The Top O' Texas Gets Rain, Fog And Drizzle

Rain, fog and drizzle have each made their appearance over the Top O' Texas within the last 24 hours.
A total of approximately .14 of an inch of moisture was measured by the rain gauge on top The News building by late this morning.
Between 9:45 and 11:45 this morning a total of .08 of an inch was measured from the drizzle falling on Pampa.
It was the first measurable amount of moisture since the light snow Saturday, Dec. 22, in which only a trace was recorded.
Before that, a trace of rain fell late in October when about .30 of an inch was recorded.
Pampans drove to work this morning literally "in a fog" as the murky stuff reduced visibility to about three blocks in town. By mid-morning, however, the fog had lifted to reveal cloudy skies.

So far, however, we have come out on the short end of the stick in so far as moisture is concerned, compared with other Panhandle towns. Amarillo got up to an inch of snow and Dalhart had an inch of snow preceded by rain during the night and a total of .52 of an inch of moisture recorded over the area.
The forecast for today for West Texas was mostly cloudy with occasional rain and cooler tonight with lowest 26 to 34 degrees in the Panhandle. Saturday is expected to be partly cloudy and cooler.

Cold Front Brings Panhandle Moisture

By UNITED PRESS
An inch or more of snow blanketed the Texas Panhandle, northeast New Mexico and western Kansas today and rain fell across northern Texas and the coastal areas.
Up to an inch of snow covered the ground from Amarillo northward through the Panhandle at 8 a. m. and light snow still was falling over the area.
Dalhart had an inch of snow on the ground. The snow in that area was preceded by rain during the night and a total of .52 of an inch of moisture was recorded over the area.
Panhandle wheat farmers said the snow and rain would be very beneficial to crops and said the moisture would help the general agriculture outlook in the area.
Heavier snow in New Mexico
Heavier snow fell in northeast New Mexico with two inches at Clayton and even more at Raton. Snow covered the ground from Amarillo north to more than 300 miles toward Pratt, Kan., and from the Oklahoma Panhandle west into New Mexico several hundred miles.
Light rain fell at the same time across the northern portion of Texas and along the coastal areas.
Light snow flakes still fell at 9 a. m. in the Panhandle and some rain still was falling at that time in northeast Texas.
A cold front drawn southeast-ward by a low pressure system over the Texas Panhandle brought the moisture into the area. The circulation around the low pressure was drawing warm, moist air from the Gulf and mixing it with cold air from the north.

Warm Front Along Line
A warm front was along a line from Lake Charles, La., to Lufkin, Victoria and Laredo in Texas and the cold front was just north of Tulsa, Okla., and near Amarillo and Tucuman, N. M., at 8 a. m.
Mixing of the warm and cold air caused the weather bureau to forecast cooler weather over Texas tonight and Saturday and some scattered rain over the state tonight and tomorrow.
Ennis, in East Texas, recorded 1.83 inches of rain for the greatest amount measured in the state for the 24-hour period ended at 8:30 a. m. today.
In addition to the .52 of an inch at Dalhart, Texarkana reported .73, Waco .53, Galveston .46, Houston .42, Fort Worth .40, Dallas .37, El Paso .21 and lesser amounts at Abilene, Amarillo, San Antonio, San Angelo, Lubbock and Austin.
Some patchy fog was reported in the Dallas-Fort Worth area early today, but it disappeared after sunrise.
Temperatures early today ranged from 22 degrees at Dalhart to 67 at Brownsville. Slightly warmer readings were expected this afternoon to be followed by cooler temperatures tonight and Saturday after the front passes through.

A Coincidence?

Roy Johnson, minister of music at the First Methodist Church, told The News last night of what could be a coincidence or could amount to a little bit more, he (and most of the rest of us) hopes.
The church's choir is making plans to do the opera, "Elijah," some time in May.
The last time "Elijah" was performed here was in 1951, also by Johnson's choir. It was presented in the opera, goes something like this:
When Jezebel reigned as queen during old biblical times, there was a severe drought. Jezebel and her cohorts had plans to invoke their heathen gods to produce rain. Meanwhile, all Elijah had to do was pray to the real God, and He sent rain. The story goes on to relate how the populace once again became sinful after the rains, and the rain was stopped.
Well, here's the local angle. Right after the choir's presentation of "Elijah" in 1951, the Top O' Texas received a tremendous amount of rain, something like eight inches. And then, last night, when Johnson was telling his choir, at choir practice, that the books were ordered for the 1957 performance of "Elijah," it started raining outside.
Roy is wondering today what will happen when the May, 1957, performance of "Elijah" is presented. And so are a lot of others, wondering and praying.

Stork In Double-Take

The old proverb: "Born on Thursday, fulfilled by glad," was joyfully fulfilled for proud parents Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hay and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trimble yesterday.
Twin daughters for each of the two families were delivered at Highland General Hospital yesterday within five hours of each other, getting the New Year off to a good start for the Hay and Trimble families.
The Hay twins were born at 3:35 and 3:42, just 39 hours and 38 minutes into the new year. One girl weighed seven pounds, 12 1/2 ounces and the other six pounds, 17 1/2 ounces. The parents live at 1130 S. Nelson.
Both Trimble daughters weighed five pounds, 2 ounces. One was delivered at 8:27 p. m. and the other at 8:39 p. m. The parents live at 1130 S. Christy.

Certain Defeat Predicted For Senate Bills Today

IN APPRECIATION — Pampa said goodbye to one outstanding citizen last night, but gained another to keep the balances fairly even. Shown above to the left receiving a gift of appreciation from the business and professional men of Pampa for his outstanding contributions to the community through his work in many of Pampa's civic projects is John Frick, outgoing plant manager of the Celanese Plant here. Shown giving him the gift, a silver tray engraved with a personal message from the business and professional men, is Ed Myatt (left). In the picture on the right, Paul Crouch (left), Chamber of Commerce president, is shown giving Herschel V. Wilks, the incoming plant manager for Celanese, a Texas hat. Frick will go to the Celanese plant at Bishop where he will take over as plant manager. The goodbye dinner was given for Frick at the Pampa Country Club. (News photo)

Advocates Of Moves Hoping For Richard Nixon Support

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — UP — A drive to limit filibusters and permit passage of civil rights legislation headed for almost certain defeat in the Senate today.
Advocates of the move hoped to win support from Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer. But there was no clear indication that Nixon would — or could — help their cause significantly.
The Senate was scheduled to take up the filibuster dispute shortly after it convened and to reach a crucial vote on the matter at 8 p. m.
As for the outcome, anti-filibuster forces would say in advance only that they were stronger than they were in 1953 when a similar drive failed 70 to 21. Today's move was sponsored by a bipartisan bloc of 31 senators, but opponents said it would get no more than 35 votes, far short of a majority of the Senate's 96 members.
The House was in recess today. Both it and the Senate held their opening sessions Thursday, swore in new members and elected officers, putting the Democrats, because of their majorities in both houses, in control.
Both chambers will meet in an extraordinary joint session Saturday to hear President Eisenhower deliver his special message on the Middle East. The President will appeal for authority to use U. S. troops, if necessary, to counter any Russian aggression in the Middle East.
Nixon became a central figure in the filibuster dispute after anti-filibuster forces disclosed they would pose parliamentary inquiries to obtain his opinion on whether a new set of Senate rules could be adopted at the outset of Congress.
Under the existing parliamentary situation, however, Nixon's opinion, if one were given, would be purely advisory and not binding.
The motion under debate today was one offered by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) to have the Senate take up the matter of adopting new rules rather than follow tradition and adopt the old rules of the past session.

Actress Is Kidnaped From Home

By DEAN GAUTSCHY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Beautiful Marie (The Body) McDonald was kidnaped from her bed in night clothes early today by abductors who left a trail of telephoned threats saying "don't call anyone if you want to see her alive again," police said.
The Federal Bureau of Investigation was notified immediately, and local police said after their "only a remote possibility" exists that the disappearance of the blonde actress from her palatial San Fernando Valley home was a hoax or publicity stunt or that she left home willingly.
Miss McDonald's ex-husband, wealthy shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, told police a young male voice, extremely nervous, told him over the telephone about 2:30 a. m.
"I've got Marie. Don't call anyone if you want to see her alive again," he said. The mysterious caller must have gotten his telephone number from Marie because he has an unlisted number.
Call Made to Mother
A similar anonymous call was made to Miss McDonald's mother and she rushed to the home where servants already had found her bed empty, the three children sleeping peacefully in adjoining rooms.
But the call to the mother said: "We have Marie. Don't call police. She won't be hurt."

Pampa Building Fires Of Freedom Still Burn

VIENNA (UP) — The Soviet-imposed Janos Kadar regime began the third month of its uneasy reign over Hungary today, still unable to quench the fires of freedom.
Two months ago on Nov. 4, 1956 — Russia unleashed an armored force of 5,000 tanks against the Hungarian people to crush their struggle for independence from Moscow.
But the battle for freedom is still going on, according to reports from Budapest.
Reliable sources in the Hungarian capital said die-hard Hungarian partisans are still fighting Soviet and Communist Hungarian forces in the outlying mountain areas.
The sources said sporadic fighting is reported in the regions of Miskolc in the northeast, Pecs in the south, and at Lake Balaton in the west, where the Russian army maintains its high command.
Passive resistance by workers also continued. Worker councils were ignoring the government decrees to fire employees idled by the fuel and power shortage.
Kadar ordered some 200,000 workers fired from nationalized factories and plants shut down because of the lack of coal. Reports from Hungary said miners who did work were producing only enough to avoid being punished.

