STATE DEPARTMENT MEETING — Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, left, shakes hands with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger upon his arrival Friday at the State Department in Washington. The two met again Saturday in a series of discussions concerning the problems in the Middle East.

Dayan, Kissinger Reach Agreement On Approach

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended seven and one-half hours of talks with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan Saturday saying that they had reached substantial agreement on how to approach the issue of disengaging Arab and Israeli forces.

Dayan said he was satisfied with the talks, which began Friday, and prepared to return Saturday night to Israel to start hammering out a concrete negotiating proposal with Prime Minister Golda Meir and her cabinet to be presented at peace talks in Geneva.

The two men met for four and one-half hours Saturday in Kissinger's office at the State Department. After the first hour, they were joined by aides and later by Herman Eilts, the chief U.S. representative to Egypt.

Dayan and Kissinger had talked for three hours Friday before the Israeli defense minister went to see Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to discuss how his country would use a $2.2 billion emergency arms aid appropriation from the United States.

"Our two positions approached each other substantially... we are talking tactics and nuances," Kissinger said when he and Dayan met with newsmen briefly after their session closed. "There was no confrontation between us. Not only was there no confrontation, but there was no significant difference between us and the Israelis."

Dayan added: "I personally was very happy with these talks. Now I am going home and I hope our cabinet will be in a position to formulate something concrete to propose to the Arabs. Whether we shall reach agreement with Egypt, I can't say now. But I think we can have a concrete proposal, and I don't think it will take a long time."

Neither Kissinger nor Dayan disclosed any of the details of their agreement.

An Israeli military analyst meanwhile said in an Army radio commentary in Tel Aviv that Israel is willing to withdraw its Army back inside the Suez Canal if Egypt thus out its forces of the east bank of the waterway.

Dayan cautioned against over optimism about the peace negotiations. "Everybody should realize that after such a long time of fighting and confrontation it is very difficult to make even the first step toward an agreement," he said.

Kissinger said he remained hopeful about the prospects for a peace settlement, despite reports of sporadic heavy fighting between the Israelis and Egyptians.

Cold Front Heads Toward Panhandle

Sunny skies generally greeted Panhandle area residents Saturday, but cold weather continued to hold sway into the night.

Opportunity exists today for a return of mild weather into the area, however, with the high expected to reach into the upper 40s and possibly into the 50s.

A new influx of cold air, however, should sweep across the region again tonight, dropping temperatures below the freezing mark again as the front heads in from the Pacific and Rocky Mountain areas towards the Texas coast.

Considerable cloudiness should dim the skies today.

In UPI reports:

The Pacific blast should drive the Panhandle air downstate and cause showers in Central and East Texas, where clouds were building up.

High clouds from the Pacific Ocean also were drifting across West and North Central Texas.

South and East Texas had low clouds, fog and drizzle Saturday. Alice, College Station, Lufkin, Palacios, Texarkana, Victoria and Tyler all had traces of rain.

Before the clouds from the Pacific started drifting in, it was sunny and clear over a strip of the state running from near Del Rio on the Rio Grande across North Central Texas.

The air moving in from the Pacific will not affect temperatures greatly.

"It already is pretty cool," a government forecaster noted.

The lowest temperature in the state early Saturday was minus 2 degrees at Dalhart. Points as far south as San Antonio reported freezing temperatures.

Snow fell on deserts in Southern California. Utah and Arizona Saturday, stranding motorists and blanketing Palm Springs golf courses for the first time in 25 years.

Up to four feet of snowfall accumulated in the mountains around Los Angeles and an estimated 1,000 persons were marooned in their cars trying to get through snow-clogged passes.

Snow covered Palm Springs, desert resort and winter home of many wealthy retired individuals, for the first time in a quarter century.

Twenty-one inches of snow piled up at Victorville, Calif., and 16 inches were reported on the ground at Palmdale on the high desert.

Bank Figures Show Economy Outlook Good

Deposits in Pampa's two banks were up more than $8 million at the close of business on Dec. 31 over the same date in 1972.

This was revealed late Friday after state and federal bank calls for a report on financial conditions of Texas banks.

First National Bank deposits on the last day of December, 1973, showed an increase of $5,529,000 and Citizens Bank & Trust Co. was up $2,735,000 over one year ago.

Total deposits at First National on Dec. 31 were $36,972,000 compared to $31,443,000 on that date in 1972.

Citizens Bank & Trust Co. deposits were $24,695,000 compared to $21,950,000 a year ago.

Loans at Citizens Bank & Trust were down $2,150,000 from the figure of one year ago and loans at First National showed an increase of $1,937,000.

Total loans at Citizens on Dec. 31 were $9,700,000 and at First National $14,465,000.

Bankers said they felt the increase in deposits indicated the local economy is in good shape.

Pampa, they agreed, is in much better shape economically than many cities of comparable size and the outlook for the future continues to be good.

With fuel shortages, inflation and corruption in government, anybody who wishes you a happy new year will probably lie about other things, too... A monologue, says the cynic, is a conversation between a woman to the protection of a stalwart man who'll hold the ladder for her while she paints the ceiling. Nixon Rejects Attempt To Subpoena Material

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the Senate Watergate Committee Saturday sharply criticized President Nixon's refusal to comply with their subpoenas. One of them, Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., said it indicated "he has something to hide."

defended the committee against administration charges that the sweeping subpoenas were excessive. "A blatant act of irresponsibility" and "a fishing expedition."

Weicker said in Greenwich, Conn., that the committee's long-standing request for an informal meeting with Nixon had gone unanswered. "We haven't even had a yes or no to that very simple, direct, forthright request," he said.

Dash told reporters Friday the committee had gotten even less cooperation from the White House during Nixon's "Operation Candor." He said each one of the several hundred tapes and documents were relevant to the committee's investigation.

Talmadge told a reporter in Georgia that Nixon "is making a great mistake in refusing to comply with the subpoenas." "It indicates to the public he has something to hide and affects his credibility," he said.

"It doesn't come as any surprise," Weicker said. "The President and/or his aides continue to duck the hard one."

may not be relevant to the investigation."

"I was not consulted when these tapes and documents were subpoenaed. I knew nothing about it," Baker said. "I think the committee should reconsider the entire matter and while I hope the committee should have any relevant tapes we should also avoid a fishing expedition."

Dash said the committee would file Monday an amended complaint and brief in its original suit asking for tapes of five conversations that the President had with former White House counsel John W. Dean III about Watergate.

Troops Guard Airport

LONDON (UPI) — Troops and tanks guarded London's Heathrow airport Saturday for the first time since World War II in what police described as a show of strength against possible Arab guerrilla reprisals for the arrest of four young persons from the United States as suspected gun runners.

