13 Known Dead

113 Miners Still In Trap

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (UP)—A rescue crew today heard "tapping" at the 3,400-foot level of a coal mine where more than 100 miners were trapped by an explosion of deadly coal gas.

So far, there were 13 known dead in the disaster that struck the mine late Thursday.

The rescue men said they rapped eight times on a compressed air pipe and received eight raps in return. Then they tapped five times and were answered by five.

They said they were not sure whether the answering taps came from above or below them. But the exchanges were regarded as a hopeful sign that some of the men caught in the disaster might still be alive.

Seven Die

Five men were killed in the explosion and two volunteers died during rescue work. Five bodies were recovered or sighted in the mine, and one man injured in the explosion died early today.

That left 113 miners trapped below ground, making the possible toll 125.

The explosion smashed the mine equipment and crews toiled today to set up a new hoist to speed their work.

Two of the seriously injured were taken to a hospital in Hall, Texas today by Navy helicopter.

George Caldwell, manager of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, told a reporter as dawn began to break over this bleak town of 8,000 persons "There is still hope but only a faint hope, that the men are alive."

Anxious Crowds Wait

Caldwell would not commit himself further. But crowds of quietly sobbing wives and children, and old men who worked in the pits in their youth, milled around beside cranes and hoists at the pithead refusing to believe some could not be saved.

Several persons were near the scene when the explosion occurred. "It was just like an atomic bomb," said 39-year-old Ed Cameron.

"The burst mushroomed up with one big bang. My brother was in the mine. I got straight down there in my car. The place was all in a mess."

"There were six inch timbers splintered to bits. I saw the first man come out. All the hair was burned off the top of his head. They (rescue workers) had stripped off his clothes because they were burning. He was naked when he returned to Pampa. (See MINERS, Page 3)

Senior Citizens Have Meet

Members of the Senior Citizens Center brought crafts and hobbies to the meeting Thursday in the Lovett Library to put on display and to explain to other members.

The event was also a party honoring those with birthdays in September, October and November. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to the seven persons honored as they stood before the birthday cake. Each was given a rose decoration from the cake and a piece of cake to take home to sleep on. The Altrusa Club, which sponsors the center, also gave each a birthday card in which a hand-printed book marker was enclosed.

Altrusa Club members serving as hostesses were Mrs. Bob Mack, chairman and Mrs. Juanita Suttie, Mrs. Gerie Foster and Miss Jay Flanagan.

It was announced the team of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris won the competition for the day of who could have the most team members present.

Assisting with providing transportation for the senior citizens were Pampa Gray Ladies.

Speed Up Of Hotel Sales Force Urged

The general sales campaign force for the community owned hotel held a special meeting this morning in Cabot Auditorium for the purpose of speeding up the process of organizing the general sales group.

Philo Dix, campaign director, outlined the work of the sales force and explained the necessary personnel. Following the discussion by Dix questions of the workers were answered by various directors and officers of the hotel group.

Fred Neslage, general sales manager, reported that 62 salesmen had been secured for Men's Section and 29 saleswomen had been secured for the Women's Section. These people are in addition to three division managers and 12 group managers in each section.

At a meeting in the campaign headquarters yesterday afternoon managers of the five groups within the executive committee met to outline work to be done at the noon luncheon meeting today of the New Hotel Executive Committee.

At the meeting today in the Palm Room the executive committee organized for the sales effort. The five groups were seated at separate tables and evaluated prospective subscribers that have been assigned to various members of the group for contacting for stock subscriptions. They tried to estimate the amount of stock each prospective subscriber would possibly purchase.

The general sales group will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in the Palm Room for an instruction meeting for all workers. Fred Neslage, manager, requested that all persons who have agreed to serve on the general sales force make plans to attend this meeting.

Soviets Return To Budapest

By RUSSELL JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent
BUDAPEST, Hungary (UP)—Two fresh divisions of Soviet armor were reported rolling toward Budapest today in spite of Hungary's protests. Soviet armored forces surrounded all Hungarian air bases.

The heavy Soviet troop movements triggered a new wave of fear, blackouts and alerts across revolution-torn Hungary and its shattered capital city.

Russia dispatched the fresh divisions into Hungary Thursday despite Premier Imre Nagy's protests to Soviet Ambassador J. B. Andropov and sent Soviet units already there into alert positions around Hungarian air bases.

From Romania and Russia

Informed sources said the Soviet reinforcements crossed into Hungary from Romania and Russia.

The nationalist - controlled radio at Nyregyhaza, 40 miles from the Russian border, said Soviet troops built pontoon bridges over the Sajó River apparently to bypass the main Budapest approach through Miskolc, one of the strongest anti-Communist strongholds.

Nyregyhaza radio said the Soviet troop movements touched off fears of hostile air attack. It said military councils at the major eastern cities of Debrecen, Miskolc and Szolnok ordered precautionary blackouts.

A spokesman of the Western Hungarian Revolutionary Council at Győr, 80 miles west of Budapest, said it was believed the Soviet reinforcements were moved in to replace units weakened in the seven-day battle of Budapest.

Some rebel estimates suggested as many as several thousand Soviet troops were killed and many more wounded by snipers, freedom fighters and rebel Hungarian army units.

Nagy moved quickly Thursday in case the Russian maneuvers meant more than mere replacement of weakened occupation forces.

Warsaw Alliance Denounced

He denounced Hungary's membership in the Warsaw Military Alliance and declared the nation's neutrality—then asked the United States, Great Britain, France and the Soviet Union to "protect" this neutrality.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (UP)—Monarchist Bela Varga, a refugee Hungarian leader, said here today that Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy has resigned and that Zoltan Tildy has succeeded him. There was no immediate confirmation elsewhere.

The refugee Hungarian also said Nagy has left the Communist party and is co-operating in the fight for a free Hungary.

Nagy also called U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld requesting an immediate hearing of Hungary's case in the General Assembly where Russia would have no veto power.

Ike And Adlai Clash On Foreign Policy

By UNITED PRESS
President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson clashed in a crucial battle today on the Middle East crisis and conduct of U.S. foreign policy, the final and key issues of the 1956 presidential campaign.

The President lashed out Thursday night at Stevenson as a political opportunist trying to get into the White House by taking a "political profit" in the Middle East fighting and offering the nation a "design-for disaster" in the guise of a peace plan.

Stevenson charged the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Thursday night with "catastrophic failure" to prevent war in the Middle East.

Both spoke over national television and radio networks, the President from Convention Hall in Philadelphia, and Stevenson from Buffalo, N.Y.

The President spoke for 28 minutes in his final "big" speech of the campaign before a crowd of 18,000. Frequent outbursts of applause crescendoed to a climax when he declared against U.S. use of force, not only in Egypt, but in Poland and Hungary.

The President said he has been "undisturbed by the strident voices of those few who seem to be seeking to turn world events to a political profit." It was his most pointed dig at Stevenson.

In Buffalo, before a crowd of 14,000, Stevenson centered his final campaign drive on the President's "failure" to prevent war in the Middle East.

Stevenson's address, delivered on free television and radio time, was his reply to the President's TV-radio speech Wednesday night.

He declared the "condition which confronts us is stark and simple—our Middle East policy is at an absolute dead end." The fighting now going on, he said, "reflects the bankruptcy of our policy" and has given Russia "two great victories."

He renewed his charge made several times in recent days that the administration has tried "systematically" to conceal the truth from the American people.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, campaigning in Pittsburgh, Pa., called on Stevenson to say whether he favors sending American troops to the Middle East. He charged that Stevenson is "confused" by the Middle East situation.

Sen. Estes Kefauver charged in Boston that "delays, bumbling and plain duplicity" by the administration in its Middle East policy have contributed a "tremendous diplomatic victory" to Russia.

UN Assembly Demands Fight Stop

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The United Nations General Assembly today approved overwhelmingly an American-sponsored resolution demanding that Britain, France and Israel stop fighting against Egypt.

The measure called upon Israel to withdraw its troops promptly from Egyptian soil and urged Britain and France to halt the movement of military forces and arms into the embattled area.

The vote was 64 to 5, with 8 abstentions. Britain, France, Israel, Australia and New Zealand voted against the resolution. Belgium, Canada, Laos, The Netherlands, Portugal and South Africa abstained.

Only a Recommendation

But the resolution is only a recommendation — the General Assembly, unlike the Security Council, has no power to enforce the demand. And both Britain and France served notice they would reject the resolution because it "does not meet the situation."

Britain contended it was forced to act because the Soviet veto in the Security Council prevented other action to halt the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

The action was taken by the first emergency assembly session in the 18-year history of the United Nations. The session was called by the Security Council over British and French protests that it was "illegal." Britain and France earlier vetoed an American ceasefire and withdrawal resolution in the council.

Dulles Heads Delegation

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who flew from Washington to lead the U.S. delegation in the grueling all-night session of the assembly, presented a resolution differing in several respects from the one vetoed in the council.

The council measure called for cease fire and withdrawal and urged all countries to refrain from the threat or use of force in the Middle East. This would have thwarted Anglo-French plans to move troops into the Suez Canal Zone.

The measure approved by the assembly contains essentially the same provisions, but there were some additions.

Egyptian Air Force Virtually Destroyed

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—France announced today that Anglo-French planes had virtually destroyed the Egyptian air force, and an Allied landing was believed near in defiance of a United Nations appeal.

A spokesman for the French defense department said the Allied planes had destroyed or irreparably damaged 105 Egyptian aircraft including 16 Russian-built twin-engine jet IL28 medium bombers.

"The Egyptian air force is practically out of action," he said.

In addition the Israeli air force has reported shooting down 14 Egyptian planes and damaging ten others to bring the total to 129. In addition four Egyptian warships were knocked out.