Water District Directors To Be Elected

An election to name directors in the newly formed water district will be held Tuesday, Jan. 8.
There will be three directors elected over the district, one each in directors precincts 2, 3 and 4.
The directors will be elected for two-year terms.
The polling places are: in director's precinct 2, courthouse at Panhandle, presiding judge is George R. Graves; precinct 3, school houses at White Deer and Groom, presiding judges are H. T. Dickens at White Deer and J. M. Britten at Groom; in precinct 4, courthouse in Pampa, Arthur Rankin, presiding judge, and at Grandview, Paul Bowers, presiding judge.
A. E. Stewart is on the ticket in precinct 2, Russell McConnell in precinct 3, and Fred Vanderburg in precinct 4. There is space provided on the ballot for write-in votes.
Each person voting in the election will vote only for a director in their precinct.

No Fires Here Since Wednesday

No fires have been reported to the Pampa Fire Department since the two calls they received Wednesday night.
The first one of that evening was a fire at 6:30 at 521 N. Somerville where a skillet had caught on fire in the kitchen causing light damage.
The second call was at 7 p. m. at the Panhandle Packing Company where an incinerator caused a pile of lumber to catch fire. However, no damage was reported in this one.

Sleeper Goes To Austin For Detector Test

Lowell Eugene Sleeper left Pampa early this morning accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Buck Hagard for Austin where he will take a lie detector test in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Viola Phillips Sleeper, early Tuesday morning.
Mrs. Sleeper was found in the gutted remains of her apartment at 720 N. Gray about 6 a. m. Tuesday and investigation into the cause of the fire and of her death resulted in Sleeper being detained by local officers.
District Attorney Bill Waters told The News this morning that plans called for Sleeper to take the test on the polygraph machine this afternoon but that he probably would not have the results before Monday morning.
No charges have been filed in the case pending the result of the test at Austin and the final report on the autopsy, Waters stated.
Mrs. Sleeper's daughter, Mrs. C. E. Curtis of Orlando, Fla., notified Duenkel Carmichael Funeral Home late last night that she was enroute to Pampa and would make the necessary funeral arrangements upon her arrival here.

The cyclist headed directly to the Medina fire-house, where he tossed off his flaming jacket and startled firefighters helped him beat off the flames burning other parts of his attire.

'56 Highway Deaths Greatest In History

CHICAGO (UP) — The National Safety Council said today that 1956 highway slaughter in the United States was the greatest in any year of the nation's history.
The council's figures are as yet incomplete. But it estimated the number at 40,200. Its figures were based on actual reports from the states' traffic authorities for 11 months, and took into account the trend shown in December and the great number of year-end holiday deaths.
And the council added a grim warning that there is no indication the reckless traffic toll will slacken in the near future.
The council, which tabulates traffic deaths and accidents across the nation, said last year's toll broke the previous record of 39,949 deaths, set in 1941.
It said figures also show the ratio of traffic deaths per mile still is climbing, indicating more disastrous records will be set in the future.
Holiday Sets Record
The council's announcement came on the heels of the worst holiday traffic carnage in history. An all-time holiday record of 712 deaths was recorded in the nation during the Christmas weekend and this was followed by a New Year's weekend record of 412 fatalities. The total of 1,124 deaths also was a record for the combined weekends.
An indication of the increasing death rate on the highways was in the fact—the 1955 traffic toll was 38,426, or about 1,700 under last year.

How The Republicans Almost Won Senate Control

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — This is the drama of how the Republicans almost won control of the Senate.
Scene: Capitol Hill. The U. S. Senate chamber. Opening session of the 85th Congress. Noise! Alarms.
Principal characters: Frank J. Lausche, sometimes unpredictable new Democratic senator from Ohio; Sen.-elect Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.); 48 other Democratic senators and 48 other GOP senators; Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Plot: Would Lausche vote with the Democrats giving them control of the Senate? Or would he vote with the Republicans, splitting the Senate 48 to 48 and enabling the GOP to win control with a tie-breaking vote by Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer.

The story begins with the 1956 elections.
Lausche, governor of Ohio, won election to the Senate but wouldn't commit himself on whether he would vote with his party to organize that body. His intentions were critical because the Democrats held a precarious 49 - 47 edge.
If he voted with the Republicans the 48 - 48 tie would result, which Nixon could break in favor of the GOP.
Later, however, Lausche said he wouldn't show up for Thursday's opening of the Senate, but would remain in Ohio to serve out the remainder of his term as governor.
This seemed to remove the importance of his opening-day vote, because a Republican senator-elect, Javits, also said he would skip the opening session and remain in New York to serve out his term as that state's attorney general.
Republicans spirited Javits down from New York and kept him near the Capitol but out of sight of newsmen. Javits did not want to quit as attorney general just yet because Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman would name a Republican to succeed him. If he waited, the Republican-controlled Legislature—when it meets—could elect a Republican.

But there he was in Washington. And there was Lausche sitting silently in the Senate.
Then came the showdown — a rollcall vote on a Republican effort to elect Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) as Senate president pro tem instead of Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.).
If Lausche voted "aye"—a vote for Bridges—Republicans were set to have one of their number, probably Sen. John J. Williams (Del.) slip off the floor and fall to answer the rollcall.
The GOP strategy was to have Javits quickly shed his state job, present his credentials and take the oath. Under Senate rules, the member who missed the rollcall could move to reconsider the vote. This time the outcome would be a 48-48 tie. Nixon would break the tie and the Republicans would capture the Senate.

The rollcall droned on. Democrats voted No. Republicans voted yes. Lausche sat impassive on the back row.
Suddenly he turned to his seatmate, Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney (Okla.), a fervent Democrat, and whispered: "Who are WE nominating?"
Monroney grinned in relief and told him: "Mr. Lausche."
Lausche: "No."
Unidentified senator: "Whew."
Democratic applause.
Curtain.

MATURE PARENT Senior Citizens Are Feted With Party

Because of 11-year-old Joan, a family feud is developing, says her Grandma. When Joan is crossed at home, she's taken to rushing off to her Aunt Madge, the new wife of her mother's brother. Her mother is angry over the situation and has forbidden her sister-in-law to ever harbor the child-in-her-house again. Writes Joan's Grandma, "Things have been said which may never be forgotten."

Why are parents in this spot always so anxious to deprive the child of the adult confidante? Usually, we have grand-sounding reasons for our wish to destroy our friendships. Usually, the real one is our fear that Joan and Aunt Madge are saying critical things about us. The knowledge that our youngsters may be exposing our faults to another person is intolerable.

Often, it is this very intolerance of criticism that has driven Joan to take her feelings toward us to someone outside the home. No parent can afford the wish to appear perfect to his children. We are not perfect; and when we undertake to imagine we are, we require constant admiration to keep us inflated. We can think of nothing but our need to appear a faultless person.

So experiencing a situation like this, we'd be totally self-centered. We'd register only the threat of criticism; our need to destroy it. To its value to Joan, we'd be absolutely blind.

Yet the fact is that it's not only unfortunate Joan has Aunt Madge to run to when she does touch with her mother; it is also touching.

For in seeking the woman who's so closely related to her mother, Joan is seeking her mother, nobody else. To know this is true, however, our minds must be clear, not seething with terror of other people's disapproval.

Only self-centered parents feel outrage when a child makes a confidante of another adult. If the confidante is a family friend or relative, the wise mother is especially relieved. In Aunt Madge, she sees a substitute for herself.

Instead of hating Joan's confidante for the service she's rendering, she is grateful to it as the right solution to the moment's variation. She thinks, "How good it is that this child I love has her aunt to let off the steam to!"

The Senior Citizens Club met in the Lovett Library Thursday afternoon for a New Year's party and a birthday party for those members who had a birthday within the month of December.

To open the program portion of the party, Uncle Billy Frost led the group in repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The members gave a short talk on how they had spent Christmas and what New Year resolutions they had made. H. M. Norris gave a reading about people whose birthdays are in December.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing checkers, canasta, and conversation.

The serving table was decorated with a floral centerpiece flanked by white tapered in crystal candleholders. The birthday cake, decorated with pink roses and one large candle, was served with punch. Each birthday honoree received a handkerchief, a gift from the Altrusa Club, which club sponsors the weekly meetings in the Lovett Library.

Mrs. J. C. Coston was hostess for the afternoon assisted by Altrusa Club members, Mmes. Grant Anderson, Jay Flanagan, J. Ray Martin, Frank Lard and Jack P. Foster, Altrusa president.

Teens Find True Friend In Corduroy

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor

Corduroy is the love of teenagers. And, during the dead of winter, when cheery notes seem hard to find, a red corduroy blazer or turquoise party dress can do much to perk up a wardrobe. White corduroy is wonderful for a teen's formal dress.

It comes in prints and all colors imaginable. It's fine for a teen budget because it's inexpensive to buy and generally doesn't have to go to the cleaners.

To keep washable corduroy in top condition, here are a few hints: If you use a machine, set it for a short cycle and warm water. Don't mix the colors in the machine. Don't try to wash lined jackets unless the tag says so. Use two short rinsing cycles. Don't use the dryer. Doing it by hand, squeeze each garment through the suds. Don't soak or rub. Drip-dry over the tub or outdoors in the shade. Don't hang it over the line or it'll have a matted line in the pile. Straighten the seams gently.

When corduroy is almost dry, shake it thoroughly. Using a clean clothesbrush, raise the pile to its original fluffiness, brush with the pile.

It should be fresh and wrinkle-free after this treatment, but if you like, it can be steamed with a steaming iron held just above the material.

Movie Directors Discover Fact That Stereotypes Rarely Exist In Real Life

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor

When a movie or theater director is faced with a stage direction "a funny old woman enters," he knows from practice what to do. And when his production is viewed, there's she is, to be sure.

She's wearing a rayon or silk dress in black or navy with a hideous large flower pattern. She walks stooped, with mincing steps, fingering the inevitable peplum with one hand, dangling a drooping handbag from the other. And she is funny. The audience laughs before she speaks a line.

Master artists like Josephine Hull can make such a character funny through mannerism, gesture and timing. But when a lesser actor is cast in such a part, the director can always get a cheap laugh with the entrance described above.

Such a director would pass by most matinee women he saw on the street, for they simply don't fit into his stereotype. They are smoothly and simply groomed; they walk with good posture; they are dignified and alive with their life and work. Yet they are trying to kid no one into believing that they aren't 40.

