Council Elects Officers For Year

At a meeting last night of the Pampa Council of Social Agencies, officers were elected and the constitution and by-laws of the newly formed organization heard and approved.

The officers elected were: J. B. Massa, president; Herman Whalley, vice president; and Mrs. Jack Foster, secretary.

Appointed to the board of directors, in addition to the officers mentioned above, are: Rev. Ronald Hubbard, McHenry Lane, C. P. Buckler, Fred Thompson, Dr. M. C. Overton, Mrs. Frank Culbertson, C. C. Whitney, Bill Loving, and Arthur Teed.

The idea of a "community council" was presented several months ago, as a move to prevent the duplication of effort which it was felt at that time was being done. At that time a survey of youth activities and interests, as well as the social work being done for many causes was made and reported on. It was found that many agencies within the community were undertaking the same charitable projects, with the result that little if no progress was being made, by either of them and some areas were being neglected.

A recommendation was then made for a council that would coordinate and promulgate the activities of all the community clubs and organizations. This would not take away the sovereignty of any organization over a project of their

Making Gifts Senior Citizens Meeting Topic

Demonstrations on making Christmas gifts and decorations highlighted the meeting of the Senior Citizens Center Thursday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library.

Miss Helen Dunlap, County home demonstration agent, showed how to make a miniature Christmas tree from a cotton plant and how to make a corsage using other parts of the plant. She demonstrated the preparing of a "frothing" for an angel-food cake using puffed rice, over which syrup is poured, and maraschino cherries. She explained popcorn may be used instead of the puffed rice.

The group was also shown how to make a Christmas wreath using a coat hanger to which brightly wrapped hard candies are attached. Miss Dunlap also demonstrated how to make Christmas corsages from life savers and "red-hot" candies.

Second part of the program was presented by Pete Swindle, who showed how to make wood carvings, using a simple pocket knife. He explained what woods to use and what to carve out of certain types and shapes of wood. He pointed out that hard wood is better for carving as soft wood chips too easily.

Swindle demonstrated the making of a continuous link chain from one piece of wood. Christmas items he showed the group how to make included ash trays, miniature cowboy boots for earrings or watch fobs and small toys for children.

The group was also shown how to carve figurines and how to block off the piece of wood to give the figurine proper proportion. Swindle dealt briefly with wood-relief pictures, which he explained require a few specialized tools.

On display were various pieces of handwork and outstanding handicraft articles brought by members, as well as a collection of Swindle's wood carvings.

During the business session, it was announced that the team of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris won the day's contest, over the team of Mrs. J. L. Love and Earl Lane. The teams are competing to see which can have the most members present at each meeting. The contest will continue for a month.

Refreshments, served by members of the Pampa Altruism Club which is sponsoring the Center, followed a Halloween motif.

Next meeting will be a party for birthday members who have had birthdays during September, and October and who will have birthdays during November. Future plans include having a birthday party each month, stated Mrs. Frank Lard and Mrs. W. A. York, co-chairmen of the project.

The Senior Citizens Center meets at 2:30 p.m. each Thursday in the Lovett library and is for Pampans who are 65 years of age and over.

Chinese Mobs Strike Singapore

By ROBERT UDICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

SINGAPORE (UP) — Chinese mobs attacked police today in Singapore in what was feared to be the start of a Communist drive to win control of this British outpost. Police fired at the crowds and several persons were reported injured.

It was the second straight day of violence touched off by a government crackdown on Communists.

Fighting flared in the center of the city, at Raffles Place, and British army troops promptly cordoned off the area. At least two persons were wounded when police fired on a mob attempting to overturn a patrol car.

Fighting also was reported on cross streets in the heart of the Chinese district where rioters attempted to overturn lorries and clashed with police.

Several hundred students clashed with police in downtown Singapore but were dispersed with tear gas.

Singapore authorities appealed to the federation of Malaya for assistance this morning and the first Malayan police units moved in hours later.

LEARN TO EAT RIGHT, before you learn to eat less! Beauty begins with the food you eat says a recent "Beginning of Beauty" issue of "Seventeen" magazine, which offers a new daily food guide for teenagers to help girls eat better, feel better, and look better!

"Dietitians tell us that America's teen-age girls are her most underfed group," reports the magazine. "This means that their diets are low in one or more of the nutrients demanded by the body. They are passing up a daily beauty treatment."

To help girls learn to eat for beauty, magazine representatives talked to nutritionists and educators across the country and developed this new daily food guide:

1. Milk, cheese, ice cream
 2. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs
 3. Fruits
 4. Vegetables
 5. Bread, cereals, flour
 6. Sweets, fats (in moderation)
- Eat this way every day to make you feel so wonderful on the inside that it shows on the outside.

TAKE your grooming advice from the best - groomed girls around, says the magazine, which also features the beauty secrets of a teen-age model.

Here are the round-the-clock beauty secrets from model, Carolyn Lee, to help make you a prettier girl from head to toe!

1. Carolyn's day begins the night before, with an early bedtime to assure clear eyes and skin.

2. She's early to rise for a leisurely shower, meticulous make-up and a hearty breakfast.

3. She shampoos her hair every third morning, between times, puts it clean with witch hazel on cotton.

4. Her skin treatment includes a healthy diet, cleansing at least twice a day and occasional mild stimulation with astringent. Dry skins need extra doses of cream; oily ones, the discipline of cleansing grains.

5. When a skin problem occurred, Carolyn went to a dermatologist who supervised her diet, prescribed a healing lotion for her face and recommended a medicated make-up base. (Later he removed her few acne scars with carbon dioxide slush.)

6. Carolyn's dressing table holds lipsticks in the three red tones - blue, true and orange red, and she carefully brushes on the shade that chimes with her dress.

7. Every day Carolyn packs her make-up, jewelry and under-props needed for the day's assignments, into an oversized tote bag. Special props include several clean combs and an apple to nibble when she feels tempted toward a gooney snore.

