TAKE TRIP

Shown above are 11 of the 33 Cub Scouts of Pack 20 as they were waiting to board a Santa Fe train this morning for a 30 minute ride to Panhandle. The boy in the middle of the bottom row didn't seem to be very happy about the two-hour wait. (News photo)

THE HARD WAY — Neither rain nor sleet nor injury keeps Pampa News reporter Sid Scheiner from getting his feature story. Here he is using the "hunt and peck" system to grind out his latest classic. Next week, "East Lynn."

Farmer Opens Pandora's Box Of Troubles

By SID SCHEINER

I dressed this morning as quickly as one can get dressed using only seven fingers. The other three fingers were "hors de combat" as they lay in the slicks, mummified in a rich swathing of cotton and medicine, due to an industrial accident which occurred yesterday afternoon out at the Meers farm three miles south of Pampa.

I was lucky it could be classed as an industrial accident. That, and the temporary discomfort, moved me to the head of a long line of patients at a local clinic, and also kept my little fortune intact (English interpretation) — it didn't cost a dime.

It seems, I was out covering a feature story for the Sunday edition, all about Pampa high graders of the Golden Age (1920-21-22), when in attempting to eject a bulb from our B & J camera, the darn thing flared off in my hand causing me to drop the camera and flood the area with a dozen or so rich oaths I had learned in 30 some odd years of careful listening.

Fortunately, Mrs. Meers wasn't within shouting distance at the time.

Well, I don't know about that Sunday feature now, but the sudden pain I experienced helped me to recall another story I once covered while reporting for the Daily News in Lamar, Colo., about a year ago.

As I remember the incident, a farmer named Joe Fisher opened a Pandora's Box of good and bad luck one Sunday afternoon when he discovered a cache of souvenirs dating to pre-Lamar days hidden in the 22 inch stone walls of the original Farmer's homestead

Tribulations Of A Shutter-Bug

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Photographer

After a hot afternoon in the environs of McLean this jack-of-all-trades returned to The News late Wednesday afternoon and what was the first thing that my eyes beheld: You would probably have been as surprised as I was for there was one of our cameras looking more like a fugitive from a junk yard than a Stanley Steamer.

It seems that one of the fellows at the paper had set a flash bulb off in his hand and had been unable to hold onto the camera.

After the initial shock of seeing the piece of junk that was once a camera I set about sorting out the parts and trying to make it look like a camera once again.

This was no easy task as a certain reporter had done a good job of mangling the camera. After much diligent work the job was accomplished and The News once again had two cameras.

We are supposed to have three of these gadgets but for some reason or the other at least one of them has been in the camera hospital in Amarillo for the past week or so.

Oh! Well, the moral to this is: when putting a flash bulb into a flash holder one must not (repeat, must not) set the bulb off. If you don't believe me just ask a certain reporter at The News.

Twining Orders Investigation Into U.S. Manufacturer's Russian Flight

Private Plane Carried NATO Embargo Material

MOSCOW — UP — Gen. Nathan F. Twining flew to Stalingrad today after ordering an investigation into the arrival here of an American manufacturer in a private plane carrying some equipment on the NATO embargo list.

Before taking off for a tour of the World War II battle site where the Russians stopped the Nazis, the U. S. Air Force chief of staff directed his aides to look into William P. Lear's flight from West Berlin to Moscow.

Lear, owner of an aircraft manufacturing plant in Santa Monica, Calif., arrived Tuesday with his wife in his twin-engine Cessna 310. It was the first such authorized flight by a private plane since before World War II.

The Russians cleared Lear's trip in record time from East Berlin and Wednesday he demonstrated the plane and its gear for nine officials of the Soviet Trade Ministry.

It was understood here that Lear's company sells about $60 million worth of equipment annually to the U. S. armed forces.

Lear freely admitted some of his equipment is on the NATO list of embargoed goods for Russia. But he said none of it is classified and it can be "bought off the shelf" in the United States.

He said further he did not discuss business with the Russians and they did not offer to buy any of the equipment. Soviet officials promised to take him on a tour of the Ilyushin aircraft plant before he leaves Moscow Friday.

Twining flew to Stalingrad today in a Soviet air force plane. He was to be the guest of the local Soviet commanding officer at a major military installation.

He visited two aircraft manufacturing plants Wednesday and told newsmen afterwards "it was an interesting experience and I learned something useful, but nothing surprising so far."

Activity In Court Hot Here

Ryan was arrested by officers of the sheriff's department about 10 p.m. yesterday, eight miles west of Pampa, according to a report from the county attorney's office.

Joe Conner, 18, of 737 S. Barnes, was fined $25 and costs yesterday on charges of enticing a minor from the custody of her parents, according to Don Cain, county attorney. Conner pleaded guilty to the charges.

Loarline Johnson Jelks, 335 S. Gray, pleaded guilty this morning to charges of concealing mortgaged property and was fined $5 and costs, according to Cain's report.

Girl Scout Council Plans Addition To Camp Davis

The Top o' Texas Girl Scout Council voted to have working plans drawn up and cost estimates made on an addition to Camp Mel Davis, near Lefors, at a meeting in the GS office today.

The proposed addition would include a locker room, a shower room, indoor rest room, and storage facilities. Preliminary plans, studied during the meeting, were drawn up by Waldon Moore, who attended the meeting to explain the plans. Joe Wells was appointed building project chairman by E. L. Layne, president.

The Council also voted to put in a pressurized water system at Camp Mel Davis.

Mrs. John Holt, camp chairman, reported on this year's Day Camp program. She stated the Pampa camp included 276 Scouts and 49 adults; the Skellytown camp, 30 Scouts and 12 adults; and the Miami camp, 27 Scouts and four adults. She recommended an eight-day camp for next year, eliminating overnight camping starting at 9 a.m. instead of 8 a.m.; that a different intermediate Scout camp be held; that overnight camping be done by individual troops; that nursery help be hired and a nursery site established; that a limited and planned crafts program be set up; and that the possibility of an established camp with Berger and other area councils be investigated.

Layne announced the budget must be prepared to be presented to the United Fund this summer and appointed Ken Meaders to be in charge of the arrangements.

Attending were Mrs. John Holt, E. L. Layne, Waldon Moore, Joe Wells, Mrs. Harry Garrison, Ken Meaders, Mrs. Herman Brown, Bunny Behrman, Mrs. Euna Lee Moores, Mrs. J. G. Crinklaw, Mrs. N. G. Kadingo and Mrs. Bennie Duncan.

A like survey was conducted in 1952 which was helpful to Pampa's merchants, Hugh Peoples, chairman of the committee said this morning.

Killer Wasps Invade Pampa

A trip to the Pampa News office by two youths, James Henry Finley Jr. and Marsha Johnson, proved that the season for the "Killer Wasp" is here again.

With them they brought two rust-colored wasps with black yellow-spotted tails, which they caught in their grandmother's Mrs. E. G. Barrett, back yard, at 522 E. Francis.

The wasps were the same species which caused the death of Truett Ross, a Pampa High School teacher last summer, and are technically named Cicadas.

Mrs. Barrett's next door neighbor, Miss Oleta Martin, has had trouble with the wasps hovering around her Crepe Myrtle bush for the past two years. She had killed several of the insects previously and told the children about them.

James Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Finley Sr. of Claude, being an insect collector, decided to try to capture one of the wasps for his collection.

After catching five other varieties of bees, etc., his cousin Marsha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Johnson of Collinsville, Okla., spotted the two wasps on a lilac bush in her grandmother's back yard. James captured them with a dark colored jar.

Miss Martin said that she had tried many kinds of insect spray, but that it only drove the wasps away temporarily. They vary in length, but are usually from an inch to an inch and a half long, Miss Martin stated.

"The wasps come in the morning and leave in the afternoon," Miss Martin added. "They also nest in the ground."

Newspapers Solve Housing Shortage

MOLINE, ILL.—The mystery of R. L. Blomberg's missing newspapers has been solved and the carrier boy is innocent as a newborn babe.

One neighbor who had been alerted to watch Blomberg's home claimed he saw a rabbit seize the rolled newspaper in its mouth and scuttie off.

Later, neighborhood sleuths found a neatly constructed rabbit's nest built from all the missing newspapers under a nearby porch.

House Approves Veteran Pension

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON, June 28 —UP—The House Wednesday passed a sharply pared-down bill to give needy veterans of World War I a $90-a-month pension at age 65.

The roll call vote was 364 to 51 in favor of the bill. As finally approved, the measure was stripped of nearly all the proposals advanced by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The original bill would have cost an estimated $148 billion in the next half century.

Left in the bill was a $90 pension for needy 65-year-old veterans of World War I, some compensation increases for veterans permanently and totally disabled while in service, and a 10 per cent compensation boost for non-service disabilities if the veteran served 30 days overseas.

Asked $105 There was no immediate estimate available of the cost of the measure. It now goes to the Senate, where it faces an uncertain fate.

The original bill, approved by the House Veterans committee, would have provided a $105-a-month general pension for all 65-year-old veterans of World War I, II, and Korea, and a 10 to 15 per cent increase in compensation to veterans disabled in service.

Just prior to final passage, the House rejected by a roll call vote of 205 to 110 a motion by Rep. William H. Ayers (R-Ohio) to kill the bill by sending it back to the Veterans Committee for further study.

Waives Disability Test
The key feature of the new legislation would waive the test of disability for veterans of World War I at the age of 65.

Otherwise, the pared-down measure simply would amend present pension provisions for non-service disabilities. Under present law, such totally disabled veterans of the last three wars get $66.15 a month if his annual income is not more than $1,400 a year if single or $2,700 if married.

Under present law, this monthly pension increases to $75 at age 65. Under the new bill, it would start at $75 a month and increase to $90 when the veteran reaches the age of 65.

SUN DOG—Holding a hot dog at focal point of parabolic mirror, Betty Klassen sizzles her lunch in seconds atop Fels Planetarium in Philadelphia, Pa. 'Super Gas' Tried In Selected Areas

By PATRICK CARR
NEW YORK (UP)—Two top oil companies served up new "super gasoline" to automobile owners in selected areas this month and said: "What's your pleasure, sir?"
 If motorists buy the super fuel many oil company executives expect it to become common from coast to coast. If motorists say "no thanks" to its higher cost it may change future plans of a $12 billion a year industry.

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has gambled millions of dollars on the theory that the average motorist wants a fuel that is just right for his car.
Starts as Experiment
 Sun Oil Co., which started selling its super fuel as an experiment in Orlando, Fla., in February, expanded its tests this week to the whole state.
 "But it is still just an experiment," said a spokesman for the company in Philadelphia.
 "We are not making any claims for it and we are not revealing any results. We are not trying to promote it or advertise it. Our future action will depend on what we find out. Motorists are going to decide this thing and set the trend for the future."

Sun broke its traditional policy of selling only one grade of gasoline by offering a fuel "tailor made" for every car. It now provides five different grades of gasoline from a single pump at each of 350 service stations in Florida. The top grade is more than 10 octane and sells for about five cents above the cost of regular.
 Esso, the brand name for Standard Oil of New Jersey's products, marketed its third grade of gasoline under the name "Golden Esso Extra" at selected service stations in New Orleans, Memphis, Baltimore, Washington, Boston and New York.
 Esso pegged the price for the super fuel three cents higher than premium gasoline and six cents higher than regular.