Egypt Claims Five

Egypt has claimed five British planes, four French and 18 Israeli planes destroyed.

An Anglo-French communique issued on Cyprus today said widespread bombing raids "continued all night against Egyptian airfields in the Delta and canal area" of Egypt.

It said a high proportion of the Egyptian aircraft hit were MIGs and that there also was a heavy toll of Soviet-built bombers.

The French spokesman said the Egyptian Air Force never made an offensive attack against Anglo-French aircraft and that it was always the Allies who attacked first.

Canal Approaches Blocked

A British and French naval task force sealed off the northern and southern approaches to the Suez Canal today to establish unchallenged supremacy to all sea approaches to Egypt.

Military censorship surrounded all moves of the combined fleet but it was believed the troops with it were ready to launch an immediate strike on Egyptian soil once the word is given.

Israel, which reported a major victory in the Sinai Desert Thursday between the Suez Canal and the Israeli border, reported today its troops had captured the Egyptian base of Gaza and El Arish, 50 miles to the west.

Air Assault Intensified

There was every indication the Anglo-French aerial assault against Egypt would be pressed even harder despite the U.N. General Assembly's appeal for a cease fire in the Middle East.

The British government's requisitioned "Voice of Britain" on Cyprus today warned residents of Port Said, Cairo and Alexandria to keep clear of radio transmitting stations "for your own safety."

The emphasis in the past has been on bombing airfields and other military installations. It appeared now the Anglo-French command was turning to communications and an effort to end Arabic propaganda broadcasts.

Conflict Believed Spreading

There were indications the conflict in the Middle East was spreading despite U.S. and U.N. efforts to keep it under control and to end it.

The Beirut newspaper Adiyar reported today that Iraqi troops had entered Jordan at that country's request—A move previously denounced by Israel as a threat of open war. There was no official confirmation of the report.

Another Victory Claimed

By ELIAV SIMON
United Press Staff Correspondent
JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Israel announced today the Egyptian border city of Gaza had surrendered to Israeli forces in another major victory for the Jewish army.

Israeli troops immediately seized command of the road to Port Said, a coastal route that had been earmarked by the Egyptians for an escape.

A second Israeli force was reported attacking the Egyptian base at El Arish, 50 miles west of Gaza, to cut the escape route for troops and terrified Arab refugees.

The spokesman said the troops had "entered" El Arish.

BULLETIN
TEL AVIV, Israel (UP)—Israel announced today that her forces were now in control of virtually the entire Sinai Peninsula following the capture of the two Red Sea islands of Tiran and Senabahr.

El Arish is west of Gaza along the Mediterranean coast towards the Suez Canal and well past the Egyptian military base of Rafah reported taken earlier.

Penetration Undisclosed

The army spokesman said Israeli army forces had "entered" El Arish, 50 miles west of Gaza, but he did not say how far they had entered into Gaza, a town of 40,000 persons now choked with Arab refugees.

The spokesman reported continued advances in the central Sinai Desert where Israeli forces were reported in virtual control of the huge sandy waste lying east of the north-south Suez Canal.

"There have been a large number of attacks by Fedayeen commandos in the Negev, who blew up a number of water pipes," the spokesman said. "All other borders are quiet."

British Route Followed

The Israelis, in moving into the Gaza Strip, were moving along the route travelled by British forces invading Palestine in World War I, but in reverse. The British invaded Palestine from Egypt and the Israelis were going the other way.

Near Capacity Crowd Enjoys Concert Here

Duo-piano work definitely took an upward turn last night as a near capacity crowd gathered in the Junior High School Auditorium to hear Alfred and Herbert Teitschik perform.

The two brothers, from Houston, thrilled the appreciative audience with their splendid technical work and their thorough understanding of the selections.

They opened the program with a selection by Johann Sebastian Bach called "Sheep May Safely Graze." Both men exhibited the best traits in portraying the epochal music Bach wrote. They brought out the intense harmonies and the vastness of poetic expression that is so common in almost all of Bach's music. They followed this tone - painting with a number entitled Themes and Variations by Rozsa — with a Teitschik arrangement. Here, for the first time, they demonstrated why they are at the high peak along the concert trail as they skillfully ran through this technical work with 20 fingers all moving in a euphonious and graceful manner.

Darius Milhaud's "Scaramouche" suite was the next offering and it too was graciously received by the now enthusiastic audience. The Teitschik arrangement of this lovely melody is predominant here as both pianos take equal part in the music.

Prior to the intermission, two of the more popular concert pieces were given full treatment as they moved through Rachmaninoff's Night of Love from Fantasia and (See CONCERT, Page 3)

CoC Committee Completes Survey On Service Here

According to the survey made recently by the Merchants Activities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the city of Pampa is forging ahead steadily with much potential left for exploitation.

Out of the 1000 questionnaires mailed out by the committee to a trade territory of Pampa, 35 per cent were returned. The questions and answers received therein show the following: The average span most families have lived in Pampa is 17 years, with an average of four persons in each family. Out of all those asked if they liked living in Pampa the almost unanimous answer was yes. Of the itemized list of city departments, (i.e. the police, fire, school, etc.) all but a negligible percentage felt that they were doing an outstanding job in the performance of their duties. One of the questions dealt with what these persons felt Pampa's greatest needs were. According to a tabulation and listing of answers, the top twenty listings were:

- 1.) A new hotel; 2.) a community and youth center; 3.) an underpass; 4.) improved streets; 5.) a municipal golf course; 6.) recreation for old citizens; 7.) more police officers and cars for the department; 8.) more employment for women; 9.) shoe stores; 10.) marked traffic lanes; 11.) rest rooms and lounges in stores; 12.) a city bus line; 13.) suburban shopping centers; 14.) a zoo; 15.) a YMCA and YWCA; 16.) a municipal auditorium; 17.) better zoning by city; 18.) more eating places; 19.) airline service; 20.) a good nightclub.

These are just a few of the suggestions made in this survey in relation to their importance to the number of persons answering the questions. Some perhaps might be more necessary than others, however, E. O. Wedgworth, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that these are some of the things that are being worked on and that Pampa will have in the not too distant future, should the pattern of progress continue on as it has been going.

Wedgworth pointed out that at present one of the biggest undertakings is now underway in the attempted procurement of a new hotel which headed the list of questions, and added that with the completion of this project there would come others to this city which is moving steadily and increasingly in population, business and progress.

$700 Taken In By UNICEF

Over 300 young people from 16 churches in the Pampa area participated in Halloween night's "trick or treat" to bring in a total of $700 for the UNICEF program. The program has been sponsored by the Council of Church Women and the Pampa Ministerial Alliance.

Sunday School children from the first grade on through to the senior year in High School went "trick or treat" this past Halloween for the purpose of collecting funds for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund which provides milk for thousands of the world's hungry children.

Rev. William E. West, treasurer of the Ministerial Alliance has announced that the fund is not closed yet, and that all persons wishing to contribute any amount to this cause of helping the world's hungry children may still do so by calling MO 4-8994.

County Accepts Road Bids

The Gray County Commissioners Court yesterday accepted a bid for $392,322.59 from the Bob Baker Construction Company of Brownwood, on bridge and road construction to be done in the county. This bid was accepted from among ten offers which ran from $500,000 down to the figure accepted.

The projects to be undertaken are: the Cantonment road and bridge; the Denworth road and bridge; the Turkey Creek bridge and approaches; and the Boher road and bridge.

Other business taken up by the commissioners was the payment and acceptance of bills, and the empowering of the county judge to sign quick-claim deeds to mineral interests which might lie under certain roads in the county. The commission is scheduled to meet again on Nov. 12.

Traf-O-Teria

Boxes tampered with at parking meter posts are being tampered with and the envelopes are being damaged, Jim Conner, chief of police, stated today. It is not known if any of the money paid for over parking has been taken from the boxes but evidence indicates that someone has been trying to remove the envelopes by pulling them through the slot in the lid of the box.

Several of the envelopes taken from the box this morning were badly mutilated and Conner reported that steps would be taken to apprehend those persons that are responsible.

Europe Unrest Could Unify Germany

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The wave of unrest in Eastern Europe may have brightened chances for serious negotiations with Russia on German unification and European security, diplomatic sources said today.

They reasoned that the Soviet bosses may at long last figure it would be better to negotiate a neutral belt through central Europe than run the risk of having bitterly anti-Soviet regimes spring up in the region.

Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles apparently have hopes along this line. Both went to pains in recent addresses to assure the Soviet Union the United States does not want regimes hostile to Russia set up in central Europe, but rather would like governments friendly to both the Soviet Union and United States.

The hope is that Russia will drop any fears that the United States is seeking military partners in eastern Europe. If that happens, the Soviet Union might feel the time is ripe to negotiate a unified German and European security pact.

The satellite disturbances also make Russian lines of communication unreliable now. The Russians no longer can count on Eastern European armies to fight for them. The East European Warsaw Pact is fast weakening.

At the same time, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has been struck a serious blow by the British and French attack on Egypt without consulting other NATO partners.

The result is that in a sense a buffer zone already is developing between Russia and the United States. This may persuade the Soviets the time is ripe to negotiate.

Other business taken up by the commissioners was the payment and acceptance of bills, and the empowering of the county judge to sign quick-claim deeds to mineral interests which might lie under certain roads in the county. The commission is scheduled to meet again on Nov. 12.

Workers Are Idle Due To Strikes

By UNITED PRESS
Some 32,000 workers were idle today due to a number of strikes, but bus service was restored in 18 states with a settlement in the Eastern Greyhound Lines dispute.