8. Carolyn never falls into bed without brushing her teeth; always takes time to brush her hair; never succumbs to the temptation of fattening snacks.

Manners
Make Friends

It is never a good idea to borrow another person's car. Even when a friend offers to lend you his automobile the safest thing is to say,

"No, thank you." Car ownership carries heavy responsibilities and so an automobile should never be lent or borrowed.

Just think of the possible consequences!

Parker Heads Committee For Judges

Gray County Judge Bruce Parker was voted chairman of the rules and by-laws committee at a recent meeting of the West Texas County Judges Association. The meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo.

The committee of which Parker is head is comprised of five members, all of whom are county judges. The other four are: W. D. Henson, Dallam County; Claude T. Shelton, Swisher County; Jack E. Gray, Donley County; and Vance Gilbreath, of Motley County.

The purpose of the committee is to formulate a uniform policy as regards to utilities, oil company dealings, and to make their wishes known in the state convention.

Judge Parker said that the county judges heard and approved his plan to advocate at the coming state convention of county judges that some form of liaison group be appointed to stay in Austin during the time that the legislature is in session so that the counties can get needed legislation passed.

The state wide county judges convention will meet in San Antonio on Nov. 14 and last until the 16th.

At this time, one of the committee's strongest points and an emphatic proposal will be the adoption of such a committee as mentioned above.

Under the present system whenever a county finds it needs some form of legislation passed, a letter is sent to the State Legislature in Austin. This, however, does not guarantee that the proposal will not be misconstrued or receive adequate attention.

Under Parker's proposal, a committee representing all the counties, would be informed on the bill in question, and would stay in Austin while the legislature was in session to assure accurate interpretation of the bills submitted or needs of the county.

The rules and by laws committee will meet once more, on Nov. 21 and the entire West Texas County Judges Association will meet on Dec. 19, just prior to the meeting of the State Legislature.

Hotel Stock Is Topic Of Program At Lions Club

The campaign to sell stock in a new community owned hotel for Pampa was the topic of the program at the meeting of the Pampa Lions Club at its luncheon meeting yesterday.

Myatt briefly reviewed the history of the efforts made in Pampa to obtain a modern hotel. He told of the work done several years ago and of the more recent survey which resulted in obtaining the services of the Hockenbury System to direct a stock selling campaign in Pampa.

Dix stated that Pampa had reached a point where the only solution to the hotel situation is to build a modern community owned hotel. Any other solution at the present time would only be postponing the issue, he stated.

In answer to the question of why a corporation was not contacted to build a hotel in Pampa, Dix stated that the present cost of building a hotel and the low rate of return was not enough to attract a private corporation to make the investment. He stated that under present conditions a return of five or six per cent was insufficient for a larger investor.

He went on to state that investment in hotel stock was not a way to make a quick return on a modest one. Dix stated and there are only two ways an investor in a community owned hotel will get returns. The first one, Dix reported, was the small financial return realized and the second was the growth of the investor's own business and the growth of the community.

Dix stated that the average person spending the night in a town would spend about $23, according to national statistics. The only way Pampa can obtain this money, he stated, was for Pampa to have modern hotel facilities.

Dix concluded by stating, "It's either going to be a new hotel for Pampa by Dec. 1 or it will probably be 20 years before Pampa gets a new hotel." He explained this statement by saying that if the present campaign fails it will probably be a long time before enough men and women will be interested to try another campaign.

Martin Luther Movie Here

The motion picture "Martin Luther," will be shown at the First Presbyterian Church, at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 28 in connection with Reformation Sunday.

First produced for the commercial market by the Louis Day Rochmont Associates in cooperation with Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., the film was selected by the New York Times, the Philadelphia Enquirer and the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures as one of the ten best motion pictures of the year.

Now in 16 mm form for showing in churches, the film has a running time of 103 minutes. Generally speaking, the film will be of no interest for children under nine or ten, but for adults it is rated as outstanding in the field of church history. Dr. Ronald Bainton of Yale Divinity School, author of "Here I Stand," was technical consultant for this film.

At the Sunday Morning Worship Service Rev. Ronald Hubbard will have as his sermon subject "What is Protestantism?" The choir will sing the anthem "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones" a 17th century tune arranged by Heller.

There will be no regular service of worship this Sunday evening. Since this is Reformation Sunday, the film will be shown from 5:30 to 8:00 p.m. in the Sanctuary. A brief introductory worship service will be led by the Senior High Westminster Fellowship, and a social hour with coffee and cookies will follow in the basement.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

At Bethlehem Community Center, Atlanta, Georgia, a project of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions, there was dedicated recently a new building to house the center's activities. Part of the funds used in construction of the building came from the Methodist Church's Crusade for Christ. The service of dedication was conducted by Bishop J.W.E. Bowen, bishop of the Atlanta Coast Area of the Methodist Church. Organized in 1944, the Bethlehem Center in Atlanta is one of the more than 100 urban centers sponsored by the Woman's Division. The Atlanta center serves an area located near two large housing projects, a public elementary school, and the Carver Vocational School.

During the coming months United Church Women will sponsor across the nation a series of some thirty two-day workshops on human relations. The workshops are possible through a grant of $10,000, made to United Church Women by the Fund for the Republic for "educational work in race relations."

The first workshops will be held in New York with the cooperation of the Manhattan Council of Church Women on October 24-25. To be held in key communities, the workshops will aim to increase church women's knowledge in the area of civil rights and civil liberties; to unite the strength of church women as they seek to secure justice for all peoples; to help make the total community aware of the implications and dangers in the denial of rights to any person; to provide methods and practices for use in working with others in situations of tension; to help church women to learn how to deal with controversy, how to work with persons who hold a different viewpoint without alienating them; how to create fellowship and understanding among those who hold opposite views.

