

Senate Deluged With Racketeering Tips

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON, April 6 (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee has received more than 20,000 letters — 80 to 90 per cent of them from union members — containing complaints or tips about racketeering in every major union in the nation. This was disclosed to newsmen Saturday by committee staff employees.

One committee aide said most of the complaints alleged misappropriation of union funds, which if proved accurate, would run "well into the millions" of dollars. In nine out of 10 of these cases, he said, the writers charged some racket tieup was involved.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), commenting on the disclosures, told newsmen the "magnitude" of the committee's investigation "is just beginning to appear."

Nation's Biggest
The Teamsters Union, the nation's biggest, is the largest single source of complaint, the committee experts said. In five weeks of drama-packed hearings the committee has concentrated its inquiry on that union.

Four Separate Phases
Earlier, in New York, Kennedy said the committee's inquiry there involves four separate phases, including the granting of charters for so-called "paper" locals by the Teamsters union.

Four-Day Work Week Goal Of Auto Workers

By RUSS GREEN
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 6 (UP)—United Auto Workers' Chief Walter Reuther disclosed Saturday that the union would demand a four-day work week in contract negotiations next year.

Reuther said the union membership was overwhelmingly in favor of a "shorter week — not a shorter day."

The UAW president also said at a news conference preceding the opening — Sunday of the union's 18th convention that the auto industry would be asked for higher take-home pay. He did not specify how much.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

 Put yourself in the North position. Your partner has opened one no-trump and you have a bust with six spades. You know that two spades must be the least unsatisfactory contract for your side, but how can you get there and no further?
 The Jacoby transfer bid solves your problem. You respond two hearts and your partner must go to two spades. Now you pass. He may glare at you but he can't bid any more because he won't get another chance.
 West had a most unsatisfactory hand to lead from and finally selected the four of hearts. South won with the queen, laid down the ace and trumped a third heart. His next plays were the ace and a small trump. West won with the king and led his fourth heart. Dummy ruffed and East overruffed.

East shifted to his fourth best club. South took the ace and returned the suit. West went up with the king since he was certain that his partner held the queen and led the jack. East overtook giving his side's fourth trick and led the ceuce of diamonds.
 South made the correct guess and played the jack thereby making his two spade contracts.
 It would have been possible to get to two spades without the use of the JTB provided North and South played the two spade response to a no-trump as a complete sign off. In that case South would have been declarer, there would not have been an initial heart lead toward the ace-queen and North and South would almost surely have wound up with a minus score.

Jordan, Syria Pro-Reds Seem To Have Suffered A Setback

(Foreign News Commentary)
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 The pro-Communist elements which have been bidding for domination in Syria and Jordan appear to have suffered a setback. Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj in Syria and Premier Suleiman Nabulsi in Jordan are being challenged by conservative leaders. In both countries, the situation still is confused. But there seems no doubt that for the moment at least pro-Western sentiment is strengthening.

 For several months, Syria has been the most pro-Communist of the nine Arab countries. Serraj, chief of Syria's military intelligence department, has been regarded as a potential dictator. Nabulsi also has pursued an increasingly pro-Communist and hence anti-Western policy. He is trying to set himself up as his country's strong man and to weaken anti-Communist King Hussein.

 Now President Shukri Al-Kuwatly of Syria has taken the nominal leadership of conservative elements who are trying to oust Serraj and, if possible, to compel him to take a post as military attaché or some similar post in a foreign country.

But the actual challenge to Serraj comes from conservatives in the army. They are showing unexpected strength.
 In Jordan, young King Hussein is leading the opposition to Nabulsi. He, too, has the support of army conservatives as well as of conservative politicians.
 The Eisenhower Doctrine seems to have had a good deal to do with the altered situation in both Syria and Jordan.

 And King Saud of Saudi Arabia also appears to be playing an important part.
 There seems every reason to believe that Saud went home from his recent visit to President Eisenhower with a most favorable view of the Eisenhower Doctrine. It also is indicated that he lost no time in giving his view to leaders of other Arab countries.
 It also is possible that the recent decision of the United States to join the military committee of the Baghdad Pact has played a part in checking the pro-Communist trend in Syria and Jordan.

 Both the Baghdad Pact and the Eisenhower Doctrine are aimed against Communist penetration, by subversion or aggression, in the Middle East.
 It may take some time for the situations in Syria and Jordan to solidify. But it could well be that what threatened to be a dangerous pro-Communist trend will be stopped.

How They've Made You Your Own Salesman

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
 NEW YORK (NEA) — The biggest change in the changing American Consumer is the fact that he has been observed.
 Hiding behind the invincibility of science, researchers, sociologists, school teachers and psychologists have disarmed the consumer to why and how he buys.

or non-essential market. Sports cars that are too fast for safety and too small for the family compete for road space with family cars that are too large to park.
 And growing daily is the leisure market, intricately connected with every nerve and vein of the whole economy. The cream of this market is being skimmed a thousand ways.
 Census figures, for example, show that the American worker spends 40.7 hours each week on his job. Statistical projections say that he will work only about 37 hours each week by 1970.
 Increasing leisure time means increasing travel, recreation, hobbies, sports. Last year, for example, there were 25 million boat-ers in the United States, according to the Scott-Atwater Co. This is an important piece of information for them; they make outdoor motors.

In addition to off-the-job time, there is the time available to retired people — well over 14 million in this country. There are also, in direct proportion to rising income, more college students: 2.5 million today and about 4.5 million within the coming 10 years.

The new appliance market, 44 per cent bigger than in 1953, with its time and labor-saving devices has added more leisure hours to the homemaker's day. Mealtime preparation since the introduction of prepared foods has dropped from 5 1/2 to 1 1/2 hours each day.

Into this new market have come the researchers, followed by the producers, followed by the advertisers to apply what they have learned. The Consumer is a man of many parts. Sometimes worker, sometimes parent, sometimes student, sometimes relaxer, sometimes home-owner.

And in every part, he is susceptible — and even helpful — to the right kind of merchandising.

MARKET RESEARCH PARS OFF—at the cash register, where customers line up in proof they've become their own salesmen.

WHERE WILL YOU SPEND YOUR ETERNITY?

Their discoveries bring high prices in the merchandising market place, because they know how to educate the consumer to be his own salesman. These people are known as market researchers and they work this way:
 "Here are two kinds of cough syrup," they say to a statistical sample of consumers. "Please try them and let us know which one is more effective: the colorless or the green syrup."
 Or, distributing a "typical" shopping list to a controlled group of consumers, market researchers ask: "Please describe the kind of housewife who might have made up this list."
 The consumer readily takes part (market psychologists have found that people like to take part in experiments) but he is a little surprised that the market is coming to him to find out what he wants. None of the researchers has bothered to explain that they're not after his opinion. What they want is his habit and attitude.
 And with data collected, they can report to the manufacturers who have hired them.
 "Both bottles of syrup in the experiment were made with your formula. However, in all cases, subjects reported that the green syrup with the bitter taste was more effective. Therefore, we suggest that you color your cough syrup and give it a bitter flavor."
 Or, "all of the shopping lists were identical. However, half of the lists contained instant coffee and half contained regular coffee. In most cases, subjects described the hypothetical housewife who bought instant coffee as 'sloppy.' Therefore, we suggest that you key your advertising to change this prejudice."
 In both of these cases, the fee for market research more than paid for itself with increased sales. This research, and more like it, has changed the packaging, display, advertising, publicity and slogans of American goods and services.

If you think that the box of cereal on your breakfast table has a horrible color, you had better ask how it got to your breakfast table. And if that toothpaste slogan you heard on TV last night bothers you, how is it that you can still remember it?
 Scientific merchandising has a baffled American consumer thinking to accept planned obsolescence, too. A generation that could look at its Model T and say, "There's still plenty of life in the old girl," has faded.
 And in its place is a generation that:
 1. Trades in its car every other year.
 2. Yearly discards old refrigerators that have up to 10 years of service left in them to buy bigger and better refrigerator-freezers.
 3. Discards old, serviceable sewing machines to buy new machines advertised to do almost everything.
 As one sewing machine manufacturer said, "This new model does more things than any other machine on the market. Our sales are booming. Of course, most people who buy it don't know how to use it and probably never will."
 While the assault on the consumer directs itself in changing his habits and attitudes about buying, merchandising pioneers have opened new markets.

 POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (UP) — Three Utah State Prison inmates didn't quite make good their escape attempt Thursday night. They were climbing down the outer wall of the prison when acting Warden Walter D. Achuff drove up. Achuff said a prison guard spotted the trio and "all I did was take them back inside."

