Eden, Mollet To Fly Here For Suez Talks

Middle-East Situation Reported To Be Subject

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON — British Prime Minister Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet are planning to fly to Washington to discuss the deteriorating Middle East situation with President Eisenhower, it was reported today.

Mollet told a press conference in Paris he was planning to go to Washington and informed sources in Paris and London said Eden was preparing to go too in an effort to mend the damage to the western alliance in the face of mysterious new Soviet moves in Europe and the Middle East.

One informed guess was that the Big Three heads of state meeting would be held by Nov. 20, but there was no official confirmation of the time either from Mollet or Eden. British diplomats merely said it was under urgent consideration.

Asks for Initiative
The French national assembly's foreign affairs commission asked the government Thursday to take the initiative in calling such a meeting and Mollet-told a news conference today he "will certainly" meet with the American President.

But London diplomats cautioned that any initiative for an urgent meeting of the Big Three now had to be tackled with great delicacy. They felt the United States might want to keep a free hand for the time being.

The United States has emerged as the only non-committed power in the present crisis among the big nations.
Eden went before the House of Commons today to announce that Britain was pulling back home "many" of the air units from the Middle East. But he said they could be sent back into action again "in a matter of hours."

Eden announced a limited redeployment of British forces in the Eastern Mediterranean as reports multiplied that Soviet and possibly Chinese Communist "volunteers," arms and warplanes might appear in Egypt at any time.

Eden told the House of Commons Britain and France were prepared to turn over the Canal Zone to a United Nations international police force as soon as it is effectively organized and said its formation was a matter of utmost urgency.

Cairo dispatches said Egypt expected the "early arrival" of Soviet volunteers unless the British and French withdrew immediately. At the same time the Soviets were reported flying in MIG-17 jet fighters to Syria.

An Israeli newspaper said the threat of massed Soviet bombing attacks on Israel led the nation to announce it was giving up the Sinai Peninsula it won last week from Egypt in a brief desert battle.

148 Sign Up For Hotel Sales Force

At the meeting of the general sales force for the community hotel sales campaign at 5 p.m. yesterday in the Palm Room, group sales managers reported that a total of 148 sales personnel had been signed up for the campaign which will begin next Friday.

A total of 89 men have agreed to serve in the Men's Section and 59 women have signed up to serve in the Women's Section.

A good attendance was reported at the meeting and Philo Dix, campaign manager, discussed the prospectus for the community owned hotel with the group.

Managers of various sections, divisions, and groups reported that they planned on completing the sales force by next Monday. A minimum of seven salespeople are needed for each of the 24 sales groups. Some of the groups have already signed up 10 salespeople.

A meeting of all sales managers is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Palm Room for the purpose of selecting prospective subscribers. Managers unable to attend were requested to have a representative of their group present.

A final rally and check-up meeting is scheduled for 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Palm Room. This will be the last meeting of the group prior to the opening of the sales campaign on Friday.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee for the new hotel at noon today in the Palm Room, Philo C. Dix, campaign director, announced that Myron D. Hockenbury, head of the Hockenbury System, would meet with the executive committee Monday.

The members of the committee checked progress made to date and looked at objectives of the group. They plan on having a total of $400,000 in advance subscriptions prior to the opening of the general sales campaign.

One Fire Is Reported Here

A leak in the gas line on a cook stove at the residence of Ross Lacy, 1321 E. Francis, at 6:25 p.m. yesterday resulted in the only alarm received by the local fire department.

Lacy reported that the copper tubing broke loose from the connector and the gas became ignited. The resulting flame caused minor damage to the wall behind the stove.

'DESERTAIRE' — The "Desertaires," International finalists for the last two years in Barber Shop Quartet singing, will be one of the featured quartets at the 10th annual "Parade of Quartets" to be presented Saturday, Nov. 17, in the Junior High auditorium, sponsored by the Top O' Texas Chapter, SPEBSQSA. Left to right, they are Bill Spooner, lead; Charlie Van Dien, tenor; Ernie Winter, bass; and Louie Laurel, baritone.

Russia May Not Lift Her Iron Curtain

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)

Diplomatic sources predicted today Soviet Russia would reject any United Nations effort to lift the reimposed Iron Curtain on famine-stricken Hungary.

The sources said the Russians might even block emergency food and medical supplies for the stricken nation.

The United States asked the U.N. General Assembly today to demand Russia and its puppet Hungarian regime permit the world to send in desperately needed food, medicine and clothing to the suffering people.

Diplomats had almost 18 hours to consider the U.S. draft resolution carefully before it was submitted to the assembly formally after its emergency session opened this morning.

The assembly also may be asked to vote on a resolution calling for action by a U.N. police force in Hungary or along its frontiers.

Italy's Dr. Leonardo Vitelli indicated he may introduce such a resolution today.

The U.S. resolution put the Russians and their new hand-picked regime squarely on the spot. Either they allow the mercy of the sympathetic world help the Hungarians or they suffer the consequences of outraged world opinion.

The resolution demanded the Soviet Union "cease immediately" its actions against the Hungarian people and allow U.N. observers into the country.

Poppy Sale Set Saturday

The annual poppy sale of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars will be held Saturday, according to Mrs. Bill J. Abernathy, president.

Members of the Pampa Sub Deb Club will assist the Auxiliary with the sale of the poppies.

Proceeds from the poppy sale are used by the local Auxiliary to help needy families of veterans for rehabilitation. A percentage is retained by the disabled veterans who help make the poppies, Mrs. Abernathy explained.

Revolt Flares In Budapest

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

VIENNA —UP— Fierce new fighting erupted today in Budapest and part of the city is in flames, the Communist controlled radio announced.

The broadcast said insurgents holed up in the twisting narrow streets of the old city near the former royal palace launched attacks on the Soviet armed forces.

The rebels battled Soviet tanks and troops in the city's first, second, fifth and 13th districts, the broadcast said. That meant fighting raged on both sides of the Danube, days after the Reds had claimed victory.

In the 13th district, a working class area, the radio said insurgents attacked a steel factory but the Communists claimed the assault was beaten off by "factory militia."

Radio Budapest said the big Hotel Royal in the city's seventh district was burning fiercely today. It said flames spread to surrounding houses because the insurgents fired repeatedly on firemen attempting to extinguish the flames.

The Hotel Royal, located between the West station and the city center, is one of Budapest's largest hotels though less well known than some of the fashionable ones near the Danube River. Hungary's puppet government already was showing signs of cracking under the double onslaught of armed rebellion and a firm refusal by eight million Hungarians to return to work.

The Communist radio-claimed the rest of the city was "quiet in general." But in the same broadcast it mentioned fighting around the former royal palace, indicating the patriots had seized it and may be using it as a stronghold and a base of operations.

The whole area consists of a maze of narrow streets and old buildings partly surrounded by walls which could be converted into a fortress.

There still was no indication whether the Soviets would permit urgently needed medical and food supplies to pass their roadblocks. The International Red Cross said

Wilson, McCullough Oil Well Perforating; Jim Kimbrough, Schlumberger, who introduced the subject; Paul Wiley, Texas Company; Walter Fung, Humble; Max Bolick, Cities Service; Jim Tripplehorn, independent; and Ivan Wilkerson, Lane Wells.

W. L. Boose, chapter chairman, acted as moderator.

Announcement was also made of the coming election of officers banquet to be held in Buena Vista cafeteria near Burger. The banquet will be held Saturday, Dec. 1. Tickets will be available next week. Speaker for the occasion will be Frank Streetman, the self-styled "Mayor of Sasakwa."

Charges Are Filed In Accidents

A '51 Cadillac, driven by Wayne Earl Wall, Skellytown, was involved in two accidents within 10 minutes of each other shortly after 7 p.m. yesterday.

Wall was driving toward Pampa on Highway 152 about 7 p.m. when a '49 Ford, driven by James Elbert Lemons, Borger, came off a dirt road onto the highway about four miles west of Pampa and struck the Cadillac in the side, according to the investigating officers.

While Shirley Nichols, Gray County deputy sheriff, was working the traffic around the wrecked cars and waiting for wreckers to arrive a '53 Chevrolet, driven by Charley Aaron Winborne, also of Borger, struck Wall's Cadillac in the front.

A Highway Patrol unit from Borger worked the double accident and the officer reported that a charge of driving while intoxicated was filed against Lemons and Winborne was filed on for exceeding a safe speed.

