Ike, Dulles Confer On UN-Israeli Problem

'Continuation Of A Series' Of Conferences Is Reported

By MERRIMAN SMITH
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 9 (UP) — President Eisenhower conferred again with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Saturday on the touchy un-Israeli problem. Press Secretary James Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower telephoned Dulles from his hunting vacation retreat here, but that it was only "a continuation of a series" of such conferences on matters now before the United Nations. The president also talked to Dulles Friday night.

$2 Billion Cut In Ike's Budget Is Expected

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland predicted Saturday that Congress will cut "upwards of $2 billion" from the budget requests President Eisenhower has submitted this year.

He was talking of cuts in the appropriations which Congress will pass for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Those cuts are not necessarily translated directly into reductions in federal spending for that year. Some of the authorized spending projects into future years.

When Mr. Eisenhower presented his $71.8 billion spending budget to Congress last month, it proposed $73.3 billion in new "spending authority" for the next fiscal year. "I think there will be some cuts made," Knowland told reporters. "Substantial?" he was asked. "Upwards of $2 billion," he replied.

Asked if he expected those cuts to apply only to non-defense agencies, he declined to be specific and said he was talking of overall cuts in appropriations. He did say he expected Congress to reduce the administration's $1.95 billion budget for foreign economic aid for the next fiscal year.

Knowland would not speculate on how much the federal spending total might be lowered if appropriations should be cut this year by more than $2 billion. However, he suggested that congressional reductions could "set off a kind of chain reaction" by causing executive departments to review their spending programs with an eye to cutbacks.

When the budget went to Congress, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey made it clear that he was disturbed by its size. He virtually invited Congress to make reductions but made no specific recommendations.

Mr. Eisenhower later defended the budget but said it was the duty of Congress to make savings if it could find ways to do so.

Knowland was asked if the reductions he forecast would not touch off congressional demands for a general tax reduction. "Not necessarily," he answered. "There are still some people who want to make reductions in the national debt."

The administration budget estimates a surplus of $1.8 billion for the next fiscal year. Enlarging the surplus would put a brake on the inflationary factors which have alarmed Mr. Eisenhower and other administration officials.

Seaton Asked To Testify On Oil Price Hike

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (UP) — Senate investigators Saturday asked Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton to testify next week on whether he ordered aides not to answer questions about recent oil price increases.

Informed sources said a combined Senate anti-monopoly and public lands subcommittee investigating recent oil and gasoline price rises wants to know if Seaton ordered his subordinates to withhold the information or whether Seaton acted on instructions from the White House.

Congressional critics claim the crisis which has blocked the flow price jumps were an attempt to take advantage of the Suez Canal of Middle East oil to Europe.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the joint group, told the United Press Saturday he would ask Seaton to testify next week on whether he ordered aides not to answer questions about recent oil price increases.

Church's Stand On Underpass Is Revealed

One of the principals in the current bogged-down status of the Hobart Street underpass has revealed its stand on the issue.

The official board and pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, which is located at the intersection of Hobart and Buckler, told The News in an interview that they had at least three principal demands they would like to see filled in exchange for granting right-of-way for the drainage which would be constructed in connection with the proposed underpass.

Rev. Hall said, "We have a $300,000 plant proposal which we have been holding up on for two years because the city has asked us to wait and see what happened in connection with the underpass. Also, we only have 200 feet of land here west of Hobart and if they take 70 feet of that, over one-third, it just won't leave us enough to build on unless the drainage is covered."

He added, "We would like to know why they (the city commissioners) don't want to pay us the amount we ask for the property. In fact, we would like to see them publish a list of where the money voted to be used on this proposed drainage, and right-of-way, etc., has been spent."

The city commission apparently feels that the $6,700 we are asking to move the three buildings is too much. However, we have just one of the buildings insured for $12,500.

Agreement has not been reached yet between the church and the school board, concerning Horace Mann School property.

Earlier, it was understood that the church property and property owned by the school could not be condemned. However, Mayor Lynn Boyd when questioned by The News, said that condemnation proceedings could be initiated as a last resort.

It appeared Saturday night that the school board would also discuss the situation at its meeting Monday night.

City's Cost On New Additions Under Study

The city's cost of water and sewer lines and the paving of streets in new additions of Pampa will be discussed Tuesday morning by the City Commission.

Contractors and developers of new additions have been invited to attend the meeting. Mayor Lynn Boyd reported, and any other resident that desires to learn of the city's problems in new additions is invited to attend.

Boyd explained that under contracts already in effect with developers on recent additions the city owes $117,000 for water and sewer lines and that the amount of indebtedness increases every time a new addition is developed.

The purpose of the discussion Tuesday will be to determine how the city can cut down the cost of new developments. According to the mayor the cost for each 60-foot lot in a recent addition amounted to $189.60 for water and sewer lines and street paving for each lot. If it is a corner lot the cost for paving is increased by another $114.00.

This does not include the cost to the city of fire plugs, lines to complete the water and sewer loops, man holes for the sewer lines and other items that the city pays the full cost for providing, the mayor reported.

This expense is compared with the average ad-valorem tax the city receives each year from an unimproved 60-foot lot which is $8.50, Boyd concluded.

The commissioners are also expected to take action on the zoning hearing, which has lasted for several weeks, on East Fraser No. 2, Fraser Annex and one lot in Sawyer Addition. The lot in Sawyer addition has resulted in opposition from nearby property owners on the request to zone it along with the two additions as semi-commercial.

A request for a bid date on city vehicular equipment authorized under this year's budget is also expected to receive action.

The setting of the date for the election of the mayor of the city is also expected at the meeting of the commission Tuesday. The date that will probably be set for that election will be April 2.

Guy Farrington Dies Yesterday

Guy Farrington, 68, who lived 12 miles east of Pampa, died yesterday evening of a heart attack. He had come to Gray County in 1909 and moved to Pampa in 1943 where he lived until moving back to his farm last year.

Mr. Farrington and his wife, Inetta, had come into Pampa yesterday, and as they started back home, he became ill. He asked his wife to drive, and she drove him back to the home of a sister, Mrs. Ida Banks of 303 N. West and they called an ambulance.

Farrington was pronounced dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Marie Johnson of Little Rock, Ark., seven sisters, Mrs. C. A. Tignor, Mrs. Ida Banks, Mrs. Willa Kinnison, Mrs. C. C. Stockstill and Mrs. Joe Lewis all of Pampa, Mrs. Goul Jennings of Willington, Calif., and Mrs. Ralph Dodds of Laredo. Also surviving are two grandchildren, Garry and Peter Johnson.

Second Senatorial Candidate Visits

At a reception given in his honor at the Pampa Country Club Friday evening, Thad Hutcheson, Republican candidate for the vacant senatorial seat of Governor Price Daniel, blasted the Pool Bill as endangering the chances of ever having a two party system in this state.

"If we Texans," he told those present, "can sit up and swallow that kind of thing, we may as well forget the idea of ever having two party representation in this state."

"I have opposed this Pool Bill ever since it was first presented," he said and added "If we fall down in this campaign, you may find it very difficult to get a two party system in Texas, and the whole idea of having one may be dead for 20 years."

Hutcheson expressed his opinion that there were many independent and conservative Democrats on "our side." They are those, he said who want to give the president whom they elected, the support that he needs. On the other hand, the senatorial candidate stated that although he believed that Eisenhower was a great leader, he would never be a puppet to that leader, and above all, he would never put interests above the interests of the state of Texas.

"I don't believe," he said, "that President Eisenhower wants a blind following, and that he will continue to respect the opinions and advice of those who might have cause to disagree in the best interests of the people they represent. I am not, and I could never be a coat-tail senator. There is a big difference between lip-service and true thinking."

In regard to Federal aid to education, Hutcheson went on record as saying that he was positively against it, since you cannot expect to have federal aid, without some form of federal control coming with it; and "It has been the lesson of history that when the government has come in to help, it is a difficult thing to get them out. He would always, he said, fight against any attempt of the government to invade the field of education."

In a later statement, in regard to foreign aid, Hutcheson said that he would put it on a loan basis instead of just giving it away as we are. Such a measure, he stated would certainly curtail the constant pleas of such nations to ask for aid. "Even the healthiest individual can only give a certain amount of blood without weakening himself," he said.

Immediately after the dinner, Hutcheson proceeded to Amarillo where he was honored with a coffee in the Capitol Hotel.

Macmillan Asked To Visit Moscow

LONDON, Feb. 9 (UP)—Russia Saturday asked British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to set another date for a visit to Moscow to help improve "the general international situation."

Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, in a note dated Feb. 2 and broadcast by Radio Moscow Saturday, noted Macmillan's message to him last month turning down an invitation to visit the Soviet capital next May on grounds of his "many preoccupations."

The invitation originally was extended to Sir Anthony Eden during Bulganin's visit to London last April, but was so worded as to apply to his successor.

Macmillan already is reported to have arranged with President Eisenhower for a Big Two summit conference at Bermuda, March 2, to restore the Anglo-American alliance damaged by the Suez crisis, and to evaluate new Soviet diplomatic campaigns.

The Soviets now have proposed new disarmament talks on the foreign minister level and have sent a note to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer outlining "concrete proposals" for settling outstanding problems, including reunification of Germany and disarmament.

In his message to Macmillan, Bulganin said Russia believed a conference in Moscow would afford the "possibility for a fruitful exchange of views on questions which are of interest to both sides."

Directing the bands will be Charles Meach for the grade schools; Joe DiCosimo leading the Junior High School Band; and Bill Tregoe will lead the Pampa High School Band.

Case Settled Out Of Court

In what was one of the largest settlements reached in many years in Gray County, the case of Gene Townsend vs. the Airspeed Oil Company was settled out of court for a total of $72,500.

Ross Buzzard, of the firm of Gordon, Gordon and Buzzard, which handled the case for the plaintiffs, reported last night that he felt that it was likely the largest settlement made in Gray County in many years. The original amount asked for had been $200,000 dollars.

The suit was the result of an accident Sept. 4, 1956 in which a truck owned and operated by the Air Speed Oil Company of Amarillo ran into the rear end of an automobile in which Clarence Townsend, for whose injuries the suit was instituted, and five other youths were passengers. He accident occurred near the first bridge just north of Pampa on the Perryton Highway.

As a result of the accident one of the youths died and Clarence Townsend received crippling injuries described as permanent.

The case had been set to come up in District Court on Feb. 18, with a preliminary hearing on a plea of privilege set for Feb. 15, in which the defendants wanted the hearing moved to another county. He settlement was reached Friday afternoon, however, just seven days before the first hearing was due.

Infant Crushed By Refrigerator

BAYTOWN, Feb. 9 (UP)—Terry Dwyne Hunt, 15-month-old, died of a crushed head and broken neck Saturday when an old refrigerator toppled over on him in his backyard.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Hunt.

Hunt said normally the refrigerator lay with its door to the ground to prevent the children from climbing into it. But two other brothers, ages 11 and 7, said they stood the box upright earlier Saturday to hide behind while playing cowboys.

Pension Check Lost In Pampa

An old-age pension check belonging to Oscar W. Haley, 317 N. Wells, was lost yesterday morning in the downtown area of Pampa.

Haley reported that the check was lost shortly after receiving it in the mail and that it was not endorsed.

Anyone finding the check is requested to call Haley at MO 4-8433.

Movie Firm Might Shoot Film Here

Two representatives of a movie firm were in Pampa Friday looking for prospective locations to "shoot" movie background scenes.

The two, Matt Freed, director of the firm, and Bill Morrow, public relations man, visited sites on and near the Canadian River, around Lefors, Lake McClellan and other likely spots.

Freed told The News that the movie firm was very likely to shoot some background scenery in this area sometime this year. He said he would "like very much to shoot a picture here. Freed said that his company makes a picture every two weeks.

