

Thorne Inquest Resumes Today

CHICAGO (U.S.)—Police said they have no evidence of murder, suicide or foul play as investigation into the strange death of mall order entré Montgomery Ward Thorne entered the second month.

The inquest resumed today with seven witnesses called, including Mrs. Rita Geigner, 50, described as a mystery woman.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron has said he suspects foul play in the death of the 20-year-old Thorne nine days after he made a new will virtually disinherit his mother and making 18-year-old Miss Maureen Ragen principal beneficiary.

A coroner's physician's autopsy report indicated Thorne died of a combination of alcohol, a sleeping pill and morphine, but criticism of the report led to further technical investigation. Thorne was found dead in his apartment June 19.

Thorne's body was exhumed and a panel of pathologists was named to study the case. Their report is expected about the end of this week.

Mrs. Geigner's demand for advance reports on the results of both autopsies prompted McCarron to subpoena her. She described herself as a friend of Mrs. Marion Thorne, mother of the dead youth.

Thorne's new will left half of his reported $2,600,000 fortune to Miss Ragen, a fourth to her mother Mrs. Alcen Ragen, and an eighth to his mother and another eighth to an aunt. The first will, drawn shortly after his 18th birthday, left the entire estate to his mother.

Sgt. Thomas Mulvey, head of the police investigation, said a month's study of the evidence does not indicate violent death, either at Thorne's own hands or by others.

Serving Together

Three area residents who entered the Army together here last December are still serving together. They are, left to right, James S. Suttles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Suttles of Forsan; Bob Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard of Forsan; and Billy Wayne King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe King, 708 Johnson, Big Spring. They took basic training at Fort Bliss, near El Paso, and were later transferred to Fort Eustis, Va., to the Transportation Corps. They are all in headquarters company working in the personnel office. King graduated from Big Spring High School, and Suttles and Baker are graduates of Forsan High School, where they played football and basketball. Baker is married to the former Billie Sue Sewell.

Wife Wants To Forget Trial, Playboy's Death

DETROIT (U.S.)—"I just want to start forgetting," said the trim, dark-eyed wife of Dr. Kenneth B. Small, the handsome Detroit dentist found innocent by reason of insanity in the slaying of her suitor.

While her dentist-husband was attending church services in his cell at Allegan, awaiting further disposition of his case, Mrs. Edith Small held an interview yesterday with reporters in the couple's home in a fashionable northwest Detroit section.

"I just don't know what will happen to our marriage," she said. But "whatever happens, it will be what is best for the children."

The couple has three sons—Steve, 7; Billy, 4; and Clifford, 2.

Mrs. Small appeared listless as she sat in the living room, while cars of curious drove slowly past the house. She was wearing a blue denim sun dress and on her finger was the sapphire ring given to her by the slain Jules M. Lack, 45-year-old New York playboy-industrialist.

Dr. Small's wife would remain separated while they undergo psychiatric treatment. "We both need treatment," she said.

Mrs. Small visited her husband at the Allegan County Jail Saturday after the jury's verdict. They reportedly embraced and she begged forgiveness. Then the 31-year-old dentist thanked her for testifying during the five-day murder trial.

Allegan County Sheriff Walter Runkel said Dr. Small is definitely making plans to resume his marriage "and he'll be the happiest boy in the world to get her back."

But the dentist told reporters: "It's too early to say. We've both got a lot of thinking to do."

Dr. Small was sent back to jail following the trial to await action by his attorney, Leo Hoffman, who said he intends to ask a sanity commission hearing Wednesday.

The law specifies that Dr. Small be committed to an institution. But if the commission finds him sane, he goes free.

Boy Fights, Scares Would-Be Kidnapers Away From Effort

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (U.S.)—A 13-year-old boy's fight against two men was credited today with thwarting a kidnaping.

The two men attempted to take Kenneth Ogle from his home Saturday night. Even after the abduction failed, a man telephoned the boy's father at a grocery store he manages and demanded $4,000.

The caller warned that unless the money was paid "we're going to get you or your family." The father, Dennis D. Ogle, contacted police.

The police had Ogle carry out the caller's instructions, using a fake payoff package. Ogle took the package to a street intersection as instructed, while police watched, but no one turned up for the payoff.

The men lured Kenneth from his home on a ruse.

When they attempted to force him into their car, Kenneth, who is 5 feet 8 and weighs 125 pounds, fought them. Screams of his mother and a 15-year-old sister frightened the men away.

Police have made no arrests.

Frugal Bachelor Beaten, Robbed

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (U.S.)—William M. Jones, 57, a frugal bachelor who made thousands of dollars crabbing and oyster tending but didn't trust banks to keep it for him, was near death and penniless today.

Neighbors, who heard his cries for help early yesterday, found him lying in the kitchen of his neat four-room house at Bishop Head, 30 miles south of here. He had been savagely beaten.

Sheriff Waldo H. Robinson, who questioned Jones at the hospital during one of his rare periods of consciousness, said he told him he had been carrying between $5,000 and $6,000.

Problem Girl, Cold? Problem Boy, Casual?

Dear Miss Brandon: Imagine a situation like this. I've been going steady with a girl for over a month and I've never even kissed her. She's a wonderful person but she's as cold as ice. I'm not some third rate gigolo and I do respect her. Can anything cure her of being so shy?

In my new book, "Date Data." Well, girls, no boy likes to be educated by his date, however, you seem to be in a position of "improve them or quit dating" so what can you lose?

Yes, patience. Given enough of it, plus time, and she'll warm up. Don't rush her. She'll take her own good time or run the other way. Try taking her for a roller coaster ride or to a horror movie.

If their mamas don't tell them a few of the facts of good etiquette, somebody will have to. It's just a shame you have to risk losing their friendship to do it.

Dear Miss Brandon: We are a group of disgusted girls. Have you any suggestions about what nice girls from nice homes where high standards are held, can do when their dates show up looking like garbage collectors? Our parents say they are going to forbid us to date at all if our taste doesn't improve. They are being embarrassed by what our neighbors (who don't have daughters) are saying.

Return in a neat but casual outfit. Wear socks and loafers and a house dress or an old skirt and blouse. He'll observe the change and if he sticks his neck out to ask why, you may say you "felt over-dressed." Then suggest some out of the way place to go like a drive in movie. Through all your strategy, be polite. He'll get the idea.

Don't say I didn't tell you so, fellows. I raved and ranted about this problem for a whole chapter

(Beverly Brandon will be happy to answer your problem personally. Just write her enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope in care of The Herald.)

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Broken line shows route of Lewis and Clark expedition west from St. Louis.

With 45 men, including two French guides, Lewis and Clark left St. Louis and made their way up the Missouri River. Three boats were used. The largest of them was 55 feet long, and was fitted with a sail. The other two were paddled.

After about 21 miles of travel, the party reached the village of St. Charles, where 400 settlers of French descent had their homes. In this village the Americans met several Kickapoo Indians, who were on a hunting trip. Going farther up the river, the Indians waited for the whites, and made them a present of four slain deer.

This seems to be a good time to tell about the adventures of two famous American explorers. This year is the 150th anniversary of the start of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

Years before, Alexander MacKenzie, great Canadian explorer, had traveled to the Pacific coast by a different route. He had reached the shores of what is now the province of British Columbia. Lewis and Clark led their party from St. Louis to the mouth of the Columbia River.

Specially made to give peak performance in all your hot-weather driving!

Dramatic helicopter photos show Action PROOF of extra power

Millions of TV viewers have seen this acceleration test from start to finish—on Gulf's popular "Life of Riley" show.

Remember: The part of any gasoline that evaporates first, in hot weather, is extra-high octane... a part you need for smooth, thrifty, knock-free performance in modern, high-compression engines. Guard that vital power part—get Summer-Formula Gulf NO-NOX, the gasoline that's specially made to resist hot-weather evaporation.

- Watch: These test cars are twins—same make and model. One is tuned for Summer-Formula Gulf NO-NOX, the other for regular grade gasoline.
- They're off! Both cars hit the starting line at the same speed, and then—full throttle—with the helicopter's cameraman recording the results.