One Mishap Is Reported Today

A collision on Brown, 126 feet east of Hobart, at 9:25 a.m. today was the only one reported to the local police department within the past 24 hours.

Willis L. Hunt, 1117 Crane Rd., driving a '51 Chevrolet panel truck was in collision with Rebs A. Gibson, Borger, driving a '56 Studebaker. Damages to the truck were estimated at $15 and the Studebaker encountered damages estimated at $30.

DAMAGED BY SHOOTERS — L. E. Sankey, division special agent for Santa Fe Railway Company, is shown pointing to one of the smaller holes in pilings in a bridge located on the "cow-line" which is located about one-half mile southeast of the Country Club, which was caused by persons discharging firearms into the bridge. Larger holes in other pilings had already been repaired. Charges will be filed against any person caught firing bullets into the structure. (News photo)

New Social Council Has Meeting

The directors of Pampa's newly organized Council of Social Agencies met last night in the Chamber of Commerce conference room at which time Ed Moyer, executive secretary of the Amarillo Citizens Committee met with the group.

Moyer explained all the phases of Council operations which the Pampa group might expect to be confronted with.

The board voted to request organizations of the city which will be members of the council to select two representatives at the earliest possible date so that they might be ready for a meeting Jan. 17, 1957.

The meeting was presided over by J. B. Massa, president of the Council. Others present were: Mrs. Adrian Foster, secretary; Bill Loving, Mrs. Frank Culbertson, Fred Thompson, McHenry Lane, Herman Whitley, Dr. M. C. Overton, E. O. Wedgeworth, and Mary Rixman, secretary of the Amarillo Citizen's Committee.

Damage To Bridge Investigated Here

People shooting at the pilings of the bridge on the Santa Fe Railroad's "cow-line," the bridge located about one-half mile southeast of the Country Club, have caused several hundred dollars of damage, L. E. Sankey, division special agent of the Santa Fe Railway Company, reported yesterday afternoon.

Sankey reported that several of the pilings have been severely damaged by the persons shooting into them. He reported that a No. Trespassing sign had been riddled with holes until the printing on the sign could not be read.

Several posts, including the one bearing the sign, have been shot in two and the pilings, in some instances have had about one-half of the width removed by slugs, he reported.

Sankey stated that every effort would be made in the future to apprehend those responsible and to prosecute them for the destruction of property.

Overall height has been reduced four inches, yet head room has been increased two inches. A softer ride results from newly engineered chassis features, which include the industry's first air-cushion rear suspension on many models. ## Ed Wynn Looking Forward To New Career In Drama

By ALINE MOSBY
U. S. Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — When Ed Wynn turns 70 Friday, he'll celebrate with a firm resolution: To look forward to his new career as a dramatic actor instead of dwelling on the 34 years of comedy behind him.
Wynn begins his eighth decade with a "life begins at 70" philosophy. While other veterans retire and read their press clippings, Wynn is proud that he's "beginning a second career in one lifetime."
"I think of my comedy career as complete," Wynn said as he reflected on his future. "I was a comedian for 54 years and now I'm starting from scratch in supporting roles as an actor. I hope to build myself up to be a star in drama again."

tions, awards, trophies and mementos of his years as "the perfect fool" is now largely in storage. He is turning them over to son Keenan.
Some still are on view in the Wynn Apartment, including a prize program from a 1917 benefit that reads, "George M. Cohan, Enrico Caruso, Al Jolson, and Ed Wynn." His bookcase is covered with keys to cities, awards for his crusade to launch theatrical unions and his pioneering in radio and TV.
But Wynn is just as proud over rave reviews of his recent dramatic performance on television's "Playhouse 90" in "Requiem to a Heavyweight."
"Rod Serling, the author, didn't want me," the ex-comic said soberly. "Even Keenan and the director advised me after the first rehearsals to give up the part. But the producer told me to stick with it."
"You've no idea how difficult it was—trying not to use my comedy gestures and voice. For the first time I went on stage without one of my funny hats."
As I left the energetic ex-comedian, he was scribbling some notes.
"Oh, I read in the columns where Keenan is giving me a surprise birthday party tomorrow," he said gleefully. "They'll probably expect me to make a speech. So I want to be prepared!"

Carnival Is Big Success

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Approximately $965.65 has been added to the local Activities Fund of the White Deer Lions Club, as proceeds of the group-sponsored Carnival held here recently.
Everett Butler, Past-President of the local Lions Club, was general chairman in charge of arrangements for the affair, which is held annually in the Elementary School here.
Proceeds of the Carnival will be used in promoting civic projects, according to Winfield Powers, Lion President. "We wish to thank all those who contributed time, work, and materials to make the carnival a success," Powers said early this week. "The merchants of White Deer and Pampa, the Lions and their wives — all of these worked and donated; and many patrons have given us continued cooperation."

Poland Is The Big Winner In Revolts

By CHARLES M. MCGINN
Poland appears — at the moment — to be the big winner in the East European revolution against Soviet Russian domination. The Soviet government has become so alarmed over the open rebellion in Hungary that it may yet move its army against the Poles.
But as of now, Poland has established a Titoist government and is proceeding with a combination of caution and boldness to get rid of its Russian "advisers."
If the Poles do get away with it, the credit must go to Polish Communist leader Wladislaw Gomułka.
Gomułka has tried energetically to keep the Polish revolt strictly on the Titoist level.
That is he has tried to keep the Polish movement a political one, to make Poland an independent Communist state with emphasis on the Communist label, and to give the Russians no excuse to intervene.
They used to call Gomułka Poland's Little Stalin. He is a hard-bitten, hard-core Communist, stocky, close-mouthed and tough.
He is very lucky to be alive. He was sent to prison as a "diversionist" when President Tito successfully rebelled against Josef Stalin's domination of Yugoslavia. He was freed in December, 1954. After the Kremlin's denunciation of Stalin-type dictatorship last February, Gomułka was "rehabilitated." When the Polish revolt broke, he was brought back as the Communist party leader.
Apparently Gomułka realized from the start the danger that the Polish revolt might turn like that in Hungary into an open and bloody rebellion against Communism itself.
The Poles are historically hot-headed. They hate Russia—Russia itself, not just Communist Russia—perhaps more bitterly than do any other people.
It is reported that Poland is still seething with unrest, partly in sympathy with the Hungarian rebels in their heroic fight.
Gomułka has appealed again and again to Poles to maintain discipline. He has warned that he will suppress any riots "for the good of our fatherland and the safety of our homes."

He has said that it depends on Poles themselves whether their country shall share the fate of Hungary. The way to avoid that, he has said, is for the people to restrain themselves and obey all orders of the government and the Communist Party.
That leaves Poland still under Communist rule. But Gomułka has the support of Cardinal Wyszyński, Roman Catholic primate of Poland in his appeal for law and order.
So Gomułka, once Poland's Little Stalin, has made himself Poland's Little Tito. Like Tito, Gomułka has been a Communist since his youth. But as Tito turned out to be a Yugoslav as well as Communist, Gomułka has turned out to be a Polish nationalist as well as a Communist.
As things stand now, there seems to be a good chance that Poland may remain free of Russian domination.

Book Recommended

A definitive work by Bela Hubbard called "Political and Economic Structures," has proved interesting and instructive reading.

Dr. Hubbard is a retired member of the staff of Standard Oil Company, where he served for thirty years as a geologist. His current contribution to knowledge (Caxton, $4.00) probes the political, economic and social strata of twentieth century America, in a search for the oil of truth.

We recommend the work as an aid to struggling semanticists who tend to confuse their terminology when they discuss government and finances. Hubbard quite properly chides those who mistake a system of government for a system of economics, and points out that communism and socialism are both systems of economics which can flourish in either a constitutional democracy or an oligarchy.

He spends some time establishing that the United States is not a democracy and urging that we call it a republic, which it is, and not something else which it is not.

The most helpful portion of his book concerns "The Semantics of Modern Social Science." In a chapter by that name he says: "The semantic confusion into which the American people are drifting or into which they are being so skillfully guided by false propaganda, has been discussed. . . . The basic source of this confusion is in the schools." Then Dr. Hubbard goes on to quote from various texts at present in use in our government schools.

He lists no fewer than seven works at high school and college level which mistakenly insist that this nation is a democracy, which cast aspersions at the free enterprise system, and/or hold the Soviet system of communism up for acclaim and praise.

