Commission OK's Paving Ordinance

All three readings of Ordinance 471, dealing with the paving of 29 1/2 blocks of unpaved streets within the city limits, were approved by the City Commission this morning.

In a sudden move the commission decided to approve all three readings in emergency action so that necessary work can be accomplished in order that contracts may be let at the earliest date.

A public hearing on the paving project will receive written notice of the meeting, Fred Brook, city manager, reported.

TAXI RATES

Pampa residents will begin paying an increased rate for taxi trips as the result of action taken by the commission this morning.

The Yellow Cab Company requested that a 15-cent increase in rates charged for taxi service be granted. When it was explained that increased costs of operation made the rate increase necessary the commission approved the increase.

HOME MOVIES

The third and final reading of Ordinance 469 which will allow Volume, an affiliate of Video Theatre, to string transmission lines along alleys and streets was approved this morning. The firm now has two years in which to start the transmission of movies to the television sets of subscribers.

BURGLAR ALARM

The second reading of Ordinance 470 was approved by the commission this morning. The ordinance if passed, will allow the S. and S. Alarm system to install a burglary alarm system in Pampa. The alarm board will be installed in City Hall and wires leased from the telephone company will be used to connect the board with businesses subscribing to the service.

Cruiser Carries Ike To Meeting With Macmillan

ABOARD EISENHOWER ESCORT DESTROYER (UP) — The powerful cruiser Canberra with President Eisenhower aboard steamed north today toward Bermuda and the first Western big two meeting since the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt.

The untanned President appeared to be nearing the end of the nagging winter cold that he sought to lose on his week-long cruise through semi-tropical seas, but he still coughed occasionally.

He continued to maintain close contact with developments in the smoldering Middle East crisis that is certain to be one of the top issues on the agenda at his Bermuda conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Macmillan planned to leave London today by plane for the conference which is scheduled to open Thursday.

The Canberra and its two destroyer escorts is expected to reach Bermuda late Wednesday afternoon.

Monday, the President and Dr. Howard McC. Snyder, his physician, went fishing in the afternoon on the captain's gig.

Minor Attacks Come In Face Of Stern Warnings To Egypt

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Israel reported a series of minor incidents along the Gaza Strip borders today and officials expressed fear they were a taste of worse attacks to come.

Though the attacks were minor, they came in the face of a stern Israel warning against the return of a "belligerent" Egypt to the area and efforts by the United States to slow down Egypt's move into the Gaza Strip.

Israel said a farm tractor was blown up by a mine at the border settlement of Natul Oz and that three more plastic mines were found in the vicinity. They apparently were laid by Fedayeen commandos since tracks led to the Gaza border.

Egypt Finishing Moving
Thieves also penetrated 20 yards inside the Israeli frontier and stole grain from a border farm.

The Egyptian move into Gaza was nearing completion, and Cairo Radio reported the U.N. Emergency Force was moving its headquarters out of the Strip.

The Egyptian Suez Canal Authority announced in Suez that ships of 1,000 tons could be allowed to transit the canal starting today. Previously the canal was opened to 500-ton ships — small harbor craft and coastal boats.

The canal itself is to be opened by April 10 to major shipping.

Ben-Gurion Fervent
Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion said return of Egypt to the Gaza Strip meant the search for a Middle East peace is "being almost willfully thrown away."

In an interview with United Press Correspondent Elvian Simon in Jerusalem he also renewed Israel's demand for passage through the Suez Canal and said Israel would defend fully its rights to passage through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Ben-Gurion renewed previous offers to sit down with Arab leaders and discuss a peace treaty of a non-aggression pact but told them firmly "we are here to stay."

Dag Leaving For Cairo
U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold planned to leave New York by plane at 2 p.m. east today for Cairo in an effort to head off the new threat of a clash between Israel and Egypt.

The Pampa Community Concert Association does not sell tickets at the door for any of its programs. Admissions are by membership tickets only, which entitle the member to attend all the concerts put on during the period of his membership. No memberships will be sold once the drive is closed, which will be this coming Saturday.

The headquarters for the membership campaign will be in the auditorium of the Southwestern Public Service Company. All persons wishing to apply for membership may do so by calling the headquarters at 363-4389, according to Dr. Carl Lang, president of the association.

Some of the talent which may be procured for coming performances were read off by Stafford and names included such artists as Lucia Albanese, Mimi Benzell, Lily Pons, Rise Stevens, Igor Gorin, Thomas L. Thomas, and such performing groups as the Paganini Quartet and the Angelaires, as well as many of the world's greatest symphony and other concert orchestras.

Entertainment for last night's meeting was provided by the Amarillo Civic Ballet Company under the direction of Gene Galle.

Stafford said that performers have increased their prices in all but very few cases. He added that Pampa was one of the few community concert associations which had not raised its membership prices to $6 for the year for adults, and $3 for students. "If a member goes to just one concert," he said, "he will have paid the same, or less in some cases, as the same program would have cost him in New York."

Senatorial Aspirant To Visit Here

Thad Hutcherson, Republican candidate for the seat in the United States Senate recently vacated by Governor Price Daniel, will be in Pampa tomorrow.

Hutcherson will visit with friends and supporters at his campaign headquarters, which will be opened at 112 S. Cuyler. He is scheduled to arrive here for the informal "get-together" at 5:30 p.m. Representatives from Hutcherson's campaign headquarters have invited the public to meet him and talk with him while he is here.

Hutcherson will come here from Borger and, after his visit, will leave for other Panhandle cities where he is scheduled to appear on behalf of his candidacy for the Senate.

Gray County campaign headquarters will be maintained for the candidate from now until after the election, April 2.

Campaign headquarters personnel have reported their pleasure that the down-state candidate has expressed the interest he has in the Panhandle area. This will be his second visit to Pampa. He was here for a short visit and talk at the Country Club Feb. 9.

What The Candidates Are Saying

By UNITED PRESS
U.S. Senate candidate John White today called an opponent, Ralph Yarborough, an "excursader for cleaning up the insurance mess in Texas."

"I am still curious why this excursader for cleaning up the insurance mess in Texas has not uttered one word in defense of the thousands of working people and investors who were hurt by the latest and biggest scandal surrounding the collapse of the ICI (Insurance Co.)," White said in a statement issued at Mineral Wells.

Yarborough said he does not know Ben Jack Cage, former head of the bankrupt Dallas insurance firm, and has never had any connections with him or his company.

Candidate James P. Hart called for strengthening of the GI educational programs.

The former State Supreme Court justice said that under present international conditions "we must plan . . . on the assumption that millions of young men . . . will be drafted to spend two or more years in the armed services."

Charges Slender
"I believe we must do everything to see that these draft years are not wasted, so far as the young men's education is concerned. Educational programs must be strengthened. College and schools should cooperate in this program," he said.

"I don't know Ben Jack Cage," Yarborough said Monday in Fort Worth. "I've never met him. I've never written a letter to him or See Candidates, Page 3"

Cabot Management Conference Opens

Approximately 90 management representatives and employees of the Cabot Companies in the Southwestern Division of the firm are attending the 27th Management Conference of the Division.

The conference began at 9:30 today in the Cabot auditorium and will continue through tomorrow.

In addition to the representatives from the Southwestern Division, the meeting is being attended by five representatives of Cabot operations in other countries.

The representatives of other countries are: D. D. Cochrane, vice president of foreign operations of Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc., who has headquarters in Boston, Mass.; George H. Cash of Cheshire, England, vice president of Cabot Carbon Limited and managing director of the Stanlow plant; P. H. Delacour, executive vice president of Cabot Carbon of Canada, Ltd., of Sarnia, Ontario, Canada; W. F. Hendricks, plant manager of the Sarnia plant; and John Andrews of Berre L'Etang, France, president and general manager of Cabot France.

The meeting today was under the direction of Ray Bowen. Following introductions of executives and guests, reports were made on foreign operations by Cochrane, Delacour, Cash and Andrews.

Oil, gas, gasoline and TB and C were discussed in the morning session by Gene Green and was followed by Bill Lovings who discussed carbon black.

A report on research and development was made by Art Dobbin and Cabot Shops, including Franka, was discussed by R. A. Baker.

A general discussion of Cabot operations and policies was made by Buck Burdette, general manager of the Pampa office.

The noon luncheon today was served to those attending the conference. The luncheon took place at Pooler's Steak House.

Following the luncheon the main speaker of the day, M. L. Powers of the University of Oklahoma, discussed Economics - Executive Development.

Following the talk by Powers the meeting was turned into an open forum and various topics, brought up by different representatives, were discussed.

A total of 17 employees of Cabot in the Southwestern District were guests at the meeting today and had a special meeting following the open forum this afternoon. A dinner is planned for 6:30 this evening at the Pampa Country Club.

The meeting will resume at 9:30 tomorrow morning in the Cabot auditorium with a discussion of Compensation Enthusiasm by H. C. Pittman Jr., chairman of the Industrial Accident Board at Austin.

Following Pittman's discussion the meeting will again be turned into an open forum.

13 Absentee Ballots Cast

Three persons have voted in person and 15 ballots have been mailed out in the absentee balloting which started last Thursday for the April 2 Senatorial election.

Absentee voting is also in progress in the city election, scheduled the same day.

The balloting will continue until midnight of March 29, and all absentee ballots not postmarked prior to that time will be disregarded.

Statewide and city elections will take place on April 2 for United States Senator, and for City officials.

The voting will be carried out in the usual county precincts for the senatorial race, and for city officials.

McLean, Texas Man, Naturally Makes World's Biggest Brassieres

McLEAN, Tex. (UP)—A Texan you do want to get the perfect fit you have to pay the earth," said Lee Anderson (41-23-27), president of the club.