Cards' Phone Bills Rise When Lane Starts Dialing

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The hotel operator chuckled. "Frank Lane? He's busy. Will you wait?" she said. You said, yes, you sure would and she laughed again. "I hope you have a comfortable seat. He talks a little bit on the phone, you know."
 The operator then cut in, dutifully every 30 seconds to inform that Mr. Lane's wire still was tied up. This went on for 20 minutes. So you leave the phone, take the elevator downstairs, get into a cab and go to the hotel.
 Even on the other end of the house phone the gal's voice said he was busy. Another 15-minute wait. Finally, Lane's voice broke in. "Come on up," he said.

In his first couple of games with the Cardinals, Dark was the pivot man on five double plays. He couldn't come near ground balls with the Giants. It would seem to back up Lane's theory for the present, anyway.
 "The boys call it 'a change of scenery,'" Lane said. "That's a nice-sounding expression. Actually, it's a rude jolt. But a good one."

Jacoby On Bridge
 By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for NEA Service
 When you have four trumps as a defender, you usually try to make declarer ruff some side suit. The idea is to use up declarer's trumps in the hope that you will wind up with more trumps than he has. The principle is illustrated in today's hand.

West opened the jack of hearts, and South won with queen. South led the queen of spades, and East won with the king. East now had to make a key play.
 East could be pretty sure that he needed a club trick to have any chance to defeat the contract. The best shot was to play South for a singleton small club with pretty solid holdings in the other suits.
 East was therefore sure to make declarer ruff clubs. For this purpose he began by leading the king of clubs rather than a low club.
 When this card held, East led a low club, forcing South to ruff. Declarer next led the jack of spades, forcing out East's ace. East could now lead a third club, forcing South to ruff again.
 At this point South had only one trump, while East had two trumps. East was therefore sure to make another trump trick, defeating the contract.
 East would not have defeated the contract if he had begun the clubs by leading a low card in that suit. West would win with the ace and would return a club. Dummy would play the jack, and East's king would win with the ace and would return a club. Dummy would play the jack, and East's king would make South ruff. Dummy's queen of clubs would then control the suit, and the defenders would be unable to make South ruff a second time.

Upstairs, Lane was on a sitting room chair, his collar open and a phone to his ear.
 This is the way the general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals does his business. Without a telephone, Frank Lane would be a cinch to wind up strapped to a bed some place. But he gets more done with that instrument than merely guaranteeing A. T. & T. stockholders the usual yearly dividend.
 If you listen to Lane, he has grabbed a pennant for the Cardinals with his wire-burning deals this season. And he lists as the major reason Al Dark, of all people.
 "I never thought of him as anything but a shortstop," Lane said. "Heck, I tried to get the guy last October. Then I tried in December and again in February. I've seen the Giants play a dozen games this year and I kept on Horace Stoneham until I got him. He has stabilized my infield."

This merited more than casual interest. For Dark, nearly everybody in New York agreed, ruined the Giants' defense. The pitchers complained about him. Others insisted he was through.
 But when you listen to Lane — and then watch Dark in a Cardinal uniform — you get an idea behind the whole philosophy of shifting a ballplayer from one club to another.
 "You move a guy, it's a shock to him," Lane said. "He resents it. He has a family settled. He has paid rent for the place he stays at. Now in one day he has to move. His wife gets upset. And he gets mad. Mad — that's the key. He turns around and says, 'I'll show you what go-and-so who traded me.'"
 "The guy comes on the field with his new club and he feels insecure. 'What if I don't make it?' he'll ask himself. Now he has put himself on a spot. If he is a good player he'll get off it in a hurry. So you trade for that kind of a player."
 "That's the story with Dark. He was in New York too long. I got him out of there. Now he has to make good with us. Imagine this — a competitor like Dark worried about making good. That's the kind of stuff I like."

If You Need New Tires' Get 'Em Before Sunday

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—If you need a new set of tires for your automobile, you can save about $3.00 in taxes by buying them before midnight Saturday.

On Sunday the federal government will slap higher taxes on tires, gasoline, diesel fuel, trucks, buses and truck-trailers.

The increased taxes are included in a bill which President Eisenhower is certain to sign into law this week. The bill will put into effect the biggest construction program in history to modernize the nation's highways. The higher taxes on motorists and truckers are to help pay for it.

The House and Senate completed congressional action on the measure Tuesday.

Here is how the new taxes will affect motorists and truckers:

Tires—The federal tax will jump from five to eight cents a pound. This means a tax increase of 74 cents a tire on the tubeless ones with which new popular-make passenger cars now come equipped. Thus, it will cost $3.70 more in taxes to produce a new automobile with a spare tire.

The tax on old-type tires, with tubes, of the same popular size will go up only 65 cents a tire, since they weigh less. The tax will go up much more on big heavy truck tires. Consumers will be hit immediately because retailers and wholesalers must pay the tax on their July 1 inventory.

Gasoline—The tax jumps from two cents to three cents a gallon. Some service stations may not boost gasoline prices immediately. Gasoline delivered to service stations by midnight Saturday will be exempt.

It will be up to each service station operator to decide when to hike his prices. Some big stations in cities can store only a two or three day supply. Others can hold a week's supply. Some rural stations with little business need only bi-monthly deliveries.

Diesel Fuel—The tax jumps from two cents to three cents a gallon and truckers will be hit immediately, since this is a retail, rather than a manufacturer's excise tax, as in the case of gasoline.

Trucks, Buses and Truck-Trailers—The federal government will collect from manufacturers a tax equal to 10 per cent of their sale price, instead of the present eight per cent. The only way to escape the levy is to buy before midnight Saturday. Inventories in dealers' and distributors' hands on Sunday will be subjected to the tax.

Weight Tax on Trucks—Starting Sunday, operators of trucks weighing 13 tons or more will have to pay a new tax on $1.50 per 1,000 pounds on the gross weight of their trucks. This amounts to $39 for a 13-ton truck.

Tread Rubber—Manufacturers of camelback, or rubber used in re-treading tires, will be subjected to a new tax of three cents a pound.

During the next 12 months the new taxes are expected to raise $612 million in revenue. The revenue over a 16-year period is forecast at $14,814,000,000.

Ike, Nixon Aides Are Under Fire

WASHINGTON (UP)—Both men at the head of the probable Republican ticket this fall found their aides under scrutiny of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee Wednesday.

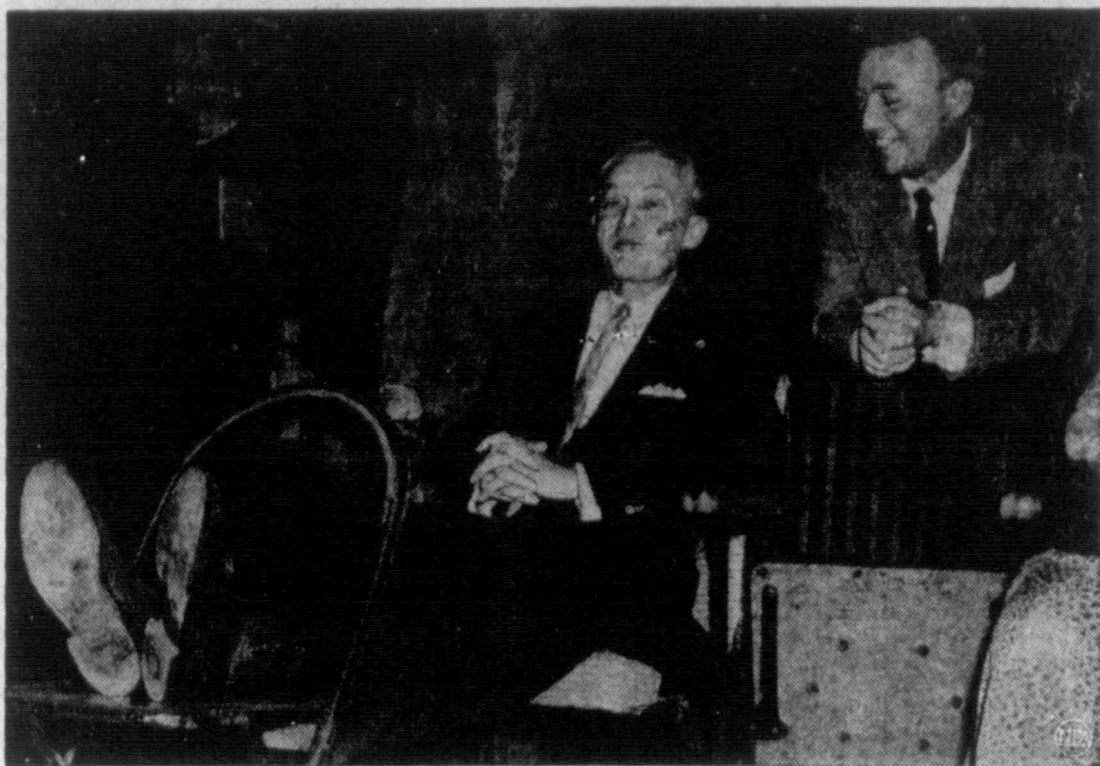

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) told reporters: 1. He would give President Eisenhower's White House staff a few more days to reveal who leaked cabinet secrets to a reporter writing a book on the administration after Congress had been denied similar information.

2. His subcommittee will meet Friday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon's 1952 campaign manager, Murray M. Chotiner, to receive records of Chotiner's law practice which it has subpoenaed.

McClellan said Chotiner, in a telephone conversation, agreed to come in personally with his records Friday. He said Chotiner wanted to turn them over to the senators rather than subcommittee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, with whom he has been feuding.

The Arkansas Democrat said the subcommittee has not decided whether the meeting would be public, but he said the primary purpose of the session is to get the records rather than to question Chotiner. That may come later, he said.

The group has been investigating Chotiner's law practice since his name bobbed up as attorney for two blacklisted clothing makers in an investigation of graft in military uniform buying.

DEMOCRATS MAY BE SITTING PRETTY—Paul Butler, national Democratic chairman, tries out one of the theater-type seats which Democrats may use to supplement permanent seating facilities at Chicago's International Amphitheater when the Democratic Convention opens Aug. 13. Butler rests his feet on a conventional portable chair. At right is James O'Keefe, member of the host city's convention committee.

Huston Leaves Hollywood To Live In Rural Ireland

By ALINE MOSSBY
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—John Huston, one of show business' true characters and one of the world's top directors, has given up Hollywood to live in rural Ireland—but it sounds more dangerous than life in the wilds of movietown.

Humphrey Bogart, one of the director's cronies, once said of Huston: "I love horses and hunting. You can't work in Hollywood and live in the country. Getting from the country into town is a three-hour project. I'm only an hour by plane from London."

Huston belonged here to a local fox hunt club where Dan Dalley and other enthusiasts ride in pink coats on a foxless fox hunt. But in Ireland Huston and his wife go in for the real thing.

"Now and then people get sprained ankles and broken necks," the director said with his casual grin. "I had a fall and got a kink in my back. Another time the horse came down on me in a ditch and I was paralyzed for a while."