The movie firm is on a tour of Texas, looking for likely places to make movies and shoot background scenes. Freed said that most of the company's pictures are outdoor pictures and he reported that they liked the scenery around Pampa very much.

Indications were that the company would make a picture concerning Boys' Ranch. Freed and Morrow visited the ranch last week and were "very impressed."

The two were escorted on their tour here by Coy Palmer, public relations committee chairman for the chamber of commerce. They spent most of Friday here, visited and "cataloged" location scenes, were guests at the noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club, and visited with several prominent Pampans. They left late Friday.

"Copies of this order or writ will be mailed immediately to the various and several county judges in this state, and all appropriate writs will issue and all proper proceedings will be followed to the end that said election may be held and its results proclaimed in accordance with law."

Governor Sets Date For Senate Election

A proclamation to the effect that senatorial elections will be held throughout the state was received yesterday morning by County Judge Bruce Parker.

The proclamation reads in part: "I, Price Daniel, Governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim that a special election shall be held throughout the State of Texas in every county and in every election precinct thereof, on the 2nd day of April, 1957, for the purpose of electing a United States Senator to serve the unexpired term of Price Daniel.

"Copies of this order or writ will be mailed immediately to the various and several county judges in this state, and all appropriate writs will issue and all proper proceedings will be followed to the end that said election may be held and its results proclaimed in accordance with law."

Community Singing Scheduled Today

The second Sunday singing of the Gray County Community Singing Convention will be held at 2:30 this afternoon at the Hobart Street Baptist Church.

Several quartets from other towns are expected to be present at the singing today, Shelby Ruff, president, reported.

The public is invited to attend the singing this afternoon and also invited to attend the singings which are held the second and fourth Sunday of each month at various churches in Pampa.

Bible-Quoting Preacher Out-Talks Would-Be Killer

KAUFMAN, Tex. (UP) — Leslie D. Savage, a Pentecostal preacher from Ardmore, Okla., has charged that Bobby James Sickenberger of Dallas kidnapped him Wednesday and locked him for 11 hours in the trunk of his automobile.
Savage managed to slip out of the car before dawn today while Sickenberger was asleep. Sheriff H. L. Evans and James Graham, a deputy, grabbed him, took his gun and handcuffed him.
Savage said Sickenberger wanted to kill him but he talked him out of it by quoting the Bible.
Since the alleged kidnapping was in Dallas county, Sickenberger was returned to Dallas for prosecution.

Perryton Church Completes Studies

PERRYTON (Special) — The Waka Church of the Brethren has recently completed a study of Missions.
Five classes were taught. Mrs. Melvin Hummer taught the adult class on "Mission Field U.S.A." The youth class, taught by H. N. Elledge, studied "There is No End." The junior high class taught by the Rev. Clyde Fry, studied "It Happened This Way." The junior class studied "Blueberry Acres" and Mrs. David Burger taught the primary class on "Sandy and Mr. Jalopy."
On Sunday evening the study will be finished with a film "Brethren Beginnings in Navaholand" being shown.
The women's work group of the Waka Church of the Brethren held an all day meeting last Thursday in the social room of the church, with Mrs. Clyde Fry and Carmen Dunhoo as hostesses.
The day was spent in quilting quilts and comforters. Members contributed $10.25 to the month's project, which is "Seeds for Relief." The seeds were ordered and will be sent to Nappanee, Indiana, for shipment overseas. The February project is "Clothing for Hungarian Relief."
Those attending were Mmes. G. A. Burger, Ed Doores, Allen Denison, Harley Elledge, Wail Elledge, Marvin Groves, D. E. A. n.
Sickenberger awakened, but dozed off again. Savage went into the restaurant and told Laroe Floyd, a Kaufman service station operator, that Sickenberger had robbed him.
The Kaufman night watchman, in the meantime, had gotten suspicious and telephoned Sheriff Evans. When Evans and his deputy subdued Sickenberger and searched him, they found "several" billfolds, a knife, papers and a .22 caliber pistol.
Sickenberger refused to talk at Kaufman. Evans said he had a Dallas address for him. But Oklahoma authorities said Sickenberger was a native of Ardmore and was wanted there for jumping bail.

Expert Outlines Methods Used In Search For Underground Water

By LOUIS KOENIG, Ph. D.
(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles by a noted research scientist on water problems of the Southwest.)

Most of the nation's water withdrawal—80 to 85 per cent—comes from surface waters, but in the arid regions such as the West and Southwest underground water is a main source of supply.

Texas draws 38 per cent of its water from underground, California 45 per cent, Arizona 63 per cent and Florida 69 per cent.

In the arid states ground water does not underlie the whole state but occurs only in bands and patches. In those states new water supplies depend on the finding of new underground water by prospecting.

This isn't easy or, as stated by a prominent authority, "prospecting for water is one of the most difficult problems of practical geophysics." (Geophysics is the study of the physical, mechanical and electrical properties of the earth.)

Most of the prospecting methods presently used depend on sending an impulse into the ground and measuring its reappearance at another point. A shock wave from an explosion may be sent into the earth. The time taken for the wave to pass through the earth and return at various distances on the surface allows a computation of the distances below ground to various kinds of formations—a very complicated calculation.

It will show, however, such things as buried valleys in the rock which might be filled with gravel that might contain water. Also it may detect water directly, for in sandy formations the waves travel faster in wet portions than in dry portions.

However, so many other things, such as compaction, denseness, type of rock etc., have similar effects that one almost has to know what's underground before he can interpret the data.

These methods, therefore, are useful for exploring the extent of a water bearing formation once it is known to be there, but not so good for finding a new one.

One of the most commonly used is the electrical resistance method in which a current of electricity is put into the ground and the resistance to its passage is measured. Dry rock or gravel has high resistance and pure water has a low resistance. But natural waters contain dissolved salts which give them low resistance. Thus rock or gravel wet with water, show a different resistance and can be located.

Unfortunately, a dense moist clay yielding no water may give a better indication than a water bearing sand. Also, unusable saline waters are easy to distinguish but the better the signal the less usable they are; and formations with the purest water are the most difficult to distinguish from dry rock.

So when the geophysicist can guarantee to catch your bird only if you'll get up behind it and put salt on its tail, no wonder the water-witch and willow-wand are still in use.

What is needed is a method that will distinguish water itself and at the same time tell whether it occurs in a porous formation (that is, yielding considerable water) and in a permeable one (that is, yielding it readily in large flows).

Hopeless as this sounds, there turns out to be just such a method and it has been under investigation for the past three years by Victor Vacquier and his associates of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology in Socorro, N.M. It is called induced electrical polarization.

Polarization is that property of an electrical conducting system which causes the building up of a voltage or pressure to oppose the flow of electric current and which causes a momentary reverse current when the energizing current is cut off.

It frequently occurs where there is a boundary between two kinds of conductors. A dry clay gets polarized at the junction between the carbon plate and the moist filling. The effect had been applied in prospecting for electrically-conducting sulfide minerals.

The Socorro scientists were working toward the same end when they noticed that a sample of wet sand containing clay gave a tremendous polarization response.

Checking in the scientific journals they found that this effect had been noticed in the earth more than 30 years ago by none other than Schlumberger (pronounced Slumber-jay) of oil well logging fame.

He was working with a sulfide ore body, passing a current through the earth around it and observing the reverse polarization current (or voltage) after the current was shut off. He found that a similar polarization effect from wet soil alone completely blotted out the effect from the sulfide ore body.

Schlumberger called this "provoked polarization." This probably meant not that the polarization was provoked (induced) but that he

Again, as in so many cases in scientific development, an effect was noticed by someone who was not looking for the application and who did not answer, or maybe even ask the question "what can I use this for?" And so for three decades this possibility lay under our feet, until one Socorro friend asked the right question, "Can I find water this way?"

Six months' work in the laboratory showed that a large polarization (measured by the amount of the reverse current and its duration) occurs when (a) the earth is porous (has many pores for holding water), (b) it contains water, (c) it contains some clay and (d) it is permeable (allows ready passage of water).

The polarization occurs at the spots where individual sand grains are separated by thin clay films

Kiwanis Hear Choir From Horace Mann

The Horace Mann Elementary School choir sang for the Pampa Kiwanis Club at the organization's noon meeting Friday.

The choir sang several patriotic, folk, popular and semi-classical numbers and one medley.

The club's first Ladies Night this year will be held at St. Matthews Episcopal Parish Hall next Friday night. Kiwanis club talent will provide the entertainment for the affair, Warren Hasse, president, has reported.

UN Sanctions Against Israel "Not Fair, Justified"

By WARREN DUFFEE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (UP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley said Saturday that U.N. sanctions against Israel for failure to withdraw her troops from Egypt would not be "either a fair, justified or an effective answer" to the Egypt-Israel dispute.

The Wisconsin Republican, ranking GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said such an action without similar sanctions against Russia would be a "double standard of punishing a small power's violation and ignoring a big power's infinitely worse violation."

Against Double Standard
"I feel strongly, as I'm sure Congress does, against any double standard in applying international law," he said in a prepared statement.

A similar stand was taken by Sens. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) in a joint letter to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

They said "we believe it would be a serious error of policy to vote sanctions against Israel because it will run contrary to the basic principle of enforcing international law upon which we have been proceeding since hostilities first broke out on Oct. 29, 1956."

Services Monday For Mrs. Sargent

Mrs. Mattie Lou Sargent, 64, died yesterday morning at 3:08 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Stephens, 324 Roberts.

Born March 24, 1872 in Lockhart, she was married in 1888 to Jasper W. Sargent who died in 1926.

She became a member of the Church of God at Heaton, Okla., in 1918, and came to the Texas Panhandle in 1931. Since that time she has made her home with her children in Pampa, Lefors and Skellytown.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. J. P. Stephens of Pampa and Mrs. A. D. Baker of Lefors; five sons, J. B. of Corpus Christi, John of Monahans, L. G. of Skellytown, Jasper of Guyton, Okla., and Clyde of Wichita Falls; one brother, Rube Sargent of Hedley; one sister, Mrs. Maude Miller of Delaware, Okla.; 38 grandchildren, 37 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the Duenkel-Carmichael Chapel with the Rev. Bill Sparks, pastor of the Emanuel Temple, officiating assisted by the Rev. J. F. Chatham, pastor of the Church of God of Prophecy in Boyer. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

The pallbearers will be her grandsons.

Former Pampan Dies Friday

Mrs. Laurie Schaffner, 89, passed away Feb. 8, in a Phoenix, Ariz., hospital. Mrs. Schaffner, who came to this country 30 years ago from Switzerland, had been in ill health for some time. She is a former resident of Pampa, but had moved to Phoenix in 1955 to live with her nephew, Noldi Schaffner. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Emma Butchi and a brother, Fred Schaffner, both of Pampa.

Services are pending, but burial will be in Pampa under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

LONDON—American Teamsters Union chief Dave Beck, angrily denying he was dodging a U.S. Senate labor racketeering investigation, said he would be only too ready to appear before the committee. "I should dodge? I've got nothing to hide."

Man Fined On Driving Charge

Luby Dalton Jones of McLean was fined $100 plus costs and given three days in jail after pleading guilty yesterday morning in County Court to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Jones was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James Shelton outside of McLean, on the highway from Lefors, late Friday night.

day that controls might become necessary unless labor and management "exercise restraint." When asked specifically about oil prices, he said he did not have the technical information necessary to comment.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said Saturday it would be "very difficult to get congress to pass wage and price controls after our OPA experience."

O'Mahoney said Seaton was to have been the first witness when hearings began on oil and gas prices and the administration plan for speeding oil shipments to Europe. But Seaton was not available.

Ladies Quartet To Sing At Church
The McPherson College Ladies Quartet is to sing this evening in the Church of the Brethren at 7 o'clock. The program is being held in observance of McPherson College Day at that church.