Meanwhile, negotiators for the nation's railroad and 11 non-operating unions agreed Thursday night on a long-term wage settlement. The agreement was announced by the National Mediation Board and called for a wage boost spread over three years.

An agreement also was reached with seven major daily New York City newspapers by the New York City Guild, but three Cleveland newspapers were closed by labor disputes.

Terms of the Greyhound agreement ending an unofficial one-day strike were not disclosed immediately. But Federal Conciliator Harry Young said the union committee planned to recommend unanimous adoption of the new contract.

The largest single strike in the nation has kept 21,000 workers from either jobs at eight Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. plants in Ohio, Iowa, Tennessee, California, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Indiana.

Knife, Fork Club Meets Tomorrow

The Knife and Fork Club will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Dr. J. R. Donaldson, president of the group, has said that the doors will open promptly at 7:10 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30.

The speaker for this affair will be Dr. Will Durant, who, according to Dr. Donaldson, is one of the finest all around educated men in the United States today.

Dr. Durant is the author of a best seller which sold over 3,000,000 copies in the time it has been out. The name of this book is the famed "Story of Philosophy". He has also written several other books yet not published. Among these are "The Age of the Reformation" and "The Age of Reason."

He received his formal education in North Adams, Mass., St. Peter's of Jersey City, and Columbia University.

The deadline for the purchase of tickets was at 1 p.m. today, Dr. Donaldson said.

Engineers Confer Here

Three engineers from the Amarillo office of the Texas Highway Department were to meet with city officials and city engineers this morning, Fred Brook, city manager, reported.

The purpose of the meeting was not known locally but Brook stated that the engineers probably would discuss coordination of work between the city and state on the construction of the Hobart Street underpass.

One Collision Reported Here

One collision which occurred within the city limits yesterday was reported to the local police department for investigation.

The collision occurred at 3:35 p.m. on Frost, 110 feet south of Montana. Virginia Brook, 1905 Wilkison, driving a '58 Ford, was in collision with Mary Ann High, 921 N. Somerville, driving a '55 Cadillac.

Damages to the Ford were estimated at $225 and the Cadillac encountered damages estimated at $75.

One Residence Permit Issued

One permit for the construction of a new residence in Pampa was issued by the city engineer's office yesterday.

The permit was issued to R. E. Darsey for the construction of a residence at 2307 Duncan with the approximate cost given at $25,000.

Street Paving Set This Month

The City Engineers office reports that there is, at present, no construction of any sort being done in the city.

The next contract will come up Nov. 30. At that time, 11 units of paving will be done on an extension of E. Fraser, northeast of the city. The contract is valued at between $50,000 and $60,000.

Anglo-American Diplomats Hassle Over Egyptian War

WASHINGTON (UP)—Additional details have come to light on how British diplomats kept American diplomats in the dark about plans for military action against Egypt.

The British maneuvering has been protested strongly, and cables still are humming between Washington and London trying to get things back on the track after a virtual complete breakdown in diplomatic contact.

As reconstructed by American authorities, here is what happened:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles became alarmed at the ominous signs of trouble building up in the Middle East. Envoys in London and Paris were asked to find out what was going on.

Power Play Slips By
When they made contact with the British and French foreign offices, American diplomats got no inkling that a big power play was shaping up. And some information obtained now is described as "misleading."

Recently, according to American sources, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd passed the word to Dulles that he planned to see him in advance of the Nov. 12 meeting of the UN General Assembly.

The purpose of the meeting, it is said, would have been to discuss a "peaceful" solution of the Suez crisis. Dulles took this as a sign that Lloyd was not thinking in terms of using force.

Lloyd also is said to have passed up opportunities in talks with U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich to keep the United States abreast of developments. Aldrich had been seeking information on an urgent basis.

Lloyd conferred in London with Aldrich Monday morning—the day before the British and French started military action against Egypt.

The British diplomat complained about American plans to put the Israeli aggression against Egypt before the UN Security Council. But he gave no hint, officials said, that a military move against Suez was under consideration that day.

CONCERT

the beautiful Blue Danube Waltz written by the Waltz King, Johann Strauss, with a magnificent Abram Chasins arrangement.

After the intermission, the duo came back to play some contemporary music written by an American, Paul Creston. His Choric Dance Number II is one of five dances which he wrote for the piano in 1932. Although the musical content was not up to par, never once did the Teltshik brothers fail to excel in their work. A Mendelssohn Rondo followed and this lovely piece of music was reeled off with an appetizing and invigorating pace.

An original by the Teltshiks followed and they continued to show their mastery of music as they put together an interesting sketch entitled "The Characters, who were a Harlequin, Columbine and Pantaloon. This was performed without a flaw—as the technical work of these two young artists again shined forth proudly.

To close the concert, number by Stravinsky, the "Danse Infernale from The First Bird," a Waltz by Arensky and Liszt's "Variation On A Theme By Paganini," entitled "La Campanella," all brought a tumultuous ovation from the crowd when the concert was over.

For encores, the Teltshik's played "Malaguena" and "La Comparaasa" by the great South American composer Ernest Lecouana, "Sabre Dance" by Katchaturian and "The Rustic Samba," composer unknown.

(New York Herald-Tribune) British diplomats "have been confronted (by the United States) with evidence that British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd gave a deliberately misleading account of events to America's ambassador in London, Winthrop Aldrich."

They said Dulles on Tuesday, showed a British diplomat here an account of what Lloyd had told Aldrich the day before. This was after word of the British-French ultimatum to Egypt and Israel had been received in Washington—through press reports.

Lions Honor "Monarchs"

"Old Monarchs" of the Pampa Lions Club were honored at the noon luncheon meeting of the club yesterday.

The term is used by Lions Clubs throughout the world to denote those members who have served Lions Clubs for various periods of time.

Honored as 25 year Monarchs were Ralph R. Thomas, Charles Thut and Ray C. Wilson. H. D. Balthrope received a certificate for 20 years of service.

Those recognized for 15 years of service were Ray F. Kuhn, Irl F. Smith and Frank Stallings. Ronald Hubbard, C. E. Kennedy, H. M. Lums, Sam Malone and W. D. Waters were given certificates of 10 years of service.

The Lions welcomed Miss Cynthia Duncan as club sweetheart for the month of November. She was introduced by Miss Wadee Thomasson who was club sweetheart for October.

Miss Thomasson was presented with a compact by Calvin Whatley, president, in behalf of the club. Miss Duncan was inducted as sweetheart by Jimmy McCune in the usual Lions' method.

The program for the meeting was presented by Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who introduced Dr. McFerrin Stowe, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Oklahoma City.

Dr. Stowe spoke to the group on "Take What You Want In Life, Take It But Pay For It."

He pointed out that everything a person receives or achieves in life has a price that must be paid by the individual. He pointed out that to be a success and be respected a person must be absolutely honest.

Dr. Stowe concluded by stating, "You can sow goodness and greatness and you can reap these things."

Inevitable Results

There are three reports on the governmental educational front which should prove enlightening.

The first covers a speech made by Charles E. Kettering, one of the nation's great living inventors known as "the grand old man of research" at General Motors. Mr. Kettering, who is 90, addressed a few words to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in Chicago recently.

The gist of Mr. Kettering's comment could be summed up as follows: "Beware of the worship of conformity and standardization in schools!" According to Kettering, "Education today is too specialized. If a kid has any originality, we knock it out of him. We want him to read only one page of the encyclopedia when he should read the entire book. It takes five highly specialized scientists to do the job now that one low grade fellow could do 20 years ago. The difference is that the low grade fellow would try anything."

In short, Mr. Kettering sees in our highly organized, governmentally supported scholastic emporiums an incipient danger. While trying to teach everyone something, we are in danger of teaching no one anything. Such a problem would not exist were this country supporting private and independent schools instead of permitting the tax collectors to dominate the educational field.

The second report is put out by the Gilbert Youth Research Company. This is the same poll taking firm which established recently that the average student, approaching his first experience as a potential voter is, in the majority, disinterested and disenchanted with the prospect.

This time, Mr. Young shows that the youth of the nation haven't more than a foggy notion of free enterprise and how it works. In the average teenager's mind, big business is a national villain, wallowing in unjust profits and dominating the American scene beyond belief. The results of this latest survey could almost as well have come from Soviet Russia.

Apparently the youth of the land, corralled and hogtied in our compulsive school system, think that most companies have a profit which ranges from 25 cents to 50 cents or more on every dollar of gross income. Actually, it is a most prosperous firm which can manage to accrue something like 12 per cent profit BEFORE TAXES, and there are many companies going along quite merrily with profits of 2, 3, or 4 per cent before taxes. "From these figures," the report states, "... it is obvious that youth has no conception of American industry and knows even less about the nature of stockholders."

So here are two strikes against our schools and the manner in which the politicians have dominated them and are controlling them.

Now comes report number three.

A new figure to conjure with has just been released by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The bold statistic reveals that by 1956-57, the nation's total school enrollment will reach an all-time peak of 41,553,000. This represents an overall increase in the number of students by 3.8 per cent.

Undoubtedly this figure will spur many a politician to labor even more diligently for more government in more schools, federal intrusion, increased taxes, and so forth. But, as opposed to this figure there is something else that ought to be known. This is, that while enrollment may have risen, the government is already taxing the American people for school purposes on the basis of 12 per cent more than it did before. In other words, while the increase in enrollment is 3.8 per cent, income for government schools has gone up 12 per cent and is well in advance of any additional requirements that could possibly be needed, assuming the money is being used for the purposes for which it was collected.