Tattle Tale Eggs
 CINCINNATI (UP)—Judge Joseph Woeste decided Thursday that Charles R. Pope wasn't wearing his breakfast egg on his shirt when officers arrested him. The judge gave Pope 30 days in jail on a charge of petty larceny for stealing a large crate of eggs from a poultry store. Police noticed the thief had broken some of the eggs when he apparently stumbled near the scene.

Twenty-Two Persons Organized First Baptist Church In 1907

FIRST BUILDING—Shown above is the "Stone Church," the first building owned by The First Baptist Church of Pampa. The building completed in 1914, stood on the corner now occupied by the Combs-Worley building, and was used until 1929. The congregation is celebrating its 50th anniversary today.

PRESENT BUILDING—The present building of The First Baptist Church, built in 1929, is shown above. The congregation, which started 50 years ago today with 22 members, is celebrating its 50th anniversary and now has 3,305 members.

Pampa News Staff Writer

Fifty years ago today a group of 22 people met for the first time in worship at the First Baptist Church.

Today this congregation, which now totals 3,305 members, is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

With Pampa only a small farming town the 22 charter members met and organized the First Baptist Church. Minutes of this first meeting show that the following were charter members of the church: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Roberts, W. R. Isbell, Sister M. S. Keahey, Sister Alice Henry, Sister E. B. Henry, Sister Mattie Williams, and Sister Gertrude Talbot.

From the beginning, this small church started to grow and members were added. The growth of the congregation to the size it is today did not begin until the growth of the town also began around 1926. Members of the church at that time report that membership increased steadily as the small farming community changed into a growing industrial town.

In October of 1935, the congregation reported 800 members and in 1932 reports indicate a total of 1,160 persons were on the Sunday school rolls with an average attendance of 559. As the church starts the second 50 years of its existence, there is a total of 3,305 members.

The first mention of a pastor for the new congregation was made in the minutes of a business meeting of Sept. 8, 1907. These minutes indicate that the membership selected Rev. J. W. Whitley to serve as pastor. He was hired on a one-quarter time basis.

Rev. Whitley was also chosen as pastor for the following year, according to minutes of the meeting of Nov. 22, 1908.

From 1911 to 1916 the names of the various part-time preachers are not known but on March 15, 1916, the congregation decided to hire a full time preacher and on that day, Rev. William Park was chosen to be the first full time preacher.

A total of seven preachers have led the congregation since the decision to have a full-time preacher. The first one was Rev. Park who remained with the congregation for one year. In 1917 Dr. C. E. Lancaster was appointed by the congregation and stayed until 1921 when Rev. H. R. Whitley began the work. Rev. Whitley stayed for five years and was followed by Rev. Frank A. Tippen who remained for one year.

Rev. D. H. Truhitt came in 1927 and led the congregation until 1931 when Dr. Lancaster returned for six years. In 1937 Dr. C. Gordon Bayliss was secured by the congregation and stayed until 1942 when the present pastor, Dr. E. Douglas Carver, was secured.

It is not known where the church met in the early years of its existence but on Sept. 25, 1910, the congregation decided to lease the "Old School Building" from the White Deer Land Company. This building leased jointly with the Union Church, stood on the present location of the Central Baptist Church.

During the time the church was meeting in the school building, reports indicate that it was purchasing lots for the erection of its own building and on June 1, 1913, it was decided by the members that the church would build its property at a cost of from $2,000 to $3,000. This building, known as the "Stone Church," was completed in 1914 and was on property now occupied by the Combs-Worley building.

The debt on the "Stone Church" was paid off on Dec. 12, 1915, and the minutes of the church business sessions indicate that the building was formally dedicated.

In 1917 the lots for the parsonage were purchased and the parsonage was erected shortly thereafter.

With the continued growth of the congregation and of Pampa the church built the present auditorium building in 1929 and added the education building 20 years later in 1949.

About five years ago the congregation purchased the remainder of the half-block the church is located on to allow for future expansion.

The present parsonage, located at 1708 N. Charles, was purchased in 1952. In addition to this residence, the church owns the residence of the educational director, at 121 N. West, and the residence of the music director, at 815 W. Kingsmill.

During the past 15 years a total of 4,042 persons have placed membership with the congregation but during the same time a large number, figures are not available, have transferred membership or have died.

During the same period of time a total of $1,388,324.58 has been raised by the congregation for the cost of operating the church and helping with mission and other work.

Today the yearly budget of the congregation is $125,000. This is compared to the budgets, as shown by records, of other years. In 1919 the budget was $2,200. In 1923 it was $4,000 and in 1942 it was listed as $18,600.

The church is attempting to lo-

WITH A LITTLE MORE HITTING the Pampa Harvesters could win the District 3-AAAA baseball championship this spring.

Amarillo's Sandies are the likely choices to win the crown again this year, a feat they've accomplished for several years.

The Sandies have shown very little strength this year and without the services of their ace pitcher and outfielder, Jimmy Weston, they may be battling three other district teams for the championship at the wire.

Some of the 3-AAAA coaches believe that a dogfight is likely this season between most of the seven clubs.

The Harvesters have shown fine defensive ability this season but they have been able to get five hits as their top output in one game.

Pampa's opponents have been able to get 27 hits off Harvesters pitchers while winning three games against them by a margin of four runs.

COACH DON SUMAN OF Rice was a Pampa visitor this past week as he scoured the country for basketball talent.

Sumin says he plans to recruit only five or six players this season and two of those he wants are Ed and Billy Joe Simmon's of Pecos.

Elk City Shuts Out Pampa For 1-0 Win

A long single to left centerfield by outfielder Don Maltby and the two-hit pitching of Richard Hunt enabled Elk City, Okla., to take an extra-inning 1-0 victory over the Pampa Harvesters here Friday afternoon.

The loss put the Harvesters under the .500 mark for the first time this season and handed them their second extra-inning defeat of the year.

The Harvesters held triumphs over Borger by 2-0 and 4-1 counts and they lost to Mangum 3-2 in 11 innings and then bowled to Lawton 2-0.

Hunt, a junior right-hander, used a sliding fastball and an occasional curve to take the pitching victory.

Maltby, the Elk City left fielder, dropped a line drive into near left field to allow Jerry Reed to score the needed run in the 10th inning.

Hunt sent the Harvesters in order through six innings, striking out nine of the 18 batters.

Pampa again came close to scoring in the ninth inning when Mike Conway singled to left.

Harvester Golfers Win Amarillo Relay Links Crown

Oilers Open Work Outs Wednesday Without Pact Odessa And Canyon Gain Amarillo Relays Crowns

Manager Allen Cross' plans for the Pampa Oilers' partial working agreement with the Milwaukee Braves hit a temporary snag this week following talks in Austin with executives of the National League club.

When those cities' needs have been met, Pampa has been promised some aid.

The Braves' officials, general manager John Quinn and farm supervisor John Muller, told Cross at Austin Friday that it may be May before Milwaukee will be able to assist the Oilers.

Wichita, Austin, Atlanta and Corpus Christi, all farm clubs of the Milwaukee organization, are needing help and their needs must be answered first.

Cities Reserving Bids For New Football League

BALTIMORE, April 6 (UP)—Gerald H. Cooper, attorney and secretary-treasurer of the newly formed United States Football League, said that franchisees were "reserved" for seven cities at a meeting Saturday.

The franchises were reserved for Baltimore, Detroit, Little Rock, Louisville, New Orleans, New York and Minneapolis, Cooper said.

The meeting was held behind closed doors at a downtown hotel but it was learned that only representatives of Baltimore and Detroit were actually present.

The next league meeting has been tentatively set for June, at which time it is expected that plans will be laid for actually fielding teams in 1958.

Cooper said that in the meantime negotiations were contemplated with unidentified individuals in St. Louis, Houston, Kansas City, Fort Worth, Buffalo and Miami who had expressed interest.

He said that Sol Friedman, an attorney and member of the Maryland House of Delegates, represented Baltimore interests; Bob Benton and Bob Gasaway, real estate men and owners of the semi-pro Dearborn All-Stars, represented Detroit; Max Winter represented Minneapolis but was not present.

Mantle Hitless, But Yankees Take 5-3 Victory Over Tigers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 6 (UP)—Mickey Mantle returned to the lineup for the first time in two weeks and went hitless in three trips but the New York Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5-3, Saturday with Art Ditmar going the route.

