House Expected To Okay Ike Doctrine

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House planned today to give final congressional approval to the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East.

House leaders predicted the doctrine would pass by about 360 to 60.

The House has already passed the doctrine once. But the Senate modified it. Rather than have further delay the administration said the Senate version is acceptable. That assured rapid House action.

However, as the two-month drive to get the doctrine through Congress drew to an end, a group of Democrats called on the administration to produce a positive, long-range Middle East policy. They called the doctrine a stop-gap measure.

Other congressional news:

Rackets: The Senate Rackets Committee was expected to receive today a lie detector test given Nate Zuzman, a Portland, Ore., night club operator. Zuzman demanded the test to back up his denial of testimony that he encouraged opening of a bawdy house in Portland. The committee also promised to disclose further alleged attempts to bribe Portland officials.

Record Budget Requires No New Taxes

By O. B. LLOYD JR., United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN (UP)—A record $2 billion budget which requires no new taxes, eliminates five state holidays and adds 200 highway patrolmen was ready for action on the House floor today.

Rep. Max Smith of San Marcos, chairman of the House Appropriations committee which approved the budget Wednesday, said the bill would probably come under debate on the floor Tuesday.

House Speaker Waggoner Carr told the 21-man committee it did a "splendid job" on the measure and urged quick action on the monstrous spending program to "see if we can't get out of here in 130 days despite the recent interruptions."

The bill calls for an increase in spending of $333 million over current levels, from all funds. The overall total from all funds is about $2,072,750,000.

Revised Estimate

The measure provides for spending some $282,500,000 from the state's general revenue fund, well under the anticipated revenues of $316,879,364 over the coming biennium beginning next Sept. 1.

The estimate was made by State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert in a revision of a previous estimate of $266,172,723 in anticipated revenue over the coming biennium. The boost was attributed mainly to higher oil and gas revenues.

An amendment by Rep. T. R. Ellis Jr. of Weslaco boosted the total appropriation for agricultural experiment stations and sub-stations of Texas A&M College to about $9.5 million, of which slightly more than $4 million would come from the general revenue fund.

The amendment also provides that the A&M board of directors must recommend elimination of two or more of the 23 sub-stations.

Evacuation To Be Completed Today By Remaining Troops

By WALTER LOGAN, United Press Staff Correspondent

Israel announced today it had surrendered authority in the Gaza Strip to the United Nations despite a growing threat that Egypt would demand control of the area. Jerusalem Radio broadcast a proclamation by Col. Mattiyahu Peled, commander of Israeli forces in the Gaza zone, turning over control to a U. N. police force in the first such action in history.

The bulk of the Israeli forces withdrew before dawn and only a handful of liaison troops remained to complete the last details. They are to be out before sundown.

Evacuation of Sharm El Sheikh on the Gulf of Aqaba is set for Friday.

Appeals For Calm

The Israeli proclamation appealed to the 300,000 inhabitants of the Gaza Strip — 200,000 of them refugees from Palestine — to remain calm and keep public order.

The proclamation said Israel had relinquished responsibility to the UNEF "alone" and it said U. N. forces would keep order and organize a civil administration "with the purpose of ensuring peace or a final settlement" for the Gaza Strip.

The proclamation was a reaffirmation of Israel's announcement to the world it was pulling out of the 25-by-5 mile strip in belief Egypt would never be allowed to regain control.

Egypt Takes Strong Stand

But Cairo dispatches indicated Egypt might demand its troops take over command of the Gaza Strip at any time — a demand that could touch off a new crisis if it were made official.

Egypt was taking a less strong stand on the problem of free navigation of the Gulf of Aqaba. Informal sources in Cairo said the problem might be turned over to the International Court at the Hague.

Israel promised to withdraw on the "assumption" the big powers would see that the gulf leading to Israel's Port of Eilat, and bypassing the Suez Canal, would be kept free by the big powers of the world including the United States. The United States has since insisted it made no promises.

Two Ships Collide In Delaware River

By RUSS GREEN, United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW CASTLE, Del. (UP)—A U. S. Navy gasoline tender and a Liberian freighter collided at the "graveyard of ships" on the Delaware River today. Both ships immediately burst into flames with a terrific explosion.

Five hours later the tender, Mission of San Francisco, sank, blocking the main ship channel to Wilmington, Del., Philadelphia and Trenton, N. J. The freighter, the Elina II, blazed for hours before the flames were brought under control by Coast Guard vessels and a Philadelphia fire boat.

The Coast Guard reported 61 survivors and listed an estimated seven missing, all of them from the Mission of San Francisco. The Mission carried 45 men and the Elina 23. Among the missing was the Mission's captain, William Allen of Galveston, Tex.

The Mission did not carry a pilot because Allen was licensed for the Delaware River. The only fire-fighting equipment aboard the Elina was a garden hose, one of the survivors told the United Press.

Prayer Day Proclaimed In Pampa

World Day of Prayer will be observed in Pampa tomorrow.

Mayor Lynn Boyd has proclaimed the day as World Day of Prayer in Pampa and special services will be held.

The Pampa Council of United Church Women and the Pampa Ministerial Alliance are jointly sponsoring the special observances. Two services, one at 7:15 a.m. and the other at 9:30 a.m., will be held in the First Methodist Church.

The mayor's proclamation indicates that 142 countries "will be united in prayer to the same Almighty God for the peoples of the entire world" and further asserts that "many world tensions exist today, that can be solved only by brotherhood and love which is achieved through prayer to a merciful and loving God."

In signing the proclamation, Mayor Boyd said, "I urge our citizens to observe this day by attending either the 7:15 a.m. or the 9:30 a.m. city-wide services at the First Methodist Church or by pausing for a minute of special prayer at high noon, humbly to ask God for wisdom and courage to meet the problems of our times."

Skies Clear Following Cold Front That Dumped Snow

Skies were clear to hazy over the Top of Texas today as yesterday's snow had melted to approximately 14 inch of moisture.

The cold, snowy weather which visited our area was brought in by a cold front which dumped up to four inches of snow at Perryton and three inches at Canadian.

Shamrock reported .16 inch of moisture out of the snow there.

Freezing temperatures were expected to push deep into Central Texas tonight back of the cold front which dumped snow on the Panhandle and brought heavy rains and hail to South Texas.

The weather bureau forecast freezing temperatures as far south as a line from Lufkin to Austin tonight. There was a possibility of damage to early blooming fruit trees in North Central and Central Texas.

Skies began clearing over the state and cold, north winds poured Arctic air southward. Lows of 18 to 28 were forecast for the Panhandle and South Plains tonight and lows of 26 to 36 were expected in North Central and East Texas.

Wet Snow Falls

The cold front hit the Panhandle before dawn Wednesday and heavy blowing snow began falling. Before sundown, more than four inches of snow had piled up

Bribery, Acid Investigations Resumed; Harmon To Testify

By UNITED PRESS

A House committee in Austin resumed investigation of a $5,000 bribe scandal today while peace officers in Conroe continued a search for the person who threw acid into the eye of a witness who testified before the committee last week.

The committee, now empowered for a broad investigation, was to resume hearings at 2 p. m. with Dr. Howard Harmon, president of the Texas Naturopathic Physicians Association scheduled to take the stand.

It was Harmon who brought evidence that led to felony indictment of former Representative James Cox of Conroe on charges he consented to accept a $5,000 bribe. Harmon said Cox asked the money to kill a bill which he introduced that would outlaw the practice of naturopathy.

An unseen assailant tossed acid into the face of Dr. R. E. McMeans Jr. in Conroe Tuesday night. McMeans testified before the House committee and the Travis county grand jury last week. The anti-naturopath bill.

Nine Accidents Are Reported To Police

Three cars were total losses and one estimated as damaged in the amount of $75 in the most serious accident of the nine reported to city police since late Tuesday evening.

The accident, which occurred at 12:15 this morning on Foster St. at a point 160 feet west of West St. involved three parked cars and a car driven by John W. Lee of 114 N. Warren.

As a result of the accident, in which the 1950 Chevrolet driven by Lee hit a 1950 Chevrolet, a 1950 Chevrolet and a 1953 Pontiac, total losses were declared on all cars.

McMeans, a chiropractor, told the committee last week that Cox was a friend and patient of his and that Cox had asked him several times about the nature healing practices of naturopaths.

Texas Ranger Capt. John Klenhagen and Conroe Police Chief E. A. Stephan said their search for the acid thrower had been fruitless.

"We have exhausted all leads

Sheena To Appear Here

Irish McCalla, star of the television series "Sheena, Queen of the Jungle," will be in Pampa tomorrow morning from 8 until 11 o'clock making a personal appearance at the LaNora Theatre.

The personal tour of which Pampa has been included was brought about, according to her sponsors, by the manner in which her recent appearance on the March of Dimes Telethon, which was held in Amarillo, was received.

Miss McCalla was born in Pawnee City, Neb., 24 years ago and graduated from High School there. After graduation she moved to a seven year contract in the leading role of Sheena.

She was scheduled to arrive in Amarillo this afternoon via TWA.

Liquor Control Board Must Do Most Of Enforcing

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the hottest issues in Texas is prohibition and the law enforcement problems it raises. What is the story of the prohibitionists who want to dry up the state? And how are enforcement problems being met? The United Press examines these questions in four dispatches, the last of which follows:

DALLAS (UP)—With many local officers ignoring liquor traffic, the problem of enforcing prohibition falls upon the understaffed and under-financed liquor control board, reporter Jim Mathis of the Houston Post thinks.

Mathis who made a 3,500-mile tour of dry areas, said that in overall policy, the LCB is primarily interested in collecting some $31 million a year in liquor taxes and licensing fees.

Seek Stronger Laws

Normally, the LCB provides only four men for a dry district and they must provide their own guns and cars. The board has asked three successive legislatures for 20 high-speed automobiles and 40 men to chase bootleggers in them. Each time, the request has been rejected.

What does Texas Alcohol-Narcotics Education, Inc., think about Mathis' report?

The Rev. Albert Tucker, Tanc's executive secretary, says his organization is reprinting the articles and distributing them about the state to goad drys into demanding better liquor law enforcement. But he also says that things are not as bad as Mathis reported.

"We don't believe they (articles) are right," he said. "In many cases, where the reporter talked to district attorneys and other law enforcement officers, he did not quote them as to the benefits of a dry community, but rather quoted more sensational statements of others probably biased on the subject."

"We have been told by leading legislators that they believe that if Texas were to vote statewide this year, it would go bone dry. But we are not pushing for that goal now."

Coke Stevenson Jr., head of the Liquor Control Board, said recently in Houston that bootleggers in Texas want more prohibition in Texas as ardently as the drys. He implied that the Texas legislature is swayed by Texas bootleggers. Stevenson wants the legislature to provide more cars for his men and wants more cooperation from local officers.

Oak Cliff Dry

He indicated he thinks that the influence of bootleggers with the legislature is partly responsible for its failure to provide the liquor control board with enough men and equipment to enforce the law.

The Oak Cliff Loyalty League, which dried up that section of Dallas, quickly challenged Stevenson.

"We hereby denounce as absolutely false the statement made by you and demand the evidence you say you possess," a spokesman or the league said. "The people of Texas are getting weary of the Texas Liquor Control Board acting as the state liquor promotion board."

FLORAL APPRECIATION—The parents of the Woodrow Wilson Parent-Teacher Association expressed their appreciation to the teachers during Texas Public School Week and Teacher Appreciation Week, by presenting them with carnation corsages or boutonnières. H. A. Yoder, school principal, adjusts his boutonniere, while Mrs. Kay Hammons, center, fourth grade instructor, receives her corsage from Mrs. T. C. Owens, PTA president. (News Photo)

Egypt Retains 'Rights'

CAIRO (UP)—The Egyptian government newspaper Al Goumhouria said today Egypt retained the right to order United Nations Emergency Forces out of the Gaza Strip whenever it wanted to.

Informed sources said earlier Egypt would demand a voice in the administration of the Gaza Strip and may take a strong stand on this point.

Today the official newspaper said Egypt would not allow the UNEF to assume "any function other than supervising the withdrawal of enemy troops from Egyptian territory."

Cites 'Imperialist Aggression'

(Israel withdrew from the Gaza Strip in belief the UNEF would take over administration of the area until a permanent settlement is reached.)

Al Goumhouria said Egypt welcomed creation of an international police force as an instrument for enforcing U. N. resolutions for the maintenance of world peace.

But it added, "Imperialist elements are trying to distort the international police force into a new instrument of imperialist aggression."

It said Egypt had anticipated these attempts and refused to accept them.

Rotary Hears Scout Leader

The Pampa Rotary club yesterday heard Yorel Harris, Boy Scout council head, outline the accomplishments of the Adobe Walls Council and tell of the challenge facing the council with the swelling boy population.

Harris pointed out that the council, which is made up of the counties of the Eastern Panhandle and the Oklahoma Panhandle, has the highest percentage of boys participating in the Scouting program in the whole of region 5 which comprises, in part or whole, 5 states.

Harris also stated that the Adobe Walls Council rates number 2 in the nation for the percentage of boys who attend summer camp.

Don Cain gave the club a brief outline of the planning which had taken place in order to project the Scouting program's needs for the next 5 years, pointing out that the greatly increasing boy population presents a challenge.

Kay Fancher gave a short talk on the "Together Plan" which the Scouts have instituted in order to expand to meet the need for more Scout units and their leadership.

Visitors and guests for the day were Don Roan, Dr. N. J. Ellis, Joe Fischer and J. P. (Pat) Kinney.

Hotel Site Group Reports Progress

Hugh Burdette, chairman of the Pampa Community Hotel Company's site committee, reported today that the committee met yesterday to discuss the work of the project so far.

The group met in Burdette's office in the Hughes Building at 8 p.m. yesterday.

Principal discussion centered around contacts and work done on site selection by Quentin Williams, local real estate agent. In addition, the committee, gave Williams instructions concerning future contacts.

The committee hopes to find a site, at least the size of a city block, on which to build the new hotel.

Hollywood Parties Are Deductible

By ALINE MOSSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — A Hollywood party can be like any other elegant soiree around the world—except the cast of characters are famous film personalities and the event is "deductible."

Some citizens may think of a stars' soiree as being held on another planet with guests drinking champagne out of shoes at 5 a.m. But Kirk Douglas tossed his first big Hollywood party the other night and the atmosphere could have been at any well-to-do person's house in Kansas City or Portland.

The one Hollywood touch were Viking masks, napkins labeled "The Viking" and a huge Viking carved out of ice after Kirk's next picture of the same name. This officially will keep the income tax men happy when the party's listed under "business expenses."

"This is a belated housewarming for our new house," said the host, indicating his modern regency Beverly Hills home. "Also it's a farewell as I'm leaving Friday for seven months in Europe."

The guests at a Hollywood party, however, are typical types seen at other functions.