"Most of the bras that fit me are pink satin and strictly for marlons," Miss Anderson added.

"Here in Texas," Fraser said, "we make 4 to 5 per cent of our brassieres in size 40 and over in teen-age styles."

Fraser said he was rushing three to the club and would await further orders.

Concert Group Opens Membership Drive

The Pampa Community Concert Association inaugurated its membership campaign last night with a dinner-meeting of the board of directors and campaign workers in the Parish Hall of Holy Souls' Church.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. Carl Lang and the guest speaker was Bob Stafford, New York representative of Community Concerts, Inc., which arranges most of the programs put on by the Pampa group.

Stafford told those present that the Concert Association had been very fortunate in procuring good talent for tours and that it was very likely that much of that talent could be brought to Pampa. He pointed out, however, that many of the performances that were procured would depend largely upon the number of members which the local association was able to enroll in the present drive.

Stafford said that performers have increased their prices in all but very few cases. He added that Pampa was one of the few community concert associations which had not raised its membership prices to $6 for the year for adults, and $3 for students. "If a member goes to just one concert," he said, "he will have paid the same, or less in some cases, as the same program would have cost him in New York."

Ben-Gurion Says Israel Will Defend Gulf Rights

EDITOR'S NOTE: Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel has granted his first interview since the Israeli Army withdrew from Gaza and the Gulf of Aqaba. In it he says Israel will defend fully its rights to the Gulf of Aqaba and that Israel will never permit a belligerent Egypt to reoccupy Gaza. Elvian Simon is dean of correspondents in Israel and has covered events there since the nation began its struggle for independence under the British mandate.

By ELIVIAN SIMON
United Press Staff Correspondent

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion said today-Israel will fully defend its rights to passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and that return of Egypt to the Gaza Strip means the search for a Mideast peace is "being almost willfully thrown away."

Ben-Gurion, in the first interview he has granted since the Israeli withdrawal from Gaza and Sharm El Sheikh on the Gulf of Aqaba, also renewed Israel's demand for freedom of passage through the Suez Canal and appealed for international pressure against Egypt's "illegal blockade."

In this connection he recalled that "President Eisenhower has stated that it should not be assumed that Israeli shipping will be interfered with in the Suez Canal."

Won't Permit Egypt To Reoccupy The Gaza Strip

Spirited But Tired
The 70-year-old Prime Minister who wrote out his replies in answer to questions by the United Press seemed to be in excellent spirits despite the tenseness of the past weeks and a government crisis that has not entirely disappeared. He appeared tired.

Ben-Gurion repeated his previous offers to sit down with Arab leaders and negotiate either a peaceful settlement of acts of non-aggression and suggested that this could be done by the United Nations. He was firm, though, and stated "we are here to stay."

Following are Ben-Gurion's statements on the most important issues facing Israel today:

On freedom of passage in the Gulf of Aqaba:
"We certainly expect that Israel, like other nations, will continue to exercise its rights of passage through this international waterway and we shall, if necessary, fully defend these rights."

On freedom of passage of the Suez Canal:
"President Eisenhower has stated that it should not be assumed that Israeli shipping will be interfered with in the Suez Canal. Egypt in blocking Israeli's shipping in the canal has defied apart from the Security Council's resolution of October 1956, that of September 1951 as well as the Constantinople Convention of 1888.

Says U.N. on Spot
"International opinion, we believe, recognizes that it was a cardinal error to show indulgence to this infringement. Israel for its part will naturally exercise her rights of free passage when the canal is reopened. It is to be hoped that necessary international pressure will be applied to Egypt, should she attempt to renew her illegal blockade."

On Egypt's takeover in the Gaza Strip:
"I feel that a great opportunity for establishment of a more peaceful situation in our region is being almost willfully thrown away.

"We proposed a continuance of the Israel administration in suitable relationship with the United Nations. This would have been a course most likely to secure peace along Israel's border and within the strip itself.

"The General Assembly took a different line and we withdrew on the assumption that the Egyptians would not be allowed to return. Heavy responsibility for what may develop now rests on the United Nations and on those powers in whose word we placed our trust: that belligerent Egypt would not be restored to the strip with all that meant for our border settlements. What is happening in the Strip."

Bank Bandit Killed By Avenging Pastor

SELLERSBURG, Ind. (UP)—A Methodist pastor avenged the murder of his state trooper friend Monday afternoon by blasting a bank bandit to death in a gun duel.

The Rev. Robert W. Gingery, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in New Albany, Ind., shot and killed William Hassett, 25, Louisville, Ky., at a police blockade near here.

Hassett moments before had shot and killed state police Sgt. Marvin Waits, 47, who had stopped the bandit for questioning in the $1,655 robbery of the Sellersburg, Ind., State Bank.

Gingery, 37, whose steeple calm broke down shortly after the shooting, was given sedation and placed under a doctor's care today.

Carried Two Guns
The minister said Waits, a close friend and parishioner, had stopped a car carrying a man who answered the bank bandit's description. Waits radioed headquarters with the information.

A short time later, Gingery reported over the police radio: "Marvin has been shot and I have killed the bank robber."

Waits was killed with a bullet in the head when he approached Hassett's car to question the bandit.

Hassett jumped out, grabbed Waits' service revolver and advanced toward Gingery with guns in both hands.

Gingery picked up a sawed-off shotgun, kept loaded on the front seat of the officer's squad car, and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened. The clergyman, although unfamiliar with guns, realized the safety catch must be locked and fumbled with the gun until he found it.

While the minister was trying to release the safety catch, the robber crept to the back of the car and fired at Gingery. The minister whirled around in the front seat and shot through the back window. Hassett fell with a blast in the chest.

Gingery said Waits, a 20-year state police veteran who was due to retire next year, had joined his congregation two years ago and was a deeply religious man.

Waits had made it a habit to invite the pastor out for lunch and a ride in his car on the anniversary of joining the church, Gingery said. Monday was the second anniversary date.

Russia Likely To Provide Headlines At Conference

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

So far, private talks might succeed, the five-nation sub-committee was set up on April 19, 1954. There was a big meeting of the five countries in London in 1956. It ended in failure, as had other meetings, because Russia would not agree to an air-tight inspection agreement to prevent cheating.

The U.N. General Assembly Feb. 14 ordered the five-nation meetings be resumed. Russia had asked one week previously that the foreign ministers of the sub-committee countries attend the next disarmament talks.

This proposal was rejected. The Western allies said they saw no reason for the foreign ministers to attend unless there was some sound basis for hope that Russia would negotiate on a realistic basis.

But the foreign ministers could be summoned to London at any time, of course, if developments warranted.

The sub-committee in its new talks will have before it all the disarmament proposals that have been made in recent years.

Man Closer To Dream Of De-Salting Sea

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Man is moving closer to his ancient dream of de-salting the sea to provide an unlimited supply of fresh water for farms and cities, government scientists said today.

Research on cheap methods of purifying ocean water will take a significant step forward this summer with the construction of three pilot plants on the east and west coasts.

If these plants work as well as designers expect, said David S. Jenkins, head of the Interior Department's office of saline water, "it appears reasonable certain" that the cost of large-scale conversion of ocean water will be brought down to about 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Seek Lower Costs
That would be a major breakthrough in research. The most efficient salt water conversion apparatus now in use—aboard Navy ships and at isolated industrial sites—operates at a cost of about $2.00 per 1,000 gallons.

But Jenkins and his colleagues, who have tested scores of different conversion processes since the government research program was launched in 1952, regard the 50 cent figure as only a temporary target.

"We expect to keep on bringing the cost down," he said.

A good many more years of research and experimentation will be necessary, he indicated, to reduce conversion costs to the point where major cities would consider it economically feasible to run a pipeline to the nearest seacoast, rather than fill their reservoirs from wells, rivers and lakes.

Water Is Big Problem
Present costs of fresh water for municipal and industrial use range from only a few cents per 1,000 gallons, in areas situated near an adequate supply, to a high of about 38 cents per 1,000 gallons in a few places where supplies are scarce.

Interior Department officials are convinced that de-salted sea water is the "ultimate" answer to the nation's ever-expanding demand for more and more fresh water.

Finding enough water to meet demand already is a major problem in virtually all western states and in many parts of the East. Shortages are so acute in some areas that President Eisenhower recently warned that "water is rapidly becoming our most precious natural resource."

As A Blonde, Carolyn Jones Just Beginner
By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—As a blonde, Carolyn Jones was just another Hollywood beginner whose hair was more important than she was, but as a brunette she's destined for fame as a young Bette Davis.

When movie fans see Carolyn stride onto the screen as a man-hungry Greenwich Village neurotic in "The Bachelor Party" (this year's "Marty"), they may sense a new dramatic actress has arrived.

Carolyn, a part Indian beauty from Amarillo, Tex., has the intense eyes and definite manner of Bette Davis. But before Carolyn dyed her hair black she was playing unnoticed "blonde villainesses."

"I changed the color for 'The Bachelor Party' so people would notice me instead of my hair. Brunettes have a more lasting sex appeal. If you see a blonde you look for only a few minutes—it's a shock value that doesn't last."

Carolyn, whose great-great-great-grandfather was a Comanche Indian, studied drama at the nearby Pasadena Playhouse. She won a brief contract at Paramount Studio and roles in "House of Wax" (she was Joan or Arc in wax), "The Tender Trap" and "The Opposite Sex" before striking it big in Hecht-Hill-Lancaster's "The Bachelor Party."

TV viewers also have seen her in small parts on "Lux Video Theater," "Wire Service" and "Panic." She appeared on "Schlitz Playhouse" last Friday.

