Hopes For Survivors Of Lost Plane Rise

Repeated SOS Signals Are Heard

LONDON (UP)—U. S. search planes converged today on an area 150 miles north of the Azores where repeated SOS signals raised hope there may be survivors among the 59 Americans missing aboard a Military Air Transport Service plane.

An Air Force spokesman said the signals appeared to be of the same type transmitted from survival equipment carried by all American military planes. He said they were definitely distress signals.

The Air Force said planes streaking to the area from the Legens base, used as a mid-ocean stop on the flight from Britain to the United States. Trans World Airlines announced in Shannon it was sending three of its aircraft to join in the search.

The weather in the area was good with scattered to broken clouds at 2,000 feet and visibility of ten miles.

The MATS plane disappeared Thursday on a flight from Lakenheath Air Base in England to the Azores en route to the United States. It carried a nine-man Navy crew and 50 Air Force officers and men.

The first distress signal was picked up by Pan American passenger flight No. 70 flying from London to New York. Within seconds the Legens Air Force base picked up a similar "definite" distress signal.

The Air Force spokesman said the two signals appeared to be from the same position. A "fix" gave the position as roughly 150 miles north of the Portuguese islands which lie off the coast of Morocco.

(In New York Pan American reported that three of its trans-Atlantic flights had heard distress signals and radioed the information to the huge air-sea rescue unit mobilized the moment the plane was reported overdue and presumed lost at sea.)

The plane was a C110 Liftmaster, the military version of the DC-6. It carried 117 passengers and at least three emergency radio transmitters which can send out SOS signals if a survivor merely turns a crank. Rescue planes are able to locate a downed plane from such a signal through cross checking.

The big transport plane was carrying 48 enlisted men and two Air Force officers when it left England for the 1,200 mile flight to the Azores. The plane's crew was made up of three Navy officers and six enlisted men.

The plane with its homeward bound passengers, en route to the Lincoln, Neb., Air Force base from a tour of duty in Britain, left Tuesday night for Legens. It reported its position early Wednesday some 180 miles south of England. Nothing further was heard.

4 Texans On Plane

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Four Texans were listed today as among the 59 Air Force men aboard the C-118 missing over the Atlantic. They were:

Capt. Kenneth Edgar Goodroe, 34, (916 East Waco St.) Dallas; wife, June Dawn Goodroe, (3877 Dunn Ave.) Lincoln.

Airman 2-C Raymond Drake, 22, Ladonia, Tex., single.

Airman 3-C Abelardo Siller, 20, (1045 East Ringold) Brownsville, Tex., single.

Airman 3-C Charles W. Hannah, 18, (Route 1) Crockett, Tex., single.

H-Bomb Is Key Issue

By UNITED PRESS
The question of halting H-bomb tests became one of the key election issues today.

Adlai E. Stevenson said Thursday night he will keep on fighting for a "safe way" to end the tests despite President Eisenhower's announcement that he will not discuss the subject further.

"I understand the President said today (Thursday) that he had said his last word on testing H-bombs and military manpower requirements," Stevenson said at Oakland, Calif.

"Well, I haven't said mine and neither, my friends, have the people of this country—who have the only last word."

New Campaign Technique.
The President will try tonight a new campaign technique—an unrehearsed nationally televised news conference with about 100 "Citizens for Eisenhower" asking the questions.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Estes Kefauver vied for the farm vote in barnstorming tours of the Midwest.

In a speech prepared for the national mechanical complicity contest at Columbus, Neb., Nixon said the Democratic farm program consists of get-rich-quick promises which would block the recent rise in farm income.

Call A Spade A Spade.
Nixon said "it is time to call a spade a spade" and called the Democratic program "a cruel hoax for the nation's farmers."

Kefauver made his sharpest attacks against the President in a speech prepared for delivery at Columbus only a few hours after Nixon spoke.

"I sometimes wonder whether there is one kind of political morality which is different than the morality we demand in our daily lives," he said. "There is no clearer record in existence than the record of the betrayal of the American farmer by Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Stevenson, in announcing that he will continue to call for ending the H-bomb tests, was cheered wildly in his Oakland address. He said he will carry his fight to the nation Monday night in a nationwide address from Chicago.

He Said Last Word.
Stevenson centered his attack on Mr. Eisenhower's statement at his press conference Thursday that he said his last word on the tests and the draft.

Stevenson suggested some months ago that steps should be taken to stop testing H-bombs as a major contribution to peace. He also said the government should look to ending the draft in the foreseeable future when national security requirements permitted.

