Firemen Search For Bodies After Blaze

By PAUL DIX and MAC SEBREE
United Press Staff Correspondents
WARRENTON, Mo. (UP)—Firemen and volunteer workers today resumed the grim task of searching the ruins of a home for the aged for bodies buried in the blackened debris of a fire that killed some 71 persons.

The probe was called off Sunday night after 11 charred and unrecognizable bodies were brought out. At least 60 more bodies were believed to be in the smoldering debris of the home.

All that was left of the three-story brick building was a heap of smoking rubble. Firemen continued pouring water on the debris to cool it enough to allow them to dig into the ashes.

Walls Pulled Down

Firemen and volunteer workers removed the 14th body from the rubble shortly before 9 a. m. Charred portions of others could be seen but highway patrol Lt. W. L. Hutchings said the searchers would wait for the rains to cool more before entering again.

The walls of the building, all that the fire left standing, were pulled down by a bulldozer during the night.

Dr. F. H. Knigge, Warren county coroner, said all of the 71 missing were believed to have died in the fire and explosion that swept the old structure Sunday. He said the death toll might even be higher because no one could say definitely how many visitors and attendants were in the building at the time.

11 Bodies Removed

The blaze which mushroomed in a matter of minutes through the Katie Jane Memorial Home was one of the worst hospital disasters in the history of the nation.

Charred portions of 11 bodies were removed from a rear annex of the building late Sunday night before Knigge ordered the search halted for the night because of danger.

Knigge said he thought only a few of the bodies would ever be identified because most of them were reduced to ashes.

A light rain helped dampen the debris which mushroomed in a matter of minutes through the Katie Jane Memorial Home was one of the worst hospital disasters in the history of the nation.

Cleanup Scheduled

The nursing home was operated by W. S. O'Sullivan, whose family also operates similar institutions at Elsberry, Mo., and Hillsboro, Mo. The Hillsboro home, managed by O'Sullivan's sister, Mrs. James Lewis, was destroyed by fire in 1952 with the loss of 18 lives.

Knigge praised the men who entered the dangerous ruins this morning to remove what bodies they could. He said they could easily have been killed themselves by falling walls.

Heavy equipment was expected to arrive later today to complete the work of demolition.

The Rev. Walter Schwane, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, was holding Sunday services for 22 residents of the home and 12 of his own parishioners in the first floor chapel of the home when a cry of "fire" interrupted a hymn.

Schwane said he ran to a corridor and saw flames all around the door to a room housing four women. While his parishioners helped the inmates at the service to safety, Schwane ran into the flaming room, kicked out the windows and lifted the four women to the arms of firemen outside.

Looked Like Inferno

Schwane then followed the women out of the window to safety. The blaze occurred during visiting hours and authorities believed more than 225 persons, including visitors, were in the building at the time. Smoke and flames trapped most of the dead in the upper floors.

John H. Berkholtz, a St. Louis poultry dealer who was passing at the height of the fire, described it as "an inferno."

Berkholtz said the smoke was visible for a distance of 30 miles. "It was just like an inferno," he said, "like taking four brick walls as an oven and building a fire as big as you can."

Disrupts Peaceful Sunday

The blaze turned a peaceful Sunday afternoon at the home, located on a former college campus, into a scene of confusion and screaming panic.

Heroic bystanders climbed ladders to pull people from windows. Injured persons were laid on the lawn until they could be removed to nearby homes and stores for emergency treatment, and a temporary morgue was set up across the street to handle the bodies.

W. S. O'Sullivan, owner of the home, said he was at a loss to explain the cause of the blaze in the recently renovated building. He said they had 194 guests, and an

Commission To Take Bids On Equipment

Bids for new fire fighting equipment will be opened by the City Commission at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The bids will be accepted by the commission for a new 750 gallon-per-minute pumper and for an 85 foot aerial ladder truck.

The new pumper will be placed in one of the two new sub-stations and one of the present pumps will be transferred to the other sub-station to make room for the ladder truck at the main station.

A resolution or ordinance will be passed by the commission tomorrow in reference to the city stopping the paying of the cost of construction of utility lines in new additions annexed to the city and of the city also paying a portion of the cost of paving of streets in new additions.

The announcement of the commission's decision in reference to new additions was made at the commission's meeting last week and met with opposition from developers and contractors.

The mayor informed the city attorney last week to have the proper papers drawn up for passage by the commission tomorrow.

Under the plan proposed the city will still pay for fire plugs, loops, sewer manholes and for larger lines to supply the addition. The commission reported that this would represent approximately 25 per cent of the cost of utilities in new additions.

The commission will also discuss engineers estimates for 27 units of new paving. The paving will include

Club Honors McNeely's Cage Record

NEW YORK—Coach Clifton McNeely of Pampa High School has been named an award winner and member of Bike Web Century Club for his record of 238 victories in basketball.

The honorary organization is open to any college or high school coach whose athletic teams have won 100 or more contests in any sport.

William Matthei, coach at Bayview High School, Milwaukee, received the first award. He qualified by coaching cross country teams that had won more than a total of 100 meets.

Matthei originally suggested the idea of the Century Club in a letter to Sports Trail, a monthly newsletter published by the Bike Web Co. It was Matthei's hope that perhaps some unknown coach who had done an outstanding job in school sports might get a justly deserved break from this type of recognition.

The Century Club Award, a framed certificate, is presented to any qualifying coach whose record is submitted to Sports Trail.

Pampa Gets .80 Inch Of Rain; More Predicted

More than .80 inch of rain fell in Pampa today in the first important rainfall this year.

