Agriculture Prospects Look Bright

County Records First Screwworm Case

A official case of screw-worms has been confirmed in Bailey County on the J.T. Shofner farm five miles west of Muleshoe. This is the first case confirmed to date, however it is vital that all animals be inspected closely and regularly so that infestations can be pinpointed and treated with sterile flies, says County Agricultural Agent, Spencer Tanksley, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Although sterile fly production at the Mission Lab is running at its peak - 200 million a week - treatment with the flies is not enough to stop the destructive, flesh-eating livestock pest. All livestock producers and owners of other animals (dogs, cats) are urged to follow these precautions: Inspect animals regularly and carefully and treat all wounds whether they are wormy or not. Delay all surgery until cool weather this fall. Shearing, docking, castrating and dehorning only provide additional wounds for worm infestations. Spray animals with an approved product.

As soon as a worm wound is found, send a worm sample to the Screwworm Laboratory, Box 969, Mission, Texas 78575. Worm sample containers are available from the County Agents' office or Bob Henderson, Animal Health Inspector with the Texas Animal Health Commission, on Page 3, col. 5

BAC Discusses Hot Check Problem Here

The Businessmen's Activities by Celebration. Committee of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture met in regular session Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Lyndal Murray, BAC Chairman, presided and introduced a new member of the committee, Bob Wilson, owner and manager of the Rasco Store here. Tommy Black reported on the BAC Father's Day Promotion. He said that the winners, Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Stratton had left Sunday for Hawaii.

He further explained that only 107 members participated in the promotion this year and that money was lost on the project.

Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Manager Glen King reported on the Fourth of July Celebration and stated that surrounding radio and television stations had provided free publicity for the event and some of them had attended the celebration and covered it for their respective stations.

He proposed that next year Muleshoe host an Old Fiddler's Contest during the Fourth of July

Dairy Queen To Open Here

Benny Chapman of Fort Worth, of Dairy Queen of Midland, Inc., reported to the Journal by telephone Friday afternoon that construction on a new Dairy Queen family dining place will begin in Muleshoe on August 1.

The Dairy Queen here will be one of 34 places owned by the Midland division and one of 550 in the state of Texas.

It will be located at the corner of 12th Street and American Blvd, and will seat 60 people in the dining room. It will also feature drive-in windows and walk-up windows.

Chapman said that the Dairy Queen will employ 15 to 18 local people plus a manager.

Opening date has been set for October 1, 1972.

CORN PROSPECTS GOOD FOR COUNTY...This field of irrigated corn west of Muleshoe is a sample of how good the corn crops are looking in Bailey County at this time. These stalks are six to seven feet high with ears already maturing. A large number of fields in Bailey County have been planted in corn this year and they all seem to be prospects for bumper crops. Other crops this year are doing exceptionally well with adequate moisture even on dryland in the southern part of the county.

Corn, Cotton Crops Have Good Outlook

Agriculture prospects for the Bailey County are looking bright to the farmers these days.

The last few days of rain and cool weather have not set back crops a great deal and have provided some additional moisture for the crops.

Corn looks like it will be a bumper crop this year with more of it planted in this area than in recent years. The early crops of corn are now producing stalks six to seven feet high with ears tassling now.

Cotton is in the beginning stage with need of some hot, dry weather in which to mature.

Even dryland cotton seems to be growing well with a good supply of moisture in the ground.

Vegetables are coming off now with potatoes and onions being harvested in the general area. The potato shed in Muleshoe is in full swing at the present time. Other vegetables such as cucumbers are in harvest also. There have been quite a few acres of late black-eyed peas planted in the area that will be ready in the near future along with other truck patch vegetables.

Tomatoes are growing good with harvests only a few weeks away.

This year is sizing up to be a very profitable one as far as Bailey County farmers are concerned, barring any inclement weather or any early freeze in the fall.

Jaycees Will Sponsor Donkey Baseball Game

On August 1, beginning at 8 p.m. at Jake Diel Field, the Green Gorillas will take on the Brown Bombers in an exciting Donkey Baseball game. Sponsored by the Muleshoe Jaycees, the teams will be local Jaycees headed by Corky Green and James Brown. Advance tickets are now on sale for $1.50 and are available from any Jaycee member.