These three reports, viewed together, reveal a sorry picture for Americans, old and young alike. They show that our youth are being regimented and standardized, their genius stifled, their productive capacities curtailed. They show that our youth have not been taught the truth respecting the free enterprise system, which is one of the most important things any young person could possibly learn in school; and finally, they show that our politicians are being armed with a statistic so that more of the same kind of indoctrination and regimentation can be assured in the future. More than anything else we can see here that the American people are being taxed to death to provide mass training which is inadequate and faulty.

This is the inevitable result of political control of education. Before it is too late, we must realize that there are some areas of life in which the government operates like a bull in a china shop. Education is one of the foremost of these. We must hasten the day when politics can be ruled out of our educational institutions, so that all of these evils can cease.

The Inherent Rights Of Free Speech

I want to finish quoting from an address made by Henry Flood under the heading "The Welfare State Cannot Honor The Bill of Rights."

He shows how the government can interfere with free speech by various forms of subsidies. Here is the way Flood puts it:

"Inherent Right of Free Speech. Free speech (unrestrained criticism of government policy) is sacred because that is the only way by which officials are kept from becoming so corrupt that they destroy security. The conventional method for stifling free speech is the use of governmental favors."

"Free speech, therefore, does not function against corruption when the citizen is beholden, as he is today, to government for contracts, farms, credit, food, shelter, dotes and pensions. His survival depends upon praising officials for doing wrong. That accounts for the swing toward welfareism, and why it is so difficult to change the course."

"Inherent Right to Own Property. The sacredness of the right to own private property, especially business, rests upon the ground that a citizen is not free when he depends upon government for his daily bread. Fear of governmental wrath will keep him in line. Such dependence destroys the foundation of security — public welfare. That is why it was sought so earnestly in the Bill of Rights to protect and encourage private property ownership."

"It was expected that the qualified ballot would protect property rights. But the ballot has become a destructive influence. Office goes to the candidate who responds most quickly to the voter's complaint that the government is too slow taxing income and property. The removal of the voting qualifications opened the door for the Welfare State."

"Inherent Right of Worship. Freedom of worship is sacred. It provides for the individual a wide field of action over which government is not to have any jurisdiction. For that reason the Welfare and Totalitarian states are hostile to it. However, they overcome difficulties with it by seducing church leaders to become allies. That creates a combination by which they can readily suppress all inherent rights. The Russian government is moving in that direction."

"Government under the new taxation concept has taken over much church welfare work — caring for those in economic distress. The compulsory aspect of it, endorsed by the Church, will make a breach in the wall of separation of church and state."

"Unavoidable Limitation on Bills of Rights. Because of unforeseeable contingencies there always remains, no matter what Bills, Petitions or Constitutions provide, an area where sovereign power may, without limitation, seize, destroy, impair and kill. It is in such area, under the doctrine of governmental necessity, that officials find means and excuses to circumvent, wreck and nullify all the plans to protect inherent rights."

"Under that doctrine, war may create contingencies which will oblige an official, in his sovereign capacity, to disregard all limitations. In earlier days that prerogative, called the Divine Right of Kings, was reserved for actual war."

"But now all governments apply it also in peacetime. In simple language that means no limitation on the taxing power — the welfare state in disguise. That breaks down all the protections it was intended that the Bill of Rights should provide."

"Free Enterprise and the Bill of Rights. A Bill of Rights has significance only where private citizens, under open competition, own and conduct all the business of a nation. Under that rule there is little necessity for government regulations beyond preventing monopolies."

"That rule also contemplates that there will be restrictions on the ballot, that taxation shall be only for the usual functions of government, that officials shall hold office for a short period of time, that local government shall be emphasized, individual rights protected, and that the three branches of government be on an equal footing."

"Today legislators and constitution builders reject such concepts as being out-of-date. All of them subscribe to the welfare state concept — the right of government to compel the citizens to assume the obligation that no one shall be in want."

"Citizens have been thrown off guard by false assurances regarding the protective powers of Constitutions and Bills of Rights. "All one may say is that our Constitution and the Bill of Rights proved to be more effective than what was offered heretofore. But they were inadequate. Astute politicians, in the name of governmental necessity, managed to break every restraint that these instruments sought to enforce."

"That they believed such a course was the only way to save the country will not make the bitter water sweet when their folly overtakes them."

A Man Cannot Govern Home, Wants To Govern Universe

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CHICAGO — Mrs. Helen Borden Stevenson, the wife who bore three sons to Adlai Stevenson, divorced him after his election to be Governor of Illinois.

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

The origin of some of our common expressions is sometimes based on true fact and sometimes not. Q — I have often heard people say when they were under great emotional stress that they were "sweating blood." Is it possible for this to occur? —M. D.

A — It is not possible to sweat true blood. The sweat glands are surrounded by blood vessels, but it is considered impossible for the blood to escape into the secretion from the sweat glands, even under circumstances of the greatest emotion.

Q — Please say something about the role vitamins and minerals play in our bodies. A friend of mine who is in excellent health started taking them in the form of capsules a few weeks ago. Since I understand she eats well and likes all kinds of vegetables and meats, I wonder if she is not overdoing it. —Mrs. J. S.

A — I think it safe to say that there is no benefit whatever from a person getting more vitamins or minerals than they need for the physiological processes of the body. A well-balanced diet in a normal person generally supplies all the vitamins and minerals the body needs, though there are, of course, occasional exceptions. Excessive quantities of vitamins or minerals are generally eliminated without harm except to the pocketbook.

Q — I often arise in the mornings with my eyelids puffed up. What could cause this, and what can I do about it? I do about two to three hours' reading every night in bed. —H. H.

A — The reading in bed probably has nothing to do with the puffed eyelids. With such a symptom, it would be wise to undergo a thorough checkup, particularly as to the function of the kidneys. This could be a sign of serious disease. Q — I understand there is an instrument, which works on the vacuum principle, to increase the size and firmness of the breast. What do you think of this? —Mrs. S.

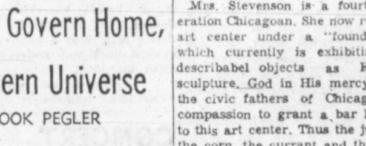

A — I have never seen evidence which convinced me that any instrument, successful or not, performs this function.

Q — Please discuss fatty tumors. Do they grow larger? Do they become malignant? What should be done about them? —S. E.

A — Fatty tumors, or lipomas, are common, and may be single or multiple. They may grow for a time, but growth beyond a certain point is unlikely. They do not become cancerous. In most cases they are left alone, though if they appear on a portion of the body which is subject to irritation from clothing or is conspicuous, they can often be removed successfully.

MOPSY

THE BOSS IS VERY OLD-FASHIONED. WON'T INSTALL A BUZZER SYSTEM.

After she kept her word to hold a still tongue and Adlai was elected governor, Mrs. Stevenson moved to her personal home at Libertyville, Ill. That was the end of the trail for her. She has three sons, Adlai, 26; Borden, 24 and John Fell Stevenson, 20. She thought Adlai imposed on them by having his picture taken with them in this campaign.

Young Adlai had to retire from the campaign because he is about to become a father. Borden is sticking it out. John Fell is still plugging along to Harvard, the family manger where the other two boys got spinned for the battle of life. Mrs. Stevenson thinks Adlai is the only witty man who has occurred in national politics since, perhaps, Lincoln. Bob Moses, of New York, is a wit, but he is also a confirmed also-ran in competitive politics. That sets him back in the rummage counters with Will Rogers.

In plenty of time before this year's Democratic Convention, Harry Truman asked a friend in Chicago to tell him more about Adlai. The friend described as well as he could Stevenson's social reputation.

It was after this that Truman blasted Stevenson as a fellow with no bally for a fight. Since the convention he has supported the party and the platform but not Stevenson, personally.

HEIDELBERG — Buy A Dog And Live Longer! This arresting headline in the London Daily Express jumped at me from a newstand on Heidelberg's Bismarckplatz the other day, and I bought a copy straight away.

Living is one of my hobbies. Besides, I hate the taste of medicine. The Dog-For-Longevity theory is the property (so said the Express) of Dr. George Roe of Halifax, Yorkshire, described as a "lean, tall, 10-stone" chap.

"Fat, middle-aged men should buy themselves a dog and live longer," Dr. Roe was quoted as saying. "The dog for walks in the evening; walk with him to the office instead of driving there in your car; and cut down on rich, fatty foods. That way you will stand a better chance of living to a ripe old age."

This sounded as if Dr. Roe were speaking directly to me. Could it not be more than chance that I, fat, middle-aged, and with a sweet tooth the size of a darning egg, spotted his message on a busy corner in Heidelberg, Germany?

I decided that it was — that a kindly Providence had placed me in just the right spot, at just the right time, in a faraway land across the sea, to receive the words of the Yorkshire medico.

Having thus decided, there was only one thing to do — buy a dog as soon as possible. But I couldn't very well do that. I already was the owner of a dog — the one and only Dilly, the girl bulldog to end all girl bulldogs. If she happened to hear that I had bought another dog in Germany she would be heart-broken, even before she was house-broken!

Besides, buying a dog in every country which one visits would be putting on the dog too much, even for a show-off like me. Even Alvy Khan doesn't go around doing that.

So I decided to borrow one. Godness knows, there are plenty of dogs in Germany. Every family has a dog, and some have two or three. This, despite the high tax and the high cost of food, I took for granted that a dog would be easy to borrow. After all, no one could refuse to lend a dog if he knew that by lending his pet it would add to the life of a fellow human being.

And I was right. The first German I found who spoke English, and who owned a dog, said he would be glad to let me have his dog for as long as I needed him. He wrote me a little note to show to his wife, and gave me directions to his home.