The rain gauge on top The News building read .80 at 11 a. m. today and it was still raining. More was forecast for tomorrow as the forecast read: mostly cloudy with occasional rain and little change in temperatures through Tuesday.

Pampa's low tonight was expected to be 34 degrees with a high tomorrow of 50.

McLean reported a rainfall of .97 inch late this morning. The rain started in Pampa at about 2 a. m. today.

Dirt streets in Pampa were extremely muddy this morning causing some difficulty to transportation on the roads. Pedestrians were also reported to be having trouble crossing downtown streets without getting "splashed" by passing motorists.

General rains of .5 to three inches were reported over thousands of square miles of West and Central Texas and rains spread across the state into north and east Texas.

It still was raining over West Texas today and observers said it was the best general rain in that area in six years.

From one to three inches of rain fell over an area from Brady and Big Lake to McCamey and Rankin, to Odessa and Midland, and north to the Plains Country.

Several bridges and patches of highway were washed out on farm roads between Fort McKavett and El Dorado in Schleicher county where up to three inches of rain was reported.

Rains Extensive

One farmer said in his opinion the rain was "beginning to clean up the drought" in West Texas. Rain was falling over the entire state except for the extreme southern tip today. South Texas had general rains over the week end with an unofficial report of four to six inches in the Pecos area.

General rains of an inch or more was reported in Central Texas with Taylor recording 1.5 inches. One and one-half inches fell around Colorado City, 1.5 to 2.5 inches fell around Del Rio and El Dorado. Brady reported from one to three inches in that area. Big Lake and McCamey 1.5 to two inches.

The weather bureau reported official 24-hour rainfall amounts of 1.8 inches at Galveston, 1.24 at Houston, .82 at San Antonio, .72 at Austin, .64 at Brownsville, College Station and Laredo, .59 at Lufkin and .55 at Victoria.

More Showers Forecast

Up to half an inch was reported at Port Arthur, Waco, Amarillo, Childress, and lesser amounts fell at Lubbock, Mineral Wells, Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, Wichita Falls, El Paso and Salt Flat.

Forecasters said rain would continue over the state through Tuesday with heavier amounts in North and East Texas.

A fresh surge of cool air was expected to move into the Panhandle tonight, but forecasters said temperatures were not expected to drop much.

Small craft warnings were displayed today from Corpus Christi to Morgan City, La., for northeasterly winds of 25 to 35 miles (See PAMPA, Page 3)

Error In Name

Due to a mix-up in names, The News reported yesterday that H. C. Hull was a candidate for commissioner in Ward 4. The name of the person seeking office in that ward should have been H. C. Hall.

Hall reported to The News this morning that he was entering the race for city commissioner from Ward 4 in which he is a resident.

He stated, "I have lived in Pampa for seven years and am a property owner. If I should win, I will go along with the other commissioners and our city officials to make our city a bigger and better place for all of us to live in now and in the future."

Predict 'Doctrine' Passage Capitol Hill News

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democratic critics of President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine mustered new arguments for the opening today of Senate debate on the resolution.

But Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) predicted the Senate will pass a modified version of the doctrine by a two-to-one vote margin.

The combined foreign relations and armed services committee last week voted out the modified resolution which the White House says is acceptable to it. The Senate scheduled chairman Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as leadoff speaker in the general floor debate on the resolution.

Knowland said he thought the Senate would pass the resolution substantially as it came from committee, possibly by the end of the week. Other senators believed action wouldn't be taken until next week.

Other congressional news: A House armed services committee resumed its hearings on the Pentagon reserve program which led to the feud between Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and the National Guard. The committee summoned several Guard leaders to testify today. Wilson was scheduled to appear later this week.

Civil Rights: A House subcommittee on constitutional rights scheduled a closed door meeting to consider settling a cut-off date on civil rights hearings. But there was considerable opposition to the move by Southern Democrats, who hope to stall the hearings as long as possible to try to prevent passage of a civil rights measure.

Tanks: The Senate preparedness subcommittee has charged that "indecision and delay" in the Pentagon has jeopardized production of tanks. The subcommittee said no contracts for production of tanks for the armed services have been issued since last July 1.

Atoms For Peace: President Eisenhower has been warned his atoms for peace treaty faces tough going in Congress. Republican leaders say chances of its passage may hinge on how much pressure the President exerts to get the measure through the upper chamber. The atoms agreement was signed by 70 countries at the United Nations last October.

Racketeering: Senate investigators of labor racketeering planned to question "call girls," vice lords, garbage collectors and city officials when hearings begin later this month. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) of the special investigation committee said the first series of hearings probably will begin in Portland, Ore., Feb. 26.

Final Pool Bill Test Set Today

By O. B. LLOYD Jr.
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN (UP)—The Pool bill, which could sway the precarious balance of power in the U. S. Senate, was scheduled to face its final legislative test today in the Texas Senate.

However, if the House-approved proposal to create a runoff in the April 2 special U. S. Senate election passes the Senate, it may have another barrier to hurdle.

State Republican Committeeman M. Sims Davidson, a Dallas attorney, said today Republicans would "probably" file suit against the measure on constitutional grounds if the Senate gives it the nod.

Judge To Speak Before Juvenile Meet

County Judge Bruce Parker was invited this morning by the president of the Texas State Juvenile Association to speak before the group's convention in Midland Saturday.

Judge Parker reported that the president of the association called him this morning and extended the invitation to speak before the group in Midland about juvenile problems and the way they are being handled in Gray County.

Parker reported that he is to follow Cal Farley of Amarillo.

