President Begins Light Schedule Of Business

By PATRICIA WIGGINS
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower undertook a light schedule of official business today after a good night's sleep that further advanced his "satisfactory" progress toward recovery. A medical bulletin issued by attending physicians at Walter Reed Army hospital at 8:10 a. m. said the convalescing President's "spirits and morale are high."

Beginning his second day on a regular diet of soft foods, Mr. Eisenhower had a breakfast of two soft-boiled eggs, a slice of whole wheat toast with honey, a full glass of skimmed milk and a cup of tea.

Weights in at 162
His weight, before breakfast, was 162 pounds, the same as Monday, still seven pounds under what he weighed when he was rushed to Walter Reed June 8 for emergency surgery to relieve an intestinal block.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty promised newsman's doctors again about the possibility of a recurrence of Mr. Eisenhower's relatively uncommon ailment, diagnosed as ileitis, "an inflammation of the lower small intestine."

Hagerty made the promise after he was pressed by reporters Monday for comment on published reports that the cure possibility is greater than Mr. Eisenhower's doctors have previously indicated. Hagerty added that he "resents very much" an implication that he has been trying to conceal information.

Text of the 8:10 a. m. medical bulletin:

"The President had another good night's rest. He slept almost continually for about 8 hours. His temperature is 98, pulse 76, blood pressure 114-70 and respiration 18, all of which are normal. His weight this morning before breakfast was 162 pounds."

On Soft Food Diet
"The President is now on a regular soft diet. His breakfast this morning was the same as yesterday except that he had a full glass of skimmed milk."

"His condition continues to progress satisfactorily. His spirits and morale are high."

Hagerty said no official visitors were planned today other than White House staff members. Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams had a 9:30 a. m. appointment with the President.

Hagerty said he did not know whether French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, here for diplomatic talks, would visit President Eisenhower at the hospital.

Hagerty also had not heard yet just when the President will leave the hospital or where he plans to convalesce. Earlier, doctors said he would spend about 15 days in the hospital, and then two to four weeks resting elsewhere before resuming his full duties.

Hagerty also told reporters:

1. That there might be an announcement today regarding Mr. Eisenhower's hospital conferences Monday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.
2. That the size of the President's meals is being increased a little each day. He said the calorie content now is greater than the 1,800-calorie-per-day diet Mr. Eisenhower adhered to after his heart attack.
3. That the President had his first meal out of bed Monday, sitting in an easy chair to eat it. The dinner consisted of a broiled beef patty, mashed potatoes, pureed peas, a (See PRESIDENT, Page 2)

Democrats In Kentucky Choose Sides

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Kentucky Democrats are choosing sides for a contest like the recent one in Texas for control of the state party organization.

The chief rivals are Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler and Assistant Senate Leader Earle C. Clements, who have fought political duels before.

Because the contest also involves a 30-vote Democratic national convention delegation, it can be important to Adlai E. Stevenson, the pace-setting candidate for the presidential nomination.

Clements is considered a Stevenson supporter while Chandler himself is a potential favorite son and dark horse contender for the Democratic nomination.

City To Let Paving Bids

At the weekly meeting of the City Commission this morning in City Hall it was announced that bids for additional paving of city streets will be opened July 10. The paving contracts will be let on those streets where the property owners have made petitions for paving and have made a cash deposit with the city for the paving work.

The commissioners stated this morning that all petitions for paving from the property owners should be turned in to the city secretary before the end of this week so that necessary work could be completed in time for the letting of contracts.

The commissioners also stated that property owners who desire paving of streets adjoining their property and do not have the necessary cash at the present time could obtain home improvement loans for the paving work.

The commissioners also instructed City Engineer James Cowan to change the sequence on the new lights installed at the Ouyler and Brown intersection. The left turn arrow has been following the full green light, and they decided that it would be better if the sequence was from red to the left turn arrow and then to the green light.

The city engineer advised that left turns could be made on the green light as well as on the arrow. The arrow was installed to enable those motorists to make left turns that were unable to do so on the green light.

The city bond election June 26 was discussed. The commissioners stated they are willing to discuss the necessity of the bond issue with any citizen or group of citizens interested in knowing more about the city's needs.

The commissioners also stressed the importance of a large turnout at the election. They stated that the larger the vote the better the chance of selling the bonds at a lower interest rate.

W. M. Gregg, 1064 Varnon Drive, a passenger in the truck, was taken to Highland General Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the accident. No report on his condition was available this morning.

Accident Occurs West Of Pampa

Failure to heed highway construction signs resulted in an accident about 7 p. m. Monday on Highway 152 west of Pampa, Highway Patrolman Royce Logan said this morning.

The accident occurred about the middle of the section of highway under construction at McConnell Lake, five miles west of town, according to the investigating officer.

Clarence Edward Hollis, 621 Lowry, driving a '49 Ford panel truck belonging to Monarch Lumber Co., lost control of the truck when it struck a pile of sand. The truck went up the side of the five foot pile of sand and turned over, according to the report.

W. M. Gregg, 1064 Varnon Drive, a passenger in the truck, was taken to Highland General Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the accident. No report on his condition was available this morning.

Police Probe Babies' Deaths

NEW YORK (UP)—Police looked for possible "official blame" today for the starvation deaths of two babies left alone for 30 days when their mother was committed to Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric ward.

The wasted bodies of Josephine Velez, 21 months, and Antonio, 8 months, were found by a welfare worker Monday in a nearly vacant East Side tenement. The children had been dead four or five days.

Their mother, Anastasia Velez, 33, had been arrested June 10 by police when she kicked in the door of a Second Avenue saloon.

Mrs. Velez had been acting strangely for more than an hour in the saloon. She did not drinking but sat in a telephone booth dropping dials into the coin box without dialing a number.

When ejected from the saloon, Mrs. Velez kicked in the door glass and cut her leg. She attacked police when they tried to treat her leg wound. She was taken to Bellevue for observation.

At the police station she was listed without her first name and with the notation: "No known relatives and address unknown."

The top brass police investigation was ordered immediately following discovery of the bodies. Chief Inspector Thomas A. Nielson and Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett were called into the closed door session.

"We are looking into all the facts," Leggett said. "If we find there was any laxity we will not hide it."

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the investigation was ordered to determine if anyone in authority in the police, hospital or welfare departments knew the children were unattended.

Bond Issues Discussed

City Manager Fred Brook enthusiastically advocated a big turnout at the polls June 26th, during the regular monthly meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors held yesterday at Poole's Steak House.

In his report on the upcoming $2,810,000 bond election, Brook stated, "Everything we ask for is needed and recommended by authorities in the field."

The city manager quoted State Fire Insurance Division which inspected Pampa last year and found it deficient in water storage, fire stations and equipment as estimating Pampans would pay more through an insurance rate boost than the cost of the proposed issues, in the long run, if the proposition vote fails to pass.

The recommendations made by the State Fire Insurance Division, said Brook, concerning the Pampa water storage and supply system have been included in the water and sewer projects. The fire stations and equipment have been proposed separately in this bond issue.

The Hobart Street Underpass has been needed for many years to prevent accidents and eliminate traffic congestion at the railroad crossing, reported Brook. He added, "The recent fatal accident was a reminder the project has been delayed too long already."

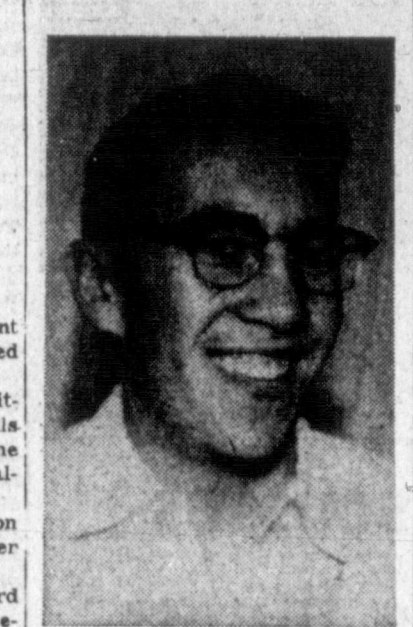

Brook estimated that a fifteen cent tax increase will be required to finance the bond issue. This will change the tax rate from $1.75 to $1.90.

The proposed issues to be voted upon are as follows:

- Proposition No. 1 — Transfer of $68,000 Business District Storm Sewer Bond Money on hand, to be transferred for use on Hobart Street.
- Proposition No. 2 — Part of City's portion for Hobart Street Underpass, $280,000 tax.
- Proposition No. 3 — Swimming Pool and Parks, $50,000 tax.
- Proposition No. 4 — Street Improvements, $280,000 tax.
- Proposition No. 5 — Fire Station and Equipment, $170,000 tax.
- Proposition No. 6 — Water Improvements, $280,000 tax.
- Proposition No. 7 — Water Improvements, $1,300,000 revenue.
- Proposition No. 8 — Sewer Improvements, $510,000 revenue.

It is proposed that the entire $1,000,000 tax bond issue and $800,000 of the Water & Sewer Revenue Bond issue be offered for public sale in 1956, and the remaining $1,010,000 Water & Sewer Revenue bonds be offered for public sale in 1957.

The breakdown of water & sewer revenue bonds runs as follows: water distribution system, $678,000; elevated tank, $210,000; booster station and storage, $148,000; water rights, $110,000; new wells, $98,000; supply lines, 79,000; sewer mains, $353,000; modifications, $184,000; other improvements (rest

RODNEY DAVIS

Service Station Worker Is Killed

A young Pampa High School student, Rodney Van Davis, 16, died about 7:45 p. m. Monday in a Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance between Pampa and Amarillo resulting from an accident earlier at Nick's Shamrock Service Station located about a mile out of Pampa on the Amarillo highway.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Davis, 1021 S. Sumner, who is associated with the Shamrock Products Co.

Operator of the station, Nick Nicholson, said that Rodney and a friend, who both worked at the station, had just finished airing up a 50 lb. truck tire when the rim blew off. The combustion blew the tire up, knocking Rodney unconscious against the grease rack. A Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance rushed the boy to the Highland General Hospital about 6 p. m. They were taking him to Amarillo to a brain specialist when he died. The back of the boy's skull was fractured.

Rodney would have been a junior in Pampa High School this year. He played basketball with the service station off and on for about one and one-half years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church in Pampa with the Rev. E. Douglas Carver officiating. Burial will be in Memory Gardens.

Survivors are the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Davis; three sisters, Mrs. H. T. Hampton Jr., of Dallas; Mrs. Kenneth Kyle, Pampa; and Mrs. Roy Barron, Cheyenne; three brothers, Jerry

FHA Boss Accused Of Drink Orgy

WASHINGTON (UP)—Robert B. McLeish, head of the Farmers Home Administration, was accused at a congressional hearing Monday of drinking heavily and getting "intoxicated" in the presence of his employees.

The charges were leveled by Mrs. Kathryn Carter, Bozeman, Mont., housewife who used to work in the FHA's Montana office.

She told a Senate Civil Service subcommittee that McLeish and her own boss, former Montana FHA director Carl O. Hansen, got intoxicated at a dinner at the Frontier Club at West Yellowstone, Mont., in June, 1954. The dinner followed a meeting of several state FHA directors.

McLeish had no immediate comment. He is scheduled to testify later this week.

