 the farmer got in 1952, he is getting less than $3 today. The farmers' share of the food dollar has dropped from 47 cents to 38 cents in the same period, he said.

"And we know, too, that when the farmer goes broke the rest of the country is going to be in trouble, too," Stevenson said.

Following the opening remarks by Stevenson and Kefauver, there was to be a panel discussion of farm prices and income, soil conservation and the soil bank, rural credit and crop insurance, farm electrification, and administration of the farm program. The sessions were to be closed.

Democrats from Iowa, North and South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin gathered at Sioux City for the meeting to be presided over by two Minnesotans—Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Gov. Orville Freeman.

The role Kefauver will play in the Democratic effort to woo the farm belt was expected to be discussed. Kefauver, regarded as a strong vote-getter in Midwestern rural areas, is likely to carry the load of the Stevenson campaign in the farm section.

The candidates and their party will spend tonight in Sioux City, and depart early Thursday for a fourth regional conference at Knoxville, Tenn., this one with Southern Democrats. They will return to Chicago Thursday night.

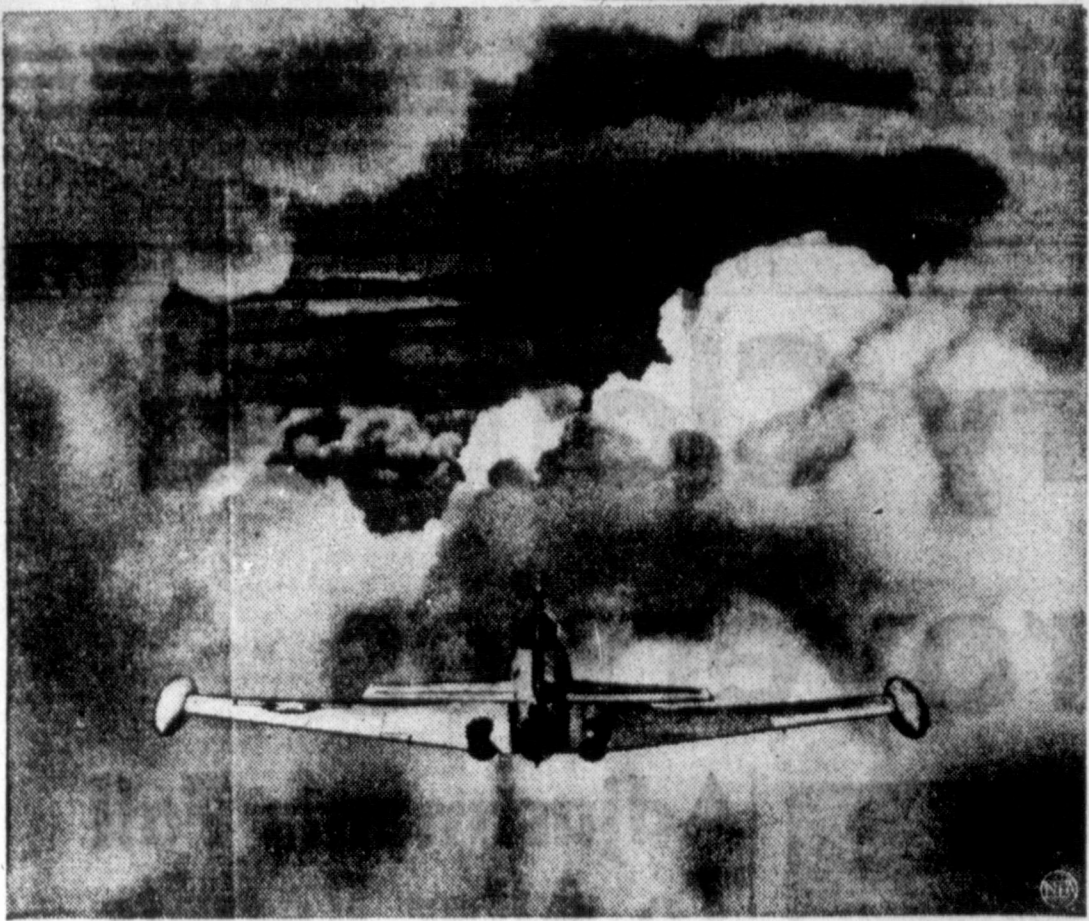

Baby Kidnapper Indicted By Grand Jury
MINEOLA, N. Y. (U)—A Nassau county grand jury today indicted Angelo John Lamarcia, confessed kidnaper of baby Peter Weinberger, on charges of kidnapping and murder. Each charge carries a maximum penalty of death.

Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger, mother of the dead baby, is expected to testify.

District Attorney Frank A. Gulotta said he would ask that indictments on both charges either of which could bring the death penalty in New York state, be lodged against the mechanic and taxi driver.

David M. Markowitz, attorney for Lamarcia, said Tuesday that his client would plead innocent, maintaining that he was temporarily insane because of pressing debts when he kidnaped the baby and abandoned him to his death.

East played the nine, and South properly took his ace at once. As we shall see, it would have been a fatal mistake to refuse the first trick.

South next cashed the ace of spades, followed by the king and queen of clubs. When both opponents followed to two rounds of clubs, South could afford to lead the jack of clubs to dummy's ace, a key play.

Declarer led the queen of spades from dummy, giving West a trick. If West now led a low heart, East would win with the jack but would be unable to continue the suit. If West, instead, took the king and queen of hearts, dummy's ten would become established. Either way, it was impossible for West to run the hearts.

If South had refused the first trick, East would have continued with a second heart. West would later get in with the king of spades and would be able to take three heart tricks to defeat the contract.

Let's return to West, who has just taken the king of spades. West cannot prevent South from entering the dummy with a club. South has kept the deuce of clubs to his position to cash two spades, and South makes his contract with three spades, four clubs, and the two aces.

Constitution Party Has Convention

FORT WORTH (UP)—The Constitution party of the U.S., holding its national convention in Fort Worth, was to adopt a platform and nominate its presidential and vice presidential candidates today.
Between 75 and 100 Constitution party members from more than 17 states are meeting in the Texas Hotel. The party was founded by Phillip Lee Eubanks of San Antonio.
T. Coleman Andrews, former Internal Revenue Commissioner, was expected to head the ticket and ex-Congressman Thomas H. Werdel of California was expected to get the vice presidential nomination.

A spokesman said that both Andrews, a Richmond, Va., banker, and Werdel, who once ran for California governor against Earl Warren, have said they will accept the nominations.