The president of the juvenile association also informed Parker that a general discussion of juvenile problems will follow the session Saturday and that the juvenile enforcement officers from the state will make recommendations for laws to be passed by the state to empower juvenile courts to remedy the situation, which appears to be a serious problem throughout the state.

In speaking of the juvenile problem, Judge Parker told The News this morning that he has received several letters and telegrams from persons throughout Texas. He stated that all of the messages indicate the writers are in favor of the curfew placed on teenagers in Gray County.

Several of the letters have been from persons having close association with the juvenile problem in other cities and expressed thanks that someone in the state had the courage to do something about the problem.

Judge Parker spoke at the McLean Methodist Church last night and informed those present of the reason for his recent decision to place the curfew in effect. He reported that he will speak before any group that wishes to question him on the matter, when he has the time available.

Fat Is Acquired Between New Year's And Christmas Rather Than Vice Versa

Here's the second of a six-part series in a new concept of weight control — re-education of eating habits instead of tricky diets, an every-day program of nutrition instead of fads. Working with NEA's food editor for this article is Dr. Frederick J. Stare, organizer and chairman of Harvard University's unique Department of Nutrition.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — A healthy man or woman does not become overweight between Christmas and New Year's Day, but rather between New Year's and Christmas. That's the judgment of Dr. Frederick J. Stare, one of country's top authorities on scientific weight control. He states that excess body weight is usually gained slowly.

No faddist, this world-famous physician — nutritionist warns that the best menus for losing weight must follow the same pattern one is accustomed to. For dieting to be effective, menus must be made up of foods you enjoy, foods readily available, those you can afford. The secret: don't cut out, cut down.

Dr. Stare is chairman of Harvard University's Department of Nutrition, the first such autonomous department in a great medical and health center. Its staff, headed by Stare who organized the department in 1942, consists of physicians, surgeons and other experts who deal directly with problems of human nutrition.

"Weight control is pretty much a lifetime proposition and therefore one must stick to it," he said. "Fad diets are definitely not the answer. They trap you in a vicious circle of losing and gaining that is hopeless and quite likely to be dangerous. No one is going to live either happily or unhappily for any length of time on just black coffee and eggs, bananas and skim milk, or some supposed 'fabulous formula.'"

There is no single food that must be banned in a reducing diet. Include a wide variety of foods in your daily menus to assure a balanced diet essential to body health. Potatoes, sugar and bread, often accused of making a person "fat," are important foods and need not be passed up entirely. With them, as with all other wholesome foods you enjoy, if you want to lose weight the trick is this simple, according to Stare: Small servings and no second helpings.

We talked in the red brick ivy-covered building at 1 Shattuck St., one of the oldest in Harvard's great medical and health center. The slender, clear-eyed, tireless Stare, who looks 25 but is 47, suddenly stood up, saying, "Let's eat."

We ate in a small restaurant on Huntington Ave., crowded with doctors, biochemists, and nutritionists.

"I am allowing myself very few calories for lunch because my wife is giving a faculty dinner party tonight," Stare said. "Weight control demands that you stick to your calorie total every day. But that doesn't mean you can't spend them where you get the most pleasure."

Then we walked a mile along the avenue. "Weight watching is helped by exercise," he explained. "Using up calories by physical exertion is the only way for a well person to get rid of excess calories. Mild to moderate exercise, particularly if taken regularly, is important. Strenuous exercise stimulates the appetite and is therefore self-defeating so far as weight control goes."

"Persons overweight must obviously consume less calories and burn up more, until they have brought their weight down to where it should have been in the first place — and where it once was, perhaps long ago," he continued.

His plan for losing a pound a week: For the average adult to lose one pound requires a loss of 3500 calories. If this loss is spread over the week, it means a loss of 500 calories a day. This loss can be obtained by eating 500 calories a day less than usual, or by expending 500 calories more. Better yet, it can be obtained by eating 250-350 calories less and exercising off 150-250 calories more.

We returned to his office after a 30-minute walk at the rate of 2 1/2 miles per hour. Each of us had burned up about 65 calories — the equivalent in calories of a slice of Boston brown bread.

"Those 65 calories may seem very small," he said, "but take such a walk once or twice a day, in addition to your usual activity, and you will build up extra expenditures that often are all that is needed to handle the usual excess of calories from eating."

The following shows approximately how many calories can be expended in 30 minutes of these normal activities:
Walking slowly (2 1/2 mph) 65-75
Walking rapidly (4 mph) 150-200
Climbing stairs 100-125
Dancing 100-150
Typical garden work 100-200
Golf 100-150
Swimming 150-200

For faster weight control, watch your fats, he pointed out. "Fats as the most concentrated source of calories contribute largely to our total caloric intake. But

BURSITIS, JOINT INFLAMMATION WILL STIFFEN JOINT

Very little is known by the public concerning Bursitis but Bursitis is beginning to come abreast of the times.

The bursa of a joint is a sack like fibrous membrane that encloses a joint and its inside surface there are little glands that keep the joint wet and supplied with joint oil much like your mouth is kept moist.

Very severe pain in the shoulder joint, in the arm, or between the shoulders is the usual picture. Frequently Arthritis is confused with Bursitis. In neglected or advanced cases of Arthritis the bursa is also affected. The little glands quit working and the fluid dries up and the joint gets stiff.

Why should any gland quit? What makes it work in the first place? Every tiny gland has a motor nerve to direct growth and production activity and a sensory nerve to report back any disturbed function or needs.