On the whole, "Political and Economic Structures" is a most helpful book, carefully drawn, workmanlike and useful.

Were we to criticize it at all it would be because in our view, Dr. Hubbard does not go deep enough into the various sub-surface borings he makes. He finds so much oil in his original borings that he is quite satisfied to erect a pump and start work. We feel that he could have found a greater payload at a deeper point.

He seems content to explore a lucrative field and explain realities as they are. Some libertarians will doubtless quarrel with him that he did not help in establishing the realities of what might be. He tends to establish that an economic structure can be materially aided by the "right kind" of government, and overlooks the potential of a completely laissez faire economy.

Students of political science should find this work a milestone, however, in straightening out the semantics of their professors and the books they are forced to read in our compulsive schools.

The book is recommended reading and a most helpful adjunct to anyone's liberty library.

THE NATION'S PRESS

THAT THIRD PARTY (Industrial News Review)

In the United States, as every school child is taught, we have a two-party system of government. But that fact does not exclude other parties from coming into being and attempting to make their weight felt in forming national policies. Since the early days of the Republic, in fact, many a minor party has presented candidates to the voters. Some of these have been on the scenic side, such as the Vegetarian Party. Others have been the outgrowth of strong and thought-out protest — from both the left and right wings — against the positions of the major parties. And some have gained a substantial number of votes.

In 1912, Theodore Roosevelt, with his Bull Moose ticket, was given 88 electoral votes, as against 8 for President Taft. In 1928, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin headed the Progressive Party and campaigned on the grounds that both the Republicans and Democrats were nothing but organs of the big interests; he garnered his own state's 13 electoral votes. In 1948 a States Rights Party with Governor (now Senator) Thurmond as its candidate carried enough Southern States to rack up 39 electoral votes.

This year we have a third party again, called the Independent States Rights Party. Some 2,200 delegates met in Richmond, Virginia, and nominated former Commissioner of Internal Revenue T. Coleman Andrews for president and former Republican Representative Thomas H. Werdell of California for vice-president. The party has managed to get its ticket on the ballot in a number of states; in others, it is working to attract write-in votes.

This, of course, is a party of protest. Those who subscribe to its doctrines feel that there is no place for them in the major parties — and that the major parties are so much like in basic ideas as to offer the public little choice. Mr. Andrews stands for repeal of the income tax and its replacement with an entirely different tax system, the termination of all foreign aid, and decentralization of governmental authority.

"The third party's aims are modest. The most realistic aim is its highest hope is that several million voters will support its nominees and principles. . . . In some states — especially in the South — there is grumbling about the Richmond meeting; some Democrats think that where there is a close race the vote of the new party may throw the election to the Republicans. And Republicans are voicing the same fears.

"If that does occur, it will show that the new party has protested very loudly. And the voters William Henry Chamberlain calls the 'displaced conservatives' may some day find the policy-makers in the major parties a bit more willing to listen to their protesting voice."

The ideas of minor party leaders of the past — including those of such diverse figures as Theodore Roosevelt, Norman Thomas, and Senator Thurmond — have ultimately influenced, to some degree, major party thinking. It could happen again.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Progressive Education
Is Re-Education

I wish that those people who think they are treating their children fairly and justly by sending them to gun-run schools would read "Progressive Education Is Re-Education" by Kilty Jones and Robert Olivier.

The most important job any parent has is the education of his children. To turn over the education of his children to teachers who do not believe enough in the free enterprise system to believe that they should teach well enough that they could get their salaries on a voluntary basis rather than with the use of a tax gun is certainly not treating the children justly or fairly.

On Page 122 of this book the authors quote Albert Lynd in his book, "Quackery and the Public Schools," in this manner:

"Albert Lynd wants to know in his book, 'Quackery and the Public Schools,' if 'the substitution of projects about pets, family council and room care, and drill in reading and arithmetic, has ever been submitted candidly for public approval?'"

"What happened when the issue was put to vote in New York? The 'New York News' carried a series of a dozen or so articles on juvenile delinquency, much of the cause pointing to the school system and the 'permissive' attitude of progressive education. The editors wanted to know how their readers felt about progressive education and printed a ballot so they could mail in their votes. The final count showed: 41,370 opposed; 361 in favor."

One of the authors, who was a teacher for 30 years, in a "panel" in the school told his students that he was prepared to take a stand for traditional education at a night meeting called to put him on the carpet for his opposition to progressive education. The pupils asked him if they might come to this hearing. He told them he saw no reason why not, since the members of the Student Council had been invited. Then he went on to say:

"He explained why he was against the philosophy of 'progressive' education — that it denied the existence of the soul and was based on the belief that there is no eternal, unchanging being, no God."

He refers to a book made available to United States students. The book has the name "New Russia's Primer; the Story of the 5-Year Plan." Then the authors write:

"Who translated it from the Russian so that our children might have this 'great and difficult' theme presented in language entirely intelligible to children? George S. Counts of Teachers College, Columbia University, with the help of Nucia Lodge. In his foreword Counts hopes that the book will prove 'both suggestive and challenging.' This translated text of Communist school children is designed, says Counts, 'to acquaint adults — teachers and educational laymen — with a phase of the Russian experiment which in the long run may well prove to be far more important than those sensational aspects of the revolutionary struggle which are emphasized in both the daily press and even the more serious publications. I sincerely trust that it will serve this purpose and at the same time contribute to a better understanding on the part of the American people of the greatest social experiment of history.'"

Here's another interesting revelation: "There is at least one direct connection between NEA and Communism. In Bella Dodd's book, 'School of Darkness,' it is found the following: "My duties were various. I continued to exercise control over the communist teachers. Before I had left the United States I had been asked to help in the formation of the Teachers Union with the NEA. In June, 1944, I was assigned to sneak at a meeting of more than 500 communist teachers and their friends at the Jefferson School on the new communist perspectives as applied to education. I held out the prospect of a new approach to education soon to be disclosed by American leaders who controlled the purse strings of the nation. I urged the communist teachers to exercise their influence for unity on all teachers' and citizens' groups. I pointed out that the NAM had established a tie with NEA and had pledged itself to help build education and to support a nation-wide school-building program; that this would grow into a program of continued co-operation on all educational subjects."

"To find the National Education Association working with the Communists is disturbing, but to find the National Association of Manufacturers working with the NEA in the same connection is alarming."

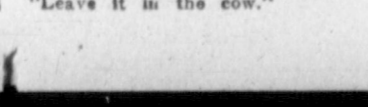

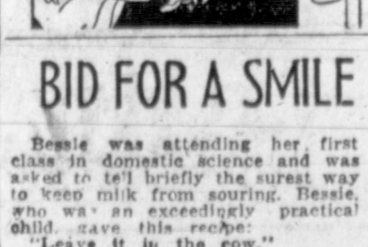

The perfect example of the New Journalism, which, in our honorable craft corresponds to the progressive school in which Johnny does not learn to read, said:

"For a lot of Greater Clevelanders, that first cup of coffee was a little flat today. They had no local newspaper to go with it. On the way to work and through other routines of daily living, many people were finding out that their newspaper is something like a cigarette. You don't know how much you depend on it until you're out. And, in the irritation of upset routine, they had something in common with their fellow Ohioans in Portsmouth — 250 miles away at the opposite end of the state — who have been without telephone service 19 days as a result of a strike.

"Why Joe was an absolute bear this morning," said Carolyn McCarthy, a housewife. "He sat down to breakfast and growled that he supposed he'd have to talk to me since he didn't have a paper. All he talked about then was how much he missed the paper."

I was tempted to suspect that this was a slouchwise belt at McCarthyism, but let us not go changing up that path or we will never get the pig to market.

Then the A.P.'s piece said: "One of Cleveland's three big dailies is being struck by the Cleveland Newspaper Guild. The

The First Cup Of Coffee Is Usually Flat Without A Paper
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — If I can brush together enough credits, my public will find me on some campus next fall, wearing a beanie, eschewing cross-cuts and doing antics to ingratiate myself with my seniors as a pledge to Sigma Delta Chi, the fraternity of my profession. The world has passed me by, but given years enough, I will catch up and qualify as a cub, at least, in the new school which was beautifully exemplified in an A.P. story from Cleveland about a strike which tied up all the newspapers.

My old mentor, and he would have chased me down those traditional three flights of stairs from the editorial room to the street if I had ever called him that, used to hang it into our heads that the essentials of a news story were who, what, when, where and either why or how, I disremember which.