Income Tax Hit
Andrews served as Internal Revenue Commissioner under President Eisenhower, but resigned with a bitter condemnation of the nation's income tax laws.
The party's platform is called "the 10 commandments for good government."

One of the planks is repeal of the income tax law. Other planks call for the "constitution of the United States and Bill of Rights correctly and justly interpreted; Americanism and American justice; states rights exercised and retained removal of government from business; individual state regulation of public education; protection of the legal rights of labor to a degree equal to the rights of all other groups of citizens."

Other Parties Assailed
Mrs. Mary D. Cain, a former weekly newspaper publisher from Summit, Miss., delivered the keynote address Monday night. In it, she blasted both the Democrats and the Republicans.

Mrs. Cain formerly published the Summit, Miss., Sun, but she sold the paper to her niece for $1 a few years ago to prevent the federal government from seizing it.

She refused to pay Social Security taxes on herself although she paid them to her employees. She contended that the government was forcing her to become a bookkeeper. Now, she is editor-manager of the paper.

In her keynote speech, Mrs. Cain called the Republican convention "a sickening spectacle for

Democratic Convention
About the Democratic convention, which she watched on television, she said:

"Two weeks ago, I sat through the nightmare of the so-called Democratic convention, listening as despoilers of the house of my fathers spelled out bigger and better philosophies of give-away government which they call 'democracy,' which some call socialism, but which I call by its right name — Communism."

"We must join hands in a selfless desire to place America's welfare above that of personal advancement or momentary glory," she said.

Eastern Firms Preparing For Future Hurricanes

By ROBERT SHORTAL
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Business firms that took a billion-dollar beating from Hurricane Diane a year ago are spending millions this year to prevent similar losses.

Scores of companies from Maine to Florida are setting up hurricane-proof plans to prevent shut-downs.

Five southern utility firms have devised a mutual aid plan through which they will supply each other with needed materials and extra line crews to keep power flowing in case of a storm emergency.

The five, with plants in Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, are Duke Power, Virginia Electric & Power, Appalachian Electric and Gas, and Carolina Power and Light Co.

They have exchanged maps of each others properties so line crews from other companies can keep service supplied to homes and plants in case of an emergency.

Carolina Power, which was raked by Hurricane Hazel two years ago, has installed auxiliary gasoline-driven generators at five points to keep its communications system going if other sources are knocked out.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. spent $500,000 to build a 16-foot sea wall to protect its Fall River, Mass., plant from high tides and heavy seas caused by hurricanes. The sea wall is 2,000 feet long.

Hundreds of industrial concerns in New England have installed special watertight doors and windows to protect them from the weather. The Bell telephone sys-

Railroads Seek Rate Increase

CHICAGO (UP)—Plans to seek a freight rate increase have been discussed by traffic executives of western railroads forming the Western Traffic Association.

A spokesman said returns from freight operations during the first half of 1956 were "very disappointing." He added that net operating income of Class I carriers in the western district during the period was $188,836,205, down from the $202,582,626 in the same period in 1955.

The spokesman said the comparison was despite a "slightly higher level of operating revenues."

'Male Animal' To Go Before The Footlights

The Pampa Little Theater, which tomorrow and Friday nights will present its first major production, "The Male Animal," was organized only last spring and presently has a membership of 33.

The play, set for 8 p.m. both nights, will be presented in the Senior High Auditorium.

Bunny Shultz, publicity director for the organization, has reported that tickets to the play were going good so far but that there were still plenty of choice reserved seats available.

The play, a comedy in three acts, has its setting in a Midwestern University and the plot is built around problems that might arise at any university, involving friction between members of the faculty.

Jim Terrell, president, is directing the first big show and several Pampans have choice parts in the show.

The cast includes Cleota, played by Marilyn Spoonmore; Ellen Turner, played by Pauline Smyth; Tommy Turner, played by Jack Miller; Patricia Stanley, played by Carol Cooper; Wally Myers, played by Terrell; Dean Frederick Daman, played by J. B. Reid; Michael Barnes, played by Bill Clay; Joe Ferguson, played by Ed Young; Mrs. Blanche Daman, played by Gladys Howard; Ed Keller, played by Wynne Vester; Myrtle Keller, played by Marie Herring; and "Nutsy" Miller, played by Dan Teed.

Marilyn McDaniels Completes Course

Marilyn McDaniels, water safety instructor for the Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross, recently returned from a two-week instruction course at Possum Kingdom Lake.

The course, which included a review in water safety and life saving as well as a course in small craft safety, proved very interesting, she said. Also while there, she took and passed a standard first aid course and received her first swimmers certificate.

Marilyn said that one of the notes that struck her most in the course of her instructions was the fact that whenever a person instructs a first aid or swimming class they are indirectly saving a life. It is this realization, she said, which makes any effort put into it really worth while.

She hopes next year to obtain her First Aid Instructor Certificate as well as a First Aid Emergency Plaque.

Texas GOP Chooses US Senate Candidate

By O. B. LLOYD JR., United Press Staff Correspondent, CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UP)—The Republican party of Texas has chosen a 40-year-old Houston attorney as its candidate for the U. S. Senate.

He is Thad T. Hutcheson, who will run for the Senate seat to be vacated by Sen. Price Daniel, the apparent victor in the state's Democratic gubernatorial election.

Hutcheson got a roaring endorsement from 400 state convention delegates Tuesday. The convention endorsed him in a resolution since the office is not yet vacant and the convention could not formally nominate him.

The GOP also formally nominated three candidates for state office. They are William R. Bryant, a Sherman attorney, for governor; Samuel Singleton, an O'Donnell cotton farmer and businessman, for agriculture commissioner; and Leo Duran, a Corpus Christi lawyer, for attorney general.

Bryant Chairman

Bryant, who was also named permanent chairman of the convention, is the son of the late Randolph Bryant, a former federal judge, for the Eastern District of Texas.

State Chairman John Q. Adams of Harlingen was reelected to a third term, and Mrs. Frank Buhler of Victoria, the incumbent, was named to her first full elective term as vice chairman. Mrs. John Rountree of Lubbock was named secretary.

The delegates wholeheartedly endorsed Hutcheson, who earlier had keynoted the convention with a prediction that the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket "will sweep the state of Texas in November."

A 10-minute demonstration ended only when Hutcheson stepped up to accept the endorsement.

Special Election Seen

"I think we can go on the theory that reports from the Texas Election Bureau are correct," he said. "I am proceeding on the assumption there will be a special election in the near future."

He said a special election in which the Democratic vote might easily be split among several candidates would offer a Republican a "wonderful opportunity" for victory under the rules of a winner-take-all contest.