Think of those important little glands in the bursa. Motor nerves give them life and they work. Stop these motor nerves and the glands stop work. Irritate the nerve stoppage or irritation and remove or correct it and action returns and pain leaves. It's as simple as someone standing on your corn. When they get off the pain stops. Here is an actual case to consider.

A lady, thirty-five years old, had enough pains for a person of ninety years.

Pains in the shoulders, between the shoulder blades, in the low back and in one leg. Sores and painful all over upon arising, a very nasty morning headache, and very nervous and irritable. She also had period trouble, constipation and was tired.

She had taken pounds of drugs, had two operations without results. The Miller Chiropractic Clinic was a part of the last chance to this sorely burdened young mother.

Our X-Ray examination brought to light the cause of her troubles. Corrective adjustments were successful and in a short time this suffering lady began to feel better. When last seen many months ago, she reported she felt young again, and pain free. We keep busy doing what can't be done! No. 3008.

Why not investigate? You have nothing to loose but your bad health.

US, Israel Talks Reach Stalemate

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Negotiations between the United States and Israel on the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egypt were near a stalemate today.

Israel Sunday rebuffed the latest U.S. attempt to arrange a withdrawal, demanding firm guarantees that its security and shipping rights would be protected once Israeli forces pulled out of the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

President Eisenhower replied, in effect, that the United States was not prepared at this time to grant Israel any more assurances than it already has offered.

Plan Called Secure
A withdrawal under the American plan, the President said in a statement at his Thomasville, Ga., vacation retreat, would provide Israel "a greater source of security... than an occupation continued contrary to the overwhelming judgment of the world community."

The President also made public Sunday a memorandum on this country's two-point plan for arranging an Israeli withdrawal.

In return for such a withdrawal, the United States promised that it would work to have United Nations forces move into the Gaza area. It also said it would declare that it considered the gulf an international waterway open to the shipping of all nations, including Israel.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban held their third discussion on the American plan in 48 hours Sunday afternoon. Dulles relayed the results of their talk to the President at Thomasville.

Negative Results Reported
Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty described the results to newsmen as "negative."

No definite time was set for another meeting — a development which, coupled with the President's strongly worded statement, indicated that the two countries were far apart. Eban said, however, that Israel and the United States are "always in touch" and that "matters always are under consideration."

Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meier said on a television program from Washington Sunday that Israeli forces would be withdrawn immediately from the coast of Aqaba if the United States would give an iron-clad guarantee to protect Israel shipping in the waterway.

AUSTIN (UP)—Agriculture Commissioner John White said today recent rains over Texas are "our most hopeful sign of a possible return to a normal rain cycle since 1950."

He said the outlook was "extremely encouraging."

But White cautioned, "we cannot at present consider the drought broken even though it might be bending a little in the middle. We must still take an attitude of caution in the overall picture because of the lack of sub-soil moisture."

The commissioner said "it will take years to replenish our lost underground water resources, and without these resources we are still in a state of drought."

Negro Man Is Beat To Death

By WILLIAM J. HEFFERLE
BOSTON, Feb. 18 (UP)—Two white men kicked and beat a colored man to death Saturday. The victim's pregnant white wife, who was the object of a "poor trash" insult that started the fight, said "It was more terrible than a lynching."
Mrs. Dolores Rose, 26-year-old once-divorced mother of four, told police two other white men held her arms while their companions stomped the life out of her husband, Edward, 36.
"We were going home from a South End cafe when these men walked 'poor trash' at me," Mrs. Rose said. "My husband went across the street and the fight started."
"They argued for a minute, but I couldn't understand what they said. Two of them started to beat my husband up and then when I went over to help him, two held me by the arms."
More Terrible Than Lynching
"It was terrible... more terrible than a lynching," Mrs. Rose said. "My husband was a very big man and the others as of 'medium build.'"
"They appeared to be around 25 or 30," she said.
Her terrified screams finally attracted help but the four fought in an automobile.

Hutcheson Attacks Investigation Of Oil

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (UP)—The Senate investigation of the oil industry became embroiled Saturday in the Texas senatorial campaign.
Charges of "political tampering" were exchanged by Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) of the subcommittee investigating recent oil and gasoline price increases, and Thad Hutcheson, a candidate for the Senate.
Hutcheson is the only Republican facing eight Democrats in the special Texas election scheduled for April 2.
Publishes Telegram Exchange
O'Mahoney made public an exchange of telegrams with Hutcheson, who said it was time the industry was defended against "unwarranted attack."
Hutcheson said the recent increase in the price of crude oil "appears as a logical result of economic factors long at work in petroleum and other major industries." Compared with price increases in other industries, he said, it "seems late in coming and reasonable in size."
He added that the Senate hearings were costly and "unfairly damaging" to oil.
"Biased criticism of the industry by you, Sen. (Estes) Kefauver and others," he said, "and irresponsible harassment attending on committee investigations pending will be viewed here as political tampering with an essential industry vital to the economical welfare of Texas and the nation."
O'Mahoney replied that Hutcheson had shown "an amazing lack of familiarity" with what the subcommittee is doing. He said the inquiry was authorized by unanimous vote of the Judiciary Committee and the Senate without a dissent from any Republican senator. Thus, he said, Hutcheson's charge of political tampering was directed at the entire Senate.
"But it is utterly baseless," O'Mahoney said, "for this committee is studying the effect on the economy of the United States of the oil lift to western Europe by the major oil companies. The charge of political tampering obviously lies against you."
Explains Independent Action
Hutcheson was asked to explain why independent oil producers in Texas, faced with rising costs, could not raise the price of crude oil until the Humble Oil and Refining company had done so. Humble is a subsidiary of Standard Oil (of New Jersey).
"Are you telling the independent producers of Texas that it is your purpose, if elected, to prevent any study of the operations of the major oil companies whose worldwide activities enable them to restrain and hamper the prosperity of the independent producers of this country?" O'Mahoney asked.