His name was Ed Conkle. He was the son of a Methodist minister, he drank two heaping slugs of Old Panther at the Steuben County Bar on Madison Street every evening after work, he thought praise spoiled young squirts and he had the heart of gold which was standard equipment in all such bosses except Simon Legree Chapin of the old Evening World and O. K. Board, of the Post-Dispatch, both Pulitzer papers by coincidence.

These two were beaten to bloody pulps hundreds and hundreds of times by inkstained victims of their persecution brooding in Perry's Bar or the Old Planters' Bar, respectively. Historical accuracy compels me to add with regret that these terrible retributions all were strictly rhetorical. As far as my knowledge goes, no reporter ever did take a paste at either of them.

The perfect example of the New Journalism, which, in our honorable craft corresponds to the progressive school in which Johnny does not learn to read, said:

two others were closed because their truck drivers refused to haul newspapers which included the nameplate of the struck paper."

But I am not going to impose on the author of this abstract prose poem to do my entire job today. I get a fair living wage and anyway, if I quote him in full he might do me out of my job.

Mr. Conkle would have said, "Coffee is not the subject of this piece. Nor cigarettes nor the telephone strike in Portsmouth. Just write: 'Cleveland had no local papers today, because the Newspaper Guild struck the press and the teamsters refused to haul the News and Plain Dealer.' I can't make this out about 'the nameplate of the struck paper' so clear that up and tell the whole story in the same length that you have used to gossip about coffee and cigarettes and Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy."

I observe with a sense of job-fear that the New Journalism excludes the names of the three Cleveland papers. I am not confident that The Milkman in Omaha, as our Mr. Conkle called the common man, would know that, therefore, under the old dispensation, assuming that the story was worth telling at all, we would have had all three names in the first sentence. Am I outmoded?

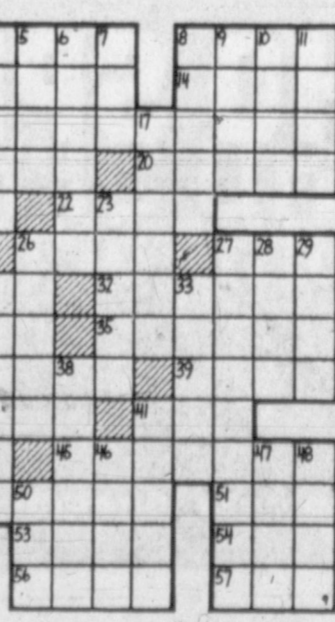

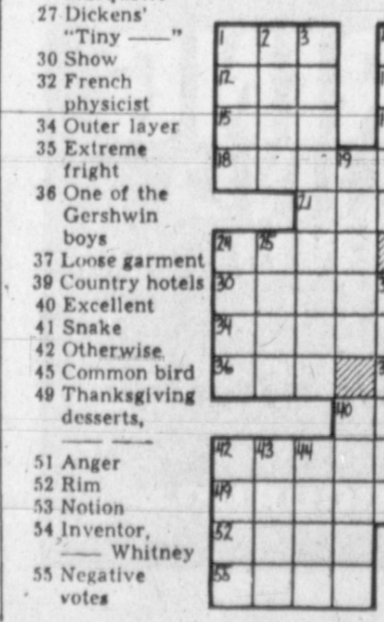

I might not have such a very hard time adjusting. There is nothing new under the sun and this thing was all the rage around 1915 when it was known as the "narrative" or "up the dark and creaking stairs" school of expression. But though we dallied and cut up hot locks of prose, inevitably, eventually, we told the names of those concerned.

Eden And Mollet Liken Their Action To That In Korea

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Domestic political considerations combine, with protection of what they regard as their vital foreign interests, to motivate Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Premier Guy Mollet in their armed invasion of Egypt, their affront to the United Nations and their defiance of the United States.

This is the semi-official Washington charges by London and Paris statesmen, as well as by their leading newspapers, that the Eisenhower-Dulles policies in the Middle East were largely responsible for the three-nation attack on Egypt. Although conceding that Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser had furnished provocation, the Administration refuses to regard the dictator's behavior as a justification for armed intervention. Nobody here believes that the Allied statesmen are so callous as to start a war simply for selfish reasons.

Eden and Mollet insist that Nasser's overall program jeopardizes their national interests, and liken their response to a "police action" in the Near East. Nevertheless, the overseas distraction may relieve political pressure against them at home.

The Eden and Mollet governments may fall yet as a result of public indignation in England and France against their conduct. It is doubtful if the British Prime Minister could win on the issue of the Egyptian problem. But it is almost a certainty that their own parliamentary supporters would have thrown them out of office, if they had not set out to topple or weaken the Cairo dictator. Besides their joint interest in breaking Nasser's control of the Suez Canal, they hold him responsible for anti-European outbursts from Gibraltar to the Persian Gulf.

Nasser's example has helped to provoke demands for ouster of the British at many key outposts. It has forced France to grant independence to Morocco and Tunisia, with Algeria demanding the same treatment. It has cost the lives of thousands of British and French soldiers and civilians. Had the two leaders not teamed up with Israel against Egypt, the British Conservatives and French Socialists, in their respective parliaments, would have insisted upon firmer action. Had Eden and Mollet resisted these nationalistic and chauvinistic clamors, they might have been unseated in a no-confidence vote. They had to take a bold attitude on the foreign front.

Politicians in all countries, including the United States, have sometimes resorted to an overseas adventure in order to bolster their sagging popularity at home. In this instance, however, the two men acted on several false assumptions, and they are amazed at the indignant reaction throughout the world.

They never dreamed, according to diplomatic reports, that the United States and several commonwealth nations, as well as a 64-5 vote in the United Nations, would oppose and inferentially condemn their action.

Eden's attitude bewilders world diplomats, in view of his contrary behavior during the 1936 crisis involving Italy and Ethiopia. When Mussolini was threatening invasion of Haile Selassie's tiny and defenseless kingdom, Eden demanded that the League of Nations impose sanctions against the dictator, depriving him of military supplies.

When Sir Samuel Hoare, then Foreign Secretary, and Pierre Laval of France agreed to partition Ethiopia in favor of Mussolini, Eden resigned in protest from the Cabinet and became a popular hero. He was praised by Winston Churchill, and the ensuing public revision killed the proposed deal. Eden was then the champion of freedom of small nations from foreign domination and colonialism.

MP Or Chaplain's Book Is Choice Of GI's In Germany

By HENRY McLEMORE

STUTTGART, Germany — The American soldier in Germany has the choice of two books.

One is thrown at him, and the other is offered.

The one thrown is the MP book, the police ledger. He gets it when he errs.

The one offered is the Good Book, the Bible.

Which keeper of the book — the MP or the Chaplain — is the busier?

You might guess that the MP is if you base your guess on the sensational stories of crime and incidents you have read under German datelines. But you'd be wrong. Way wrong. But it wouldn't be your fault. Most likely the only percentages you have seen about our Seventh Army had to do with GI misbehavior. Sin has always made bigger headlines than virtue.

What would you say, percentage-wise, is the figure for church attendance in the Seventh Army? If you figured it on the basis of church attendance in the United States you'd be wrong again. At home, between seven and ten per cent of the population go to church each Sunday.

In the Seventh Army — where there is no compulsion, no appearances to keep up, no persuasion by members of the family — the average among the troops is twenty-one to twenty-four per cent.

That means that every Sunday upwards of 60,000 soldiers of all faiths pack chapels from Bavaria to the Baltic. They aren't marched there. No commands are issued. The GI is free to spend his Sundays as he chooses. He can stay in the sack all day, play games, sightsee, or rock 'n' roll. That he elects to attend church at a rate three times higher than civilians at home would seem to be fairly strong evidence that our Army is made up of pretty solid men, and not beer hall wreckers and libertines as some have carelessly described them.

An unknown number of soldiers attend services in civilian communities or on some Army installations that are not conducted or reported by chaplains for Faiths such as Latter Day Saint, Episcopal, Church of Christ, Pentecostal, etc., or services in German churches, if these could be tabulated, the soldier percentage would be even larger.

In talking with Lt. Col. David E. Kinsler, of West Virginia, Operations Chaplain of the United States Army in Europe, I learned that soldier attendance means much more than the sitting in a pew for an hour each week. "Thousands of our soldiers actively work for the Church," he said. "They give a great deal of their spare time. Sunday school classes, music, and educational work are largely their doing."

