Rain Heralds Spring's Arrival

Rain in the Top O' Texas area greeted the arrival of the first day of spring today and more rain was forecast for the area tonight and Thursday.

Late this morning the rain gauge on top of The News building had recorded .60 of an inch and the rain was continuing to fall in a steady downpour.

The rain began with sprinkles early last night but the heavy showers did not start until early hours this morning.

This morning streets in Pampa had streams of water in the gutters and the unpaved streets were causing motorists extreme difficulty in driving.

Ralph Thomas, county agent, reported that the moisture made prospects good for grain crops in Gray County this year but reported that there were too many factors to be considered in whether or not the late wheat would make a crop. He stated that a hot spell in May or June could wither the wheat or a wet period could cause rust.

The Soil Conservation Service reported this morning that all of the rain received previous to today had soaked into the ground and that no runoff had resulted to fill up stock tanks in the county. The technicians reported however, that if the rain continued today there was a strong possibility that the stock tanks would catch some runoff and would help the stockmen in providing more water for cattle.

Rain was falling today over a wide area in Central and West Texas and was pushing into North and East Texas.

It still was raining at Amarillo, where 2.1 of an inch fell overnight, and across the South Plains and Panhandle. Rain also was falling in North Central Texas around the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Waco had 30 of an inch overnight. Carrick near the Oklahoma Panhandle had 33. Stratford 25. Dalhart 26, and Borger 23. Forecasters called for continued light rain over the state through Thursday with thundershowers expected to develop in West Texas.

Rain also fell overnight at Lubbock, San Angelo, Salt Flat, El Paso, Del Rio, Laredo, Cotulla, San Antonio, Wichita Falls, Mineral Wells, Austin, San Antonio, Victoria and Corpus Christi.

Thick, low clouds hung over the entire state today. Overnight temperatures generally were mild, ranging from the middle to upper 30s in the Panhandle where Dalhart reported 36 for the lowest in the state, to the upper 60s in South Texas where Brownsville recorded an overnight low of 70.

Hoffa Says Beck's Goose Cooked

Solons Want Peek At Beck's Records

By HERBERT FOSTER and John A. Goldsmith
United Press Staff Correspondents
WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamster President Dave Beck's heir apparent said, according to a federal grand jury, that Senate investigators may already have "cooked Beck's goose."

Beck, head of the nation's biggest union, had until mid-afternoon today to decide whether to surrender his personal financial records to the Senate Rackets Committee or be slapped with a quick subpoena. He conferred with his attorneys in Seattle, Wash., Tuesday on what move to make.

As the committee waited for the deadline it gave Beck, it recalled Western Teamster chief Frank W. Brewster to explain some mysterious uses of union funds.

Jury Inpects Hoffa
A federal grand jury late Tuesday indicted Beck's heir apparent—Midwest Teamster boss James R. Hoffa—on charges of bribing a rackets committee investigator to slip him secret committee documents.

The indictment said Hoffa once told the investigator after reading some committee documents that "it looked like Beck's goose was cooked if that is what they have on Beck."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said after Hoffa's arrest last week that Hoffa saw "selected" documents that were "extremely important." The FBI said Hoffa had committee documents in his possession when he was arrested.

The grand jury indicted Miami attorney Hyman L. Fischbach, one-time congressional crime committee counsel, along with Hoffa. Fischbach allegedly was the original link between Hoffa and rackets committee investigator John Cye Cheasty who joined with the FBI in naming Hoffa.

Has Memory Lapse
Brewster, chairman of the Western Conference of Teamsters, had considerable trouble with his memory Tuesday. He remembered his first, tailor-made suit: He saved for a year to buy it at the age of 19.

But he had more difficulty remembering whether he used union dues money to buy a tropical blue single-breasted model at $180, plus suits for his horse trainer and driver. He said he didn't recall the transactions—or what he did with the change from a $400 union check for his $180 suit.

Brewster also testified he had no idea what was done with about $160,000 siphoned out of Teamster Local 174 in Seattle while he was its secretary-treasurer.

Man Fined On Driving Charge

Harrison Okley Couch, 38, of Allison, was fined $100 plus costs and sentenced to three days in jail after pleading guilty this morning in County Court to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Couch was arrested by city police last night.

Airline Service Talked In Meet

The quest for airline service in Pampa took another step toward becoming a reality recently, according to C. R. Hoover, chairman of the aviation committee, as a result of discussions held by him with Keith Kahle, president of the Central Airline System.

Hoover made a trip to Fort Worth last week to converse with Kahle, and said he was favorably impressed with the outcome of the talks.

Hoover said that Kahle seemed quite interested and that the two even went so far as to discuss tentative schedules.

According to Hoover, early morning departures were discussed which would allow for a return to Pampa of approximately 8 p.m.

The aviation committee will go into a little more factual travel survey as suggested by Kahle, with more concentration on those who have expressed an interest in such an airline service. In this survey an emphasis will be placed on information which would meet with the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Bureau in the processing of papers for the authorization of such a service.

The discussion of early morning departures was held in order that a clarification might be made on connections with eastern flights emanating from Dallas. Kahle, in his conversation with Hoover, acknowledged the fact that the last time Pampa had airline service the directions and schedules were not to local benefit. Those persons wishing to make connections with eastern flights were not able to do so without some inconvenience.

Kahle further asked for two weeks in which to evaluate the survey, once it is completed, so that he may help the committee outline a program which would assist them before the CAB.

The biggest trouble in dealing with CAB would seem to be, according to Hoover, the fact that Pampa did have airline service before, but due to lack of support, it was discontinued.

Kahle said that he was highly impressed with the civic advancements which Pampa has made recently, and he referred specifically to the recently completed Community Hotel Drive. This drive, Kahle told Hoover, might be a helpful advantage before the CAB.

UN Official Plans Talks To Aid Mid-East Problem

Candidates Are Pampa Visitors

Dies Feels He Is The Best Qualified

By BOB PEREZ
Pampa News Staff Writer

Martin Dies, one of the top seeded contestants for the U.S. Senatorial seat recently vacated by Governor Price Daniel, arrived in Pampa yesterday evening after a business-filled day during which he had been paraded through Amarillo, spoken in Borger and finally arrived in Pampa where he spent the evening. Tonight, Dies will address an audience in the Crystal Ballroom of the Herring Hotel.

Dies said, in an interview this morning, that his 18 years of Congress make him the only qualified man for the Senatorial post.

"I think," he said, "that experience is one of the principal issues. Whoever is elected must get into the harness immediately and discharge heavy responsibilities. No man can do that overnight. I do feel, however, that my better than 18 years with Congress make me the only qualified contestant."

Dies expressed his disappointment over the failure of the Pool Bill to pass the Senate. "I thought," he said, "and I think now that whoever goes in to represent Texas in the United States Senate should go with a majority vote and not a minority, since he would just be going from one campaign into another. He would not be politically strong enough to devote the time he should to the duties of his office."

In regard to the Gas Bill, Dies said that he had worked along with Congressman Walter Rogers on the committee which had charge of this bill, and he did not, he said, feel that President Eisenhower was justified in vetoing it. "If the fact that some senator was approached with a gift or donation of $500 to pass a bill is sufficient enough to veto that bill, why then it can always be used as a means of stopping a bill. I do not think that the President's action was at all justified, and it was a great disappointment to me. Unless the bill is passed in the future, it will cripple the development of the gas industry in Texas."

Federal aid to education was touched on by Dies and then dismissed because, as he said, "there is no question but that federal aid would bring about federal control."

In regard to the enforcement of desegregation in schools, Dies said that he did not believe it was something which should be imposed on the people. He suggested that perhaps what some communities were doing might be a possible remedy. This was to build a school which would be desegregated for those who wished to attend. He said that he is confident that the states can find a legal way to handle integration. He added that he did not feel that there would have been so much trouble had it

PAMPA VISITOR—Martin Dies, right, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, is shown shaking hands with his local manager, Clifford Braly. Dies arrived in Pampa yesterday evening and, after spending the night at the Pampa Hotel, resumed his tour of the city before returning to Amarillo where he is scheduled to make an appearance tonight in the Herring Hotel.

