New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day off the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

But the important fact about this run was that it proved new Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up highclimbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel. "And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure," states the official AAA report of the test. Every model proved its over-all economy by its ironclad ability to stay on the job! Stop by; we'll talk

Pass Family Test

Families are perhaps the most critical judges of Mom's baked products, and rightfully so. New baked products are always given a careful test by the family members but this Molasses Cookie recipe is sure to rate a perfect score from the judges in your home. To produce delicate textured cakes, flaky pastries and crisp, crunchy cookies is a feather in any homemaker's hat.

Fortunate indeed is the homenaker who used lard in preparing all her baked products and deepfat frying recipes. Lard is not only economical but also gives the homemaker a nelping hand, because, according to Reba Staggs, well known home economist, lard has the greatest shortening value of any cooking fat

Fragrant Valentine Flowers

HERE ARE TWO SUGGESTIONS for saying "I love you" on

Valentine's Day this year-each "Saying it With Flowers."

Since this is a frankly sentimental holiday, choose delicate, fragile flowers, like the fragrant stephanotis, sweetheart roses and violets in the old-fashioned nosegay bouquet. Stephanotis, carnations and lily of the valley are arranged in the dramatic compote. The two cherubs carry through the hearts and flowers theme. If you are far away on Valentine's Day, any florist who is a member of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association can send this type of gift, or the traditional long-stemmed red roses, to your lady fair. (ANS)

How to Put a Fitted Sheet On a Mattress

Wasons who have a gross income tering routines wary with various over $600 must file income tax re- plants. urns, except if the taxpayer is 65 or older he need not file a return unless he has gross income over $1200. This is because persons who are 65 or older have two exemptions which automatically eliminate any tax liability for income under $1 200

All federal tax returns for indi viduals must be filed on or before April 15. Although many persons believe that a tax return need only such is not the intent of the statute Tax returns are supposed to be in the office of the Internal Revenue Service by the due date specified.

Tax forms and instructions will be received by most persons during January. The instructions being distributed this year contain the following statement: "The Internal Revenue Service will mail Form 1040 ES, as far as is practical, to each person who may need it. Any one else required to file should obtain the form from an Internal Revenue Service office in time to file by April 15, 1957."

Declarations of estimated tax are required from all persons who expect gross income of more than $400, plus $600 times the number of exemptions which may be claimed, if more than $100 of the income will not be subject to withholding. Single persons with more than $5,000 and married persons with more than $10,000 expected gross income must file declarations of estimated tax even though all of the income is subject to withhold

Declarations of estimated tax except those for farmers, must be filed by April 15. Like the income tax return, this date is one month later than the deadline for years before the new Revenue Act went into effect. However, the final dates for quarterly installment payments remain the same - April 15, June 15, September 15, and the last one on January 15 of the fol-

If a person, other than a farm er, desires to file his income tax return and pay his tax in full, he may do this on or before January 15 instead of paying his last quar terly installment. It does not relieve anyone from filing the original declaration of estimated tax and making three paymnts on it. However, in most cases this provision does remove the possibility of a penalty for an under estimate of tax liability.

Farmers have special provisions concerning declarations of estimated tax, and may postpone filing of any estimate until February 15 of the following year.

The penalty for underpayment of tax liability on the declaration of estimated tax was reduced by the 1954 act. There is not any underpayment if the taxpayer remits at least 70 per cent of his tax as shown on his final tax return. If there is an underpayment, the penalty is 6 per cent per annum interest on the additional amount which should have been remitted. It is expected that there will be more strict enforcement of this provision in the future by the Internal Revenue Service.

Attack On Court

Attempts to curb the power of the Supreme Court, begun in the 84th Congress, are sure to be renewed in the 85th. But chances for success are slim.

Leading the attack on the Court in 1957, as jin 1956, will be Southerners outraged by 1954 Court decislon outlawing segregation in the public schools. In March 1956, 101 members of Congress from 11 south ern states issued a manifesto pledging themselves to. use "all lawful means to bring about a reversal" of the segregation decision.

