HONG KONG (UPI) - China has made the biggest shakeup of its military command in more than five years, it was disclosed today.

But the posts of defense minister and chief of the general staff, vacant since September, 1971, apparently are still unfilled.

The military shakeup, which mainly involved transfers of powerful regional commanders. was disclosed in a routine dispatch of the official New China News Agency (NCNA) on attendance of top military men at New Year's Day functions in Peking and provincial cities where major military commands are headquartered.

The most important man involved in the transfers was Li Teh-sheng, who was elected one of five vice chairmen of the party at its 10th National People's Congress (NPC) last August

He was identified as "Commander of the Shengyang Units of the People's Liberation Army (PLA). Previously, he was the army's top political commissar and chief of the Anhwei Military District

Province, is the headquarters for what probably is the most important of all the military regions at present. This is in the northeast, where the largest concentration of combat troops is located and where the most serious border clashes with the Soviet Union have occurred.

Chen Hsi-lien, a politburo member who had been commander of the Shenyang region since November, 1959, was identified as being in command of the Peking Region.

Hsu Shih-yu, a man often mentioned as a possible successor to the late Lin Piao as defense minister was transferred from the Nanking Military Region, a post he had held for almost 20 years. His new command was the Canton Military Region in South China In addition to being a member of the politburo. Hsu also has been a vice minister of defense since 1959.

By CLAY LIVELY A resolution granting a $3.000 tax exemption for Gray County residents over 65 years of age was approved yesterday by county commissioners meeting in a morning session at the Courthouse.

That ruling makes individual members of the court liable if they sell bonds (which make up the country permanent school fund) for less than what they paid for them.

Cain expressed doubt that the bonds in the permanent school fund can be sold except at a. discount

His statements regarding the matter also indicated a misunderstanding between the court and the school board on what is meant by county available funds (which are what the district briginally wanted diplomats close to the Middle East peace talks said today they believe the shift toward a more hawkish right-wing group in Israel's elections will not seriously hinder the Israeli-Egyptian troop separation negotiations.

Official Israeli sources said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was flying to Washington later this week to meet Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Pentagon officials on the troop disengagement negotiations and Egyptian demands for a unilateral Israeli withdrawal.

Cairo dispatches said Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi will visit the Soviet Union around the middle of. January for talks on the Middle East crisis and on Egyptian-Soviet relations. Extremists Open Year In Violence BELFAST (UPI) - Protestant and Roman Catholic extremists ignored a peace appeal from Northern Ireland's newcoalition government Tuesday and opened 1974 with a bloody spate of bomb and bullet attacks.

At least one person was killed and two others wounded in violence blamed on the Irish Republican Army (IRA) and militant Protestant groups.

"It's been a grim start to the new year." an army spokesman said. 'There are ominous sims that added to the expected IRA new year offensive, Protestant groups have also been getting in on the act."

The power-sharing coalition government, which took over nternal rule of Ulster from the British government, opened the new year with arrappeal for an end to four years of death and destruction.

"Let 1974 be the year of reconciliation." it said in a statement. "In the name of the community, which has suffered so much, we call upon those organizations which have been pursuing political ends by violent means to stop the killing.

The appeal went unheeded. A 24-year-old Roman Catholic became the province's first fatality of 1974 when a sniper shot him in the head early Tuesday morning, police said.

Last year, 250 persons died in the province. Since August, 1969. 930 persons have died in strife among majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and British troops.

Gunmen wounded two soldiers on patrol in a Catholic army spokesman said. The soldiers were hit by a burst of five rifle shots, but were not seriously hurt.

Bombers blew up a portion of Belfast's main shopping center late Tuesday and a bomb demolished a pub on the Protestant side of the Crumlin Road in Belfast, police said. There were no injuries.

The Missouri Pacific train chugged off toward St. Louis before sunrise with 45 of the original 125 passengers still aboard. About 60 others had gone to St. Louis in two buses. A few moved into a station during the night where the Salvation Army provided food and coffee, and five adults and a child bedded down for the night at St. Peter's Convent

The train originally stalled near Syracuse, Mo., when one of its two engines broke down. After a few more miles the second engine gave out. Heat failed and passengers paced the aisles to keep warm.