Mrs. Carter, a pretty brunette, said at the dinner she sat with McLeish, Hansen, and Homer Cogdell, an assistant director of the agency.

She said Hansen became "highly inebriated" and that McLeish and Cogdell were "intoxicated." Another employee in Hansen's office "gave him a recipe," she said, and a friend took her away because she "was dying by inches."

Basket Burns, House Is Safe

A burning wastepaper basket at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kennemer, 1121 E. Foster, last night brought a call to the Pampa Fire Department.

Firemen this morning reported that, although the house was full of smoke, damage was negligible.

Rigid Controls Used To Counter Violence

LONDON (UP)—Britain has drawn up plans for a new Cyprus constitution that would grant a liberal measure of self-government to the rebellious island, it was reported today.

The new plan to restore peace on Cyprus was worked out in negotiations between Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding who came here for a few days and remained for three weeks.

Talks between Britain and Archbishop Makarios, leader of the "Union with Greece" movement on Cyprus, broke down earlier this year over a Cyprus constitution, touching off new waves of anti-British violence on Cyprus. Makarios was exiled to the Seychelle Islands.

Britain was making an all out effort to crush the violence with military force. Rigid curfews amounting to house arrest for Cypriots were in effect in several cities. Death sentences were being meted out to convicted terrorists.

Reports from Nicosia today said British troops still hoped to capture guerrilla leader Col. George Grivas in his mountain hideout despite a disastrous forest fire that killed 19 British tommyes. Grivas is the reported leader of EOKA, the anti-British underground.

Grivas, who calls himself "Digenis," was nearly captured in the sweep against EOKA before the fire broke out. Grivas, 58, was so tired his men had to carry him piggyback to safety across the slopes and gullies of his mountain stronghold, Nicosia reports said.

Status of the 100,000 Greek Cypriots on Cyprus was one of the main difficulties facing Eden and Harding. The Greek Cypriots total 400,000 and presumably would control any elected legislature. The London Times suggested today that a new constitution would have to provide guarantees for Turkish minority rights.

The Times also said the new proposals called for the governor of Cyprus to keep control over internal security and the police force as long as necessary during the self-government period.

The Greek Cypriots rejected this idea in previous negotiations which failed when they refused to grant proper guarantees for the rights of the Turkish minority.

Capitol Hill Roundup

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Republican leaders today maneuvered to strike a compromise with Democrats on how much Air Force appropriations would be tugged over administration requests.

Republicans virtually conceded that Senate Democrats will succeed in increasing Air Force appropriations. However, they sought a compromise short of the $1.16 billion increase approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee Monday.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) senior Republican on the committee said he was drafting a "compromise" proposal. It was understood Bridges was thinking in terms of a $600 million increase for the Air Force — about half that voted by the appropriations committee.

Lt. Gen. Donald L. Pott, Air Force deputy chief of staff for development, recommended in testimony just released by the Senate Armed Services subcommittee on air power that an additional $280 million be appropriated for the Air Force research budget.

Development of new weapons, Pott said, has been slowed down by "inadequacy" of research funds and by red tape in the Pentagon. Unless there is an increase in research spending, he warned, Russian air power will become superior in quality — as it already is in quantity.

Other congressional news:

Foreign Aid: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted some Democrats will propose further cuts in military aid when the $4.5 billion foreign aid bill goes before the Senate. But he does not think there will be heavy support for "drastic" cuts, such as the $1 billion military aids lash voted by the House.

Debt Limit: Members of the House Ways & Means Committee predicted they would vote overwhelmingly to lower the current legal limit on the national debt from $281 billion to $278 billion.

Schools: Rep. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga.) predicted funds will be withheld from states that maintain segregated schools if the $1.6 billion school construction bill becomes law. He thinks this will hold true even if Congress rejects attempts to write anti-segregation amendments into the measure.

Brainwashing: The Senate Investigating subcommittee called experts who have studied brainwashing as practiced by the Chinese Communists. The subcommittee is investigating the nature of Communist brainwashing and how to combat it.

Hells Canyon: The House Interior Committee scheduled a vote on a bill to stake a federal claim to the Hells Canyon damsite on the Snake River. The Senate Interior Committee also may act on a similar bill.

Television: Officials of several ABC-affiliated television stations were called before the Senate Commerce Committee to tell of their working relations with the American Broadcasting Company network. Officials of seven stations affiliated with the Columbia Broadcasting System urged the committee to reject proposals for government regulation of networks.

School Funds May Hinge On Segregation

By WILLIAM M. RATES
WASHINGTON (UP)—A southern congressman predicted today that if the $1.6 billion school construction bill becomes law funds will be withheld from states that maintain segregated schools.

Rep. Phil M. Landrum, (D-Ga.), a foe of the bill, thinks this will happen even if Congress rejects attempts to write anti-segregation amendments into the measure.

Landrum was one of four House members scheduled to testify today before the House Rules committee in what have been billed as final hearings on the long-stalled school bill.

Following the hearings, the committee may decide whether or not to send the measure to the House floor for a vote. Backers believe they have the strength to get the bill out of the committee. But they shied away from making the outright prediction.

Also scheduled to appear before the rules group were Reps. Cleveland Bailey (D-W. Va.), a leading proponent of the bill; Henry A. Dixon (R-Utah), who favors the measure, and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.), sponsor of an amendment to the bill which would bar funds to states that do not abolish racial segregation in classrooms.

Landrum expressed a fear of many of his fellow southerners that the school construction bill would open the door to federal control of education and become another weapon to try to force integration in Dixie schools.

Wery, Speaks At Optimist Meeting

The Optimist Club held its weekly meeting at Poole's Drive-Inn Monday evening.

Arthur B. Wery, representative of the World's Finest Chocolate Co. was the speaker.

It was decided by the club that the Pony League playoffs from the first round will be played after the second half is completed.

A picnic in Central Park under the direction of the Opti-Mrs. Club, will be held Monday in place of the regular Optimist meeting in Poole's.

Century Could Pass On Earth During 10-Year Trip In Space

By WILLARD WILKS
PASADENA, Calif. (UP)—Scientists believe there is a way to slow down time and that man himself could experience it.

It would require that a human travel fantastically fast in space to do it, but theoretically space men could return from a 10-year roundtrip to another world and find that a century had passed on earth.

The United Press asked Dr. Richard P. Feynman, professor of theoretical physics at California Institute of Technology, for an explanation.

Einstein's Theory
Dr. Feynman says the phenomenon, expressed in Einstein's theory of relativity, appears to be borne out in the laboratory. Experiments show that atomic particles pushed to speeds approaching that of light in cyclotrons take longer to decay by earth-measured time.

The time differential between a returning space ship and earth would depend upon the speed at which the ship had been traveling and the length of time gone. The greater speed and time, the greater the differential.

It appears a fact that the speed at which a body, including the earth, moves in the universe determines that body's own special world of time, differing from that of bodies traveling at different speeds.

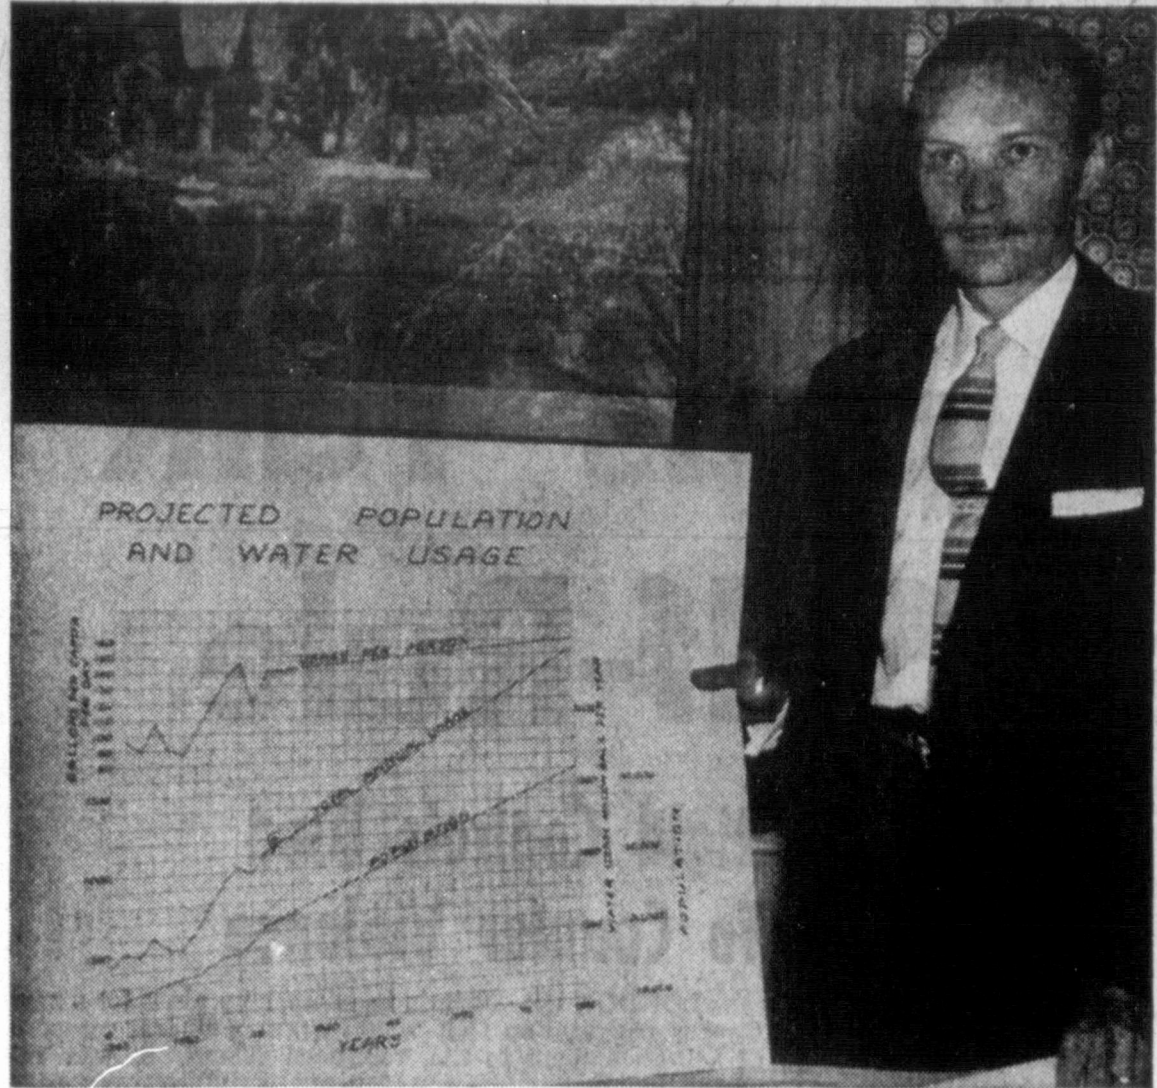

The explanation centers around the speed of light, about 186,000 miles per second, which is the "ultimate speed." The faster a "space ship" travels — the more it "catches up" on the speed of light — the more it would seem to "catch up" on time itself.

