'Quakes, Tidal Waves Reported In Pacific

Saturday Disturbances Roll Destruction Across Ocean

By UNITED PRESS
Two new strong earthquakes were reported today in the vicinity of the Aleutian Islands where two severe shocks on Saturday rolled a damaging tidal wave across the Pacific.

Fordham University seismographs recorded the latest quake at 5:09:34 and 5:17:29 a.m. EST, from a distance of 4,200 miles northwest of New York City. The Rev. Joseph Lynch estimated the new shock had an intensity of 5, which he described as "destructive, but not a rip-shorter."

The Saturday quake which fanned a destructive tidal wave against the shores of Hawaii, Japan and California, had an estimated force of 8.

Father Lynch also reported that a quake, also with an intensity of 5, was recorded at 10:23:36 p.m. (est.) Sunday. A similar shock was reported to have been recorded Sunday morning at 10:35:38 (est.).

Two persons lost their lives as an indirect result of Saturday's tidal wave in Hawaii. Sarah Park, 19, reported from the Honolulu Star Bulletin, and a pilot, Paul Beam, were killed when the small plane from which they were observing the tidal wave crashed into the ocean.

Gov. Samuel Wilder King of Hawaii declared the north coast of Kauai Island a disaster area. Territorial officials estimated the damage at "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The tidal wave washed away two small villages, destroying 30 homes and four bridges. Damage was slight elsewhere in the Hawaiian Islands but the beaches were littered with dead fish and debris.

In Japan, waves two to three feet high hit the eastern coast of Hokkaido, Japan's most northern island, early Sunday the tidal wave destroyed or damaged 145 homes and 18 boats.

Reports of the tidal wave caused an alert up and down the California coast. Hours after the disaster was thought to be over, a sweep of water swept into San Diego Bay Saturday night, causing minor damage to five private boats and causing $5000 damage to floating wooden docks.

Officers of the sheriff's department were rounding up suspects today in a case where a car, belonging to Mrs. Jack Davis of Oklahoma City, had the window knocked out and clothing hanging in it stolen.

Officials said that the offense happened about midnight Saturday, and the damages listed by Mrs. Davis were in the amount of $144.27, almost all of it for the stolen clothing.

The suspects, most of them youths, were being questioned by officers of the sheriff's department throughout most of the morning.

Action On Two Bills Expected In Austin

By O. B. LLOYD Jr.
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN (UP)—Action on a record $2 billion spending bill and a measure to eliminate the April 2 special U. S. Senate election were expected this week as the legislature moves into the last half of its 120-day session.

The lawmakers will also resume three investigations now underway and may see action on Gov. Price Daniel's weekend request for a state law enforcement commission.

Floor action on the all-time high money bill will probably come Tuesday, House Appropriations Committee chairman Rep. Max of San Marcos said.

Rehearsal in Rehearsal
The House and Senate investigations into the collapsed ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas also were to resume. The House group meets at 2 p. m., the Senate group later in the week.

The House committee probing charges former Rep. James E. Cox agreed to take a $5,000 bribe has not set a date for its next meeting, but Rep. Wade Spilman of McAllen, chairman, indicated the group was awaiting completion of outside investigations before resuming the hearings.

Sen. Charles Herring of Austin said he would seek early action on his measure to continue interim appointees. Sen. William Elliott in January, 1955, which would throw 22 candidates out of something to run for. Twenty Democrats and two Republicans are in the process of running for the position now in the April 2 election called by Gov. Daniel.

Daniel Urges Speed
The Pool bill, which would have created a runoff in the special election, ran out of gas in the Senate, failing by three necessary votes, and the governor implied it was dead, saying he knew of no three senators who "intend to change their mind."

Restaurant Clinic To Start Tuesday

Tomorrow will mark the first of a two day "Human Relations Clinic" under the instruction of Travis Elliott, restaurant management consultant. The classes will be held, three a day, at the Southwestern Public Service Company's main auditorium.

The first class for restaurant employees will be held from 9 until 10 a. m. with the lesson being covered from 7 until 8 in the evening. A class for restaurant owners and managers will be held from 3 until 4 p. m. on both days.

Loise Caldwell, chairman of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce which is presenting the clinic, in cooperation with the Panhandle Restaurant Association, has announced that the clinic is opened to any persons wishing to attend, and not just to restaurant employees alone. He pointed out that it might be of special benefit to anyone interested in the food business.

Elliott is nationally known as a management and personnel consultant, author and lecturer, and holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in management.

The clinic is in keeping with the Panhandle Restaurant Association's attempt to improve the service and the food served in restaurants throughout Pampa.

Pampan's Mother Dies In Akron, O.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fuller, 813 E. Francis, were due to leave tonight for Akron, Ohio, to attend the funeral of his mother, a former Pampan, Mrs. H. T. Fuller.

Mrs. Fuller died early this morning. Funeral services are to be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Schermeiser Funeral Home in Akron.

Harvester Basketball 'Welcomed Home' Today

A tremendous "welcome home" was expected to be given to the Pampa High School Harvester basketball team at 3 p. m. today on their return from the State Basketball Tournament at Austin.

The Harvesters were state runners-up in the tournament, bowing to Port Arthur in the finals. On Friday, they had defeated the Austin Maroons to gain the finals. Their record for the season is 28 wins and two losses.

The team was to be met by city and county peace officers near the National Guard Armory and escorted into town to join a short parade which was to be held from the Junior High building to the front of the LaNora Theater. A stand was used in front of the theater, from which the Harvesters were old of Pampa's admiration and appreciation for their efforts. City, school and chamber of commerce officials were expected to be on hand for short speeches, after which the team was to be taken to Johnson's Cafe for refreshments.

New Mid-East Crisis Flares Up With Refugees In Gaza

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Egypt speeded clearance of the Suez Canal today, but a new Middle East crisis flared in the Gaza Strip where pro-Egyptian Arab refugees demonstrated against United Nations control.

Israeli villagers along the Gaza border demanded protection of the Israeli army against a new series of raids by Egyptian Fedayeen commandos this weekend and Israel warned officially the Gaza situation was nearing the explosion point.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, assistant U.N. secretary general, flew from Cairo to Gaza today with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force, to study the riots against the UNEF and the refusal of local officials to cooperate with the U.N.

The Gaza situation reached a peak Sunday when Danish and Norwegian troops of the UNEF fired shots over the heads of 3,000 Arabs besieging U.N. headquarters and drove the crowd back with rifle butts and tear gas. Several shots were reported fired at UNEF patrols on the streets of Gaza.

Israel Shows Concern
Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir showed Israel's concern over the developments when she stated that "unless the UNEF can effectively perform its task of preventing Fedayeen raids . . . the situation there will inevitably become explosive."

It appeared the demonstrators would force the U.N. to make a major political decision sooner than it hoped—when and if it would return the Gaza Strip to Egypt over Israeli protests.

One bright spot in the dark Middle East was an announcement in Bahrain that Saudi Arabian oil was flowing to the big refinery there for the first time since last fall's invasion of Egypt. And Suleiman Mudarres, chief representative of the Iraq Petroleum Co. in Syria, said oil pumping operations would be resumed across Syria in the next two days. Pipeline were blown up at start of the invasion.

Ship Removal Progressing
Another was an announcement in Ismailia in the canal zone that Egyptian frogmen had begun removing explosives from the sunken ship Edgar Bonnet and that approval for the ship's removal would be given to Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler during the day.

The ship, sunk midway down the canal, and the frigate Abukir, sunk near the entrance to Suez harbor, are the only two obstacles holding up passage of large ships through the waterway. Already 10 ships were waiting to pass through the canal when it is reopened in about three weeks.

Weekend statements by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt insisting that British and French ships pay full passage to Egypt once the canal is reopened was causing concern in Western capitals.

Local Adults Go To School

Business and professional people of Pampa went back to school this morning as Education, Business and Industry day was kicked off in all the city schools with an assembly program.

The estimated number of Pampa business people attending as guests of the faculty was 170. They were paired off with instructors assigned them by the principals of the schools which they visited.

Following the assembly program, the business people accompanied their host for the day to his and her respective class room where they sat in on the instructions which continued unchanged. They were guests of the faculty for lunch, and once again a chance to discuss the various phases of school life was taken advantage of by all.

Following lunch the teachers and their guests returned to the class rooms to observe one more class after which the business men and women returned to their respective jobs.

The affair was a change from the procedure followed in recent years whereby the teachers had been the guests of business and industry for the day previously known as Business, Industry and Education Day.