There was the pretty but lonesome looking divorcee that everybody fussed over because she came and left alone — Nancy Sinatra.

There was the single femme fatale, Hungarian beauty Eva Bartok, who was trailed by at least one married man whose wife was sick at home. Jack Warner was the typical life-of-the-party joker while Eddie Albert was the guest who got up and sang with the four piece orchestra that roved about.

After dinner there was the usual scene that occurs at parties the world over. All those beautiful movie stars, sophisticated directors and rich producers — repaired to easy chairs in the den — to look at a local show on television.

HANDLES
Not until the Fifteenth century did Europeans put much stock in last names. Most had none. If need be, they used their given names, and now and then their fathers' given names (like John John's son) or their home towns or neighborhoods (like Thomas of Aquinas).

But mostly they went by their given or baptismal names. Some churches today still call their members by their first names (Sister Joan and Brother Albert) like royally (e.g. Queen Elizabeth). In certain European countries you can register a child's name if it is one of an approved list. High nobility goes by its last name (de Medicis, Marlborough), but knights take their given names (Sir Winston).

Since people had little property interests in their last names, English and American law gave them little or no protection. Trade names, of course, are another matter.

But in France and Germany the law gives one a property interest in his name; you may get a court to keep somebody from adopting your name by showing it would harm you. But not as a rule in America or England.

For instance, on the ground that by his writing he had earned a property right in his name, Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) once sued a man for printing a work called "Sketches by Mark Twain." But the court ruled that Mark Twain had no sole right to use either his own or his pen name, except on his own books.

As a rule you can change your name at will even without going to court.

But a court action to change your name puts the public officially on notice that you have a new one, and it saves you endless trouble in collecting debts, identifying yourself, getting credit, inheriting property, selling your home, getting insurance, Social Security Benefits, etc.

Some people change their names too much for their own good by using nicknames, middle names, and various ways of spelling the same name. It may cost real money to prove that John Jacob Smith is the same as Jack Smith, Jake Smith, J. J. Smith, or J. Jake Smythe.

Decide on a good name to put on legal papers, checks, contracts, auto licenses. Stick with it unless you have good reason to change it.

Shakespeare, Aristophanes Put Under TV Contract

By WILLIAM EWALD
New York Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Mori Abrahams, a TV producer who specializes in spectaculars, has put Shakespeare and Aristophanes under contract for next season.

Abrahams, executive producer of NBC-TV's "Producer's Showcase," is the gent who whipped up such extravaganzas this season as "Romeo and Juliet," "The Letter" and "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Next semester, among other ventures, he plans to dip into the 2,300-year-old waters of Aristophanes with "Lysistrata," a comedy that was postponed this past January when Marilyn Monroe fluttered out of the cast.

Famous Works Available
"The great thing about spectaculars is that we have the whole of western civilization to draw on," said Abrahams today. "Biography is largely untouched. So is history. And I like to say that I think this boy Shakespeare is a comer. I'm going to use a lot of him."

"You know, money couldn't buy the sort of material that's just sitting on the library shelf—everything from Homer to Dickens is just waiting for us, and all of them darn good yarns."

Strangely enough, one type of material is becoming increasingly hard to dig out — the love

A "Shattering" Stop
RICHMOND, Ind. (UP)—Police were "shattered" Monday when they had to close U.S. Highway 40 for an hour and sweep up a mess. A truck driver following a car had to jam on his brakes when the car came to a sudden halt. The truck was carrying eight panes of glass, each nine feet square and a half inch thick.

There's Big Dough In Do-Si-Do But Look Out For 'Charlatans'

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — There's getting to be a lot of dough in the old do-si-do. That's because there's a big shortage of good square dance callers and the ones who can do it well are profiting accordingly.

A take of $400 a week isn't unusual according to Gene Gowing, who is probably America's most famous caller. Of course, that's only during "the season," but the season is getting longer all the time as square dancing keeps growing more popular.

Gowing isn't typical of the callers. He dresses impeccably — sort of a white collar caller — and speaks in the cultivated accents of a highly educated man, which he is. At 51, he wears a clipped mustache and his hair is graying at his temples. He looks like a Wall Street banker or retired quiz show contestant.

But the lines of his distinguished face grow angry and his voice grows firm when he talks about "the charlatans" among the callers.

ruin a person for square dancing for the rest of his life." Gowing comes from Peterborough, N.H., where they look on the Virginia Reel as a new-fangled foreign dance. His father and his uncle were callers and he thinks his grandfather was, too. He grew up to the strains of "Turkey In the Straw" and could allemande aldorf-Astoria and Army camps. He's devised ways and means for the deaf-and-dumb and patients in wheelchairs to square dance. He's written a book, "Square Dancing for Everyone." And he's itching to go behind the Iron Curtain, figuring maybe the Texas Star can soften the Red Star. In all his travels, he says he's heard thousands of callers and "most of them are pure charlatans." Gowing feels that square dance calling is an art — a person must feel the urge to call, learn all he can learn, then work hard for ten years before he's any good. "There are three requirements for a caller," he says. "He must be able to get along with people, have a sense of humor and have infinite patience."

And then he lists some more requirements — a good voice (Gowing once studied nothing but "upward inflection" for four weeks with a voice teacher); an ability to manage a large crowd; a sense of rhythm; and a couple of changes of clothes. "If they ask me to," he says with a sad face, "I'll wear cowboy clothes or dungarees. But I prefer to work in a business suit like this."

There are three kinds of calls for square dancing. The basic call is prompting — "The caller is just a leader, prompting the dancers a measure or two before the action." Then come singing calls. And finally are the patter-calls — "In the West, some callers have gone insane with all kinds of weird patter and chatter. They have to be translated." Gowing thinks a beginner should stick to prompting. And, as for charlatans, they should stick to some other line of work.

Texas Crime Takes Jump

Crime in Texas during 1956 gained 11.8 per cent over the preceding year according to Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The increase was attributed mainly to urban areas where a 14.4 per cent increase in crime was shown during 1956 in comparison with the records for 1955. Rural crimes were up only 2.8 per cent.

The figures compiled by the Department's Statistical Division and the Bureau of Identification and Records point out that crimes of violence against the person were down with actually a decrease in comparison with the preceding year.

On a statewide basis, including urban and rural areas, murder and homicide was down 13.7 per cent, rape was down 11.1 per cent and aggravated assault was down 4.7 per cent.

On the other hand, burglary was up 13.5 per cent, theft was up 14.5 per cent and auto theft increased 11.3 per cent.

The rural areas showed a crime decrease in all divisions except two — theft with an increase of 9.2 per cent and burglary with an increase of 1.1 per cent over the preceding year. Urban areas were up in four divisions, but down in violence against the person.

Garrison said the crime rate for Texas compares favorably with that of the entire nation.

Compared with crime statistics for the first six months of 1956 given in the Uniform Crime Reports for the United States, crime in the entire nation was up 14.4 per cent. During that same period crime in Texas was up only 9.8 per cent.

"If the national trend continues for the entire year of 1956 the crime rate will be up 18.3 per cent over 1955, making our 11.8 per cent increase in Texas look encouraging."

The state police director said hopes for lower crime rates in the future are good in that not only are we giving our children better training each year, but law enforcement is becoming more proficient and more closely knitted together in its operation on all levels.

Little Boy Missing From Home Somewhere In US

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA
By JOHN CLANCY
United Press Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Somewhere in this country a little boy is missing from his home.

He is a nice looking child between four and six years old. He has blue eyes and brown hair. He weighs between 35 and 40 pounds. He is slender and thin-faced. He is dead.

His body, battered brutally, was found eight days ago in a cardboard box in the Fox Chase section of this city. Police have tried every method at their command to learn his identity, but have run up against a blank wall. No one knows who he is. And no one has reported a little boy like him missing.

believe he was murdered by his parents or guardians or he was taken from some other part of the country and his body was dumped here.

The city's chief medical examiner, Dr. Joseph W. Spelman, who conducted the autopsy, said the boy definitely was murdered. He said there were bruises all over the body, particularly on the head, leg and arms.

The police laboratory learned a lot about the boy. Their investigations showed he apparently came from a good home because he had been well cared for. He was 41 inches tall. He might have had a defect in his left eye but he did not wear glasses. He had injured his chin at one time, leaving an "L" shaped scar under his chin.

When found, his body was wrapped in a cheap cotton flannel blanket which had been ripped in half. The blanket was a green plaid with diamonds and blocks in rust, brown and white. All the colors were faded.

Crude Hair Cut
His hair had been crudely cut short, possibly to conceal his identity. If that was the motive for the amateur haircut, it has succeeded thus far.

But, his identity is still a mystery. Police say they are stumped. They wonder how the disappearance of a little boy can be concealed so well.

Today, more than 300 policemen, park guards and detectives are making a foot-by-foot search of the neighborhood, questioning residents and looking for some tiny clue which may have been overlooked.

Everything else in the quest of his identity has failed. Thousands of persons have viewed the body at the morgue, but none knew him.

The question still remains: "Whose boy is this?"

48th Year Burger Mix Is Real Family Filler-Upper

Men, Please Note, Top Sports Racer Loves To Cook, Cleans Kitchen, Too

Jim Kimberly, the nation's top sports car racer, is as clever getting round a query as he is getting round a curve.

This became evident recently when he encountered such questions as the male versus the female driver, the American versus the European woman, and the man versus the woman cook.

Mr. Kimberly, who was interviewed in his Chicago apartment, is probably closer to being the man of many a maiden's dreams than most movie stars. The popular sportsman (he has just been re-elected president of the Sports Car Club of America), is not merely a millionaire but a tall, tanned and handsome one who loves to cook—and cleans up the kitchen himself. What's more, he has a sure-fire dieting formula!

"Scientific nibbling just comes naturally to me, I guess," he continued. "Apparently, there is really something to that bit about sugar being so energizing because it sure gives me a boost. Many racers eat a piece of hard candy for quick energy just before a race, for example. Another thing, I've always preferred to eat lightly and often than to gorge myself at a sitting. That probably accounts for the fact that I go for light desserts. That reminds me, I have a compote in the refrigerator that I just developed the other day. Would you like to try some?"

When the delicious concoction had been eaten, Mr. Kimberly revealed that the secret of his compote was the substitution of apple juice for water. After a little persuading, he dictated the following recipe:

KIMBERLY COMPOTE
11-ounce package dried mixed fruits (prunes, apricots, pears)
2 cups apple juice
½ cup sugar
1 cinnamon stick
1. Wash fruit, set aside
2. Blend apple juice and sugar; cook in saucepan until sugar dissolves.
3. Add fruit and cinnamon stick; simmer covered for about 35 minutes or until tender.
4. Allow cooked fruit to cool covered.
Yield: 5-6 servings

The Kimberly Compote will stand alone as a delightful dessert or it will provide the perfect accompaniment to your favorite sweet cookies, he suggested.
This most interesting suggestion prompted further probing into Mr. Kimberly's mental file of culinary coups. How about the top secret?
That's handling a curve for you.

Spoon the barbecue mixture over warm buns, toss a big green salad, and prepare for the feast. The meal takes just a short time to prepare and it's a real family filler-upper.

BARBECUE BURGER MIX
1 pound ground beef
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped celery
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
¼ cup catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Brown the beef in hot fat; add onions, green pepper and celery and cook until tender. Stir in all remaining ingredients, cover and simmer 20 minutes. It yields six servings.

There is an abundant supply of chicken to be had at the meat counter this month and just about everybody likes chicken. To keep right in step with the supply of plentiful foods, we offer you this flavorful way to serve chicken.

CHICKEN-RICE DUMPLINGS
1-3 cup cream of rice quick-cooking rice cereal
2 tablespoons sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg
½ cup leftover chopped chicken
2 cups chicken-broth
Mix cream of rice, sifted flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Cream butter in mixing bowl and beat in egg. Stir in combined dry ingredients. Place in refrigerator for ½ hour. Roll into balls about the size of marbles. Combine chicken and seasoned broth and bring to boil. Drop in rice dumplings, cover and cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Do not remove cover while cooking.

Makes 12 dumplings or 4 servings.

When you have an extra spoonful or two of cake icing, resist that impulse to lick the spoon. Instead, says Sara E. Walls, home economics director for Amana, freezer store the surplus in a small freezer container. On another day you'll have a ready-made frosting for cookies or cupcakes.
One teaspoon of pure onion juice added to a glass of tomato juice at breakfast makes a refreshing day-starter.

Smacking Applause For Festive Brunch

Here's a quick treat you can whip up for a festive holiday brunch—or for a snack to serve holiday visitors: Cranberry Pancakes

This is all there is to it: get out a package of pancake mix—and prepare according to directions. Be sure to make the batter a little on the thin side so that you'll be able to roll up the pancakes easily.

Now, spread each pancake generously—in layers—with canned whole-berry cranberry sauce and cream cheese. (If you're used to going to all the bother of making sauce from fresh cranberries, you'll welcome the convenience of using canned cranberry sauce, and the results will be just as delicious!) Roll up pancakes, sprinkle lightly with confectioners sugar, serve. Then watch for a lip-smacking response from family and guests.

BARBECUED HAMBURGER ON ONION RING
Mold hamburger patties to desired size. Place on onion slice in well greased broiling dish or aluminum foil with ends turned. Dash several drops Colgin Liquid Smoke on each patty. Broil for 5 minutes on each side, or until done. Baste frequently with juices. Serve with French fries.
"SMOKY" CREAM CHEESE DIP
1 8 oz. Pkg. Philadelphia Cream Cheese
2 tbs. Lemon Juice
1 tsp. Colgin "Hickory" Liquid Smoke
2 tbs. Coffee Cream
¼ tsp. Powdered Garlic
Mix well with mixing spoon or electric Blender.

While cooking corn-on-the-cob or other vegetables, a few drops of pure garlic juice added to the water will impart a uniquely different, yet pleasing, taste.

Mid-Air Crash Peril Still Grave

It May Be 3 Years Before Controls Match Traffic Rise

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The danger of mid-air collisions caused by over-crowded, under-controlled air lanes is going to get worse before it gets better.

It already reached one tragic climax this winter when a DC-7 transport and an Air Force jet — both on test flights — collided over a California school yard killing and injuring children when the flaming wreckage landed.

It could be more than three years before Uncle Sam catches up with the increased hazards caused by the terrific growth of private, military and commercial flying, an investigation of the problem reveals.

That year overcrowded air lanes, aggravated by bad weather, caused a record number of flight cancellations. And last summer — after the collision of two airliners over the Grand Canyon which killed 112 persons — it was revealed that the Air Transport Association had there were an average of four near collisions per day over the U.S.

Reports during recent months indicate that this rate has gone up in spite of tightened traffic control procedures of the air lines and Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Long-range radar, the key to the CAA's plan for controlling this danger, won't start being delivered until next summer. It'll be three years before the CAA's new traffic control plan is completed.

