The canvass of ballots cast in last Tuesday's city election was to be made this afternoon by the City Commission.

Flyer Uses Broomstick For Landing

By UNITED PRESS

A co-pilot used a common broomstick to fix a faulty landing gear while his airliner, with 39 persons aboard, circled over Lubbock Sunday and in El Paso, an American Airlines DC-6 dropped over on its nose at the end of a landing.

There were no injuries. The nose wheel of the DC-6 collapsed as the giant airliner with 32 aboard had slowed almost to a stop. Its passengers were accommodated on other flights.

Over Lubbock the crew smashed open a plexiglass window on the floor of the flight deck of the two-engine Convair of Continental Airlines and used the broomstick to jiggle the locking mechanism of the plane's nose wheel.

He succeeded in getting the lock's indicator light in the cockpit to indicate "locked" and Capt. Gordon Smith brought the plane in for a safe landing.

"We didn't feel like it was a good operation for us to land with that nose gear locked," Gordon said. "So we took a broomstick and jiggled the locking mechanism and got a positive indication that the gear was locked."

The flight originated in Dallas with stops at Fort Worth and Abilene. The plane was supposed to continue on to Albuquerque, N. M., but Continental officials grounded it and re-routed passengers by other flights. Some of the passengers were ferried to Amarillo by automobile to continue their air trips.

Renew Plea For Dallas Donations

The Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross has renewed its plea for funds in connection with the disaster which hit the Dallas area last week.

In addition, Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary of the local chapter, has said that a total of $710 is urgently needed to complete this chapter's goal of $11,974.

Mrs. Shotwell pointed out that the chapter has received $11,000 from the United Fund, and $284 in other donations, leaving the total of $710 to complete the required total.

All donations to the Dallas tornado fund should be addressed to Dallas Disaster, Box 1036, Pampa.

Causative Factors In Accidents Told

Failure to grant right-of-way and improper starting from a parked position were listed by the police department as the violations causing the largest number of accidents during the month.

The announcement was made by Jim Conner, chief of police, in a report released on accidents during the month of March.

The above-mentioned violations resulted in 12 collisions each during the month with following too closely being attributed as the cause for an additional 10 accidents. Exceeding the safe speed resulted in nine accidents and reckless driving resulted in six other accidents.

The report indicated that a total of 50 accidents were caused by men drivers while only 19 accidents during the month were caused by women drivers.

Inch Of Snow Falls In The Dalhart Area

A bone-chilling cold wave dumped up to an inch of snow in the Texas Panhandle today and special freeze warnings were issued for half of the state.

The mercury dipped as low as 20 degrees at Dalhart early today and an inch of snow was on the ground around that area.

Pampa had some rain and cold with wind. The sun was shining bright over the Top O' Texas area this morning and the forecast was for slowly warming temperatures.

Forecasters warned of much colder temperatures tonight in North Central Texas and the northern portions of East and South Central Texas.

Extensive damage to fruit trees and young vegetation was feared in North-Central and Northeast Texas. The freeze line was expected to move as far south and east as the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The cold wave whipped into the state Sunday on winds up to 50 miles an hour. It kicked up thick dust locally at several points in West Texas.

Snow, freezing drizzle or rain fell over much of the Panhandle, although there was no drifting and forecasters said the cold wave moved so rapidly through the state that it didn't have time to develop into a blizzard like the storm that hit the Panhandle two weeks ago.

Oklahoma Gets Snow
Dumas in the Panhandle reported .06 of an inch of moisture and one-fourth inch of snow on the ground at sunset today. Amarillo had a trace of snow mixed with freezing drizzle.

The Texas Panhandle was on the outer rim of a blizzard that hit Colorado and parts of Kansas and Oklahoma with January fury. Heavier snow fell in the Oklahoma Panhandle and snowplows were called out to clear roads around Boise City, Okla.

Freezing Weather Due
Much colder temperatures were forecast across Texas today and tonight with lows of 28 to 36 tonight in North Central Texas and lows of 30 to 32 in the north portion of East Texas and 32 to 36 in the northwest section of South Central Texas.

Six Building Permits Are Issued Here

Six building permits, one for a new business and five for new residences, were issued by the city engineer's office last week.

The permit for a new business, was issued to the Humble Oil and Refining Company for the construction of a new service station at the corner of Francis and Hobart. The estimated cost of the new station was listed at $38,000.

Three of the permits for new residences were issued to H. R. Jeter, building contractor, for the construction of the houses for local residences. These permits were for the construction of residences at 2215 Beech, valued at $23,000; at 2134 Chestnut, valued at $23,000; and at 2212 Chestnut, valued at $20,500.

One of the permits issued for a new residence was issued to the Osborne Construction Co. for the building of a residence at 1816 Dogwood at an estimated cost of $22,500.

The other permit was issued to Las Covall for the construction of a $8,000 house at 300 E. Albert.

Mystery Witness, Conflict Spotlight Rackets Probe

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee scheduled a closed-door meeting today to decide what to do about a mysterious witness described as "even more recalcitrant than Dave Beck."

Simultaneously, a sharp conflict broke out over whether former Republican Chairman Leonard W. Hall asked Teamster President Beck's support for President Eisenhower's reelection campaign last year.

Arthur Condon, Beck's attorney, said Hall asked him about a month before the election to see if Beck would come out publicly for Eisenhower. Condon said he took it up with Beck who later endorsed the President.