3. Remember this showdown test!

When you buy your next tankful of gasoline, don't settle for less than Summer-Formula Gulf NO-NOX, with evaporation control. Get the peak in hot-weather power—plus no worries about vapor-lock stalls... knocks and pings... "stumbling" at slow speeds... balky hot-engine starting.

TV Hit! Don't miss "Life of Riley." See your paper for time and station.

Next time...stop at the Gulf sign for the one and only Summer-Formula GULF NO-NOX

Not Even A Bidder For Office Can Be All Things To All Men

It is impossible to be all things to all men, and not even a candidate for public office ought to try. One of the weaknesses of the Ralph Yarborough bid for the governor nomination, as we see it, has been his broadside, scatter-gun procedure of promising something new in every talk he makes. Down in his heart he must know that many of these campaign utterances cannot be put into effect, and he must realize, as an experienced campaigner, that he has resorted to a great deal of demagoguery. We think most of the voters will realize this too. The impression is left that Candidate Yarborough has listened to too many advisors, and has accepted any bit of suggestion they have offered, to put out something that will "sound good" at the moment. A case in point is the last-minute spectacle of offering a veterans' bonus. This proposition has been through the hustings since the close of World War II, has been shunted aside as being economically unsound and tinged with a type of state socialism that self-reliant Texans do not want. The veterans themselves — officially in their organizations, and individually — do not want such a thing. They realize that it is only a loan — and an unhealthy loan — that they and their children will have to pay back. Candidate Yarborough has made different kinds of talk on the segregation question, too; but in the last analysis has come down to the proposition that Texas will have to meet this problem, in due time, as best it can. This is what most of the people of the state have known all along. Actually, most of Candidate Yarborough's campaigning has been on the "agin" side without much of a positive nature except these campaign-talk promises that "sound good." This type of appeal would lead one to wonder if such an aspirant to office would make a wholly reliable public official. Reliance is what we need in times like these, and Allan Shivers has demonstrated by his firm record that Texans can rely on him.

American Tradition In Action As Harry Truman Gets Well Wishes

Recuperating in his home at Independence, Mo., after 19 days in a hospital following a serious operation, former President Harry S. Truman has time to catch up on his mail-reading these days. It must be quite a stack. We imagine the square of Independence likes to haul a batch of his mail out on the screened-in back porch, where he ate his first post-hospital breakfast, and browse among the letters, telegrams and press clippings which were evoked by his near-brush with the Grim Reaper. Of course, he probably won't live long enough to read them all, even though he lives to be 90. That stack contains 100,000 letters and telegrams from all parts of the United States. Some were from Republicans, some from Democrats who said they had never voted for him, an unusually large percentage came from veterans. The clippings were from some newspapers that had bitterly opposed him, expressing wishes for his good recovery. Among the latter was a gracious word of encouragement from a newspaper that had perhaps said harsher things about Harry Truman the public figure than any other, Colonel McCormick's Chicago Tribune. These were merely the expression of friendliness and warmth that is an American tradition. In this country men may differ about many things, and speak bitterly of each other, and deride and ridicule each other's habits and opinions, but when the chips are down, when misfortune strikes, when a man's flat on his back in misery — well, that's something else again. Perhaps the unusual outpouring of sympathy in Mr. Truman's case stemmed from the fact that he is basically a friendly and warm man himself, one who carried the loyalties of friendship in some cases too far for his own good. But mostly it was just the pleasant and friendly way Americans have with each other when passions cool and their basic humanity comes to the fore. Whatever the cause, the flood of letters and telegrams must make Mr. Truman feel pretty good there on his screened-in back porch in Independence, Mo.

Matter Of Fact—Joseph and Stewart Also State Department's Actions Strictly For Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Under Secretary of State W. Redell Smith's journey to Geneva fortunately closes a period of dizzy gyrations in American policy. The background story is as curious as it is instructive. Probably the best place to begin is with the Eisenhower-Churchill-Dulles-Eden "diplomatic weekend," as it is now called at the State Department. At that time, remember, Pierre Mendès-France had already become French Premier with the avowed aim of getting peace in Indochina. And here in Washington, those policy-makers who wanted American intervention instead of a new Munich in the Far East, had already been routed. In these circumstances, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill discussed and agreed upon the kind of Indochinese settlement that America and Britain could accept and guarantee. The terms they approved rather closely resembled the terms of an "honorable settlement," as defined in Paris by Premier Mendès-France.

political, however, the President held firm on one point. If the French reached a reasonable Indochinese settlement with the Communists, he would guarantee it. But he would not be a direct party to the settlement itself. That must be a French responsibility. The Eisenhower-Churchill understanding as to Indochina was communicated to Paris in "the seven point paper," as the arguing diplomats have come to describe it. The President's decision to guarantee the settlement but not to join in it was immediately denounced in Paris, not without logic, as pharisaical and hampering. Yet the promise of a guarantee for a reasonable settlement nonetheless gave satisfaction to Premier Mendès-France. In Washington, meanwhile, there was the guilty sense of having passively consented to another great Communist advance. The first result was to fill the air with official protestations that everyone else—every ally of this country—was to blame while we were blameless. The protestations became all the louder, when the domestic-political atmosphere was suddenly super-heated by Sen. William Knowland.

In brief, the President and Sir Winston concluded that it would not be too bad if North Viet Nam—the Red River Delta—passed into Communist control, while Southern Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos were forbidden to Communism. Thus, they decided, there would be a defensible line in Indochina. Hence, they also decided, the line in Indochina could be guaranteed, and we could say to the Communist world in effect, "If you cross the line to grab at the rest of Indochina, we shall fight." These decisions fitted very neatly, in turn, into the major decision of the diplomatic weekend. This was the decision to proceed without delay to form a South Asian defense community, in order to halt Communist aggression in this whole crucial area. For reasons both moral and domestic—

On top of all this, presumably from sheer petulance, it was disclosed that we had withdrawn our offer to help the French train Vietnamese troops. The total picture painted, in short, was a picture of the United States picking up its marbles and going on home. For Premier Mendès-France, this was utterly disastrous. The military situation in Indochina was already bad and getting worse. On the basis of the military realities, the Communists were justified in demanding something very like French capitulation. There was only one thing that would bring the Communists to offer Mendès-France his "honorable settlement." They had to fear a wider war, but the Communists would see no danger of a wider war, with the United States publicly picking up its marbles. Hence both Mendès-France and Britain Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden sent Secretary Dulles just about the strongest messages that have been exchanged between the Western allies since the end of the second war. There were no overt threats, but the meaning of the messages was plain. First, if we completely "disassociated" ourselves from Geneva, there would be an open break in the Western Alliance. Second, beside vastly inflaming the Indochinese problem, this extreme American dissociation would probably kill all hope for a South Asian defense Community, leaving the whole area at the mercy of the Communists. In response to these messages, therefore, Secretary Dulles had to go to Paris. And having gone to Paris, he had to send Under Secretary Smith to Geneva. Only one big question thus remains. Will the Communists in fact offer Mendès-France the "honorable settlement" which he insists is the very least he will take? Maybe they will do so. But if the Communists are greedy, the French Premier says he will fight on. And then the question of American intervention in the Indochinese war will be revived with great suddenness and extreme urgency.

Difference In Degree Of U. S. Secrets And Checks On Who Is Handling Them

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — "Q" clearance, name check, full field investigation, evaluation, top secret, security risk, confidential: all government names for deciding who can stay in a government job or be trusted with secrets. There was national shock when atomic scientist Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer lost his "Q" clearance, although the Atomic Energy Commission didn't use that phrase when it parted company with him. It just said he was a security risk, that he couldn't be trusted any more with secrets he had been handling a dozen years. "Q" clearance is the AEC's way of saying a man has been found trustworthy with AEC secrets. In Oppenheimer's case it had been found he had a long and continued association with Communists. Another man could be dropped as a security risk even though he didn't deal in secrets at all but drank too much. And there is a difference in the degree of secrets. One kind, of the most vital nature, is labeled top secret. A less important one is "secret." And a still less important one is "confidential."

