We Finally Receive Rain

Moisture-laden skies over the Top o' Texas area yesterday brought much needed rain to most points.

50 Attend Hotel Sales Meeting

Approximately 50 persons attended a meeting in the Palm Room of City Hall this morning for the purpose of learning more about Pampa's proposed new hotel.

Those in attendance were told of progress made so far in acquiring a hotel for Pampa and were given some first hand information on the campaign to raise money to purchase a hotel.

It was a meeting of the general sales division and the three men's division chairmen, Don Cain, Warren Hasse and Dr. Joe Donaldson, were introduced to those in attendance.

The three will head a sales force, in three divisions, with four groups in each division of from seven to 10 men in each.

The sales campaign is split into two general sections, the men's and the women's. Fred Neslage is overall sales director and Ed Myatt is men's section sales manager.

The men's sales force will be taken principally from those in attendance at this morning's meeting.

The agenda at the meeting included introductory remarks by Neslage, and a review of steps taken to date by George Cree Jr., chairman of the New Hotel Executive Committee.

Lynn Boyd, member of the committee, told "What I Think of the New Hotel Project." Following an introduction of the other members of the executive committee, a general outline of the plan of the campaign was given by Philo C. Dix, campaign director.

H. W. Rohrer, associate campaign director, told of the task of the general sales organization.

Mrs. Rufe Jordan, ladies' section manager, and Mrs. Lynn Boyd, associate, were introduced.

Ed Myatt, men's section manager, was then introduced and he introduced Cain, Hasse and Dr. Donaldson, division managers.

M. K. Brown, member of the executive committee, made a timely statement, that it is "now or never" for the hotel. Brown said if the hotel is not built now it would hurt the community later.

A meeting of the ladies' section sales manager and associate, Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Boyd, will be held tomorrow. The two ladies will then name Jean Chisholm, Mrs. Bob Curry and Mrs. H. H. Hicks to head the three women's section divisions. The women's section organization will be nearly identical to that of the men's section in that the three women sales managers will recruit a sales force to help sell stock in the proposed hotel.

In both sections, the sales managers will line up four group chairmen, who will then get between seven and 10 workers to make up his sales force.

A meeting of the executive committee was scheduled for 4 p.m. today in Cabot Auditorium in the Hughes Building.

The purpose of the meeting was to hear progress reports by the sales force, headed by Fred Neslage.

Other routine business will be conducted.

Science Gives Break In Food

WASHINGTON (UP)—Science is coming up with another big break for American housewives: food that will keep for weeks without spoiling.

Experts reported today they now have evidence that poultry, fish, ham, beef, sausage, lobster and many other perishable foods can be kept fresh for long periods with antibiotics. The drugs kill bacteria which cause most food spoilage.

The scientists said use of the drugs will mean far less waste—one out of every four pounds of food now goes into the garbage can. It also may mean fewer stomach upsets and a significant increase in the world's food supplies.

The optimistic reports were made at the final session of the Food and Drug Administration's fourth annual symposium on antibiotics. Several hundred experts from the United States and nine other countries have taken part.

The rain in Pampa began at 10 a.m. and continued throughout most of the day giving a total of .43 of an inch, according to the rain gauge located on top of The News building.

A rain gauge in Laketon recorded 1.2 inches of rain to set the record for places reporting rain to The News.

Rainfall reported by other towns in the Top o' Texas was: Lefors, approximately 1/4 inch; McLean, approximately 1/2 inch; Shamrock, 1/2 inch; Canadian, 1/4 inch; and Perryton, a trace.

By UNITED PRESS
It rained in Texas again today for the sixth straight day, and weather forecasters said all sections of the state could look forward to more showers.

The rain first reported today fell in North Central and Southeast Texas. Beaumont reported a shower and weather stations in the Dallas-Fort Worth area sighted rain between them and Red River on their radar screens.

One thunderstorm was below Ardmore, Okla., just south of Red River. So far, there was none of the violence that characterized the weather Thursday.

Thick Fog
The extreme south portion of Texas had a fog that looked as thick as cotton batting.

Forecasters said shower activity would continue at least through Saturday. Rain measurements during the night included Childress .96 inch, Abilene .43, Wichita Falls .08 and Dalhart .08.

Rainfall reports for the 24 hours ended at 6:30 a. m. included Victoria 2.87, Childress 2.01, Dalhart 1.38, Wichita Falls .81, Galveston .80, Seymour .75, Snyder .53, Abilene .43, Amarillo .35, San Antonio and Marfa .21, Corpus Christi .15, Laredo .11, Brownsville and Mineral Wells .04, Dalhart and Port Arthur .03 and San Angelo .02.

Low temperatures early today ranged from 40 at Dalhart to 71 at Brownsville.

The fog in south Texas lifted slowly during the morning. It formed in the same area where heavy rains Thursday night brought a four-foot rise in the Rio Grande at Laredo.

Mild Temperatures
The second area hit by turbulent weather Thursday was bounded by a line from 50 miles south of Wink to 50 miles south-south-east of Childress to Mineral Wells to Del Rio and back to the point south of Wink.

Today's showers were expected to intensify during the late afternoon and tonight. Temperatures over the state were due to continue mild into the weekend.

Tornadoes, cloudbursts, tempestuous winds and flash floods came Thursday as the state enjoyed its fifth day of good rains.

Tim Timmons of Pampa and Sherman Crockett of McLean were injured yesterday afternoon when they were hit by a bolt of lightning while working on the Nabob lease north of McLean.

Both men were fortunate that they were not injured more severely, although they both suffered painful headaches throughout most of the night and today.

Most of the violent weather was in southwest Texas, where a tornado destroyed two houses and unroofed two warehouses in Crystal City.

Another tornado was sighted late Thursday near Sundown in the Panhandle.

10-Inch Cloudburst
A squall line pushed southward from Laredo and San Antonio to the coast. A tornado was reported at Sycamore and communications were knocked out at Del Rio and Uvalde.

Squalls brought a 10-inch cloudburst at Brackettville, where sudden flooding put most roads and highways under water. Five feet of water also swirled over U.S. 277 between Del Rio and Eagle Pass.

The Pecos river, which empties into the Rio Grande, was on the rise today. It was expected to bring still another rise on the Rio Grande itself.

The lake behind Falcon Dam, the water storehouse for the Lower Rio Grande Valley, was due to benefit from the rises. Water level was up to 71.58 feet today, and releases from the dam were cut off because regular river runoff was heavy enough to take care of the Valley's needs.

Among the weather casualties was Luis Garvia Tigrina, 34, struck by lightning while he worked on a construction job one mile west of Hereford. Tigrina was killed and three companions were injured.

Jordan And Israel Carry Strife To United Nations

Japan, Russia Sign Declaration

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW (UP)—Japan and the Soviet Union signed a joint declaration today, ending an 11-year state of war between the two nations. A formal peace treaty was left to future negotiations.

Two documents were signed in the Kremlin by Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama for Japan and Premier Nikolai Bulganin for the Soviet Union.

One document was a joint declaration calling for normalization of relations between Tokyo and Moscow. Under this agreement, the state of war was ended, both countries will exchange ambassadors, the Soviet will release some 1,000 Japanese prisoners still in Russian hands, the Soviet union will support Japan bid for entry into the United Nations and a provisional agreement concluded last summer will be implemented.

Island Claim Deferred
The second document was a protocol on trade.

The question of the return of certain Kurile Island territory claimed by Japan was deferred to a later date.

The Soviet Union agreed to return to Japan the two islands of Habomai and Shikotan, but only after the conclusion of a formal peace treaty. It was on this key issue that the talks almost had collapsed.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko who led the Soviet walk-out at the San Francisco Peace Conference in 1951 was one of the principal draftsmen of the present agreement. He walked out then when he refused to sign the treaty.

After other nations signed the treaty Gromyko denounced it as invalid on grounds two of Japan's wartime enemies, the Soviet Russia and China, had not signed it. He said the treaty perpetuated the U.S. occupation of Japan, permitted Japan to rearm and did not give the Soviet Union clear title to the Soviet-occupied Kurile Islands and southern Sakhalin.

Some of the Soviet-Japanese territorial disputes were ironed out in the current talks. A Japanese spokesman said they had reached agreement on a "30-50 basis."

Today's agreement was reached in negotiations between Japanese Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev. The groundwork was laid by Japanese Fisheries and Agriculture Minister Ichiro Kono.

The Central Committee of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party elected four new members at its long-awaited plenary session. The 56-year-old Gomulka was one of them.

The other three were political allies of Gomulka's up to the time of his purge during the 1948 Titoist upheaval, and two of them went to prison with him then.

Gomulka's restoration to the Communist leadership has long been expected. It was believed now he would be further promoted to the Politburo—the inner ruling Communist circle—of the Central Committee and possibly to the cabinet.

Elected with him to the Central Committee itself were: Marian Spychalski, purged as vice minister of defense and arrested. He was released after Joseph Stalin's death and now is a hospital official here.

Zanon Kliszako, purged as vice minister of justice at the same time as Gomulka and arrested. He recently was restored to his post.

Speech Published
Ignacy Legza Sowinski, a political ally of Gomulka's who survived the Titoist purge is a trade union official.

The Central Committee meeting began only a few hours after publication of one of the most courageous speeches made in Poland by a non-Communist politician in a decade.

The speech was made Thursday afternoon by Stefan Ignar, vice president of the United Peasant Party, during a meeting of his party.

Two Collisions Reported Here
Two accidents were reported to the local police department which occurred yesterday.

The first, at 11:50 a.m., occurred on Charles, 110 feet north of Pennsylvania. A 1953 Ford coach, driven by Kevin Russell Chisholm, 800 N. Gray, was in collision with a 1948 Pontiac driven by Charles O. Frost of Chaney, Kans. The Ford was damaged by approximately $311.27 and the Pontiac by approximately $78. W. B. Frost, riding in the Pontiac, was taken to Highland General Hospital with injuries sustained in the accident. He was thrown from the car, according to the police report. He lives at 1108 Charles.

Communists Make Change In Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UP)—Poland's Communist regime restored disgraced "Titoist" Wladyslaw Gomulka and two of his once-imprisoned colleagues to power today. It was the first major political realignment since the Poznan riots.

The Central Committee of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party elected four new members at its long-awaited plenary session. The 56-year-old Gomulka was one of them.

The other three were political allies of Gomulka's up to the time of his purge during the 1948 Titoist upheaval, and two of them went to prison with him then.

The second, at 8:44 p.m. yesterday, occurred at the intersection of Cuyler and Tyns.

A 1953 Mercury sedan, driven by Josephina Gorman Gordon of Pampa, was in collision with a 1955 Chevrolet driven by Oscar Lee Jackson, 1013 S. Clark. The Mercury was damaged by approximately $100 and the Chevrolet by approximately $200.