Hall Denies Charge
Hall declared this "just isn't so." He said he recalled meeting with Condon, but didn't "recollect anything in the discussion concerning the campaign."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), a member of the rackets group investigating Beck, described the conflicting statements as "confused verities." He said he knew nothing about it personally, adding, "I doubt if either political party would select Dave Beck as its political advocate at the present moment."

Mundt told a reporter the committee was called into secret session today to discuss "a witness who will not produce his books."

Mundt declined to say whether the witness would be present at today's session, or even whether he represents management or labor.

There were these other weekend developments on the rackets issue: —Robert B. Kennedy, chief committee counsel, questioned several persons in Chicago including Nathan W. Shefferman, labor consultant for business firms and friend of Beck, who testified before the rackets committee here.

Kennedy said his talk with Shefferman dealt mainly with "matters raised at committee hearings." He said the Chicago inquiry involves "management more than labor."

Routier Pledges Fight
—Walter Routier, vice president of the AFL-CIO and president of the United Auto Workers, urged jail for "crooked employers as well as dishonest labor leaders." Addressing his union's convention in Atlantic City, he pledged the auto workers will be 100 per cent behind the cleanup of corruption in both business and labor.

—Federal District Attorney Paul W. Williams said in New York that "12 or 14 grand juries" and 10 of his assistants are now investigating racketeering in New York City, but the fight against criminal elements in labor will go on for "years and years."

—Mundt said after Easter the Senate Rackets Committee will hold hearings on charges of illegal collusion by "dishonest management" and union leaders in the construction industry in New York City. He said they will involve charges of acid throwing, "koon squads" and "skull crushing."

Iranian Bandit King Is Reported Dead

By BRIAN DEWHURST
United Press Staff Correspondent
KARACHI, Pakistan (UP)—Pakistan government officials said today Iranian bandit king Dad Shah is dead. They also reported his brother Ahmed had confessed the murder of Mrs. Anita Carroll, an American whose husband and a companion were killed by the desert brigands.

The Pakistan Ministry of Interior said Ahmed, who was captured in Pakistan, with another brother, Mohammed, confessed he murdered Mrs. Carroll shortly after she was kidnaped by the gang that had killed the American men and two Iranian helpers.

The Americans were Kevin M. Carroll, 37, Mrs. Carroll's husband, and Brewster A. Wilson, 35. Ahmed said Dad Shah was killed on April 3 in a clash with Iranian patrols. Earlier Dad was thought to have fled across the border ahead of the hundreds of Iranian state police.

Reports Confession
Deputy Secretary of the Interior Hameduddin in Ahmad said Ahmed Shah confessed to slaying Mrs. Carroll, but said a report from the Pakistani border patrol did not mention how the murder was committed.

Died In Fight
Ahmed Shah said the notorious Dad Shah was killed during a clash April 3 and that his son Hamal also was killed. One of Dad Shah's wives also was reported badly wounded during the same running gun fight.

There was no sign today of Dad Shah's sister and brother-in-law who presumably either turned back to Iran or escaped patrols and reached the Persian Gulf coastline.

Military officials said their patrols were still looking for the bandit king despite Ahmed's story that he had been killed.

Carroll and Wilson, who were U.S. aid officials, and the Iranian drivers of the two jeeps in which they were traveling, were shot from ambush two weeks ago in the wilds of southeastern Iran.

Mrs. Carroll was carried away from the scene of the ambush and killed a short time later, under circumstances that are still obscure.

Most major legislation in both chambers was in committee. A conference committee will attempt to come up with a compromise between the differing two billion dollar spending programs approved by House and Senate. It is expected to take several weeks.

Daniel's Bill Delayed
The Senate State Affairs Committee was studying two House-approved measures endorsed by Gov. Price Daniel. One sets up a "code of conduct" for legislators, state officials and employees and the other provides for registration of lobbyists, telling who they work for and their purpose.

Magazine Has Article On Bond

Christian Life magazine for April, released earlier this week, carries in it an article featuring Pasadena College's outstanding basketball player, Jim Bond. The article, entitled "Pasadena Puts Stock In Bond," is the work of Don McCallab, the college's news bureau director.

The one- and a-half page story displays two pictures of the Crusaders' young all-American cager and features his work among youth of the Church of the Nazarene and other denominations. (See MAGAZINE, Page 3)

Cairo Warns Ship Sent Into Canal Would Be Destroyed

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Israeli officials said today they would go ahead with plans to send a test ship through the Suez Canal despite a Cairo warning that any such ship would be "destroyed on the spot."

The Egyptian warning was printed in the Cairo weekly Akhbar Elyom and was directed at Israeli ships seeking to use either the canal or the Gulf of Aqaba.

United Nations salvage vessels removed the Egyptian frigate Abu-kir, the last obstacle blocking the Suez Canal, from the harbor at Port Suez today and started towing it northward toward the Great Bitter Lakes.

Israel still was celebrating the arrival of an American tanker at Eilat this weekend—the first American vessel to sail through the strait of Tiran since Egypt imposed a blockade in 1948.

Warning Issued
The tanker, the 10,000-ton Kern Hills with 16,000 tons of oil, passed through the straits without incident and began unloading its oil at Israel's new port of Eilat while the nation celebrated.

The Cairo French-language newspaper La Bourse Egyptienne warned the United States and Britain that such moves as bringing in tankers for Israel could endanger their oil supplies.