It would also, he said, be a "critical vote that may give a majority for President Eisenhower in the U. S. Senate."

He promised a full fight for the office and touched off prolonged cheers when he said, "I have no sympathies for token races...when I enter, I will be running to win...let's get on with it."

'Not Guilty' Plea Is Heard

Forrest Lee Billingsley of 1145 Prairie Dr. entered a plea of not guilty in County Court this morning to a charge of threatening to take the life of a human.

The charge was brought against Billingsley by Edgar Bailey, his former father-in-law, who charged him with attempting to kill him (Bailey) in his home in McLean.

Billingsley was released on $1,000 bond.

Hired Tevi

The FBI announcement by J. Edgar Hoover in Washington said Dio and Tuso met with Miranti at his East Side candy store about April 1 with $1,000 for the person who would cripple the labor columnist.

Miranti contacted Bando, and Bando through Joseph (Pilo) Carluo hired Tevi to do the job, according to the FBI.

The FBI said Tevi made the attack against Riesel and clumsily splashed some of the acid on his own face, making him "too hot" for the conspirators.

Government agents earlier charged that Tevi was murdered soon after his return to New York from a hideout in Youngstown, Ohio. New York police have disagreed because an autopsy revealed no facial acid burns.

The FBI report said that Johnny Dio and Tuso, the "arrangers," met with Tommy Dio and Miranti to make certain that Tevi was not taken to a doctor for medical attention.

Laws We Don't Need

We would like to define freedom as consisting of three qualities. These things are freedom of choice, freedom of action and self-control. All freedoms, such as freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion, depend on these things.

All of us love freedom of choice and action. But many rebel against self-control, wishing to place our own choices and actions in the area of license. We want to do as we please. We sometimes do not take thought of the consequences of our choices and actions, thus imposing our choice and actions on others.

The very worst way this can be done is by getting our government to pass laws which control others. An individual who imposes his choices and actions upon another has committed a trespass. But an individual who assists in passing a law which compels his choices and actions on others has committed a universal trespass.

In this world, the rights of the individual are supreme. There is no other way for us to survive or for us to be free and to make progress in our own lives.

Right now we are witness to two types of laws which are, in themselves, evil. One is the type of law which compels individuals who wish to work, play, learn or associate together, to remain apart. These are called segregation laws. The other is the type of law which compels individuals who wish to work, play, or learn separately, to come together. These are called integration laws. Both of these laws are evil.

But the rights of the individual are primary and supreme. If a person does not want to associate with another for any reason, or for no reason, this decision he has made must be honored if freedom is to endure.

Here is a young man who wishes to associate with a young lady. This is within his rights. But let us suppose that the young lady does not wish to associate with the young man. Would anyone maintain that the wishes of the young man are superior to those of the young lady? Since he wants her company, must she be compelled by law to associate with him? On the contrary. Every decent society reserves the right of the individual — all individuals — to be supreme. And whereas an individual by himself, can decline to associate with anyone, and thus harm no one, no individual can have a right to intrude upon the rights of a second individual.

But this is generally known and believed. Why then, the laws?

Manifestly it is wrong for the law to intervene when two people wish to be together. But it is even worse when the law is invoked to compel two persons to associate when either of them desires not to associate.

In the interests of understanding and fellowship, it may be wise to council tolerance, humaneness and friendship. But counseling is one thing, and the force of law is quite another.

In our strife-torn Southland, these two laws have created terrible hardships and pressures. If a white person decides that he does not wish to associate with a colored person, or if a colored person decides that he does not wish to associate with a white person, such a decision is valid. It should require no law to compel them to remain apart. Such a law is unnecessary.

But a law which compels such people to associate against their wishes is a heinous offense against ordinary decency and well being.

We have no sympathy for meaningless prejudices. But we believe that prejudices, if they exist can best be overcome by reasonable council, persuasion and kindness. Laws, whether invoked to separate or to compel mixing are an affront to morality.

Freedom depends upon the individual's right to make his own choices, to decide and conduct his own actions, and to be responsible for his own choice and actions.

We would like to see the several southern states take their "Jim Crow" laws off the books. We must set up a clamor that the Supreme Court reverse itself in the matter of integration. The individuals of the separate races involved can never reach helpful understanding and mutual esteem and cooperation while either of these vestiges of legal cannibalism survive.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Two Kinds Of Profits

For the last couple of issues I have been quoting and commenting on a book, "Faith and Fact," by Alfred P. Haake, showing the great advantages that come from profits.

Haake, of course, is talking about profits that are the result of free exchange without any laws that give one party a larger profit than he could have without special laws. Profits that come from laws that protect either party from full competition are not desirable profits. Those kinds of profits, of course, can be entirely too high and thus harmful.

The kinds of profits that I am for are the profits where every person has a right to help establish values; where every person has a right to compete. It is profits where every person doesn't have a right to compete that give profits a black eye and make people want to limit profits. But people want to reduce profits that are a result of a free market, then they harm everybody.

The kinds of profits that people should be against are profits that result from special laws, such as zoning laws that permit certain people to sell their property at a much higher price than they could sell it if all other property owners were permitted to sell their property for the same purpose. Profits that come from limiting by license the number of people who can compete are undesirable profits — such profits as come from race tracks where only certain people are permitted to operate races; profits that come from franchises giving telephone light and gas companies a monopoly. These are profits that can be excessive and therefore harmful; profits that come from protective tariffs and immigration quotas and farm subsidies; profits that come from doctors and lawyers and "educators" who have been trained by the state at less than cost; profits and wages that come from laws sponsored by organized labor that make it a crime for the employer showing preference in hiring help to men who are willing to sell their services on a competitive basis over men who want to join a union and get an excessive profitable wage under threats of strikes.

It is because government has made so many laws that give certain groups and individuals advantages over other groups and individuals that people believe there can be excessive profits. Certainly there can be excessive profits in this kind of an operation but there never can be too big a profit where all men are equal before the law to compete in selling and buying to establish a true, fair price and profit.

Fair Profits Now I want to continue to comment from Haake's defense of profits. When the infant is born, he has to be benefited — that is, has to have a profit take-in more than he expends in energy or he does not develop and grow. Haake puts it this way:

"In order that there be growth there must be a residue left from the total energy taken in. This residue is a surplus, or, in effect, a profit, which is then invested in growth. It is a surplus of income over cost of production, and without it there can be no growth. "What is true of the body is no less true of the mind, and there is no good reason why it should not also be true of the soul. We grow by accretion. "Nor is there any sensible conflict between this concept and the accepted truth of physics that the amount of energy and matter in the universe remains the same, that matter and energy can change in form, time and place, but not in amount total in the universe. "With the profit that results from economic surplus and accretion we do not deal merely with matter, moving in time and place and changing in form, as well as in possession. We deal also with the exchange of goods and services, with degrees of usefulness to different individuals who have widely varying ideas of what is useful and to what degree. By changing the form of material, or combining one with another to produce a new combination of material, we neither increase nor decrease the quantity of matter or of energy in the world. But we do increase the usefulness or ability of the several materials within the new form or combination to satisfy human wants. We do create utility or the ability to satisfy wants, which is an attribute of things already existing.

