AW, COME ON, STEER — Dave Hopper of Lubbock had a hard time downing his steer in the bulldogging contest last night, taking a minute and a half to do it. The crowd, however, appreciated Hopper's determination and gave the cowboy a big hand for his efforts. ## Huge Crowd Enjoys First Rodeo Show And Parade

Fast Action And Smiley Please The Spectators

A near-capacity crowd jammed Recreation Park last night to witness the first performance of the 1956 Top o' Texas Rodeo.

The fans left the rodeo plenty satisfied, too, as they saw one of the fastest, most interesting shows in the history of the Panhandle Extravaganza.

Affable Smiley Burnette, famous movie star, was a highlight of the show as he kept the crowd laughing while cracking jokes and singing some of the songs he has written and made famous, including "It's My Lazy Day" and others. At one point in his performance, he had all the kids in the crowd clapping their hands in rhythm with his singing.

Other feature attractions at the show were Feb Evans and his trained pig, "Porkchop," who pulled his master, seated on a two-wheel carriage, into the arena, was unhitched, drank a Coke, walked back to the carriage, was hitched up again and pulled Evans back out again; Sally Skelton, trick rider from Hereford, who performed daring tricks on her pony to the applause of the crowd; The Notables, the rodeo clowns, whose hunt for uranium ended when both clowns left the arena with a make-believe seat full of buckshot; and the Amarillo Air Force Band, which cued the events.

The first event of the night, the Goldrush, was a crowd thriller as the cowboys entered in the rodeo tried to get a ticket worth $50 off the neck of one of producer Goat Mayo's meanest bulls. No one succeeded in bringing the ticket back to the judges so there will be $100 on the bull's neck tonight.

Results in the first night's events, which is the first half of the first go-round and therefore not final results, included:

The second event of the night, the bareback bronc riding contest, saw Duke Holland of Childress, riding Kickapoo, come out on top in the first half of the first go-round with a total of 147 points.

In the calf roping event, Perry Riley of Perryton had the best time of the night with a tied calf in 16.4 seconds.

Snooks Burton, riding Skeeter Conway, is leading the cutting horse contest so far after last night's performance in the arena by four top-seeded horses. The final winner in this event will not be known until Saturday night.

T. Hibbert of Breckenridge, riding Archer City, came out on top (See FAST ACTION, Page 12)

Plenty Of Horses In Parade Here

Horses, horses, and still more horses!

That was the sight that spectators beheld Wednesday afternoon as the 12th Annual Top o' Texas Rodeo Parade made its way through the streets of downtown Pampa.

The crowd, one of the largest to witness a Rodeo parade in Pampa, overflowed into the streets.

Heading the parade were two Highway Patrol cars from the Amarillo District of the Texas Highway Patrol. Next in the line of march was the colors followed by the band from Amarillo Air Force Base.

Next came the twirling corps, composed of pretty twirlers, headed by All American Twirler Gwen Thurmond.

Then came the horses, a seemingly endless line of them, ridden by the cowgirls and cowboys of all ages and sizes.

In the middle of the various groups of cowboys and cowgirls was the one and only Smiley Burnette who thrilled the crowd with (See PLENTY, Page 12)

RODEO PARADE — The streets were lined with spectators Wednesday afternoon as the Rodeo parade made its way through the downtown area of Pampa. Several hundred horses and their riders, along with floats, cars loaded with girls and other entries, passed before the largest crowd to witness a rodeo parade in Pampa. In the foreground is the band from Amarillo Air Force Base followed by the Twirler Corps headed by Miss Gwen Thurmond. The remainder of the street was filled with cowgirls and cowboys of all ages riding their horses. (News photo)

In Mine Tragedy Trapped Miners Are Feared Dead

By ARTHUR HIGBEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
MARCINELLE, Belgium (UP)—Rescue workers abandoned hope today for nearly 250 miners trapped in the blazing "bitter heart" mine.

Blistering heat drove the rescuers back after the fire, which started Wednesday and had seemed to be on the wane, blazed anew.

Nine were known dead and only six were rescued alive in the 32 hours after flames cut off an estimated 258 Belgian and Italian miners in the half-mile-deep pit. That left 243 men missing.

Belgian Mines Administrator Andre Van Heuvel ordered the battle against fire, smoke and deadly carbon monoxide to continue, but the faces of rescuers emerging from the pit on a greasy emergency elevator summed up the situation. "Not a chance," said one.

New Burst of Flame
The grim assessment came from one member of a team which reached the 3,000-foot level today, only to be forced back to the surface by a new burst of flame.

The team rode the emergency elevator down as far as they could—2,800 feet—then they dangled another 200 feet down in a basket slung by cables underneath the jammed elevator.

It was a heroic feat, but a vain one.

Rescue workers said they saw the bodies of 80 miners jammed on the 2,500-foot level shortly before that level collapsed into galleries farther below. The bodies of at least 25 others were believed to be trapped in chambers that were blocked off by rescue workers in an effort to keep the fire from spreading.

Authorities called it the biggest mining disaster in Belgian history as a smoke-yellow dawn broke over this south-central Belgian mining town today.

Grim, desperate rescue workers operated in 16-man relays through the night in a frantic effort to reach the men known to be below, although they were almost certain to be found dead as the result of poisonous gases seeping through the shafts.

Rescue teams were hampered early today when the fire flared up again, forcing them back to the 800-foot level. Many of the miners, more than half of them Italian emigrants, were trapped as deep as 3,500 feet.

Grief stricken, black-shrouded Italian women crying "mama mia" wept before a statue of the Virgin Mary, housed in a niche in the administration building wall.

Many wives and sweethearts stood numbly through the night outside the pithead, too exhausted to cry any more.

King Baudouin toured the disaster scene, giving what comfort he could to the grieving crowd. Italian ministers flew in early today for an on the spot check of mine safety and rescue efforts.

Mr. Truman made the disclosure at a news conference shortly after arriving here by train from Kansas City. He received a rousing welcome from a big crowd, an arm-around-the-shoulder greeting from runner Adlai E. Stevenson and a warm greeting from supporters of Gov. Averell Harriman. Harriman has not arrived here yet.

When he stepped off the train, Mr. Truman declared himself "neutral" in the battle for the presidential nomination.

Two hours later the former President said he hopes to reach a conclusion on his choice for the nomination before the convention meets.

At that time, he said, he will "let the people know" where he stands.

He was asked at this point if he has decided to support Stevenson.

Mr. Truman replied that he was making no announcement today.

Asked if he is against any candidate, he laughed and snapped: "Yes, I'm against me."

Mr. Truman then was asked if his opening remark meant that he definitely planned to endorse a candidate before the convention.

"I'll let the people know for whom I stand," he said.

He also said he will make a specific statement on civil rights to the platform committee this afternoon. He said his statement would parallel his previous stand on civil rights. Under questioning he described the 1948 Democratic civil

The fat man had been employed to pick up scrap wool from the floor. The man had trouble bending down. So he quit. Since no other job was offered him, Shea ruled, the man is entitled to jobless pay.

Eden's Attack On Nasser Hurts Chances For Talks

By WILLIAM SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON—UP—Prime Minister Anthony Eden's attack on Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser virtually erased any hope of a negotiated settlement of the Suez Canal crisis, Egyptian sources said today in Cairo.

Nasser was reported counting on the unqualified support of the Soviet Union, India and the Arab nations in the dispute. Cairo sources said Eden's description Wednesday night of Nasser as a plundering dictator was certain to bring strong counter-measures.

Official denials in Cairo failed to halt mounting speculation Nasser would seek a defense pact with Russia when he visits the Soviet capital Aug. 16, the opening date of the London Suez Conference.

Eden expressed hope the controversy would be solved "by the broadest possible international agreement," but he said the canal was a matter of life and death and that Britain would never accept Nasser's seizure.

"We do not seek a solution by force," Eden said in a worldwide broadcast Wednesday night, "but by the broadest possible international agreement."

"We cannot agree that an act of plunder which threatens the livelihood of many nations will be allowed to succeed... we've too much at stake not to take precautions... this is a matter of life and death to us all."

U. S. officials said Eden sounded a hopefully conciliatory note in his report Wednesday night to the British people. They pointed particularly to Eden's statement that the Suez conference scheduled for London next week "can produce a workable scheme for the future of the canal."

In Cairo, however, Eden's personal attack on President Gamal Abdel Nasser was described as likely to stiffen the attitude of the Egyptian leader on the Suez issue.

Informal sources said Eden's statements make the chances for compromise and reconciliation remote and that Nasser was likely to increase his counter-measures against Western pressure.

Yarborough To Visit Amarillo
Governatorial candidate Ralph Yarborough will be in Amarillo at 1 p.m. Friday for a two-hour visit. During this period he will meet with representatives of the Panhandle organization supporting his candidacy for governor at a luncheon in the Herring Hotel.

Reports indicate that the entire organization in the Panhandle which is supporting Yarborough has been reorganized and strengthened and new people are being added to the force.

The British press said the widespread military preparations by Britain and France were sure to revive fears in Asia and the Middle East of "gunboat imperialism" and that the West and East may split irrevocably at the Suez conference.