Several weeks ago the ATA had to agree to new specifications for radar collision avoidance equipment. This means that it could be several years before the new equipment is generally adopted by the air lines, since the problem has turned out to be far more complex than the experts originally thought.

At first ATA experts thought radar could be installed in air liners to warn a pilot when he was on a collision course with another aircraft. Several airlines ordered this equipment from Collins Radio Co.

Subsequent study revealed among other things that the proposed warning would not come early enough to permit evasive action. The new approach is to have all planes emit some kind of warning signal so radar could catch it in time for evasive action.

Collins has released all the airlines from contracts pending the development of more satisfactory equipment. It could be many years before all aircraft — which is necessary if it is to work — could be equipped with both warning and detection electronic equipment.

The only system which holds a promise of 100 per cent control of all air traffic over the U.S. is just in a preliminary talking stage for civilian aircraft use. There's no estimate on how many years it would take to get it into operation. It's adoption would have to hurdle dif-icult inter-governmental red tape barriers.

This system is a radar network now being installed to blanket the U.S. for detection of enemy aircraft. It will cost three billion dollars and take many years to complete. It is called SAGE, meaning Semi-Automatic Ground Environment.

SAGE consists of long range radar which feeds signals into electronic brains.

Although primarily designed to detect enemy aircraft, five CAA experts are now studying SAGE for possible adaption to civilian air traffic control. But the Air Force hasn't indicated whether or not it could or would permit dual usage.

CAA's present answer to the growing collision danger is a three-year plan anticipating a four-fold increase in air traffic. First step is the installation of 23 long-range radars, to start this summer. These radars will extend the "vision" of controllers up to 200 miles from the most crowded terminals.

All radar in use by CAA will be modernized and communications between ground and air will also be improved and extended. Total cost of this three-year project is 246 million dollars.

But there is still some doubt whether it will handle the increase of air traffic, which will then include high speed jet transports.

Army Releases Names Of More Crash Victims

SEOUL, March 7 (UP) — U. S. Army headquarters released Wednesday night the names of eight more servicemen and officers missing and presumed dead in the crash of a U.S. Air Force C-124 transport Feb. 22.

The Giant Globemaster was carrying 156 passengers and crewmen when it plunged onto a sandspit in the Han River on a flight to Tokyo. There were 137 survivors.

The eight, whose names were released, Wednesday night, included:

SP-3 Aubrey L. Meeker, 20, (710 S. Jackson St.) Tulsa, Okla., formerly with the 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division.

SP-3 Francisco Aguilar, 20, (418 Waco St.) Corpus Christi, Tex., formerly with the 63rd Artillery Battalion, 24th Infantry Division.

The announcement said that while the bodies of six of the men named Wednesday night have not been recovered "army authorities have determined through exhaustive investigation that they are deceased."

Crippled Plane Lands Safely

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UP) — An American Airlines DC7 with 65 persons aboard made an emergency landing at the Grand Junction Airport Wednesday because of engine trouble.

The landing was made without incident. Another DC7 was flown to Grand Junction from Los Angeles to take the 60 passengers and five crewmen the rest of the way on what had been scheduled as a Los Angeles-to-Chicago non-stop flight.

Romeo, Juliet Courtesy Of Old Vic, NBC

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — Romeo and Juliet, a couple of juvenile delinquents who capered in old Verona, spilled onto your screen Monday night courtesy of Shakespeare, the Old Vic and NBC-TV.

Claire Bloom, a short, creamy-complexioned Briton who has been essaying the role of the 14-year-old Juliet in this country, Canada and England since last May, again will stash herself up in the Capulet's balcony to help bring the 360-year-old play to you.

"She's passionate," said Miss Bloom firmly between a rehearsal and a dress fitting. She was talking about Juliet. "She's vital, impulsive, wonderfully young. She was 14, yes. But 14 then was our 18 now."

"In those days, a girl might be married at 13 and have children at 14. You really can't compare now with then. Well, you know, they died at 27 in those days."

Miss Bloom, who is 25 and healthy, has been collecting applause and dollars along with the Old Vic repertory company this season in spots as scattered as Boston, Chicago, Wilmington, Philadelphia, New York and two college towns in Indiana — Bloomington and Lafayette.

"How was it received? It was received marvelously," said Miss Bloom. "And I played it on television just the way I would play it in a big theatre. It is one of the most intimate of plays. There's no reason why I should change my approach for television."

Because of the Old Vic's long workout on the road with "Romeo and Juliet," only a week's rehearsals were needed to prepare it for TV. The principal knots were sanitizing and laundering it. Some of the more bawdy talk by Miss Capulet's nurse was snipped and the play itself was squeezed to fit it into some 80 playing minutes.

LONG RANGE RADAR—which can track aircraft up to 200 miles away is studied by a CAA controller. Overlaid on scope here are traffic lanes around Detroit and Cleveland. First such radar systems will be delivered next summer.

Robert Stack Defends Title As Oscar Supporting-Actor

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—Robert Stack strongly defended his position today in a heated Oscar-time battle — should he and other "Stars" have entered the supporting actor race?

This unique situation began last year when Jack Lemmon, billed as a star of "Mister Roberts", stepped down to a supporting nomination — and won the Academy Award.

Four players who were considered stars in their pictures this year moved down a notch to win supporting nominations — Stack and Dorothy Malone of "Written On The Wind", Don Murray of "Bus Stop" and Mickey Rooney in "The Bold And The Brave."

Supporting actors who regularly play smaller roles complain they have been pushed out of their right to run as a supporting nominee "if his role in the picture is secondary."

"It would make me look silly and presumptuous if I would compete with Kirk Douglas and others who truly starred in their pictures," says Stack.

"In 'Written On The Wind' Dorothy and I were secondary characters. Rock Hudson and Lauren Bacall were the stars, actually.

"Of course, the studio has the say about which category actors are put into for the Academy Awards. When people asked me if I wanted to shoot for the big one, I replied that I had no illusions about who played the lead in the picture — Rock Hudson did.

"Billing in a picture means nothing. Nowadays they star 40 actors in one movie when actually most are supporting players with secondary roles."

As this is Stack's first nomination, "it was a thrill and a surprise — but whether I win isn't the main thing. It's being nominated that's important, to receive votes from the guys you work with. Those exhibitor polls, and audience awards, and all this is meaningless compared to being applauded by your co-workers."

NEW DELHI, India— Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru calling President Eisenhower a "man of peace" while suggesting the United States and Russia meet to discuss Middle East problems: "Even if they continue discussions without immediate results, it would bring chances of peace."

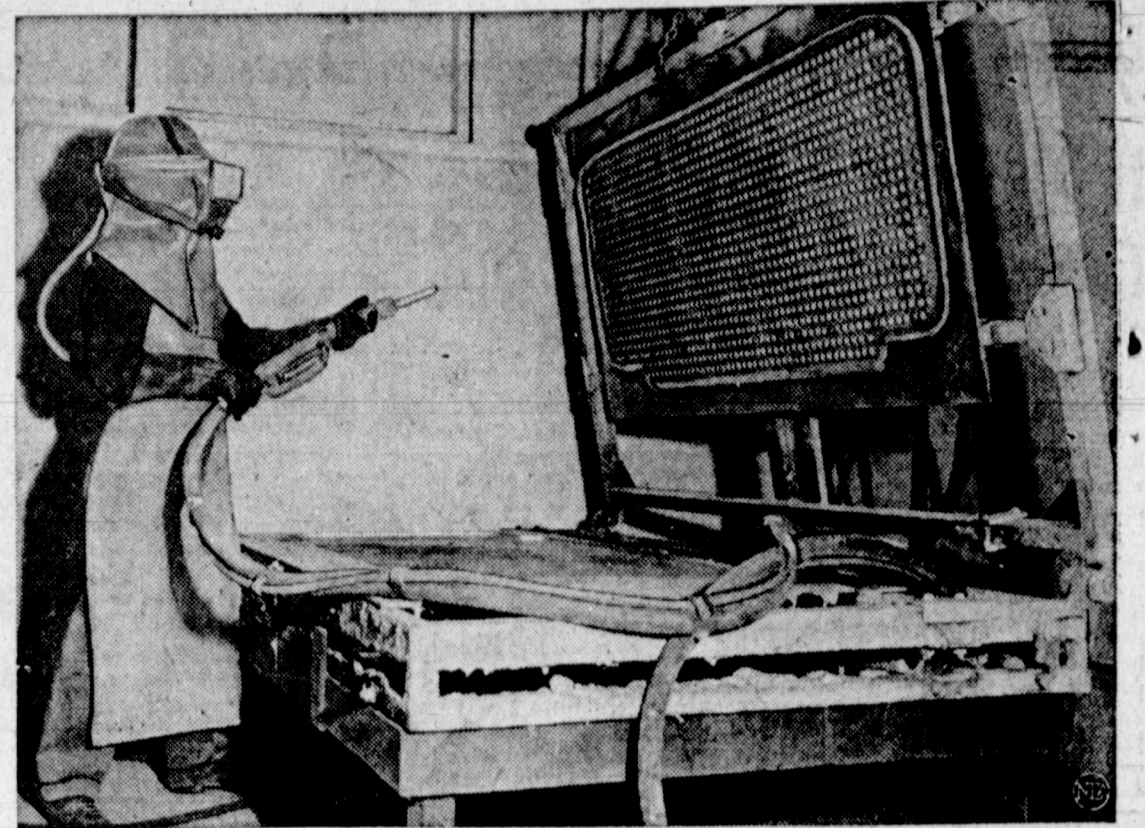

MONTREAL — Mrs. Robert Quinn describing how she rescued her children, Michael, 5, and Patricia, 4, from a home freezer in which they were trapped: "By the time I got them out, their faces had turned red, they were perspiring and their eyes were bulging."

CHICAGO— Roman Catholic Archbishop Robert E. Lucey, of San Antonio, Tex., expressing his belief that the United Nations is "our last hope for peace in the world":

"Of course there are some imperfections in the U.N., but the marvel is that so much has been accomplished in so short a time despite age-old rivalries, conflicts and uncertainties."

"Billing in a picture means nothing. Nowadays they star 40 actors in one movie when actually most are supporting players with secondary roles."

As this is Stack's first nomination, "it was a thrill and a surprise — but whether I win isn't the main thing. It's being nominated that's important, to receive votes from the guys you work with. Those exhibitor polls, and audience awards, and all this is meaningless compared to being applauded by your co-workers."

AMMUNITION—WALNUT SHELLS—With protective clothing making him look like a space man, this worker wields a pneumatic gun using ammunition even more weird. The gun shoots ground walnut shells. They are used to blast clean aluminum molds, like that at right, used in making foam rubber mattresses at the Firestone plant in Fall River, Mass. With the shell-blasting gun, one man can clean a mold in 90 minutes. It used to take a man 12 hours, using a wire wheel buffing machine.

HERALDS RED CROSS DRIVE—This is the official poster for the annual Red Cross fund-raising drive, which starts March 1 and continues through the month. Extraordinary drains on the treasury, such as major flood relief operations last year and this winter and Hungarian relief, have compelled the Red Cross to set its 1957 goal at 95 million dollars—10 million more than was raised last year.

NEW YORK (UP)—A 30 million-to-1 shot came through Monday when New York Times' radio station WQXR received a rare stamp in the mail. An anonymous fan wrote a note to announcer Duncan Pirnie. The envelope was stamped with a 1956 Christmas tuberculosis seal.

RESCUE DASH—A U.S. Navy icebreaker, the Glacier, is steaming full blast from Melbourne, Australia, on 4,000 mile race to aid the Soya Maru, Japanese Antarctic expedition vessel locked in 15-foot ice off the Prince Harald Coast. Another Japanese ship, Umitaka Maru, is standing by to evacuate expedition members when the icebreaker smashes through to them.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
The only thing today's hand proves is that anything can happen in a duplicate game.
At most tables East played four hearts and made either four or five depending on whether East took the heart finesse.
At several tables South played four spades undoubled and went down two or three tricks. Clubs would be opened and continued and South would ruff, play two rounds of trumps and then go after the diamonds. When the diamonds broke badly the hand would collapse.
One declarer (see bidding) made a tremendous top by making four spades doubled. He did not really expect to make his contract on the line of play he adopted but he wanted to make sure of getting out cheaply.
He decided that the double indicated a bad diamond break and played for a cross ruff to hold down his losses.
After trumping the second club he played the ace of diamonds and the king of hearts. East won with the ace and was kind enough to lead back a heart. South ruffed and played the jack of diamonds. West won and led another heart to give declarer his third ruff. A diamond was trumped high in dummy and a club was ruffed with South's fourth trump. Another diamond was trumped high and the last club led and trumped by the king.

Blind Pupils See World On Bomb Blister

By NEA Service
DENVER, Colo. (NEA)—Several pounds of flour, bits of torn newspapers and two surplus plexiglass "blisters" from World War II bombers have opened up a whole new world to a class of blind school kids.
The new world is really their own. It's the world on which they live but can't see. It's a relief globe.
Now, thanks to the imagination of a group of officers here at the Air Force Finance Center, these youngsters can at least "feel" their own world. And that apparently makes a big difference to them. As one of them says:
"When you can't see, it's especially nice to know where you are."
The strange assortment of ingredients was blended by several enterprising officers here at a display portraying the multi-billion dollar, world-wide transactions supervised by the Finance Center.
Layers of newspaper strips and flour paste were built up over the two blisters to form the continents painted black and yellow.
Not long after it was completed a blind typist was hired to transcribe recorded disks at the Center. She touched the improvised globe accidentally and began asking questions about it.
She was so enthusiastic about her discovery of what the world felt like that the Center offered to loan the globe to the blind class at the Evans Elementary School.

Florida Now Adds 'Lure Of The Deep'

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—What hath Florida wrought now?
An underwater miracle, that's what it hath. "The lure of the deep" was only a phrase before. Now it means something.
Florida, you may recall, is the place where a real estate man is undertaking to air-condition the palm trees of a three-acre plot so sitters-down may bench themselves in blessed coolth in mid-summer.
It is the place that has manicured and face-lifted and clothes-horsed a lot of swampland and other ugly and mangy acres into chorus-like comeliness.
Beauty in the Pool
Having thus taken care of land and air, it naturally has moved into the business of improving the finny deep. What it is doing un-

Chevrolet Wins Coveted Manufacturers' Trophy at Daytona Beach as "best performing U. S. automobile!"
Want facts about performance?
Then look at the official figures from NASCAR's* internationally famous Daytona Beach competition for stock cars. Here's what you'll find: Chevrolet, in two weeks of blistering competition, proved itself as America's Number One performance car. Nothing in the low-price field could touch it.
No other car, regardless of price, scored such a sweep. And Chevy walked away with the famous Manufacturers' Trophy, hands down!
The 1957 Chevrolet is, by all odds, the most astonishing performer ever produced in the low-price field. Best of all, this superiority isn't limited to just a few extra-cost high-performance models. Every type of Chevy—from the six-cylinder models right up to the 283-horsepower "Super Turbo-Fire" V8's, from the single-carburetor V8's with Powerglide to the stick-shift "270's"—is a championship car.