Being compared to La Davis doesn't bother Carolyn, except she refuses to see Davis' movies for fear "I'll pick up some of her physical gestures."

"Since I was a baby I've had these large eyeballs and I guess that's the resemblance," she smiled. "I would love to do the roles she's performed. Every role she plays is for an actress, not a personality."

South looked complacently at dummy. Assuming that spades and clubs would each break three-two his 10 tricks appeared to be in plain sight. If the black suits failed to break he would be set, but nothing could be done about that and he wasn't vulnerable anyway.

South trumped the second diamond lead and played three rounds of trumps. The ace-king and a low club came next and when that suit broke properly everything appeared beautiful in this best of all possible worlds.

Then trouble reared its ugly head. East played a third diamond and South had to use his last trump to ruff it. His two clubs were good but when he led a heart to dummy East had discarded down to the ace of hearts and a diamond and South never made his tenth trick.

South felt that he should have made the hand and he was right. South had been guilty of one of the principal bridge crimes. Pulling trumps before he could afford it. Any number of lines of play would have made the hand but South cleared the clubs and established a heart-trick before he used up dummy's trumps.

A simple line after ruffing the diamond at trick two would be to play the clubs. West would win the third lead and play a diamond. South would trump and lead a heart.

East would win that trick but would be helpless because South would be able to trump a fourth diamond lead in dummy and still draw East's three trumps.

Southwestern Life REPORTS

PROGRESS in helping people prepare for the future. Southwestern's field representatives produced $226,104,960 of paid-for business, 27 per cent more than the 1955 total and a record achievement in agency force sales for the eighth consecutive year. Insurance in force on December 31, 1956, was $1,466,401,879, an increase during the year of $125,882,252.

PROGRESS in helping people fulfill life objectives. Policy benefits paid to policyowners and their dependents reached a record calendar-year total of $22,262,360, and raised to $241,616,948 the total policy benefits paid since the Company was organized in 1903. Again in 1956 Southwestern distributed more than 10 per cent of all life insurance benefits paid by all companies to policyowners and beneficiaries in its home state.

PROGRESS in helping to build a greater Southwest. Financing a great variety of individual, business and public undertakings, the $55,571,522 of new investments made by Southwestern Life during 1956 represents the useful employment of policyowner savings in the economic development of the growing Southwest.

PROGRESS in increasing the assets which guarantee the integrity of the company's contracts and the policyowner's investment. During 1956, total assets of the company listed in the accompanying statement of condition increased by $23,985,432 and exceeded all present obligations to policyowners and all other liabilities by $44,806,050.

Bribe Investigators To Hear Testimony

AUSTIN (UP)—Testimony of a number of witnesses was to be heard today by the special committee investigating bribery charges of former Rep. James E. Cox.

Cox was censured Monday by the House for conduct "unbecoming a member" of the House of Representatives.

The names of witnesses to be heard today were not disclosed by committee chairman Wade Spilman of McAllen, after a witness, Dr. R. E. McMeans was injured when someone threw acid in his face.

Spilman, who recommended the censure, said he had been advised by the attorney general that censure was as far as the House could go. Impeachment would be impossible, since Cox resigned from the House March 3.

A motion by Rep. Tony Fenoglio of Nacogdoches seeking to postpone the action taken on Cox was re-

Pro-Segregation Bills See House Showdown

AUSTIN (UP)—Five pro-segregation bills face a showdown test of sentiment on the House floor after being reported favorably by the House State Affairs committee.

The proposed amendment and an enabling act to put the plan into effect are sponsored by Rep. Leroy Saul of Kress, Saul, along with Reps. Jerry Sadler of Perville, W. E. Shaw of Forney, Eligio de la Garza of Mission and W. N. Woolsey of Corpus Christi were named to the joint committee by Speaker Waggoner Carr.

The Senate was sharply criticized by one of its own members Monday after sending to the House a bill to change the name of the Texas Prison System to the Texas Department of Corrections.

Sen. Neville Colson, sponsor of the Senate-passed measure, was apparently grouped as one of a "bunch of reformers and do-gooders who think everybody who goes to the penitentiary should be taken out immediately," by Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo. Hardeman said there is nothing wrong with the name "penitentiary."

received one from him.

He charged that he was slandered Sunday by the Dallas Morning News, which said a legislative investigating committee was studying records of the Action Agency, which had served as consultants for ICT, the AFL and Yarborough.

Dies Talks of Reds

Congressman-at-Large Martin Dies, a Democratic candidate for the senatorial post, said Monday that the United States "should not compromise with evil" in negotiations with Russia and Red China. He addressed the Lubbock County Sheriff's posse.

Earlier, Dies promised he would "call upon the attorney general" to enforce the federal law limiting campaign expenditures.

Dies lashed out at candidates in the race who, he said, "are using Northern money to finance their campaigns."

Agriculture Commissioner John White complained Monday that two opposing candidates — Dies and Ralph Yarborough — had solicited campaign funds from him. One even invited him to an appreciation dinner, he said.

"I sympathize with their plight," White said, "but there are no surplus funds in my own race available for their campaigns."

White added that the "press of official business" will prevent him from attending the dinner.

An appreciation dinner is scheduled for Yarborough at La Villita in San Antonio. Yarborough spent Monday campaigning in Austin and Fort Worth, and planned to campaign in Dallas Tuesday.

Yarborough, remembering the 1936 governor's race, told supporters Monday he was "ahead in this race — ahead of the entire field combined," but added "every last vote cast may be the one that decides the outcome of the election." Yarborough lost to Gov. Price Daniel by 3,000 votes for the governorship.

Teachers To Hear Stoddard

The Pampa Class Room Teachers Association will have a meeting Mar. 26 in Pampa High School at which time the group will hear an address by Dr. Jerry Stoddard, retired superintendent of schools of the Los Angeles school system.

Dr. Stoddard has also been the superintendent of schools in the cities of Denver, Colo., and Philadelphia, Pa. He has given lectures throughout the 48 states and was at one time the chairman of the educational policies commission of the United States government, a position which he held for ten years.

D. V. Biggers, president of the Class Room Teachers Association, has said that the meeting will be an open affair, and added that he would urge all who possibly can to attend and hear Dr. Stoddard's address.

Following the address by Dr. Stoddard, the Association will have a small reception in the High School Cafeteria.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

Students Leave For Convention

A total of 27 members of the Little Harvester and Annual staff of Pampa High School left this morning for Canyon where they were to attend the Panhandle High School Press Association Convention.

The affair is a yearly one held on the West Texas State College campus.

Karla Cox, Pampa High School student, will be running for the office of secretary of the association.

There were to be three sessions, consisting of the yearbook, newspaper and mimeograph clinics. Three Pampa students will take an active part in the yearbook session.

CoC Group To Meet Today

There was to be a meeting this afternoon of the Public Improvement Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce in the chamber conference room at 3 o'clock for the purpose of hearing a report on the conditions of Lake McClellan and to study the possibilities of its development.

Floyd Watson, chairman of the committee, has said that it is hoped that something may be worked out at this meeting whereby some sort of concrete plan may be started for the improvement of the lake.

Members of the committee are: Lynn Boyd, C. P. Buckler, Clinton Evans, C. A. Huff, George Scott, Cecil Shirley, Roy Smith, Aubrey Steele, Reno Stinson, Arthur Teed, Jack Vaughn, DeLea Vicars, Herschel Wilks.

Bar NAACP Members

Requiring registration with the state of persons or organizations having as one of their principal functions advocacy of racial integration, by Rep. Joe N. Chapman of Sulphur Springs.

Barring members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from public employment in Texas, by Rep. Reagan Huffman of Marshall.

Requiring all integrated schools to re-establish segregation and allowing integration only by a vote of the persons in the school district concerned, by Rep. Jerry Sadler of Perville.

Another committee — a joint committee of representatives and senators — is studying a $200 million water program after the House refused Monday to agree to Senate amendments to the proposed constitutional amendment.

The program would provide aid through loans for construction of local conservation projects such as dams and reservoirs. The loans

Four Cases In County Court

Four cases were tried in County Court this morning resulting in $225 in fines and two jail sentences with one continuance.

Fined $100 and costs each and given three days in jail after pleading guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated were William Whitney of the Amarillo Air Force Base, and Billy Lawrence of Comanche, Okla.

Elvis O. Wilkerson of Pampa pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and was fined $25 plus costs. He was arrested by officers of the sheriff's department this morning.

Warren Raymond Dalton of Pampa was charged with theft by bailer and his case was continued by the court. He was charged with stealing a mattress, two quilts and two pillows from J. B. Cleveland also of this city.

New Residences To Be Built

Only two permits for the construction of new residences were issued by the office of the city engineer last week.

Both of the permits were issued to Highland Homes, Inc., for construction of residences in the 1900 block of N. Nelson with the estimated cost at $11,800 each.

One of the residences will be located at 1907 N. Nelson and the other one will be located at 1913 N. Nelson.

Maybe They Are In Wrong Racket

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Spauld L. Holland (D-Fla) figured today he'd better turn this one over to the Internal Revenue people.

He received a letter from two Miami, Fla. school teachers complaining because they could not deduct necessary summer courses from their income taxes.

"A neighbor of ours is a strip tease dancer," the teachers wrote. "She is allowed to deduct as 'necessary business expenses' the cost of her false eyelashes and G-strings, while we school teachers can't deduct the cost of required summer school work."