Chaplain Kinsler specifically asked that I not forget the Command help the chaplains are given.

"Let me quote from the Bible," he said. "All good things come from Above." Here in Europe our commanders set their men a magnificent example. They are spiritual as well as military leaders. At our recent annual Protestant Men's convention at Berchtesgaden were General H. I. Rhodes, Commander in Chief, USAREUR; Major Gen. Stanton E. Babcock, Second Armored; Major Gen. Barksdale Hamlett, 10th Infantry; Major Gen. Derrell Daniel, then of the 11th Airborne; Major Gen. George E. Martin, USAREUR, and Major Gen. Robert W. Porter Jr., 3rd Armored. These men are inspirations to their men."

It might not be a bad idea for all of us Americans to remember the Seventh Army's church attendance figures the next time we read of a sordid "incident." The beer halls and the dance halls can't get near the play the churches do.

The Republicans are getting to be better salesmen every day. It took them months to coax the line considering a second term. But now he's already hinting around for a third!

JACK MOFFET.

Candied Fruit Peel Demonstration Held At Bell HDC Meet

A demonstration on making candied fruit peels for use in fruit cakes was given by Mrs. Harshel Kelley at the meeting of the Bell Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. D. W. Swain.

Mrs. Kelley told the women that fruit, such as lemons, grapefruit and oranges, should be grated lightly to remove the oil from the peel, which is very bitter. She explained the peels should be cut in one-quarter-inch pieces, with care being taken not to cut into the fruit. The peels should be boiled three times for 10 minutes each to remove the bitter taste, she stated. They should then be drained and the moisture removed with paper towels.

Next step Mrs. Kelley demonstrated was putting the peels into heavy sugar syrup and cooking until the peels turn transparent. The final step, she pointed out, is to roll them in sugar.

During the business session, led by Mrs. Ernest McKnight, president, it was announced the next meeting will be with Mrs. Conner O'Neal. It was decided to hold a Thanksgiving dinner Nov. 24, with Mrs. D. W. Swain, 1041 S. Faulkner.

Parent Education Club Presented Talks On Five-Year-Old Child, Hotel Project

"Living With Your Children at the Comfortable Age of Five" was the topic for discussion at the Parent Education Club meeting in the home of Mrs. Rex Rose.

Presenting the program were Mrs. Myron Marx, who spoke on the physical development of that age child, and Mrs. Jack Lockett, who explained the mental and emotional side of a five-year-old. Both stressed that five is a tranquil and reassuring age compared to the restlessness of four or extremes of six.

PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT
"The five-year-old has developed a definite personality of his own," Mrs. Marx told the women. "His coordination, control, skills and organization are developing. The kind of person he will be is beginning to show definitely, not only in his appearance, but in his way of meeting situations. His speed of learning, his potentialities of intelligence and some of his special skills and talents are beginning to be noticeable."

She went on to explain that a five-year-old has entered period of slow growth, but is beginning to have good control of his body. She recommended he be encouraged in activities which strengthen the large muscles of the arms, legs and trunk. She stated that handedness is usually determined by this age, with the left-handed child probably needing special help in learning to write.

EMOTIONAL DEVELOPMENT
"The mental and emotional age of five varies with the individual child," Mrs. Jack Lockett stated during her talk. "The mother is the center of the five-year-old's world. Five is a conforming age. It invites supervision and direction."

She pointed out the five-year-old still exaggerates, but is beginning to distinguish the real from the make-believe. He has a keen interest in babies and asks many questions, she stated. He is gentle, protective toward younger brothers and sisters and plays well with older ones.

She explained that five is not a fearful age, although this age child fears concrete bodily harm and is quite often disturbed by bad dreams and nightmares.

"Five-year-olds have fewer tensions than other young children," Mrs. Lockett stated. "The most common tensional outlets for children of this age are hand-to-face habits such as nose picking, nail biting, thumb sucking, most of which occur before sleep or during fatigue."

HOTEL
At the close of the program, Mrs. Tom Rose, president, introduced Mrs. Lynn Boyd and Mrs. Rufe Jordan, who spoke on the proposed new hotel. Mrs. Boyd gave an outline history of all that has been done in the past regarding the building of a hotel. She explained what a community hotel is and how the stock-selling campaign is set up. Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Jordan answered questions about the hotel from the members.

BUSINESS SESSION
In a report on the Council of Clubs, Mrs. Gene Fatheree urged members to attend at the bridge benefit to be given at 2 p.m. Monday in the City Club Room. Proceeds will go toward paying off the indebtedness incurred last spring in refurbishing the Club Room, she explained.

Mrs. Jack Foster appealed to club members for names of senior citizens who do not know of the Senior Citizens Center which meets each Thursday under the sponsorship of the Altrusa Club. She stated transportation is provided by Altrusa members and Grey Ladies. Refreshments of pie and coffee were served during the social period. Seventeen members were present.

"If I were the mother of a teenage girl I'd make her be home at a certain hour. I'd insist that she bring her friends over to the house and I'd try to know them as well as I could. I'd make sure there were chaperons at all of the parties she went to."

Who's talking? A high school teacher who doesn't have any children of her own? Grandma—who reared her children in an easier time? A childless wife who thinks she could do a better job of child rearing than most parents seem able to do?

Nope. It is none of those. It is a 16-year-old girl, interviewed for the Ladies Home Journal.

Those are the words of a teenager who is being given more freedom by her parents than she thinks is safe, even more freedom than she would give her own daughter.

The article, "I Wish My Parents Would Be More Strict," which is in the October issue of the Journal, should be an eye-opener for parents who belong to "you-have-to-let-them-do-what-every-one-else-is-doing" school of thought.

It should also give comfort to so-called "old-fashioned" parents. They're the ones who still ask questions and insist on knowing their children's friends. They refuse to be wheedled into saying "Yes" when they know they shouldn't, who set definite hours when a teen-ager is to be home and instruct him to telephone if he changes his plans.

It may be possible that in trying to be understanding, reasonable and cooperative, we parents have become so wishy-washy, the kids, themselves, are beginning to feel a need for more adult guidance and supervision. This article indicates it.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

S. B. MALONE, Pastor
Reorganized CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST of Latter Day Saints
Pampa, Texas

PLENTY OF TIME

Acts 24:24, 25: "And after certain days when Felix... sent for Paul and heard him concerning the faith in Christ. And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix trembled and answered, 'Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.'"

The greatest difficulty we have to face in life is the feeling that we always have plenty of time. Why do something today when we can do it tomorrow or some other day? There is a story of Satan and his angels assembling to plan a way to enslave the souls of men. One of his helpers said, "I will go to earth and tell men that the Bible is all a fable." "No. That will never do," another said. "Let me go. I will tell men that there is no Savior, no heaven, no hell." "No," said still another, "We can't make men believe that." Then suddenly the last angel smiled and said, "Let me go. I will journey to the earth and tell men that there is a God, a Savior, a heaven — yes, and a hell, too. But I will tell them there is no hurry; tomorrow will do as well as today."

When we look about, it is evident that some of Satan's helpers got here. Men are putting off the good deeds they know they should be doing, exactly according to Satan's plans. He wants us to become so busy with unimportant things that we will forget Christ and His great cause. Then the time of our usefulness passes; it is too late to render service.

Jesus came preaching "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." He likened his kingdom to a lord who prepared a feast and sent out his servants to bid his friends to come to the feast, for all was ready. There is little doubt that the Master bids those who believe in him to come to the heavenly feast. He is still as eager as ever to gather the children of men into one great fellowship, if they will follow him.

The time is now; procrastination may eliminate the opportunity to share the feast with the Savior of men.

Busy Week Is Planned

The Rev. Ronald E. Hubbard will have as his sermon subject "Only a Remnant Will be Saved," for the morning worship service this Sunday. Mr. William Hunt will sing the solo "It Is Enough" (from Elijah) by Mendelssohn.

Evening Service will be at 7:30 this Sunday evening in the Kelley Chapel. This service will continue the second in the series of sermons on Jeremiah.

The Monday evening Teacher Training Class will complete its discussion of the use of the story and begin a consideration of non-projected visual aids and their use. Monday Evening Bible Class will study Acts 14 through 17, and will meet at 7:30 in the Educational Building.