Miss Dorothy Zia of Hong Kong, who was "named after Dorothy Galbraith, a most exemplary Christian doctor," is a Methodist Crusade Scholar studying at Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas. For twenty-eight years her father, the Rev. Z. K. Zia, a third-generation minister, was editor of the Christian Literature Society in Shanghai, resigning that post when "the press was no longer free." Miss Zia was born in Shanghai and entered school there during the Japanese occupation.

Church News

Editor's Note: Since reading in many newspapers the naming each week of a football player designated as "player of the week," and in view of the fact that not all great victories are fought and-or won on the gridiron, it has been decided by this paper to run, starting next Friday, a series of articles entitled "Layman of the Week."

This, in effect, will be the procedure: The pastor of each church in Pampa will be contacted, one a week, and asked to name layman from his church who, in the individual pastor's opinion, or in the opinion of any committee set up by him for the naming of such a candidate, has done much in the aid and advancement of his church.

To start this series, Rev. William E. West, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, has agreed to name a member of that church as "Layman of the Week." This will be run next Friday, complete with a picture and brief resume.

Distinguished Speaker At First Methodist

A series of Evangelistic Services will be conducted at the First Methodist Church starting Sunday night at 7:30 and continuing with services twice daily in the Sanctuary at 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. There will also be Bible study each morning at 10:30 a.m. Dr. McFerrin Stowe, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Oklahoma City, will do the preaching.

Sunday morning at 8:30 a.m. and 10:55 a.m. the pastor, Woodrow Adcock, will be preaching, using as his subject "Today's Opportunity" (Ezther 4:14).

Roy Johnson will direct the singing and music for the special evangelistic services and Woodrow Adcock will give general oversight to the services.

Dr. McFerrin Stowe is pastor of one of the six largest Methodist Congregations in the world, having more than six thousand members. He was born in Tennessee and attended Hendrix College in Arkansas and Duke University in North Carolina. He has a Ph.D. degree from Boston University and has received honorary Doctor's degrees from several colleges. He has served as professor of religion in several colleges and is in constant demand as a speaker for college and high school youth groups and for civic clubs. He has served pastorates at Houston, Texas and Stillwater, Okla., before going to his present pastorate. He has also contributed to the writing of several books and religious journals. His sermon topics for each evening at 7:30 are as follows:

Sunday — "An Endless Line of Splendor";
Monday — "The Commonest Sin";
Tuesday — "How To Save The American Home";
Wednesday — "Life's Three Choices";
Thursday — "Christ Died For Our Sins"; and Friday — "Return Unto The Lord".

The sermon topics for each morning at 7 a.m. are as follows:
Monday — "Why I Believe In God";
Tuesday — "How To Wait Upon The Lord";
Wednesday — "How To Have A Dynamic Faith";
Thursday — "Turn Your Imagination Loose"; and Friday — "I Saw The Lord".
A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend these services.

Christian Science Service

How spiritual understanding of God's goodness overcomes evil will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson - Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment" will include the following selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (71:15): "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil."

Among the passages to be read from the King James Version of the Bible is the following (Isa. 35:10): "And the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away."

The Golden Text is from Lamentations (3:39,40): "Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins? Let us search and try our Lord."

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. BILL SPARKS
Immanuel Temple
Pampa, Texas

"Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? Behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest." (John 4:35)

As we read our text, we understand that Jesus is speaking of the world as the harvest field. He tells us to lift up our eyes and look on the fields and in so doing we see people who are dying by the thousands without the knowledge of our Saviour.

Our neighboring country to the south, Mexico, is in dire need of the Gospel of salvation.

A few months ago, we were privileged to take a trip to Mexico City, and to visit numerous churches there. While there, we saw the needs of the people were great. Many folks do not know what it means to own a pair of shoes, so they arrive for the services in their bare feet. Spiritually, physically, and financially they stand in need of help, but most of all they are hungry to be fed spiritually, which is quite evident by the tremendous crowds which rally to the churches that preach a heart-felt religion. Churches with a seating capacity of 150 may have more than twice that many people trying to crowd their way in, with many standing outside about the windows, trying to hear the service. Surely in Mexico the fields are white unto harvest.

Mexico does not stand alone in its need for the Gospel, but we find that very nation upon the face of the earth needs more of the Word of God.

I am reminded of a story told by a missionary to India. He related that one day as he was passing alongside a river, he noticed a woman with two of her children standing on the river bank. One little boy was a hunch-back cripple and the other was a beautiful child, and the perfect picture of health. He journeyed on his way and accomplished his mission and upon his return, he found that the beautiful child was missing. He began to question the woman as to why she would sacrifice the perfect child instead of the cripple to the Gods of the river. She replied, "What! And not give my God the best?" These people and many, many thousands of others need the true Gospel. Truly the harvest is white and the labourers are few. We must arise and do our duty while it yet day, for the night cometh when no man can work.

Vote For Andrews

We are being asked with recurring frequency to endorse a presidential candidate and a political party. Most of those who turn to us want to know whether we will endorse Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Stevenson.

We have taken a good look at the platforms of both major parties and their standard bearers. We don't like what we see. If we were compelled to choose between the two, we would undoubtedly give our nod to Mr. Eisenhower. There are many things he has done, however, with which we cannot agree.

In point of fact we feel that were we to vote for him we would be voting for the "lesser of two evils." But we do not feel that such voting is in the public interest. It should not be necessary for any American to vote for an evil, even a "lesser" one.

Fortunately, we are not so compelled.

We cannot, of course, endorse Mr. Stevenson. His connection with the socialistically dominated Democratic party is just too much for us to approve. The Americans for Democratic Action are with Stevenson. So also are the slave makers, the AFL-CIO. Stevenson is out, so far as we are concerned.