Chimp Bites Boy's Thumb Off

ATLANTA (UP)—A 200-pound chimpanzee bit off the thumb of 7-year-old Freddie Porter who was feeding the beast popcorn at Grant Park Zoo Wednesday.

Zoo officials said the boy climbed a low fence designed to keep spectators at a safe distance in order to give the popcorn to the zoo's temperamental chimp Marie, who has repeatedly tried to attack visitors.

The boy was treated at a hospital.

Teenagers To Be Honored Tonight

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Three teenagers will be honored tonight as the nation's best young drivers.

They are among 50 contestants from the 48 states, Hawaii and the District of Columbia who have been through four grueling days of tests in the finals of the fifth annual teen age, Road-E-O. They are the nobility of young motorists.

The top three will be paid off handsomely by their sponsors, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. and the Chrysler Corp. In order of the final judging, they will receive $1,500, $1,000, and $500 scholarships.

That's important to three among the 48 boys and two girls but more important is the enthusiasm for safe driving which has been fired in the heads of 300,000 teenage drivers in more than 2,000 Jaycee communities.

That sort of thing rubs off on other youngsters who are eager to get behind a wheel and learn the rules of the road.

Finals here have not been easy. The kids, all dressed in white linens, were tested in attitude, aptitude and the importance of giving the other fellow a break — the art of preventing dented fenders and bashed rear ends, and the saving of lives. Their reflexes had a workout on a simulated highway with model cars guided by push buttons.

There were actual driving tests in and around obstacles at the National Guard armory — indoors on the polished floor to make it more difficult. But the stiffest test was the real thing, driving in downtown Washington traffic where grown-up people give each other a bad time 365 days a year.

The kids used new cars with push button dash controls that resemble the instrument panels of modern aircraft. Such equipment and power could add up to death on wheels, if you don't mind your P's and Q's.

There is more power under foot today than when Maggie and I were young.

From a standing start you can spur the sleek family bus to an illegal 50 miles an hour in a matter of seconds.

In the days Maggie and I knew, it was a little different. A kid could risk a busted arm by cranking up old Lizzy, hop aboard, pull down the gas lever and hedge-hop across the fields without much to worry about except maybe catching a barrel of thunder from the old man for knocking over a few hills of corn.

The end result of contests like the Road-E-O are important.

Today more people are killed trying to get someplace too fast than are done in by a fighting war. Seems like it is a good idea to teach 'em young and tell 'em everything they ought to know about safety.

Major Tooth Trouble
INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—It was only a loose tooth, but it required major surgery for six-year-old Diane Clear to get rid of it. She swallowed the tooth after it pulled loose and it stuck in her windpipe. She was rushed to Riley Hospital in critical condition where a surgeon — instead of a dentist — removed the tooth.

Cameraman Got That Way By Accident

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Alfred Wagg, one of the best cameramen in the business today, got that way by accident.

When a civil riot broke out in India a long time ago, he was right there with a "box" in his hand. He has had a box in hand ever since.

Since then he probably has looked through his lenses at more crowned heads and presidents and other big and little people than any lensman extant. Running around the world covering wars and other things makes a man a professional photographer.

Wagg does. He has come out with a book called "Know Your Camera." It is written in English so that the owner of a $10 camera won't have to run to Webster to know what the old pro is talking about.

steel wall, thinks that his greatest triumph came when Halle Selassie, the "Hos of Judah" was our guest here from Ethiopia.

Wagg, who is distinguished in a goatee, was working on a special assignment.

"From the grapevine, I learned that Mamie Eisenhower was to wear her official gown only once — at a dinner to be given by the emperor. Photos were barred."

Wagg called a public relations man, and this fellow learned that the "Hos" would not object if Ike was willing to relax the rules against photographers. Selassie arrived a little ahead of time. He was talked into asking his host if a picture could be taken. The President said he didn't mind.

"Hon" and the President of the United States.

Mostly, though, Wagg, who has won many awards and made a pretty nice living out of "shooting the works," as he calls it, likes to help the beginner.

In his book he tells how to select a camera. A $10 box is good enough for the beginner, he says. The better stuff comes after he learns to "hold his hand steady."

Wagg likes to tell about one beginner who had a brand new camera. He goes out to shoot a picture of the moon. He comes back to the living room and announces that he has "just shot the moon." He gets his picture developed and thinks the moon must have moved. He gets three-thirds of the big dipper — going the wrong way.

"The moon didn't move much, but the amateur's hand did," says the Wagg.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Every person should, of course, make a will, so that his wishes for those he cares for may be carried out after his death. Our courts will then see to it that his wishes are put into effect.

But as a rule your will is too important to clutter with detailed facts and advice to your survivors. It is not the place to tell where you keep your important papers, although your survivors should know. They might need these papers in probate proceedings or to carry on your business. Some of these papers may bear on your survivors' actions.

So put these vital facts in a letter to your survivors:

Where is your will? In a safety deposit box? At your office? Or tucked away some place for safe keeping? You might have hidden it so that nobody can find it. It might be destroyed by accident. Your will is no good unless it can be found.

Who is your executor — the person or institution you want to carry out your will? To whom do you look for sound business advice?

Where do you bank? With whom do you deal at the bank? Some persons have a savings account in one bank and checking accounts in others. Where are your safety deposit boxes? Do you keep important papers in other places? List these places.

Where do you keep all your insurance policies—life, health, car, accident, others? They may cover your family as well as yourself. Your family may wish to continue them.

Where are your personal account books? Letters about your business affairs? Your cancelled checks and receipts? These facts will protect your estate from false claims.

Do you own real estate? Where are the deeds and abstracts or title insurance policies? Do your records show capital gains basis for your real estate and what you invested in any piece of real property? Tell your heirs what you think they should do about your real estate and other property.

Do your records show which property is separate and which is joint? The division of your property may rest on these records. Besides, good records may save tax dollars.

Besides current bills, do you have any debts? If so, list them and your creditors. Where are the copies of your income tax returns? Your car title?

Note these subjects: Old age and survivors' insurance, pensions, profit-sharing plans, group insurance, club memberships, pensions, probate and trust, joint ventures. Put down your social security number.

These are just a few things to

Former Presidential Candidate Says Ike Can Settle Nixon Row

EDITORS — Twenty years ago at the Republican national convention in Cleveland Alf M. Landon was nominated for president to oppose Franklin D. Roosevelt. In the following dispatch, Landon gives his views on the forthcoming GOP convention in San Francisco.

By ALF M. LANDON
Written for the United Press
TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—This Nixon-Stassen-Herter business has focused attention on the vice presidential nomination at the Republican convention. I don't think there will be any surprises at San Francisco, I believe Richard Nixon will be the selection.

But I think this: The President is the one man who can stop all the speculation and discussion by a flat, unequivocal statement of his choice. I think the quicker he does it the better off the Republican party will be.

There is no use beating about the bush. All this hullabaloo about the vice presidential nomination is uncertainty about Mr. Eisenhower's health for the next four years. Thinking back 20 years, I had no preconceived choice for a running mate. There was Frank Knox, the Chicago publisher who withdrew in my favor. And there was Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. Knox had no idea he would get the nomination.

Surprise at Restaurant
In fact he and Mrs. Knox and his secretary stopped at an eating place in Indiana while the convention was in progress. A radio was on in the next room. Knox asked the secretary to go turn it up so they could hear "who is being picked for vice president."

The secretary ran back to Knox, "My God, they're nominating you!"

There is a great parallel to the 1956 national conventions and those of 20 years ago.

Each nominee appears to be known in advance; the country's economy is on the upbeat; and a popular President is seeking a second term.

The difference, of course, is that the Democrats had the White House in 1936. The Republicans are in today.

The Democrats now are up against the same thing we Republicans had to face two decades ago. Their nominee—and it seems to be Adlai Stevenson again—must buck that same stone wall.

Good Times Hard to Beat
I know how difficult it is from experience. The American people have a rough rule of thumb on election years. They judge their President mainly on whether times are good or bad.

Someone asked me the other day how the Republican party has changed since I became the GOP nominee at the age of 48.

Mr. Eisenhower's middle-of-the-road philosophy definitely is to the left of my middle-of-the-road. In the last 20 years, though, that is a natural development. But Ike's appointments have been to the right of what mine would have been had I been elected.

Platform writing will be important at Chicago and San Francisco. The party platform should be framed so the candidate can interpret it in the light of his beliefs and policies.

This country is too big, its component areas too dissimilar in economy and outlook, for a platform to be fitted to all areas.

