Israeli Troops Pull Out Of Sinai Desert

New Frontier Is Set Up; Firm Peace Guarantee Demanded

JERUSALEM (UP)— Israeli troops pulled out of the Sinai desert today. They withdrew as far as the Gaza Strip and a 180-mile-long coastal region guarding Israel's shipping route through the Gulf of Aqaba.

A new frontier of white-painted oil drums and barbed wire marked the two contested areas which Israel says it will not give back to Egypt without firm guarantees against future aggressive activity.

Reliable reports reaching here said the mass withdrawal of the Israeli forces was completed by 2 p.m. (6 a.m. CST). Troops of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) moved in right behind the departing Israeli units.

No More Pullbacks Planned

But, instead of following the pre-invasion armistice line from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea, the Israelis marked out their frontier to cut off the Gaza Strip and a protective area along the Gulf of Aqaba. The latter ribbon of beach in the south formerly was used for Egyptian guns which barred Israeli shipping from the gulf.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said no further withdrawal was planned.

The United Nations General Assembly had called for complete evacuation of the entire Sinai, including the Gaza and Aqaba strips.

The Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said the new demarcation line runs two-thirds of a mile west of the border town of Rafah on the Mediterranean and then turns into the old armistice line south of the town. This cuts off the Gaza Strip.

It follows the armistice line about 160 miles south to Ras-En-Naqa. But instead of terminating there in the Gulf of Aqaba, the Israeli pullback line stretches south along the Sinai beach for 180 miles to the entrance to the gulf.

Israeli troops retained possession not only of the coastal strip, but also the strongpoint on Sharm El-Sheikh which dominates the entrance to the gulf.

Medical Group May Oppose Mercy Killing

TRENTON, N. J. (UP)— The New Jersey Medical Society was expected to present to the state Legislature today a resolution expressing its views on a petition to legalize mercy killing.

Richard Nevin, executive director of the 6,300-member society, said the organization's board of trustees adopted a resolution Jan. 13 on the euthanasia issue but withheld its release until today so each trustee could read and approve the finished draft.

The Medical Society was expected to go on record against the petition signed by 166 New Jersey physicians and introduced into the Legislature last week.

The petition, said to have been prepared by the Euthanasia Society of New York headed by the Rev. John Howard Lathrop of Brooklyn, N. Y., urged that "voluntary euthanasia should be permitted by law, brought out into the open and safeguarded against abuse, rather than as at present practiced illegally, surreptitiously and without regulation."

It suggested that mercy killing be authorized by a court of record after it is requested by a sufferer, and after investigation of the case by a court-appointed committee.

Under such a law a person suffering from an incurable disease such as cancer would first petition for his own death. A physician would then submit an affidavit to the validity of the petition and to the patient's condition; then a court order would be sought to authorize ending the patient's life to stop his suffering.

Proponents of such a law argue that the aged and victims of incurable diseases who face long periods of agony, sometimes attempt crude methods of suicide. Some are released from the suffering secretly by relatives or doctors who are willing to stand trial for murder.

There was a similar move to legalize mercy killing in New Jersey seven years ago. It was unsuccessful.

Mad Bomber Of Manhattan Is Arrested In Connecticut

By JOHN CAVANAUGH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WATERBURY, Conn. (UP)—

A mild-mannered 33-year-old toolmaker confessed today that he is the "mad bomber" who has planned 21 home-made pipe bombs in New York City in the last 18 years.

George Metesky told police his motive was revenge against the Consolidated Edison Company for 25 years of semi-invalidism he blamed on a 1931 plant accident.

He confessed calmly and readily after police discovered in the home he shared with two elderly sisters the lathe on which he prepared the bombs. Police had pegged him as a "strong" suspect on the basis of letters found in Consolidated Edison files.

"This Is The Man"
"This is the man," New York Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm said. "We know it through his own admission and through analysis of his handwriting."

Police had worked quietly for 16 years building a description of the bomber whose explosive pipes, usually encased in a red sock, had injured 15 persons in New York City. They took a calculated risk early last month and asked news media cooperation in throwing the light of publicity on the bomber's activities. The bomber paid off the gamble by writing to the news-papers.

It was new evidence of his grudge contained in those letters that finally turned up the convincing evidence in the long-thumbed Con Edison files.

Never Meant Any Harm
Metesky told police he never meant to hurt anybody but had vowed to continue planting bombs until he died or was captured. He made them, he told police, from materials he bought in dime stores and Sears Roebuck stores in Bridgeport and New York City. He mailed the letters that accompanied his bombs on his way from Waterbury to New York City—a fact which had led police to concentrate their search for some weeks in nearby Westchester county.

Metesky was born in Waterbury, of Lithuanian parentage, and has lived there all his life, except for three years during which he attempted to recover in Arizona from the tuberculosis he blamed on an accident while he was in Con Edison employ.

Dressed in a blue, pin-striped suit, he looked like a successful small-town business man as he was booked on charges of felonious assault, malicious mischief and possession of a dangerous weapon.

Held On $100,000 Bond
Metesky, who also uses the name Milauskas, apparently the family's original Lithuanian name, appeared later in city court and waived extradition to New York City. He was held in $100,000 bail and returned to the city jail to await transportation to New York.

The unmarried sisters who had lived for years over the basement in which Metesky built his infernal machines were aghast at the disclosure.

At this time also, Holidays were set up for the coming year. They are: May 30—Memorial Day; July 4—Independence Day; Sept. 2—Labor Day; Nov. 28—Thanksgiving Day; Dec. 25—Christmas; and Jan. 1—New Year's. All of these holidays will be observed in the city with most retail stores being closed.

It was decided to hold a luncheon in the near future at which time all the retailers of the city would be invited and urged to attend and hear a report on the recent shoppers survey.

At this time a specialist in the field of retail merchandising will be brought in to speak before the group at the noon luncheon.

The committee also went on record as recommending to the Pampa merchants and professional people to encourage their personnel not to use downtown parking meter zones for all day parking, but rather to park their vehicles away from the business district in order that the meters might be available for shopper parking.

It was pointed out that free parking was available for the public at the Santa Fe parking lots adjacent to the railroad between Cuyler and Russell St. and also on the half-block across from Your Laundry (See COMMITTEE, Page 2)

At this time those units whose charters have expired will make application for the renewal of the charters.

The renewal is a yearly affair. However, this will be the first time that the entire district will have met in mass.

Those expected to attend are: Troop 80 and Post 80 of the First Methodist Church; Troop 18 of the Hopkins School; Pack 22 of the Horace Mann School; Post 19 of Lefors; Pack 83 of Pantex; and Troop 28 of Higgins.

This will be the first of a series of these mass meetings which are intended once a month from tonight through April.

Each unit will be delivered their charter renewal papers and will have these papers completed and ready for the next meeting.

had staked out for this nation's unprecedented global responsibilities.

"We recognize and accept our own deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere," Mr. Eisenhower had said. "We must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance, to help others rise from misery, however far from the scene of suffering may be from our shores."

Some conservatives in both parties privately expressed misgivings about the sweeping pledge of long-term, no-strings foreign aid implied in those words.

But their reservations were drowned out, for the moment at least, in a public chorus of bipartisan praise.