Farm Safety Week To Be July 25-31

Fires, drownings, and machinery and tractor accidents continue to be the major sources of accidental deaths on Texas farms and ranches, according to the Texas Safety Association.

Joe L. Smetana, Vice President for Farm and Ranch Activities for the statewide safety group, discussing Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week, July 25-31, said that accidental deaths took the lives of 203 persons in 1971 in rural areas of the state.

"One of the most surprising factors in last year's accidental deaths is the large number of persons who were killed by fires, explosions and burns," said Smetana. The TSA Vice President said thirty-five deaths were recorded which were a result of fires, explosions or burns. The safety group spokesman said the figures point up the need for farm and ranch families to provide adequate protection against the dangers of fire.

Other leading causes of accidental deaths last year on Texas farms and ranches included 29 drownings, 28 accidental shootings, 26 machinery accidents, 22 tractor accidents, 22 falls, and 17 accidents involving animals.

"These figures on accidental deaths in rural areas of the state during 1971 show a continuing upward trend of deaths in nearly every category," said Smetana.

The safety spokesman also turned his attention to the ages of the persons who are being killed in accidents on Texas farms and ranches. He revealed that four age groups have the highest number of accidental deaths occurred to persons between 10 to 19 years of age. Thirty-four persons were killed last year in that age group.

high-risk groups are persons between the ages of 60 to 69. Thirty persons in this age group lost their lives in farm and ranch accidents last year," said Smetana.

Twenty-eight persons between 50 and 59 years of age and 25 persons between 70 and 79 years of age lost their lives in accidents in 1971 on farms and ranches, according to the safety group spokesman. "The great tragedy of these deaths is that none of them

CONGRESSMAN

Bob Price

18th Congressional District

There was an effort last week on the part of Eastern doves in Congress to reduce military appropriations generally and especially those for the F-111 aircraft. I sometimes think they would be happy to see the United States disarmed. Fortunately, they were unsuccessful.

I spoke out again on the floor of the House for a strong military posture, which I believe is essential to the defensive capability of our country. In so doing, I urged the passage of legislation which would include appropriations to support the continuation of the F-111 in our fighter fleet, and also provide for continuing research for the development of the B-1 bomber.

I reiterated to the House that the F-111 possesses the greatest fighter capability and the best safety record of all other century series aircraft designed and produced to date and is the only aircraft we have in our aircraft inventory today which can penetrate deeply into the Soviet interior.

The B-1 bomber is essential for replacement of the B-52 which is 20 years old and continually losing its future capability as an offensive airborne weapon. I firmly believe that these measures are essential to a secure national military posture.

The Agriculture Appropriations bill for fiscal year 1973 passed the House of Representatives last week by a vote of 345-33. I voted for it. There was an attempt to add an amendment to this bill that, had it been adopted, would have limited payments to $20,000 per farmer per crop during fiscal year 1973. It was defeated by a narrow three-vote margin of 189 in favor and 192 opposed. I spoke in opposition to the limitation and voted in opposition to it.

My position has been in consistent support of the agricultural activities of our nation and the farmers of Northwest Texas. Unfortunately, entirely too many of our lawmakers do not understand or appreciate the cost-profit squeeze facing the agriculture industry today. But the Federal Government has given its word to the farmers of our nation that they can depend upon the legislation that Congress has passed to keep our agricultural activities alive. As a member of the House Agriculture Committee and an active farmer and rancher myself, I intend to see that Congress lives up to its obligations.

A bill providing for a four-month extension of the present temporary level in the public debt limitation was passed by 211-168. I opposed this bill. The necessity of this bill to come before the House at all is, in my opinion, related directly to the tendency of the opposition-controlled House to spend more money than we take in each year and to add more federal bureaucracy in order to implement grandiose federal programs of questionable worth.

LOOK TO SAFETY ON YOUR FARM—IT PAYS

Your farm — it's your life's work, pride and happiness, and it's your private piece of the world. That makes it worth worrying about . . . worth caring for. Take the extra time to check safety features, to assure yourself that all equipment, building and electrical components are in A-1 shape. Keep eyes on lookout for fire hazards. Make sure lofts, ladders, silos are secure to avoid injury.

have to occur," said Smetana. "Every single one of the 203 persons who died accidentally on Texas farms and ranches last year could have been alive today if they had taken proper precautions, used personal protective equipment, or been prepared for emergencies," he said.