Huston was wearing a flannel suit with side slits in the jacket, a green tie and velvet slippers. He had just removed a checkered cap.

Ireland four years and plan to stay so we just bought a house in county Galway," said Huston as he lit a long, brown cigaret.

"Great fox hunting country. I decided to live there because I love horses and hunting. You can't work in Hollywood and live in the country. Getting from the country into town is a three-hour project. I'm only an hour by plane from London."

"There's no demonstration in Ireland on St. Patrick's Day," he added.

The beaver is the largest North American rodent and one of the most valuable furbearers.

woman broke her hip, a horse rolled on a man, a girl broke her ribs and a man had his back hurt. But really, this is rare. Ho... Ho!

"Every year a couple of people get killed but there aren't usually that many accidents in one hunt," he said jovially. "My wife hurt her head and chipped her front teeth on one hunt."

I commented this seems like a racy sport, considering it's not even a competition, and, according to Huston, no trophies are awarded.

"People get their legs broken skiing," he shrugged.

Huston thinks the Irish are "very hospitable" and "not the swaggering, loud mouth type like the professional Irishman in America who's never been to Ireland."

"There's no demonstration in Ireland on St. Patrick's Day," he added.

U. S. Politics Lean Toward Isolation

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP). — Putting one and one together to make two, there is more than a touch of isolation in current American political trends.

It is not the old time religion isolationism of the 1920s. Then the United States was spurning the League of Nations and trying to collect the war debts of 1917-18.

But, the trend is evident. If it continues it will considerably reshape the foreign policies of the United States as they were developed during the Truman administration and carried on without amendment by President Eisenhower.

A dispatch to the London (England) Daily Telegraph written by its chief Washington correspondent, Denis Smith, was printed under this headline:

Revival of "Go-It-Alone" Spirit in U. S. Congress
Smith is a veteran of 30 years Washington reporting. His paragraphs summed up what is happening, as follows:

"There is a somewhat disturbing common factor in the simultaneous congressional drives to reduce military foreign aid and to increase Air Force appropriations for long-range jet bombers.

"It is that Congress is showing a preference for a reliance on the United States' own military strength, rather than on the Western Alliance for its security. It is in some respects evidence of a 'Go-It-Alone' spirit."

Smith made the point that after Gen. Curtis E. LeMay pitted Congress with his estimate that the Soviet Union was producing long-range bombers faster than was the United States, President Eisenhower had to make a basic decision. It was whether to shift all-out effort to home-based, long-range aircraft or to maintain a mixed air force of long-range craft at home and medium bombers based on foreign soil. Mr. Eisenhower chose the latter.

That is the core of the dispute now raging between the White House and Congress over how much should be appropriated for foreign military aid and how much for the air force. The Eisenhower administration seems to be losing on both counts.

The break-away from Truman-Eisenhower foreign policy has not yet changed the over-all collective defense picture. But it is a break-away, just the same, and the break largely has been among congressional Democrats. The Democrats were more solidly for the big-time foreign aid programs begun in the Truman administration than the Republicans ever were. And now they begin to balk. Iceland's vote to send the American home is contributing its bit to the new isolationist sentiment in the United States. So does the news from Great Britain that defense spending is to be considerably reduced. And the seeming inability of Frenchmen to govern themselves or to live with their colonies is a factor.

Heat Added To Drouth Distress

AUSTIN (UP)—Burning summer temperatures have added to distress of feed crops and pastures over much of Texas, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The weekly crop and weather bulletin reported moisture was "practically exhausted," except in two widely separated areas.

Cotton, late feed and pasture prospects were boosted by heavy showers and rains along the upper coast, but it was too late to help early feed crops. Turbulent weather over the High Plains and Plains let loose light to heavy showers in much of that area.

During the week, light showers skipped around in many south central counties lowering temperatures briefly, but were "generally ineffective," the USDA reported.

Wheat harvest on dryland acreage was near completion in the Central High Plains. "Considerable" irrigated acreage remains to be combined, the report continued.

Lower Valley cotton was maturing fast and yield prospects remained "good" even though many fields missed the last rain. Late South Texas cotton has made "little growth" and throughout south central counties continued drouth lowered yield prospects.

Cotton received a "big boost" along the upper coast and in the southeast from timely rains. In the blacklands and eastward, the but much acreage was reaching the state where rain was "essential."

Movement of good quality watermelons was active from Hempstead, Bellville and Egin-Smithville. Many points in central and eastern Texas will be harvesting this week, the USDA predicted.

A law established in 1870 forbids military officers to hold civilian government posts.

Marlon Brando Back Singing Praises About Japanese

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Marlon Brando, world traveler, is back from Japan and on a one-man crusade to spread the good word about Japanese women ("Considerate") and also the men (not the deadpan "fanatics you hear about.")

Brando, in fact, is a walking travelogue these days. I visited him to inquire about a difference of opinion he reportedly had with Glenn Ford on the set of their movie in Japan, "Teahouse of the August Moon." But Brando is so enthusiastic about Japan it's hard to get a word in edgewise.

"Japanese women are extremely considerate and infinitely subtle," said the actor, who looks like an Oriental himself in a wig and plastic forehead and brow.

"I was terribly impressed with Japan. The people are the nicest I've ever met in my life. They unquestionably are the most courteous, honorable, well-meaning and self-respecting people.

"And contrary to common impression," he added, "they are the most emotional people I've ever met."

The "Teahouse" company embarked to Japan, sets and all, to shoot the movie version of the Broadway hit in its natural local. But steady rain finally drove them home to MGM where a fake Japan had to be constructed on the back lot among the oil wells.

Brando was so regretful at having to leave so soon he plans to return to Japan for a better look.

"The Japanese are hypersensitively attuned to other people in their relationships," he said. "The fans were enthusiastic too. They don't clamor for autographs. They give you presents — little dolls or mementoes. The Japanese are very shy and self-conscious—they never intrude themselves on anyone."

Brando's travelogue for me was complete with action. In the MGM commissary the actor demonstrated how Japanese pullman porters "suck in their breath" when you pass them because "in feudal Japan servants weren't supposed to contaminate others with their breath." The lively, colorful actor also showed how Japanese bow to each other "so that in train stations it looks as if half the population is bobbing for apples."

"Japan is very tranquillizing. It reduces you to a contemplative mood," concluded Brando, and had to hurry back to his movie set.

Later I asked other workers on the set about the alleged "feud." Nothing to it, they said; except general blues with everybody on account of the rain.

Child Finds Human Foot

MIDLAND, Tex. (UP)—Midland police were mystified today as to how a human foot that appeared to have been amputated and partially cremated got on the roof of a house.

D. D. Green, on whose home the foot was found, said it first was spotted by a neighborhood child.

He said he had no idea how it got on his roof.

Police said the foot appeared to be that of a man and is 13 inches long. It is a left foot.

Police planned to check with an anthropologist to try and learn more information about the foot. Police Chief Harold Wallace said it might be sent to laboratories of the Department of Public Safety in Austin for study.

If two kids share the same room, try this. Assign a color to each and then put pieces of appropriately colored tape on the toys of each. For extra durability, paint with sehlac.

QUIZZICAL—Two of 17 Korean war orphans brought to this country by World Visions, a missionary aid society, give a quizzical on-looker to their adopted land from plane ramp at Los Angeles, Calif. Twelve of the 17 will be settled in the Los Angeles area. The society houses some 7,000 children in 101 Korean orphanages.

Sentence Is Probated

LIPSCOMB — Justice was tempered with mercy here yesterday afternoon in the 31st District Court of Lipscomb County.

Judge Lewis M. Goodrich placed Robert Lincoln Jones, 29, of Amarillo, on a stiff five year probation after Jones pleaded guilty to charges of burglary at night and theft.

The prosecution charge grew out of the February, 1952, burglary of a co-operative elevator and service station at Booker.

Jones last week was released from a Kansas State prison where he has served 39 months on a previous burglary conviction.

Aluminum, lead, and ten are metals used in making collapsible metal tubes.

Unauthorized Solo Flight
WIESSBADEN, Germany (UP) — A young airman was "neither insane nor intoxicated" when he flew a twin-engine transport into Rhineland skies for a one-hour solo joyride, the U.S. Air Force said today. Officials said Airman 1-C Thomas H. Smith, of Sitka, Alaska, will face a court martial for his unauthorized C47 flight Tuesday.

Another Chance At Love
PALISADES PARK, N. J. (UP) — The Palisades Amusement Park said something went wrong with some of its electrical controls and lit up the tunnel of love bright as day. When the trouble finally was corrected, the management gave free passes for another ride through the darkened tunnel for the couples whose romancing was interrupted.

Consumer Prices Show Increase

NEW YORK (UP)—Consumer prices rose 0.2 per cent in May to the highest level of the year while the purchasing value of the dollar dipped one cent below a year ago to 98.8 cents (1953 equals 100), according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

The board's all-items consumer price index now stands at 101.2 (1953 equals 100). Sharpest change over the month was registered by food, which advanced 0.7 per cent, followed by sundries and apparel, 0.1 per cent each. Housing remained unchanged from the April level, while transportation costs declined 0.3 per cent.

AIRBORNE BACK-SEAT DRIVER—Man in cockpit mock-up, foreground, takes over control of this T-29-type airliner once it is aloft. Purpose: to test advanced electronic control system of an F-102 jet interceptor at one-fifth the cost of operating the expensive-to-run jet itself and to give scientists and engineers (background) room in which to work. Not even one observer can be squeezed in the jam-packed (two tons of equipment) interceptor under normal flight conditions. Equipment is shown spread out for easy access in pressurized cabin of the airliner as man at controls flies mother ship as though it were a jet. New evaluation routine is a development of Hughes Aircraft Corp.

Hunting Plans Upset For Pampa

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Hunting parties staged by a Texas oil executive on his ranch in western Oklahoma were headed for an upset in plans today.

The Oklahoma attorney general ruled that the Texan, G. B. Cree, cannot allow his guests to hunt without a license or out of season on the Oklahoma land, although it and the game are privately owned.

Cree is head of the Cree Drilling Co., Pampa, Tex.

The opinion was sought by the State Game and Fish Commission after J. B. McGuire Jr., of the Cree firm, explained his problem to the commission and asked for a liberalized interpretation of the state's hunting laws.

McGuire explained that Cree owns a ranch in Ellis and Dewey counties in western Oklahoma, and for the past five years has developed it for hunting purposes—principally quail hunting.

McGuire explained that Cree often takes guests for hunting. Most of the guests live outside Oklahoma and would not ordinarily have non-resident hunting licenses. There is no profit connected with the program, and all hunting occurs on the ranch.

The non-resident license is prohibitive, and the limitation on the number of days for quail hunting creates other problems, McGuire said hunting can be allowed only on days set by law, and there are no exceptions.

Mac Q. Williamson, attorney general, found, however, that the Oklahoma laws are rigid. Williamson said the state game and fish statutes require non-resident licenses to be purchased "for any and all kinds of hunting." Also he said hunting can be allowed only on days set by law, and there are no exceptions.

If your face is round, shape your brows so that they arch slightly, coming down rather sharply at the sides. And keep them fairly thick.