HELPING HAND — Bela Bogmar, newly arrived Hungarian refugee, steps forward to meet the outstretched hand of Forrest Hills, his sponsor from Pampa, on his arrival yesterday morning on the Santa Fe No. 1 from Camp Kilmer, N. J. Watching the proceedings is Mrs. Bogmar. The Bogmars arrived yesterday morning with their daughter, Ildiko, who is 10. They are the first Hungarian escapees to come to this community. Hungarian Family Finds New Life In 'Our Town'

By BOB PEREZ
Pampa News Staff Writer
As they shook hands, the strangeness and the questioning looks were all there. This was their new home. What would it be like? What would these people be like? They seemed friendly enough. But were they just extending a hand and nothing more? Might this just be another form of the same type of propaganda and foolishness they had been exposed to for years under the Communist yoke which offered many a hand, but nothing to eat and nothing to wear?

This little drama could be read by the discerning eye in the faces of Pampa's newest family, Mr. and Mrs. Bela Bogmar and their ten year old daughter Ildiko, as they stepped from the Santa Fe No. 1 into a new life and, in a sense, a new world, which had been open to them by the Forrest Hills family of Pampa.

On hand to meet them were Pampa's Mayor Lynn Boyd and Mayor Malouf Abraham of Canadian. Abraham had also brought with him the Horvath family whom he and the people of Canadian had recently sponsored for a new start in that city.

The Bogmar family had seen much in the years that Hungary had suffered under the Communist regime. Shoes at 550 forint; a suit at 1600 forint; and this with the average salary of the worker at 1000 forint a month. It had long been a question of either eating or dressing or, at times, neither.

Bela Bogmar had seen enough and had, along with several million others long since had his fill. Thus it was, that when the radio stations started broadcasting rebellion and asked the workers to stop their work and told the Russian troops to leave Budapest, Bela put down his tools and walked off to join the bloody rebellion which was soon to follow.

They set up road blocks along the city's streets, and for a while it seemed as though their swift action might have brought results. But their satisfaction was not long lived as Russian troops, weapons and armor were rushed into the city and exploded the barricades.

Then the arrests. Thousands of students and workers who had been a part of, or even suspected of being a part of (although Bela admits that there were few who were not), the revolt were arrested, and either shot as examples or turned over for deportation to what Bogmar refers to as "Siberia". This term, he pointed out, is that used for any kind of deportation into Russia, since the deported are never heard from again.

He had loved his Hungary, but the situation as it now existed, and as it had existed for the past fifteen or so years, showed little sign of improvement and even less sign that it might. To stay in Hungary now, with the Russian masters calling in their expert weight lifters for a show of muscle, would mean certain deportation and/or death. So Bela Bogmar, his wife Rosalie, and his ten year old daughter picked up what little belongings they had and could muster together and headed for the Austrian border.

On Nov. 29, (the revolt had started Oct. 23), they crossed the Andau Bridge, frail structure over which tens of thousands of Hungarians made their way across the Elmsner Canal into Austria until the Russians destroyed it. They reached a refugee camp (in Austria) where they stayed for the next three and one half months, until their names were called and added to the list of escapees being allowed into the United States. At first the name "America" did not mean too much to them, although they felt sure that anywhere would be better than what they had just left, even if it was their home land.

They arrived in Camp Kilmer, N.J., on Feb. 18, and there they stayed until they were notified by officials of the Catholic Relief Agency that a Pampa family had volunteered to sponsor them and had offered them the opportunity of employment and a fresh start in the game of life which, frankly, they had almost come to feel was not worth playing.

Bela Bogmar had been a weaver in a textile mill and had also done upholstering and other furniture work. His salary was 1100 forint, which is equal, roughly, to $30 in American currency, and a few hundred forint above the average wage in Hungary.

The percentage of Communists in Hungary, Bela says, is very small. They are, he said, but a handful of people who run the government and the lives of the people and a very few workers. (See HUNGARIAN, Page 3)

LONGINES SYMPHONETTE—The Pampa Community Concert Association will present a concert by the Longines Symphonette tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Junior High School auditorium. The concert is by membership only and renewal of memberships for next year will be taken tomorrow night by members of the board of directors of the association.

Community Concert Presents The Longines Symphonette

The "World's Most Honored Music" by the "World's Most Distinguished Ensemble," the Longines Symphonette is scheduled for the Junior High Auditorium at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

The symphonette, under the direction of Mihal Piastro, has recently been voted the "Top Award" of Musical America Magazine in a recent poll of over 800 music critics in the United States, Canada and Mexico. This is the fifth consecutive year the group has received this award.

The concert is under the auspices of the Pampa Community Concert Association and will be one of the engagements in an eight-week tour for the musical group. This is the seventh annual season of personal appearances and the tour will take them through the United States, east of the Rocky Mountains, and also through a portion of Canada.

The Longines' speciality is the playing of shorter selections and "movements" by the greatest composers, as well as many "lighter" pieces. The group is referred to as "the average man's symphony orchestra."

The concert tomorrow will afford Pampans a night in a New York City radio studio. Michel Piastro and his 31 musicians will play their same beloved semi-classical and shorter compositions only from the masterpieces.

The period from March 18-23 will mark the annual drive for membership in the 1957-58 concert season by the Community Concert Association and members will be given an opportunity tomorrow night to renew their memberships for next year. Members of the board of directors of the organization will be in the auditorium foyer prior to the concert to take applications for next year's membership.

Guilty Plea In County Court

Milton L. Butler pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of swindling with a worthless check in county court.

Butler was filed on by Richard Drug for a check in the amount of $20 and dated Sept. 5, 1956. He was fined $1 and made restitution for the check.

Graduate Nurses Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of the Texas Graduate Nurses Association will be held at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow in the dining room of Highland General Hospital.

Dr. Walter Bertinot will discuss the care and treatment of cardiac diseases. All nurses are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Dorothy C. Murtry, R.N.

Miss Belva McCathern Honored With Pre-Nuptial Courtesy And Program

(Special to The News)
By MRS. CHARLES ROBERTS
Pampa News Correspondent
LEFORS — Miss Belva McCathern, bride-elect of Wayne Harris, was honored with a pre-nuptial shower in the Civic Center. The program consisted of a pageant on "The Life Of Belva", narrated by Mrs. Bob Beatty, assisted by Mrs. J. M. McPherson at the piano.

Beginning with her birth, highlights in the honoree's life were presented by Mrs. M. E. Bigham, sister of the honoree, playing the part of her mother, when she was born in a small, wood-frame house; her fifth birthday party portrayed by Misses Sheila Collins, Beverly Nobles, Paula Wall, and Octavia Pinkerton; the beginning of school days by Misses Joyce Ann Carlson; playmates by Misses Naomi Collins, Carolyn Todd, and Glenna Gee; sleepwalking by Miss Nancy Bryant.

Her first date was portrayed by Miss Carolyn Barrett and David Roberts; graduation from junior high and first formal by Miss Karen Carruth; elected Freshman Class Favorite by Miss Barbara Henry in western regalia; Future Homemakers of America by Miss Judy Lane.

Portraying editor of Freshman class annual by Miss Ruthie Martin; cheerleader by Miss Faye Roe; football queen attendant by Miss Darlene Ford; head cheerleader by Miss Eleanor Martin; "Who's Who" in English by Miss Gayle Henson; best all-around girl by Miss Annette Qualline; at the junior-senior banquet, by Miss Francine Qualline; a sweet girl graduate from high school by Miss Felice Elliott; first employment by Miss Pat Carpenter; college days at ACC by Miss Felice Elliott.

Becoming engaged, portrayed by Miss Barbara Henry. The "Life of Belva" was concluded with a mock wedding with Miss Eleanor Martin, as the bride; Miss Darlene Ford as the maid of honor; and Misses Lynn Fish and Diane Hughes as flower-girls.

Mrs. Bob Beatty and L. E. Welborn composed a reading, entitled "To Belva and Wayne," which was presented by Miss Johnny Sue Cornett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cornett, Pampa.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. R. C. Ogden, G. O. Carruth, Bob Fish, Walter Hughes, Bob Beatty, James Welborn, Luther Welborn, R. T. Jinks, J. C. Roberts, Earl Lane, Foy Barrett, Ed Bryant and Misses Eleanor Martin, Darlene Ford, and Felice Elliott.

The color scheme throughout the receiving room was blue and white, favorite colors of the honoree. Blue and white birds were hanging from lights and also on the maypole with blue and white streamers which centered the blue and white lace covered nest in which the gifts were displayed.