Police sources said the troop movement was ordered after a warning that Arab guerrillas armed with Soviet-made SAM ground-to-air rockets planned to shoot down an airliner at Heathrow or another European airport.

In the United States, FBI agents arrested a retired Navy man Saturday on charges of aiding one of those arrested in Britain. John M. Reed, special agent in charge of the Sacramento, Calif., FBI office, said Theodore Dean Brown, 31, of Goleta, Calif., was arrested shortly after midnight at Travis Air Force Base.

Brown was charged with "aiding and abetting" Allison Rae Thompson, 18, of Santa Barbara, arrested a week ago in London for bringing five automatic pistols and 150 rounds of ammunition into England without permission of the government, reportedly for Arab gunmen.

Earlier in the week, O.G. Trimble, Trimble's Shamrock, 1600 Duncan, reported a 4.2 cents a gallon increase.

Dan Carter Phillips Station, 1405 N. Hobart, reported a two cent increase this past week, raising prices at the pumps to 44.8 and 48.9.

An employee at J and J Truck Stop, Highway 60 West, said regular and ethyl from Texaco went up a cent and a half this week while diesel fuel rose 2 1/2 cents. Regular is now 42.6, ethyl is 46.9 and diesel is 43.9.

MOST OF IT, ANYWAY

Nation Switches To DST Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the nation goes on Daylight Saving Time (DST) Sunday to conserve energy, but for many people it will mean going to work and school in "darkness as late as 9 a.m."

Under an act of Congress, people in all but a few states, counties and other jurisdictions at 2 a.m. local time were to move their clocks ahead to 3 a.m. Designed to reap an estimated 3 per cent savings in the nation's energy consumption by reducing the need for evening lighting, it was the first time the nation has gone on Daylight Saving Time in the winter since World War II.

The advance time will mean late sunrises in the northwest portions of each time zone and in some cases the sun will not rise until 9 a.m. But the inconvenience raised objections in only a few isolated locations.

The primary objection was that children would have to wait for their school buses in the dark and some local school boards sought to ease the fears of parents by delaying the start of classes each day.

In Knoxville, Tenn., and Pinellas County, Fla., for example, schools will open and close half an hour later. Plans for opening schools later were under consideration in other sections of the country from Utah to Boston.

In Raleigh, N.C., where the school starting time was set back by an hour, protesting working parents complained that such a plan would leave children at home alone in the morning.

St. Francis, Kan., a prairie town which was not exempt from the DST law, decided to defy Congress and the President and remain on Central Standard Time regardless of the energy situation.

"The (city) council felt it was time to put our foot down and stop this monkey business," Mayor Robert Vost said. "We're going to stay put. The only way we'll change is if legal action is taken."

Most other parts of the country seemed willing to comply with the mandatory change, which will remain in effect year-round through two winters until April 1975 when most of the country would normally go on summertime DST as usual.

Regular Gasoline Prices Below 50 Cents Locally

By CLAY LIVELY

While gasoline prices have risen 50 cents a gallon for regular elsewhere in Texas and across the nation this past week, no stations in Pampa have attained that plateau. Not yet in any case.

That does not, however, mean there have not been some fairly drastic increases in the price of gasoline locally.

One station owner told the News last night ethyl at his station is now over 50 cents at 51.9.

Richard Bright, owner of Richard's Mobil, 1200 N. Hobart, said gasoline he bought Thursday cost him four cents a gallon more for both premium and regular than did the last load he received.

That put ethyl at 51.9 and regular at 47.9 at his business.

The greatest reported increase in gas in Pampa for the past week is for Fina products.

The cost to dealers went up seven cents across the board. Garmon's Fina Station, 1400 E. Frederic, reported last night. Regular at the station is now up to 46.9 and ethyl is 49.9.

Several other stations queried reported increases while others said the prices to them have not gone up yet.

Earlier in the week, O.G. Trimble, Trimble's Shamrock, 1600 Duncan, reported a 4.2 cents a gallon increase.

Dan Carter Phillips Station, 1405 N. Hobart, reported a two cent increase this past week, raising prices at the pumps to 44.8 and 48.9.

An employee at J and J Truck Stop, Highway 60 West, said regular and ethyl from Texaco went up a cent and a half this week while diesel fuel rose 2 1/2 cents. Regular is now 42.6, ethyl is 46.9 and diesel is 43.9.

The Koch station on the Amarillo highway reported a one cent increase effective Thursday. Regular is now 40.9 and ethyl is 43.9.

Jack Nichol's Exxon, 300 N. Hobart, Coronado Conoco in Coronado Center and R and R Gulf Service Center, 210 E. Brown, reported no increase in price this week.