PICTURE-PATE POLITICKING — These gents have their favorite presidential candidates on their minds, thanks to the skillful brush of caricaturist Sally Zippert. The Adlai Stevenson supporter, left, is Dr. Maurice Sage, of New York City, while Ike's man is George A. Ramlose, of Boston. They were attending the National Association of Food Chain Stores convention in Chicago.

PAMPAN DIES IN WRECK

A Pampa man, Edward Leroy Morris, 713 Reid, died at 1 a.m. today of injuries received in a two-car accident that occurred at approximately 10 p.m. yesterday about four miles west of town on Highway 60.

Mr. Morris was riding in a car with his wife and two sons, Teddy and Doyle, all of whom are in Highland General Hospital.

The family was riding in a car driven by a friend who was driving them out to their car, which had run out of gas, according to reliable sources.

The car in which they were riding was in collision with a car in which two men from Canadian, Claude Milton Ridens and Norman McCoy, were riding.

Senior Citizens Hear Talk By Speaker From New Delhi

Hiralal Bose of New Delhi, India, one of his country's top youth leaders, spoke to the members of Pampa's Senior Citizens Center Thursday afternoon in the Lovett Memorial Library.

He explained he is in this country to study various aspects of American culture, with emphasis on youth. He has appeared at youth conferences throughout the world.

He told the group the problem of the aged in India is acute because of widespread poverty. In answering a question on how his country feels toward the United States and toward Russia, he explained India doesn't recognize any sides. He stated his country, since its independence, has been trying to analyze and determine separate directives toward each country, studying each country to decide what it is doing. He told the group India is trying to remain friendly to all nations, feeling that this is the best way to help toward world peace.

Bose stated India believes each country has a right to work out its own problems without interference.

The senior citizens were told by Bose that wealthy India parents are sending their children to America to study in large numbers, with some 3,000 to 4,000 already here, studying mostly in the Eastern states.

Bose, chief executive for some 200,000 members of the Youth Section of the Indian National Congress, is being sponsored in his visit to this part of the country by Texas Tech's Adult Education program. His West Texas visit is part of a tour of this country and eastern Canada at the invitation of the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs. He came to this country to participate in an international seminar at Harvard University.

He visited Amarillo, Borger and Pampa Thursday and will spend part of today in Amarillo and Canyon. He is to return to Lubbock this afternoon before departing for Knoxville, Tenn.

Bose was introduced to the Senior Center members by G. H. Teters, director of Tech's Adult Education program.

Second part of the program was a demonstration on simple flower arrangements by Mrs. Roy Kay. She showed how to make attractive containers from coffee cans and demonstrated arrangements using gravel, a tea cup and saucer, a water goblet and a simple vase as a container. For her floral arrangements, she used common flowers grown in pots or in gardens.

Mrs. Kay also showed the group how to make bows, and gave tips on the care of common garden and potted plants. At the close of her talk, she distributed the flowers among those attending.

During the business session, the group was divided into teams, with Mrs. J. L. Love and Earl Lane as co-captains of one team, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris as co-captains of another. Each team was given a list of names of those who have attended the Senior Center, with each team to compete with the other for getting the most persons on its list to attend the meetings.

Security Council To Hear Both Nations

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. —UP— Jordan and Israel carried their border dispute to the United Nations Security Council today. Jordanian diplomats said they would demand economic and diplomatic sanctions against Israel.

The 11-nation Security Council met to hear charges by both the Arab and Jewish nations and then planned to adjourn for private consultation and future action.

Jordan's complaint charged Israel with an "unprovoked and premeditated" attack on four border villages during the night of Oct. 10.

Israel Claims Reprisal
Israel, which contends the attack was in reprisal for earlier Jordanian incursions of its territory, asked the council to consider "persistent violations" by Jordan.

The Israeli delegation charged with violating the Palestine Armistice agreement and the cease-fire pledge which U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold obtained from Israel and its Arab neighbors last April.

The council meeting, held against a backdrop of Middle East politics and tension, was considered one of the most serious in the long history of Palestine debates here dating back to 1948.

Jordanian Election
Jordan and its young King Hussein faced a political crisis in elections scheduled for this weekend, and the Jordanians insisted that their complaint be considered by the council before the elections.

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, chief of the U.N. truce supervision organization, said in a United Press interview, Israel's incursions into Jordan were "of an organized military nature."

Phillips Agrees To Meet With Commissioners
County Judge Bruce Parker received a letter this morning from Clay D. Carrithers, manager of the claims department of the Phillips Petroleum Company in which Carrithers acknowledged the judge's letter of Oct. 10.

Carrithers said that the company engineers would be happy to meet with the Commissioners Court and state and county engineers relative to the relocation of the proposed routing of farm-to-market roads.

He asked the judge to notify him as to when such a meeting would be possible. Parker said that at the present time he did not feel that a meeting of the company engineers was necessary with the commissioner, since the original offer to review the situation was made with the intention that the engineers of state, county, and the Phillips Company should meet to determine whether or not a re-routing would be possible.

Three Students Die In Dormitory Fire
MOSCOW, Idaho, (UP)—Three University of Idaho students were burned to death today in a dormitory fire which firemen believed may have been set by a firebug.

University officials withheld names of the victims pending notification of kin.

It was the fourth dormitory blaze within a week on the campus. Fire Chief Carl Smith said the previous fires, which caused about $3,000 damage, had been set.

"This one stacks up with the rest of them," Smith said. The fire broke out about 2:15 a.m. in the downstairs lounge of GALT HALL, a new four-story men's dormitory. The concrete and brick structure had been termed fireproof.

Most of the dormitory residents fled outdoors into the near-freezing weather. The victims were trapped on the upper floor.

Four other students narrowly escaped death. Two of them climbed down a firetruck ladder. Two others made their way up a rope to the roof from where they were able to jump to the roof of neighboring Pumpham Hall.

More than 1,000 students aided firemen in battling the blaze. They brought it under control in about 45 minutes.

$500,000 To Be Deposited For Road Bond
The Commissioners Court yesterday directed the County Treasurer to invest $500,000 on 6 months time deposit and $100,000 on time deposits from the recently acquired Road Bond money. County Judge Bruce Parker announced today.

Johnson Says Demos For Ike Use Campaign Of Smear, Fear
By LOYD LARRABEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LOCKHART, Tex. (UP)—Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson Thursday night accused the Democrats for Eisenhower of "smear and fear" campaign that "followed a fascist pattern."

Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn were the featured speakers at a fund-raising dinner attended by some 3,000 persons from Central Texas.

Johnson defined an Eisenhower Democrat as "a Republican who is afraid to admit it."

Rayburn also took a verbal poke at the Democrats for Eisenhower when he said "I am not a Democrat 21 months and then a Republican three months, like some people in this state."

Some Viewers Getting Disgusted With Television Giveaway Shows

By H. D. QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Some of us viewers are getting downright tired of seeing so many smart people parading around on TV winning so much money answering so many questions on abstruse things.

It's time somebody told the TV people they're going overboard. They're hipped on the subject of knowledge. They're putting a premium on crammed heads. Thousands of dollars for overstuffed brains.

Erudition is oozing out of the studios and dripping all over the sidewalks. It's getting so that if you don't know who told Zachary Taylor's upstairs maid's pooch's uncle that he wasn't nothing but a hound dog, you can't even get into the audience of a quiz show.

Dumb People Ignored

Why don't they give us dumb people a chance sometimes? I mean us folks with clean, uncramped, unfettered brains—unburdened by the dull weight of billions of facts. Some of us have been working hard at keeping our brains uncluttered for years.

There are some brains around that have whole sections which have never been exposed to anything. Should such purity go unpraised, unrecognized, unrewarded? Obviously the answer is no.

What we need is a television program that pays off on ignorance.

Format Simple

The format should not be hard to contrive. If you don't know a thing, you don't know it. How much you don't know can be demonstrated by starting with a hard question and gradually working up to missing the easiest possible kind of question. It takes a lot of practice to don't know something of the simple, ordinary things; the contestant could be interviewed on how he achieved his ignorance.

For instance, I have no idea what 9 times 12 is. My success in this may be traced to a strict personal code of window-staring while we were being taught the multiplication tables in school. During the entire arithmetic class I would stare through a window at an alley.

Weeds Grow There

It was a dirt alley, with weeds between the vehicle tracks. There was almost never any traffic along it, a fact which helped keep the mind at peace, restful and unused.

Now, you're probably saying, what would prevent a person on "ignorance is bliss," or whatever they called the program, from pretending not to know the answer when he actually knew it? This is simple. Science would fix it.

Each contestant would be shot with truth serum and then go on the program wearing a lie detector. That way, you'd be sure he was trying his best when giving the wrong answer and telling the truth when he said he didn't know.

Here's Sample Question

Just so there would be some easy winnings in the first round, the program would start off with some question like: "Who was George Washington's most frequent caddy during his first term as president?" Then you could work into such contestant-eliminators as: "What was the name of Adam's first wife?"

There is a crying need for such a program for those of us who have, as Lord Byron said, "just enough of knowledge to misquote."

Well ... that is ... I think that's what he said.

At the same time all classes selected their queens. Those chosen from among the contestants were: Joy Smith, senior class; Elita Bell Williams, junior class; Gwen Newkirk, sophomore class; and Jeanie Martin, freshman class. The queens will be crowned at the Halloween carnival to be held on Monday evening, Oct. 29.

UNDER SHADOW — Because Queen Soraya of Iran has failed to bear him an heir in five years, Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlavi may be forced under Islamic law to divorce his beloved wife or take a second wife. The queen is pictured as she recently arrived in Rome without the shah. They were married in 1951, two years after he divorced Egyptian Princess Fawzia, sister of ex-King Farouk, because she had failed to give him an heir.

PROUD PAPAS ARE THE SAME THE WORLD OVER—Egypt's president, Gamal Abdel Nasser, himself a father, loses cares of the Suez Canal crisis overboard for a few moments as he mirrors the delight of Saudi Arabia's king, Ibn Saud, left, in the latter's two sons. Nasser was in Riyadh for Arab League talks on the Suez situation.