The serving table was laid with a lace cloth over blue centered with white gladiolas flanked by blue candles in crystal holders. A smaller table also laid with a white cloth centered with the honoree's portrait and white candles in crystal holders on each side was set with the honoree's crystal, silver, china and also a piece of her stainless steel.

A corsage of white carnations with blue ribbon was presented to the honoree. Mrs. James Welborn registered the guests. Refreshments of cake and punch were served with Miss Darlene Ford presiding at the punch bowl and Miss Eleanor Martin serving the cake assisted by Miss Felice Elliott and Misses James Welborn, Ed Bryant, and Walter Hughes.

Approximately 120 persons were present and 70 gifts were sent. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. O. R. Eddins, Warren Whiteley, R. L. McCathern, O. L. Henry, Roy Nobles, Chester Myles, M. V. Ivy, Wayne Brister, John E. Cornett, Jack Durham, Don Stafford, Gordon Rutledge and H. R. Simmons of Pampa; J. D. Hegg of Stinnett; Doc Whiteley of Boger; Bailey Whiteley of Kellon; D. W. Whiteley and Mattie Baggett of Erick; and John Nelson of Amarillo.

The next meeting will be held on March 21st in the Parish House.

Executive And General Sessions Held By Woodrow Wilson PTA Organization

The Woodrow Wilson PTA executive board met with Mrs. K. L. Green, 400 Doucette with the president, Mrs. T. C. Owens, presiding during the business session.

The Mental Health Study Course, sponsored by the PTA City Council, was discussed; also, the summer Round-Up program.

H. A. Yoder, school principal, reported that the piano recently purchased by the PTA is now on the stage of the school auditorium.

The group of officers and chairmen present voted to present the teachers with corsages or boutonnieres on Thursday morning to show their appreciation.

Coffee and cookies were served during the social hour.

Those present were Mrs. E. K. Eaker, J. Lickie, Dorothy Francis, John Brewer, E. E. Shultz, P. R. Grange, L. L. Milliren, S. M. Goodlett Jr., Burl Graham, C. A. Scott Jr. and H. A. Yoder.

The Woodrow Wilson PTA held a general session in the school auditorium Mar. 7 with Mrs. T. C. Owens, president, presiding.

The new piano, given to the school by the PTA, was used in accompaniment as the group sang "America," led by Miss Jo Moody, music instructor.

New officers were elected by the members. Elected to serve for the coming year are Mrs. Mmes. Weldon Trice, president; S. M. Goodlett Jr., vice president; John Brewer, secretary; Derrel Hogsett, treasurer; Ross Buzzard, historian; E. E. Shultz, parliamentarian; J. A. Lickie and K. L. Green, City Council representatives.

Delegates to the spring conference to be held in Gruver, April 13, were also elected. They are Mrs. Mmes. Trice and Goodlett.

Small Fry Mimic Glamour Fashions

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Spring brings with it a spate of prints and plaids for the small fry, many of them done with a wise eye to adult fashions.

There's a sound reason for this: little daughter likes to copy mother in every possible way. Shearing on lipstick is a favorite rainy-day pastime. So is the application of nail polish. Though both will probably have to be removed before dad comes home to dinner, she enjoys her few hours of make-believe.

So it follows logically that clothes that have a scaled-down resemblance to mother's find favor with little girls.

And as they are well adapted for little girl wear, they find favor with mother as well.

This Meatless Dish Is Answer With Lent Around The Corner

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Lent is just around the corner, beginning the 6th of March. You may have begun already to collect good meatless recipes for those 40 days before Easter. In any event, we think you'll welcome this one for individual salmon loaves with pickle relish sauce.

These well-seasoned loaves are enriched with instant nonfat milk. So is the sauce. Therefore your main dish will be more than delicious; it will carry its weight in nutrition, as well.

INDIVIDUAL SALMON LOAVES
(Makes 4 servings)
Two cups (one 1-pound can) red salmon, flaked; 1 cup crushed salted soda crackers; 2 1/2 cup chopped celery; 2 tablespoons minced onion; 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder; 1/2 teaspoon baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; dash of cayenne pepper; 2 eggs, beaten; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 1/2 cup water.

Mix together all ingredients. Place in four well-buttered small loaf pans or individual casseroles. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 minutes or until firm. Unmold before serving.

PICKLE RELISH SAUCE
(Makes 1 1/2 cups)
One and one-half cups liquefied instant nonfat dry milk; 3 tablespoons flour; 1 teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; 1 egg, beaten; 1/4 cup pickle relish; 1 tablespoon minced parsley; 2 tablespoons minced onions.

Pour liquefied instant nonfat dry milk into top of double boiler; sprinkle flour, salt and pepper over surface. Beat with rotary beater until just blended.

Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken. Blend a small amount of instant nonfat dry milk mixture into egg; blend egg into sauce. Stir in remaining ingredients.

Serve hot over salmon loaves.

They have, in the short time they have been in this country come to like it very much, to become a familiar thing to them. Bela, Rosalie and little (10 years old) Ildiko Bogner will be given a chance to rest up and orient themselves to a new way of life, and whatever job he finally decides he would feel best at.

Forrest Hills, his sponsor and a partner in the Hills and Hills Drilling Company of Pampa said yesterday that the next few days for this family will be devoted to resting up from its long trip and hectic routine. After that, he will be given a chance at jobs ranging from tool dressing to roustabout in the oil fields.

"He's not too familiar with the oil business," Hills said, "so I'm just going to start him out slow and see where he will fit best, and to see if that is what he wants. Actually it's all going to be up to him. But the next few days will be devoted to resting up."

And here, another story ends, oddly enough at the beginning. At the beginning of something that we, as Americans have had at our disposal every moment of our lives, but have been at times too close to see, but which the unfamiliar eye recognized immediately as something indeed precious.

hitting out home runs," Rios said. "Michel never knew what hit him," he said.

"It Was Simple" When Mrs. Hallock leaped to her feet, Fenton grabbed her while Rios hit her with the bat, according to the confessions.

"There was no struggle. There was only one little yelp. I don't think they really knew what hit them."

Rios told police he did not hesitate when Fenton offered him 30,000 pesos to wield the bat.

"I would die for 30,000 pesos," he said. "It was just the same to me—murder or robbery—when I heard about the 30,000 pesos."

Rios said he was "only a little sorry" for what he had done and "probably" would do it again, "if I got the chance."

Mexican Olympic Swimmer Drowns

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UP)—Apolonio Castillo, Mexican Olympic swimming champion was drowned early today while searching Acapulco harbor for the bodies of two murdered New York tourists.

Castillo, 32, was one of several frogmen looking for the bodies of attorney Joseph Michel, 70, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, 63, who were killed and tossed into the harbor by a Mexican travel agent and his illiterate handy man.

Castillo, who represented Mexico in the 1956 Olympics, was wearing an aqualung when he disappeared. It was not known if his oxygen failed.

Luis Fenton, 33, a hotel tourist agency owner, and Daniel Rios admitted Sunday they beat Michel and Mrs. Hallock to death with a baseball bat on Feb. 20, after robbing them of $80,000 worth of jewelry and about $160 in cash. The victims' bodies, bound in chains, were tossed from a glass-bottomed boat.

A Simple Boat Ride "It was just a matter of arranging a simple boat ride," mastermind Fenton, 33, told police.

Rios, 35-year-old father of five children, who worked for Fenton for $1.60 a day, said Fenton offered him 30,000 pesos ($2,400) to lunge Michel and the wealthy widow with a baseball bat.

The fatal voyage in a glass bottom boat lasted only 40 minutes, the murderers said, then they returned to shore and calmly took another tourist couple out into the bay to fish until 1 a.m.

Police took the confessed killers out on the boat Sunday to re-enact the crime a mile off this famous scenic resort.

The men said Michel was killed first. Fenton held the struggling Mrs. Hallock while Rios knifed her unconscious. "Just like I was

Explanation Of Defense Report Is Demanded

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators demanded an explanation today of what they called "shocking" features in a Defense Department report on how to plug military news leaks.

A House Government Operations subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) summoned members of the so-called Coolidge Committee to testify about Defense Department information policies.

The Coolidge Committee, headed by Boston lawyer Charles A. Coolidge, reported Nov. 8 on a survey of Pentagon secrecy policies.