For example, a "confidential" document might be an FBI report of its investigation of a man against whom nothing wrong was found. But if the report got into Communist hands it might disclose "investigative techniques" of the FBI. Officials in any agency dealing with matters involving national security decide who can be allowed to see "top secret" documents, who should see only "secret material" and who needs to know only "confidential" matters. That "need to know" position is at the heart of security in agencies dealing with information vitally affecting the national welfare. For example, a public relations man in the AEC would have to be cleared to know some information. But there might be no reason why he should be let in on a decision to make bigger or smaller hydrogen bombs. He'd be allowed to handle only information that he needed to know to do his job. Before a government employe gets into a position of handling secrets at all — or no secrets — he's supposed to be investigated. The government doesn't check on all its employes in the same way. For example, this would be routine for a man in a job in an agency which doesn't deal in national secrets, like the Labor Department. Jones wants a clerical job with the Labor Department. He fills out an application on which he lists for some previous years the jobs he held and the places he lived. In addition, he answers questions about subversive organizations to which he belonged, if any. In a case like that — a man looking for a nonsensitive job (no secrets involved) in a nonsensitive agency — the Civil Service Commission's own investigators make a check. They check with his previous bosses, perhaps with his old landlords and neighbors. They run a "name check" with the FBI. That is, they find out whether the FBI has any record on him or information against him. The same check

Opportunity Never Dead For Anyone Really Alive

NEW YORK (AP)—Leaves from an oddity almanac: It is only people who are mentally half-dead themselves who complain, "opportunity is dead." Opportunity is timeless. Take the case of Mrs. Annabelle McIntyre of Ligonier, Ind., who decided at 82 she ought to have a new hobby, and learned to make braided rugs. Ten years and 200 handmade rugs later she has turned her hobby into a tidy business, and at 92 she does her own shopping, cooking and housework, and is studiously determined to go on doing these things "as long as I live." How many teen-age girls in your neighborhood are that independent? Almanac Conservation Department: What smokers do to themselves is one thing, but what they do to the forests remains a national disgrace. Forest fires last year dropped to a record low but still 154,100 forest fires burned over 9 million acres, and more than one out of every seven fires were started by careless smokers. Bet You Didn't Know That: one way to lose weight is to go to the Equator, because of slightly lowered gravity a man who weighs 190 pounds at the North Pole will be a pound lighter at the Equator. The British have discovered a "paint of death" that will rid ships of cockroaches for as long as two years. Many schizophrenic (split personality) children often show a preference for toys that can be rotated or spun. But if that were the only test of a schizophrenic, every kid in town would have a split personality. Time-Marches-On Dept: "Nothing ever changes," people say—in a world that is changing as swiftly as they are. But look back just 20 years at a few things the world lacked that are now commonplace: Jet planes, nylon, television, penicillin. Our idea of a real old-timer is a guy who can remember when aspirin was a wonder drug. Almanac Editorial: We have been informed by what we take to be a reliable source that the Sahara Desert is creeping northward at the rate of 20 miles a year. (Or maybe it is 20 miles every clipping.) In any event we demand to know what Congress intends to do about this creeping African menace. Are our statesmen asleep at the switch? We pause for reply. It's A Woman's World Dept: The effort to relieve ladies from the strain of 20th century civilization never ceases. The latest feat of gallantry that has come to our attention involves a department store—Thalmer Brothers, Inc., of Richmond, Va. It is now offering free showers to weary out-of-town lady shoppers.

We Should Realize The Source Of Our Numerous Rich Bounties

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note. Not long after I learned the significance of the alphabet and began to combine one with another to get words, it befell me to read a story with a simple theme and a simple point. It concerned a family which did a good turn by inviting a stranger to their table. Their ration was necessarily meagre because their income was small but what they had they shared willingly and happily with the unknown guest. The stranger did not forget the kindness extended by his hosts, nor did the family its visitor, for "forever after," as the story tellers of previous generations used to like to say, they found their larders full. When they emptied their pitcher of milk, it mysteriously refilled itself with the same fluid, as if by some unseen hand. Their supply of bread and butter, meat, eggs and all the things they found necessary to get a well-rounded menu remained constant, no matter how often they went to partake of it. Long years later, it dawned on me that most Americans are blessed much as was the family in the story.

There was, is and will probably remain for some time to come enough food to go around. True, the milk and the bread might not appear as magically on our tables as it did for the family in the story but it is there. When you drain your pitcher of milk and eat your last slice of bread, you never worry whether you can replenish your supply. Regrettably, most Americans take it for granted, the fact that there is enough to go around. We are one of the few, the very few people in all the world, who get enough to eat. It has been estimated that two-thirds of the peoples of the world are under-fed and have no prospect of ever getting enough to eat. We give credit to ourselves for earning the money to pay for the rations and rarely, perhaps, pay our respects to the many individuals and concerns who see it that the commodity is delivered to our doorsteps with the greatest of ease. Does Providence come in for its share of credit, too? —TOMMY HART

Inez Robb's Column Concerning Those Texans' Plan To Use Race Money For Charity

Have you heard the latest Texas story? About the man from the Lone Star State who went to a psychiatrist? "Ah'm in deep trouble, doc," said the man in the 10-gallon hat to the head-shrinker. "Ah'm from Texas and all of a sudden Ah don't give a damn!" In my opinion this is a vicious canard. Furthermore, it has very little to do with Sid Richardson and Clint Murchison, a brace of Texas oil multimillionaires, who still care deeply about their own, their peers' state. The story just serves to back into the fact that the Messrs. Richardson and Murchison, who are richer than Croesus and/or better, are now engaged in a noble, joint endeavor that eventually could turn every horse player into a philanthropist. These two latter-day Rockefeller are trying to pick up a string of race tracks whose profits, after the deduction of minimum operating expenses, would be devoted to improving the lot of underprivileged boys throughout the United States. As this is written, the gentlemen have already picked up one race track on the Pacific Coast. By the time it appears in print, they may have purchased Santa Anita, Arlington, Saratoga, Belmont and Hialeah. They're off! The Messrs. Richardson and Richardson, that is. The fact that charity may begin at the race track is not such a novel idea, after all. Innumerable horse players have suspected this for years. The Texas duo would merely confirm it. It may even offer some solace to horse players to know that in the future they are supporting underprivileged kids as well as deserving nags, both running out of the money. Indeed, the Richardson-Murchison venture opens up a whole new prospect and many giddy avenues for the racing enthusiast whose interest heretofore has been strictly limited to a lofty share in the improvement of the breed of horses. A man who takes the day off to go to the races in the future need accept no lip from either his employer or his wife when he has actually and actively been occupied in good works. He can conscientiously point out that he has been engaged in a work of charity, and any and all donations at the $2 window automatically become tax-deductible under this new set-up. Certain fussy persons no doubt will take the jaundiced view that a race track run to improve the lot of underprivileged boys is akin to operating a dime-a-dance ballroom for funds to ameliorate the plight of wayward girls. But we must bear in mind that there also are carping critics who are opposed to a friendly game of bingo or a wheel of fortune at the church fair. There may even be deep thinkers in the audience who will wonder the Messrs. Richardson and Murchison don't simply matters by turning over some of their oil wells to a foundation for underprivileged boys, rather than bother with a race-track empire. I, too, have pondered this alternative and have decided that the two Texans, in turn, decided that while the wells might eventually run out of oil, the horse tracks will never run out of suckers.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs We Must Lay It On The Line With Latin-American Nations

WASHINGTON — The successful overthrow of the Communist-dominated government in Guatemala, engineered with guidance and help from Washington, took a load of worry off American policy-makers. But in the aftermath of that familiar Latin drama of armed revolt, there is no easy complacency that the future has now been nicely taken care of. Now that the Arbenz government has been overthrown, there is a more difficult test ahead. That is whether with guidance and help from Washington a new government can bring the progress, the economic development, the well-being for the many that the Communists promised and, up to a point, had convinced a great many Guatemalans they were delivering. To meet this test, with a deadline little more than three months away, lights are burning late in the offices of those who must formulate political and economic policy. At the conference of American states in Caracas in February in order to get unanimous support—unanimous except for Guatemala—for an anti-Communist resolution, the United States made a promise. That promise was to hold a conference on the economic future of the American states in Rio de Janeiro some time during the last quarter of this year. The exact date has not yet been set. But there have been so many conferences—you always give us a conference after each crisis, the skeptical Latin-American says—that something more than talk must come out of this one. If it has sufficient scope, if the plans show imagination and creativity looking to a long-term integration of the hemisphere economy, the Rio conference can do much to offset the resentment felt toward the Colossus of the North.