"Twenty-two persons were killed in accidents involving tractors. Most of these accidents were incidents in which the tractor overturned and in which neither roll-over protection devices nor seat belts were in use. The use of these items could have prevented most, if not all, of these deaths," Smetana commented.

"Twenty-six persons lost their lives in accidents involving machinery. These too are classified as needlessly lost lives. In most cases the individual violated some basic safety rule regarding the machine and its operation. Persons responsible for the operation of farm machinery need to make sure that they are familiar with all the details of safe operation. Those who have employees on the farm who run machinery should insure that every person who operates the machine knows its dangers and how to operate it safely," said Smetana.

"Perhaps the greatest of the tragedies are the drownings. Every farmer and rancher in this state should consider it a solemn duty to teach every member of his family how to swim as a first precaution against such an accident. In addition, flotation devices and other life saving equipment should be kept near stock ponds, creeks, swimming holes and other places of water recreation on the farm or ranch. Dangerous water areas should be declared out of bounds and should be fenced off for adequate protection," said the TSA spokesman.

Smetana also had the following suggestions for safer farm and ranch operations:

Keep all guards and shields in place when operating machinery or power tools of any kind.

Equip your tractor with a protective frame or crush resistant cab.

Always fasten your safety belts when driving or riding. Insist that others do the same.

Be prepared for emergencies such as fire, flood, blizzard, windstorm, sudden illness and injury. For information on emergency preparedness contact the extension service, civil defense, or other groups. Plan and practice ways of evacuating the house if fire strikes.

Install fire extinguishers in buildings, on motor vehicles, tractors, and self-propelled equipment.

Applying pesticides and other agricultural chemicals, wear gloves and recommended protective clothing and chemical respirators.

Keep pesticides in a suitable storage area, inaccessible to small children and animals. Protect small children and others by covering tank openings, and fencing dangerous areas such as manure lagoons and farm ponds. Have flotation aids available at ponds.

Check electrical wiring; use proper size fuses.

Wear safety shoes, especially for repair and construction jobs, machinery operations and materials handling.

Protect your eyes with glasses or goggles with safety lenses.

Protect your head with industrial type "hard" hat or "bump" cap.

Spare your hands on rough jobs with heavy duty gloves. Wear rubber gloves when handling farm chemicals, petroleum products and other solvents. Use good hand lotions to prevent chapping.

"By observing these safety and accident prevention protection rules the average farm and ranch family in Texas can avoid a serious injury or fatal accident," said Smetana.

"This week is Farm and Ranch Safety Week in Texas, as proclaimed by Governor Preston Smith. But it will take more than just one week of activity to prevent last year's tragic record from growing again this year. Texas farm and ranch families must strive to put safety to work for them every day of the year," Smetana concluded.

Farmers and ranchers are encouraged to make a special check of their operations during the upcoming National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, with "Safety First!" in mind. The theme this year is "Protective Equipment - Your Defense Against Injury." Protective clothing and equipment, such as hard hats, goggles, ear muffs, and respirators, may be new to farmers, but the increasing complexity of farm work, and accidents associated with it, indicate the need for additional safety measures to reduce injuries due to farm accidents.

Farm and ranch accidents continue to be a major problem. In fact, agricultural continues to be the nation's third most dangerous occupation with an estimated 2,300 deaths and 190,000 disabling injuries in 1971.

Farm accident studies conducted in eight states show that personal protective equipment is essential to reduce the number and severity of injuries due to farm accidents. Farmers and ranchers should become accustomed to protecting themselves from head to toe. Actually, the agricultural worker may have need for more types of protective equipment than the average construction worker.

All farmers and ranchers are challenged to run a safe operation.

First determine the need for personal protective equipment. Select the proper type for the hazard involved. Then train family workers and employees to know why, where, and when they should wear it and how to wear and care for the equipment.

National Farm Safety Week is sponsored each year by the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is designed to focus attention on farm and ranch accidents and to suggest preventive measures to reduce them. It is hoped that all those involved in agriculture will take special interest in safety during the up coming Farm Safety Week.

Bob Copeland Attends FB Fire School

COLLEGE STATION—Bob Copeland, volunteer fireman on the Bailey County Volunteer Fire Department of Muleshoe, attended the 43rd annual Texas Firemen's Training School July 16-21. The school, attended by nearly 1,500 men representing about 470 cities from approximately 20 states, was held on the Texas A&M University campus last week.