White takes on a new fashion importance in shoes for late spring, repeating the freshness of white for accessories this season. Slender pump (upper left) in white calf leather has flat black patent bow at the throat. Sun ray stitching on vamp is also black. Walking shoe with stacked leather heel (upper center) is beige calf with tab of white kid. The covered look (upper right) in a white calf pump features stiletto heel and pointed toe. Banding of kid is in dark blue and bright red. The sheath look (lower left) is done in terms of a black patent and white kid pump with ruffled tongue at the throat. Spring's own color, mauve, appears in a delicate pump (lower center) with shaped mid-heel and leather rose in deep purple. The baby Louis heel returns (lower right) in a dressy pump in two tones of black. The body of the shoe is calf and the trim is black patent. There's a shiny gold-toe buckle at the throat. Spring's shoes are light and supple, easy to wear.

Homemade Sun Helps Kitchen Plants And Brings Springtime To Your Room

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Bring the promise of springtime into your kitchen with a little garden of fresh plants. Flowers, with their color and decorative value, can be interspersed with fresh herbs, which add a springlike touch to the flavor of foods.

What thwarts the hopes of many a kitchen gardener, however, is lack of sufficient sunlight at the window to promote a vigorous display. Don't let this rule out the project. Manufacture your own sunlight with artificial lights.

For our purpose, Peggie Schulz, author of "Growing Plants Under Artificial Lights," recommends the use of white or daylight fluorescent tubes. There are commercially made plant stands equipped with proper lights. Or you can improvise your own arrangement.

One simple kitchen setup consists of two 20-watt tubes or one or two 40-watt tubes fastened to the underside of an open shelf or cupboard, above a countertop. To intensify the light, use reflectors or aluminum foil tacked under the shelf.

Most plants need to be kept within a few inches of the light. Boost small plants up so there are about four to six inches between the pot rim and light. But don't let the leaves touch the tubes.

Cool fluorescent light doesn't bake the plant.

If this is the only source of light the plants will have, Mrs. Schulz advises leaving lights on about 14

Matthew Brady, Historian With Camera Is Biography Reviewed For TC Forum

Twentieth Century Forum met in the home of Mrs. John B. McCreery with the president, Mrs. M. McDaniel, presiding over the brief business meeting. Mrs. C. V. Wilkinson gave the program, a review of Matthew Brady, Historian With A Camera by James D. Horan.

"Photographers today are as important as journalists in telling a story," said Mrs. Wilkinson. She prefaced her review with examples of early portrait photography, and showed some of the illustrations in Mr. Horan's book. "The birth of photography was in 1839 in France when Daguerre made the first picture," she said. The French Academy of Science awarded him a yearly annuity for revealing his secret in a paper presented before the society. "At that moment the veil was torn from history's eyes."

Brady was born on a farm near Warrentown, N.Y., of Irish-immigrant parents. He went to Saratoga to work when he was 16, and there met William Paige who specialized in portraits. He worked as a jeweler's assistant and finally saved $50 to study photography.

In 1840, at the age of 20, he opened his own studio. For four years he won first place in competition and "Harper's Magazine" finally just announced "Brady won again!" quoted Mrs. Wilkinson.

Brady began photographing famous people of his day with Andrew Jackson and Edgar Allan Poe among them. There was no technique for taking moving objects, so an "immobilizer" was used to hold the subject still long enough for the camera to record him. In 1847 Brady opened a gallery in Washington, D.C. to be near the famous people he liked to photograph, but eventually he also had three studios in New York City in order to meet the competition there. He was the photographer selected to photograph Jenny Lind, who was presented in Washington under the auspices of P. T. Barnum and commanded the fee of $1,000 a performance. At about this time he met his future wife, Julia Handy. Of her it was said

"She was so beautiful at the age of four that the president wanted to adopt her." They were married in New York and lived there in the Washington Hotel. They had no children but were extremely close to a nephew of Mrs. Brady's who later went into business with Brady and was the photographer selected to photograph the Declaration of Independence and other historical documents for official records.

Brady took the photograph of Lincoln which appears on the $5 bill. Lincoln tried in vain to interest the War Department in financing Brady to take official photographs of the Civil War, so Brady invested over $100,000 of his own in the necessary equipment. He invented a wagon which contained a dark room as well as living facilities for the driver and photographer, and sent out 20 such teams to cover the war. This project eventually caused his bankruptcy.

Julia died in 1887 and Brady moved in with his nephew and partner, L. C. Handy. He died in a charity ward in 1896 after attending one last exhibit of his thousands of prints. He is buried in Arlington among all the heroes he photographed. In 1934 the Library of Congress bought the Brady-Handy collection of 25,000 prints from Brady's two nieces who at that time still owned the L. C. Handy Studio in Washington, D.C.

Members attending the meeting were Mrs. McCreery, McDaniel, Wilkinson, Roy Bourland, Bob Curry, E. J. Dunigan Jr., Wm. L. Ellis, Wm. T. Fraser, J. R. Holloway, Homer D. Johnson, W. Calvin Jones, Frank Kelley, Henry J. Rose, Aubrey Steele and Arthur Teed.

It's essential to have the right cloths for dusting and for applying liquid polishing wax. Cheesecloth, old diapers or flannel cloths are best. Coarse or open-mesh material or new cloth that may be linty won't give good results.

Doing related work is always a timesaver. For example, clean all mirrors and pictures at one time.

Pink-Blue Shower Fetes Mrs. Daniels

(Special to The News)

LEFORS — Mrs. Wesley Daniels was honored with a pink and blue shower recently in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Ted Gustin, C. C. Mullins, Bill McBee, Carl Ferguson, L. R. Spence, J. Hall, J. Jinks, Walter Pfug, and Howard Archer.

A color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the receiving room decorations. The gift table was laid in a yellow cloth with yellow and white streamers extending from the ceiling to the corners of the table ending in a bow at the table. The gifts were opened by the honoree and then displayed on this table.

A corsage of yellow baby socks in the shape of tulips arranged with green fern and yellow ribbon was presented to the honoree.

Refreshments consisted of cheese ribbon sandwiches and candy mints in miniature yellow and white baskets served with spiced tea.

Guests were Mrs. R. E. Mayberry, Arlie Carpenter, W. T. Cole and Mary, Bill Watson, W. R. Combs, E. A. Arlington, D. W. Willis, Raymond Barnes, J. P. Bushell, A. W. Shoffit, L. W. Upham, C. F. Phillips, C. G. Duncan, Ray Boyd, Jr., Earl Atkinson, Oliver Scott, M. E. Tibbets, Car Hall, J. N. Smith, Frank Hunt and Miss Nancy Jordan.

Approximately 40 persons sent gifts.

Carpets Keep New Look

With proper care wall to wall carpeting will retain the new look.

Correct cleaning methods have seemingly been a mystery and controversial even to carpet manufacturers. After much research a product is on the market that cleans and fluffs up beat down carpet paths plus removal of spots thereby maintaining the new look. The textile engineer of a large carpet mill says — "it's the best we've found."

The product is Blue Lustre. It is easily applied with a long handle brush. One half gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

America's Exclusive $ Club

WASHINGTON (UP)—A total of 145 persons formed the most exclusive club in America in 1953 by reporting incomes of more than a million dollars. New Yorkers and Texans dominated the membership list.

Some 58 million other taxpayers failed to make it. Total income tax payments in 1953 amounted to $29 billion on $230 billion in earnings, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The service reported Sunday night that 53 residents of New York state and 18 from oil-rich Texas signed up for the 1953 millionaires' club. Delaware, home of the powerful du Pont family, placed 11 in the inner circle.

Other states with members in the fraternity included one each in Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

The millionaires were not named.

Demos Guard Party's Health

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA EDITORS NOTE: Lyle C. Wilson's analytical dispatches for Monday, Wednesday and Friday will be written during his absence by members of the United Press Washington staff. Today's dispatch is by Raymond Lahr, political writer and chief of the UP Senate staff.

By RAYMOND LAHR

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—Two more prescriptions for guarding and improving the health of the Democratic Party have come from its political center.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) gave the latest diagnoses of where the party now stands and offered advice on how it should face the future.

Both held that the Democratic Party is basically strong having won just about all the political prizes last year except the big one—the presidency. Neither shared the concern expressed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) that it must acquire new vigor to escape being interred alongside the oldtime Federalists—and the Whigs.

Against Bloc Voters Johnson said, in effect, that Democrats should concern themselves more with truly national issues and less with courting "blobs" of voters.

"Personally, I believe that the people of this country are tired of the kind of political thought that divides Americans into blocs," he said in a weekend Jackson Day speech in Raleigh, N. C. "I strongly suspect that those most tired of that phrase are the men and women who are supposed to be members of the blocs."

As for national issues to be faced now, Johnson listed policies dealing with interest rates, foreign affairs, the farm problem, peaceful use of atomic energy, natural resources, health and the training of scientists and engineers.

Looks To Suburbanites

Gore said the Democrats must redouble their efforts to persuade new suburbanites the Democrats have most to offer to "people of moderate means." He also emphasized his belief that his party must recognize the political implications of other population shifts. "Some areas of traditional Democratic Party strength can no longer be counted upon with cer-

Child's Ailment Baffles Doctors

NEW YORK, March 18 (UP)—Dixie Lee LaHood, blind and paralyzed for more than half of her four years of life, is still undergoing extensive examination at Babies Hospital of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, the hospital announced Monday.

Doctors have not yet been able to make a diagnosis of the ailment for which the child was flown here from Dallas, Tex., last week. The hospital said examinations should be completed by Friday or Saturday and it is hoped the reason for the little girl's mysterious ailment will then be known.

"New areas of party strength, on the other hand, are now apparent, and although they have been neglected in the past, they must now be cultivated intensively in the future."

Gore said the center of Democratic Party strength is moving west.