'Fearless' Foerster Is 'Clean' Democrat

Pulling up in front of The News building yesterday afternoon and passing out some of the soap with which he has been supplying most of the state of Texas was C. O. Foerster Jr., self-proclaimed Democratic candidate for a seat in the United States Senate. (Reason for the soap: "I'm a clean Democrat, neither conservative nor liberal. When they're right I'll go with them. When they're wrong, I'll be the first to tell them.")

Foerster, who has covered a trail from El Paso through Amarillo and into Pampa since last Sunday with Childress marked as his next stop, is his own manager, public relations man and spokesman. "I have one man who helps me, Ben Zamora is his name, but he has to take care of his business so he can't be with me."

Foerster made the front pages in El Paso Sunday when he was escorted by city police from the spot from which he had been making his campaign talks and distributing his soap with a trash can to demonstrate some of his points. (See picture).

Foerster, one of the 20 Democrats in a field of 22 seeking the senatorial position, stated his views quite frankly, in a barnstorming "speech makin'" fashion. "I believe that friendship is the only cure for hatred and the only cure for peace. But I do not believe that the government can buy friends with American dollars. Neither do I think that the Republican party will be able to buy intelligent Texas votes with dollars. (I have reference to the huge expenditures being made for Thad Hutcheson.)

"I believe that we have a surplus of everything in the U.S. except human understanding and we're getting more of that all the time. The future looks bright to me provided we have continual guidance by a Democratic Senate in Washington."

Foerster continued by saying that the "Republican and Democratic parties and Texas politics in particular are just like a garbage can... when you take the lid off... it has a very foul odor."

"It must be cleaned up and it can only be cleaned up by independent, individual action on the part of the citizens of the United States. If the people are going to tolerate corruption, we are going to have corruption; but it takes fearless courage to speak up against this foul corruption. I am willing to devote my time and energies towards the crusading cause

THAD HUTCHESON
Hutcheson Is Expected Here Today

Thad Hutcheson, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, is expected to arrive in Pampa at 5:30 this afternoon.

Hutcheson, who will be making his second appearance in Pampa within the past two months, was scheduled to arrive here from Borger where he made an earlier appearance this morning.

While here, Hutcheson will stay at his headquarters which have been opened at 112 S. Cuyler. The affair will be completely informal, and all persons wishing to have been asked to meet with the candidate so that he might better explain to them his stand on the various issues as well as answer any other questions they might have.

Hutcheson for Senator headquarters will be maintained here in Gray County from today until after the election, which will be held on April 2.

Macmillan In Bermuda For Conference With President

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (UP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan arrived here today for his conference with President Eisenhower.

Macmillan reached this British colony in the western Atlantic by plane from London by way of Gander, Newfoundland.

Wet, windy weather which had covered this semi-tropical vacation region for the past few days turned clear and fine early this morning, with cloudless skies and balmy temperatures.

The poor weather earlier had threatened to wash out elaborate welcoming ceremonies planned for Macmillan's arrival. It led British Colonial Secretary J. W. Sykes to make alternate plans for receiving Macmillan and Mr. Eisenhower on their arrival here for talks aimed at firming up the strained Anglo-American alliance.

Hammarskjold Plans Buffer Zone Between Israel, Egypt

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was flying today to the Middle East in hopes of ending what he called the long, drawn-out situation of crisis.

He arrives in Cairo Thursday for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser on the future of the Suez Canal and the possibility of establishing a war-proof buffer zone between Israel and Egypt.

He may go on to Jerusalem for talks with Premier David Ben-Gurion, but his immediate task was talks with Nasser in his move to allay the atmosphere of fear and distrust that has the Middle East close to war.

Situation Still Tense
Hammarskjold arrived in Brussels this morning and turned in immediately for a few hours nap. He goes on to Athens tonight and arrives in Cairo the next morning.

Though the situation was still tense, recent conciliatory statements by Egypt eased the immediate threat, including one that Egypt would not fire on Israeli ships using the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Israeli-chartered freighter Pandora, formerly the Queen of Sheba, was reported to have left the port of Eilat early today for a run through the Gulf of Aqaba en route to Massawa, Eritrea.

It was to pass the crucial Straits of Tiran sometime tonight, but no trouble was expected.

In Suez, the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority announced today the waterway is now open to 2,000-ton ships. It opened it Tuesday to 1,000-ton vessels.

Basis For Agreement
UN sources in Cairo predicted Hammarskjold would have difficulty in setting up any buffer zone because of Israeli reluctance to station UNEF troops on its territory. Israel also was said to feel that the UNEF would not be able to stop Arab infiltrators, but could halt Israeli forces bent on revenge.

Ben-Gurion, in statements to villagers in border settlements near the Gaza Strip, told them Tuesday he believed there would not be a recurrence of major Fezzayeen attacks such as touched off the Israeli invasion of last October.

High School Press Awards Announced

The top award at the convention of the Panhandle High School Press Association on the campus of West Texas State College, in Canyon, yesterday was presented to Bill Atkinson, 18, a senior at Pampa High School.

The award, the Dorinda E. Bond trophy presented by the Amarillo Globe-News Publishing Company, is presented to the "outstanding high school journalist" of the region.

Atkinson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Atkinson, 2011 Mary, Ellen, is editor of The Little Harvester prize-winning paper published by Pampa High School students.

The Little Harvester received second place honors in the contest for printed high school newspapers at the contest in Canyon yesterday and The Harvester, high school annual, took third place in the contest for class A annuals.

In individual contests, Miss Jo Ann Thompson of Pampa received first place honors in the feature writing contest and third place in the same contest went to Bill Atkinson of Pampa. Miss Thompson was presented a trophy awarded by the Ochiltree County Herald.

In other individual contests, Miss Gail Harris of Pampa received third place honors in the editorial writing contest and Jimmy Goff of Pampa placed third in the photography contest.

The only other Top O' Texas winner in individual contests was Glen Castleberry of Perryton who received first place in editorial writing. He received a trophy presented by The Tulsa Herald. He also was elected president of the association and Karla Cox of Pampa was elected secretary.

The Treasure Chest of Lefors High School took first place honors in the class B annual contest and third place went to The Antler of White Deer High School.

In the contest for mimeographed newspapers, second place went to The Buck's Tale of White Deer and The Pirate of Lefors received third place.

The awards were presented at a luncheon served in the college cafeteria.

Brotherhood Panel To Speak Here

Dr. Eugene Slater, pastor of the Polk Street Methodist Church of Amarillo, and Dr. Arthur Bluhm, rabbi of Temple B'Nai Israel of Amarillo, will be two of the panel members to speak at the High School auditorium at 9:40 a.m. Friday and at Kiwanis Club at noon Friday. The third speaker is expected to be the Most Reverend Laurence J. Fitz-Simon, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Amarillo.

Dr. Slater was appointed to Polk Street Methodist Church in Amarillo in June 1950 and has served there since. Dr. Bluhm was born in Germany and studied philosophy and oriental languages at the Universities of Berlin and Wuerzburg. Dr. Bluhm arrived in the United States in 1939 and has been rabbi of the Amarillo Congregation since 1941.

The panel has been arranged for by the National Conference of Christians & Jews, Inc. "to promote justice, amity, understanding and cooperation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews, and to analyze, moderate and finally eliminate intergroup prejudices which disfigure and distort religious, business, social and political relations, with a view to the establishment of a social order in which the religious ideals of Brotherhood and justice shall become the standards of human relationships."

Workers who have not done so already have been urged by Mrs. R. H. Nestler, drive chairman, to stop by the headquarters and turn in membership sold up to that time.

The membership drive will end Saturday, and drive officials have stated that no membership will be sold after that date with the exception of persons moving into the community at a later date.

The number of the concerts which the Community Concert Association of Pampa will be able to put on within the next year will depend largely on the number of memberships sold during this week's drive.

Concert Group Sets Check-In

Leaders of the Community Concert membership campaign have urged all workers and team captains to attend the check-up coffee to be held Thursday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock at the campaign headquarters in the Southwestern Public Service Company auditorium.