Explorers Plan To Videotape State Meeting

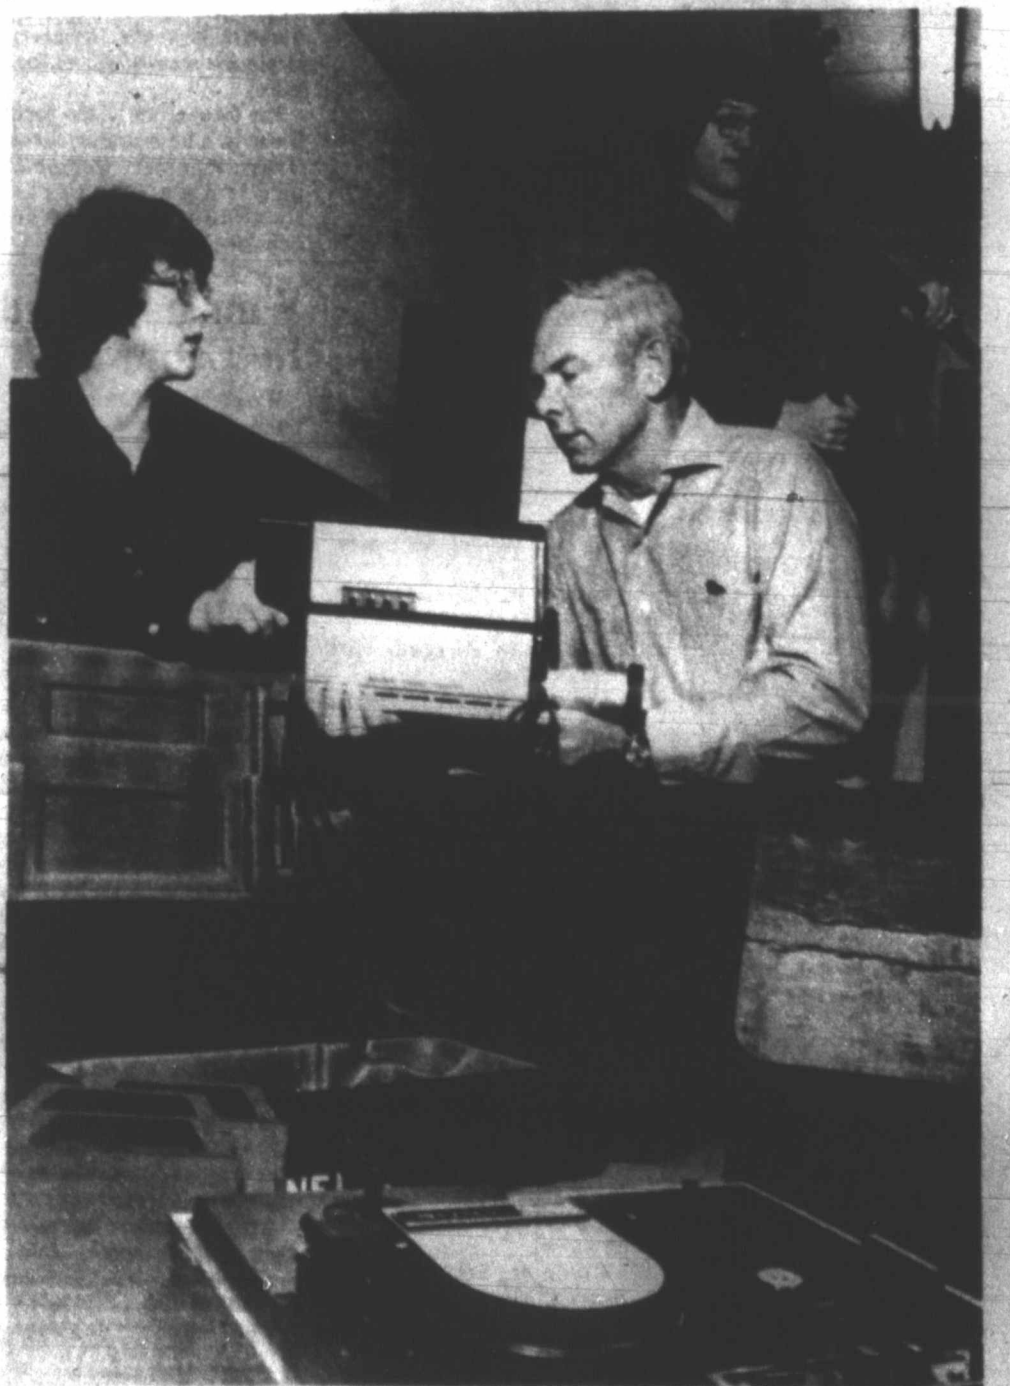

Two members of Explorer Post 83 and their sponsor will be in Austin three days this week to videotape sessions of the Texas Constitutional Revision Convention.

Attending from Pampa at the invitation of Rep. Phil Cates will be Explorers Alan Kilgore and David Chambliss and sponsor Wayne Steddum of Pampa Cable Television.

The three Pampans will leave for Austin tomorrow and return Friday.

While there they plan to videotape the opening session of the convention, which will include Gov. Dolph Briscoe's address, and tape interviews with state officials.

The tapes will be played on PCTV Channel 9 as a public service sometime during the week of Jan. 14. Steddum said. A schedule will be published in The News that week.

TO DISCUSS WORK March Of Dimes Plans Public Tea

The Gray County Chapter of the March of Dimes, in preparation for its annual Mothers March Jan. 14, will have a tea today at 2:30 p.m. at Pampa's Lovett Memorial Library.

Interested private citizens and representatives of civic clubs are asked to attend the meeting. Mothers March Chairwoman Rhona Saltzman said.

A film called "Exploring Inner Space," showing the work done by the March of Dimes and the MoD's advancement since the conquest of polio will be shown.

Mrs. Helen Wackworth of Lubbock, a registered nurse who serves on the Northwest Texas Advisory Board of the March of Dimes, will speak at the meeting and answer questions, as will MoD district representative Ed Ramey.

Mrs. Wackworth works with the mentally retarded at the Lubbock State School where she is staff development instructor. She is also a board member of the Lubbock March of Dimes.

A native of Warsaw, Poland, Mrs. Wackworth attended high school and the Polytechnical University there where she first studied nursing.

Captured by the German Occupation Army and deported to Germany in 1942, she spent nearly two years in a hard labor camp.

She married an American soldier in Germany after the war and came to the United States, where she became a citizen in 1952.

Mrs. Wackworth continued her education in the United States at the Chicago School of Nursing and at Texas Tech University.

She has 11 years of experience in training nursing personnel, five years of managing and training a doctor's office staff and has also compiled and written training manuals.

Rebels Kill Civilians In Terrorism

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebel troops drove government soldiers from an outpost just outside Phnom Penh Saturday while inside the city, terrorists killed one person and wounded 11 others by hurling a hand grenade into a crowded market place.

In South Vietnam, the military command said 32 Communists were killed at a government post of four infantrymen dead and 13 wounded when Viet Cong troops attacked an infantry outpost in Kiem Tan district in Long Khanh province, about 27 miles northwest of Saigon.

ON THE RUN — A Cambodian child pulls a wagon as refugees flee from recent fighting on Highway 7, northeast of Phnom Penh. Insurgents have increased their activity on the city, beginning with a rocket attack Thursday and continuing with terrorist attacks on civilians during the weekend.

Registration Set For Secretarial Education Class

Registration will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at Pampa High School for a college credit course covering three parts of the certified professional secretary examination offered in Pampa by West Texas State University of Canyon.

Classes will meet each Thursday night at PHS beginning Jan. 17 from 7 to 9:40 p.m. Late registration may be made on Jan. 17.

The course, BE 276-1, will be taught by Dr. John A. Rider, WT professor of business education.

Changes In Welfare Program Now Effective For Recipients

Beginning Jan. 1, the federal government took over welfare programs for the aged, blind and disabled which had previously been operated by the various states.

Some three million recipients under the program will now begin receiving their checks from the U.S. government rather than the states.

Earthquake Rocks Areas Near Lima

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — A powerful earthquake rocked the Lima area early Saturday, causing at least six deaths, destroying homes and spreading panic among some five million persons.

Peruvian civil defense officials said two persons were killed around Lima, two others in the town of Yauyos east of Lima where the quake was most intense and two others in smaller towns. He said fragmentary information received from Yauyos indicated at least 100 homes were destroyed there.

A spokesman for the U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Boulder, Colo., said the 2:33 a.m. CST tremor was of the same magnitude as the disastrous Managua, Nicaragua, earthquake in 1972 — 4.2 on the open-end Richter scale.