Sen. McClellan Scalps Union
By HERBERT FOSTER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (UP)—Grim-faced Sen. John L. McClellan, the Senate's busiest investigator, collected his third big Republican scalp last week and drew a bead on the head of the nation's biggest labor union.
The Arkansas Democrat called in Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross Wednesday and questioned him two hours about several million dollars in defense contracts held by Ross' wife and brother-in-law.
Ross denied he had done anything to violate the conflict-of-interest laws but he resigned the next day because of what he called "degenerative implications" in news reports of his case.
Nothing to do with Contracts
An informed source told reporters after the hearing that Ross admitted arranging an appointment with his brother-in-law with a Marine general but said it had nothing to do with awarding contracts.
Ross thus moved into discard with two other officials who quit under McClellan's fire in conflict-of-interest investigations. Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbot resigned in 1955 and Chairman Hugh Cross of the Interstate Commerce Commission found private life more inviting last year.
Even before the White House announced Ross' exit, McClellan put pressure on Dave Beck, head of the 1.4-million-member International Brotherhood of Teamsters. He called on Beck to give investigators his personal financial records for the last six years, so Beck can be questioned later in a study of labor racketeering.
McClellan Changes Hats
In the Beck case, McClellan figuratively changed hats. He is chairman of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee which heard Ross' testimony.
He also is chairman of the special Senate committee, set up last month, to investigate labor racketeering and union collusion with industry. It is in this capacity that he called for Beck to surrender his records—with a broad grant of power from the Senate to subpoena them if the labor leader does not provide them voluntarily.

Chapter 1: From Ring To Gridiron In 1 Easy Lesson

Pampa's hero gladiator of the ring was returned last night and the first thing young Gary Wilhelm did upon returning from the state Golden Gloves tournament in Fort Worth was to exchange his boxing gloves for football gear.

Wilhelm, the 16-year-old sensation of the state meet in Cowtown last week, was still a little disappointed over his split-decision loss to two-time lightweight champion Jake Martinez of El Paso. As for that matter, "so were" his trainer, father, Ollie Wilhelm, and about 5,000 spectators who watched the final of the annual winter sports show Saturday night.

Gary entered his first open division fight at the Regional Golden Gloves Tournament in Amarillo last month after fighting for two years in the high school division. To the surprise of only a few, Gary won the open lightweight title in Amarillo as well as the Hamilton Trophy as the tournament's outstanding fighter.

"I went down to Fort Worth for the experience," said the clean-cut Pampian. "Before I went down I didn't expect to win over one fight. But I found out that the guys down there were about the same as the ones I had fought around here," he went on.

Gary and his father turned down an opportunity to go to Chicago and enter the big Tournament of Champions. This was after Martinez had told Fort Worth officials that he could not leave his job and his classes at Texas Western College for another week.

"I thought I had the fight won," Jake told me I won it. He said 'you won this one kid.' I was so happy I was jumping around everywhere. Martinez was in his corner with his head bowed and you should have seen that blank expression on his face when the decision was announced.

"I just boxed him and didn't try to rush him. I said to myself, 'he doesn't look better than you are.' His punches were hitting my gloves and arms. All he did was keep jabbing away. After I knocked him down in the third round I thought it was sacker.

"I'm hanging up my gloves until next year. Now I'm gonna go out and build myself a Trojan horse and see if it works."

SMU Can Sew Up Southwest Conference Tie This Week

By UNITED PRESS

Southern Methodist's fourth-rated Mustangs could sew up or at least tie for its third straight Southwest Conference basketball championship during the coming week.

For all intents and purposes, the Rice Owls remain as the Methodist's only challenger although the Arkansas Razorbacks still have a mathematical chance. The Baylor Bears bowed out of contention last week.

Coach Doc Hayes' Methodists, who have four games to play, meet the Texas Aggies at Dallas Tuesday night and bump head-on into Rice at Houston on Saturday night.

Coach Don Suman's Rice Owls, a game and a half behind and with only three games left, have to face Arkansas at Fayetteville Tuesday night and the Mustangs Saturday.

A sweep of both games by SMU would put the title out of reach for everybody else, while a Tuesday night combination of an SMU victory and an Arkansas defeat of Rice would clinch a title tie for SMU regardless of how their Saturday night engagement came out.

The Methodists, who have won 20 straight home games against league foes dating back to the Texas Christian game in 1954, can sew up a title tie by stretching that record to 22 with victories over A&M Tuesday and TCU a week later. If they did that, then Rice would be forced to win all three of its remaining games.

Rice closes its season March 1 at home against A&M, while SMU finishes it up the following night at Fayetteville against Arkansas.

SMU got a big helping hand from Baylor last week when the Bears rose up to smother Rice by a 25-point margin, 95-70, at Waco and hand the Owls their third loss setback. That was the same night that SMU ran its league record to 7-1 by trouncing Texas at Dallas 79-56.

Rice did bounce back on Saturday night at home to keep its hopes alive with a 79-63 margin over Texas, but that Baylor upset may turn out to be the fly in the Owls' title ointment.

H-SU Can Win Border Title During Week

By UNITED PRESS

The Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, now resting in second place a half game back of Texas Western, can all but wrap up the Border Conference basketball championship this week.