Four Absentee Ballots Cast

Four ballots have been cast and 20 mailed out in the senatorial elections while four of those sent out have been returned to the city managers office, city and county officials reported today.

All absentee ballots, both city and county, must be postmarked not later than midnight of March 29 if they are to be counted.

Senate Candidates Are Working Hard

By UNITED PRESS
Senatorial candidates in the April 2 special election worked hard today to arouse voter interest by touching on such subjects as the drought, foreign spending and the national budget.

The election is less than two weeks away. The winner in a 22-man field will succeed the interim appointee, William Blakley of Dallas, for two years.

Rep. Martin Dies of Lufkin campaigned in the Panhandle, talking with ranchers and farmers about their water problems. "We need a comprehensive program, not just some stop gap measure to temporarily satisfy a few farmers," he said. Dies is in Pampa today. He predicted he would carry the Panhandle if "a good substantial plurality" of voters supported him.

Hart On TV
Former Supreme Court Justice James P. Hart addressed a television audience from Houston Tuesday night and said Congress must reduce the national budget if President Eisenhower will not do it himself.

W. R. Currin, a Sulphur Springs rancher and civic worker, told his supporters in West Texas he is advocating economy in government and is convinced the Eisenhower budget can be reduced substantially.

Of the 22 candidates, two are Republicans. Thad Hutcheson of Houston, who has the party's organization behind him, is getting considerable help from Jack Porter, Texas national GOP committeeman.

Porter urged conservative Democrats to join solidly with Republicans in backing Hutcheson.

Bracewell Hits Spending
The only other GOP in the race, Herbert Antoine Sr. of Bastrop, criticized White for not resigning as Agriculture Commissioner while running for the Senate.

State Sen. Searcy Bracewell has been using a series of statewide radio broadcasts in his campaign. He said foreign spending that does not have a direct bearing on security of the U.S. should be "eliminated entirely."

Austin attorney Ralph Yarbrough received the editorial support of the El Paso Herald-Post, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, which called him "able and intelligent, and . . . the sort of man Texas can be proud of."

Jaycees Hear Talk on Communism

Ivan Ceresna addressed yesterday's meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce with a first hand report on the functioning of Communism within the Communist state.

Ceresna, Ukrainian-born escapee who made his way to this country only after much trouble and harrowing experiences which he said, would be hard for the average American to understand, spoke with a first hand knowledge of the current crisis in Hungary and other Soviet satellites.

His talk was enjoyed by all Jaycees present and most of them came up afterwards to introduce themselves and to ask questions.

In other business, a report was given on the progress of the recently Jaycee-sponsored class of the Dale Carnegie Course which meets every Friday evening in Johnson's Cafe.

The meeting was presided over by Ray Duncan, president of the Pampa Junior Chamber.

Group Seeks Solution To Lake Problem

The Public Improvements committee of the Chamber of Commerce with Floyd Watson presiding met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of deciding what steps could be taken to improve facilities at Lake McClellan from the standpoint of a recreational spot for the people of the area.

The lake is still under the control of the Department of Agriculture according to information received from Congressman Walter Rogers.

It was also brought out in the meeting that similar lakes in the Panhandle are now being operated by agencies other than the agriculture department. Examples given were Tulia Lake in Swisher County which has been given to the city of Tulia which is now operating it as a city project.

The Wolf Creek Dam properties in Ochiltree County was also cited since that project was taken over by the county and the dam which broke some time ago is being repaired with county funds.

It was decided by the committee to continue securing as much information as possible so that a plan might be arrived at whereby some local subdivision might be able to take over provided it would be made available to them.

The group will be working through Congressman Walter Rogers, and the Department of Agriculture, (Forestry Service) in securing this information.

Dop Measure Is In Hands Of House

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN (UP)—A measure putting lethal teeth into the state's narcotics laws was in the hands of the House today after receiving unanimous approval from the Senate.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin and tagged as an emergency by Gov. Price Daniel, provides the death penalty for second-offense narcotics peddlers and boosts the minimum penalty for a first offense from two to 20 years in prison. The maximum first offense penalty was left at life imprisonment.

Lock told the Senate "the most effective way to deal with a dope peddler is to take him out of circulation."

Aikin Bill Gets Start
The Senate Constitutional Amendments committee approved Tuesday a bill by Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris boosting legislators pay to $7,500 a year and providing for annual sessions.

It would allow $12 per day expenses for the first 120 days of each session in addition to the annual pay. Members presently draw $25 per day for the first 120 days of regular sessions, held only in odd-numbered years. The Lieutenant Governor and Speaker of the House would draw $12,500 per year under Aikin's bill, whereas they draw the same as legislators now.

The Senate committee also approved a proposal by Rep. Harold Parish of Taft calling for creation of an automatic board to realign the state's congressional districts if the Legislature fails to do so after the federal census each 10 years. It has been passed by the House.

Drivers Bill Passes
The House passed a bill transferring from county judges to the Department of Public Safety the authority to issue drivers' licenses to 14 to 16-year-olds.

The House also approved a proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. Obie Jones of Austin authorizing payment of pensions to retired Texas Rangers and their widows. It would apply to Rangers who were in service prior to 1935, with pensions up to $125 a month.

The House Judiciary committee approved a bill by Rep. Tony Koriotti of Sherman to fix a ceiling of 36 per cent on all charges, including interest, in connection with loans, and a proposal by Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi to provide state licensing and regulation on operators who make loans up to $100.

Quakes Hit Texas

A series of small earth tremors was reported over a wide area of northeast Texas Tuesday. No damage was reported in the area.

Gene Simmons, a graduate student at Southern Methodist University, observed on a seismograph instrument the first of four tremors at the University at 10:37 a.m. Tuesday.

The second tremor was reported at 11:41. Simmons explained that more sensitive instruments, using photographic recording devices, would be checked to pinpoint the exact location of the disturbance.

Several reports of the shocks came from the Marshall area. Mrs. M. R. McCarty reported her house was shaken severely, and Mrs. Guy Cox reported her brick home was soundly rattled.

A second series of two shocks was felt Tuesday afternoon in the area. One shook the Atlanta-Linden-Deniger area at 4:36 p.m., while another was felt at Marshall at 4:45 p.m.

Simmons, who said he had recorded some "beautiful recordings" of recent Aleutian Islands quakes, said the Texas quakes were "very weak in comparison."

Much In Common
WASHINGTON (UP)—Claude O'Reilly, John J. Sweeney and Gordon Lindsay have a number of things in common.

All three were Pacific Northwest Teamster officials. All three were referred to Tuesday by Western Teamster boss Frank W. Brewster as the men who knew the answers to Senate Rackets Committee questions about spending of certain union funds.

All three "are dead." "You've got a lot of alibis," Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) said. "This job kills people off," Brewster shouted.

"You certainly seem to be thriving," said Committee Chairman John L. McClellan.

In reference to the national budget asked for recently by President Eisenhower, Dies said that it was far too high, and that he would do everything in his power to cut it wherever possible.

When asked if he had any suggestions where it might be cut, the Senatorial aspirant said that he was sure that it could be handled somewhere in the field of foreign spending.

"While I favor cooperation with friendly nations, I do not favor some of the free lance spending currently taking place since investigations have shown that in many cases the money is wasted." He termed friendly nations as those nations which had shown a willingness to resist Communist domination.

There were signs that Britain intends to take the initiative in the talks generally and to mount a diplomatic drive to establish joint Anglo-American long-term policies on all major world issues.

The presentation of the charter was made to the newly formed group by J. F. Baldeston, governor of district 44 of the Toastmasters International. This includes all the area west of a line running through Wichita Falls, (West Texas).

R. L. Rundell, president of the Borger Toastmasters International was present at last night's meeting as was Paul Crouch, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, who extended the best wishes of the chamber to the club.

The new officers who will take over on the first meeting of April were named last night. They are Bill C. Gough, president; Bill Stapler, administrative vice president; M. G. Rogers, educational vice president; Otis Petty, secretary; Dr. R. L. Thompson, treasurer; and W. L. Arthur, Sgt. at arms.

The group will meet every Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in Poole's Steak House, and visitors have been invited to attend.