"The utility of the resulting product may be, and usually is, greater than the mere sum of the separate usefulness of the several elements of which it is composed. The amount by which the resulting utility is greater than would have been the total utility of the separate parts, less the cost of production, is profit. And the amount of that profit is normally a measure of the efficiency of the individual or organization producing it.

"The profit utility so created is more than the product of human labor applied to natural resources. It is created in great part by the effectiveness of tools and machines, which have increased the results of human productivity about one hundred times from the days of the bare-hand savage to the tool-equipped and power-using modern man. This profit comes as a result of and is logically a reward for the use of tools in production."

Animals are superior to human beings. If there are thirty horses in a race fifty thousand people will go to see it, but put thirty people in a race and not one horse would go to see it.

Conservative Republicans Barge In On Convention

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Cow Palace, San Francisco—The wandering Republicans of conservative men at last came to some willows beside a desert spring at 1263 Market Street, San Francisco, spread their pamphlets on a long table in a bare and disused store, put up red, white and blue signs across the front and declared themselves in on the Republican National Convention as a patriotic but hostile opposition.

A similar element of Democrats from the north as well as from the southern tier had done the same in Chicago. Some of them are fixing to hold a national convention of their own, open to the rejects and apostates of both major parties, in Fort Worth, on Aug. 28.

In the back of the room on Market Street there was a large dixer of hot coffee and a liter of doughnuts. A passel of mature ladies who outnumbered the bucks about three to one, were purring and fanning their coffee with little tracts in a lonesome wait for recruits.

This was a puny showing, to be sure, but evidence of a rebellion of earnest rank-and-file of both parties against both parties which has been smoldering for years. It is now expressing itself in hundreds of weak little groups, without experience or money, which hold palid and pathetic little jamborees, read the American Mercury and a changing list of little circulars reiterating their alarms, and cry out that the constitution is breathing its last.

Willis A. Carto, a bright young man with the hot zeal of the typical political crusader, passed nimble fingers down the rows of pamphlets and petitions on the table and presented me with an entire file.

There were exhortations and shouts of defiance from the men's fellowship group of the Open Bible Church, which offers personal spiritual services and nominates Jesus for ruler, 2133 Market St., San Francisco; for America, 1001 Connecticut Ave., Washington; economic liberty, dedicated to the abolition of the income tax "which makes a nation of crooks," 1948 48th Ave., Oakland; Liberty and Property, P.O. Box 180, San Francisco; We, The People, 111 No. Wabash Ave., Chicago, and "Right," a monthly newsletter "Of By and For the American Right Wing," published by Bradford Martin, 418 Ellis St., San Francisco.

There are many others scattered across the whole country, but thickly stippled like specks on a population map, in Northern California, Arizona, Texas and Florida. Little newspapers publish shrill angry editorials on topics which are taboo in the metropolitan press.

"How do you stand on Gerald L. K. Smith?" I asked Mr. Carto. "We have absolutely nothing to do with Smith," the young man said. "Our enemies try to smear us with that, but we have nothing in common."

Lester O. Wisler, "Executive Director, Intelligence Unit, Grand Jury Association of California," had organized a car pool in a lot next door to the bivouac on Market St. Wisler is a Tax Accountant and a professional and political colleague of T. Coleman Andrews, a Virginia Democrat of the Harry Byrd adherence whom Eisenhower appointed Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Andrews, having shaken the Internal Revenue by an earthquake reorganization, chucked the job and declared his absolute opposition to the income tax.

Mr. Wisler said: "I have spent 42 years in the careful preparation of tax returns. The politicians and international banking racketeers used every trick in the bag to bring this Karl Marx tax into every home in our 48 sovereign states. Is it any wonder that Coleman Andrews said the whole system of personal income taxes should be wiped off the books? If we do not abolish income taxes our individual freedom will be abolished by a totalitarian form of government very soon."

Mr. Wisler had driven his own car from headquarters to the Cow Palace seven times before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He planned the gas and he was preparing to run his prospective recruits back to town for coffee and doughnuts after the session. He is a primitive, Henry George Single-Taxer.

Though weary victims of the bite may wave him away as a futile visionary, he has Gov. Bracken Lee of Utah as well as Andrews on his side now and they are beginning to make themselves heard, if only as a whisper against a storm.

The rebels include generals of such note that they cannot be laughed or scoffed away. The pamphlets of "For America," which are snowing down across the country now, contain the name of Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, certainly no sedentary Pentagon bureaucrat, as national director.

L. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer wrote the ominous and prophetic report against Communist China which was suppressed in favor of the surrender backed by Gen. George Marshall and Harry Truman. He is a member from Maryland.

His colleagues on the policy committee include Gens. Mark Clark and James A. Van Fleet and Lt. Gens. Ned Almond and George Stratemeyer, and Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, the goat of Pearl Harbor.

Clark's service in the African invasion and the conquest of Italy and the Austrian occupation in competition with Soviet Russia was followed by his tour in Korea. Van Fleet, Almond and Stratemeyer are also fought in that desperate and foredoomed campaign.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur is not a member of the committee, but his sympathies and antipathies identify him with their program in a general way.

The program is: The original Bricker Amendment, "to safeguard the constitution," the Reed-Dixsen Amendment, "to limit the taxing power of Congress," the Byrd-Bridges Amendment, "to limit congressional spending to estimated receipts," the Reed-Walter Amendment, "to make secure the power of the states to amend the constitution," the Jenner Amendment, to abolish the checkoff from wages and ultimate absolute repeal of the income tax.

So this rebel group is not a herd of sons of the wild jackass. It includes Clarence Manion, former Dean of the Law School of Notre Dame who was picked by the Eisenhower clique for consultation in 1953 and canned with violence when he put up legal and economic arguments which the palace guard couldn't cope with, Richard Lloyd Jones, of the Tulsa Tribune, was a fighting liberal editor of the old edition in Madison, Wisconsin, when Joe McCarthy was in rompers. Spruille Braden has a long career as a diplomat in Latin America and backed with his personal roll the New York City Anti-Crime Commission which broke the union "welfare" shakedown expense long before any newspaper gave it a line of type.