Otherwise, his recommendations to his party suggested ways for building a "positive program of action" and exposing the "mistakes" of the GOP.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaHood, appeared on the television quiz show "Strike It Rich" Monday in an attempt to win more money to continue their fight for their child's life. LaHood answered correctly the first question of a series and the couple will return Tuesday.

The program announced that "Heart Line" donations of several hundred dollars had been received from Dallas supporters who provided the $500-down agent—which brought the family here in hope that the cause of the youngster's ailment may be found. Another gift, from Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, will provide free hotel room and meals for the parents for two weeks.

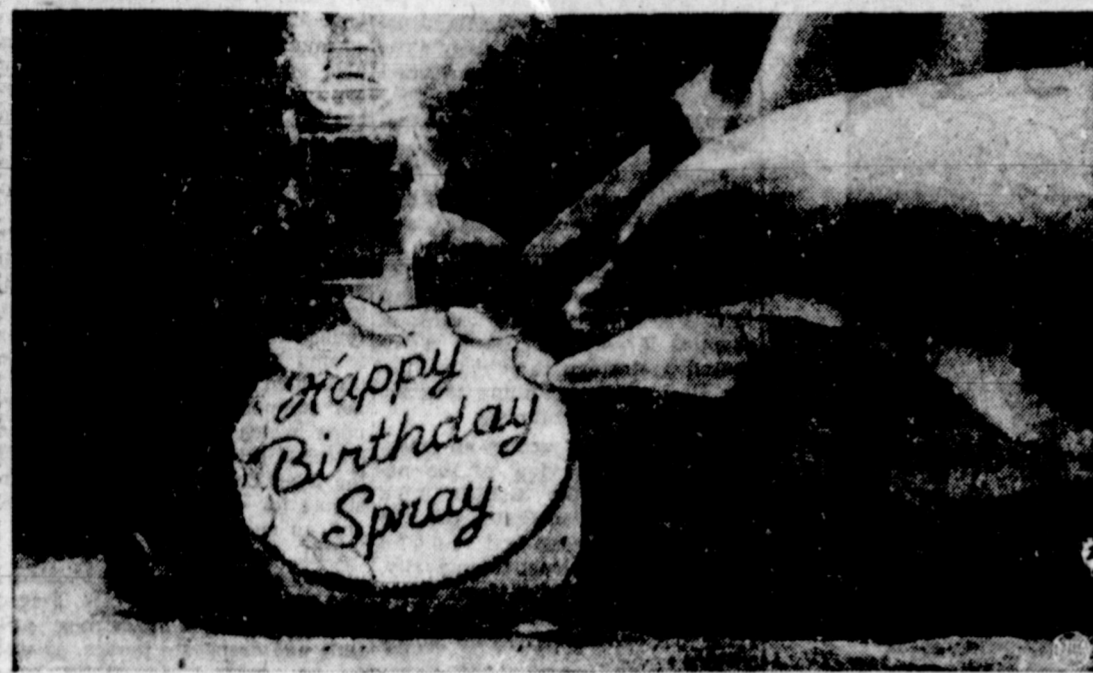

Both parents were in tears as they appeared on the program.

'Normal Vices'

Is it true that people generally prefer vice to virtue?

If we look closely at the political scene we would be inclined to think so. For the history of all political movements, not excluding those which spring up in democracies and republics, is rife with vice and corruption.

It would seem that people tend to distrust politicians who appear to be virtuous. What they apparently want is a political giant who will commit all manner of immoral acts for their benefit.

While it is true, we believe, that innately most individuals wish to avoid vice in their own lives, they tend to develop a sort of hero worship for public figures who flaunt their vices openly.

Perhaps E. Armstrong, author of a well-worn tome entitled, "Lorenzo de' Medici," was correct. In trying to understand the reasons for the success of the unscrupulous and vicious Florentine leader, he refers to his predecessor as follows: "His virtues were uprightness and incorruptibility, which are akin to vices in the eyes of the people, who readily weary of those who are better than themselves."

The man who was the forerunner of Lorenzo was apparently a man of integrity. His government was shallow and after a passage of time failed miserably. Perhaps, in his uprightness, he refused to make of himself a tool for the mean and degrading ambitions of those about him. When Lorenzo came, he had no such fine scruples. Lorenzo would stop at nothing to accomplish his ends. He willingly made of himself a cat's paw for mischief, and the people loved him for it.

There must be some truth in this observation. Rarely in history has there been such an obvious display of veneration, not to say adoration, of a political system as we presently observe. Yet our nation's capital is filled with corruption. It is piled so deep and rests so firmly upon previous actions of questionable character, that even its perpetrators no longer bother to deny the vice inherent in it. They merely assert that it is to be excused because it is normal.

To find the root causes for this abysmal fact, if fact it is, we can look to two sources. The first lies in the people, generally.

In order to survive at all, men must struggle. Their natural enemies are the forces of wind, weather, distance, time, animals, poisons, sickness and death. Their natural friends are other men, who, like them, must also struggle.

But with a perversion noticeable only among homo sapiens, men have a tendency to make enemies of other men and to ally themselves with their natural enemies. The spirit of competition, which can be a beneficent stimulant for man's best efforts, can also become a baneful force for evil when some men gang up thru agencies of violence, such as governments and unions, to compel other men to obey their behests.

The result is to split humanity into two factions; the one, the producers; the other, the governors. And when this result is buttressed by an international conspiracy labeled communism, society becomes an armed camp in which competition is replaced by legalized warfare, those having power wielding it for their own and their friends' benefit, to the deprivation and harm of others.

The other source must be found in our government schools. All education to have either merit or value, must be based upon sound principles which exclude vice as a desired end or an acceptable means to an end. But our government schools avoid such instruction. Virtue, which we agree may be more than ordinary, is bypassed for vice, which conceivably is normal. And if a person can succeed, his success is all that matters to the great number. Never mind how he gets to the top... if he gets there, that is the proof that what he did was justified.

It is small wonder, considering the manner in which we have abandoned classical wisdom, that the human race today is wallowing in the trough of immorality. Short cuts to success are not infrequently accompanied by a loss of virtue. The way to achieve thru honor and integrity, always appears long and difficult.

And since our young people are taught that popularity is the great aim, and the examples are all about them of decay and cynicism, it is inevitable that they will plan their futures in a "normal" manner. Which is to say that they will do what they are taught is acceptable in the light of contemporary skulduggery.

Thus, we have a union of non-virtuous influences, stemming from a general public apathy and a desire for gain on the one hand, and a positive lack of correct moral instruction on the other.

Will we have the more than ordinary courage necessary to call a halt to the open acceptance of vice? Time and future historians will tell.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Duty To Be Free

One of the rewards of being an individualist is that you come in contact with other people who believe in individual liberty.

The other day I received in the mail from the Rucker Publications Committee, a non-profit organization, three books and two pamphlets. One was a 500-page book by Rudolf Rocker on "Nationalism and Culture" and another was "American Liberals," both of which I had already owned and read. One of the pamphlets was on Henry D. Thoreau. This I had never seen. Being a great admirer of Thoreau, I read it with great enjoyment. This especially interested me due to the fact that we are so rapidly abandoning the concepts on liberty as advocated by Thoreau.

There was one essay in this 40-page pamphlet under the heading of "Thoreau: The Cosmic Yankee" that was such a gem that I want to pass on some of the thoughts in this article by Jo Ann Wheeler, teacher, Ferrer Modern School.

One of the statements that impressed me was her contention that Thoreau had the queer notion that men had not so much the right as the duty to be free. But I'll let the author tell about Thoreau's philosophy:

Man Must Find Himself
"One hundred years ago a young man went to live in a woodland hut which he had built for himself by the side of a quiet pond. His purpose was twofold; to write, and to get acquainted with himself and life.

"I wished," he said, "to live deliberately, to front only the essentials of life and see if I could learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover I had not lived."

"No one who has the slightest acquaintance with Henry David Thoreau will attempt to deny the success of his venture, for this experience helped to crystallize a Philosophy of Freedom that has had an ever-growing appeal. His was the queer notion that men had not so much a right as a duty to be free, a notion that strikes the thoughtful mind as ever fresh and new. And can anyone who aspires to freedom fail to respond to the clear, cool stimulant of his inner nature. How many of us could say as much? 'Know thyself,' says Socrates, 'be thyself,' says Thoreau. Excellent advice; but are we not cowards, afraid to attempt either? Do we not wriggle and squirm out of every opportunity life affords us to do more than vegetate?"

"Reaction" is a word in common use today, perhaps, because it is so evident that this age in which we live is one of reaction... a running away from the complexities of our times... an escape, if you will, from the hideous mess we have made of this little world of ours from our craven fears and uncertainties. We are afraid to look ahead; the present is unbearable; consciously or unconsciously we turn our faces to what lies behind us. We are in the midst of a Revolution, but it is revolving backward.

"Take the two most prominent trends of thought: Collectivism— which in practise proves to be a centralization of power in a Super-State—and that other trend which I shall call medievalism, which shows itself, either as a glorification of the great minds of the past—the 100-best-books-school-of-thought or in the form of a religious mysticism which chants of a great revival of faith. I'm not criticising these ideas unless calling them reactionary is criticism. But are they a return to the dead past? Certainly the idea that all wisdom has been compressed in the philosophies of a few men of the past, no matter how great, with nothing for future generations to add or take away, is a little narrow, to say the least, and in the case of a few of our servants, is it not even a little bigoted? And there are many of the mystics who honestly advocate a return to the Middle Ages, in thought, at least.

"On the other hand the Planned Society of the Collectivists bears not a little resemblance in practice to the despotism of those of the more enlightened of the Oriental Despots; or, to come a little nearer to our own time, what of the planned society of Rome on the eve of its decline? It is a little startling to compare the workings of the State-controlled life of the Romans under Diocletian and his successors with the collectivist societies of the twentieth century.