Junior And Senior Classes Honored With Hawaiian Motif Banquet-Program

(Special To The News)
WHITE DEER — An Hawaiian motif was followed in decorations and program for the Junior-Senior banquet held in the school cafeteria recently.

Members of the two classes, with administrators and faculty members, their wives and husbands, and special guests entered the dining hall by ganplan and were greeted by girls of the sophomore class, who were dressed in Hawaiian costumes, and who presented each guest with a colorful lei.

Walls of the dining room were lined to resemble a stone sea wall with water in the background. The ceiling was covered with strips of midnight-blue crepe sprinkled with silver stars. Palm trees formed the background for the speakers' table, and at the other end of the room stood a miniature grass hut and palm trees.

As guests arrived, and during the banquet, Misses Becky Moore and Leslie Ann Holladay entertained with hula dances.

Tables were laid with white linens centered with runners of red. Centerpieces at each table were glittering miniature multicolored ukuleles. The floral arrangement at the speaker table was of red gladioli.

Donny Rapstine was master of ceremonies. Invocation was given by Jimmy Horner. Welcome and responses were given by A. J. Alford and Brantley Laycock, presidents of the junior and senior classes.

A boys' quartette, "The Whirlwinds," from Frank Phillips Junior College, Berger, under the direction of Mrs. Loma Harrison, provided entertainment for the evening.

The principal speaker was Dan True, of Amarillo, who spoke on choices, responsibilities, and opportunities facing American youth.

The benediction was pronounced by Rocky Coffee.

Plans for the banquet were under the direction of the Junior Class sponsors, Mrs. Marguerite Hudgins, Calvin Strickland and Ronny Gooch. Approximately 100 guests attended.

Later in the evening, banquet guests were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. O'Neal. Table games, ping-pong, television, and dancing comprised the entertainment.

Refreshments were served from a lace-covered table centered with a floral arrangement. Mrs. Russell McConnell presided at the punch bowl.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal and their daughter, Miss Peggy O'Neal, in entertaining and preparing refreshments were Messrs. and Mrs. T. D. Anderwald, Hueyn Laycock, Russell McConnell, George Coffee, Leonard Ballard and Sam Lester.

About eighty guests called during the evening.

Miss Kathryn Jannell Riegel, daughter of Mrs. R. W. Riegel and the late Mr. Riegel, 803 E. Craven, and Phillip Rene Albores, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. After a honeymoon trip to Louisiana; Mississippi, and Alabama, Mr. and Mrs. Albores will be at home in Sherman, Texas, where Mr. Albores is stationed with the Army.

Ruth Millett
Older women who fit in most naturally and gracefully with the friends of their grown children seem to have quite a few things in common:

One: They are as willing to listen as to talk. The older person who chatters a blue streak doesn't seem interested in or sympathetic to younger people.

Two: They don't try to act as young as their grown children and their friends but keep their dignity and place. They win admiration without trying, just by being themselves.

Three: They don't talk about their health constantly. Nothing so quickly bores younger people than having to appear sympathetic while they hear a blow-by-blow account of health problems.

Four: They are optimistic. The head-shakers and viewers-worriers put a damper on the spirits of the young.

Five: They are enthusiastic about new things, instead of always talking about how much better the old days were.

Six: They don't think young people are going to the dogs or, if they do, don't say so. They aren't forever clucking about how the younger generation is bringing up its children.

Seven: They aren't too free with advice. If young people ask for it they give it, but always in a modest way, instead of assuming that they couldn't possibly be wrong and anyone who disagrees with their point of view is on the wrong track.

Eight: They obviously enjoy younger people but are just as happy with friends of their own age. There is something frightening to younger people about an older person who shuns her own age group, as though by clinging to the young she can deny her years.

"Men Don't Know How To Buy Shirts" States Trouble-Shooting Clothes Expert

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent
BELTSVILLE, Md. (NEA) — If your husband happens to be short and dumpy, get him a shirt with a sharp-pointed collar. It will make him look taller.

If he's thin with a sharp nose, try spread collars with round points to beef him up.

That's the advice Miss Clarice Scott gives to ladies who have the chore of picking out hubby's shirts.

Here at the U.S. Department of Agriculture Research Service, Miss Scott is a trouble-shooting clothing specialist. In addition to ladies' garments, she knows about everything there is to know about men's clothes.

"When I see the way some men dress I wish I didn't know anything," she laughs.

Recently she completed a study of men's shirts for a publication soon to come out of the government's presses. The booklet is called, "Men's Shirts — A Guide to Quality."

"I talked to wives out here," she says, "and asked them if they would bring in some old shirts for me to study."

Overwhelming. In fact, Miss Scott got so many that it was a problem to dispose of them after the study was finished.

She also bought a selection of shirts in retail stores and informally asked a number of husbands and wives for their complaints about shirts.

Here are some of the things she discovered in her shirt survey:

"Many men do not know their correct shirt sizes," she explains. "They disregard the few extra pounds they have put on since college days, and extra weight tends to thicken a man's neck."

As a result, shirts are too tight around the collar and will wear out faster.

Miss Scott also thinks men do not give enough attention to collar styles.

"They hesitate to pick out what's becoming to them and that's foolish," she says. "They should wear collars that suit them."

For example, when a stout man selects a collar that's too high and round, it makes him look fatter. He should look for low-set collars to counteract a thick, short neck.

When buying inexpensive shirts, Miss Scott advises men or their wives to make a careful selection and not just grab three shirts of the counter. In a pile of shirts of identical material and style, some are likely to be better cut and made than others.

If your husband has a heavy beard, it's best not to buy soft, Oxford cloth shirts. A rough neck and chin will make the shirts fuzzy around the edge of the collar, according to Miss Scott.

In addition to shirts, she is an expert on suits. She has recently prepared an Agriculture Department booklet on how to judge the quality of men's suits.

"In this study she bought inexpensive, medium and high grade suits from manufacturers and gave them a careful going over."

"We ripped them apart and examined all the inside material and construction," she says.

Now that Miss Scott has wound up her research on men's clothing for the time being, she's investigating what garments are best for partially disabled women.

MATURE PARENT To Oleta Snell Circle

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Stuart can now stand up in his playpen. In the not dim future he'll be out of it, walking.

Exploring his world, he'll try to handle gas jets, faucets, lamp cords, he'll try to lick other people's discarded candy wrappers and scuff through puddles. He'll want to see what's on top of the sideboard and hear the noise made by tearing your unread newspaper.

Blocking these efforts, his mother will say, "No, no, no."

He'll ignore her. The very first chance he gets, Stuart will be back at the lamp cord. Then, his inexperienced mother will think, "Obviously I've borne a disobedient child. This is the showdown." And to show Stuart who's boss, give him a sharp slap on his hand.

Yet all her child guidance books refuse to define Stuart's behavior as "disobedience."

They say, "Because the little child's attention span is short, he can't concentrate on what you repeat to say. So you have to repeat what you want from him over and over. Indeed, if you want it very much, you'll be smart to get him to repeat it after you."

But Stuart's mother doesn't appreciate this most excellent counsel.

So I'm going to try to make it more impressive.

Repetitiveness is the outstanding feature of nearly every story little children love.

When Chicken Little rushes about the barnyard warning his friends of impending disaster, his refrain is, "Run, run, the sky is falling, and part of it fell on my tail!"

The Gingerbread Boy escaping from the various people who want to eat him cries over and over, "And I can run away from you, too. I can, I can!"

Again and again the Little Red Hen uses almost the same words to appeal for help with her bread-making. Always Goldilocks' Bears say the same thing by echoing each other. We go often, not just once, around the Mulberry Bush. From Jack's fee-fi-fo-fumming giant to the Three Little Pigs' huffing and puffing wolf, the characters in little children's stories carefully satisfy their craving for repetitiveness.

I hope Stuart's mother will take this in. If she does, she'll stop repeating it when she has to tell him things over and over.

Instead of seeing his forgetfulness as disobedience, she recognizes it as inevitability in a small person for whom the song makes London Bridge fall down four times. And he is able to repeat for him with love.

Cook's Book

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
A friend just brought us a delicious gift from Paris. He dined in a unique restaurant off the beaten track called the Grand Veuve. Well, our friend found their chicken with tarragon sauce superb. He coaxed the recipe from the chef and has presented it to us for our reader friends:

Baked Chicken with Tarragon Sauce

One large frying chicken, salt and pepper, 1/2 pound butter, 1/2 loaf white bread.

As for frying, cut the chicken in several pieces. Salt and pepper with moderation. Butter each piece; cover with bread crumbs. Butter the baking dish well. Place the pieces of chicken in the dish and spread the remaining crumbs and butter on top of the chicken. This should be baked in a moderately heated oven for 40 minutes to one hour, or until the chicken is done. It is served in the baking dish with tarragon sauce.

Tarragon Sauce

Two tablespoons mustard, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a pinch of fresh ground pepper, 1 cup olive oil, 4 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, 1/2 cup chopped tarragon and parsley.

The salt, pepper and mustard go into a mixing bowl; add the oil and mix in vinegar and herbs. This should be stirred with a wooden spoon.

For an appetizer before that chicken, you might serve these cheese balls:

Calypso Cheese Balls

Grate sharp cheese, add mayonnaise enough to hold cheese together, and a few dashes of aromatic bitters. Roll cheese into small balls, roll balls in crushed canned peanuts.

Manners Make Friends

It's frustrating to get mail that bears no return address either on the letter or envelopes. No matter how much you want to answer it, you can't unless you know the writer's address.

So always put your return address on a letter.

A few salted peanuts gives cold appeasance and unexpected crunch and flavor; grated swiss or cheddar cheese rolled lightly into a decorative powder biscuit dough is a delightful change from the usual biscuits; and coconut makes a wonderfully new dish of an ordinary curry.

Texas Does Not Have Worlds Largest Ranch

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The earliest duodenal ulcer recorded in medical literature was in 1746. Just 209 years later — on Feb. 5, 1955, in Melbourne, Australia — one Joe Garcia ate 480 oysters in 60 minutes.

Also in 1955 (it was a great gulping year) a Canadian named Glen Johns ate 24 raw eggs in 14 minutes and a Chicagoan named Philip Yazdzik ate 77 hamburgers at one sitting.

And if anybody gives a holy hoot, it was in 1880 that Johann Ketzler of Germany consumed one whole roast ox in 42 days. There seems to be no information as to whether he ordered it well done. Anyhow, his record still stands.

Biggest Ranch Not in Texas
 The egg-laying record (355 in 265 days) was set by a black Australorp in South Africa in 1944-45, and the world handshaking record (8,513 in one day) was set by President Teddy Roosevelt on New Year's day, 1907.

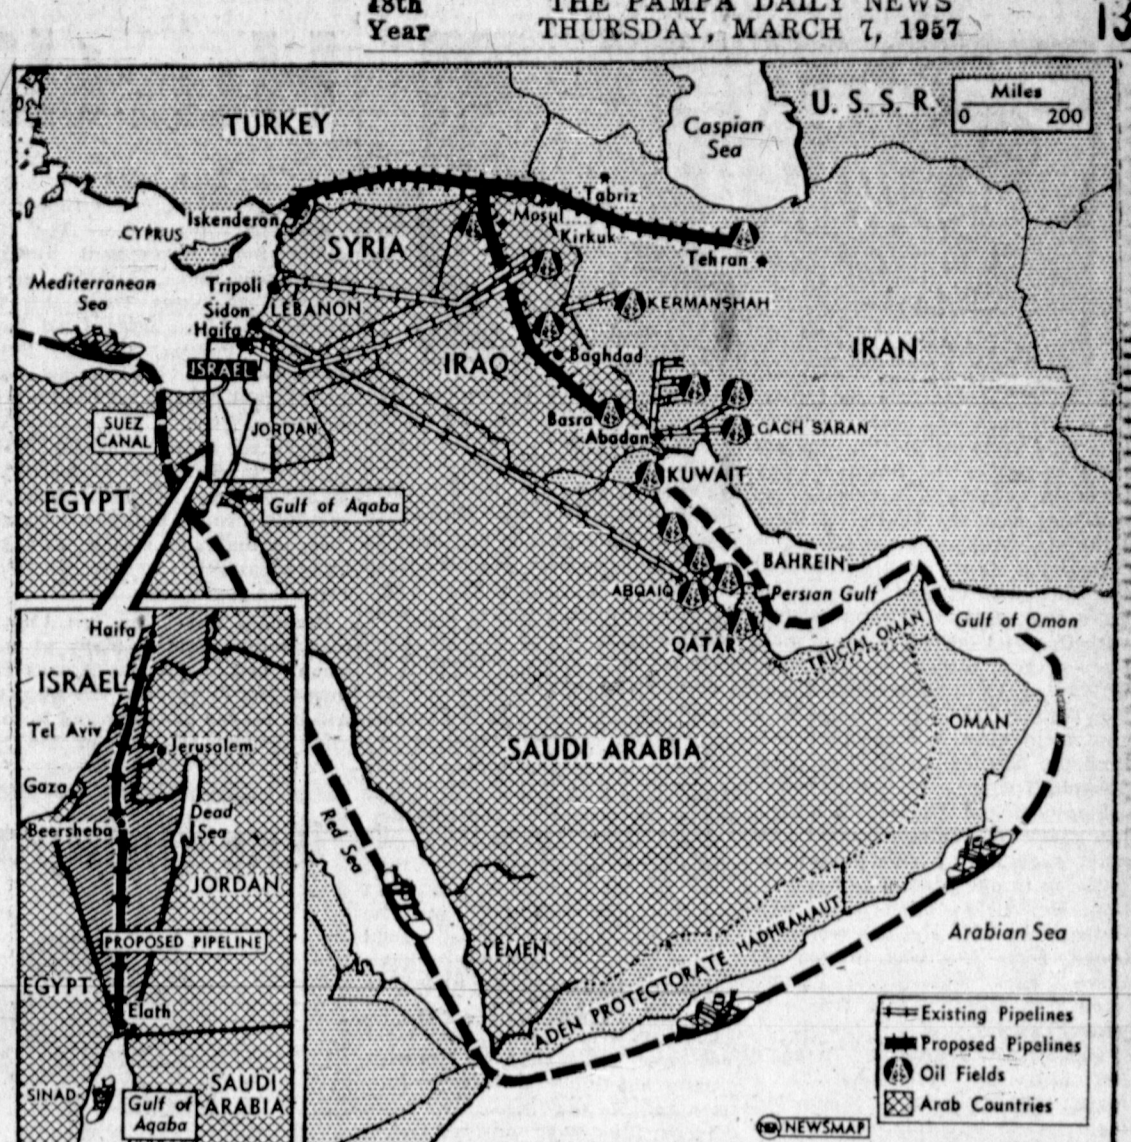

The world's largest ranch is not in Texas. It is the Gang Ranch, in British Columbia (more than 3.9-million acres), the world bricklaying championship (3,472 in 60 minutes) was troweled in East St. Louis, Ill., in 1937 by Joseph Ration, who, supported by assistants, laid 'em on at a rate of nearly 38 a minute.