The Yankees scored four of their runs off Detroit starter Duke Maas, who gave way to Steve Gromek in the fourth. Ditmar gave up seven hits, including homers by Charlie Maxwell and Jim Flanagan.

Mantle, who had been sidelined with an injured left ankle, showed no trace of the injury in the field although he failed to hit safely. Billy Martin homered for New York.

in the third inning and the other fourth on Pee Wee Reese's double.

An infield out and Gil Hodges' sacrifice fly. In the ninth, the Brooklyn Dodgers' lead on Hodges' hit, his steal of second, a wild pitch and Carl Furillo's sacrifice fly.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 6 (UP)—Del Ennis smashed a three-run homer in the eighth inning off Jim Derrington to give the Cardinals a 7-5 victory over the White Sox in the opener of their seven-game tour Saturday before 4,973.

Walt Dropo drove in all five Chicago runs with a pair of homers. He was back at first base because Jim Rivero was sidelined with a virus attack.

Billy Pierce was raked for 11 of St. Louis' 13 hits in the first six innings. Murry Dickson started for the Cardinals and yielded only four hits in seven innings. Jim Davis was rapped for four hits in one inning before Bill Muffett came in to hurl a perfect ninth.

HOUSTON, April 6 (UP)—Rocky Colavito's two-run homer off reliever Marv Grissom in the ninth inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 6-5 victory over the New York Giants Saturday before a crowd of 9,824.

The Indians entered the ninth trailing by two runs and got one on a walk to pinch hitter Russ Nixon and a long double by Vito Marcuzzi. Colavito then hit one out of the park and the Indians went ahead of the Giants in their spring series, seven games to six.

Herb Scott and Johnny Antonelli started against each other in what has become a spring feature for the southpaw stars.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 6 (UP)—The Washington Senators outlasted the Cincinnati Redlegs, 12-10, in a batting exhibition Saturday which saw each side get 15 hits and the lead change hands four times.

The climax blow of the game was a two-bagger by Washington centerfielder Karl Olson which cleaned the bases in the seventh.

Jim Lemon rapped a three-run homer for Washington while Ted Kluszewski got a two-run clout and Gus Bell a bases-empty homer for Cincinnati.

Big Klu got three hits and drove in three runs with a homer, double and single. Dick Brodoviski was the winner while Pat Scantlebury was tagged with the loss.

SAN ANTONIO, April 6 (UP)—Dick Williams slugged a grand slam homer to feature a 10-hit attack on four pitchers as the Baltimore Orioles trounced the Chicago Cubs, 10 to 3, Saturday in an exhibition game before 1,479 fans.

Connie Johnson, elongated right-hander, became the first Bird pitcher to go the nine-inning route this spring. He spaced eight Chicago hits, two of which were bases-empty homers by Ernie Banks, giving the Cub shortstop eight round-trippers this spring.

George Kell also rapped a homer, with one mate aboard, for Baltimore.

Mantle, Williams May Stage 2-Man Bat Race

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Mickey Mantle and Ted Williams are favored to stage a two-man race for the American League batting title with only Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn given an outside chance to crack through, but in the National League it's seen as a wide-open battle.

Hank Aaron, the National League batting champion, doesn't rate much of an edge over such competitors as Stan Musial, Bill Virdon, Wally Moon and Willie Mays.

Littler's Game Off For the last couple of years the going pundits have been touting Gene Littler as the "new Ben Hogan." But now the big question in golf is what happened to Littler's game. Little Gene hasn't won a tournament since last April. Opinion is that his swing slipped out of the groove.

Wally Post admits that he received one of the major shocks of the spring training season. It happened at Cincinnati's Tampa training base on a day when the Dodgers went to Jacksonville for a game and left Don Newcombe and Junior Gilliam behind to take the train. The two Brooks worked out at the Redleg base in the morning and one was told "Post."

"Wally, the Dodgers have sent Gilliam and Newcombe to the Reds. So you'll probably be with the Dodgers pretty soon."

Shrugged It Off Post shrugged it off as a gag—and almost fainted when he walked in the clubhouse and saw Gilliam and Newcombe in the locker room.

When the pro basketball draft is held at St. Louis on April 15, Charley Tyra of Louisville will be the No. 1 draft choice. He'll be picked by the new Cincinnati Royals, moved from Rochester.

Other first round choices will include West Virginia's Hot Rod Hundirey, North Carolina's Len Rosenbluth, Detroit's Bill Ebben and Memphis State's Win Wilfong. Some of the other All-Americans, including Grady Wallace of South Carolina, are getting the Brush off because they failed to impress scouts as big league timber.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN
It will be impossible to get an accurate count on the wildlife losses due to the recent blizzard, but there has been some losses reported. Hal Brown of the Hay Hook Ranch, Hutchinson and Roberts counties, reported one doe antelope frozen while Ott Went of the Turkey Track Ranch, reported one yearling buck antelope frozen to death. Jack Woodford, game warden from Miami, reported one dove of bob-white quail, about a dozen, that were killed by the cold and snow. Seven antelope were observed feeding in a wheat field in Hutchinson County. This same herd contained 11 before the blizzard.

Recent conversation with Jack Parsons, Wildlife Management Area Supervisor at Canadian, revealed that the main antelope range around Komero had very little snow and that the pronghorn antelope herds in that area suffered very little. Largest game bird loss in the Panhandle that has been reported was the birds killed at the Frierion and Roach game-bird farm in Pampa. Frank Roach reported over one hundred bob-white quail lost out of some five-hundred birds, while there were four ring-necked pheasants lost out of 50. There was no loss to the 160 chuck quail, but from 30 Gambie quail there were six killed by the freeze. Roach and Frierion had just received 50 Japanese quail and all 50 were killed. However, Roach stated that they have 500 eggs now hatching with 300 eggs on order.

Roach further stated that the main reason for the losses was due to the snow completely filling the bird pens and more or less smothering the birds. From the way it appears, at this time, the wild turkey that inhabit the woody areas of the draws to the Canadian River suffered very little loss. With the large amounts of green vegetation now available, these birds will be in full swing of the nesting season in the next few days. In good turkey areas one can hear the male turkey strutting and gobbling on any still day. This is a good indication that the nesting season is beginning.

Jack Woodford, Miami, reports that crappie are biting at Lake McClellan. Woodford stated that practically everyone fishing was reeling long strings of these fish at the lake. Crappie are also biting at a fast clip at Canton Lake and most of the fish are large. Woodford also reported that many fishermen from the Pampa and Miami areas were going to Canton Lake and having exceptionally good luck while the crappie are hitting.

Recent report is that Lake Fryer on Wolf Creek south of Perryton will be ready to catch water in about three months. This lake was washed out several years back and the dam is being rebuilt at this time. When full, Lake Fryer will contain some 864 acre-feet of some of the most productive waters in the Panhandle. Before this dam washed out, Lake Fryer was noted for some of the best in channel cat fishing in this part of the state. One of the main reasons why this lake will produce such excellent fishing is due to the run-off water that drains over the fertile black lands before it reaches the lake.

This water contains a much larger amount of organic matter and plant and animal food than clear spring water. The Texas Game and Fish Commission will have several loads of fingerling channel cat plus black bass ready for the lake as soon as the water is impounded. Within one year the lake probably will be producing large strings of fish.

Redfish in Canadian River Lake? If we ever get the dam it might very well be possible that this species will do well since redfish are thriving in the Pecos River, according to a news release from the Texas Game and Fish Commission which states: Hopes to use Gulf of Mexico redfish to provide better game fishing in the brackish Pecos River in far West Texas have just been stimulated by official confirmation that one of the reds taken from the Pecos was "fat and healthy."

The Chief Aquatic Biologist for the Game and Fish Commission said the red, popular among coastal sports fishermen, weighed two pounds and 10 ounces contrasted with its four- to six-inch size when released in the Pecos two years ago. Marine Biologist Terry Leary of the Commission's Marine Laboratory staff at Rockport, who made the official spot mormon on the redfish, said it had at least two ounces of sheer fat. He described it as one of the finest redfish specimens he had ever seen.

Leary and his associates took careful measurements of the fish flown air express from Alpine to Corpus Christi and preserved in dry ice and determined that its stomach contained an almost wholly-digested small fish, probably either a pupfish or killifish, types of minnows which are common in the Pecos and which also occur in coastal waters where redfish feed. The Game and Fish Commission, in its efforts to expand and maintain good fishing for all parts of Texas, has been trying for several years to transplant redfish from the Gulf to the inland waters which are too saline, mainly from natural salts, for abundant fresh water species. The tests have been concentrated mainly in Lake Kemp in the Wichita Falls chain of lakes in Northwest Texas. Redfish fingerlings first were released in that lake and later adult brood fish were turned loose in the belief that stocking through natural reproduction processes would be most desirable.