Live in Slow Motion
To earth observers, occupants of such a ship would appear to be living in slow motion. Their digestive processes, their rate of aging, everything, must match the ship's own world of time. But the occupants wouldn't notice any difference.

But the speed would have to be fantastic. For example, to put yourself even 12 seconds behind earth time, you would have to travel in space for three years at 100 miles per second.

That is only a fraction of the speed of light. But it compares with only seven miles per second which is the speed necessary for a space ship, or the man-made satellites to be launched next year, to "escape" from the earth's gravity.

Pampa Band Hangs Help Wanted Sign

Pampa's embryo community band, approximately 18 strong, is slowly rounding into shape on the heels of their third consecutive rehearsal. It was reported yesterday afternoon by Henry Gordon at Poole's Steak House during the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

But, musicians in certain categories are still needed, he added, particularly in clarinet and reed instruments. A snare drummer and a bass drummer would also be welcome additions.

Musicians from McLean, Lefors and other nearby towns are eligible and welcome to participate in the Pampa community band. Interested parties can learn more of the particulars by getting in touch with the local Chamber of Commerce, or Henry Gordon at KPDM.

Retired musicians who want to get back in the swing of things are also cordially invited to join the community band.

Bill Tregoe, director of the high school band, will be the acting director of the community band, but will yield the baton to a replacement when the new school year begins in the fall.

Joe DiCosimo, junior high band director is presently holding down Tregoe's assignment due to illness in the latter's family out-of-town.

Rogers Discusses President's Illness

Walter Rogers' weekly newsletter to the people of the 18th District concerned his views on the President's recent illness, and the reactions it was causing in Washington.

Mr. Rogers said that official Washington's reaction to the illness of, and operation on, the President was about as varied as the colors in the coat of Joseph. This, of course, is not unnatural. A man who occupies the top position in the world, as we know it today, is the center of everyone's attention. The reaction from the human standpoint was no different from that of people everywhere. Everyone was deeply concerned about the affliction of the President, as they would be about other fellow human beings. Moving away from the human side of the question, we could probably divide the reactions into three major divisions: (1) medical (2) political (3) financial.

The Medical Reaction: The reaction definitely proved an old saying that doctors are not unlike lawyers in their own profession. Meaning that you would probably get 10 different conclusions on the same subject if you would talk to that many different doctors or groups of doctors. It has been said that the operation was routine. Personally, I don't care for any of the operations, whether they be routine, major, minor or otherwise.

Whether or not an operation or an illness does or does not qualify or disqualify a man to seek a public office is a question that can only be answered by the victim, himself. I think that that will be the procedure in the present case.

The Political Reaction: When you look for political reaction, you certainly come up with wide and divergent views. Some in the President's own Party were very disheartened. They honestly feel that the President is somewhat of a political one-man band. That unless he is on the ticket there would be no band and, therefore, little need for a wagon. Others feel that the name has some degree of magic and that Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, could fill the vacancy on the November ticket very well. His recent resignation as President of Pennsylvania State College brought forward some speculation about his political aspirations. Many felt that the operation would serve to strengthen the President, physically. One man went so far as to say that the President would be stronger after recovering from his heart attack and the operation than any opponents who could appear against him. I have never had a heart attack or an abdominal operation, but I seriously doubt the soundness of this man's statement. No one could be led to believe that the fountain of youth has in physical ailments, cured or uncured. Looking at the situation realistically, no one in official Washington is underestimating the political significance of the President's illness. Everyone is praying for his quick and complete recovery, but no one for a minute doubts that, politically speaking, the situation is one of touch and go at the present time, as to what can or may happen during this year.

The Financial Reaction: As most of you know, the financial reaction to this announcement of the President's illness was in keeping with former situations of this kind. Stocks suffered and the market became very jittery. Already "tight" money became tighter and has not loosened up. The money markets, generally speaking, are not unlike a "spooky" horse. But, this time it seems like they want to have proof that they have not seen a real "spook" before taking off the brakes.

Personally speaking, it is my sincere desire and hope that the President has a speedy and complete recovery from his abdominal difficulties, as well as any remaining incidents to his heart trouble. Any man carrying the burdens of the President of the United States must be possessed of a strong, physical constitution. However, I do

First National Sets 50th Anniversary

The First National Bank of Pampa will celebrate its fiftieth Anniversary Thursday with an open house. Old settlers who did business with the bank in its early operation are especially invited.

J. R. P. Sewell instigated and established Pampa's first bank on June 21, 1906, and since that time it has been a picture of progress.

Sewell, J. S. Wynne, J. T. Crawford, Slier Faulkner, J. C. Rider, T. D. Hobart, S. B. Owens, J. W. Davidson, and W. H. Fuqua with vision and foresight not only for their banking needs, but for the future of Pampa. Gray County and its trade area, opened for business the First State Bank, which later became the First National Bank. It was located where Zales Jewelry Store now is. Later it was moved to its present location.

Sewell came to Pampa, which was then a small town of a few hundred people, from the Calvin Indian Territory in Oklahoma. The first checks used were from the Calvin Bank on which they erased the name and substituted their own. Before establishment of Pampa's first bank, most people did their banking in Miami and Panhandle.

Sewell, who was the first president, sold the bank to B. E. Finley and others in 1908. He acted as president from that time until his death in 1934. At that time, DeLea Vicars took charge and served until 1944, at which time the present president, A. A. Schuneman took over. J. E. Murfee Jr. is now chairman of the board of directors.

At the end of the first month of business, there were 48 deposits. A deposit of $100 a day was considered a big day's business. Today there are over 7,000 depositors and $400,000 deposited in a normal day's business. The bank's first statement showed an amount of $2,840 deposited, and today there is over $14,000,000 in deposits.

The capital was originally recorded as $10,000. The capital structure today is approximately $900,000. The first record of a loan was July 4, 1906, and was $100. Today the bank has loans out amounting to $4,000,000. The first day's earnings from exchange was 5c.

Charter patrons who still do business with the bank are C. P. Buckler, M. K. Brown, W. T. Wilks, and A. H. Doucette.

Present directors of the bank are J. E. Murfee Jr., E. J. Dunigan Jr., C. P. Buckler, E. L. Green Jr., Frank M. Carter, and Schuneman.

Pampa Directors Support Oilers

The directors also voted to request one high school assembly each year when civic, industrial, business and community activities can be aired before the student body.

In other action of the Chamber of Commerce Directors, it was voted to purchase 10 books of baseball tickets from the needy Pampa Oilier Community Association.

The books, which sell for $35, will be given away to new Pampa residents. Also, the tickets will be used as giveaways on the booster trips planned in conjunction with the Top-O-Texas rodeo scheduled to be held here in August.

No Appointments Today

The President had no scheduled appointments today but was expected to confer with members of his staff.

The question of whether the President's ailment might recur was first brought up by reporters at a news conference with Mr. Eisenhower's doctors after his operation. At that time, Dr. Leonard D. Heaton, who operated on the President, said:

"In this age group (the President's) we do not look for any further extension of this disease process."

Personal Physician Agrees

At the same news conference, the President's physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, was asked whether Mr. Eisenhower might suffer again from the disease known as ileitis. He replied: "I think not, with the correction this operation affords."

Later, however, published reports quoted various medical authorities as saying the recurrence rate of ileitis was high. When confronted with these reports previously, Hagerty said they did not take into account the distinction made by Heaton between younger ileitis patients and those in the President's age bracket.

In Philadelphia Sunday, Dr. Buril Crohn, who first diagnosed ileitis and pioneered its treatment, said the recurrence of the disease takes place in 30 to 35 per cent of the cases "over a long period of time." But he said the recurrence are mild and it is exceedingly rare to have to re-operate in such cases.

DEMOCRATS

In Texas, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson defeated Gov. Allan Shivers to become chairman of the national convention delegation and a favorite son candidate for the presidential nomination.

The stage was set for a new round in the Kentucky battle today. The state Democratic Executive Committee convened in Louisville to nominate a candidate for the four-year unexpired term of the late Sen. Alben Barkley. The nominee will run in the Nov. 6 election against a Republican candidate to be selected later.

Chandler Monday appointed a close friend and political ally, attorney Joseph J. Leary, to fill Barkley's seat from now until the Nov. 6 election. The question was whether the committee would follow suit by nominating Leary, a Chandler man, for the four-year term or select a member of the Clements faction.

Former Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby, an ally of Clements, has been mentioned for the nomination. The present state committee, which goes out of existence July 3, is dominated by the Clements faction.

Other Political News

Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel (Kan) chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, predicted Monday night that President Eisenhower will disclose at his next news conference whether he still plans to run for re-election. Schoepel said he "fully expects" Mr. Eisenhower to be a candidate.

Sen. Estes Kefauver's campaign chairman and supporters from 13 states declared after a Washington conference Monday that they will concentrate between now and the Democratic convention on "amassing sufficient delegate strength" to give Kefauver "a stronger fighting chance for the nomination." They declared that Kefauver has "as good a chance as anyone else of getting the nomination."

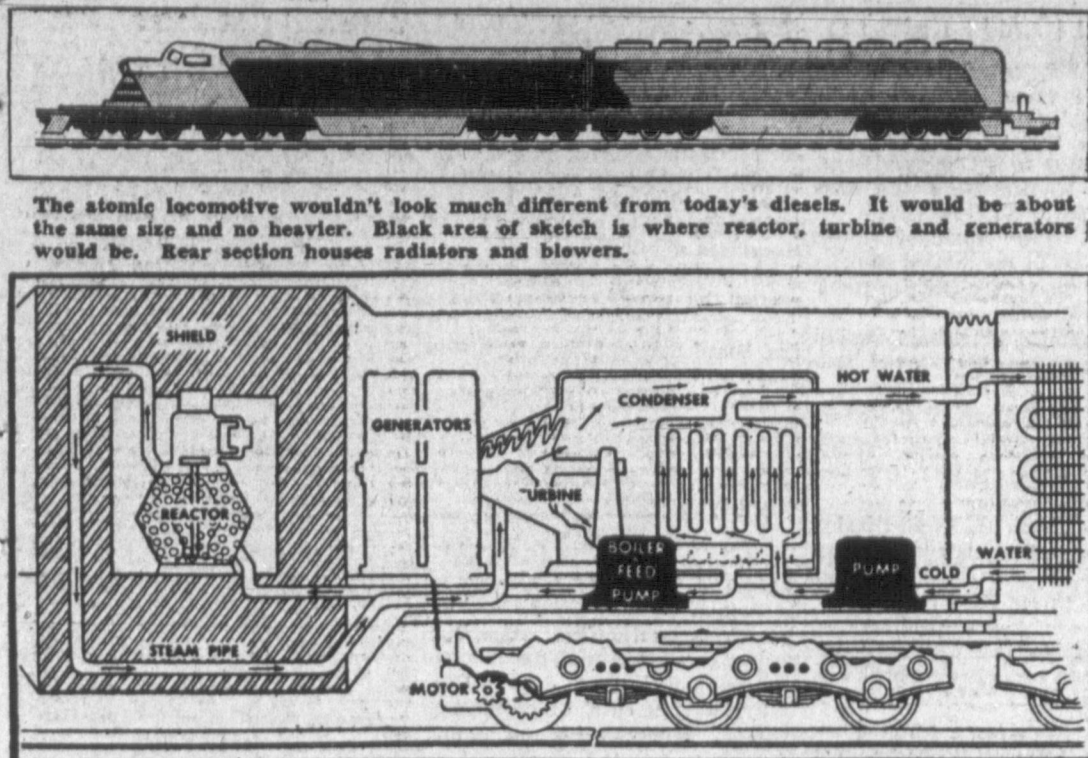

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said in Hartford, Conn., Monday night that the recent presidential primary contests between Stevenson and Kefauver focused attention on the "bickering and squabbling that beset the Democratic party."

not subscribe to the policy of an indispensable man. In this conclusion, I am certainly in agreement with the expressed views of the President. It seems rather odd to me that a country, as strong as ours, should ever feel that we were without an ample source of presidential material in all sections of the country. Such a belief would certainly do violence to the basic principles upon which a democratic government is founded.