Pampan Is Patrolman

John T. Hood of Pampa was one of 35 students of the Texas Highway Patrol who were commissioned in graduation ceremonies at Austin last Friday.

The rank of patrolman was bestowed upon Hood and the other graduates by Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Hood will be assigned to patrol duty in the Dallas area and will report for duty there in the near future.

President to the Senate, and it would further make sure that those appointed had had enough experience. He said that under this system six present Supreme Court Justices would not have qualified. He did not say which six.

In reference to the national budget asked for recently by President Eisenhower, Dies said that it was far too high, and that he would do everything in his power to cut it wherever possible.

When asked if he had any suggestions where it might be cut, the Senatorial aspirant said that he was sure that it could be handled somewhere in the field of foreign spending.

"While I favor cooperation with friendly nations, I do not favor some of the free lance spending currently taking place since investigations have shown that in many cases the money is wasted." He termed friendly nations as those nations which had shown a willingness to resist Communist domination.

The Union Probe

Apparently our lack of comment on the corruption, graft and generally repugnant conduct of some unions and some union bosses being disclosed in the hearings of the McClellan subcommittee of the Senate has bothered some of our readers.

Because we have had considerable to say in the past about unions and their activities, it was believed we ought to be jumping with joy because some unions and some bosses are being shown in their true light.

But all the brutality, gangsterism, etc., that is being disclosed in the Senate hearings are only the symptoms, not the disease, itself. Thus, while we are naturally interested and concerned with such symptoms, we are really more concerned with the disease itself.

Lord Action has told us that "power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely." Thus it has come as no great shock to those of us who have long been looking into the picture of unionism. All of the filth that is spewing out of Portland can, with variations, be duplicated in other major cities of the nation for it is a natural result of a combination of things that have made such conditions possible.

The conduct of human beings in relationship with each other cannot be changed by passing a law—we cannot legislate morals and morality. People will become "more moral" only if they have an inner compulsion to be in love and charity with their neighbors or find that it doesn't "pay" to be otherwise.

Passing a law against gambling, for instance, doesn't take from people their desire to gamble; a statute on the lawbooks prohibiting illicit desires; legislation attempting to prescribe the amount of alcohol an individual can take does not prevent drunkenness.

Actually, what happens when legislation of this sort is attempted is the setting up of a specialized monopoly which permits fantastic profits for those who have no scruples about breaking the law. The tariff in narcotics, vice and other illicit enterprises and if those who cotics, vice and other illicit activities is boosted almost out of sight because most of us don't want to engage in illegal enterprises and if those who don't mind can buy some sort of immunity their monopoly is made total.

What would happen, for instance, if slot machines were placed in a legal category along with other entertainment. For a moment or two, probably there would be some jockeying around as people experimented and checked the different machines. But, if the market were free—if people were free to go into the slot machine business in the same way they now go into, for instance, the shoe business—it would not be long before the low of the free market would exert itself. The percentage of John Doe's machines would be upped to take the play away from his competitor. Other advantages would be sought through advertising, making the machines more attractive, etc., and before long the honest, industrious and efficient "businessman" in the slot machine business would be established.

All of this may seem a far cry from union gangsterism and political corruption but the point is that all of the disclosures now coming out of the Senate hearings are the natural result of setting in motion the conditions that permit such conduct. The reason such conduct was fully predictable and is now being demonstrated is that there has been an indifference or scorn toward fundamental principles of human behavior. We have told ourselves that we need not live by the sweat of our brows. We have told ourselves that might makes right. We have told ourselves that the end justifies the means.

These are some of the things we must "cure" before we can successfully attempt to "cure" the now open wounds of graft, corruption, terrorism and gangsterism that are being exposed in the union hearings. We must somehow learn that a man is entitled to all of his production and the fruits of his labor. That he is entitled to utilize all of this production in any way in which he chooses unless he injures another. That if he wants to husband his production and increase the opportunity for additional production that he is entitled to those rewards, too, but if he chooses to throw away his production he is free to do so. We must learn that men are entitled to make mistakes and to profit by those errors and that he is not entitled to have others pay for his mistakes by use of force.

The great danger in all of the investigations now being conducted by the Senate is that when the obvious defects of graft and corruption, the skin cancers that are apparent to all, are patched up or smoothed over that the people will believe that unionism again is "good for the working man." Such thinking will result in the disease going on uncured while the surface lesions are healed over. To cure the disease we must dig deeper; we must somehow come to the realization that there is no way in which the limitation of production as fostered by the unions can benefit all of the workers and producers.

If the corruption probe has brought us any closer to a realization of the basic truths about unionism, then they have performed a useful service. But if they only serve to gloss over the fact that there is no magical way in which unions can help all the workers, then the points cleared up by the investigations will be temporary value.

Is Individualism Selfish?

I want to continue to quote a thought-provoking essay on individualism and liberty by Jo Ann Wheeler.

She explains the error in the contention of the collectivist that individualism is selfish in this manner:

"I have heard individualism held up to scorn by both schools of thought. Each held it to be synonymous with selfishness. Yet the exaltation of the man who feels himself 'at one' with God or with the collectivist State, seems to me to smack of more egotistic satisfaction than is entirely consistent with its professed selfishness. There seems to me more selfishness in the individualism of a Thoreau, who refused his assent to a society which lived upon the exploitation of helpless human beings.

"The objection is made that these very ideas I criticize are but a revolt from that period of rank individualism from which we have just emerged. I answer that we have never yet reached an Age of Individualism for we have never yet developed a completely 'whole' individual, though we have at times come close to such achievement. But it has been only by sheer accident and fortunate circumstance. We have paid lip service to individualism, but that is all.

"Never has there been so much respect paid to the 'people'—that amorphous nonentity—so little regard for Man. We first inquire whether he be a Jew or Negro;—Anti-Semite or Communist;—German or Japanese—or any other pigeonhole to which we may conveniently file him for reference. Labeled almost out of existence into a negative anonymity, he has come to accept his own unimportance—even to glorify it. But out of nothing only nothing can come. A society built on negative man can only be doomed to sterility and ultimate extinction. There is no vitality at the core.

"Let politicians prate of the 'people.' Who are the 'people?' I do not know them; they are of no importance. But you are important; I am important; and you over there; and you and you—personality, character—individual—Man—each important, to himself and to that larger group of individuals we call Society.

"The fate of the Country does not depend upon how you vote at the polls—the worst man is as good as the best at that game; does not depend upon what kind of a paper you drop in the ballot-box once a year; but on the kind of a man you drop from your chamber into the street every morning."

"O for a man who is a man... How many men are there to square thousand miles in this country? Hardly one. (Essay on 'The Duty of Civil Disobedience')"

"How can we be men—whole, upright individuals—how can we be ourselves as we are born to be, when from childhood on we are cramped and warped to fit a ready-made mold; when we are taught unthinking obedience to authority, and conformity to accepted patterns of thought and action; when every free impulse and every original action is punished as rebellion?—When Mother knows best, and Father knows best and Teacher knows best and the State knows best and God knows best and 'God knows' how we ever know anything at all!