Finding Oneself
"Man must find God," say the mystics. "Man must find Security," say the Collectivists. I think that it might be most desirable to find God, if that is possible, and there can be no quarrel with security—and yet—from my ivory tower I have watched the ways of men as they try to achieve both objectives and it has seemed to me that when they are most triumphantly proclaiming their success they are the farthest from their goal. I think that Man will not find either God or Security until he has found himself."

'White House' Can Mean Any Of Four Impudent Upstarts

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Associated Press recently told us that "The White House," which could mean Jim Hagerly, Sherman Adams or any of three or four other impudent upstarts, had said that Senator Joe McCarthy was the only member of Congress whom the President and Mrs. Eisenhower did not invite to any of their formal receptions and dinners this year. This was a small, nasty snub, unworthy of a chief of the government of this nation with a decent respect for his office. The victim could not punch back. Moreover, it also was intended for Mrs. McCarthy inasmuch as she naturally had been included if there had been an invitation, and therefore rotten manners.

When I was in Washington recently, Forrest Davis, a journalist of standing, told me that Hagerly told him Ike had made a rule to eschew social relations with all journalists—except publishers. It served Davis right and leave that learn him not to expose himself to rudeness by his inferiors.

Now, I want to say that I would not accept an invitation to anything from Eisenhower because I consider him my social, moral and ethical inferior. I dislike him on personal and political grounds: I think he showed a lack of courage when he surrendered the victory to Soviet Russia by yielding Berlin without access and falling back 100 miles from the River Elbe, thus ceding to an obvious enemy some three million good German people and all the material and strategic political properties of that region. But for that act there would have been no cold war.

I think he showed the same fault in ordering or assenting to the return of thousands of Anti-Soviet Russian soldiers who had surrendered to the Germans and joined them in the war against the Kremlin, which was and remains our enemy, and countless Russian civilians whom the Germans had deported to Germany. I questioned him on the surrender of Berlin and East Germany in his own headquarters, but all he could say was that this was a political decision, not a military one, and that he had acted under orders. I would have told Truman to go to hell and dared him to court-martial me.

Ike flinched when he exclaimed, that Dick Nixon would "have to come clean as a hound's tooth" about the slush fund raised for Nixon's political expenses. If a stranger tells a man that his wife has been carrying on, the husband knocks the other man down.

Ike did it again last summer when Harold Stassen blasted Nixon. Instead of pasting Stassen in the teeth, Ike waseled again and I have got to acknowledge an impression that the guy simply is not game. This, of course, does not refer to battle-bravery. It is presuming that a general will not panic under fire.

In another episode, Ike sent a major general home from London for speculating on D-Day at a cocktail party, although Kay Summersby, an Englishwoman planted on him by the British government, wrote in her memoirs that she knew the date and place of the Normandy invasion long before. This Englishwoman says Ike coined the whole works to her, a me chauffeur, really, who writes that her background included a brief marriage, a hitch as a clothes model in the West End of London, and betrothal to an officer of Ike's staff who had a wife and children back in the states. Did Ike violate "security"? It is no privilege to drink, dine by golf with Eisenhower. In my case the privilege would be his. I want no social traffic with him just because he got elected in a political coup. I say he has done-blee-crossed many of the people who voted for him by taking up with Paul Hoffman, Arthur Goldsmith of the Waldorf Tower, Stassen and Earl Warren, and "receiving" Irving Brown, who is Dave Dubinsky's phony ambassador in Europe. Brown was a red hot Communist who is too bashful to tell me when he recanted and, as far as I know, never did, and Dubinsky is a Socialist. They like Ike, like likes them and that settles that for me.

BID FOR A SMILE

There was a Dr. Munyon many years ago who sold a powerful lot of patent medicine by direct mail. His slogan was "There is Hope." He ads always carried an impressive photograph of himself, revealing a senatorial phiz with a bush of snow-white hair.

"How much do you spend every year on hairdressing?" asked a visitor. "About a quarter of a million," said Dr. Munyon. "If I show you how to save fifty thousand of it," proposed the visitor. "Without losing a sale, will you give me five thousand for myself?" "I will," said Munyon. "Get a haircut," said the visitor.

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.
It is with some reluctance that I shall discuss the subject of premenstrual tension today. My hesitation comes from the fact that many people have strong imaginations and I dislike suggesting symptoms which the imagination can so readily invent or exaggerate.

However, it is generally recognized today that many women prior to the onset of their menstrual periods do develop various discomforts and symptoms which disappear, or at least fade, with the onset of the menses.

Few women have all of the symptoms associated with premenstrual tension; but among the most common are pain and swelling of the breasts, bloating of the abdomen, backache, leg cramps, slight gain in weight, headaches, worsening of certain skin eruptions, anxiety, depression, irritability or restlessness, difficulty in sleeping, dizziness and other changes from the usual state of well-being or mental contentment.

MANY WOMEN experience none of these symptoms. Furthermore, if present at all, the disturbance may be mild in one woman and more severe in another.

It is not yet entirely clear what causes premenstrual tension, though the finger of suspicion certainly points toward some change in hormone production at this period of the cycle. It is believed that changed secretion may lead primarily to three effects, namely, some retention of fluids, disturbance in the burning of starches in the body and increase in the number of certain cells in some parts of the system.

The idea that a woman afflicted with severe premenstrual tension can only grin and bear it is beginning to be abandoned. In some women nothing much needs to be done because the symptoms are mild and last only a short time. But in others there is enough incapacitation to warrant medical help.

SUGGESTION
Is it really (or purely mental) that my teeth aching at mentions of "dental"?

Diplomats See Middle East Political, Economic Waste

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The grave possibility that the vast and turbulent Middle East might become a political and economic wasteland upsets Western diplomats, despite the Eisenhower program for investing the relatively small sum of $200,000,000 to develop new sources of wealth.

Although the Eisenhower Doctrine finally commanded large majorities in House and Senate, even its supporters disclaimed any intention of inaugurating a long-range or permanent Marshall Plan in this area. It won the votes of skeptics largely because it represented a strategy to prevent Middle East oil from falling into the hands of the Communists.

It is in reality, merely an emergency move. In view of the unpopularity of the British and French, the United States was the only Western power that could hold the line, at least temporarily, against Moscow. But there is no expectation that Congress will continue to spend the taxpayers money in this effort.

Meanwhile, save for the committed oil companies, private interests show no inclination to invest in industrial, transportation, agricultural or other development enterprises. Nasser's sabotage of the Suez Canal and destruction of pipelines in Syria and Jordan warn that such investments would not be secure. Nor will Congress approve Fairless or other proposals that the government guarantee them against harassment or expropriation.

In addition to these severe handicaps, the business experts and managerial classes in Egypt and its Arabian satellites are pulling out or being driven out in reprisals for the November attack. In most of this area, it is the foreigners who have managed vast segments of the economy — industry, shipping, retail outlets, etc. But thousands of these entrepreneurs — British, French, Jews, Italians, Greeks — have left, and their properties have been confiscated.

When the writer interviewed Nasser and his revolutionary comrades in 1954, they conceded that, in addition to loans, their greatest lack and need were western-trained managers. Few natives are capable of handling modern machinery or managing a business without this kind of direction and supervision. Like the Russians, when a tractor breaks down, they revert to primitive methods of farming instead of repairing it.

The situation is ever more critical in Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. Since winning their independence from ex-King Feroz, Britain and France, economic and living conditions have deteriorated steadily. Freedom has not compensated for the poverty upon which communism thrives.

National pride over the outcome of the Suez Canal "war" is no substitute for decent food and shelter and an ascent from feudalism.

Still another factor points a gloomy outlook for these backward and really pitiable peoples. Frightened by Nasser's headstrong attitude and desperate tactics, as well as the general instability here, the great oil companies are pondering more reliable and dependable methods of transportation for their product. When they become pushed deeper into bankruptcy and despair.

New and larger pipelines may be built from the oil fields through Israel and Turkey, bypassing the Arab lands and depriving them of essential revenue. Tankers of 80,000 tonnage and more, which cannot navigate the Suez Canal but can voyage around the Cape of Good Hope, are under construction in Japan, West Germany and Britain — 38,000,000 tons in all.

The threat to a steady flow of oil has given urgent impetus to construction of atomic power plants and modernization of coal mining in Western Europe and the United States.

Nasser may now be the Arabs' emotional and sentimental hero. But the natives may soon find that hero-worship will not fill their stomachs, and they may turn in desperation to the Reds.

TRIPOLI — Notes From the shores of: I met the most completely honest merchant I have ever traded with on this side of the Atlantic today — a dealer in North African souvenirs. He asked two Libyan pounds ($5.50) for a pair of slippers made of camel skin. When I objected he asked, "Are you American?" When I said I was, he said, "Always charge double for Americans. Everybody does."

But not everyone does, the merchant notwithstanding. There is a taxi company that charges only about the equivalent of a penny for a ride of two miles or more, no matter what the nationality of the rider. The "taxi" is a homemade, flat-bottomed wagon, which is sometimes pulled by horses, sometimes by camels. You climb on, pay the driver, and scramble for a place to sit on the bed of the taxi, legs pulled under you, or, if you get a choice seat, with your legs dangling over the sides. It's a great way to see the city.

An educated citizen of Tripoli told me that the gravest danger of the peasants' adoration of Nasser lies in the fact that they are rapidly making a god of him, and that many now rank him just a notch or two below Mahomet. On this pedestal the Colonel can do no wrong, and the Arabs will obey any command in the belief that it is a holy one.