Cutaway diagram shows how locomotive would use controlled atomic fission to create electric power for propulsion. Atomic reactor is sheathed in a sealed housing of four-foot-thick laminated steel. Atomic fuel's heat turns water in pipes to steam. This flows to and spins turbine. Turbine activates generators which feed electricity through cable to motor on wheel. Used steam is condensed by cold-water-filled pipes, dropping to bottom. It is then pumped back to the reactor boiler for re-use.

Clement Attlee Is Knighted

WINDSOR, England, June 18—UP—Queen Elizabeth II personally buckled jeweled garters Monday around the legs of Prime Minister Clement Attlee and a titled peer magnate, making them members of Europe's oldest order of chivalry.

Eden, former Prime Minister Earl Attlee and Lord Iveagh, 82-year-old manufacturer of Guinness stout, received the Order of the Garter in a colorful investiture ceremony in Windsor Castle.

The Queen, who drove from London to Windsor Castle after flying in from Stockholm, acted in her role as sovereign of the ancient order, founded in the 14th century by King Edward III.

In the throne room ceremony, the Queen invested the new knights with the heavy gold collar and pendant of the order. She also fastened the ceremonial garters just under the knees of the three new members.

The investiture was performed before an audience of knights that included the Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen Mother, the Duke of Gloucester and Sir Winston Churchill, who received the order alone at the last ceremony.

It was the first time in history that a British prime minister and a former prime minister were invested in the order together.

The Queen and her knights marched solemnly into the chapel of St. George through a cheering

"Since I met Doris I'm chock-full of ambition! I'm going to study like mad next fall!"

Couple On Non-Stop Auto Trip

NEW YORK —UP— A Richmond, Va., auto salesman, and his wife started off on a grueling auto tour of the United States Monday to win a 50-cent bet and establish an official record.

Tom and Lucy Clark left New York in their family car, a French Renault, at noon and will drive continuously for the next four days except for 10 minute rest and refueling stops. They expect to touch Los Angeles and be back here at home base at 9 a.m. edt next Saturday. They hope to cover 5,750 miles in less than 120 hours.

Clark, 32, set the Los Angeles

New York auto record of 65 hours and 14 minutes last May. When he got back to his job in Richmond, a fellow member of the Virginia Motor Sport Club, Frank Donlavey, bet him 50 cents he wouldn't attempt a round-trip New York-Los Angeles run.

"Nobody has ever attempted a continuous trip of that kind for the record. I had it in the back of my mind anyway," said the slender, well-tanned Clark who learned to drive at the age of eight in his home town, Detroit.

"I suggested it to my wife and she was enthusiastic, so I took Donlavey up on the bet."

Clark said it would cost him about $450 out of his own pocket to win the half-dollar bet.

Market For Crude Oil To Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Independent Petroleum Association of America predicted today that the market for domestic crude oil will decline during the next three months.

IPAA predicted the decline would be brought about by scheduled increases in oil imports and a seasonal drop in petroleum demand.

Crude oil imports are scheduled to hit a record high of 1,035,000 barrels a day in June, July and August, IPAA said in its monthly "supply and demand" outlook.

"This would be a 32 per cent increase over the same months last year.

From June through August, IPAA said the outlook indicates that petroleum demand for both domestic and export needs will decline seasonally to 8.6 million barrels daily.

Total petroleum demand in the last three months, March through May, averaged 9,005,000 barrels a day, 8.2 per cent higher than in the same period in 1955.

ARE YOU IN THE PROCESS OF WRITING invitations, birth announcements or thank-you notes of some kind? If you are, you'd better take "a breather" to read this column, as Postmaster O. K. Gaylor has given me a message for you. It is an important message that may save you grief later. In fact, it's a good thing to store in your memory for use when needed, as we all write invitations, announcements or thank-you notes sometimes during our life-time.

THIS MESSAGE is especially timely now, when we have so many showers and weddings. Here is the information Mr. Gaylor asked me to pass on to you.

All birth announcements, written invitations to showers or parties, all thank-you notes with any writing other than names, are classified as first-class mail and require 3 cents postage.

So, to save having them come back to you for additional postage, thus causing what might be a fatal delay, or to save you the embarrassment of having those receiving them have to pay additional postage, be sure to use a 3-cent stamp.

While I'm on the subject, I thought I'd pass on a few tips on not-so-sending etiquette. Thank you notes, sympathy notes and congratulatory notes should be handwritten. No printed card of this type can convey the sincerity of your notes.

There are some cute congratulatory cards for graduations, which I think would be an exception, as well as birth congratulations, but it is still good to add a personal, handwritten note at the bottom. And there are some beautiful sympathy cards which may express a more comforting thought than you can pen. But again, it makes it mean more if you can add a note of our own.

A WORD TO JUNE BRIDES — Acknowledge the receipt of a wedding gift promptly! The best policy is to reserve an hour or two each afternoon or evening to write thank-you notes for gifts received that day. It will be more than appreciated by the person sending the gift, via airmail delivery, or through the mail. And if gifts arrive while you are on your honeymoon, have a member of your family write a short note to the sender acknowledging receipt of the gift and stating that you will write upon your return.

I know of a bride who followed this procedure, and to this day, years after her marriage, people comment on how prompt she was in writing her thank-you notes. They appreciated it, and remembered! Too many times people are left wondering, for weeks and sometimes a month, whether or not their gift was received and liked.

It is a small courtesy so often overlooked.

Twin Heart Avocado Molds For Bride And Bridegroom

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Yesterday we described a wedding reception buffet for 40 guests that cost only $32.26 to serve. This was the menu: Twin heart avocado molded salad, chicken flowerpot sandwiches, cream cheese and fresh vegetable sandwiches, wedding cake (make at home with cake mixes), fresh fruit champagne or fresh fruit reception punch, salted nuts and mints.

Here are two of the recipes:

TWIN HEARTS AVOCADO MOLD
(Yield: 16 to 20 servings)

Soften 8 envelopes unflavored gelatin in 1 1/2 cups cold water. Add 3 cups hot water and stir until dissolved. Blend in 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups fresh orange juice, and 2 cups fresh orange juice. Mix 1/4 cup of this mixture with a few drops of red vegetable coloring and pour into heart indentations in bottom of 2 oiled, 6-cup heart-shaped salad molds. (If your molds are plain on the bottom, omit this step). Chill until firm, 45 to 60 minutes. While the red hearts are chilling, beat 4 cups

Mrs. Tony Vaughn of Phillips was guest speaker at the meeting Monday morning of the Pampa Garden Club in the City Club Room. Her topic was "Vines and Their Uses."

"You have to make vines do what you want them to do," Mrs. Vaughn told the women. "You just can't let them grow wild."

She went on to explain the periwinkle grows back in the shade and is good ground coverage under a hedge. She added that caladium and some types of petunia are good ground coverage, although they are not vines.

"A vine is any plant with a long slender stem which clings by tendrils or other means or which trails or creeps along the ground," she defined.

Mrs. Vaughn told the women a vine attaches itself in three ways — by arrow rootlets, twining or tendrils. All but the stem-rooting type must have some kind of support to cover a wall, she added.

"Ivy clings to plaster, stone and concrete, but all other vines need support," she pointed out.

Methods of giving the vines support mentioned by Mrs. Vaughn were wall nails with pliable tips, "eyescrews" through which a pattern of wire is laced, iron or wooden trellises and wire.

The iron trellises are most durable and good for heavy vines, she explained. Wooden trellises are used for lighter, more decorative vines, such as climbing roses.

"Wooden trellises are very pretty and used so often just for the beauty," Mrs. Vaughn commented. "Vines are fitted for covering, decoration or to screening unattractive areas, not to conceal."

The decorative use of vines include relieving bareness of a building, accenting a gable or bringing out a period of the home.

"Fences are most decorative covered with climbing roses or vines," she explained. "Fences can be covered to screen off an unsightly view or to give privacy."

She went on to point out that vines as ground coverage are not needed as much in this area of the country where the terrain is flat. However, she explained, they are good for shady places where other things won't grow.

Location of the vine is important, Mrs. Vaughn told the women, adding that it is a vigorous grower and can be expected to be there for years. She recommended digging a deep bed, putting in good soil and fertilizing the bed well.

She stated that a good reference book is "Planting Guide for the High Plains," written by horticulturists in the Plains area, with information about what grows well in this region.

NOEL COWARD AND GUEST — The climate is sunnier in Jamaica, taxes less onerous. Here he entertains Mary Martin.

'I Love England, But'

Noel Coward's Tax Party Is No Comedy

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
LONDON — (NEA) — Noel Coward, British playwright and American TV star, doesn't live here any more.

Gone is the London flat in which he used to entertain Marlene Dietrich and the Duchess of Kent. Sold under the auctioneer's gavel for the two Steinways on which he picked out such memorable tunes as "Mad Dogs and Englishmen." Up for sale is his 147-acre farm in Kent. Noel is moving out.

"I love England, but," sighs the 56-year-old playwright that "but" means that he has been chased away from England by high income taxes. It means that he is taking up permanent residence in Jamaica, where the climate is sunnier and the taxes less onerous.

Recently, Coward sat out on the English Channel, only two miles from "my beloved homeland," not daring to put a foot on British soil. To do so would have cost him $75,000, the amount the tax people would have deducted from his income earned outside Britain.

His liner, the S. S. Liberté, was anchored just off Plymouth, and Coward, wearing red, white and blue silk pajamas, had a long look at the English coastline — through a porthole.

A few hours by train would have put him in London, where his latest play, "South Sea Bubble," is a smash hit. There would have been congratulations for "darling Noel" from Vivien Leigh, star of the play, and afterwards a party in Mayfair.

But "darling Noel" is no fool, even though he once christened a Rolls-Royce "Fluff."

If he stays out of Britain for 12 months he can no longer be classed as a resident here for income tax purposes. He can then take advantage of the lower Jamaica tax rate on money earned outside Britain.

"To leave this ship I am faced with poverty," is the way the pajama-clad Coward put it to reporters, leaning a trifle to the melodramatic side.

Touched by the plight of this modern "Flying Dutchman," condemned to sail past his native land without touching foot down for another year, Britons are wondering if perhaps Internal Revenue isn't being too harsh on creative artists. Is Britain driving the cream of her talent away by super-taxes?

The recent decision of film star Jean Simmons and her husband Stewart Granger, both British-born, to take out American citizenship papers is cited as a case in point. Tax troubles are said to have motivated the decision.