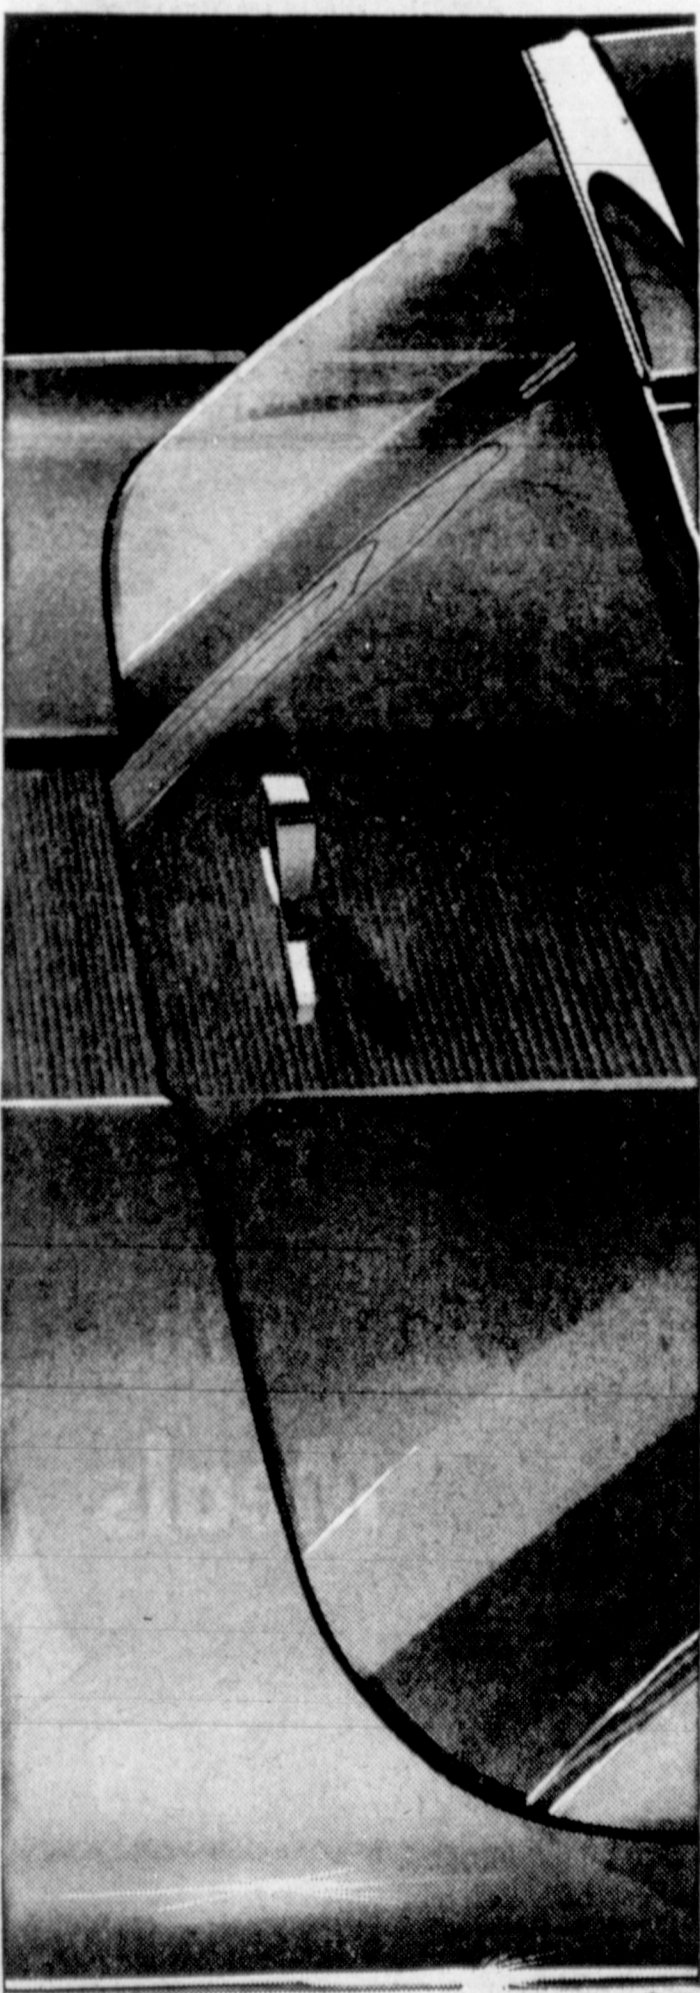

The Presbyterian Women's Association will present a Silver Tea and Book Review this Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 2:30 p.m. in the Educational Building. Mrs. H. H. Hahn will review the book "Forty Odd" by Mary Bard, who discovered that forty is a number and not a disease. This is a thoroughly light-hearted account of the problems that face American women at forty, but underneath the humor, sound sense indeed. All women are urged to attend and to bring guests.

Perryton Church Plans Celebration

PERRYTON — (Special) — The First Methodist church has completed its plans for the 60th Anniversary celebration to be held on Sunday, Nov. 11. There will be two services that day and a basket dinner will be served at noon.

The Rev. Charles Fike Jr., pastor of Oak Lawn Methodist church in Dallas will deliver the sermon at the morning service. Rev. Addison Cutter, who grew up in Perryton and who is now pastor of the North Haven Methodist church in Dallas will fill the pulpit that afternoon.

The present Methodist church was organized in the courthouse at old Ochiltree in 1896 and was served by circuit riders and itinerant preachers until Rev. Hawkins became its first preacher in 1911. The first church was built in 1911 and in 1916 the church was moved to Perryton from Ochiltree. It occupied the same corner at South Baylor and 4th avenue where the present church now stands. This building was torn down in 1930 and a basement was built. It served the congregation until 1949 when the present building was built.

Plans are now ready and sufficient money has been raised for the addition of an educational building.

Church News

Layman Of The Week

Rev. Ronald Hubbard, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church did not have to think twice when asked to name this week's layman of the week. The immediate response was Max Hukill.

Max is president of the Men's Brotherhood group of the church. Within the framework of this organization is done much of the work so essential to the church and its congregation. It is, without a doubt, a very time consuming job, since it entails not one, but a large number of jobs. They put on fund raising suppers, undertake visitations to any new members of the church or any others who might be interested in the workings of the church. In all these jobs, Max has given up much of his free time in the best interests of his faith.

He resides with his wife Bonnie, and their three children, Hobart, 5, Steven 4, and Jill, 1, at 128 S. Summer, and works with his father at Hukill and Son Garage on W. Foster.

The unchanging perfection of God's man will be brought out in passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following (478:28-32): "When speaking of God's children,

Circuit Assembly Of Jehovah's Witnesses Planned

James W. Naah, spokesman for the local group of Jehovah's witnesses, today announced some details of the three-day training program to be held in the City Auditorium at Altus, Okla., next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. He said, "The witnesses are calling special attention to features of the assembly program which they feel will be of interest to the general public in the Oklahoma-Texas area represented in the gathering."

"Saturday at 7:30 p.m. there will be a free public showing of a new Watchtower sponsored motion picture entitled 'Happiness of the New World Society'."

"The film is successor to 'The New World Society in Action' which was shown to an audience aggregating millions of people earth-wide," he observed. "The new film reveals the secret of success of one of the world's fastest growing ministerial societies. Jehovah's witnesses over the past ten years have doubled their numbers in North America, multiplied five times in Asia, more than six times in the Pacific Islands, seven times in Europe and Africa, more than twelve times in the Atlantic Islands, and nearly fifteen times in South America."

"We are urging all our friends to see this instructive and entertaining feature of the Altus assembly, also to hear the public lecture 'What Will Armageddon Mean for You?' which will be given Sunday, 3 p.m. by Kenneth R. Savoy

TELEPHONE COMPANY LOCAL TAXES IN PAMPA ARE ENOUGH TO EDUCATE 127 YOUNGSTERS A YEAR

What the telephone company means to Pampa

EMPLOYER . . . provides good jobs for 100 of your neighbors who earn $336,966 a year — and spend most of it here in Pampa.

TAXPAYER . . . pays $31,507 a year in local taxes alone — enough to cover the cost of educating 127 Texas grade school children for a year.

BUYER . . . buys thousands of dollars worth of supplies and services from Pampa firms.

Today you can call 10,045 telephones in Pampa homes and businesses — more than twice as many as just ten years ago.