One would hope that the director had to go to costume archives to find the fantastic print dress, yet it is feared that such things are still offered to grown women as flattering costumes.

Tricky necklines, oddly cut jackets, cheap jewelry garnish in the wrong locations are out for most mature women. And most of them know it. From experience with mirrors, most know that prints, shiny surfaces, raised designed and fancy weaves enlarge the figure. They cling with a wise pastion to classic lines and simplicity.

The cruel caricature makes her entrance each season in many productions. Fortunately, most mature women can laugh heartily at the role without feeling they're laughing at themselves.

Use A Slow Process To Revamp Eyebrows

Revamp your eyebrows without looking messy in the process by doing the job a bit at a time. If you want them to be thicker and longer, allow one section to grow at a time, keep remainder perfectly free of stragglers. Train new hairs to lay flat by frequently massaging with fingers during the day. At night, flatten them with petroleum jelly.

Job-Trained Women Make Helpful Wives

The woman president of a labor-placing service said today that brides who have been exposed to the business would adapt to marriage better than coeds fresh from the campus.

Mrs. Donna Workman said bachelors are better off marrying self-supporting working girls because the latter have developed "an aplomb in the face of crises that will aid her in married life."

"The job-trained wife will have a fuller understanding of her husband's business problems," she added. "She will be able to encourage him in his ambitions and console him in the face of setbacks."

Tips On Caring For Potted Plant Gifts

If you receive potted flowering plants for a Christmas gift, give them the care they need to remain pretty and healthy.

That's the advice of University of Illinois floriculture specialist G. F. Foster.

Flowers in full bloom need prompt watering, Foster said, and the plants should be kept near a window, but away from radiators and drafts.

Daytime temperature should not be above 75 degrees, and about 15 to 20 degrees lower at night, Foster said.

When you are choosing a make-up base, remember that a lotion-type base is best for oily skin and cream foundation better suited for a dry complexion.

Burns And Dayan Meet For Israeli Withdrawal Talks

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Ma Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations emergency forces, and Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israeli chief of staff, met today to discuss "technical details" of the Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai desert, Jerusalem dispatches reported.

Informed sources in Jerusalem said the men would discuss details of the first stage of the Israeli withdrawal from Sinai which will leave Israeli troops occupying a line from El Arish on the Mediterranean to the former Egyptian fortress of Sharm El Sheikh on the Red Sea.

There have been persistent reports from Jerusalem that Israel would not give up all the Sinai desert until it receives assurances from the United Nations that the desert will not be used by Egyptian Fedayeen raiders.

Discussions between Burns and Dayan on the second stage of the withdrawal will not begin until U.N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld completes talks in New York with Mrs. Meir, the Israeli foreign minister, the sources said.

Israel meanwhile sent the frigate Mivlan to the port of Elath on the Gulf of Aqaba, the second Israeli warship to sail up the gulf after circling the Cape of Good Hope. The port itself was humming with activity for the first time since it was wrested from the Arabs seven years ago.

The government announced plans for a major development of the port to handle cargoes up to 150,000 tons yearly. Some $700,000 has been allocated for short term development of the port.

Premier David Ben-Gurion told the council of his Mapai Labor party Thursday night Israel could now look forward to a period of peace and security.

US To Ask Korean Unity

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The United States was expected to ask the United Nations today to make new efforts to unify Korea by peaceful means.

U.S. Delegate Edward S. Greenbaum was understood ready to present a draft resolution at the opening of the General Assembly's Main Political Committee meeting.

A U.S. spokesman said the delegation also hoped to resume private talks under the aegis of the U.N. to solve the problem of the Suez Canal management and navigation.

Neither the United States nor other Western delegations looked for extended debate on the Korea issue in view of the refusal by Communist North Korea to accept free all-Korean elections to be held under U.N. supervision.

Dr. You Chang Yang, Republic of Korea ambassador to Washington, was invited by the committee to state his views. The committee rejected a Soviet-supported Indian bid to hear from North Korea also.

Yang was prepared to ask again for ROK's admittance to U.N. membership, nullification of the 1953 armistice agreements and the return of prisoners of war from India to South Korea.

Army Contract Given To Wife Of Official

By JOHN W. FINNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has disclosed that a firm headed by the wife of Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross received a $834,150 Army contract last November.

A Defense Department spokesman quoted Ross as saying that he has had nothing to do with the firm for several years. Ross was not immediately available for comment.

The department said Thursday night in reply to press inquiries that a check of Army procurement records showed a contract for 249,000 pairs of men's trousers was awarded to Wynn Enterprises, Inc., of New York and Knoxville, Ky.

Wife Is President
Mrs. Claire Wynn Ross, wife of the assistant defense secretary, is president of the firm, the department said.

The department said it was unable to give an immediate legal opinion on whether the military procurement activities of a firm headed by Ross' wife violated the conflict-of-interest law governing the outside financial interests of government officials. One associate, however, expressed doubt that the law had been violated since Ross now has no connection with or financial interest in the firm.

Mrs. Ross said there were a number of other bids submitted for the contract, and all were closed. She said she felt her firm could save the government about $75,000 on the transaction.

Named President last October "I might make a little on it, or lose a lot," she said.

Mrs. Ross said she was named treasurer of the firm when it was organized in 1944, and has been president since last October. "My husband had nothing to do with the contract," she said.

An official Defense Department biography of Ross, a former Republican congressman from Queens County, N.Y., shows that he was formerly vice president, sales director and public relations director of Wynn Enterprises.

The Defense Department spokesman said Ross terminated his connections with the firm in February, 1952, when he was elected in a special election to fill an unexpired term in the House.

ACTRESS
"Scandal's" girl, who hasn't made a movie in six years, apparently was abducted shortly after midnight. She was wearing only her night robe and a pair of black flat slippers, according to police.

A kidnap note, partially pencilled and partly composed of words clipped from newspapers, was found by police in the black mailbox outside the fence surrounding the McDonald residence.

"Don't Call Police"
"Don't call police, she won't be hurt to get money. We will get in touch with you," it read.

Police Inspector Henry Kerr said Miss McDonald's boxer dog, Duke, was roaming the fence-enclosed yard when they arrived in response to a telephone call from Miss McDonald's mother, who telephoned them immediately after she got the anonymous call.

Miss McDonald's room was undisturbed except for signs she had retired, although the telephone was off the hook.

Outlook For 1957

Automotive Industry To Be Leader In 1957 Economy

By HARLOW H. CURTICE
President, General Motors Corp.
Written for United Press
The automotive industry will be a leader in a steadily expanding national economy during 1957, providing, of course, that world peace can be maintained.

Our industry should produce and sell domestically approximately 4.5 million automobiles and 900,000 trucks. This is about 10 per cent over 1956 for passenger cars. Total production, including Canada and export to other markets, should approximate 8.3 million cars and trucks.

This market growth will be in line with a further upward trend in general business activity. Our natural gross product for 1957 should be somewhere in the neighborhood of $435 billion, with disposable income reaching possibly $390 billion as against $287 billion in 1956.

Full Employment
We also can look forward to another year of substantially full employment. On this basis, and with a prevailing confidence in our economy, personal consumption expenditures should also continue to increase from current levels.

Although it has been historically proven that prosperity and progress are not based on war or peak level defense expenditures, we can look forward to somewhat higher spending in that area, too. This should be in the neighborhood of $42 billion. Other government spending—federal, state and local—also should rise some.

The construction industry, which set new highs in each of the last four years, should also continue its upward trend. Housing starts should remain steady with more emphasis on non-residential building.

Highway Spending Up
With the new highway program just getting underway, spending for highways should be at least $750 million above 1956, or a total of around $8.5 billion.

The tremendous demand for capital equipment will continue in 1957 and expenditures are even expected to show an increase. These figures can add up to but one thing—another good business year in 1957. My confidence in this, of course, is premised on our continuing successful effort in maintaining peace in the world.

Emergency Order Halting Bus Service
In Tallahassee, Fla., where Negroes virtually established bus integration without benefit of a direct court order. Collins feared the movement would cause an outbreak of violence.

A Report of Violence over the South's Segregation Issue
Crippled up late Thursday in South Carolina where six men were accused of donning hoods and flagging a high school bandmaster they accused of having made a pro-integration speech.

The victim, Guy Hutchins, 52, of Camden, S.C., was hospitalized with bruises from "about 80 or 90" licks with boards and switches.

Miami Ruling Gives Negroes Legal Break
By AL KIETTNER
United Press Staff Correspondent
A federal judge's ruling in Miami that the "Montgomery decision" overthrew Florida bus segregation laws gave Negroes today their first new legal breakthrough in a two-state move for the right to sit where they please.

Since a U.S. Supreme Court decision brought bus integration two weeks ago to Montgomery, Ala., local authorities have blocked similar drives in four other Alabama cities — Birmingham, Mobile, Tuscaloosa, and Pritchard.

Judge Emmet C. Choate of the Federal District Court in Miami Thursday abruptly ended a hearing on the bus desegregation suit of four Negro women by declaring the question was already settled by the Montgomery Case.

The Rev. Theo Gibson, president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in Miami, asked Negroes to await Choate's formal order in about 10 days. The city may appeal before that time.

Gov. Leroy Collins said the decision will have no effect on his

DR. HOWARD SIVELLS HARRY CRAWFORD

Central Baptist Church Holding Brotherhood Revival

The Central Baptist Church is currently engaged in revival services sponsored by the Brotherhood of the church. Dr. Howard Sivells, secretary of the Brotherhood department of the New Mexico Baptist Convention is preaching for the revival. Harry Crawford, who has just come to the Central Church as director of music and education is leading the singing.

Dr. Sivells is not an ordained preacher but is much in demand for many years, having served as professor of science at Southwestern University in Georgetown for eight years. The past eight years he has given his full time to promotion of Brotherhood work in Baptist churches, first in Texas and currently in New Mexico.