Skylab Astros Grumbling About Bad Smelling Soap "It's very unpleasant stuff to it." he said.

HOUSTON (UPI) - Skylab 3 Commander Gerald P. Carr and the other two astronauts today had to take their weekly showers and the experience brought up one of the few chronic grumbles about the lengthy mission. Astronauts Carr, Edward G.

Gibson and William R. Pogue were taking today off and each was given time for a weekly shower in the first device of its kind ever flown in space. Carr's gripe was not about having to bathe - which "we do whether we need it or not"- but about the soap provided. He thinks the family dog might like it a lot more. "I find the shower to be very very satisfying. he said recently, "although I think the soap is lousy. There's got to be a better way than to give us stuff that smells like dog shampoo. I just don't think that was real-

AFTER ISRAELI ELECTIONS Weakened Labor Party Faces Coalition Trouble

TR'L AVIV (UPI) - Prime Minister Golda Meir's Labor party, weakened in national elections, ran into trouble today in its search for coalition partners agreeable to a compromise peace with the Arabs.

The National Religious party. the major partner in Labor's old coalition government, adopted a hard-line position on negotiating a return of occupied territories to the Arabs at the Geneva peace talks.

Dr. Yitzhak Raphael, the religious party s parliamentary leader, said he was opposed to giving back Jordan's west bank region, seized by Israel during the 1967 Middle East war.

"We are firm in our determination not to give in on Judea and Samaria (the west bank), but this does not constitute a contradiction of our support of the government's effort at the peace talks in Geneva, Raphael said.

Computer projections of last Monday's election showed Mrs. Meir strong enough to form a new coalition, but political analysts said Labor might have to harden its peace terms to get political partners.

With all but one of 4,100 civilian precincts reporting. returns showed Labor capturing 39.9 per cent of the vote compared to 27.4 per cent for Menahem Begin's centerright Likud bloc

Election officials said computers indicated Labor would lose at least six of its 57 seats in the Knesset (parliament) while Likud would gain six for a total of 38. The National Religious party dropped one seat to 11.

Labor and its new coalition partners will need a total of 61 seats to control the 120-member Knesset and form a new government. Israel, with a tradition of many political parties, has always been governed by coalitions.

Avraham Yadlin, Labor's secretary general, predicted difficult bargaining in coalition talks with the religious party as well as Mrs. Meir's other major partner, the Independent Liberal party, which won four seats.

"It could take some weeks before there will be a new overnment, 'Yadlin said.

The Labor setbacks indicated a increasing dissatisfaction of Israelis with the government's handling of October's 17-day Middle East war and the peace talks in Geneva. Likud leaders had accused the government of being unprepared for the war and willing to make too many concessions to the Arabs in

'Downed Plane' Report Blamed On Flare Light

What appeared to be an airplane falling to earth was seen last night by a Pampa policeman on patrol in the north part of the city.

The patrolman reported seeing lights in a symmetrical pattern descending north of the city and alerted other units of the Pampa police and the sheriff's department around 6:30 p.m. Reports from other city residents who saw the lights were also received by the police department and for several hours a search for the source was conducted. About 10 p.m. Rocky Hills. who lives north of town, called the police and told them he had heard reports of the lights on the radio and thought he could help clarify the situation. A military flare which he had set off near his house was determined to be the cause of the lights and the subsequent

DEAR ABBY: I am 35 years old, and am being married for the first time. My flance is 45, and this will be his second marriage. My flance's father has been in a convalescent home for four years and his mother doesn't want any kind of wedding at all.

My mother is a widow and I am an only child, and we want something we can remember. It wouldn't be a big, wild celebration, but I would like my relatives there, plus a few friends, totaling about 50 or 60. My flance's mother said she doesn't think we should have any music at all. Abby, her husband is still living, altho he is partially paralyzed from a stroke, and I don't see why music would be objectionable. I can't imagine a wedding with no music at

Also, his mother said she doesn't want to get "all dressed up" because she is not in a celebrating mood.