SOMETHING ON THEIR MINDS—Sisters under the cloak of suffrage, city woman (second from right) and peasant women register with an election official near Cairo, Egypt. For the first time in her history, Egypt's women will vote in the June 23 plebiscite to make their wishes known on a proposed constitution and a president for the republic.

Carson Has 4-H Rally

GROOM (Special)—Carson County's first county-wide 4-H rally was held recently in the VFW Hall in Panhandle. Sixty 4-H boys and girls, leaders and parents attended.

The rally began with registration on 4-leaf clover tags and a get-acquainted game.

A round-table discussion of the district camp and round-up and the business was conducted by George Roberts, county agent. Members of the 4-H board taking part in the discussion were Miss Sherry Herron and Travis DeHart of Panhandle; Miss Mary Lou Quirk, Miss Frances Denton, Miss Louise Harrell, and Miss Ellen Latta, all of Groom; and Dennis Watt of White Deer.

Murry Bonifield directed the social games and square dancing. Pie alamide, furnished by the boys and girls, was served following the recreation.

The rally committee was composed of Miss Ellen M. Latta, and Miss Frances Denton of Groom, and Jimmy Bearden and Dennis White of White Deer.

Wallace Wanted Dollar Bill Design Changed

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Christophers, a society with the laudable purpose of restoring "the love and truth of Christ to the marketplace," recently undertook to interpret the great seal of the United States as printed on the reverse of the one-dollar bill. The Christophers have overreached themselves, but, that said, aside, there are two sides of this seal and there is doubt about the reverse design. The obverse, or front side, of the seal contains the eagle with wings spread, and with 13 olive leaves on a branch in one talon and 13 arrows in the other. This is the seal that appears on passports and most other documents visible to the public. The reverse design, with a pyramid, a staring eye in a radiant triangle and the motto "Novus Ordo Seclorum" was an afterthought. It does not appear on subpoenas, warrants, commissions, court orders or post-offices.

In the fascinating smith of his diary, which ran in Collier's in 1947, Henry Morgenthau told us that he changed the design of the one-dollar bill at the request of Henry Wallace so as to include both of these designs where no such symbols had been before. They did this without fanfare and, as Morgenthau says, the only reason was that Wallace wanted it done. Up to then, the word "one" had been spelled across the bill in stretchy letters. The Wallace version now in circulation to the extent of nobody knows how many billions, also has the word "one," but it is compressed to a little less than half the length of the bill.

Father James Keller, the director of the Christophers, holds that "The founders of our country" adopted these designs "To express the basic truths of our nation." But Morgenthau wrote that Wallace, "who had strange mystical drives, talked me into putting on the dollar bill a seal showing the great pyramid."

Morgenthau never did tell us what that seal was and there is no plain clue in his disclosure that in 1933 Wallace was one of the few in the palace guard who opposed recognition of Soviet Russia on religious grounds. Wallace's religious experiences were weird and wild, for he went haywire over Nicholas Roerich, a Russian charlatan originally from St. Petersburg, and staked him at the expense of the American taxpayers to a fantastic expedition to Outer Mongolia in search of a living god, or pre-natural being. The stated purpose of the caravan was to search for drought-resistant grass seed. That was strictly for the auditors.

Roerich had messed around in symbolism and he had sold not only staspy Wallace but F.D. Roosevelt and his mother, Sara, the idea of an international flag containing three black dots, equidistant, on a yellow field, which was to protect treasures of art from battle-damage and vandalism if war should ever come. The three dots went all the way back and when the historic and fatuous bubblehead letters finally became public, a few nuts known as symbolists emerged from the shadows to interpret not only the dots but the reverse of the Great Seal. Their interpretations of the reverse did not agree with Father Keller's and it is an odd fact that claimants of learned authority have even been able to disagree slightly on the meaning of "Novus Ordo Seclorum." Father Keller says, for instance, that it means, "A new order of ages."

Roerich's pressagent, Miss Frances Grant, a very shrewd operator, built up a great occasion in Washington at which Roosevelt formally acknowledged this flag of the three dots and, in a manner of speaking, commissioned Roerich as color-sergeant.

There are some seals which have two faces, but most of them are ancient and it is obvious that the Seal of the United States calls for no reverse. The seals of most of our several states have only one face and no reverse, or back.

This little incident, as revealed casually by Morgenthau, shows how lightly solemn responsibility rested on our rulers. But Henry really lifted the curtain when he wrote that Roosevelt, lying in his mahogany bed one morning, with cigarettes, fruit and a couple of whodunnits on a table beside him, hit upon 21 as the price of gold because that was "three times seven, a lucky num." Henry said that "if anybody ever knew this they would be really frightened!"

"It was," however, "characteristic of the President to break the gloom in difficult moments by a light touch," and later Henry realized that our leader was only pulling his leg.

Government And Moral Law

No. IX

Here's the last installment of Admiral Ben Moreell's address on "Government and Moral Law." In the last issue he was relating that it was the proper function of government to protect man's life and property only because it is first a proper function of the individual. Then he continues in this manner: "Do I, as an individual, have the moral right to demand that my neighbor eliminate a general hazard to health which he has built near my house, even though it is on his own property? I believe so. Thus, also, do I have a similar right to call upon my agent—government—to do it for me if I cannot induce my neighbor to correct the condition voluntarily."

"But do I have a moral right to force my neighbor to 'save' a certain percentage of his earnings for his old age? I do not. Nor does government have such a right. "And just as I individually have no moral right to take from my neighbor that which is rightfully his, just so do I lack a moral right to vote to have my government do the same thing in the name of a subsidy or any other type of material benefit to myself or others of my choosing."

"The fact that those who advocate and administer these laws may be honest and sincere persons who are truly interested in helping their fellow men does not excuse them. It was Mr. Justice Brandeis who warned us of that danger in these words: 'Experience should teach us to be most on our guard to protect liberty when the government's purposes are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded rulers. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well meaning, but without understanding.'"

What Shall We Do? "Now you may ask—What shall we do to retrieve those powers which we have wrongfully surrendered to government? What specific measures should be taken?"

"I want to say that I am aware that there is more than one way to stop a jet plane and that running it into a stone wall is NOT the best way. I believe, therefore, that certain measures can and should be taken which will decelerate and eventually stop the rush toward totalitarianism and thus effect an orderly and non-destructive correction of our present course. That this is not an impossible task is proved by the peaceful planned retreat from absolutism now being accomplished in Turkey. This same advance was achieved in England in 1846 with the repeal of the Corn laws and the abandonment of protectionism in favor of free trade. This marked the beginning of England's greatest period of prosperity."

"Furthermore, I am sure that I am not capable of determining for 150 million people their everyday economic and personal decisions concerning such things as wages, prices, production and other. I believe that no other person or group of persons is capable of doing so. For that reason, I propose that these decisions and the problems connected therewith be returned to the people themselves. This, I believe, could be done in three orderly steps, as follows: "First, let us stop this headlong rush toward more collectivism. Let there be no more special privileges for farmers, employees, farmers, businessmen or any other group or person. Let there be no enlargement of the area of socialism. That is the easiest step of all. We need merely refrain from passing additional socialistic laws! And let us remember that whenever special privilege is granted to a person or group the freedom of others is correspondingly restricted. That is coercion!"

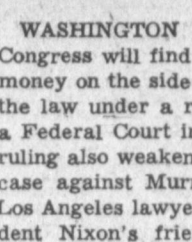

"Second, let us undertake at once an orderly demobilization of many of the existing powers of centralized government. This can be done by the progressive repeal of the various socialistic laws that we already have. Let us remove the special privileges that we have already granted. This will be a very difficult step because every pressure group in the nation will fight bitterly to retain the laws that grant them monopoly privileges and protection from competition. But if freedom is to live, all special privilege must go!"

"Third, of the powers which remain in government, let us decentralize as many as possible by returning them to state and local government. For on the local level the people will be better able to safeguard their freedom by critical scrutiny of the acts of their government officials. "Finally, let us resolve that henceforth we shall never again render unto Caesar those things that are God's, for that is precisely what we do when we yield to political rulers the power to administer moral law."

Line Between Legal, Political Activity Thin

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress will find it easier to earn money on the side without violating the law under a recent decision in a Federal Court in New York. The ruling also weakens the Democrats' case against Murray M. Chotiner, Los Angeles lawyer and Vice President Nixon's friend, for it holds that the line dividing legal from political activity is thin, shadowy and difficult to define.

Before discussing the New York case and its implications, it is helpful to report on Congressmen's outside operations. Relatively few live on their Congressional salary or devote full time to law-making, although they can afford to do so under their increased salary and the new pension system.

A majority are lawyers, practicing part-time. Others are officers or directors in large corporations and small enterprises. Many are in the real-estate business, farming and the retail field.

No matter what their profession or occupation may be, it is a material advantage for a man to be an M.C. or for a firm to have the name of an "Honorable" on its window or letterhead. It lends prestige. It draws customers, for a man capable of winning elections must be a popular fellow around town. It is a definite asset to a lawyer and his partners, as Capitol Hill legal lights concede.

It is interesting, and possibly significant, that Representative Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, saw fit to publish this particular decision in the Congressional Record.

Celler described it as an "important opinion," for it was the first prosecution under the law forbidding a Congressman to receive compensation for services rendered by him or his partners in Federal matters, provided that he had full knowledge of the source and reasons for the fees. It was designed to prevent members of Congress from profiting from direct or proxy use of "influence."

Ex-Representative T. Vincent Quinn of Queens, New York City, became a member of the law firm of Schwabser, Quinn and Saver in August of 1948. He was elected to Congress the following November and served one term. Under the partnership agreement, each member had a $200-a-week drawing account, and shared in the firm's profits. It was conceded by the three defendants, for the two partners were indicted for aiding and abetting Quinn's alleged offenses, that Quinn did no work for the firm — no legal work, that is. He showed up for a few hours some Fridays — not every Friday — and then saw constituents or wrote letters connected with his political job.

The firm specialized in tax law, with particular emphasis on negotiating with Bureau of Internal of officials rather than appearing in courtroom litigation. In one income tax case, the indictment charged that Quinn shared in a $7,500 fee. However, all fees went into a "common fund," with no indication of the specific cases on which they were deposited in a joint bank account.

The indictment also charged that Quinn received money with the knowledge that it was for services performed in government matters by his partners while he was a Congressman. Quinn listed income from the law firm's earnings for 1949, 1950 and 1951.

The evidence showed that in one matter specified in the indictment, Quinn telephoned an Internal Revenue agent. In the January, March period, 1949, after he entered Congress, he made three inquiries of regional (New York) counsel on the status of a case, without discussing its merits.

Holding that there was "not a scintilla of evidence—that he (Quinn) took any part, direct or indirect, in his firm's work," Federal District Judge Weinfeld dismissed the case without permitting it to go to the jury.

Chotiner is not a member of Congress. He has the right of every lawyer to practice before government departments. And if he did not get a friendly welcome because he had managed campaigns for Nixon, Chief Justice Earl Warren and Senator Knowland, conditions of political noblesse, oblige prevailing at the Capital since George Washington's day have changed, Chotiner may cite the Quinn decision in his next appearance before the McClellan Committee.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

J. Writes that she is 15 years old and for some time has been worrying about the development of her breasts, one of which has developed more fully and faster than the other. Fortunately, J.'s mind can be put at rest. The maturing of various parts of the body often proceeds in an irregular manner and considerable change is likely after the age of 15. In all probability the appearance of the breasts will equalize, or nearly so, within the next few years.