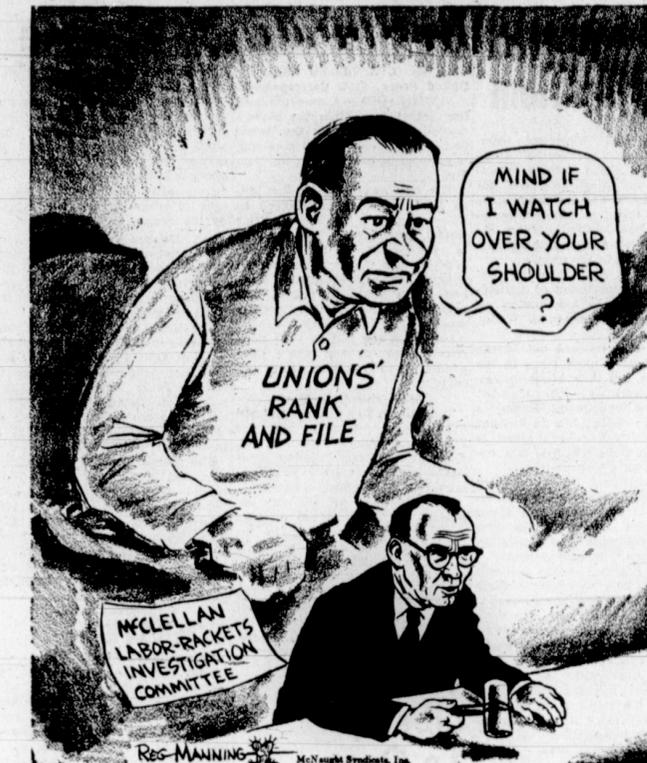

"The greatest hope of humanity is that a few great minds have been able to keep their integrity in spite of all attempts to imprison and regimentation. It speaks well for the toughness of the human race that they were able to survive. If we were not afraid to allow our children to grow in freedom, might they not achieve originality, and dare to think for themselves? Would there not be a freer world in proportion to the free minds that inhabit it? Would not great minds be even more daring and mediocre minds set free? Is it not at least worth trying? Is it not preferable that Man should place his reliance upon himself, rather than in some outward concept of power? How weak this prayer for help, for security, emotional or economic. We look to God or to the State for succor and are bewildered when we find each relying on the attributes of the other. When each individual shall become his own perfect state, relying upon his own inner powers; when he shall find the divinity that shapes his ends within himself, then there will be some hope of that perfect society of which we have dreamed."

"One need not be a Thoreau to be independent. Each must follow his own road to freedom. Each must be unique, himself, and from his own recognized selfhood reach out to the selfhood of his neighbor. But Self cannot be realized until we learn to rely upon this inborn love of freedom which is in every individual. Until we commonly recognize the need to develop inner capacities more fully, so that we may learn to live with ourselves, we may not be able to live decently with our fellow-men.

"Unless we fully accept the truth that a free world demands free men; that free men can only develop from children reared in an atmosphere of freedom and that the free individual is the 'whole' one—willing and ready to accept responsibility for his own thoughts and deeds—unless we fully accept all this, all efforts to create a habitable world for civilized human beings will go for nothing. We shall continue to be the half-savage creatures we are today living in a house built on the shifting sands of hate, suspicion and fear.

"Neither societies nor individuals can be planned from without; they must grow from within, and in the long run, the kind of world we live in is the kind of world we deserve. There's no use running. We cannot run away from ourselves."

A Lesson About Honesty Learned 30 Years Too Late

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I do not wish to say this out loud but if you will come down here, down to this end of the bar where the juke is blasting away, I would like to confide in somebody, and it might as well be you, that I made a terrible mistake a long, long time ago.

I guess my dear old mother was partly to blame, at that, but she got it from her mother and so on, 'way, way back, that honesty was the best policy and she told me that, over and over. And it has taken me all these years to realize that honesty is the most dangerous and most expensive policy that a guy can follow. And the worst policy.

I do not know how it is with you, I would say off-hand that you do not look like an honest guy, and look too smart for that. You have a dishonest face and I would not trust you under any circumstances so do not get me wrong, I am not insulting you, I am paying you a great compliment, I wish I had a face like yours.

The reason for this confession, I just have to tell somebody, all of a sudden I have realized that the people who get the most money and the cheers and get elected, are the most dishonest people.

When I think of Franklin D. Roosevelt I could boot myself, what a dummy I was. But I kept on telling the truth and people would say, listen to that rat blasting our wonderful, noble unselfish president.

I would say, but he said he was going to abolish all Hoover's wanton extravagance and the panic and then he dumped the whole deal three months after inauguration and tossed three billion bucks to old Ickes to start the inflation. They would say keep your trap shut, knocking the happy warrior, how would you like it if you had to wear iron legs and had guys yapping at you all the time?

I found out his son, Elliott, trimmed old John Hartford and a couple of other suckers out of a little under half-a-million on notes and the old man got Jesse Jones to talk the suckers out of the notes and the collateral and I thought that was very dishonest and a terrible thing to do. I thought they will never go to Heaven; God will sock them, that's for sure.

So I blew the whistle and guys said shut up, bum, be away, be absent, our great leader only done what any loving father would do to help their pride and joy out of an unfortunate jam.

Then I discovered that Elliott did not have to pay any income tax on all that dough, nor even any capital gain tax, but Morgenthau's department sent a guy around to interview Elliott and the first questions this treasury guy asked Elliott, he asked him what all those medals were on the chest of his uniform. So Elliott was loaded like an old-time band leader, and the treasury said Elliott didn't get the money, it went to his ex-wife so he wouldn't have to pay alimony, so it was not taxable.

Then Muley Doughton of North Carolina got up a hearing and the Democrats did not take any record and, instead of asking Elliott any questions, they just read the treasury statement. Then early one morning they dumped a dozen copies of their report on a table in the House and phoned a lot of New Deal reporters to be on the job to grab them.

So when I got there the copies were all gone, destroyed. Except Bill Hutchinson, of the International News, kept his and that is how I happen to have a copy of this rare document, maybe the only one still in existence.

I yelled and yelled, oh my countrymen how terribly dishonest this is, but guys said shut up, there is a war on, our noble president is pale and worn from his burdens, why aren't you in khaki, you Nazi beast?

Well, about the unions, I saw dishonest persons getting rich running rackets and I would finger them and the Department of Justice would say, thank you very much for your kind assistance, we will prosecute those scoundrels relentlessly. So then they would put the wrong words in the indictments and the judges, they were mostly union bums back where they came from, they would dismiss the indictments. I said, why that is dishonest, how can you face your maker when you die?

But the union racketeers either died in office or they are still loaded with money and now they are yelling throw the rascals out, we will not tolerate corruption, it is very dishonest.

What have they got against dishonesty, anyway? Why are they starting to knock dishonesty now, after all these years? I think this is a dishonest pretense myself.

I made a mistake about Warm Springs where Mr. Roosevelt ran a subdivision, selling building lots with infantile paralysis for the baby, and the deeds of the lots said nobody of African blood or descent could ever own a speck of soil or even rent any house in his subdivision. When our great leader started hearing that discriminationists were not-Americans I dug out one of those deeds. So I got pasted over again for being so darn honest.

I wish all the world was honest and I could be the only dishonest guy in the world. Those honest saps would trust me and it would be like picking up sticks. I could take all of them at once because honest guys think other guys are honest, too. But the way it is, honest guys are one in a million. I just wish I had known this 30 years ago, but take my advice, never tell the truth unless it absolutely figures and make sure you get a good price.

BID FOR A SMILE

Clarence Darrow was a hard working and energetic man. His clothes were often disheveled. Once he was ragged about this by a group of reporters. He silenced them by saying, "I go to a better tailor than any of you and pay more money for my clothes. The only difference between us is that you probably don't sleep in yours."

Mayor Wagner May Have Doomed Bill To Final Death

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Administration's multi-billion dollar school construction program was defeated last year because of Representative Adam C. Powell's amendment barring Federal funds to states and localities which had not desegregated in accord with the Supreme Court's decision.

Now, it appears that another New York Democrat—Mayor Robert W. Wagner—may have doomed the measure to final death. It is expected that Southern members will use the Powell strategy in reverse operation.

Under pressure from powerful political groups which can determine his local or national future—the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Americans for Democratic Action, the United Automobile Workers, etc.—Wagner has installed an involuntary system of "racial integration." It may be adopted in other Northern cities before the school expansion bill reaches House or Senate floor, further endangering its chance of passage.

It is doubtful if the program could survive rejection at the current session. In seeking to get around residential limitations, the Wagner system mixes the pupils by transporting them many miles from the schools nearest to their homes. White children are hauled to schools that once were 100 per cent Negro, and vice versa. It is planned to extend the program to a similar transfer of teachers.

Many teachers and parents are protesting this enforced artificial integration. It has resulted in the migration of white families to suburbs, increasing their taxes and overcrowding their educational facilities.

It has brought higher costs for education from the extra use of municipal buses several times a day. Teachers are demanding larger salaries because of the additional hardships and expenses of crisscrossing the five boroughs.