National Whirligig

The Attitudes Towards VP Will Not Decide Victory

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Reversing the historic system under which the No. 2 candidates on national tickets behave as virtual nonentities, the 1956 contest will be recorded as the "battle of the Vice Presidents," actual and potential. Although the Nixon-Kefauver kind of campaign indicates otherwise, it could be a needed and favorable political reform and development.

It is President Eisenhower's two operations, of course, which have thrown a stronger searchlight on the Vice President and his opponent, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. More than ever before, the voters have been asked to keep in mind that both men are potential Presidents.

Unfortunately, as of today, this concentration on the secondary candidates does not promise permanent constructive revision of the method of selecting men for this office. Both Nixon and Kefauver were chosen for practical political reasons, not for their basic qualifications.

In choosing Kefauver, and especially in view of the constant difficulties with Russia, the Democratic strategists at Chicago apparently gave no thought to his voting record on numerous internal security measures. It has been raised against him in many sections vulnerable or susceptible to this kind of attack.

It explains why so many Southern politicians and Members of Congress did not favor his nomination, for he lined up almost solidly against the Dixie representation on these questions. Most importantly, he opposed making the House Un-American Activities Committee into a permanent body.

Had his views prevailed, Alger Hiss and other espionage agents might never have been exposed and apprehended. Ironically, Nixon might not be the Vice President today, for it was his prominence in snaring Hiss that won him this honor.

Kefauver voted against an investigation of editors of the Amersia magazine, who were found to have in their possession hundreds of secret documents bearing on our Far East policy. He opposed the measure to create a Subversive Activities Control Board, which screens seemingly innocuous but possible "communist fronts."

When Truman vetoed the bill, Kefauver was one of only 10 Senators to vote to uphold the veto. Finally, he sponsored the movement to organize the "North Atlantic Union," with a vague idea of creating a "common citizenship" for all the nationalities that would have been fused into the organization. Even such a supporter of international causes as Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, pigeonholed this proposal.

Nixon is not under fire for his actual voting record so much as for his personality and his supposed philosophy of government. He is regarded as a political opportunist who gives only lip service to President Eisenhower's more liberal program.

Adlai E. Stevenson insists that he "cannot be trusted." In his House and Senate campaigns against former Representatives Jerry Voorhis and Helen Gahagan Douglas, respectively, he was charged with playing "dirty politics" and "hitting below the belt." Truman maintains that Nixon called him a "traitor."

Although he has had far more experience than Kefauver, the Californian is accused of being too young, too mercurial, not equipped for the Presidency, and too given to passing and momentary influences. He is, his critics contend, a reactionary, and will hand the GOP to the Old Guard faction, if he ever becomes President or the Party's actual boss.

The Vice Presidential struggle has generally been a "low road" campaign, at least on the part of the two men's admirers and detractors. But good may come of it, if it forces the politicians and the people to demand a high type of candidate for this hitherto neglected office.

I went to his house, but I didn't get the dog. There was a high fence around the yard, and a big sign which said, "Beware of the Dog!" From inside came sounds much like those you hear at a zoo around feeding time.

I peered through a crack and there stood the dog, half as high as Swaps, and with teeth the size of closthepins. One look at him and I was sure he liked rich, fatty foods, and would have given his spiked collar to have had a go at me.

He didn't bear any resemblance to a dog you could take along to the office in the morning. This dog was obviously against longevity in anyone but himself.

I am now on the look-out for a dachshund which I might borrow. Dachshunds are built along my lines, and walk about the same way I do. A walk to my office would be just about right for both of us, for my office is in my living room, or whatever room happens to have a table for my typewriter. The dachshund and I could take a brisk, thirty-yard walk in the morning, and a long, meandering one of say, fifty yards in the evening, and then go to bed exhausted, happy and healthy.

According to a recent news report from Washington, the Federal government issued 225 million checks to individuals in the fiscal year ended last June — and estimates that it will issue 226 million during the current fiscal year.

Nearly 22 million people, equal to nearly 13 per cent of the national population, are getting these checks for various kinds of payments from the Federal government.

An automatic machine in the Treasury's central disbursing office turns out these checks at the rate of more than one a second almost every working day. The machine is capable of shooting out checks at the rate of 100 a minute. But a new high-speed machine is on order. It will be able to spin out these blue-green checks from Uncle Sam at the rate of 200 a minute.

Used to be a government of checks and balances. Now it is mostly checks — and it is almost a miracle if anything balances.

Living Is One Of My Hobbies However, I Hate Medicine

Pampa News Women's Editor

THE DAY YOU BECOME ENGAGED is the day that romance and sentiment join hands and manifest themselves in that first important gift — your ring. But throughout your engagement period, and truly throughout your married life, gift-giving with all its attendant sentiment plays a vital part.

MARCHAL, experts in the fine art of jewelry craftsmanship, are now introducing a new concept in jewelry called "Portrait in Crystal", designed to pamper the romantic natures of prospective bride and bridegrooms. "Portrait in Crystal" is achieved through a special process by which any black and white photograph or snapshot is actually engraved in a fine photosensitive crystal by atomic rearrangement. The photographic image becomes a permanent part of the crystal where its luminous amethyst tones remain unworn through 5000 years of wear.

The finished "Portrait in Crystal" is rimmed in 14 kt. gold and can be mounted as ear-clips, pendants, bracelet charms or brooches. If you prefer, the crystal can also be backed in gold allowing for a suitable inscription.

For the man in your life, "Portrait in Crystal" can be made up of cuff links, tie bars or tie tacks. With this new jewelry development, Marchal now makes it possible to start your own family heirlooms with a collection of photo crystals that can be handed down from generation to generation. Pictures of your bridegroom, your wedding portrait, your new home — all can be immortalized through this blending of science and jewelry art.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Our kitchen ceiling is quite high. Sometimes the light bulb in its fixture blows out.

I sued to get out the shelf ladder, unfold it, climb its three steps — and reach, reach, reach to unscrew the fixture's glass shade. This done, I'd descend the ladder to place the shade and screws on the table. I'd thrust a new bulb down the neck of my dress (needing my hands to balance), remove and reach again to replace the old bulb with the new.

Again I'd come down and dispose of the old one. Again I'd ascend to refix the shade and its screws. Upon my final return to earth, I'd put the ladder away. When a bulb blew out in our kitchen, I groaned and muttered.

One darkish afternoon not so long ago the bulb blew out as Judy, my daughter, was preparing to ice some cupcakes for supper. With news of her emergency, she sought me in my workroom. Very busy and concentrated, I said shortly, "If the old bulb's gone, put in a new one."

Fifteen minutes later, as Judy ped a glass of milk and a cupcake beside me, she said, "Mother, I think you'd better write a column about changing light bulbs."

I swallowed cupcake, staring at her. "Why, I can't write about anything as silly as that," I said. "What's the matter with you? You know..."

"You can," said my child firmly, "warn all mothers that if they are going to moan and groan when they do things, they can't expect their children to ever want to do the things. Do you realize that I changed the kitchen bulb for the first time in my whole life just now? It was fun doing it. But the way you moan and groan whenever you do it, I've always thought it was a terrible thing to have to do..."

"Oh," I said. Then rallying a little, I murmured, "It's the ladder I don't like. It's rickety..."

"No more rickety than any body's ladder," retorted my child. "Goodness, how smart Tom Sawyer was! When he wanted the other kids to paint his fence for him, he acted as if he loved painting fences himself. He didn't moan and groan. So everyone wanted to help him."

Now when the kitchen bulb goes, I try not to groan and mutter. This experience is for a Mrs. C. who writes "How do you handle a child who says, 'Why don't you take the car?' whenever you ask her to do an errand?"

How glad has Mrs. C. been to walk to the store herself?

Hear THE WRITE-IN CANDIDATE W. LEE O'DANIEL FOR GOVERNOR

November issue of "Seventeen" magazine, which offers several pointers to help solve your complexion problems.

DRY SKINS
1. Wash your face with a bland soap. Avoid hot water. Pat face dry, never rub.

2. Apply skin freshener after cleansing.
3. Make a complete make-up change only when absolutely necessary. Let a pressed powder touch-up take care of a shiny nose.

4. Remove make-up with liquid cleanser or cold cream; follow with soap and water wash. Apply lubricating cream. Leave on twenty minutes. Tissue off excess. A faint film should remain on overnight.
5. Take a cream- and- steam treatment once a week: Daub cream on face generously. Put head over bowl of steaming water and under a towel for five minutes. Tissue off cream and splash on cold water.

6. Use a creamy liquid make-up base.
7. For a flaky dry scalp, use a milk shampoo and creme hair rinse. Before each shampoo, apply warmed oil to the scalp and wrap head in hot towels.

OILY SKINS
1. When cleansing, let suds dry a minute on face before rinsing first with warm water, then with cold.

2. Apply astringent before making up.
3. Cleanse nightly with nonoily liquid detergent cleanser.

4. In winter, oily skins often become dry in a few spots. In that case, before retiring apply astringent only to oily areas; a greasiness vanishing cream or creamy lotion to dry areas.
5. Use a lotion or cake make-up base. Fluff loose powder over foundation.

6. For oily scalp, remember that hair can't be washed too often or made too clean.
7. Wrap gauze around hair brush before brushing hair.

8. Between washings, wipe scalp with cotton moistened with witch hazel.
9. Follow a high-protein diet, leafy green vegetables, fruit juices, and fresh fruit.

And whether your skin is dry or oily, the article assures you of a healthy glow if you drink six to eight glasses of water a day.

Methodist SS Class Is Given Breakfast

Members of the Crusader Class of the First Methodist Church were entertained with a "come-as-you-are" breakfast in the home of Mrs. Joe Donaldson. Hostesses were members of Group I.