J. E. M. is worried about her great-granddaughter who is not yet quite two years old. Mrs. M. writes that the child is intelligent but weighs only 24 pounds. What worries the great-grandmother is that the child is so actively running back and forth and jumping in bed.

THIS SEEMS like a highly unnecessary worry. Most children when they first learn to walk and stand become quite excited about it and may overdo. One would expect this overactivity—if it really is too much—to right itself as time goes on.

A worry just the reverse of the foregoing comes from L. She has a friend whose three-year-old mother does not walk. She adds that the child's father being very proud of the youngster would hold the child up by the feet while he was between six months and a year old and make him balance himself. One day, after the youngster's first birthday, he buckled up and the father could never get him to do it again.

THIS MIGHT BE a more serious condition. One should remember that children do not all stand and walk at just the same age. But there does seem a possibility in this instance the child is retarded in some way or has been injured. In situations of this sort it may be difficult for the doctor at first to know definitely whether anything is wrong or if so, just exactly what it is. The child should be under observation so that if something is wrong it can be treated early.

Perhaps grandmothers worry more than mothers. Anyway, another writes that her grandson, five years old, seems to have an excessive amount of energy but never wants to eat. At each meal the youngster makes a scene and has to be coaxed, begged, and threatened to get anything inside him.

HOW MANY MILLIONS of children are, or have been, coaxed or threatened to improve their eating habits. I do not know. It seems to be well established that a healthy child will not starve himself or herself for very long.

Spaniards Nice To Americans, Says Mac

MADRID — A few minutes ago, in the lobby of the Plaza Hotel, I was talking to a retired gentleman from Richmond, Virginia who had just returned to Spain after three months of travelling around Europe with his wife and sister-in-law.

"You'll never know how glad I am to be back," he volunteered. "It's like coming back home. These people are so much nicer to Americans than any other people in Europe that there just isn't any comparison."

As we are just starting out on a tour of Europe, not finishing one, I couldn't say yes or no to that statement, but I do know that the Spanish people all but kill Americans with kindness. And their kindnesses are done with a graciousness that seems as natural as their sunshine.

After a few days in Madrid a visitor becomes hesitant to ask a Spaniard how to get to such and such a place in the city. Not only will he tell you the directions—if it isn't too far he will personally escort you there to be sure you don't have any trouble. The other day I stopped a man on the street and inquired as to the location of a certain leather shop. He walked with me a good five blocks so I wouldn't get lost. This sort of thing has to stem from helpfulness. No one, not even a Spaniard, is that daftly about exercise.

Spaniards aren't starkers, either. They don't stare at foreign visitors as is the general practice in other countries. And they have a better right to, because Spain as yet does not attract tremendous hordes of Americans. This lack of being "looked at" makes a foreigner feel much more at home, gives him the feeling that he fits right in.

The Spanish people who serve the tourist—the taxi drivers, the waiters, and the hotel help—are slightly unbelievable. They honestly don't act as if they expect a tip, and when they get one they more often than not thank you. This, as you might expect, has proved all but fatal to quite a few Americans freshly arrived from France or Italy. Our hotel porter actually advised us against buying bullfight tickets from him. He explained that his price was far above that paid by Spanish people, and suggested I go to a certain street he named and buy them from the regular sellers. "They'll be half as much, and just as good seats," he said. It took three aspirin to clear my head after that one.

Waiters are perfectly satisfied, or give every appearance of being so, if a customer decides to let the 15 cent service charge cover all tips. Everyone usually leaves a little something extra, but Spain is one country where you are not all but required to if you expect to eat at the same place twice without resorting to a disguise the second time around.

All this despite the fact that prices are cheap in Spain, the exchange is favorable, and the temptation to tip rather heavily is there.

Congress Okays Appropriation

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress approved and sent to the White House Wednesday an $856 million public works appropriation for the fiscal year 1957 beginning Sunday.

The House passed the bill and sent it to the Senate where it was quickly approved by voice vote. The bill carries funds for work flood control, navigation, public power and reclamation projects.

Paydays Bring Stomachaches
WINDSOR, Ont. (UP)—Police Chief Carl Farrow told the police commission Tuesday that he has been beset for some time with a wave of stomach illness complaints and said "most of them usually follow the day after payday."

NON-BIPARTISANSHIP—Looks like a stand-off, both literal and figurative, as zoo keeper Clifford Jones of Brookfield Zoo in Brookfield, Ill., tries to get Mary the donkey and Widget the elephant together. Both the Democratic and Republican symbols live in the children's section. Jones says they sometimes squabble, like their real-life counterparts, but generally get along pretty well.

Chicago Animal Lovers
CHICAGO (UP)—Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neil said it won't be the same when the O'Neils make their scheduled move from their west side home. The O'Neils plan to take with them their eight dogs, five cats, five parakeets, four pigeons, two love birds and three canaries.

Explosives Endanger Jail
LIVERPOOL, England (UP)—Police unearthed a cache of high explosives big enough to blow up half a jail Tuesday. The explosives were hidden by a gang of safe-crackers at the top of one of two 40-foot turrets flanking the main gates of Walton Jail.

The dome like adobe ovens, glimpsed about the communal houses at Taos Pueblo, N.M., are termed "hornos."

Hearts And Flowers Make A Double Ring Cake

Hearts and flowers can be the theme for many things... a song... an anniversary. But no one will deny that it's the major theme for an engagement party. If you're giving a shower for an engaged friend, this hearts and flowers cake will make a beautiful centerpiece for your table. And though it looks very professional, it's easy to make, advises the Crisco Kitchens... even the flowers.

Pound Cake

Makes 2 9-1/4" ring cakes
 1 cup Crisco
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 5 eggs
 2 cups sifted enriched flour
 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon mace
 1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat oven to 350°F. With Crisco, thoroughly grease 2 one-and-one-half quart ring moulds. Cream Crisco and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour, salt, mace and vanilla. Beat until smooth. Turn into ring moulds. Bake 45 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pans for 5 minutes, then turn out and frost with your favorite frosting.

Decoration

To lock rings, hold one cake over the other and cut out a portion of one to allow the other to fit into it. Frosting will hide place where cut appears. To make roses, leaves and hearts, beat one egg white until almost stiff, then stir in two or more cups of confectioners sugar until the mixture is firm enough to mould. Add almond flavoring, if you like, and food coloring to tint the flowers and leaves. Mould the design with your fingers, pinching the rose petals together into the desired size. Shape the leaves and hearts with scissors or a knife. You can make these designs ahead of time and keep them for later use.

Corn Dogs Provide New Picnic Delight

Corn dogs are a glorious change for picnics. They're old favorites in new dress... wieners jacketed in corn meal batter and roasted over coals or fried in deep fat to a tempting crunchiness. Stick 'em on a stick for picnic-style eating!

Deep-fat fried at home, Corn Dogs can be wrapped in aluminum foil and packed for the picnic. But isn't it more fun to cook out? Prepare the easy-to-make batter at home (it's quicker with self-rising corn meal and self-rising flour) and take it in a tightly-covered quart jar. On the picnic spot, let your fire settle into a glowing bed of hot coals. Skewer each wiener on a freshly cut stick for true outdoor cookery, or use a toasting fork. Dip in batter to cover, drain excess over jar, and roast over the coals, rotating continuously until the corn jacket is handsomely brown and crusty, and you just can't wait to bite into it!

When there's a quick summer supper for friends on the terrace at home, Corn Dogs prove a satisfying dish with the added advantage of novelty. They can be served piping hot from the deep fryer, or as for the picnic, cooked in advance and wrapped in foil until serving time. Tomato wedges are an excellent accompaniment, in flavor and texture, to the crisp-cooked pups.

CORN DOGS

1 cup self-rising corn meal,
 1 cup self-rising flour,
 2 tablespoons sugar (if desired),
 1 pound wieners,
 1 egg, beaten slightly,
 1 cup sweet milk,
 2 tablespoons melted fat
 (If plain corn meal and flour are used, add 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt to dry ingredients.)

Combine first 3 ingredients. (If plain corn meal and flour are used, sift together with the baking powder and salt. Beat egg slightly, add milk and stir into first mixture. Add melted fat. For deep-fat drying, dip hot dogs in batter, holding with kitchen fork or skewer. Drain excess batter over bowl. Fry at 375 degrees, in a wire basket if available, until golden brown about 3 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve piping hot.

Don't wash eggs before storing. Washing destroys the protective film which keeps out air and odors. Even a discerning adult finds it hard to tell if prepared nonfat dry milk solids are mixed half and half with whole milk. It's an economy move, but hard to tell if mixture is good and cold.

Carrot sticks can be given a new taste if they stand overnight in liquid drained from dill pickles.

Novel Serving Of Tomatoes And Bacon For Late Evening Snack Delights Palate

MENU

Canadian-style Bacon-Tomato Cups
 Buttered Asparagus with Slivered Almonds
 Tossed Green Salad
 Sour Cream Dressing
 Hard Rolls
 Butter or Margarine
 Peppermint Ice Cream
 Coffee Tea Milk

It won't take long for this palate delight to take a strong hold on the list of favorite recipes your family enjoys.

Baked beans, Canadian-style bacon and whole fresh tomatoes team up to form an unusual late Saturday or Sunday night treat.

The whole idea of this recipe is no leftovers. Just prepare the number of servings needed.

The strips of bacon season the beans and tomatoes as they bake. Canadian-style bacon used in the recipe is the boneless pork back strip smoked and cured. Homemakers are probably more familiar with this muscle (boneless section of a rib pork chop.

Canadian-style bacon is used 'round the clock, for breakfast, lunch and dinner. It may be either roasted, broiled, panbroiled or pan-fried for variety in the everyday menu. All these methods are referred to as dry-heat cookery. The name Canadian-style bacon does not come from our neighbors to the north, as some think. Americans have adopted this name because the Canadian-style bacon in the United States so closely resembles the pork cut Canadians call back bacon. Back bacon in Canada is used almost exclusively as a breakfast meat.

This dish actually creates an atmosphere of ease because it is so versatile. For variety substitute potato salad or macaroni and cheese for the baked beans.

CANADIAN-STYLE BACON WITH STUFFED TOMATO
 6 to 8 1/2-inch slices
 Canadian-style bacon
 6 to 8 large tomatoes
 1 No. 2 can baked beans
 6 to 8 slices bacon, cut in half

Wash tomatoes. Cut slice from top. Remove pulp. Fill with baked beans. Place each tomato on a slice of Canadian-style bacon in a greased casserole. Cross two half slices of bacon on each tomato. Bake in hot oven (40 degrees F.) 20 to 30 minutes or until the tomatoes are tender and bacon is slightly browned, 6 servings.

FAMILY TREAT — Individual servings of Canadian-style bacon and stuffed tomato cups are ideal for family treat or for luncheon or dinner. The bean-bacon combination makes party fare. The whole idea of recipe is no leftovers.

Punchy Paragraphs On Serving Meats

When preparing to serve smoked tongue in your home, see that there is plenty of gingerbread sauce to serve over the meat. It's a different way to serve this variety meat, and the family will go for this unusual innovation.