The program will consist of sacred music including hymns and anthems. The first soprano in the quartet is Miss Barbara King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reggie King of 314 N. Cuyler. Others are Miss Sandra Coffman of I.O.W.S., Mrs. Rosalie Snyder of Kansas, and Miss Donna Bryer of Iowa. The group will also sing Monday morning at 10 o'clock over station KPAT.

Sixth Grade Class Buys RCA Stock With Savings

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Borkers, messengers, and clerks looked up startled from their scurrying on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange when a group of stock purchasers in the gallery let out a warwhoop.
This was a soprano warwhoop. It came from the throats of 21 members of the sixth grade of the Fox Meadow public school in Scarsdale, N. Y.
They had just bought, with rather hard earned garage-cleaning snow-shoveling, leaf-raking cash, one share of RCA stock. They had watched from the gallery as the purchase was made. And when the next RCA price, 32½, flashed on a giant screen the 11-year-olds—10 boys and 11 girls—piped a scream of excitement.

Bought in Teacher's Name
Because they were minors, the stock had to be in the name of their teacher. But they had worked to raise the money, had studied various companies, and had had classroom visits from some brokers and a banker before making up their minds what to buy.
While this group was at the far-ang and of the scale, there does seem to be marked trend of greater interest among teen-agers in securities. In Portsmouth, Ohio, seven high school classes formed their own investment club and bought two shares of Detroit Steel Applied Lab Technique
In Nyack, N. Y., a high school social studies class decided to apply the laboratory technique to the stock market. They brought in nickels and dimes, appointed study committees, and reports—and came up with one share of American Zinc. The president of the

Specialist Hails Heart Operation

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A specialist today hailed a safe, quick operation to detour blood to the heart after disease or a thrombosis attack impairs the normal supply.
Dr. Robert P. Glover, director for the Cardiovascular Research Laboratory at the Presbyterian hospital in Philadelphia, reported on the operation to the American College of Surgeons at a sectional meeting Wednesday.
Glover said the still-experimental operation has been successfully performed on 12 of 13 patients, using a technique originated in 1939 by an Italian surgeon named Fischl.
He said the operation can be performed with local anesthetic "in those very common heart conditions in which the normal blood supply has been seriously impaired by disease or coronary thrombosis which is the nation's worst heart killer."
The surgeon cuts mammary arteries which normally bring blood to the chest wall, diverting the blood back to the heart through branches of these arteries, he said.
Dr. Warren H. Cole, head of the Department of Surgery at the University of Illinois, told some 2,500 delegates at the meeting that surgery and X-rays are still the most effective treatments of cancer.
"End results in all cancer treatments have improved during the past two decades so that one-third of all cancer cases are saved," he said. "And this figure could be doubled if we could get the patients early enough for effective surgery."

He Wanted To Entertain With His Harmonica

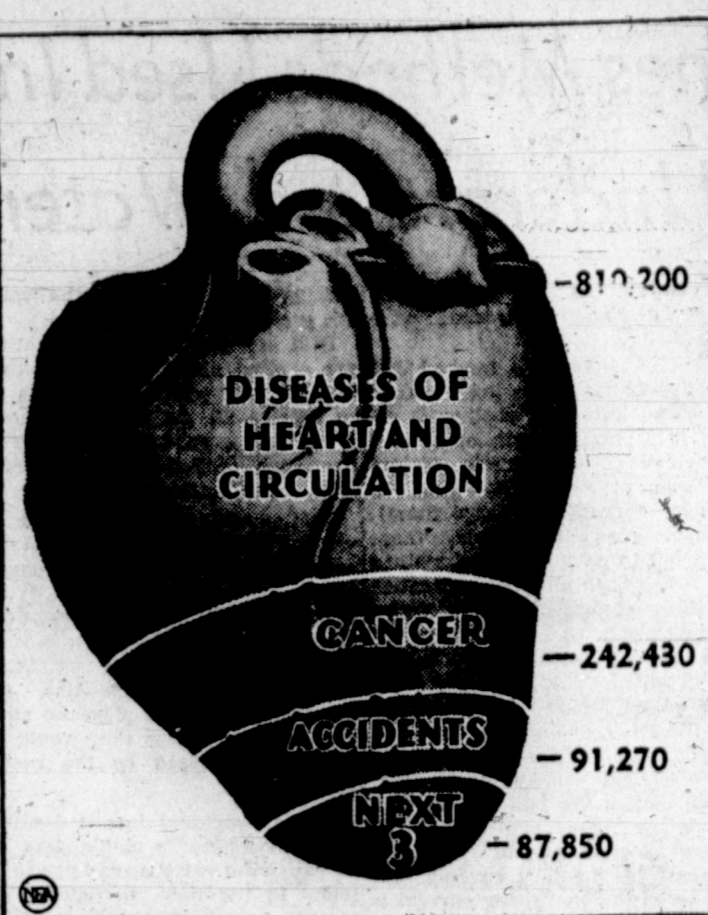

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—A Florida utility executive wanted to entertain a staid Senate hearing with a little harmonica playing, but his old college buddy wouldn't let him.
The harmonica-playing utility executive was McGregor Smith, who turned up at a Senate subcommittee oil hearing Thursday to testify in his capacity as chairman of the board of the Florida Light & Power Co.
His old college buddy was Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).
In the Senate caucus room, with its marble pillars, fancy chandeliers and plush rugs, the senator told his old pal that oil and harmonicas don't mix.
Smith offered to give the senators a tune or two that he learned while attending the University of Tennessee with his pal, Estes.
The old pal smiled. But he still said no.
Friends from Florida who accompanied Smith said he has been known to appear before sophisticated conventions of American industry, telex and in a red wool shirt and wearing a Peruvian Indian headgear.
They said his favorite stunt-

PAMPA

VIOLIN MAKER—Glenn Studebaker, 853 S. Banks, is shown checking the thickness of a top he is making for another violin. Shown on the divan beside him are five of the 20 violins he has made since first starting the hobby in 1948. The hobby resulted from Studebaker's wanting to know why a violin produced the sounds and why different violins produced different levels of tones.

Pampan Finds Making Violins Is Interesting, Fascinating Hobby

By FRED PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

Have you ever wondered what made a musical instrument play? A Pampa resident had this desire about violins and in 1948 he decided to do something about the question and built his first violin. Since that time he has built a total of 20 instruments to date.

This Pampan is Glenn Studebaker who lives at 853 S. Banks. When he is not busy making violins or explaining to someone how to make violins he runs a welding shop.

Glenn reported that he had played a violin since he was a young boy and had always wondered what made the tone. Not being able to afford a good violin and wanting to know the reason for the tone he decided to make one.

In 1948 he built his first violin which, to his surprise, played. He was started on a hobby that hasn't lost its fascination to him in nine years.

He uses a blueprint of the Dolphin Stradivarius because, as he put it, this model has an ideal shape and when built properly has a good tone.

Each of the 20 violins has a distinctive tone and Glenn reported that the variation in thickness and other factors in the making of each violin resulted in this variation in tone.

He stated that the size of the air space in the violin is an important factor. If the space is not right the violin will have a dead sound or will not carry as far as it should.

The first part of the violin that he makes is the top. In making it he uses medium-grain spruce which is at least 30 years old. He uses a piece at least 18 inches long 12 inches wide and three-quarters of an inch thick.

The shape is carefully formed from the wood and calipers are used to make sure that the proper graduations are obtained. Templates are used constantly in the making of the top to make certain that the proper contour is obtained.

Glenn reported that the reason he prefers medium grain wood is the tone that he receives. He stated that a medium grain wood results in a soft tone while a hard grain wood results in a hard, harsh tone.

He also stated that the wood must be well seasoned in order to be "live" and have the proper flexibility. That is the reason that he never uses wood which isn't at least 30 years old.

The "f" holes in the top of the violin must also be located in an exact spot and must be of the proper size to result in a proper tone. In cutting these holes Glenn uses a template made from a genuine Stradivarius. He reported that care must be taken to make these holes the proper size.

After the top is formed to the proper shape a base bar is attached to the underneath side. This bar is made of wood imported from Germany which is between 40 and 50 years old. Once again this part of the violin must be of the proper shape and also must be placed in the exact location to result in the proper tone.

The sides, back and neck are next made. These parts are made of maple both curly and birdseye. Glenn prefers the curly because of the easier workability and the fact that the finished violin looks better when made of this type of wood.

The bottom is a critical part of the violin to make, Glenn said, because the thickness has seven different variations. The same size pieces of wood is used as that used in making the top.

The shape of the bottom is also determined by the use of the calipers and special templates. The sides are shaped by the use of special forms which enable the intricate curves to be made.

After the various parts are made the ebony strips along the edge are inlaid. Glenn reported that this is a delicate operation as the grooves have to be cut to the proper size and must be evenly spaced.

These parts are then glued together and the other parts such as the tuning pegs, sounding board and others are put in place. Glenn said that he does not make the ebony parts which go under the strings or the tuning pegs.

The bridge which transfers the vibrations of the strings to the violin must also be properly placed. The location of this bridge is critical, Glenn reported, because once again the tone can be affected if care is not taken in the location.

Another important part to the tone is the sound post. This post is a dowel of a prescribed length which is placed between the top and bottom under the "E" string and below the bridge. By the location of the sound post the depth of the base sounds is controlled, Glenn stated.

After all of the parts are assembled the violin is varnished. Glenn uses between five and seven coats on the sides and bottom and not over three-coats on the top. He reported that too much varnish can deaden the sound of a violin.

After the final coat of varnish the luster is obtained by polishing the violin with a mixture of paraffin oil and pumice stone.

After all of this work the violin is ready for the strings and it is ready for tuning.

The tone is not of top quality at first but with time and playing it develops, Glenn reported.

If the violin has been properly constructed the tone is up to standard and another violin has come into being to help fill the world with pretty music.

Glenn said that he spends an average of 250 hours on each violin. This does not include the time spent in waiting for the setting of glue or the drying of varnish.

The time does not include the fact that Glenn allows the tops to set from two to three years after they have been constructed before he puts them into the finished violin.

Glenn reported that it is a time consuming job but that the satisfaction of playing the finished violin is worth more than the time put in.

He concluded by stating that if anyone is interested in learning how to make violins he will be willing to explain the process in greater detail and help them obtain information and parts so that they too can enjoy a fascinating hobby.

The 'Sleeping Giant' Of American Church Life Is Beginning To Stir

WASHINGTON Feb. 10 (UP)—The "sleeping giant" of American church life is beginning to stir. In thousands of Protestant and Catholic parishes across the nation, laymen are taking on church jobs that once were left to clergymen, or left undone. They are planning budgets, conducting fund drives, leading youth organizations, visiting the sick, writing and editing church publications, and providing free counseling services in professional fields from law to psychiatry.

Professional People Active
Most significant of all, increasing numbers of businessmen, doctors, lawyers, school teachers and housewives are moving into the field that Protestants call evangelism and Catholics call the apostolic mission.

"We are rapidly getting away from the old idea that propagating the faith is solely the work of the professional ministry," says federal judge Luther W. Youngdahl, a Lutheran. Youngdahl was named "layman of the year" by the Washington Federation of Churches in 1955.

Youngdahl, a former governor of Minnesota, regards the increased activity of laymen as "the most significant spiritual advance in American churches in many years."

"A dedicated layman," he said in an interview, "can serve as a witness for Christ in places that a clergyman can't reach—in offices and factories, in clubs and professional societies."

Remarkable Increase Shown
Martin Work, executive director of the National Council of Catholic Men, reported a "remarkable increase" in the number of Catholic laymen who are "actively helping the church to carry out its mission."