Marching with the Southerners under the states rights banner will be some Northerners concerned over what they consider a growing trend toward federal supremacy in the Court's decisions. At issue are decisions going back to 1942, that limit the powers of the states in fields of concurrent federal-state jurisdiction.

The current assault on the Court, the most bitter since President Roosevelt tried to pack it in 1937, was touched off by an April, 1956, decision in which the Court invalidated state sedition laws. In the Steve Nelson case it ruled, 6-3, that federal legislation against sedition had left no room for state laws in that field.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), author of the 1940 Smith Act (one of the laws cited by the Supreme Court as indicating an intention by Congress to occupy the entire field of anti-sedition legislation), promptly introduced a bill requiring Congress to state its intention specifically if it intended to preempt any other field of legislation.

Smith's bill was reported by the House Judiciary Committee with an amendment limiting its application to the field of sedition, but it received no floor consideration in the 84th Congress. Smith reintroduced the measure in 1957

Sen, John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) and 11 Southern colleagues introduced an identical bill in the Senate. The Judiciary Committee, by a 7-2 vote, reported the McClellan bill, but it also died without reaching the floor. Another bill, applying only to sedition laws, met a similar fate. Both measures will be reintroduced in

In all, more than 70 bills were introduced in the Congress to curb the power of the court. These ranged from a proposed constitutional amendment sponsored by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), to provide that "there shall be no limitation upon the power of any state to regulate health, morals, education, marriage and good order in the state," to bills seeking a change in the composition of the Court by making $75 the mandatory retirement age for justices.

However, President Eisenhower may have the opportunity to appoint new Court members without Congress setting a mandatory retirement age. Justices, under existing law, may retire at full pay at age 70, and three justices are at least that age. Associate Justice Stanley F. Reed is 71 and Justice Hugo Black is 70.

Justice Harold H. Burton is 68 and Chief Justice Earl Warren is 65. The other four justices are in their, 50's: William O. Douglas (58), Tom C. Clark (57), John Marshall Harlan (57) and William J. Brennan

Eastland will reintroduce his proposed constitutional amendment again in 1957. The mandatory retirement bill as well as other measures designed to restrict the Court's power also will be thrown in the hopper again. These bills — particularly those specifically dealing with "states rights" — will fall on more friendly soil in the Senate, where Eastland heads the Judiciary Committee, than in the House where Representatives Emanuel Cellar (D-N. Y.) is Judiciary Chairman.

Sniping of the Court is not limited to the halls of Congress. In 1956, states rights groups in the North and South united Behind the Presidential candidacy of T. Coleman Andrews, former director of Internal Revenue. Andrews spiced his campaign with criticisms of the school segregation decision and charged the Court with abandoning "its law books for Communist novels." Incomplete returns from the Nov. 6 election gave Andrews 138,342 votes in 13 states. 1

Some of the sharpest recent criticisms of the Supreme Court have come from its own dissenting justices. And former Justice James F. Byrnes, who was governor of South Carolina from 1951 to 1955, has urged that the Court be deprived of the power "to amend the Constitution and destroy state governments."

But unless the Supreme Court further offends Congressional sensibilities in 1957, legislation to restrict its powers is unlikely to be enacted.

Solving The Problem

BETTER JOBS By R. C. HOILES

Morality Of Capitalism

Since so many organized religious and educational groups seem to be advocating some form of collectivism, I want to present a masterpiece that appeared in the January issue of "The Freeman"- magazine. It was written by William Henry Chamberlin under the heading of "The Morality of Capitalism" and, "Economic Individualism Equals Freedom Equals All Moral Values,"

The reason we have such troubles as an ever - decreasing purchasing power of the dollar, long periods of unemployment, class legislation, government schools, labor monopolies, tariffs, immigration quotas, drafting soldiers, progressive taxation and almost continuous wars, is because people do not understand - that everyone would be better off both physically and morally, if they respected men's rights to own property.

No wonder we have this misunderstanding when men like Rev. Boy Shuler, Jr. of the First Methodist Church of Santa Ana publicly contends the collective mind of the people through the majority rule establish rights for all the people who live in the territory we call United States."