The Cowboys, boasting a 5-2 record to 6-2 over Texas Western, take on the loop-leading Miners tonight at Abilene and then host Arizona (4-3) at Abilene Saturday night.

By sweeping both games Coach Bill Scott's Cowboys could clinch a tie for the title and have only a March 2 date, also at home, with New Mexico A&M (3-4) left on the loop schedule.

Texas Western defeated HSU 81-65 in their previous meeting to open the loop schedule, but the triumph was scored on the Miners' court. Hardin-Simmons will be favored on their own floor in both games.

Western climbed back on top last week by beating West Texas 83-72 at Canyon while HSU was splitting two games. The Cowboys lost to Arizona State 67-56 at Tempe, but salvaged an 80-69 decision from Arizona at Tucson.

Texas Tech, last year's champion, which isn't competing for the title this season beat Western 70-44 last week and faces that club again in El Paso Saturday night after playing New Mexico A&M at Las Cruces Friday night.

Wilt Seeking 40-Point Mark

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer

Wilt Chamberlain shoots again for the national scoring lead tonight to open a college basketball week featuring the three-man scoring derby and bids by five teams to clinch conference championships.

The seven-foot Kansas sophomore, who passed up a chance for the top spot on Saturday night, must have a big 40 points tonight against Oklahoma in order to catch six-five Grady Wallace of South Carolina. He needs 22 to stick ahead of third-place Chet Forte of Columbia.

Going into tonight's action while the others are idle, Chamberlain shows an average of 30.059 points per game — to 30.57 for Wallace and 29.96 for Forte.

Wallace lightened his grip on the lead Friday night with 44 points, while Chamberlain scored 32 Saturday against Missouri and Forte only 19 against Dartmouth. Chamberlain might have had more, but was taken out by Coach Dick Harp with seven minutes left and Kansas leading by 33 points en route to a 91-58 triumph.

Including tonight's game, Chamberlain and Forte each have six games to play and Wallace five. Wallace and Chamberlain play

DeMarco Battles Redl In TV Go

NEW YORK (UP) — Paddy DeMarco ex-lightweight champion, is favored at 8-5 to tag young Stefan Redl of Germany with his first defeat tonight at St. Nicholas Arena.

The 19-rounder will be televised by DuMont at 10:30 p.m. EST.

Hungarian Redl, who became amateur welterweight champion of Germany and who turned professional in the United States last year, seeks his 12th straight victory and his 10th knockout.

Pampa And Borger Face Stern Tests Tomorrow

A dozen Pampa Harvesters face the biggest test of the season this week when they battle the favored Borger Bulldogs for the basketball championship of District 3-AAAA.

The two teams engage in a sudden-death playoff tomorrow night at Canyon to determine the team which will contest the Poly-technical Parrots of Fort Worth for bi-district laurels.

The game, starting at 8 p.m., will be played in West Texas State 4,000-capacity fieldhouse and the huge arena is expected to be jammed with Panhandle basketball fans.

Tickets for the important clash went on sale in Pampa and Borger this morning. Pampans may buy tickets at the school business office in the city hall. Admission is $1.50 for adult reserved seats and 50 cents for students. Doors to West Texas Fieldhouse will open at 5 p.m. tomorrow.

This year's District 3-AAAA race has been a replay of the 1956-57 season when the two teams were a member of the reshuffled District 1-AAAA. Last year Borger and Pampa won on each other's home courts and then the Harvesters toppled the Bulldogs in a meeting at Canyon to determine the 1-AAAA northern-half champion. Pampa later lost to Odessa's Bronchos in a two-of-three series to lose the right to enter the state tournament.

Coach Clifton McNeely's Harvesters are looking for their fourth chance to enter the state tournament, to be held this year on March 7-8-9 in Gregory Gym on the University of Texas campus. Pampa has won two state championships under the guidance of McNeely and the Harvesters were runner-up another year.

Things have been changed in the Texas Interscholastic League set-up this year. Sixteen more Class AAAA teams, as well as a like number of Class AAA schools, have been added to the set-up. This requires a regional playoff, making it necessary for a representative to win an extra game before entering the state meet.

Tomorrow night's winner will face the Fort Worth team in bi-district and then that victor takes on the Abilene-Thomas Jefferson of El Paso winner in a regional elimination. The El Paso school won the 1-AAAA crown and Abilene took the 2-AAAA honors.

Pampa goes into tomorrow night's game with a finer season mark of 24 victories and one loss while the Bulldogs have won 24 and lost three. The two rivals boast 11-1 district marks. Their only losses were to each other. Borger lost to Guymon, Okla., and Hobbs, N.M., in a pair of non-conference games.

Borger won the first meeting of the two teams by a 63-62 count in Harvester Fieldhouse. The Harvesters took revenge at Borger by topping the Bulldogs, 81-62.

The Harvesters are being favored by most of the other 3-AAAA coaches to win the Canyon game. They base their decision on Pampa's fine defensive and rebounding ability. They concede that Borger has a better shooting team although this was not proven in the last meeting of the two.

McNeely planned to drill the Harvesters this afternoon for their final workout before meeting the Bulldogs. The entire team is in top shape and set for the game. Pampa's probable starters will be Bill Brown and Dickie Mauldin at guards, Tommy Gindorf at center and Sam Condo and Jerry Pope at forwards.

Borger will start Elgie Seamster and Jimmy Hines at guards, Warren Tipton at center and Frank Castleberry and Vance Moxom at forwards.

McLean Tigerettes Win 2-A Title; In Waiting Game For Playoff Tilt

McLEAN (Special) — Although the McLean Tigerettes have been champions of District 2-A for over a week now, they must wait at least another week before knowing their opponent in bi-district competition.