"A magnificent speech," said Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, a leading Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Mansfield said he was particularly gratified that Mr. Eisenhower had addressed his peace appeal "to all the peoples of the world," including those of Russia, over the heads of their rulers.

Assures Russian People
Mr. Eisenhower's address, which the Voice of America beamed to the world in dozens of languages, assured the people of Russia that Americans "wish them success" in their struggle for more freedom and economic improvement, and are waiting to extend a hand of "friendship" to them when the Iron Curtain goes up.

Some congressmen, while endorsing Mr. Eisenhower's broad objectives, challenged the administration to produce deeds, not words.

"The words have been spoken," said Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.). "The time for leadership and action have arrived. It will be difficult."

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) said Mr. Eisenhower "set forth goals and objectives with which every American will agree."

"Our task is to find means that will achieve those ends," Johnson added.

Other congressmen offered praise without qualification.

Laid It On Line
Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), ranking GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the President "laid it right on the line, not only to the American people but to the world."

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said "it was a very good enunciation of a goal for our foreign policy. We have never had a goal. We've been floundering. He set it up."

Committee Sets Holidays For Pampa

The merchants activities committee of the chamber of commerce met this morning at 10 a.m. in Johnson's Cafe.

At this time the committee heard several reports from the various subcommittees having to do with activities of the merchants and including all phases of the Christmas activities.

The Business and Professional Women's club was commended for their work with the committee in collecting funds for the Christmas program.

At this time also, Holidays were set up for the coming year. They are: May 30—Memorial Day; July 4—Independence Day; Sept. 2—Labor Day; Nov. 28—Thanksgiving Day; Dec. 25—Christmas; and Jan. 1—New Year's. All of these holidays will be observed in the city with most retail stores being closed.

It was pointed out that free parking was available for the public at the Santa Fe parking lots adjacent to the railroad between Cuyler and Russell St. and also on the half-block across from Your Laundry (See COMMITTEE, Page 2)

Mothers' March On Polio Nets $2,600

Rev. Ed Hall, chairman of the local Mothers' March campaign, reported this morning that a total of $2,600.31 was raised last night in the Mothers' March on Polio.

PTA members from several schools and one oil field camp called on neighbors, who had left their porch lights on as an invitation, and asked for contributions to the drive.

Hall reported that a breakdown on the work showed that Horace Mann PTA raised $386.39; Woodrow Wilson, $414.88; Sam Houston, $1,168.59; Carver $18.24; Lamar, $178.46; Baker, $254.45; Hopkins, $174.30; and Skelly Production Camp, $5.

Contract For Water Booster Station Let

The contract for the construction of a new water booster station south of Pampa and for the addition of pumps and equipment to the booster station on S. Hobart was awarded this morning to the Foran Construction Co. of Amarillo on the low bid of $176,491.08.

The bids were opened by the commission last week but the contract was not awarded until this morning to enable the city officials and engineers time to check on additional information. Other firms entering bids were S. G. Stockton Construction Co. of Amarillo, $188,539; and Brodie Construction Co. of Amarillo, $195,711.80.

The commissioners also authorized the payment of $6,500 to E. L. Holmes when the deed to an 11-acre tract of land is delivered. The land is located south of town on the Lefors highway and will be used as the site of the new booster station.

No action was taken this morning on the zoning hearing on zoning East Fraser addition No. 2, Fraser Annex and one lot in Sawyer Addition as semi-commercial. The hearing was continued until next week by the commission.

Car Damaged Sunday Night

Leslie Storms, 418 N. West, Apt. 8, reported to the police department last night that someone had broken a handle off his car door sometime Sunday night.

He reported that a tubeless tire and a carburetor were taken from the car.

the damage for many hours. Telephone lines to the area were down.

Ambulances and police guards were sent from McAlester and Sallisaw, Okla., and Fort Smith, Ark., to aid in rescue work.

The twisters occurred during a series of violent thunderstorms that dumped up to two inches of rain on Central and eastern Oklahoma Monday night and today.

The storms preceded a cold wave that was expected to cause temperatures to drop to 20 degrees in the stricken area tonight.

One Fire Call Reported Here

The only alarm received yesterday by the fire department was at 3:35 p.m. to the Panhandle Wrecking Yard located two miles east of town on the Miami highway.

Fireman answering the call reported that a pan of gasoline was ignited by sparks from a cutting torch. The only damage reported was to a cabinet which received minor damage from the blaze.

Cold Front Pushes Deep Into Texas

By UNITED PRESS
A double cold front that produced a killer tornado in Oklahoma pushed deep into Texas today, triggering thunderstorms and rain showers from the Red River to the Gulf Coast.

Tornadoes struck in three spots in Oklahoma Monday night and early today, killing at least seven persons and injuring numerous others. The worst tornado struck at Gans, Okla., killing four in that town and three others at a point three and one-half miles to the west.

Scattered snowflakes were falling in Pampa this morning even though skies were mostly clear and the sun was shining. Not enough snow was forecast, however, to bring any appreciable amount of moisture.

A band of showers and thunderstorms were reported early today from the Waco area northeastward into Oklahoma as two separate cold fronts moved eastward and southward through Texas.

Showers Expected
At 8 a.m. the first front was along a line from Lake Texoma to Mineral Wells to Del Rio and moving eastward. The second and colder front had reached a line from Wichita Falls westward to just north of Lubbock and was moving in a southeasterly direction.

The weather bureau forecast thunderstorms and scattered showers over North Central and Northeast Texas today. Much colder temperatures were forecast tonight over the state with the lowest expected to dip to five degrees above zero in the Panhandle.

Snow flurries were expected over the Panhandle and South Plains today, but the weather bureau said the precipitation would end after the cold fronts move through.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressmen today hailed President Eisenhower's second inaugural address as an historic bid to freedom-loving people everywhere to accept America's unselfish leadership for peace.

The brief and eloquent speech, which Mr. Eisenhower delivered after taking his second term oath Monday, had a delayed-action impact on Congress. The lawmakers had little time to ponder its implications until today since they, like the President, were caught up in the hectic activity of the three-hour inaugural parade and the festive inaugural ball that lasted into the small hours of this morning.

By today, the strong one-world flavor of the President's address was sinking in, and with it, the recognition that Mr. Eisenhower had staked out for this nation's unprecedented global responsibilities. "We recognize and accept our own deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere," Mr. Eisenhower had said. "We must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance, to help others rise from misery, however far from the scene of suffering may be from our shores."

Education Course May Be Offered By Extension Here

A course in education will be offered in Pampa by extension from West Texas State College next semester, if enough interested persons appear for enrollment on January 28. Dr. Joe Findley will present the course, and will come to Pampa on that date to discuss the courses available and let the interested persons elect the one they want. A minimum enrollment of 25 is necessary for a course to be offered by extension, according to rules set up by the college.

All of the courses which Dr. Findley proposes to offer carry three hours credit, and the cost of each is $21. The time schedule is set tentatively for Monday evenings, from 8 p. m. to 7:40 p. m. in the Sam Houston School cafeteria.