The Wagner schedule would remain only a local problem, were it not for the proposal to spend Federal funds on new schools in New York, together with certain restrictions on how the money may be spent.

But Southern members, who oppose any form of integration, insist that people in their section shall not be taxed to finance the Wagner plan. And they may have support of many Northern Democrats and Republicans, who think that the Mayor is carrying things too far.

Since Powell will again try to attach his controversial rider to the bill, the proposal stands in grave danger of defeat or recommitment. If blocked at the current session, it may never be revived.

The reason for permanent shelving stems from a growing doubt of the accuracy of figures on classroom shortages, as compiled by the Federal Bureau of Education. New data indicates that its survey was a haphazard, sketchy and post-card affair rather than a scientific, on-the-spot study.

In 1954, for instance, the Bureau estimated that 340,000 additional classrooms were needed. A year later, figure had fallen to about 300,000. But only a month later, it was placed at 176,000. Now, Marion B. Folsom, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, has cut it to 159,000, and even this total is disputed.

What seems to have happened is that without benefit of Federal aid, the cities and states have been catching up with the scarcity. They are spending year by year their own cash in the form of bond issues without letting themselves in for the extra costs that result from mailing their taxes to Washington and having this money shipped back to them in diluted dollars.

There is a touch of irony in the fact that, had it not been for the delaying tactics caused by Powell and Wagner, the bill might have been stamped through Congress without this new and factual study of the school problem.

Articles for this column are preferred to be 400 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed.

To the Editors: It would be impractical for an employer to pay wages continually to his employes while they work. That is why there must be regular pay days — each day, each week each month, etc. — on which employes receive their accumulative wages earned. It is equally impractical, and usually impossible for an employe to give all his work in a lump sum, like a pay check. So it is obvious that work and wages cannot be equally exchanged, as can products and money.

If a wage was paid before any work for it was done, it would be easier for a dishonest employe to disappear with it without doing any work than it would be for a dishonest employe to pay a completed job without paying for it, when the wage is due after work is done. But even at that, an employer could refuse to pay for work done. That is why laws protecting employes in receiving their earned wages are fair.

COLD FACTS ON "LIBERALS"

(N. Y. Daily News)

A liberal, before Marxist double-talkers twisted the word beyond meaning, used to be a pretty likable and valuable American citizen. More often than not he was a free-wheeling, patriotic fellow who loved his country and cherished the individual freedoms our forefathers fought for. He was spunkily determined to let no do-gooder or papa-knows-best politician talk him out of a single one of his U. S. citizen's rights.

The Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist-Khrushchevian "liberal," of course, is a cat or woods pussy of an entirely different stripe. Instead of personal liberty, he usually craves governmental rule and hand-holding from cradle to grave, and whimpers piteously when he doesn't get it.

This new-style "liberal" can be a certified crackpot; or he can regard himself fondly as a deep-thinking egghead; or, at his most sinister, he can be a traitor or a traitor's most useful helper.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover gave a pungent report on "pseudo-liberals" to a gathering at Valley Forge, on Washington's Birthday. Because the Hoover views are of top importance, and because they didn't get the wide publicity they deserved, we'll boil down some of them here.

First, he conceded, some of these self-styled reformers may be honest and sincere, though misguided. But others don't come under this charitable category. To be sure, the "pseudo-liberals" proclaim themselves as anti-Communists. Yet, "they have made efforts in recent years to curtail the Government's Authority to defend our national security."

Others seek the "pseudo-liberal" cloak to conceal more sinister objectives, because deceit is the very essence of Communism.

Hoover is convinced that Communism is doomed ultimately to fail, "because it is anti-God and anti-humanity." He is sure that the day will come when Red-Fascist tyranny will fool nobody and will be rejected by all the peoples of the world. But "mankind's struggle for freedom (the genuine kind of freedom that real liberals used to talk about) is being helped not at all by today's well-meaning dupes and dopes of Communists."

Most reassuringly, Hoover does not believe there is much likelihood of Red traitors ever selling their bill of goods here. He notes that "in the 109 years since the Communist Manifesto was written they have never won power in any country by the free vote of a majority of the people."

If our American ideals are guarded and preserved by "our teachers, the ministers of public opinion, the ministers of every faith, our labor leaders and our industrialists," Hoover feels Red soapboxers will continue to draw more jeers than votes.

But, just to be on the safe side, let's not forget our top G-man's expert debunking of the pseudo-liberal. He may be just a harmless-looking soft-coddled egg who actually does believe that bloody Joe Stalin (now spelled Khrushchev) was a benevolent Big Brother. On the other hand, he may prove to be a flint-hard professional saboteur and traitor. We Americans will be inviting suicide if we ever take our eyes off any variation of the breed.

PAMPA OILER OFFICIALS HAVE EXPRESSED FEAR

that citizens are not taking too serious the fact that we will have professional baseball here this summer. The league office receives several calls each week inquiring about the matter.

The Community Baseball Association would like to make it clear that professional baseball in Pampa this summer is a sure thing. It isn't in the talking stages as yet. Money has been paid to the national and league offices and when several thousand dollars is paid out like that you can be assured that baseball will be played here.

All eight members of the league have paid their deposits and the schedule has already been approved and should be announced soon. Although all of the eight Southern League clubs have expressed financial difficulties in recent months, all will be ready to start. No one knows whether or not all of them will be able to finish the season, that's the chance any minor league club has to take.

Attendance will tell the story this year, as in every year. Another big factor will be the partial working agreements with the major league clubs. If the major league groups can furnish smaller organizations player help, expenses will be much less than in previous seasons.

SEVERAL PEOPLE have called the Pampa Oiler business office in the Pampa Hotel asking about the advertising salesmen making the rounds selling scorecard and fence advertising as well as season book seats.

These two gentlemen, Monty Colwell and Ed Brown, have been in and out of Pampa for several months selling advertising to local merchants. They work for the Virgil Williams Sports Service Co. of Midland and are authorized by this club and W. J. Green, president of the league, to sell the advertising.

Oiler officials hired the Williams service shortly after they were certain Pampa would have baseball this summer. Williams has been doing business in the old West Texas - New Mexico and Southwestern Leagues for several years and he's been of great assistance to filling clubs. Williams and his crew can sell three times as much advertising as most groups can because they spend all of their time at their job of selling. In Ballinger and Hobbs, two members of the league, the Williams company sold upwards of $20,000 in scorecard and fence advertising as well as advance tickets. And that was the only thing that kept the two clubs running throughout the season. They plan to

Harvester Cindermen In Borger

Coach Dwaine Lyon's Pampa High School track team was entered in a quadrangular track and field meet at Borger this afternoon in the first of three meets scheduled this week.

The Harvesters were competing against Borger, Phillips and Stinnett on the Borger High School track. Lyon was to take his full 32-man team to the meet in order to gain more experience and to help single out the entries in two more meets this week.

Pampa is entered in the West Texas Relays at Odessa Friday and Saturday and the Panhandle Relays in Panhandle on Saturday.

The track team, as well as Coach Weldon Trice's

Harvester golf team, will leave Thursday for the Odessa meet. A total of 25 high schools as well as 12 college and university squads are entered in the golf tournament at the Odessa Country Club.

The Harvester tracksters are among 41 schools competing in the high school division while approximately a dozen colleges are entered. Odessa rules as the favorite in the school division while Abilene Christian College is the university favorite with the absence of the University of Texas for the first time in several years.

Coach Lyon plans to pick the entries for the two week-end meets today.

Pampa Shuts Out Bulldogs By 2-0

The Pampa Harvesters showed mid-season form in taking a 2-0 non-conference baseball victory over Borger's Bulldogs to open the 1957 season at Oiler Park yesterday.

Coach Deck Woldt, seeking to better the fine 17-5 mark last season, used three pitchers and a total of 14 players in blanking the Bulldogs who were also playing their initial contest of the year.

The Harvesters, who have been working out for just over a week, got four of their five hits in the first two innings of the seven-inning game to take the 2-0 lead. Then the Pampa defense held on for some fine fielding, including a pair of double plays to prevent Borger from scoring.