Finally, she said if we really want to make her happy we should ask the rabbi to come to her husband's bedsid and perform the ceremony there, with only the witnesses!

Please, please, tell me how to deal with her Abby. She is making what should be the happiest day of my life the IN TEARS IN L. Ass

DEAR ABBY: While sitting under the hair dryer in a beauty parlor, a lady seated next to me lit a cigaret. I turned to her and politely said: "Please don't smoke near me, it makes me nauseous.' She replied in a snippy tone: "This is a public place, and I don't see any 'No Smoking' signs anywhere, so if my smoke bothers you, why don't YOU move?" I then said: "I think it's YOUR place to move since you are the one who is causing the problem, but I've been taught to respect my elders; so I will move." With that I moved, but I noticed that she immediately went to the desk

COLLEGE STATION - The red - meat situation isn't changing much, according to Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt.

Boston butt roasts, pork steaks, liver and semi - boneless hams deserve consideration. Other features include center. rib and loin - end chops. For less expensive chops, consider the quarter - loin. Beef prices also remain

You are so right! That mandarin orange cake is out of this world. Thanks a bushel for passing it on to us. I've made it twice already, and can't believe it is so simple to make. Now here is a recipe for "purple lady salad.' I think it is scrum-luscious.

Pampa, Texas

Dissolve 1 large package (6 ounces) red raspberry gelatin in I cup hot water. Stir to dissolve, then add a 1-pound can of blueberries (with syrup) and I small can crushed pineapple, not drained. Refrigerate until almost set. Then add 1 cup finely chopped pecans and 14 pint cream, whipped. (One of the prepared whipped toppings can be used but the real cream makes such a difference that I always whip my own.) Refrigerate until serving time.

This makes a lot and refrigerates well. I got the recipe from my sister, and it's so good I pass it along every chance I get. Mrs. Walter B. Allen, Knoxville, Tenn.

Thanks for passing it our way and also for the testimonial on the mandarin orange cake. It was the last recipe I tested before copy deadline for my new book. One bite and I knew that recipe just had to be included even if it meant omitting something else. When I was doing an autograph party at a book store, one of the clerks said she had attended three different social occasions what week and every hostess served that cake. That recipe has created more comment than any others I have given for

One reader wrote, "The cake is delicious but mine was quite dark. What did I do wrong? Nothing. The amount of sugar called for in comparison to other ingredients has a caramelizing effect. One thing I should have mentioned for high altitude cooks: most likely you will have to cut the amount of baking soda called for to about 11/2 teaspoons, perhaps even 11/4 teaspoons depending on where you live. The higher you go the greater the adjustment. It also helps if you keep eggs refrigerated until right ready to break into the bowl to cut down on volume.

Back to salads - I found my Biltmore salad dressing jar all but empty with no time to make more, so I whipped up a quick one that turned out fine. I used two-thirds cup oil, one-third cup vinegar, a good teaspoon of Italian herb seasoning, a few dried onion chips and a good dash of celery salt plus a little sugar. With a few shakes it was realy for our tossed salad You'll find that Italian bottled seasoning at spice sections in most stores. Salads are always refreshing in this winter season, so spruce up your meals with them. For a variety of ideas, send for Simply Super Salads." Was This 'Crisis' Really Necessary?

Watergate has finally been replaced as a topic of conversation. Now the subject of discussion is the energy crisis. Everybody's talking

Most of the talkers, regarding the dilemma as temporary, are enjoying themselves. City dwellers smugly opine that surburbanites are so dependent on the automobile that they've forgotten how to walk. Volkswagen-owners (many of recent vintage) point their righteous fingers at motorists whose cars gobble gas. Sailors and landlubbers agree that power boats must be grounded We make such spartan decisions as not to drive 350 miles to visit Uncle Ben and Aunt Minnie in Dallas, And really, isn't it fun to turn down the thermostat and grumble about the Arabs?