It would be interesting to know how many man hours a year the Arabs waste on greetings. When two men meet they each ask, in turn, what condition the other is in, how he feels, where he is going, what's his business for the day, the state of his family, and a hundred similar questions. When two friends who haven't seen one another for quite a while meet, the exchange lasts a good half hour.

Tripoli has the third most efficient shoe-shine boys in the world. The best are in Damascus, the second best in Mexico. It took me twenty minutes to get a shine today, and the grinning boy put on seven different applications, and stippled each one as though it were the last.

Irony, on the day that King Saud was to arrive here on his state visit, Idris municipal airport was closed to all incoming planes save that bringing the King. As a result, an Egyptian Airlines plane from Cairo would have had to turn back had not the RAF graciously turned the other cheek and allowed it to land on its landing strip. The Egyptian pilots walked off without so much as a "Thank you."

Rock 'n' Roll Notes: What did I see in a store window at Home, one of the oldest towns in creation, but a giant crayon portrait of Elvis, done in pastel colors and with full slack jaw. And at the Oriental, Tripoli's most exclusive night club devoted to the preservation and advancement of belly-dancing, one of the artistes did her speciality to Rock 'n' Roll music. It was enough to send a man screaming into the desert air — and it did.

Sometimes I must do a definitive article on automobile drivers of the world. Until I got here I had always thought Portugal, Lebanon and Austria were the homes of the most bizarre drivers, but now I am not sure. Here in Libya the drivers make the transition from camels to cars in one day, and the result is madness of purest ray serene. One of the wealthiest men in town is the proprietor of a body repair shop. It is open around the clock.

I don't indulge myself, and I never was as glad as when I saw a Libyan bartender mix a Libyan martini for a Libyan. I turned my head when he put in the bitters and reached for a slice of cucumber. Maybe I should have stayed around for the oil and vinegar.

They say "You cannot cut taxes, you cannot end or minimize Korean losses, you cannot stop inflation." What kind of stuff is that — don't and can't? Of course we can and will!" So cried Dwight D. Eisenhower when he was running for President on October 22, 1952. How invigorating an echo of those words would be in a Washington that now shows signs of a complete surrender to New Dealism.

Indians Reject $1 Million Offer For Herb Score

Not Publicity Stunt, Bosox' Cronin States

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer
SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)—General Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox confirmed today that no "serious cash offer" of $1-million for Cleveland strikeout king Herb Score and batted at a suggestion that the fabulous offer was a publicity stunt.

"I was and am definitely serious—certainly the offer was made in good faith," Cronin told skeptical reporters after General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians revealed he had rejected the deal. "I offered him $1-million for Score and told him to take the offer to the Indians' board of directors."

"Greenberg said he'd give me a ring," Cronin went on. "I didn't expect him to say anything about the offer. But, now that he has, it's true."

Hit Like Bombshell
Greenberg's statement hit the major league training sites like a bombshell and produced reaction ranging from stunned disbelief to statements like "Bill Veck is running the show" and "Cronin and Greenberg just dreamed that up to produce a headline." Even Boston fans conceded "$1-million seems awful hard to believe."

But in Tucson, Ariz., Manager Kirby Farrell of the Indians told the United Press: "Mr. Greenberg did a very reasonable thing and I am glad he did. I would not trade Score for Mickey Mantle or Al Kaline."

Cronin and Greenberg had slightly different versions of exactly how the offer — four times the record amount ever paid for a major league player — was made.

"Greenberg and I sat down Monday and tried to work out every possible combination for a deal," said Cronin. "I finally said, 'I'm offering you $1-million for Score. Take that to your board of directors.' We didn't shake hands. Greenberg said he'd give me a ring."

"We were discussing another deal involving a pitcher," said Greenberg. "Finally Cronin said, 'I'd give a million dollars for a sure 20-game winner—a pitcher like Score.' I replied, 'Do you mean you would give me $1-million for Score?' and he said, 'Yes, I think I would.' I hesitated a moment and said, 'Well, I wouldn't take it.'"

Score, a 23-year old New York born left-hander who got a $60,000 bonus to sign with Cleveland, set a record for a rookie by striking out 245 batters in 1955 and last season whiffed 263 while compiling a 20-9 record. His 1956 strikeout total was the highest in the majors since 1946 when Bob Feller fanned 348 and Hal Newhouser whiffed 275 and his two-year record of 508 strikeouts in 476 innings is unprecedented.

The Great Bolo, object of much talk and flared tempers in the Pampa ring for several months, has been put out of operation for 15 days following his losing bout with big Don Curtis at the Sportsman Club last night.

The masked one, who appeared to be lost without the conspiring kid of his second and tag team partner, Leo Newman, was given ample warning by referee Tommy Phelps and then he was suspended.

Curtis, wrestling Bolo in a return match with winner take all, won the first of their scheduled three falls by disqualification and he came back in the second to use a series of drop kicks and a body press to take the second. He used only 24 minutes and 17 seconds for the two falls.

Bolo used a hidden object in his mask in trying to defeat Curtis. The first fall turned into a slugging match with no holds barred. Bolo finally called for Newman to help him and when Leo rushed to the ring from his seat in the stands, Phelps disqualified the masked Bolo. Newman had been ordered to keep out of his corner.

NIT Tournament In Uproar After Favorites Are Upset

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Five upsets in six games have thrown the National Invitation Tournament in an uproar today, and tonight it's the turn of Bradley and Temple to be "cursed" with the favorite's role in quarter-final games.

Bradley (19-7) takes on hot-shooting Xavier of Ohio (20-7) in the first game and then speedy Rodgers leads Temple (18-8) against Dayton's "bridesmaids" (19-4) in the second.

But look what happened to the favorites in Monday night's two quarter-finals—top-seeded Seattle was handed an 85-68 shellacking by small but sassy St. Bonaventure and Manhattan took an 85-73 drubbing from Memphis State.

Used Swarming Tactics
St. Bonnie, proudly calling itself the "team without a star," will meet Memphis State in one semifinal on Thursday night. Tonight's winners will meet in the other, and then the nationally televised finals will be staged Saturday at 2 p.m. EST.

St. Bonaventure overwhelmed Seattle and its highly-touted Elgin Baylor with the same swarming, scrapping tactics that bewildered Cincinnati in the first round. Baylor emerged with 23 points and 25 rebounds, but was hardly a vital actor in the game. The six-seventh soph star collected fouls fast and finally fouled out with four minutes left.

Memphis State was led to its victory by six-five Jim Hockaday, who came off the bench in the second half when regulars were loaded with fouls to call seven of nine field goal attempts. He broke Manhattan's back just when the New York Jaspers were rallying from a seven-point halftime deficit.

Six-seven Barney Cable, who had 368 points and 303 rebounds this season, leads second-seeded Bradley against Xavier tonight. The Peoria Indians will be tackling a team that sank 47 per cent of its shots in its opening game and has equal height.

Rodgers voted the "outstanding visiting player to appear in New York City" during the regular season, will be the chief hope of Temple against Dayton. The underdog Flyers, who have finished second four times in this tourney but never have won the title, have a veteran tourney team and are hoping that six-eight Jim Palmer will suddenly become the big star he has given promise of being.

Pampa entered the Southwest Recreation Meet in Fort Worth last week and placed 11th in a field of 44.

Queens, Clarendon In AAU Cage Action
ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UP)—Top-seeded Wayland College, which has a string of 100 straight victories, goes into action today in the second round of the National Women's AAU basketball tournament.

The Flying Queens of Plainview, Tex., drew a bye in the first round, completed Monday night with three games. The tournament started Sunday.

Monday, Bristol, R.I., defeated Pine Sol Queens of Jackson, Miss., 35-30.

Among today's games are Virginia Beach vs. Nashville Business College and Clarendon, Tex., Junior College vs. Atlanta Sports Arena.

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro has called for legislation to defeat a bill before the state legislature calling for the abandonment of Pimlico race track and transfer of its dates to Laurel. In a letter written to state Senator Anthony Dimonico, D'Alessandro said "Baltimore is the home of the Preakness...and therefore I am opposed to any plan that would mean the end of Pimlico."

Cincy Has Power To Win Pennant

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
TAMPA, Fla. (UP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have the power to win the National League pennant. But most baseball followers don't think they have enough pitching. However, Birdie Tebbetts, in his fourth season as manager of the Redlegs, doesn't agree with them. He insists he has "the best pitching depth in the league."

"We have seven or eight pitchers who can start and relieve," Tebbetts claims. "We may not have the standout starters some other teams have, but they can't come up to us in overall depth. And there isn't a better relief pitcher in the business than (Hersh) Freeman."

White Tebbetts is impressed with Cincinnati's power—the club tied the all-time major league club home run record last season when it clouted 221—he said he would be "satisfied with less homers and more singles and doubles."

The outfield is all set with Frank Robinson, the National League rookie of the year in 1956 in left Gus Bell in center and Wally Post in right.

Pampa Tracksters Set Three Meets This Week

Three track and field meets are on the schedule for Coach Dwaine Lyon's Pampa Harvester clubmen this week as they go into their third week of competition.

The entire Harvester squad will participate in a four-way meet at Borger Wednesday afternoon at 3. Pampa, Borger, Siltneck and Phillips are entered in the quadrangular event.

Lyon will divide his squad for two meets this week end. He will send his varsity squad to compete in the big West Texas Relays in Odessa on Friday and Saturday. On Saturday, the B team will enter the Panhandle Relays at Pampa.

The West Texas Relays, with many of the southwest's top colleges, universities and high schools taking part, is the third big meet for the Harvesters this season. They entered the Canyon Reef Relays to start the season on March 9.