Dr. Waverly Person said the Managua quake was very shallow, but "the Peruvian quake was about 60 miles beneath the earth's surface. That is deep enough to lessen the death toll."

Lawyers Top Delegates For Revision Effort

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Unlike the constitutional convention of 1875, lawyer delegates will greatly outnumber farmers and most other professions at the opening of the 1974 convention Tuesday.

The 90 men who wrote the present Texas Constitution included 41 farmers, 29 lawyers and a smattering of merchants, editors, stockmen and physicians.

The 181 legislators who will serve as delegates to this year's convention include 92 lawyers and only 16 farmers. Other professions represented include construction, teaching, insurance, real estate and public relations.

Adult Education Classes Registration Set At PHS

Registration for Adult Basic Education classes conducted by the Pampa Independent School District will be Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Baker School Cafeteria, 300 E. Tuke.

Administrator Floyd Sackett has announced.

The public service program began in Pampa last spring. All persons 17 years of age or older who have been out of high school for at least one year and who have not earned a high school diploma are eligible for the program.

Classes offered include basic reading and language arts, basic arithmetic and Government Equivalency Diploma (G.E.D.) test preparation. There is no charge for the courses.

There will be instruction available for those who do not speak or read English or for whom English is a second language, Sackett said.

Classes begin Tuesday and continue twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7-9 p.m., through Feb. 28. A nursery will be provided for children eight and under at no charge.

In the last session, held in the fall, 161 people were enrolled, Sackett said. In a test given Nov. 29, 1973, 31 adults passed

City Schedules Routine Meeting

A routine meeting of the Pampa City Commission is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

It will be the first meeting of the city fathers in the new year.

The agenda released Saturday by City Manager Mack Wofford shows the following items:

Public hearing on the removal of abandoned buildings at 702 S. Gray and 328 W. Craven.

Acceptance of the chlorination system at the city's sewage treatment plant.

Reinvestment of funds for the retirement of M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium bonds.

Man Sentenced In Cattle Theft

Paz Jacques, 45, of Dodge City, Kan., has been sentenced a five year prison sentence in the state penitentiary after he pled guilty to theft over $50 last month before 31st District Judge Grainger McElhinney.

He has also been sentenced to serve six years for the same type offense by Judge Gene Jordan of the 47th District Court in Amarillo. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Charges against Jacques derived from the theft of 13 head of cattle from Johnny Hines in Gray County and four head of cattle from the Jim Austin ranch in Potter County. Both thefts occurred in October.

IN CHOSEN PLOT Ritter Burial Set At Neches River

NEDERLAND, Tex. (UPI) — Tex Ritter, one of the earlier singing cowboys of movie Westerns, will be buried today in a plot he selected along the Neches River years ago.

Ritter died Wednesday in Nashville of a heart attack. His life ended 10 days short of his 60th birthday.

More than 400 of the top performers in country and Western music paid their final respects in Nashville Friday. The body, in a walnut-colored coffin, arrived in Ritter's home state Saturday.

Ken Ritters, mayor of Beaumont and a nephew of the singing cowboy, said Ritter selected the burial plot near the Neches River years ago.

"He particularly liked the setting there," Ritter said.

Ritter will be eulogized at the First United Methodist Church by Dr. John Gray, president of Lamar University and a former University of Texas classmate of Ritter back in the 1920s.

Ritter became interested in the American cowboy while a student of the late J. Frank Dobie, a Southwestern folklorist at the state university. In the early 20s Ritter staged a show called "The Texas Cowboy and His Songs" and began the first of countless tours.

He moved West to Hollywood in 1937 to become one of the most active performers in movie Westerns. He made 78 cowboy sagas with his horse "White Flash" and his shiny Gibson guitar, while playing opposite such leading ladies as Rita Hayworth.

Registration for Adult Basic Education classes conducted by the Pampa Independent School District will be Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Baker School Cafeteria, 300 E. Tuke.

Administrator Floyd Sackett has announced.

The public service program began in Pampa last spring. All persons 17 years of age or older who have been out of high school for at least one year and who have not earned a high school diploma are eligible for the program.

Classes offered include basic reading and language arts, basic arithmetic and Government Equivalency Diploma (G.E.D.) test preparation. There is no charge for the courses.

There will be instruction available for those who do not speak or read English or for whom English is a second language, Sackett said.

Classes begin Tuesday and continue twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7-9 p.m., through Feb. 28. A nursery will be provided for children eight and under at no charge.

In the last session, held in the fall, 161 people were enrolled, Sackett said. In a test given Nov. 29, 1973, 31 adults passed

Magazine Story Features Local DECA Chapter

The activities of the Pampa High School Chapter of Distributive Education Clubs of America is featured in an article appearing in the January, 1974 issue of The Sample Case, published by the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America.

The article, entitled "DECA: Developing Leaders for the Business World," discusses the activities and purposes of the national high school organization formed to offer courses of instruction and practical experiences in sales, merchandising, marketing and distribution.

The Pampa chapter is mentioned as an example of what a DECA group can achieve with its programs and community service.

"A look at one local chapter will give an example of what thousands of DECA members are doing each year to prepare for careers in marketing and distribution," the article says, and then goes on to discuss the PHS chapter.

Former Choir Students Sing For Kiwanians

Two former students at Pampa High School and members of the school's choir entertained Pampa Kiwanians at their Friday luncheon in First United Methodist Church.

Substituting for the high school choir group, Steve Skoog, student at Texas Tech, and Wanda Bayless, graduate of the University of Texas, sang several solo numbers.

Skoog was accompanied at the piano by Kathy Galiman and Miss Bayless played her own piano accompaniment.

Club president James McCoy announced the club's annual Ladies Night banquet will be Feb. 14.

It was also announced the Kiwanis club is selling raw popcorn to raise money for club activities and has a few bags of lawn fertilizer left at the 1973 price of $3.50 per 50-pound bag.

Persons interested in buying either product should contact McCoy at the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. office.

Various Conditions Affect House Water Pressure

By HERMAN BAUM

Dear House Doctor:
What is the cause of low water pressure in a home? We first thought this condition may have been general in our area because we are on the edge of town, but the pressure is good in the house next door. Do you have any suggestions?

—W.K.
ANSWER—Age can slow down things besides people, and water pressure in a home is no exception. There are, however, several other conditions and these should be checked.

One of the most common causes is a valve somewhere in the system that has been partially closed inadvertently. Start at the far end where the water line enters your property and check back toward the house. If the meter is located near the curb, there is a valve on the street side of the meter.

At the top of the valve stem is a horizontal bar about 1½ inches long. This bar should point toward the house. If it is at an angle, it is partially closed. A special wrench is needed to turn it.