The education courses from which the group may select are as follows: number 423 Abnormal Psychology, number 341 Mental Hygiene, number 510 Advanced Educational Psychology, number 577 Supervised Counseling, and number 532 Philosophy of Education. According to a preliminary survey made among those enrolled in the extension course now underway, there is a greater interest in the courses in mental hygiene and philosophy of education than in the others.

Inauguration Day Began, Ended At 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

By ROBERT J. SERLING
 WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (UP)—Inauguration day, Monday for Dwight David Eisenhower began and ended at the nation's most famous address—1600 Pennsylvania Ave.
 In effect, when the President takes his second oath of office, he acquires another four-year lease on a mansion whose value is appraised at $26 million—all but $3 million representing the land on which the White House stands.
 Its original cost was only $400,000. It was designed by a South Carolina architect, James Hoban, who won a modest $500 prize for his plans. Hoban actually proposed a three-story structure but cut the big colonial-style house down to two stories before construction started in 1792.
Oldest Building
 The White House, originally known as "The President's Palace," is the oldest public building in Washington. John Adams, America's second president, was the first chief executive to live in it. He moved in in 1800 when it was heated by 12 fireplaces and lighted by candles.

 It took 57 years before the first central heating system was installed, and President Andrew Jackson once grumbled, "Hell it self couldn't heat this place."
 Only one piece of furniture that was in the White House during the Adams tenure is still there—a small marble table with wooden rollers.
Poorly Furnished
 Despite its outward magnificence the White House was poorly furnished in its early days. Congress thought otherwise. Shortly after it was built a Congressman denounced it for being "a palace as splendid as that of Caesar and as richly adorned as the proudest Asiatic mansion."
 At the time that criticism was made the White House was nothing more than a big white barn with pitifully few pieces of furniture. Thomas Jefferson refused to live in it until Congress voted a few dollars for minor improvements. Martin Van Buren spent $27,000 for new lamps, candlesticks and mirrors. Congress belittled like a wounded buffalo and one Senator accused Van Buren of ordering the mirrors "so he can strut in front of them."

 The earlier presidents might as well have been living in a log cabin for all the luxury and conveniences Congress insisted they were enjoying. Water had to be carried from a spring five blocks away. For years the executive mansion was rated the coldest and draftiest building in Washington.
Turkey Legs
 Even in more recent times the White House has been a headache to its occupants. When Franklin D. Roosevelt took office he ordered some old kitchen cabinets removed. Workmen found a dozen mummified turkey legs behind them—a mute reminder of the house-keeping habits of one of his predecessors. FDR also had to order $25,000 worth of new plumbing because a previous chief executive, trying to save money, had installed second-hand fixtures.
 There have been sporadic attempts to move the nation's first family to more private quarters. President Chester Arthur once picked out a site for a suburban home, intending to use the White House solely as a business office. He dropped the idea when local

Russia In Nuclear Test—AEC

WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia has exploded another nuclear weapon, the Atomic Energy Commission announced Sunday.
 The reminder of Soviet power came only two days after three U.S. B-52 H-bombers circled the world non-stop in a demonstration of American strength.
 The AEC said Russia exploded the nuclear weapon Saturday.
 The terse announcement gave no indication whether the test involved an atomic or hydrogen weapon or its size.
 The blast apparently was the fifth in Russia's current test series that Russia announced it had completed. The series started in August.
 The announcement brought to 17 the number of times the United States has reported a Soviet nuclear test.
 As usual, the AEC gave no indication where it got its information. However, this country has an elaborate monitoring system for detecting Soviet nuclear explosions.

Chicagoan Asleep For Twelve Years

CHICAGO (UP)—Paul Sowa slumbered on today, as he has done without awakening for the past 12 years, but his family continued their prayers for the 18-year-old youth's recovery from a rare disease.
 Paul is a victim of encephalitis, commonly known as "sleeping sickness," for which doctors have offered little hope of recovery.
 Stanley and Bertha Sowa, the boy's parents, and his sister, Sharon, 14, have cared for Paul in their attic apartment since Jan. 20, 1945, when he first lapsed into the coma that has held his body in a state of living death.
 Although his eyes will flicker open on occasions, his family doubts he comprehends what he sees. Doctors have said he is probably sensitive to vague shadowy images. The boy is unable to speak coherently, and his family has had to care for him as if he were an infant.
 At one time it was suggested that Paul be placed in an institution, but his parents indignantly refused.

Artists Get Blame
 NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—Artists are considered "crazy, eccentric romantics," it's their own fault, a Yale art professor said. Too many of them "smell only oil paints and don't know that there are exciting things going on all around them." Professor Josef Albers said.

Wrong Overtime
 WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UP)—A delivery truck driver for a furniture store was accused today of working overtime. Police said they found $450 worth of furniture and other household objects in Edward Bransfield's home. He was reported to have said he was simply trying to furnish an apartment to please his estranged wife.

Two of the best players in the country came to grief with the defense of today's hand. As usual, thoughtful play would have solved their problem.

West opened the jack of clubs, and South won with the king. South expected to go down, but he wasted no time in vain regrets. He led a small trump, and East won with the king. East returned the eight of diamonds. South deceptively put up the queen, and West won with the ace.

West cashed the ace of spades and then looked around for the setting trick. West thought that South had the king-queen-ten of diamonds and therefore shifted to the ten of hearts. South thereupon spread his hand and explained that he would discard his remaining diamond on one of dummy's hearts. South therefore managed to get away with his overbid contract.

West could have defeated the contract by returning a diamond, but he was faced by a guess. It would be unjust to censure West for guessing wrong in a situation that should never have arisen.

When East took a trick with the king of spades, he could see that his side had no winning tricks in hearts or clubs. The only chance was to win two diamonds and two spades. Hence East should have led the king of diamonds rather than so confusing a card as the eight of diamonds. The rest would be easy.

Inaugural Address Highlights

WASHINGTON (UP) — Highlights from President Eisenhower's second inaugural address: "The Price of Peace":

"We declare our firm and fixed purpose — the building of a peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails.

"The building of such a peace is a bold and solemn purpose. To proclaim it is easy. To serve it will be hard. And to attain it, we must be aware of its full meaning — and ready to pay its full price."

"We recognize and accept our own deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere. . . .

"No people can live to itself alone. The unity of all who dwell in freedom is their only sure defense. . . .

"No nation can longer be a fortress, lone and strong and safe. And any people, seeking such shelter for themselves, can now build only their prison."

"We must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance, to help others rise from misery, however far the scene of such suffering may be from our shores. . . .

"To counter the threat of those who seek to rule by force, we must pay the costs of our own needed military strength, and help to build the security of others."

"We live in a land of plenty, but rarely has this earth known such peril as today. . . . this is no time to ease or rest.

"In too much of the earth there is want, discord, danger.

"From the deserts of North Africa to the islands of the South Pacific one-third of all mankind has entered upon an historic struggle for a new freedom: Freedom from grinding poverty. . . . Germany still stands tragically divided. So is the whole continent divided. And so, too, is all the world.

"The decisive force is international Communism and the power that it controls. The designs of

Nation Wheels Out Its Modern Weapons

WASHINGTON (UP) — The nation wheeled out some of its most awesome ultra-modern weapons Monday for a second-term inaugural parade salute to President Eisenhower.