But Mr. Eisenhower has demonstrated that regardless of what the GOP stands for, he is going to go along with more socialism, too. The political henchmen who move freely through the portals of the White House have, with or without Mr. Eisenhower's consent, propelled this country even further toward an abrogation of our Constitution, greater and larger government, more taxes, support of socialist empires abroad, and extended subsidies and other types of vote buying here at home. To us, both major parties, per se, and both leading candidates, are unacceptable. Then what can we do?

There are three courses open to us and to those who feel as we do. These alternatives have been most skillfully enumerated by Harry Everingham, executive vice president of "We, the People," a patriotic coalition which met recently in Chicago. Mr. Everingham has outlined his views in a letter to Dean Clarence Manion, and so far as we can learn, these views coincide with those put out by Mr. Manion through his own great organization, "For America."

Here, then, are the alternatives for patriots who reject Stevenson outright and who wish to oppose more of the same via Mr. Eisenhower.

Vote for T. Coleman Andrews and Thomas Werdel.

In endorsing the candidacy of Andrews and Werdel we are under no illusions respecting their chances of winning. We think such chances are almost non-existent. But we do feel that if the patriots of this country turn out in sufficient number to register a fairly heavy marking for them, it will serve as a protest against more and more socialism coming to us through either the Republican or Democratic parties. And, quite frankly, we would like to see the entrenched politicians frightened by such a protest.

Mr. Andrews was the former Collector of Internal Revenue. He is conversant with big government and big taxes. He says he doesn't like either one. He has called for a total revision of our national taxing picture.

Thomas Werdel, a former California congressman, did yeoman service while in Washington in helping to point out that this nation is rapidly coming under the control of a political-military coterie which is turning this nation from a land of freedom into a Spartan armed camp.

Both of these men, in their avowed position, are preferable to either Eisenhower or Stevenson. Count this as our endorsement of them.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Cramps occurring in the legs at night must be quite common, since I am constantly receiving inquiries on this subject. Today's first question is an example.

Q - My husband, who is 47, has played a lot of tennis and basketball in his day. Now he is frequently wakened out of a sound sleep by cramps in his legs. What can you suggest? - Mrs. A. T.

A - I should doubt that this is related to his previous athletic history, since many people who have been much less active in their youth also develop cramps in the legs. Actually, this symptom is not restricted to middle-aged or older people, as it sometimes occurs in those who are quite young.

There is some uncertainty as to the exact cause. Cramps may occur when the respiration of the muscle tissue in the legs is interfered with, as the result of poor local blood circulation. The availability of sugar to the muscle fibers and the concentration of calcium in the blood may also play a part. What treatment to employ, therefore, depends on what can be found. Another point is that these cramps are present at night, usually when the legs are warmer than in the daytime. It is possible that if they are kept cooler at night, there would be less trouble. A few obtain relief from medication.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Who's Behind The War On Business?"

The October 19 issue of "U. S. News & World Report" has an 18-page article by Dr. Ludwig von Mises on "What's Behind The War On Business." The magazine thought so much of the article that it used the first cover page to feature it.

I first had my attention called to Dr. von Mises by an economist who told me von Mises was the most practical economist now living. He had written several books. One of them was called "Socialism."

I went to my book store and told them I wanted them to order this book for me. They looked it up and told me it was a $6 book and that maybe I'd better get it out of the library and see if I wanted to pay $6 for it. This I did and after I had read 25 pages, I went to the book seller and said, "Get me this book," which they did.

Later, Dr. von Mises wrote a 1,000-page book, "Human Action," which is about as thorough a treatise on economics as I ever ran across. It concluded a lot of the material from his former books. I thought his ideas were so practical, and if people better understood what causes goodwill and prosperity we would not be into one war after another.

I, therefore, arranged with Dr. von Mises, who lived in New York, to pay his transportation to Santa Ana and his lecture fee to give a free lecture on the causes of war. His primary thesis of what brings on war was government interference, especially protective tariffs. He had the same beliefs on that as Bastiat, who 100 years ago said, "Where goods do not cross borderlines because of protective tariffs, soldiers do."

While Dr. von Mises was in Santa Ana I had him in my home. I got the full value of the cost of his transportation and his lecture fee and the cost of the high school auditorium from one statement he made to me in my home. His statement was: "It would have been much better to let the banks that overextended credit go broke one at a time and let the stock holders and depositors suffer than to have the government step in and try to save the banks that had over extended credit and the result will be that the dollar would become worth less and less and finally go out the ceiling by inflation." That prediction is proving to be true.

It is claimed that Dr. von Mises was the first man that some 40 years ago had pointed out that all depressions were the aftermath of credit inflation. Of course, the government stepping in during the 1930 depression and adding inflation on inflation is only a way of delaying the final reckoning.

The article in the "U. S. News and World Report" is a summary of Dr. von Mises' new book, "The Anti-Capitalist Mentality." Dr. von Mises was born in Europe, taught at the University of Vienna and at the Graduate Institute of Studies in Geneva, Switzerland. He came to the United States in 1940 - thus has a keen insight into both the European and United States economy.

Dr. von Mises explains that the laissez faire economy is an economy where the customer is the boss; that the men who become owners of large capital are the men who see what the masses want and produce it for them for less than they can get it from other less efficient producers.

"Urge for Economic Betterment" Under the heading "The Urge for Economic Betterment" he writes: "Under capitalism the common man enjoys amenities which in ages gone by were unknown and therefore inaccessible even to the richest people. But of course, these comforts, television sets and refrigerators do not make a man happy. In the instant in which he acquires them, he may feel happier than he did before. But as soon as some of his wishes are satisfied, new wishes spring up. Such is human nature.