There may be another valve close to the outside of the house. If you have a basement, there is probably another valve where the water line enters. Check all of these. If these valves have not been operated for a year or more, you may need a wrench to turn them.

In top quality construction, there are valves in the hot and cold water lines located beneath sinks and lavatories. Low pressure at any one location may be due to partial closing of one of these valves.

Low pressure occurs at hot water faucets more frequently than at cold water faucets. Check the valve position in the cold water supply to the water heater. Sediment in the water heater could also be responsible. There is a drain valve near the bottom of the water heater tank. Open this and draw off several gallons.

In some cases, it is necessary to turn off the water supply and drain the heater. Remove the drain valve and run a wire through the hole to break up any sediment that may have partially solidified, then flush the tank.

Most faucets at sinks and lavatories are fitted with a device called an aerator. This mixes air with the water as it comes from the faucet to prevent splashing. There are several pieces of very fine wire screen inside the aerator, and these frequently become clogged. Unscrew the aerator from the end of the faucet clean the screens.

Damaged washers inside the faucets can reduce water pressure. Turn off the water supply and dismantle the faucet for inspection and possible repair.

We have saved the bad news for last. If you have galvanized steel pipes in your home, after many years' service, corrosion inside the pipes will build up to a point where water will not flow at all. The only cure is to have the entire house re-piped.

Copper pipes are not subject to such severe corrosion, but, in rare instances, mineral deposits will form inside the pipes to impede the flow of water. There are means for clearing these pipes with strong chemicals, but this is work for a specialist. These two conditions can only be determined after dismantling sections of the pipes for inspection.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC
E. R.—There are special products made for use on white gravel roofs. Roofing contractors spray these on, but they can be applied with a sprayer. I have never heard of using ordinary cement for this purpose.

Mrs. G.P.L.—Your stucco house should be thoroughly wire brushed to remove any scaling paint, and then repainted with polyvinyl-acrylic paint. Priming is not required.

F.X.K.—You do not have to remove the present foil-backed insulation in your attic to add more. Pour loose fill insulation on top to obtain the six-inch thickness recommended.

STAINED TOILET
Dear House Doctor: Some time ago, you gave instructions for removing stubborn stains from a toilet bowl. I cut out and then misplaced the article. Please repeat it.

—Mrs. W.B.C.
ANSWER—Stubborn stains on any plumbing fixture that do not respond to normal cleaning can usually be bleached by mixing a paste of powdered whiting and peroxide. Spread this over the stain, then use an eye dropper to add a drop or two of household ammonia. The mixture should bubble. Rinse after 20 or 30 minutes.

MILDEW REMOVAL

Dear House Doctor: Please tell me what to do to keep mildew off walls and ceilings. I have to wash them down every three to four weeks. There must be an easier way.

—Mrs. F.L.
ANSWER—I have had excellent results with a product having main ingredients of paraformaldehyde and sodium fluoride. Check the formula on packages at your paint store. If you cannot find it, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to this department for the name of the manufacturer.

DRIFTWOOD

Dear House Doctor: How does one make fireplace wood burn with various colors, as driftwood often does?

—C.H.
ANSWER—You may use copper sulphate for a blue flame, boric acid for green and strontium nitrate for red. Mix one pound of any of these chemicals in one gallon of water and soak logs in it for one hour.

AGING WOOD

Dear House Doctor: I have a shingled siding house on Long Island Sound. I expected the shingles to turn gray, as they do on Cape Cod. Why not?

—Mrs. F.Y.
ANSWER—The shingles on those old Cape Cod houses are cedar. Then, you do not have Northeasters to blow salt spray on your house as they do on Cape Cod. A reader who claims to know the secret advised me that this gray color can be obtained by dissolving one measure of rock salt in two measures of water, and applying this to the wood at two or three month intervals. I have never tested this method.

It costs about $1 million a mile to build a freeway in rural Minnesota.

ON CONSTITUTION Texas Prepared For 'Convention'

By ROLAND LINDSEY
UPI Capital Reporter
AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas is better prepared for its constitutional convention which opens Tuesday than any state has ever been for a similar revision effort, Speaker Price Daniel Jr. said.

Daniel, a cinch to be elected president of the state's first constitutional convention in 99 years, said many of the problems which originally threatened to endanger the success of the convention have been resolved, and said "I'm thinking we're going to have a very smooth convention."

The 181 convention delegates—150 House members and 31 senators—will have a proposed new constitution drafted by the constitutional revision commission to use as a beginning point in rewriting the state charter.

After looking at other conventions, there is no doubt in my mind that we are going to be the best prepared, both substantively and procedurally, of any convention in the history of the United States," Daniel said.

Pomp and Ceremony

The convention's first week is one primarily of pomp and ceremony, but after that Daniel says he wants the delegates to put in a full day's work at least five days a week in order to finish the convention within three months. The 81-day work schedule laid out by convention planners would allow the delegates to finish the rewrite and get home in time to campaign for re-election, hopefully eliminating some of the political considerations from the convention debate.

The convention's eight major committees are scheduled to begin public hearings Jan. 14, with the first two days set aside to hear testimony from citizen members of the Constitutional Revision Commission.

After the opening week, the convention delegates will not meet as a group until one or more of the committees finishes its report and sends it back to the full convention for a vote, Daniel said.

They're Still Talking About 1973

Although it passed into history five days ago, many still are talking about 1973 and what it did to us.

We had somehow hoped that it would have been more memorable than, say, 1963 or 1962. All the past is a great deal like those flat pictures that Grandma Moses used to paint — split against the wall, without perceptible perspective.

Nineteen hundred and seventy-three was the year in which the United States shrank. The federal government lost its monetary smite in foreign affairs. That loss, of course, was tied hand-and-foot to losses of purchasing power suffered by the American people. Even so, we are not so sure the setback is an unmissed curse. If the federal bureaucrats promote socialism as ardently abroad as they do at home, then surely the shrinkage of the falsely named "foreign aid" dollar gives them less to work with.

Further, if the object of life is to pursue happiness, we do not know that there is any advantage to living in a so-called great country. The term "great country" is, in fact, another misnomer. The phrase unthinkingly is used to denote not a great country at all, but rather an aggressive set of politicians who throw their weight around in the far reaches of the world, and then rally popular support at home by categorizing their behavior as "American policy." The name of the United States government has been made into

Too Much Knowledge

Future historians who will record the current age for posterity have a problem.

So many notoriety have bequeathed their private papers to duck the income tax that writers of time-to-come will be inundated by information.

Time was, when a historian could read a few old letters, take a look at newspapers of the era, bone up on contemporaneous customs and events, then sit down to the sparsity of facts and spell out a fascinating yarn of how he imagined parapeps were stormed and kings dethroned.