Hotel Group Meets Today

Completion of the formation of the executive committee of the Community Hotel Company of Pampa was expected to be completed at the meeting of the group at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Cabot Auditorium.

It was the intention of the executive committee to complete the committee so that the publication of the prospectus and purchase form can be made as soon as the incorporation proceedings are completed.

No report on the progress of the incorporation is available as the legal council for the group, W. J. Smith, has been out of town and is not expected back until tomorrow night.

As soon as the incorporation papers are received work will begin upon the sale of the stock in the corporation. Fred Neslage, general sales manager, announced this morning that E. O. Wedgeworth has been named assistant sales manager.

They are working upon the formation of the sales group that will spearhead the campaign to sell stock in the hotel corporation.

'Cleaner' H-Bomb Is Revealed

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Atomic Commissioner Willard F. Libby revealed today that the United States actually has produced a "cleaner" H-bomb.

It was the first disclosure that the so-called "reduced fallout" bomb really exists. Such a weapon would spread less deadly radioactivity throughout the planet than "dirtier" H-bombs of the same power.

In an address at a radiation meeting sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Libby reported "new information" on radioactive fallout. Much of it dealt with Operation Redwing, the U.S. nuclear test program stated at the Pacific proving ground between May 5 and mid-July this year.

"Particular attention was paid to the fall-out problem in this operation," Libby said, "and a major effort was made to produce a megaton-range weapon (equal in power to millions of tons of TNT) with an inherently smaller amount of fall-out for a given energy release."

"This effort," Libby stated, "was successful."
He said that "considerable attention was paid to operational factors"—presumably comparatively sanitary high-altitude explosions—"which would minimize world-wide fallout."

As a result, all the test explosions of Operation Redwing, totaling at least ten, added "considerably less" radioactivity to the stratospheric air currents circling the globe than was present before the tests.

New Residence Permits Issued

The city engineer's office reported today that two permits for new residences to be constructed in Pampa had been issued since Tuesday.

A permit for the construction of a new residence valued at $11,250 to be located at 2119 Nelson was issued to Highland Homes on Tuesday.

This morning a permit for the construction of a new residence at 2137 was issued to the E. D. Hercher Construction. Estimated cost of the residence was listed at $11,500.

British Open Fire On Mob

By WENDELL MERICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONG KONG (UP)—British Security forces opened fire today on a mob gathering in downtown Kowloon and first reports said two Chinese were injured.

The clash was the most serious in a day marked by scattered rioting in the Kowloon area across the harbor from Hong Kong. The Chinese crowd dispersed when police fired and a Portuguese family took one of the wounded Chinese into its home for treatment.

It was the third day of rioting in this British crown colony. United Press Movietone cameraman Marvin Farikas who accompanied police on a patrol through the riot town district said one mob broke into a Communist-owned wine store today and wrecked furniture and smashed bottles in the street. The mob melted away when the police arrived.

Several fires also were started in Kowloon.

Stern measures by Hong Kong police and British troops kept most of the streets deserted, and there was no repeat of the widespread rioting which brought the Tommies into action Thursday with tanks and machineguns.

British colonial authorities put the death toll in the rioting at 30 to 40 and said it might be some time before an accurate figure could be reached. Early estimates of 1000 dead were drastically revised downward.

"Helping radio, the voice of Communist China, was making propaganda hay out of the rioting and one broadcast said the British had been lax in dealing with 'Kuomintang' or Nationalist elements and failed to take prompt measures to stop the rioting."

"We will watch carefully whether the British can be responsible for the maintenance of peace and order in Hong Kong and Kowloon," one broadcast said.

Police Hunt Kidnapper

NEW YORK (UP)—The FBI aided police today in the hunt for a heavy-set woman who posed as the close friend of a mother of a six-week-old girl in kidnaping the child from a baby sitter.

The stranger, a short, dark Negro about 40 years old, chatted amiably Thursday with the baby-sitter, Mrs. Clarence Hall, before offering to take tiny Joanne Wells and her brother, Richard, two, out for some air and a good time.

Mrs. Hall, convinced that the visitor knew the mother, Mrs. Gloria Telemague Wells, 24, let the women leave with the baby. The baby sitter did not know she had permitted the baby to be taken by a stranger—until Mrs. Wells, a nurses' aid at St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn, came for her children.