It said the U.S. tanker deal could not have been concluded without Washington's knowledge and that Washington was "thus engaging in a policy whose consequences can easily be predicted."

It was reported meanwhile that the last obstruction, a ship, had been removed from the canal.

May Build Pipeline
Israeli officials expressed cautious hope the passage of the tanker would lead the Arabs to relax their economic boycott but they proceeded with plans to develop the port city to build a pipeline to bypass the Suez Canal.

But Israel was keeping a wary eye on Egypt and Saudi Arabia. Official sources have expressed fear that Egypt would ask the U.N. Emergency Force to leave the Tiran area and try to impose another blockade.

The answer to that has been Israel's assertion it would shoot its way through the straits.

Deny Such Plans
However Israeli sources said no such drastic action was planned in the test of the canal. The sources said more likely Israel would send a ship to the canal and if it were halted or captured Israel would lodge a vigorous protest with the U.N. Security Council.

Gideon Rafael, foreign ministry counselor and recently special adviser to the U.N. delegation, confirmed that Israel "would of course send a ship through" the canal. He said it was Israel's matter of course.

Egypt moved meanwhile to reopen the canal formally, and as it did so the nation entered a period of full defense alert against any form of "aggression."

Queen, Prince Arrive In Paris For State Visit

By ARTHUR L. HIGBEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS (UP)—Queen Elizabeth arrived today to begin an April-in-Paris visit that inspired the warmest welcome the French have given any royal figure since they grieved their own Queen Marie Antoinette.

The Queen and her husband, Prince Philip, flew in from London at 11:54 a. m. (5:54 a. m. est.) They found all Paris decked in Britain's national colors.

A huge Union Jack flew from the Eiffel Tower, dominating the sunlit city. Smaller British flags fluttered from every city bus, and bunting in the British colors festooned lampposts and store fronts.

Elizabeth is the first reigning British queen who has visited Paris in 102 years.

Precautions Taken
The royal couple drove directly from the airport to the Elysee Palace, official residence of President Rene Coty, to sample the first of some 3,000 bottles of champagne set aside for the royal visit.

Hundreds of policemen lined the route from the airport to the palace as a precaution against possible violence by the Communists—the only sizeable group in France which was not delighted by the Queen's visit.

One disaffected Frenchman, political affiliation unknown, expressed a minority viewpoint in a message scribbled on the wall of a midtown subway station: "Elizabeth, this means war!"

Kiwanians Hear Talk By Refugee
 Ivan Ceresna, who fled Russian cruelty to the freedom of the United States, held his audience captive Friday at a meeting of the Pampa Kiwanis Club in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

Ceresna expressed his appreciation at attending a free meeting such as that of the local civic club. All such meetings in Russia, he said, would be the result of force, not free will.

Ceresna told of his life under the Russian bear after being "thrown" in with them after the end of World War II when Russia claimed all the territory it had conquered. Ceresna was originally liberated by Americans but ended up under Russian rule when the Allies "split-up" Germany after the war.

Ceresna termed Communism as "where everybody has to stand in line for nothing."

Ceresna told of his life under the methods used by the Soviets to get information from him and other persons they held and marched to one camp and then another.

 addition to his athletic ability, the young Texan has been quite widely known as one of the nation's outstanding young ministerial prospects and speakers.

On the basketball court his record has been somewhat amazing. As a high school player at Pampa (Tex.) High School he was twice a member of the Texas all-state team and one of five players selected on Chuck Taylor's all-American squad.

Since entering Pasadena College as a freshman in the fall of 1954, the 6'4 1/2" Bond has compiled a total of more than 1300 points scored and is equally feared by opponents as a rebounder and defensive player. He was a member of the 1955-56 Helms Foundation - NAIA All-American team.

Following the close of the 1955-56 collegiate season, the young Pasadena student joined a local AAU team known as Mirror Glaze and was one of the reasons for that team's amazing performances at the National AAU meet in Denver. At the close of the tournament he was selected the "most promising young player" by coaches present.

Quoting author McCaleb in the Christian Life article, "With another full season ahead of him, Bond will continue to win the plaudits of basketball fans across the country and Christians, too, will become more acquainted with him and his testimony for Christ."

Coach Gerald Tucker of the AAU Phillips Oiler cage team and the 1956 U.S. basketball team had this to say about the dynamic young Texan, "Bond personifies what every coach would like to see in a player, an exceptionally talented athlete with a warm, modest personality, who is devoting his life to Christian living. I have been as favorably impressed by his calm confidence and unselfishness as by his scoring ability."

The article points out that in the period since his junior year in high school, when he first spoke from a pulpit, to the present time the unassuming Bond has taken part in more than 50 evangelistic campaigns.

As either an investment in current living, or as a bulwark of future retirement plans, the purchase of a home represents one of the best moves the average citizen of Pampa can make. E. L. Campbell, president of the Pampa Real Estate Board, said on the final day of Realtor Week.

"We find that most persons — particularly couples with or expecting children — do not need to be convinced of the advantages of home ownership and residence," Campbell said. "Many of their questions deal with the availability of financing in the tight mortgage market."

"Today, Realtors are able to provide more assistance to prospective home buyers than ever before," Campbell continued, "as the result of not only their contacts with mortgage lenders but also of the existing wide range of prices."

With the annual new home construction rate running around a million new homes, and rehabilitation mushrooming, the real estate industry has kept within striking distance of America's growing population and stepped - up rate of family formation, the real estate executive said.