Also in the lineup of the gigantic procession were 17,000 persons — headed by President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon — 34 floats, and 65 bands, along with such samples of the nation's military might as guided missiles and the world's fastest fighter plane.

The parade route measured slightly more than 2.5 miles — from the capitol plaza, down Constitution Ave., to the foot of Capitol Hill and then along broad Pennsylvania Ave., to the heart of the city, around the century-old treasury building in 15th Street and along the front of the White House to the dispersal area a few blocks farther.

Parade Time Cut
This was not the biggest or longest inaugural parade in history; 1952 parade set that record with a tedious, chilly four and one-half hours.

This year's procession was cut with a heavy hand. The target time set by parade chairman Edward R. Carr was 2 1/2 hours.

But it still had an elephant, a horse that does the mambo and movie cowboy Monty Montana, who promised in advance not to rope President Eisenhower. Montana lauded the President in the reviewing stand in 1952. The Secret Service was not amused.

Carr trimmed out many military units and the tanks and field guns which used to lumber down historic Pennsylvania Avenue every four years.

Fastest Plane Shown
He substituted smaller marching units and the grim assortment of modern guided missiles, plus the world's fastest fighter plane, the Lockheed F-104A Starfighter. The F-104 has wings so short — 7 1/2 feet on each side of the fuselage — that it could be towed along the parade route.

The pride of the parade planners was a tremendous float, more than 407 feet long — more than an average city block. It presented the theme of the parade, "liberty and strength through consent of the governed."

The parade of the states included:

The monster 407-foot float depicting the parade's theme, sponsored by the inaugural committee and Kansas, Louisiana, Ohio and Oklahoma.

Missouri — Gov. James T. Blair Jr.; the Missouri Military Academy band and a patrol car and two motorcycles from the Missouri state patrol.

Cowboy Band Parades
Arkansas — The Fort Smith senior high school band.

Texas — Zollie Steakley, secretary of state, Sam Houston Rifles, Arlington; Richardson High School band; Fort Worth Polytechnic High School marching band.

Kansas — Abilene cowboy band; Cherokee county Community High School band.

Arizona — Gov. Raymond Gary and the Blackwell High School band.

Arizona — Former Rep. John R. Murdock (D-Ariz.), representing the governor; and the Howie Rifles of Staunton (Va.) Military Academy.

Then came two kinds of Indians — the Washington Redskin football band and 30-odd real chiefs representing the Navajos, Menominees, Grosventures, Arikaras, Mandans, Pawnees and other tribes.

One Man's Effort

For a story of sustained human interest it would be hard to find one to excel the offering of Harold H. Martin in the December 29th Saturday Evening Post. It is called "The Man-Who Wanted to Help Hungary," and relates the experience of a single individual, one John Richardson, who, whether consciously or unconsciously, decided that it didn't take a government to get things done when they needed doing.

Richardson was just one of New York City's teeming millions who was disturbed and disheartened by reports late in October and early in November of this past year, that a Hungarian uprising was being met by tanks and bayonets on the streets of Budapest. Unlike the majority of people who heard the news, Richardson decided that, even though he was only one man, there was something that he could do to help.

Richardson was just one of New York City's teeming millions who was disturbed and disheartened by reports late in October and early in November of this past year, that a Hungarian uprising was being met by tanks and bayonets on the streets of Budapest.

Long ago, in his youth, Richardson had run across a motto that went something like this: "I am only one, but still I am one. I cannot do everything, but still I can do something. And because I cannot do everything, I will not refuse to do the something that I can do." It made a profound impression on him.

So when it seemed that governments were hopelessly entangled in argument as to what needed doing; when the U. N. turned a cold shoulder to requests from Hungarian freedom fighters; when time was precious and when disaster loomed, Richardson got busy.

His immediate aim was to get some arms and ammunition into the hands of Hungarians. In this he was doomed to disappointment. Or if not, at least author Martin doesn't care to disclose it.

In any case, Richardson, an associate of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, a venerable old Boston investment house, whose job dealt with investment analysis and nothing more exciting than pages of statistics, suddenly projected himself into this international situation with such vigor, that his trail blazed comet-like across the diplomatic sky and swept up scores of persons to follow in his wake.

Richardson simply couldn't sit still and watch hapless Hungarians being butchered without at least doing what he could. So he picked up the telephone. He was shunted from pillar to post but only briefly.

Then he found himself in the office of Charles Pfizer & Co., one of the large manufacturers of drugs, requesting a shipment of anti-biotics for stricken Hungary. Before he was through he wangled a $200,000 donation in drugs, and talked a couple of airlines into flying the stuff for free. Then other drug firms got into the act, and even a manufacturer of baby food made a sizable contribution, which was likewise flown across the Atlantic on the cuff.

Meanwhile, the candle he had lighted turned into an arc-light. Government officials, unable to move because of red tape, helped him to cut red tape when they couldn't seem to untangle it from around their own ankles.

At his own instance, without professional guidance, and with bureaucracy to contend with, he was able to accomplish an Herculean task in a few short days.

However, he is still reportedly fretting that he was only able to work on the humanitarian end. He wanted bazookas for fighters. He got baby food for their children. He wanted anti-tank guns. He got anti-biotics. But he was only one. And he did what he could.

It is always inspiring to read about some individual who makes full use of his own faculties in getting things done without relying on the government.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Frustrated Publisher
And Senator

The Los Angeles Examiner, owned by the Hearsts, had an editorial the other day lamenting the fact that Abitibi Paper Co. was raising the price of newsprint $4.00 a ton. They pointed out that in 1933 newsprint cost $41.00 a ton and today costs $130 a ton, and Abitibi will raise it to $134.00. Then the Hearst Editorial reads:

"The newsprint price—jump, coupled with new wage scales negotiated by the various newspaper unions, has brought the cost of producing a newspaper to an all-time peak. Newsprint represents from one-fourth to one-third of the total cost of newspaper production."

"It is obvious that the spiral in the price of newsprint cannot go on unchecked. Perhaps the solution lies in prompt joint action by United States and Canada looking toward the establishment of a fair price policy for the newsprint industry...."

There is no tariff on newsprint. It can be bought anywhere in the world.

Just how unrealistic can a publisher of a big chain newspaper be to want to run to the government to try to have it control the price of newsprint? Does not the publisher of the Hearst papers realize that there is not so much profit in the newsprint business, that newsprint during the last six or eight years a couple of times has been so scarce all over the world that people were obliged to pay at least $100.00 above the contract price to get additional papers? If there was such large profit in making newsprint, then there would be no scarcity of newsprint. And if the United States Government has the right to regulate the price and make newsprint more scarce, and thus allot paper as the government sees fit, then what becomes of freedom of the press if the government can tell a newspaper publisher how much paper he can buy and what price he has to pay for it.

Again, the Hearst papers do complain about the wage scales of various newspaper unions should remember that their trouble came years ago when they entered into a conspiracy with the unions to give union men preference over other men who believed that the only way to determine true values in things and wages was to let all people, not just the union men, help establish values. When they took this step of making themselves scarce at the mercy or suffering of the labor unions, they should have known that their cost would go up and up and they would be obliged to liquidate or sell their weaker papers.