This increase is reflected in the growth of Catholic men's organizations since World War II. In 1946, the council had about 4,000 affiliated groups with a total membership of about 3 million. Today it has 9,000 affiliates with 7 million members.

Protestant laymen's organizations have experienced similar growth. The National Council of Presbyterian Men, for example, was organized by 370 laymen in 1948, and now has 2,700 chapters with 400,000 members.

The new importance of the laity to some degree is a result of the postwar religious revival that has pushed U. S. church membership to a record high.

While they welcome lay help in housekeeping chores, many clergymen feel laymen have an even greater service to perform. "America will never be won to Christ by the clergy alone," Evangelist Billy Graham told a laymen's meeting recently. "It will take dedicated laymen witnessing in every sphere of life."

Alarming Developments
STAMFORD, Conn. (UP)—An alarm rang Friday at the Central Fire Station. The driver of the hook and ladder drove out, knocked down a traffic sign and nearly hit a policeman. Two firemen were suspended. The driver was in such a hurry he left without the rear-wheel driver. And, it was just a false alarm.

Canine Meals Prompt Divorce
LOS ANGELES (UP)—Red-haired Mrs. Holly Young, 26, divorced industrial engineer Dredrick F. Young, 28, Friday. She testified that he ordered her to prepare and serve canned dog food and horse meat for dinner.

Howard Erskine Is A Unique Producer

TV-RADIO
By JACK GAVER
NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—Howard Erskine is unique among Broadway producers. He was hired to play a role in a filmed TV show.

"It was the ham in me, I guess," said the tall, lean 29-year-old who decided a few years ago that he could have more control over his future if he quit acting and became a stage producer. "I couldn't turn it down."

Erskine was hired to play a lieutenant colonel in an episode of the ZIV firm's "West Point" series shown on CBS Friday nights. This episode will be aired later this month.

It all came about because Erskine just happened to be in the office of talent agent Jean Deacy at the right time. What was he doing there?

Gets Part on Visit
"She was trying to see if she couldn't get some more money out of me and my partner, Joseph Hayes, for a client of hers, George Grizzard, who has one of the important roles in our Broadway hit, 'The Happiest Millionaire.'"

"While we were talking, she received a telephone call from the ZIV casting people who were trying to find someone for this part of an army officer. She turned around, sized me up, told me what was needed and asked if I wanted to do it. I said yes. It was that simple."

The job, of course, entailed a visit to West Point where these closely screened productions are made to achieve authenticity.

"They really take pains up there," Erskine said. "Actors who are playing officers and cadets are briefed on Point traditions and rules, which they are expected to observe while on the reservation."

Demoted Actor
"My part actually was to have been that of a full colonel, but once they got a look at me they raised to three and West continued to game."

At that point it was up to Mr. Seawald to trust his wife. With exactly one point in high cards but with four diamonds he took the save at the five level. His reasoning was that Mrs. Seawald would hold at least six diamonds and if they would only be worth one trick in defense against four spades. He could not expect her to hold three other defensive tricks and therefore the four spades would make.

The five diamond contract went down two with the declarer dropping two clubs and two hearts for a 300 point loss.

On the other table West was allowed to play four spades. He ruffed the second diamond and eventually discarded two hearts on dummy's clubs to make his game and a score of 620.

thought I was a mite too young, so they made me a 'light colonel.' Fortunately, I played all of my scenes wearing a cap, so I did not have to get a short haircut. However, they did send me to the barber to have the sideburns and back of the head, which the cap didn't cover, clipped a bit."

Erskine has done more TV acting than any other kind, but he quit over a year and a half ago when he and Hayes joined forces and hit the jackpot with "Desperate Hours," a play Hayes adapted from his own novel.

"The last show I worked on was one of Robert Montgomery's dramas," Erskine said. "Funny thing was that he was working for me at the time, directing the Broadway version of 'Desperate Hours.' So he turned around and hired me."

Sunday TV Highlights
"NBC Opera Theater" presents at 2 p. m. the world premiere of Stanley Hollingsworth's "La Grande Breteche," opera in English commissioned by NBC. Gloria Lane, Hugh Thompson, Adelaide Bishop, David Cunningham and Jimi Beni sing the leading roles.

"Martha Raye is Ray Bolger's guest star on his NBC show at 3 p. m.

"Odyssey" on CBS at 3 is devoted to knightship in the middle ages. Live with filmed sequences.

ABC's "Medical Horizons" at 3:30 deals with "high blood pressure" and comes live from Evans Memorial Hospital in Boston.

George Jessel is Jack Benny's guest on CBS at 6:30.

Ed Sullivan's CBS guests at 7 include Victor Borje, Benny Goodman and his band, Johnny Carson and Charlotte Rae.

First Appearance
On NBC at 7, Steve Allen has the assistance of Lou Costello, making his first TV appearance without partner Bud Abbott; Peter Lawford and Margaret Whiting.

NBC presents a 90-minute version of the state play, "The Lark," beginning at 8 p. m. Julie Harris reprises her stage role as Joan of Arc. Boris Karloff, Basil Rathbone and Eli Wallach are in the cast.

Sixty minutes of ABC's "Omnibus" will be devoted to a condensed version of "The Ballad of Baby Doe," a music drama by composer Douglas Moore and the late John La Touche which first was presented last summer at the annual festival in Central City, Colo. The full version is slated for future Broadway production.

After East opened with one club Mrs. Seawald jumped to two diamonds. That bid, as played by almost all ranking players, shows a strong hand with a good diamond suit that is unsatisfactory as a takeout double. Mrs. Seawald had no support for any other suit except her opponents' clubs.

West was able to bid two spades over the two diamonds. East

Terry Moore Is Playing A Teenager In Movies Again

By ALINE MOSBY United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Terry Moore is playing a teenager in the movies again, but in real life she's a grown-up social matron in Panama which is "much more exciting" than life in Hollywood.
Terry, the Natalie Wood of a couple of seasons ago, now is a settled-down housewife of wealthy Eugene McGrath in Panama City. She's committed to Hollywood for another movie, and, despite her role in TV as a glamour siren and her graduation to marriage, she still looks like the perennial college girl on the screen.
In "Bernadine" Terry plays an 18-year-old in a pony-tail, co-starring with the teen-agers' new swoon king, Pat Boone. But this event is paled by life in Panama, according to Miss M.
"My married life is much more exciting than being a star," said the pert actress in her usual minute-delivery. "It's more cosmopolitan."
"I love Hollywood, and I never thought I could settle down and get married, but this is much more fun. We travel a lot and

Television Channel Swim

NEW YORK (UP) — The channel swim... Gisele MacKenzie has resigned from "Your Hit Parade." She'll continue through this season. Gisele has two projects on tap for next semester — the lead in a Herbert and Dorothy Fields Broadway vehicle, "The Works," and a TV situation comedy.
ABC-TV and RKO are close to completing a deal on a package of top quality films, some of them post-1948 pix. The network wants to slot them on Sunday night opposite Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen.
Yul Brynner No Dice.
Carlton E. Morse, creator of "One Man's Family," is ill at Glendale Memorial hospital in California — ileitis is the villain... Yul Brynner nixed a deal with ABC-TV for next season which would have spotted his directing and acting talents in his hour-long drama series.
Sylvester "Pat" Weaver, former president of NBC, has raised $5-million for the financing of his new creative and counseling agency... April 7 is beginning to shape up as Jerry Lewis' next date with NBC-TV.
"My Friend Flicka," recently put out to pasture by CBS-TV, will return in March as replacement for "Giant Step"... Joan Shawlee, star of the new syndicated "Abbie" series, may wind up as Jack Lescault's permanent sidekick on "Tonight."
Daytime Ratings Up
NBC-TV daytime ratings are perking. Latest coup is "Truth Or Consequences" out-trendixing of "Strike It Rich," long-time CBS-TV giant killer. "Truth" has been in its new slot for only five weeks.
"Richard Diamond, Detective" looks like the summer replacement for "December Bride"... Walter Winchell, with Mutual radio since Sept. 1955, says bye-bye on March 3.
"Omnibus" has an offbeat one in the works for March 24 — Joseph Welch and Agnes DeMille will split the legal-artistic comment on a ballet devoted to Lizzie Borden. Dancer Nora Kaye has been signed for the show.

Honey-Voiced Italian Singer Out To Straighten Records

By GAY PAULEY United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Renata Tebaldi, the honey-voiced singer from Italy, today set out to set some records straight.
Certainly, she said, she and Maria Callas, another bright star at the "Met," are rivals. "But only as artists always are rivals," said Miss Tebaldi.
There is no feud, as various people keep saying. If there is any jealousy, she added, it is one-sided.
"I would be happy if people would drop the subject," said the lyric soprano. "I do not know how these rumors started in the first place... unless it was some of the Italian papers. Or, maybe our fans, who are divided into two camps."
She never said that Callas can't sing, as also has been reported. And, said the star, she didn't leave La Scala, the opera house in Milan, because the New York-born Callas moved in.
Miss Tebaldi, who makes her season's debut at the Metropolitan Opera House tonight in "La Boheme," said La Scala "is my musical home." She explained she hadn't sung there in two years because of other commitments.
Renata Tebaldi is calm instead of volcanic, as Miss Callas often is described. But the statuesque singer wants it known she is every inch a prima donna too.
Modern version, though.
She said the old-time diva who lorded it over her associates and built a reputation for tantrums and temperament to go with voice is becoming extinct.
"All to the good," she added. "Audiences now will not stand for it. It is necessary that each great artist create a personality, but she does not have to be an impossible person."

Stock Market Weekly Report

1951 on Monday and closed the NEW YORK (UP) — Wall Street conjured up a deflation bogey this week as more warnings of a hair-curling depression came from several sources.
Prices of stocks dropped sharply to the resistance point where support has developed on five previous occasions. It developed again but the upturn lacked vigor.
In the Friday session, the decline was arrested at 463.19 in the industrial average. It closed the day and the week at 466.29, off 10.93 points from the previous week, and a new low since Nov. 28.
Last year, the market rallied sharply when the industrials hit 468.21 on Jan. 23; 463.89 on Feb. 14; 463.85 on May 28; 463.83 on Oct. 1 and 460.41 on Nov. 29.
Ralls lost less but performed in poorer fashion. They closed at 144.10 off 4.37 and a new low since March 14, 1955. Utilities made a new high since March 26, week at 71.16, off only 0.15. Peoples Gas jumped 5 1/2 points on the week to help sustain this group. It was estimated that the market lost $3 billion on the week, bringing its losses since the high was set last August to $17 billion or 7.4 per cent.
In the 28 sessions so far this year, industrials have declined in 19, rails in 16 and utilities in 10.
In addition to the deflation warnings, the market had against it the 1956 reports of three automobile companies—Chrysler showing a plunge of 80 per cent in net from 1955; Ford, a drop of 46 per cent and American Motors showing a net loss of nearly $3 million.
Copper price cuts sent the copper shares down as much as 4 1/2 points in Kennecott.

Casper Holds Lead In Tucson Open Tourney

Summer Tan Wins In McLennan

MIAMI, Feb. 9 (UP)—Long-striding Summer Tan, avenging an earlier defeat by Bardstown, spurted down the Hialeah stretch Saturday for a three and one-half length victory over the Calumet Farms star in the $60,900 McLennan Handicap.

Jockey David Erb needed to give Summer Tan only a hand ride to defeat Bardstown, who scored a neck victory over Summer Tan in the Trenton Handicap last October at Garden State.

Formella Stable's Switch on finished third, three and one-half lengths back of Bardstown, and Mr. First brought up the rear, almost another two lengths back.

Only four horses started the mile and one-eighth McLennan when Greek Spy, Sea O Erin and Black Metal were scratched just before post time.

Hialeah's top crowd of the season, 25,190 saw the race.