Moss said his subcommittee was particularly concerned about one "distasteful" and "shocking" recommendation made by the Coolidge group. This urged that a newsman be called before a grand jury, if necessary, to uncover his source of any "leak" which "obviously gravely damages the security of the nation."

Moss said his subcommittee thus far has found that most leaks resulted from military efforts to "manage the news" rather than from a newsman's attempt to "misuse security information."

He said in a statement that he wanted the Coolidge Committee to elaborate on its recommendations and give "specific examples" of any leaks damaging to national security.

Moss said his group agrees with some of the Coolidge findings,

Advertisement for 'NATURAL IMMUNITY IS AVAILABLE FOR ALLERGIES' featuring a portrait of Dr. Gordon Miller, D.C. Text: 'Trying to find a workable method of artificially desensitizing allergy sufferers (Asthma and Hayfever, etc.) has occupied the large share of medical research, according to news dispatches. The difficulty with injecting foreign toxins into our bodies is that some of us are violently allergic to these foreign chemicals, even to the extent of fatal reactions, and there seems not to be sufficient methods of testing before the shot to avoid the penalty if we are allergic to the shot. Then there is the uncertainty because no two bodies have identical chemistry nor identical results. Immunity that comes naturally is a mystery to orthodox research workers. They are not looking with sufficient intenseness into the part played by our central nervous system and should recall that Gray's Anatomy declares that the nervous system is concerned with the correlation and integration of all bodily processes and reactions and adjustments of all the organs to their environment. The body's machinery which produces antibodies, is an integral part of the bodily processes under direct control of the nervous system and as responsive to corrections as to detrimental interferences. Consider this actual case from our clinic as a good example: A two and a half year old baby girl, breathing hard with Asthma was brought to the Miller Chiropractic Clinic. The parents said that the Asthma had been bad for two months and her doctor had said that the baby might out grow the allergy (Asthma) in time. She was nervous, had poor appetite and partial paralysis of the lower limbs from polio attack a month previously. Our spinal analysis and spinal X-rays disclosed nerve interferences and spinal misalignments. Our corrective adjustments restored alignment and removed the interferences. The child rebounded into perfect health. No more Asthma and no more weak limbs. No. 2730. Now the whole family has discovered the natural way to good health is the best way. Even their friends are taking their advice about where to get well. Why not investigate ??? You have nothing to lose except bad health.'

Cook's Nook This Meatless Dish Is Answer With Lent Around The Corner

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Lent is just around the corner, beginning the 6th of March. You may have begun already to collect good meatless recipes for those 40 days before Easter. In any event, we think you'll welcome this one for individual salmon loaves with pickle relish sauce.

These well-seasoned loaves are enriched with instant nonfat milk. So is the sauce. Therefore your main dish will be more than delicious; it will carry its weight in nutrition, as well.

Two cups (one 1-pound can) red salmon, flaked; 1 cup crushed salted soda crackers; 2 1/2 cups chopped celery; 2 tablespoons minced onion; 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder; 1/2 teaspoon baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; dash of cayenne pepper; 2 eggs, beaten; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 1/2 cup water.

Mix together all ingredients. Place in four well-buttered small loaf pans or individual casseroles. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 minutes or until firm. Unmold before serving.

PICKLE RELISH SAUCE (Makes 1 1/2 cups)
One one-half cups liquefied instant nonfat dry milk; 3 tablespoons flour; 1 teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; 1 egg, beaten; 1/4 cup pickle relish; 1 tablespoon minced parsley; 2 tablespoons minced onions.

Pour liquefied instant nonfat dry milk into top of double boiler; sprinkle flour, salt and pepper over surface. Beat with rotary beater until just blended.

Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken. Blend a small amount of instant nonfat dry milk mixture into egg; blend egg into sauce. Stir in remaining ingredients.

Serve hot over salmon loaves.

GIRL SCOUTING A FAMILY AFFAIR—Representative Walter Rogers, right, and his daughter, Mary Catherine, center, are greeted by Mrs. Roy F. Layton, national Girl Scout president, at the first national event in observance of Girl Scout Week, held last week, and the 45th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. The event was a luncheon held last Friday on Capitol Hill for more than 50 members of Congress and their Girl Scout daughters.

Adelaide S. Skelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Skelly Jr., 916 N. Somerville, is among 140 students at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., named to the Dean's List for the semester ended in January. The honor requires an academic average of 85 per cent or better. Miss Skelly is a junior at Allegheny and is majoring in elementary education, preparatory to a teaching career.

Richard Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lesley S. Riley, Pampa, has been named vice president of Psi Sigma Alpha, national honor society in government and political science, at North Texas State College, Denton. Riley is a senior geography major.

"PHONE" TOY—There's double joy in this new toy which combines a doll with a play telephone. In the doll's red plush body there's a dial, with a matching receiver attached to the cord by a cord decorated with tinkling bells. It was recently introduced in New York City.

HOME AGAIN — Rod McKuen's looks are described as the Huck Finn type and, if all his diverse talents blossom, his name may become as familiar. The actor-composer-singer is making his Hollywood debut in "Rock, Pretty Baby," but he's had lots of entertainment experience and success during his Army hitch in the Far East.

They have, in the short time they have been in this country come to like it very much, to which Mrs. Bogner added emphatically with an eager smile: "Igen! Igen! Very happy!" Igen means yes in English, and when she said the words she had the look of Alice in Wonderland; the look of someone not entirely sure just yet how this had all happened, nor even that it were not some sort of a dream.

However, as the strangeness disappears, and the vast plains and the people who reside in them become a familiar thing to them, Bela, Rosalie and little 10-year old Illdig, Bogner will be given a chance to rest up and orient themselves to a new way of life, and whatever job he finally decides he would feel best at.

Forrest Hills, his sponsor and a partner in the Hills and Hills Drilling Company of Pampa said yesterday that the next few days for this family will be devoted to resting up from its long trip and hectic routine. After that, he will be given a chance at jobs ranging from tool dressing to roustabout in the oil fields.

"He's not too familiar with the oil business," Hill said, "so I'm just going to start him out slow and see where he will fit best, and to see if that is what he wants. Actually it's all going to be up to him. But the next few days will be devoted to resting up."

And here, another story—ends, oddly enough at the beginning. At the beginning of something that we, as Americans have had at our disposal every moment of our lives, but have been at times too close to see; but which the unfamiliar eye recognized immediately as something indeed precious.

Explanation Of Defense Report Is Demanded WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators demanded an explanation today of what they called "shocking" features in a Defense Department report on how to plug military news leaks.

A House "Government Operations" subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) summoned members of the so-called Coolidge Committee to testify about Defense Department information policies.

The Coolidge Committee, headed by Boston lawyer Charles A. Coolidge, reported Nov. 8 on a survey of Pentagon secrecy policies.

Moss said his subcommittee was particularly concerned about one "distasteful" and "shocking" recommendation made by the Coolidge group. This urged that a newsman be called before a grand jury, if necessary, to uncover his source of any "leak" which "obviously gravely damages the security of the nation."

Moss said his subcommittee thus far has found that most leaks resulted from military efforts to "manage the news" rather than from a newsman's attempt to "misuse security information."

He said in a statement that he wanted the Coolidge Committee, to elaborate on its recommendations and give "specific examples" of any leaks damaging to national security.

Moss said his group agrees with some of the Coolidge findings,

Mexican Olympic Swimmer Drowns

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UP)—Apolonio Castillo, Mexican Olympic swimming champion was drowned early today while searching Acapulco harbor for the bodies of two murdered New York tourists.

Castillo, 32, was one of several frogmen looking for the bodies of attorney Joseph Michel, 70, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, 43, who were killed and tossed into the harbor by a Mexican travel agent and his illiterate handy man. Castillo, who represented Mexico in the 1956 Olympics, was wearing an aqualing when he disappeared. It was not known if his oxygen failed.

Luis Fenton, 33, a hotel tourist agency owner, and Daniel Rios admitted Sunday they beat Michel and Mrs. Hallock to death with a baseball bat on Feb. 20, after robbing them of $80,000 worth of jewelry and about $160 in cash. The victims' bodies, bound in chains, were tossed from a glass-bottomed boat.

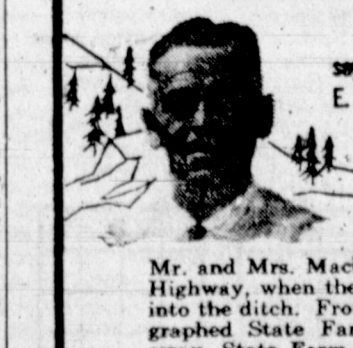

A Simple Boat Ride "It was just a matter of arranging a simple boat ride," mastermind Fenton, 33, told police. Rios, 35-year-old father of five children, who worked for Fenton for $1.60 a day, said Fenton offered him 30,000 pesos ($2,400) to bludgeon Michel and the wealthy widow with a baseball bat.