A Bad Example
It is a bad example for a large publisher to be complaining about a free market price for what he buys so that we can pay a non-free market price for other things he buys. And it is shortsightedness for a big publisher to run to the government to try to have it do things for him that he ought to do for himself.

If a corporation now makes any money before taxes, the Federal Government takes 52 percent of it and most states an additional 4 percent.

Hearst had better be complaining about the government eating up profits that should go into industry to help keep the prices of things down and thus raise real wages.

Senator Kuchel
United Press reports that Senator Thomas H. Kuchel from California, whose family owns a little weekly, is asking the chairman of the Federal Trade Commission's report on its study of the newsprint price situation.

Just what do the Federal bureaucrats know about what prices should be? No individual or no group is wise enough to know whether prices are too high or too low. We never have any true price unless all people are permitted to help establish prices. And if a publisher cannot buy newsprint he needs on a free market basis, it is foolish to think the government can remedy his troubles. To have a government to remedy newsprint would be an entering wedge in destroying freedom of the press.

What puzzles us is now anybody can suppose Poland is any less a Communist country than before its recent upheavals. Its new boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka, is a Commie, though he claims also to be a Polish patriot. Red Army troops still infest and intimidate Poland. The country hasn't pulled out of the Warsaw Pact, and is still obligated to bleed itself of coal and manufactured goods to benefit old vampire Mother Russia.

All that has really happened is that Poland has a little more say in its own management than it had six months ago.

So have Canada, Australia and New Zealand, for example, a lot more freedom; in Britain, then they had 100 years ago; but would anyone argue that they are no longer members of the British Commonwealth?

Poland is still a member of the Red Slave Empire — though it's a Kremlin liability now instead of an asset.

Why not let it stay a liability and hope it becomes a worse one? Why let it get more U. S. goods—most of which, you could bet your bottom, stay or ruble or even dollar, would find their way to Soviet Russia?

CHICAGO — Having related developments in a job of sabotage by dynamite in Scranton, Pa., I think I should play out my hand by reporting that the judge who sentenced four union goons to prison for making the explosion, with the comment that their crime was "very serious and shocking," paroled them without consulting the District Attorney after they had served only a few days more than nine months. They had been sentenced to 23 months and three of them still have to face charges of other crimes. One of the four, Robert Hubbschman, 27, was serving two concurrent terms of 23 months, the second one for trying to fix a juror. All four had confessed dynamiting a dwelling under construction. All are members of Local 229 of the General Drivers' Union, with jurisdiction over a large government military construction job in the region which has been the subject of federal indictments involving collusion among contractors and politicians.

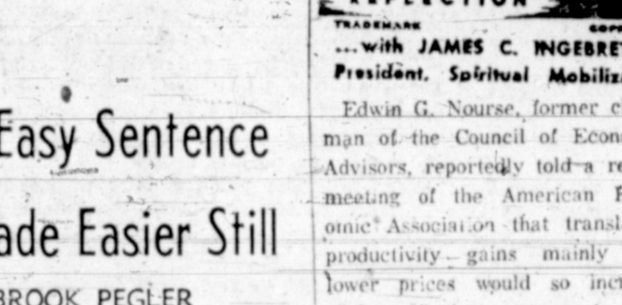

Judge Michael J. Eagen, who passed sentence and issued the paroles, also paroled after less than six months a clerk of a hotel frequented by union hoodlums of the area whom he had sentenced to one year on a "morals" charge. This prisoner had held out against 11 other jurors and caused a mistrial in the first trial of four other terrorists involved in the same dynamiting. These four later were convicted of conspiracy to cause the explosion. They did not handle the charge themselves but assigned the others to do the actual job. There were two groups of four men each: Joseph P. Malloy; George J. Murphy; Bill Munley and Hubbschman were convicted of the actual dynamiting. The four convicted of conspiracy, whose appeals are now pending are: Joseph Bartel, Philip Brady, John Durking and Anthony Honacuse. They recently were guests of honor at a large "testimonial" dinner at $15 a plate to raise money for their further defense. The raffleoff was in the region of $20,000, earmarked mostly for lawyers. A Jesuit priest and a Protestant minister were among the guests. Orators exhorted them and others present to pray earnestly for the deliverance of the goons from their "martyrdom into the affectionate arms of their families."

By HENRY McLEMORE

MANNHEIM, Germany — The Colonel pushed back his chair, slapped on his heavy winter cap, and made for the door.

"Let's stop sitting around Headquarters and get out to where it counts."

"Where it counts" was where the guns were — the guns of the 1st Group of the 34th AAA Brigade.

It was not easy to reach. The 1st Group's four battalions were in the field on a tactical problem, testing their plotting, spotting, and "firing" at jets from French airfields striking against the area.

"At this time of year, German fields are for the birds — who can fly above them. We started — the 1st Group's CO, Colonel Robert A. Turner of San Francisco, and I — from Mannheim in a sedan, switched to a jeep, and when the jeep had had enough, finished on foot.

"That the guns were where they were, and one hundred per cent operational, was a tribute to the skill and sweat of the crews. They had been moved into position the night before under cover of darkness and a light snowfall.

Bogged halfway to my knees in mud, I asked Colonel Turner how in you-know-what the men had ever moved the ten-ton guns and twenty-ton trucks over such terrain.

"The same way, I guess, that the First Group's battalions have been moving their guns ever since 1789," he answered.

The pride in Colonel Turner's voice, and the prehistoric date of 1789, started me asking questions. "This is a pretty proud outfit," the Colonel said as we stood alongside a Skysweeper 75, its radar screen whirring away like a mad second hand. "It's been getting the job done for something like 167 years."

Unit history had to wait a moment while the crew practiced at "knocking down" a brace of sabre jets which came streaking in low from the west.

The Colonel was right at the start. We were out where it counts.

"The four battalions," the Colonel went on after the jets had disappeared, "have a total age of 411 years, and between them have fought in the war of 1812, the Indian Wars, the Mexican War, the Civil War, and both World Wars, and have participated in 69 battle campaigns."

Name any battle and elements of the 1st Group have a streamer for it. Against the British in 1812, Frederickburg, Gettysburg, Cold Harbor, Petersburg, Vera Cruz, Churubusco, Chapultepec, St. Michel, Lorraine, Tunisia, Sicily, Arno, and the Rhineland.

The battalions missed the Revolution and the Korean conflicts, but it wasn't their fault.

The 62nd Battalion is the oldest combat outfit we have in Europe today. It has roots going back to 1789 when Battery "B," then known as Captain Callender Irwin's company, 2nd Regiment of Artillerists and Engineers, was organized.

"So you see," the Colonel concluded, "you wouldn't expect a little dirty ground to stop the guns."

He mentioned toward a Sergeant standing by the Skysweeper 75 and said, "And there's the kind of man who sees to it that the guns are ready."

I talked to the Sergeant — Joe Krawiec of Kenedy, Texas, (and there's only one "n" in Kenedy because he corrected my spelling of it when I wrote it down).

The Sergeant is a section leader. It's his gun — all 400,000 of it — and he is responsible for it, as well as for the eight men who serve it. It's his job to see to it that the gun — and the men — are ready to hit the road for anywhere, any time of the day or night, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, in just a little over half an hour.

"Are you always ready, Sergeant?" I asked the Texan.