Herbert Hoover's soulful plea for patience and composure from the opposition even though Ike and his cabal should further efface the memory of Robert Taft, made no impression in the plain little headquarters of the patriotic but hostile opposition.

"Why didn't he say something against the income tax?" Mr. Wisler demanded. "Why doesn't he fight for us, not for the Marxists? If he have to fight along without him, we will but it is too bad he just wants us to submit just to save the label of the Republican Party for a lot of people who have stolen it."

Mr. Carto flaunted a long petition addressed to both big conventions to pledge their candidates to the program of the "For America" group. He said:

"We had 100,000 signatures on the petition presented here to the Republicans."

"We, The People" is organizing a convention for the constitution at the Conrad Hilton, in Chicago, on Sept. 15-16. Some delegates from the Fort Worth meeting will proceed to that one.

Dan Smoot, of Dallas, a former FBI agent, carries on his fight, kicking out a fierce little pamphlet long after the fabulous and incredible H. L. Hunt, who was ballooned as the midas of the Midland Field, petered out as the backer of a broadcast and magazine called "Facts Forum."

Hunt's contribution was petty, for all his boasting, and Smoot, like a hundred other gaunt and threadbare pamphleteers of the rebellion, is nickleaving along from week to week, while the Fund for the Republic and a hundred other tax-free concentrations of money underwrite their enemies. They are throttled, smeared, ridiculed and ostracized, but they are determined to be heard, and in spite of press, radio and the great monopolies of the two big parties, they will be.

The blood of Peter Zenger runs in their veins.

Desire Of Business Ike's Greatest Asset

WASHINGTON — The desire of the American business community for four more years of Eisenhower is the Republicans' greatest asset in the 1956 Presidential election. It was the main theme of the San Francisco convention, and the Democrats took note of this golden threat.

Besides wanting Ike, the executives heading the nation's institutions of finance, business, industry, mining and transportation are working for him actively through their bread-and-butter influence on the daily economy. Not since McKinley, Coolidge and Hoover days have they shown such co-operation with any Chief Executive, Republican or Democratic.

Wall Street, to use that loose term, has shown clearly that it likes Ike's domestic and foreign policies because of the favorable and friendly climate they have created. A brief survey of recent economic developments reveals how seemingly unrelated moves combine to vote, including that of the labor element normally hostile to the GOP.

Presaged by two Cabinet members once associated with them — Secretaries Humphrey and Mitchell — large and small industries are granting wage increases and many novel "fringe" benefits under relatively long-term contracts. Some of these agreements will extend almost through the life of the next Administration. They are conditional promissory notes.

Equally important, the real managers of the American economy are exercising restraint, at least temporarily, on a commensurate increase of wholesale and retail prices. They do not want to promote a pre-election revolt of millions of consumers.

The pay boost in the steel industry, which the head of the union described as "the most satisfactory we have ever obtained," was expected to precipitate a $10 a ton increase in the price of that product. With stocks low because of the strike, Eugene G. Grace, board chairman of Bethlehem Steel, forecast a rosy future.

Yet the "Big three" raised the price by only $6.50 a ton. As a result, the boost for fabricated goods, especially electrical appliances, household equipment and building materials, has been relatively moderate. Because of intense competition, even the cost of new car models a few months hence may be less than expected. Detroit's automobile manufacturers are virtually sold for Ike.

It has been predicted that many higher charges based on the steel boost may be absorbed instead of being passed on to the consumers. Volume sales and increased productivity are given as the non-political reasons. Color television sets will cost only $485, far less than anticipated.

Food prices, which are more difficult to manage, have shown a sharp jump. Not even Wall Street can control the weather, thousands of farmers and choosy retail customers. But even this development has not been an unmitigated evil.

Cattle at $27 a hundredweight and hogs at $17 have eased the farm revolt against Eisenhower-Benson policies, according to National Chairman Leonard W. Hall. And they expect that these figures may go even higher before November 8.

Whether Ike's nonpolitical friends — that is, nonprofessional politicians — can keep prices from running away before Election Day is still a question. But Secretary Humphrey and William McCleskey Martin, Federal Reserve Board Chairman, are keeping their eyes on this dangerous possibility. As of today, Ike sees no reason for curtailing or easing the credit situation.

The Democrats complain that this unofficial and unrecorded connection between "Big business" practices and Administration policies — they term it a "working agreement" — furnishes cause for concern and complaint. Their speeches and platform charge that it constitutes "rank discrimination" against the "little fellows."

But their attitude does not prevent Secretaries Humphrey, Weeks and Mitchell from proclaiming, as did Coolidge, Hoover and Mellon in 1924-1928, that permanent prosperity depends on staying. And they believe that they have sounder reasons than their predecessors who urged the voters to "Keep Cool with Coolidge."

Having little money to spend, and not knowing a word of the language, the girls all had a time finding places to live. But find them they did, although most of them live forty-five minutes by bus from the post, with its PX and commissary. As a general rule they have apartments in German houses, if a big bedroom and a kitchen can be called an apartment. Their average rent is around $40 a month, plus utilities.

Mrs. John L. Ford, who is now in the midst of a save-the-pennies campaign so that she and her husband can take a trip to Vienna on his next furlough, says she is the envy of the few American wives in her village.

"My kitchen has a sink with running water," Mrs. Ford, who is as pretty as a movie star, told me. "The other girls have sinks in their kitchens, but they have to go to the town pump and bring their water back in buckets. They just drool at my set-up. Not only at the sink, but you see our bathroom is on the same floor as our room."

Mrs. Darrell Bradford, wife of an Sp-3 of the 43rd Armored Battalion, is one of those who is envious of Mrs. Ford.

"She is really having it easy," Mrs. Bradford said with a smile. "I have been here nearly a year and a half, living in a bedroom and kitchen with two babies. Not only do we not have a sink with running water, but all our plumbing is outside. And that is really tough when it gets to twenty below, as it did at times last year."

But Mrs. Bradford said she had no regrets at having come to Germany.

'A Nice Story To Write,' Mac Says

By HENRY McLENORE

BAUMHOLDER, GERMANY — This is a nice story to write because it is about such nice things as gallant people, love, good humor, friendship and babies.

I found the story because of a suggestion made by Major General C. Stanton Babcock, commanding officer of the 2nd Armored Division, and the cooperation of Lt. Col. Merlin Tryon of Combat Command C. The General said that if I wanted to meet some of the finest "soldiers" in Germany I should talk with some of the wives of the enlisted men who had come from the States to be with their husbands.