Arrangements for the Revival were made by the Brotherhood of the church of which R. L. "Strawberry" Ratliff is president. George Long is chairman of the Committee on Evangelism.

Revival services will continue through Sunday. Harry Crawford, the new music director of music and education of the church moved to Pampa recently from Tyler where he was associated with the Calvary Baptist Church as director of music and youth activities.

Crawford received his training at East Texas Baptist College and at Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth. He served with the First Baptist Church at Pryor, Okla., before going to Tyler.

He and his wife live at 504 E. Browning with their 17-month-old daughter.

First Methodist Sermon Topic "Guide For 1957"

"A Safe Guide For 1957" will be the sermon topic discussed by Woodrow Adcock at the two morning Worship Services of the First Methodist Church Sunday at 8:30 and 10:55. Sunday night at 7:30 the sermon topic will be "Life's Great Objective" which will also be delivered by the Rev. Adcock.

A campaign to increase church attendance is being conducted by the Methodist Churches throughout the United States. The First Methodist Church of Pampa will participate in this campaign.

This Week At The Church Of The Brethren

A quarterly council meeting will be held tonight in the Church of the Brethren. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. and will be presided over by the Rev. Clyde Fry of Waka.

Saturday will mark the beginning of a series of membership training classes for the youth of the church who are to be baptized.

On Sunday the Junior and Senior High School youth will have their first church school opening worship service with Joe Burton as their superintendent. They had previously been meeting with the adults, but will now have their own service each Sunday at 9:45 a.m. in the church social room.

The church will observe a national week of prayer Jan. 6-13 and the morning sermon on Jan. 6 will be on "New Power through Prayer".

Baptist Convention Planning Churches

DALLAS (UP) — The Baptist General Convention of Texas started 99 new churches during 1956 and plans more than 100 others in 1957, denominational leaders said today in an end-of-the-year summary.

Church members gave $71,976,879 for the support of all their work. Of this amount, $12,334,380 went for home, state and foreign missions outside the churches' own local area.

The congregations baptized 65,653 converts, had an average Sunday school attendance of 579,163 persons, and an average training union attendance of 234,727 persons.

Southern Baptist property and assets in Texas now total $426,841,329. Of this amount, $261,422,376 is in property owned by individual churches; $115,642,320 is in schools, hospitals and homes owned by the Baptist General Convention of Texas; and $49,776,642 is in assets and property owned by the SBC.

The BGCT with 3,724 churches and 1,464,893 members, represents one out of every six persons in the state. Metropolitan Dallas alone has 190 Baptist churches and 2 Baptist missions.

Munday Pastor Is Now A Missionary

GROOM — (Special) — Rev. and Mrs. Robert H. Lloyd, of Munday, were appointed missionaries to Argentina this week by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board at its regular monthly meeting in Richmond.

Mr. Lloyd is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Munday where he has served since November of 1954. He was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Groom and the First Baptist Church of Meargeel and assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church of Denton. He also served as a medical laboratory technician in the U.S. Army for 38 months.

The son of a Baptist minister, Lloyd was born in Louisville, Ky., and lived in West Virginia and Texas while growing up. He attended Lon Morris Junior College in Jacksonville and received the Bachelor of Science degree from Baylor University. He received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Lloyd said that the visit of missionaries to the church in Munday each quarter and particularly the visit of Stanley P. Howard Jr., missionary to Japan, led him to dedicate his life for mission service.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd have two children, Robert Browning, 4, and Susan, seven months.

They are among 18 young people appointed for overseas service at the December meeting of the mission board, bringing the total number of active Southern Baptist foreign missionaries to 1,113.

The Outlook For 1957 As Seen By Dr. Blake

By DR. EUGENE C. BLAKE
President, National Council of Churches

Written for United Press

The increase in religious interest and support in our time is heartening to church people despite some indications of superficiality and despite the moral decline which paradoxically accompanies it.

If this new interest in religion is transformed into active Christian commitment in local Christian churches, I predict that the years that lie ahead will be marked by a rebirth of moral and spiritual conviction in America.

Indications of a true religious revival will be such things as the establishment of new Christian enterprises and the strengthening of old ones such as colleges, schools, hospitals and theological seminaries; a drop in the crime rate; a growing stability of family life; and an increase in civic interest and participation and responsibility on the part of the church members.

On the other hand this new religious interest is not successfully geared into the life and activities of particular Christian churches but remains a vague and general religiosity. I predict that there will be no long range gain either to God or to the nation. Religious interest that remains unrelated to the churches will soon fade out, leaving no traces except the inscription "In God We Trust" on some stamps as well as coins.

What is more serious is the present tendency to suppose that God is served by our bestowing on him our approval. But God is served only when men's lives are transformed by him. This transformation is marked by a turning away from the worship of material success, selfish comfort and superficial security toward the adventure of a life fixed and directed towards high human good for all mankind.

I believe we are on the edge of a true religious revival but it will come to fruition only if it becomes intellectually deeper, more personal and social, more practical and more local.

I do not believe the day will be won by mass appeal and smart advertising techniques. It will only come out of revitalized Christian congregations worshipping and serving God in your town.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Le B. DAVIS, Pastor
Progressive Baptist Church
834 S. Gray, Pampa, Texas