Mrs. Wells went immediately to the police station in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. With her she came her estranged husband, Sherman Wells, 38, a machine operator, whom she met on the street on the way to Mrs. Hall's apartment.

Police said no ransom has been demanded and no note has been found.

One Collision Is Reported

The only collision reported to the local police department occurred at 9:45 a.m. on Kingsmill, 125 feet west of Cuyler.

Alvin Martin, 1009 Farley, driving a '51 Chevrolet panel truck, was in collision with Mrs. Frances T. Hanks, 214 E. Kingsmill, driving a '56 Plymouth.

Damages to the Plymouth were estimated at $50 and the truck reportedly did not receive any damages.

Highways Are Designated 4-Lane Here

Highways 60 and 70 within the city limits of Pampa have been designated four-lane highways by the State Highway Department and have been marked as such.

The highways involve E. Frederic Brown, Wilks and Hobart. The highways have been marked with a double stripe down the middle and dash stripes dividing the two lanes on either side.

Chief of Police Jim Conner reported that the Texas Motor Vehicle Laws stipulate that a motor vehicle may not legally cross the center of the highway when a yellow line is in the lane in which the car is traveling. In the case of four-lane highways this means that a motor vehicle may not cross the center of the highway unless the double yellow lines are broken at an intersection, Conner stated.

Persons wishing to enter a private drive from these four-lane highways must approach the driveway on the side of the street on which the drive is located and may not legally cross from the other side of the street, he warned.

Section 55 of the Motor Vehicle Laws states, "The driver of a motor vehicle may overtake and pass only under the following conditions: Upon a street or highway with unobstructed pavement not occupied by parked vehicles of sufficient width for two or more lanes of moving vehicles in each direction."

Conner warned Pampa motorists to observe the state laws and stated that any violators observed by local policemen will be stopped.

Ike OK's All Asked

AUSTIN (UP)—The government has provided all the drought relief asked by Gov. Allan Shivers, the State Emergency Drought Committee and Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, Shivers' office said Thursday.

Shivers is in Alaska on a bear hunt. His office pointed out that a roughage program, providing a $7.50 allowance per ton, went into effect on Aug. 24. The governor's office said more than 13,000 farmers have used certificates under this program.

The governor's office said a formula worked out by White and the drought committee in late August will be used as the basis for the newly-increased subsidies on feed grains. That formula provided such aid to farmers and ranchers in counties which have been in the drought disaster-designated areas at least 12 months.

Barn Dance Scheduled

A pre-halloween barn dance is being sponsored tomorrow night by the Gray County 4-H Club Council at the farm of Jim Eakin, which is located southwest of Pampa.

The dance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will continue until mid-night. Refreshments will be served.

All 4-H Club members of Gray County clubs are urged to attend. Adams stated. Members of 4-H Clubs and their advisors in District One have been invited to attend the dance.

The dancing will consist of folk and square dances.

Parents are invited to accompany the club members to the dance, Adams concluded.

Jail Here Gets Face Lifting

The Gray County jail is in the process of undergoing a face lifting. Sheriff Rufe Jordan reported today.

The interior of the jail is being repainted and all of the mattresses in the cells are being renovated, Jordan reported.

The work has been contracted to local firms and is expected to be completed in the next few days.

City Departments' Operations Talked

The City Commission met in a special session yesterday afternoon in the City Commission room at City Hall with the heads of each of the departments of the city government.

The commissioners discussed the operation of each department with the person in charge with the main item being efficiency. They also discussed raising the pay of city employees.

It was the decision of the commission to leave the pay scale as it was under the old budget until after the 15th of the month. The commissioners will decide upon the definite amount of the raise for each employee by the end of the month and stated that the raise will be retroactive to Oct. 1.

In discussing operations of the city shop the commissioners decided that the shop would handle only repairs to trucks and other heavy equipment. All city cars will be serviced by commercial garages in the future.

The commissioners instructed the city manager to make plans to install lights in Hobart Street park before next spring. They also informed the city manager and city park superintendent to improve facilities at the Hobart Street park.

The commissioners expressed their satisfaction on the whole, with the work being done by the various departments and asked each department head what could be done to improve the department.

Chief of Police Jim Conner reported that the police department was one man short of authorized strength at the present time. He also stated that the authorized strength as set by the commissioner was seven men below that recommended by national authorities for a town the size of Pampa.

BIE Day To Be Reversed Here

The Business - Industry - Education Day, which was held in the past three years, will not be held this year in its original form.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi cancelled plans for a quick return to their capitals. They said they were prepared to stay as long as there was any hope of reaching an agreement in the Suez issue.