HEADING HOME—Second baseman Mike Conway rounds third base and appears to be headed for home plate during the ninth inning of the Pampa Harvesters' game with Elk City here Friday. But Pampa's biggest chance for its only run was erased when centerfielder Jerry Reed caught John Lee's long fly to end the inning. Coach Deck Woldt is signalling Conway to hold at third. Reapers Win Dumas Track, Field Meet

A sweep of the discus event, the final event of the day, allowed Coach Norman Phillips' Pampa Junior High School Reapers to win the team championship of a four-way track and field meet at Dumas Friday. The Reapers wound up with 43½ points, one-half point better than the host Dumas team. Berger Junior High finished third with 40½ points and Dalhart had 16. Jackie Collins, Mert Cooper and Craig Winborn finished in one-two-three order in the discus to gain 12 points and nose out the Dumas squad, Pampa was 9½ points back of the runner-up squad before completion of the discus. Phillips Junior High was scheduled to compete but did not show up. Coach Phillips carried 19 boys to the quadrangular meet and 12 of them got in on the point making. Buddy Rawls had eight points by winning first in the shot put with a toss of 41 feet, four inches, he took third in the broad jump with a leap of 17 feet, nine inches and took fourth in the 440-yard dash. Anthony Looks To Patterson Title Contest

DETROIT (UP)—Tony Anthony, a former china-jawed middleweight who became a sensational light heavy in knocking out Chuck Spieser Friday night, today looked past his June 7 title fight with Archie Moore to Floyd Patterson. Anthony, a Harlem musician with a real smooth ring glide, surprised everybody — even himself — by shaking up top-ranked light-heavy Spieser in the first, putting him down and almost out in the second and cleanly kayoing the balding favorite in the third. A crowd of 8,851 paid $20,145 to watch the nationally televised fight. Archie Moore, 43, fat and fading in the deep twilight of a boxing career that has had a long afternoon, has already signed to meet the winner in the same Olympia Stadium ring June 7. How about heavyweight champ Patterson? "That's who we're after," said Ernie Braca, Anthony's manager.

Eight Places Left For Colonial Meet

DALLAS, April 6 (UP)—Only eight places remain to be filled in the field for the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament with the addition of Pete Cooper, Lakeland, Fla., as the 40th entry Saturday. The addition of Cooper completed the list of every 1957 PGA tour champion as a contestant in the select Colonial field for the May 2-5 tournament. Former Colonial champions will select two of the remaining eight berths, while the other six will be determined on winnings on the winter tour which concludes tomorrow with the final round of the Masters Tournament in Augusta, Ga.

Ball Players Should Speak Their Minds Says Robinson

GREEN LAKE, Wis., April 6 (UP)—Former Brooklyn Dodger Jackie Robinson said Saturday "ball players, like other people, should be allowed to 'speak their minds.'" He was asked if baseball players should restrict their public comment to baseball only. "No. They're like other people. If they have something on their minds, they should be permitted to say it," Robinson said in reference to the hubbub created by Ted Williams' recent blasts against the Marines, politicians and sports writers. Robinson said he couldn't "speak for Ted," but "I have an idea he was talking in confidence to a sports writer, as friend-to-friend, and didn't expect his comments would be printed." Robinson said the "situation was similar" when he made his much-publicized comment that the Milwaukee Braves lost the 1956 National League pennant because of too much nightclubbing. "I was talking with friends and some sports writers overheard my remarks and printed them," Robinson said. He said it was still his impression that too much "after hours" celebrating by some of the Braves regulars cost them the flag. In a speech, Robinson told a group of white and Negro white school students that his only "grudge" against the Braves was to "beat them."

Adenauer Is Making Political Comeback

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
 United Press Staff Correspondent

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany is making a big political comeback.

Only a few weeks ago the Social Democrats, the chief opposition to Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union, were confident they would throw him out in the parliamentary election to be held Sept. 15.

Now political experts in Bonn, the West German capital, are predicting an Adenauer victory.

The "old man" himself—he was 81 on Jan. 5—is mapping out a whistle-stop campaign in order to show West Germany's 35 million voters that, despite his age, he still is vigorous and able to lead his government for another four-year term.

He plans to cover the country in his special train, taking his big black Mercedes sedan on a flat car for detours, and make at least three or four speeches a day in addition to a series of big set speeches spaced through the campaign.

Adenauer Getting Stronger

It is interesting that Adenauer seems to be getting stronger while the leaders of the other three big governments in Western Europe—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain, Premier Guy Mollet of France and Premier Antonio Segni of Italy—all are in trouble over one issue or another.

Adenauer had succeeded in putting over an unpopular rearmament program including conscription. He was compelled to reduce the draft term from 18 months to one year. But the first batch of 9,733 draftees entered service Monday without incident and the draft is being accepted.

At the moment, on his way home after a state visit to Iran, Adenauer is preparing to enter important trade negotiations with Russia.

The Soviet government has long been eeking better relations with West Germany — on its own terms.

Though he reluctantly established diplomatic relations with Russia, Adenauer has not proved responsive to Russian gestures.

No Russian Talks

He has said publicly that he does not care to confer either with Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin or with Soviet Deputy Premier and Trade Minister Anastas I. Mikoyan, who also wants to visit Bonn.

Adenauer's reason for his coldness to the Russians is because the Soviet government will not agree to Germany's reunification. He is determined, too, to keep West Germany tied to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization un-

Weekly Stock Market Report

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL
 United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks scored one of the best gains of the year this week on increased volume. The rise added almost $1 billion to market valuations.

The gain in the industrial average was the biggest for any week of 1957. The rails had their best week since early January. Utilities at one time were at a new 26-year high.

All sections of the market finished near their highs for the week. Buying was stimulated by renewed talk of a possible tax cut early next year and assurances 1957 will be a good year for the less there is a revolutionary change in the European situation.

It is reported in Bonn that Adenauer is preparing to send a new communication on reunification to Moscow within the next few weeks.

Many issues reached strongly to individual corporate developments. Free Sulphur ran up 4% on news of a $100-million cobalt and nickel expansion program. Zenith soared 12 1/2 points to 113 1/2 on published reports the Federal Trade Commission probably will approve experimental pay-as-you-see television. Zenith has developed a pay-TV system.

Lukens Steel featured its group with a gain of 5 1/2 points. This advance was scored in the face of a 7 1/2-point loss on Thursday stemming from profit-taking following publication of a good earnings forecast and reports another extra dividend was being considered by directors.

The Dow-Jones weekly averages showed industrials 477.61, up 2.80 — the best weekly gain since Dec. 7, 1956; rails 145.44, up 1.39—the best gain since the week ended Jan. 4 this year; utilities 71.61, up 0.14, and 65 stocks 168.99, up 0.99 changed hands this week against the best gain since Jan. 4. 8,548,665 shares in the previous week. A total of 9,740,943 shares.

A Girl's-Eye View Of A Diamond Show

$100,000 Worth Of Girl's Best Friend On Display At Store Here

By DORIS WILSON
 Pampa News Women's Editor

Luckily, your reporter learned the touch system on the typewriter several years ago and thus does not have to look at the keys. This article would be most difficult to do, if that were not the case. For when I look down, the keys suddenly become sparkling diamonds, and as I look around the office, the desk telephone wire suddenly turns into a sparkling diamond necklace; the paste-pot is a brilliantly-cut solitaire, and the pen set changes into a diamond watch. Even the dull gray file cabinet in the corner suddenly becomes transformed with hundreds of pear-shaped diamonds encrusted with millions of tiny baguettes. A shake of the head does no good. The images are still there.

I've just returned to the office from a private showing of $100,000 worth of diamonds, which Zale Jewelry store will have on display during this week while they are celebrating their third-of-a-century birthday. Al Metz, store manager, was the gracious host during the hour-long discussion and his casual off-hand manner of quoting prices of the items, at times, almost had me convinced that I, too, could buy one of these precious gems. He would say, "This only $2,000" in the same tone as, "This is only $2.98."

Many, many beautiful, exquisite rings, pins, bracelets, etc., are in the two displays and, in spite of the two adjectives already used in this sentence, virtually defy description of their beauty and simplicity. And so many, too. For both men and women.