But Noel Coward's case is admittedly an unusual one. Last year the balding playwright reached what is probably the peak of his earning power. He was paid $26,000 a week for a stint at a Las Vegas night club, and $50,000 apiece for two television shows sponsored by Ford. Even after taxes and expenses had been deducted, Noel was left with a tidy third of his earnings.

Then he made the mistake of coming to England for eight weeks, at the end of which time he was handed a $75,000 tax bill on his American earnings. For a while it looked as though he might have to chore again in the rhinestone mines of Las Vegas to recoup his tax losses.

But Coward is liquidating. Under an auctioneer's hammer recently went his French Impressionist paintings (they brought $39,000), the 10-foot sofa in dove gray suede and the morocco-bound books from his London flat.

It's good-bye to London and "all that."

For Coward, who calls himself "destiny's tot," it is the end of a hectic, screwball era which bore him to the top of his fame. As he sits fanning himself on the veranda of his home in tax-happy Jamaica, he may perhaps remember the toast which he wrote into his play, "Cavalcade":

"Let's couple the future of England with the past of England. Let's drink to the glories and victories and triumphs that are over, and the sorrows that are over, to."

Dulles, Pineau Confer On East-West Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, June 18—UP—French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau conferred with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Monday on his ideas for channeling East-West foreign aid programs to the United Nations.

Opening a three-day state visit here, the French leader also gave Dulles his views on Russia's new diplomatic offensive and plans to broaden and strengthen the North Atlantic treaty alliance.

Pineau refused to say how Dulles, who has been cool toward the aid proposal, reacted. But he said their two and a half hour meeting generally was "a very good departure" for other discussions to follow.

He said the question of North Africa, where the French have been plagued by Arab nationalist uprisings, was not raised at the first conference. It is expected to come up for discussion Tuesday. Pineau is seeking U.S. support of the French position in the troubled area.

Pineau told reporters he favors UN handling of foreign aid to under-developed nations "to avoid any competition between East and West." He said this step also would provide help for some countries not covered by cooperative agreements among nations now operating aid programs.

It is doubtful, however, that his proposal will get very far with Dulles. The administration is having trouble getting President Eisenhower's foreign aid requests through Congress without deep fund cuts.

Russia has been stepping up offers of economic assistance as part of its new diplomatic offensive. Pineau is somewhat more optimistic about the Moscow policy switches than are American officials.

He said he and Dulles talked over "relationships between the West and East." European unification, and disarmament. He said he suggested "some practical solutions to increase the political and economic importance" of the North Atlantic treaty, originally designed as a military bulwark against Communist aggression.

Nixon Warns Against Nation Becoming Soft

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UP)—Is America in the process of developing a generation of physical weaklings?

That was the question Vice President Richard Nixon left to top authorities in various fields of education and public health who are here to attend President Eisenhower's special conference on physical weakness.

"We are not now a nation of softies, but we could become one," Nixon declared. "That could happen if proper attention is not given to the trend of our times which is toward the invention of all sorts of gadgetry to make life easy, and in doing so, to reduce the opportunities for normal physical, health-giving exercises."

Nixon, addressing the conference in place of Mr. Eisenhower, who had intended to do so before his recent illness and surgery, said the President was "100 per cent behind this physical fitness program."

Mr. Eisenhower, who called the conference before his heart attack last September, had invited nearly 150 leading educators, physical education instructors, U.S. Public Health officials and others to attend it.

Among those on hand were J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, and Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic committee.

Nixon said the conference was not concerned with the super athlete "who can take care of himself."

Right To Work

There are twelve states in the United States which are known as "Right to Work" states. They are: Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Now from our point of view, Right to Work laws ought to be unnecessary. The Constitution and subsequent amendments clearly have removed involuntary servitude from the ranks of legal employment. And any person who is compelled to part with some of his earnings in the shape of dues which are handed over to an organization, he doesn't care to join, is, in fact, laboring involuntarily to that degree. He is a serf, owned to the extent of his payments, by the labor boss.

Naturally, if he wants to join a union, that is his business. But if he doesn't want to join, that is also his business. The fact that there is now a nation-wide movement to win the passage of laws which would insure the individual's right of choice in this connection, merely serves to indicate how far we have strayed from the principles of individual freedom included in our basic way of life.

The unions have so completely pressurized our legislators at the national level, that it is a fact that unions now operate outside of the law and in violation of the Constitution every day of the year. They have and they do commit every known crime in the book in an effort to compel inoffensive wage earners to team up with them.

If our representatives are so stupid that they do not know that unions function outside the law, then "Right to Work" laws will surely remedy that situation. For they would spell out to the backward politician that a man is free, if it is permissible for a man to join a union of his own volition, then it must be that that same man must be free NOT to join a union. But the Wagner Act and its freest, known as Taft-Hartley, have definitely curtailed the individual's right to say NO.

Unions, of course, carry on a constant and bitter attack against anyone and everyone who refuses to do as the labor bosses direct. And a part of the poison in their propaganda is that business conditions are actually benefited by compulsory unionism.

Now the twelve states which have outlawed this compulsion are not the largest nor the most productive of our states. A quick look at the list will establish that this dozen is more nearly at the bottom of the ladder when it comes to industry, non-farming business, number of businesses in operation and so forth. But before we pass too hastily over this general belief, let's have a look at the figures.

For it so happens that the average rate of IMPROVEMENT over the six-year period 1947-1953, shows that these twelve states are way out in front of all other states in a number of important categories.

For instance, in these 12 states, total non-farm employment has increased 22 per cent as opposed to a similar gain by the 36 other states of 13.5 per cent.

Manufacturing has increased for the lucky 12 by 17.8 per cent. The other non-Right to Work states are up 12.5 per cent.

Total number of firms in operation has increased 26.6 per cent for the 12 as contrasted to an increase of 12.2 per cent for the other 36.

Civilian population is up 14.7 per cent as opposed to 11.3 per cent. Retail sales are up 52.9 per cent to 44.1 per cent. Registration of privately owned passenger cars are up 60 per cent in the Right to Work states as opposed to 48.2 per cent in the other states.

So it would seem that, contrary to union claims, the removal of compulsory unionism is an aid to general business, not a detriment, as the unions claim.

Actually, we would prefer the repeal of the Wagner and Taft-Hartley laws in their entirety. Normal decency demands it. And the people themselves are largely in favor of it after they have had a taste of the violence and criminality of labor bossism.

Still it is interesting to note that those states which are preserving individual freedom a little more than other states, are able to secure for themselves a little larger piece of the national economic pie.

Freedom is always good for the economy. The more freedom the better. We favor freedom right down the line.

Dear Editor,

I attended an open meeting in the City Commission room at City Hall recently at which time the proposed bond issue of $2,810,000 was discussed. There were about thirty professional and business men who attended the meeting and out of this number only one man spoke and voted against the issue. That man happened to be myself and since that time I have been asked by a number of our good citizens to explain why I voted against the bond issue.

As a taxpayer, I have several reasons. First, the bond issue is out of proportion to our needs. It would retard our growth and devalue every piece of property in the city limits. Let us consider our present bonded indebtedness. It is $1,847,000. The interest and sinking fund on this is $186,546.41. Now add to this $2,810,000 and figure the interest and sinking fund as above, $280,000 per annum is to be added to our strained economy.

This means an added expense of about $58 per family of four in the city limits. At present 75 cents of each $1.75 collected in taxes per $100 valuation is applied on the bond and should the proposed bond issue carry, this will add another $1.20 per $100 collected, making a sum total of $1.95 to apply as interest and sinking fund. To this add 87 cents for the general fund and 10 cents for the Board of City Development and three cents to the Library fund, making a sum total of $2.95 per $100 valuation. It is of little importance if this vast sum of money is raised by direct taxation if applied on your water bill. The important thing is the people of Pampa will pay the full amount. And it should be of interest to note if this bond issue carries, the water user will get about 25 cents worth of water for $1.

Be it known that the above figures are taken from the record and the conclusions are based on facts. All of which makes the issue as proposed impossible from a taxpayer's point of view.

The alternative is simple. The bond for the underpass and necessary improvements for the parks can be taken care of without additional tax. This brings up the question of how can we do this. First, let's appropriate the Board of City Development fund to the interest and sinking fund and quit spending thousands of dollars on the recreation park and provide a system of revenue by charging a percentage of all gate receipts to the park. The above suggestions, if carried out, will not only relieve the tax burden but will have a tendency to improve the political situation as the Board of City Development fund often builds up an annual breeding ground for political corruption.

In conclusion, I find many of our citizens in the belief that our taxes are no higher than other cities. Let's consider Amarillo, one of the fastest growing cities in the state. Their tax rate is $1.23.

Government And Moral Law

I recently attended a luncheon given in honor of Admiral Ben Moreell. At the plate of each person was a printed booklet, "Government and Moral Law," by Ben Moreell.

Admiral Moreell was trained as a civil engineer. He retired from the Navy in 1946. Since 1947 he has been either President or Chairman of the Board of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. He thus has had wide practical experience and does not talk or write from theory.

After I had heard Moreell talk at this luncheon I, of course, was eager to read something that he had written, as he talks as a business man and a military man.

I was not disappointed in his discussion of government and moral law. I found it to be the need of the hour. So I want to pass this great document along in installments.

I only found one place that I thought he was in error or did not make himself clear. When I came to that I will comment on that particular portion. From here on Moreell is speaking:

"In 1775 an American patriot stood before his neighbors in a small church in Virginia and challenged the tyranny of government—his own government—in a ringing statement on liberty and death. 'While I subscribe, without reservation, to that patriot's choice of death in lieu of slavery to government, I would like to discuss another thought in the same sense wherein Patrick Henry defied the right of government to encroach upon the natural rights of man. Here are the words with which he concluded that memorable address: 'I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death.'"

"It is important to note that Patrick Henry did not say that he wanted a law to force everyone else to do as he wished. He was not proposing a collective action. When he said, 'I know not what course others may take,' he was stating the essence of liberty. For he was asserting that each person should be free to follow the dictates of his own conscience. And when he added, 'but as for me,' he was declaring for himself the same freedom of choice that he acknowledged for all others. Then, having indicated that everyone should be free to decide for himself, he announced his own decision: 'Give me liberty or give me death.' And, let us note that when he spoke of liberty, he meant freedom from the onerous restraints imposed by his own legal-constituted government.

"This philosophy of Patrick Henry—his belief that individual liberty is worth the risk of one's life—seems to be forgotten in America today. Now our leaders seem to direct their energies primarily to acquiring that power over their fellow men which government office confers upon them.

And once such political power has been obtained, the possessors of it seem to say to the rest of us 'common people': 'We do not know what course you would follow if government were to leave you free to pursue it, but we strongly suspect that you would act in ignorance of your own best interests. Therefore, we will take no chances—we will pass a law that will force you to follow the course that we have decided is best for you. But as for us—give us the power to impose controls, rules and regulations upon you for your benefit—and for our glory.'"

"That philosophy is a far cry from the days when Americans demanded freedom from government intervention in their lives and businesses. And I believe that if we do not soon return to our original concept of the function of government, freedom in America will be as dead as it is now in Russia and other totalitarian countries.