"Few Americans are fully aware of the fact that their country enjoys the highest standard of living and that the way of life of the average American appears as fabulous and out of the reach to the immense majority of people inhabiting non-capitalist countries." "Most people believe what they have and could possibly acquire, and crave those things which are inaccessible to them. It would be idle to lament this insatiable appetite for more and more goods. This list is precisely the impulse which leads man on the way toward economic betterment. To content oneself with what one has already got or can easily get, and to abstain apathetically from any attempts to improve one's own material conditions, is not a virtue. Such an attitude is rather an animal behavior than conduct of reasonable human beings. Man's most characteristic mark is that he never ceases in endeavor to advance his well-being by purposive activity.

Stevenson Once Claimed Reds To Be Trustworthy

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There were a couple of thousand reporters at the two Democratic conventions which nominated Adlai Stevenson, but if you ask yourself "who is this fellow?" and "who put him over on us?" you will not know the answers. Of course, we know he went to Princeton, burrowed into the New Deal in 1933 and, in the second war, was an assistant to Frank Knox, who promised Alf Landon that he would not let Roosevelt suck him into the War Administration but accepted as Secretary of the Navy after Landon had turned down Secretary of War. Landon and Knox had been the Republican ticket in 1936 and Landon thought they ought to keep the Party aloof and make Roosevelt mind his own baby as he and his brain trust had sneeringly refused to help Hoover in 1932.

Landon burned when Knox double-crossed him and they never spoke again. Knox knew nothing about the Navy, but Adlai Stevenson knew less than half of that and yet Knox picked him as one of his assistants. In that role Adlai had the gall to lay it down to Rear Admiral Adolphus Station, who was throwing Communist radio-men over our merchant ships, that Communists were not untrustworthy. He ordered them reinstated although their American Communications Association of the CIO was as red as a bloody shirt. Later, Mervyn Rathbone, the president of the ACA, drove his flivver through the White House portico and parked the chassis and the body and his wife for almost a week on his way from New York to San Francisco.

During the war I spent two days in the Naval District Office at San Diego and read stacks of secret reports showing that the radio communications of our Merchant Marine were a Soviet apparatus. In one instance an American Air Force plane far out over the Pacific asked an American freighter for data on its position. Instead of giving help, the radio man on the ship asked, "Are you a union man?"

Orders were issued that these reports be burned late in the war and I suppose they were. Stevenson first showed up in the New Deal as assistant general counsel of the administration of the unconstitutional Agricultural Adjustment Act. He knew nothing about farming and there is no explanation of his selection for this job in this bureau except a surmise under the principle of the division barism. "There is but one means available to improve the material conditions of mankind: to accelerate the growth of capital accumulated as against the growth in population. The greater the amount of capital invested per head of the worker, the more and the better goods can be produced and consumed." (To be continued)

The Marxist principle that there is no such thing as heredity has resulted in much starvation in the Soviet Union and shows that man-made notions, no matter how fanatically held, can not repeal the laws of nature. The cross-breeding of Kansas wheat with winter wheat from Georgia (in the Crimea) enabled the American farmer to produce more crops that resisted frost. The continual introduction of herds (until the Longhorns have virtually become eliminated) has increased the quantity and quality of American beef. These facts are true, whether or not Marx approved of them. And the scarcity of nourishing food in Russia proves the folly of allowing political dogma to interfere with the incentive of practical experimentation. JACK MOFFITT and that he heard chain-talkers discussing a mission to turn the United States into a new kind of Socialist state. "To them Russia was the promised land," Peek wrote, "and the sooner the United States became like Russia, the better for everyone."

Before the 1952 Democratic convention Stevenson was just one of many undistinguished governors of our states. He was Governor of Illinois. Behind that, he was the grandson of a nonentity vice president under Cleveland who had nothing to do and did nothing quite well. So who picked Stevenson in 1952 and shoved him through again this year? The Democratic voters certainly did not do it. Nor can it reasonably be argued that the rank and file hacks of the state organizations picked him. He was picked higher up for reasons to be divined from his record.

McCarthy Is Now A Quiet And Temperate Person

By RAY TUCKER

(Editors Note - Once weekly, Ray Tucker answers questions of general interest on national and international problems and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.)

WASHINGTON - "I have read," writes Mrs. T. W. M., Jr., of Houston, Tex., "that the bombastic Senator Joseph McCarthy has changed into a quiet and temperate person. How did such a transformation come about?"

Answer: I think the explanation is simple. When Senator McCarthy was browbeating Army officers and Cabinet members, he was the chairman of a powerful Senate Committee, and such a position inflates a man. It is almost impossible for people to realize how great an authority a Congressional Committee Chairman enjoys, or why fellow-members permit him to exercise it as a czar. One answer is that they all hope to become Chairman some day, and enjoy the same dictatorial inflation.

But quite a few depressing and depreciating things have happened to the member from Wisconsin. He has been censured by a Senate majority. He is now just another Senator in, figuratively, the rear row.

He suffered popular repudiation when he backed Representative Glenn R. Davis against Senator Alexander Wiley in the Wisconsin Senatorial primary. He opposed Wiley because the latter had supported President Eisenhower's foreign policy as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Finally, and most importantly, McCarthy must run again in 1958, and he probably feels that he needs some gentling and reforming. A man will do almost anything within reason and the law to save his seat and neck - on Capitol Hill, and McCarthy is no exception.

"Can you tell us something about the Constitution Party, which is headed by T. Coleman Andrews of Richmond, Va.?" asks RWO, of Pampa, Texas. "If he is on the ballot, we will sure go for him!"

Answer: Mr. Andrews, who served for a time as Collector of Internal Revenue by President Eisenhower's appointment, represents a conservative, protest movement. He favors decentralization of Federal powers, preservation of states' rights against infringement of Washington, and abolition of the income tax.

Although under different Party designations, his name has been placed on the ballot by petition in 14 states, mostly in the South, according to my last count. Both Parties are fearful of the effect, which his candidacy may have on their fortunes.