Leftover lamb from your Sunday dinner need not go to waste. Surprise your family — they won't even know the dish you're serving has leftover meat in it. Prepare french toast in the usual manner. Mince cooked lamb, sprinkle it with flour and brown it well in a small amount of lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add leftover gravy, heat thoroughly and serve

Variation Is Given For Liver Sausage

An attractive innovation for liver sausage is broiled liver sausage. It is wonderful to use for a luncheon change. Slice liver sausage 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick. Place slices on broiler rack and brush with melted butter. Insert broiler rack so the top surface of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Brown, turn and finish broiling on the second side. Allow 5 minutes' broiling time.

over the french toast. A molded gelatin salad served on crisp, iced lettuce will make the perfect side attraction.

Cookie Mix Handy For Light Snacks

Week-end cookie jars should be filled to the brim for the milk and soft drink enthusiasts. This can be an easy trick for the lady of the house once she learns about a home-made cookie mix that can be kept on hand without refrigeration. Here's the recipe for the mix and two variations. It comes from Crisco Kitchens.

CRISCO COOKIE MIX

(Makes 7-8 Cups Mix)
 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1 tablespoon salt
 1 pound Crisco (2 - 1/2 cups)
 Mix flour and salt in a large mixing bowl or on a large square of waxed or wrapping paper. Cut Crisco into flour with two knives or a pastry blender until pieces are about the size of peas. Store in a covered container. No refrigeration needed.

PECAN PUFFS

(3 dozen 1" puffs)
 Stir together 2 cups Cookie Mix and 1/2 cup confectioners sugar, sifted. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 cup chopped pecans. Blend well. Dough will be somewhat crumbly. Mold into 1" balls. Place on cookie sheet 1 inch apart. Bake at 375 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Roll in confectioners sugar immediately after baking.

CHOCOLATE CHIPS

(4 dozen 2" cookies)
 Stir together 1 1/2 cups Cookie Mix, 3/4 cup sugar and 1/2 teaspoon soda. Add 1 egg, 1 teaspoon hot

Meat Is The Source Of Vital Nutrients

When you're planning to have Swiss steak, stew, meat pie or a pot-roast, remember that although these are less-tender cuts of meat they still contain the same high nutritive value as the more popular toasts and steaks.

Is it possible we are overlooking the proper growth and development of our most important crop? Our children! According to proven experiments, teen-agers need from 30 to 50 per cent more of certain food nutrients than their parents. Meat is an excellent source of the high quality protein, vitamins and minerals these young adults need in extra amounts.

3 food ideas for the 4th

'Barrow Barbecue—With a metal wheelbarrow, you're all set to barbecue! Use the grill from your broiler and start cooking—with charcoal, of course! Be sure to check your supply of Coke—everybody will want lots. And if the chef gets tired, he'll appreciate the quick little lift that Coca-Cola gives.

Sandwich Smörgåsarbord. Load on the "help-yourself" fixings! Hearty luncheon cuts, ham rolls, assorted cheeses. For bread—provide rye, pumpernickel, picnic buns. Add a spicy spread and carrot coleslaw on the side. And be ready with a refrigerator full of tingling Coca-Cola. Its real great taste is so gloriously refreshing—there's nothing like it in the world!

Frank Kebabs. New fun with frankfurters! Cut into one inch pieces. Broil on skewers with mushrooms, whole small onions. Or cheese-in-bacon with pickle chunks. Try frank kebabs with pineapple and tomato chunks. Serve sizzling with plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola. That one-and-only flavor of Coke has a special talent for making good food taste better. Bring home the Coke today!

...and Coke—to put you at your sparkling best!

RUTH MILLETT

"If my husband and I do go anywhere together — Which isn't often — I have to drag him. He goes out so unwillingly that by the time we finally get started I wish I hadn't bothered. All the fun is gone."

The wife who wrote the above has a real problem. It can't be much fun for any wife to go out in the evening with a husband she has to drag along, protesting as he goes.

It is bound to make her feel lonely, resentful, and less than at ease.
What can a wife do about such a situation which, judging from my mail, isn't especially unusual?

First of all, she can try to find out why he doesn't like to go out. Is he ill at ease socially? Are their friends actually HER friends, who don't interest him in the slightest? Does the husband think that the way they spend their evenings out is deadly dull?

Among those questions a wife may well find a reason why her husband prefers to sit at home night after night to having his wife accept invitations that include them both.

If she does find the answer,
the next step is to correct the situation.

A man who is bored with an evening of small talk might enjoy getting together with several couples to go to a play, see a movie,

WHEN OUR COUNTRY WAS SETTLED by the Pilgrims, they brought many of their customs to these shores.
One which gave us a favorite dish, baked beans, was the ceasing of ordinary work on the Sabbath. Mary Margaret McBride, who gives the history and romance behind food in "My American Cookbook" published in the Woman's Home Companion, tells how an inspired Puritan woman dealt with the crises caused by the no work on the Sabbath edict. She cooked up dried beans on Saturday and served them in various forms on the Sabbath—hot, warm and cold. Thus was born that mainstay of New England, the Boston baked bean.

EVERY family has its own recipe for this dish, says Miss Mc-Bride, but all agree that the beans must have a core of tender salt pork and a touch of dry mustard, that they must be sweet with molasses and brown sugar and that they must cook all day. Here is a Woman's Home Companion recipe which combines all these elements.

BOSTON BAKED BEANS

Pea beans, 1 quart
Water
Salt Pork 1/2 pound
Salt, 1 teaspoon
Brown sugar, 2 tablespoons
Ginger, 1/2 teaspoon
Molasses, 1/4 cup
Dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon
Boiling water
Wash beans; soak overnight in water to cover. Without draining, simmer 2 to 3 hours until skins wrinkle. Cut pork into thin slices.
Alternate layers of undrained beans and pork in bean pot. Add salt, sugar, ginger, molasses and mustard. Add enough boiling water to cover. Cover and bake in slow oven (250 degrees) about 6 hours or until beans are tender.

Add boiling water during baking period as needed to cover beans.
Uncover for last half hour of baking. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

WHAT'S COOKING outdoors?
Steak... Curry... Cheeseburgers?
The Popcorn Institute, in Chicago, suggests you show off your outdoor cooking to even more advantage by adding a crunchy food for texture contrast. And what crunchy food is better liked than popcorn? As a gourmet's touch, season it in new and delicious ways. No exotic spices needed, though! Simply use an imaginative hand with your standard cooking condiments. They're familiar and welcome to just about everyone... and wait'll they taste them on their all-time favorite — popcorn! Line forms to the right!

If you're broiling bacon, toss some of the hot fat with popped corn. Or pass ketchup for dipping individual grains.

Butter and salt the corn, and toss it with a spoonful of barbecue or Worcestershire sauce or French dressing. If you're a garlic fancier, sprinkle popcorn with some of the powdered kind. Curry or chili powder is good, too! And what about popcorn mixed with nuts or grated cheese?

Popcorn is as entertaining to prepare as it is to season. Gather small baskets or bowls for individual seasoning. Use an old-fashioned open wire popper, pour in kernels one layer deep, and shake gently about four inches away from a medium-sized bed of white live charcoal.

To see all the fluffy white morsels heaped in the popper, you might never suspect they're as good for you as they are appetizing. One cup of popcorn is equal in food value to one slice of bread.
And popcorn offers more food energy than 98 per cent of all edible foods... fine fuel for active days outdoors. Yet popcorn won't harm appetite or teeth.

For centuries before the coming of the white man, Indians enjoyed their native food outdoors popped on hot stones or in the embers of a fire. Tasty custom! Six ounces of popcorn kernels take up very little space in your food hamper, yet they provide six quarts of eating pleasure.

New Officers Of Pampa Altrusa Club Are Installed In Candlelight Ceremony

New officers of the Pampa Altrusa Club were installed during a dinner meeting in the City Club Room, with Mrs. Lorene Locke as installing officer.

Installed were Mrs. Jack Foster, president; Miss Jay Flanagan, vice-president; Mrs. Elma Vandenburg, corresponding secretary; Mrs. N. G. Kadingo, recording secretary; and Mmes. Luther Pierson, Grant Anderson, and Bunny Zehrman, directors. Mrs. Frank Lard, outgoing president, was installed as counselor to the new board of directors.

APPRECIATION SERVICE
The ceremony began with a service of appreciation for the work of the outgoing officers, led by Mrs. Jack Foster, outgoing vice-president and Mrs. Gertrude Foster, outgoing Altrusa Information chairman.

"At the close of another club year, our officers, through their reports, have reviewed their stewardship of those responsibilities entrusted to their direction," Mrs. Jack Foster explained. "Their accomplishments afford just reason for civic pride in Altrusa."

Mrs. Gertrude Foster then thanked each officer individually for her work during the year.

INSTALLATION
The candlelight installation service was opened by Mrs. Frank Lard, outgoing president.

"In the life of every organization there is a lot of some to lead and others to follow," Mrs. Lard stated. "Elevated for a brief time from the ranks to leadership, we plan, we work, we serve and then we step back into the ranks. We realize that in the life of our club splendid traditions and achievements are the work of not one year, but of many, not one board, but of all who serve. The work we do in Altrusa is a continuing work, progressive and far reaching in its influence. Our plans are long-range plans. Each year it is as though we added another stone, matched with great precision and beauty, to the structure rising with strength and sureness above the foundation laid by the members of the first Altrusa Club."

She then named each officer, who lighted a candle as her name was called.

"As officers you have been chosen by the members of your club to have charge of its affairs for the coming year," pointed out Mrs. Lorene Locke, installing officer.

"You have honored this club by accepting the respective offices. This means that you believe in the philosophy of unselfishness, in the joy of giving, rather than getting. . . . Altrusa expresses its ideals in many beautiful words, but words are only empty things without action. We look to you to direct our activities."

Mrs. Locke was assisted by Mrs. Irl Smith, who represented the "Soul of Altrusa," and Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, who represented the "Purpose of Altrusa."

At the close of the ceremony, Mrs. Lard presented Mrs. Foster with the gavel and president's pin.

Background music was provided by Mrs. L. A. Barber.

BANQUET
For the banquet, the head table was decorated with an arrangement of white carnations in a green bowl centered with a large white candle. The other tables were decorated with white tapers, greenery and Altrusa emblems.

The invocation was led by Mrs. Frank Lard, who also introduced the guests. During the dinner, Mrs. Grant Anderson and Mrs. Inez Carter reported on the installation banquet in Midland they attended.

BUSINESS SESSION
Following the installation, Mrs.

Medical Auxiliary Has Board Meet

The executive board of the Top O' Texas Medical Auxiliary met with Mrs. J. Foster Elder recently. During the business session, plans were made for a brunch in honor of Mrs. Richard C. Bellamy of Liberty, state president of the Texas Medical Auxiliary. The event will be held Sept. 12.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. W. W. Massad, Claunch Brindley and L. C. Hansen, all of Borger; and Mmes. Joe W. Gates, Raymond W. Laycock and J. F. Elder, all of Pampa.

Jack Foster led a short business session, during which she pledged herself to "keep the club looking forward," "to make club activity a happy, satisfying experience," and "to develop constantly the ability to rise above difficult situations, viewing them impersonally, to observe another's response without prejudice and emotion, and to place importance on their viewpoint."