Summer Tan paid $3.90 to win and $2.10 to place as the second choice. Bardstown returned $2.10 to place. No show betting was permitted because of the reduced field.

It was the fourth victory in a row for Mrs. John W. Galtbreath's Summer Tan, judged the "come-back horse" of 1956. The five-year-old horse picked up the winner's share of $42,300 after running the mile and one-eighth in 1:48 and 4-5ths.

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 9 (UP)—Bill Casper Jr., currently the hottest player in pro golf, turned in another dazzling sub-par performance Saturday to increase his lead to four strokes in the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The 25-year-old Casper from Bonita, Calif., was four under par with a 66 to give him a 54-hole total of 197—13 strokes below par on the 6,434 yard El Rio Country Club course.

Tied for second place were Bob Harris, Winnetka, Ill., and steady Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., each with a 201.

AREA COURT ROUNDUP

The Stinnett boys' and girls' basketball teams put new life into the District 1-A race Friday night with stunning upsets over both White Deer teams.

The Stinnett boys downed White Deer 69-49 and the girls trimmed White Deer's team by 59-55. It was the first loss in district play for both White Deer teams.

The Bucks still lead in the race for the district boys title, Stinnett having lost two games. In the girls' standings, both the Does and Stinnett are tied with one loss apiece. If the boys beat Sunray and Gruber this week the title is theirs. If the girls win their two games and Stinnett does likewise, a playoff will be held to determine the district titlist.

In the Friday night games, White Deer's high point man was Buddy Stevens with 15 points. Stinnett's high pointer was Charles Wells with 13. Nancy McConnell, with 21 points, was high pointer for the girls while Cleta Avent led the Stinnett girls with 30 points.

The Groom, Tigers upended Clarendon 30-46 in a game at Clarendon Friday night. Leon Anglin netted 17 points for the Tigers, and Ed Joe Baten and John Payne got 14 apiece for Clarendon in the non-conference game.

The Tigers have won their half of District 12-B. Samnorwood is the winner of the other half. The two teams will play each other this week in a district meet. The games will be played at Groom on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Texas Open Gets Underway Thurs.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 9 (UP)—The oldest golf tournament on the winter circuit, the $20,000 Texas Open, gets under way Thursday on a revamped Brackenridge Park course designed to put an end to the string of scoring records set during previous Texas Open play.

The public links layout, often called a pitch and putt course, has seen Mike Souchak set the PGA 72-hole scoring record, has hosted three of the individual 18-hole rounds of 60 standing on the records and also has been the site of the record nine hole score.

Souchak fired a 33-27 60 to start a blazing 257 tournament record in 1955, the last time the Texas Open was staged at Brackenridge Park. Burly Mike set the tournament record, a record for nine holes with a 27 on the back side, and joined Ted Krol and Al Brosch as co-holders of the PGA record round of 60, all set in San Antonio.

But the sponsoring San Antonio Golf Association, after switching the tourney site to the tougher Fort Sam Houston course last year, returned the meet to Brackenridge after championship fees were placed on 13 of the holes. The course was lengthened 370 yards with par remaining 36-35-71.

The score cards once billed the course as 6,400 yards long. An actual survey made after the new tees were installed showed the course to be 6,490 yards.

While the prize will still better par at this distance, the days of record setting seem to be about over and the winner will have to keep his drives straight as never before.

Gene Littler, who had a 276 winning total last year, will return in

Purses, Stakes High
CHICAGO (UP)—Purses and stakes totalling $4,500,000 will be offered to horsemen during the 97-day coordinated race meeting this summer of Balmoral, Arlington Park and Washington Park. Approximately $3 million will be distributed in overnight races, while 38 stakes events will carry $1,405,000 in added money.

Weaver Names New Assistant
LUBBOCK (UP)—Texas Tech Athletic Director DeWitt Weaver announced Friday that Joe Moss, an assistant coach at the University of Maryland, has been named to a similar Texas Tech post.

The 26-year-old Moss will fill a vacancy that has existed since Dee Andros resigned to go to Nebraska.

Moss starred three years on the Maryland team as tackle, played for the Washington Redskins in 1952, with the Bowling Air Force Base team while in the service in 1953 and 1954, and with the Ottawa Roughriders in the Canadian League in 1955 before joining the Maryland staff. He is a native of Ridgely, W. Va.

Weaver said Moss would join the staff Tuesday, a day after spring football drills start, and would work with linemen.

Bossler Is Signed
WASHINGTON (UP)—Don Bossler, the University of Miami star fullback who gained nearly 2,000 yards running in three years, has signed a two year professional contract with the Washington Redskins. Bossler, who lives in Batavia, N.Y., was the Redskins' No. 1 draft choice.

He Wouldn't Shave, So Got Shaved
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Bruce Dern won't shave his sideburns, so he was shaved from the roster of the University of Pennsylvania track team. It's simple as that. The long distance runner likes his long distance sideboards more than his long distance running, so when he was confronted with a choice, it was quite simple.

It all came about during indoor track meets in Philadelphia and Washington when teen-aged bobby-soxers roared from the galleries, "Go, Elvis, go." This type of cheering brought a heavy frown to the brows of sedate and distinguished Ivy League personalities.

The frown was followed closely by a kindly suggestion that Dern do away with his sideboards that closely resemble those of a popular former Tennessee truck driver. Dern declined.

Coch Ken Doherty wouldn't say Dern was clipped from the team, the former Big-10er said the best way to put it was that Dern "preferred not to continue with the team."

"Team members are expected to be representatives of the University of Pennsylvania and this applies to many things," Doherty said.

Colts Seek End Coach
BALTIMORE Md. (UP)—Webb Elvank, head coach of the Baltimore Colts, said Saturday he's still looking for an end coach but that the rest of the club's staff probably would remain intact for 1957.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 9 (UP)—First Baseman Vic Power, whose .309 led all Kansas City Athletics regulars in 1956, signed his new contract with the A's Saturday. Power's contract was the 24th signed so far by the A's.

Sports Facts, Figures

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Facts and figures from the sports beats:

Heavyweight challenger Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson is riding a bicycle every day near his home at St. Albans, N. Y., to keep in trim for his expected title fight with champion Floyd Patterson at Yankee Stadium in June. He will meet no other opponents before Patterson. He promised today, "I won't do any bicycling in the ring that night."

Eddie Brannick, general secretary of the New York Giants, said today he figured Cincinnati is the club to beat in the National League this year "if it gets fair relief pitching." He stressed that the Redlegs are "very powerful" at the plate. Milwaukee, Brooklyn and St. Louis are the other threats, he said.

Records More Authentic
Frank Lane, Cardinal general manager, is still plugging his idea for games between teams in both leagues during the regular season. Some critics of the plan claim it would wipe out current American and National League records. "So what," says Lane, "it would certainly make all new major league records more authentic."

Doug Ford, former Professional Golf Assn. champion, who won only $19,889 during the entire year in 1956, earned $9,000 in the first 10 days of 1957. The big bit was $7,000 in the Los Angeles Open, and the rest was from three smaller tourneys. He says it's the first time he was able to win well on the winter tour.

No Legal Betting
The Hambletonian Stakes, the "Kentucky Derby" of trotting, probably will attract the largest crowd in its history when it is re-named at the DuQuoin (Ill.) Fair, Aug. 27. But there will be no legal betting on the classic. Illinois state laws prohibit betting at fairs.

Marty Marion, ex-Chicago White Sox manager, and his St. Louis business associate, Milton Fleischmann, are determined to own a club in the National Basketball Association, it seems, and they appear to be pointing toward Kansas City as their site. They will be unable to purchase a franchise before the 1957-58 season, and accordingly would have to pay the

Wild Sheep Released In Palo Duro Canyon

AUSTIN — A potential challenge for the more agile Texas big game hunters has been released in the Panhandle in the form of thirty-one head of aoudad sheep.

The big, wary animals, imported from the wilds of New Mexico, were turned loose in a rugged, forbidding area, described by owners as "not good for anything else."

The project was described by the Executive Secretary for the Game and Fish Commission as the latest in the broad restocking program authorized by the Game and Fish Commission. In this vast experimental movement, including big game and upland game birds from as far away as Pakistan, the Commission hopes to adapt new species to far-flung Texas to augment native wildlife populations.

Wildlife Biologist A. S. Jackson of Canadian, who supervised the aoudad transplanting effort, said the heavily-horned sheep, which originated in North Africa on the fringe of the Sahara desert,

"should find the Canyon country to their liking."

Jackson said the area, about thirty miles wide and sixty miles long, "is nothing but waste land—mostly jagged rock—but apparently just what the wild aoudads will thrive on."

Palo Duro Canyon is southeast of Amarillo and is surrounded by flat plains country. But Jackson said the accessibility practically ends at the edge of the cavernous stretch which includes countless vertical peaks and depressed locations up to twelve hundred feet deep.

Jackson said the aoudads (generally pronounced Oh-Dads) are accustomed to weather extremes such as prevail in the Panhandle, thrive in arid periods, live along ledges and rimrock and "eat about everything". Tufts of wild grass, leaves, twigs, weeds and berries will be the main diet in their new home, he added, with springs providing ample water.

Jackson envisioned the time within a few years when Texas can have a short open season, probably under the special permit system. But he suggested that only the most seasoned and best-conditioned hunter would try his hand at aoudad gunning.

"These sheep are masters at elusiveness when they are alerted to danger", he said, adding that they have a natural brown camouflage, just like their new surroundings. "Besides", Jackson went on,

"a man finally bagging one of the aoudads would have a hassle retrieving the carcass from the rugged terrain, since they weigh up to two hundred and fifty pounds."

He said the old bucks have long body hair that hangs below their knees, have long locks extending from their brisket, have a short tail, long horse face and have a yellow eye area with a brown mark through it. Both males and females have heavy curled horns.

Jackson said, from what he has heard, aoudads "are a hunter's dream from the viewpoint of edibility."

FIRST TOUCH—These Spanish red-leg game birds put their feet down on Texas soil for the first time. The birds were presented to A. S. Jackson of Canadian by the Wildlife Restoration Department.

By S. V. WHITEHORN
Last Tuesday at 10 a.m., Willypossibly to keep track of all the partridges, the Texas Game and Fish Commission was on hand in Lipscomb County while the other half of the shipment went to Love Field, Dallas, and received in Cottle County, a short distance from an incoming plane. Parker lost no time in notifying A. S. Jackson of Canadian, Jackson was standing by waiting for the call and lost few minutes getting on the road to Childress. At 1:05 p.m. the two made contact and half of the birds were soon loaded into the pickup and Jackson started back from Childress to the George Earl Tubbs ranch with the birds.

The holding pen on the Tubbs ranch in Lipscomb County, was already cleaned out and ready for the birds. Wednesday morning the birds were banded and for the first time the birds set foot on Texas soil. The partridges arrived in poor condition and there were three dead ones in the shipping boxes with two others in very poor condition. However, the other birds appeared in good condition but Jackson stated that they were lighter in weight than expected.

The holding pen was about eight feet wide and about 40 feet in length. There was fresh lettuce scattered in the pens and the birds got no time in consuming the lettuce, plus liberal amounts of grain. In 1956, there were 59 Spanish red-legs that had come over ahead of the present shipment. Of this number there were nine that were using the range on the Tubbs ranch. In fact, the nine were seen within one mile of the holding pen upon arrival at the ranch Wednesday. After banding the birds and on the way back to Canadian, three of the nine were within 200 yards of the holding pen.

Jackson stated that after holding the new shipment captive some few days while they were regaining their strength and getting accustomed to this country that there would be a trap door placed on the pen and liberal amounts of feed placed just outside. When last year's released birds come by for a visit with the new immigrants there would be a few released each day until all of the 41 were running with the partridges that have been using the range for more than one year.