Coach Jack Riley's McLean squad won the 2-A crown Feb. 8 after defeating Memphis and finishing the regular season with 17 victories and three losses. Tigerettes' only district loss was to Canadian by a 39-38 count.

The McLean team is waiting on the outcome of the District 1-A playoff to get back into playoff ac-

Hebert Wins Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP) — Swarthy Jay Hebert, the elder of a pair of golfing brothers from the Louisiana Evangeline country, headed for this week's Houston Open today $2,800 richer after calling the winning shots in the $20,000 Texas Open final round.

The 34-year-old Hebert told brother Lionel prior to the start of Sunday's final 18 holes that he was going out to shoot a four-under-par 67 and that "if anybody beats that, they deserve to win it."

Hebert did just that — and nobody beat his winning 72-hole score of 271, although Ed Furgol, the man with the withered arm from St. Andrews, Ill., came within inches of tying him when a 15-foot birdie putt slid by the cup on the final hole.

Fullmer Favored To Beat Durando

DENVER (UP) — Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer was favored to knock out aging Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N.J., tonight before their scheduled non-title bout reaches the 10-round limit in Denver's City Auditorium.

Fullmer probably will weight in at 161, and Durando at 163.

MIAMI (UP) — A revised list of probable odds today quoted Sumner Tan as the even money favorite for next Saturday's $100,000 added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Conflicts In Policy Among U.S. Envoys

By WARREN DUFFEE WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (UP)—Sharp conflicts over U.S. policy among American envoys to the Middle East were brought to light Saturday with publication of secret testimony before two Senate committees. Four ambassadors or former ambassadors to Mideast nations generally backed the Eisenhower Doctrine of economic and military help to bar Communist inroads in that area. But one of the four said this was "not enough" and charged Secretary of State John Foster Dulles with some "moral responsibility" for the Franco-British-Israeli attack on Egypt. A fifth voiced grave doubts about the Eisenhower Doctrine and accused the State Department of bungling plans for developing the Jordan River Valley. A recent envoy to Egypt blamed Israel for most of the border warfare with Arab nations. A former ambassador to Israel attributed lack of peace in the Bible lands to Arab hostility. The conflicting views were aired as a divided Senate prepared to begin debate Monday on a modified Democratic version of the House-approved Eisenhower Doctrine. Approval of the Democratic substitute, which President Eisenhower has termed acceptable, is expected the following week. Passage will not come, however, without major foreign policy debate featuring strong Democratic assaults on the administration's Mideast policy. Specific Authority Omitted

Smiling Queen Joins Duke For 'Second Honeymoon'

By R. R. BUCKINGHAM LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 16 (UP)—A radiantly smiling Queen Elizabeth joined her husband for a "second honeymoon" here Saturday after a four-month separation. The Queen lightly stroked the Duke of Edinburgh's arm with her hand in an almost unprecedented public display of royal emotion. The couple, after a two-minute private meeting inside the Queen's airplane, emerged under the watchful eyes of hundreds of spectators and more than 100 news cameramen whose long-range lenses were focused for the slightest sign of affection, or lack of it. The Queen and Duke whose long separation led to rumors of a rift, were almost visibly eager to push through the welcoming formalities and get away to the royal yacht, anchored 20 miles away, for their two-day private reunion. Duke is Tanned The Duke flew from London in a turboprop airplane that landed at Montijo airbase, just outside Lisbon, at 9:20 a. m. est. The sun-tanned Duke newly returned from a round-the-world trip rushed aboard the plane. For two minutes he was alone with his wife in a rear compartment of the airliner, sheltered by curtains from the prying long-range camera lenses. The curious world could only guess at the warmth of their first moment together after a 125-day separation. But their smiles and the tender stroking of arms when they emerged gave a clue. Never before in public has the Queen been seen holding her husband's hand. This is in line with centuries of royal tradition barring any public show of emotion. Board Yacht The pair stepped from the plane into bright sunshine that broke through clouds just at landing time. Eleven minutes after the airplane landed, the Queen and her husband sped off in a rented black Cadillac for the fishing village of Setubal, where the yacht Britannia was anchored. The Queen wore a turquoise blue dress and a cherry-red hat. The Duke was informally dressed in a light gray suit instead of his naval uniform. Officially, this was a private occasion because the Queen's state visit to Portugal does not begin until Monday. But Portuguese Foreign Minister Paul Cunha was at the airport to welcome the Queen along with a formation of elite military police in American-style helmets. The Queen left her children behind in Buckingham Palace to

Wives Take Over After 50

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (UP)—The wife becomes the dominating influence of a family after a married couple passes their 50s, a University of Chicago sociologist said Saturday. The reversal of roles between husband and wife was reported by Mrs. Bernice L. Neugarten, assistant professor of Sociology, at the eighth annual symposium of the University of Chicago's Committee on Human Development. She and David L. Gutman, a graduate student, conducted research obtaining the reactions of 131 men and women representing social levels from the lower economic class to the upper Middle class. A projective testing technique was used, she said, which revealed attitudes and judgments usually kept hidden by an individual. Reactions of those interviewed were sought to a picture showing a group consisting of a young man and young woman and an older couple. There were marked differences, said Mrs. Neugarten, in responses as between men and women in the 40-55 year age group and those in the 55-70 age levels. Response of the younger couple assumed the man was the "head" of the family, said the sociologist. But the older group, added Mrs. Neugarten, saw the woman as the "head" of the household, with the man withdrawn, a "thinker" who no longer asserted himself. The research revealed sex or social status did not influence the tenor of the response, she said. Both the older and younger age groups, the investigators found, assumed the older couple in the picture was of their own age.