The fatal voyage in a glass-bottom boat lasted only 40 minutes, the murderers said, then they returned to shore and calmly took another tourist couple out into the bay to fish until 1 a.m. Police took the confessed killers out on the boat Sunday to re-enact the crime a mile off this famous scenic resort.

The men said Michel was killed first. Fenton held the struggling Mrs. Hallock while Rios knocked her unconscious. "Just like I was findings, such as one that too much information is put under secrecy wraps by the Pentagon. But he said other recommendations "appear to go far beyond what is desirable or necessary."

Right away, State Farm saw to it that their car was repaired, and they were soon on their way again. Mr. Mackie calls it "the best service I've ever seen."

Mrs. Mary Banta of Topeka, Kans., died in Cushing, Okla., Friday. She was 84 years old.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the chapel at Duane-Carmichael Funeral Home with Rev. M. B. Smith, pastor of the Highland Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Jericho.

Survivors include her husband, Ten R. Banta of Topeka; six sisters, Mrs. Alta Lamb of Bushland, Mrs. Dottie Phillips of Amarillo, Mrs. Julia Williams of Mobeetie, Mrs. Helene Martin of Wheeler, Mrs. Choren Struell of Amarillo and Mrs. Alice Bailey of Mobeetie; three brothers, Chester Morgan of Mobeetie, Willie Morgan of Montella, Mo., and James A. Morgan of Amarillo.

hitting out home runs," Rios said. "Michel never knew what hit him," he said. "It was simple" When Mrs. Hallock leaped to her feet, Fenton grabbed her while Rios hit her with the bat, according to the confessions.

"It was simple," Rios said, "there was no struggle. There was only one little yelp. I don't think they really knew what hit them." Rios told police he did not hesitate when Fenton offered him 30,000 pesos to wield the bat.

"I would die for 30,000 pesos," he said. "It was just the same to me—murder or robbery—when I heard about the 30,000 pesos." Rios said he was "only a little sorry" for what he had done and "probably" would do it again, "if I got the chance."

Two Collisions Are Reported Here

Two accidents that occurred Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning have been reported to the Police department.

The Saturday accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. on N. Hobart, 90 feet south of Kentucky. A house trailer belonging to Earl Beck George of Fort Dodd, Iowa, and a '50 Buick driven by D. B. Owen of 528 S. Cuyler, were involved in the collision.

The 1953 house trailer was damaged by approximately $2,000 and the Buick by $75. The Sunday accident occurred at 9:45 a.m. at the intersection of E. Francis and N. Starkweather. A 1954 Chevrolet 4-door belonging to Earl Griffin of Pampa and '55 Ford 2-door belonging to Miles E. Winton, 903 E. Francis, were involved in the collision. The Chevrolet was damaged by approximately $100 and the Ford by approximately $125.

"If the door to African migration permanently and conveniently stood ajar, it would serve as an incomparable opportunity and reminder, which could cure a host of our racial ills, although not a single Negro ever went to Africa. The trouble with so much of our Negro thinking is that we don't know who we are."

NATURAL IMMUNITY IS AVAILABLE FOR ALLERGIES:

Trying to find a workable method of artificially desensitizing allergy sufferers (Asthma and Hayfever, etc.) has occupied the large share of medical research, according to news dispatches.

The difficulty with injecting foreign toxins into our bodies is that some of us are violently allergic to these foreign chemicals, even to the extent of fatal reactions, and there seems not to be sufficient methods of testing before the shot to avoid the penalty if we are allergic to the shot. Then there is the uncertainty because no two bodies have identical chemistry nor identical results.

Immunity that comes naturally is a mystery to orthodox research workers. They are not looking with sufficient intenseness into the part played by our central nervous system and should recall that Gray's Anatomy declares that the nervous system is concerned with the correlation and integration of all bodily processes and reactions and adjustments of all the organs to their environment. The body's machinery which produces antibodies is an integral part of the bodily processes under direct control of the nervous system and as responsive to corrections as to detrimental interferences. Consider this actual case from our clinic as a good example: A two and a half year old baby girl, breathing hard with Asthma was brought to the Miller-Chiropractic Clinic. The parents said that the Asthma had been bad for two months and her doctor had said that the baby might not grow the allergy (Asthma) in time.

Our corrective adjustments restored alignment and removed the interferences. The child rebounded into perfect health. No more Asthma and no more weak limbs. No. 2730 Now the whole family has discovered the natural way to good health is the best way. Even their friends are taking their advice about where to get well.

Feasibility Question

From those opposed to the welter of government programming and planning has frequently come the cry: "Private persons can and will do anything the government is capable of doing." The phrase is, perhaps, an over simplification and needs explaining.

We hold that any legitimate plan or program can be adequately handled by private parties. But frequently great government boondoggies are pointed out with the notation: "Now there's an instance in which private persons simply were inadequate to do the job. It took the government to get it done."

There is some truth to this assertion. There are any number of government schemes and stratagems which are thoroughly silly from every practical standpoint. Among them especially are certain dam and highway projects, certain school construction, various mental hospitals and a host of foreign "do-good" operations, such as providing hardwood floors for Eskimo igloos.

There are, it seems, some people who hold that it is the government's job to see to it that everyone is insured, even at the point of a bayonet. Why didn't some private insurance company undertake such gigantic coverage? The answer is, that no private insurance company can or will use force. And that without that force, such a universal insurance concept is silly. Hence, only the government was ready to undertake social security.

Is this an indication of private inability? Far from it. Rather, it is an indication of private honesty and government coercion.

Not long ago other persons demanded that every farmer, no matter how remote his homestead, be supplied with electric power. Private electric companies took a look at the dream and said, "No chance." Consequently, the REA was born and electricity was piped incredible distances at a cost shared by the taxpayers.

Did this prove individual and private lack of initiative and ability? It did not. Rather it proved that sound businessmen handle private firms and that ridiculous, posturing social schemers inhabit the government. There are any number of home unit power plants available on the free market. Rural citizens had ready access to electricity by means of such plants. But the government undertook to supply everybody with electricity at a monstrous drain on the nation. No businessman would be guilty of such gross invasion of private rights. Therefore, no businessman was available when this grandiose scheme hatched from its shell.

Yet here is another example. When the great western area of Canada began to expand, a host of people moving into those reaches of territory found they wanted power. The Canadian government made no effort, and rightly so. Instead, a group of serious businessmen formed a power company and undertook the building of the great Itaipu Dam, the largest in the world. All manner of obstacles were met and overcome. And in a few months this project will be completed without a taxpayer being coerced for a single dime.

So we could say, with this as only one of many possible illustrations, that it isn't the size of the project which stamps the private businessmen, it's the project's own feasibility. If the dream cannot be justified in economic terms, private persons simply will not attempt it.

But what is wrong with that? Instead, the same money can be used in other and more practical and desirable ways to the benefit of all. So the phrase respecting the usefulness of private industry and business should carry the qualifications: "Private persons can and will do anything the government can and will do, provided only that the undertaking is practicable, desirable and feasible from an economic standpoint."

And it must be that if a particular project is impractical, undesirable or unfeasible from an economic standpoint, the project should be abandoned. It is a compounding of evils to force the taxpayers to finance such schemes. If no force is needed, private persons can accomplish whatever needs doing. If force is required, then the project cannot be justified.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

The importance of extending our knowledge about diseases of the heart and blood vessels can be appreciated by mentioning a few figures.

In 1955, such diseases were responsible for over 800,000 deaths in the United States, or approximately 53 per cent of all deaths.

In this country alone, approximately one person out of 16 suffers from some form of heart or circulatory disease.

Even children are not exempt. Many of them, also, have some form of trouble of that nature. Theirs principally originates from rheumatic fever or from congenital heart disease.

Economic loss from diseases of the heart and circulation is estimated at over two and one-half billion dollars annually.

THE THREE most important causes of heart disease are atherosclerosis, more commonly known as hardening of the arteries; high blood pressure (which may or may not be associated with atherosclerosis); and rheumatic fever, which is so commonly followed by rheumatic heart disease.

I do not wish to frighten people—either about the toll from heart and circulatory disease or from any other cause. It should be pointed out, therefore, that progress is being made.