Mrs. Foster explained that the Pampa club will be allowed two delegates and two alternates to the district meeting in Mexico City Oct. 12-14. She reminded the members that delegates will be elected in July. The group voted to hold only one meeting each month during July and August.

Methodist Circle 6 Has Business Meeting

Circle 6 of the Women's Society of Christian Service, First Methodist Church, met in the church parlor, with Mrs. Lonnie Bolding as president.

During the business session, led by Mrs. J. D. Kenworthy, chairman, it was decided to use a study on youth during the year, starting in September. Mrs. Coy Palmer was named study leader.

Mrs. John Brewer conducted a pledge service, and Mrs. Weldon Carter presented the program, taken from the "Methodist Woman" magazine. The devotional was presented by Mrs. James Smathers and Mrs. Donald Nensiel. Mrs. Don Duggan closed the meeting with prayer.

Attending were Mmes. J. D. Kenworthy, James Smathers, Vernon Langley, Lonnie Bolding, Donald Nensiel, John Brewer, Fred Martin, James Cowan, Coy Palmer, Don Travis, Don Duggan, Weldon Carter, W. W. Adcock and Charles Shelton.

Make Friends Manners

When you invite guests for dinner don't serve drinks for so long beforehand that your guests are starving when you finally get around to serving the meal. If it is to be an evening of drinking, have a cocktail party.

But if you invite guests for dinner see that they eat at the proper time.

Boeuf Bourguignonne is a famous French beef stew. We asked Louis Vaudable, proprietor of the internationally famous Restaurant Maxim's in Paris, to tell our June brides how to prepare it as the French do. This is what Monsieur Vaudable, now visiting the United States, told us:

For six servings, use two pounds of top round of beef, cut into two inch squares. Peel a dozen white onions; wash a dozen small mushrooms; pare, then dice three carrots.

Into a Dutch oven or a deep saucepan with a close-fitting cover, drop three tablespoons of butter, or a half dozen one-inch squares of salt pork. When melted and hot, add the beef. Saute until browned nicely on all sides. Now if you like, warm three or four tablespoons of brandy in a small saucepan. Light (carefully) with a match, and pour it over the beef. Let it burn out. (This improves flavor even more). Then remove the beef from the Dutch oven. In the same fat in which you browned the beef, saute the vegetables until they begin to brown. Remove them to a plate (refrigerate them while the meal cooks). Into the fat left in the Dutch oven, stir three tablespoons flour and brown it. Then stir in 1/2 cup beef bouillon and 1/2 cup burgundy. Cook until slightly thickened.

Now add your choice of seasoning. For tomato, stir in a teaspoon or two of tomato paste, no more. If you prefer herbs, add a pinch of marjoram or thyme or both instead of tomato. Don't add more. Remember that it is easy to add more if you like, but not at all easy to correct seasoning when too much has been added.

Now return the beef to the Dutch oven. Cover. Simmer gently two hours. Add the vegetables. Cover. Simmer one hour longer. Remember Boeuf Bourguignonne when you want something special for a party. Tastes even better if you make it the day ahead and reheat it. Wonderful dish for help-yourself buffet dinners. In France it is always accompanied with a tangy green salad and a glass of red wine.

'Slim' Chance To Avert Steel Strike

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL, United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—The chance of averting a nationwide steel strike appeared so slim today that the industry began a shutdown that will cost one million tons production even if there is no walk-out Saturday night.

Negotiations between top union and industry representatives all but collapsed Wednesday night and each side accused the other of forcing a crisis upon the nation. Both sides rejected proposals for postponing the strike.

Negotiators recessed the talks so abruptly that no time was set for resumption of the conference but spokesmen for the United Steelworkers of America and the steel companies indicated they would make a last-ditch attempt at settlement today.

Gary Furnaces Cool
At 1 a.m. EDT, U.S. Steel's giant plant at Gary, Ind., the world's largest steel installation, began cooling its furnaces. U. S. Steel ordered its plants in the Pittsburgh area to start shutting down later today.

Bethlehem Steel, which with U.S. Steel produces one-half the nation's annual steel output of 60 million tons, also ordered its plants to begin the shutdown process today and other companies said they would follow suit according to local conditions.

Since it takes three days to cool furnaces and two weeks to heat them up again, at least one million tons production will be lost even if the strike is averted before Saturday midnight, when the union's contract expires.

Contract Extension Rejected
The talks were recessed when the steelworkers rejected a company proposal to continue the negotiations under an extension of the present contract and the industry spokesmen turned down a union proposal to extend the current contract 15 days with all new contract benefits to be retroactive to July 1.

The company said an agreement on retroactivity would leave the union with "nothing to lose" and said the talks should proceed only with "equal pressure on both parties."

David J. McDonald, president of the union, said the company plan would put a "premium on procrastination" and would mean that union members would be working during the new contract year at "last year's wages."

Issue Is Contract Length
The main difference between the two sides is the industry's demand for a five-year contract. The steelworkers are believed acceptable to a three-year contract.

A company proposal for a four-year and four-month contract with "proportionate reduction of the new benefits" met swift union rejection Wednesday.

A report that the companies were about to propose a three-year contract with an even greater reduction in wage hikes never materialized Wednesday and company executives were reported split over the move.

Company sources said that unemployment will be felt slightly in the steel industry and in allied industries and will increase as the shutdowns occur. The industries expected to be hardest hit immediately are construction, railway car building and the petroleum industries which need steel immediately.

Miller Ordered To Purge Self Of Contempt

By VINCENT J. BURKE
WASHINGTON, June 28 —UP—Playwright Arthur Miller, intended husband of actress Marilyn Monroe, was ordered Wednesday by House investigators to purge himself of congressional contempt within 10 days or face possible prosecution.

The committee's unanimous 6-to-0 action was an outgrowth of Miller's testimony before the group last Thursday when he talked freely of his own past links with Red front organizations. But he rejected questions about others on grounds of conscience.

In Roxbury, Conn., Miller said he had not yet received formal notice of the action by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He said he could not comment until he talks with his lawyers.

May Ruin Honeymoon
The lanky 40-year-old Pulitzer prize winning author of "Death of a Salesman" stole much of the thunder from his testimony by announcing at the time that he would marry America's best known blonde.

Unless Miller changes his mind and testifies, however, his chances for spending a European honeymoon with Miss Monroe appear to be getting dimmer. He already is having passport troubles because of certain "derogatory" information against him.

A spokesman says the committee decided to give Miller "10 days to answer ... in order to purge himself of contempt and eliminate a possibility of contempt proceedings."

If Miller still balks, normal procedure would be for the committee to ask the House to seek contempt prosecution. The final decision then would be up to the Justice Department. Conviction of congressional contempt carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Four Others Face Charge
The committee also voted unanimously to seek contempt citations against four other recent witnesses, including Otto Nathan of New York, executor of the estate of the late Albert Einstein. Nathan refused to answer questions about Communist front groups without invoking the protection of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution against self-incrimination. He also refused to surrender his passport to the House investigators.

Contempt citations also were voted for John W. Simpson and William E. Davis, both of St. Louis, and Mrs. Anna Yasgur Kling of University City, Mo. All three appeared before the committee in St. Louis earlier this month. A committee spokesman said Mrs. Kling admitted former membership in the Communist party but refused to testify about other persons. He said Simpson and Davis refused to answer any questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

A hammer dent can be removed from wood by applying water to the dented portion. This expands the wood and the dent will vanish.

Texas Fountain Illegal
DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—City officials Tuesday ordered the water fountain in front of the county courthouse turned off. They decided that by leaving the fountain on they were breaking a new city law limiting watering to alternate days.

There is a difference: tinting calls for water as hot as possible from tap or teakettle. In dyeing the water must be held at a simmering temperature. Tinted garments are not absolutely colorfast.

U. S. Has Poor Chance Of Recapturing Davis Cup

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By JACK CUDDY

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Unless a new star is born unexpectedly, in the Wimbledon tennis championships this week in England, experts now give the United States only a very poor chance for recapturing the Davis Cup from Australia this year.

The opinion is in flat disagreement with the recent optimistic prediction made by Renville H. McMann, president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

McMann thinks America has a "good" chance of beating the Aussies in the challenge round showdown this winter, and a "very good" chance of doing it in 1957 if something goes wrong this year. He based his optimism on the number of young players being developed here.

How Good Are They? But most tennis pundits think McMann may be dreaming a little too far ahead, that our young players haven't yet developed to the point where they are any real threat to Aussie stars Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall.

Billy Talbert, non-playing captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team that will be assembled to battle the Aussies, seemed to lend support to this feeling with his parting words when he left for the Wimbledon matches.

"If any of our young players suddenly catches fire, I want to be there to see it and to help him," said the capable New Yorker.

Seedings Reflect Problem The seedings for the Wimbledon show reflect Talbert's problem. Blond Hoad and dark-haired Rosewall are ranked one-two right at the top of men's singles, and together they are listed number one the best of the world in the opinion of Wimbledon officials.

By contrast, the highest seeded Yank is Budge Patty in fourth place. This debonair chap is, moreover, a most unlikely member of the U. S. Davis Cup squad, since U. S. officials have tried in vain several times to lure him home from Paris to compete. That leaves Ham Richardson, the Rhodes scholar from Westfield, N. J., seeded sixth, and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, seeded eighth. Rosewall beat Richardson in four sets last year. Hoad and Rosewall both trounced Seixas, who now is almost 33 and on the way down.

Remainder of Possibilities What's left? Erratic southpaw Art Larsen, who is 33; Bernard Bartenz, a whiz on clay courts but not yet on grass; and Eddie Moylan, Gil Shea, and Herb Flam, who have never lived up to hopes. And the youngsters like Sammy Giammalva, Allen Morris, Al Harum, Barry MacKay — promising but with no indication they can handle the likes of Hoad and Rosewall ever.

What's more, the Aussies have a fine young crop themselves in such as Neale Fraser, Ashley Cooper, Mal Anderson, Bob How, Roy Emerson, and Don Candy. So far they've been more successful in European tournaments than the U. S. youngsters.

How high these young players climb at Wimbledon may foretell the Davis Cup future of both nations.

Moore And Patterson Top Ratings

NEW YORK (UP)—Thirty-nine-year-old Archie Moore and 21-year-old Floyd Patterson are ranked first and second, respectively, among contenders for the vacant world heavyweight title today in Ring magazine's latest ratings.

In their most recent fights, Moore kept his light heavyweight title and his top heavy rating by stopping Yolande Pompey; and Patterson of Brooklyn rose from fourth to second in the heavy division by outpointing Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. Jackson dropped from second to third.

Moore and Patterson are expected to fight for the vacant heavy title at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 18, if Archie beats James J. Parker at Toronto, Ont., July 25, as expected; and if Patterson's fractured right handbone heals in time.

Gerhard Hecht of Germany replaced Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, B.W.I., as top light-heavy contender. In addition to Hecht, Germany now has two other contenders among the top 10 light heavies: Hans Stretz, No. 3, and Willie Hopener, No. 5.