Coach Deck Woldt's Pampa High School baseball team was to meet the Borger Bulldogs in the opening baseball game of the season at Oil-er Park this afternoon.

Although both teams are members of District 3-AAAA, the game was to be a non-conference contest. The two teams have been working out for about one week.

Woldt was expected to start Ray Stephenson on the mound and use him for three innings, following with hurlers David James and Ronnie Burlingame. Other Harvester starters in their probable batting order were to be Benny Sparks, third base; Bill Brown, shortstop; Mike Conway or Merrill Terrell, second base; Robert Langford, first base; Dewey Hutchinson, left field; Larry Cruise or Gary Wilhelm, center field; Bill Conway, right field; and John Lee, Catcher.

Hogan, Snead In Seminole Tourney
PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, two of the professional circuits top golfers who have been relaxing all winter, were the co-favorites for the $10,000 two-day Seminole pro-amateur golf tournament which got underway today.

Hogan and Snead, who passed up all other PGA tourneys this winter, warmed up with sub-par rounds over the local course the past two days.

and compete in the ABC Relays in Big Spring last week.

Although the Harvesters have failed to win an event as yet, they have won second and third places in both meets and are showing rapid progress. In the Canyon Reef Relays, Pampa took second place in the low hurdles, discus and the 880-yard relay. They won second in low hurdles and third in the discus.

Others selected were Chet Forte of Columbia, Lennie Rosenbluth of North Carolina, Guy Rodgers of Temple, Gary Thompson of Iowa State, Charlie Tyra of Louisville, Jim Krebs of Southern Methodist, Rod Hundley of West Virginia and Frank Howard of Ohio State.

The team was selected for the magazine by the 400 members of the newly-formed United States Basketball Writers Assn.

Pitching Beginning To Shape Up In Majors' Spring Games

By UNITED PRESS
All this — and Johnny Podres too!

That was the reaction in the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp today after Manager Walt Alton's "big three of the mound" turned in a sparkling seven-hitter in Monday night's 8-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The game marked a successful spring debut for Don Newcombe, the big 27-game winner of last season, the finest showing yet by 40-year-old Sal Maglie and finally a splendid three-inning "cleanup" by Podres.

The New York Yankees continued to get the best all-around pitching on the Grapefruit circuit when Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar limited the Philadelphia Phillies to three hits in a 5-0 triumph. Ford yielded two singles in five innings and Ditmar a lone hit in the last four as the Yankees stretched their string of consecutive scoreless innings to 24.

Andy Pafko delivered his second, key late-inning homer in a few days to spark the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Pafko blasted a three-run eighth-inning homer after the Braves rallied with three runs in the seventh to produce a 3-3 tie.

Jerry Lynch's triple, a walk, a single by Don Hoak and Gus Bell's infield roller produced two runs and gave the Cincinnati Redlegs a 7-6 win over the Boston Red Sox in 10 innings. The Red Sox tagged Joe Nuxhall for five runs but were stopped cold by Warren Spahn, who turned in his third straight strong job of the spring.

Mike Baxes tripled home Johnny Grubbs in the 10th inning as the Kansas City Athletics shaded the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, in the only other game on the citrus circuit.

Ed Raay, probably the most improved player in the league last year when he batted .300 and hit 28 homers, will be the No. 1 catcher with Smokey Burgess, also a long ball hitter, behind him.

Tebbetts calls it the best catching staff in the league.

Score Says Offer Hard To Believe
TUCSON, Ariz. (UP)—Cleveland Indian fireballer Herb Score today found the $1-million offer made for him by the Boston Red Sox as difficult to believe as anybody else.

"I guess I'm no judge of values," he said when he learned of the offer. "But I'd say no ball player is worth a million dollars."

Score also was asked if he now thought he made a "bad deal" in signing for $50,000 in view of the enormous price tag on him.

"No," he replied. "I think the Indians were very fair to me."

7:04 of their semifinal bout. Hamilton used an aiplane spin and body press to win both falls.

An all-star card has been lined up for next Monday night with a six-man tag team match as the main event. Professor Roy Shires, Bobby Wallace and Tito Infante team up to meet Dizzy Davis, Frankie Hill Murdock and Sky Low Low. Wallace, Shires' manager-valet also known as Frenchy Quimet, takes on Murdock in the opener and a pair of midget grapplers, Infante and Low Low battle in the second event.

A Look Ahead At Future Headlines

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHECKUP
It's a good bet that President Eisenhower's physicians will want him to undergo another physical checkup late this spring or early this summer. The doctors themselves have said nothing. But the word in Washington is that they will advise one and that it will be more extensive than those held recently to check on the President's cough and cold.

RED TRADE
Watch for British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to make a determined attempt to get Mr. Eisenhower's consent to a loosening of trade restrictions against Communist China when they meet in Bermuda Thursday. Exporters are putting the hat on Macmillan to reopen Britain's traditional markets in China. One reason is, Britain needs the money. Another is that Japan and Germany are getting back into world trade competition.

VICTIM
President Eisenhower's 1.3 billion dollar school construction program may be the first victim of the congressional economy drive.

The four-year program already has been endangered by the segregation fight and heavy opposition by legislators who fear federal "interference" with education.

STRIKE
It looks as if Britain's big socialized medical system is in for a strike by doctors. The government has rejected demands by doctors for a 20 per cent increase in pay. The 11,000 general practitioners affected are expected to announce a strike this week, and to say how they will take care of emergency cases.

EARFUL
Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, will get an earful from American commanders in the Far East when he visits them on his big tour which starts this week. They will warn him that while the U.S. is talking about turning from military to economic aid the Chinese Communists are pushing military preparations.

PACKAGE
The world's first atomic "power package" plant, being built for the Army at Ft. Belvoir, Va., is expected to go into operation next month. It will produce only 2,000 kilowatts of electrical power. But a big future is forecast for it in such remote places as the Thule

Wins Confidence Vote
ATHENS, Greece, March 16 (UP)—The government won a confidence vote—161-135 Saturday. The vote followed a five-day debate in Parliament on the Cyprus issue.

DALLAS, Tex.—Paul J. Mansfield, estranged husband of stage and film star Jayne Mansfield explaining he did not think there would be a reconciliation after the couple's divorce:
"No man wants to be second choice. If she should come back I would be second choice to her career."

Navy Plane Overdue
TOKYO, Sunday, March 17 (UP)—A U.S. Navy plane with five persons aboard was reported overdue Saturday on a flight from Japan to Okinawa.

Air Force Base in Greenland and the far-north DEW-line radar defense area, which possesses no native fuels.

OVERFLOW?
Western intelligence agents note that a lot of publicity is being given to reports that Russia is sending uranium to research reactors in its satellites. That would imply that its military needs are being filled—that its A-bomb stockpiles are overflowing.

SPORTS OUTLOOK
Look for the Boston Celtics to win the world professional basketball championship with the fewest defeats ever suffered by a league team in the playoffs. The Celtics have the two best shooters in basketball in Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman. Rookie Bill Russell and Tom Heinsohn provide the height for backboard control.

Tired? Beat? TV Is Looking Just For You

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, (UP) — If you're a tired, bedraggled, beat, down-trodden, neglected, worn-out hank of housewife, TV is looking for you.

You'd be a dandy for commercials. The man to get in touch with is Henry Brown, 44 E. 53 St., New York City, an agent who casts humans in those midday TV sagas devoted to the virtues of soap, soap or what have you.

Girl With Long Arms
As Browns tell it, TV is a bad way for a real girl, people who look like you and me... well, anyway, you.
"We had a heck of a time, for example, finding a real girl with long arms," said Brown today. "We needed her for a tire chain commercial. The idea of the arms was that she wouldn't appear to be straining too much when she put those chains on."

However, those problems pale beside Brown's present difficulty. It seems several sponsors have passed along the word to ad agencies that many of the actresses used in TV spots don't look honest-to-goodness-for-real.

"Now some of the casting directors at the agencies are getting real panicky," he says. They want people who look believable. And believe me, this tendency is beginning to spread — about the only commercials left for the high-fashion girls are cosmetics," said Brown.

You Need Poise
The requirements for Brown's stable are simple — he wants neat, clean-looking attractive girls. The age bracket in the 30's is about the best.

"They can't have a regional accent — no sponsor will buy that. And they should feel comfortable in front of a camera — we don't want anybody who's going to freeze up," said Brown.

"The facial structure should be angular, but not bony. A girl doesn't have to be pretty, but being ugly won't help."
The pay for film commercials is pretty good — $200 and up. With re-run possibilities, an experienced speller can sometimes run that up to $5,000.

Eels are found around the Bermuda Islands in the Atlantic Ocean.

Fish Pulls in Man
CENTERVILLE, Mich. (UP) — Lynn Hoover can now tell about the big fish that almost got away with him. While ice-fishing on a nearby lake, Hoover hooked a bluegill. When the fish tugged on the line, the ice cracked and Hoover fell in the water. He was pulled to safety by other fishermen.

Houston Man Named
WASHINGTON, March 16 (UP) — George W. Stanley, a Houston

lumberman, has been appointed 1957 chairman of the Texas Forest Industries committee, which sponsors the industry-operated Tree Farm program of growing timber as a crop on tax-paying lands.

Sooner Chief To Speak
DALLAS, March 16 (UP)—Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma will speak before a statewide group of Baptist Sunday school teachers and workers in Dallas April 11.

Gary is a prominent Catholic layman.

Blossom Tour Set
POINT / ENTERPRISE, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Point Enterprise's annual peach blossom tour of 30,000-35,000 blooming peach trees will be held Sunday. Point Enterprise is six miles southeast of Mexia. Peach trees were damaged slightly by a recent freeze.