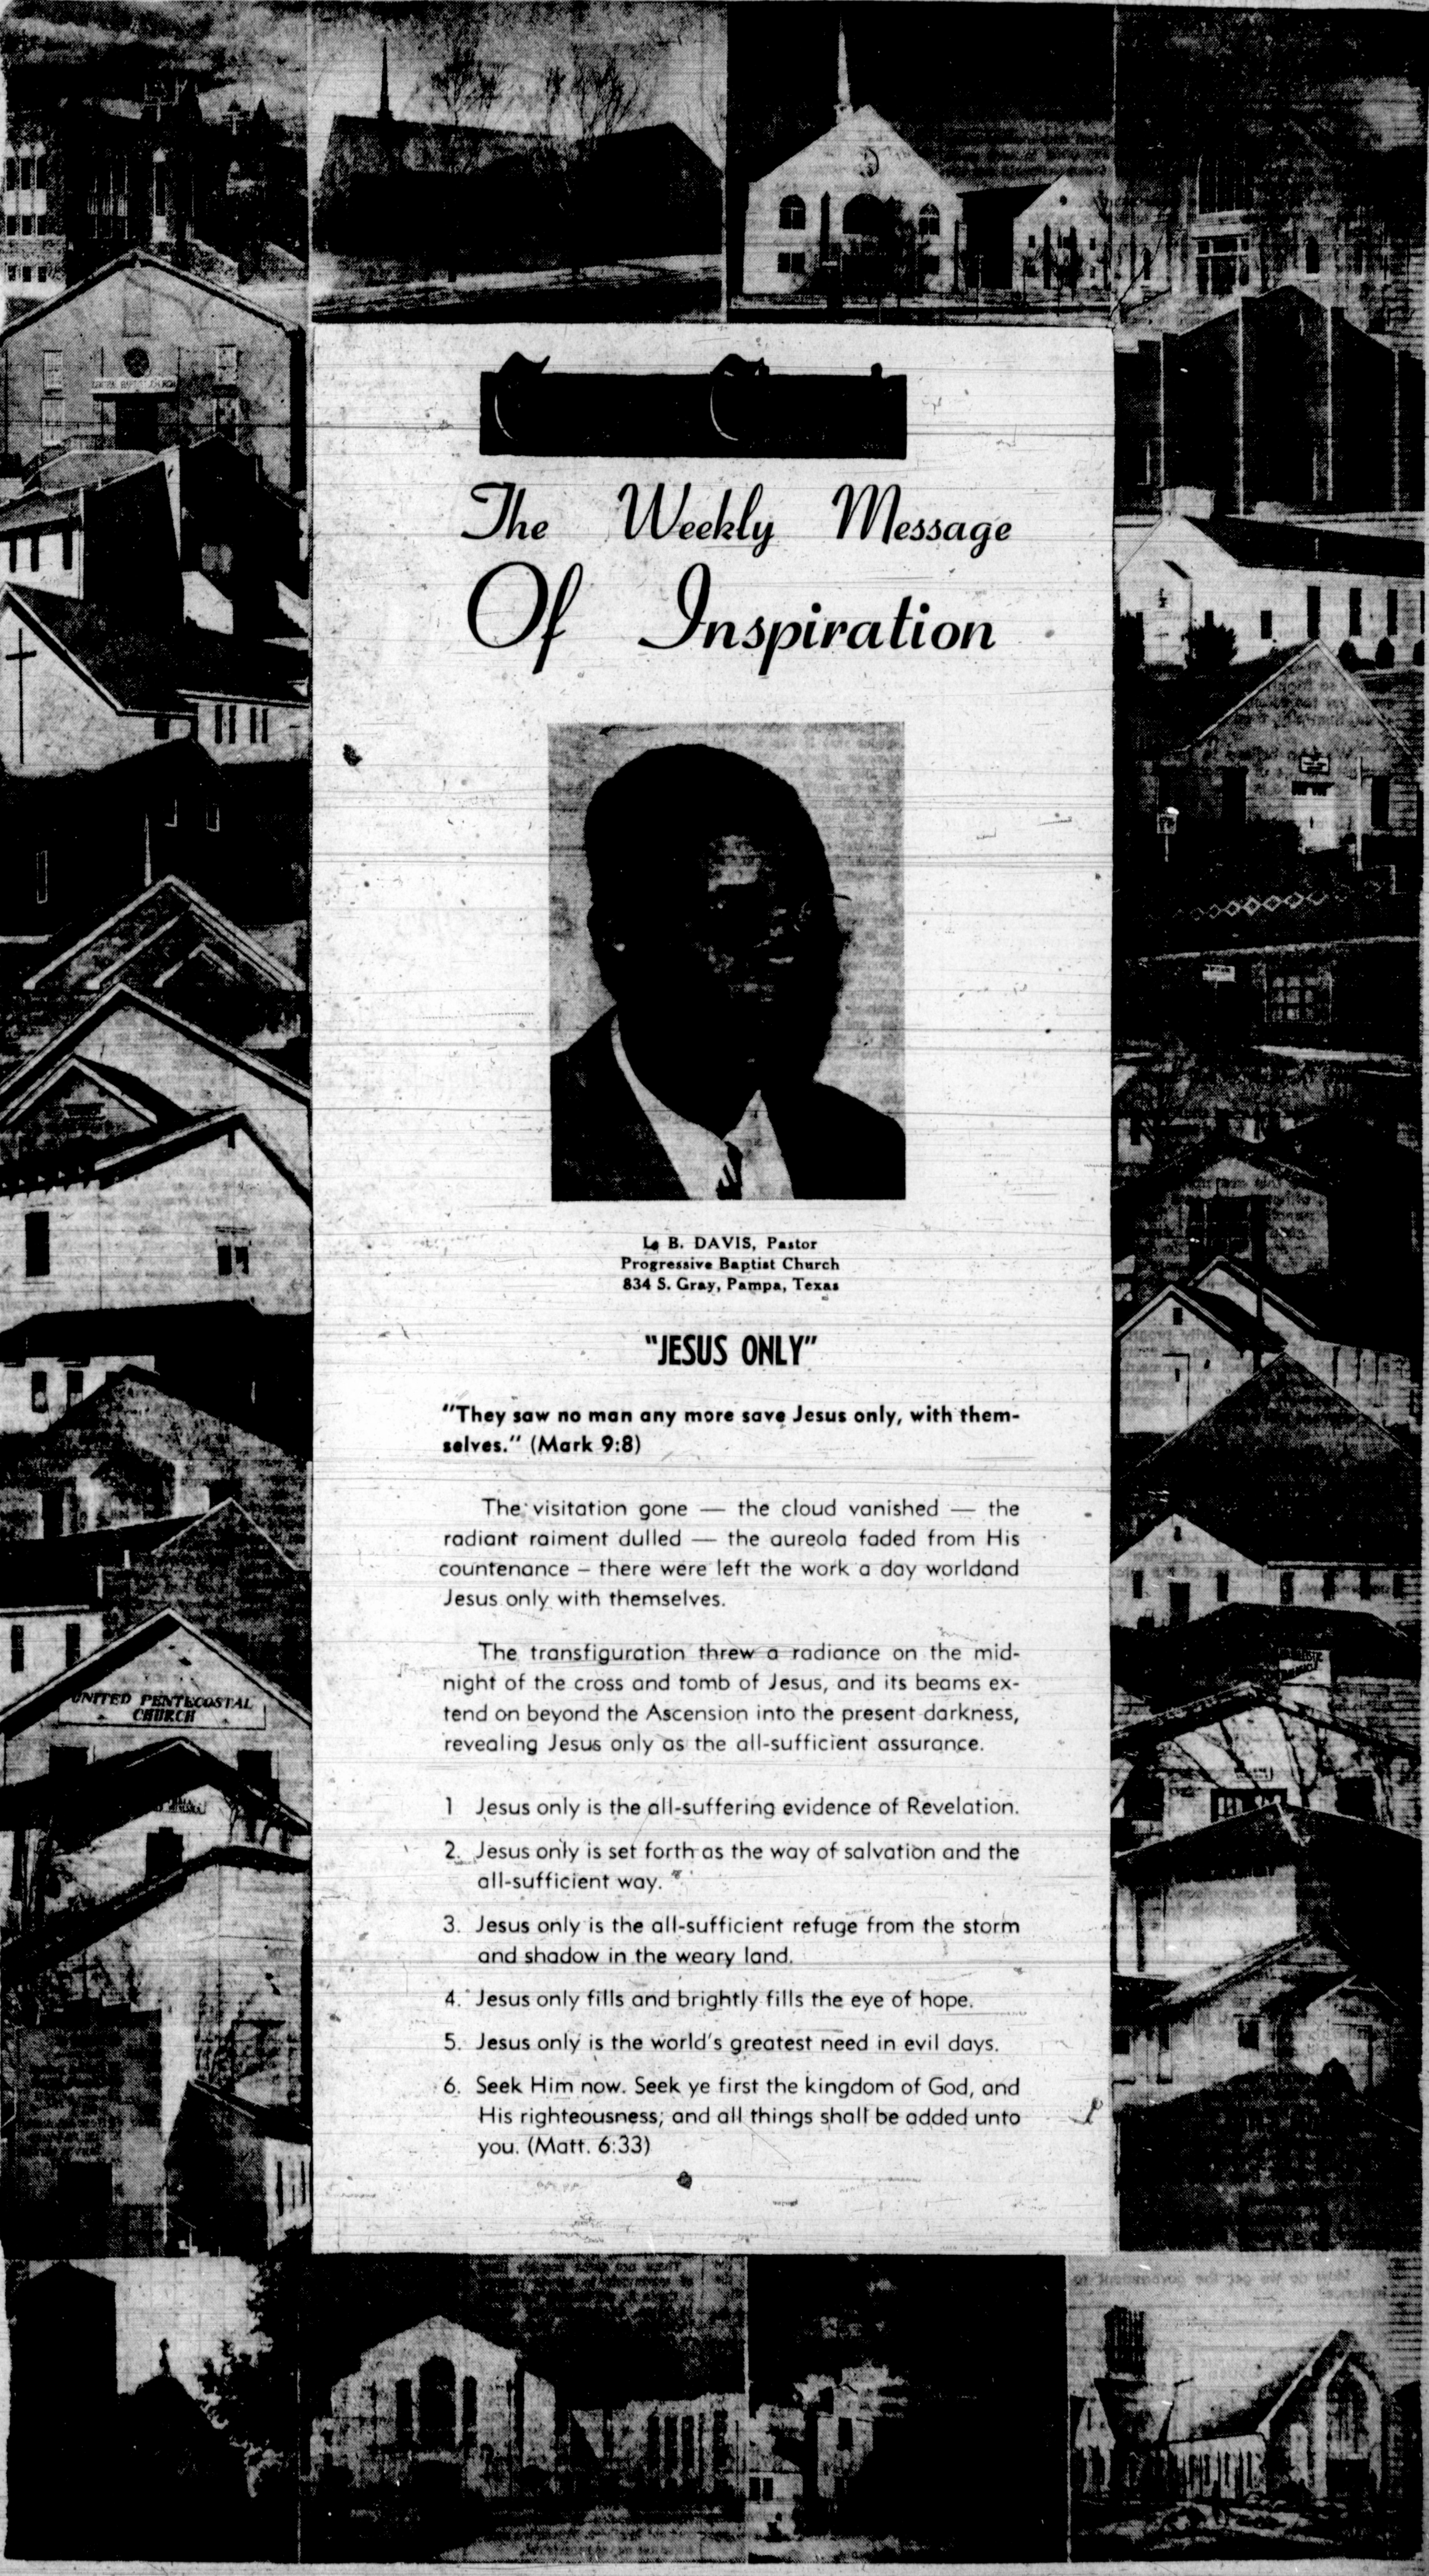

"JESUS ONLY"

"They saw no man any more save Jesus only, with themselves." (Mark 9:8)

The visitation gone — the cloud vanished — the radiant raiment dulled — the aureola faded from His countenance — there were left the work a day world and Jesus only with themselves.

The transfiguration threw a radiance on the midnight of the cross and tomb of Jesus, and its beams extend on beyond the Ascension into the present darkness, revealing Jesus only as the all-sufficient assurance.

1. Jesus only is the all-suffering evidence of Revelation.
2. Jesus only is set forth as the way of salvation and the all-sufficient way.
3. Jesus only is the all-sufficient refuge from the storm and shadow in the weary land.
4. Jesus only fills and brightly fills the eye of hope.
5. Jesus only is the world's greatest need in evil days.
6. Seek Him now. Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all things shall be added unto you. (Matt. 6:33)

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Social Security

Pampa's Dr. Joe Donaldson has spoken before several service clubs recently concerning the fraud of the so-called social security program. Though Dr. Donaldson has done a splendid job, his audience, of necessity, has been limited and we would like to make a few comments to compliment his observations.

Lions always know that one whopper leads to another. And, in fact, this is true of any act of evil. A murderer always finds a second murder easier than the first. A thief, having made a successful haul, is led almost inexorably to try again. Thus evil actions lead to further, evil actions.

As Alexander Pope expressed it: "Vice is a monster of so frightful mien, as to be hated needs but to be seen; yet too often, familiar with her face, we first endure, then pity, then embrace."

We who believe in freedom constantly admonish against the use of aggressive force and violence. To us, such aggression is vice.

Unfortunately, as we have pointed out, it is difficult to isolate a single act of aggressive violence. The chain of vice, once started, continues indefinitely, and usually at an accelerated pace. Thus, libertarians run a constant risk of being misunderstood.

For as they point out the evils in a single act of aggressive violence, those of inconsistent calibre separate the criticism from the context of their meaning.

A prime example is found in the federal government's social security program. This program is conducted by aggressive force and violence. While it passes as an insurance scheme, it is nothing in the world but a device for increasing the tax income of the federal government. The chain of evil began thusly:

1. It was assumed that there were many people in the country who failed to make adequate financial preparation for their old age.

2. Since this assumption was conceded to be factual, although the case was never proved, a second assumption followed the first. This was that it would be "good" to compel everyone to have adequate insurance against this possible day of "need." It was as though the federal government said: "The people are fools. We will make them do the 'right' thing with their money."

3. The social security program came into being. By means of it a portion of every person's income is seized by the federal government. When that person reaches the age set by the government (an age which fluctuates with the political exigencies of the moment) a repayment will begin.

4. Allegedly, the money collected was to be put aside for ultimate return to those who paid. In fact, however, the government spent the money as fast as it came in.

5. Therefore, whenever a person reaches the politically correct age for repayment to begin, the repayment must be made out of the total tax income of the government.