The longest bicycle ever made was a ten-man whizbang whose riders wore caps and kneepants. It was the "ortien" tandem, made in Walton, Mass., about 1898; length, 23 feet; reputed speed, 40 mph.

"Fills Unfelt Want"
 These terrific tidbits of information were plucked from a peculiar gold mine named "The Guinness Book of Superlatives," a volume sponsored by a stout fellow in Ireland, and whether you like it or not, it's good for you. As the London publication, the Spectator, commented when the book came out in Britain, "It fills a long unfelt want."

The 125,000-word volume doesn't try to compete with that greatest of all gold mines, the World Almanac, but just sticks to superlatives of all persuasions, records of every nature.

You'll probably be happy to know that there once was a Spaniard who had 26 fingers, and that back in good old 1921 the winner

SEEK OIL LINES TO BY-PASS SUEZ—The crisis created by blockage of the Suez Canal has the top brains of the big international oil companies buzzing with plans for ways to skip the Suez in case of Mid-East war or future canal closure. Most take the form of new pipelines, that by-pass Suez and Arab countries unfriendly or under Communist influence. Several are indicated on Newsmap above. One would run from northern Iraq into Turkey, then west, skirting Red-tinged Syria to a Mediterranean outlet at Iskenderon. A second plan calls for the northern Iraq-Iskenderon line to extend down to the Basra field. In an emergency, this could eliminate the long-haul tanker trip (dotted line) through the Persian Gulf and around the Arabian Peninsula to Suez. A third proposal calls for two lines from Basra to Iskenderon which could carry 1,200,000 barrels a day. A line may be run west through Turkey from a new oil strike near Tehran in Iran. A line may even be extended to tiny, oil-rich Kuwait on the Persian Gulf. Israel seeks backing for a line from Elath, on the Gulf of Aquaba, to its refinery port of Haifa. As it is felt no Arab country would permit its oil to go to Israel, that country would have to depend on oil shipped from non-Arab Iran, tankered over sea routes that Egypt or Saudi Arabia could block in time of war.

Farmers To Reorganize Texas Ag. Department

SAN ANTONIO (UP)—Ten of 13 Texas farm segments ignored objections from Agriculture Commissioner John C. White that their proposal "originated from Washington" and outlined a bill which would reorganize the Texas Department of Agriculture Wednesday.

The meeting's chairman, Joe Montague, general counsel for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, spoke in favor of "some plan that would be representative of the agriculture industry in Texas."

Toothaker presented several other state plans for an agriculture commission system and said he favored the New Jersey plan of eight commissioners elected by agriculture groups with an executive director chosen by the commission.

Montague pointed out that under the present system of an elected commissioner — other industries and organized labor have as much, if not more, say-so in who would run the Agriculture Department than the people who are engaged in agriculture.

Easter Seal Drive Starts On March 15

Dates for the 1957 Easter Seal Appeal in behalf of crippled children and adults are March 15-April 21. Euclid Hudson, president of the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults and chairman of the Appeal in Texas, announced today.

The 24th annual Appeal is expected to be the most extensive campaign in the history of the Texas Society. Easter Seals will reach more than 1,000,000 Texas homes. Mailing will begin around March 18.

Hudson said that the Society seeks a total of $300,000 in 1957. Easter Seal funds in 1956 totalled $270,000.

"The once-a-year Appeal gives Texans an opportunity to contribute funds for maintaining and expanding services badly needed to help crippled children and adults, right in their own communities," Hudson said. "Support of the entire state will be needed to attain the goals set for 1957."

"It is the increasing awareness that a crippling accident may strike any of us at any time in today's world that has led to a steadily increasing support by Texans of the Society's work and made possible the 30 strategically located Easter Seal treatment centers established in Texas since 1946 — more than in any other state."

The rapidly growing Texas population, coupled with soaring accident rates and an increasing proportion of accident survivors saved by modern surgical procedures and drugs unknown ever a few years ago, explains the need for increased funds, Hudson said.

He said that over two-fifths of the patients seen in Easter Seal treatment centers today have been crippled by accidents.

"This is in sharp contrast to the birth-deformities and disease-caused crippling which formed the bulk of our cases when the Society was founded," Hudson said, "and points up the need of facilities for physical restoration and rehabilitation of the crippled in every community."

White Leaves Meeting
 White told the group, "I want it understood that I think any plan should be of Texas origin and that we won't be dependent upon the federal government." He offered no further objections and left the meeting.

Anson was appointed chairman of a committee to draw up the bill which must be before the Legislature by Friday. He will be assisted by Ross Wilson of Gorman, manager of the Southwest Peanut Shellers Association of

The government has ordered 1,500 of these vehicles for use in the South and in California.

Blonde To Appeal Her Conviction
TUNICA, Miss. (UP)—An attractive blonde today planned to appeal her conviction and sentence to three years in the state penitentiary on cattle-rustling charges.

An all-male jury deliberated one hour Wednesday, then found Alice Mills, 30, guilty of rustling cattle from a plantation where she worked.

Miss Mills was the only one of nine persons accused of operating a cattle theft ring to be brought to trial. Seven others pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later and one is still at large.

Hille Roleman, director of the Livestock Theft Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, said Miss Mills and the others stole 90 to 100 head of cattle from Abbey-Leatherman plantation, where they worked.

COLLINS CORNER

by DICK COLLINS
PAMPA NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

AUSTIN — Pampa's record in the University Interscholastic League's state basketball tournament is one of the finest of any team in the state, according to statistics released by Dr. R. H. Williams, director of the UIL.

Only the Bowie Jackrabbits hold the distinction of having won more state tournaments. Pampa is tied with Buna for second place in most state championships won with two. The Jackrabbits from West Texas won four state championships in a row from 1951 through 1954 behind the spectacular play of giant Temple Tucker, now a Rice Owl.

Seminole and White Oak have the finest percentages in state play, each having won one championship in one year of representation. Bowie has been here six times since 1946 and has won four times. Buna has won in two of three years and the Harvesters have won two titles in five appearances.

The Austin Maroons, Pampa's first opponent, have been here more than any other team but their record is unimpressive. The Maroons have won one state crown, that in 1928, but they had to forfeit the championship.

The casualty rate of tournament champions is heavy. Only two of last year's five champions are back this year. They are Buna of Class A, now in Class AA, and Seminole, the defending Class AA titlist. Pollock, Palo Duro of Amarillo and Laredo failed to make it this year.

Only four of last year's representatives to the state meet are back. They are Clear Creek, Buna, Kyle and Van Horn. Pampa—won state titles in 1953 and 1954, came here in 1955 and then failed to win the district crown last year. Seventeen of the teams in this year's meet have appeared here before and eight have won previous championships.

Pampa has the smallest enrollment of any high school in the Class AAAA bracket here this year. Pampa High School has an enrollment of 1,104 students compared to Jefferson of Port Arthur's 2,695, Austin has 2,399 students and Highland Park of Dallas has 1,266.

Burkett High School is the smallest school entered. The little Central West Texas Class B school has 38 students in high school. The Blue Hawks have appeared here on two other occasions but have never been able to win. Their coach is W. R. Chambers who has been at the helm for 37 years, that's as long as the University Interscholastic League has been in business. The Blue Hawks have won 31 of 32 games this year. Chambers plans to retire this year and his team hopes to win the state championship of Class B as a going-away present.

Dr. Williams is one of the busiest men around Gregory Gym this week. This big tournament, the 37th, is his baby. He's built it into one of the biggest in the nation.

Each year the tournament is supposed to be bigger and better than ever before. I asked him if that was the case this year and he stated, "I don't see how it could get much bigger. We already draw 50,000 in three days and that's as many as we can take care of. Television helped the tournament last year and should be an even greater aid this year with an Austin team in the meet. We have the gym filled even with television. We would like to be able to televise the tournament into the Panhandle but are unable to do so because of the coaxial cable that goes in there from Oklahoma City instead of Shreveport."

With the talk in recent years about Coach Clifton McNeely leaving Pampa for a more lucrative job, Dr. Williams gave his views on the subject. Every since the Harvesters have been doing so well in basketball there has been talk of some big college grabbing him from the Panhandle.

"I don't believe Clifton will leave Pampa for the college ranks," Dr. Williams commented. He's not one to go out and recruit players. That's one of the roughest jobs belonging to a college coach. That's the reason Jack Gray quit here at Texas, he just didn't have the nerve to go out and talk to some of the boys who are still wet behind the ears and plead with them to enroll at Texas."

Pampa has done its part in trying to keep McNeely. He's been made a director of the Kiwanis club and a Deacon in the First Baptist Church. That shows their respect for him.

Gran Hamner today it's a matter of control of the nerves, the heart and the fast ball.

Granney at the age of 30 is trying to carve out a new career in the major leagues. After nine years as a regular infielder with the Philadelphia Phillies a soreness in the "extra arm" ruined his stretch and he's trying to make it as a pitcher.

"I fear the worst and hope for the best," he says.

The odds, strangely enough, are both with him and against him. Men with strong throwing arms have made it before. Made it big, too. But, strangely enough, those who were successful all switched at age 26.

Look at the classic examples: Rucky Walters, Bob Lemon, Saul Rogovin and Jack Harshman. They all were four years younger than Hamner when they made the leap and those four years could spell the difference.

Could Be Tragic

Hamner's could be a tragic case. One of the aging "Whiz Kids" who carried the Phillies to their pennant in 1950, he pulled a tendon in his non-throwing arm two years ago. It failed to respond to treatment and he went under the knife in November of 1955. But the arm never recovered.

"It didn't bother my throwing," he explains. "But I couldn't swing at the plate any more and I couldn't stretch far and low with my glove hand."

Last season he hit only 224. Meanwhile, to his dismay, balls he used to come up with were slipping under his glove or sliding his desperate lung. But the sharp eyes of coach Benny Bengough gave him a chance at a new career.

Tigers Picked Most Improved AL Team

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

LAKELAND, Fla., (UP)—Jack Tighe, in his freshman season as a major league manager, agreed today with those who pick the Detroit Tigers as the most improved team in the American League.

"I think we will prove it all right," Tighe said. "But we've had to wait and see if that improvement is good enough to make up the 15 games we finished behind the Yankees last season."

Admitting that beating the Yankees "is going to be quite a project," Tighe declared that the Tiger players "feel that they have a real chance."

Needs Starting Pitcher

"And that's important," he added, "and I'm not going to say anything to make them feel differently."

The plain-speaking Tighe minced no words when he discussed the prospects of the Tigers.

"We need a pitcher and a right-handed hitting outfielder," he said. "And we are going to have to find them among our youngsters for the other clubs in the league are a bit leery of dealing with us, figuring we are strong enough as it is."

Right now, he doesn't know whether he will be able to fill those gaps.

Boone At First

Another key to Detroit's chance, he pointed out, was the attempt to convert third baseman Ray Boone into a first baseman. If Boone can make it, Tighe figures it will strengthen his club because Jim Finigan, obtained from the Athletics, then would play third.

If Boone doesn't make the grade at first, he would go back to third, with Finigan battling Frank Bolling and Jack Dittmar for the second base post and two veterans, Ed Robinson and Earl Torgeson, dividing the first base chores.

"If we come up with that pitcher, that right-handed hitting outfielder and Boone can do the job at first we won't concede an inch to the Yankees or any other club," declared Tighe. "I figure we have a good chance to win the pennant as things are right now, but if we can get those three things our chances will be much better."

Gran Hamner Trying To Be A Pitcher

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—With Granney Hamner today it's a matter of control of the nerves, the heart and the fast ball.

Granney at the age of 30 is trying to carve out a new career in the major leagues. After nine years as a regular infielder with the Philadelphia Phillies a soreness in the "extra arm" ruined his stretch and he's trying to make it as a pitcher.

"I fear the worst and hope for the best," he says.

The odds, strangely enough, are both with him and against him. Men with strong throwing arms have made it before. Made it big, too. But, strangely enough, those who were successful all switched at age 26.

Look at the classic examples: Rucky Walters, Bob Lemon, Saul Rogovin and Jack Harshman. They all were four years younger than Hamner when they made the leap and those four years could spell the difference.

Could Be Tragic

Hamner's could be a tragic case. One of the aging "Whiz Kids" who carried the Phillies to their pennant in 1950, he pulled a tendon in his non-throwing arm two years ago. It failed to respond to treatment and he went under the knife in November of 1955. But the arm never recovered.

"It didn't bother my throwing," he explains. "But I couldn't swing at the plate any more and I couldn't stretch far and low with my glove hand."

Last season he hit only 224. Meanwhile, to his dismay, balls he used to come up with were slipping under his glove or sliding his desperate lung. But the sharp eyes of coach Benny Bengough gave him a chance at a new career.

By DICK COLLINS
Pampa News Sports Editor

AUSTIN, March 6 — The 37th annual State Basketball Tournament opens here Thursday morning with 24 teams from the far corners of Texas entered. Of those schools, Pampa, Pecos, Buna, White Oak and Big Sandy have been established as pre-tourney favorites.

The meet opens Thursday morning at 8:45 in Class B with Meadow taking on Bruni. Class B play will continue through the afternoon with Class A teams to play at 3:10 and 4:25. Class AA schools are matched in the night sessions.

Pampa's Harvesters get their first action Friday night at 9:25 when they meet the Austin Maroons. The other class AAAA games will be played one hour and 20 minutes sooner. Winners of the two

Hold Final Pre-Tournament Workout Today

Games will play for the championship Saturday afternoon at 3:45 and the third-place game has been set for 10:10 that morning.

Droves of fans from over the state began arriving today for the three-day tournament and an estimated 50,000 are expected to file through the Gregory Gym turnstiles before the meet is complete.

An estimated 500 fans are expected from Pampa. The Harvesters arrived here early this afternoon after staying Tuesday night in Denton. The Harvesters spent an hour working out in the St. Edwards University Gym and later spent 30 minutes on the Gregory Gym floor. Almost every team used the Gregory Gym floor to practice for 30 minutes at one time during the day.

The Maroons worked at St. Edwards after the Harvesters left there. The Harvesters are favored to win their game with Austin while the Highland Park - Port Arthur contest is rated as a toss-up.

Pampa is expected to face a team that had used ball control and an occasional stall to win its way to the state tournament. The Maroons have won 29 of 28 games this year and captured 13 of their last 16 games. Two of the last five Austin games went into overtime when the Maroons held the ball and refused to shoot.