Unfortunately, the belts have not begun to tighten, and the crisis is just beginning. The Plight and the Hope England, the country that has provided so many insights into liberty, is going through an interesting period. Its experiment in national socialism is approaching a zenith, and the reaction of the leadership provides a fascinating case study. The English prescription for the socialist economic blahs has consistently been more socialism; that is, more controls. At the present time, the socialist leadership has cut back anglish factories to three days of operation per week. This cutback in economic activity is somehow calculated to put the country's production back on a profitable basis.

We have here an example. classic in dimension, of the socialist mind's incapacity to function outside the socialist framework. If the country is failing, then the obvious diagnosis is that previously established controls are not working as they were supposed to. The cure for that usually is to make the controls stronger. Such is the logic.

I'm told the Department has been surveying and surveilling the former labor leader to determine whether he has violated President Nixon's ban on "direct or indirect" union activity. Then it can decide whether to return Hoffa to Lewisburg penitentiary immediately.

In recent months, Hoffa has crisscrossed the country speaking to, or with, teamsters in Pennsylvania, New Jersey. New York, Massachusetts, Detroit and points west.

In 1971, when Mr. Nixon commuted Hoffa's combined consecutive 13-year sentence, the President stipulated that Hoffa not engage in management of any labor organization prior to March 6. 1980. And if Hoffa defies the President, 'this commutation will be nul Pand void in its entirety and the said James R. There's No Use Trying To Predict The Weather

By PAUL HARVEY

At the risk of second guessing our team's professional weatherman, Paul the prophet herewith products that tomorrow will be too hot or too cold or too wet or too dry wherever you are.

World weather-watchers, with an assist from our Skylab crew, have revised their long range forecast

An International Conference on Radiation and Remote Probing of the Atmosphere drew a hundred scientists from 50 nations to the University of California.

There they evaluated present evidence and concluded that whatever is happening to the world's weather it's not our fault. Also, that there is no more dust in the atmosphere now than 2.000 years ago. And that with radiation - sensing satellites we are now capable of detecting changes in the world's climate which would have been imperceptible a few years ago. but "man's activities show no evidence of changing his world's climate. This contradicts the environmentalists who have blamed recent floods and droughts on manufacturing. open burning and automobiles.

But with all that we can learn from these supersensitive satellites plus human observation from Skylab, the only safe prediction for the world's future weather is that it will "fluctuate."

This year in the semiarid region below Africa's Sahara. millions are threatened with starvation due to the most prolonged drought on record. But remember, we've kept records on that area for less than 50 years.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Moscow Games Could Douse Olympic Torch

By ROBERT S. ALLEN WASHINGTON - Powerful opposition is crystallizing against Russia hosting the next

Olympic games.
Grave doubts are being raised about the Soviets' qualifications for the Olympiad. Cited as disturbing evidence of this are the repeated instances of patently organized and officially condoned disorders, hostile political demonstrations and physical abuse of U.S. and Israeli athletes at the World University Games in Moscow last August.

To this day, no Russian official or publication has said one word of condemnation, disapproval or regret of these outrages. The squalid incidents jarringly recall very similar scandalous episodes that marred the 1936 Olympiad in Berlin which was hosted by the Hitler regime and blatantly used for sordid ideological and racial Nazi propaganda. Significantly indicative of the growing objection to staging the 1980 Olympic games in Moscow is the forceful protest raised by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the Special Committee on Crime, member of the powerful Rules Committee, and long - time Olympiad supporter.

In a lengthy letter to Philip Krumm, president of the United States Olympic Committee, Papper spells out in detail numerous reasons why the next Olympiad should not be awarded to the Soviet Union.