WHILE THERE IS NO agreement on the underlying causes of high blood pressure, atherosclerosis or even rheumatic fever, research has already begun to bring notable improvements in the management, and sometimes the prevention, of certain forms of heart disease.

The most dramatic relates to rheumatic fever and the disease of the heart known as bacterial endocarditis.

Since rheumatic fever almost always follows infection with streptococci and these in turn yield to penicillin or the sulfa drugs in most instances, it is now possible to prevent many recurrences of rheumatic fever and consequently the hazard of heart disease of its origin.

Furthermore, bacterial endocarditis, which was almost fatal in the past, can now be successfully treated in about seven out of ten instances.

IN OTHER FIELDS, new and improved drugs have been developed to lower blood pressure in certain cases. There are improved methods of diagnosing, caring for and treating patients suffering from heart attacks or coronary thrombosis. Congenital heart disease (which includes many of the "blue babies") can now be treated successfully by surgery in many instances.

The only prospect for further improvement lies in continued research into the causes, course and treatment of these disorders. Results cannot be expected immediately.

Controversial Editorials
Good Or Bad?

Whether a controversial editorial is good or bad—that is, useful or harmful to readers—depends upon whether or not the newspaper publishing controversial editorials or columnists will permit those who believe the position taken by the newspaper or columnist is harmful to others, are permitted space to show the fallacy of the editorial or the columnist. In other words, whether the newspaper or columnist is willing to defend his position by answering questions and defining his terms by reducing them to principles.

A controversial editorial of this kind is certainly useful to the community and to the nation. It is useful because it tends to cause people to use their own mental faculties. And anything that does that benefits everyone.

It is hard to conceive how an individual, an editor, a preacher, or a teacher, or a politician can develop his faculties if he is so arbitrary that he makes statements that he cannot defend in open discussion. It is a recognized fact that truth can always defend itself in open discussion, provided it is true.

It is hard to conceive how truth can be recognized unless beliefs can be challenged not by particular people, but by anyone. Most anyone could defend his position if he selected his own opponents.

It seems that years ago men were more willing to publicly attempt to defend their position than they are today. And this might be largely the cause of the confusion we are in today.

I, personally, do not know any daily newspapers, except those associated with Freedom Newspapers, that throw their columns open to anyone to challenge any opinion expressed by the editor of the paper, provided the challenger will, himself, answer questions without evasion. The reason the editors of Freedom Newspapers take this position is that it is the only way they know of improving their understanding of natural and moral law.

There were more crusading newspapers in years gone by than there are today. Today too many newspapers are afraid of offending somebody and losing a dollar by taking an unpopular position. The result is that they cease to develop, cease to be of much use in their community as far as getting people to better understand human relations that will promote goodwill, peace and prosperity.

Too many editors seem to have forgotten the admonition of Jesus when he said: "...men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God."

A newspaper should be a place where local, state and national and international news items could be thoroughly discussed. They are not thoroughly discussed in colleges, or churches or by radio commentators or by those holding or seeking office. A newspaper that carries controversial editorials and will permit its readers to challenge its policies not only benefits the editor and the publisher, but it benefits those who do the challenging. It whets their mental faculties. It tends to cause them to reason closely. It tends to eliminate the contradictions. It also helps the readers gain understanding.

Whom To Trust
If more and more people could be persuaded that they should not trust or have much confidence in any individual who will not permit his statements to be questioned and challenged by anyone, we could turn the trend away from state socialism to believing in the blessings that come from respecting human initiative. In other words, to the blessings of private competitive ownership of private property.

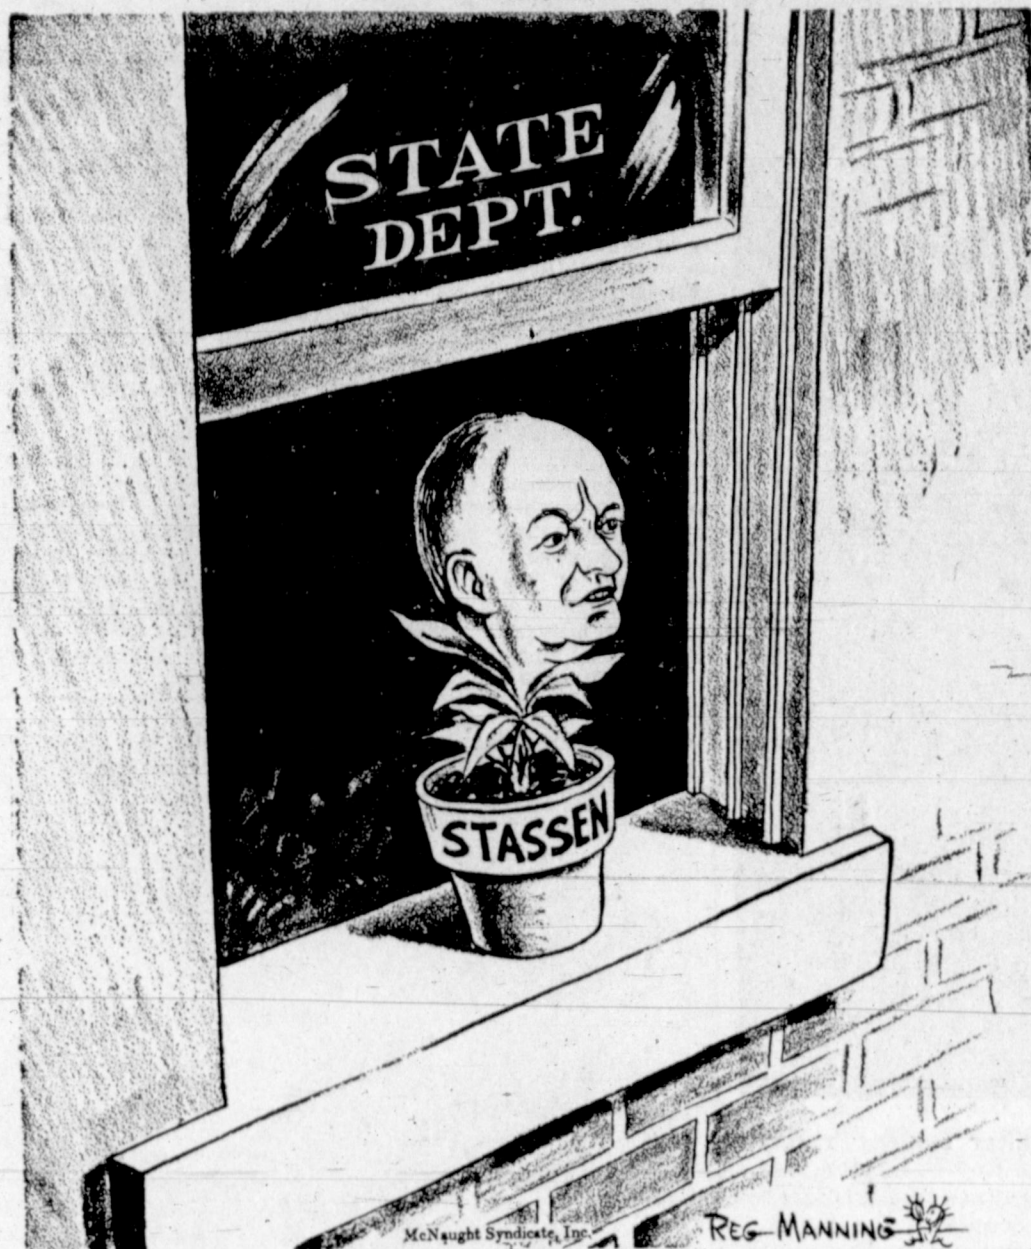

Most of our trouble comes from people blindly following editors, politicians, lawyers, preachers who will not permit their statements to be tested by question. In other words, too many people have confidence in people who do not know enough about what they are talking to be able to defend it against all comers or cannot find anyone who can.

So whether controversial editorials are good or bad depends upon whether the editor will give the opposition, who will answer questions without evasion, space to present another side.

Lincoln said our forefathers "brought forth a new nation conceived in liberty." For a hundred and fifty years we have served as an example to the world by remaining strong and free. But now a M1 - East policy is proposed whereby your son and mine would be drafted "to serve within the framework of the United Nations" and subject to the Security Council of the U.N. That Security Council contains one Soviet member with a veto. And the Soviet Union was not conceived in liberty nor does it have any concept of liberty, as its history abundantly shows. To make free men the servants of tyranny would seem to be treason and treachery. Wasn't that fully proven when the U.N. prevented General MacArthur from winning the Korean War?