Not so any more. After this, the writer types will have to travel to Hyde Park, Independence, Johnson City, or San Clemente. The latest of the "greats" to join the dodgers was none other than that impassioned apostle of the poor, breathless Hubert Humphrey. How can any history be written until the chronicler has gleaned the kernels of nobility from the collected orations of HHH?

Think of it — tons and tons of data that must be laboriously perused, ingested, and exegesized before Chapter I gets as far as the typewriter stage. And the chances are, the historian who waded through all the museums won't get any more money for his work than did some fanciful scribe of the past.

Worse yet, think of the unfortunate student who is assigned to suffer through all that scholarship.

Now, if Al Capone had possessed the sagacity to entomb his private correspondence in some public sanctuary, he not only would have beaten the tax rap that sent him up, but would have made an honest contribution to literary lore.

Publishers Not Interested In Sinatra's Story About Agnew

By GARRY WILLS

Frank Sinatra has been making various publishers an offer they cannot refuse — but they refused it. He was giving them an inside track to the true Agnew story, and it would only cost them half a million dollars in advance.

The publishers doubtless felt that if Agnew had any useful truths he would have taken them into court, and confounded his accusers with them. Barring that, the most that could be expected was a repeat of the lame TV speech he gave after his resignation, in which he tried to make getting caught seem like a patriotic service.

Mr. Tom Guinzburg, of Viking publishers, put it nicely: "I don't think the American public is ready to buy a defense that says, 'I was just a good, honest Greek boy minding my own business when a millionaire came along and said to me, Here's $5,000 for grocery money, Ted.'"

Publishers are smarting up. Usually, officers within a national administration carry away with them valuable memories, convertible into useful books. It is the normal thing for them to pack up their papers and head for publishers row in New York. But the real truth about the Nixon Administration will be found in trial transcripts, and many of its officers are under orders from the court or their own lawyers to give nothing but their name, rank and EOB number to any questioners.

There are always journalistic hangers-on to each administration, who hope to turn their accounts of the principals in history to marketable literary properties. There have been fewer of these around the Nixon people than in any other administration — not because the press sycophants

WATCH ON WASHINGTON Sirica Emerges as Symbol Of Equal Justice Under the Law

By CLARK MOLLENHOFF

WASHINGTON — In a nation looking for a symbol of honesty and integrity in the Watergate affair, Chief United States District Judge John J. Sirica has emerged above all others.

The 69-year-old jurist, in his firm and fair handling of the politically explosive Watergate matter, has demonstrated that there can be "equal justice under the law" — even when the problems involve the President of the United States and his most powerful White House aides.

In many ways, Judge Sirica has dramatized to the nation's citizens in the last 12 months some old lessons that needed to be re-emphasized about the importance of a courageous, independent judiciary in curbing arrogance or overreaching in both the executive branch and the Congress.

While the press and the Congress deserve major credit for unveiling Watergate, there has been and will be some political partisanship and bias in the performance of both the press and Congress that has from time to time been a detriment to full public understanding of the enormity of the misuse of power by the Nixon administration.

Through it all, Judge Sirica has kept an objective view and a firm fair hand on the basic criminal and civil proceedings in his court that won the admiration of defendants and defense lawyers as well as the special prosecutor's office.

An experienced and highly successful warrior of the courtroom as a prosecutor and defense lawyer, the rugged son of immigrant Italian parents was not overawed by the reputations of prosecutors or defense lawyers who appeared in his court.

Appointed to the federal bench by President Eisenhower in 1957, Judge Sirica had sufficient hime on the bench to be neither timid nor overly impressed with being a federal judge.

Since he was a life-long Republican, and a conservative law-and-order judge, there was some skepticism among those who did not know him well as to whether he would be able to be properly objective in viewing the actions of President Nixon whom he had supported as vice president and had voted for as president.

But, he was in his late 60s and beyond the age when it was likely he could be considered for promotion to the United States Supreme Court or even the United States Court of Appeals. It is doubtful that he ever wanted to be more than a good, firm federal trial judge.

He had no grand strategy for handling the Watergate trials, but privately and publicly said he would take it one case at a time and one day at a time and "simply try to do what is right," and "keep an open mind."

Prior to Watergate, he had a reputation as a tough judge who believed that heavy fines and jail terms were a deterrent to crime. Because he often gave the maximum sentences he was known as "maximum Johnny," but seldom to his face unless it was said with a smile.

Although Judge Sirica has a great respect for the rights of a free press in its coverage of trials and its commentary on what takes place in connection with judicial proceedings, he found himself at odds with some segments of the press when he ordered the jailing of the Washington bureau chief for the Los Angeles Times for refusing to produce recordings of an interview with a key government witness in the Watergate burglary investigation.

Judge Sirica reasoned that the interview with the witness might be helpful to the Watergate defendants and their lawyers, and should be available to them. The witness had no objection to having the recording made available to the court and grand jury and the Los Angeles Times finally backed down.

At another point, columnist Jack Anderson obtained transcripts of federal grand jury testimony which were quoted in his column. At first Anderson indicated he would not obey a court order to give up the transcripts, but he finally turned them over to Judge Sirica and agreed to discontinue publication of grand jury information.

But the irritation with Judge Sirica faded out with the gradual realization of the importance of having a firm, fair judge with no motivation other than to make a good record in case that would be combed over for years as one of the most significant in U.S. history.

As chief judge, Sirica could have assigned the original Watergate case to any one of a dozen United States district court judges in the District of Columbia, but he did not duck the responsibility and the work as many more timid or less confident judges might have done.

He recognized that to assign it to any other Republican judge would represent a hazard that partisanship would be charged, and that assignment to a Democratic judge would risk a charge of a judicial partisanship against President Nixon. In the heavy partisan atmosphere of the 1972 election campaign, it was most likely to be "damned if you do and damned if you don't."

Throughout the rulings on motions and the trial of the original seven Watergate defendants, there were hundreds of times when the press and public hung on crucial rulings to see if bias would show in Sirica's rulings.

The only bias that showed was a firm bias in favor of "the whole truth," and a skepticism over whether defense lawyers and prosecutors were asking the questions to get "the whole truth" on the line relative to who had directed and financed the June 17, 1972, burglary at Democratic headquarters.

Even as five of the defendants entered pleas of guilty midway through the trial, Judge Sirica insisted that they answer questions under oath before he would accept their pleas. And even as he accepted their pleas of guilty, he told them they would have to go before a federal grand jury to testify since the fifth amendment right to remain silent on their actions disappeared when they entered the guilty pleas.

Judge Sirica left them with the possibility of maximum prison terms and fines while a probation officer investigated their cooperation, and the strategy worked.