"Moral Rights and Political Rights"

"Our Nation was founded on two sound principles. These are, first, that every person has certain moral rights; and second, that every person is entitled to his full political rights. The principle of full political rights was stated in our revolutionary War cry, 'No taxation without representation.' And the principle of moral rights was written into our Declaration of Independence in these words: 'All men . . . are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights.'"

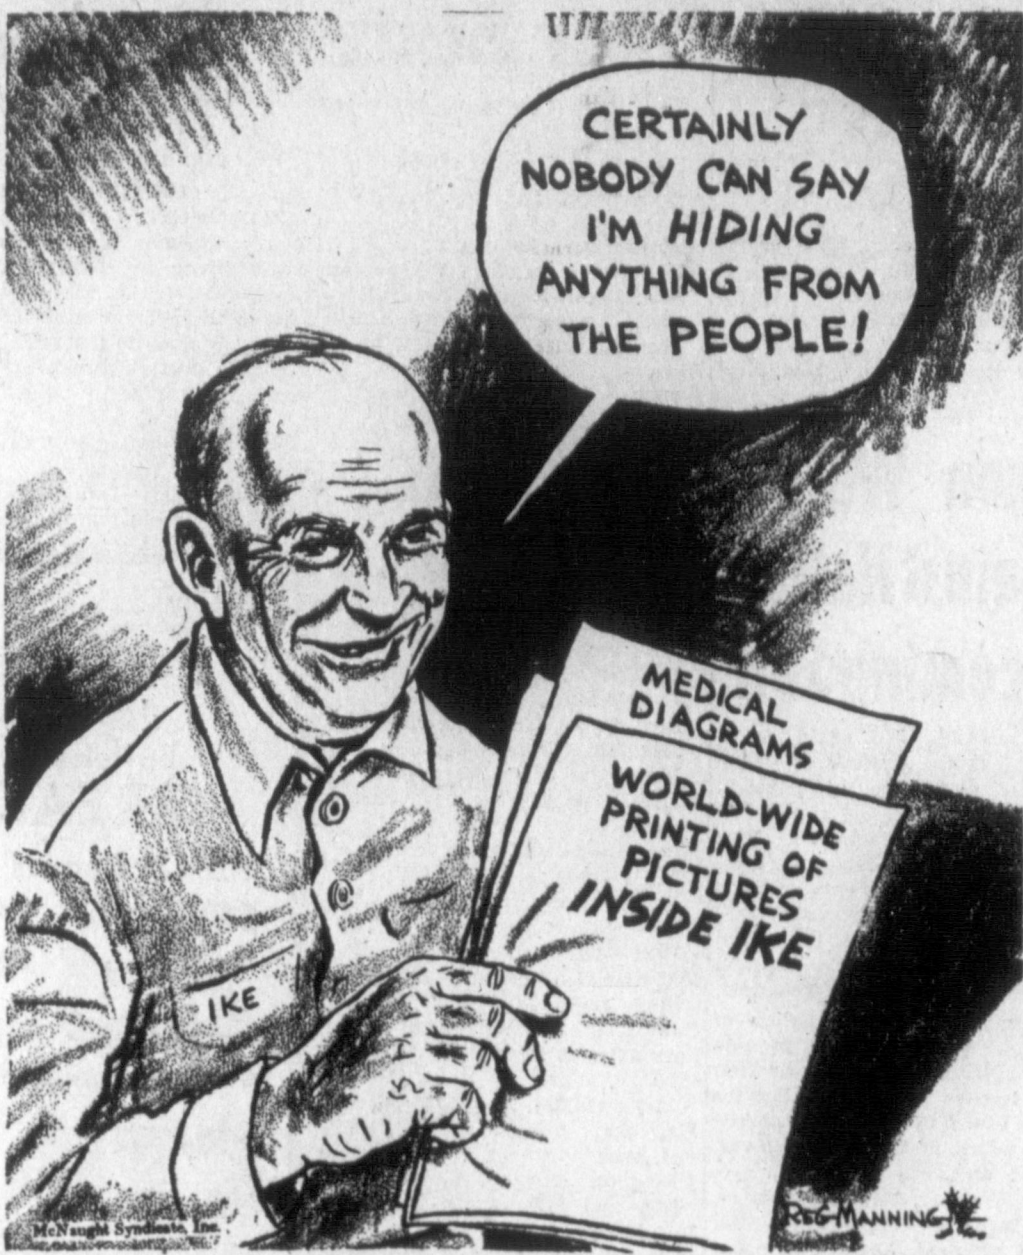

It must be admitted that neither of these basic principles of moral and political rights was made fully effective by the new American government of 1789. For example, slavery violated both the moral and the political rights of men. So our early patriots continued to devote their efforts toward securing those rights for all. In due course, slavery was eliminated and the right to vote was extended to women and to others who had previously been excluded.

"Today most of us have full and equal political rights. And it is my earnest hope and confident belief that the few those political rights are still restricted under one pretext or another will soon have them.

"Thus, one of the two basic principles of our Revolution has been made essentially effective. But what of the other principle for which our forefathers fought—the principle of God-given or natural rights that were held to be outside the limits of governmental jurisdiction? In that field, I regret to state, we have been losing ground. In fact, there are now few, if any, areas of human activity that government is forbidden to enter.

"This erosion of moral rights seems to have progressed in a most astonishing manner. It ap-

National Whirligig Water Power Deal Is Brewing On Capitol Hill

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A billion-dollar, bipartisan water power deal branded as "legislative blackmail and chicanery" is brewing behind the scenes on Capitol Hill under auspices of the public power lobby and the Democratic National Committee.

Under pressure from Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and the old Ickes-Chapman faction, which have frequently castigated the Rayburn-Johnson leadership for their conservatism, Democrats are making a late-session effort to force a policy of government ownership and operation on the White House. Otherwise, they threaten to defeat several power bills wanted by the Administration and numerous other Republican bills.

The Butler-Chapman-Truman group has cracked the whip on Congressional Democrats. The outcome concerns the taxpayers, for it means either a long delay in utilizing vast natural resources or a huge expenditure of Federal funds on projects which private companies are willing to undertake at their own expense.

President Eisenhower also faces a grim test of his "partnership" concept. If he vetoes public power proposals reaching him as a result of this maneuvering, the Democrats will accuse him of favoring the so-called "power trust."

The principal measures involved in the deal are the Morse-Magnuson proposal to build a Federal dam costing $399,000,000 at Hell's Canyon, and the $156,000,000 Fryngan- Arkansas project. The latter contemplates carrying Colorado River water through the Continental Divide to irrigate the Arkansas Valley.

The Federal Power Commission has awarded Hell's Canyon to the Idaho Power Company, and construction is under way. But the Democrats would invalidate this contract, and have a single high build and operate a single high dam.

The Morse-Magnuson bills are still before the Senate and House Interior Committees, and until recently, it appeared that they would be hurried there. The Fryngan measure, which Eisenhower approves, is likewise bottled in the House Rules Committee. It has been there for two months, despite favorable reports from committee. It is the key measure in the politico-economic bargain.

The Federal Hell's Canyon Bill has been given a boost by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. He shifted Senator Russell B. Long of Louisiana, who opposed it, to Foreign Relations. By filling the Long vacancy with a liberal Democrat, as expected, Johnson can bring the measure to the floor with a favorable report.

Representative J. Edgar Chenoweth of Colorado, Republican, is a fervent advocate of the Fryngan undertaking, for he may lose out next November unless he obtains action at this session. But, as a member of House Interior, he has opposed public power at Hell's Canyon and the Democratic National Committee.

Now, according to Chenoweth's own statement, he has made what he calls an "agreement" with Speaker Rayburn. Its terms provide that the Colorado man will back the Democrats' Hell's Canyon scheme, and, in return, Rayburn will shake loose the Fryngan Bill from the Rules Committee. Rayburn controls that group.

Belatedly, the $405,000,000 Niagara River project has been dragged into the deal by Clyde T. Ellis, former Arkansas Representative and highly paid public power lobbyist for the National Rural Electrification Co-operative Association.

He warns Congressmen favoring other pending power proposals that they will be defeated, unless they vote for public power at both Niagara River and Hell's Canyon. The Lehman-Roosevelt Bill would authorize the New York State Power Authority to build on the Niagara River.

Among the bipartisan projects to be barricaded in committee by the Rayburn-Ellis group are the $43,700,000 Washoe reclamation program for Nevada and California, and $5,500,000 worth of transmission lines from Fort Randall dam in South Dakota to Nebraska customers. In short, none of them is to be considered on their economic merits.

A volume of protests has flooded Capitol Hill against various aspects of the deal, although its far-reaching implications in waste and cost are not generally understood. But they may block the backstage maneuver, for legislative time is running out on the logrollers.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

THE person who shuts himself or herself in a dark closet or covers under the bed when a thunderstorm comes up is more frightened than the circumstances warrant—though it must be said that these are safe places.

Thunder, of course, will hurt no one. The chances of being struck by lightning are much less than most other hazards of life.

Deaths in the United States for which lightning was responsible numbered 249 in 1949, 215 in 1950, 248 in 1951, 212 in 1952, 145 in 1953, and 220 in 1954. The risk from jumping into the family car is greater since motor vehicle accidents cause almost 40,000 deaths each year.

IT SEEMS CLEAR that keratophobia, or abnormal fear of being struck by lightning, is a lot more common than the fact itself.

In essence, lightning is merely a strong electric current which ordinarily passes through the air from one cloud to another or from a cloud to the earth. If a person does happen to be in the path of a bolt of lightning when it strikes the earth the situation isn't so good—though even then some do live through it.

One of the safest places during a thunderstorm is inside an automobile or a steel building. A comparatively dangerous place is in the middle of a field away from all trees or in a wooden boat in the middle of the water. It is considered unwise to lean against a lone tree during a thunderstorm but if nothing better is available it is presumed reasonably safe to sit under a tree but a few feet away from the trunk.

Capitol Hill against various aspects of the deal, although its far-reaching implications in waste and cost are not generally understood. But they may block the backstage maneuver, for legislative time is running out on the logrollers.

Foreign Aid Resistance Is Gathering Strength

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The resistance against "Foreign aid" has been gathering strength and developing a voice.

There is now a genuine opposition whose leaders include Spruille Braden, one of our realistic, practical experts in foreign relations, particularly Latin-American. Mr. Braden has had experience not only in business and politics in South American countries but in diplomacy as ambassador. At the other extreme Paul Hoffman stands, a promoter, professional spendthrift with other people's money and, in round numbers, an adventurer. Hoffman's qualifications according to his own presentation in Who's Who would be pathetic if they were not so ominous to a people whose billions he has broadcast for years through a parasitic apparatus which included ne'er-do-well mediocrities cast off by the newspaper business, broken-down charity workers and nondescript New Deal riff-raff. Hoffman's record for success is negligible except in accumulating counterfeit honors from undiscriminating college boards which have loaded him with meaningless degrees, and in imposing on Truman, Eisenhower, and Henry Ford, II.

One of the assistant spend-thrifts whom he selected for a job in Paris soon after the war was a jail-bird brother of Felix Frankfurter who slipped through gaping meshes of the "screen" when a phone call to the FBI would have elicited his criminal record in a few minutes.