Explosions Kill Six

HERRIN, Ill. (UP)—The death toll climbed to six persons early today in a series of gas tank explosions and fire which rocked a residential section Thursday night destroying five homes. The dead included two men, two women and three children. Six others were injured critically. In explosions and fires which erupted after gas "crawling like it was alive," seeped from a tank loading area into a residential district nearby. Dead were Oscar Williams 38, his wife Violet, 33; their son Fred 3; Mrs. Williams father, Fred Kerley, 62; and mother Elizabeth Kerley, 63; Charlotte Jarvis, 10 and Robert Lee Keller, 5. Doctors at Herrin hospital, where the injured were treated, still fear the death toll may rise. Bodies of the most seriously injured were 90 per cent covered by burns. Seeping Gas Blamed The dead and injured made up two families. The Jarvis girl and Keller boy were step-children through a previous marriage of their mother, Mrs. Imogene Keller who was among the injured. Fire Chief Carl Mayers blamed the initial explosion on gas seeping from a leaky valve of a propane gas truck at a gas warehouse which was ignited by an open flame. The heavy gas spread over the residential area like a fog and was ignited by an open flame—possibly on a stove or a water heater—in one of the five houses destroyed. A warehouse used to store propane gas tanks also was demolished and another house was badly damaged. Firemen called when the gas was noticed spreading over the neighborhood stood by helpless as the first explosion erupted in huge flames. Like Rockets Seconds later, another explosion shook the area, followed by some 50 propane tanks stored in the warehouse erupting like "rockets in all directions." A witness said the exploding tanks looked like "flame throwers or blued torches." The exploding tanks hurled metal fragments as far as 100 yards. Six persons sitting in their yards were enveloped in flames when the gas ignited. None of the warehouse workers unloading gas was injured because they fled to safety before the first explosion.

10,000 Phone Numbers To Change Here On Sunday

Some 10,000 Pampa telephone numbers will change early Sunday when the new two letter, five digit numbering plan is put into effect here. The new numbers will go into effect at 1:01 a.m. on October 21, according to Manager George Newberry of Southwestern Bell Telephone. At that time, all Pampa telephone numbers will begin with an exchange name, "MOhawk," followed by five numerals. For example, a number might become "MOhawk 4-2099" and you will dial "M-O-4-2-0-9-9." Newberry said the new numbering plan is being put into effect to increase the speed and efficiency of long distance telephone service and to also provide adequate numbering combinations for future telephone growth. "We are sending Pampa telephone subscribers little dial stickers that have their new telephone numbers on them," the manager added. "In addition, the new numbers are in the latest telephone directory which was mailed to all subscribers this week." Newberry said all Pampa telephone users should continue dialing the present numbers until 1:01 a.m. on Sunday. "At that time, we are urging everyone to destroy the old directory and begin using the new two letter, five digit numbers," he continued. This numbering plan is being put into effect throughout the nation. Many cities, such as Amarillo, Fort Worth and Borger are now using it. Dallas will begin using the new numbering plan next month. Newberry pointed out that this numbering plan is a forerunner for the direct distance dialing system which Pampa will get within the next few years. Under this system, Pampa telephone users will be able to dial their own long distance calls without requiring the assistance of an operator. One requirement for this direct distance dialing system is that no two telephone numbers in the nation can be identical, he said. This new two letter, five digit numbering plan will achieve this goal. Newberry said that the number

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER During October there is being celebrated the 70th anniversary of an educational institution whose history is a record of triumph over incredible tragedy, Hiroshima Girls' School, Hiroshima, Japan, an institution of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions, was opened in the autumn of 1886 in rented rooms, grew in work and influence through the years, was destroyed in 1945, and today—rebuilt and still growing—continues to work. It was the first atom bomb which destroyed the school, on August 6, 1945. By that time Hiroshima Girls' School had developed into an institution with two departments—high school and college—and an enrollment of over 900 girls. When the bomb fell on that summer morning it killed 350 students and totally demolished the buildings. Three months after the bomb fell the school had rented four classrooms of a partly destroyed grammar school and started all over again, with less than 100 students. One year to the day after the bomb fell, the school dedicated new temporary buildings on the site of the ones destroyed. Two years to the day after the bomb fell, the school dedicated new senior high school buildings. Today Hiroshima Girls' School has an enrollment of 1,000 in its high school and 350 in its college department's new buildings. Twenty-five women of the Congregational Christian Churches are now in Europe, on a tour believed to be "the first in which a group of church women from America, will visit church women overseas." The tour is under the auspices of the Women's Fellowship of the International Congregational Council. The purpose, according to Mrs. Mary Ann Williams, Lake Worth, Florida, leader of the group and president of the Women's Fellowship of the International Congregational Council, is to provide opportunity for personal fellowship with church women abroad. The American church women, who are from 16 different states, will spend fourteen days in England, Wales, Scotland and Holland where church leaders there will interpret the life of their churches and the women's

Gas Well Fire Injures Three

CAPLEN, Tex. (UP)—A flaming gas well that blew in out of control and seriously burned three men continued to spew flames 150 feet into the air today as firefighters tried to cap it. Myron Kinley's oil well firefighting crew from Houston moved machinery and equipment Thursday night as flames from the roaring Sun Oil Co. gasser lit up the night sky for miles around. Officials believed the well could be sealed off today. The well's 136-foot derrick burned through at the base from the intense fire, toppled to the ground Thursday. The three men burned when the well blew in were reported "doing fine" in Beaumont Baptist Hospital today. The injured men are Theo Walker, 50 of Shepperd; J. T. Knight, 58, of Cleveland and J. H. Stret, 30, of Cold Spring.

Why Bother To Read

During the days when persons in this land were generally unfamiliar with the danger posed by communist infiltration, writer Dorothy Thompson provided many a problem. She seemed to be in rebellion against free enterprise and often favored questionable schemes calculated to enlarge the bureaucracy and hamper freedom.

In recent years, however, she has, it appears, changed her tune. And we are indebted to her for a dandy article which appears in the October Ladies Home Journal, entitled: "Why and What Should Johnny Read?"

Miss Thompson has taken a good look at the textbooks in use in our government schools. With undisguised asperity she says that some of the reading matter given to our young students is producing mental and spiritual rickets. The stuff isn't written by authors who know how to express great ideas, moral conviction, and "limpid simplicity." Instead, the textbooks are puerile, manufactured by "tailors of words to suit methodology."

"Their readers are captive children whose brains are being flattened and imaginations bled by streamlined reading created by conformist streamlined literary WPA's, whose notion of literature is a 'project'!"

Held up as an example of what good reading ought to be in the schools are the old McGuffey Readers, which contained fine literature compiled by the greatest writers and orators of all time. In sorry contrast are today's namby-pamby functional stories in which the authors repeat new words to be learned ten times and new words which were learned last time, five times.

How can such cullings from the dictionary provide inspiration, sound moral concepts and a desire to read? What is the point of reading, if reading is not an adventure? Why should any child want to read if all he gets between covers is a watered down review of "Mary is sitting in a chair," "John is standing beside the chair," "The chair is big," "There is another chair in the room."

Says Miss Thompson: "The old readers assumed that a child could comprehend at quite early age a very large number of words, if they appeared in a mentally and imaginatively stimulating context. . . . A school child, brought up on the McGuffey Readers, was expected at the end of the second grade to command a reading (and spelling) vocabulary of at least 2,000 words, while a child taught by the reading methods and matter of a modern series in wide use is confined to a vocabulary of 875."

Perhaps her most compelling point is this: "And children, even not very bright children, have an extraordinarily sensitive aesthetic sense. The worst thing one can do to them is to blunt it by banal reading. . . . Children also have a natural moral and ethical sense that responds very faintly to the 'Now, be a good boy' precept, but is stimulated by examples of the great virtues." Present day material in our government schools give few if any such examples.

"Why and What Should Johnny Read?" is a useful and articulate expose of what our kiddies have been experiencing. However, Miss Thompson could have strengthened its utility had she shown that the more the government intrudes in the school room, the less inspiring and imaginative material is permitted. The downgrading of our scholastic literary standards has precisely paralleled the rise of government intervention, taxation and control in our institutions of learning.

The solution will never be found by simply reverting to the old McGuffeys. Nor does Miss Thompson suggest this. The solution can only come when the government and education are issued a final divorce decree. Then, and then only, will our educators be permitted to exercise the judgment and the skills their task requires and bring back the joy and the illumination which can and must come from what we read, if there is to be any point in education at all.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

All parents of young children are involved in some degree with the kind of pre-emptive brought up in a letter from Mrs. D. E.

She says in part: "A close friend has a baby about two years old, and her methods of breaking him of his bowel habits seem to me to be harsh. He does an excellent job of telling his mother when he wants to empty the bladder," she says, "but often forgets about his second chore. When the mother has found what he has done, she gives him a spanking and scolding. I think the child is confused, since the mother uses the bathroom for the bladder function and a potty chair for the bowels."

Before discussing certain aspects of the bladder and bowel training of small children, I should like to say that I agree with the writer of this letter. The child could very well be confused. Spanking is both a harsh and undesirable method of handling the situation.

THERE ARE almost no children who acquire complete control over their bladder and urinary functions, either suddenly or at the same time. Furthermore, practically every child has occasional accidents long after the time when control has become generally well established.

This is not surprising, since normal youngsters are not thinking about these matters constantly and may suddenly and unconsciously reach a point where they can "wait" no longer.

IT IS COMMON for a child three or four years old to wet during the day or night. Only occasionally is this a sign of delayed development or disease. Sometimes it reflects either rebellion against authority on the part of the child, desire for attention, or a feeling of insecurity.

The average child usually begins to establish bowel control between one and two years old. When the baby is nine or 10 months old, it can be placed for short periods on the "potty."

At first this has to be done with the child lying down, as it is best not to force the child to sit up too early.

Most infants begin to catch on to the idea quickly, especially if praise is given when the desired results occur.

The "potty" should be used regularly at the same time of day, usually after the first morning meal. Neither the mother nor the baby should be worn out by keeping it up too long if success is not achieved.

PARENTS SHOULD AVOID being irritated or showing anger when the infant fails. This makes matter worse rather than better. In an older child the responsibility for good bowel habits should rest on the youngster rather than the parent.

"The Lord is Our King"

In the last chapter of Edmund A. Opitz' book, "Case Studies of the Church in Politics," he points out a very interesting fact—that the Jewish religion was based on the authority of God rather than any king or emperor. This is the way Opitz puts it:

"The science of archeology has unearthed some spectacular ruins in Egypt, in Babylonia, in Crete and in Greece. All over the Middle East, patient researchers have turned up monuments and vainglorious inscriptions carved into rock or pressed into clay at the behest of proud kings. Except in Palestine! There has been nothing brought to light in Palestine comparable to the monuments extolling the vain kings of Egypt. An authority states that there is not a single royal inscription from any of the Bible kings. The Prophets saw to that! No boastful king in ancient Israel would have presumed to leave an inscription dedicated to his own glory, much as he felt he deserved such. The Prophets would have quickly put such a king in his place, and popular resentment would have run high against such inflation of human pride.