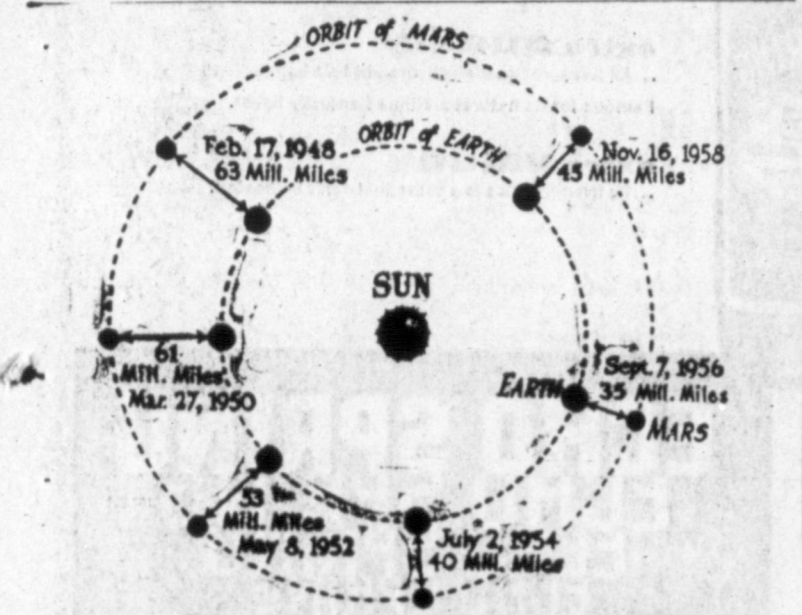

Civil Rights Issue
Stevenson's interpretation of the civil rights plank is a case in point. I was the only man put formally before the convention in nomination. In the 1956 campaign this will be especially true for the Democrat running against a President who has a record of administrative decisions and policies on the subject.

Before I was nominated in Cleveland in June, 1936, I had sent the convention a wire from Topeka giving my interpretation of the platform. The convention took it.

Conventions and campaigns have changed with the changing times—coverage by television, air conditioned halls, and the like.

But one thing about it never varies—the vital need for plenty of hard work by the state and county party chairmen.

ANYONE FOR MARS?—Mars and Earth are approaching each other, but don't worry—they won't collide. On Sept. 7, 1956, they will be the closest together since 1924—"only" 35 million miles apart. Diagram above, showing close approaches of Mars since 1948, was prepared by Dr. Lloyd R. Wylie, professor of astronomy at Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio. The "Martian year"—or time it takes the planet to revolve around the sun—is 687 days. Every 780 days, the earth catches up and passes Mars, these passing times known as "close approaches." During this coming period of close approach, astronomers will be intently studying Mars to determine if there is life there. Dr. Wylie says that "advanced vegetation or animals as we know them could not survive."

What's New Around Nation's Capitol

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—What's new in Washington:

John Foster Dulles, the world's busiest traveling man, is always in a hurry. In fact, when he took off for London to look into the Suez business, he forgot to kiss his wife goodbye. His plane was warmed up and ready when he realized his error. The secretary of state opened the door and rushed down the ramp to give Janet Dulles a fond smooch. She had one coming, too. The secretary had scant notice of his trip and he caught her under a dryer at the hair dressers. His travel kits needed packing and the phone at home was busy. Janet called out emergency to the telephone operator and got Eric, the butler, on the bell. She was at the airport 15 minutes ahead of takeoff.

Dorothy Cox, who has one of the sweetest voices on Capitol Hill, now answers the phone: "The vice president's office." Mrs. Charles Thomas Donnelly, Her new husband is the Washington manager of a tool company, one of her bosses. The other one is Richard M. Nixon.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson dropped the word at a party the other night that he "still squirms" every once in a while when he has to spend a few billion dollars of the taxpayers' money. He recalled, during the conversation, about when he was making $60 a month, and got an increase to $80 when he got married.

Wilson said that when he retires he may write a book which he would like to call "Mainsprings of Human Behavior." He had in mind, he said, that when you work for the government, there are "other things to be considered besides the money you make."

A bystander at the party asked the secretary if he planned to make any "political" speeches during the upcoming campaigns.

"No," he said. "But I'm going to make some speeches."

The United Mine Workers Journal is the one about the throat specialist who remarked that smoking makes a woman's voice harsh. "If you don't believe it," he said, "just try flicking your ashes on the rug."

More than a lot of Army folks were disturbed when the order went out that regulation footwear would be black shoes instead of brown.

But now on sale on most bases is a complete kit which "disinfects," dyes and provides polish for shoes "of any color," including brown ones that now have to show up black.

The publication "Motorist" tells about a fellow who went into an automobile club office in Massachusetts. The young man wanted all of the travel maps and tour books for a trip to the Middle-west. He insisted on detailed information about the route he wanted to take. When the travel counselor had finished, the customer asked: "Is this route heavily traveled?" The counselor assured him that it sure was. "It'd better be," the young man replied "I'm hitchhiking."

Young Man! What Will Your Future Bride Look Like?

By ROBERT MUSEL

United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON (UP) — Young man! You are about to marry the most beautiful girl in the world. Would you like to know what she will look like in, say, 20 years?

Adlai Has Lead In Delegates

WASHINGTON (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson leads the field of Democratic presidential hopefuls with 526 1-2 indicated first ballot votes, a United Press tabulation shows.

Monroe, Joe keeps saying to himself: "In a few years she may look like a sack of flour." When he first saw a pinup of Liz Taylor, he thought: "Bound to be hippy."

Double Chin for Grace? Jean Simmons was still a girl star when Joe sorrowfully decided she would be a bit heavy below the waist later on. Grace Kelly? He can see her in later years worrying about her breath and her chin line.

Joe, who has trained many stars says that revelation of all his figure secrets might cut down the marriage rate. So he will give only these hints on the woman you may be facing across the breakfast table in 1976:

CHRISTMAS IS COMING—Jack Richmond, of Champaign, Ill., trims one of 26,000 trees now on his evergreen plantation near Mahomet, Ill. The whole thing started as a "Christmas tree hobby" seven years ago, but since has grown out of hand. Though he hasn't sold a single tree yet, Jack hopes to unload a few thousand in November and December.

SOGGY Trip Home FLINT, Mich. (UP)—Gordon Yelland, 23, was in such a hurry to get home, he drove his car through 300 feet of newly laid concrete on a county road. Yelland will be sentenced today for the $3,000 worth of damage to the road.

Dam Opponents Single Out Finances As Their Target

EDITOR'S NOTE—United Press Houston Bureau Manager John Colton has been looking into the Brazos River Authority's water conservation plans and the opposition to them. The following is the third of a five-part series.

By JOHN COLTON United Press Staff Correspondent HOUSTON (UP)—Opponents of the Brazos River Authority's six-dam plan to conserve water and control flood in West Central Texas as their prime target.

The dams, projected to create a 250-mile chain of lakes from above Mineral Wells to Waco — with each lake backing up to its preceding dam — would cost $181 million. Congress is asked to put up $50 million and the BRA would sell $131 million worth of revenue bonds to the public.

Income from water and power is expected to retire the bonds. And therein lies the rub, and ammunition for the opposition. The BRA proposes a unique engineering gimmick called "pump-back" to provide a 500,000 kilowatt capacity hydroelectric power supply to be sold to help finance the dams. "Pump-back" is the engineer's means of making a given amount of water do more work — in other words, use the same water over and over again to produce electric power.

Fall of 600 Feet Under the BRA's plan for construction of the lakes, there will be a fall of 600 feet from Possum Kingdom Dam—the top lake which it is proposed to raise 18 feet—to the bottom lake, Whitney Dam, near Waco. Reversible turbo-generators will turn water sloshing over the chain of dams into power during daylight hours when the electricity load is at a peak; then pump back the same water up over the dams during the night.

The next day the same water churns over the dams again, for more power. Four such systems are in use in the United States and Brazil. One is at Buchanan Dam in Texas but it uses separate pumps and generators. Two more are planned near St. Louis, Mo.

The BRA claims the six-dam project will create a new usable storage of 2.2 million acre-feet of water, as well as the new electric power capacity of 500,000 kilowatts. The opposition disagrees, the irrigators fear water will be held back to produce power, and the power interests say the power to be produced would cost twice as much as it's worth.

To which the BRA answers: "Power is just a means to a highly-valuable end—a water supply assured to the Brazos Valley. At first, power will pay the bills for building and operating the dams. Gradually, over the years, more water will be demanded on farms, in towns and factories, and then less power will be sold. Water will become more valuable as there is more need for it, so in time water, instead of power, will pay the bills."

British Plane To Fly To U. S.

The 400-miles-per-hour turboprop Bristol Britannia 100 will fly Peter Massfield to San Diego, Calif. American operators will see the plane at San Diego, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, and Chicago. Eastern Airlines is reported interested in the plane.

48th Year Cold Meat Tray Offers Quick Meal For Summertime Guests Or Family

Food Page

Sandwich Month - U. S. A.

For casual living, bring on a large tray of ready-to-serve meats and let the guests or family help themselves. Meats included on this tray are canned luncheon loaf, salami, "boiled" ham, bologna, tongue and liver sausage. Remember to include the relishes, mustard, pickles, etc.

Menu Tray of Ready-to-Serve Meats for Sandwiches Assorted Breads Relishes Potato Salad Peach Shortcake with Whipped Cream Iced Tea Milk

When the temperature begins climbing, here's an immediate answer for that question, "What can I serve for dinner?"

In this case it's a cold meat tray with a wide assortment of ready-to-serve meats. If it's an informal family dinner on the porch, just bring out the "fixings" and let the family be on their own. They'll enjoy making their own sandwiches - this way everyone will get exactly what he likes.

Make sure that you have many different flavored meats on the tray. As a good beginning you might purchase some mild flavored bologna, "boiled" or pressed ham for those who do not like highly seasoned sandwiches. For the hearty eaters of the group liking their meat well-seasoned - salami, liver sausage, or cervelat might win their appetites. Roast meats, chilled and sliced, will add a delicious variation to the platter, too. Smoked ham, roast pork loin and roast beef are some special favorites.