"So far," he said. "And I aim to be." The Colonel was right at the start. We were out where it counts.

Israel's Prestige As Nation Has Taken Heavy Setback

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — An unhappy casualty of the Middle East crisis is the firm friendship which the United States has felt for Israel ever since Harry S. Truman, largely for political purposes, extended a prompt midnight recognition to the new state in May of 1947.

President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles entertain the same critical and unfriendly attitude toward Premier Ben Gurion that they did toward former Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Premier Guy Mollet of France. Despite official denials, they have assembled data which convince them that the three men collaborated in the attack on Egypt, with Israel as the most active partner and the spearhead of the invasion.

This irritation is shared by Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary General of the United Nations, and by representatives of many U. N. members. They have expressed impatience at Tel Aviv's current behavior and Suez Canal demands in closed sessions with Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's Foreign Minister. Meir, a former Egyptian stronghold on the strategic Gulf of Aqaba, until Nasser guarantees passage of Israeli ships through the Suez Canal.

Nasser says he will not negotiate until Israel complies with U. N. resolutions calling for evacuation of these areas. In fact, he has announced that he will bar British and French vessels from the waterway until Ben Gurion returns the disputed territory to Cairo.

Like's anger at Ben Gurion stems from the same causes that made him unwilling to receive Eden at the White House, which may have been a contributory factor to Sir Anthony's resignation. Evidence gathered by American Intelligence agents abroad shows that there was a secret and concerted plan for the French and British to reinforce the Israelis after they led off with a surprise invasion of the Sinai Peninsula.

Eden and Mollet conferred at Paris on October 16, according to this data. Immediately afterward, the Israeli Ambassador returned to Tel Aviv. Apparently as a result of his report, Ben Gurion told a party council that Israel would have a "true ally," meaning France.

Almost simultaneously, Anglo-French forces were mobilized on the Island of Cyprus, indicating that the three men collaborated in the attack on Egypt, with Israel as the most active partner and the spearhead of the invasion.

HUNTING IS BIG BUSINESS

(California Farmer)
Somewhere we read that hunters spend about $400 million a year in this state in the pursuit of game. That's a big business. That is almost double the value of our most valuable field crop, cotton.

Farmers and ranchers raise, feed, and protect a large percentage of this game. In other words, it is almost an agricultural crop by virtue of location.

"Wild game belongs to everyone," but hugging that platitude to your chest will get you no game if the land is posted.

Due to past experience the tendency is to post land against trespassers and unless we take steps that tendency will continue. The way it is now, hunters can cost farmers and ranchers a lot of money. They tear down fences, shoot, stock, and do other types of property damage.

The situation is going to get worse instead of better. California is destined to have a much bigger population than at present. The only hope of expanding hunting is to open more private land.

The only way to do this, in our humble estimation, is to make it more attractive to the farmer and rancher to do so.

There are lots of ranches in his state where a good portion of the land is suited to nothing but hunting. Lots of that land can be made to produce deer, quail, etc., but it will be some incentive.

We suggest that the hunters be charged a trespass fee. In return they will protect the farmers' property against unlawful trespass. People who can afford the fee will go to private lands to hunt, relieving the pressure on public lands to that extent.

If you do not like the idea of a fee to hunt, consider the "uck-sitation" right at present. You want to hunt ducks today or just about have to pay for the privilege. We are approaching our situation in pheasant and quail but not least, with deer. If we continue under the present system, more and more private land will be posted. This will create more and more resentment and actual loss to the farmer from deprivations.

We understand the California Fish and Game Commission is split up the middle on this subject of charging a trespass fee. Some cling to the old saw that the game belongs to everyone. That's right, but a lot of good that does you if the fence lines are posted.

TEAMSTERS VOICE COMPLAINT

(U. S. C. of C. Washington Report)
For one day, the AFL Teamsters, the most powerful union in the country and the organization that commits more secondary boycotts than any other union, had the shoe on the proverbial "other foot." During the recent dock strike by the International Longshoremen's Association, the mighty teamsters were given a taste of how it feels to be a neutral party caught in a union work stoppage.

Harry Bridges ordered a one-day sympathy strike by his west coast longshoremen. Bridges ordered the walkout to show Pacific shippers that he, too, could flex his muscles as easily as Captain Bradley and his ILLA east coast boys.

But the teamsters didn't like losing a day's pay as the result of the cessation of business on west coast docks. Editorially, their union's magazine complained: "The dock stoppage show once again that cessation of work on the waterfront causes a loss of employment for the teamsters and financial loss to their employers all the way across the country."

BUT POLAND IS STILL RED

(N. Y. Daily News)
The Eisenhower Administration appears to be getting ready to loosen U. S. trade relations with Poland, under the curious impression that that country has broken or is breaking with Soviet Russia.

Already the Administration is reported prepared to let Poland buy U. S. surplus food with dollars at world market prices — meaning at less than U. S. prices as a rule.

There is talk, too, of bypassing in Poland's favor various laws which strictly limit U. S. trade with Iron Curtain countries.

Pampa, Plainview To Battle Tonight

PLAINVIEW—The Pampa Harvesters, only one game back of the league leader, Borgor Bulldogs, will attempt to win their fifth District 3-AAAA Plainview Bulldogs here tonight at 8.

The Harvesters, whose only loss has been a one-point defeat by Borgor this season, are in second place in the conference standings and a victory, coupled with a Borgor loss, could put them in a tie for the lead.

The Borgor squad has won all five district games. The Bulldogs host the strong Palo Duro Dons tonight in the top contest of the 3-AAAA teams. Pampa beat the Dons 67-65 earlier in the season and the Bulldogs are expected to have a rough time in doing the same thing.

Pampa will go into tonight's contest with 17 victories in 18 games. The Plainview team, coached by Bob Chidaniel, has won two of five district games and holds a 12-10 season mark. The Bulldogs are tied with Amarillo for fourth place.

Tonight's game will be the first meeting of the season for Pampa and Plainview. The two teams will meet again on Feb. 14 in Harvesters Fieldhouse to close out the regular season.

Plainview boasts the top scorer in the district in Bill Teegel, a 6-0 guard who has made 108 points in five games for a 21.6 average. The Bulldogs boast one of the tall teams in the district, averaging 6-3 per man on the starting five. Teegel is speedy and has a deadly jump shot from any spot on the floor.

Teegel needs only 38 points to set a new school scoring mark. He has made only 17 points in the past two games but now has 489 points in 22 games for a 22.2 average. Hugh Bob Tilson set the present Plainview record during the 1954-55 season with 527 points in 36 games.

Plainview boasts 6.5 forwards J. B. Nichol and Bobby Grace, the two tallest pair of players operating from that position in the district. Lee Richards, at 6-3, is the Plainview center and Don Boatright, 6-0, is the other guard. Boatright ranks fifth in the district in scoring with 79 points in five games.

Teegel needs only 38 points to set a new school scoring mark. He has made only 17 points in the past two games but now has 489 points in 22 games for a 22.2 average. Hugh Bob Tilson set the present Plainview record during the 1954-55 season with 527 points in 36 games.