In substance, the influential congressional leader's carefully documented analysis is a scathing indictment of Russia's fitness to host the international

Pulling No Punches So strongly does Pepper feel that way that he bluntly tells Krumm the U.S. should seriously consider not participating in the Olympiad if t is held in Moseow. The legislator puts that forcefully on the line as follows: As one who has been a fervent supporter of sports and the International Olympics, 1 believe it would be better to have no Olympics in 1980 than to disgrace the name and the fundamental principles of the International Olympic Committee. We must heed our long experience with dictatorships which has proved they respect nations and peoples who are willing to stand up for their principles, and have contempt for those who are willing to abandon or sell our their principles.

"I believe it is imperative that the United States Olympic Committee oppose the holding of the games in Moscow in 1980. In the event the International Olympic Committee decides in favor of Moscow, the United States should give careful consideration as to whether it should participate or not."

This emphatic stand was vigorously seconded by Rep. Mandel Davis, D-E.C., who at 31 is the youngest member of the House and of the powerful Armed Services Committee.

Noting the "scandalous treatment" of U.S. and Israeli athletes at the World University Games last summer. Davis raised the question of whether this had been "allowed, perhaps even encouraged, by the Soviet

"By aflowing these outrages to happen," declared Davis, the USSR showed itself to be unconscionable, but for this country to allow such action to go unchallenged is unthinkable. I want to add my voice to the growing protest against the possible selection of Russia as the host of the 1980 Olympics.

"I feel it would be difficult to support such a bid when fans are 'roughed up' when they try to cheer for their team. Such a display is not only boorish, but has the added possibility of turning brutal. Until such time as the Soviet Union can show without qualification it is truly ready for 'detente,' I believe the U.S. should keep all options Asking For Trouble Staging the Olympiad in Russia, warns Rep. Pepper. gravely risks a repetition of the 'black chapter" written in the 1936 games in Hitler - ruled

The experiences with Hitler," Pepper wrote U.S. Olympic Committee Chairman Krumm, "the experiences with the Soviet Union and other dictatorships have proved conclusively that justifying reasons to the contrary are fallacious and produce the opposite effect '

The two justifications derided by Pepper for holding the Olympics in Moscow are:

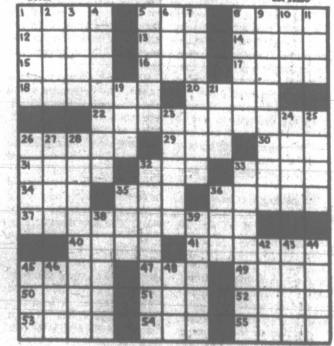

(1) Russia is prepared to offer the facilities and financial support for these world games: (2) the U.S. is now pursuing a policy of detente with the Soviets and it is desirable to show goodwill and to placate the Kremlin rulers.

That contention is caustically rejected by Pepper as squarely contradicted by recent congressional action, as

Only two weeks ago, the House of Representatives passed legislation that would deny the Soviet Union most favored - nation trade status as long as she refuses to support the concept of free emigration. The House acted on the sound principle that, if a nation wishes to secure benefits from the United States, it must demonstrate its goodwill as a responsible member of the international community.

"It was a one-sided game and I just hope that we can get anther shot at you.

Two field goals accounted for all the scoring in the first half. Texas' Billy Schott kicked a 22yarder shortly after a Nebraska fumble in the first period and the Cornhuskers' Rich Sanger booted a 24-yarder after a weird fumble in which the ball bounced off a foot of Texas fullback Roosevelt Leaks and into the hands of Steve Manstedt Manstedt ran 62 yards to the Texas eight with the miscue.

It was then, however, that Thornton came up with his interception of an underthrown pass and it was all Nebraska from there.

Ritch Bahe scored one of the two second half touchdowns for Nebraska on a 12-yard run, and, shortly after the Cornhuskers recovered a Texas fumble at the Texas 19. Davis ran in from the three for the clinching

Davis gained 106 yards on 28 carries and Nebraska gained 240 yards on the ground against the normally stingy Texas defense. He was voted the game's outstanding offensive player and Johnston was picked as the leading defensive player.