In addition, the current period of unparalleled prosperity has enabled many families to move up the scale to more suitable housing, thus bringing on the market a better grade of existing housing than has been seen for many years.

All of this, Campbell pointed out, means that today's home buyer has a wider selection from which to make a choice at outstanding values.

In terms of long-range benefits looking toward a happy retirement, home ownership represents one of the five elements in the retirement plan recommended by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Campbell said.

Capitol Hill News

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) today warned that quick action is needed on school aid, civil rights and refugee bills to "avoid last minute legislation and the threat of filibustering."

He called on Senate leaders to push action on the measures, none of which have been placed yet before the Senate.

He pointed out that with Easter recess approaching Congress has completed almost half its present session.

Case noted that the "Senate committee which has jurisdiction over the school legislation has not yet held hearings on the bill and no hearings have been scheduled."

He said Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) had expressed hope that a vote might be taken on a civil rights bill before the Easter recess.

Case said Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) agreed with Knowland that debate on a civil rights measure should not come late in the session but that Johnson was "less definite" about calling it up immediately.

Other congressional news:
Civil Rights: Rep. Richard D. Bolling (D-Mo.) hoped to determine if a "deal" has been made to block President Eisenhower's Civil Rights bill. Bolling, a leading supporter of the bill, said he has heard rumors of such a "deal."

He said he planned to ask the House Rules Committee to clear the measure for immediate action on the House floor.

Spending: Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.) called for appointment of a special executive staff "with iron in its spine" to hold down the level of government employment. Davis, chairman of a House subcommittee investigating federal employment, said that "without this check rein on expansion, the Congress and the taxpayers are at the mercy of what will be an ever-expanding bureaucracy."

Aid: Secretary of State John Foster Dulles headed for Capitol Hill today to testify before a special Senate Foreign Aid Committee undertaking a thorough review of U.S. overseas programs. Dulles was expected to make a further plea for the administration's four billion dollar aid program.

Schools: Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health education and welfare, said he believes Congress will pass a school construction bill this year. He said such a bill was needed to meet the "emergency situation" arising from classroom shortages.

Grocer, Butcher, Laundryman Are Most Unpaid In New York

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — The most unpaid bills in New York are those owed the grocer, the butcher, the laundryman.

The hardest to collect are those owed the dentist.

The "Park Avenue Crowd" of alleged elite are "getting to be pretty terrible on payment of bills."

Those are the opinions of Abraham Miller, a bill collector, process server, and tracer of skipped persons who estimates that in the last 25 years he has collected more than 5,000 bills and served around 500 legal papers every-where from City Hall to gangsters' back rooms.

Senators See Dulles For Aid Program

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate friends of the foreign aid program called on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today for help in saving the embattled program from a severe congressional trimming.

Dulles, accompanied by Deputy Defense Secretary Reuben B. Robertson, was called to testify before a special Senate Foreign Aid Committee making an overall study of U.S. overseas assistance programs.

The secretary was expected to renew the administration's all-out plea for approval of the $4,400,000,000 program President Eisenhower is expected to submit formally to Congress later this month.

Meanwhile some Democrats warned the administration that unless Eisenhower and Dulles exert more leadership and advance a possible new approach, the program is in serious trouble because of mounting clamor in Congress to cut its size.

Dulles also faced extensive questioning about proposals to put the program on a longer-range basis, as advanced by two groups named by the President to study aid activities.

Over the weekend Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, warned the program is in "real trouble" and is "going down the drain" unless Eisenhower moves quickly to give it "new vigor" and "new approach."

Study Carefully

Readers of the News may wonder occasionally why it is that editorials and columns on the editorial page are so conservative while some of the stories and articles in other parts of the paper may indicate acceptance of the "liberal" line. Examples are some of the articles praising the United Nations.

The News editorial page is made up of contributions from men and women who understand the value and nature of freedom and who consistently support freedom in opposition to regulation, socialization and subjugation.

It is not in the least illogical that many of today's writers are advocates of big government and increased regulation of the people.

There are several types of liberals in today's journalism... a field which reaches millions every hour of the day thru newspapers, magazines, radio, TV and other media.

Many others are innocent products of our tax-supported public schools and colleges. They are fuzzy-headed and collectivistic in their thinking because the teachers and professors who shaped their thinking were equally fuzzy on the subjects of freedom, economics and government.

The teachers work for employers who do not have to show a dollar profit on their endeavors. The teachers deal to a large extent with theory and they get their training, their textbooks and their background materials to an alarming extent from liberal sources.

The AP and UP obtain their news from papers all over the country. In addition the press associations receive news material from correspondents who are frequently reporters or editors from member papers.

With the help of liberal and unthinking writers for the press services, the UN has been thrust into the public mind in such a way that to oppose it openly is compared to blasphemy.

Today's journalist should be watched closely. His writing and his thinking should be analyzed critically. It is imperative that the journalism situation not become similar to that in school textbooks where the writer or publisher of a conservative or pro-freedom textbook is likely to find slight acceptance and small financial reward for his efforts.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

I do not recall ever having been asked before to discuss the first question.

Q—Please discuss writer's cramp.—H. E. C.

A—This interesting disorder belongs in what has been termed the class of "professional cramps." It is applied to disorders involving those muscles which are used in finely coordinated and often repeated movements necessary for the performance of some particular task.

At the beginning the symptoms are likely to be mild and characterized by rapid fatigue, tension of the muscles and aching pain whenever the particular act is executed.