At one point I tried on a circlet diamond wedding ring made up of marquise and brilliant-cut diamonds encircling the band with open scroll effect. A mere $25.00, I mean, $2500. When the time came to remove the ring, it wouldn't come off. Twisting and turning, pulling and coaxing, it wouldn't budge. I thought sure I was going to have to wear that ring for the rest of my life, but, sad to say, eventually after a slight concentrated struggle, it slipped off easily.

In looking at these magnificent stones, it is hard to imagine that the search for their beauty begins hundreds of feet below the surface of the South African blue ground. And that it is from this dark beginning that a diamond begins its journey to seal some pledge of love.

Zale's will have on display, too, replicas of famous diamonds of the world, including The Grand Mogul, 279 carats; The Hope Diamond, 44 carats; The Kohinoor (old cut), 186 carats; The Kohinoor (new cut), 106 carats; The Pasha of Egypt, 49 carats; and the Jubilee Diamond, 239 carats.

Pampa's Woman Of The Year

BSP Presents Mrs. R. H. Nenstiel

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority proudly presents Mrs. R. H. Nenstiel as Pampa's Woman of the Year. This is the 12th annual award made by the Sorority. Mrs. Nenstiel was selected by Beta Sigma Phi from a list of 34 nominees submitted by 23 clubs.

Mrs. Nenstiel, who was born in Kansas, moved to Pampa from Amarillo in 1939. She and her husband, who is a CPA, reside at 1020 N. Russell. She is now serving as second vice president of the Presbyterian Women's Association and is on the Christian Education committee. This year, she is treasurer of the Community Concert Association and served in co-chairmanship with Mrs. Clifford Jones in the association's annual ticket drive.

She is a member and past president of the Pampa Art Club, which club was formed by a group of women, interested in handcraft and which met in the basement of the Nenstiel home. She is also a member of the Paint, Pot, Piddle Club.

Among the many activities, she has been interested in and worked for in the past are president of the Top o' Texas Girl Scout Council; president of the Parent Education Club; president of the United Council of Church Women. Mrs. Nenstiel holds an honorary associate membership of the national board of Christian Education presented to her by the Women's Association of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Nenstiel's family consists of two daughters, Mrs. John Ikard of Las Cruces, N. M. and Mrs. Don Smith of San Antonio; and three grandsons, Michael James and John Amzi, aged 2 years and six months, respectively, and Clinton Wyatt Smith, nine months.

Mr. and Mrs. Nenstiel enjoy square dancing and belong to the Heel and Toe Square Dance Club. Though she doesn't share her husband's avid interest in fishing, she accompanies him on the fishing trips to read or rest. Among the other activities they enjoy together is out-door cooking on their patio in the summer time, where Mr. Nenstiel reigns as supreme chef.

When asked what was one of the highlights of her life last year, Mrs. Nenstiel replied, "When my daughter, Donna, returned home last August from a year's stay in Germany, where her husband had been stationed." That was the year, too, that two new grandsons were added to the Nenstiel family circle.

The pictures on this page illustrate a portion of Mrs. Nenstiel's active and full life. The flowering peach of which she is so proud, and which in past years has not survived a freeze, but this year it has. Sassy, the Nenstiel's 8-year-old cocker, is much a part of the household and was much reluctant to be photographed. At her sewing machine, the Woman Of The Year does much of her sewing. The family circle shows, left to right, Mrs. Dan Smith holding Clint; Mrs. Nenstiel holding Johnny; Jim is standing, and Mrs. John Ikard.

Beta Sigma Phi is to be congratulated upon its selection of Mrs. Nenstiel, Ruth as she is known to her friends, as the 1957 Woman of the Year.

Peg O' Pampa

THIS HAS BEEN A WEEK of rather interesting things happening... it started with the television production of "Cinderella"... and went on to some suspense concerning the weather... was it or was it not going to storm terrifically again... then to the special election... and who was going to win both in Pampa and in the state... and was climaxed by the look-alike contest on the Gary Moore show Thursday and Friday mornings... wherein a very, very good double for Mr. Moore was found... also, and by no means least or necessarily last, WHO was to be the Woman of the Year... which we all know by now... but all in all it was a nice, quiet, yet not dull week, don't you think??

CONGRATULATIONS to the new city commissioners... Lynn Boyd new mayor, too... we thought their pictures were all very handsome in the News... Ed Myatt (who has such handsome black hair)... Jack Vaughn... R. K. Parsley... and imagine the difficulty of having to choose between Bob Olson and Glen Radcliff... what we need is another ward!

THAT CHAT which always sneaks in... is anyone keeping up with the fight about the nature, purposes, and techniques of poetry that is going on between John Ciardi and the readers of the SATURDAY REVIEW?... Mr. Ciardi is the new poetry editor and has some very definite views on the subject... a good rousing fight between a magazine editor and some of its readers is good fun... and along a literary vein... Wanda Campbell surely looked excited and lovely the evening of the book review-autograph party last Monday... and Johnny stood around beaming and trying not to burst with pride... at least that is the impression he gave us... noted Barbara Pittsberger and Mary Howell and Marcella Hudson and Betty Culley among those present... and Mrs. Martin Stubbe certainly did a fine job of introducing the guest of honor... along with Evelyn Nace and one of her fine reviews... we could smell the gorgeous red roses presented by Twentieth Century Cotillion to Wanda, all over the room... Beta Sigma Phi's floral compliment to Wanda was lovely, too... heard that Mrs. Snow had a wonderful time on her trip... went to New York... saw a play on Broadway... and has news of her son who is on the staff of LIFE Magazine... and who is doing a lot of writing... isn't Ann Price a beautiful, attractive Basketball Queen this year... with the announcement of this year's Woman of the Year, there is a round dozen of Pampa's finest women, of whom we are all proud... (to be continued).

ANOTHER outdaring thing to chat about... the recent Social held monthly at the Country Club... the committee for decoration really did themselves up proudly... from the cute little bird on the placard in the foyer that said "Lookee—Spring is Here" to the enchanting screens... it is absolutely incredible the things that can be done with an old wallpaper catalog... lemon leaves... and tree limbs and twigs... there were collages in 3-D on five or six panels... there were a rabbit and a tulip on one, with tree limbs to mark off little hills for the rabbits to sit on... the tulip was cut of red wallpaper in appropriate design... there was an old fashioned New England garden with all sorts of posies... clusters of roses and daisies, and butterflies swooping above... all of wallpaper cut-outs... and some panels were festooned with dogwood blossoms and ivy... the latter of lemon leaves... it was all simple and refreshing and shows what can be done with a little imagination and common ordinary things... there were even lemon leaves on the tables... the committee is certainly to be praised... Esther and Frank Culberson... Guilford and Edra Branson... George and Elizabeth Scott... Bonnie and Agnes Rose... and Eunice Pearson... hope everyone got to see these decorations.

CHAT THAT always sneaks in... (continued as promised)... forgot to mention when talking of Wanda Campbell that there will be autograph receptions also for her in Borger April 8 and in Amarillo, too, a review in April at the 1957 Writer's Roundup Conference... Heidi Schneider certainly did a good job as fashion moderator the other day at the Kit Kat Klub fashion show... the theme was cafe in Paris... the models did a very fine job... it takes some study and knowledge of how to walk, and so on to be a model, and these young girls are learning early... D'Anne Prince, Sandra Walsh... and Linda Steele... and Sara Gordon... and Joy Vanderburg... and Marcia Monahan... and Kay Baker... Carol Falkenstein... Judy Wells... and Linda Bullard were models... good fun for the girls and a "sight for sore eyes"... the annual Lions Club Minstrel show got off to a fine start... a lot of work has gone into it... some people we know are busy making costumes for the spring dance recitals... we'll hear more of this later... Celanese had a Bingo Party again recently... prizes donated... the big prize was an outdoor barbecue grill... some of the winners were the Roger Rasmussen... Marcella and Ray Hudson... Sophie Rasmussen... and Thelma Irwin, who has never won at Bingo... and was happy because she got within one place of winning... overheard by Peg's informing ear was a comment that the way to win is to have a large family... everyone gets a card... and the more children, the more cards... another affair that is a yearly occasion and quite an important one is the Catholic Women's Day of Recollection... beginning at 8:00 in the morning and ending at 2:00 p.m... some who participated were Miss Betty Lewis... Melba Wade... Pat O'Connor... Clara Dillman... Harriet McBride... Julia McKernan... Edwina Boyd... and Margaret Teichmann... some people Peg wishes she knew... are the John Hardy family... seems like they would be nice to know... they'll have a tough time bringing New England to the Panhandle... hope they don't get frustrated easily... that is, it will be tough unless the rains keep up... Mary Lynn Kinard certainly gives a very nice book review... have heard more than one that she has done, and enjoyed them all... how about those "S" sweaters that the Sub Deb Club members have... s-s-s-something to s-s-s-see... have heard that the Robert Jacksons... lately of Pampa and now of Baytown... have a simply marvelous home there that they designed and had built... it is in a thick wood... meaning that there are TREES around it... very modern and with terrazzo floors in kitchen and bath... and polished flagstone flooring in the den... just thought some of their friends would like to hear... have you seen all the fruit trees that are beginning to blossom out for Spring?