Yesterday Mary and I met a group of the wives in one of the service clubs of the giant Seventh Army post here, and we spent several hours listening to their experiences abroad, of which they had no fewer than a million.

What struck us about these wives, most of whom are teenagers, or barely out of that class, was their high spirits and happiness despite the multitude of obstacles they had had to overcome, and the hazards they were still jumping.

The husbands of these girls are not of sufficient non-commissioned officer rank to merit any help from the Army in getting here or in getting established once here. It was strictly up to them to scrimp in order to save enough money for the trip, and to make all the arrangements.

To a lot of us travellers, the ordeals of the wives would have proved near-fatal. With little money and less experience in being far away from home, they set sail from such assorted places as Alachua, Fla.; San Diego, Calif.; Rolla, Mo.; andland, Wis.; and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, to be with the guys they loved.

Elizabeth Copeland of Alachua, whose husband is with Company A, 48th Armored Medical Battalion, missed her husband when she landed at Le Havre, gamely took the boat train to Paris, and wisely kept asking every Parisian she saw if they knew a Private Copeland of the Second Armored Division, until she found one who did — don't ask me how. Having little money to spend, and not knowing a word of the language, the girls all had a time finding places to live. But find them they did, although most of them live forty-five minutes by bus from the post, with its PX and commissary. "My husband and I have been placed and seen things that we never would have seen before. And I will be a friendlier person when I get home, just because the German men have been so friendly and helpful. They take care of my babies all the time. I never saw people like babies the way the Germans do. Mine are really spoiled. I don't know where my babies are right this minute, but I'd bet they are on some German woman's lap."

"FOOD AND FLOWERS GO TOGETHER like love and marriage," says Elynor Robertie, noted authority on the art of flower arranging, who has the unique job of decorating the banquet tables at the Mayflower Hotel, scene of many a famous party in the Nation's Capital.

COLOR PLAYS an important part in planning food-flower menus, believes Mrs. Robertie. For example, if you're serving ham, try blending shades of carnations, pale pink, rose pink, and pinky-red, and let your candles be in the rosiest pink possible. The effect is charming and makes the ham even tastier!

For unusual table effects avoid traditional vases, which are often frite. Try using your gravy boat or some of your best stemware, used in a cluster of three off center, with a candlestick at the other end of the table. Figurines are another imaginative touch that will make your table more interesting.

A simple Italian dinner party will look more the part, if you use empty chianti bottles filled with ivy and orange red flowers (to match the spaghetti sauce, of course!). Chianti bottles also make charming candlesticks.

Match a Sunday evening Welsh Rabbit party with orange gladiolus on your buffet table.

Match a Sunday brunch party starring eggs with yellow daisies. If fruit salad is your main course, feature your favorite assortment of artificial fruit on your table.

It's a simple trick to plan your featured food and flowers in the same color harmony and theme. Use seasonal flowers, they're far less expensive at the florist, and don't overlook the importance of greens as a wonderful base for a variety of year around uses.

With fall parties coming up, there is no limit to which to put your imagination!

GIRLS SHOULD learn to lead in dancing! Contrary to popular opinion, it's good dance technique for girls to rehearse as leading ladies, according to a recent issue of "Seventeen" magazine, which features an exclusive interview with dance authorities Arthur and Katherine Murray.

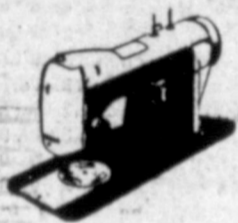

In the special article on dance tips and trends, Mrs. Murray tells girls actually to practice leading with their girlfriends. Neither girl should lead more than half the time, she says, but practice as a leader develops authority in dancing when the girl makes her debut with a boy.

The Murrays abolish another dance misconception, by turning thumbs down on the dance partner who is "light as a feather." As Mrs. Murray says, "Who wants to dance with a feather? A boy wants to dance with a girl... a girl who is neither floating nor leaning!"

Another important dance-do is to practice dancing backward, taking firm, sure back steps before a mirror or with another girl as partner.

On the controversial subject of rock 'n' roll, the Murrays say, "Teen-age dances have always alarmed the non-teen-agers. In grandma's day, a New Jersey woman was actually arrested for dancing the turkey trot!" Mr. Murray predicts that rock 'n' roll, which he calls a "jitterbug with a jump added," has probably now reached its peak and is already making way for the merengue to move in.

Pampa Altrusa Club Plans For Sale, Membership Pin During Dinner Meet

Mrs. F. M. Foster, 1233 N. Russell, was hostess to a covered-dish dinner meeting of the Pampa Altrusa Club Monday evening. Mrs. Jack P. Foster, president, led the business session.

It was announced a rummage sale will be held Sept. 17, at 108 W. Foster, with Mrs. W. A. York and Mrs. Joe Tooley in charge. The sale will be part of several projects proposed by the finance committee, with Mrs. E. E. Etheridge as chairman. Mrs. York requested that members present items for the sale already pressed and cleaned.

Mrs. Foster announced a membership pin will be awarded for perfect attendance in September 1957, with the roll to be taken each meeting beginning with the noon luncheon in September. Missed meetings may be made up by attending a called meeting or a meeting in Borger or Amarillo, she explained. Board members may make up missed meetings by attending board sessions.

Mrs. Foster reported on the committee activities, and Mrs. Lillian Snow gave the membership committee report. Mrs. F. M. Foster named the classifications open for new members.

It was announced Mrs. J. C. Coston has been named the club's representative to the Welfare Index, and that Mrs. Margaret Payne is chairman of a new attendance committee.

The budget and projects proposed by Mrs. E. E. Etheridge, finance chairman, were accepted by the group.

Mrs. Foster was named delegate to the district conference to be held in Galveston instead of Mexico City, Mexico, as previously planned. Mrs. Foster announced she will represent the club at the organizational meeting of the proposed Community Council.

Head Coach Slingin' Sammy Baugh and the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys have rounded up one of the most ambitious schedules in the history of the Boots and Bible school's football teams for this fall.

Baugh, head coach of the "40 Acres" for the second year, still holds many football records achieved while a member of the professional Washington Redskins team.

His prowess as a player was unmatched by anything the State of Texas has so far sent into the professional ranks. And now, as a coach, he is adding still more to the nation's favorite fall sport.

One Pampa and a Pampa athlete will be playing for tobacco-chewing Sam this fall. They are Pampa's Buddy Cockrell, who transferred to HSU from Oklahoma and will probably draw a starting tackle berth; and Jim Doom of LeFlore, Doan, and everything while playing football for LeFlore High School is a Junior end for the Pokes and will probably be playing behind co-captain Connie Baird of Amherst, a senior.