Fireman Copeland is being sponsored by Bailey County Farm Bureau Insurance Companies by contributing toward their cost of the school. Since volunteer firemen are interested in attending this school to help do a better job of fire fighting and fire prevention, 80 County Farm Bureaus and the Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies in the statewide program have sponsored 102 firemen at the school.

"The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies believe volunteer fire departments have been very effective in reducing the amount of loss involved by fire in rural areas," said President J.T. (Red) Woodson of Gober. "It is our hope in sponsoring this program that the fireman will help the Bailey County Volunteer Department to better serve the residents of Bailey County."

VEE Not Only Danger To Texas Horses

Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis has been much in the news since the 1971 VEE epidemic in Texas and animal health authorities this year continue to urge vaccination and revaccination against the disease. Dr. Dennis McIntosh, San Antonio veterinarian and chairman of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association's Public Information Committee, also reminds horse owners that "the 'OLD' diseases for which we vaccinated horses in the past must not be overlooked."

The other encephalitis diseases, Eastern and Western, still show their ugly symptoms when least expected. Two vaccinations at a 7 to 10-day interval are all that's necessary for annual protection.

Tetanus, or Lockjaw, a well-known killer of horses, may be protected against with a simple yearly booster.

Horses that are shipped, boarded or in contact with horses that are in movement should be protected against Equine Influenza and Strangles (Distemper).

The Board will meet at the Pioneer Natural Gas Building in the "Flame Room," 301 South Taylor St. GSPA Executive Director, Elbert Harp, urged all GSPA Directors, Alternate Directors and interested producers to attend the meeting. The election of GSPA directors for the fiscal year that will begin October 1, 1972, is now being conducted by mail ballot. Results of the election are expected to be completed by the meeting date, and the new directors for the fiscal year 1972-73 will be announced at the meeting.

'Insurance Is Going Up'

Yes, increased losses force insurance premiums higher. One way to keep them down is to accept a 'deductible clause,' as the cost of handling small claims is a big insurance expense. Also, a 'padded' or false claim has the effect of forcing everyone's insurance costs up - such abuses of insurance should be discouraged.

John Tower
United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

Earlier this week I took fatherly pride in escorting my eldest daughter, Penny on her 18th birthday to the Wichita County Courthouse where she became a registered Texas voter.

I was doubly proud of this action because I feel that I was able to play some part in the Congressional action, later ratified by the state legislatures, which enabled the change in our Constitution which was necessary to lower the legal voting age.

There has been much discussion of this change in our society but we have agreed that with the advances in our education system, 18-year-olds now have the maturity of judgement required in our country to make an informed choice.

During the past decade or so, our young people have been attacked and applauded, blamed and blessed, condemned and congratulated for nearly every vice and virtue of our time.

That too often, we have singled out one from a crowd and said that he is representative of the new generation. Actually, each of young people is an individual, no more typical of his generation than each of us is of ours.

Our young people today has its full share of fools and geniuses and all in between just as any with as a group, without recognizing that the group is composed of many varied individuals, seem akin to some kind of prejudice.

Simply because a person is young, he should not be denied his right to express an opinion; and he should not assume that his opinion must necessarily be obeyed. Simply because a person is young, he is not necessarily wrong, and not necessarily right.

In recent years, it seems our society has too often listened to the loudest among the young and also among the old, and then assumed that those representatives of the entire group.

All of us have been guilty. Some of the young have said that their previous generation has left them a horrible world. Problems do exist. Sometimes solutions to previous problems have created new ones. But despite these evils, most of the fatal diseases of a century ago are now controlled. Traveling to a foreign country has been made as rapid as traveling to a nearby town. The best of music and art and literature are now available in quantity to be enjoyed by all of us.

The news from the other side of world now reaches us within seconds. The dangers from storm can be predicted with more exactness and sometimes disaster can be averted. Life expectancy has been lengthened. And our society is the most open and decent society known throughout the history of men.

But there remains poverty and disease and war. The older generation has not left a clean slate; but it is cleaner than the one it was left, and the next should be cleaner.

We should continue to be discontented with the world as it is and we should work to make it better. But we should also appreciate the work which has gone before, lest we lose what has been won in the past.