Since Stevenson is far to the left of Eisenhower, it would seem that Andrews would do more damage to the Democrats than to Ike. In fact, if he polls enough votes, he might help Eisenhower in such states as Texas, Florida, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

"Why did not President Eisenhower approve the mailman's pay raise?" inquires Mrs. A. S. of Bronxville, N.Y. "They say that Truman gave them a raise, but that President Eisenhower would not sign such a bill. Why? And tell me why, when a private company refuses a raise, the man just forget it. But when the government does it, they find all manner of fault."

Answer: President Eisenhower did approve an increase for postal employees, but not as large a boost as they thought justified. He seeks to reduce or eliminate the Post Office deficit, but Congress has persistently refused to increase postal rates. I think the fault lies with Congress as much as with the White House.

Federal employees complain against raise rejections. I think, because they occupy the dual role of taxpayers and workers, as part-time bosses and as the bossed.

HEIDELBERG - Germany is the only country I know of in Europe where an American can't get a drink of water in a restaurant. You can get it from the French, the English, the Italians, and even the Greeks and the Turks. To be sure, it will be accompanied by a look that brands you as preposterous, but you'll get it.

I am positive that the refusal of the Germans to bring an American a glass of water with his meal isn't based on meanness or stubbornness. In every other way they are a charming, gracious people and apparently bear us no grudge.

I have come to the conclusion: To prepare their soups, most unassailable grounds of all - they just don't have any water to bring. To ask for water is the same as asking for Bismarck's waistcoat or a cup of hot hemlock.

What do they use to wash their dishes? To prepare their soups? To make their coffee? I haven't the faintest idea, but it surely isn't water. The most reasonable guess would be beer or wine.

You have to stay in Germany for a while to grasp fully the importance of beer to the people. They don't look upon beer as we look upon it. It is not merely a sideline to life - something to be advertised in competition with other retail goods. Spending thousands of dollars to educate Germans to drink beer, to appreciate its fine qualities, would be an utter waste of money. One might as well teach them to breathe air, pick flowers, or eat sauerkraut.

A German is born with a taste for beer, just as he is born with ears and a liking for riding a motorcycle in the rain. Towns which don't have post offices have their own breweries. I don't know the exact figure (for the rough one, for that matter) but there must be ten thousand brands of beer in Germany.

Several of the larger breweries use billboards and newspaper ads to keep their names before the public, but the vast majority of them are content to remain in obscurity and trust to the local burghers to swallow all their putup.

I eat every once in a while at the Red Oxen, the celebrated student restaurant, and although I have yet to get a glass of water, I get a smiling "ya" when I ask for water, but there the matter ends. What do American do for water with their meals? I don't know about the rest of them, but I have solved the problem by wearing a canteen on my belt. An old army canteen. It isn't stylish, and would preclude my ever being chosen as a fashion leader, but it serves its purpose well. It also confounds the Germans. Not the canteen - they know what it is. But they nearly all want to know what the strange liquid is that I pour from it. When I say "water" they look in disbelief.

They also look in disbelief when you order coffee with your meal. And they never bring it until after you have finished your meal. This, I am sure, is based on what they feel is kindness. When you say you would like coffee with your meal, they say to themselves, "The man has made a mistake and doesn't know it. So I will not say anything about it, and just bring him his coffee later, which is really when he wants it."

This differs from England, where you can get your coffee with your meal all right, but where the waiter removes your plate the second he puts the coffee on the table. He is positive that you have finished eating, else you wouldn't want your coffee. I have lost many a half-finished plate of food this way - unless the waiter has served you coffee with your meal, you must lean protectively over your plate and growl menacingly. "It doesn't make for a pretty picture, but it helps toward a full stomach."

Heard Through The Barryl

By BARRY A. LITTMANN
Pampa News Sports Editor

The time has come to take another look into the Crystal Ball and prophesy the events on the high school and college gridiron for the coming week end. Last week, the Ball hit 17 of 22 games right with one game exact. This week, the only thing that the Ball is certain of is that the Pampa Harvesters have the week off.

HIGH SCHOOL SELECTIONS:
Perryton over Childress
Pappahde over Canadian Clarendon over Lefors
Stinnett over White Deer
Groom over Spearman
Wheeler over Lakeview
Memphis over McLean
Quannah over Shamrock

COLLEGE FORECASTS:
Miami 21, TCU 14; Swink and Wineburg won't be enough to stop the powerful Hurricanes. However, Swink's a hard man to hold in check two weeks in a row. Tough game here.

Mississippi 28, Arkansas 12; Paige Cothren will run 'em and kick 'em to death. Don't look for an upset here, I don't think.

Rice 20, Texas 14; The Owls should have enough hoot in them to hold the Longhorns at bay.

Baylor 21, Texas A&M 18; Don't ask me why. The Bears' Shofner is out with a busted arm and the Aggies are coming off a 7-6 victory over the Horned Frogs. I guess because Baylor rested last week and the usual post victory let down should follow here.

Michigan State 42, Illinois 14; An ideal spot for an upset, but don't think there is a team in the country that can stop Kowalczyk and Peaks. These guys were down 7-0 against the Irish at one time and look what happened.

Northwestern 18, Indiana 7; No special reason here other than the fact that the Wildcats are the better ball club.

they say in Brooklyn, wait 'til next year.

Georgia Tech 32, Tulane 7; Tulane is the surprise team in the South this year, but what a surprise the Green Wave is going to be in for when Messrs. Tippy Vaan, Wade Mitchell, Johnny Menger, Paul Rotenberry and the rest of Bobby Dodd's ten - second men get through running around.

Duke 26, North Carolina State 13; Sonny Jurgenson, if he feels all right, will fill the air so full of pigskins that the Wolfpack will think it's raining football.

Mississippi State 34, Alabama 7; Boy, is the Crimson Tide running low and bloody this year. Poor 'Bama.