6. This leads to a constant rise in taxation with each person paying at least twice for his own remittance. Now, in revealing this chain of evil, it is essential to begin somewhere. But the person who speaks up against the social security racket, is immediately set upon by the intellectual ignoramus. "Are you trying to rob people of the money they have placed on deposit?" he is asked. "Would you favor the old folks who are no longer able to earn a living being tossed out penniless upon the street?" "How can you support the elimination of the social security program? Don't you know that this is all the security some people have?"

Those who believe in freedom do not object to security. But they do object to the compulsive nature of the social security racket. If it is not good enough to be sold, why make it compulsory? And if it is insurance, why aren't the funds available from monies that have been placed on deposit? And since there are virtually no funds on deposit, isn't the entire scheme a dishonest one, harnessed only to the future ability of our economy to produce tax income?

Yet how do we convince the unthinking and the inconsistent of the evil in this chain of activity, without causing them to believe that we are opposed to security for our old people?

Apparently the supporters of the social security fraud from the President on down, have become so accustomed to the original vice in the proposal that they have learned not only to live with it, but in the end have embraced it. And once embarked upon this chain of evil, they bind it to their bosoms and resist all logic and all truth if that logic or truth is inimical to their faulty position.

It sometimes takes a shock to cause a person, embarked on a course of lying, to admit his original lie and to tell the truth.

How do we get the government to do it in this instance?

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Who's Who in United Nations

The magazine "U.S.A." has a very interesting article outlining the kind of people who are on the payroll of the United Nations. The article points out that the United Nations spends, besides its depreciation, over $48 million a year; that at least one-third of this is paid by the United States.

The article observes: "All the UN activities carried on by members of the Secretariat affect the welfare of free enterprise. And these activities can make or break the success of highly important aspects of United States foreign policy which since 1945, has been built on a UN cornerstone."

Then the article quotes Article 7 under Chapter III, which reads: "1. There are established as the principal organs of the United Nations: A General Assembly, Security Council, an Economic and Social Council, an International Court of Justice, a Trusteeship Council and a Secretariat."

Then the writer explains how those who work for UN swear loyalty to UN and are exempt even from taxation in the United States. Then the author goes on to relate a speech made by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold before the Indian Council of World Affairs, New Delhi, India. Then he explains that it was an extemporaneous speech but two months later the Secretariat issued it in a pamphlet form. This pamphlet points out how the Secretariat is an executive organ in the UN. Then the Secretariat in this pamphlet explains the various divisions that are used to distribute wealth throughout the world.

The article explains further: "Today main executive responsibility in the Secretariat is in the hands of the Secretary-General his executive assistant and personal staff, and two Under-Secretaries Without Department. Next in command are five Under-Secretaries and principal officers heading the various departments."

The two Under-Secretaries Without Department are Mr. Ilya S. Tchernychev and Mr. Ralph J. Bunche. The executive assistant to the Secretary-General is Mr. Andrew W. Gardner.

"Mr. Tchernychev, a Communist, is a citizen of the Soviet Union.

"Both Mr. Bunche and Mr. Cordier are American. In his national political life, Mr. Bunche is closely associated with the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action. Both he and Mr. Cordier are former members of the U. S. State Department where they occupied posts in the Office of Special Political Affairs which Alger Hiss was assistant director and then director. At the Conference on International Organization of the United Nations, San Francisco, April 25-June 26, 1945, Mr. Bunche and Mr. Cordier were technical experts on the Secretariat staff of Secretary-General Alger Hiss."

The article explains that Hiss submitted a lot of names, which was contrary to the policy set down by James F. Byrnes, then secretary of state. The result of Hiss's activities, in order to get his kind of men on the UN payroll, was that 43 of Hiss's recommendations were taken on as a loan and 32 of these later were transferred to permanent status in the UN Secretariat.

Other members of the secretarial staff have about the same record of being associated with collectivist organizations. In fact, the whole United Nations is a collectivist organization, if we are to judge from their Charter.

Article 33, Chapter IX, reads: "With a view to the creation of conditions of stability and well-being which are necessary for peaceful and friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, the United Nations shall promote: a. higher standards of living, full employment, and conditions of economic and social progress and development; b. solutions of international economic, social, health, and related problems; and international cultural and educational cooperation; and c. universal respect for, and observance of, human rights and without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion."

Article 56 reads: "All Members pledge themselves to take joint and separate action in co-operation with the Organization for the achievement of the purposes set forth in Article 53."

What can we expect when we have pledged to take joint and separate actions to take from one to give to another. That's all socialism or communism is.

It will be remembered that the United States cannot fire the employees furnished by the United States without the consent of the World Court.

There are those who think kind of people run the UN, the more one is convinced that the sooner we get out of the UN, the better off the American people will be.

Point Of View

Fair Enough

North Plodding Along In Job Not Of Delight But Salary

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — Sterling North, a professional book reviewer, announces his retirement after 24 years. He has "reviewed 6,000 books, a task as tall as the Woolworth Tower," and it need not be assumed that this dreadful task improved his appreciation of literature because most of the stuff which the members of this queer craft read and discuss in this time is either rank political propaganda or slanted biography. As a group, the reviewers tolled hatefully for the New Deal and the Roosevelt myth and, as it now appears, not wisely but so well that they to some extent discredited their god. It is still decades too soon to expect honest treatment of an honest historical discussion of the original Ku Klux Klan or the revival which, in retrospect, seems to have been the world's first whiff of fascism, though none of us has recognized it as such. The second Klan was an intensely national movement nevertheless and the Kleagles and Klads of the 1920's were predecessors of the German Gauleiters — and of Walter Reuther's goons in the Michigan terror under F. D. Roosevelt's patronage at start of his second term.

"I think I might profit by another reading now of 'The Clansman' in the light of my acquired knowledge of the desperate situation created in a stricken land by hot-eyed bigots whose hypocrisy and leering enjoyment of the agony of better men and women is reflected today in the conduct of the Supreme Court and the latter-day scalawags and carpetbaggers of 'integration.'"

North has maintained in all his stuff which I have read a high standard of monotony and numbing mediocrity. He was not the worst. He was dull gray in expression and his bias was negative rather than aggressive and openly abusive. For his vanity, it may be conceded that he was typical of a strange specialty of our journalism because it is an amusing fact that book reviewers are incapable of lively manipulation of words. Their frustrated yearning for wit and unusual turns of impudence was revealed when Henry Mencken died and they went into awkward hip-ups of admiration for a Mountebank who was coarse in his tastes and repartee and flagrantly resorted to the firecrackers which Percy Hammond called out-of-town words, not to express anything but just to show off. Over most of his career, Mencken was so intent on tricks of phrase that his "writing" obscured his meaning. This, nevertheless, was the peculiarity which built him into a trifling master of American letters.

North seems to have been a lone operator, plodding along in a job of reading not for information or delight but for a salary. Others in the same line of business have taken revenge on better writers by sneering at their books with the intent and effect of depressing retail sales and the personal rewards to the authors or by ignoring altogether books which refuted the dimly of their paltry deity. In some newspaper book departments rosters are maintained of hacks who can be relied on to follow a party line and ballyhoo new deal books and stuff; belittling patriotism as a childish whim of dumb people. Accordingly, when books are received from publishers they go out by mail to misanthropic professors and hangers-on of the literary soiree-parties — a form of politeness which dribbles down a little money for their necessities and keeps the propaganda going.

There has been a slight change in the last few years, however. Some moderate and pro-American writers on political topics have received surprisingly polite treatment and the reason may be that Moscow repudiated Stalin and then became uncivil toward loyal old Muscovites in New York. In fiction, the party-liners prosper still. They are masters of sexual filth and it is still sure-fire to revile the south as a moral, social and intellectual slum by contrast with, say, Park Avenue and the Bronx.

In retiring, North says he plans to write some books himself. They need not be very good to be very successful. He will be among professional peres not above rolling a log for one of their own.

Hankerings

By HENRY McLEMORE

MUNICH — There is one thing the Hungarian refugees who pour through this Army processing center here have in common — fear.

No amount of kindness on the part of the Army, the Red Cross, or the volunteer workers, can rid them of it.

No amount of explaining to them that they are safe at last will dispel it.

The refugees, young and old, are gripped with the belief that as long as they remain in Europe, they are in great danger of being picked up and taken back across the Hungarian border.

I couldn't understand this fear until I talked to Pfc. Karl Tiffin, a cook in the camp's mess hall. It seemed to me that all the kindness on the part of the Army would have wiped away any trace of doubt that the Hungarians have as to being in the keeping of friends.

"You would have had to live in a captive country to know how they feel," Karl Tiffin told me. "I did, and even now, ten years later, I sometimes am afraid."

This is because of the teachings of the Russians, Tiffin told me. "I escaped across the Polish border with my mother and father in 1947," he said, "and for a long time we expected to be grabbed by the NVD, or secret police, and taken back, and punished. As soon as a child is old enough to learn anything, he's taught that the Communist party is everywhere. Not only everywhere, but in charge of everything, and that the governments of other countries are puppet governments and have no power."

I told Tiffin that I had noticed how afraid the Hungarians were to write down anything, even the answer to the simplest question.

"That's part of the fear," he said. "They just can't believe that what a man writes down is not going to be held against him. That is why they shake so when they are called from a line, or asked to get off a bus. They think that means the Communist police — as they were taught to believe — have found them and will never let them leave."

I asked Pfc. Tiffin if he thought the Hungarians would lose this fear in the United States.

"Yes. That's why they want to get on a plane or a boat as soon as they can. The Reds never have been able to convince the Hungarians, the Poles, or any of the others, that they, the Reds, rule America."

Pfc. Tiffin, by the way, is a good example of the magnificent, unselfish work being done by the plain GI for these refugees. He, as well as all the other cooks, has been working from 12 to 20 hours a day ever since the camp was set up by the Army here.