Fawzi broke his Sphinx-like silence Thursday night as he left the fourth secret session of the three foreign ministers with U.N.

However, the process will be reversed whereby business people will spend the day with school teachers and Spring doing Texas Education Week, rather than the teachers spending the day with business people as has been the procedure in the past.

The change is being made in compliance with a request by superintendent Knox Kinard for the reversal of the event this year.

For the past three years Business - Industry - Education Day has been quite successful with all the teachers in the city system spending the day with various business concerns learning the fine techniques of the enterprise, Wedgeworth said.

Blood Is Needed

Blood type "O" negative is needed for an elderly man who is seriously ill in Highland General Hospital, Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary of the Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross, announced this morning. Thus far, she said, the Red Cross had been unable to obtain a donor with the right type of blood.

All persons having blood type "O" negative, are urged to contact the Pampa office of the Red Cross as soon as possible, Mrs. Shotwell said.

Foreign Ministers Still Hope For Suez Accord

By BRUCE W. MUNN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Foreign ministers of Britain and Egypt said today they will remain here as long as necessary to exchange ideas in the Suez Canal crisis, but French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said he plans to return to Paris Saturday.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi cancelled plans for a quick return to their capitals. They said they were prepared to stay as long as there was any hope of reaching an agreement in the Suez issue.

Fawzi broke his Sphinx-like silence Thursday night as he left the fourth secret session of the three foreign ministers with U.N.

Egypt Withdraws From Olympics

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Egypt officially withdrew today from the forthcoming Olympic Games in Melbourne.

A cable received by the organizing committee announced Cairo's action and said a formal letter of withdrawal is en route.

Egypt had planned to send about 100 athletes to participate in the international contest. There were reports she would boycott the games as a result of the Suez dispute.

TO HELP YOUR FACE HOLD ITS OWN under fur-struck hats, there's a lesson to be learned, says Max Factor, Jr., at the knee of Mother Nature. He points to her expertness in outlining the eyes of tiger, cat, faun or leopard with a natural dark color to make animal eyes more luminous.

THAT'S the lesson Factor wants to drive home. Regardless of the color of your hat — of real or make-believe fur, natural or dyed — bear down on your eyeshadow, use your automatic eye pencil, thik on your lash brush. The way to make eyeshadow spell out clear, luminous color, according to his expert, is to underscore it with a blue or green line, pencil-raven at the roots of lashes with lead of matching color.

Factor's tip on eyebrow grooming is a warning: Clean up the fuzz, and pluck out the "pin feathers." Your hat will contribute all the fuzziness your face can take. Factor's admonition also goes for hair. Under fur, hair must look sleek and tidy, he says.

Make-up? The skin under a fur hat must have neither a sheen nor matte finish. The happy medium, Factor thinks, is a translucent look to pick up the luster of fur. To achieve it, use a fluid eye make-up foundation which will also make the skin look porcelain cool, very much wanted, according to the expert, when the head is bundled up in fur.

Lipstick? A red as flamboyant as a jungle blossom is Factor's suggestion for striking red contrast with suit, coat or dress of drabbed-down color. The effect will be as bright as a lightning bolt streaking across a stormy sky!

COLORFUL as well as taste-tempting, pork chops appear in a brand-new guise when served Spanish style.

Pork Chops Served Spanish Style Are Colorful And Taste Tempting

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Now that pork is plentiful, let's hunt up new ways to prepare it. Here's a Spanish recipe. Why not make your dinner interesting by dressing up the table with touches of old Spain, such as everyday crystal glasses in contemporary pink and charcoal-Seattle design, and maybe a pair of ceramic Spanish fighting cocks?

Just one warning about pork — be sure you cook it a long time and slowly.

PORK CHOPS—SPANISH STYLE (Makes 4 servings)

Four lean loin, rib or shoulder pork chops, about 3/4-inch thick, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 4-ounce jar pimientos, 1 1/2 cups tomato puree, 1 clove garlic, minced, 1/4 teaspoon oregano, 1 tablespoon brown sugar.

Sprinkle pork chops with salt and pepper. In a skillet, heat oil and brown chops well on both sides. Remove chops from the skillet. Pour off oil and fat that has accumulated from browning the chops. Cut pimientos into strips. In the skillet, combine pimiento rings and liquid from pimientos with tomato puree and remaining ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Arrange the browned chops in the sauce. Cover and cook over low heat about 30 minutes at least. Baste with sauce occasionally during the cooking time. Add additional salt and pepper if desired. Serve piping hot with pimiento strip placed on top of each chop.