Any realistic economic planning must undertake the kind of integration which precludes each country seeking to set up its own steel mill as a badge of national pride. That sort of nationalism is self-defeating. Thus Brazil has made forward steps toward an industrial plant and yet must spend dollars for all oil imports, since national pride—compounded by jealousy and suspicion—has shut out foreign companies seeking oil concessions. Unless the conference at Rio is to be just another feast of good-will oratory and, therefore, futile or worse than futile, Washington must come up with something big and bold. In the wake of Guatemala some Latin-Americans are saying that this is a last chance for Uncle Sam. From here on out, short of a new approach that wins wide support, the choice will be increasingly between right-wing dictatorship and communism.

Collector Convicted

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)—William B. Shouts, 33, whose home and garage looked like a warehouse, was sentenced to 10 years in prison after pleading guilty to second degree larceny. Shouts could give police no reason for collecting several thousand dollars worth of electrical fixtures, wire, pipe and a vast assortment of tools.

Local ESA Hostess At District Meet

The pavilion on Scenic Mountain was the scene of a picnic and business meeting of District 8 of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sunday with the local chapter, Alpha Chi, as hostess.

Registration began at noon and the business session got under way following the picnic at which Margie Hill gave thanks. Presiding was Frances MacLean of Odessa, district president. She was assisted by Dorothy Haden of Odessa, historian; Virginia Heflin of Odessa, secretary in the absence of Phyllis Runestrand; Bo Bowen of Big Spring, acting treasurer; Gail Allen of Midland, newly appointed district coordinator.

A letter from Nell Storm, Texas council president of ESA, asking that each chapter help in the drive on polo was read.

Those attending made contributions to the local chapter project, a layette for a needy family.

The business table was laid with the ESA banner and a crocheted doily of yellow surrounded a bouquet of gladioli.

Chapters registering were: three members of Midland Alpha Psi; three members of Odessa Alpha Omega and two members of Odessa Epsilon Mu; two members of Fort Stockton Beta Iota and 17 members of the local chapter.

Each registrant's name was pinned on her collar with a miniature package of mints and gum wrapped in blue and gold.

The next district meeting will be held Oct. 17 with the Fort Stockton chapter as hostess.

Recipe Collector's Recipes Really Collect - Too Fast

By ANNE LEFEVER

Are you a recipe-clipper? If you are, you can appreciate the predicament I am in. I have clipped recipes and saved cookbooks until I have completely filled the drawer in my refrigerator originally intended for cereals or vegetables.

Even if I had the time to go through them, I know I would find that they are all of the type that I plan to use "some day." When that day will come is anybody's guess. I have some that are positively yellow with age—and still haven't been used! So there is no use wasting time trying to select the ones to discard.

I have recipes for everything from "How to Boil an Egg" to how to prepare Viande Marinée (Pickled Meat, to you). I know I'll never use either one, because I already know how to do the first—and the other doesn't sound good to me. Since it is in one of the many cookbooks I have accumulated, though, I suppose I'll keep it.

Another thing—I have a French cookbook from New Orleans, a Pennsylvania Dutch cookbook, and all kinds of books compiled and sold by various church women. I have free cookbooks from all kinds of manufacturers and pamphlets that are enclosed in certain foods.

Do you suppose that I use any of these when I plan a meal to serve to guests? Sad, but true, I do not. I fall back on the old reliable, fried chicken, steak, barbecued wieners, or meat and spaghetti. Something that can be prepared ahead of time is the main idea.

But back to where I am going to "file" the recipes I clip from now on. Maybe I might put them in the drawer of the stove meant to hold, shallow pans and lids. I can't do that, because it's full of bon-tops that I am going to send off some day.

Neat Or Shaggy Garden May Reveal Owner's Personality

Your slip is showing these days. The garden slip, that is.

If you've ever been a daily rider on a suburban commuter train, you've learned a lot about your fellow gardeners. Their intimate flank is exposed to view if they have a cozy garden backing up on the railroad line.

Possibly the front of the neat house is slick as a pink. But the backyard—there is the rub—rub-bush, that is.

Every day for the past few weeks, one commuter car of gardeners has been jostling about the fellow with the couple of hundred dollars worth of outdoor furniture, the big barbecue grill—and the matted up backyard.

His hedges, flourishing in the lushness of spring, are shaggy. The lawn area is spotty, untrimmed most of the time, and isn't neatly edged, although the contour lines are good. He's got a compost pile—at least that's what we think it is at 40 miles an hour—right smack in view of the patio area, which itself is getting weedy and seedy.

There's a vegetable garden in one corner of the approximate three-acre plot. The rows are as waxy as though he had mixed martinis with the plantings. He has everything but a good garden.

The shrubs are placed properly, but unkempt. He let his tulips bloom and go to seed, without snipping off the dead flowers to give the bulbs a chance to revitalize.

This boy put a lot of money into his garden—and he's growing toward a harvest he won't want to reap.

On the other hand, as the train slows for a local station, there's a modest, gray with black trim cottage that's a knockout in the garden department. Many a newspaper lowers while the admiring glances are cast from the train window.

The lawn is a smooth green, the driveway and path areas are trimmed and edged, the fruit trees are sprayed, the flower beds have seedlings which march like cadets on parade. There's a play area for the kids, with swings, see-saw, and sandbox set off under a few shade trees. On warm days, an inflated wading pool is in one section. Roses climb neat trellises. Hedges are as trim as a teen-ager ready for his first date.

You almost get to know the people along the commuter line by the way they do their gardening. You rejoice with their successes, and inwardly groan at shoddy results.

The other day, my seat partner said of one glorious garden sight, "If my dinner wasn't waiting, I'd like to get off at the next stop and shake that guy's hand—and see how he does it."

Just as in clothes, the front, side and back views tell the story. If the seams of a woman's stockings are crooked, or a man's coat jacket sags at the neck, it takes away from the over-all effect. If the hair is rumpled, or the male face unshaven, the sharp suit doesn't count.

You don't want 5 o'clock shadow in the garden.

Whether there's a nosy train rider at your back, or an interested neighbor on the next street, someone's always looking.

And—so are you.

Secrets From Italy
In a fashionable cafe in Rome, Italian movie star Valentina Cortese tells Lydia Lane some of her top beauty secrets. Miss Cortese is making "Barefoot Contessa" in Italy for MGM.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY Italian Beauty Hint: Salt With Olive Oil

By LYDIA LANE

ROME, Italy — There are a surprising number of familiar faces in this great capitol of Italy. I was delighted to see Valentina Cortese the other day.

Valentina looked as beautiful as ever and told me that having lived in the United States had one great influence on her—that she was more aware of nutritional value of food. "Here no one considers food except how it tastes, but once you think about a balanced meal your attitude can never be the same," she explained.

I remarked that the bread and spaghetti here were wonderful but I wanted to know how Valentina kept her figure. "I am sure I'd soon be out of shape if I lived here very long," I commented.

"We walk a lot in Rome," Valentina said.

"Is that why I see so few high heels?" I asked.

"Once you are accustomed to the freedom of walking with antique sandals you are very uncomfortable moving with your weight thrown forward," Valentina confessed. "I hate high heels. They ruin the shape of my feet and they make my back ache."

We lunched at Alfredo's and Valentina was continually nodding to her numerous friends. She is extremely popular in Rome and considered one of their outstanding beauties.

When the waiter brought a finger bowl I noticed that Valentina took a small bottle of cologne from her purse and sprinkled a few drops on her fingers. She noticed that I was curious and asked: "Would you like some?" She explained that adding cologne to her hands several times a day was a favorite beauty trick.

I asked Valentina if she had a beauty secret that was typical of her country.

"Yes I have," she said quickly. "It was told to me when I first started working in pictures and I complained that I had bumps under my skin from make-up. A friend told me to mix salt with olive oil and massage it gently over my face. The friction of the salt helps to rub off the head of the pores and after a few times you will find that all the bumps are cleared away. Since I've used this regularly," Valentina continued, "I've never had any trouble with my skin."