"In Greece and Rome there were men noted as great lawgivers: Lycurgus, Solon, Justinian and others. In other countries there were royal decrees by the thousands. A law would be promulgated with some such words as, 'I, the King command. . . . In Egypt and in Babylon, even as in Greece and Rome, authority for a law stemmed from a man, the Ruler. But in Palestine the situation was different. In Biblical literature there is not a single law emanating from kings or other secular authority which was recorded and preserved as permanently valid. Nor have archeologists in Palestine unearthed royal decrees inscribed on clay tablets or graven on rock.

"Now, no people live together without conforming to a commonly accepted code, and without having recourse at times to law. The people of ancient Palestine lived under authority, not in a condition of anarchy. If the king was not the source of their law, there must have been another and higher source. There is no doubt as to what their authority was: They looked to God as the source of their law. 'The Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our King.' (Is. 33:22). All, or nearly all, of the basic laws of this people were written as though emanating from God Himself. Instead of 'I, the king, it was 'I, the Lord.' And ye shall keep my statutes and do them: I am the Lord.' (Lev. 20:8). This saith the Lord: Execute ye judgment and righteousness, and deliver the spoiled out of the hand of the oppressor; and do no wrong, do no violence to the stranger, the fatherless, nor the widow.' (Jer. 22:3).

"This is the system of law, laid down in the Scriptures, expanded and interpreted by human reason, of which the Psalmist said, ' . . . his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.' (Ps. 1:2). Nearly every man was learned in this law, and also deeply involved in the religious relation to God in which the law was rooted — and liberty was a precious by-product of these conditions. Establish these conditions—that is, widely held religious values in which God is regarded as the source of authority and justice, superior to any earthly power — and they provide a firm foundation for political liberty. In these circumstances there is a continuous check to tyranny, should any such attempt to raise its head. Neglect these conditions, and liberty has no roots. It is like a cut flower which has no vitality in itself and does not last beyond the life it derived from the plant. The way is prepared for tyranny."

It makes no difference whether it is a king or the agents of the majority proclaiming laws that violate God's or nature's law. The results of obeying man rather than God are always eventually catastrophic. It is because we in the United States and in our several states and counties and townships have been obeying laws made by man that we are in the predicament we are in today.

It is because of obeying these man-made laws that juvenile delinquency is increasing, our debts are increasing, crime is increasing, we have warfare between capital and labor, we have tariffs and immigration quotas that are bound to lead to war, we are drafting soldiers, our unit of money is becoming worth less and less, we have schools that are run by guns rather than by God, we are full of fear of unemployment, and we have ever-mounting taxes that deprive the individual of the right to choose as God intended him to choose how his energies should be used.

It is because we have these man-made laws rather than God's laws that we have one war after another and have our soldiers scattered all over the world.

Some Charity Really Income Tax Dodge

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Coleman Andrews, a Virginia money in mortgage bonds or Democrat but for three years like's enforcer in the terrorist income tax checks, has become the candidate of an earnest but forlorn aggregation of "third parties." Their several platforms are alike in principle and similar in detail and express no purpose which any loyal, constitutional American could reject. Although they disagree slightly in little particulars, the one issue on which they are harmonious and vehement is the iniquity of jumbled acts of Congress, changing from session to session, for the enforcement and interpretation of the Income Tax Amendment.

This amendment was fatal to the liberty of all Americans because it failed to set a limit on the amount of the citizens' earnings which Congress may confiscate for the Federal treasury. That amendment was concocted by the late Cordell Hull, an ignorant, misanthropic hill-billy. It provides that no citizen has any right to any of his income. The little which is left to him after taxes is a generous allowance from Congress, but not his by any constitutional right.

Short of repeal of the 16th amendment, the obvious next-best remedy is to amend the amendment to provide that all incomes be taxed equally in the several brackets. The existing amendment says that income "From whatever source derived" may be taxed. It should read, "From whatever source derived by any person, institution or entity" shall be taxable.

This would not cure the fundamental evil of slavery under Congress. But it would definitely abolish a tangle of dishonest exemptions and indulgences all dictated by sordid political motives for favor of charities, foundations, churches and cooperative societies thereof. There are many others, including the so-called community income dodge and the exemption of billions of dollars paid to racketeers called labor unions.

Business men squander millions on expensive meals with booze which are deductible as incidental expense of their virtuous efforts to persuade customers to buy their stuff. The old New York speakeasy known as "21" is renowned as an expense account restaurant because for some occult reason yoked executives and buyers in New York feel honored to be admitted. It might be close to the mark to say that more than half of the revenues of the first class places in our large cities are put down as deductible business expense by those who pay the tabs and subtracted from corporate or personal taxable income. Depletion and capital gains are legal evasions of income tax.

Unions pay no taxes on the billions in dues and assessments which are extorted by the black-jack of coercion, enforced by dragons of the Labor Relations Board whose salaries are paid by income taxes. When the union has amassed fifty million dollars of untaxed revenue it may invest the

The Nation's Press

ON HOW NOT TO LEGISLATE (Chicago Tribune)

How the White House circle pressured the 3.7 - billion - dollar foreign - aid bill through Congress earlier this year, is clearly told by Eugene W. Castle, in the November issue of the American Mercury. His article is entitled "Foreign Aid Picks Your Pocket Again" and its conclusion is that the men on Capitol Hill once more surrendered to the power and patronage of the administration.

Mr. Castle is the former film producer who was given and deserved much credit for helping slash 12 million dollars from American propaganda spending abroad a few years ago. He is a firm foe of "mutual security," as the foreign aid program is misnamed.

This time last year, Mr. Castle notes, there seemed very little chance that mutual security, in its present form, could last. Harold Stassen, then the program boss, had alienated some powerful members of Congress and Congress had let Stassen's former Foreign Operations Administration die. It was succeeded by the international cooperation administration, attached to the state department to carry out what was believed to be a waning program of shoveling money across the sea. It appeared that even the White House wasn't much concerned, but those who thought this were quite wrong.

Mr. Castle dates the revival of foreign aid from a meeting at President Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm the first week of last December, attended by those he calls "the top actors" in the cast. From that point on a new drive to get Congress to shell out as extravagantly as ever came into being and was not to cease until enough senators and representatives had been whipped into line to put over most of what the administration wanted.

The Castle story of these events is a good one, though discouraging. It is a political case history which might make some voters for the Democrats this year if their candidate for the Presidency weren't even more addicted to foreign aid than is Mr. Eisenhower.

National Whirligig Band Of Power Advocates Are Conducting Filibuster

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A small band of Roosevelt-Truman public power advocates are conducting a deliberate filibuster against four hydroelectric projects essential to national defense and the expanding economy, according to public and private experts in this field. They apparently hope to postpone final action in the hope that election of Adlai E. Stevenson and a Democratic Congress will reverse President Eisenhower's "partnership" idea.

The four projects are Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley on the Snake River near the Idaho-Washington border, which will generate more energy than famed Hell's Canyon itself in Idaho, and the Niagara River development in upstate New York. Hell's Canyon is now under construction by the Idaho Power Co., but it is threatened with court actions.

Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley are stalled in Federal Power Commission hearings that have been prolonged for 14 months by the New Dealers. Governor Averell Harriman's New York State Power Authority has plunged the Niagara River venture into an interminable administrative and legal controversy.

The public power filibusters have organized themselves into the Hell's Canyon Association. Its principal promoters are Oscar Chapman, Truman's Secretary of the Interior; C. Girard Davidson, Interior Counsel under Chapman; and Evelyn N. Cooper, who was Chapman's Administrative Assistant.

Chapman is public resources adviser in the Stevenson campaign, and expects to be renominated to his old post in event of a Democratic victory. Other participants in the filibuster are James G. Patton's radical National Farmers' Union, and the Northwest Public Power Association.

Even before the current squabbles, the government ownership - and - operation group has blocked Congressional or FPC action on these important sources of new energy for many years. Now, with final decisions and dispositions about to be made, they are playing for further delay and election of the public power Administration and Congress.

As a collateral issue, they are capitalizing on the stalemate to elect their great champions, Senators Wayne L. Morse of Oregon and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington. If they can defeat Douglas McKay and Governor Arthur B. Langlie, respectively, who carry Ike's banner, it will be acclaimed as a triumph for public power philosophy.

Such a result, with its influence on Congress, might enable them to achieve their goal of Federal development of these last great power sites on the American continent.

Here is the current and detailed situation in this "last stand." Hell's Canyon was awarded to the Idaho Power Co. by FPC, and work has begun. But the Chapman-Cooper faction has threatened litigation in a revival of anti-Dixon-Yates tactics.

When a bill for New York State development of Niagara River was blocked in the House at the last session, Harriman's Power Authority asked FPC for a construction license. But in ratifying the Treaty with Canada for mutual development of power resources, Congress provided that it should have final say on this project.

No matter what FPC decides, the question will be bogged down in the courts for years, with the result that bankers will refuse to finance either public or private construction at Niagara.

The Oktoberfest Is The Drinking Of 'New Beer'

By HENRY McLEMORE

GARMISCH, GERMANY — To day's column was written by some one who is cute, smart, pretty, talented, charming, and altogether delightful, so it goes without saying that I had no part in it.

My contributor is Barbara McKenna, 21, of Annandale, Virginia, a Wellesley College graduate, class of '53, and now secretary to Brig. Gen. Bruce Easley, in USAREUR Headquarters, Heidelberg.

When I found that I would be unable to attend Munich's celebrated Oktoberfest, and that Barbara was going, I asked her to write Mary and me a letter about it. She did, and here, in sketchy part, is what she saw:

"Held annually since the late Middle Ages in Munich, the Bavarian beer center of this country, the Oktoberfest is the drinking of the 'new' beer to celebrate the harvesting of the present year's crops. . . . Imagine if you can, the largest, noisiest, sprawlingest country fair you have ever seen: mile - long midways of rides, concession stands, weight - lifting booths and open-air peep shows. Where in Kentucky, Virginia, and Vermont you would perhaps find a large Bingo tent, here you see seven huge beer tents, in which the seven large breweries sell their brew. Come inside and see husky frau-eins — strong - armed, brisk - striding, broad-hipped and buxom — moving efficiently over their allotted 'runs.' They never overlook an empty stein, a demanding look or a wobbly slump. Dressed in either plain black dresses with white aprons pinned over their bosoms, or in gay dirndls of questionable age, they make a definite pattern of color that seems to move eternally over the area. The tents are vast, holding seven to ten thousand, and it is a noisy, singing, happy crowd. The air is so thick that smoke seems to hang in layers in the rays of the glaring lights. . . ."