Q—My son always has been in his home. When he drinks a little too much he breaks out in red blotches. What causes this?—Mrs. B. L.

A—It sounds as though your son develops hives or urticaria following beer drinking. This is most likely the result of hypersensitivity or allergy to some substance present in the beer.

Excessive production of saliva can result from any one of a large number of disorders, such as Parkinson's disease, or from local inflammatory conditions of the mouth or surrounding areas. It is also quite common in certain nervous conditions, particularly that which is known as "neurosis."

Q—Does coffee have any bad effects on high blood pressure?—R. W.

A—The caffeine in coffee is a potent drug and is known to have certain actions on several functions of the body. Among others, it does stimulate the heart, principally by increasing the rate of the beat.

Foreign Aid Prolonging Socialist Governments

I want to continue to quote from an article in "The Freeman" magazine which I think shows that our foreign aid to socialistic or dictator countries only preserves the tyranny of the governments.

Many people think that if the management of socialism or a dictator changes it will be an improvement. It doesn't seem to work that way when socialistic ideas prevail in the government.

The author of the article puts it this way: "The failures of the system will be charged, certainly at first, not to the system but to the communists managing the system."

"The failures of the system will be charged, certainly at first, not to the system but to the communists managing the system. Eventually, if we let them alone, the truth will come to the surface; the system itself will be discredited. Economic aid to socialistic governments will simply postpone that disclosure. And, meanwhile, it wins us no friends as we have already seen."

Then the article goes on to explain that depreciation is an overhead of any business. He mentioned the depreciation of 5 per cent. Many items, of course, depreciate 10 per cent or 15 per cent or 20 per cent.

"The replacement of facilities is a net deduction from production available for current use. In Russia and its satellites just as it is here.

"An expanding business, whether a single plant or an entire national economy, needs even more than replacement of capital. It needs new capital facilities at a rate not less than the product of a) the population growth rate and b) the rate of per capita increase in the level of living.

"The expansion of capital facilities in any country is likewise a net deduction from production available for current use of consumers in that country.

"Between replacement and expansion needs, the Russian managers of a communistic system will have to plow back scarcely less than 10 per cent, and probably more of every year's total output. Otherwise, they have no chance whatever of eventually raising production to keep pace with the growth of population and demanded living standards always ahead of them.

"The top-heavy part of the overhead in a communistic economy must eventually crush it, gradually but surely, and the continuous change of managers and leaders reveals that this process has well started. We should do nothing to prevent it from accelerating.

"The top-heavy part of the overhead is, of course, the horde of bureaucrats in the cumbersome Russian planning system. The Czar had it before the communists and the latter have never been able to rid themselves of it. It is inherent in statism.

"The Cost of Policing" "Along with the cumbersome bureaucracy of a highly centralized economy is the unavoidable police and prison system, essential to enforce regulation and discipline dissenters. And to back up all of that, there is the added overhead of a huge standing army with all of its equipment, which neither can be enjoyed directly by consumers nor used to produce anything which they can enjoy.

"This equipment, like productive equipment, depreciates, is destroyed, or becomes obsolete, and must be replaced and modernized.

"According to experienced and firsthand observers, the communistic system requires an overhead personnel of one bureaucrat for every four producers. This means that overhead absorbs something like 25 per cent of the gross national product, not counting the probable 12 to 15 per cent required for replacement and expansion of productive facilities.

"Taken as a total, these deductions range somewhere between 35 and 40 per cent of the total output of the communistic countries. Or, to put it another way, the people have left for immediate consumption only about 60 to 65 per cent of their yearly output. Small wonder that the satellites are protesting to the point of revolt against the managers. Let them alone and they will in time get around to revolt against a system that no amount of managerial ability and compulsion can make efficient.

"Proposed Economic Aid" "It seems to us that the events of these times merely represent a revolt of satellite nations, and likewise the Russians themselves, against the managers of the system, not against the system itself.

"The collectivists are still in charge; they simply are different and are local fellows instead of the discredited Russian managers. But as long as they cleave to the system, they are collectivists. To supply economic aid to the conventional kind is simply to help these socialists make good where their Russian counterparts failed and thereby make the communistic system look as if it could succeed, as in the case of Tito and Yugoslavia. What's the point of that?"

Social Services: Reflecting recent attacks on the proposition, 53 per cent now oppose the Administration's multi-billion dollar school construction measure. But if it should be approved by Congress, 70 per cent think that it should not carry a proviso barring funds to states which refuse to desegregate.

Agriculture: There is sharp division on this issue. Sentiment is about evenly divided on continuing the soil bank in its present limited form or extending it to additional crops, as the South demands. A sliding scale of farm benefits is preferred by 70 per cent, as against a flat 90 per cent parity rate.

Labor: Although these polls were taken before the Beck-Brewster-Hofa revelations of careless use of union funds, only 10 per cent opposed enactment of laws making unions more responsible to their members and placing them under the same sort of regulations which now apply to corporations. On this point, there was hardly any dispute.

From a regional standpoint, the Eisenhower brand of government appears to be more popular in the Northeast and Far West, while people in the South, the Middle West and the North Central States are more critical. The pro-Ike areas approve his foreign and liberal domestic ideas by large majorities, ranging from 45 to 75 per cent, while the other sections lean more toward the conservative viewpoints of the Taft faction.