SO WE CLOSE the shop for another week... do go for a drive and see how spring is awakening the green all over town, and note the flowers in bloom... it is good for a winter-tired eye... we always have felt that one of the prettiest views in Pampa is that from the top of the hill on Ballard... overlooking the city park when the trees are just beginning to turn green in the spring or yellow in the fall... we have at times wanted to walk off the crest of the hill and onto the fluffy tops of those trees... and on this bit we take our leave for now... a slightly spring-fevered... Peg!

Mrs. Osborne with her daughters, Vicky and Sharon moved to Pampa in 1950. She has worked eleven years with the troop. In January Mrs. Osborne resigned from the council, but is still working as leader of her Troop 22 and served as cookie chairman for the council Mrs. Jane Kadango has been hired to replace Mrs. Osborne in the Girl Scout office.

YOU... and YOUR HOME by Jack Foster

FAMILY FUN ROOM

Is your home feeling the pressure of a growing family's activities? If so, try relieving the stress and strain by converting a little-used area into a family room.

This will provide an excellent spot for informal entertaining — both yours and your teenager's. It will give the youngsters in the household freedom to pursue hobbies, engage in indoor games and sports without the worry of ruining the rugs in the house proper and marring the furniture. A family room should offer freedom from worry for the whole family. Sturdy pine and/or cherry furniture that can take a lot of good hard use, and mellow with the inevitable scratches, is an excellent choice for this kind of room.

It's hard to believe that the cozy family room in the above sketch was once an unused portion of the basement, isn't it? Natural wood walls and the warm organic tones of the brick fireplace form the basis for the room's color scheme. Red tile floor is colorful and easily kept clean. Maple and cherry furniture was chosen for its fitness to the room's style and function, and for its determined resistance to hard wear.

When planning a family room, it is quite often imperative that it serve as a dual purpose room; a combination guest bedroom and family fun room, for instance. For ideas and advice on easy ways to do this, come in and talk over your plans with one of our trained decorators. Anytime.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
 During Cubby's convalescence from measles, his mother read him to sleep every night.

It was a pleasure. Cubby had been quite ill. He'd lost weight. She was so grateful to him for ridding himself of measles that she was only too glad to reread him "The Wizard of Oz." Indeed the first day he ate all his lamb chop, she was so grateful that she bought "The Tin Woodman of Oz" — and began to read him that.

But enough was enough. One night after reading him three chapters from "The Tin Woodman," she had to say, "No — that's all. I can't read any more now. I have to go downstairs and get my dishes done."

With bitter accusation, Cubby corrected her. "You don't have to go," he said. "You just want to go!"

After a moment, she leaned down and kissed him. "Yes, that is true," she told him. "You are right. I just don't have to go downstairs — I want to. I want to get my work done. I want to be with Daddy and read a book of my own. So that's what I'm going to do. Good night, darling."

After a child's illness, there always comes the moment when we want to be done with the intense closeness his weakness has developed between us.

If we love him, we'll freely admit the wish.

He will protest. He'll imagine that he wants us to continue serving his every want. He'll believe that he wants to perpetuate the invalid's special privileges and retain his use of our eyes, our limbs, our energies.

But this is only skin-deep truth. The deep truth is that Cubby's returning health wants him to withdraw its dependence on ours. When we declare our own healthy wish to resume our own life again, our child is deeply invigorated.

Underneath his apparent displeasure is the feeling, "O.K. If she wants to do things without me again, I can do them myself without her!"

Sometimes mothers ignore their own wholesome resistance to the nurse's let-me-do-everything-for-you role.

Treble Clef Club Holds Discussion On Impressionism In Modern Music

The Treble Clef Club held its regular meeting April 2 in the City Club Room. The business session was led by Mrs. John Gill, president.

The piano recital to be given by Miss June Guili, senior at North Texas State College, Denton, was discussed. The recital is to be held this afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Junior High Auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

The program leader for the evening was Mrs. W. M. Cooper, who presented the study topic, "Looking Forward . . . Impressionism and the Twentieth Century Renaissance."

During the discussion, it was brought out that "impressionism" as developed by Claude Debussy was one of the strangest factors in the creation of a different mode of thought in music. Impressionism in music is a style of composition designed to create descriptive impressions by creating moods. In England, Cyril Scott was one of the first impressionists. He might be called a mystic impressionist, being a serious student of Eastern mysticism, which perhaps accounts for a peculiar esotericism in his work. To illustrate this, Mrs. Bob

Banks played "Lotus Land" by Scott.

The first American Impressionist is John Alden Carpenter of Chicago. He was distinctly influenced by French impressionism and yet he exhibited an individuality, a refinement of technique and maturity of style. This was demonstrated in "The Sleep That Flits on Baby's Eyes" by Carpenter, as sung by Mrs. Mack Hiatt Jr., accompanied by Miss Eloise Lane. Mrs. Hiatt also sang "Legend" by Tschakowsky.

To conclude the program Mrs. E. B. Alleman played "Toccato" by the American composer, Knautnaturan.

Refreshments of coffee, tea, and cookies were served from a table covered with an arrangement of yellow spring flowers. Hostesses were Meses. Floyd Hatcher and Ellen Shippe.

The Southwest's fastest growing standard metropolitan area during the decade 1940-1950 was Albuquerque, New Mexico, which showed a population growth during this ten-year period of 109.9 per cent.

Miss Beatrice Hicks

Jones, 4505 North 10th Street, Phoenix, Ariz., formerly of Pampa, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Beatrice Ora Hicks to Bill Reid McNutt, Houston, Tex. Miss Hicks was graduated from Pampa High School. She received her Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts Degrees from the Arizona State University and is now teaching at Loma Linda School in Phoenix. Miss Hicks is the niece of Mrs. Norman Walberg, Pampa. Mr. McNutt was also graduated from Pampa High School and served in the United States Medical Department during World War II. He attended West Texas State College and University of Texas, School of Radiology. He is at present employed at the Veterans Hospital in Houston.

In 1950, a little more than 15 per cent of the inhabitants of the Southwest were Negroes. In the U.S. as a whole, Negroes made up 10 per cent of the population.

Foreign Aid Fallacy

We should like to pay tribute to a man of whom we had never heard until today. He is H. W. Balgooyen, executive vice-president of the American and Foreign Power Co., Inc. Mr. Balgooyen has come to our attention simply because he appeared at the Greenbrier conference January of this year and uttered some homely truths before a government committee which is purportedly investigating the merits or demerits of American foreign aid.

In all this discussion of the future role of economic aid in our foreign policy, little efforts seem to have been made to find out whether a multi-million dollar program of foreign aid, stretching out into the indefinite future, really is in our national interest, or even in the long-term interest of the recipients. It seems that it is perfectly legitimate to discuss the dimension of our aid programs, so long as we don't try to reduce them; the beneficiaries of the programs, so long as we don't raise questions as to their politics or performance; and the methods of providing aid, so long as we don't injure the finer sensibilities of the recipients. But to go beyond these customary bounds is to invite castigation as a heretic, a reactionary or, worse yet, an isolationist. Now, I don't believe that I am any of those things; yet, I sincerely believe that the time has come for the American people and their government to make a completely realistic and unbiased appraisal of foreign economic aid, in the light of past experience and the present world situation, and ask some questions which go to the very core of the philosophy on which our aid programs are based.

Our country has been in the foreign aid business, officially, for more than a decade. Originally conceived as an emergency program of post-war relief and reconstruction, foreign aid has persisted, with bipartisan support, long after the termination of the emergency which brought it into being. Now, after the expenditure of more than $55 billion, with both our erstwhile friends and enemies—some of whom have changed categories in the meantime—all rehabilitated and reconstructed to the point where they "never had it so good", foreign aid still continues with different beneficiaries but the same donor, and seems well on its way to becoming a permanent feature of our foreign policy.