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

Sometimes I'm downright against progress. Just now I wish almost anything would happen to prevent a modern super-highway from being bulldozed close to a certain rambling stone house I know built into a wooded hillside overlooking the Hudson River just where it widens to meet the sea.

I realize that roads must be built. I know that one who stands, however innocently, in the path of improvement must suffer dislocation. But I just don't want the river view from the terrace of my beloved Hader House to include winking traffic signals, nor the woody silence, broken now only by bird sounds, to be invaded by the whine of tires and explosion of backfiring.

Hader House is a sprawling picture-book structure of red sandstone and yellow and gray cobbles with peaked green roofs and odd-shaped terraces on several levels. There's a waterfall tumbling over mossy rocks straight down the hill to a pool at the bottom, and a honeysuckle and ivy grow along the steep winding path that leads up from the pool to the front door of heavy unpainted chestnut.

The house isn't quite finished yet though it was begun 25 years ago. Berta and Elmer Hader, artists, built it with their own hands and since there were no blueprints, they never had to keep to a set plan. So whenever a thing doesn't work out in practice they tear it out and do it over some other way.

The land was a jungle when they found it. They had to cut a trail through blackberry brambles to get to the top of the hill, on the way discovering to their delight the source of a spring and the remains of an old quarry. The spring had long ago furnished half the countryside with water during a terrible drought. The old quarry had supplied stone for many of the brownstone fronts in New York City. Near the spring they found a pile of red rock and laid out their foundation.

This took weeks because Berta insisted they save as many trees as possible—elms, birches, sassafras. They even made a jut in the studio so as not to sacrifice a wide-spreading pignut tree. After they had poured the concrete for the foundation they had to stop for awhile to make some money from

Here Is Two-Wheel Way To Reduce

Want to reduce? Improve your posture? Instead of diet or push-ups, you might try the old-fashioned two-wheeler, pedal-pushing method.

Taking to the road, especially in the summertime, brings the color to your cheeks and the air to your lungs. But it also strengthens the tummy, tones and firms the muscles and improves the digestion (and the appetite).

Years ago, gals though biking made the leg muscles bulge. But returning Gis dispelled this theory by pointing to European cyclists—that's practically every girl and woman—who still have shapely ankles and calves. Consequently, now at camps and country resorts, girls corner the bicycle market.

To accommodate American women's pedal-pushing frame of mind, bike manufacturers have decorated their products.

In gay color combinations and equipped them with especially-designed low-pressure tires. Hardier members, those who like to tour by bike, can peddle away on lightweight models, with special hand brakes and three-gear drives.

Housewives Have Say On Appliances

CHICAGO (U) — The American housewife is beginning to have her say on how home appliances should be designed.

One appliance manufacturer sent out a questionnaire to women on the cooking range.

A total of the results showed 61 per cent want the oven on the right while 23 per cent want a range with two ovens.

Sixty-four per cent want the four surface units clustered on the left side of the cooking top. Only 11 per cent said they want a divided arrangement with two units on each side.

Two storage drawers for pots and pans were desired by 75 per cent, and 37 per cent want one wide drawer across the bottom.

Pushbuttons and rotary switches across the back were desired by 53 per cent. Only 15 per cent checked yes for front controls.

Thirty-nine per cent said they must have minute timers and automatic controls and 51 per cent said "would like."

Almost 50 per cent said they wanted a range equipped with a plug-in surface griddle or deepfat French fryer.

Billie Bates Given Shower

Mrs. James W. Johnson and Mrs. Ray Dunlap honored Billie Jo Bates, bride-elect of Alvin Reinhardt of Levelland and LaSalle, Mich., with a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. Johnson.

Miss Bates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bates and will be married Aug. 7.

The refreshment table was covered with green organdy floor length cloth over green taffeta. Centering it was an arrangement of pink and white roses in a large china chalice on which cherubs were featured. Appointments were silver. Mrs. Dunlap and Mrs. Charles Kee served.

During the evening piano music was furnished by Larry Evans. The piano was decorated with a brass container holding pink flowers which were flanked by pink candles in candelabra.

Karen Kee, granddaughter of Mrs. Johnson, registered the 27 guests.

Guests in the homes of the Lloyd Kinmans and the Jones Lamars are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Percyfield of Arcadia, Calif., and their niece, Linda Jo Underwood of Los Angeles. Mrs. Percyfield and her hostesses are sisters.

Proposed Budget For Health Unit Is Considered

Proposed 1954-55 budget for the City-County Health Unit and a proposal for purchase of about four acres of land were taken under consideration by county commissioners this morning.

Lige Fox, senior sanitarian for the health unit, submitted a partial budget for $17,240. This would be shared equally by the city and county, if approved. It would represent 70 per cent of the total budget for the unit, since the state and federal governments contribute 30 per cent of public health funds.

Proposal for the land was in a letter from Clyde Angel, president of the Big Spring Independent is located immediately east of the East Ward school and includes the School District board. The land large a canyon adjacent to the Angeles Terrace Addition.

Angel said in the letter the school district probably could develop the canyon into an athletic stadium at some time in the future.

Commissioners decided to determine legal requirements which would cover disposition of the land, although it probably would have to be sold at public auction.

Representative of a Midland supply firm also appeared before the court. He explained operation of a sprinkler system he offered to sell for the courthouse grounds. Commissioners said purchase of any such equipment would be made following the advertising for bids.

Ransom Galloway reported to commissioners that petitions now are being circulated for the formation of a water district which would include Coahoma and Sand Springs. The district would be formed for the purpose of supplying the two communities with domestic water, he said.

The commissioners court would have to authorize formation of the district on receipt of petitions, according to Galloway, who represents an investment company.

Ten Mishaps Occur; 3 Persons Treated

Ten automobile accidents were reported to local law enforcement officials between 9 p.m. Saturday and this morning. Officers said at least three of the individuals involved received hospital treatment.

Mrs. Eunice Bailey, who was in a pickup which overturned on the Snyder highway, was treated at Big Spring Hospital for a laceration over her eye. Also receiving attention were her husband, C. L. Bailey, and daughter Margulita Bailey, 6.

Driver of the pickup was Alvin Lewis Bailey. The mishap occurred about 2:40 a.m. today some 10 miles northeast of Big Spring. The Baileys are from Midland.

Leon Lerman, general delivery, also received first aid treatment at Big Spring Hospital following an automobile accident. He was a passenger in a car driven by G. Martinez, 602 NW 7th.

Martinez' car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Gregorio Gonzales, Snyder, on Northwest 4th about 2 a.m. Sunday. Gonzales was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Hospitalized at Medical Arts was Arthur L. Lewis, who was injured when he jumped from a burning automobile on the highway between Chalk and Forsan about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. His condition is reported as good by the attending physician.

Two other Saturday evening collisions were reported to police. One at 18th and Scurry about 9:23 p.m. involved drivers Joseph Roland Albert and Anthony Skirka, both of Webb. Just before midnight cars driven by Antonio Garcia and Harold L. Jeffcoat, 702 Douglas, were in an accident at 4th and Gregg.

Early Sunday morning at 1 a.m. a car driven by Auldon Brookshire, 1211 Johnson, was in collision with a parked automobile owned by Gene Turner, 1410 11th Place.

Sunday afternoon about 12:15 p.m., a collision was reported at 3rd and Johnson, but the cars had been moved when police arrived and a report was not made.

A collision in the 500 block of North Gregg was reported at 3 p.m. Sunday, drivers being Angel Gonzales, 507 N. Lamesa Drive, and Cecil Wayne Rasberry, 1706 Scurry.

Wiley Lester Cain, Moran, and Case Thomas McDonald, 111 Austin, were operators of vehicles in a collision about 6:30 a.m. at 3rd and Johnson.

A local wrecker service company reported pulling in a car from the park road about 2:45 p.m. Sunday. There had been a collision, but officers did not have names of the individuals involved.

MEN IN SERVICE

Among the 700 ROTC Midshipmen from 25 colleges and universities on a three-week training cruise at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi is James H. Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Conley of 1411 Lancaster. He is a member of the ROTC training program at Rice Institute in Houston.