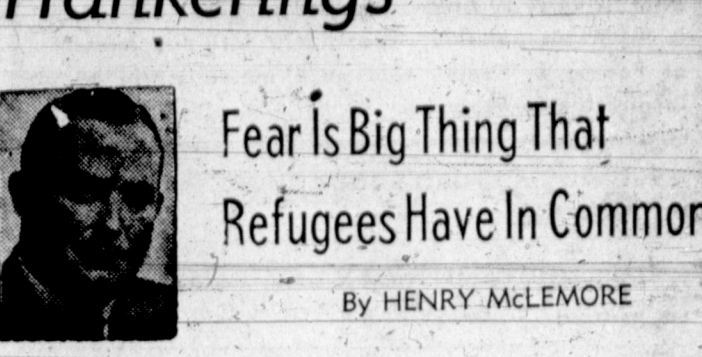

"We are all volunteers," he said. "We cooks are from the Cooks' School at Langgraves. A few of the men didn't volunteer, but our sergeant — his name's Patton and you must have seen him around here, he's as big as a barn and all beat-up looking — well, our sergeant volunteered for those who didn't want to. When a guy would say he didn't want to volunteer the sergeant would say, 'You don't have to. I have already volunteered for you. Hit the road, and get to cooking!'"

I asked Tiffin what the refugees liked best to eat.

"Sweets and fruit," he said. "They can't get enough. The biggest hit with them so far was the strawberry chiffon pie we cooked one night. They ate a pie apiece. And the kids, most of them, have to be shown how to eat oranges and bananas. They never saw 'em before. But what am I talking about that for? I never had seen one either until we escaped."

STILL SUBVERSIVE (Chicago Daily Tribune)

The subversive activities control board has renewed its finding that the Communist Party of the United States is the tool of a foreign power, controlled from Moscow for soviet purposes. The board was under instructions from the Supreme Court to review its earlier finding to the same effect, so the testimony upon which it based its previous conclusion having turned sour in the interim.

One witness originally heard by the board was Harvey Matusow, who executed a double flipflop. Originally a Communist, he professed himself and said that all his statements about communism were fabrications. Matusow's talent as a psychopathic liar can hardly be denied; but it seems equally evident that during his spell as a federal laborer, he told a lot of things that were true about Reds.

Of course, it seems absurd for the board to have to rely on testimony of witnesses, no matter how expert on the subject of communism in order to reach a judgment that the Communist Party is the subversive instrument of an alien conspiracy. Until recently, not even the Communists attempted to conceal the fact. The intentions of communism are set forth in detail in a vast party literature, and it was never necessary for the subversive activities board to go to any renegade Communist in order to inquire, "This is all true, isn't it?"

Lately the party has tried to clean itself up for public inspection by drafting a new constitution, intended to represent the party as an indigenous native movement, seeking to achieve collectivism by a path entirely separate from that of Moscow. It is to the credit of the subversive activities board that it has refused to be deluded by all this.

The board's report goes back to the Supreme Court with a request that the court approve the board's finding and accompanying order requiring the Communist Party to register with the attorney general as a subversive organization and to list all members, cover organizations, financial status, etc. We think that the court, after allowing itself its excursion into irrelevant testimony, should lose no further time in validating what should be a crippling blow to the Kremlin's American stooges.

WATCH THE MASTERS, I.E. (N. Y. Daily News)

The National Association of Manufacturers' government economy committee comes up with a mainly chilly report on U. S. Government spending for fiscal 1957 (began July 1, 1956).

In 1955, President Eisenhower promised to "exercise the utmost care in the manner in which (the Administration) uses the taxpayers' money."

Yet spending this year has jumped $4 billion over the original estimate — from a predicted $85 billion to a rate of $89 billion.

Nor is the increase accounted for by national defense or foreign aid, as many people suppose. The extra money is being shovelled out by non-security Government boards and bureaus.

The NAM report winds up with an earnest plea for economy which will not be "a mirage to disappoint the taxpayers."

We'll endorse that suggestion, heartily, and add a thought of our own, namely, that this Administration can best work toward the election of a Republican President in 1960 by keeping up the fight for economy in the Government, we can't believe the voters intended to give him a mandate for extravagance in his second term.

That's the headline on a recent ad in a Los Angeles newspaper offering building lots in "Viewpark's top-of-the-world" unit, where a magnificent panorama of the city and surrounding area is spread out below you.

Sounds wonderful—but those of us who must continue to live somewhere else should remember that it is not necessary to live on a hilltop in order to be closer to heaven. What is required is that we be in the right relationship with God and our fellowmen. We frequently miss the heavenly joy that might otherwise be ours because we live on a low, instead of a high, spiritual level. We can all "live closer to heaven in '57" if we really, truly want to. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we actually did?

Palo Duro Plays Here Tonight

Pampa After 5th Victory In Succession

The Class AAA state basketball champions of 1958 will challenge the unbeaten Pampa Harvesters here tonight in Harvester Field house and they will be looking for their first District 3-AAAA victory. The Dons moved into Class AAAA this year after a sensational first year as a new school. Tom Gilley's Amarillo team lost only three games last year.

The Harvesters will be after their fifth straight win of the year and their second district victory. Pampa edged another Amarillo team, the Sandies 60-57 Tuesday night to take an early conference lead.

Palo Duro has a 5-2 season record and is rated as one of the top teams in the district. Their last victory was a 57-49 come-from-behind conquest of the Portales, N.M. Rams Tuesday night.

The Dons have only one regular back from last year's state championship team. He is 5-10 Paul Hyatt, a guard. Hyatt was sidelined by a broken arm earlier in the season but is in the lineup now.

Don Beck, 6-0 guard, is the only other returning letterman. Candidates up from the 'B' team are Richard Ashby, 5-5; Leo Brittain, 5-0; Dusty Hall, 5-10; Senny Hughes, 6-2; Warren Hunkapiller, 5-11; Arthur Partain, 5-2; Joe Patterson, 5-11; Charlie Summers, 6-3; Jimm Turner, 6-2; and Don Whitcomb, 6-1.

The probable starters include Hyatt, Summers, Turner, Ham and Hughes.

The Dons hold victories over Phillips, Midland, El Reno, Norman, Capitol Hill and Portales while losing to Odessa, Phillips and Highland of Albuquerque.

Pampa's starters will be Jerry Pope, 6-1, and Sam Condo, 6-2, at forward; Tommy Gindorf, 6-6, at center; and Bill Brown, 5-10, and Dickie Mauldin, 5-11, at guards.

TOP RESERVES—Daryl Ammons (left) and Larry Cruise have been lending able assistance to the Harvesters this year. Although neither is a starter, both have seen plenty of action in almost every game this year. Ammons has scored 41 points this year and Cruise has 35. (News photos)

Syndicates Remodel Puerto Rico Racing

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP)—Horse racing is ready today to go modern in Puerto Rico after 30 years of horse and buggy operation.

A syndicate of New York, Philadelphia and Washington businessmen has moved in and erected one of the world's most beautiful and modern racing plants, snugged in the shadow of El Yunque, is Puerto Rico's highest mountain. It is an eye-catching masterpiece.

But this is one shot not aimed at the "tourists."

For the new track, El Comandante, has a gimmick going for it which is going to do things for its stock on the Wall Street boards. This is off-track betting, long a bone of contention in the United States, through which the most isolated islander will be able to place a bet and for as little as 25 cents.

Everyone Can Bet
All across Puerto Rico's length and breadth, there have been scattered 300 agents who will take bets for the pool. These bets are on a six-race parlay and everybody is hoping to get rich, from the track owner's right down to the lowliest sugar cane worker with 25 itching pennies.

Curly Byrd, the white-haired former University of Maryland president, was the construction boss for El Comandante and the man who once turned out gridiron juggernauts for the Terrapins has done his usual masterful job. Because El Comandante is as modern as tomorrow's automobiles and as scenic as a picture postcard.

The one-mile track, with a seating capacity of 20,000, will operate three times weekly throughout the year and has stable room for 450 thoroughbreds. But this picture

Ill-Fated Wake Forest And Colorado Bid For Cage Wins

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
Wake Forest and Colorado, whose unhappy fate it was to lose to the nation's two best teams in holiday tournaments, bid again today for national basketball recognition as they got back on the winning trail.

Wake Forest, bounding back from a loss to second-ranked North Carolina in the final round of the Dixie Classic, ran its season record to 9-3 Thursday night with an impressive 72-54 victory over George Washington at Arlington, Va.

And Colorado, soundly drubbed by national leader Kansas in the Big Seven tourney finals, pushed its record to an even better 9-2 by whipping Miami of Florida, 73-66, at Miami.

Wake Forest, already ranked No. 15 nationally, showed all-around power, in leading almost all the way against George Washington. Jump-shooting Jack Williams popped in 22 points to set the pace, while Jack Jolly led the losing Colomials with 18.

At Miami, a city that also proved hospitable to Colorado's football team earlier this week in the Orange Bowl victory over Clemson, the Buffalo cagers nearly blew a 22-point lead before downing Miami.

In other leading games, Thursday night:

Duquesne confounded the "experts" by whipping Dayton, 79-71, at Dayton as Dick Ricketts led the way with 23 points — an astounding switch from last week when Dayton beat Duquesne by 38 points; Rice opened its Southwest Conference season with a 53-39 victory over Texas A&M as 6-10 Temple Tucker scored 18 and 6-9 Tom Robitaille added 16.

Bradley turned back visiting St. John's of New York, 97-78, despite 21 points by St. John's Bernie Pascal; Lyndon Lee's 22 points led Oklahoma City to an 80-55 victory over Arizona; Cory Freeman and Henry Stein scored 21 each to lead Xavier of Ohio to an 87-79 victory over Western Kentucky.

Wayne Embry's 29 points paced Miami of Ohio to its fourth straight win in the Mid-America Conference, 93-77, over Marshall; Georgia Tech trounced Howard, 95-54; Tennessee edged Grambling, 98-94; Holy Cross downed Massachusetts, 111-96; and Spring Hill shaded Morehead of Kentucky, 83-79, in the final round of the Senior Bowl Tournament at Mobile, Ala.