The house was decorated with autumn flowers. Refreshments of coffee, rolls and fruit were served. Attending were: Mmes. A. L. Barrow, M. H. Brown, W. W. Bryant, W. E. Brogdon, Don Clair, J. L. Colville, Reed Carr, V. Colburn, Dorothy Cox, Ray Dudley, J. W. Edminister, C. M. Evans, Joe Farrar, Elmer Fite, R. C. Forrest, L. L. Garren, P. A. Gates, Gay Grider, W. S. Howell, Cleo Hoyer, L. C. Mock Opera Given For Guest-Day Tea

The El Progresso Club held its guest-day tea recently in the Lovett Library, using "Welcome to Venice, The Enchantress of the Sea," as its theme.

The program was highlighted by a mock opera, "L'Opera Othello." Taking part were Mrs. Horton Russell as Othello; Mrs. Cal Applewhite as Desdemona; Mrs. Clifford Whitney as Iago; Mrs. Bob Banks as Emilia; Mrs. George Newberry as the undertaker; Mrs. Solon Blundell as the fire department; and Mrs. Roy Johnson as the orchestra.

Spot skits were presented by Mrs. Robert Raamussen throughout the tea. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Solon Blundell.

Guests were greeted and registered by Mrs. Bob McCoy, president. Mrs. George Newberry distributed the programs and directed a "bingo" game which included filling in a "card" with names of those present. During the introduction of members and guests, conducted by Mrs. McCoy, names were checked off and the first to complete checking off the names on her card received a prize. Mrs. V. J. Jamieson was recipient of the prize.

Tea music was provided by Mrs. Roy Johnson, and a vocal solo, "Come Back To Sorrento," was presented by Roy Johnson.

The serving table was covered with a white crocheted cutwork cloth, centered with an arrangement of maroon-colored mums. Refreshments of spiced tea, cookies and nuts were served. Hostesses were Mmes. J. F. Curtis, Tom Perkins and George Newberry.

Baptist YWA Has Business Session

The Mary Ruth Carney Young Women's Association of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Miss Peggy Hutto, 820 N. Frost.

The business session was led by Miss Beth Spencer, president. It was decided to deliver cards on community missions to the hospital for Thanksgiving.

Miss LaVada Naylor taught the mission lesson on Japan, and the meeting was closed with prayer by Miss Delma Franklin.

Refreshments of frosted Cokes and cookies were served during the social period. Attending were Neils, Virginia Jones, Sally Pulmiss, Jayne Giddeon, Joyce Len, Delma Franklin, LaVada Naylor, Zelma Franklin, Beth Spencer, Peggy Hutto; and Mrs. Evert Hutto.

New Products Give Relief To Women Who Suffer From Dry-Skin Problems

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

A lovely, radiant skin is essential to beauty. Many women have been considered beautiful when their features were far from pretty, simply because their skin was glowing.

Good diet, cleanliness and enough sleep are the foundations on which a good complexion rests, and of course, cosmetics can repair the damage done by years of greasy foods and absence of soap.

But, as many women know, even these three sometimes fail. This is particularly true when the skin dries out. The drying may be due to age or to climate. But when it happens, peeling, cracking and wrinkling begin to affect a woman's looks.

There are many aids in fighting dryness. When it's a matter of allergy, the first aid is a good doctor. But in many cases, drying of a more ordinary type can be helped with properly formulated cosmetics.

Two suggestions come from a well-known maker. The first is an extra-rich liquid cream. The second a special cream for the skin of the neck.

The extra-rich cream is designed to soak down into the skin, without leaving grease on the surface. The maker feels it ought to be worn 24 hours. It is aimed at making cosmetics look better, but also at keeping the skin lubricated at night.

The neck cream is based on the maker's conclusion that the skin of the neck has fewer fatty cells. It's a super-rich lubricant that should firm and smooth the skin.

The new addition to his manufacturer's line is a cylinder about three and a half inches long that can be taken apart into six miniature jars, containing grooming essentials. Included are cleansing cream, foundation cream, night cream, rouge, face powder and a sifter.

The compartments may be filled from regular sized jars with the aid of a spatula, included with the set. The maker suggests that several of these sets might be stacked together for a neat handbag, with the extras containing pills or other items which are carried.

The Pampa Daily News Women's Activities

18th Year THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1956

RUTH MILLET Bridge Tournament Planned By Council Of Women's Clubs

"There are just as many old fools on the road today as there are young ones," a Massachusetts judge remarked after fining a 40-year-old and a 52-year-old for racing each other at 110 miles an hour.

These words are sure to be music to the ears of the country's teen-agers who have a reputation for recklessness that many of them don't deserve.

"Crazy kids," we say with disgust, every time we see a young person showing off behind the wheel of a car.

The remark implies that you can expect anything from a teen-age driver.

It isn't a fair attitude. No wonder the teen-agers are beginning to resent it.

Plenty of kids are skillful, careful drivers. Of course, there are some who show little concern for safety once they get behind the wheel of a car, their own or anybody else's.

But then some grownups drive cars as though they were deliberately setting out to commit murder or suicide — or both.

Before so many American homes had two-car garages and back in the days when Papa, rather than Mama, did most of the family chauffeuring, the term, "another woman driver," was a man's ready answer to any individual woman's lack of driving skill.

Now both men and women show the same kind of prejudice against teen-age drivers.

"Crazy kids" is the same kind of unfair generalization as "just another woman driver."

But bear up, kids. Maybe some day we'll quit talking about "another woman driver" and "crazy kids" and be fair enough to use the "crazy driver" which will include drivers of all ages and both sexes who haven't enough judgment to be behind the wheel of a car.

Heart and circulatory trouble is on the increase. It leads all others as the cause of death, and is responsible for more deaths than cancer, which is second highest. Heart and circulatory trouble is a "quiet enemy," as in most cases the patient is not aware of any disorder.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. M. B. SMITH
Trinity Baptist Church
Pampa, Texas

THINGS WHICH GOD PUTS FIRST

In the thinking of men there are many things which are given first place, but we need to think—

What are some of the things that God puts first?

- I. First, cleanse the inside of the cup. Matthew 23:26.
When the Lord spoke the words in this verse of scripture, He was speaking to a man who was rightly self-righteous. He had many qualities which were right in his own sight, but as Jesus saw him, he was unclean within. One great need of this day is for men to see themselves as God sees, and hear the word of the Lord when He said, "Ye must be born again."
- II. First, cast out the beam out of thine own eye. Matthew 7:5.
Many Christians are given to judging others, and this judgment may be based on the opinions of men. Sometimes such judgment is severe and biased. We can know what God would have us to do as we know the plain teachings of His word. Let us remember that we are responsible to be right with God ourselves before we can lead others in the ways of righteousness.
- III. First, Seek the Kingdom of God. Matthew 6:33.
This passage of scripture presents truth which is applicable to both the Christian, and one who is not a Christian. For the Christian, we are to remember that God is to have first place. We read that He was before all things, hence He is to have the pre-eminence. We do not give God first place unless we come to Him according to the direction of His Word.
- IV. First, give yourself to God. 2 Corinthians 8:5.
"And this they did, not as we had hoped, but first gave their own selves unto the Lord." The Apostle Paul spoke here of a group of Christians who did what every Christian ought to do, and that was that they gave everything they had to the Lord.
Suppose that in a home, a man would give his children everything they could desire — food, clothing, beautiful surroundings, every convenience, but never spend time with his family. Would they be satisfied? No, without love, a home is not a home. The same principle would apply in our fellowship with the Lord. He wants us to worship Him.
- V. Give, first to God—
"And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go as thou has said; but make me thereof a little cake first, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and thy son." 1 Kings 17:13.
In this story, Elijah asked the widow of Zarephath for a morsel of bread. With a broken heart, she told Elijah of the plight of her son and herself. She was willing, however, at the request of God's servant to do for him what she was bidden. In doing this thing, she honored God, and because of willingness to honor Him, from that time on her needs were met. If we honor Him, and walk by faith, He will take care of us.

CRYSTAL BALL GAZING — A much harder look into the crystal ball has been demanded by readers of The Pampa News, and especially Oklahoma fans, after last week's disastrous showing. The ball can't fall this week, though, as upsets and exact scores by the dozens are popping into the psychic and revealing interior of "Ye Olde Crystale Ball." (News Photo)

After a disastrous week end last week, the Crystal Ball was taken out of the deeper dungeons of the Pampa News late yesterday with news more information for this week coming from it. Come what may, we will proceed ahead, blindly and hopefully, or is it hopeless?

COLLEGE SELECTIONS
Texas 20, SMU 13: The Longhorns have to win one more game for coach Ed Price. Especially coming on the heels of his retirement Thursday, Walt Fondren and his mates should extend themselves tomorrow in an effort to knock the Mustangs down.
TUC 27, Baylor 18: This could go the other way, but it looks as though Swink, Wineburg and Co. will have too many horses for the Bears to hold down.

Rice 19, Utah 7: Unless things go completely haywire, and after last week's upsets anything is possible, the Owls should win this one without much difficulty.
Oklahoma A & M 20, Texas Tech 14: Don't think the Techsters have enough steam to drop the Aggies even though they are coming off a victory last week and are playing at home.

Oklahoma 28, Colorado 20: Someone said beware of the mountain air. Colorado has always been tough for Oklahoma in Colorado. The Buffaloes have a good ball club this year and are always tougher than nails at home.
Georgia Tech 34, Duke 7: Although the Blue Devils could make it interesting there is a certain "proisness," if you'll pardon the expression, about the "Ramblin' Wreck" that makes them a great ball club. Of course, the race horse backfield of Vann, Mitchell, Rotenberg and a dozen assorted others, will be more than Duke has seen in many a year.