"A Bavarian band blares from the stand in the center of the tent poles. . . . Hawkers selling pretzels, radishes, wurst and festive hats stroll the crowded aisles. Drinking songs resound throughout; one shouts to make oneself heard, even if it is only across the oilcloth-covered table. Sit down, and you soon have a cold, gray stein of malty brew before you. . . . you are linking arms with the curious old fellow on your left and the smiling frau-ein on your right. Outside again, you stroll down one of the midways, and the air is heavy with the smell of wurst, sending out a spicy-sweet aroma that mingles with the tang of malt, popcorn, and erdnuss (peanuts) to make the air tantalizing. White sausage-type wurst, fat, long, red wurst, and the round hamburger varieties are eaten with a hard brotchen and a dab of saut (mustard) from a huge crock at the counter. Rotisseries are everywhere, with hundreds of broilers turning on the spits, to be eaten on the spot by Germans who thoughtfully bring along their own knives. . . . The brewery horses, their harnesses heavy with silver medallions, bells, shields, and tassels, stand patiently at their wagons in front of the Lowenbrau, Hofbrau, or Thomasbrau tents. . . . The crowd is unbelievable; allowing in the accepted method of moving in any direction, there is an air of gaiety, loud laughter, and shouts. . . . no one is in authority, get anywhere, except to the beer tents. Dirndls and long-skirted peasant dresses mingle with the sweaters and skirts of the German teen-aged girls and of the Americans present. . . . Black flat-topped skimmers and forest-green Bavarian hats rival the best of overseas caps worn by the men.

"The parade, held on the first Sunday of the fest period, is a huge affair that wends its way through Munich to the delight and pride of all Munchenfolk. This year's parade has 141 sections — 141 floats, marching and singing groups, brass bands, beer wagons, rope-snappers and various other performers. Each province of Germany has its own distinctive dress — red and blue ribbons, gilded necklaces, elaborate silver buttons that sparkle in the sunlight, or the intricate details on the suits of the Jagermanner. . . . And after this parade, all Munich goes back to the vast meadow where the glories of the 1956 Oktoberfest await a still!"

HOW DO ACTRESSES AND TOP FASHION mannequins make up to the low-cut necklines of fabulous gowns they work in to keep sumptuous fabrics safe from cosmetic stains? And what's more mystifying to many women — as other questions prove — is how CAN extravagant linings in fur coats and evening wraps take the briefest contact with bare shoulders, necks and arms, when gals are made up to their fingertips?

MAX Factor's answer to these questions robs both of their mystery. Whether they're Hollywood or New York actresses or Paris' top models, the girls safeguard their gowns by using a make-up blender which can take on all comers. This is a tinted liquid made to adhere so tenaciously to the skin it won't rub off on clothing. It begins — on the actress, on models, on the white-satin-clad bride, and on you if you're worried about fabric touching your skin — where make-up for the face leaves off.

Here are more timely tips from Max Factor on make-up for arms, shoulders and back bared this fall and winter by low-cut gowns. If these exposed areas are the same color as your face, when it's made up, but have a different sheen, use face powder to delimit arms, shoulders, back. To do that, apply a harmonizing shade of powder, then buff it down with the palms of your hands. Getting rid of the excess powder will keep your beautiful silk or satin lining safe.

Suppose there are freckles on an expanse of exposed skin? Leave 'em be, men delight in freckles, says Factor. But if you're so generally endowed with freckles that they make your skin lighten their color. Apply a light film of make-up blender over deeply pigmented areas. But don't try to cover freckles up, warns the expert. You'll only succeed making you don't like to show? You can hide these by using a make-up eraser. As explained by Factor, that's a skin-color cream stick, which when dotted on a blemish can be finger-blended until there's no line of demarcation between the spot and the area surrounding it. A make-up blender, or a make-up foundation for the face can be applied also, if need be.

What about sun-tanned neck, shoulders and back that remain one shade deeper than that of the face? The trick for toning color down, says Factor, is to apply white bath powder to the darker skin areas. Then buff with the palms of your hands. Skin, so treated, will look lighter, will be less shiny, and will present absolutely no threat to a gown, even if it's bridal white!

TO NURTURE end-of-the-season look of lingering autumn — a long Indian summer can keep it in bloom — treat it to a two-toned make-up, advises Max Factor, Jr. Then, he adds, wear the most flattering clothes colors on the fall fashion chart.

One of your two make-up shades, says the Hollywood expert, must harmonize with your tan, the other with your skin when it isn't tanned.

The procedure is to use two shades of fluid make-up simultaneously. If your tan is still going strong, dot on more of the darker than the light. Conversely, if your tan is fading, use more of the lighter make-up. The two make-up shades — best, if they have natural high-fidelity colors that enliven skin tones and translucence — can easily be blended with your fingertips.

Your best lipstick shade for whatever stage your tan is in, according to this expert, is a vibrant, fiery red of high fidelity color to provide strong red contrast.

Most flattering colors for your tan, whether it's still spectacular or is beginning to fade are the foggy greens, taupe, browns, off-key blues, no-color beiges and muted tweeds, says Factor.

First Baptist YWA Has Study Meeting

The Young Women's Association of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Misses Delma and Zeina Franklin, 915 E. Fisher. Decorations followed a Japanese theme, and refreshments of tea and cookies were served during the social period.

The business session was led by Miss Beth Spencer, and the mission lesson was taught by Miss Zeina Franklin.

Attending were Miss Exie Seagriff, sponsor; and Misses Sheila Shelton, Joyce Neils, Beth Spencer, Virginia Jones, Jayne Glendon, LaVada Naylor, Zeina Franklin, Peggy Hutto, Delma Franklin and Sally Pullen.

As a filling for sandwiches honey can be combined with butter, peanut butter, or creamed cheese for variety. To these mixtures chopped nuts or dried fruits can also be added.

Since she makes her living from her hands, as a hand model, Geraldine Hanning takes every grooming and health precaution she can to protect her livelihood. Every morning (left), she drinks an envelope of plain gelatin, dissolved in her juice. To this she attributes the hardness of her nails. Twice a week (top center), she manicures her nails. She selects gloves (middle center) for maximum fit, keeps them spotless. Every night, before going to sleep (bottom center), Miss Hanning massages her hands while holding them up. This keeps veins inconspicuous. She is careful always to wear rubber gloves (right) when working in water, to avoid chapping. She keeps a pair in the kitchen, one in the bathroom. Healthy, handsome hands are the result.

BABY

By BETSY WADE NEA Staff Writer

If there's space and an extra bed available, here's one way of moving Baby from the crib to a regular bed. Move the extra bed into his room. Put his regular toys on it and his blanket. Let him try a few naps there at first. Don't move the crib out until the weaning period is through.

Baby, like his parents, craves stability. For this reason, try not to have too many changes at once. Changes that may disturb Baby are: New Baby, weaning, toilet training, moving out of the crib, the family's moving, starting school.

One Baby was more willing to have his hair washed when the water was poured out of his toy plastic milk bottle. After a while, he learned to do it himself. Plastic blocks are useful for familiar teaching purposes.

The television set has brought democracy into the American home, according to a social psychologist.

This psychologist has made a study of homes with and without TV. He's concluded that letting Sis and Junior have a say-so in what programs the family will watch has had a far-reaching effect. It is far more than whether or not Papa watches the ball game or Sis sees and hears her favorite groaner belting out rock-and-roll songs.

From having a say-so in turning the television dial, kids have gone on to have a say-so in many other family decisions. That's what the professor says.

The big problem for parents is where will it all end? Just how democratic can a home become while Mama and Papa still carry enough authority to issue a flat "No," or a stern "Do it because I say so?"

There's another problem, too. In any family discussion kids tend to hold together. If Mama and Papa have more than two children they are sure to be outnumbered in this family democracy.

Before our homes get any more democratic than they already are maybe we parents had better give a little thought to our future. We had better hold fast to the power of the veto when the voting goes against us. Either that or we are going to find ourselves a minority group in a family democracy where we get out-voted at every turn.

Of course, we could get rid of the TV set and try to go back to the good old days when Mama and Papa handed down the decisions. But it is probably too late for that.

Hand Model Shares Her Beauty Secret; Protects Hands When Doing Housework

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

Beautiful hands have been celebrated for years as important attributes of a beautiful woman. Yet most women who do laundry, dishes and care for babies, or who pound typewriters, know how difficult it is to have beautiful nails and hands.

Hints on keeping hands and nails pretty come from a woman who makes her living from her hands, as a hand model. Miss Geraldine Hanning, who also acts and sings, is probably the owner of most of those lovely hands you see in ads and over television.

Miss Hanning has no unfair advantage over any other home-maker. She does her own dishes and laundry. She types and plays the piano almost every day. Far from keeping her hands on a velvet cushion she makes them do all the housework and then go out and earn the bread and butter.

Her first tip is on keeping the nails hard and strong. For several years she's been drinking an envelope of plain gelatin in a glass of orange juice each morning. To this treatment she attributes nails that are so hard they almost never break, even though they're kept professionally long.

Cynthia Kay Ward Feted On Birthday

Cynthia Kay Ward was honored with a birthday dinner in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Franklin, 915 E. Fisher.

Others guests were the honoree's great-grandmothers, Mrs. R. I. Davis; her great-grandfather, B. A. Franklin; her aunts, Misses Zeina and Delma Franklin; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ward; and her brother, Doyle Ray Ward.

Honey butter — equal parts of honey and butter, blended thoroughly — is delicious on toast, hot breads, waffles, and in sandwiches. It is creamy and easy to spread, too.

Store honey in a dry, not-too-cool place. Moisture is absorbed by honey if the food is exposed to dampness. Although refrigeration doesn't harm Honey, it hastens granulation.

First Baptist GA Installs Officers

An installation service for the Vada Waldron Junior Girls Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church was conducted by Mrs. W. B. Franklin, counselor.

Refreshments of fruit punch and cookies were served during the social period.

Twelve members were present. New members and guests were Misses Martha Barrett, Jan Cook, Carol Etheridge, Kay and Jan Harken, Carletta Johnson, Suzanne Johnson, Patsy Holloway, Anne Hofessa, Sara Sue Redus and Judy Beth Ross.

Officers Elected By Girls Auxiliary

The new officers were installed by Mrs. O. D. Burba, president of the Women's Missionary Union. Miss Nita Cartwright, outgoing president, led the business session.

For the program, a stewardship play, "The Real Owner," was presented. Mrs. W. B. Franklin, counselor, explained the mission study on Japan, to be based on the book, "The Tarnished Helmet." The study will begin at the next meeting with Mrs. L. V. Hopp to review the first two chapters.

Aims for advancement were discussed, and Mrs. Franklin closed the meeting with prayer.

DAVID BOSTON evangelist

Revival To Begin Here

The Central Baptist Church, of 513 East Francis will have a week of Revival services beginning next Sunday, Oct. 21, and continuing through the following Sunday, according to announcement made by the pastor, Carroll B. Ray.

Preacher for the Revival will be Evangelist David Boston of Houston, and music will be under the direction of the music director for the church, John Christy.