First it was convicted Watergate defendant James W. McCord, Jr., who sent a note to Judge Sirica saying he was willing to talk about "the political pressures" that had been exerted to keep him and the other defendants quiet. It was his belief in Judge Sirica that made him talk when he had lost faith in the integrity of the FBI, the Justice Department, and the White House.

The decision by McCord and the stories that flowed from that led to the cooperation by convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt, John W. Dean III and Jeb S. Magruder. And, when those plus many others had bared their souls on Watergate and related matters, it was Judge Sirica who merged as "just John" in the penalties he imposed on the five Watergate burglars and their bosses, Holt and Liddy.

Heavier sentences went to those who were in positions of greater importance, and the four Miami men ended up with short prison terms and no fines.

On President Nixon's claims of "executive privilege" on the White House tapes, Judge Sirica's rulings have drawn common sense lines between proper confidentiality and evidence involving the crime of obstruction of justice.

Judge Sirica has not been moved by presidential flattery, nor by the temptation to use his new found fame to comment broadly on government and ethics.

Wisely, he has restricted himself to carefully thought-out comments in open court, and has insisted that most of the proceedings take place in open court where the press and the public can comment immediately upon the fairness of proceedings.

The thousands of letters that pour into Judge Sirica's office each week demonstrate that the public, lawyers, judges, and even the defendants appreciate a conscientious effort to deliver "equal justice under the law."

The record at this point indicates he has been a much-needed symbol of courageous integrity in a trying time, and there is little reason to believe that he will do anything in his 70th year to mar a truly remarkable record.

Rearview Mirror
By TEX DEWEESE
Editor Of The News

WE ARE already six days into 1974 and as this was written the biggest conversation piece so far had been the weather.

Pampa and the Texas Panhandle had a white Christmas and a much whiter New Year's Day.

There even has been more talk about the weather than the energy crisis, the Dallas Cowboys give-away to the Minnesota Vikings or Amarillo's million-dollar bookie raids.

Incidentally, somebody called us the day after the officers moved in on the bookies in the Potter County capital and wanted to know why they didn't come on over and shake 'em down in Pampa, too.

Not being a gambling man and never risking more than a dime or a cup of coffee on any game of chance, we just had no answer to the man's question.

In fact, the telephone call was the first inkling to come this way that anything like that could possibly be happening here. Certainly, not in Pampa!

About the worst we have heard about gambling locally has related to nothing more than a bingo game or two and maybe a drawing for a Thanksgiving turkey.

We just can't imagine Pampans taking a chance on anything as high up on the game - of - chance ladder as betting on the outcome of a football game or the horses. Maybe a few penny ante poker or bridge players and a crap shooter or two, but no biggies.

Of course, there are babes in the woods and our telephone caller is pretty well convinced we are right at the head of the list when it comes to a lack of knowledge about local opportunities to place a bet.

THE BEST way we know to find out who is gambling and who is taking bets is to get a loser's wife aroused to the point where she is willing to tip off the authorities in the hope the place can be raided and put out of business so her husband's money will stop going down the drain.

There have even been cases where a really angry wife has taken it upon herself to go in and wreck the place.

But, that's only temporary. The bookies can repair the furniture, smooth their ruffled tempers and be back in business within 24 hours. Of course, things like that don't happen in Pampa — just in Amarillo, Dallas, Oklahoma City and Old Mobeetie, possibly.

WE STARTED out talking about the weather and got off the track. Let's get back to it for a moment.

It was about 5 above zero around 6 o'clock on this particular morning last week.

The man backed his car out of a driveway into the snow-covered street. It was slippery. He had a flat tire.

He needed to get to work. He also needed help to get the car off to the side of the street.

Then he spotted a police car coming. He thought he was in luck. He would flag the police car down and get the officer to help him push the automobile out of the way.

He tried to flag the police car, but it pulled around and kept going. Perhaps the police officer thought it was too cold to get out and help.

We always thought policemen were supposed to do their best to assist people in distress. The man with the flat tire in the middle of the street early on an icy morning is still wondering why the policeman didn't at least have enough courtesy to stop and investigate. So are we.

THIS IS something we didn't know until just the other day.

City Manager Mack Wofford got his initiation into public service by working for the sanitation department in Lubbock as a trash collector.

That was in the mid-50s. It all happened when Wofford, then a junior majoring in civil engineering at Texas A&M, got a chance to get his feet wet in a training program conducted during the summer by the then city manager of Lubbock, H.P. Clifton.

Wofford had already decided he was going to follow a municipal public works career.

Clifton told him if he wanted to learn the basics he should start at the bottom and study the problems in all city departments. The first assignment was to get into a pair of coveralls and man a garbage truck. Wofford spent the summer working in one city department after another.

Clifton, incidentally, was indoctrinated into city government by the late Steve Matthews, former city manager of Pampa, when Matthews was Lubbock city manager. When Matthews left Lubbock to head the Texas Municipal League, Clifton was elevated to city manager.

After ten years in Lubbock, Clifton went to Abilene as city manager. He plans to retire from the Abilene post in April.

Wofford says he owes much to Clifton for starting him off on the right foot to become a public servant.

BATTIN' AROUND

Food Controls Haven't Worked

By C.R. BATTEN
"He who does not learn from history," the saying goes, "is doomed to repeat it."
Rather than repeating history, this observer is one who prefers to try to understand its lessons better.
Last summer the American Meat Institute published an enlightening little booklet that deserves the attention of all who are concerned about food prices, inflation, or price controls.
"Food Control During Forty-Six Centuries" was written by Mary G. Lacey, librarian for the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U.S. Department of Agriculture. It first appeared 50 years ago, in the June, 1923 Scientific Monthly. The booklet is a review of various attempts to control food prices during 4600 years of world history.
One of the most dramatic incidents described in the booklet is a description of the effects of price controls in 1584 and '85 when Antwerp, Belgium, was under siege by the Duke of Parma. Lacey quoted historian John Fiske as having written that it was long time before Parma could prevent food-laden ships from coming into the city.

"But no merchant would run the risk of having his ships sunk by the Duke's batteries merely for the sake of finding a market no better than many others which could be reached with no risk at all... If provisions had brought a high price at Antwerp they would have been carried thither. As it was the city by its own stupidity blockaded itself far more effectively than the Duke of Parma could have done."
There was another reason that Fiske believed the price-fixing hastened the fall of Antwerp.

"Nobody felt it necessary to economize. So the city lived in high spirits until all at once provisions gave out and the government had to step in again to palliate the distress which it had wrought.
"In this way a bungling act of legislation helped to decide for the worst a campaign which involved the territorial integrity and future welfare of what might have become a great nation performing a valuable function in the system of European communities," Fiske concluded.
Another example is that of Egypt, which took entire control of the grain trade and saved the people from starvation, but took over the land in return," according to Lacey. Other examples of food price controls from the Egypt 2800 BC to Colonial United States and Revolutionary France were also disastrous.