Here's the way we like pork chops at our house:
Season chops with salt, pepper and paprika. Cut off a little fat. Place fat in frying pan and then brown chops on both sides. Add a small amount of beef bouillon. Cover. Simmer for 45 minutes. Add a little more bouillon as needed. Serve with fluffy mashed potatoes.

Winn Veale Teaches Silk Screen Painting

Winn Veale gave instruction in silk screen painting during the second session of the arts and crafts study course, being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association City Council.

The course will include glass painting, copper and aluminum tooling, as well as the silk screen painting. Mrs. Boyd Bennett is in charge of the course.

Next meeting will be at 9 a.m. Monday, in the Girl Scout Little House, 716 E. Kingsmill and will be an all-day affair. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a sack lunch.

Refreshments of cookies and coffee were served. Twenty members were present.

Do you welcome good ideas for the between-meal snacks that your pre-school child needs? Why not serve him honey treats? A glass of milk with a tablespoon of honey added, graham crackers spread thick with creamed honey, or honey eggnog will tide him over until meal time. He'll love the flavor, and honey is good for him, too.

Former Pampan Dies Here

Mrs. Dorothy Bernice Green, a former resident of Pampa, died at 12 o'clock last night after being in Highland General Hospital for ten weeks.
She was born in Plainview, Ark., on Oct. 26, 1911, and had been living in Glendora, Calif., since moving from Pampa.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. G. R. MARTIN, Pastor
Fellowship Baptist Church, 830 S. Cuyler
Pampa, Texas

JOHN 3:16 PAST — PRESENT — FUTURE

PAST — What God Has Done!

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son . . ."

Almost two thousand years ago this event was made manifest to the world. God revealing and declaring what must be given to meet the need. HE GAVE HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON! Begotten means born of God. This is what the centurion meant when he saw the phenomenon which accompanied the Crucifixion of Christ: ". . . truly this was the Son of God." Matt. 27:54. This is confirmed by the words in John's gospel. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." John 1:1. "And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, (and we beheld His glory, and the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth." John 1:14.

PRESENT — What You Can Do!

". . . that whosoever believeth in him . . ."

This believing is what God has done. Not merely believing about; much more, believing in what God has given. Believing in HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON! This believing is RECEIVING: "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." John 1:12.

FUTURE — What God Will Do!

". . . should not perish, but have everlasting life."

This is the result of believing "in and receiving what God has done. Here is God's two-fold promise! Those who will believe in HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON shall not perish! Those who will receive HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON shall have everlasting life. God has never broken a promise. He never will.

Ecclesiastes 3:14:

"I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken away from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him."

Gov't Security No Aid

For many years, there was current in the thought of Americans that because our pioneer ancestors had once subjugated the Indians, there was an obligation to keep the Indians in the bondage of government "security." As a result, the Indian held the status of ward instead of citizen, and instead of being a responsible individual, he was a dependent.

To a very great extent, this condition created a lazy, shiftless people who had discovered they were under no obligation to work to survive.

Even where prosperity has accidentally overtaken them, they have not been generally successful in meeting the challenge of becoming free and independent individuals.

This week, for example, about 500 families of the Klamath tribe living in Southern Oregon are facing with reluctance the problem of receiving roughly $160,000 each.

These tribesmen are descendants of the Chipmunk People who nearly a century ago made a treaty with the U. S. Government trading their freedom for perpetual care on a reservation. Two years ago Congress set Friday of last week as the date on which each Klamath tribesman would be given back his freedom along with his share of the appreciated value of reservation property.

The Klamath reservation contains a million acres of valuable timber land. For the past 25 years lumber has been harvested from the reservation on a sustained yield basis with revenue going into tribal account which has meant an allocation of about $3000 a family.

The Indians have been living under this system so long that most of the tribesmen have been frightened over what will happen when individual responsibility must be assumed.

Klamath Chief Kirk declared recently, "After a few per capita payments, the Indians realized they didn't have to work to have money. So you see our homes and fences neglected; our best grazing land leased out to white people and the Government parceling out money to us. The system created a lazy and shiftless people. Everything went down. Then out of a clear sky, the law says we're ready for citizenship."

Just as the incentive to embrace freedom and practice independence has been killed among the Indian tribes, in the manner it is being destroyed among Americans.