Reba Staggs, well-known meat expert, emphasizes that cold meats must be refrigerated - so keep them wrapped tightly and stored in the coldest part of your refrigerator, just as you do other cooked meats, until you are ready to serve.

Along with the meat cuts be sure to include a choice of breads. Raisin sauce accompanies ham, so why not supply raisin bread with "boiled" ham? Add rye, whole wheat, white and potato bread for other choices. Potato salad is at the top of the list of excellent accompaniments with ready-to-serve meats. Right in line with potato salad comes kidney bean salad and cole slaw brightened with slices of radishes. Crisp relishes, celery, green onions and olives always add a final touch to a picnic-like supper. Of course, for the finale, peach shortcake gets the nod. Topped with whipped cream, this dessert is one that everyone likes.

August Calls For Party Breakfasts

A summer party breakfast calls for a brunch menu. Brunch is neither breakfast nor lunch but a delightful combination of both.

It's a wonderful time to have company. The summer day is still cool and preparation for this type of meal is quite easy.

Begin the morning with honeydew melon wedges garnished with red and black raspberries or blueberries. Follow fruit course with pork sausage links and some orange-nut muffins. These muffins are especially good if served with honey butter or orange marmalade: coffee or milk complete this party brunch. . . and look how easy it'll be to prepare.

When preparing these tiny pork sausage links, make sure you follow these directions suggested by Reba Staggs, well-known meat expert.

Place the sausage links in a heavy frying-pan with 2 to 3 tablespoons of water. Cover closely and simmer for 8 to 10 minutes. Then uncover and brown lightly on all sides.

Pork Sandwiches Good Picnic Fare

No matter where you go for a picnic - to the beach, the park, a roadside table, or aboard a boat - you'll need lots of big, meaty sandwiches. Picnickers want lots of hearty food to satisfy their ravenous appetites, and sandwiches made with meat help satisfy such appetites. Meat sandwiches provide minerals and vitamins necessary for maintaining good health, too.

One sandwich filling which is nutritious as well as good tasting is roast pork. Slice thin pieces of the cooked roast and place them between slices of white or whole wheat bread. Spread the meat with pickle relish, chili sauce, or mayonnaise, if you prefer. To assure crisp lettuce for the sandwich, wrap a few leaves separately and add them at serving time.

HAM CRUSTIES - Looking for something different? Here it is - ham salad served in a crusty hard roll. It's an excellent choice when a hungry family comes in from playing and from gardening. It is also handy to take along on picnics, as it is easily wrapped.

Molded Egg Salad Gives Hearty Dish

While some egg salads may lean slightly toward blandness, this one certainly has enough dash to lift it from that category. Molded in lemon flavored gelatin the chopped eggs are enhanced by a variety of chopped vegetables and by authoritative seasonings such as Worcestershire sauce.

To give a creaminess that's particularly pleasant along with the eggs a cup of evaporated milk is added to the mixture, which is in nice contrast to the crispness of the chopped celery and green pepper.

Sliced juicy tomatoes and crisp potato chips would be ample to complete a menu that includes this hearty main dish salad.

MOLDED EGG SALAD 1 package lemon flavored gelatin 1 cup boiling water 1 cup evaporated milk 1/2 cup mayonnaise 2 tablespoons vinegar 1/4 teaspoon salt Few grains pepper 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 6 hard cooked eggs, peeled and chopped 1 cup diced celery 1/2 cup diced green pepper 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento 1/4 cup pickle relish Empty gelatin into a medium size mixing bowl. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool slightly, then stir in milk slowly. (Appearance will be

Ham Crusties Answer The Picnic Call

MENU Ham Salad Crusties with Lettuce, Onion Relish Tray Baked Beans Fresh Fruits Cupcakes

Iced Tea During August, sandwiches are sure to be a popular item in your meal planning for either lunch or dinner because they are practically a meal in themselves.

Why all the fuss over sandwiches during August? Sandwiches have become so important in modern day living that the month of August has been set aside as "Sandwich Month."

If you're looking for a different sandwich to carry along on the picnic, one that is tasty but still one that can be easily wrapped and carried, try ham salad in a new style. Ham Salad Crusties - a crisp, hard roll, cut in half lengthwise and generously spread with a flavorful ham salad mixture - is the main item of attraction in this picnic basket special. If you do not have your own favorite salad mixture, perhaps you'd like to try this refreshing ham salad sandwich filling. It'll win smiles of satisfaction from members of your family - watch and see.

To prepare, combine 2 cups of ground cooked ham with 1/4 cup finely chopped celery and mayonnaise to moisten. Ground leftover beef, pork or lamb may also be used. Spread this mixture on the halved hard rolls and top with onion rings and lettuce. The rest of the picnic basket will be filled quickly when you add relishes, a pot of baked beans or potato chips and a dessert, like fresh peaches or pears, and cupcakes. A large thermos bottle of iced tea is almost a must for this menu.

Remember this picnic suggestion the next time you're heading for your favorite picnic spot. Often it's smart economy to cook more meat than will be served at one meal so there are really "planned" leftovers. There's a challenge in making leftovers palatable and appetizing - and they're time savers, too, and what home-maker isn't looking for a time saver when preparing meals during the warm summer months. Ham is one of the popular meats cooked with a possibility that there may be leftovers. In addition to making ham salad, try adding diced ham to scalloped potatoes, potato salad or scrambled eggs. Use the ham salad mixture to stuff tomatoes as a main dish salad. Have you ever tried creaming ham with diced hardcooked eggs, and sliced mushrooms? This is an easy breakfast meal to prepare during the summer. Keep some of these suggestions in mind and make meal preparation the easy part of your day.

Corn Pudding Dish Is Company Treat

Try corn for a main course vegetable casserole that is satisfying and delicious. This corn pudding can be made with either fresh or cooked corn, so if you've cooked more sweet corn than you can use, cut it from the cob, refrigerate it, and use it next day in this wonderful corn and mushroom combination. A No. 303 can holds exactly 2 cups. . . if you'd like to use canned corn.

COMPANY CORN PUDDING 6 strips bacon 2 tablespoons minced green pepper

2 tablespoons minced onion 2 cups fresh or cooked corn 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs 2 eggs, beaten 1-3 cup milk 3-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms 1 teaspoon salt

Fry the bacon until crisp. Remove from fat and drain. Cook green pepper and onion in 2 tablespoons of the bacon fat, over moderate heat, until the onion is tender and yellow in color. Mix onion and green pepper together with the corn, bread crumbs, eggs, milk, contents of the can of mushrooms and salt. Add bacon which has been broken into pieces. Pour into buttered casserole, 8" x 2". Top with additional buttered bread crumbs, if desired. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., until pudding is set, about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

'52 Demo Platform Accepted Separate Treatment Of Races

By LYLE C. WILSON
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION
 HEADQUARTERS, Chicago (UP)—
 The difference between the Democratic party's 1952 civil rights platform plank and what this year's version surely will be is simply this:
 The 1952 plank accepted the theory of separate, but equal, treatment of the races.

The 1956 plank will plunk for integration—no more separate treatment, equal or not. The language of the 1956 plank may be a bit involved. The Supreme Court and the decision on integration in the schools probably will not be mentioned by name. But the effect will be the same.

The court's decision scrapped the separate but equal theory which the 1952 platform accepted. Powerful forces in this convention are determined that the Democratic party shall acknowledge that major shift in the balance of the whole race relations controversy.

Humphrey Raised Issue
 To understand what is happening here it is necessary to go back to the 1948 Democratic National Convention. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota brought the race relations controversy to the convention floor that year. His plank was adopted over the angry protest of Southern Democrats.
 But that developed the so-called Dixiecrat bolt which broke the solid South away from a Democratic presidential nominee as it never had been broken before.

Humphrey's plank was regarded as wild-eyed radicalism by Southerners and some others. It sought federal legislation to secure to everyone:
 1. Right of equal opportunity for employment (a fair employment practices act).
 2. Right to security of person.
 3. Right of full and equal political participation.

4. Right of equal treatment in the service and defense of the United States.
1948 Plank Goes Further
 Four Southern states withheld their full electoral votes from President Truman in protest against those proposals. Four years later, in 1952, Southern spokesmen on the resolutions committee proposed to re-adopt that plank as a defense against a broader proposition which they saw coming and feared. That manuver failed, and the 1952 Democratic plank went considerably further. It called for legislation to protect existing civil rights statutes and for vigorous federal action on behalf of civil rights. The 1952 platform also urged a change in the Senate rules to prevent fillickers against civil rights bills.

The South didn't like the 1952
 Democratic plank, and the Eisenhower-Nixon Republican presidential ticket broke the solid Southern front.
History Repeating Itself
 History is repeating itself here this week. Former Gov. John S.
 Battle of Virginia is suggesting that the party this year re-adopt the civil rights plank of 1952. Battle is a member of the resolutions committee. Insofar as he speaks for the South, the Southerners are again proposing to go back four years to a distasteful plank in preference to taking what they fear will hit them in a new one.

 Battle would still like the 1952 plank toned down a bit. He would accept it as is, however, and so would the South as a whole. The opposition would come from the North and East.