The spotlight will be mainly on action in the Pacific Coast Conference tonight with four games opening the league season: California-Washington, UCLA - Idaho, Oregon-Stanford, and Washington-Southern California.

The PCC Scholastic Requirements Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The Pacific Coast Conference, apparently ignoring its recent poor Rose Bowl record, voted Thursday to increase the scholastic requirements for athletes.

The conference fathers, composed of presidents, faculty representatives and athletic directors of the nine member schools, voted to require a "C" grade average for athletes and to increase the number of units they must carry in the off-season.

Additionally the representatives at the winter meeting voted unanimously to uphold penalties already levied against four member schools for permitting excessive financial aid to athletes.

However, at the first session of the two-day winter meeting the fathers considered only four points of a new 10-point code proposed by the presidents' council last month and made no announcements on changes in the regulations to permit additional financial aid to athletes.

The proposed code offered increased money aid for athletes but proposed more stringent punishment for offenders.

NEW YORK (UP)—Buddy Parker, whose Detroit Lions finished second last season after winding up last in 1955, today was named National Football League "Coach of the Year" in the annual United Press poll.

Parker, whose Lions lost the Western Division title to the Chicago Bears by a half-game, received nine votes in balloting by 25 sports writers who covered the 1956 campaign in the various league cities.

Jim Lee Howell, who guided the New York Giants to their first Eastern Division title in 10 years and their first league championship in 18, was runnerup with six votes.

Joe Kuharich, who kept the Washington Redskins in the Eastern race until the final week of the season, was third in the voting with five ballots.

Ray Richards of the Chicago Cardinals drew four votes and the other went to Paddy Driscoll, who guided the Chicago Bears to the Western Division title in his first season as the team's head coach.

The Lions compiled a 9-3 record last season after finishing last in 1955 with a 3-9 mark.

After the poor 1955 season, which followed the 56-10 thumping Detroit took from the Cleveland Browns in the 1954 championship game, many observers picked Parker's club to finish in the cellar again in 1956.

But the 1956 Lions, relying on the defensive strength that has made Parker one of pro football's most successful coaches, were in the thick of the Western race from the opening game.

During Parker's six seasons as head coach, the Lions won three Western and two league championships, finished second twice and last once.

Only Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns has done better during that period.

Plan Meeting Of Baseball Group Monday

A meeting of the Pampa Community Baseball Association board of directors has been scheduled for Monday at 5:30 p.m., according to G. F. (Pinky) Branson, president of the group.

The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce office. Branson urges anyone interested in financially helping the club to be present at the meeting.

There is a possibility that W. J. Green, president of the Southwestern League, will be present. The group will discuss the chances of the Pampa Oilers returning play in the Class B circuit again this year.

Branson returned from the minor league meeting in Florida last month without aid from a major league club. Although two other clubs have promised some player help, the Oilers have not been able to line up a working agreement.

Branson will put before the group Monday a proposition which might reduce operating expenses for the club should they operate this year. The association must decide whether or not it will stay in the league by Jan. 13 when the Southwestern League meeting will be held in Clovis.

Clovis Boxers Here Saturday

An estimated 12 matches are scheduled between the two teams at the Gray County community building. Starting time is 8 p.m.

Washington, a 144-pounder who once lost to Pampa's Bobby Wilhelm, fights Charles Snider, one of Pampa's outstanding open division contenders this year.

Three other state titlists are also on Coach Bob Stephens' New Mexico team appearing here. Two of them, Sonny Archie and Justin Mendez, won in the novice high school division at the state meet while Edwin Edwards took the open title.

Edwards, 130 pounds, is scheduled to fight Gary Wilhelm in one of the top bouts of the night. Mendez will battle either Gary Willis or Jim Murray in a 128-pound fight.

Other Clovis fighters expected to compete here are Gabriel Mendez, 60 pounds; Romero Luceros, 65; Junior R Garcia, 70; Clarence Archie, 85; Junior Gutierrez, 90; Blaise Garcia, 112; Robert Mayfield, 117; Chaney Shaw, 157; and Bobby Locke, 180.

Crack Field Goes Today In Los Angeles Tourney

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—A 3-1 to win the event, some of the crack field of professionals, all armed with a new mental attitude toward the game of golf since the institution of set fines for unbecoming conduct, tee off today in the 31st annual Los Angeles Open.

With a top prize of $7,000 for first place and a chance to gain an early lead in the 1957 money standings, nearly every professional of note in the country was on hand for the first round at the long, rolling Rancho Course.

Many of them are teeing off with certain reservations. There now is a specific schedule of fines for such things as breaking a club in anger, swearing, failing to show up to compete, etc. So most of them will be on their very best behavior—at least for a day or two.

Soviet Government Re-Shapes Policies

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The Soviet Russian government seems to be working out a thorough re-shaping of its policies after months of embarrassment and confusion. Moscow dispatches indicate the new policy will cover the proper dividing line between "Stalinism" and "Titoism," relations with the Soviet satellite countries and the prosecution of the cold war.

Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Communist Party chairman, gave one important clue to the new line in comments he made at a New Year reception in Moscow.

After praising the late Joseph Stalin as "a great Marxist" and "a great fighter against imperialism," Khrushchev admitted that he and other present Soviet leaders shared some of Stalin's mistakes because they were associated with him. In fighting imperialism, Khrushchev said, "we are all Stalinists."

Repeats Earlier Phrase—There was nothing sensational in the praise of Stalin. Khrushchev said about the same thing in his sensational denunciation of Stalin at the 20th Communist Party Congress last February.

At that time, Khrushchev specified that in his early years of leadership, Stalin actively fought "to defend 'Leninism'—that is, Marxism—against those who deviated from the party line. 'In the past,' Khrushchev said then, 'Stalin doubtless performed great services to the party, to the working class and to the international workers movement.'"

Stockyards Act To Be Talked
WACO, Tex. (UP)—Cattlemen, sheep and goat raisers, auction operators and government officials will meet Sunday to discuss the controversial Packers and Stockyards Act.

The act, passed in 1921, has met with widespread opposition in Texas. Many of the state's 150 auction sale firms have been posted by the USDA during a recent campaign to enforce the act in Texas. Several of the state's auction firms have circulated petitions claiming the act's provisions are discriminatory, others outmoded and need revision.

Most of the livestock sold in Texas is marketed through auction rings. The world's largest cattle auction is at Amarillo, and the nation's largest sheep and goat auction is held twice a week at Goldthwaite, Tex.

LOOKING DOWN IN THE MOUTH—This remarkable view of the crater of Japan's famous Mount Fuji was taken from a U.S. Navy fighter plane. The photographer also caught an F-86 Cougar streaking over the snowclad summit.

But in his February speech, Khrushchev tried his hardest to absolve himself and his colleagues in the new collective leadership of complicity in Stalin's crimes. This defense was challenged by Communists in many countries. Khrushchev's new statement seems to be a concession to them.

The problem of drawing the line between old-style Stalinist domination of the satellite countries and Titoism is being met in several ways.

First, the Soviet government seems to have accepted fully the "Titoist" government of Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gombolka.

This was a matter of necessity. The Poles won their revolt against both the "Stalinists" who still ruled their country and against dictation from Moscow. Khrushchev and his fellow-leaders apparently have decided to make the best of it.

In Hungary, now that the active rebellion has been crushed, the Russian leaders appear to be trying to insure that the trend toward a "really Titoist" government is stopped. As one part of that job, they have started to give economic aid to the Kadar government.

The policy toward other satellites seems to be to try as long as possible to keep Stalinist leaders in control, at the risk of provoking outbreaks in some of them.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

There seemed to be no problem in today's hand. South played his cards in routine style and didn't wake up until he was already down.

West opened the eight of spades, and East played the encouraging nine. South won with the jack of spades and led a heart to knock out East's ace.

East returned a low diamond and South made the fatal mistake of playing low. West won with the king of diamonds and returned another spade, on which East completed his echo by playing the four of spades.

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, West, and East hands with card suits and counts.

Declarer had to try the club finesse in order to have any chance at all for nine tricks. West won the first round of clubs with the king and returned his last spade, whereupon East finally took the ace of spades and his last spade to defeat the contract.

As we have seen, South made his mistake when he took the diamond finesse. The correct play is to put up the ace of diamonds, run the hearts, and then try the club finesse. Even when the finesse loses, South is sure of three hearts, three clubs, the spade and diamond tricks already won, and one other trick in spades or diamonds depending on the defense. Nothing can defeat the contract.

Television Channel Swim

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The channel swim...

It's beginning to look as if "Omnibus" will lose its Sunday evening time spot on ABC-TV next fall. Disappointing ratings are the villain. Ted Mack's "Original Amateur Hour" looks like the hot contender for the slot.

Parke Levy, creator of "December Bride," is working up a new TV series for Arnold Stang and Harry Morgan... fire destroyed Ralph Edwards' $100,000 beach home at Trancas, Calif. — toughest blow for Ralph was the loss of a library of home movies of his kids.

ABC-TV is cooking up a new one-hour musical show to slot opposite NBC-TV's Perry Como and CBS-TV's Jackie Gleason on Saturdays... ABC-TV is also wooing Mike Wallace for a new "magazine" type show.

TV's biggest make-believe giveaway, "The Millionaire," celebrates its second anniversary Jan. 15. By that date, the millionaire in the plot will have given away $2,999,652.71 — reasons for the short count are political pre-emptives, summer re-runs and one character who returned all but $347.29.

Mrs. G. Paul Jones, who was slated to appear this week as a contestant on CBS-TV's "Name That Tune," gave birth to a seven-pound seven-ounce boy at Macon, Ga., on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Jones now is ticketed in for the Jan. 15 show.

CBS-TV is close to closing a deal for an "Eloise" series that would star Evelyn Rudie... Sammy Kaye has added a mounting jackpot to his old "So you want to lead a band" series and is pitching it to ad agencies.