The Harvesters boast of one of the top records in the tournament with 27 victories in 28 games. Their offensive record is the talk of the tournament crowd. The Harvesters have scored 2,131 points in 28 games while allowing 1,557. On the other hand, the Maroons have chalked up 1,417 points and allowed the opposition 1,224.

Pampa has scored 70 points or better in 13 of the 28 games. Austin's biggest output was 82 points against Edison of San Antonio. Many of their scores were in the 30's, 40's and 50's. They took one District 13 - AAAA triumph over Waco by a 24-22 count. Austin beat Harlingen 47-45 in bi-district play and then won the regional title over Burbank of San Antonio by a 58-44 count.

Austin losses have been to San Marcos, Victoria, Lamar of Houston, Jefferson of San Antonio, Waco twice, McCallum, of Austin and McAllen.

Eight television stations will televise the finals of the tournament and 38 radio stations will air the final contests. Pampa radio station KFDN will air both Class AAAA games Friday night with air time at 7:45. KFDN will also broadcast the finals via Magnolia Petroleum Company should the Harvesters win Friday night.

Eight teams make up the Class B competition, and four each in the other brackets—A, AA, AAA, and AAAA.

Class B, A and AA begin first bracket play today. AAA and AAAA teams open play Friday.

Today's schedule:

CLASS B

Wilt And Company In NCAA Tourney

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Kansas, the nation's No. 2 basketball team, rode the sky-high shoulders of Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain into a berth in the NCAA tournament today and tonight North Carolina, the No. 1 team, opens its bid for a similar berth.

Utah and Bradley, meanwhile, accepted bids to the National Invitation Tournament — completing the 12-team field for that carnival starting in New York's Madison Square Garden, March 16.

Kansas landed its spot in the NCAA when it clinched the Big Seven Conference championship Wednesday night with a 64-57 triumph over runner-up Kansas State as Chamberlain, just named to the United Press All-America team, led the way with 24 points. The win gave Kansas a 10-1 league record with only one game left to play.

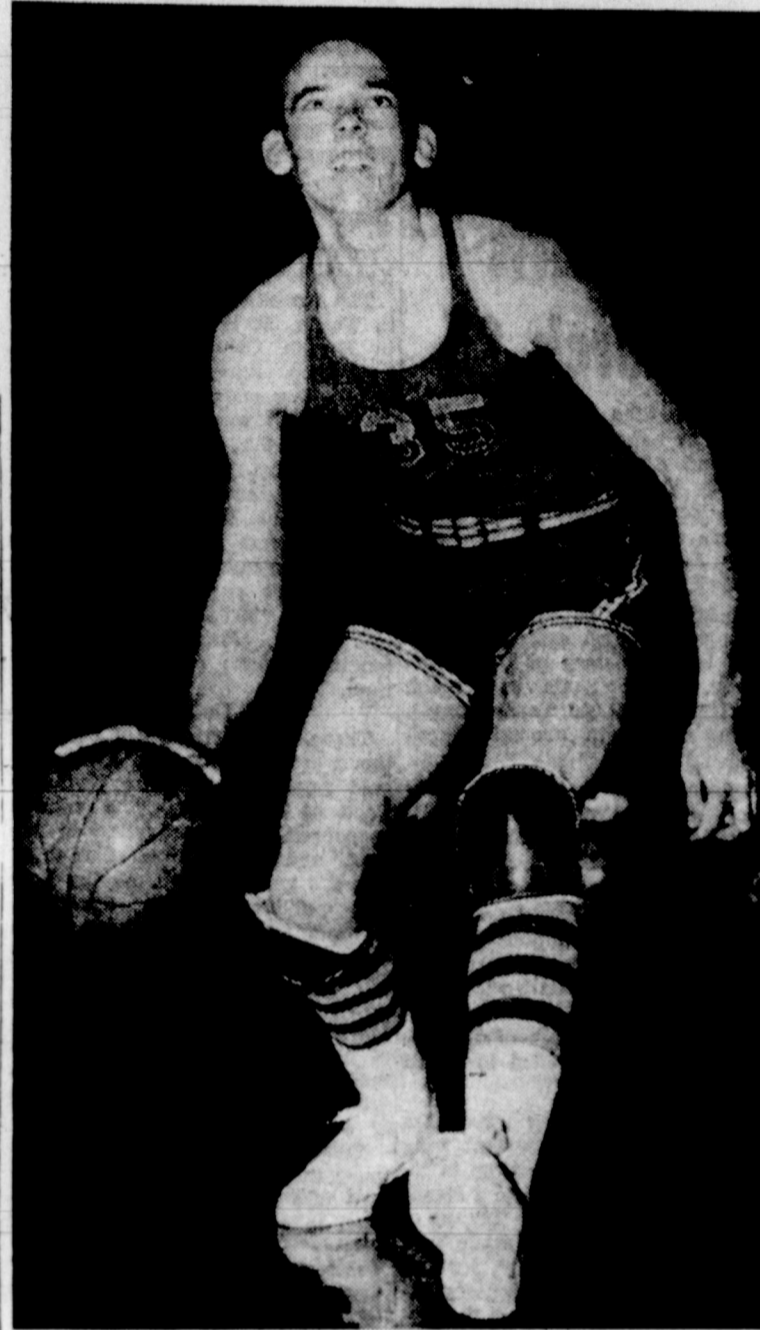

Jayhawks Meet SMU

It also sets up what should be one of the season's very best matches—Kansas (No. 2) against Southern Methodist, the No. 4 team, in an NCAA tourney game at Dallas, March 15.

Kansas was the 20th team to gain an NCAA berth. The three remaining berths are reserved for the champions of the Ivy League, Atlantic Coast Conference, and Southern Conference.

Yale clinched at least a tie for the Ivy League crown Wednesday night by beating Pennsylvania, 60-54, as Larry Downs set the pace with 21 points and Ed Robinson added 12 points and 21 rebounds.

North Carolina, with a 24-0 record, won the regular-season ACC championship but must win the league tourney starting tonight at

Dodgers To Los Angeles?

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Mayor Norris Poulson headed back to Los Angeles today with the news the Brooklyn Dodgers may not be far behind.

"We are optimistic as a result of our visit," said Poulson after a four-hour meeting with Dodgers President Walter O'Malley. "We want major league ball in Los Angeles and we want the Dodgers."

Poulson, who met with Brooklyn officials "to test Mr. O'Malley's sincerity," added, "I don't think New York will solve the Dodgers' problem and I believe we will propose a comprehensive program the Dodgers can't resist."

Pampa's Bill Webb Finishes Basketball Days At Wayland

PLAINVIEW — Pampa's Bill Webb is finishing an illustrious basketball career for Wayland Baptist College as the Pioneer five enters the District 8 NAIA playoffs.

Webb, 6-0 senior, receives high praise from Coach Harley Redin as a ballhandler, consistent scorer, hustler and defensive player. He has swished through 186 points in 22 games, though hampered briefly by an ankle injury. Bill was a member of the state champion Pampa Harvesters and performed on the hardwood for Schreiner Institute two years before coming to Wayland.

At least two more games will find Webb starting for the Pioneers. The Waylanders wrapped up another great season last Saturday night by thrashing the University of Corpus Christi 114-66 in Plainview. With an 18-7 season record, and no defeats in district competition, the Pioneers moved into the district playoffs against Abilene Christian College. Wayland had defeated ACC twice already this season, 75-68 in Abilene and 88-73 in Plainview.

Since donning the blue and gold of Wayland cagers, Webb has been quite active in other student activities. In addition to being president of the student body, Bill acts as a Youth Director at the Cedar Hill Baptist Church near Lockney. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Webb, 412 North Hobart, Pampa.

This season Webb has been a key member of one of the most fabulous teams ever produced at Wayland. The team is short, but effective and improving with each

Krebs, Mallett Lead All-SWC

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (UP) — Southern Methodist's big Jim Krebs and Baylor's Jerry Mallett, who won All-Southwest Conference basketball honors as sophomores but not as juniors, were both unanimous choices for "all" honors on the 1957 United Press mythical team.

Krebs was one of three sterling performers off Coach E. O. (Doc) Hayes third - straight championship team at Southern Methodist to win berths on this year's team picked by sports writers and college publicity directors.

The other SMU Mustangs to make the grade were junior Rick Herrscher, the only non-senior on the honor team, and Bobby Mills, one of two repeaters from last season's United Press selections.

Rounding out the first team, which included four of the conference's top six point-makers, was Raymond Downs of Texas, the only other returnee from the 1956 team. Downs and Mills lacked only two first-place votes of being unanimous.

Herrscher barely won the fifth place by one point from Dick O'Neal, the Texas Christian ace who thereby missed being a three-time first teamer after sensational seasons as a sophomore and junior.

Larry Showalter, the SMU long-range sniper, joined O'Neal in failing to repeat on the first team, but was a strong vote-getter for a second team berth.

Joining O'Neal and Showalter on the second team were junior Temple Tucker of Rice, and sophomores Tom Robitaille of Rice and Ronnie Stevenson of TCU, both of whom loom as stellar attractions for the two seasons lying ahead of them.

Golden Gloves Champions Go Before TV Cameras

CHICAGO (UP)—Another battle that might be nicknamed "Hurricane" debuted on television Wednesday night, and 17-year-old Ernest Terrell of Chicago could turn into a heavyweight challenger before he reaches voting age.

Terrell stole the show in the final of the 30th annual Western Golden Gloves when he put on a display of perpetual motion to win the light heavyweight title with a technical knockout of Larry Vignaroli, Des Moines, Iowa, at 1:55 of the first round.

Another potential pro star also turned in a knockout in the championship card, Jimmy Jackson, a Minnesota medical student on the Minneapolis team. But his hard punching came after the television cameras were off.

Kansas City easily won the team trophy with 17 points and took two individual titles.

Joe Shaw dethroned Willie Moran, Louisville, for the welterweight title, and Tommy Reynolds took the 118 pound title with a win over Manuel Elias, Los Angeles.

Weekly Newsletter From Congressman Walter Rogers

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:

The Federal Budget

Washington talk could be divided into two major categories. One would concern domestic matters and the other international problems. The talk here on international matters has, for some time, been centered on the Middle East situation. The number one topic in all discussions concerning domestic matters is the Federal Budget. You will recall that the budget submitted to the Congress by the President of the United States, as his recommendation for the amount of money necessary to run the federal government for the fiscal year 1958, is the highest budget that has ever been submitted to the Congress in peacetime in the entire history of this country. Although we recognize that an expanding population must create an expanding economy, and it follows that budgetary requirements will increase on an overall basis, many of us do not agree that such facts alone could justify the budget submitted to the Congress this year. We feel that every item in the budget should be weighed very carefully, and every possibility of measurably reducing it should be scrutinized with great care. I want to point out to you where the money comes from and where it goes. First, let us see where it comes from. According to the Bureau of the Budget in their official publication, each federal dollar that is collected from the people of this country comes from the following sources: 51 cents is collected from the individual income taxpayer; 29 cents is collected from corporation income tax; 12 cents is collected from excise tax; 4 cents comes from various other taxes, such as estate and gift taxes, customs, and income from certain government enterprises. You can readily see that the individual income taxpayer is directly carrying the major part of the tax burden. Indirectly, he is carrying practically all of it, because he pays the corporate taxes and excise taxes by reason of the increase in the cost of the products involved. These last items have had a major effect in the increase of the cost of living, which has recently hit a new all-time high.

Now, let us see where the money goes. According to this Budget Bureau publication, expenditures are divided into 6 categories. The largest of these is what the Bureau calls "major national security." It gobbles up 59 cents out of every tax dollar. This will amount to 45 billion 300 million dollars for the 1958 fiscal year. The Department of Defense will get 38 billion of that amount; 2 billion 600 million will be spent for military assistance to the armed forces of other countries (this is a part of the foreign aid program). 2 billion 300 million dollars will be spent by the Atomic Energy Commission. The remaining 2 billion 400 million will be earmarked for (in the language of the Bureau of the Budget) other programs related to the nation's protection. These are: (1) Economic and technical assistance portion of the Mutual Security Program (this is another name for foreign aid); (2) Civil Defense; (3) International information activities; (4) Stockpiling of strategic materials; (5) Selective Service System.

The second largest bite out of the tax dollar amounts to 10 cents of each dollar. This will go to pay interest on the public debt. In round figures, it will amount to 7 billion 400 million dollars for fiscal year 1958. The Bureau estimates that, because of the increased interest rates, John Q. Taxpayer will have to cough up an additional one hundred million dollars this year. Agriculture, which includes the soil bank program and 11 other agricultural activities including rural electrification and rural telephone loans and all research and development projects, takes 7 cents. Veterans benefits take 7 cents. The Bureau has lumped together several other items in one group including natural resource development, commerce and housing, labor and welfare and general government. This category takes 15 cents of the tax dollar. General government, which takes 1 billion 451 million, includes financial management, property and records, FBI, Legislative and Judicial, District of Columbia, territories and possessions, Weather Bureau, etc.

Two cents is used for debt retirement. This is an odd procedure. The public debt, in the last statement furnished by the Treasury, was 278 billion dollars and is pressing an all-time high figure. More interest is being required daily to finance it, as I pointed out before. The Administration has received

Celanese Reports Income For 1956

Celanese Corporation of America, in its annual report to Stockholders, today reported net income after taxes for 1956 of 16,863,224, equal to 2.08 per common share after provision for preferred dividends. This compares with 15,303,268, including tax recovery of 4,082,438 for 1955, equal to 1.81 per share.

The 1956 net income before provision for Federal Taxes, amounted to 23,063,224, compared with a 1955 pre-tax income of 19,720,830. Net sales increased to 188,307,280 in 1956 from 177,502,028 dollars in 1955 and, according to President Harold Blanche, represented improved performance by each of the company's operating divisions. Both sales and earnings last year were the highest since 1951.

Celanese plastics sales during 1956 were reported as the highest in history. New production facilities completed during the year at the company's Belvidere, N.J., Plant increased capacity for cast acetate sheet and film, finding expanding uses in packaging, sound recording tape and recording tape for computer systems. During 1957, facilities will be added at the Newark, N.J., Plant for expanded production of extruded acetate film used for packaging and pressure sensitive tapes.

Other Celanese plastics which achieved increased volume acceptance during the year include Eoflucel, a cellulose propionate molding compound used in phones and industrial housings, among other applications, and Polyvinyl Acetate Emulsions, used in water-based latex paints.

Satisfactory progress was noted in construction of a new plant in Houston, Tex., for production of Fortiflex, a New Olefin Polymer offering unusual rigidity, heat resistance and chemical inertness. A wide range of end uses foreseen for the resin include bottles and containers, piping, housewares, electrical appliances, packaging, wire and cable coverings and various industrial products.