Plainview boasts 6.5 forwards J. B. Nichol and Bobby Grace, the two tallest pair of players operating from that position in the district. Lee Richards, at 6-3, is the Plainview center and Don Boatright, 6-0, is the other guard. Boatright ranks fifth in the district in scoring with 79 points in five games.

PAMPA RESERVES—These three Harvester players have helped to add bench strength to the District 3-AAAA team this year and have seen action in almost every game. They are, left to right, Tommy Murray, Loyd Waters and Larry Cruise. The three made the trip to Plainview today and will likely see action tonight against the Bulldogs.

Teams Preparing For NCAA Event

By UNITED PRESS

Ohio State and Bradley, both unbeaten in conference play, rolled ahead today on the road to the NCAA basketball tournament, but only after Ohio State barely escaped an upset.

State's Buckeyes, the 10th-ranked team in the nation, trailed until the final six minutes of play at Madison, Wis., before rallying to beat Wisconsin, 67-64. Monday night, it was their 10th win in 13 games and gave them a perfect Big Ten record of 5-0.

Bradley, ranked 11th nationally, had a much easier time on its home court in Peoria, Ill., as it drubbed Tulsa, 72-56, for its seventh straight victory. The Braves now sport a 6-0 mark in the Missouri Valley Conference and a gaudy overall record of 13-2.

But Wisconsin, winless in the Big Ten this season, really threw a scare into Ohio State. The Badgers jumped off to a quick 12-5 lead and still led by 40-35 at halftime. Ohio State didn't go ahead until Vern Barkstall's three-point play with six minutes left put them in front to stay, 60-57. Frank Howard led the Buckeyes with 23 points, but Bob Litzow canned 28 for Wisconsin, 18 of them in the first-half surge.

Bradley, on the other hand, had a 33-29 halftime margin over Tulsa and breezed home as soph Gene Morse showed the way with 26 points. Tulsa's top man was Chester Harrington, and he managed only 12 points.

Seattle, ranked ninth nationally, racked up its 17th victory against two defeats by trouncing Gonzaga,

POINTS FOR POLIO GAME TO AID MOD

Pampa's basketball game with rival Borgor on Feb. 1 will have a dual meaning for the two schools.

The game will probably decide the leader in District 3-AAAA and the contest has been designated as a "Points For Polio" match with proceeds to go to the March of Dimes.

The Bulldogs are current leaders of the 3-AAAA race, with five victories without a loss. Pampa has a 4-1 mark with its only loss being handed them by the Bulldogs early in the race.

Citizens of both cities will subscribe money for each point scored and the two cities will match total donations to determine the winner. Persons may pledge one to 10 cents for each point scored.

Borgor won the game here 62-62 but the battle at Borgor Feb. 1 may turn into an all-out scoring duel.

Rev. Edwin Hall, chairman of the March of Dimes campaign, has passed out cards to several Pampa citizens and they will in turn fill out the pledges and amount pledged before the game.

Borgor has already waged a heavy campaign to outsell Pampa and they will be looking for a clean sweep of both the Borgor game and pledge victories.

Tarheels Bounce Into UP Lead

NEW YORK (UP)—North Carolina's "Brooklyn Tarheels," who extended their winning streak to 15 while their three leading rivals for national college basketball honors were upset, broke Kansas' domination of the United Press ratings today.

Iowa State's freak 39-37 victory over Kansas last Monday night was the key factor in breaking up the alignment of the top four teams for the first time in six weeks. The triumph jumped Iowa State from eighth to fourth place and knocked Kansas down to second after it had led the ratings from the start of the season.

In this week's only other major change among the leaders, Ohio State moved into the top 10, replacing Vanderbilt.

North Carolina, most of whose teams come from near Coach

Frank McGuire's native Brooklyn, attracted 24 first-place votes from the 35 outstanding coaches who comprise the United Press Rating Board. The Tarheels' total of 333 points topped Kansas' by 39. The Jayhawks (12-1) were the No. 1 choice of eight coaches, while third-ranked Kentucky (12-3) had one first-place vote and sixth-ranked Louisville (11-2) had two.

Besides Kansas, the leading teams beaten last week were Kentucky and Southern Methodist.

Bradley moved up three notches to head the second 10 group, followed in order by California, Canisius, Wake Forest, Vanderbilt, Brigham Young and Duke. There was a three-team tie for 18th place among Tulane, Oklahoma A&M, and St. Louis.

Utah, Washington, Syracuse, Oklahoma City University, West Virginia, Duquesne and Princeton were the only other teams to receive votes this week.

Sentimentality And $75,000 Involved In Musial Signing

By UNITED PRESS

There's a sentimental story behind the St. Louis Cardinal contract Stan Musial is all set to sign for about $75,000 within a week.

Musial and General Manager Frank Lane already have agreed to terms for 1957 and Stan the Man again will be the National League's highest salaried player at approximately $75,000. He drew a base pay of $75,000 last year plus $5,000 because the Cardinals attracted more than a million fans.

Although Musial, who batted .310 last year and led the league with 109 runs batted in, has okayed new terms, he hasn't officially signed his contract yet.

Lane Explains Delay

Lane has been criticized for the delay in signing Musial but he explained Monday it was because of the absence on vacation of club secretary Mary Murphy.

"Miss Murphy has officiated at all 15 of Musial's contract signings and we would not think of closing with Stan without her present," Lane said in a telegram to Sports Editor J. Roy Stockton of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Brooklyn Dodgers corralled four pitchers at a clip today when they announced Roger Craig, Don Bessent, Ed Roebuck and Don Eiston had agreed to terms.

With Clem Labine slated for starting duty, Bessent, who had a 4-3 record last season but saved numerous other games, looks like the Dodgers' key man in the bullpen. Craig, the stringbean right-

Aggies' Owens To Washington Grid Position

SEATTLE (UP)—The University of Washington has its new football coach today, but actually the school didn't change much more than the boss-man's name.

Jim Owens, former Texas A&M star, was named to the position Monday succeeding Darrell Royal who left Huskyville just before Christmas for a similar post at the University of Texas.

Both Owens and Royal are split-T teachers. They played their college football as four-year teammates at Oklahoma University under Bud Wilkinson and both were named All-Americans in 1949.

Royal introduced the split-T to the Pacific Coast Conference last season and came up with a 5-6 record, finishing the season with lopsided wins over Stanford and Washington State.

Mickey Mantle Named Pro Athlete Of Year

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Mickey Mantle, who specializes in spectacular hits, added a diamond-studded, $10,000 one to his collection today as the winner of the S. Rae-Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award.

The switch-hitting, 25-year-old center-fielder, who received the costly belt at the annual Rochester-Press-Radio Club Pollo Fund dinner here Monday night, became the third New York Yankee player to win the award.

Former Yankee shortstop Phil Rizzuto was the first winner of the belt in 1950 and ex-Yankee pitcher Allie Reynolds won it the following year. Rocky Marciano was the 1952 winner. Ben Hogan captured the belt in 1953, Willie Mays of the Giants in 1954 and former Cleveland Browns' quarterback Otto Graham won it last year.

Angelo Defendis Wins Over Luedee

NEW YORK (UP)—Angelo Defendis, who works in a Brooklyn fruit store between ring appearances, is fast developing into a "top banana" in the light heavyweight division.