Evangelist Boston has about equally divided his ministry between the pastorate and evangelism. He has been pastor of two of Houston's leading Baptist churches, Broadway Baptist and First Baptist of Jacinto City, both of which made remarkable progress under his leadership. His last pastorate was the First Southern Baptist Church of Los Angeles, Calif. He resigned that pastorate to return to the work of full-time evangelism some two years ago.

Services of the Revival will be at 10 o'clock each morning and at 7:30 each evening. Monday through Saturday, with Sunday's services being at the usual hours, 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. All the five choirs of the church will participate in the music program from night to night.

The pastor has announced special nights for the Revival, as follows: Monday night, Church Loyalty night; Tuesday night, Father and Son night; Wednesday night, Sunday School night; Thursday night, "Bringing the Family" night; Friday night, "Bringing a Neighbor" night; and Saturday night, Young People's night.

The Church Nurseries will be open for all services of the Revival, and the church extends a cordial welcome to all folks of the community to attend, Carroll Ray said.

Christian Science Services

Mankind's need for spiritual growth and progress will be stressed at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will comprise the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death."

Scriptural passages will include the following from Psalms (37:27): "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."

Among the selections to be read from Science and Health is the following (291:12-13): "Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them."

The Golden Text is from John (5:25): "The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live."

First Baptist Plans For Week

"Destructive Desire" will be the sermon topic for the 11 o'clock worship hour Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, will use the scripture 1st Timothy 6: 6-10, as a basis for the sermon. At the 7:30 evening worship hour, his topic will be "Our Christian Heritage" based on the scripture 1st Timothy 6: 20.

Baptismal service will be conducted at the first part of the evening; worship service, Sunday School will be at 9:45 a.m. and Training Union at 6:30 p.m.

The Chapel Choir will have its regular rehearsal at 5:45 p.m. The Training Union Directors will have a special meeting at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

On Monday, all Sunday School superintendents will meet at 7:15 p.m. in the church parlor. The N.W.A.'s and G.A.'s will meet at 4 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon; the Junior G.A.'s will meet at the same hour.

There will be a WMU Mission Study and Exhibit Wednesday beginning at 2 p.m. The Mid-Week service will be held at 7:45 p.m. with the pastor teaching the book "The Call of the Harvest."

On Thursday the Cub Scouts of the church will meet at 7 p.m. Mr. Norman Henry, cub master, will be in charge of the program.

The graded choirs of the church will have their regular meeting at 3:45 Thursday afternoon.

What To Do When Invaded By Skunks

HOT SPRINGS, S.D., Oct. 6 (UP)—What to do when your community is invaded by skunks? Change the name to "Skunk Hollow" and capitalize on it, according to one bit of advice.

The local weekly newspaper has been swamped with letters of advice since it declared war on a horde of skunks that have taken a fancy to the community.

The skunks apparently moved into town from the woods to take advantage of "free lunch" in the community's garbage cans.

A letter from Tulsa, Okla., advised the deodorized skunks are worth as much as $35 each.

"Your city may have a 'bonanza' without realizing it," the writer said. "Possibly Hot Springs can become known as the nation's No. 1 'skunk hollow'."

Another suggestion the town change its name to "Skunk Hollow" came from a "Hot Springs taxpayer." He said it then could bill itself as the "stinkiest town" in the nation and attract tourists.

More practical solutions came from a woman in York, Pa., who advised scattering mothballs around the town, and a manufacturer of garbage disposal units who said his product would solve the problem.

"The skunk problem isn't as

Congregation To Attend 3 Day Program

The Pampa congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are making preliminary plans to attend a three-day training program in Altus, Okla., according to an announcement made by James W. Nash, presiding minister of the local group.

"The object of the program," Nash said, "is to counter the rising tide of materialism, and equip everyone of the preaching fellowship of Jehovah's witnesses in the practical use of the Bible as a help in fortifying the spiritual morale of the people in our community."

Nash said that Jehovah's witnesses adhere to an intensive ministerial training program that includes at least five classes each week. "We maintain," he emphasized, "that if a religion is worth believing, it is worth really understanding and putting into practice."

"In support of this conviction the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, sponsors of the three-day Altus refresher program, have set the theme of the assembly as 'Letting Our Advancement be Manifest,'" he explained.

The program is scheduled for Nov. 9-11 in the Altus City Auditorium.

DEDICATION SERVICES — Rev. William E. West, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, is shown here giving a blessing during dedication of the new chapel. This ceremony also marked the anniversary of the consecration of St. Matthew's.

Approximately 42 laymen of various churches have already volunteered to serve as District Captains, and have been working two weeks in mapping the territory to be covered.

Six hundred men, women and Senior High School Students will be needed to take the census under the direction of these District Captains.

On page 3 is a copy of the survey card to be used. The Ministerial Alliance, who is sponsoring the census, has requested that anyone who will not be at home on Sunday afternoon, fill in the information and leave it in the mailbox where the census taker can easily get it.

Any church or person desiring to help with the census may get further information from Rev. Ronald Hubbard, president of the Ministerial Alliance, or Rev. Dick Crews, chairman of the census for 1956.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. ALBERT G. STROH, Pastor
Pampa Bible Church
Pampa, Texas

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee; because he trusteth in Thee." —Isaiah 26:3.

Here the original is richer than our rendering. "Perfect peace" is the translation of a Hebrewism, literally, "peace, peace." It means: Thou wilt keep him in a continuous, uninterrupted experience of peace. Peace, today, peace tomorrow, peace the next day. Peace, peace, peace (add as many as you wish). It is the unbroken flow of the river's current:

"O that thou hadst hearkened to My commandments! Then had thy peace been as a river." —Isaiah 48:18.

"Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them." —Psalms 119:165.

The word of God gives lasting peace and genuine heart satisfaction to those who love its Context. Loving it, not only as a book, but as the only true source of Spiritual guidance and wisdom. In Bible times lamps were tied to the feet of the sojourner to shed rays of light in the night; thus allowing the person to walk circumspectly without stumbling over unseen objects. When the WORD is used as a constant guide it throws rays of light upon our pathways in the darkest hours. David wrote the following words in trying hours, "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." —Psalms 119:105.

Hence the appealing exhortation to every Child of God is "If we walk in the light (light of God's word), as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin." —John 1:9.

Peace is the result of Faith, and "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." In doing this we put ourselves in a position to receive His promise of Peace.

Sooners Set For Record; TCU, Tech Games Top Card

By JOE SARGIS
United Press Sports Writer

Look beyond the Oklahoma-Kansas game, which is a sure bet to result in a modern major college football winning record for the Sooners, and there are several important clashes a round the country Saturday that may go long way towards deciding conference championships.

The mighty Sooners, ranked first by the United Press Board of Coaches for the first four weeks of the current season, are picked by a whopping five touchdowns over Kansas and barring perhaps the greatest upset in the annals of college football, should emerge late Saturday afternoon with their 24th straight victory.

Oklahoma currently is tied with Pittsburg for the consecutive victory record of 33. Pitt set its mark between 1914 and 1919. The Bud Wilkinson coached Sooners, the nation's most successful exponent of the split-T, have yet to be scored upon this fall and have come up with a bruising defense that just might be able to keep the slate clean the rest of the season.

Four Important Tilts
However, there are four important games in as many sections of the country to keep fan interest up.

Fifth-ranked Texas Christian, driving toward the Southwest Conference title, meets Texas A&M at College Station, Tex., and is favored by eight points in a league where form seldom holds up.

Yale, conceded the Ivy League title before the season began, tries to keep its perfect record intact against Cornell. Thus far, the Elis have managed to squeak past three opponents, but Cornell may prove a stumbling block, Yale is picked by 14 points.

In the South, the rolling Georgia Tech Engineers, ranked third nationally, face a tough opponent in Auburn and can't afford to let up, because Mississippi, ranked eighth and tied for the Southeastern Conference lead with the Yellow Jackets, meets Tulane (0-0 in the conference) and Vanderbilt (2-1) plays Florida (1-1). Southern California and Washington, the Pacific Coast Conference's top two teams, meet at Los Angeles in the best game on the West Coast. Southern California is picked by 13, but this might wind up as an overlay. Both teams are undefeated and neither can go to the Rose Bowl because of PCC violations. This is the West Coast's regionally telecast game.

In the biggest non-conference game of the day, Michigan State, ranked second, takes on battered, sophomore-laden Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. State is picked by 14 over Terry Brennan's Irish, who have dropped two of their three starts and may be headed for their worst season in 23 years. This game will be telecast in the Midwest.

Army vs Syracuse On TV
Army, thoroughly lathered by Michigan last Saturday, tries to recoup against Syracuse, one of the East's top teams, in the third regionally telecast game of the day, while Navy, beaten by Tulane last Saturday, after a pair of easy wins, takes on Cincinnati in what should be a breeze.

In other major intersectional games, Duke and Pittsburgh are rated even, while Ohio State is expected to romp over Penn State. Also Hawaii at Iowa, Marquette at College of Pacific, Virginia at Lehigh, Arkansas State at Mississippi State and North Carolina at Dayton.

In the Midwest its Michigan-Northwestern, Minnesota-Illinois, Purdue-Wisconsin, Missouri-Kansas State, Colorado-Iowa State and Indiana-Nebraska, while in the Southwest its Southern Methodist-Rice, Texas-Arkansas and Houston-Oklahoma A&M.

Top games in the Rockies include Utah-Wyoming, Utah State-Colorado A&M, Montana-Brigham Young and Denver-Colorado College, while on the West Coast its Oregon State-Washington State, Stanford-Oregon and UCLA-California.

Nine Put Perfect Record On Line In Schoolboy Games

By UNITED PRESS

Nine games involving perfect record teams scattered throughout all four divisions headline this week's Texas schoolboy football card as the season moves to the head of the stretch for district play, especially in the Class AA and A divisions.

There are other important games, but these stand out: AAAA—Abilene, ranked No. 1 in the state and working on a 28-game winning streak, plays at Waco, which was No. 4 until upset last week.

Highland Park, now rated No. 4, which plays at Tyler, a state finalist against Abilene last year apparently just now reaching the peak of its expected strength.

AAA—Snyder, No. 1 in its division, entertains dangerous Dumas which has lost only one game and that to AAAA's undefeated Amarillo Palo Duro.

Nederland, ranked No. 2 along with Phillips at Beaumont, one of AAAA's more potent clubs although it has been beaten twice. AA—Gilmer at Pine Tree, a high-scoring outfit that has averaged nearly 40 points a game since losing its opener to Mineola 7-0.

Sweeny, one of two unscored-on teams in the state, at Edna, which also has been bumped only once. Unbeaten Teams A—Frenship at Plains, both unbeaten and untied in a district 5-A game.

White Oak at Judson Grove, also both perfect record outfits. White Oak is the second highest scoring team in the state with a 46.9-point average.