Celanese chemical sales during 1956, like those of plastics, were an all-time high. The year's chemical operations were characterized by expansion and diversification, according to the report. Expansion under way in the company's Bishop, Tex., Plant will increase by 25 per cent its output of formaldehyde, methanol, acetaldehyde and other organic chemicals. When in full operation later in 1957, the Bishop Plant will be the world's largest producer of formaldehyde and the only commercial plant using the direct oxidation process in its production.

A new Polyol Unit at Bishop will produce Trimethylolpropane or Polyurethane Plastics and foam rubbers, in addition to components for alkylid resins, high quality brake fluids and other industrial products. During 1956, a new plant in Point Pleasant, W. Va., began production of a new line of fire-safe hydraulic fluids. The plant will also produce other specialty chemicals.

In the company's Pampa, Tex., Plant, a new unit is being built to produce Acrylate Esters, which go into a broad range of end products including paints, plastics, adhesives, synthetic rubbers and finishes for paper, textiles and leather.

The report cites, as a measure of the chemical division's growth and diversification, the fact that approximately 40 per cent of its current sales volume comes from products introduced since 1949.

Export sales, according to the report, are becoming increasingly important to the company, with Celanese products now being distributed in more than 80 countries, either by trade representatives or through affiliate companies, in Canada, Mexico, Colombia and Venezuela.

Syria Gives Permission To Repair Pipelines

DAMASCUS, Syria, March 7 (UP) — The Syrian government announced Wednesday it had granted permission for repair of the vital oil pipeline installations blown up during the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt.

The announcement, transmitted to Iraq Petroleum Company officials, was the first break in the unofficial Arab blockade of the flow of oil from Persian Gulf fields to Europe.

Syria previously had refused to let the damaged pipeline pumping stations on its soil be repaired pending a final withdrawal of Israel troops from Egyptian soil.

The Iraq Petroleum Company line extends across Syria from Iraq's rich oil fields to Mediterranean tanker terminals in Larnaca. Both Lebanon and Iraq had protested to Syria against delays in restoring the flow of oil.

Syrian Economics Minister Kailli Kallias announced that "preliminary permission" was given to start the work on the assumption that emergency pipeline repairs would be completed by the time Israel had withdrawn completely from Gaza and Aqaba. (In London, a spokesman for for the Iraq Petroleum Company said oil can start flowing through the pipeline within seven days after the start of repair work. The original flow, he said, would be at the rate of 11,000,000 tons a year.

The 11,000,000-ton annual rate was considered a relative trickle, however, and it was expected many weeks would be required to restore full deliveries from the idle oilfields in Iraq.

The decision constituted an anxiously awaited break for European nations suffering from serious fuel oil shortages in the wake of the attack on Egypt and blocking of the Suez Canal.

Why Wages Rise

There are a few books which contain such simple logic and such irrefutable deductions that they serve as milestones. When it comes to understanding the plight of our nation stands in today relating to our economic and political muddle, we know of no volume more easy to read and more generally instructive than "Mainspring" by Henry Grady Weaver. Also, we know of no writer better than Frederic Bastiat, whose various works, "Social Fallacies," "Social Harmonies" and "The Law," simply cannot be topped.

We can now move these works over on the shelf and make room for a new effort from the pen of Dr. F. A. Harper of the staff of the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington, N. Y. This book is called, "Why Wages Rise," and has been published serially in The Freeman Magazine. It is now collected into a single volume and is available from the foundation for $1.50.

Here is the simple, easily understood delineation of the basic economic error behind the labor union movement. Literally millions of persons believe that unions cause wages to rise. Dr. Harper says it isn't so. He gives us these items for our consideration:

Assumption: If unions were presumed to be the cause of rising wages, one would expect wages to have been at their lowest point—and to have remained at about the same low point from 1855 to about 1900, when union membership was negligible.

Fact: Wages rose appreciably over the period. They doubled within a man's working lifetime.

Assumption: Whatever the cause of the rising wage rates in the earlier period when union membership was negligible, one would expect it to have continued. But he would, in addition, expect the rise to be accelerated with the rise in union membership about the turn of the century.

Fact: The rate of rise in wage rates from 1896 to 1916 was less than half that of the previous fifty years.

Assumption: One would expect sharpest rise in wage rates to come when union membership was having its most rapid increase—from 1936 to 1945—and then to have leveled off when union membership stopped rising.

Fact: Rate of increase in wage rates which began at the close of World War I continued with amazing consistency for the entire period from 1917 to 1955.

From this evidence," says Dr. Harper, "one must conclude, I believe, that wage rates show no clear response whatever to changes in union membership.

"If one says that the two lines are related but there is a lag in evidence of some 15 to 20 years, the evidence would be that rising wage rates cause union membership to rise, not vice versa. Consequences do not happen before their cause.

Harper buttresses his arguments with charts and graphs and with homely illustrations which parallel parables. He shows clearly that wage rates are tied inexorably to rates of production.

"Higher wages come from increased output per hour of work. This is not a new or profound discovery. For how could consumption be greater than production?"

Then the author reveals that tools increase production. The increase in the effectiveness of tools increases production, and the economic facts are all on Dr. Harper's side.

The whole thesis is knitted together in a style so simple and in a manner so lucid that one wonders as he reads why there could ever have been any mystery in his mind about economics. In Dr. Harper's relentless and kindly manner, the mystery is resolved. The application of violence as contributed by union demands to the flow of goods and services does not enhance real wages. It places them under a pall.

This book doesn't pretend to be a complete textbook on economics. But it takes the matter of wages, production and human energy and reveals clearly just how they work together for the greatest good for the greatest number.

If the word "economics" is baffling to you, certainly the word "wages" is not. And when economics is approached in this manner, through wages, the whole economic process becomes crystal clear.

Make it a point to read "Why Wages Rise." Dr. Harper has provided us with another milestone, one which will take you further into economic truths than could normally be expected of any book so unpretentious.

MR. EISENHOWER ON ISRAEL AND EGYPT

Chicago Daily Tribune

President Eisenhower's broadcast on Wednesday evening offered as good a case as can be made for his policy toward Egypt and Israel. It gives us no pleasure to add that his argument made little sense because its premises were false.

Mr. Eisenhower assumes that the decisions of U. N. must be obeyed to the letter because they are based upon law and justice. This is patently untrue. In fact, the members of U. N. vote in accordance with law but by their own interest.

U. N. is not and never has been an agency for the impartial administration of justice. If it were, there would be no Arab bloc, no western bloc, no Latin American bloc, and no soviet bloc to produce the characteristic patterns of U. N. decisions. For reasons which have little to do with law or justice, these blocs were able to produce substantial majorities in favor of depriving Israel of the fruits of her victory over Egypt. For reasons which were equally unrelated to justice and law, U. N. has done nothing to Russia for her brutal repression of Hungarian independence and doesn't seem likely to do anything to India for her disregard of U. N.'s long established policy on Kashmir. U. N., it should be added, did nothing to require Egypt to allow Israeli ships to pass thru the Suez Canal. To make these points is not to say that the Israeli were right in starting the war. On the contrary, as we believed then and still believe, the Israeli were in the wrong. Nevertheless, their present attitude is understandable. They won the war and had the Egyptians on the run when, under the combined pressure of soviet Russia and the United States, they were persuaded to call it a day.

What the Israeli want now from Egypt is nothing that the Egyptians should not be glad to grant, for it will cost them nothing and deprive them of nothing. The Israelis are reluctant to withdraw from the Gaza strip until they have some assurance that it won't be used as a springboard for raiding parties. Why shouldn't Egypt offer these guarantees now, and why should Egypt claim the right to block access to Israel from the Red sea? The Israelis were wrong in starting the war, but it does not follow that they are wrong in everything or that Egypt is right in everything.

This newspaper never did regard U. N. as the hope of the world. Likewise, we have never found much to commend in Mr. Eisenhower's continuation of the New Deal foreign policy. These must be very trying days, however, for citizens who have whooped up the glories of U. N. and Israel. Since Mr. Eisenhower's speech, you can't consistently endorse all three of them.

By R. C. HOILES
Equitable Distribution Of Production

Dr. George S. Benson, Director of the National Educational Organization and President of Harding College at Searcy, Ark., sends out an article for publication contending that our system equitably distributes its production of wealth. He contends that in our system distribution is based on the contribution each citizen makes to the production of goods and services.

Dr. Benson, of course, has had little experience in producing wealth. He regards himself as an educator. He gives us figures showing what a small fraction of the total land of the world United States has and what a small fraction of the population, and then contends that the American private, free enterprise system produces 42 per cent of the wealth of the world. Then he gives a lot of figures showing the percentage that goes to wage earners, the self-employed professional men, corporations, farmers and dairymen, stockholders, and bond holders. It all adds up to 100 per cent.

It seems to me that this is a poor way of selling the private competitive enterprise system. President Benson doesn't understand the private competitive enterprise system because he believes that labor unions taking away from individuals their right to make an individual bargain can be beneficial. He also believes the majority has a right to force the minority to help pay for things they do not want to use. He doesn't seem to have the faintest conception of the real enterprise system.

Why Wealth Not Justly Distributed

The reason what is produced is not equitably or justly distributed is that some people get a great deal more than they produce. They get it on an involuntary basis. And real equity—or real justice—requires each and every person to get all they produce, not just part of what they produce, but all, because if some individual gets more than he produces, then other people must, of necessity, get less than they produce.

Now let's name some of the people who are getting less than they produce and some who are getting more than they produce. Those people working for the government who do not use their time and energy in trying to get everyone to get all the produce, that is, to have a free market, are getting more than they produce.

The people who pay them are thus getting less than they produce. Other people who get less than they produce are those who are in the higher brackets on the graduated income tax.

All people should support the government that tries to protect men's lives and property in proportion as they have wealth to be protected. Or we might put it another way, in proportion to the cost of the service the government renders to them. The government's taxing system and the way it spends its money interferes with individuals getting all they produce. The government lending money and guaranteeing credit to some groups at less than a free market rate of interest prevents some people from getting all they produce.

Union Labor Interference
Union labor, by getting a wage established by strikes or the threats of strikes and simultaneous picketing, get more than they produce; get more than those they combine against, get for what they produce. One gets more and the other gets less. It is simply mathematical because the total rewards cannot be greater than the total production. Besides this, labor unions by having wages established by strikes or the threats of same, cause unemployment, they cause it because they take such a large fraction of the production that the rest of the workers do not have enough to buy their products, and things are bought by production past or present. Thus, besides getting more than the members of organized labor produce, they, by causing unemployment, lead to inflation that greatly reduces the equitable share of people who have loaned their savings for interest.

Of course, the United States in the past more nearly justly distributed what is produced than any other country in the world. That is the reason we have been more prosperous than any other country in the world. It is only because production is not justly distributed that we have long periods of unemployment which tend to lead to a collectivistic or socialistic government. And of course a socialistic government greatly reduces production and injures everybody.

Our aim should be, and the principal duty of a government, is to establish a free and unhampered market, and that is the only way we can approach all people getting all they produce.

It is too bad that heads of colleges are so confused on economic matters, but man cannot explain what he cannot understand.

Resignation Due To A Burden Too Heavy For One

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

J. Albert Woll, general counsel of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, I. A. M. 118, and coons, recently resigned because the affairs of this client were a burden too heavy to be borne with justice to the interests of his other customers. The announcement came just a little before the Senate Committee under John McClellan, of Arkansas, took the first pick into the corruption which had accumulated behind the barn. There had been news - publicity out of Washington about the moral, professional and civic position of lawyers representing unions whose August trustees under the protective patronage of all the political administrations since 1932 had neglected to keep them above suspicion.

Woll is a son of Matt Woll, who rode the gravy train of the A. F. of L. for most of his life as president of the photo-engravers, a closed union and monopolistic job-trust, as vice president of the A. F. of L., and president of the Union Labor Life Insurance Company. He was a political paragon of virtue who could sit in the councils of a vast house of corruption and come out rolling his eyes in religious purity. He never stole anything, but the archives are not burdened with records of his famous attacks on people well known to him and, latterly, to most of the country, because he was innocent of such. Matt minded his own business and business was his business, not altruism and idealistic sacrifice for labor. He wore a gates-ajar collar and did not swear.

J. Albert Woll is still general counsel of the combined interests of the A. F. of L., a fat account and less likely to embarrass a learned officer of the court than association with the Brotherhood of Teamsters and so forth. His predecessor as chief counsel of the Teamsters and so forth was a repulsive old goat from Milwaukee named Joe Padway who had been run out of town for messing with a friend's wife. Joe was born in England and he had done so well in defending labor's gains as counsel for two eminent maqueureux, George Scallise and Willie Bluff, and other appetizing characters that when he cracked his estate including a mess of first editions, including Dickens.

He was general counsel for the state and Movie Workers' Union, otherwise the Browne-Buff thing, for Scallise's Building Service Workers and for Jimmy Petrillo's musicians, whose members include an extraordinary proportion of hop-heads as noted by the FBI and the Bureau of Narcotics of the Treasury. Mr. Petrillo himself, does not use or dabble in narcotics. He drinks beer, which is made of hops, plural, not hop, singular, at the Men's Bar at the Waldorf from 12:30 to 2:30 and sometimes inhales Napoleon Brandy after sundown. When he sniffs brandy he lets the whiskers grow and goes around looking like a hedgehog. He hired Padway in place of a retired brigadier general named Ansell because Ansell wasn't the kind of lawyer he needed. Padway was just the kind he did need and they got along fine even though one judge, scanning Petrillo's constitution, threw it back in Jimmy's face and said that thing was no constitution because the first article

The CRACKER BARREL

Robert J. Donovan, writing in The Saturday Evening Post, says that he is so encouraged by the American public's "new attitude" toward Germany that he believes the time may soon come when they'll be willing for this government to recognize RED CHINA. Seems to me there's a big difference. American didn't change its attitude toward Germany until Hitler and his mass murderers had been thrown out. There's no sign of anything like that happening in Red China.

World War of 1934 and organized them into a Local under the euphonious heading of waitresses. Unfortunately not all ladies are nice and some of these ladies were almost destitute of refinement. But, in union there is money. So Caldwell united them and from there went on to mend the needs of other underprivileged humanity in Dade County, Florida. In one of his ventures he got into a problem with the federal law, and a young man employed in his office in Chicago and who knew where the records were, turned up missing. Under the draft law he became a fugitive.

Mr. Woll was hot as horse-radish after this employee and he suspected that Caldwell had put it in his ear to go elsewhere, a despicable act, if the worst were true. Mr. Woll said this also suggested a violation of the draft law and, having a professional interest in Caldwell, I called at his office many times. Finally, I gave up. I just took it that Caldwell's conduct was less nefarious than I had supposed because he had turned up in Miami where he rounded out a career of service to humanity and died full of the honors of his cult.