Nevertheless, a few days before his recent seizure, Eisenhower appointed Hoffman to a campaign "committee" of republican dignitaries which included Maj. Gen. Bill Donovan, late of the notorious OSS, and Al Capp, whose achievements include an elaborate eulogy to Charlie Chaplin and official citations by a committee of the New York legislature as a purveyor of smutty drawings through his comic strip. Donovan himself got a Medal of Honor as commander of the 165th Division in the first war. His associations in recent years have dimmed the glory of a hero in the eyes of men who once rejoiced to pay him honor.

Hoffman's ability to impose on like in the guise of a true republican after his wanton abuse of Senator Bob Taft, the personification of the party "in 1952," is a triumph over one who has an aversion to genuine republicans. "The kindest thing I can say of Morgenthau's reign.

It is not pleasure to note, as honest men must, that Eisenhower took office under a cloud of stupidity in surrendering to Russia the victory which American fighters and workers had won for him. "Foreign Aid" is to a large extent the price of his compliance with orders which have never yet been revealed to prove that this disaster was the result of dumb, if soldierly compliance.

Mac And Mary Break The Language Barrier

By HENRY MCELMORE

SEGOVIA, SPAIN — "Victor Hugo Orantugans," but the Spanish don't say it just the way it looks. We have found that when we need an ashtray we get best results by saying as rapidly as possible, "Sincerly yours."

I eat a great deal of butter, as one glance at my silhouette shows, and my early efforts to pronounce the Spanish word for — "mantecado" — found me being brought anything from tire jacks to a plate of smoked eels.

Now, since we have found the secret of easy Spanish, I get better first time out of the box. I just say, "Mama wants to kill you."

"When we want to know what time it is we don't struggle with 'Que horas son?' We just say 'ker-eneh?' It hasn't failed yet.

The polite afternoon greeting among Spaniards is "Buenas tardes," but that's a tongue-twister. We use "Ben he is a tardy," and our reputation as polite Americans is growing.

We liked to have never made it understood that we wanted a railroad ticket to Caracas until Mary discovered the secret of the pronunciation. To buy a ticket to that lovely little town you simply stick your face close to the ticket seller's and make the same sound a small, angry dog does just before he nips you on the ankle.

"Wait for my forthcoming book, 'How to Speak Castilian Spanish When You Don't Know A Word of It.'"

"Si, Senor," he replied, and went away. He was back in a flash with two mighty beakers of orange juice.

Since that time we have made a long list of English words that sound roughly the same as Spanish words, and are getting our needs fulfilled amazingly well.

If you say certain English word real, real fast, and with complete confidence, Spanish is a cinch. When we want a complete continental breakfast for two we employ this phrase:

"Dese Daisy, you know our friend, Come Plate."

It sounds as though we were introducing Daisy to a Mr. Plate, but it gets us a dandy assortment of rolls, butter, jam, and coffee.

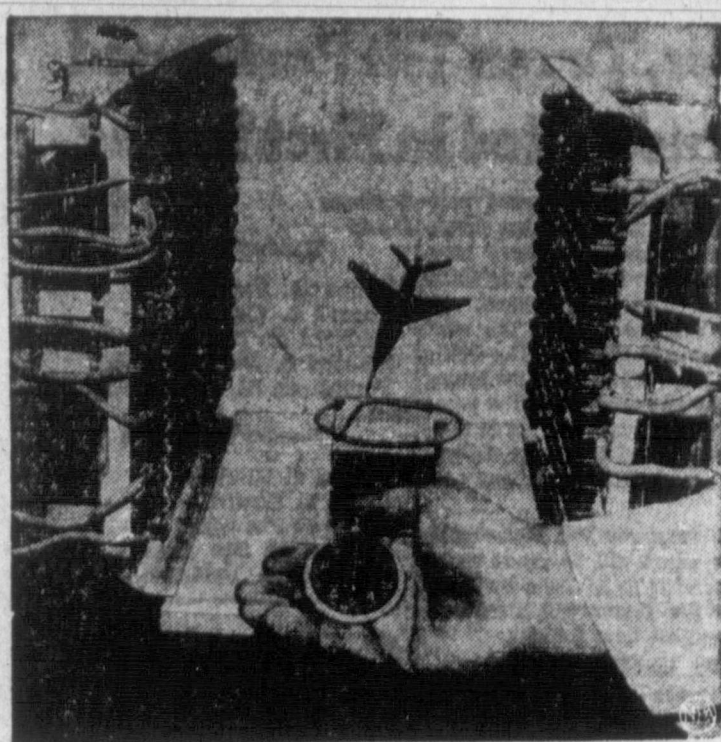

The Spanish word for ashtray is

Egyptian Flag Is Raised Over Suez

CAIRO, June 18 —UP— Egyptians raised the national flag over the last symbol of British occupation of Egypt Monday and heard visiting Russian Foreign Minister D. T. Shepilov tell them that Russia is the "natural ally" of Egypt and other newly-independent nations. "Long live Russia, Egypt's friend and ally!" the crowd shouted. Shepilov, understood earlier to have offered Egypt both additional arms and economic aid, spoke in the model village of Barnasht, 25 miles south of Cairo. Monday marked the start of five days of "liberation" celebrations inspired by the departure last week of the last British troops from the Suez Canal zone. Premier G. A. Nasser formally opened the liberation observance by raising the Egyptian flag at Navy House in Port Said, the last installation vacated by the British. In a radio speech, he said the present generation of Egyptians "has a rendezvous with destiny."

H-Bomb Leak Investigation Tossed To AF

HONOLULU (UP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation, denying reports it is searching for an unidentified serviceman who leaked the story of the H-bomb's near miss at Eniwetok, tossed the ball to the Air Force today. John Williams, the FBI agent in charge of Hawaii, issued a statement saying: "We are not investigating the 'large-scale economic assistance' to Egypt, including help in financing the big Aswan Dam project, and asked for Egyptian help in getting Red China into the United Nations. The Soviet official's speech in Barnasht was larded with propaganda attacks against the West and offers to back virtually any nation that has an anti-Western grievance."

The report was published in Monday morning editions of the Honolulu Advertiser. It said the FBI is seeking the serviceman who disclosed to another Honolulu newspaper, the Star Bulletin, that the H-bomb missed the target island of Namu by seven miles. The report prompted the Air Force in Washington revealed belatedly that the bomb really missed the island by nearly four miles. The FBI denial prompted the Air Force here to issue a statement of its own. It said: "We cannot deny or confirm that an investigation is taking place. Upon completion of any investigation by the office of special investigations, the information will be released publicly, but not until then."

Uncle Milty Berle Wants To Settle Down And Be Father

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Why is Uncle Milty cutting down on his TV appearances next year? Berle confessed today his big reason: He wants to settle down and become a father. The pioneer of TV threw in the towel on his regular shows at the end of this season after eight years. Next year on NBC — TV Berle will do only four hours of entertainment. Trade gossip whispered Berle's losing battle of the ratings with rival Phil Silvers sparked his change of plans. But when I cornered Milty at his Beverly Hills home he had a domestic explanation. "I've been working since I was five," he said. "I'm tired. I want more social life, more home life. Ruth and I want to have a baby. "I want to enjoy life and do only the work that I want to do when I want to do it. And I have the financial security to be able to say that." Berle already had started in this plan. In fact, his Broadway pals wouldn't recognize him. He was wearing a sport shirt, no socks and yesterday's whiskers. "Who'd have thought I'd be out at the pool at 10:30 in the morning and seeing a movie in the afternoon?" he grinned. "I've been

Martin And Lewis To Break Up

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, one of the most famous teams in show business, confirmed Monday they are breaking up after a farewell night club tour in the East. The final "divorce" of the team came to light when Martin played golf instead of attending a party Sunday to celebrate completion of their last movie together, ironically titled "Partners." Lewis said the pair had huddled with Paramount executives Friday and agreed to go their separate ways. Martin previously had notified Lewis he "did not want to co-star with the comic in a picture Lewis planned to direct, 'Damon and Pythias.' The rubber-faced Lewis then asked Paramount President Barney Balaban in New York for permission to seek another co-star and Friday Balaban sent his permission. ### Yen For Divorce Booms 28¢ Bargain In Japan

By EDWARD R. KENNEDY
NEA Special Correspondent
TOKYO — (NEA) — A booming bargain in Japan today is divorce. When a Japanese man and his wife agree to disagree, it costs them only 100 yen — 28 cents. In addition to this cut-rate fee, there is no embarrassing court hearing or scandalous disclosures about private life and income. The couple simply sign a regulation form sheet, take it to a government ward office and pay the very nominal service charge. They are then free of all matrimonial bonds and no one even asks them why, officially. It's equally easy and inexpensive to get married — or remarried if the divorce doesn't take. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the divorces in Japan are of this quick, economy type. About five per cent of divorcing couples have some disagreement on terms, such as disposition of children or property settlement. This minority group, which averages about 80 cases a day in Tokyo, take their problems to the Tokyo Family Court. The Family Court helps the couple to reach an agreement about their divorce but does not aim at settling the marital difficulties which led up to the decision to divorce. A judge, a man conciliator and a woman conciliator are assigned to each case. Five hundred conciliators, 400 men and 100 women, work as volunteers with the Family Court. As Mrs. Fumi Suzuki, a competent, well-educated, well-traveled housewife, explained, "We consider it an honor job." Court consultants have found that adultery is the most common cause of divorce. "Many of the so-called 'thirty-year girls' who are unable to find suitable husbands for themselves form triangle relationships with other women's husbands," Mrs. Suzuki said. She also blamed the "collapse of feudalistic morality and the instability of new, democratic morality." "Some have misunderstood, thinking a free life means a loose life," she explained. "Freedom without duty is nonsense." Obviously, the ease with which

Jim Wilson Pitches Chisox To 5-2 Win Over Orioles

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Pitcher Jim Wilson is making his new boss, Chuck Comiskey of the White Sox, look like a pretty slick trader.

The youthful Comiskey, who is carrying on with the White Sox after the departure of such geniuses as Frank Lane and Paul Richards, swung the deal on May 1 that brought Wilson and utility player Dave Philley to Chicago. The White Sox gave up pitchers Mike Fornieles and Connie Johnson, third baseman George Kell, and outfielder Bob Nieman and the team began to howl loudly that Chicago had been hoodwinked.

Today the ex-White Sox boss, trader Frank Lane is catching back in St. Louis for his "shimmy and shake" transactions and the Baltimore fans are grumbling at Richards for some of his deals, particularly the one involving Wilson.

Wilson Cops Fifth

Monday night hard-working Jim won his fifth game since donning a Chicago uniform and the 5-2 seven hit triumph was his second over the Orioles since the trade was made.

What makes it worse on Richards, the former White Sox manager who completed the deal for Baltimore, is that only Nieman has done much for the Orioles. He has been hitting well but Kell has been hurt and the two pitchers have been just so-so.

But Wilson, who has a 9-3 mark now, has turned in one good game after another. And in Monday night's triumph, which kept the runner-up Chicagoans 1/2 game behind the leading Yankees, Philley also was a prominent figure.

He scored two runs, got a hit, a sacrifice and played both right field and first base. Chicago racked up three Baltimore pitchers, including Fornieles, for 10 hits.