Fair Enough
Present Senate Inquiry
Has Turned Up Nothing New

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Senator McClellan of Arkansas and Joe Kennedy's kid, Bobby, are making more medicine than any such pair since Kefauver and Haley or McCarthy and Cohn when their investigation of rotten conditions in the Teamsters' Union, with Portland, Ore. The momentary focus of scandal and corruption, Beck got a beautiful in New York when he tangled with Hyman Fischback, representing Lait and Mortimer.

Fischback really did know where some bodies were buried. After a preliminary bout with Hyman, Beck high-tailed it back to the tall timber. It is not strange that he has been a bulldozer in his public attitude because he long ago surrounded himself with a cordon of lumberjacks and teamsters called goons. Add the fact that most mayors, sheriffs, chiefs of police and governors were his allies and you realize that he never had to stand a test of bravery in that kind of warfare. When the Senate Committee challenged him, he dogged it and then took off for Europe. He has boasted about his rugged experiences on picket lines during two general strikes and other criminal disorders of the union mobs, but the late Harry Lundberg, of the Sailors Union of the Pacific, told me last summer that Beck never was there when the going was rough. Old Pop-Eye said George Meany once enlisted him to take a gang of his white caps inland to run off some Communists of Harry Bridges' adherence, promising that Beck would be there with a lot of muscle. But Pop-Eye said very few Teamsters showed up and there was no sign of Beck.

Brewster, however, is a very tough character. He is a hard drinker, with a reputation as an alley-fighter. In the '20's he had an interest in the Italian Club in Seattle, which was not exactly aristocratic. In 1949, he reported salaries of $22,145.50 from three Teamsters' Unions and one local of the Brewery Workers, $2,321.82 from his Clearbrook Stock Farms, a racing stable, and $2,290 from Beck and Brewster, a partnership.

In 1955, three of his racing stables won $159,000. Lester Hunt, of the Indianapolis Star, worked on Beck, Brewster the beginning of a warm friendship and we have been pen-pals in a running series of commentaries and disclosures ever since. Hunt is one of the best reporters in the country and one of his best jobs was a denunciation of John C. Stevenson, who was charged with swindling some poor victims in a stock job in Buffalo, N.Y. about 1925, lammed out to Seattle, changed his name and became a radio demagog and an advertising dentist during the depression.

Last summer when I was in California investigating Brewster's numerous racing stables I went to the state racing commission in Los Angeles where I found a J. C. Stevenson listed as one of Brewster's character - sponsors for racing credentials. Colleagues in Seattle sent me Stevenson's pedigree and when I phoned Hunt in Indianapolis he said this bum was originally J. C. Stockman in Buffalo and Lester had gone from Seattle to Buffalo as a reporter and forced some reluctant officials there to try to extradite him. Stevenson adopted the name and initials of a man already running for governor of Washington and went into the campaign himself under that alias, but with the title "radio speaker" as a prefix. He never had to stand trial in Buffalo because the Democratic governor of Washington denied extradition. In 1933 on motion of the District Attorney, the Buffalo indictments, three in all, were dismissed.

Industry Change Is Cause
Of Dixie Leaders' Outlook

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Changing industrial conditions in the United States account for the fact that the South's Congressional leaders, once the nation's most enthusiastic internationalists, now oppose the Administration's broadened foreign aid program in the Middle East Doctrine. The division on Capitol Hill is geographic and economic as well as political, for most of Ike's support comes from other sections.

When the original postwar proposals — the UNRRA, the Marshall Plan and the Truman Doctrine — created Federally financed overseas markets for Dixie's cotton, tobacco, oil and other products, its men in House and Senate supported them almost unanimously.

Former Senator Walter F. George of Georgia steered them through Congress. He had the unquestioned backing of such prominent members as Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, Majority Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and most of the Southern bloc.

Now, these same leaders are assailing the Middle East Doctrine, although it derives directly from Roosevelt-Truman guarantees for protecting Western Europe and Formosa against the Communist menace. Truman has said that he would vote in favor of Ike's Doctrine, if he were a Senator.

An important reason for this shift, although not generally recognized, is that the South has become a large-scale manufacturing center as well as a producer of raw materials. It needs protection against the imports of finished goods from countries which American funds are transforming into competitors. Textiles are an excellent example.

In short, the new South's diversified industry and agriculture no longer need the artificial stimulus of foreign purchases paid for by its taxpayers' money.

The oil crisis, too, has benefited that industry, at least temporarily, in Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, etc. Although denying that they are "gouging" domestic consumers, producers have increased prices for crude and gasoline, and may be able to maintain them. The independents especially rejoice over the reduction of Middle East supplies.

Moreover, as the foreign shipments shift from raw materials to machinery and weapons, the demand for Southern products falls off. Foreign aid money now flows to the areas turning out steel, trucks, turbines, small and heavy arms, road-building equipment, etc.

This explains why the heads of great industries from New England to the Middle and Far West, as well as their business and banker friends, generally favor continued generous overseas expenditures.

However, the Southerners' opposition cannot be charged to economic considerations alone. With Treasury Secretary Humphrey, Senator Byrd believes that America's productive supremacy cannot be maintained without smaller Federal spending. Senator Russell, Armed Services Committee Chairman, worries over dispersal of American military might.

Moreover, there is a popular and Congressional belief that the billions of postwar overseas investment have not accomplished their purpose. The principal beneficiaries, France and England, defied Eisenhower to precipitate the Middle East flare-up. Money has bought us a minimum of popularity in the Middle East, Far East and Asia.

These are the more fundamental reasons why the Democratic South now repudiates the internationalist philosophy of such Party saints as Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Mercato Porta Portese
Like London Thieves Market

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME — If your tastes know no bounds, I heartily recommend that you put down what you're doing and come and shop in Rome's Mercato Porta Portese.

This is the Flea Market—Rome's answer to Madrid's Rastro, Cairo's Muski, Istanbul's Grand Bazaar, London's Tieves' Market.

Open on Sunday morning only, it stretches along narrow streets for almost as far as the eye can see and the feet can walk. You enter it through the Porta Portese, and leave it whenever the sidewalk, street, and hole-in-the-wall vendors give you a chance, which isn't often.

I won't try to tell you all there is for sale, for in the first place I don't know, and in the second, a complete listing would fill a book. To take an inventory would be to count all the Chinese as they marched by.

Suffice it to say, there is something for everyone. But you have to search for it. The only order is disorder. There are no specialty shops. The merchant who handles used bed springs like as not handles jade carvings and ski boots as well. And most of the wares are arranged for display as if they had been erupted from a volcano.

One glance at a pile of merchandise is not sufficient — neither are three or four. You must get in and root in hope that what you are looking for, and at bargain prices, is hidden away.

This means work, but it also is one of the chief reasons the Flea Market affords many fine bargains. If the really worthwhile articles were recognized by the merchants, and placed on display, they'd be gone before Sunday's sun was well up.

Walking the Flea Market's miles of pavement and cobblestones, and searching through the endless displays, is hard work; but a bargain hunter's curiosity and greed keeps him going. You keep moving, past everything under the sun — ancient, used auto parts, broken-down baby carriages, clothes, picture frames, empty and filled, jewelry, both precious and worthless, fountain pens, skis, furniture of every kind and in every sort of condition, blankets, bathrobes, barber chairs, cheese graters, diamonds, pearl earrings, and massive brass pepper grinders.

All my life I have read of people unearthing valuable paintings in markets like the one at Porta Portese, so I don't overlook a one. Even if they look as if they were painted by a trained horse, I study them in the hope of finding that they have been painted over, and that underneath there is a Raphael worth half a million dollars. The same is true of salt and pepper shakers. I read once that quite a bit of Cellini's work has not been accounted for, so I examine anything that is of a silvery cast. I also keep a lookout for old, torn and faded notebooks in the mad hope that one of Leonardo's is still floating around and priced at two bits or a buck.

The biggest bargain I found last Sunday was an old police whistle. It was a bit battered, but gave me a thrill. It was priced at fifty lire (eight cents) and I bought it. It will make a fine start for a collection of old police whistles, and I plan to add to it until police whistle collectors from all over the world will beat a path to my door.

I trust, of course, that I am not the only collector of police whistles in the world.

A telling indictment against government in business is the fact that, through taxation, the government forces all Federal taxpayers to "invest" in its business enterprises—whether they want to or not or even whether they consider themselves financially able to do so or not.