G. H. NEWBERRY, Manager

Few people but the tax collector would care that last year the telephone company paid $31,507 in local taxes alone here in Pampa.

But when you realize that this was enough to pay the cost of educating 127 Texas grade school children for a year, the importance of telephone taxes to everyone in the community becomes clear.

Pampa benefits from telephone company activity in other ways, too . . . from the $336,966 payroll which helps keep business rolling in Pampa . . . the many thousands of dollars' worth of goods and services the company buys from local people every year . . . the active interest that our 100 telephone people here take in community, church, and neighborhood affairs.

Most important of all, Pampa can depend on good telephone service. We've put 5,389 more telephones in Pampa homes and businesses within reach of your telephone in the last ten years — and added 23,096 miles of wire to tie us all closer together.

These are good examples of the way we can improve the value of your service and contribute more as good citizens when we can have faith that company profits will be fair and reasonable.

Rags-To-Riches Mustangs Meet Aggies As Underdogs

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer
Southern Methodist's upstart Mustangs come to the crossroads of their "rags-to-riches" football trail Saturday as the seven-point underdog in a showdown battle with Texas A&M for the South-west Conference lead.

Coach Woody Woodard's graduation-decimated team wasn't supposed to be up there fighting for the loop lead at the midway point of its campaign, but it's there, anyway.
Now, it is faced with its first test against the so-called "big three" of pre-season predictions after squeaking out one-point victories over Rice and Texas. If it can rise to the occasion and derail the powerful Aggies, SMU might be able to use the victory as impetus to carry it on to the championship and a Cotton Bowl berth.

If it doesn't, then the road may lead downward for SMU and the Aggies will be within one game of clinching at least a tie for their first championship since 1941.
The Aggies' Cotton Bowl possibilities, however, remain cloudy.
Coach Paul Bryant's Aggies are still under a two-year NCAA suspension because of recruiting violations, but hope the NCAA will lift the suspension next Tuesday when the NCAA executive council considers a conference recommendation that it do so. The conference lifted its two-year suspension last May and since has asked the NCAA to do the same.

There are other games on this week's agenda, but the one in Dallas hogs the spotlight. Rice, still in contention with only one loss on its record, invades Fayetteville against Arkansas; Baylor and Texas, both out of the running, collide at Waco, and defending champion Texas Christian, nursing the same hopes as Rice after only one setback, keeps in trim against Texas Tech at Lubbock. All are day games.

Although they are rated almost on a par as contenders, Berrios is favored at 9-5 to beat Elorde because of his split-decision over Flash in their August thriller and because of his relentless attack.
Among the world's 126-pound aspirants, 24-year-old Elorde is ranked fifth; 25-year-old Elorde, sixth. Each is gunning for a shot at the title.
Elorde knocked out 14 of his 45 opponents. His 33-10-2 record includes stops by champion Sandy Saddler and by Kid Independence. Berrios has had only 25 pro fights for a 19-6-0 record. He registered only three kayoes. He never was stopped.

FOR 3-AAAA CELLAR POSITION

Harvesters, Plainview Collide Here Saturday

The fight to keep out of the District 3-AAAA cellar looms as the favorite for victory when Pampa's Harvesters take on the once-victorious Plainview Bulldogs in Harvesters Stadium Saturday at 2 p.m.

The Bulldogs hold down the last-place spot at the present with four district losses in as many games. The Harvesters have lost all three district clashes.

Pampa goes into the game as a favorite. The Harvesters have won two of seven games this season and have looked sharp in spots in most of those games. The Pampa team lost to Monterey of Lubbock last week but looked sharp in taking the loss.

The Bulldogs, classed by the Plainview coaches as young and inexperienced, fell to the league-leading Amarillo Sandies 62-7 last week. Their only victory has been over Hereford of Class AAA although they also hold a forfeit win over Littlefield when the Wildcats played an ineligible player.

The Harvesters are in good shape for the Saturday contest except for two players unlikely to see action. Coach Jack Lockett and his assistants worked the team hard early in the week but slacked up later to prevent serious injuries to players. A light workout is scheduled for today.

Lockett plans to make a few changes in both the offensive and defensive starting teams this week. Plainview will have several changes because of injuries to players last week. Dale Lake will start at right end for the Harvesters and Glenn Howell has shifted to right tackle on the offensive alignment. James Weathered, Jim Hopkins and Gary Heiskell will see action on defense.

Plainview makes only one change from offensive to defensive coverage and that's Gene White, a senior back who replaces Larry Gould on defense.

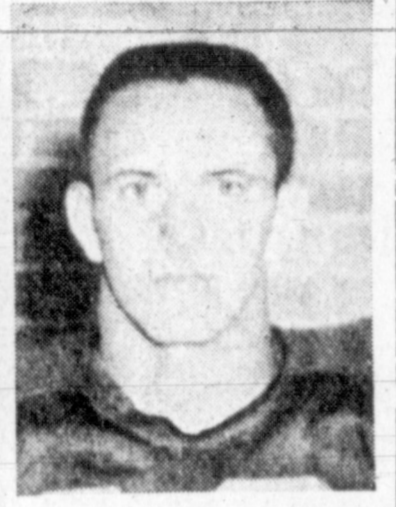

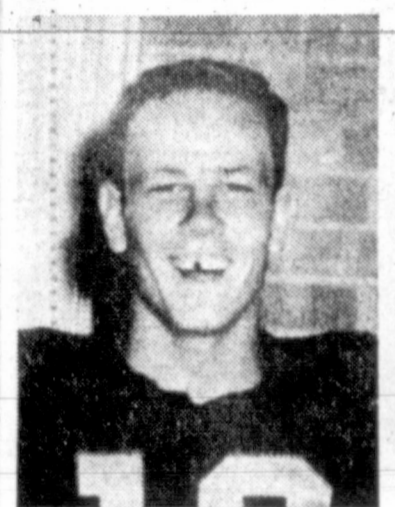

The team runs from the split T just as the Harvesters do. Plainview has a balanced attack, having gained 1500 yards rushing and 500 passing this season. The defense lacks something to be desired but the offense clicks well at times. The Bulldogs have lost two backs, a standout guard and an end by injuries this season. Pampa's probable offensive starters:

Ends: Dale Lake, 155, and James Weathered, 153.
Tackles: Glen Howell, 173, and Don Jonas, 177.
Guards: Gene Devers, 163, and Gary Peterson, 162.
Center: Jerry Bonsal, 163.
Quarterback: Dickie Mauldin, 137.
Halfbacks: Don Bigham, 145, and Bobby Dehis, 145.
Fullback: Robert Lanford, 135.
Defensive starters:

Ends: Devers, Weathered; tackles: Jonas, Kirbie; middle guard: Peterson; linebackers: Hopkins, Langford; cover men: Mauldin and Heiskell; and halfbacks: Lake, Dehis.

The Plainview probable offensive starters:

Ends: Larry Rogers, 165, and Gary Beasley, 175.
Tackles: George Jones, 165, and Bert Dalton, 210.
Guards: Darrell Anderson, 165, and Teddy Huntington, 155.
Center: Dick Hamilton, 185.
Quarterback: Jesse McGuire, 150.
Halfbacks: Larry Gould, 150, and Ray McCown, 175.
Fullback: Don Stone, 170.

Bowl Games On Line To Winners This Week

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

The blue chips—conference leaders—the inside track to several bowl games—will be in the center of the table Saturday as college football swings into the showdown of the 1956 season.

Only a slim pigskin program is slated Friday night to touch off the big weekend, with the Southern Conference meeting of Georgia Tech and Richmond the top attraction, but the leading contenders in six major conferences will work heads Saturday to top a brilliant show.

First place will be at stake in our hoops and bowl leadership in another two. These are:
Georgia Tech (no. 2 nationally), Tennessee (no. 3) — The nation's leading clash of high-ranked teams has both the Southeastern conference lead and the path to the Sugar Bowl at stake with Tech six-point choice.

Local Rifle Team Winner In Match

The Rifle team of the Service Battery 474 Field Artillery Battalion, defeated Headquarters Battery 8th Field Artillery group in a rifle match held Monday, Nov. 5.

The match was run similar to a telephone chess game. The Service battery from Pampa fired from the Rifle Club here in Pampa while the 8th Field Artillery group fired from a range in Galveston. Both groups were supervised by officers who later matched scores. The rifles used were 22 caliber.