After completing the aviation phase at Corpus Christi, the group will receive instruction in amphibious warfare at Little Creek, Va.

O. D. O'Daniel Jr. has been promoted to the rank of corporal. He is assigned as a mechanic with the 44th Quartermaster Company, a unit of the 44th Infantry Division at Ft. Lewis, Wash. O'Daniel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. O'Daniel Sr. of Coahoma.

Marine Sgt. Thomas W. Hall is among the more than 13,000 midshipmen, officers and men embarked in 19 ships enroute to Europe in the summer's first midshipmen cruise.

Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Hall of 1418 Wood, is aboard the battleship USS New Jersey.

The eight-week cruise began June 7. Under the supervision of crew members of the training ships, midshipmen do shipboard jobs in navigation, gunnery, seamanship, engineering and communications.

The ships will visit ports in Portugal, Spain, France, Belgium and The Netherlands before returning to Norfolk, Va. on Aug. 3.

Cpl. Weldon W. Howell is now serving as a military policeman at William Beaumont Army Hospital in El Paso. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Howell, 2006 Gregg.

Howell entered the Army in February 1953 and was sent to Camp Rucker, Ala. for basic training. He was then transferred to Camp Gordon, Ga. where he received eight weeks of military police training.

Marcus Hayworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hayworth, 2509 W. 4th, entered the Navy last week and was sent to San Diego for his boot camp training. Later he is to enter radar school. He is 1954 graduate of Big Spring High School and had played both base and guitar for the Saturday night Jamboree sessions in city auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Rowland have received the good news that their son, Cpl. Donnie W. Rowland, will soon be enroute home from Turkey where he has been stationed by the Army.

After a leave to visit home, he will be stationed at Ft. Bliss for the remaining six months of his enlistment.

National Young Democrats Seat Texas Loyalists

The "loyalist" faction of Texas Young Democrats won the blessing Sunday of the organization's National Executive Committee.

Gov. Allan Shivers and spokesmen for the "conservative" faction immediately protested the committee's action at Providence, R.I. The committee voted 61 to 0 to recognize the loyalists and reject the conservatives. Eleven committee members did not vote.

Shivers learned about it while he was campaigning for governor at McAllen. He immediately fired a statement saying "this is another example of the thought control tactics I have been talking about." He promised a fight.

Generally, the loyalists are those who supported Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson for president in 1952. The conservatives are those who, with Shivers, switched to GOP nominee Dwight Eisenhower.

Shivers said the conservative group had defeated the loyalists in convention in Texas under "rules agreed upon in a meeting presided over by Mrs. H. Weisert of Seguin, a Stevenson supporter two years ago." Mrs. Weisert is Democratic national committeewoman from Texas.

"This is another example of the thought control tactics I have been talking about," said Shivers. "After we beat them, following those rules, they changed the rules at the national convention."

The committee endorsement of its Credentials Committee action was praised by Oscar Maury, a member of the loyalist delegation to Providence, as "a complete repudiation of Gov. Shivers and his conspiracy of Texas politics."

Maury said his group, armed with recognition, will seek to organize all young party members who will take a "loyalty oath" to party nominees.

J. W. McCormick Jr., Wichita Falls, speaking for the conservatives, assailed the decision as "a dictatorial, illegal and undemocratic action by the radical left wingers who has determined to take over the national party."

McCormick told the Young Democratic ruling body that their action was ordered by Stephen A. Mitchell, a national Democratic chairman.

Delegates from Kentucky and North Carolina supported the conservative faction in arguments preceding the balloting but abstained from voting.

Shivers said: "I have been fighting this group for a long time. I am going to keep on fighting for the true principles of the great Democratic party established by our forefathers."

"They refused to seat this group (the conservatives) simply because it did not agree with them and they do not like the bidding of the pinko-left wing fringe which it defeated in Texas."

Quannah Girl Still In Hospital Here

Kay Hanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hanna Jr. of Quannah, continues to convalesce at the Big Spring Hospital from injuries sustained July 4.

She was pinned underneath a car which was involved in a collision here and hot water from a punctured radiator inflicted third degree burns on her left leg.

The family had just started on a vacation when the accident occurred. Her mother has been at her bedside since then and during the past two weekends her brother, John James Hanna III, and Kenneth McNabb of Quannah have visited her.

James E. Wilson, who is charged here with felony theft, was to be brought to Big Spring from Caldwell today.

He was arrested during the weekend by Caldwell authorities and Deputy Sheriff Miller Harris left Sunday to transfer the prisoner to Big Spring. Wilson was charged Mar. 19 in connection with the disappearance of funds from the Cannon Shoe Store.

Oil Recovered On Production, Drillstem Tests At 2 Wildcats

A South Borden County wildcat area this weekend had one project flowing oil on a drillstem test and another pumping oil on production tests. Two completions were logged in Howard County—one in the Luther Southeast pool and the other in the Moore field.

Hanley No. 1 Beal, wildcat in South Borden, pumped 63.3 barrels of oil and 25 barrels of water in 18 hours. Hanley No. 1-B Beal, offset wildcat, flowed at the rate of 20 barrels of oil per hour. Both prospectors are about 14 miles south of Gall and some seven miles west of Reinecke production.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1-B Phipps in the Luther Southeast field recorded a 24-hour pumping potential of 44 barrels of oil and 188 barrels of water. Lone Star No. 5 Mittle Walters in the Moore field had potential of 60.12 barrels of oil and 11.69 barrels of water.

NW, 22-36-4n, T&P survey, is trying to regain lost circulation at 11,135 feet in lime. A drillstem test in the Fusselman between 11,850 and 11,890 feet had recovery of 1,020 feet of drilling mud and 10,550 feet of salt water. There were no shows. The test was for five hours and 58 minutes.

Vega No. 1 Pool C SW SE, 123-M-EL&HR survey, has bit turning below 7,110 feet in lime and chert. Lone Star No. 4 Walters, 990 from north and west lines, 34-34-1n, T&P survey, pumped 107.60 barrels of water and 24.84 barrels of oil in 24 hours. Operator is still testing from perforations between 3,171 and 3,124 feet.

Guthrie No. 4-H Hewett is a new Moore field location about five miles southwest of Big Spring. It will be drilled to 5,300 feet, starting at 3,300 feet. Location is 330 from south and west lines, east half, north-west quarter, 30-33-1s, T&P survey.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1 Hayden, C SW SW, 47-32-3n, T&P survey, got down to 5,974 feet in lime. Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1 Simpson, C NE SE, 3-32-2n, T&P survey, set and cemented 8 1/2 inch intermediate casing at 3,109 feet. Operator will drill plug and go deeper.

Amerada No. 1 Whitaker, C SE NW, 17-25-H&TC survey, bored to 5,550 feet in lime and sand. Warren No. 1 Dorothy Iden, 330 from south and east lines, west half, northeast quarter, 26-33-3n, T&P survey, is reported at 6,495 feet in lime and shale.

Oceanic No. 6 J. F. Winans, C NE SE, 25-33-3n, T&P survey, hit 6,266 feet in lime and shale. Southern Minerals No. 1 W. H. Homan, C SE NW, 45-33-3n, T&P survey, has been plugged and abandoned at 9,090 feet. Reef was topped at 9,040 feet, with elevation of 2,688. There were no shows.

Standin No. 1 Brown, C NE SE, 15-34-3n, T&P survey, is squeezing oil perforations from 8,250 to 8,232 feet to cut off water. These perforations are just above the lower Spraberry. Attempts are being made to cut off the water so that tests can be made of the Dean sand slightly lower.

FLANDERS

"We shall we put within it?" "I put within it a picture of confusion in leadership to which the senator from Wisconsin has made a major contribution."

"The next frame" Flanders outlined stemmed, he said, from his "experiences of repeated visits to Germany in the period between the two wars."

"Hitler exploited the issue of communism, and on it he rose to power," Flanders went on. "When it became convenient, he allied himself with it. . . . He set his nation against the Jews. . . . He destroyed free labor unions. He set up his private police force and spy system. He worked toward, and ultimately achieved for himself, the sole authority in government, in business and in society in general. Curiously enough his financial support came from wealthy businessmen. . . ."

"Each of these features finds its parallel, though it must be admitted to a weaker degree, in the career of the junior senator from Wisconsin."