But that apparently is not to be.
 Since the 1952 plank was hewn
 the Supreme Court has knocked out the separate but equal theory of treatment of the races. The North and East want that action
 acknowledged.
 The South would be comparatively happy this year to go back to the hated planks of either 1948 or 1952 on civil rights. This convention is not likely to do that.

 North and East want that action
 acknowledged.
 The South would be compar-

But that apparently is not to be.

 the Supreme Court has knocked

Matter Of Weapons

When World War I ended, a widespread and popular revulsion against war as a means of settling disputes was clearly discernible.

This philosophy found its base in the development of a weapon so horrible that mere words cannot adequately describe it.

Gas as a combative agency and technique had been used in the closing days of World War I.

What the advocates of this theory failed to see was that gas, despite its dreadful consequences, is not a "good" weapon.

So World War II darkened the horizon and involved the peoples of the earth.

And it should be noted that it was not man's humanness which prompted the abandonment.

Thus the dreadfulness of a weapon proved no deterrent to war.

We are now madly racing to arm ourselves for World War III.

And since then has grown up a philosophy that we must stop all wars because use of this terrible weapon is just too evil to contemplate.

But now the question must be asked: Are we preparing for the wrong kind of war with the wrong kind of weapons?

Again we can rule out the idea that any sense of humanity or decency has deterred the war lords.

Perhaps we are making the same error we made before when we stockpiled supplies of poison gas.

Peace can only come when men are free. The evidence of history shows us that wars and slaves are made by governments.

Teacher For 26 Years Tells Why She Quits Government Schools

In the last issue I was quoting from a 13-page letter written by Amanda I. Whiteside, teacher for 26 years in a Syracuse, New York school.

I quoted from some of the quotations she objected to in the textbooks that were used in the Syracuse schools.

It is evident that the National Education Association has been successful in preventing any outside educational matter being used in government schools.

Mrs. Whiteside quotes from a book called THIS GENERATION by George K. Anderson and Eda Lou Walton. She writes:

"And then, on page 13, we find how much worse off we were than Great Britain: 'Beside the febrile course of events on this side of the Atlantic, the history of Great Britain during the past 30 years is much more placid, more orderly...'"

After she had given quotation after quotation out of these government school books showing tendencies toward collectivism rather than individual responsibility, she observes:

"Why Are There Such Books In The School Room?"

"The above sampling from the material available in the reading books in use at Eastwood High School seems to support the thesis that there is a conscious, deliberate movement on the part of a certain element of the teaching profession to change America into a collectivist state by means of indoctrinating the children in the schools.

The progress made by these educators who aimed at changing America through the schools was indicated by a survey that Dr. Ralph Robey made in 1940 of 90 per cent of the social science textbooks used in our schools at that time.

Dr. John L. Childs had not changed his views in 1950. He then said: "We must develop a more sensitive regard for the cultural aspects of human existence, and be prepared to support a vastly extended program of community services. This, in turn, means a frank commitment to the 'welfare state,' and to the planned organization of the productive enterprises of our country."

"Many American boys who were taken prisoner by the Reds in Korea were able to be brain washed by the Communists simply because of the failure of our American schools to give them plain, understandable, and emphatic testimony on the merits of American institutions.

"The Senate's 51-41 defeat of that scheme ruined the Rayburn-Chenoweth deal. It automatically doomed Ike's Frynigan-Arkansas project and the Dewey-Moses Niagara River project.

Had it not been for eight Southern Democrats, headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Richard B. Russell of Georgia, the Hell's Canyon Bill, and possibly neverthe less condoned by silence, never was there any notification to me that I was breaking school regulations, nor did such a thing occur to me.

"Am I not justified in speculating about the cause of the sudden change in attitude toward my work? Could not the present wave of criticism against me really be aimed at my out-of-school activities, such as my opposition to Freedom Agenda, fluoridation, and UNESCO, as expressed in my letters to the papers, pamphleteering, etc?"

"One law which I broke without knowing that it existed was that I must not use material composed by me as teaching material. I have been breaking this rule for a great many years. I have spent untold hours of labor preparing outlines and other teaching material for my classes, and reproducing it. To my knowledge many other teachers are doing the same thing. Indeed I have often seen advertisements of various duplicating processes for teachers to use for this purpose.

"On June 21, 1956, the superintendent sent me a letter with the directives to guide me in making the necessary corrections in order to continue to teach in the Syracuse public schools. In this letter he said, 'The use of your own text last fall was in direct violation of acceptable ethical procedure in the school system...'"

"This end (discrediting her) has been accomplished by setting up of new directives which my conscience will not permit me to follow.

"With great regret, I have now brought my teaching career to an end. Amanda Whiteside Mrs. John E. Whiteside

Adlai To Have Tough Time Forming Platform

WASHINGTON — Adlai E. Stevenson's forces will have a difficult time in framing a platform satisfactory to liberals and independents as a result of backstage deals negotiated by Northern and Southern Democrats during the recent session of Congress.

It is doubtful if any recent Congress participated in so many trades, swaps and bargains under the legislative table.

Back in 1953, in Ike's first year, the tidelands oil bloc from Texas, Louisiana and California got non-Southern votes, Democratic and Republican, for State rather than Federal development of these valuable properties.

Had it not been for eight Southern Democrats, headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Richard B. Russell of Georgia, the Hell's Canyon Bill, and possibly neverthe less condoned by silence, never was there any notification to me that I was breaking school regulations, nor did such a thing occur to me.

"Am I not justified in speculating about the cause of the sudden change in attitude toward my work? BID FOR A SMILE

In a certain New England village where the Sunday school attendance was small, lived a young widow who had taken quite a fancy to the minister. She could see that he also cared for her, but was evidently too shy to say anything.

Widow — So do I. Why tonight, every time you said "dearly beloved," I—I positively blushed.

A well known tenor had received an enthusiastic reception and was standing in the lounge after his performance. The people flocked around him, and he was hard put to acknowledge all the compliments showered upon him.

Finally an elderly duchess simply overwhelmed him with praise: "Duchess—Your singing took me back to my girlhood days."

Singer — Really, I had no idea my voice would carry so far.

Another deal casts doubt on the sincerity of Northern Democrats in backing the Civil Rights Bill—principally, Senators Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

If this liberal trio did not know of the backstage maneuvering on this measure, they are almost the only members of the Senate in such a state of ignorance.

Southern Senators agreed to vote for confirmation of Simon E. Sobeloff as a Federal Judge in return for the promise of the Senate's Majority Leader, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, that there would be no vote — no showdown on the Civil Rights Bill.

The Dixie bloc accepted Sobeloff, although they dislike his pro-integration sympathies.

Mac Doesn't Envy Turkish Newspapermen

By HENRY McLEMORE

ISTANBUL — As much as I love being a newspaperman, and as much as I would hate to give up the business, I do not think I would care to be a member of the Fourth Estate in Turkey at the present time.

To judge from the conversation I have had with half a dozen or so reporters on Istanbul newspapers, there is a job that is good for an ulcer a day, plus the unhappy prospect of having the ulcers treated in a jail, not in a hospital.

The main cross the Turkish newsmen have to bear — in fact, the only cross — is Prime Minister Menderes. Turkey is a Republic, to be sure, but at the moment the Prime Minister is running the country with an iron fist, and he likes to bang it on the noses of newspapermen.

Menderes has ruled that it is unlawful for a newspaper to print any news that is detrimental to the nation, and a heavy fine and a jail sentence awaits the offenders. To have to wear a muzzle, to keep quiet and act as though blind to happenings which are common knowledge to Turkish and tourist alike, is bad enough, but there is an added factor, probably the worst of all:

There is no set of rules governing what is and what isn't detrimental news. That is decided by the government after it reads the news. What isn't detrimental today, may be considered detrimental tomorrow, and vice versa. This really calls for reading the mind of the men who call the shots — and there apparently is no limit to what may be considered harmful.

A paper got in trouble for running a picture of a queue forming to catch a bus, on the grounds that it indicated a weakness in the transportation system.

I asked a reporter how it was decided what to run and what not to run so as to stay on the safe side, meaning the outside.

"It is driving all of us what I think you people call nuts," he said. "When we go to work in the morning and say goodbye to our families, we don't know whether we'll be eating dinner at home or in jail. We pray to Allah before each edition."

Every newspaperman I talked with expressed a hatred of censorship, but all wanted that as long as the government was going to regulate news, it would be so kind as to make clear what was punishable and what wasn't. The wear and tear of the suspense is terrible.

To an American, such a situation is incredible. No newspaper at home would put up with such a thing, for the simple reason that the people wouldn't stand for it. Why is it that the people of so many countries put up with such actions by their leaders? They couldn't like it. And surely resistance wouldn't result in their all being shot or thrown in jail.

Men who tried to enforce such laws at home would be laughed out of office. No one would take them seriously. Our reaction would be to say, "Listen, you joker, who do you think you are? Napoleon? What do you take us for, suckers and chumps? You run home and cool off. The heat's got you."

Really, it might be a good idea for some countries to laugh at those who suddenly become little gods. That's why I have secretly wanted the U. S. to ask those two swilling Russians over for a visit. I am quite sure the vast majority of Americans would only laugh at them. Thank goodness we still feel in our country that any man, no matter who he is, still has to pull on his trousers one leg at a time, like all the rest of us.