If we continue to turn to government for our security, we will surely become dependent wards instead of responsible citizens. There will be a commissioner to control our personal affairs and individual responsibilities. Instead of calico and blankets, we may be promised a hundreds dollars every month. But since the principle is the same in both cases, the results will also eventually be the same.

THE NATION'S PRESS

WHAT CRUSADE?

By RICHARD LLOYD JONES
(Tulsa Tribune)

SOMETHING new in our political history seems to have been injected in this presidential campaign. A candidate's first person pronoun seems to have challenged an opponent as an issue. The attitude that says, "We will find fault with you, but you can't find fault with us. Not fair. Go our fingers crossed." How childish.

The chairman of the Republican National Committee has demanded that the Democratic National Committee apologize for having had the impertinence and the assumption to criticize candidate Eisenhower.

Campaigns are conducted by criticisms. And no candidate for high office is sacrosanct. There is too much at stake to make any promulgator of public opinion immune from criticism.

Mr. Eisenhower opens his campaign by declaring that America believes him to be an honest man. Who has said, he wasn't? Did George Washington ever feel it necessary to proclaim his personal honesty? Can you imagine Lincoln, Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson, or Bryan, or Theodore Roosevelt protesting his personal honesty? That is accepted. As to political honesty? That is another thing.

Mr. Harry Truman repeatedly violated good taste and elemental honesty in his reckless and brazen vilifications. It was Harry Truman who accused the Eisenhower administration of being engaged in racketeering enterprises.

As a candidate for office President Eisenhower was entirely right to denounce that falsehood. The Republicans have ammunition enough in revealing the performance and by profession it has repudiated Jeffersonian democracy. It has repudiated Andrew Jackson's democracy. It has offended the elemental honesty of Bryan's democracy and Woodrow Wilson's democracy. It has built Roosevelt's New Dealism with all its petty graft. Fur coats and refrigerators. And it has condoned what has been revealed as an infamous tax scandal. Adlai Stevenson has all this record to reveal and repudiate. And therein lies the campaign cause which Mr. Eisenhower should reveal and denounce.

Mr. Eisenhower has insisted that all his Republican administration has to do to regain a vote of confidence from the people is to TELL THE TRUTH. And he is right. Tell the truth about the racketeering through the Franklin

Social Action Guidance
For Economic Life

Edmond A. Opitz has an interesting chapter under the heading of "Social Action Guidance for Economic Life" in his book, "Case Studies of the Church in Politics." He puts it this way:

"The World Council of Churches meeting at Evanston did not condemn capitalism in the same breath as communism, as it had done at the Amsterdam meeting several years earlier. Many persons heaved a sigh of relief. Editorial writers gusted their wild oats and were now back on the reservation.

"This optimistic opinion appeared to be confirmed a few weeks later when the National Council of Churches issued its four-thousand - word statement entitled: 'Christian Principles and Assumptions for Economic Life,' on September 15, 1954. The New York Times headline read: 'Church Christian Sets Social Code - Adopts Principles Opposing Collectivism and Backing Free Enterprise.'

"Our last chapter pointed out that a closer inspection of the Evanston report revealed no retreat from Amsterdam; this chapter will examine the National Council statement to determine the extent to which it backs free enterprise.

"The familiar 'Middle of the Road' - The Council statement is moderate compared with earlier pronouncements emanating from ecclesiastical quarters which declared for out-and-out socialism. It recognizes that 'uncritical recourse to the state to remedy every evil creates its own evils,' and adds that 'in some situations Christians have had the misconception that the one sure road to economic justice is the socialization of all the major means of production.' These equal statements, sprinkled with qualifying adjectives, may indicate some disillusionment among churchmen with their former faith in consistent collectivism, but it certainly does not erect any barrier of principle against further experiments in socialization.

"The statement reveals an exceedingly limited opposition to collectivism, and the extent to which it backs free enterprise is even more limited. It calls for a more general 'private ownership of many forms of property' and justifies 'some inequalities of wealth and income' because inequalities stimulate productivity. Furthermore, the pronouncement says, attempts to level society impair freedom.

The closest authors of the statement come to indicating the nature of their social goal in this sentence: 'In some countries, as in our own, the possibility of a combination of individual freedom and social responsibility have been encouragingly indicated and continue to be explored, along with the relationship between government and private or semiprivate economic groups.' This brings us back onto the familiar and already crowded ground in the middle of the road face to face with the welfare state or mixed-economy idea. The middle of the road may feel comfortable until it dawns on you that what was really needed was not so much the location of the road as the road as where the road is going. After reading his statement we fear the road is headed in the direction of more socialization rather than less. The statement is full of strictures and censures directed against economic institutions and activities, which are meaningless unless the intention is to implement them by law - all of which adds up to 'increased government intervention in the economy.'