Middle East Dispute May Blow Good Wind Our Way

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The diplomatic crises now raging in the Middle East and Central Europe may yet turn out to be the ill wind that will blow eventual good to the western community of nations, especially the United States. They have forced the anti-Communist alliance to substitute realistic policies for a postwar program based too heavily on the emotions and sentiments of two global conflicts and the Soviet threat.

This transformation, although inevitable, has been slow in coming. The Allied ties cemented in World War II have weakened. American interests, as in the Suez Canal dispute, have clashed with those of Britain and France. Meanwhile, Russia has sought to profit from these divisions, revealing that the Kremlin's underlying purpose is still world conquest and domination by outright war or subversion.

As a result, although still seeking to repair the damage wrought by the attack on Egypt, the United States and Western Europe are setting their respective houses in order separately. Although they still walk the same political and diplomatic thoroughfare, and as friends, each sticks to his own side of the street.

Six European nations have finally agreed to rely on their own resources in the world struggle, and for two reasons. They realize that American assistance, especially economic, will not be forthcoming forever. Moreover, they have always resented their dependence upon the West. They aim to strengthen themselves in every way so that they will not be caught in a squeeze between Russia and the United States.

Thus, they have formed a common and free trade market that will be open to 160,000,000 customers. It should enable them to scrap a handicraft industrial system for the mass production organization in effect here and in Russia. Their joint coal and steel community has been in existence for two years, with excellent results. They have also formed an atomic pool for the day when conventional fuels disappear or become too costly for use.

This amalgamation of economic interests, according to all signs, points directly to a political union, as long advocated at Washington.

If it eventuates, Western Europe will no longer be an expensive ward of the United States. It will be in position to put up a stronger front and fight against Russia, and possibly to banish Muscovite thoughts of a World War III. It is possible that this development may be reflected in reduction of budgets here, and a sizeable cut in taxes.

The Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine is not yet in effect, but its possibilities are significant. For the first time, it defines our policy in this vital and turbulent area. It warns Russia of war, if it attempts to conquer and grab any of these oil-bearing states. It reveals our friendship for the Arabs, and it may yet isolate Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser. It encourages aid modernizes surrounding countries, he cannot permit his people to wallow in their miserable pride.

It's courage in facing up to an obstinate Israel, despite our sympathy for the small and besieged republic, has drained some of the poison out of our postwar relations with the Islamic community. And for this very reason, Washington may be able to stabilize the situation as it affects Tel Aviv and its immediate enemies.

Both the Hungarian and Suez crises have produced a Washington reappraisal of the United Nations. President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles now recognize its limitations, and the fact that, as Senator Knowland suggests, it was "oversold" as a remedy for universal ills. Henceforth, they will engage in more of the old-fashioned diplomacy, based on the power and prestige of the United States.

In the same way, they realize that they cannot break with the ancient order of "colonialism" too abruptly and sentimentally. In recent U. N. votes, Ambassador Lodge has recognized the merits of the Anglo-French case with respect to Cyprus and Algeria.

We begin to realize that the mother countries have overseas interests which must be respected, a factor that was forgotten when we contributed to the disruption of the British, the French and the Dutch empires. In short, we seem now to understand that the world cannot be remade, reorganized and reformed overnight.

A Tremendous Welcome For The Next Best God Of Kings

By HENRY MCLEMORE

TRIPOLI — We were both surprised and flattered, Mary and I, when our plane touched down at Idris airport and taxied to a stop in front of the administration building.

There was a crowd of thousands, waving flags, their faces alight with excitement as they shouted a noisy, happy welcome. Huge banners were suspended from hangars and buildings, and fences and posts were decorated with garlands of flowers and leaves.

As I descended from the plane I paused a moment on the steps and struck a pose, a show of good will toward the photographers who I was sure would have their cameras trained on me.

"A bit of a nuisance to be so beloved by a country," I mused, "but sort of nice at that."

Mary and I liked to have never gotten to the hotel, where we were to meet John Wayne and travel to the Roman ruins of Leptis Magna where he is shooting scenes for his next picture, "The Legend of the Lost."

Our taxi trip was one to remember. I descended from the plane streets were either closed to traffic or blocked by crowds. The cops were going to be sure that no matter what direction King Saud decided to take to travel to the palace, he'd find it clear.

Mary and I finally had to get out blocks from the hotel and walk it. And if you don't think lugging two suitcases and a typewriter through a dense throng of shouting, whooping, celebrating Arabs, is a job, just try it sometime — particularly through crowd of Arab who don't like Americans and make no effort to conceal it.

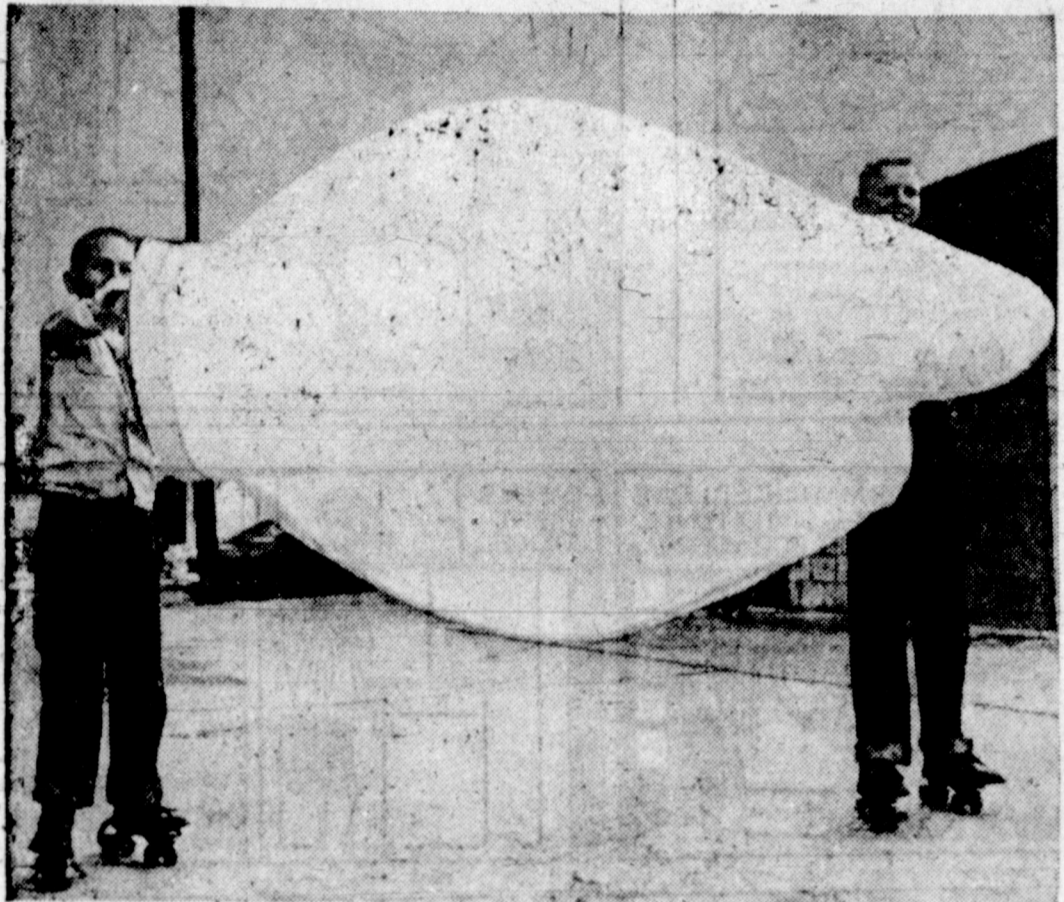

Word of Dulles and his good intentions doesn't seem to have reached here yet. I'm glad Wayne is as big and tough as he is, and handles that six-shooter of his as well as he does. The happy thousands were out to meet King Saud, who was dropping by for a visit with King Idris.

AROUND THE WORLD

TO BEST ADVANTAGE—Jimmy, left, and Skeeter Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., are making good use of the wind. They put on their roller skates and used a blanket as a community sail to find out what's what in all this talk about "air power."

GROUNDING!—Pretty Mary Hubert, of Lewiston, Mich., must have been mighty surprised when she won the title of Miss Sheridan Valley of 1957. It seems to have "flooded" her for the time being, but she'll reign over the 12th annual winter carnival to be held near her home town.

PROFILE IN COURAGE—Junius Kellogg is living proof that a courageous man never stops battling. A former star basketball player at Manhattan College, Kellogg was almost fatally injured in an auto accident about two years ago. Although he'll never walk again, he's coaching the Pan Am Jets, Eastern Wheelchair title winners.

CAGEY DOINGS—Bernard Lampe, a 14-year-old giant, has no trouble stretching his six-foot, eight-inch frame out of the reach of two basketball teammates in Syracuse, N. Y. Bernard, an eighth grade student, has been scoring an average of 28 points per game. This is his first season in basketball and he's showing a lot of promise.

BUSINESS IS SAFER—Eddie Joost, former major league infield star, who recently quit baseball to turn car salesman in Burlingame, Calif., isn't entirely away from the effects of sport. He's taping up the ankle of 14-year-old son David who was injured while playing football. Joost was a household word among major league infielders for 18 seasons.

DOTS NICE—She's vivacious Dotty Manahan, who's living it up at Miami Beach after a dip in the surf. If the winds happen to be cool, the quickest way to get comfortable is to wrap up in a large beach towel and let it do the job of drying that the sun would ordinarily do.

RECORD BREAKER—Olympic high hurdles champion Lee Calhoun, left, of North Carolina College, clears the last barrier on his way to a new indoor world record of 8.2 seconds. This took place during the 70-yard high hurdles at the Washington Star Games, Washington, D.C.

EASY LIVING—Jackie Breen isn't at all worried about the weather reports in other less fortunate parts of the country. She's relaxing on a golf car in Phoenix, Ariz., and winter weather is merely a certain time of the year somewhere else to her.

GET A MOVE ON—That seems to be just what two-year-old Guri Christina Shore is telling her low slung pet, Fritz. The tot is anxious to get on with some skiing lessons at Heavenly Valley, Calif., but Fritz is more interested in discovering why that over-size snowball is there.

HE'S RIGHT IN THERE—Ready to tackle all comers is Australia's answer to Floyd Patterson—Sydney, a boxing kangaroo shown getting in condition in New York. Sydney, said to be the only kangaroo boxer now campaigning in the U.S., flattened an opponent, 13-year-old Keith Kneeder, of Carmel, Calif., in an exhibition match which will be seen shortly on a TV program. Now he's ready for new conquests.

DOUGHNUT DUNKING—Wintry Michigan doesn't seem the right place for bathing beauties at this time of year, but a trim trio of University of Michigan coeds is going round and round in a doughnut shape in the indoor pool at Ann Arbor. The mermaids are practicing for "Michifish," the annual aquatic show planned for early spring.

MAJOR LEAGUE TEACHER—Pitcher Joe Nuxhall, who just signed his 1957 contract with the Cincinnati Redlegs, is showing eight-year-old Richard Strauss the proper delivery in Hamilton, Ohio. The Cincinnati southpaw, twice named to the National League All-Star teams, is a regular instructor for about 75 boys between eight and 12 years old.

Quotes In The News

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON: Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn on the drive to slash $6.8 billion from President Eisenhower's $71.8 billion budget as a step toward tax cuts:

"You can talk all you want about cutting the budget by $5 billion. But that just isn't going to be done."

HOLLYWOOD: Superior Judge Edward R. Brand on a 59-page settlement which was filed by Mary Alice Loesser, wife of songwriter Frank Loesser and producer of the Broadway hit "Most Happy Fella," granting Mrs. Loesser $60,000 a year alimony plus other large financial benefits: "I don't know whether this is going to make your husband a 'Most Happy Fella.'"

CHICAGO: AFL-CIO Vice President James H. Carey warning the Teamsters Union which is now being investigated by a special Senate subcommittee:

"If they don't mend their ways they're in danger of expulsion. One corrupt international—or even one corrupt local—is one too many."

CHINA LAKE, Calif.: Lt. Cmdr. Glenn A. Tierney, boss of China Lake's guided missile training unit, on the usefulness of their new weapon, the Sidewinder: "A pilot with a sidewinder is like a fighter going into the ring with a six-foot reach over the other guy."

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.: City Judge John Rudd addressing one white and two Negro students after he gave them maximum fines and jail terms for sitting together on a bus:

"What is good for you is not always good for a majority and it is sometimes better to wait and receive benefits rather than try to become modern-day martyrs."

OMAHA, Neb.: Former President Truman on the Republican administration's Middle East policy:

"We cannot hide behind the skirts of the United Nations, or duck the responsibility of our own for the settlement of the conflicts in the Middle East."

WASHINGTON: French Premier Guy Mollet calling for free use of the Suez Canal:

"We cannot accept the idea of coming back to the status quo."

BOSTON: American Olympic hammer throw champion Harold Connolly telling his mother by transatlantic telephone that Czech President Antonin Zapotocky said Connolly's marriage to Czech athlete Olga Fikotova would have to wait:

"I'm not asking for the moon. I just want to marry the girl."

CLEVELAND: Glenn Zann, photographer for the Cleveland Press, on taking pictures during a trial

in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court:

"No one in the courtroom saw the camera, not even the man seated next to me."

ACCRA, Ghana: Premier Kwame Nkrumah on the independence of Ghana:

"The black man has come into his own in Africa."

VERO BEACH, Fla.: Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson on the possibility that the Brooklyn Dodgers will move to his city: "We came here to test Mr. (Dodger President Walter) O'Malley's sincerity and we are optimistic as a result of our visit."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.: Lamar Weaver, white integrationist who was attacked by a mob of white men, on his future plans: "I think it best I leave to avoid more trouble. I don't know where I am going, but it will be out of Birmingham and Alabama."

What's $2 Million

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Producer Michael Todd told an informal press conference that he'd prefer to make less money on "Around the World in 80 Days," if that would mean more persons could see it.

"I'd rather make $17 million and have everybody see it than make $19 million and not have everybody see it," he said. "Besides, what could I buy with that $2 million anyway?"

"DROP IN SOME TIME"—The camera catches a paratrooper's tensest moments—sweating out the seconds until his chute opens. This unusual photo shows a trooper of the 11th Airborne Division during maneuvers at Augsburg, Germany. Note the line of previous jumpers stretching into background.

PROP MAN—Like a bee inside some giant flower, sister's mate Hugh Warren makes final adjustments from the hub of the massive propeller being fitted to the luxury liner Queen Mary in a Southampton, England, drydock.

PRAM DE LUXE—Mrs. Merle Gayitt, of Greenville, Mich., an expectant mother, admires the streamlined super-duper baby carriage sent to her by her parents in West Berlin. The wicker pram sports red taillights, white sidewall tires and chrome fenders. It is easily convertible to a de luxe stroller.