Texas' running attack, however, was blunted. Leaks, the fourth leading ball carrier in the Leaks who picked up only 48 nation, could gain only 48 yards although he missed part of the first half with a bruised knee.

Penn State Bumps LSU, receiver Chuck Herd made a sensational one-handed catch midway through the second period Tuesday night to turn an apparently overthrown pass into a 72-yard touchdown play and spark fifth-ranked Penn State to a 16-9 Orange Bowl victory over Louisiana State.

Penn State, unbeaten in regular season play and favored by five points over LSU, did all of its scoring during the first half with Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti scoring on a one yard run with 2:19 left in the half and Chris Bahr kicking a 44-yard field goal with 1:25 remaining in the first period.

Underdog Louisiana State. ranked 14th nationally after losing its last two games of the season, got its lone touchdown on a three-yard run by Steve Rogers 3:47 after the game began and scored the only points of the second half on a safety when Pehn State punter Brian Masella got a bad snap from center and was downed in his end zone when he tried to run with the ball.

Cappelletti, an All America who gained 1.522 yards this season, was held to just 50 yards in 26 carried by a fired - up LSU de fensé.

LSU actually had the statistical edge in this last of the holiday bowls, but the play that made the difference was the 72yard bomb that put Penn State in the lead for the first time with 8:19 remaining in the first half.

Gary Hayman had apparently scored on a 73-yard punt return for the Nittany Lions, but officials ruled he was downed at the Penn State 27 yard line.

Cappelletti made only a yard on the next play so Penn State had a second-and-nine when quarterback Tom Shuman faded back and löfted a long pass which Herd, a 200-pound senior from New York City. caught up with at the LSU 35 yard line, grabbed the ball with his left hand and then streaked the remainder of the way.

The LSU Bengals scored the first time they got their hands on the ball. It started with a 46yard kickoff return by freshman Robert Dow and ended after a 51-yard march in nine plays by Rogers' touchdown from the three. Brad Davis, leading runner in the game with 70 yards on 19 carries, picked up Herd's touchdown and Bahr's converison put the Lions ahead 10-7 and the next time they got the ball, they moved in again to take a 16-7 lead on Cappelletti's touchdown.

Hayman's 36-yard punt return put the ball at the LSU 26 and the Lions took nine plays in setting up Cappelletti's score. Bahr's conversion try hit the

Penn State still managed two more scoring opportunities which failed when Bahr missed 38 and 52-yard field goal attempts.

for Tuesday's tripleheader of games, but much of the heroics came from unexpected sources as Ohio State ripped Southern California, 42-21, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., Penn State held off Louisiana State. 16-9, in the Orange Bowl at Miami, and Nebraska beat Texas. 19-3. in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas

This was the greatest victory we've ever, ever had," Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes exulted after the game before a crowd of 105,267. "It was the greatest victory I've ever had. especially after the way we were beaten last year (Ohio State lost, 42-17, to USC in the 1973 Rose Bowl game). It wasn't a game of spite or revenge. We just went in there and thought we had it coming to us. It was a matter of pride to us.

Two Notable Surprises

Ohio State, stereotyped as strictly a grind-it-out ground team, utilized two notable surprises against USC. For one. sophomore quarterback Cornelius Greene completed six of eight passes for 129 yards and also ran for 45 yards, a feat that earned him the game's MVP award. Another Buckeye surprise was freshman fullback Pete Johnson, who scored his team's first three touchdowns and gained 95 yards on 21 carries Teammate Archie Griffin, an All-America tailback, ran for 151 yards on 22 carries as Ohio

It was a struggle most of the way with Ohio State trailing, 21-14, in the third period. But a 56yard punt return by Neal Colzie set up what proved to be the winning touchdown and the Buckeyes sealed the game with 15 points in the final quarter. Another "surprise" wasn't unveiled until after Penn State staved off LSU in the Orange Bowl: It was then that Coach Joe Paterno revealed that Heisman Trophy-winner John Cappelletti was playing with a slightly sprained left ankle and had not practiced since incurring the injury last Friday. Cappelletti was held to only 50 yards by LSU. But he refused to use the injury as an excuse.