"The New Debate" - These strictures and censures against business comprise part of the prophetic role which churches must play in society, according to the statement. Another responsibility of churches in society is that of 'conservation and promotion in that society of such values as justice and freedom.' It is obvious that the conservative and prophetic roles are complementary; one holds fast to that which is good while trying to test all human relationships and situations in the light of the teachings of the gospel.

"The prophetic role has never been an easy one, but it is especially difficult today, the statement contends, because 'any admission of fault or failure in our society may be falsely construed as giving aid and comfort to enemies, even as disloyal or subversive.' This is to echo the good and plain that the certified, advanced, heavyweight Thinkers have been making for the past several years. Criticism of our domestic shortcomings is drying up, say these Thinkers, and our Best Minds are full of great thoughts which they dare not utter. This is such unmitigated nonsense that one cannot adequately describe it without venturing into the categories of pathology! The truth of the matter is that with the rise of a philosophy opposed to all brands of collectivism social criticism is now really coming of age."

The Babe Was Truly A Beautiful Woman

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

One reason why newspaper people can not excuse the disgusting conduct of hero-worshippers who swoon for Elvis Presley is that, in the course of a career, we meet most of the great, in sport, politics, war and the arts. I have met six Presidents, starting with Harding, a very good American; two British Prime Ministers and most of our important generals and admirals and some of the greatest warriors of the European nations.

Among the great souls I count Babe Didrikson and the man who introduced me to her, Grantland Rice.

She probably did not realize it, but Babe was really a beautiful woman - from the mouth down. I certainly do not mean to be unkind in saying this because I did admire that girl for qualities apart from her skill at all sports, qualities which accounted for her success. They were determination, courage, honesty and a candid but not immodest appreciation of her own superiority. Her body was slender but shapely and her legs were beautiful. They were ideal.

I retain a vision of the Babe winning the javelin throw at the 1932 olympics in Los Angeles. She was as far in front of all the other girls in most field events as Sonja Henie in figure skating. We could not make comparisons between the Babe and the girls of our swimming team, who were not only great athletes but beauties, because they were separate groups.

Rice wrote, however, in his autobiography, "The Tumult And The Shouting," that Babe's "points in diving were close to perfection and her test for the 100-yard swim was but a fifth second off."

In the javelin, Babe's first throw, as I recall the scene, was so far beyond the most optimistic possibility of the other girls that she turned patting her palms as though to dust them, and walked back to the place where she had parked her flannel stacks to pull them on.

I believe she stood pat on that one throw, not bothering to use her two more chances although I may be mistaken there. A few days later, Rice arranged a five-hand golf game at Brentwood in which he and Babe played Paul Gallico, Braven Dyer, of the Los Angeles Times, and me.

Rice was then shooting in the '80's. Gallico never was any good. I was always yearning to break 100, and Dyer was just about as bad. I have read that Babe broke 100 the first round she ever played, but I doubt that because on this occasion she was all over the place with her irons and Grant wrote that she had never been around before. She was marvelous off the tees, but she put that down to her long, delightful practice on the driving ranges which then dotted the country. She loved to drive and had hit thousands of those set-up wood shots and it is my impression that her irons did her dirt that day.

The Babe was a hard-bitten kid from a plain though neither poor nor humble family. She knew that she had to make her way in this world and she went at her career without waste of time or force on the amenities. Her manners were abrupt then, but I have read that in later years she adopted tact and courtesy.

The Babe had thin lips with almost no curve and her eyebrows were a straight line right across the bridge of her nose. By the beauticians standards these were not pretty features surmounting that wonderful body and legs, but, after all, few girls deliberately assume the disadvantage that the Babe imposed on herself in refusing to paint on a new mouth and arched brows. I heard that in later years, Babe resorted to Elizabeth Arden's artificial aids. The swimming girls included Eleanor Holm, a beautiful, mischievous girl heading for unhappiness in life, and Georgia Coleman, a lovely, gentle California girl who developed pituitary trouble in a few years which was attributed to the impact of her head on the water in the high dives. She had several dreadful operations and died young.