In addition, Class AA's two powers—Stamford and Deer Park—will be nanging into district play with long strings at stake. Stamford, which has won 24 in a row, plays at Anson in 4-AA, and Deer Park, unbeaten but tied in 35 straight games, plays host to Dickinson in 25-AA.

TCU-Aggie Winner May Mean Conference Champ

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

Game, but crippled Texas A&M, and healthy and powerful Texas Christian do combat before an expected sell-out Kyle Field audience at College Station Saturday with the Southwest Conference title appearing as a possible incentive for the winner.

It's a long way to December title glory down a road studded with dangerous pitfalls, but the winner of this one will be the No. 1 choice for the crown until someone else proves capable of wresting the honor away from him.

Neither of these rivals was given much of a look-in in pre-season title forecasts, but both have proven themselves as potentially dangerous with prolific passing games.

Hogs Meet Texas
The only other action inside the loop may also offer a crowd-pleasing performance, but neither of the contestants appears to be going anywhere.

That one pits twice-beaten Arkansas (loser to TCU and Baylor) against a Texas team making its debut in league play after being battered by Oklahoma 45-0 last Saturday. Texas is badly crippled for this one, while Arkansas appears ready.

Coach Abe Martin's veteran crew haven't forgotten that upset at the hands of the Aggies a year ago in Fort Worth—the only regular season foe to nip the Frogs—and the victims aren't expected to let up the pressure at any time in an effort to square things.

The Aggies, meanwhile, may get only partial service out of two of their best backs—fullback Jack Pardee and halfback Loyd Taylor both nursing bad shoulder injuries. Both are due to start, but their effectiveness is sure to be impaired.

SMU will be cheered by the return to action of fleet Lon Slaughter and solid Ray Masters in the backfield for the Rice game, but actually this one seems destined to be decided in the air.

It'll pit SMU's Charlie Arnold against the combined talents of Rice's Frank Ryan and King Hill, but if this turns out to be evenly matched air-wise, the running of Slaughter and Masters may provide the difference and keep intact SMU's record of not having lost to Rice in Houston in a decade.

Upsets Fail To Blot College Card—So Far

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The football season so far has been just about as formula as the cuties in a Broadway chorus line.

And like the grille dancers it is rare when any of the teams get out of step.

There hasn't been an old-fashioned shocker of an upset so far. Here and there underdogs win, to be sure, but the bookies are claiming that most of their upsets are just in the point spreads—a team will come close to beating a team that was rated a big margin occasionally and that's about the size of it.

What's the cause for this close adherence to form? Well, one odds-maker who does a big volume of football business insists that it is because teams are being scouted more closely than ever before.

Multi-Million Business
The hound dogs who are keeping a close watch are the representatives of the men who make the football odds and who conduct a multi-million dollar business each season in the football parlay cards distributed practically everywhere. They have followers keeping tab on every team, watching for injuries, for staleness after a big game, for a club that is getting "up" for a special opponent.

And when the parlay cards and the point spreads are posted each week, that represents an accurate line on the entire operation, perhaps more accurate than ever before obtainable. In the past many upsets simply were due to wrong information, or perhaps no information at all.

Trend Toward Possession
But there are other reasons, too. One of the big ones is the new "high fashion" of ball-control in the college ranks. There is a strong trend toward possession and a theory that the other team can't score as long as you have the ball.

It makes for long series of "punch-punch-punch" plays with occasionally a breakaway runner getting through for a long gain or a touchdown. When a favored team gets the ball and hangs on to it, the chances for the other team scoring an upset are minimized.

And, of course, this also could be the week when form is smashed to pieces on the college gridirons, too. Because the upsets certainly are behind schedule.

Harvesters Underdogs In District Contest

Past performances, statistics and what have you will go out the window tonight at 8:00 when the Pampa Harvesters face the Amarillo Golden Sandies in Amarillo. Victors in five of the last seven games, the Pampa Harvesters will be underdogs to the once-beaten Sandies. However, in this traditional rivalry anything can happen and that's what 15,000 fans are expecting tonight when the teams line up for the kickoff.

There will be a capacity crowd on hand to witness the first District 3-AAAA for Sandies and the second foe for the Pampa Harvesters. Last week, they dropped a 13-7 decision to Palo Duro.

The Sandies are going into the game as favorites of comparative scores and since they are playing at home. While Pampa has a 2-3 record, the Sandies have a 3-1 record for the season.

Things have improved immensely from last week when the Harvesters had a number of their starters laid up with injuries or a touch of flu. This week, and for the first time in many, the Harvesters are within reaching distance of 100 per cent of top physical shape. The only possible man who may not measure up to par is Gary Peterson who had an ankle sprain earlier this week. He has said, though, that he is in perfect shape and ready to go.

Spirits High
Reports from the Harvester camp are that spirits are unusually high and all of the boys feel as though they are going to give the Sandies something to think about tonight.

The tough Pampa line, which has been the key factor for the Harvesters leading the district in defense, will have to be in high spirits tonight to stop the fleet crew of Sandie back, Bill Kerbel, Gary Peterson and Don Jonas, the middle three in the defensive plans for the Harvesters, will have to be in tip-top condition tonight. Coach Joe Kerbel's main wrecking crew, a backfield full of juniors led by quarterback Soapy Sudbury, are as fast as the Abilene Eagles speed merchants, reputed to be the fastest backfield in the State. Halfback Billy Hulett and David Russell have been constant threats outside while Ken Kendrick a 165 pounder who moves from the fullback post, is an ever present threat inside the tackles.

However, with the way the Pampa defense has been playing of late, touchdowns will be few and far between tonight for the Sandies. Dickie Mauldin, his hand healed, will go as starting quarterback along with Don Bigham and Bobby Dehls at the halves and Robert Warren at fullback. If the offensive unit can generate a touchdown or two tonight, the Fighting Harvesters will be very hard to beat.

Coaches Worry
While the players have their spirits high, the coaching staff is very wary of some tricks by Kerbel and his aides. This morning, Coach Lockett said that "although our spirits are high, we can't think for a minute that this is going to be our ball game. Scouting reports told us that they have a better team than the Palo Duro Dons so that kind of shows how much of a chance we have tonight."

Lockett continued, "We know what Joe Kerbel can do. We've scouted him thoroughly and know he runs almost the same plays we do. What we're afraid of is something new that he will undoubtedly put into his offense for tonight."

Kerbel, also an Oklahoma man, has constantly devoted his studies to Oklahoma split-T and its variation.

Tickets will remain on sale at the school business office in City Hall until late this afternoon. Pampa's probable offensive starters with weights:
Ends—Glen Howell, 173; James Weathered, 153.
Tackles—Bill Kirbie, 198; Don Jonas, 177.

Brundage Hits Moral Values In Olympics

NEW YORK (UP)—Avery Brundage, the controversial International Olympic president, today criticized the "lowering of moral athletic standards" in this country and urged "something be done about it immediately."

Just back from Switzerland, the 69-year-old Brundage told a group at the Overseas Press Club that other nations question the amateur status of U.S. athletes as much as they do Russia's "and perhaps even more so."

"It's a sad state," he said, "when a boy believes he has to be paid for playing a game. I believe crooked boxing matches, basketball scandals and surreptitious payments to athletes under the table is an indication of a lowering of moral athletic standards in this country and something should be done about it immediately."

Despite his feelings, Brundage insisted he was not the one who "blew the whistle" on mile champion Wes Santee, suspended by the AAU because of professionalism.

"The public seemed to make a hero out of a boy who had violated the rules five years," Brundage said, referring to Santee. "I hope we haven't forgotten honesty in this country."

CLEVELAND (UP)—Former Notre Dame tackle Art Hunter, who has been serving in the Army for the last two years, joined the Cleveland Browns today but is not expected to play much until next season. Hunter was obtained by the Browns from the Green Bay Packers in 1955.

Ransom Holds Two Stroke Lead In Texas Tourney

HUSTON UP—The Veteran Henry Ransom held a two-stroke lead over the field today going into the second round of the $5,000 Texas PGA tournament, which he last won 15 years ago.

Ransom, or Bryan, fired a 32-33-65, six strokes under par for the Sharpstown Country Club course, Thursday in the 72-hole tournament which ends Sunday.

Tied at 67 at the end of the first 18 holes were Byron Nelson of Roanoke, with 33-34; Jack Smith of Amarillo, 35-32, and Bob Morris of Dallas, 33-34.

Another stroke back at 68 were amateur Rex Baxter Jr., of Amarillo and pro Bread Mims of Dallas, each of whom shot 34-34.

Elroy Marti of Houston, Todd Menafee of San Antonio and Woodrow Tucker of Corpus Christi had 69s and Tom Lawrence of Corpus Christi, Bill Trombley of Dallas, Earl Stewart of Dallas, Bill Hightower of Odessa and John Paul Cain of Sweetwater all 69.

Defending champion Charles (Chuck) Klein, who took the $1,000 first prize last year at El Paso, shot a par 34-37-71.

Menafee's 36-33-69 made him the leader in the 36-hole senior division tournament held in conjunction with the PGA event.

Directors To Set Fate Of Washington Ball Club

WASHINGTON (UP)—The club's board of directors will decide today whether or not the Washington Senators will remain in this city.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, will place before the board "firm, and very, very attractive offers" to transfer the franchise to Los Angeles, San Francisco or Louisville.

Along with those offers, Griffith also will present a proposal submitted by the Washington Board of Trade "for keeping the team here."

comparatively modest one, even though they have finished in the second division for the past 10 years.

Should the board vote to transfer the Senators franchise, the action would have to be approved by six of the eight American League club owners before Oct. 31. Griffith admitted it would be a "touch-and-go" proposition to get the six league votes by Oct. 31 if it is decided to move.

H. Gabriel Murphy, the club treasurer and the largest individual stockholder with 40 per cent, is the only member of the Senators' board of directors who has come right out and said he is against any franchise transfer.

Yale's A Football Power Despite Ivy League Setup

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (NEA) — It is a trifle shocking to see this season's Yale football squad walk out of the dressing room.

The setting is usually typical Ivy League. Well-dressed people walk toward their seats wearing buttons saying they root for one of the old and academically austere institutions.

But when a student manager flings open the dressing room door and the Bulldogs emerge, you have to wonder if it wouldn't seem more appropriate for them to be in the Los Angeles Coliseum, Ohio Stadium or any place else where the blast-furnace football is played.

There are backs like Dennis McGill, a tough-faced, 180-pounder, who has the strong, well-shaped legs that are the hallmark of the top halfback.

Yale isn't an optical illusion. This squad has a case history of being good from the start. Notre Dame sought McGill when he was a junior at St. Michael's High School, North Bergen, N.J. Army pursued McGill on the United States Military Academy campus.