The Yankees topped the Tigers at Detroit, 7-4 on the margin of Mickey Mantle's three-run homer in the eighth, perhaps the longest blast ever delivered in Briggs Stadium. The ball cleared the roof of the park at the 360-foot mark where the triple decker stands are 110-feet high.

The Athletics took advantage of sloppy defensive play by Washington to defeat the Senators 4-3 as Alex Kellner turned in a seven-hit performance for his fourth triumph against two losses. Kansas City made 11 hits.

In the statistical traffic jam in the National League, Cincinnati again moved into first place by defeating the Phillies, 7-4 in 10 innings while lefty Warren Spahn of the Braves beat the upstart Pirates 3-2 at Pittsburgh dropping them into second, half a game behind.

Both teams were deadlocked at the end of eight frames. Gerald Mobley drove in the winning run in the 11th that enabled the Elks to stun the Rangers.

Buddy Sharp opened the 11th for the Elks as he smashed a double into right field. Waner was then issued a free pass to first. Larry Larsen sacrificed and Glenn Arams was walked. Then Mobley hit his game winning bingle as he sent a grounder to the Ranger third sacker Bristo who knocked the ball down but couldn't make a play at home. The Rangers had previously downed the Elks recently in Perryton.

Cecil Reynolds started on the hill for the Elks and was relieved in the fifth by Newt Secrest, manager of the Pampa club.

Hot Streak Team Will Take Nt'l

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By JACK CUDDY

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)— Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts says that the first team to put together "a hot streak" probably will win the National League pennant.

"Actually," Tebbetts pointed out, "no club is exactly setting the league on fire at the moment. The Pirates were going real good for a time but lately they ran into some trouble."

"You might say the pennant is up for grabs and any one who gets hot can win it. We have as good a crack at it as any of 'em. I honestly think that the first club which can win 12 or 15 games in a row could go all the way to the wire."

Up to now, none of the National League clubs has been able to put together a solid winning string. Brooklyn and Cincinnati show the best winning clusters so far, each with six in a row.

But Milwaukee put an end to the Dodgers' winning streak last Sunday while the Redlegs had their six-game string snapped by Brooklyn on May 2.

The best winning streak the Braves were able to muster so far this season under deposed Manager Charlie Grimm was five straight; Pittsburgh, the early season sensation, and Chicago, have each been able to win only four in a row, while the best that either St. Louis, Philadelphia or New York could do was three straight.

"Baseball is a game of momentum," Tebbetts said. "You get into the winning swing and everything you do turns out all right. The Dodgers had that momentum early last season when they won 10 in a row right at the start of the season."

"They got off so fast and so well that no one ever was able to catch 'em again. So far this year, though, no club has shown a tendency to go out and run away from all of the others. If the race keeps on going the way it has been, it might not be decided until the last few days of the season."

The conspicuous lack of lengthy winning streaks by any club in the National League has made for a tight race and considerable interest among the fans but it hasn't added to the various managers' peace of mind.

"A manager tries every way he knows how to come up with a winning combination," Tebbetts said. "When he finally gets that combination he likes to keep it and hopes that none of his men get hurt."

"But until you arrive at that combination, you try a different fellow at that position and a different one at that one. Then, sometimes overnight, your ball club starts to jell and you begin winning ball games."

As for his own Cincinnati club, Tebbetts feels the same way now that he did during spring training.

"I said then that we had a chance to go all the way if our pitching came around," he declared. "It still goes — and I still think that the first club to get off on a real good winning streak will win it all."

Lady Angel Wins Over Opponent In Main Mat Event

The Lady Angel came out victorious in her main mat event Monday night at the Sportsman's Arena.

Lady Angel took the first fall with a body press and Princess White Eagle won the second also with a body press. Princess White Eagle then was disqualified in the third fall.

Davis came back to take second fall after applying several back breakers to win with a body press in 9:49. Tokyo Joe was disqualified in 4:32 of the third fall after getting into an argument with the referee.

Oilier, Texan Tilt Postponed Game Called In First Inning

EL PASO — Rain forced postponement of the scheduled Southwestern League game here Monday night between the Pampa Oilers and the El Paso Texans.

Light showers delayed the start of the game 30 minutes. The Oilers got in their half of the first inning but heavy showers wiped the game out with the Texans batting in their half of the initial frame. There was no score when the game was called.

Texan manager Pat McLaughlin said the game will be made up on the next visit to El Paso by Pampa. The two teams will meet in a single contest here tonight.

White On Tour To South Texas

AUSTIN (UP)—Agriculture Commissioner John White left Monday on a four-day inspection tour of South Texas and Rio Grande Valley areas under the pink bollworm quarantine program.

"I am especially concerned about whether farmers will be able to realize some benefits from their crops," White said. "Continued drought in many counties, coupled with delayed cotton plantings, is jeopardizing our insect control program."

White said he was "inclined to risk some aspects of the control program this year to assure more crop production, if it is necessary." "A profit from their crops is of prime importance to many of our drought-stricken farmers this season."

More than 70 South and West Texas counties are designated drought disaster areas. White pointed out that a great amount of cotton production was "extremely questionable in the hardest hit section within the San Antonio-Corpus Christi-Laredo triangle."

Along the lower coast where "flash floods" made re-planting necessary, White said cotton fields may not be cleared of stalks by the date set by quarantine regulations.

Texas U. Coeds Go R. O. T. C.

AUSTIN — Uniformed co-eds will be a new sight on the University of Texas campus next fall. The University is one of 10 colleges in the nation where women first will be allowed to participate in Air Force ROTC programs.

The original group of women to take ROTC training will be from among those entering the Junior year. The Air Force expects, however, to expand the program to include freshmen and sophomores in the future.

Girls selected for the program will be enlisted in the Air Force Reserve. They will receive four weeks of active-duty training during the summer and between the Junior and senior years.

While in college they will take the basic courses offered to men in the ROTC program, in addition to special classes dealing with life and responsibilities of women officers in the Air Force.

The co-eds will receive their uniforms and the pay of basic airmen for a prescribed number of drill periods. Women students who complete the ROTC program, earn bachelor's degrees and agree to active duty for three years will be appointed second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve.

AWAFWAR officer will be assigned to the University staff as an assistant professor of air science.

"Today we honor women who pioneered in their fields! Madam Curie, Florence Nightingale, Sister Kenny—and Ida Trimble, the first wife who demanded and received generous alimony!"

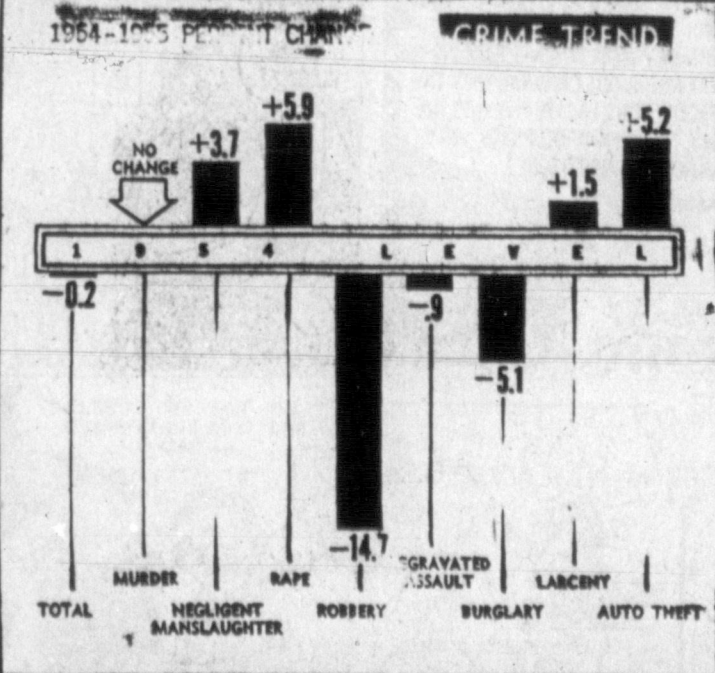

Chart shows the major crime trend throughout the U.S. in 1955, comparing 16 percentage-wise, with 1954. Note the sharp decrease of nearly 15 per cent in robberies and the five plus per cent decrease in burglaries. Since 1954, population has increased nine per cent and crime has increased 26 per cent.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still water. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear not evil: For thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. -23rd Psalm. R. W. McPHILLIPS During a time like this, we realize how much our friends really mean to us. It is impossible to contact each one personally so we are using this means to express our appreciation to all our many friends, to Dr. Julian Kay the hospital staff at Highland hospital, the Postal employees of Pampa, and the members of the First Christian Church and Rebecca Lodge, the graciousness of Duane and Carmichael Funeral Home and the Staff of Memory Gardens was greatly appreciated during the recent passing of our devoted husband and father, The McPhillips Family. God never really takes away from us, out of our life, any gift or blessing that He bestows. The flower which may fade, but the flower is in our heart and is ours forever. Your loved one lived with you many days and then vanished as if by magic, but the memory of him remains and you are an intricately arranged with you that you can never be really separated. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my health. My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer the just to be moved, and He that keepeth him, does not slumber. -117 Psalm. EMMETT LEE JOHNSON The family of Emmett Lee Johnson wishes to take this opportunity to express our great appreciation to the many friends and neighbors to Rev. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson and Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Neely for the acts of kindness and words of comfort. For the beautiful flowers and many gifts of food. May God bless you and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Johnson and Mrs. and Mrs. E. Card of Thanks The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still water. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear not evil: For thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. -23rd Psalm. R. W. McPHILLIPS During a time like this, we realize how much our friends really mean to us. It is impossible to contact each one personally so we are using this means to express our appreciation to all our many friends, to Dr. Julian Kay the hospital staff at Highland hospital, the Postal employees of Pampa, and the members of the First Christian Church and Rebecca Lodge, the graciousness of Duane and Carmichael Funeral Home and the Staff of Memory Gardens was greatly appreciated during the recent passing of our devoted husband and father, The McPhillips Family. God never really takes away from us, out of our life, any gift or blessing that He bestows. The flower which may fade, but the flower is in our heart and is ours forever. Your loved one lived with you many days and then vanished as if by magic, but the memory of him remains and you are an intricately arranged with you that you can never be really separated. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my health. My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer the just to be moved, and He that keepeth him, does not slumber. -117 Psalm. EMMETT LEE JOHNSON The family of Emmett Lee Johnson wishes to take this opportunity to express our great appreciation to the many friends and neighbors to Rev. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson and Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Neely for the acts of kindness and words of comfort. For the beautiful flowers and many gifts of food. May God bless you and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Johnson and Mrs. and Mrs. E. Johnson Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Smith Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith.

Solon Warns Of H-Tests

NEW YORK (UP)—Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) warned Sunday night that future increases in the number of hydrogen bomb explosions could "get us into danger." He said he did not believe that current tests should be stopped because the amount of radioactivity in the air was "infinitesimal" provided care is taken. But he said if the number of peacetime H-bomb shots is increased it could be a "real hazard." Holifield said radioactive fallout was "more feared than anything I know of" and called for a study of the hazard which would result from nuclear warfare. Holifield discussed the effects of atomic radiation with Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Dr. Bentley Glass of Johns Hopkins hospital, on the NBC-TV program "American Forum."