The Babe's marriage seems to have compensated for the heartaches of a plain girl which Gallico implied to her in a beautiful if rather cruel fiction story of a great girl athlete who scalded her pillow night after night because other girls were prettier.

George Zaharias, a football player and small - time heavyweight wrestler, was so affectionate and tender that he made the pair of them conspicuous in a world which took special note of mutual devotion because it was so rare. In her private life and her heart, therefore, the Babe was again the winner over many contemporaries who have seemed to be doomed to misery.

Secretary Weeks Kept Out Of Political Sight

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON - The Republican high command insists on keeping Sinclair Weeks off the political stump as persistently and stubbornly as the Democratic managers of the Presidential campaign are keeping former Secretary of State Dean Acheson out of sight or sound of the voters.

The reason for the concealment of the Secretary of Commerce is that, far more than Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson or Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, he is the symbol of the "big business" tag which Adlai E. Stevenson seeks to apply to the Eisenhower Administration.

Worse still, even in the midst of the hard-fought contest, Weeks has advanced a proposal which would provide the opposition with heavy ammunition on this issue. He is urging that the steel industry be granted the right of fast tax amortization subsidies on $1.2 billion of proposed new construction. It would mean a great saving, at least for five years, to the steel owners and operators.

These tax losses, with others that would have to be granted if the Weeks formula were followed in the future, could mean the difference between a deficit and a balanced budget next year, between continued high taxes on individuals or a generous reduction.

Finally, with the Democrats watching the situation closely, acceptance of Weeks' theory would seem to give weight to the Stevenson-Kefauver contention that the Administration treats the corporation more kindly than it does the "little people."

The Administration's part in settling the recent steel strike has already intensified these charges. After urging the industry to grant the union's demands, which was a smart political move, Washington raised no objections to an $8.50-a-ton increase in an inflationary period.

Touring The Soviet Sector Of Berlin

By HENRY McLEMORE

BERLIN - Nowhere in Europe have Mary and I been treated more kindly, or shown more courtesy, than in the Soviet Sector of Berlin.

I am just as surprised to be able to write this as you probably are surprised to read it.

From what I had heard and, from what I had read in travel guides (one noted guidebook insists a visitor is risking his life to enter the East Sector; I expected to be treated as a spy).

Actually, just the opposite was true. The East Germans, from the police down, went out of their way to answer our questions, point out directions, and generally help us to get about their beat-up, neglected part of the city.

The East Germans - we didn't see any Russians - or anyone we took to be Russians - gave us the impression that they wanted us to know that they liked Americans, that they didn't like living under the Russians a bit, and that if it weren't for having to do what little they had, and for fear of reprisal, they would have decamped long ago.

We have visited the Soviet Sector three times, once by sight-seeing bus, and twice by subway. On the bus trip the driver kept us pretty well herded together while we visited the major points of interest. On our own tours we wandered all about the place, moving by underground from Potsdamerplatz to Alexanderplatz to Scharnweber.

None of the Germans looked at us appraisingly, as if to say, "What are you doing over here?" We didn't get a single brusque answer to any of our questions, and half a dozen times the Germans, using a map, showed us what subway line to catch, and where to get off.

No one told me not to take any pictures, although my camera was slung from my shoulder. We walked through two or three of the big but shabby H-O Cooperative stores, fingering the merchandise for quality (which it doesn't have), asking prices, and generally acting like the rest of the customers.

I had changed a few West marks into East marks, and while I didn't see anything I wanted to buy, I certainly had the impression that the clerks would have been glad to sell to me.

On Sunday, Mary and I thought it would be interesting to try to find a church in the Soviet zone and worship there. We got the name of a church before we left, and after asking directions of three East Germans, finally found it. It was not a church at all, but a battered building that stood next to the remains of the bombed - out church. Services were given, so we looked for another church. We reached it just after the service had ended, and a group of middle-aged women, who were still standing out in front talking - just as women do at home, made us understand that they were sorry we hadn't come earlier. It was only ten o'clock in the morning, so apparently church services are held quite early.

The Soviet Sector is even more depressing on a Sunday than it is on a weekday. There just isn't any traffic of any sort, and we walked for what must have been half a mile without seeing more than a dozen pedestrians. This, mind you, in an area that once was the busiest section of Berlin.

It could be that the courtesy of the East Germans is founded on loneliness, and that they are glad for someone to talk to. That, or they have so little to do, they have more time to waste.

But, as I said before, I believe they want us to know that they, too despise the way they have to live under the Russians, and are looking forward to the day when they are out from under Communist domination.