Kaintuck 14, Maryland 12: It's just one of those years for the not-so-terrible Terrapins this year. They'll probably take it on the chin again Saturday unless Tommy Mont does something he hasn't done yet.

Tennessee 38, North Carolina 13: It will be a tough day for the Tar Heels when they fool around with Johnny Majors and Co. Bowden Wyatt, the Vol mentor, and the kid from Cadillac, Arkansas, might play his Vols under wraps for the forthcoming Georgia Tech game.
Clemson 27, VPI 13: A solid win over the Gobblers might lift the Clemson into the top ten. However, if they're too busy reading their clippings, the VPI's might slip up on them and send them home over Christmas instead of to the Orange Bowl.

Ole Miss 14, LSU 0: No rest for the weary here. Ole Miss will be hotter than a two-dollar pistol at high noon after their upset by the Arkansas Razorbacks last week. LSU, not so hot.

Lou Little Ends Career On Saturday

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—It's hall and farewell for Lou Little at Baker Field Saturday as for the final time he guides his tattered Columbia Lions in a home game.

For 27 years, Little has paced the Baker Field sidelines and more often than not the figures on the scoreboard were against him. Now, after this contest against Cornell, only three away games remain for him as he faces mandatory retirement next month on reaching 65.

But no matter what the score on the big board at the open end of the arena on the banks of the East River, "Foghorn Lou" goes out a winner in the hearts of all the young men he has handled through more than a quarter century at Morningside Heights.

One Of Five
The old Lion from Leominster hasn't had many winning seasons as far as the record book is concerned. None, matter of fact, since 1951 when his club won five and lost three. This year it won only one out of five to date.

Yet he had his big moments of victory, too. Like in the 1934 Rose Bowl game when his underdog Columbia team upset mighty Stanford, 7-0, and 1947, when his twice-beaten Lions snapped Army's streak of 32 consecutive games without defeat.

Yet it is on the human side that the one-time Penn tackle, who in recent years turned down coaching bids from his alma mater and from Yale, has been an unparalleled success.

Always the boys came first and for them it was studies first. Lou constantly checked their grades and, if they needed tutoring, saw that they got it.

Share Of Stars
He turned out his share of stars, like Sid Luckman, Cliff Montgomery and Paul Governali, from his limited material. But he is prouder of the fact that he turned out a host of professional men who went on to become doctors, attorneys, engineers and dentists.

Even now, four times a year he sends them all a letter giving them all the scutbutt on which he can lay his hands. Once a year he sends them the addresses of everybody who played on his teams and urges them to "keep in touch."

Ohio State 19, Northwestern 0: The Buckeyes are out of the Wildcat class here. They're still a plenty good ball club even without Hoppy.

Southern Cal 46, Washington 7: Watch that hunka freight train, Roberts, about 250 pounds of full-back, go wild here even without his partner Arnett, who hung up his suit after last week's game.
Stanford 20, UCLA 19: By an eyelash or maybe the other way. It could end up a tie, and you can bet the Bruins will be doing all they can to keep Stanford out of the Rose Bowl.

California 19, Washington 7: Just enough here to contain the Huskies, we think.
Syracuse 24, Penn State 13: If Jimmy Brown doesn't make most All-American teams, there's something wrong. He only scores most, if not all of the Oranges' points every week. The Nittany Lion will chase its tail trying to chase the Long Island speedster.

Army 34, Colgate 7: Kyasky and Co. will have too many and too fast horses for the Red Raiders — apologies to THE Red Raider.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Light heavyweight contender a Willi Hoepner of Germany and Chuck Spieser of Detroit have signed to meet in a 10-round elimination bout at the Milwaukee Arena, Nov. 28. The two originally were scheduled to fight at the Chicago Stadium last Wednesday night, but the bout was postponed when Hoepner suffered an injured left elbow in training.

NEW YORK (UP)—Bob Mathias, winner of the decathlon in the last two Olympics and President Eisenhower's personal representative to this year's games at Melbourne, Australia, will interview American athletes on exclusive TV films to be distributed to individual stations throughout the country. Tom Harmon will handle the description of the Olympic games on these films.

Pee Wees, Reapers Drop Games To Phillips 'Hawks

It was a dark yesterday afternoon at Harvester Field as the Pampa Pee Wees and the Pampa Reapers played a double header against the black-shirted Phillips Blackhawks. Both the Pee Wees and Reapers took it on the chin from the Blackhawks, the Pee Wees losing 27-6 and Reapers dropping a 20-0 decision.

The Pee Wees faced a big ball club yesterday, so big, in fact, that it caused people to stare in disbelief, prior to the game when the Blackhawks were warming up. They moved almost at will against the much smaller Pee Wees and rolled up a 13-0 halftime lead.

Lucky Dunham, running from halfback and Steve Dobbins, the quarterback, did the most damage for the Pee Wees when they carried the ball. However, the bigger Blackhawks always managed to come up with a key defensive play to keep the Pee Wees from the gates of goal.

The second half didn't prove any better as the Blackhawks still pecked away at the Pee Wee forward wall for yardage and two more touchdowns to make it 27-0 in favor of Phillips.

However, the Pee Wees were not to be denied. Larry Wilson moved 21 yards to the 14 after a fumble had been recovered by the Pee Wees around the 40. Dobbins then moved just shy of a first down on the 6. There, a delay of game penalty against the Hawks set the ball down to the one. Keith Dadds moved over on the next play for the score. The extra point was missed and there was no more Pee Wee scoring for the afternoon.

Although the Pee Wees took it on the chin they did a good job in containing the bigger Blackhawks. Particularly good on defense was John Terry Mullins and on offense, laurels went to Steve Dobbins, who did a fine job at quarterback. Lucky Dunham and Keith Dadds who did well enough at the halfback posts.

In the second game of the twin bill, which saw many fans present, the Pampa Reapers found things difficult for the rest of the afternoon as they could get but two first downs and a slim 28 yards rushing all day. However, the thing that hurt the Reapers was their inability to maintain possession of the ball. They fumbled three times and lost the pigskin all three times. Although the Black hawks also fumbled three times, they lost the ball but once.

Even in defeat, the Reapers tried every minute to shoot across for a score or two. Like the Pee Wees, they were on the short end

Shockers Rip Phillips, 14-7

The Pampa Shockers saved the day yesterday evening as they beat the Phillips Bees 14-7 over at Phillips.

Bobby Smith scored one touchdown on a 30 yard carry and Jesse Ingie scored the other on a 4 yard plunge. Gary Wilhelm and Smith split the extra points.

Outstanding in the line for the Shockers, who according to coach Waldon Trice, "played their best game of the year," was Fred Neslage and Charles Snyder. Bobby Smith and Gary Wilhelm played almost perfect games in the backfield as the Shockers controlled the ball most of the evening.

The Shockers play Berger at home next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Marshall Hits NFL Draft

WASHINGTON (UP) — George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, today labeled as "unnecessary and foolish" a move by the National Football League to schedule an early draft meeting again this year.

It was announced Thursday that the professional league will conduct its bonus draw and the first four rounds of its annual draft at Philadelphia, Nov. 24.

Marshall said NFL coaches "are too busy trying to win football games to prepare this early for the drafting of players for next season."

The NFL, as it did last year, scheduled the early drawing in hopes of getting the jump on Canadian professional football teams in signing outstanding senior college stars. The move also was designed to avoid possible litigation with Canadian teams over signings.

Marshall, however, scoffed at these motives. He said "we have so many players available that Canada is no longer a problem to us."

"Canadian competition is the only excuse given for this early draft meeting and in my opinion we shouldn't predicate our actions on anything Canada does or doesn't do."

Marshall said, "It is obvious that coaches and owners can prepare a better draft list after they've seen boys perform in various bowl games and have personally scouted players in such contests."

FARMERS LOOK AT THE RECORD

The DEMOCRATS had 20 YEARS to solve the farm problem. WE STILL HAVE A FARM PROBLEM. What have the REPUBLICANS done in 4 SHORT YEARS?

Surpluses Have Been Reduced

1. Virtually all of the surplus COTTON SEED OIL stocks have been moved into use. The accumulation reached 1,186,000,000 pounds in 1954. ALL GOVERNMENT OWNED PROTEIN MEALS HAVE BEEN SOLD.
2. During the first three years of the Eisenhower Administration, 54,000,000 BAGS OF RICE WERE TAKEN OVER by the government UNDER THE HOLD-OVER DEMOCRAT FARM PROGRAM in effect until the 1955 crop. Today, ALL GOVERNMENT OWNED STOCKS OF RICE ARE SOLD OR COMMITTED and await delivery.

Foreign Markets Are Being Expanded

1. During the year ended June 30, 1955, shipments of farm products for foreign countries were 7% HIGHER than in 1953-54 and 11% HIGHER than in 1952-53.
2. For the first ten months of the last fiscal year FARM EXPORTS WERE UP ANOTHER 9% over the similar period a year earlier.
3. U. S. rice exports for the period August 1955-March 1956 has increased over the same period for 1954-55 by 1,651,000 bags in total world exports.

Agricultural Research Increased

1. Agricultural Research budget INCREASED $1,984,000 in the four years prior to 1953, UNDER DEMOCRATS.
2. Research to aid farmers INCREASED $45,795,000 in the past four years UNDER REPUBLICANS.

KEFAUVER, WACO, OCTOBER 1

... President Eisenhower is too busy trying to win the election with sunshine and smiles to do anything for the farmer."

U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE, OCTOBER 1

... Announced $3½ Million has been paid to farmers under the Soil Bank Plan and estimates $260 Million to be paid farmers this year.

Satisfaction! Yes, though they may differ in their purpose, every brand that's made a name for itself contains the same ingredient—satisfaction. That is why advertisers in this newspaper are good names to know. They're proud of their brands—'cause they satisfy so.