This belief in the supremacy of the "collective mind" is gaining ground, but it certainly is the primary cause of our trouble. It is a changeable thing that is based on no moral eternal principle. But Mr. Chamberlin explains the morality of capitalism in a splendid way, so from here on I am quoting from him:

There is a widespread belief that capitalism, or economic individualism, while it may be necessary, is morally somewhat disreputable. This has found reflection in the pronouncements of religious leaders. There are fortunately not many ministers of religion who disgrace themselves and their professed faith as Christians by endorsing the bloodstained record of the atheistic Soviet Union.

"But socialism under such beguiling disguises as 'social action,' 'the social Gospel,' 'humanitarianism, and the like has made considerable inroads in church thinking on both sides of the Atlantic. The conviction that capitalism is contrary to religion and ethics was a strong factor in the rise of the British Labor party and its postwar implementation of a far-reaching socialist program, which has been only slightly diluted by the conservatives

"Influential publicists like R.H. Tawney and Harold Laski tried to dispose of economic freedom with pejorative epithits. Tawney spoke diameterically opposed to what has passed for liberalism under the New Deal in its economic assumpinspiration for historic liberalism came from faith in human freedom and in Locke's great trinity of natural rights: life, liberty, and

"Whereas continental socialists tively hostile to religion, the British Labor party has always included a considerable number of professing believers, especially inthe nonconformist churches. They, like some of their sympathizers in the United States, tried to infuse same religious and ethical content into the materialistic dogmas of Karl Marx.

"Religious warrant was invoked for communism or socialism by pointing to such examples as the equal sharing practiced by the early Christians or-the dedicated life of St. Francis of Assisi and others who deliberately embraced a life of poverty in order to serve their fellow men.

"Such examples, however, -confuse the issue. Under a free economy, which always goes hand in hand with 'Iree political institutions, no one is denied the right to practice personal self-denial or to engage with others in schemes of communal living. Paradoxical as it may sound, an idealistic communist can live up to his faith much more easily in a capitalist society than in the Soviet Union or any other country ruled by

"For communism is now an enforced system of hierarchical inequality, maintained by police state methods. There is no tolera-tion in communist countries for the religious impulse which has been strongest in promoting voluntary association of group, of men and women in dedicated communities.

"When Soviet agricultural experts visited a kibbutz, or communal farm settlement, in Israel they were amazed to find far more equal sharing than was customary in collective farms at home: What surprised them still more was that there were no armed guards, such as have been found necessary in Soviet collective farms to prevent the exploited peasants from stealing their own

"A free economy is in no way hostile to the man who, as the famous naturalist, Agassiz, once said of himself, has no time to be rich, Such men, thinkers, scholars, scientists, are its pride and glory and enjoy opportunities for development and expression which they would never possess under any form of controlled economy. It may also be noted that many who have acquired wealth under a free economy have given away, wisely or unwisely, in one form or another, most of what the tax co lector has allowed them to keep.'

Germany is cold, snowy, slushy and windy in January, and the people dress for protection. Besides. they ride motorcycles, scooters and bicycles, and you just don't do that wearing a gray flannel suit. Our first stop out of Munich was the Azores, and I drew enough attention there to make me realize that I should have brought some American clothes along with me. The Portugese started at me as if I had dropped out of a saucer.

At our next stop, Bermuda, It. was even worse. Our plane was greeted by smartly dressed men' and women, dressed for the sun in walking shorts and open shirts. A walrus comig down the the stairs from the plane couldn't have surprised them any more than I did, and there was much punching of ribs and pointing of fingers when I made my appearance. momentarily feasible, . . , the least bad attainable, and not (at) the rationally most desirable" is bound to be a government of expedience-not of principle. And, since, as George Washington said, government. "like fire. . . . is a dangerous servant and a fearful master." unless it is kept in check by the screen of principle, it is likely to escape the hearth and consume the house. That is something of which we need to be constantly aware if government is to be kept to its role of respectful servant and not to become a despot-

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN. M. D.