Tony Welker, Sgt.-1st Class of the service battery, was high scorer for the service battery with a total of 265 out of a possible 300.

Others who took part in the contest were Specialist 2 Jack E. Frost, Specialist 3 Billy R. Wright, Sgt. William J. Wilson, Specialist 3 David E. Mullins.

Texas A&M vs. Southern Methodist — The Aggies, now barred from bowl competition by the NCAA on recruiting charges, are seven-point picks to win this scrap for first place in the Southwest Conference.

Stanford vs. Oregon State—Host Stanford is a six-point choice in this meeting of the two top rivals for the Rose Bowl berth, although State now shares the PCC league lead with bowl-ineligible UCLA.

Colorado vs. Missouri—The odds makers call this one "even up" in a meeting of the two teams most likely to represent the Big Seven in the Orange Bowl, since league and national champion Oklahoma is ineligible to return this year.

Houston vs. Tulsa — Houston favored in a close scrap for first place in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Texas Western vs. Arizona (Tempe) State — Tempe is a very slight favorite in tussle for first place in the Border Conference.

The stakes are not so clearly posted, but a whale of a battle is in prospect, in the nationally televised meeting of Minnesota and Iowa in the Big Ten. Minnesota, now tied with Ohio State for the league lead, is the nation's No. 6 team and a six-point pick to bolster its Rose Bowl hopes at the expense of 10th-ranked Iowa.

OSU Also Favored
Ohio State is a solid 21-point favorite to remain unbeaten in the league by downing Indiana while fourth-ranked Michigan State is picked by 20 over Purdue and ninth-ranked Michigan by seven over Illinois in other big games in this league.

In other outstanding league games: UCLA, tied for the PCC lead but ineligible to return to the bowl, is only even money against Washington; Ivy League co-leaders Princeton and Yale each are six-point favorites over Harvard and Pennsylvania, respectively; Atlantic Coast pacesetter Clemson is a solid favorite over Maryland; Oklahoma is a prohibitive choice over Iowa State; and Southern Conference leader West Virginia is heavily favored over VMI.

Three of the day's top intercollegiate games will find Duke a six-point favorite to snap Navy's three-game winning streak, Pittsburgh a 13-point choice to hand Notre Dame its fifth straight loss, and Louisiana State a seven-point favorite over Oklahoma A&M.

More Titles To Be Picked This Weekend

By UNITED PRESS
More than a third of the 93 state playoff berths available in Texas schoolboy football circles may be filled by the time this weekend's schedule is completed.

Three bi-district berths already have been clinched — by Perryton in District 3-AAA, Henrietta in 12-A and Groveton in 21-A — and 25 other teams can sew up similar berths if they win this weekend.

Only Yaleta in District 1 can sew up playoff honors in AAAA, while there'll be only two possibilities in AAA — Bryan in 10 and La Marque in 12. These divisions do not have to certify district champions until Nov. 24, but AAA and A winners have to be certified Nov. 17.

Yaleta plays El Paso Bowie, Bryan faces Conroe and La Marque meets Bay City.

Fourteen teams could make the grade in AA, including defending champion Stamford, which winds up its regular schedule tonight against Seymour. The others are Coleman, Burk Burnett, Terrell, New Boston, Gilmer, Hillsboro, Crockett, Gonzales or Lockhart, Navasota or Bellville, Liberty, Floresville, Devine and Hebronville.

U. S. Olympic Athletes Arrive For 1956 Games

By RICHARD VOUMARD
United Press Sports Writer

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—The first major contingent of American athletes settled down in their Olympic living quarters today for the final stages of their training despite the air of international tension that still hung over the games.

A total of 64 U.S. athletes and officials arrived by plane Thursday to offset partially the gloomy effect of the withdrawal of Switzerland, sixth nation to cancel its entry in the games during the current world crisis.

The Swiss withdrawal, announced at Olten, Switzerland, reduced the number of nations entered in the games to 68, one less than the record. Olympic officials, however, are continuing their efforts to persuade nations that already have withdrawn to reenter.

The Swiss Olympic Committee called its announcement "definite and irrevocable." The committee said it would have gone ahead with plans to compete if the seven national sports organizations had voted unanimously to do so. But one organization, the Gymnastics Federation, voted against participation in the games because of Russia's actions in Hungary.

This bad news was somewhat balanced here by the arrival of the Americans, described by U.S. Olympic Committee President Kenneth (Tug) Wilson as "the best Olympic team we ever fielded," and by the announcement that world mile record holder John Landy of Australia will compete in both the 1,500 meter run and the 5,000 meter run.

Blooming Grove 48, Mildred 6.
Union Grove 35, Sabine 0.
Temple 20, Austin Travis 6.
Malakoff 20, Brownboro 6.

same: Hill in passing (20 of 41 for 270 yards and 49 per cent), punting (38.3 average), and total offense (320 yards); end Ken Vahey of San Antonio in pass receiving (8 for 103 yards); halfback Ronnie Herr of Muenster in kickoff returns (24.5 average on 4); Williams in punt returns (12.4 average on 7), and guard Ray Howard in pass interceptions (8 for 21 yards).

The Shockers started out strong with its keeper and option plays to take a 13-0 lead with less than a quarter gone. Then the attack faltered and Coach Jake Halter's Bullpups rolled back for seven points before the half was completed.

The Pups held the ball most of the game and with several good breaks scored again late in the game and then added the winning extra point.

Pampa took the opening kickoff and in eight plays put across six points with quarterback Gary Wilhelm sneaking over from the one. A pass interference by Borger set the ball up for the Shockers on the Borger 39. Jess Engle, Wilhelm and Freddy Watkins lugged the ball to the one where Wilhelm scored. Engle ran across the extra point.

Minutes later the Shockers scored again when Wilhelm took the keeper play around left end for 25 yards and the counter. The extra point run fell short.

A pass from Negro quarterback Roger Tillman, a good field general, to end Tyler Collins for 29 yards put across Borger's first touchdown and the signal caller passed to Collins for the extra point. The drive covered 70 yards. Halfback Jim Williams galloped 41 yards for Borger's second touchdown and again Tillman passed to Collins for the extra point.

Pampa had a chance to score again late in the game when Borger was forced to punt and the kick went for a short distance. Wilhelm grabbed the ball on the 30 and fumbled with the Pups taking over again.

It was the fourth loss in eight games for the Shockers. Borger has a 8-1 record. Its only loss has been to the tough Amarillo Yannigans.

What Happened To 'Farm Revolt'

By BERNARD BRENNER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — What happened to the "farm revolt" which Democrats banked on to beat President Eisenhower's second-term bid?
 An analysis of the returns indicates that farmer discontent caused the President to get fewer votes in the farm belt than in 1952, but, despite the losses, he still swept every farm state except Missouri.
 Where the farmers turned most decidedly against the Republicans was in congressional and gubernatorial races.
 A GOP official said in some areas Republicans "apparently lost up to 40 per cent of our 1952 farm vote." Losses were heaviest west of the Mississippi, in areas where farmers have suffered from drought, he said.
Ike Ups Percentage
 In the nation as a whole, Mr. Eisenhower won nearly 58 per cent of the vote compared to 55 per cent in 1952.
 But in farm areas, this was the picture:
 Nebraska — Eisenhower 65 per cent, down 4 per cent from 1952.
 South Dakota — Eisenhower 58 per cent, down 9 per cent.
 Minnesota — Eisenhower 54 per cent, down 2 per cent.
 Illinois — Eisenhower 60 per cent, up 5 per cent. Much of this gain apparently came in the Chicago area.
 Missouri — Eisenhower 49 per cent, down 2 per cent.
 Iowa — Eisenhower 59 per cent, down 5 per cent.
 Kansas — Eisenhower 66 per cent, down 3 per cent.
Demos Elect Governors
 Democrats elected governors in the normally Republican farm states of Iowa and Kansas. And Democratic spokesmen claimed the farm issue helped turn Republicans out of at least six House seats and two Senate seats.
 The Democrats hoped to pick up two additional GOP farm belt seats in undecided races between Rep. Robert D. Harrison (Neb.) and Lawrence Brock and Rep. James I. Dooliver (Iowa) and Merwin Coad. They also gave the farm problem credit for their near-upset of Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.).
 Brock and Coad campaigned for a return to the old Democratic program of high, rigid farm supports. Dooliver has taken the same stand, but Harrison — who had expected to win easily — backed the administration farm program.