Irving Berlin-Still Threatening

NEW YORK - With "I'm

Dreaming of a White Christmas" being heard all over, I phoned its author, Irving Berlin, and asked about his threat to produce a new Broadway show. He's still threatening. "11m pushing 86," he said, his voice full of vigor. He wrote "White Christmas" around 1942 for a movie, never thinking it would take on special meaning for GIs stationed in hot climates in World War II.

"On Jan. 4. Ellen and I will celebrate our 48th anniversary. We're both feeling fine," he said, speaking from his East Side townhouse.

"Are you writing songs for your show?" I asked.

"Am I writing songs?" He laughed. "It's like a man living in California waiting for the fog to lift so he can go back to where he lives. I'm waiting for the fog to lift. But it'll lift. It'll pass. It's nassed before."

Edward Samuels, the millionaire Off-Track Betting Commissioner, who's expected to announce his candidacy for governor, may also be making another announcement: that he's getting married any hour to a young attractive economist from his staff. Samuels and his wife Bobbie, mother of 8, were divorced.

Under Twenty

By PAULA PRENTICE

The big buzz around the recording industry among executives, recording artists and new talent trying to make the grade is the vinyl shortage. an off - shoot of the energy

There just isn't enough vinyl. the stuff of which records are made, to go around and this fact is having wide repercussions throughout the industry.

Hardest hit are new groups and new stars who have made a name for themselves on the concert circuit and are ready for the exposure only records and albums can give them. They aren't alone, however. because some "name" artists whose records have had soft sales are being dropped from recording company rosters who want to use the vinvl available to them for what they consider sure - fire material.

The result is that record fans will be hearing much less from new groups and there will be fewer offerings by well - known talent. Companies will be more cautious. They'll manufacture fewer singles and albums on material they have faith in to test the market.

The record fan who doesn't get to the store early on a hit offering is likely to find what he wants is out - of - stock early in the game. If it plays, though the companies will, of course, put more of the product on the market.

Even the top stars are being affected. Naturally the record companies are going to go with them. But the material is going to be selected with the greatest possible care hopefully to reflect the ever - changing tastes of the market. Many albums will be preceded by a single to gauge the reaction before the full scale and expensive albums are puteon the market. Look for fewer imports of albums made in England where the crisis is said to be worse than here. You'll get the top top talent, but there will be fewer less - known or new groups coming across the Atlantic.

The vinyl squeeze, at least for the next six months or so, will probably mean that there will be much less to choose from. However, the attention to top quality will increase so the singles and albums that do hit the market should be of a better musical quality, whether it be rock, folk, blues, jazz or classical.

Some new groups may be missed, but there have been literally hundreds who have tried and didn't make it. Record companies are wishing they had that vinvl back now.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

...it tells you how

Steve and Holly Baer do it out in New Mexico. Maria Telkes does it in Delaware. Harry E. Thomason has done it three times in the Washington, D.C. area and Dr. Erich A. Farber is really doing it down in Florida.

What these increasingly famous pioneers are all doing, course, is successfully showing the world that sol energy can be used to heat and otherwise power the houses in which we live.

Perhaps Dr. Farber, Director of the Solar Energy Conversion Laboratory at the University of Florida in Gainesville, has refined the idea more than anyone else. Farber, his staff of ten and the people who attend the three classes conducted by the Solar Energy Lab completely heat a home (it's lived in by a student couple) with sunshine. They also run many of the dwelling's appliances on solar energy. Even the automobile parked out in the driveway has been converted to electricity . . . which is generated (you guessed it!) compliments of Ole Sol.

Space heaters, stills, pumps, sewage treatment plants, refrigerators, air conditioners, engines, stoves and automobiles. You name it . . . and Dr. Farber's inventive crew has probably run it on sunshine power.

For a basis introduction to the design and operation of a solarheated house, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, in care of this paper, Aux for Reprint No. 58, SUNSHINE POWER.