The hard-punching, former Golden Gloves champion registered his sixth straight victory and his 15th triumph in 20 pro bouts Monday night by breathing to a unanimous 10-round decision over rugged Jerry Luedee of New Haven, Conn., in their widely televised fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

Luedee weighed 171½ pounds to Defendis' 160, but that was the only advantage he enjoyed. The Canadian-born battler put up a game fight and gained a moral victory in remaining on his feet through the entire 10 rounds. However, he was simply outgunned by the head-hunting Defendis.

Bobby Wilhelm Winner Of Award

BOBBY WILHELM

Bobby Wilhelm, former champion Golden Glove fighter from Pampa, established a school precedent at the University of Wisconsin last week.

Wilhelm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olive Wilhelm, 1033 Huff Road, was given the Outstanding Competitor Award last week for his fine showing in the Wisconsin contenders tournament. It was the second such trophy won by Bobby and the first time in school history an individual fighter had won the award twice.

Bobby entered Wisconsin in 1954, winning the competitors award for his outstanding showing. He entered the University of Oklahoma for the 1955-56 school year but went back to Wisconsin this year when the Sooners dropped boxing from their program.

The Wisconsin team matches are scheduled to begin in two or three weeks and the NCAA meet will be held in April. Wilhelm, who defeated the school's 165-pound champion to win the award, will fight this year in the 155-pound bracket.

Bobby won three Golden Gloves regional championships while representing Pampa. He was the winner of the Hamilton Memorial Trophy at the Amarillo meet in 1953.

Texas A&M, MSU Set 1959 Meeting

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UP)—Texas Aggie gridmen will play Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 26, 1959, Aggie Athletic Director Paul (Bear) Bryant said today.

Tokyo Joe Wins In Battle Royal

Tokyo Joe came out the top man on the totem pole in the five-man battle royal at the Sportsman Club wrestling matches last night.

Joe was the last of the quintet to be eliminated. He won over Tommy Phelps in two of three falls after the other three had been eliminated.

Dizzy Davis was the first wrestler to be pinned, thus eliminating him for the night. Mario Llanes and Leo Newman battled in the semifinal round with Newman winning two of three falls. Llanes took the first fall in 12:19 with a reverse crab hold. Newman came back in the second and pinned Llanes with a reverse surfboard in 9:22. Newman took 10:10 to win the third and deciding fall with a body press.

Tokyo Joe took his first fall in 13:26 with a body press. Phelps won the second with the same hold and Joe used only two minutes and three seconds to take the deciding fall with a press.

Who Will Ike Name As His Successor? As His Successor? Guy Mitchell Is No Longer Singing Blues

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—It is now appropriate for newsmen to ask President Eisenhower to name his choice for the next Republican presidential nomination. Mr. Eisenhower's second and last term began at mid-day Monday.

It probably will be the Franklin D. Roosevelt third term merry-go-round all over again because Mr. Eisenhower, also, is the coy type. FDR was more than coy. He seemed to delight in misleading questioners about his political plans after 1940.

Mr. Eisenhower will be under increasing pressure from this inauguration day onward to answer a couple of questions urgently interesting to the citizens of the United States. The President is not going to like it. He is likely to lose his temper more than a few times in news conferences between now and the early summer of 1960. The questions to be pressed upon him will be these:

—Who is your choice to succeed you?

—How about your young friend, Richard M. Nixon?

Will Find Precedents

The President will find precedent for a hands-off policy if he decides to play it that way. There is solid precedent, however, for a president to choose and obtain the nomination of his favorite for the White House.

Teddy Roosevelt selected William Howard Taft and probably regretted it. FDR probably intended Henry A. Wallace to succeed to the White House when he compelled a reluctant and angry Democratic National Convention in 1940 to accept Wallace as its vice presidential nominee.

Mr. Roosevelt's own fourth term disrupted that schedule, and there is some doubt that even FDR could have compelled a Democratic National convention to action.

Crowded Nixon

Mr. Eisenhower crowded Vice President Nixon last year close—very close—to withdrawal from the contest for re-nomination. Whether this was deliberate or unintentional is not yet evident. More likely, the President's artful dodging under the fire of questions about Nixon was a convenient compromise to avoid a showdown with the aggressively active and opposing forces which rallied for and against the vice president.

It also seems possible, perhaps likely, that Nixon finally was given private assurances that he was the President's choice again for a running mate. However, that may be, Nixon almost pulled out, but did not. Something must have changed his mind.

NEW YORK (UP)—Guy Mitchell, almost dead broke a year ago, no longer is singing the blues.

"I won't kid you, last year at this time I had really come on hard times," said Mitchell as he dived into a whopping salad of tuna fish, cottage cheese and mixed greens.

"Bookings? They were awful. I had a real slump there. It was rotten. And I had come out of a law suit almost broke—it really drained me."

"Over a period of about a year, I had only one record you could call even a little hit, '99 years.' And it just made me enough money to meet my obligations."

Ingrid, Here For 34 Hour Smile, Returns To Paris

NEW YORK (UP)—Ingrid Bergman was here over the weekend. Sunday night she went back to Paris.

The visit lasted 34 hours. Miss Bergman came to accept the New York Film Critics Award for her role in Anastasia, but spent most of her time mending fences in film fandom.

She smiled just about the whole time, even when complaining that Americans expected her to smile too much.

Miss Bergman was smiling when the airliner that brought her here from Paris pulled to a halt at Idlewild International Airport at 8:25 a.m. EST Saturday. She was smiling when she stepped down the ramp 15 minutes later, bundled in mink and a white babushka.

Then she beamed her way through an airport mob scene, a session with newspaper photographers, a news conference, a series of television interviews and tape recorded interviews in French, Italian and German.

"Now we need one interview in Chinese," she said.

She laughed when she said that. During an hour of interviews at the airport, Miss Bergman answered almost every question. She left her exact age (39 to 42) a secret. She denied a rift with her husband. She refused to comment when told a former U.S. senator who once wanted her banned from the U.S. had decided to forgive her.

"It was pretty tough in those days," she said, smiling, "but time takes care of everything."

boarded artists—and repertoire chief at Columbia Records heard it and s-o-s'd Mitchell into New York.

Popular Now

"We cut singing the Blues" on a Sunday night," recalled Mitchell. "And it really took off—you know, it's sold two million copies now and it's still going pretty good."

"It put me over the top. Since it's been released, I've been all over TV—Ed Sullivan, Steve Allen, Dinah Shore, Rosemary Clooney, Jonathan Winters. I'm going to emcee the Arthur Godfrey Wednesday night show on March 6 while he's in Africa."

"My bookings are really sold in this country and I've got two big shows coming up on British TV on Feb. 10 and 16. The last one

Bank Funds Low

"First, last fall, I decided to get married," he said. "I had just $2,000 in the bank, which believe me, is cutting it pretty thin for an entertainer. Her name was Elsa Sorenson and I had met her in Vancouver."

"Well, I got this booking at a hotel in Atlanta and they were wonderful to us. Gave us a suite with flowers and everything."

"And then things really started breaking when this fellow, Monte King, who works for Columbia down there, called a record to the attention of Mitch Miller and myself."

The record was Marty Robbins "Singing the Blues," a number which was beginning to move fast in the country field. Miller, the