I don't know what should be done to those who call other people names without sufficient knowledge. It is true that an infant can be born with pneumonia since this disease can be acquired within the womb. This is a tragic, but fortunately, an unusual event.

A SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY has written that he is greatly troubled mentally by the fact that one of his testicles is twice as large as the other. He indicates that he is in good health but a year earlier contracted mumps which kept him in bed for nearly four weeks. He does not, however, remember which side was involved.

There is a possibility of hydrocele or something else. Expert medical advice should be sought to determine what, if anything, needs to be done.

ANOTHER TEEN-AGE BOY ask how he can overcome the habit of constantly biting his nails. This is a common failing and has not proved particularly easy to cure.

I have before me a pamphlet from the director of guidance, Roosevelt Military Academy, Alton, Illinois, who has developed a treatment for this over a 10-year period.

There are several factors in nail biting, but in most cases it can apparently be overcome by a combination of attention to personal problems and painting the fingers and thumbs with an unpleasant tasting chemical right after breakfast for a period of four weeks, he says. The real problem, however, is to improve emotional maturity and to make each boy take responsibility for his own cure.

I cannot vouch for this treatment but I would guess that the guidance director at a boys' school would have more experience with this problem than anyone else.

A CONFECTION PREPARED FOR THE KING of England, who decreed that it be kept a secret forever, is now the most popular frozen food in the world.

NO WONDER Charles I of England wanted to keep the recipe for making ice cream to himself. It is literally a dish "fit for a king."

Although Charles pensioned his French chef with 500 pounds a year to keep the recipe for "frozen milk," as the king called it, a secret, it had already been divulged by the time Charles was beheaded in 1649.

The chef has been faithful to his trust, possibly because some illustrious and gustatory nobleman offered a more substantial bribe for the recipe, or perhaps because the gossipy chef could not keep such a good thing to himself.

When the English colonist came to America, they brought with them the technique for making ice cream. A letter written in 1700 tells of ice cream served at a dinner given by Governor Bladen of Maryland.

President Washington kept two pewter ice cream pots at Mount Vernon and later bought a cream machine when he was in Philadelphia.

Ice cream was difficult to manufacture in the early history of the country, so for many years it was a rare dish, available only to the wealthy.

When Dolly Madison's servants made the ice cream served at the inaugural ball, they had to beat it

MOST BEAUTIFUL Spanish chicken dish is created with the technique shown step by step in drawings above.

COOK'S NOOK

Meet This Spanish Lovely, Jeréz Paella Is The Name

By JAYNOR MADDOX NEA Food and Markets Editor Just before he left for Spain, we asked our friend William E. Massee to bring back the finest recipe for chicken he could find in that sunny land. Bill is an amateur gourmet and wine expert. Now he is back and here is his treasure for our column.

It's the most beautiful of all chicken dishes, he says, and is simple to make and can't go wrong. It's a perfect family dinner, based on that classic of Spanish cuisine called Paella (iron pot) and is made on top of the stove by broiling a chicken, then tossing in the other ingredients. Its light and delicate flavor comes from the few tablespoons of Spanish sherry - a dry, full-flavored Amontillado, or a still fuller, less dry Oloroso. The wine blends the flavors of the various ingredients. This dish is named after the town of Jeréz, where all great sherrys come from.

Jeréz Paella (Serves 4) One-quarter cup olive oil, 1 medium sweet onion, chopped fine, 1 large garlic clove, crushed, 1 3-pound broiler chicken, jointed and floured, 1 cup pre-cooked rice, 3 bouillon cubes, dissolved in 2 cups boiling water, 4 tablespoons Spanish Sherry, 1/4 teaspoon powdered saffron, 12 plump, fresh cleaned shrimp, 12 fresh clams, 12 slices spicy dry sausage, 6 thin strips pimiento, 6 thin strips green pepper, salt and pepper to taste, 1 package frozen peas.

In a 4-quart casserole or iron pot, heat 1/4 cup olive oil. In this saute until transparent onion and clove of garlic. Next brown the floured pieces of chicken in the oil. Remove chicken temporarily, then saute rice in the oil for 5 minutes, or until it begins to brown, adding another tablespoon of oil if you need it. Add chicken bouillon and sherry to the rice. Sprinkle in powdered saffron. Stir, then replace the chicken, along with shrimp, sausage (preferably hot Spanish or Italian sausage) and clams, still in their shells. Planning Meet Held By Opti-Mrs. Club

Plans for a rummage sale, to be held Sept. 8, were made at the meeting Tuesday of the Opti-Mrs. Club in the home of Mrs. Ed Lowrance, 1038 S. Faulkner. Mrs. Newt Secrest, president, led the meeting.

During the business session, Mrs. Sharon Haralson, rummage sale chairman, reported she is investigating possible locations for the sale.

The Christmas bazaar was discussed and Mrs. Clifford Dunham reported on the purpose and activities of the Council of Clubs. Mrs. W. A. Gipson reported on plans for entertaining wives of Optimist members during the Optimist Club zone meeting, to be held in Pampa in October.

The program, arranged for by Mrs. Lowrance, included two accordion solos each by Miss Diane Burnett and Miss Connie Sue Edwards.

The door prize was awarded to Mrs. D. L. Tucker, who is moving to Lubbock this week.

Attending were Mmes. Clay Crossland, Nicholas Kadingo, John Schoolfield, Ed Lowrance, W. A. Gipson, Newt Secrest, Gerald Sims, Sharon Haralson, Cliff Dunham and Denver Tucker.

When he arrived, he was a very sick dog. He was also a very endearing one. On the evening of the third day, he came over to me, crawled up on my lap, closed his eyes and went to sleep.

Later, when the new owner we had found for him came to drive him home, my child endured the ordeal of goodbye with astonishing poise. When I mentioned it she said, "If we had kept Riffy, he would have been your dog, Mother. He'd have gotten to like you better than me because you looked after him while I was away at school all day."

Recently in this column I suggested that if children cannot take the major responsibility for pets, they should not be given them. A reader finds this a "cold-blooded" attitude.

I think it only seems so. Actually, it is impossible to "give" a child a pet he doesn't look after. For it can become his only as the animal learns to count on him for food, discipline, protection, nursing. If the child cannot render the pet these services, he loses it to the adult who can.

He is deprived of his kitten or dog, not through physical separation but through alienation of loyalty promised to him - and which he cannot earn.

This kind of separation can be a hurtful experience. It's not easy to be told the new puppy is yours - and watch it licking the hand of the parent who's fed it. Your expectations of first loyalty are crushed. Your joy in the puppy begins to give way to the resentful feeling, "My parent is more attractive and lovable than I am."