Florida 19, LSU 12; The 'Gators ought to rip the Tigers up here. Florida has a huge forward wall, and some backs who don't know the word quit.

North Carolina 21, Wake Forest 13; Maybe Jim Tatum's got things in working order up in Tar Heel territory now. On that assumption, we'll go along with the Tars over the Deacons.

Houston 27, Auburn 13; Could be wrong here, but that's no new story. Harold Lewis, the Pampa Jackrabbit, ought to show his heels to the Plainsmen - along with the rest of the best Cougar crew.

West Virginia 19, Penn State 14; Don't think the Nittany Lions will be up enough to stop the Mountaineers who are no palates in their own right.

THIS IS GOLF—Many people will ask that question tomorrow when they watch Joe Kirkwood in action at the Pampa Country Club at 3:00 p. m. This great golfer will put on his exhibition of trick shots after playing a nine-hole exhibition.

Joe Kirkwood Entertains At Pampa CC Tomorrow

The visit of Joe Kirkwood Sr., to the Pampa Country Club course, certainly is a fitting end to a successful season that has just been concluded.

Kirkwood, a world renowned golfer, has played better than 5,000 courses all over the world, entertaining millions of people with exhibitions, and at the same time, managing to card respectable scores along tournament trail.

In spite of his advancing years, Kirkwood has managed to keep his golf close to a par standard and his trick shot exhibition has to be seen to be believed. It is a truism when one says that Kirkwood antics are not only instructional but a long laugh for better than sixty minutes.

Like a concert pianist, he practices assiduously to keep his performance up to the high standard he has set for himself. He is a non-smoker, a teetotaler and never lets anything interfere with his game or the improvement of it.

To the student of the game, Kirkwood's skill and dexterity with all clubs makes it pretty obvious that a live pair of hands is the answer to the interesting fact that as keen as golfers are, only 10 per cent of amateurs in any single club can boast of a single figure handicap. Joe Kirkwood in his exhibition will provide ample food for thought to the expert and novice alike.

Those who have not seen Kirkwood in action before and those who will see him again Saturday are undoubtedly in for a wonderful afternoon's entertainment. Better bring your best watch along too. It may be waterproof and, as advertised, stand up to any climate, but it will enhance its value when Kirkwood takes a shot off its face. This will call for steady hands and all of Kirkwood's skill.

Sooner-Irish TV Game Tops Nation's Big Card

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer
The Oklahoma - Notre Dame game at South Bend, Ind., Saturday is listed as the "big game" on college football's week end program, but there are several other battles which will have a direct bearing on conference championships and bowl berths.

Clemson got an early start on Saturday's heroes Thursday by edging South Carolina, 7-0, in their annual "Big Thursday" game at Columbia, S.C. The Tigers' victory enabled them to take over undisputed possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference and moved them a step nearer to a New Year's Day engagement in the Orange Bowl.

Although Iowa is one of the 10 major perfect record teams remaining, the Hawkeyes are five-point underdogs against Purdue. Georgia Tech is a 13-point favorite over Tulane but will have to be on its toes against the Greenies, who have knocked off Navy and Mississippi in their last two games.

Another wing-ding battle is expected at Waco, Tex., where ninth-ranked Baylor will entertain seventh-ranked Texas A&M in an important Southwest Conference clash. Baylor is unbeaten in four games, but the Aggies are the favorites off their upset victory over Texas Christian last week.

If Stanford can get by Southern California in their Pacific Coast Conference "pick 'em" game the Indians will be on the road to the Rose Bowl. But Chuck Taylor's young men will have to stop the Trojans' Jon Arnett, who will be playing his final college game.

In the other major conferences, Princeton can tie Yale for the Ivy League lead by beating Cornell, Colorado hopes to remain unbeaten in the Big Seven against Nebraska, and Montana State risks its perfect Rocky Mountain record against Colorado Western.

There doesn't seem to be much hope for Notre Dame in its tussle with Oklahoma, which will be nationally televised. The Sooners dropped out of first place in the United Press ratings this week following Michigan State's 47-14 victory over Notre Dame, so they probably will attempt to out-do the Spartans against the Irish.

Top High Teams Still Unbeaten

By UNITED PRESS
Athens, Stanford and Deer Park, the state's schoolboy football powers who have gone better than two seasons without tasting defeat, are due to take another stride toward a possible undefeated season tonight.

Athens can equal the state's major school record of 29 in a row held by Lubbock if it gets by Big Spring as expected in the opener of its district 2-AAA schedule at Big Spring tonight.

Stanford, defending AA champion and setting a new division record every time it wins a game, will be just as powerful a favorite to make Nocona its 26th straight victim at Stanford.

Deer Park, tied but unbeaten in 36 straight games although it has now moved up to AA after winning the Class A crown last year, should have absolutely no trouble making it 37 against a weak Santa Fe team.

While these powers are coasting, there will be at least two games matching four of the state's 47 undefeated teams—Hamilton at Comanche in AA and Littlefield at Phillips in AAA. Littlefield is one of the dozen unbeaten out, while the others are among 25 perfect teams.

Most of the state's unbeaten list have fairly easy sailing, but the going could get rough for a scattered few like Pecon, Cleburne, Mineral Wells in AAA; West Columbia and Glimmer in AA and White Oak and Warren in A.

Orfon-Davis Feud Tops Mat Card Here Monday

Three great matches have been booked into the Top of Texas Sportsman Club for the usual stellar Monday night wrestling card.

It took fast "hoos-trading" by John Pitts, local promoter, to swing what probably will be the top match of the year at the club. Originally, Bob Orton, the burly Kanjan, was slated to go against Shouder Newman in the 45 minute semi-final. However, in an attempt to please the many requests from the fans, an effort was made to substitute Sterling Dixie Davis in place of Newman. Davis and Orton have been feuding all season in Amarillo with fans taking sides openly for either one of the boys.