"The most disturbing resemblance," Flanders said, was what he called a McCarthy attempt in an earlier Senate investigation to prove American soldiers tortured false confessions from "Nazi ruffians" who had killed American prisoners of war. Flanders said the investigation, of the Malmady massacres of World War II, proved otherwise, but the affair does "fit in neatly with the other parallels between the amateurish senator from Wisconsin and the accomplished and successful dictator of Germany."

The Vermont senator said McCarthy has rendered "a not inconsiderable service" in alerting Americans to the danger of internal subversion. "But his greatest service," Flanders said, "is in giving us the opportunity to appraise our national political morality in this year of our Lord 1954."

In Concert Tonight

The Bel Canto Chorus of Boies Orphans Home, Quinlan, will be presented in concert at 8 p.m. today at the Church of Christ, 14th and Main. The chorus is on a national tour. Tex Williams, chorus manager and tour director, will tell of the work at Boies Home, about 50 miles east of Dallas. Directing the chorus will be A. Hugh Graham and Paul Roberts Oler, the latter the student leader. Program will include hymns, spirituals, sextet and quartet selections.

Oil Recovered On Production, Drillstem Tests At 2 Wildcats

A South Borden County wildcat area this weekend had one project flowing oil on a drillstem test and another pumping oil on production tests. Two completions were logged in Howard County—one in the Luther Southeast pool and the other in the Moore field.

Hanley No. 1 Beal, wildcat in South Borden, pumped 63.3 barrels of oil and 25 barrels of water in 18 hours. Hanley No. 1-B Beal, offset wildcat, flowed at the rate of 20 barrels of oil per hour. Both prospectors are about 14 miles south of Gall and some seven miles west of Reinecke production.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1-B Phipps in the Luther Southeast field recorded a 24-hour pumping potential of 44 barrels of oil and 188 barrels of water. Lone Star No. 5 Mittle Walters in the Moore field had potential of 60.12 barrels of oil and 11.69 barrels of water.

Blood Brigade Formed To Save Life Of Boy, 6

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Town-folk formed a blood brigade today to save the life of 6-year-old Eddie Phillips, who has been bleeding steadily since his tonsils were removed 13 days ago.

His unnamed disease, a certain deficiency in the blood, prevents the blood from clotting. He needs fresh blood and direct transfusions. Stored blood will not do.

This industrial city of 34,000 in southwest Ohio has responded with hundreds of offers of transfusions. More than 40 pints of blood have been pumped into the youngster already.

Eddie's physician said the boy was in critical condition but his spirits were good. The bleeding is centered in the throat and a tube has been inserted below it to allow him to take in oxygen. This prevents Eddie from talking, but he cheerfully shakes his head yes or no when questions are put to him.

The doctor said the youngster was not suffering from hemophilia, a similar disease which makes people bleed when slightly wounded. The doctor said it was a strange, unnamed malady. The blood is deficient in one element one day and another element the next day.

Before Eddie underwent the tonsilectomy, his blood was tested. The noncoagulation showed up after surgery.

Mrs. Ruth Jones, secretary of the Presbyterian Church, said the first appeal for type O blood brought 180 offers from private citizens. One industrial plant, Armco, reported 417 employees ready to donate blood for the boy.

"The response is just out of this world," said Mrs. Jones, who has been accepting offers of blood for Eddie.

Two Fires Caused By Children's Play

Children playing with matches caused two fires here Sunday, according to records at the city fire department.

One outside wall to a house at 807 West 4th was burned, firemen said. The fire occurred about 12:30 p.m. and damage was limited to the wall. A. F. Hill lives in the house.

The other fire was in a garage at 208 NE 2nd, which belongs to Eunice Gully. Air conditioner pads and part of the garage facilities were burned. This fire occurred about 9:30 a.m.

Three Die In Head-On Accident Near Waco

WACO (AP)—Three persons were killed and a fourth critically injured in a head-on collision early this morning just outside Waco's city limits.

Killed in one of the cars were Luther A. Carroll, about 30, and Mrs. Violet Cohen, 21. Killed in the other car was Ernest M. Lourd, 28, a Negro. Another Negro, Lovene Ross, about 38, was in critical condition. All were from Waco.

The wreckage of Lake Erie is about 30 feet above sea level, varying up or down slightly at different times.

McCARTHY

He said some of his staff members are trying to resign, against his wishes.

He did not name them, but said they are persons who have done "a most outstanding job" and whose loss to the committee "would be one of the greatest victories the Communist party could achieve."

He said he would make a further announcement on the subject later today or tomorrow.

McCarty arrived about 20 minutes late for the scheduled start of the hearing, and promptly took ecstatic note of the absence of all Democratic members.

He said "my three Democrat colleagues" had been trying to "discredit" the subcommittee's Red hunting. He termed their absence today "a happy situation."

McCarty did not mention demands from a fourth member, Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) for a staff shakeup before starting hearings. He said Potter was in Michigan, and the other two Republican members were tied up with work in other committees. They are Sen. Mayhew (D) and Duggan (R).

Ray M. Cohn, chief counsel, whose main partner and the three Democratic members reportedly are making particularly, who was absent.

McCarty announced that Cohn's "mother's only brother" was killed in a fall from a balcony and that Cohn was attending the funeral.

Jones Station Open Over 103 Hours Weekly

Personnel of the Relerce Jones Humble Service Station, located at 401 Scurry Street, remain on duty over 103 hours weekly in catering to the motoring public.

The station is opened at 6:30 a. m. and closed at 9 p. m. every day except Sunday. On that day, a closing hour of 5 p. m. is respected.

Relerce Jones, owner and operator of the station bearing his name, has been a filling station attendant and operator for three decades.

He has been a Big Spring resident for the past quarter of a century, during which he has maintained service stations in several different places.

The station he now has is conveniently situated near the business district, so that customers can complete downtown shopping tours while their automobiles are being serviced.

The Jones station specializes in complete servicing jobs, from washing and greasing to the changing of crankcase oil.

Jones also has available a pick-up truck, with which he can offer emergency service. Those who have exhausted their supply of gasoline or who have a flat tire have but to call the station to get the job remedied.

The Jones Service Station, as the name implies, stocks the very best Humble products, including premium gasoline and motor oils.

Dial 4-9392 for automotive service the Jones way.

Toby's Fast Chick Serves Shrimp, Chicken, Pastries

From the kitchens of Toby's Fast Chick buyers may obtain shrimp, chicken and pastries.

Toby's, with its clean kitchens open for the public to see, prepares chicken to meet all demands. They may be obtained as whole, half, all white, all dark, drumsticks, gizzards, livers, or mixed. Fried shrimp are sold in any desired quantity. With the chicken comes gravy and french fries, and with the shrimp comes Toby's own tartar sauce and fried onion rings.

Toby's pastries include doughnuts, nuts, brownies, pies, and hot rolls, all prepared in the kitchens. Free delivery service is given on any size order.

Toby's Fast Chick means just what it says, owner Toby Cook, who has operated the business since its establishment three years ago, says.

Operating adjacent to Toby's Fast Chick are an ice house and Toby's Drive-In Grocery. They are located at 1801 Gregg.

Ice is available in small and large bags and in blocks ranging from 12 1/2 to 100 pounds. Ice cold watermelons are available at the ice house.

A specialty of the grocery is a wide variety of pit barbecued meats. Included are chicken, ham, ribs, tamales, beef, and pork. Barbecue sandwiches also may be purchased. Also sold are all types of luncheon and regular meats.

Potato salad, chili, chicken salad, and brown beans, prepared by Toby's may also be bought. Also available is a complete line of groceries and picnic needs.

Each of Toby's businesses is open seven days a week from 7 a. m. until 10 p. m.

Cornelison Staff

Williams Distributes U. S. Airco Coolers

The "most flexible air conditioning package on the market" is on display and may be secured at Williams Sheet Metal Works, at 201 Benton Street in Big Spring.

It is the U. S. Airco unit, which is guaranteed to meet the demands of every operating and installation condition — industrial, commercial or residential.

The Williams shop is equipped to perform any job in sheet metal, including duct work for air conditioning and heating systems. Workmen are skilled through years of experience and training.