Jackson also stated that in his opinion the nine birds on the ranch are not the only survivors of last year's release. "There is probably another flock or two in the country which accounts for these Tubbs Ranch birds leaving the area for as much as two weeks at a time and then always returning, probably visiting with another flock," he said. The country around the release area is so large that it would be almost impossible to check every acre.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—The big liner United States, which docked here successfully Thursday without benefit of tugs, sailed for Europe Saturday, again tugless and with the added handicap of a thick fog.

NCSC Vote Comes Before Conference

By DON MARTIN

GREENSBORO, N.C., Feb. 9 (UP)—Faculty representatives of the eight Atlantic Coast conference schools donned judicial robes Sunday to vote whether or not North Carolina State college is guilty of alleged illegal recruiting maneuvers.

Jackson, senior wildlife biologist for the Panhandle, stated that last year's release in Cottle County had possibly fared somewhat better than the red-leg release in Lipscomb County due to the fact there were three flocks on the Wells Ranch at this time. The number of each flock runs from 14 on down. The Cottle County partridges are so wild that an accurate count is difficult. There was also one brood raised in this area last year.

The birds are about the size of a pigeon, shaped like a quail and resembling a bobwhite in some respects. It is not known if they will "hold" for a dog or not but from observing the wild ones they will probably run more than a blue quail.

These birds seem to utilize no cover at all but had rather stick to the open wheat fields and prairies. Since the last year's shipment has come through this far, with a little luck these partridges will take and thrive. With a little more luck, the entire Texas Panhandle could be well stocked with Spanish red-legs in a few years. Jackson further stated that if the birds multiply there will be trapping operations in a few years and other areas stocked in the Panhandle and lower plains.

Ironically, the punishment has been set—but the conference has not convicted State in the wake of sweeping penalties handed down by the powerful NCAA.

State begged for an ACC investigation of its recruiting tactics for Jackie Moreland of Minden, La. The request was granted following the heaviest punishment ever handed down by the NCAA.

Probe Is Completed
Commissioner Jim Weaver recently completed his probe with visits to the State campus in Raleigh, N.C., talks with the NCAA and a trip to Louisiana.

At 8:30 a.m. Sunday the voting power of the ACC begins judging. It appears the decision will be final.

The NCAA has charged State with:
1. Giving $80 transportation money to Moreland.
2. Promising "annual cash gifts."
3. Offering his girl friend a seven-year medical education.

Stiff Penalties
The NCAA placed State on four years probation, banned participation in NCAA championship events in any sport, participation in any NCAA televised event and loss of voting rights in the NCAA.

There is no precedent for a successful appeal to the NCAA. Weaver has slapped State with:
1. Moreland's ineligibility to participate in intercollegiate athletics at State college.
2. An automatic $5,000 fine should the basketball whiz drop out of school before he graduates.
3. A one-year ban on all cage recruiting by the State basketball staff.

Speaking of clothes brings to mind a beautiful sight Peg saw the other day as she dashed in and out of the Country Club . . . there was a party in progress . . . and we glimpsed Mrs. Fred Alvey in a gorgeous fiesta dress . . . and Bernice Hatcher whose lovely white dress had a jeweled knitted jacket to match . . . Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bourland were a four-some there, also . . . there was probably a rockin' good bridge game in the offing sometime . . . the two couples are very good players . . . where has Canasta gone?

GATHERING MOSS around town . . . wonder where Leone and Loyal Davies are going . . . they're planning a cruise somewhere . . . we can suggest a few places to go if they'll take us along . . . Trinidad has always sounded very romantic to Peg . . . let's go there . . . Anne High was observed the other day, carrying a beautiful brown-eyed baby . . . and she was just bursting with pride . . . it must have been The Grandchild! . . . Raymond Harrah was a somewhat glum and lonesome-looking grocery shopper lately . . . before he returned looking tanned and happy . . . guess he was tired of "eating out" . . . wonder if he has a copy of the Esquire Cookbook for men? . . . Raymond Jr., and Marie please note for next Christmas . . . everyone who went enjoyed the Trinity University Choir which sang here recently . . . the Future

Nurses Club has done some interesting things lately . . . the girls were taken to Amarillo on a tour of hospitals . . . they went to see the Amarillo Air Force Base hospital . . . which is larger than our Highland General . . . the idea of the club is to encourage more girls to become nurses . . . Marian Osborne and Jane Kadingo were helping to organize a Girl Scout troop in Wheeler last week . . . we expect Jane is enjoying her new occupation very much . . . members of the Senior Citizens club were presented with pieces of enameled jewelry, hand made by members of the Paint, Pot, and Piddle Club . . . Leona Davies, Ruth Nensiel, and Ann Heskew were there to tell about the jewelry . . . we saw a group of ladies going into Mina Smallings' house the other day . . . probably for the Thursday Contract Club . . . have heard people say it is one of the first such clubs organized in Pampa.

HONORED at a Valentine Day dance were the sweetheart candidates of the various Beta Sigma Phi chapters in town . . . their pictures will be submitted for consideration in a national contest . . . Mrs. Ivan Marlin was the Rho Eta Chapter candidate . . . Mrs. Neely Joe Ellis the Upsilon Chapter candidate . . . and Mrs. Bob Keller the Xi Beta candidate . . . very appropriate choices all . . . the chapters are also working on their annual table-setting contest coming up soon.

USUALLY we like to put in some especially good quotations sprinkled in from time to time . . . but this time we decided to put them in a special spot all to themselves . . . for your consideration . . . "It's easy finding reasons why other folks should be patient," said George Eliot . . . and along the same line, there is a Dutch proverb which says "A handful of patience is worth more than a bushel of brains." Or this may be more to your taste . . . "The difference between perseverance and obstinacy is, that one often comes from a strong will, and the other from a strong won't," courtesy Henry Ward Beecher. Wouldn't it be nice if we could all, once in a while, say something worth quoting . . . of all the words we use, thousands of them every day . . . every week . . . we surely should be able to say something someone would repeat . . . that wouldn't be gossip!

NO DOUBT you've seen the hand-blocked Indian print cloth used a great deal for the bedspreads . . . and if you have wondered of what use they are besides that . . . Viola Doggett has solved the problem one way . . . she has designed a charming dress which takes advantage of the intricate border design of the cloth to form the front of the bodice, and the skirt is beautifully full . . . a very unusual and becoming dress.

As Porky Pig says at the end of the cartoon . . . "T-t-t-hat's all folks!"

Party Is Planned By OptiMrs. Club

The OptiMrs. Club met with Mrs. Cliff Dunham, 2125 Duncan, and made plans to run a concession stand at Bull Barn during the Optimist Club's boxing matches for the March of Dimes. Mrs. W. A. Gipson reported on selling blue crutches for the March of Dimes, which amounted to $220.83. During the meeting, plans were completed for the party to be held for members and their husbands Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. Members present were Mmes. Bill Garrett, Newt Secrest, Eddie Lawrence, Cliff Dunham, James Lewis, N. G. Kadingo, Bill Stephens, John Schoolfield, James Mason, Clay Crossland, Sharon Horalson, W. A. Gipson, Ben White, and a visitor, Mrs. Oren James. OptiMrs. will meet next with Mrs. Sharon Horalson on Mar. 5.

"Your Child Of Eight" Is Program Topic For Recent Parent Education Club Meet

"Living With Your Children at the Eager Age of Eight" was the program theme for the Parent Education Club's regular meeting held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. C. R. Hoover, 526 N. Gray. The discussion was begun by Mrs. A. L. Smalley, who stated that the eight-year-old is "half-way up the stairs between early and middle childhood" and that "though he greatly resents being talk-down to as a little child he is greatly dependent on encouragement and needs reminding of his responsibilities." "Our eight-year old tries to be have in a more grown-up way," she said. "His manners may be bad at home, but he may surprise his parents when he goes out. Though still wanting his mother's support and companionship, he is ready to tackle new problems and work out the answer for himself. He is rowdy, rough, and tumbling, but can quickly change his mood and settle down to a quiet game of rummy or monopoly. The eight-year-old is eager for freedom, ready to assert himself for freedom in an argument and may easily become tense from too much domination and criticism." "In this period," Mrs. Smalley said, "is the beginning of gangs and much quarreling, whispering and boasting. The child loves the security of belonging to a group, yet he wants 'one best friend.' He learns at this age, lessons in winning and losing and cooperation with the group, which stand him in good stead later." Mrs. Smalley concluded. Mrs. Warren Fatheree gave a detailed account of the child's relationship with his family at this age. She described how little Mary's mother became concerned because the child was developing something close to a "mother fixation." It was shown, however, that Mary did not need psychiatric help, for a child is sensitive to his mother's thoughts, approval or disapproval. If this excessive need for attention, affection, and response from her goes unabated, it may cause trouble ahead. This is child's first demand for a deep, close relationship with another person, and it is worthy of a busy mother's effort to fulfill it. "In religion, as in other matters, the eight-year-old child has more positive tendencies, less skepticism, though not really devout, he tends to accept religious teachings without much question. If his interest the eight-year-old child has more should diminish, it works best many times for parents to diminish emphasis on attendance for a while. Most children reach the teens with renewed interest in Sunday School." Mrs. Fatheree observed that eight is a somewhat better age than seven for carrying out requests, although he prefers to work for an immediate reward (cash) than simply for the sake of helping. Many "eights" refer a hint or cue to full directions. "say 'dinner' rather than 'wash your hands'," which to them sounds babyish, she concluded. At the beginning of the meeting Mrs. Rex Rose gave a reading entitled "What's A Mother?", a laugh and tear-provoking story by Wanda Beal. A mother was described as a compound of wondrous things, as, "A mother is different, she likes chicken wings and backs, things daddy and the children spurn. A mother is a person who can change diapers all day feed the baby at 2 a.m. and still share daddy's delight when baby's first word is 'da-da.'" The club voted to contribute a free-will offering to the maintenance fund of the State Club House in Austin in commemoration of its fiftieth anniversary. It was decided to entertain husbands of the club members with a Mexican dinner Mar. 7 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vail. Mrs. Ray Hampton is in charge of arrangements. Parent Education Club voted to enter the Table Setting Contest being sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi March 9.

Twentieth Century Cotillion Club Views Films On Holy Land At Guest Day Tea

The Twentieth Century Cotillion entertained guests at a "Guest Day Tea" Tuesday at Lovett Memorial Library. A valentine theme was carried out with colors of pink and red. The table was spread with a pink satin cloth and a flower arrangement of carnations was placed upon it. Mrs. J. B. Maguire Jr. presided at the silver coffee service. The guests registered on a pink valentine guest book. The name tags were red and pink hearts which hung on a pink tree. Mrs. Martin Stubbe, club president, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Lee Moore Jr. introduced Mrs. Woodrow Adcock who showed pictures and spoke of their trip to Jerusalem and the Holy Lands. The Adcocks flew with four other couples on "Air-France" airline. Mrs. Adcock explained that this was because the food was so good on the airline and that they literally "ate all the way." She described the camel ride they took when they were in Cairo. Then they flew in a small plane from Cairo to Jerusalem over the Suez Canal. The trip was made in February, but when they arrive in Jerusalem the flowers were blooming. The Adcocks stayed at the Ameri-

Miss Martha Gordon Is U. S. Delegate To Mexico At Nuestra Cabana In June

Miss Martha Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gordon, 1309 Charles, has just been selected as a delegate from the Top of Texas Girl Scout Organization to represent the United States at a work camp to be held in Nuestra Cabana near Cuernavaca, Mexico, June 22 to July 5, 1957. The purpose of the cabana is to plan with 12 Mexican Girl Scouts and work with them to promote better international friendship.

In selection Miss Gordon as delegate, Mrs. Lewis Leary, chairman of the National Selections Committee, wrote "May we congratulate you (Top of Texas Girl Scout Council) on having submitted a candidate who appears to be so well qualified for this event."