Cockrell, long a favorite of Pampans for his play while a member of the Harvesters' football teams, is also a top rodeo hand and a member of the school's rodeo team, also coached by Baugh. Folks down around Abilene figure Doom to make himself known around the football fields this season.

This corner, figuring Cockrell and Doom to be strong both on offense and defense, expects this area to be well represented in the Cowboy camp this fall. And, with fingers on both hands crossed, thinks the Pokes will come up with one of the finest teams in many years.

The Cowboy schedule:
Sept. 22, Arkansas — Fayetteville, 2 p.m.
Sept. 29, Wichita — Wichita, 8 p.m.

Several Pampans have gone in for hot-rodding pretty strongly it seems. In addition to the newly formed Pampa Auto Club (whose purpose by the way is reported to be to provide local persons interested in hot rodding a safe place to "drag" under appropriate supervision) there are two Pampans who are among the leading contenders at the 1956 National Championship Drag Races at Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 31-Sept. 3.

Reapers To Draw Football Uniforms

Junior High School football coaches Deck Woldt and Norman Phillips have asked candidates for the Reaper football team to draw their uniforms at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Woldt asked all boys who are interested in playing Reaper football and who are in the 9th grade and below the age of 16, to draw their uniforms at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the old Harvester gym at High School.

Woldt said 30 boys worked out with the team last spring but he expects still more to report tomorrow, including those recently moved to Pampa and others who have just decided to play on the team.

The Reapers get their season underway Sept. 7 when they scrimmage the White Deer "B" team there.

Segregation Law Expected To Be 'Watered Down' Some

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Sugar Bowl officials were expected to publicly announce today a plan to water down a strict segregation law which bans all racially mixed athletics in Louisiana.

Letters went out late Tuesday to the 140 state legislators, who meet in a special 12-day session called by Gov. Earl Long for Thursday, asking him to give the Sugar Bowl their support.

The plan, a bold one for this segregation-conscious state, was to seek the signatures of each lawmaker as authors of a bill which would exempt cities over 100,000 population in the state from the terms of the racial bill.

This would keep alive ambitious sports dreams for the cities of New Orleans, Shreveport and Baton Rouge.

The Legislature unanimously approved a bill during the recent regular 60-day session which outlaws the mixing of Negro and white players in any professional or amateur sports events in Louisiana.

Three Teams Withdraw
The measure, which takes effect in October, has already caused three teams — Notre Dame, St. Louis University and Dayton — to withdraw from the annual Sugar Bowl basketball tournament in December.

It has also brought about the canceling of a home-and-home football series between Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge and Wisconsin of the Big Ten.

Behind the move to whittle down the powers of the original bill, termed by some as the "death knell" of sports in Louisiana, are New Orleans merchants.

Businessmen have predicted dire economic setbacks if the Sugar Bowl becomes a second rate event with only southern sectional teams from which to choose.

Some have called the effects of the racial bill "a million-dollar loss" in tourist trade to New Orleans during the week-long carnival of sports sponsored by the Sugar Bowl, in addition to the football bowl classic.

Major league baseball teams could also appear, as in the past, during spring tours on the grapefruit circuit.

Only these three cities are over 100,000 in the state.

Other provisions of the present law remain in effect — such as segregated seating, separate rest room facilities and a ban on all "mixed" entertainment events — for the entire state.

One legislator, who declined to be identified, said a visiting northern team to the New Year's Day bowl classic would receive a block of tickets in the stadium on a non-segregated basis.

The rest of the huge 80,000-seat stadium would be segregated.

'Babe' Still Smiles
GALVESTON, Tex. (UP)—Famed woman athlete Babe Dinkins continues to wear a smile in her battle with cancer but doctors said her serious condition "remains unchanged."

John Sealy Hospital reported in its once-daily medical bulletin Tuesday that the frail, one-ducky Babe continues to "laugh and joke with her doctors, nurses and family," and that her temperature, pulse and respiration are "normal."

Her condition has slowly grown more serious since July 13 when the first of two operations were performed to relieve pain and complications from the malignancy. She has been in the hospital since last March 29 and has wasted away to less than 100 pounds.

The sectional meeting here, similar to one held recently in Miami, Fla., had representatives from four clubs of the Texas League, three in the Big State League and Southwestern and Evangeline leagues.

The independents, hardest hit in the minors' struggle for survival in the face of dwindling attendance and competition from major-league operated clubs, also called for a national meeting in late October of all independent baseball.

Their five-point program included:
1. Formation of a baseball bank with at least a $50,000 available fund from which worthy, needy minor league clubs could borrow money in financial tightness. This fund, would be a replenishing one with fresh money added each year.

2. A freer player market and the opportunity for all clubs to sign, develop and sell players as a method of income. They called for a free-agent draft, revision of optional salary payments and realistic draft prices. They also want the right of players to reject a draft, extended into the lower minors from the open Pacific Coast League.

3. Formation of rules controlling broadcasting and televising of major league games with the rules to include equitable distribution of such receipts among the affected minor league clubs.

4. More equitable working agreements with minimum cash payments along with equitable salary participation.

5. Removal of federal excise taxes on admissions which the owner said brought on the situation of paying taxes even though they lost money.

Oilers, Clovis Split Twin Bill, 1-5, 6-3

Two Games Set For Tonight

The Clovis Pioneers and the Pampa Oilers split a double-header here Tuesday night that was an hour late in getting underway, by scores of 1-5 and 6-3.

The first game was delayed approximately an hour when a misunderstanding resulted in the Clovis Pioneers being late as they thought only one game was scheduled. The umpires, Ryan and Lipp, were even later in arriving and with the crowd getting restless, they finally made their appearance and the first game got underway.

Pampa's pitcher, Ernie Bartolomei, had a shutout going until the ninth inning of the first game. With two outs, the Pioneers managed to score their only run as Valdez scored on a single by Harrington. Valdez had been given a walk and the next batter, Smith, was safe at first on a fielders choice as Bruza forced out Cantrell at third.

In the first game, the Oilers scored one run in the first inning when Guzman, who had doubled, scored on a single by Bruza. They also scored a run in the third when Robinette, who had also doubled, scored on a single by Tucker.

In the bottom of the fourth the Oilers managed to tally two more runs as Flores, who had doubled, and Kempa, who had gotten on base on a fielders choice, both managed to score on a single by Guzman.

The final Oiler score came in the sixth when Kempa scored on a double by Robinette.