Under a private enterprise economy, no one is forced to invest in industry. And only those who feel they are financially able to do so actually do thus use their money.

Thus, the "little fellow" benefits on every point from private enterprise. He is taxed less while "the rich" "tax themselves" liberally to provide for him more and more goods and services. With his tax burden lightened, he has more money to spend for consumer goods as contrasted with producer goods. Moreover, he is free to divide his money as he will between these two kinds of goods.

In view of all this, one is almost awed by the practically hypnotic power of the demagogue to make the average citizen believe he is being benefited by a collectivist system that not only takes from him arbitrarily and unnecessarily huge sums of money but also deprives him of a comparable portion of his liberty. And all in the name of democracy and freedom! Voilà!

In the Spring, Baseball Can Be Looked At Several Ways

WORRY: For Granny Hamner, his only chance to stay in the big leagues is to make the jump from shortstop to pitcher for the Phillies. He has problems and they're big ones. WORK: For Willard Schmidt, the job of pitching is no lark. He bears down to impress Cardinal bosses at St. Petersburg that he can be a big winner. He needs it. PROBLEM: For Casey Stengel, it's the time when he tries to figure out where all that surplus Yankee talent can be placed. Either that, or how to spend World Series cash. EAGER: For Tony Kubek, it's the time when every move must be made book-perfect—if a kid in his shoes wants to step up from the minors to the awesome Yankees. LARK: For Mickey Mantle, a new season is a chance for new records. The big Yankee waits for the season to start—and the money to roll in. Especially if he hits 60.

Smith Makes Claims Pay With Dust Stopper Windows

Harold Smith, above, is holding the famous "Dust Stopper" storm window which is now on the tip of every housewife's tongue in the Panhandle area.

What has made this window so well known in the Panhandle? It's the famous "Dust-Stopper" slogan. "The storm window that does what others attempt to do."

Smith answered his own question of "What are some of the things that make this possible?" He said, "One is that we have no dealers as such, but all are sales engineers, who are working for us direct and not handling various other lines of merchandise to keep them confused. We feel that our business is a highly skilled profession, which means that our sales engineers have to do a lot of studying, and spend a lot of time in and around the factory and with installation crews to learn the various problems connected with our business."

Dust Stopper Windows

Quality Pays

"Some people feel that buying storm windows is just a matter of price," he continued, "but we feel that if you spend $250 for windows that do not do the job, or $500 for an installation that gets the job done, the $500 price was a bargain. You notice, we said installations not windows, because there is considerably more to a good job than the windows alone. The next time you go shopping for windows, look for the label on the window. "Dust Stopper". These are the only windows manufactured in this area which carry their name on each and every piece of merchandise which leaves our plant. We are proud of that name. Plains Aluminum Industries has the most complete and up to date plant of its kind west of the Mississippi River.

Texas Ranks High As State For Tourists, Tops Florida

AUSTIN, Texas, March 9—Texas last year played host to 8.4 million out-of-state visitors who spent a total of $379 million while in the state, D. C. Greer, State Highway Engineer, announced today. A report on the Texas tourist industry for 1956, released today by the Texas Highway Department, shows that the average tourist stayed 5.3 days and spent $7.71 per person.

For the first time, a survey of accommodations used by tourists has been included in the report. The majority, 62 per cent, favored motels, 9 per cent stayed in hotels, 5 per cent camped out, and 24 per cent used other accommodations including trailers and homes of friends and relatives.

A total of 3.1 million vehicles carrying an average of 2.7 persons each entered the state in 1956. California again led the list of out-of-state visitors by sending 1,223,000 to our state. Louisiana was second by sending 645,000 to our state.

From a study of other states, Texas ranks high as a tourist state, topping the popular state of Florida by more than 4 million visitors last year.

Figures used in preparing this annual report are obtained from survey cards distributed to tourists at the 7 Highway Travel Information Bureaus located on major highways at the state's borders, Greer stated. Information from these cards is supplemented with data from other sources to compile the report, he said.

More than 170,000 out-of-state visitors, in addition to 65,794 Texas vehicles, stopped at the Texas Highway Department Information Bureaus last year and, through the use of descriptive material and their knowledge of the state and its attractions, Bureau personnel increased the mileage of each out-of-state vehicle by 13 per cent.

In addition to operating these Travel Information Bureaus, the Highway Department publishes and distributes the Official Highway Travel Map, road condition bulletins, and other descriptive materials in an effort to assist and stimulate travel in Texas, Greer said. During 1956 the Information and Statistics Division of the Department answered 210,700 requests from the public for travel information. The division also maintains a large collection of 35 mm color slides on points of interest and travel data which are furnished free to civic groups and schools throughout the country.

Eggs The Give-Away—Mrs. Elizabeth Bonazza told a divorce court Thursday that she knew her marriage was cracking up when she found out that her husband, Ralph, had carried 15 dozen eggs in a garbage pail to the home of "another woman."

SAN ANTONIO, March 9 (UP)—Walter Rauscher, 31, died Saturday of injuries received Friday night when he was thrown 90 feet after his automobile hit another. The woman driver of the other car was not hurt. Hubert Frieschahn, 35, who was with Rauscher, was injured, but was reported in fair condition.

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Bonazza told a divorce court Thursday that she knew her marriage was cracking up when she found out that her husband, Ralph, had carried 15 dozen eggs in a garbage pail to the home of "another woman."

Another Hall & Pinson feature is the famous, rugged and beautiful Arthur Fulmer Seat Covers, which protect the interior of your car in true "decorator fashion." There are color coordinates, luxurious plastic trim panels, decorative patterns, and clear plastic covers.

These seat covers have the hidden seams, double stitching reinforcement at all points of strain. Arthur Fulmer Seat Covers are available in all price ranges: the Stardust, Imperial, Supreme, Coloprene and Monarch lines.

Largest in Panhandle—Hall & Pinson carries the largest stock of seat covers in the Panhandle so you can select your color and design, and style of seat covers from a group which fits your make and model of car. In addition there are literally hundreds of selections in the special order department.

Let Hall & Pinson seat cover experts install your seat covers. It will pay you because Leymond Hall insists that only trained men install covers so that you will get all the wear the manufacturer built into your covers.

Drive in today. Take advantage of your savings in tires, tire service, seat covers and complete, skilled auto service. Come in to Hall & Pinson, 700 W. Foster, MO 4-3521.

Pay Less Than 1/2 For Tires—Get 90% Wear—Hall & Pinson

about these used tires, the people would be lined up to buy them."

That's the reaction of a satisfied customer of Hall & Pinson Tire Co., 700 W. Foster, MO 4-3521.

Pay Less — Get Most

He means:

1. You buy from 85 to 95 (and more) percent of the wear in a tire.
2. You pay less than half the sale price (the discount price, not the regular price) of the tire.
3. That deal means you pay for less than half the wear of the tire, and you get 85 per cent and more of the tire service! On the Hall & Pinson deal you save money!

You buy guaranteed tires—tires that Hall & Pinson guarantees will give good service.

1,000 Guaranteed Tires

You select your tires from a stock of 1,000 tires! This stock, the largest in the Panhandle, includes hard-to-get sizes like 6.00x16, and unusual sizes like 5.90x15.

Hall & Pinson tires all are inspected and guaranteed. There are all sizes, brands and prices. Many of the tires and new car take-offs, tires with close to 100 per cent of their wear. And many are white walls.

Leymond Hall, owner-operator of Hall & Pinson, features complete tire service: used tires, new tires, tire truing and balancing, wheel balancing.

Truing — Balancing

In just a few minutes Hall or one of his co-workers can true your tires on the Tru-O-Matic Tire Truing Machine, and can balance your tires and wheels on the Alomite Electronic Wheel Balancing Machine. The balancing machine indicates whether or not your tire and wheel are balanced on an easy-to-read dial. Stand by and judge yourself.

Tire truing and balancing gives you these advantages:

1. Thousands of miles longer tire mileage.
2. Lower car repairs because truing and balancing eliminate front end damage due to excessive vibration, shimmy.
3. Less driving fatigue because of easier driving.
4. Greater safety.
5. More driving pleasure, smooth riding.

Tire irregularities cause immediate, excessive tire wear around the high spots, a condition that increases vibration, shortens both car and tire life, and increases driver fatigue.

Research proves that 8 out of 10 tires that have been driven more than 2,000 miles are out-of-round, although the same tires were within .125th of an inch of roundness when they left the factory.