At this point Mr. Balgooyen with considerable logic raises a whole series of pertinent points, which to us is summed up in this paragraph: "No doubt, this will mark me as a red heretic, but I believe it would be worth while to re-examine one of the major premises underlying the whole argument for our foreign economic aid programs—namely, that people lacking in material wealth are peculiarly susceptible to communism; or the corollary that economic aid in the form of gifts or grants will build up their resistance against communist subversion. I have never seen satisfactory evidence to support this belief. It hasn't been true in our own country nor is it generally true in other parts of the world. Where do we find the majority of our home-grown communists? Do we find them in the poverty-stricken, under-developed areas of Arkansas or Alabama or in the prosperous and highly industrialized cities of New York and California? Are there more communists in the under-developed regions of India, Italy or rural France or in the industrialized cities of these countries? Why is there so little communism in a poor country like Ireland and so much in a comparatively rich country like France? And, why are the masters of the Kremlin so interested in industrialization if that mainspring of economic development will check communism, when planned and directed by the state? It seems that the communists are only too well aware that too rapid or forced industrialization, in a cultural environment which is poorly prepared for it psychologically, provides a most fertile ground for mass subversion by agents of a materialistic philosophy that thrives so well in an environment of spiritual confusion and social change."

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

A correspondent asks for a discussion of what he calls "multiple neuritis." This is not much to go on, but I imagine it refers to polyneuritis, which is most commonly (but not always) the result of long and excessive use of alcoholic beverages. "Essentially, polyneuritis means inflammation and pain in several nerves, though the symptoms from such inflammation do vary from person to person. In general, however, the portions of the body supplied by the affected nerves show muscular weakness, wasting of the muscle, change in the sensations of the muscles, pain, tenderness and often changes in the sensations or feelings of the areas involved. The amount of pain present can be severe or mild. Sometimes interference with sensation is so great that a pin can be stuck deeply into the skin without being felt at all.

"WHEN ALCOHOL is considered responsible, it is somewhat uncertain as to whether the polyneuritis is the result of too much alcohol or the insufficient consumption of normal foods which so often accompanies the life pattern of the chronic alcoholic. In addition to alcohol there are several other possible causes for polyneuritis. Most of the heavy metals such as lead, mercury, bismuth and arsenic can also produce polyneuritis. It occurs also in certain deficiency diseases, particularly beriberi, which is the result of a deficiency of some of the vitamin B elements.

Foreign Aid Prolonging Socialistic Governments

I want to reproduce an article appearing in the March "The Freeman" magazine. It is condensed from a booklet of the Womancet Co., Nashua, New Hampshire, November 1956. The article is headed "Management Shakeup in the Satellite."

I believe the author of the article clearly demonstrates how we are supporting communism rather than promoting the American way of life by sending money to satellites of the Russian and Chinese governments. It is one of the most rational presentations I have had the opportunity to read. From here on I am quoting:

"It is far from clear that the American press and even the American State Department have correctly interpreted the upheavals among the Russian satellite nations, Poland, Hungary, and East Germany, or the seething inside Russia itself.

"For instance, too many spokesmen and writers seem to imagine that a stepped-up program for American economic aid will soon bring about the final defeat of the communists. We doubt that it could be more probable that such aid actually may prolong the life of the communist experiment.

"This is precisely what has already happened in the case of Tito and Yugoslavia. We supplied aid in substantial amount when it first appeared that Tito had turned anti-communist. That aid has made Tito appear 'good' within Yugoslavia for some years; without it he would have been able to stay in power. Nonetheless, Tito continued to operate a communistic economy, whatever his apparent attitude toward the former Russian government of Yugoslavia and toward the Russian government in Moscow. The hold of communism upon that country never weakened one iota; the thing which did weaken was Russian management of state socialism and state capitalism, to be replaced by local management headed by Tito.

"In this instance, our press and our government officials initially jumped to the same conclusion as they appear to have done currently in the case of Poland and Hungary and East Germany. They supplied economic aid with the result that Tito was made to look highly effective to his people and a veritable champion of anticommunism. As it now turns out, he was nothing of the sort. He was and he still is a socialistic dictator along strictly communist lines, regardless of any nationalistic freedom of action he may have achieved vis-a-vis Russia.

"American Aid Conceals Failure "Now here we go again if the American pseudo-liberals have their way. Economic aid is their watchword, their cure-all for the communist cancer, and their one way to restoration of economic freedom and private enterprise. We think they are lacking in discernment; they fail to grasp the fact that it is satellite loss of confidence in Russian economic management, not loss of confidence in state socialism, which has occurred abroad.

"In brief, the Russians who have been in charge of economic affairs in the satellite countries have made a mess of things. And the struggle now going on is simply the result of an attempt to replace the Russian managers with local planners who think they can run a socialistic state better. The more economic aid we supply, the more it can be made to look as if they are right, that a communistic state capitalism is a good system providing you know how to operate it. The Russians don't; we do."

"For us, a good five-year plan would be to let them try it for that long without any American economic and military aid whatsoever. That ought to settle the matter of which system is best for them, state socialism or private, competitive enterprise. If they succeed, they will not need our economic aid; if they fail, then the reason will be clear everywhere, here included.

"The Management Problem" "Of course, some will say, as they have declared for years, that communism—state-capitalism—needs only such a chance to demonstrate its superiority over private, competitive capitalism; and that a real success would mean communism all over the world with the downfall of the American system.

"These people can have precious little understanding of what makes the American economy tick and how it works. They are ignorant of the problems that face the economic planners and 'managing bureaucrats' of a communistic system, Russian or Polish or Hungarian or other. These problems are extremely simple ones, extremely real and extremely urgent. And for a state capitalism, there is no ducking them.

"To what state-management do to take care of an additional twenty-five to thirty million more bodies to feed, clothe, and house every ten years?" "This is an inescapable problem of the Russian managers of a communistic economy. The population of Russia and its Eastern European satellites is growing at a rate of 1.5 per cent to 2 per cent a year, compounded, and the managers cannot stop it.

"So, immediately and continuously the management is confronted with the imperative necessity to lift food production and distribution, clothing production, housing construction, and all the rest by at least the same yearly rate. Otherwise, the already low per capita average level of living will decline. There is plenty of evidence, direct and circumstantial,

The Foolishness Of Foreign Aid

By Thurman Sensing

It probably constitutes a certain amount of brahminism to deny that foreign aid should be continued, when the Administration says it must be continued and when all the "official" committee reports to the White House and to Congress in effect say the same thing. Nevertheless, we do deny it—and we sincerely believe that if its continuance were put to a vote of the people, it would lose overwhelmingly. Sometimes the consensus of opinion of all the people contains more wisdom than the combined opinion of a comparatively small number of their so-called leaders—regardless of how difficult it may be for these "leaders" to swallow that fact.

There is only space here to mention a few of the reasons why it is to be believed that continuance of our foreign aid program is entirely foolish. In the first place, there is an enormously heavy burden that has been placed on our economy over the years and the very heavy drain it continues to constitute upon the American taxpayer's pocketbook. This might be considered a selfish reason—but it is still quite true that the quickest way to destroy freedom in this country is by undermining our economy. Our economy can very easily be destroyed by continuously spreading thin our resources and by taxing so heavily that it destroys all incentive for growth and initiative.

Since the beginning of World War I, we have dolled out in one form or another a total amount of $115 billion, in foreign aid. Of this amount, $60 billion has been handed out since the end of World War II—and it is this amount which should receive the greatest attention, because it is this amount for which there was the least need. Even so, it is now proposed, and the Congress will vote on it before long, to continue this aid at the rate of about $8 billion per year. Of course, you cannot hand out $80 billion without the people who receive it having been benefited for the time being. But that is the sad part about it—it is only for the time being. Who can say that it stopped now—or stopped at any time—it will have benefited those people over the "long run"? Who can even say that this aid has not actually harmed these people more than it has helped them?

Actually, there are some serious underlying fallacies that doom this philosophy of foreign aid that whole it to failure. In the first place, you cannot out-friend your friends. They may seem to be so long as the gifts keep coming—but just let the gifts stop and the donor will soon find out how many friends he has.

To disclose that the Russian managers have not been able to do enough to keep up with population growth. "Even the Russians admit that they have notably failed to meet the problem of food production and distribution. What our own planners seem never to realize is that this problem, because of rapid population growth, becomes ever more serious and will one day result in a political revolt against Russian economic management of satellite countries."