The picture changed in the second game of the night as the Pioneers led off with two runs in the first inning. Wilcox, who had drawn a walk by Shipman, scored on a single by Parker and Paskiewicz scored on a double by Thomas.

The Pioneers scored one run in the fifth and one run in the sixth. In the top of the seventh, Clovis came through for two more runs as Valdez and Jurecko scored.

Pampa never came from behind and scored one run in the second as Tucker came across the plate for their only earned run of the game on a single by Martin.

The Oilers tallied came in the sixth as Kempa and Guzman scored on a series of bases on balls and a hit batter, Martin.

The same two teams will meet again tonight for another double-header with the first game slated to start at 6:30 p.m. The teams will be making up a game lost at Clovis earlier in the season which was ordered transferred to Pampa by the league president.

Colts Are Pushing Oilers
By UNITED PRESS
The San Angelo Colts seem about to break third place away from the Pampa Oilers as the Southwestern League moves into its final week with the Hobbs Sports hobbling along with a 10-game lead.

The Colts smashed Plainview twice 3 to 1 and 6 to 1 Tuesday night behind the respective fourth and two-hit hurling of Stan Patchel and Jodie Phipps to pull within two percentage points of the Oilers who could do no better than break even with Clovis in a twin bill.

Pampa won the opener 5 to 1. The game was an hour late getting underway because neither Clovis nor the umpires understood there was going to be a double-header. Then Clovis took the finale 6 to 3.

El Paso finally beat Carlsbad 5 to 2 after losing seven straight games to the Potashers. El Paso got wild, nine-walk, three-hit hurling from Billy Kirk. Midland knocked off Hobbs 7 to 4 with Tom Pollett scattering 10 Sports hits, and Ballinger took the measure of Rosewell 11 to 4 behind Gene Lipold's hurling and Dale Scales two homers and a double.

Tonight Ballinger will be at Roswell again. Clovis at Pampa, El Paso at Carlsbad, Midland at Hobbs and San Angelo at Plainview.

It is estimated that the population of the United States will reach 215,000,000 by 1975.

Appreciation Night Set

Oiler appreciation nights will be observed Thursday and Friday at Oiler Park, Grover Seitz, general manager has reported.

The brain has put together a composition which its operators call the "Illiac Suite." The musical score is the result of teletype tapes containing mathematical symbols for the musical notes being fed into the brain. Right, Prof. L. M. Isaacson, who prepared the music composition problem for Illiac, and Prof. L. A. There Are Days When Folks Wish Their Name Was Smith

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—There are days when folks like Nichols and Fitzgerald wish their names were Smith.

Joe Smith, the man of the hour, almost got his name placed in nomination at the GOP convention in San Francisco as a candidate for V.P.

But hoping doesn't do any good for 1.5 million Smiths about in the U.S.

Thinking about this, I fell to digging through my library and found a book written a while back by my friend H. Allen — last name of Smith.

Allen got to looking through the record and discovered that somebody, way-back, had written a book about buttons. That, he thought, interested hardly anybody but collectors of buttons.

There must be more Smiths in the world than collectors of buttons, he thought. So my friend set to work collecting information about the Clan Smith.

It took a bit of time, but he came up with a volume called "People Named Smith." He found only "two alleged books" about Smiths. One of them was published around the turn of the century, and Allen remarked that this was put out by a "retarded eighth grader." It was a pamphlet. Only five or six pages of Smiths. The second was no improvement.

H. Allen Smith is no holder-back when it comes to getting the family name in print. His book runs 253 pages and there are any number of Smiths of all kinds mentioned on every page. That adds up to the thousands.

"The Smiths of this world are common only in the sense that they are numerous. It is a large subject," Allen says.

Allen has little truck with what he likes to call the "hybrid Smiths," the "almost Smiths" and the "hyphenated Smiths."

He claims that the Smith clan

And so another open mind investigator ended up on our team because of the amazing results obtained. This sort of approval has been going on for years and is the basic reason behind the international effort being made to take Chiropractic away from the chiropractors, call it something else, and prescribe for only one per cent of the ailments on which it is amazingly effective.

Who, for instance, would suspect that Chiropractic would be effective in the following case, much less prescribe it, except a bona fide Chiropractor?

Takes Considerable Stack Of $ For Higher Learning

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—A lot of dads are fretting this season, when they should have done a lot of hard thinking long ago.
Plain fact is that it takes a considerable stack of long green to finance a boy or girl in higher learning.
About the least a pop can figure on to send one kid through college is $1,200 a year, and that doesn't include dough for any snacks or cokes. If the young hammer for the Ivy League or some of the fancy women's colleges, the old man can figure on dishing up from $2,000 to $3,000 a student or more—depending on the tastes in furs and tweeds.

1940, not too long back, the overall cost of one year of college has doubled—tuitions, keep and the like.
Even if dad pays by the less painful monthly plan, he still has to pay for everything. Everything runs into a multitude of things like books, fancy clothes and money to take the gal friend to a flicke.

IT'S THE LAW ★ IN TEXAS ★

DOUBLE JEOPARDY
Most likely you can't picture yourself being brought into court on anything worse than a speeding violation. Nearly everyone feels that way. Even so, it is good to know that in this country you can't be made to stand trial twice for the same offense.

We have a provision in the U.S. constitution against "double jeopardy". That's one of the important safeguards in our system of law which makes it certain that once a court has reached a verdict of "innocent", the acquitted person may not be put on trial again for the same offense.

To add to the protection, if a person has been acquitted, the prosecution cannot appeal the case to a higher court. The constitution states specifically: "Nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life and limb."

This right holds good, however, only if a full trial is held and a verdict is reached. It is possible to face another trial on the same charge if the first trial ends with a "hung jury" or a "mistrial", or if a new trial is requested.
A classic example comes from the "Wild West" in the late 1850's.
A man named Ball was charged with murder, along with two others. Ball was acquitted, but the others were found guilty. The guilty pair appealed to a higher court, and their original indictment was found to be faulty.

Once again the government accused all three men. Ball claimed his right against double jeopardy had been invaded, and the U.S.
Supreme Court agreed. He didn't have to stand trial again. The other two did, and paid the penalty for their guilt.

The reason for the "double jeopardy" provision is to protect the individual from being hounded all his life. In old England, where

THAT'S MY MUMMY—Proving that beauty is only skin deep, film starlet Diane Brewster gives a comforting caress to the gent with the creased-grease complexion. Man with the wrinkled face is actor Alvaro Guillot, who plays a walking mummy in the suspense film, "The Pharaoh's Curse."