Dean Loucks, the 6-1, 190-pound senior quarterback, came out of White Plains, N.Y., High, a strong schoolboy base coached by his father. Since early teenage days Loucks has been drilled in the position and he plays it almost automatically.

Pampa Shockers Lose To Amarillo Yannigans, 25-6

The Pampa Shockers got shocked yesterday afternoon as the Amarillo Yannigans beat them 25-6. The only Pampa score came from Freddie Watkins who moved 30 yards off tackle for the score.

It is the same right down the line, Yale is the kind of a team you find any place in the country where strong football is played. Playing in the Ivy League, it seems to have too much, on paper, for anybody.

Yet so far this season Yale has been struggling. The Elis just did beat Connecticut. Weak Brown was handled in just so-so fashion. Hapless Columbia, with mighty few good football players in its lineup, sought the Bulldogs in a respectable defeat.

"We seem to struggle all the way," says Coach Jordan Olivari. "Then I look at the movies Sunday and find we blocked and tackled well and rolled up tremendous yardage. That extra something — the thing that asks a great team — isn't there. But the basics are, and I find it hard to complain.

"Maybe," Olivari nodded in agreement to a reporter, "we could use a little tougher meat. It is hard to convince your kids that Columbia will be tough. We play Cornell this week. They were beaten badly by Harvard. I've got another job selling our players on getting up for Cornell."

Last season, the Elis material showed its true worth against Army. The Bulldogs took everything the Cadets had and stormed back to hand out a wicked physical battering and win.

Olivari feels that the team is even better than last season. But Loucks, for example, threw to the flat against Columbia. A Lion bare missed intercepting — with a clear field ahead of him. Some Elis forgot to cover the flat in case of an interception.

McGill danced over and, standing up stick straight, tried to prevent a Columbia back from entering the end zone. The back merely hunched lower than McGill and rocketed through him.

These are the marks of a club that, perhaps, becomes a bit disoriented at times. It is a team that can pay any price — but the schedule doesn't call for it. So, while eastern football gets rapped, a Yale squad that could refute it remains mute.

Chances are nobody will know how good it really is.

Nineteen-year-old Joe is sitting out a year's eligibility at Florida State University after transferring from the University of Alabama. Joe, who along with John and younger brother Bill rated all middle Tennessee honors as a flashy Huntland tailback, is being groomed for the quarterback slot in the Seminoles' split-T offense.

Sparking the 1956 Huntland seven which won its first five games in succession is 17-year-old Bill. If William ever falters, pop Majors can call on young Larry, a 15-year-old sophomore who

Johnny Majors And Family A Major Football Problem

By BILL CLARK
United Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UP)—The major industries in tiny Huntland, Tenn., are farming and producing football talent. The unchallenged giant of the latter is a fellow by the name of Shirley I. Majors.

Majors is the father of five football playing sons, including Tennessee's tailback star, John.

The 43-year-old senior Majors not only has football champions at home—he also coaches them. Shirley is Huntland high school's football and basketball coach and conducts physical education courses for the school.

Four of the five rugged Majors boys know first-hand what a taskmaster a combination coach-father can be. John, the oldest, graduated from Huntland in 1953 after scoring more than 500 points in a four-year career and helping his father launch a still-unbroken 42-game winning streak.

NEW YORK (UP)—U.S. match game champion Bill Lillard of Chicago and masters champion Dick Hoover of Akron, Ohio, head an all-star list of leggers who will compete in the first annual Madison Square Garden Invitation Bowling Tournament on Nov. 13.

Sport Briefs

NEW YORK (UP)—Middleweight Paddy Young of Concord, N.Y., who was injured Tuesday in a fall from a construction scaffold, will be released today or Saturday from University Hospital.

Harry Sticker, Young's manager, said the hospital reported no broken bones or other serious injuries were suffered when Paddy fell one story to the ground.

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)—Thirty-six women, including 23 of the nation's top women professional golfers, were to tee off today in the $5,000 Lawton Ladies PGA Tournament, provided the rains stopped.

Tournament officials said the meet might have to be postponed if rains continued to fall. Marlene Bauer Hagge and Patty Berg are among the favorites in the 54-hole event, the last on the regular circuit this season.

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Enos Slaughter sent a two-word message today to his New York Yankee teammates: "Thank you."

NEW YORK (UP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio will be given a testimonial dinner, dance at a New York hotel, Jan. 26, by the New York Boxing Managers' Association. Former welterweight and lightweight champion Barney Ross will make the association's award to Basilio.

NEW YORK (UP)—Handsome Joey Giambra, sparkling middleweight contender of Buffalo, N.Y., is favored at 14-5 to beat "reborn" Gil Turner of Philadelphia tonight when boxing returns to Madison Square Garden after a six-week absence.

NEW YORK (UP)—Black-haired Giambra, a lithe fast counterpuncher, seeks his fifth straight victory and a higher rating among contenders than his present number ten. Approaching his peak at 25, he is eager to shoot for the title.

Twenty-six-year-old Turner, former welterweight challenger and formerly high ranking middleweight aspirant, seeks to break his losing streak at three straight. Close friends say he may do it because he's been "reborn" by patching up troubles with his wife.

The 40-year-old outfielder said he wanted to acknowledge publicly the generosity of the players who voted him a three-quarter World Series share even though he did not join the Yankees until Aug. 25.

Slaughter had a second reason to be happy. His wife, Helen,

Not Enough Gadgets For Our Women?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series by a U.P. correspondent just returned from a seven-year assignment in Europe.

By ROBERT E. JACKSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)— This may make a lot of men mad, but the American woman doesn't have enough gadgets.

Not enough, that is, to equal one live-in maid.

Despite her juice squeezers, dish washers, floor waxers, garbage disposers, pressure cookers, washing machines and deep freezers, the American woman with children remains a prisoner in her castle. It is one hurdle that our know-how has failed to clear.

No Substitute
For the privilege of coming back to her native America, my wife has gladly traded away this luxury for what she jokingly calls a life in "Serf-urbia."

But my wife no longer is claiming that the wondrous supermarkets and the gadgets substitute for a maid.

The maid system won't catch on again in America. It may be in its dying hours in Europe—Certainly, at those rates.

Who wants to do somebody else's housework?

If it's true that American men are hopelessly dominated by their women, could it be guilt that drives us to debtors prison to meet each new demand for a new device? Because I haven't met a man in American since my return —and I knew none in 1949—who would swap jobs with their wives.

"Only" $30,000
We rented a house in Westport, Conn., while looking for a place to buy. I discovered that the beautiful three-bedroom house for $13,500 advertised the week we left America in 1949 would go for $30,000 now. Or "only" $30,000, as the real estate agents would say.

We are mortgaged over our ears, and we call luxuries necessities.

But we have stuck by the main theme—that the home is the center of American life. And despite what you read about pampered females, I haven't seen my wife anywhere except the kitchen. Where's yours?

Holding up an ace is common at no-trump contracts. In today's hand, played at a trump contract, South held up an ace for a peculiar reason.

West opened the queen of hearts, and South played low from the dummy. East carelessly played low, and West was allowed to hold the trick.

West continued with a heart for lack of anything better to do, and dummy won. Declarer next drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the top diamonds, and gave up a diamond trick.

When East now led a club, South played low and end-played West. If West returned a club, South would get a free finesse; and if West returned anything else, dummy could ruff while South discarded the queen of clubs.

East could have saved the day by playing the king of hearts at the first trick. He could then return a club to give his partner one immediate trick in that suit. East would later get the lead with a diamond and could return another club, thus rescuing his partner from the end-play and defeating the contract.

If declarer had won the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts, it would have been easy for East to rescue his partner from the end-play. South would have to draw trumps and play the diamonds and the danger would be obvious. East would make sure to win the heart trick with the king and return a club, and he would use his diamond trick for the same purpose.

Talent Show At Mobeetie

MOBEETIE —(Special)— The Mobeetie Seniors have completed plans for a home talent show to begin promptly at 7:30, tonight. Some 15 numbers and skits are on the program. Admission price will be 15 cents for children up to 12 years of age and 25 cents for all others. The public is cordially invited to attend this program and enjoy an evening of good clean entertainment.

The annual Halloween Carnival for the Mobeetie schools will be held, Tuesday, October 23, in the study hall. Games both for children and adults will be provided. Proceeds received from the different booths will be used as the faculty sees fit to better the school libraries and yards. In the homemaking department, a snack bar will be found. Cakes and pies can be bought to take home or to be eaten there.

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the king and queen, and honoring the prince and princess and their attendants. Candidates are: Mary Beth Kelley and Geoffrey Caldwell, seniors; Geanie Gudgel and Gary Rowell, juniors; Clarice Willyard and David Turner, sophomores; Faye Hathaway and Glen Vanlandingham, freshmen; Patricia Hudson and Gene G. Harrison, eighth grade; Sarah Barton and Jimmy Hooker, seventh grade; Melva Simpson and Glen Hathaway, sixth grade; Judy Hudson and Johnny Allen, fifth grade; Marilyn Ledbetter and Johnny Johnston, fourth grade; Judy Bailey and Gerald Gudgel, third grade; Vonda Lee Hilthorn and Roy Burke, second grade; El Veta Underwood and Wayne Stribling, first grade.

Car Disappears In Laundry
NEWARK, N.J. (UP)— Mrs. Marion Speirs, of Elizabeth, started out for a car laundry Tuesday but wound up being taken to the cleaners. Mrs. Speirs says she hasn't seen her car or the helpful young man who offered to drive it through the laundry since she accepted his offer.

SUNDAY IS C-DAY (Change Day)

Your telephone number and all others in Pampa will change

SUNDAY, all telephone numbers in Pampa will be new numbers. To get your party, please find the new number in your new directory.

The new nation-wide telephone numbering system will be placed in effect here early Sunday, October 21. This will give Pampa a uniform 2-letter, 5-numeral type numbering system—easy to remember and easy to dial.

Most telephone numbers here will retain the five numerals they now have, but some will be changed completely because of technical reasons. So, unless you are sure the number you are calling has not been changed, be sure to look it up in your new telephone directory, which will reach you before October 21.

Just as easy... only different

Starting October 21, you'll dial the first two letters of the central office name, then the five numerals. For example, to call MO hawk 4-2099, you'll dial M-O-4-2-0-9-9.

When you give a telephone number to the operator, or repeat it to a friend, the easy way to say it is to break it up like this:
"MO hawk four . . . two-oh . . . nine-nine."

This is the best way to say it—to understand it—remember it.

HERE'S THE NEW LOOK IN TELEPHONE NUMBERS

New system means telephone progress

The new numbering system will bring even better service for you and all other telephone users in Pampa. It is part of a nation-wide program for a uniform numbering plan designed to increase the speed of long distance service.