Charley Joseph of New Orleans rose from seventh to fifth among the middleweights. Vince Martinez of Patterson, N. J., dropped from fourth to sixth among the welters. Duilio Loi of Italy replaced Ralph Dupas of New Orleans as top lightweight contender because of Loi's kayo victory over Spain's Fred Galiana, European featherweight champion.

Galliana dropped to No. 2 among feather contenders and was replaced at the top by Hogan (Kid) Basey of Nigeria.

Card Castoff Picks Up 9th Win For Redlegs; Phils Stun Braves

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press Sports Writer

For a guy who once was given the blood of the unbroken Brooks Lawrences is certainly pumping plenty of life into Cincinnati's pennant hopes.

The Redlegs now are only a half game out of first place in the National League and it was Lawrence, a 31-year old Cardinal cast-off who put them there by nailing down his 10th straight victory without a defeat Wednesday night while defeating the Pirates, 10-2.

"Lawrence is our good luck charm," explains Cincinnati Manager Elrod Ebbetts, "because whenever he pitches we get plenty of runs."

The Redlegs came from behind Wednesday night to knock out Bob Friend in the eighth inning with a nine-run rally put together on six singles, two walks and four Pittsburgh errors. Lawrence gave way for a pinch hitter in the explosive eighth so he celebrated his 10th triumph under a shower.

Lawrence Key Hurler

By all odds, the 205-pound Lawrence is the key pitcher in the Redlegs' spectacular climb this season but less than two years ago he lost more than 30 pounds because of bleeding ulcers and it was only those transfusions that helped keep him alive.

Even so, the Cardinals decided not to take a chance with him and traded him to Cincinnati before the current season began. The Redlegs are still cheering over that deal.

Stan Lopata's 14th homer of the season in the 11th inning gave the Phillies a 4-3 victory over the league-leading Braves. Lopata's blow, a mighty wallop over the left field roof at Connie Mack Stadium, came off reliever Ernie Johnson and earned the Phils their second straight decision over the Braves, who had come into Philadelphia with an 11-game winning streak. Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones and Andy Seminick also homered for the Phillies while Johnny Logan and Hank Aaron connected for the Braves.

Craig, Dodgers Win

The Dodgers swept their three-game series with the Cubs, 6-2, in a game that was twice halted by rainstorms. Brooklyn clinched the contest by jumping on Warren Hacker for four runs on five hits in the fourth inning. Roger Craig racked up his seventh victory although he yielded to Don Bessent in the eighth. Carl Furillo homered.

A pair of homers by Ken Boyer and the five-hit pitching of Tom Poholsky swept the Cardinals to a 6-0 victory over the sinking Giants.

Boyer hit both of his homers off lefty Johnny Antonelli, who also yielded a home run to Hal Smith.

Cleveland ran its winning streak to eight games in the American League by battling back from an eight-run deficit to beat Baltimore, 12-11, in 11 innings.

Chico Carrasquel's fifth hit, a single to left field, scored Al Rosen from second base with the winning run as reliever Don Mossi was credited with the victory.

Trailing 2-1, the Indians rallied for six runs in the fourth with the aid of Al Rosen's two-run homer. They then tied the score at 11-all in the bottom of the ninth after the Orioles had scored twice in the top of the ninth. Tito Francona and Dick Williams homered for Baltimore.

Boxer Stop Chisox

The Red Sox snapped the White Sox' nine-game winning streak with an 11-9 victory by rallying for three runs in the eighth. Don Buddin doubled with two out to start the winning rally and Dick Gernert, Billy Goodman, Billy Klaus and Ted Williams followed with singles. Fred Hatfield, Dixie Howell and Dave Phillips all homered for Chicago. Reliever Ike De- lock was the winner.

"Southpaw Bob Slesler of Washington held Detroit to five hits in handing the Tigers their 10th straight setback. S.L. Wiesler out-pitched Frank Lary and had a shutout until Charlie Maxwell hit his 13th homer in the ninth. Pete Rummels hit a homer for the Senators.

The Yankees increased their lead over the second-place White Sox to 2½ games with a 5-2 victory over the Athletics. Tom Sturdivant pitched a five-hitter in posting his fifth victory although Tom Morgan had to retire the last two batters in the ninth. Hank Bauer hit his 16th homer off loser Art Ditmar in the eighth inning.

Oilers Lose To El Paso 6-2, in Finale

The Pampa Oilers dropped the third game of the series finale to the El Paso Texans, 6-2, Wednesday night at Oiler Park.

Pampa could only send home two runs in the game which came in the first and eighth frames.

Frank Kempa, lead-off batter for the Oilers, was issued free transportation to first in the initial frame. Lynn Tucker then hit a Texas League single into center. Johnny Bruzga followed with a solo bingle bringing in Kempa.

In the eighth frame for the Oilers, Kempa walked and A. E. Cross singled, Tucker lined a single into center enabling Kempa to cross the plate.

El Paso picked up their eight runs in the first, second and ninth frames. The first inning, Texas' Bayless got on base due to an error by Oiler shortstop Joe Kretschmar. Doug Lewis and Don Hunter then singled. Hunter singled in Bayless, and Ervin Ford singled scoring both Lewis and Hunter. Ford later crossed home plate due to a wild throw by Oiler left fielder Jim Robinette.

During the second inning for the Texans' Hughes doubled. Lewis also doubled sending Hughes home. Hunter's single allowed Lewis to come home. El Paso added two more runs in the eighth to round out their scoring.

Bill Sinton, left fielder for the Texans was ejected from the game in the seventh by plate umpire Ryan. Sinton, called out on strikes by Ryan, protested the decision to no avail, causing him to be removed from the game. Ruffus McNeil replaced Sinton in left field in the eighth.

Texans' hurler Andy Anderson twisted the first complete game for El Paso in the three-game series with the Oilers, allowing only eight hits.

The Pampa Oilers host the league leading Hobb Sports tonight in the first of a three-game series. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Clovis Loses Game, Mgr. Now A Redleg Farm Club

The Clovis Pioneers lost the ball game and their manager at about the same time Wednesday night.

The Pioneers dropped a 13-4 Southwestern League game to Roswell. And Frank Benites was relieved as manager and Hank Paskiewicz, a third baseman, named as temporary manager until the Cincinnati Redlegs can send down a manager.

Eddie Jones, president of the team, announced Wednesday a working agreement between Clovis and Cincinnati. Benites was ousted from his job and Bill McKeehn Jr., manager of the Redleg farm system, will send a playing manager to Clovis early in July.

In other games Wednesday night, El Paso downed Pampa 8

Stadium To Be Built

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—A private-financed organization plans to construct a "moderate sized" football stadium on the site of the new U.S. Air Force Academy north of Colorado Springs. The organization, the Air Force Academy Foundation, has been given permission by Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles' office in Washington to go ahead. Preliminary plans call for a 45,000 seat stadium to be ready for the 1958 season.

C. R. Hoover Deals News First Loss

C. R. Hoover defeated The Pampa News, 5-2, in a Teen Age League make-up game played last night.

The game was called off last week because of darkness. The loss was the first of the season for The Pampa News.

Ray Stevenson was the winning pitcher for Hoover and Larry Greus was tagged for the loss for The News. The victory enabled Hoover to move into first in Pony League standings, both teams having lost only one game but Hoover on top as a result of having played one game more.

Scoring for Hoover was Gary Wilhelm, Bobby Arthur, 2 (also knocked only home run of game in first inning); Bill King and Larry Cash.

Scoring for The Pampa News was Clovis Shipp and Duane Glover.

In gaining the victory, Stevenson struck out eight News players. Greus struck out three. Each boy walked one.

Today's Teen Age League affair pits Atlas Tank against Celanese. Atlas Tank's season record is won one, lost four. The season record for Celanese is 2-2.

AT THE THROTTLE—Adlai Stevenson takes over the controls of a miniature train at a fund-raising picnic in Des Plaines, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. Guatemala Head To 'Get Tough'

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Guatemala's soft-spoken "strong man" has decided that it is time to get really tough with the enemies of his regime. He charges that Communists working underground, are plotting a subversive movement. As the result, President Carlos Castillo Armas has invoked a system of modified martial law. Police have fired on demonstrating students in Guatemala City, the capital.

It is evident that Castillo Armas has decided to try to suppress by force the growing unrest among workers and students in his little country which lies just south of Mexico on the Central American Isthmus.

would not be tolerated. Nevertheless, the students turned out. Three Students Killed

Police fired on them. Three students were killed and 19 wounded. Castillo Armas has charged several times that Communists were plotting to overthrow him.

Now, apparently, he has decided to try to break up the leftist movement if he can. It is indicated that a number of opposition leaders including newspaper editors may be exiled.

Castillo Armas is convinced that Communism is a real danger not only in his own country but in the whole Western Hemisphere. He predicted in an interview with the United Press last February 2 that the Reds will make a determined attempt this year to strengthen their position. He urged that all 21 American republics work together against Red infiltration.

Unrest An Inheritance

The unrest is an inheritance of the extreme leftist regime of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, whom Castillo Armas overthrew in June, 1954, with the moral support of the United States.

Arbenz Guzman and his fellow leaders were exiled. A number of leftists were executed. The Communist party was outlawed.

But rank and file Communists remained a active underground. They had the support of many workers, who had benefited by land seizures and other nationalization decrees of the Arbenz Guzman regime. To them were added many university students, who as in other Latin American countries are politically active.

A. D. A. Head In Dispute With Senate

Workers inspired demonstration

Workers turned an officially-sponsored May Day celebration on May 1 last into an anti-government demonstration. There was little doubt that the demonstration was communist-inspired.

On Sunday, Castillo Armas announced the discovery of a Communist plot to spread disorder as part of a subversive movement.

Castillo Armas decreed a system of modified martial law for 80 days.

A few hours later, workers and students demonstrated despite the martial law. Police and soldiers broke up the demonstration with clubs and gun butts.

On Monday the government learned that university students planned a parade in protest against the martial law decree. The government warned the students sternly that the parade

WASHINGTON (UP) — The chairman of Americans for Democratic Action and the chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee got into a dispute Wednesday over whether Supreme Court has followed the "Communist line."

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., ADA chairman, branded as "arrant nonsense" charges made before the subcommittee that some of the court's decisions have been pro-Communist. He said such charges were "clear evidence of a continuing drive to discredit the court."

Subcommittee Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) who accused the court Tuesday of making "pro-Communist" decisions, retorted: "That's where you're wrong. The Supreme Court has discredited itself."

Eastland said there has been "one pro-Communist decision after another." He said the people of the country are "dumbfounded that we've got a court that evidently is being influenced by pro-Communist elements."

Rauh charged there is a "certain schizophrenia" in the Republican party about the Supreme Court. He said Vice President Richard M. Nixon called Chief Justice Earl Warren a "great Republican Chief Justice" when Nixon, Rauh said, was "trying to take credit for civil rights." But Tuesday, he said, GOP witnesses before the subcommittee "implied that this great Republican Chief Justice is pro-Communist."

ROYAL CRISIS—Reports circulating in Europe state that a rift may have developed between Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and her husband, Prince Bernard, over the alleged influence a woman "faith healer" exercises on Her Majesty. The healer, 61-year-old Greet Hofmans, is said to have promised the Queen that partially blind Princess Marijke, 8, would have full sight in both eyes.