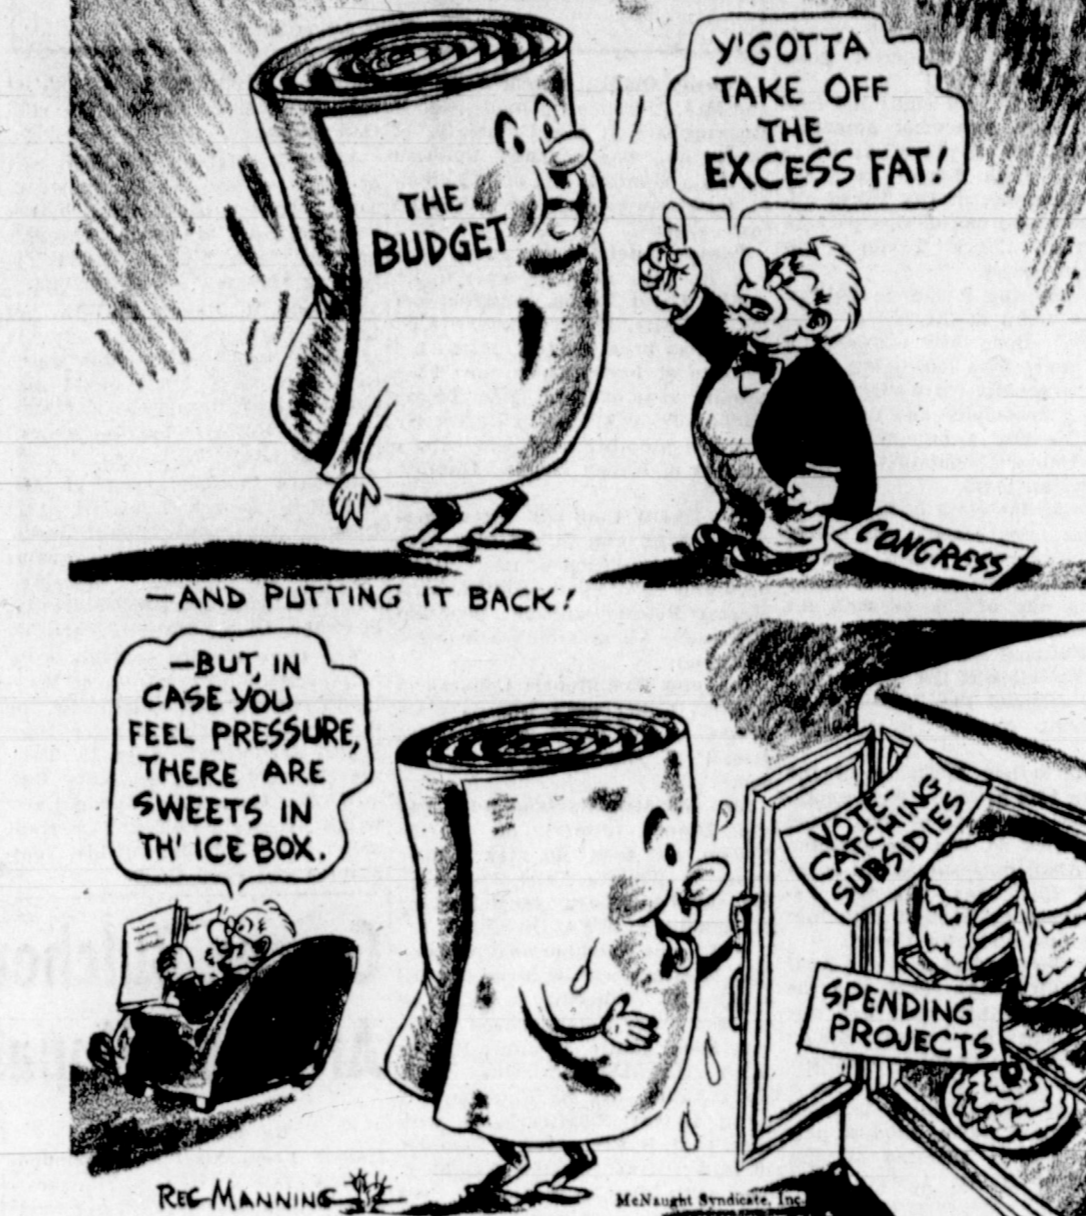

Unlike some of the commercial polls, the Congressional questionnaires asked for reaction on specific legislative and foreign policy matters. They were not "loaded," as Senator Styles Bridges, conservative head of the Republican Senate Policy Committee, said was true of rival tests of sentiment.

Here is a run-down of public opinion with respect to Ike's major proposals and policies, as measured by the Capitol Hill studies: Foreign Affairs: Ike's general foreign policy obtains a 70 per cent endorsement, including his Middle East doctrine. But 63 per cent advocate a smaller amount of financial aid to the President asks, and only 57 per cent think that Secretary Dulles should continue in office. Although going along with Ike, they apparently doubt Dulles' ability along certain lines.

Economy: The demand for cutting the budget below White House figures is an overwhelming 85 per cent. But if it should be reduced, and it is a testimony to the voters' business sense, 70 per cent prefer that the reduction be used to lower the public debt rather than taxes.

Education: There is sharp division on this issue. Sentiment is

EARL BROWDER'S BIGGEST VICTORY

If you will look at a map of Europe and Asia — one on which the Kremlin-dominated countries are marked with red — you will note that over four-fifths of the whole world of Europe and Asia is dominated by the communists.