"Your sheet metal problem is our business" is the slogan of the concern.

W. C. Williams will be happy to confer personally with any resident on any sheet metal or air conditioning problem. He will provide an estimate on the cost of any job, and go over details of installation or construction, all without obligation on the part of the businessman or homeowner. The telephone number is 4-6791.

A fire boat can pump as much water as about 20 fire truck pumps.

W. C. Williams, owner and manager of Williams Sheet Metal Works, invites businessmen and homeowners from throughout the area to inspect the U. S. Airco refrigerative air conditioners.

The units may be installed singly or in multiples to fit the demands of a small home or the largest commercial or industrial building.

The equipment also may be installed with or without duct work. Williams points out that there is a five-year warranty on the compressor motor of the U. S. Airco air conditioner. Warranty on all other parts extends over a one-year period.

Williams Sheet Metal Works also supplies this area with evaporativetype air conditioners. Installation of the equipment is one of the specialties of the firm.

Cayuses, Spudders Meet Here Tonight

Their chances for a first division finish somewhat the worse for wear, the Big Spring Broncs set up shop here for a three-night "make-or-break" home stand. The Steeds play a singleton with the Sweetwater Spudders here this evening, then square off with Midland on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday, hostilities in the league will cease for the annual All-Star game, which will be played in Carlsbad. This is the first of two one-night invasions Sweetwater will make in Big Spring this year. The other occurs on Aug. 4. Chances are Albert Hill or Tito Arenchiba will toe the mound for the Cayuses.

Boys Ranch Going Deep Sea Fishing, Thanks To Freeprot
 AMARILLO, July 18 (P)—Because the owner of a fishing boat service saw two lonely little boys on a pier a year ago, Boys Ranch is going deep sea fishing.
 The boys of the ranch were en route today to Freeprot, where Gilbert Darland, owner of the boat service, and other Freeprot citizens will treat the youngsters to a fishing excursion.
 Darland about a year ago noticed two small boys, Buster Bones, 5, and his brother, Danny, 6, playing on the pier. He learned they were practically homeless and he and his wife brought them to Boys Ranch last August.
 This year he thought it would be a good idea to give the youngsters and their buddies a fishing trip. Freeprot residents are helping. The Burlington Railway agreed to furnish transportation to Houston and buses will take them on to Freeprot.

Philadelpha Hit By Bird Disease
 PHILADELPHIA (P)—The bird departments in six city stores have been closed in an effort to combat the virus disease, psittacosis, or parrot fever, the Philadelphia Health Department has disclosed.
 The department said 30 cases of the disease had been reported in the city. Acting Health Commissioner Dr. Norman I. Ingraham said this was "near epidemic proportions."

Yarborough, Shivers Both Ask For Votes Of Latin Americans

By The Associated Press
 Ralph Yarborough said Sunday he had been warned that funds are being set up in East Texas "to steal the votes in certain counties." It was the latest charge in a piping hot race for governor that found Yarborough and Gov. Allan Shivers carrying their campaigns through Sunday as the Democratic primary loomed only five days away. And both aimed their campaign pleas Sunday to Latin-American voters.

Yarborough did not elaborate on his vote steal charge. His statement: "I've been warned that in East Texas they are setting up money funds there to steal the vote in certain counties."

He added that this means Democrats must win the campaign by at least 100,000 votes. This was another way of hitting at Shivers' support of Republican candidates in the last presidential election.

The charge was made in an address before the convention of the American GI Forum, made up mainly of Latin-American military veterans.

At Mission, where he dedicated a hospital Sunday, Shivers said many voters are switching from Yarborough because "they don't like a campaign based on wild charges without proof and wild promise without substance."

With many Latin-Americans in the audience at the dedication, Shivers said that during his administration, Texas built for Latin-Americans the first tuberculosis hospital ever provided in an area of predominantly Latin-American population. He claimed that while he has been governor the death rate from tuberculosis has been reduced from 2,500 five years ago to 1,079 last year.

Yarborough countered at Houston for the Latin-American vote by declaring, "I do not think the Latins have had the participation to which they are entitled. I pledge that as of next January, the Latins will have full participation."

The former Austin district judge said Shivers has become worried and rushed back to the Lower Rio Grande Valley Sunday "to patch up his own fences." He also said Shivers has "done nothing to stop the wetback tide, done nothing to enforce the anti-Communist laws of the state." He said immigration officials recently reported that 100 Communists a day are slipping across the Rio Grande at El Paso.

There were other political developments.

Byron Skelton of Temple urged Sunday that Texas Republicans vote in their own primaries instead of voting "as Democrats in the Democratic primary for fellow-Republican Allan Shivers." He, too, was referring to Shivers' support of Dwight Eisenhower two years ago.

"Republicans have been clamoring for years to make Texas a 2-party state," he said. "If they are sincere in these statements, they will build their own party by voting in their own primary July 24th for 'Old Adams' their own candidate for governor."

"If they are insincere on the matter, they will turn their backs on Adams and their own Republican party and vote as Democrats in the Democratic primary for fellow-Republican Allan Shivers who is running as a Democrat..."

Skelton is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Texas Democratic Advisory Council, formed after a split between the state's regular Democratic organization, headed by Shivers, and the national party—again over support of Republican candidates.

The Freedom party of South Texas Sunday held its first rally in San Diego—at a recreation center across the street from headquarters of George Parr, foe of the party and controversial South Texas political figure currently under indictment.

Shivers has claimed Yarborough has not denied that he is seeking the votes of George Parr.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 ate barbecue at San Diego and heard speakers tear into Parr's Old Party. The chairman of the United Wives and Mothers of Duval County, Mrs. J. J. Trevino, drew applause when she endorsed the candidacy of Shivers and Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd.

Shivers Monday had speeches scheduled at McAllen, Brownsville, Fort Isabel, Los Fresnos, San Benito, Harlingen, La Feria, Mercedes, Weslaco, Donna, Alamo and Pharr. He returns to McAllen Monday night for a statewide broadcast.

He will fly to Denison in northeast Texas Tuesday to speak at a Baptist Brotherhood rally. Wednesday he will speak at the Post-Graduate Medical Assembly of South Texas at Houston. Wednesday afternoon he will tour the Baytown-Pasadena area and that night has radio and TV broadcasts planned. He will make a Thursday morning radio talk from Houston, go to Dallas for more radio and TV appearances and close his campaign with a statewide radio talk from his Woodville farm home Friday night.

Yarborough will be in Austin Monday and will make a statewide radio broadcast from there Monday night. He will campaign in the Houston area Tuesday and make local TV appearances at Galveston and Houston Tuesday night. After a Wednesday morning statewide broadcast from Houston, he will make another swing through East Texas.

Ex-Sen. Moody Leaves Hospital

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP)—"Unusual personal stamina" was credited for the recovery of former Democratic Sen. Blair Moody, 52, discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday following a three-week bout with virus pneumonia.

He entered the hospital June 24. He had been stricken while touring northern Michigan in his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination this fall.

Entomologists estimate there are as many as two million different kinds of insects.

AF Denies Plans For A-Bases In Japan, Philippines

TOKYO (AP)—Top U. S. Air Force sources said today the United States has no present plans to use either Japan or The Philippines as a base for atom or hydrogen bomb-carrying planes.

Japan was eliminated as a direct result of pressure from the Japanese government, which did

Will the car you buy NOW keep its value NEXT YEAR?

Only Ford has the modern features today that other low-priced cars may have next year!

FORD HAS IT NOW!

NOT YET!

WHO KNOWS?

The styling and engineering refinements in a few cars have progressed markedly in recent years. But some cars have fallen behind. When the manufacturers of such cars try to "catch up" by introducing radically different models . . . their current-model cars will suffer greatly by comparison and lose a great deal of the trade-in value they should retain normally. Ford has been a leader in setting the styling trend . . . and in developing engineering advancements that make for better performance and more pleasurable driving. So you can count on the Ford you buy NOW to hold onto its full share of normal trade-in value.

Worth more when you buy it . . . FORD . . . Worth more when you sell it

TEST DRIVE THE CAR THAT'S THE BEST DEAL THIS YEAR . . . your best bet for next year!