To attain this honor, Miss Gordon has an impressive list of qualifications, which led to her selection to represent this region. She is a First Class Scout and has received the curved bar award. She attended the regional Senior Conference in Norman, Oklahoma, in 1954 and area Senior Conferences held in Amarillo in 1955-56. Her camping experience consists of a 10 day Patrol Troop Encampment in 1955; many primitive camps; and as a nursery aide and program aide with Browne, Intermediate and Senior Day Camps.

She has been wholeheartedly endorsed by her troop leader, Mrs. Marian Osborne of Mariner Troop number 22; by a teacher, Miss Virginia Vaughn; and by the members of her troop as representative of the finest Girl Scout traditions. Her attitude is such that will make her a fine ambassador from her community and her country.

In addition to her Scout activities, Miss Gordon is president of her junior class home-room and a member of the student council, a cappella choir, Theatrics and Kik-Kat Klub. She is a member of the First Methodist Church.

Woodrow Wilson Plans PTA Meet

Sam Houston PTA To Meet Thursday

Sam Houston PTA will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium. The theme for the afternoon meeting will be "Achieve Effective Home, School, Community Relations."

The program will be a buzz session, moderated by Mrs. Miles Morgan, with the "Emotional Climate of the Home" as the topic.

The audience will be divided into small groups with a leader for each group to discuss such questions as "How To Cope With Fraternal Jealousy," "The Fears of Children," "The Dangers of Comparing Children in the Home." The conclusion from the small groups will then be brought before the audience.

There will be a question box at the door. Any mother, who has a special problem, is requested to drop her questions into the box, so that particular problem can be discussed.

There will be a movie for school-age children and a nursery for pre-school children.

An executive board meeting will be held in the cafeteria at 1 p.m. preceding the general meeting.

Concert And Film On PTA Program

CANADIAN (Special) — The Parent-Teachers Association held its annual "Father's Night" in the High School Auditorium. Approximately 300 people attended the affair.

The meeting was opened with a special welcome to the fathers by Mrs. Russell Carver, president. Rev. Joe Vernon, First Baptist Church, gave the devotional.

The program for the evening featured travel films shown by H. S. Wilbur Sr.

The band under the direction of Bandmaster Glenn Packham, presented a concert, opening with a march, "Sound and Fury" by Walters; followed by an Overture, "Laureate," and a tone poem by Walters, "Autumn Silhouette"; a descriptive number, "Huckleberry Finn" by Yoder; "Autumn Nocturne" by Isaac; and a song, "One God."

LAS Mascandara" from Walters' Paso Doble" was followed by the "T. V. Suite" by Walters, and a narrative composition, "Little Hop Riding Hood," by Foreman, narrated by Jim Nix.

The program was closed with a march "Brasses to the Fore," by Walters.

Refreshments were served after the program in the homemaking department at the high school. Mrs. John Waters was in charge of the hospitality committee.

Ruth Millett

"I don't see why he puts up with her," or "I don't see why she puts up with him," marriage kibitzers are fond of saying.

But main trouble with modern marriage, the reason why it so often ends in divorce, is simply because today's husbands and wives aren't willing to "put up with" the other's failings and shortcomings.

Most men and women go into marriage with idealized pictures of the mates they choose to spend their lives with and most assume that their own marriages are going to be perfect.

But men aren't perfect and their marriages aren't perfect, either.

He has plenty of faults and she has plenty of faults. The marriage isn't a romantic idyl, but an adventure in living — with misunderstanding, hardships, frustration, the grind of work done over and over, responsibility, disappointments and disillusion.

Making a marriage last means meeting hardships with courage and disappointments with a smile. It means forgiving big faults, overlooking small ones, and never forgetting that the marriage vow was for better or for worse.

Independence is a fine thing — but a marriage won't stand too much independence from either husband or wife.

The moment either starts saying, "I won't put up with this" or "Either you do such-and-such or I'm through" the foundations of the marriage start to crumble.

Marrying for better or for worse means that if you keep your bargain you may have to put up with a lot of things that don't exactly suit you.

So it is foolish to say you won't put up with this or with that or wonder out loud why someone else puts up with a far more perfect mate.

The answer in both cases is, "In marriage it is often put up with — or bread up. And certainly the first is usually the more mature solution."

WJS Guild Starts New Study Book On Youth

CANADIAN (Special) — The Wesleyan Service Guild met in the First Methodist Church for the first part of their study on "Youth in a Responsible Society."

The program was presented by Mmes. Vera Morehead, Celia Roe, and Jack Parsons. The second meeting is to be held Monday night, February 11, at the church.

Members attending were Mmes. Wilbur Killebrew, Vera Morehead, Jack Parsons, Grace Spiller, Coy Holman, and Celia Roe. Guest for the evening was Mrs. Kate Beale.

parties and picnics

By Margaret Deeds Murphy

"Come out of the kitchen, join the party" is the theme for today's homemaker. With this concept of entertaining, the hostess' table will more likely be set with ample amounts of a few well chosen items rather than the many foods which our grandmothers spent hours preparing.

In planning her party, the hostess will choose a casserole which combines meat, potatoes and vegetables, or their equivalent, in one dish. With it she will serve a crisp salad of greens and plenty of hot bread. Her dessert might be a frozen beauty which has been prepared days or weeks in advance and stored in the freezer until the day of the party. Lots of hot coffee is always welcome.

This recipe for a "Meal In One" casserole makes a hearty main dish around which to build a simply elegant party.

MEAL IN ONE CASSEROLE
1/2 pound link pork sausage
1 pound cubed veal
1 large onion, chopped
1/2 cup water
1 10-ounce package whole kernel corn, defrosted
1 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 15 1/2-ounce cans spaghetti with tomato sauce with cheese
Pan fry sausage over low heat until almost done. Remove from skillet and drain on paper towels. Add veal and onion to fat in pan and cook over medium heat until browned. Pour off excess fat. Add water, corn and seasonings and mix. Stir carefully into spaghetti. Turn into greased 2-quart casserole. Arrange cooked sausage on top. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.), 1 hour. Makes 6 servings.

New Soup Livens School Lunches

The lunch bell just rang at school... look at the fast exodus to the lockers for lunch boxes! Whether carried in a brown paper bag, or in one of the pretty plaid or shiny metal boxes outfitted with vacuum bottles... it's still the same fun.

Lunch forms a very important part of our day's nutrition and during the cold brisk months, it's smart to see that the lunch "toters" get something hot at noon. Soup is natural lunch box fare and the perfect answer for "something hot" when carried in a wide mouth vacuum bottle.

Best news for substantial hot soup ideas is the new frozen soup, old fashioned vegetable with beef. It's hearty and flavorful... plain delicious. Just remove a can from the freezer, add one can of water and heat until good 'n hot. Ladle the steaming soup, brimful of fresh garden vegetables, into the vacuum bottle. Close tightly and it will keep piping hot until noon.

Here's the lunch box menu. Hint: Freeze the sandwiches. They'll thaw just right by lunchtime in the lunch box.

MENU
Frozen Old Fashioned Vegetable with Beef Soup
Glant Cheese Sandwich
Baked Apple
Milk
Cookies

FROZEN BAKED APPLES: Wash and core apples. Pare 1/2 way down to prevent shrinking. Slip into individual plastic coated or foil containers. Fill the centers with your favorite jelly. Add a small amount of water to each container. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (350° F.) for 45 minutes or until tender; basting occasionally. Cool; cover tightly and freeze. Apple will thaw in 3 or 4 hours.

MAKE A RESOLUTION
Let's make a few "be good to ME" resolutions for this new year. Start in the kitchen by promising yourself one or two "easy-dinner" nights a week. Start with those delicious frozen prepared dinners... there are three available now: turkey, fried chicken, and beef pot roast. So miraculously easy. Place the dinners in a preheated oven for just 25 minutes. Presto, the work's done, and you've had time to catch up or enjoy yourself with a shopping spurge, or a neighborly visit. Try it!

3 easy ways to put HART SCHAFFNER & MARX clothes in your wardrobe now

It's nice to plunk down cold cash for your purchases... but it isn't always possible. Even if you don't have the "spot cash," you can still afford fine clothing by Hart Schaffner & Marx—or any of our fine apparel... when you use the credit plan that's best for you:

- 1 Standard 30-day charge. Easy, convenient. Buy what you like—say "charge it." We bill you at the end of the month.
- 2 30-60-90-day budget plan. Pay nothing down... then 1/4 each month for three months. Spreads your payments evenly... avoids large cash drains.
- 3 New revolving credit. You get a "credit ceiling" and a low monthly payment. No matter how much you charge, you pay only the same small amount each month!

You're invited to stop in—anytime— and find out about these convenient credit plans. You should enjoy the clothing you want to have.

AROUND THE SPORTS WORLD

TANGLED UP—During a basketball game at Madison Square Garden between Notre Dame and Manhattan College, Manhattan's Angelo Lombardo (45) snares a rebound to the chagrin of the Irish's John Smyth (18) and Tom Hawkins (22). Manhattan teammates are Bob Josephs (14) and John O'Connor (3).

RUGGED TEST—Forty motorboats, ranging from small outboards to powerful inboards, are racing away from the starting line in a nine-hour endurance marathon at Miami Beach, Fla. The boats competed within classes in the endurance test over a six-mile course as part of a gala annual event.

HOLIDAY IN SWITZERLAND—After a skating session on the rink of a swank winter resort at Gstaad, Switzerland, ever-glamorous actress Joan Crawford is rewarded with an embrace from her husband, Alfred N. Steele. They were vacationing there, going over from London where Joan just completed the 73rd movie of her career.

EARTH BOUND—Heading for a fall is a silo which housed the judges and the photo-finish camera at Belmont Park, N. Y. It was one of the landmarks which became obsolete under the modernization program at the famous racing center. The finish tower, which stood for years in the infield of the Widener Course, will be replaced by long-range cameras. They'll be stationed atop the main grandstand to permit completion of carefully banked and graded courses.