We have achieved so much as a nation, we are becoming impatient to achieve more and to solve our problems quickly. I am as anxious as anyone to solve our problems, but impatience breeds error. We must exercise optimism, rather than pessimism. Some of us seem more ready to condemn ourselves because some problems still exist and to congratulate other societies which have even more problems. The advocates of this approach have stood ready to flail the United States and its leaders, while eagerly defending the actions of closed societies, which are shrouded in a certain mystique. These voices have often been applauded by the young.

But I think most young people today, are beginning to catch on. They have begun to compare this society with others on a more realistic a d a more responsible basis. They are beginning to compare their country, not with Utopia, but with other societies as they really exist.

With the knowledge that our nation has a great past and greater potential for the future, I think that most young people are beginning to work with most of the rest of us for our nation's success.

This is encouraging. It should spur our optimism in our youth and in our future.

Senator John Tower has criticized the Democratic Presidential Candidate George McGovern's platform in the following statement:

"I urge the people of Texas to examine carefully the platform and public statements of Senator George McGovern and those who support him.

"Senator Henry Jackson, a prominent Democratic leader, recently stated that 'although Senator McGovern has adopted some of the extremist rhetoric and positions of the discredited campus radicals, recent polls show that most Americans are unaware of how far out he has gone.'

"A recent editorial in The Dallas Time Herald branded the McGovern platform 'the most profoundly radical program of action that America has been asked to swallow.'

"I agree wholeheartedly with these assessments.

"McGovernism would pursue forced busing of school children. 'I have been in the forefront of the fight to stop forced busing through administrative, legislative and even constitutional action.

"We have made some progress in reversing the trend, but federal judges are still ordering forced busing. If we abandon the fight now, forced busing will be pursued on a massive basis in the future.

"McGovern would make drastic cuts in our defense program. His proposed cuts would undoubtedly weaken our nation's defense posture as a deterrent to aggression and seriously weaken the Texas economy. This means the loss of American prestige and power and the loss of jobs for thousands of Texans employed in military and defense-related programs.

"McGovern has stated he would pull out immediately and completely from Vietnam even though, through our support, the South Vietnamese have finally contained the naked aggression of the North Vietnamese. Thousands of French prisoners of war captured in Vietnam during the 1950's have never been accounted for or released. We must not take such a high-risk gamble with the safety of American prisoners of war and missing in action presumed to be captured.

"McGovern favors amnesty for deserters and draft dodgers ignoring the sacrifices, including the supreme sacrifices, of thousands of Americans who have fought to uphold their nation's honor and commitments.

"Under the guise of tax reform, McGovern would destroy incentives for oil and gas exploration. He proposes these changes at a time when our nation faces an energy crisis, yet exploration stands at a 25-year low. Make no mistake about what these changes would mean. They would further reduce our dwindling supply of known domestic reserves, make America dependent on foreign resources, and eliminate the jobs of thousands of Texans employed in petroleum and petroleum-related industries.

"There are many other new proposals that should be studied carefully.

"In summation, I firmly believe that this McGovern program would be disastrous to our state and nation.

"My opponent, Mr. Sanders, in his announced support of McGovern, must bear the burden of this radical program now that the lines are drawn.

"If Mr. Sanders embraces this candidate and his platform, he will place narrow partisan considerations above the best interests of Texas.

"We face many serious problems and challenges, but there are no easy, quick solutions. President Nixon has provided responsible leadership and we must work together for solutions and progress through reasonable, responsible leadership.

"I urge the people of Texas to set aside party labels and consider what is best for our state and nation. I invite the support of any and all Texans to join with me to help defeat this radical program advanced by McGovern."

Money multiplies the power of man either for better or for worse.

COMMUNICATION

Telephone lines spread across our nation, giving us immediate contact with loved ones. Vital business is rapidly contracted through this medium.

Our linkage to God is prayer. Through prayer we can express our love, our thanks, and seek God's help.

"Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray."