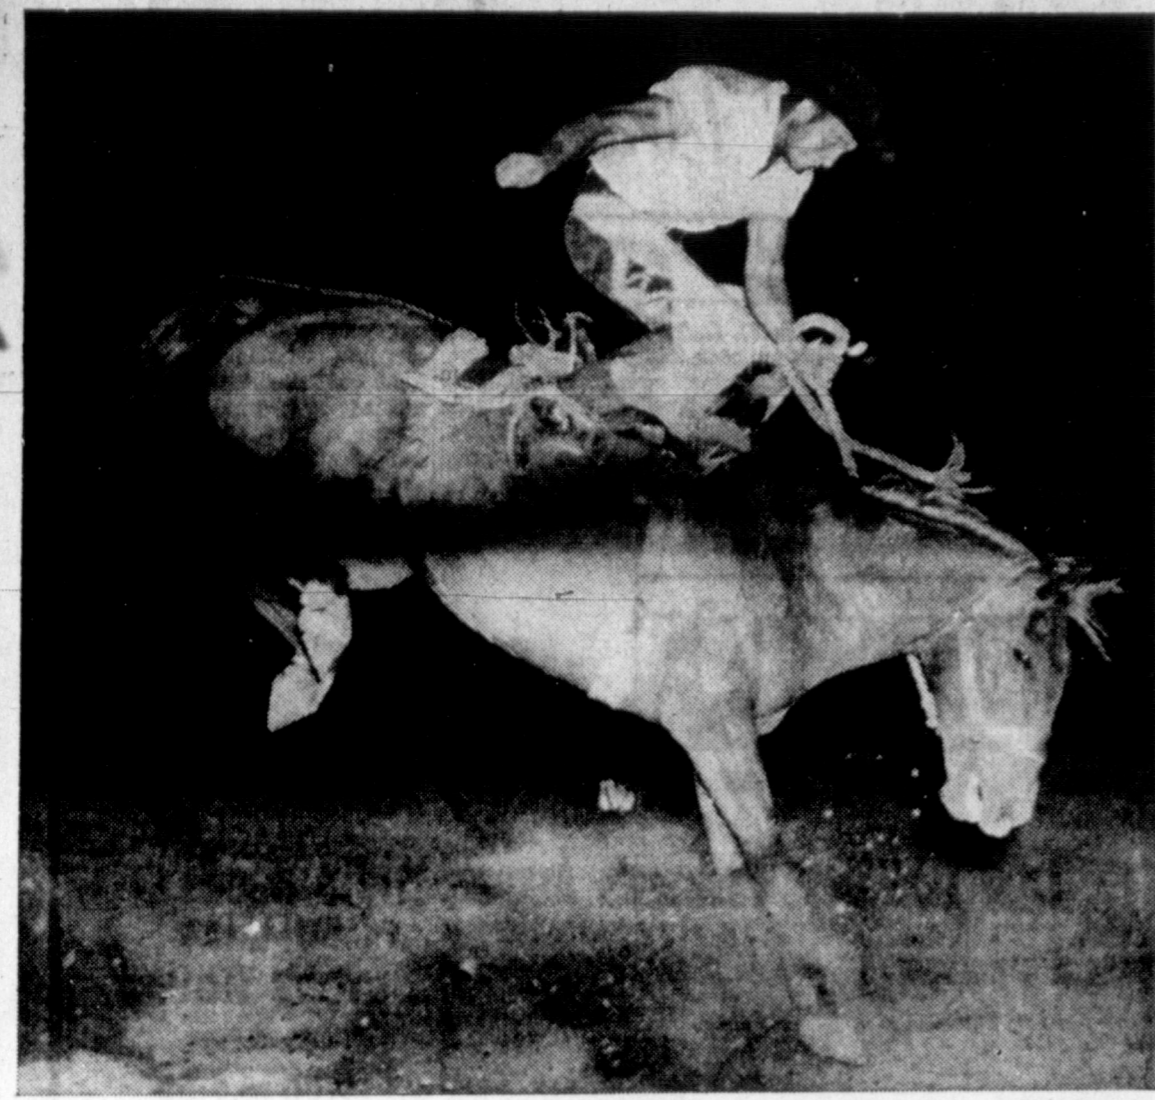

So if we have a youngster who cannot look after a pet, it's not necessarily kind to pretend he can by calling it "his." The kind thing may be to acquire the pet as a family possession - and avoid arousing expectations that can't be realized.

Daniel Says State Hasn't Coped With Water Problem

By UNITED PRESS
U. S. Sen. Price Daniel says that the state government has failed to "come to grips" with the mounting water problem and pledged if he is elected governor he will meet the problem head-on.

Daniel and his opponent for the job, Ralph Yarborough, campaigned on opposite sides of the state today. Daniel moved westward out of East Texas stopping at Canton, Terrell, Dallas, Irving and Fort Worth.

Yarborough breakfasted at Midland and then was scheduled to fly on to El Paso. Wednesday, he stopped in Sweetwater, Snyder, Colorado City, Big Spring, Seminole, Seagraves, Denver City, Andrews and Odessa, and held a night rally at Pecos.

It was at Tyler Wednesday night that Daniel pledged to act on the water crisis in Texas, and "guaranteed" that if he is elected governor the electorate will be responsible "completely" for choosing his successor in the Senate.

Gulf Waste Cited
"The state has failed to live up to its responsibilities to help farmers and ranchers and the towns and cities now facing a critical water shortage," he said. "The burden rests squarely on our shoulders to stop this waste into the Gulf of Mexico."

He called attention to his five-point water conservation program. Then he denied he had "made any deals" to name his Senate successor. He said he would resign if elected governor and the voters will have a free choice to pick a new senator.

"That is my guarantee. Any statements, rumors or insinuations to the contrary are unfounded and blatantly untrue," he said. He predicted victory for himself in the Democrat runoff Aug. 25, and at Snyder Yarborough in turn predicted he will win.

Yarborough said he only was quoting J. Evetts Haley, a Canyon Tex., rancher-historian, when he accused Daniel of paying a "backdoor" call under cover of darkness on Gov. Allan Shivers before announcing for governor.

Six in First Vote
Haley, one of the six candidates to make the race for governor, was eliminated in the July 28 Democrat primary. None of the six got an absolute majority, and so the two leading candidates, Yarborough and Daniel, were thrown into a runoff.

"Mr. Haley said he got his information from the man who drove the junior senator from the privately-owned plane at the Austin airport to the governor's mansion," Yarborough told his Snyder audience.

"The junior senator made no denial of the Haley charge during the first primary campaign. Now he makes a vague denial by saying he hasn't talked to Shivers in a long time. I'll take the word of historian Haley in preference," he said.

Tom Moore Jr., Waco district attorney, said in Abilene he is being opposed by "greedy monopolies" which know he has dedicated himself to protecting the small businessman. Will Wilson of Dallas, Moore's opponent for attorney general, said he is applying to the people alone for the job.

Jesse James expressed appreciation to Texas voters for "the splendid vote of confidence" given him in his successful bid for reelection as state treasurer. He pledged that every future effort will be to justify this trust.

It cost Sen. Daniel $167,122 to campaign for the votes that landed him in first place in the July 28 Democrat primary. An expense report showed contributions of $184,459. Yarborough reported spending $104,507, and contributions of $104,639.

Yarborough listed debts totalling $35,030. W. Lee O'Daniel said he spent $41,371 and received gifts of $7,060. Reuben Senterfitt reported he spent $38,195 and contributions of $37,833. Haley and J. J. Holmes did not report their expenses.

Finders Were Not Keepers This Time!

NEW YORK (UP)—A weary wrecking company employee said Wednesday he always thought "finders were keepers" and that's why he roared out on a free-wheeling weekend to celebrate his finding of an unexpected treasure.

Pearly Dickens, 40, told police he was helping demolish an abandoned house in mid-Manhattan Friday and was prying some bricks from a fireplace "when down came all this money" in $100 bills. About $4,000 worth, police estimated.

That ended the house-wrecking for the day and started the biggest and best party Dickens had ever seen. He said he ran out and bought $60 worth of whiskey and beer and brought it back to the work site.

Police entered the case Wednesday after the FBI received a telephone tip about Dickens' largesse. Officers informed Dickens and his fellow workers that the law requires the finder of property to turn it in to authorities within 10 days. If the lawful owner does not claim it within 90 days, the finder may claim it.

Mrs. Dickens sadly brought $2,300 to police headquarters in a cloth bag.

Chinese Revolt in Three Places

TAIPEI (UP)—Large-scale revolts against the Communist regime have broken out in three different areas of China, Chinese Nationalist sources reported today.

Reports circulating in Formosa said there was fighting between Communist troops and rebel forces in Tibet, Western Szechuan Province and in Mongolia.

Nationalist authorities called for "active assistance" for the uprisings in Tibet and Mongolia but disclosed no details of what type of assistance was planned.

Reports from anti-Communist sources in Hong Kong said the Mongolian revolt centered around Dragon Head Mouth Mountain in northern Mongolia and that fighting still raged.

Capt. Liu Ho-Tuh, the Nationalist military spokesman, said he had no firm information on the reported revolt in Mongolia but other sources said the revolt came over religious matters.

Nationalist accounts said the Chinese Communists interfered in Mongolian religious matters and that the fighting began.

Communists in Mongolia were ordered to cease interference for the time being, the reports said.

Nationalist accounts said new tension was created in Mongolia by the arrival there of Chinese settlers.

Chinese Communist interference with Buddhism in Tibet was reported to have touched off a series of revolts there that began many months ago.

South Sizzles!

By UNITED PRESS
The South sizzled in a prolonged heat wave, severe thunderstorms hit northern Missouri and Southern Iowa and an unconfirmed tornado struck the town of Centerville, Iowa.

The Weather Bureau reported that "a tornado or strong winds" hit Centerville near midnight Wednesday night, uprooting trees and tearing down power lines.

Windows were smashed and a roof was blown from one building. The only communication from the town was through a state highway patrol car which was blown off the highway. No deaths were reported. A thunderstorm dumped four inches of rain on Rockport, Mo., and downed power lines.

Elsewhere in northern Missouri, gusts up to 77 miles per hour lashed Kirksville and winds near 50 miles per hour hit Kansas City.

In Texas and portions of Kansas and Oklahoma Wednesday, temperatures pushed into the high 90s and up to 100.

A continuing drought in the Southwest left some areas with a rain deficiency up to 10 inches for the year thus far. Dallas, Tex., which should have had a normal total of 22.56 inches, reported only 12.46 to date.

The city contracted for a cloud-seeding operation to promote rainfall, but there have been too few clouds.

U.S. weather forecasters said widely scattered thunderstorms over the Southern Plains would extend eastward today to the southern Appalachians and northeastward, and would become general through the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley.

McKeon Offered Part In Film

PARIS (UP)—American movie producer Darryl Zanuck said today he has offered Marine Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon his own role in a film, "Parris Island."

Zanuck said he was in touch with both McKeon and Secretary of the Navy Charles C. Thomas and that his representatives have proposed to McKeon that he play his own role in the production.

McKeon was sentenced to nine months at hard labor and a bad conduct discharge for "negligent homicide" and drinking. Six recruits drowned when McKeon led them on a night march into a swamp.

Also riding along with the cowboys was the local TV favorite of the kids, The Plainsman.

Accompanying The Plainsman was Sally Skelton of Hereford, trick rider featured at this year's rodeo.

The most typical ranch entry in the parade was one entered by the Haycock Ranch. In the division for commercial entries the Lone Star Hitch of miniature ponies took first place with the Model T delivery truck entered by Mead's Bread taking second place.

The float entered by the Pampa Shrine Club took the honors in the civic club and organization division.