This should be one of the most attractive semi's of the year with blood sure to fall before the night is out.

In the opening event, the popular Tommy Phelps opposes Tito Carson, the Elvis Freely of wrestling in a twenty minute, one fall event.

The final has two of the bigger giants-around the Top of Texas area going at each other. John Tolias, the burly Greek who makes his home in Canada goes against a worthy opponent in the person of Hans Schnable. These two boys have an old score to settle and you can bet they'll be trying to settle it Monday night.

Tickets are on sale at Modern Pharmacy. Prices are 90 cents for general admission, $1.25 for reserved seats, $1.50 for ringside and 50 cents for children.

Sports Briefs:
NEW YORK (UP)—Ray Beck injured New York Giant guard, will start Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles at Yankee Stadium. Beck tested his injured ankle during a workout Thursday and said he would be able to play. Bill Austin and Gerald Huth, two other injured guards, will not see action against the Eagles.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Even if the Rochester Red Wings franchise in the International League is placed on the block by the parent St. Louis Cardinals, as has been reported, baseball will continue in this city in 1957. Two groups are said to be interested in purchasing the Red Wings with the idea of keeping the club in this city.

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP)—Willie Shoemaker, with 313 triumphs, was one victory ahead of Willie Hartack before today's program at Garden State Park in their battle for national riding honors. Each had one winner Thursday.

Patterson Should Be Next Heavyweight Champ

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Al (The Vest) Weill, whose shrewdness led Rocky Marciano out of nowhere to fistic glory, today picked young Floyd Patterson to succeed his retired gladiator as heavyweight champion of the world.

"You've got to go with youth," Weill explained as he contemplated the fight between Patterson and Archie Moore at Chicago Stadium on Nov. 30 for the vacant title. "That will tell the whole story."

Weill, who has had four world championships during his managerial career and is a recognized authority on contrasting styles, ignored the 13-to-5 odds currently favoring the 40-year-old Archie over the 21-year-old Patterson.

"This fight won't go the distance and when you have a couple of hard punchers like this, anything can happen," Weill admitted. "If they were a couple of feather dusters and it was going to go 15 rounds, then it would be hard to say what might happen."

"Youthful Pressure" Important
"But even in a slugging match where either guy might land a finishing punch," he added, "you still have to go with youth. What I mean is that Patterson can keep running at Moore and he won't have to back off and take a second breath here and there. Keeping that youthful pressure on Moore should tell the story."

Shockers Shell Palo Duro Bees, 41-7

The Pampa Shockers made it two victories in a row over the Palo Duro Bees last night as they rolled over them by the score of 41-7.

The Shockers had things pretty much their way all night as they rolled to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter and never headed.

Gary Wilhelm started off the scoring parade as he zipped into the end zone on a 25 yard gallop for the score. Freddie Watkins ran for the extra point to make it 7-0. Another score by Wilhelm and one by Helskell made it 21-0 as Charles Snider ran both extra point tries.

In the second quarter, Bobby Smith, and Clovis Shipp found touchdown territory for the Shockers while Jess Ingie and Charles Snider moved for the extra point.

Dickie Watkins moved over from the one yard line in the fourth quarter for the last score of the night for the Shockers.

Reapers Lose To Houston, 19-6

The Pampa Reapers took it on the chin by a 19-6 count yesterday afternoon at the hands of Sam Houston lads of Amarillo. All of the scoring was done in the first half as Harold Stokes accounted for the Reapers score with a 38 yard gallop from the fullback post.

Rowland Stone and Jim Scott stood out for the Reapers on defense. After all of the scoring was done in the first half, the game settled down to a defensive battle, but the Resaper defense, weak in the first half, got strong too late to save the game.

It was an easy game for the Pee Wees and Coach Frank Craig cleared his bench before the third quarter was over.

McLean Has Barbershop Quartet Show

The Top o' Texas chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America presented a "Miniature Parade" in McLean Tuesday evening. The program was sponsored by the McLean Lions Club.
The show, a preview of the coming "Tenth Annual Parade of Quartets" to be presented in Pampa on Nov. 17, featured the full chorus of the local Chapter, directed by Bill Haley. Three local quartets, the "Chordcraftsmen," the "Fortune Hunters," and the "Uncalled Four," demonstrated their skills before an appreciative audience.
James Evans, president of the local chapter, introduced Bunny Shultz who MC'd the show. The program was not entirely Barber Shop. Bill Haley played two numbers on the accordion. Max Pressnell demonstrated his ability with a soft shoe dance number, accompanied by Mrs. Maxine Milliron at the piano. Bill Hunt, a newcomer to Pampa, sang two solos with Bill Haley at the piano.
The show sweethearts were the Milliron Trio, all High School sophomores in Pampa. The girls sang three enthusiastically received numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Milliron.
The show closed with the chorus rendition of "Keep America Singing."

Backlog Of 'Big' Movies Boosts TV

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—In 18 cities around the country a bombshell has blasted the entertainment world and Hollywood experts say it will set pay-TV back at least three years—but makes it inevitable.
From Seattle to Syracuse TV stations have begun running the backlog of MGM's mighty star-studded, multi-million dollar pre-1948 movies.
In Hollywood the advertising agency that sponsored the show here for $15,000 a night, the TV station, MGM and the local theaters carefully watched the results.
More than $100,000 was poured out to advertise the first movie, "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," and another $600 was spent on a special survey of 2,000 viewers.
The survey showed that "Thirty Seconds" drew 2 million viewers in this area, or 54 per cent of the viewing audience. That was more viewers than all six other Los Angeles stations put together.
Now that the smoke has cleared, the experts predict the MGM "experiment"—probably means this to you viewers:
(1) Pay-TV is on the shelf while the backlog of top pictures that MGM, 20th Century Fox and RKO sold to TV are run off, the experts say.