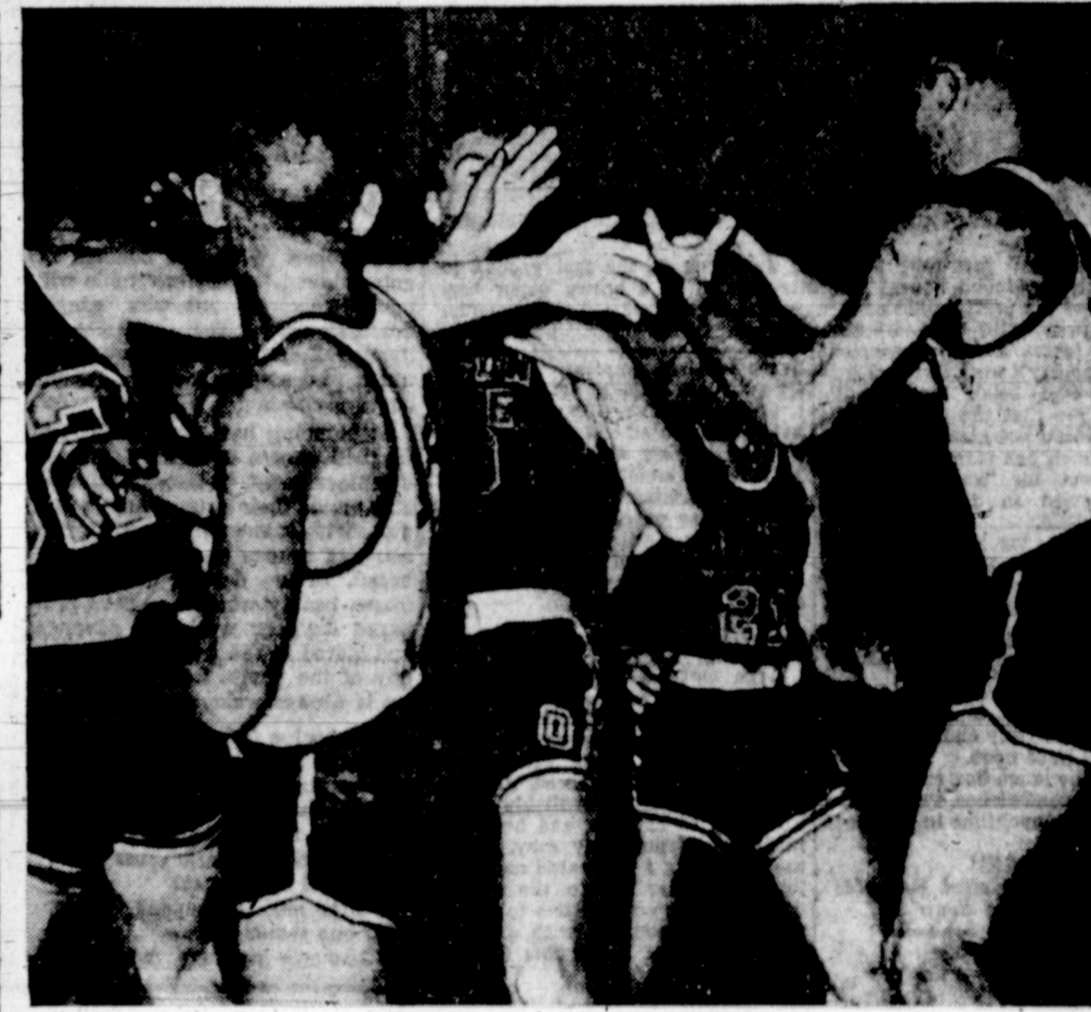

BACK TO WINTER—Intending to turn her back on the winter shivers of the rest of the country, frisky Jill Brothers also found the temperature too low for comfort in Miami Beach, Fla. It was all right for a hurried snapshot, but nothing to loll around in on the beach.

GOOD SKATES—Sweden's Crown Prince Carl Gustaf, right, is clashing with a playmate in an ice hockey training session at Brunnsvik, near Haga Castle, outside Stockholm. Both lads seem to be wondering where the puck is.

WORLD BEATER—Canadian cyclist Conrad Dube is shown in Rome during a pause in his world bicycle tour. Stricken with polio when he was two, Dube is still partially paralyzed in his right side but expects to pedal some 60,000 miles through Europe and America.

HANDY GUYS—It's all hands as Oregon State players battle for a rebound during the first half of their game in Stanford, Calif., as the Pacific Coast Conference basketball season opened. Oregon State eked out a mighty tight 64-63 victory over the rival team from farther down the Pacific Coast.

EXTRACURRICULAR—Hungarian Olympic divers Ferenc Siak, left, and Joseph Gerlach are working out at a pool at Coral Gables, Fla., as their coach, Balint Papp, looks on. The trio, with other Hungarian stars who chose freedom in the U. S., will make a tour of this nation.

SLIPPERY MADEMOISELLE—High in the French Alps, five-year-old Dominique Gassal is getting acquainted with the fun of winter sports. Right now she's finding it a very slippery business for her skis seem to want to run away with her legs. Her dad is lending a helping hand but, after a tumble or two, she'll be on her own.

Kit Kat Klub Plans Style Show Soon

The Kit Kat Klub met this week with Miss Linda Bullard, 1300 E. Kingsmill.

The annual Kit Kat Style Show, which will be held Mar. 31 in the City Club Room, was discussed. Club members will model clothes for local dress-shops. Miss Heidi Schneider was elected to be narrator for the show.

The graduation dance, which will be held immediately following graduation exercises, May 30, honoring all graduating seniors was also discussed.

Refreshments of soft drinks, cookies, cheese and crackers, candy were served by the hostess.

Kit Kat Klub will meet Tuesday, at 6:30 p.m. with Miss Kay Baker 2200 Charles.

Elegance Of Black And White Stressed

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Clothes that are charmingly simple are always the best fashion buy for any woman. And they're seen in the collection of many top American designers this spring.

For simple clothes usually are created by the art of a great designer. Their simplicity is deceptive. It depends on beautiful fabrics, knowingly handled, on impeccable tailoring, on imaginative use of coloring.

It offers surprises: a flaming chiffon top under the jacket of a black and white costume. Or a shapely jacket that's companion to a high-rising skirt and so creates a one-piece look. Or again, there's a glowing silk print, violet against black, in a dress intended for wear from now on into summer.

There are long evening dresses this spring, to be sure, but most designers seem to feel that the majority of American women will not want to wear their gowns long. So, many of the swirling silk chiffon gowns are the short length that seem to fit in best with the American way of life.

To keep cookies tasty: put the soft ones in a cookie jar and the crisp ones in a jar with tight-fitting cover.

Make Friends Manners

Just because you know a doctor as a friend or neighbor, don't feel that you have the right to ask him professional questions about one of his patients. Asking, "What is the matter with so-and-so, anyway?" puts the physician in an embarrassing situation. He must not discuss a patient with you, and yet he will probably dislike having to turn your question aside with some vague answer.

So don't ask embarrassing questions.

Mrs. Deaton Hostess After Mothers March

CANADIAN (Special) — Mrs. Roy Deaton, local chairman for the March of Dimes Drive, was hostess to members of the ESA Sorority after the Mothers March.

Mrs. Deaton served refreshments of chocolate cake and coffee.

Guests were Meses. Ben Farrell and Quentin Isaacs. Members of the sorority taking part in the March were Meses. Grady Burnett, Vernon Flowers, Gordon Hill, Warren Hill, Buddy Hobdy, Bill Jackson, Dave Kelln, Bill McIntire, Raymond Newell, Billy Rogers, Glen Bill Walker, Bob Ward, Dunny Goode, J. B. Reid Jr., Warren Pickins, and Mrs. Deaton.

TC Allegro Hears "Fair Trial" Series

Twentieth Century Allegro met with Mrs. John Frisby, 2137 N. Russell, with Mrs. Jack O. Miller as co-hostess. Mrs. George Cree Jr. led the program on "Fair Trial" from the Jeffersonian Series.

Members present were Meses. Clifford Braly, George Crow, Bill Davis, William J. Craig, J. E. Thompson, Ewert Duncan, Floyd Watson, Ben Fallon, R. W. Karr, and David Price.

Working with a prescribed budget, the girls plan the refreshments, decorations, table setting and the entertainment. The entertainment varies from ice-skating or sledding to indoor games hunted up in books at the library. Recently it has included dancing in the family room.

Because food is apt to take most of the budget, decorations are often home-made.

The cheery red and white color scheme of Valentine's Day is easy to work out in table decorations. Here's a new centerpiece idea that appealed to these young hostesses because it's gay, simple to make and inexpensive.

A demure young lady encircled with red construction paper hearts dominates the scene. She's made from construction paper, sasheen ribbon, a wax paper tube and an aluminum bake pan.

Turn the cake pan upside down. Wrap the cardboard tube in aluminum foil. Secure it to the pan base with several strips of cellophane tape and slip a lace paper dolly over the tube, to cover the base.

Tape 10 strips of red sasheen ribbon about 15 inches long first to the top of the tube, then to the bottom. Trim the edge of the cake pan with hearts cut from red construction paper and centered with a fluffy bow of white or blue ribbon.

Use pink construction paper for the face. Hair and long, curled eyelashes are cut from black paper, curled and pasted or taped in place. A red paper hat trimmed with a light blue ribbon band flourishes a jaunty artificial flower.

Body is a red construction paper heart surrounded by a lace paper dolly. The invitation to "Be My Valentine" is written on in white ink.

To start the party, you might suggest a "Heart Hunt" timed to a record with the word "heart" in the title. Cut several hearts from red construction paper and hide them around the living room before the guests arrive. Tape them to out-of-sight places like the under sides of chairs and tables, draperies, and the insides of lamp shades.

Have the guests hunt for hearts in pairs. The couple with the most when the record ends wins the game.

Let Your Fledgling Hostess Entertain With An Inexpensive Valentine Party

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

A Valentine's Day party can be a midwinter bright spot for the youngsters. And it needn't necessarily entail much extra work for the busy homemaker. If you have a fledgling hostess in the family, help her test her wings on a simple party.

From slicking up the house before the party to serving refreshments from a pretty table, encourage her to take over the role of hostess.

A friend of mine with two pre-teen daughters encourages them to entertain often; she knows that giving parties is good training for future social poise, as well as being fun.

She guides the preparations beforehand. During the party, she remains discreetly in the background (usually the kitchen) but immediately available in case her help

"My ELECTRIC clothes dryer saves money because we need fewer clothes for my growing children!"

SAYS
Mrs. W. J. MESSICK
119 TEXAS
HEREFORD, TEXAS

Mrs. Messick says, "The dryer saves ironing and even those things which do need ironing can be dried to correct dampness for proper ironing." No need for extra sprinkling.

Mrs. Messick stresses the savings with her electric appliances saying, "Savings in time and money are the foremost benefits we receive from our electric appliances." She finds that by the fast drying time an electric clothes dryer gives, she needs fewer clothes for the children. "Since children 'grow out' of clothes so quickly these savings become important," she adds.

Why don't you start "sitting pretty" with your own electric clothes dryer. You, too, will find the same advantages which Mrs. Messick likes.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

(Foreign News Commentary)
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet: Leaders of three Arab nations expressed approval of the new Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East as the result of talks with the President in Washington.

Partly because of economic strain caused by the surge of revolt in Communist Europe, the Soviet Russian government announced a big cutback in the rate of its industrial expansion.

In another move related to its political difficulties, the Soviet government accused the United States of carrying out a big spy campaign in Russia.

Officials in Washington and London intimated strongly that President Eisenhower is likely to meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in March.

It is likely that Eisenhower also will meet French Premier Guy Mollet after he sees Macmillan.

Doctrine
President Eisenhower's proposal to use American forces, if necessary, to combat armed Communist aggression in the Middle East was given a big boost by spokesmen for three of the countries which would be affected.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia, Crown Prince Abdul Illah of Iraq and Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon all endorsed the aims of the doctrine as the result of talks with the President.

Cutback
The Russian government announced at a meeting of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in Moscow that its rate of industrial expansion for 1957 would be 7.1 per cent. This compares with an average of 11 to 12 per cent for previous years since the end of World War II.

One reason for the cutback is that the rebellious spirit of people in the Soviet satellite countries has compelled the Soviet government to deliver more goods to them. Another is that unrest in Russia itself has compelled the government to make concessions to its own people.

Spies
At a theatrically-staged press conference in Moscow, the Soviet Foreign Ministry produced four Russians who, it said, had confessed to spying for the United States after having been parachuted to Russian territory from American planes. The United States, an official statement said, is waging a "secret war" of subversion against Communist countries.

Meeting
The prospective meeting of President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan is a follow-up to negotiations conducted in Washington by British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys. Sandys said in London that he had reached full agreement on defense cooperation, especially in the field of guided missiles.

Punishment For Delinquency Futile
DALLAS, (UP)—Justice Justice Wise Polier of New York, one of the most famous juvenile court judges in the country, believes that the fad for punishing parents whose children go astray is "worthless, half-baked and unrealistic."

Justice Polier, who is the mother of three children herself, spoke at the Southwest Regional Conference of the Child Welfare League of America.

She said that parents of many juvenile delinquents are immature personalities; therefore jailing them only adds to the personal problems of the parents.

"She said that jailing the parents is "worthless, half-baked and unrealistic — a fad appealing to uninformed citizens who seek a cheap, quick, simple panacea for a deep-seated, serious problem."