Borger got six hits, including the game's only extra-base blow, off three Harvester hurlers but some poor base running and inconsistent hitting prevented Borger from crossing home plate.

Righthander Ray Stephenson started on the mound for Pampa and went three innings to give up only two hits, a single and a double. David James took over in the fourth and remained through the sixth, relinquishing a pair of safeties to take the victory. Ronnie Burlingame hurled the seventh frame.

Don Green took the pitching loss for Borger. The righthander pitched two innings to give up the two runs on four hits, a single and a double. Everett Arrington in the fourth and remained through the sixth, relinquishing a pair of safeties to take the victory. Ronnie Burlingame hurled the seventh frame.

Borger led off in the first but went down in order. Mike Conway started things to rolling for Pampa in the first when he drew a walk. Robert Langford singled him to second and Bill Conway blasted from second. Scoring ended when Larry Cruise struck out for the third out of the frame.

Borger got one hit in the second inning but a pair of pop flies and a strike out ended any semblance of a rally. Gary Wilhelm led off the second frame for Pampa by singling to left. A ground ball by John Lee sent him to second and he scored on Stephenson's single.

Shortstop Bill Brown got the final Pampa hit in the fourth inning to send lead-off man Benny Sparks to second. Sparks got to first base after being hit by a pitched ball. Brown was thrown out at second on a fielder's choice to end the inning. Pampa filled the bases in the sixth on an error and two

Seminole Meet Has 3 Leaders

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Sam Snead was involved in a three-way tie for first place going into the second and final round of the Seminole golf tournament today.

However, two other "old pros," Ben Hogan and partner Bing Crosby, appeared hopelessly beaten in the pro-amateur division.

Snead looked mighty sharp Tuesday in carving out a three-under-par 69 against a brisk offshore wind.

Lloyd Mangrum and Bud Holscher, both of Apple Valley, Calif., matched Snead's score, while Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., was right at the leaders heels with a 70.

In the pro-amateur division, Holscher and Shaw Walker of Muskegon, Mich., shared the lead with Gardner Dickinson Jr., of Panama City, Fla., and William G. Curran of Detroit. Each team had a best ball score of 61.

Pittsburgh Again Setting Early Pace; Mantle Keeps Yanks In Winning Circle

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
The Pittsburgh Pirates are becoming convinced that rookie outfielder Dick Stuart is almost as good as he says he is.

A 24-year-old native of San Francisco who walloped 86 home runs for Lincoln, Neb., last season and says he might do as well in the majors, Stuart hit a pair of 400-foot round-trippers Tuesday as the Pirates beat the Chicago White Sox, 9-3. It was the eighth win in 11 games for the Pirates and the fifth loss in 10 games for the White Sox.

It's been all or nothing at all for the big fellow, however, because he now has hit five homers and struck out eight times in four games. He fanned all three times he failed to hit the ball out of the park Tuesday.

Manager Bobby Bragan hasn't decided yet whether he has a new Mickey Mantle or a new Pat Seerey on his hands, but he's sure of one thing: When Stuart connects, it doesn't make any difference who the pitcher is. The rookie's homers have come off five different pitchers with widely varying styles — knuckleballer Granny Hamner, hard-thrower Art Fowler, sidewheeler Tom Ackler, southpaw 20-game winner Billy Pierce and Gerry Staley, who inlines low breaking curves with a knuckler.

Brooks Robinson, a 19-year-old rookie who is making a strong bid to take George Kell's third-base job, hit a homer and a triple to lead the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Mickey Mantle's fourth homer of the spring marked the New York Yankees' 6-5 win over the Milwaukee Braves. The world champions, who have won four straight games and seven of 11, scored two runs in the ninth inning with doubles by Marv Throneberry and Gil McDougald the key blows.

Johnny Groth blasted a homer to lead off the 10th inning and provide the Kansas City Athletics with a 6-5 verdict over the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Philadelphia Phillies handed the Detroit Tigers their eighth loss in 10 exhibition games when Joe Lonnett's homer and singles by Fred Van Dusen, Ed Bouchee and Bob Bowman produced an 11th-inning, 6-5 triumph. Harry Anderson and Van Dusen also homered for the Phillies while Harvey Kpenn and Charley Maxwell hit round-trippers for the Tigers.

The Nationals defeated the Philadelphia Warriors two straight in their opening round Eastern Division playoff for the right to play the division champion Celtics. St. Louis and Boston drew first round byes for finishing first in their respective divisions in regular-season play.

Temple And Bradley Smash Way To Semifinals Of NIT

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Guy (The New Cousy) Rodgers of Temple stood out today as the top individual star seen so far in the National Invitation Tournament, but even Temple Coach Harry Litwack had to admit, "I've never seen anything like that Bradley team."

Rodgers really did look like he might become as great some day as Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics, scoring 26 points to lead Temple to a 77-66 victory over Dayton in the NIT quarter-finals Tuesday night.

But Bradley stunned the 10,543 fans with its 116-81 triumph over Xavier of Ohio — coming from 21 points behind to win easily and, in the bargain, smash three Madison Square Garden scoring records. Despite Rodgers' individual brilliance, second-seeded Bradley now was moving into the role of little favorite.

The Braves from Peoria, Ill., went into an all-court press after falling behind Xavier, 38-17, in the first 13 minutes. The maneuver turned the game upside down. Xavier suddenly could do nothing right and Bradley could do little wrong.

Historians could recall no NIT game in history that changed color so completely. Bradley whittled away 13 points of the lead by halftime, caught up after three minutes of the first half and then romped home to set a Garden record for points in one game, points in one half (72 in the second), and total free throws (42).

Bradley will meet Temple in one semi-final Thursday night. St. Bonaventure will oppose Memphis State. The other and the winners will clash in the nationally-telvised finale Saturday at 2 p.m. EST.

Braves Wipe 1956 Disappointment Away, Predict This Is Their Year

EDITORS: This is the third in a series on the 1957 prospects of the major league clubs.

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
BRADENTON, Fla. (UP)—The Milwaukee Braves feel this is the year they are going all the way. Wiping the memory of a disappointing 1956 finish out of his mind, Manager Fred Haney is "very happy" about Milwaukee's prospects this year and says "there is a lot more determination among the players."

Haney is convinced the Braves will win "if we get the same pitching we did last year. Personally, I feel it is going to be even better."

That belief is based on the hope that big Gene Conley, who won only eight games last season because of shoulder trouble, will come back to his 1955 form when he won 11 games and seemed to be on his way to becoming one of the best right handers in the league.

As other starters the Braves are counting on Warren Spahn, who has had seven 20-game winning seasons, more than any other left hander in National League history. Bob Buhl an 18-game winner who specializes in beating Brooklyn; Lew Burdette, who won 19; and Ray Crone, who won 11.

The Braves had trouble with their relief pitching last season because Dave Jolly and Ernie Johnson did not live up to expectations. Both seem to be sound in the field or at bat, is the leading candidate for second base, but Felix Mantilla, who was coming fast at the close of last season, could beat out O'Connell for the job. Haney is hoping that whichever one wins out, will develop into the lead-off hitter.

National League batting king Hank Aaron will patrol right field with the fleet Billy Branton in center. But it's a wide open battle for the left field spot with Wes Covington and Bobby Thomson, the ex Giant star, battling it out for the starting berth. The veteran Andy Patko also is available for duty there, as well as pinch hitting chores.

Allen, one of the most outspoken after-dinner speakers and coaches in recent years, coached for 39 years at Kansas and won numerous Big Seven basketball titles, as well as producing several All America players.

All of the head basketball coaches of District 3-AAAA have been invited to the banquet which will honor the team that lost in the state finals while posting a 29-1 season record. College coaches will also be invited.

Bumper Crop Is Expected For '57

By GAYLORD F. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—American farmers this year are expected to produce a bumper crop on the smallest acreage in 40 years.

The Agriculture Department estimated Monday that on the basis of March 1, this year's crop will be grown on 334 million acres—12 million acres or 3.5 per cent under the 1956 acreage which produced a record-tying crop. In 1917 farmers planted 331 million, but produced a crop far off the 1956 total.