Bobbie Lee Andis, 1710 Mary Ellen, was chosen as the most typical cowgirl in the parade with Jennie Hopkins of Pampa taking second place honors and Reta Joe Lewis, 1317 Frederic, taking third place.

In the most typical cowboy division first place went to Sam Moore of White Deer. Winfred A. Maddox was chosen as second and The Plainsman from Amarillo was third.

The most comical entry was the Koland wagon which had a pink peedie as an occupant.

Taking honors in the best decorated bicycle division of the parade were: Marion Branson, 1st place, and Bill Branson, 2nd place, both of 629 S. Ballard; and Larry Brooks, 810 Wilks, 3rd place.

The riding club considered by parade officials as the best one entered in the parade was the Wheeler County Sheriff's posse.

Several of the commercial floats pleased the kids in the crowd by tossing them candy. Several free-for-all resulted as the kids attempted to acquire their share of the candy.

One of the highlights of the parade was two boys dressed in boxing gloves and trunks riding unicycles.

It's all over but the memories will continue until the downtown section of Pampa is once again invaded next year by herds, ridden by cowgirls and cowboys, in the Rodeo parade.

The storm over Stevenson's civil rights statement of Monday seemed to be blowing over.

He disappointed or angered Southern delegates, most of whom were ready to support him, by saying he hoped the party platform would carry "unequivocal approval" of the Supreme Court decision against racial segregation in schools.

James A. Finnegan, Stevenson campaign manager, said the statement might "possibly lose a few" Southern delegate votes but that he had heard of no defections. He stuck to his prediction that Stevenson will pull over 400 of the 560's votes needed for the nomination and would win on the first or second ballot.

Harriman Also Hopeful
Almost at the same time, Carmine Despio, Tammany chief and master strategist of the Harriman campaign, predicted a fourth ballot nomination for the New Yorker. He claimed 350 to 400 convention votes for Harriman and conceded no more than 450 to Stevenson.

Jurors Hard To Get In Trial

BOSTON (UP)—Defense challenges, which have blocked any admittance to the jury box, stymied progress in the trial of eight men accused of looting a Brink's money vault of $1,219,000 six years ago.

A total of 39 prospective jurors, 19 of them Wednesday, have been challenged by attorneys defending the men charged with the nation's biggest cash robbery.

In all, nearly 200 veniremen have been disqualified since jury selection began Tuesday. The steady volley of defense challenges was expected to delay trial testimony for at least two weeks.

Only a handful of spectators have appeared at the grey, brick Suffolk County Courthouse despite the sensational pre-trial publicity. Heat and monotonous legal exchanges drove all but three from Wednesday's session.

Rotarians Hear Musical Program

Yesterday's entertainment at the Pampa Rotary club consisted of a variety of musical presentations.

The Amarillo Air Force band, under the direction of Lt. Milton Stern, presented several German band numbers and this was followed by several selections by the Brown brothers of Borger.

The feature attraction of the day was Smiley Burnette who presented a series of his own musical compositions.

Visitors and guests of the club were Bob Bradburn, Bill Hardy, Joe Autry, Dale Stone, K. I. June, Cleo Wilson and L. A. Mayhew.

Segregation May Be A Demo Fight

By WILLIAM M. BATES
United Press Staff Correspondent
DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS, CHICAGO (UP)—Rep. Charles C. Diggs (D-Mich.) said today liberal Democrats may make a convention floor fight if necessary for a platform specifically endorsing the Supreme Court's anti-segregation decision.

Diggs, Negro congressman from Detroit and a member of the platform committee, said he is prepared to "fight all the way" for a strong civil rights plank. Diggs has endorsed Gov. Averell Harriman for the nomination.

He said he would not "pre-empt" the action of the carefully chosen 15-member drafting subcommittee. But he said a minority report is already being considered if the platform committee declaration does not include outright endorsement of the integration decision.

If this happens, it would clear the deck for a bruising floor fight on the explosive civil rights issue which already has southern Democrats edgy. They bitterly oppose specific mention of the Supreme Court.

Floor Fight Likely
Diggs' raised the prospects of a convention fight after southern unrest, sparked by Adlai E. Stevenson's call for a strong civil rights plank, had been somewhat soothed.

The southerners are staking their hopes that the platform writing group will be able to come up with compromise civil rights language acceptable to both sides. Five of their contingency are members of the drafting group.

Stevenson's call for a plank endorsing the segregation decision shocked and angered the southerners—most of whom were leaning in his direction. Stevenson's camp sought to soften his stand and claimed they had lost only a "handful" of votes at most.

Former Gov. R. J. Jeffries of South Carolina challenged Stevenson to help get a civil rights plank acceptable to the South if he wants to recoup his lost southern ground.

Injustice Seen
He said the "injustice done to the South" could be "corrected" by the candidate's friends on the platform committee. If the platform finally adopted is acceptable, Jeffries predicted the South would probably close ranks around Stevenson. Otherwise, he said, Diggs' votes would likely go elsewhere—perhaps to Gov. George E. Bell Timmerman of South Carolina, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas or Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Diggs told a reporter he thought a "minimum" platform requirement was an "unequivocal stand" on the Supreme Court decision and that it should be endorsed in so many words. He said there could be no compromise on the issue.

"We believe that if the issue is taken to the floor, we will win," Diggs said.

Concern Is Expressed Over Polio

CHICAGO (UP)—Authorities expressed concern today about a decrease in the number of children returning for second Salk vaccine inoculations in Chicago's offensive against a record polio outbreak.

"The responsibility is in the hands of the parents," said Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the city Board of Health.

Eighteen park district swimming pools and five wading pools were closed Wednesday as the all-out campaign continued to prevent a polio epidemic as the peak of the polio season approached.

Bunden and other health officials were disturbed in the drop-off reported in second inoculations at hospitals, clinics and offices of physicians. It was reported the amount of vaccine distributed dropped 18,000 doses Wednesday from 80,000 daily average since the beginning of the polio outbreak. Bundesen blamed lethargy and indifferent parents for the decline.

"The situation may become critical," Bundesen said, "unless parents bring their children in for their second and third shots when they are due."

He also urged parents again to get their children started immediately with the polio inoculations if they already have not done so.

There have been 430 polio cases this year so far and 15 deaths from the disease, to make 1956 the worst polio year on record in the city.

Ike Signs The Ticket Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill cancelling the 10 per cent federal excise tax on tickets to movies, plays, concerts, sports events and similar amusements costing 90 cents or less.

Previously the exemption was 50 cents. Increasing it to 90 cents will cost the treasury an estimated $60 million a year in revenues.

The bill—signed Monday—was sponsored by Rep. Cecil R. King (D-Calif.) and backed by theater owners whose business has been hit in recent years by the advent of television. King said it would "save 5,000 movie houses from going out of business."

The President also signed bills that:

—Permit the Atomic Energy Commission and colleges and universities to buy atomic reactors for training scientists. Also make it a federal offense to trespass on atomic energy installations or smuggle weapons and other dangerous items into such areas.

OPELOUSAS, La. (UP)—The St. Landry Catholic Church sold a 250 by 257 foot piece of land today for $45,000. The land was valued at $400 when it was donated to the church in 1855.

Solitary Car Confinement
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Felix C. Barron charged Hugh Sanders with malicious mischief Tuesday because Sanders had wrapped a heavy log chain around his car and padlocked it. Sanders told Judge Beverly Boushe he did it because the car was parked in a lot reserved for customers of his toy shop. The judge dismissed the case because, "I can't fine Sanders without considering trespassing charges against Barron."

Oscar Levant Gets Fired For Ad Libs

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Oscar Levant has been fired for the second time off local television because of racy ad libs and cracks about Richard Nixon, but Oscar's downfall will result in viewers around the country at last getting a censored version of his jokes. Levant's station and his carpet sponsor pulled the rug out from under the wit after his final show featured some ad libs about Marilyn Monroe that brought howls of laughter from the studio audience. But it also brought some objecting phone calls and letters from viewers.

The producers of the show, the Ross-Danzig agency, came up with a solution: Film the show, clip out the double entendres and syndicate it around the country.

Levant admits that might not be such a bad idea because even Levant agrees Levant is unpredictable.

"I always am dumbfounded at my ad libs," the pianist said.

"I'm like a middle-class James Joyce. I never know what I'm going to say. I was a little out of line on my last show. It was shocking. I was stunned."

The sponsor also cringed at Levant's weekly jibes at Nixon such as, "We have had the age of the common man. Nixon embodies the age of the commonplace man."

More Levant cracks that broke the sponsor's back: "There's no truth to the vicious rumor that Nixon suggested installing a 10th century painting with roses on the Paris green ceiling in Eisenhower's bedroom."

And, "Nixon is a man of enormous charm. God knows he needs it."

Levant claims he was only trying to be amusing. So do several viewers who protested his being fired.

Oscar needed others on his show, including himself. Once he called himself "the intellectual equivalent of Elvis Presley." Presley he dubbed "a young man with built-in agony." Another night he said "I'm not a celebrity—I'm a worldwide figure."

Levant brooding in his office at MGM studio today, lamented that the irony of his being canned for racy ad libs is "I'm the most cultural person of anybody on television."

"I'm in here, being brainwashed!"

"I threw them an imitation peanut!"