A-Weapons In Europe

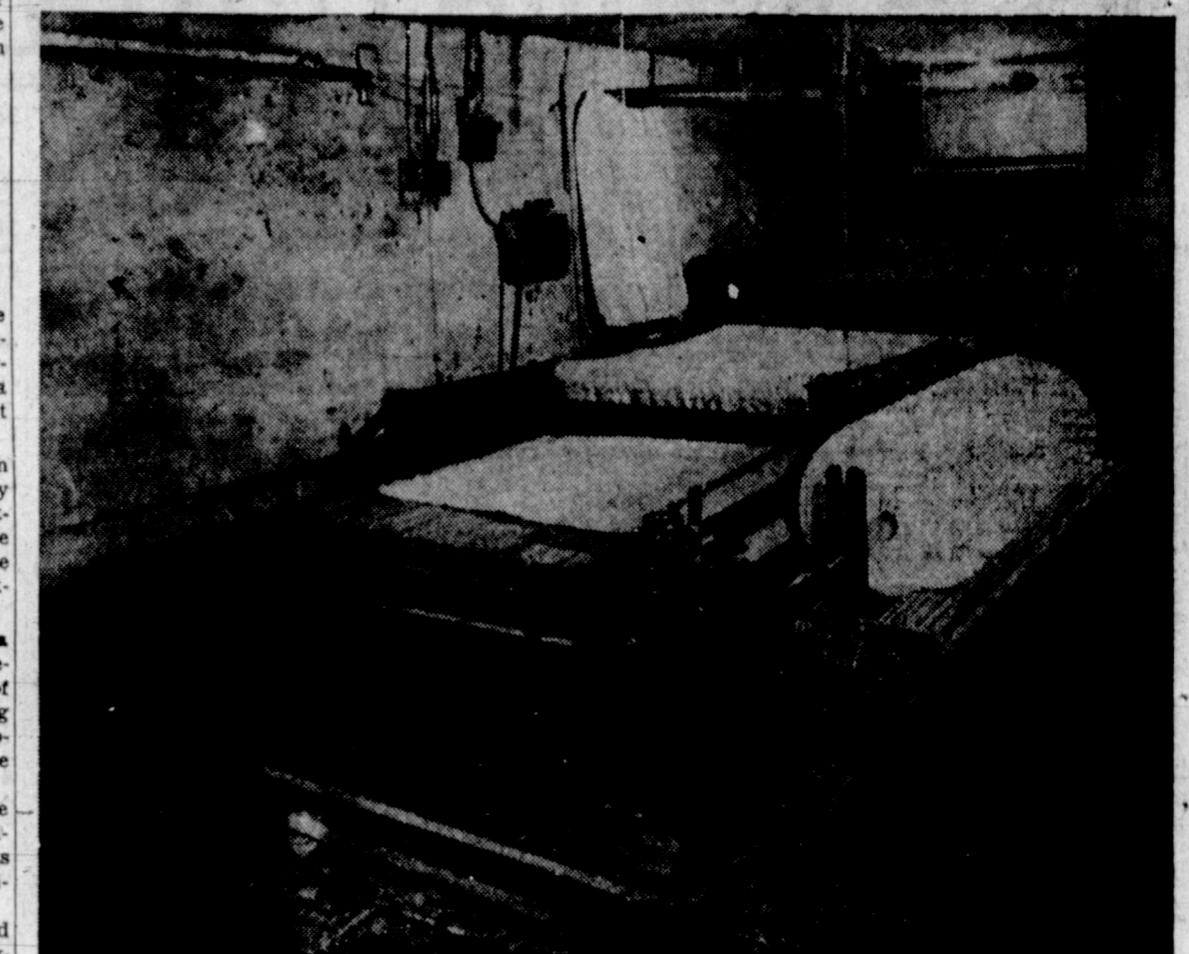

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (UP)—An informed source said Saturday that the United States has supplies of atomic weapons in Europe and has had for some time. He indicated also that the number and variety of such weapons is increasing constantly. It has long been known that the United States is training its NATO allies in the use and effects of atomic weapons. The British, for example, have a number of nuclear warheads capable of hurling a nuclear warhead nearly 70 miles. U. S. officials from President Eisenhower down have said repeatedly that the West would resist an attack of Europe from the East with atomic weapons. The weapons are in Europe—more than 30 11-inch atomic cannons in Germany alone, and considerable numbers of pilotless Matadors, Corporals, Honest John rockets, not to mention fighter planes and bombers capable of delivering nuclear bombs of many different sizes. The atomic warheads for these various delivery systems also are in Europe, the informed source said, "unless we're kidding." He added, "we're not." Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, has said NATO will reply to any attack with atomic weapons. His predecessor, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, has said the same thing repeatedly. Special U. S. "atomic support commands" are being increased in number of the specific purpose of working with Allied NATO units. James G. McDonald, former U.S. ambassador to Israel, said Britain, France and Israel would not have taken the "desperate gamble" of attacking Egypt if this country had done "everything that we could to dissuade them." He said the British and French "just couldn't take" any longer the backing and filling" of Dulles and that Dulles must bear "a measure of moral responsibility" for failure of the Big Three to solve the Suez Canal crisis without war. Jefferson Caffery, former ambassador to Egypt, France and Greece, now retired, said the Joseph C. Green, retired former ambassador to Jordan, said he was "rather dubious" and "certainly not enthusiastic" about the Eisenhower Doctrine.