Four Ways Brand Names Satisfy You Most

1. BUY WITH TRUST! Spend confidently on known quality. Brand Names wear best, work best, taste best, are best.
2. SHOP WITH EASE! Spend efficiently on proved value. Brand Names save time "puzzling" over labels, models, prices, etc.
3. ENJOY MORE CHOICE! Spend shrewdly among widest selections. Brand Names offer the most in sizes, types, colors, flavors, etc.
4. GET THE "LATEST"! Spend smartly on up-to-date products. Brand Names keep improving, modernizing, introducing new things!

IN SPOTLIGHT — Former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy, above, may be swept back into power both as premier and first secretary of the Hungarian Communist party as a result of the anti-Moscow revolution in Poland. Nagy was deposed as premier on April 18, 1955, as a "Titoist" and deviationist.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS OF THE ESTATE OF VERONICA KOTARA, DECEASED.

Notice is hereby given that original Letters Testamentary upon the Estate of Veronica Kotara, Deceased, were granted to me, the undersigned, on the 28th day of October, 1956, by the County Court of Gray County, Texas. All persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same to me within the time prescribed by law. My residence and post office address is 215 North West, Pampa, Texas.

JOHN KOTARA,
Independent Executor
of the Estate of Veronica Kotara, Deceased.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTOR

Sealed bids addressed to the Mayor and City Commission of the City of Pampa, Texas, will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Pampa, Texas, until 10:00 a.m. Tuesday, November 20, 1956, and then publicly opened and read for furnishing all plant, labor, material and equipment and performing all work required for the construction of certain street improvements consisting of curb and gutter, gutter, concrete curbs, flexible base (either asphalt or gravel), and concrete and plastic concrete wearing surfaces on streets in the City of Pampa, Texas. All proposals shall be accompanied by a Cashier's or Certified Check upon a National or State bank in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the total maximum bid price payable without recourse to the City of Pampa, or a bid bond in the same amount from a reliable surety company, and a guarantee that bidder will enter into a contract and execute a performance bond within fifteen (15) days after Notice of Award of Contract to him. The Notice of Award of Contract shall be given to the owner within ten (10) days following the opening of bids. The bid security must be enclosed in the same envelope with the bid. Bids without check or bond will not be considered. All bids will be returned to the respective bidders within ten (10) days after the bids are opened, except those who shall be permitted to hold until the successful bidder has executed the contract. The successful bidder must furnish performance bond upon the form which is attached hereto in the amount of 100% of the contract price from an approved surety company holding a permit from the State of Texas to act as surety, or other surety or sureties acceptable to the owner. The right is reserved, at the interest of the owner, to reject any and all bids, and to waive any informality in the bids. Plans, specifications and bidding documents may be secured from the office of the City Engineer, City of Pampa, Texas.

Ike Feels Eden Is No Campaign Help

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—When their positions were reversed back there in 1955 and Sir Anthony Eden was seeking reelection,

President Eisenhower gave his British friend a substantial lift toward victory.
The circumstances were these: A general election was coming up in Great Britain. Sir Anthony was prime minister and leader of the conservative government then in power.

Citizens For October Are Elected

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Judy Rhodes and Dwaine Clemens, both seniors in White Deer High School, were elected "Citizens of the Month" for October, and were honor guests of the White Deer Lions Club at a dinner meeting.

The "Citizens of the Month" are elected by the Student Council from suggestions made by the student body and are guests of the White Deer Lions Club once a month. For November, they will be chosen from the junior class.

Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Rhodes of Skellytown, has participated in almost all school activities. Last year she was managing editor of the school paper and placed fifth in the Interscholastic League news writing contest in Austin; this year, she is senior class editor of the yearbook; secretary - treasurer of the National Theatrical Society and of the Majors Club; vice - president of the Library Club; and secretary of the senior class. She is also a member of the National Honor Society and pep squad and serves as an office assistant. In past years, she has been on the volleyball team, was sophomore Student Council representative, and sang in the chorus.

In addition, she is the Skellytown Lions Club Sweetheart for this year.

Dwaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Clemens of Skellytown, is one of the tri - captains of the football team, was on the volleyball and track teams last year, and sang in the chorus. This year, he is also a sports writer for the school paper.

Two Persons Die In Auto Crash

SAN ANTONIO (UP) — Two persons were killed instantly early today in a highway crash 15 miles east of San Antonio.

The dead were identified as T-Sgt. Henry Ortega, 30, and Mrs. Marie Mansfield, 60, both of San Antonio.

Mrs. Mansfield's son, William Hollis Mansfield, 31, a Merchant seaman, was injured in the crash on U.S. 90.

Sheriff's officers said Ortega was traveling east and apparently fell asleep. His car hit a culvert and then skidded into the path of the vehicle driven by Mansfield, officers said.

BOSTON — Adlai Stevenson charging that the GOP is telling the people to "trust Ike, and don't ask questions".

"...The reason for the chorus of 'trust Ike,' is that they don't dare say 'trust us Republicans.' And they certainly don't dare say 'trust Nixon'."

Eden's opposition were the British Socialists who use the name, "Labor Party," and the Socialists were giving Eden a hard time. Labor Party Leader Clement Attlee opened the Socialist campaign on May 7, 1955, with complaint that Eden's conservative government was moving too slowly toward a high level meeting with Soviet Russia's Communist bosses. There was popular enthusiasm in Great Britain for a high level talk.

George Favored Meeting
Chairman Walter George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee favored a Summit meeting among representatives of the United States, France, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union. Neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State John Foster Dulles considered the project timely.

Mr. Eisenhower, however, does not care for Socialism. Despite his public acknowledgement that he foresaw "many dangers" in a meeting such as was being urged, he permitted himself to be persuaded.

Announcement that London, Paris and Washington were discussing a Summit meeting came, finally, from Eden. It was confirmed in Washington. The meeting took place at Geneva in July, 1955.

The Socialist major campaign attack on Eden's conservative foreign policies effectively was silenced by Mr. Eisenhower's reluctant agreement to meet with the other heads of state. Eden and his party were continued in office by British voters.

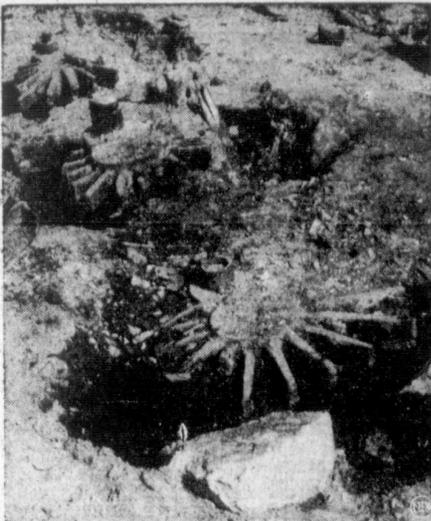

Now, with their positions reversed, Mr. Eisenhower suspects Eden has double-crossed him on election eve with a maneuver worthy of the wrestling racket.

What Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles suspect is that Eden and the French government connived in the Israeli attack on Egypt to obtain cause to regain control of the Suez Canal area which Anglo-French military forces now are reported to have seized.

The foundation of Mr. Eisenhower's foreign policy is the North Atlantic Alliance — the West against Communism. That foundation is crumbling today like shoddy brick work.

Peace and prosperity is the Republican campaign slogan. The voters have been conditioned to believe that peace and prosperity are hinged to the Atlantic Alliance. There is time before election day, next Tuesday, for the broken Western front to break further and for Moscow to move smartly to take advantage of the damage done.

That could cost the Republicans a great many votes and might retire Mr. Eisenhower to Gettysburg although polls have shown him going well until the Middle East storm broke.

"BONES" IN THE DROUGHT DESERT—Skeletal remains of a locomotive's drive wheels rusting in the partially dried-up bed of the Kansas River near Topeka are grim testimony to the five years of drought which Kansans have experienced. The locomotive fell into the then raging river when a bridge collapsed during a flood in 1951. It was abandoned because it would have been too expensive to salvage.

Murder Victim Identified

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (UP)—A murder victim whose head was battered in and his body wrapped in a tent and dumped in a well has been identified as Earl Edgar Parsons, 46, a native of Buffalo county, Neb.

The identification of the body, found Saturday, was made through fingerprints matched with FBI files in Washington.

The FBI said its files showed Parsons had been in Wyoming and California a few years back, but gave no specific addresses or other information.

Sheriff Cecil Turner said he believed Parsons may have been a truck driver. Turner said he believed at least two persons were involved in the slaying and that they have made off with Parsons' truck.

A blood-stained mattress found in a stock pond Saturday led to discovery of the body. The man who found the mattress followed tire prints a quarter of a mile and found the body in a well.

It was wrapped in a pup tent and covered with a thin layer of dirt. The body and tent weighed 190 pounds and Turner said he thought it would take two persons to put it into the well.

Action Sought In Case Before U. N.

By BRUCE W. MUNN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—British Ambassador Sir Pierson Dixon said today the West was "looking for action" in bringing the Soviet Union before the Security Council for using troops against Hungarians.

The United States, Britain and France Sunday convened an emergency session of the council to file a formal protest. The council voted to consider the Hungarian question despite Soviet objections and a Yugoslav abstention.

The council today awaited official indications that Russian troops will be withdrawn from Hungary. Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy announced they would be withdrawn from Budapest, scene of heavy street fighting, and said he would try to negotiate their removal from Hungary.

The council meets this afternoon at 2 p. m. est to take up France's charge that Egypt has smuggled arms to Algerian rebels in what it called interference in France's domestic affairs.