The discovery of viruses has been remarkably convenient for patients and their physicians alike. This is because it is reasonably satisfying when one gets almost any kind of acute, but brief, illness just to label it "a virus infection" and let it go at

The illness may or may not have been the result of some virus. But disorders of the kind I am referring to have such a short duration that it is usually not possible to find out.

Besides the minor disorders which are quite possibly caused by a virus, there are a number of well known diseases which have been definitely shown to be of virus origin, Among them are measles, mumps and infectious or epidemic hepatitis. IT IS INTERESTING to note that evidence of the viral cause of some diseases was obtained before 1910. Included among these are polio, smallpox, yellow fever and rabies or hydrophobia. In the next 10 years evidence of a viral responsibility was obtained against measles, chicken wart, among others. From 1930 to 1939, encephalitis, or brain fever, influenza, mumps and several-other diseases were traced to viruses. This has been followed in the last 15 years by infectious hepatitis, Colorado tick fever and some less widely known disorders such as Coxsackie disease.

GRADUALLY the extent of our knowledge of viruses and their relationship to human disorders has grown.

In some cases, however, it is still a suspicion rather than a proof. This is true of that wide- or X-ray treatments will be sucspread affliction sometimes spoken of as the "vomiting sickness," or as "epidemic vomiting and Unquestionably, it was the purpose of God to create individuals. It is the declared purpose of Communism to destroy individually and reduce men to mere numbers in a mass.

The Western world sees this and for it and other reasons repudiates Communism. What the West does not see is

The subject of those blemishes of the skin called birthmarks or nevi is brought up by a steady stream of correspondence. This is not at all surprising since many infants are born with some such blemish and this naturally produces a good deal of concern in the parents. Fortunately, many birthmarks are small or are located on an inconspicuous part of the body. Many are, or will be covered with hair - or they fade as the child gets older.

There are others, however, which appear on the face or some other noticeable part of the body or which require treatment for other reasons THERE ARE several varieties.

There is, for example, the small hairy birthmark which may be treated by an electric needle. Some other varieties of hirthmark require surgical removal. One variety is the so-called strawberry birthmark. This is made up of enlarged blood vessels which are raised above the spongy. The cause is not known but such nevi are present at birth and are not considered to be the results of anything which the mother has done or which has happened to her while she is carrying the child.

skin level and which are soft and

THE QUESTION of what to do for a strawberry birthmark is often difficult.

If it appears on a part of the body which is generally covered by clothes, quite likely nothing at all need be done. If, on the other hand, the strawberry mark is on the face or some other portion of the body which seriously interferes with appearance, and if it is not too large, it may be that radium cessful, either destroying the mark or fading it so much that it is less a blot on the appearance, There are several other kinds of birthmarks also, Many of them are made up of blood vessels. Besides the strawberry mark, there is one called the port wine mark in which the blood vessels are level with the surface of the skin, but have a dark, purplish color.

ANOTHER common variety of birthmark made up of blood ves sels is irregularly shaped and slightly raised. It is sometimes called a spider nevus because the blood vessels at the center look like the body while the smaller ones passing outward resemble the

The proper treatment for a birthmark depends on the location, the size and the particular variety of the defect. This-can only be decided by a physician who is thoroughly familiar with all the factors involved.

If medical or surgical treatment seems inadvisable it is often pos sible to cover them with a kind of cream which resembles the color of the normal skin. If this seems best the physician can advise how to obtain it.

History teaches us that it's fully possible for those who promote a war to delight in and profit from the destruction it brings to both

At the beginning of this century, a group called NIHILISTS announced their intention of destroying every organization that protected the NON-NIHILISTS. This included the family, religion, and the patriotist that made a man love his homeland. This seemed a fantastic project, but in a little-more than fifty years the Nihilists, working under various aliases, have almost completed it. World War I enabled the Nihilists to establish their tyranny in the vast empire of Russia World War II delivered China, half of Germany and all of central Europe to the Nihilists. It reduced England and France to second rate powers It needs only World Warr II to complete its plan, For World War II can destroy America and it can reenslave the restless sets of the Nihilists in the Communist empire.

This is ne great danger of the year 1957. God cave us from the Nihilists and from the opportunists who for fifty years have served as Nihilist stooges.