Before the United States got into World War II, the communists under the infamous Stalin, had been driven out of most of Europe and the greater part of Asia. Then, unfortunately, our leaders were foolish enough to take Stalin on as a partner, treat him as if he were a civilized leader and turn over to him a succession of conferences held during and after the fruits of victory.

Now, the normal-minded American might well ask: How did this come about? Without too much detail, it was made possible by two things: (1) The arming of the Russian hordes with our weapons. (2) The surrender to Stalin at the international conferences of most of the fruits of victory.

During the war, President Roosevelt became, as is usually the case, literally a dictator. It was in his power to make decisions of the most astounding magnitude. The President was a political leader of extraordinary talents. But unfortunately he never quite understood the dark and evil nature of communist intrigue.

The Senate Sub-Committee on Internal Security has given us evidence of that. During the war a very engaging lady of impressive lineage, Miss Josephine Tusslow Adams, somehow struck up a very friendly relationship with President Roosevelt. She actually managed to gain almost unlimited access to the White House, and even to the President's home at Hyde Park. This lady was, as she now confesses, a courier for Earl Browder, then head of the American Communist Party.

Through her influence in the White House she was able to get Browder into the President's study at a time when it was almost impossible for many important senators to reach him.

In addition, Miss Adams became a sort of teacher to the President on communist philosophy. Amongst other things, she tried convincing the President that communism was just another form of New Dealism. In the process of reaching the President's mind she made over forty visits to the White House and Hyde Park. She succeeded in getting the President to pardon Browder who was serving a sentence for passport frauds. After unhappy Poland had been crushed and overrun by the Reds, Browder sent to Roosevelt a list of the Polish leaders in exile — anti-Communists — whom he marked as fascists. After this, Roosevelt met Stalin at the conference at Teheran and later at the infamous Yalta meeting and there our thoroughly misguided President surrendered Poland and a vast area of Europe to Stalin. Following this, when Miss Adams met Browder, that dangerous boss of the American Communist Party, congratulated her and told her with a lumpy smile: "My work is done."

It was indeed done. Americans who followed the results of those dreadful meetings may perhaps remember that President Roosevelt assured us at the time that Stalin was not in reality a communist but just an old-fashioned Russian patriot.

This story is so seemingly extravagant that it is very difficult for a healthy-minded American to believe it. But there is no lack of evidence to support it. For one thing, there before us is unhappy Europe and Asia with the communist despotism spread over a major part of them. But there is still other evidence. Frank Meyer, himself a former communist, who was personally familiar with Browder and Miss Adams, testified before the Senate Committee that he was aware of Miss Adams' constant political discussions with Roosevelt to convince him of the similarity between the aims of New Deal — and that the Communist Party, the Soviet Union, Joseph Stalin, President Roosevelt and America should be marching all in the same direction.

A recent poll taken at the University of Cambridge revealed that 38 percent of the young men questioned wanted to get out of England and planned to do so as soon as they graduated. In a poll taken among educated young women, the percentage was even higher. Their reason was the confiscatory taxes which the welfare state places on superior incomes. Thus the very people upon whom Britain is dependent for its economic welfare and for its defense are deprived of their incentive. It is an ominous thing when those capable of producing work of quality find that it is held against them.

CONTROLLING THE BUDGET "The President, in offering his monster $72 billion budget, included nearly every spending program that has any organized support. The Eisenhower program includes billions for highways, schools, farmers, veterans, foreign aid — no pressure group being denied its requested slip into the Treasury. When challenged by Congress and the public, the President blandly passes the buck on the responsibility. Thus, Mr. Eisenhower is in the position of favoring every spending project that anybody could mention, while also — with the aid of Treasury Secretary Humphrey — appearing horde-stricken at the size of the budget." (CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, 21 March 1957)

The trouble with the Federal Budget is that it begins at the wrong end. We, the taxpayers, if we were smart, would compel the government to begin at the top and work down, not from the bottom and work up!

Take the Hunts, for example. If we asked each member of our family (and we are six) to compile a list of "necessities and desirable" for the year ahead, and then Pop added them up, the total would bankrupt us many times over! Since Pop has sense enough to know this, he starts at the other end, by first putting down his expected income, then subtracting the big, basic bills which must be deducted for house mortgage payments, various insurance premiums, etc. Next comes the food bill, and the utilities, the medical and dental reserves, the approximate cost of running the family car, and the expected clothing bill. From the shrunken amount which is now left over must come household improvements, recreation, charitable donations, savings, family vacation fund, and that elastic but undefinable item known as "Miscellaneous."

Our four-year old son is just beginning to face the reality —

Doug Ford Takes Masters Victory

By WILLIAM TUCKER
United Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP) — Doug Ford, a golfer from the sidewalks of New York who saw his first green on the top of a pool table, broke the stranglehold today that the big-time titlists have held on the Masters tournament since Bobby Jones founded it in 1934.

Registration Set This Week For Baseball

Registration for Little League and Pony League baseball teams will be held Thursday and Friday at Sam Houston elementary school gymnasium.

Saturday
AUSTIN, Tex.: Flashy Bobby Morrow led a parade of records in the 30th annual Texas Relay as he anchored Abilene Christian College to a 40.2 second clocking in the quarter-mile relay—equaling the accepted world record.