Attend church, join others in fellowship and prayer to God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

Q. How do the Price Commission regulations on profit margins treat low-profit manufacturers, retailers and wholesalers operating at a loss?
 A. Manufacturers, retailers and wholesalers with sales of $1 million or more are permitted to increase any of their prices by an amount which will not result in a profit margin which exceeds their applicable profit margin as determined by consulting tables published in the March 9, 1972 Federal Register.
 Those firms with revenues of less than $1 million are permitted to increase any of their prices by an amount which will result in a profit margin that does not exceed three percent. Prices under the loss and low-profit rules can be adjusted to achieve the specified profit margin provided that no individual price is increased by more than eight percent. All other types of loss and low-profit manufacturers, retailers, and wholesalers must apply for an exception to obtain relief.
 Q. Now that retailers and wholesalers must use a new form, PC-10, to prenotify and report markups, do they have to refile for those increases prenotified or reported on the old PC-IR form?
 A. No. All filings previously submitted on the PC-IR do not have to be refiled. However, effective as of June 1, all future prenotifications and quarterly reports by retailers and wholesalers must be submitted on the new PC-10 form, which is now available at all local Internal Revenue offices.
 Q. My business was issued a notice for allegedly violating price controls. What happens at an IRS interview requested by a firm that has been issued a notice of violation?
 A. During the interview you will be informed of the particulars of your case that are alleged to show a violation of Economic Stabilization Program regulations and guidelines. In addition, sufficient facts, figures and legal analysis will be made available to you in order to acquaint you with the nature, basis and other essential elements of the alleged violation. You may, if you wish, be accompanied by counsel at this interview.
 Economic Stabilization regulations do not provide for an appeal from a notice of violation to the Price Commission, Pay Board of Cost of Living Council in Washington, D.C. The interview with the local District Director serves this purpose more conveniently since one or more IRS district offices are located in each state.
 For more information on notices of violation, see IRS Publication S-3024, "Violations of Economic Stabilization Program Regulations." It's available free by dropping a postcard.

Also, the drawings showing the proposed geometric design have been placed on file with Bailey County.
Information about the State's Relocation Assistance Program, the benefits and services for displacees and the relocation assistance office as well as information about the tentative schedules for acquisition of right-of-way and construction can be obtained at the Resident Engineer's Office.
Any interested citizen may request that a public hearing be held covering the social, economic and environmental effects of the proposed location and design for this highway project by delivering a written request to the Resident Engineer's Office, Box 868, Littlefield, Texas 79339 on or before August 15, 1972.
In the event such a request is received, a public hearing will be scheduled and adequate notice will be publicized about the date and location of the hearing.

NEW ARRIVALS

Pets Can Get Screwworms
The major influx of screwworms into Southern Texas recently is causing a terrific problem for livestock producers, but many pet owners have recently found that their pets can get this infection too. The female adult screwworm fly lays eggs on or near a raw spot or wound. The eggs hatch to form a larvae that looks much like a housefly maggot. The problem arises when the screwworm larvae burrow into the raw area and begin eating the live tissue. If this infection is not stopped, the damage continues to enormous proportions, leaving at least a large hole where the larvae eat and perhaps resulting in death.
Any wound or raw area should be treated immediately. If you find a small hole in your pet's skin, this must be treated. Remove all screwworm larvae if possible and call your veterinarian immediately. Depending on the severity of damage, it may be possible to clean up and suture the lesion.
Special care and observation of your pets will be necessary as long as the screwworm problem exists.

Toxaphene Used In Cattle Tick Dips

An amendment to federal regulations to allow use of toxaphene as a dip for cattle tick eradication has been adopted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Previously, the regulations governing inter-state movement of animals permitted use only of arsenic, dioxathion (Deltav) and coumaphos (Coral).

The amendment became effective upon signature by an official of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Both species of cattle ticks--Boophilus microplus and Boophilus annulatus--have been found in a quarantine zone in south Texas. The quarantine zone, necessary because of presence of the ticks in Mexico, extends from the mouth of the Rio Grande River 500 miles northwest to Amistad Dam near Del Rio and varies in width from a few feet to several miles. APHIS officials have alerted cattle owners to watch for ticks and to submit specimens for identification. If fever ticks are found, infested and exposed cattle are dipped in tick-killing baths at regular intervals for at least one year.

To protect fish and wildlife, officials warn that after dipping, animals must be kept out of streams and ponds for at least seven days. Tests made at Beltsville, Md., have shown that until that time elapses, animals retain enough dip solution on their legs and bodies to pollute water.

Public notice of the action is scheduled to be published in the Federal Register. Copies may be obtained by writing to Animal Health Programs, APHIS, USDA, Federal Center Building, Hyattsville, Md. 20782.