McClellan Expose Shows Senate At Investigating Best

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON.—The McClellan expose of certain union officers' financial irresponsibility shows the United States Senate at its investigating best. It stands in sharp and constructive contrast to Senator Joseph McCarthy's demagogic investigation of the Army. It was a needed antidote in these days when democratic government is under Communist attack.

Chairman John L. McClellan has treated witnesses fairly and courteously, even when the Arkansas Puritan's expressive countenance and dry comment mirrored his disgust with the Beck-Brewster misuse of union membership funds, and with Beck's retreat to the refuge of the Fifth Amendment.

Unlike the McCarthy fiasco, Senator McClellan and his counsel, the able and attractive Robert F. Kennedy, spent months in the preparation of their case against union officers alleged to be guilty of mismanagement. Instead of vague charges and groundless suspicions, their questions are based on solid evidence obtained during months of painstaking research and investigation.

In fact, before dragging the principal actors on the stage, they have given them private, prehearing opportunities to explain their apparent misdeeds. The only exception, due to his flight to Miami and Europe, was Dave Beck himself.

McClellan has conducted himself and the hearing in the tradition of the Senate's most illustrious inquisitors. They included Carter (Class of Virginia banking); Tom Wash of Montana (Teapot Dome); Burton K. Wheeler of Montana (Harry Daugherty); Jim Reed of Missouri (crooked elections); Hiram Johnson of California (foreign loans); Hugo Black of Alabama (private utilities); Thaddeus Caraway of Arkansas (lobbying); Duncan Fletcher of Florida (Wall Street). The writer covered all but one of these inquiries as a reporter.

Although only 31 years old, Lawyer Kennedy has shown himself to be a worthy successor of such Congressionally appointed counsel as Samuel Untermyer (the 1914 Pugo investigation); Ferdinand Pecora (the 1933 expose of Wall Street); and Joseph Welch, the shrewd and philosophic Bostonian, who became McCarthy's gentle gadfly. Like their distinguished predecessors, Senator McClellan and Counsel Kennedy keep in mind that the basic purpose of Congressional investigations is to reveal the need of remedial legislation. All the inquiries listed above had this healthy effect, ranging from founding of the Federal Reserve System to creation of the Securities and Exchange Commission to watchdog Wall Street and to safeguard investors.

Several inquiries, although only as a collateral consequence, have exposed and penalized corrupt officials. Two Cabinet members—Albert B. Fall and Harry Daugherty—fell from grace in the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills affairs. Others have been driven from public office because of revealed stupidity.

As Senator McClellan has hinted, this investigation already shows the need of new legislation. It will be designed to force union officials to live up to responsibilities commensurate with the gains which have been granted them through the law's liberalization in the last quarter of a century.

It will be designed also to free laboring men and their families from being cheated by a few shabby bosses with a litch for personal profit, including a $160,000 villa on lovely Lake Washington, $12-a-day suits at hostesseries on the Miami waterfront and five dozen diamonds.

The plots of fifteen year old films one sees on television are often pretty good. But the actresses, clad in the fashions of yesterday, are apt to look like last year's bird nests. Few movie fans realize the importance of Hollywood's dress designers in keeping the screen a fresh and vivid thing.

I can remember when a "woman's picture" was one in which Gloria Swanson appeared in gowns that looked like gaudy elephant blankets with Christmas tree ornaments hanging from her ears. A few peeps at lingerie were supposed to supply the male appeal. How different all this is from "Designing Woman," a new film developed from a story idea that was created by screen couturier Helen Rose. It's full of smart styles, but it's really a man's picture centering on how Greg Peck is driven practically daffy by the appeal of Lauren Bacall. But the clothes Lauren wears all have dramatic as well as style value. They further the story and, except for a few splashy numbers strutted by models at a fashion show, they are all garments that a career woman could actually work in and afford.

L'ess creators like Helen have focused the eyes of the world's femininity on Hollywood and have benefited many American industries beside the studios.

Americans Are Not At All What The Author Susposes

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME.—When I am asked what is my favorite city in Europe I always answer Rome, and when I am asked why, I never know exactly what to answer because my liking for Rome is based on a thousand and one little things.

Individually, my reasons aren't very impressive.

To say that you like Rome because—well, because you like the idea of a fish peddler in the Tasterve section singing an aria while he holds a trout by the tail over his head isn't a very substantial reason.

But it is a reason for my preference for Rome. I like the idea of a city that can produce fish peddlers who do such things.

I also like a city that is inhabited by people who aren't dismayed at all when you catch them brazenly cheating you, but who only laugh and shrug as if to say, "My bad luck." In other cities they try to cheat you, but they have no light-heartedness about their light-fingeredness.

I like the way Romans feel about their city. Londoners, New Yorkers and Parisians seem to feel that they are the city, that they make it what it is. The Romans are just the opposite, or appear to be. They give the impression that the city makes them what they are; that it is the mold and they are the products.

Rome is just Rome, that's all.

I wouldn't be surprised if that is so, since a lot of people act pretty much the same way. Start them off on some line, and they'll keep right on following it, regardless of where it leads them. Only when they bump into a stone wall or fall into a swamp do they wake up to the realization that they might have done better to have looked where they were going.

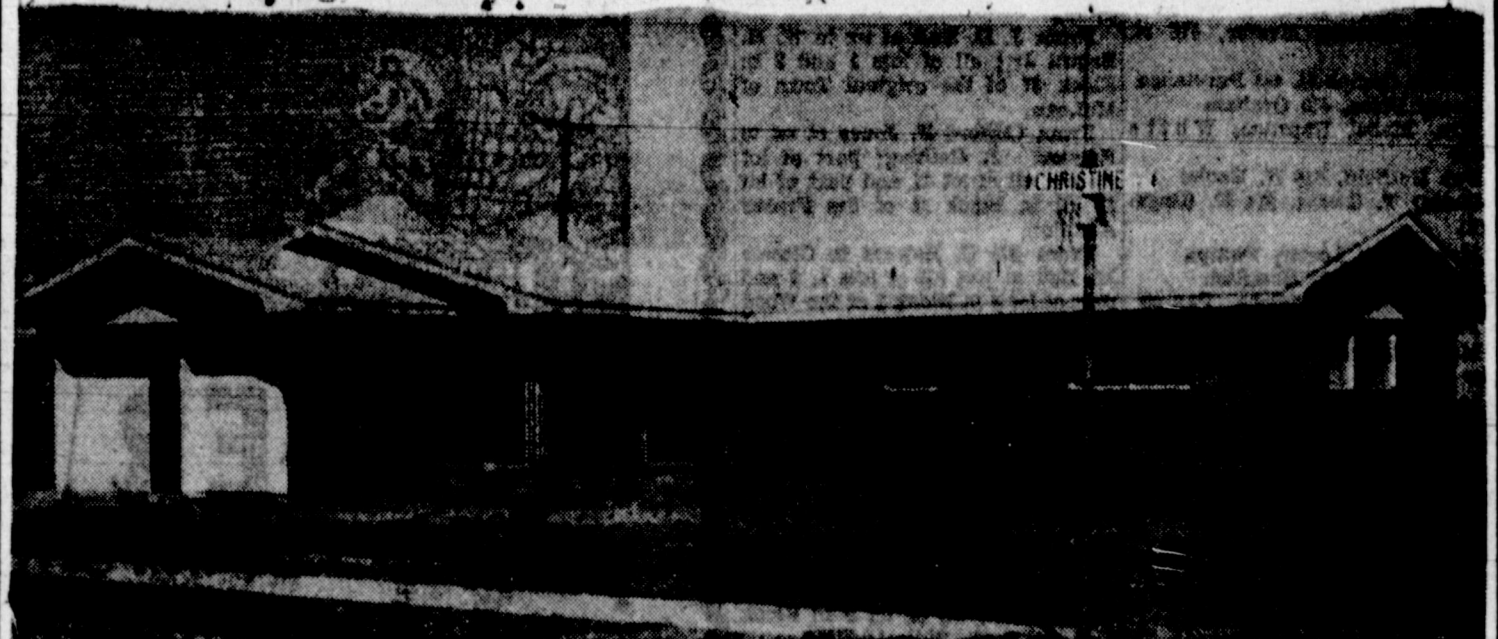

This is why it is so important for people to get started on the right road early in life. After they reach maturity they seldom change.

The collectivists know this—and have acted consistently upon it. Dr. Harry F. Ward, deliriously entered the clergy and became a theology professor at Columbia University in order to indoctrinate young preachers with this Communist doctrine. And many of these preachers, having had their noses put on the collectivists' line in their youth, are still following it.