Cugat Would Divide World In Two Parts

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Xavier Cugat, a bandleader whose TV show is telecast in combatable English, likes to divide the world into two camps.

"Young kids, they all do these rock 'n' roll," said Cugat a little scornfully. "Even in South America, the kids down there, they go craze for eet. I don't need you, Craze."

"But these Latin rhythms, they are for everyone else. The whole world luffs these rumba, these conga, these mambo, these joropo."

"These joropo?"
"Sure," said Cugat. "These joropo. It's a new dance I introduce soon from Venezuela. It will be verve, verve beeg."

No Calypso Fan
"Calypso, another current craze, isn't Cugat's cup of coffee either. "Eet is, wot you say? — a fod, Fahd. Fahd. Yes. It won't last. Who can dance to calypso? All you can do is seeng eet. You can not go to Arthur Murray and say — please, Mr. Murray, teach me how to dance the calypso."

"Five or seex month", I geev eet. Then poof — you'll all be tired."

Cugie, who looked pretty untired himself in fireball red jacket, brown corduroy slacks, blue and pink checked sports shirt and tan suede shoes, launched his own NBC-TV 15-minuter about three weeks ago. He allowed as how Latin rhythms were here to stay.

Clothes Blinding
"Now, you look at me," he said. We looked and turned away blinded. "I'm in hand beezness 30 year and play same type music all these time. Our type music ees not like these other type that go uppp, then go down. Hoppens my sale of records varies only about 10 thousand a year."

"Everybody says, these Cugat, he is a lucky fellow. But eet is nothing to do with luck. It is just that people all over like to dance."

"These TV show. We are getting mail from all over. You know what everybody say? They say is too short. But that is because I do eet that way. I don't want to play no slow tunes."

Department officials are not counting on a "crop production comparable to the acreage reduction. Farmers have a way of increasing their yields on reduced acreage with better types of seed, improved fertilizer, and all-round advances in agricultural technology. They have proved it before, and may come up with a 1957 overall crop equal to or near the 1956 production.

The department reported prospective corn plantings this year at 74.4 million acres. If yields approximate the 1951-55 average, production would amount to 2.9 billion bushels.

The intended planted acreage is the smallest in 70 years. But the prospective acreage for 1957 is only 5.3 per cent under the 1956 acreage when 3.5 billion bushels — the second largest crop in history — was produced.

The planting intentions report indicated that many farmers are reducing their acreage on such basic crops as corn, wheat, peanuts, rice, and tobacco, but are increasing the use of crop land for other crops.

The latest department report on soil bank participation showed that about 20-million acres have been deposited in the soil bank acreage reserve and about 3.5 million acres have been put into the conservation reserve.

This adds up to about 23.5 million acres on which farmers will receive government payments for not producing crops. The soil bank acreage is almost double the 12 million acres they have indicated they will cut from the over-all acreage total.

Oil Production Allowable Cut
AUSTIN (UP)—The Texas Railroad Commission Tuesday slashed the state's oil production allowable for April by 224,710 barrels daily.

The cut followed an increase of 210,901 barrels daily, which pushed production to a new all-time high during March.

The daily production allowable for the nation's biggest oil producing state was pegged at 3,564,665 barrels daily by the commission.

A reduction from 18 producing days in March to 16 in April brought about the decrease. The Headlee Devonian and Dora Roberts Devonian fields were held to six producing days.

Our Society Still Snubs Working Wife

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Our society still looks down its nose at the working wife, although her number steadily increases.

If she takes an outside job, she is told "motherhood is a full-time duty." Yet, three of every 10 married women are working, two out of every five mothers with school age children are in the national labor force.

This contrasting picture of the working wife is drawn in a couple of publications which came across my desk today.

One, "The Modern Mother's Dilemma," said that even today society puts the question, "Home Or Career?"

The other publication, "Womanpower," doesn't try to solve woman's problem of adjusting to the dual role. It simply is a report on the "revolution" in the employment of women in the last half century.

9 of 10 Work Sometime
The first, released by the non-profit Educational Organization Public Affairs committee, is written by Mrs. Sidonie Matsner Greenberg, former director of the Child Study Association of America, and her daughter, Mrs. Hilda Sidney Krich.

The "Womanpower" report is from the National Manpower Council, a private, non-partisan citizens' group established in 1951 at Columbia University.

"At least nine out of every 10 American women are likely to work outside the home in the course of their lives," said the council.

Today's schoolgirls may expect to spend 25 years or more in paid work outside the home. Women, the council continued, will account for at least half of the expected increase of 10 million persons in the labor force by 1965.

Prosperous Fugitive Is Arrested
WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—Everett L. Hopkins, 32, who came here six months ago with only $34 and built a prosperous used car business, has been arrested as a fugitive from a mental hospital.

Ohio county Sheriff Warren W. Pugh said Hopkins, who also is wanted on criminal charges in other states, fled from the Spencer (W. Va.) State Mental hospital last September. Using the name Carl Rollins, Hopkins settled here, borrowed money, and founded the City Motors Co.

Pugh said Hopkins claimed that the firm showed a profit of nearly $10,000 for the last six months.

A Cease Fire Offer
Last Thursday the rebel organization, called "EOKA," announced that it would cease fire immediately if Makarios were freed.

The British government showed great interest in the offer, as did Field Marshal Harding.

The cease fire offer is now under consideration by Prime Minister.

Arrested Monday on a fugitive warrant, Hopkins, of Parkersburg, W. Va., also is wanted in Edinburg, Tex., on five charges, including forgery and embezzlement of $60,000, police said. Authorities also said Hopkins had a record of auto theft, larceny and other crimes in Florida, Kansas, Missouri, Alabama and Mississippi.

Negotiations For Solution To Cyprus Problems May Renew

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

There seems good reason to hope that new negotiations may be started soon for a solution of the Cyprus problem.

The Greek Cypriot Islanders who are fighting British rule have offered to declare a truce.

British government reaction has been favorable. The No. 1 British condition for a resumption of negotiations is that the rebels stop their campaign of terrorism.

Whether it will be possible, under the best conditions, to find a permanent settlement of the complicated Cyprus situation is another thing.

Greek islanders started a campaign of assassination, ambushes, bombings and sabotage two years ago.

They demanded that Britain grant Cypriots the right of "self-determination," which meant that they wanted Britain to hand the island over to Greece.

Turkey Backs Britons
Britain refused and was supported by Turkey, which ruled Cyprus for centuries before the British took it over in 1878.

The campaign of violence intensified. Archbishop Makarios, head of the Greek Orthodox Church in Cyprus, became the political leader of the "self-determination" campaign.

Britain charged that Makarios also was implicated directly in the terrorism. On March 9, 1956, Makarios was arrested and deported to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean.

British forces under Field Marshal Sir John Harding, commander in chief and governor of Cyprus, have pressed a determined drive against the small but well-organized and bold group of extremists who are responsible for the terrorism.

In recent months, the extremists have suffered some punishing blows. A number of their leaders have been captured or killed. On March 3, Gregoris Afention, second in command of the rebels, was killed in his mountain hide-out.

THE MIGHTY CHRYSLER

Most glamorous car in a generation

No other car even challenges its performance!

Here are some figures for comparison. We believe they talk louder than words, and that you will find this message worth reading.

So much has been said about the good looks of the 1957 Chrysler that you may have the impression its reputation rests on styling alone. The truth is it's even more impressive in action. Three performance figures prove this. Here is the first: Chrysler's Firepower V-8 engine packs 325 hp (and up to 375 hp in the Chrysler 300-C), tops in the industry.

Is horsepower the only way you judge performance? Certainly not. There's engine displacement and torque. Chrysler's displacement is 392 cu. in. That about torque, the real pay-dirt power that turns the wheels? Chrysler's torque is 430 lb.-ft. at 2800 rpm, again tops in the industry.

More power than you need? Maybe. But it means unquestioned command of the highway when you want it. It means your Chrysler will stay like new much longer because it can loaf where other cars strain. So you see, when we call this car the Mighty Chrysler we mean just that... the mightiest on the highway! Come in and drive it soon.