UMP YELLS BACK—Babe Pinelli, retired as an umpire, finds he, too, screams at decisions in his new job as scout for the Cincinnati Redlegs. Babe yelled when Gary De Martini, 19-year-old University of San Francisco outfielder, asked for box-car figures to go with Redlegs Visalia, Calif. farm.

Ford's important recent victories were in the Los Angeles and Panama Opens. They helped him amass more than $14,000 before the Masters as he played in all but two tournaments on the winter stretch. His victory here blasted the belief that a current low scorer who plays every tournament on the circuit cannot win the Masters against the likes of Snead and Hogan who aim for this tourney as a special target.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet: The Suez Canal situation took a new turn for the worse this week. The United States tried vainly to get President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt to soften his stand, which is that Egypt must exert complete control of canal traffic.

It was reported that France and Australia might take the issue to the United Nations Security Council.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan presented to the House of Commons a drastic new defense program aimed at slashing Britain's armaments costs.

Abolition of Draft
The plan calls for the abolition of the draft, the scrapping of all battleships, the reduction of British North Atlantic Treaty troops in Germany and cutting down British garrisons all over the world.

While Britain was cutting down its armaments program, West Germany inducted the first 9,733 draft troops for its new army.

In another development which reflected the contrast between the British and German situations, Gen. Hans Speidel of West Germany assumed the command of NATO ground forces in central Europe. In his new post, Speidel will command United States, British and French as well as German troops.

Lashes Hungarian Premier
The State Department in an unusually bitter statement said that the government of puppet Premier Janos Kadar of Communist Hungary had reverted to a regime of "Stalinist terror" to keep its people in subjection.

Premier Hussein Ala of Iran resigned as the result of the murder of three Americans, including a woman, by Iranian bandits. Manouchehr Eghbal was named to succeed Ala. Both men are pro-Western.

Vacation from school will be just the start of work for many of the nation's teenagers. The Institute of Life Insurance reports this week two million of them are expected to hold summer jobs. This number is in addition to the five million who work during school months.

The institute had no breakdown of the teenagers' total earnings last year, but has looked into the type of jobs they take. Most girls become clerks in the towns where they live, or care for children, either at home or at camp.

Boys work as caddies, gas station attendants, lifeguards, lawn mowers, door to door salesmen, farm hands. One enterprising youth took over care of gardens of several neighborhood families, the institute said.

Another organization, the Youth Research Institute, said the teenagers save most of their summer-time earnings. One study of 2,853 youngsters showed each saved an average of $189 last summer. One 19-year-old boy, working as a restaurant waiter, saved $1,400.

The same study showed 53 per cent save for school needs the following year; 13 per cent were building a college nest egg; six per cent had a car in mind; and another five per cent were stowing money for marriage.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Robert Briscoe, Jewish ward mayor of Dublin, describing actions of his two travelling companions to an airplane "bomb scare":

"When police told us they were looking for a bomb, my aide, a Catholic, went looking for a rosary. My son, Joseph, dashed to the nearest coin-operated insurance machine."

Everybody's making studies of one form or another. A jewelry manufacturer (Emmons) is out with one concerning what type of woman buys what type of ornaments.

The firm has decided you can tell the woman with the warm, extroverted personality by the way she wraps herself in a profusion of bracelets and other baubles.

The woman who balances her jewelry carefully with her costume is an organized creature. Her taste in clothing runs to the tailored and unadorned.

Egypt's Ag Situation May Be Basis For Its Problems

By GAYLORD F. GODWIN
WASHINGTON, April 6 (UP)—Egypt's agricultural situation may be the basis for all of that ancient country's political and economic problems.

That is the nutshell analysis of Egypt's current plight as seen by Quentin M. West, writing in "Foreign Agriculture," a publication by the Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS). West is a member of the Africa and Middle East analysis branch of FAS.

"If the strands in the complicated political and economic web engulfing Egypt today were to be disentangled, most of them would lead back to the country's basic problem — its agriculture," West wrote.

Agricultural Economy
Egypt's economy is largely agricultural. Production and processing of farm products account for about 60 per cent of the national income and almost 90 per cent of its exports. But Egypt does not have sufficient productive land to support its vast population.

Crop production depends almost entirely upon irrigation water, the only source of which is the Nile River. Egyptian life has been centered around this great river since ancient times. Out of the country's 247 million acres, only 6.2 million along the banks of the Nile and its delta are available for crops.

Even with multiple cropping, the pressure on Nile land is becoming greater, West said. Egypt's population has doubled in the last 50 years, rising from 11.3 million to 23 million. During the same period, the area under cultivation increased only 10 per cent.

Cris Traced To Cotton
To ease the population pressure, Egypt needs to bring more land into cultivation and to build up industries. But to do this requires foreign exchange. To get foreign exchange, Egypt must expand its export crops. At the same time, it must increase its food supplies

First Inter-City Telecast On April 7, 1957

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP). Thirty years ago this Sunday, the image of Edna May Horner, a telephone operator in Washington, flickered onto a TV screen in Manhattan. In her best telephone voice, she said:

"Mr. Gifford — I have Mr. Hoover in Washington. He wants to speak to you."

The date was April 7, 1927. The time — about 2:30 in the afternoon. The event — the first public inter-city telecast in history.

The Bell Telephone Labs, responsible for the transmission, did not refer to it as a "telecast." The program for the day — distributed in New York and Washington — was labeled simply, a "demonstration."

The spats you and Dad have are mostly about money — George and I have promised we'll never mention the word!