"The history of government limitation of price seems to teach one clear lesson: that in attempting to ease the burdens of the people in a time of high prices by artificially setting a limit to them, the people are not relieved but only exchanged one set of ills for another which is greater," Lacey concluded.
"Among these ills are (1) the withholding of goods from the market; (2) the dividing of the community into two hostile camps, one only of which considers that the government acts in its interest; (3) the practical difficulties of enforcing such limitation in prices, which in the very nature of the case requires the cooperation of both producer and consumer to make it effective."

Dead Couple May Have Decided To Die Anyway

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) — An elderly couple found dead after electricity to their house was shut off for non-payment of a utility bill died of exposure, but a medical examiner says the couple might have simply decided to end their lives.
The bodies of Frank Baker, 93, and his wife, Catherine, 92, were found by a grandson Christmas Eve. Electricity to their frame-home had been cut off several days earlier.
Dr. Robert J. Sullivan, Schenectady County medical examiner, said that the cause of death was "circulatory collapse associated with exposure to the cold." He noted, however, that laboratory tests showed the couple had not eaten food for "at least two days" prior to their deaths.

"They may have just given up and really didn't care about life anymore," Sullivan said.
He said the autopsy conclusions were a diagnosis of exclusion because no definite cause of death could be determined.
The couple's bodies were found together on the floor of their living room. Although fully clothed, Sullivan said the couple had no overcoats or blankets wrapped around them in an attempt to ward off the below freezing temperatures outside.
The utility, Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., said it shut off the electricity only after making repeated efforts to obtain at least partial payment on the balance.

RUSSIANS SAY NYET TO ROMANCE — Charlotte Daigle, 31, of Palo Alto, Calif., in love with a Russian, finds her path to romance blocked by officials of the USSR who refuse to let her visit Russia or allow her to marry Boris Mukhametshin, 31, of Moscow. She met him on a Peace Corps assignment. She visited him in Moscow early last year but has not been permitted to return. And the Russians haven't given Boris a visa to travel.

OF ARCHITECTURE

Helsinki Offers Interesting Tour

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — Helsinki may be over 400 years old but it sure doesn't show its age. It's no wonder since most of the old buildings were burned down in the early 1800s when the Russians captured Finland from the Swedes.
That does not mean Helsinki lacks historical interest for the visitor. It also has other attractions.
My guidebook, for instance, describes Helsinki as "possibly the most beautiful, architecturally rich capital of Europe." Certainly noteworthy are the graceful neo-classical buildings dating back to 1812 when Czar Alexander I decided to move Finland's capital from Turku to Helsinki.
There are the President's Palace, Town Hall and Swedish Embassy overlooking the waterfront Market Square and, a short walk away, fronting on Senate Square, the Government Palace, University and the great domed and columned Lutheran Cathedral. Of interest also is the nearby Orthodox Upsenski Cathedral with the traditional onion-shaped tower, built in 1917 by White Russian refugees.
Unusual Church
There also are more modern architectural masterpieces by many of Finland's world-famed architects, including the Finlandia House convention-congress center by Alvar Aalto, the Olympic stadium by Yrjo Lindgren and Tovo Jantti, and the railway station by Eiel Saarinen, father of the noted American architect Eero.

tourists is the colorful open air market on the waterfront, open daily except Sunday from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. The lines of stalls, stretching for several blocks, offer virtually everything made by man and nature, from fresh flowers and fish (a main staple here) to pantyhose and paintings.
We stopped for a cup of kahvi and a lihapiirakka (coffee and meat-and-rice pie) at an open-sided stand our guide said was called the LBJ Cafe. The late Lyndon B. Johnson was said to have snacked here during a visit as vice president.
After the market closes—and an army of men and machines scrub the area clean within minutes—the square is a popular promenade. There's an excellent view of the port hustling with ships of all nations and the ferry for the 18th century Suomenlinna fortress on an island in the harbor leaves from here.
I made my first visit to Finland with other U.S. travel writers as guests of the Finnish Tourist Board in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the national airlines Finnair. Finnair offers direct flights from New York to Helsinki in DC8 stretch jets via Amsterdam and/or Copenhagen. Other international airlines, including SAS, also provide regular service.
Americans need only a valid passport for entry.

Jolson 'Helped' Japanese Firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Al Jolson sang "Sonny Boy" more than 40 years ago, he had no way of knowing he was creating an image for a Japanese industrial giant.
According to a report in the Dec. 6 issue of Electronics magazine, Sony took its name from the melody popularized by the late jazz singer.
The magazine said Akio Morita, president of Sony, chose the name because he was searching for a short word that would sound alike in all languages.
Morita said the company first thought of using three catchy initials but abandoned this strategy because too many other organizations had done so.
"Going to four letters was the next logical step," Morita said.
He said he spent considerable time studying dictionaries for a name that would resemble "sound" or "sonic."
Then he found "Sonny Boy" among some song titles.
This led Morita to pick the name "Sony," because "we were the sonny boys of our industry."

Youth Center Report

Swim Lessons
The Center's swim lesson program is a unique one in that the program is taught the year-round. The swimming pool is indoors and is heated so it provides a place whereby we can offer swim lessons the year round.

Listed below is the new swim lesson schedule for 1974 beginning Jan. All lessons are taught in the afternoons after school is out either from 4-5 or 5-6 p.m. Classes meet on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for 10 meeting dates. Each class is taught by our resident Water Safety Instructor, Ruth Carter. She has been our instructor for several years and is one of the best teachers in the Panhandle area.

Classes are offered free to Youth Center members as a part of the membership or if you are a non-member the cost is $4 for 10 lessons. Youth Center memberships are always available for purchase at the front office.

Dolphin Swim Team
The Center has not publicized this much, but we do have a swim team for young boys and girls who are interested in competitive swimming. If you are 8-18 years of age and know how to swim, you are invited to join the Dolphin Swim Club.

The Club works out each Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 6-7 p.m. and at other times when scheduled. They attend several weekend meets during the school year which are usually on Saturday and Sundays. No swim lessons are given on the swim club, but instruction is given on how to swim the various strokes. If you are interested in joining or learning more about this competitive swim club, drop by the Center some workout day and talk to Malcolm Douglas or Mrs. Ruth Steger.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The video ratings indicate there are definitely some major differences in taste between the grassroots audience and television in New York City and Los Angeles.

Statistical figures for two series in particular, CBS-TV's "The Waltons" and NBC-TV's Walt Disney Hour, offer proof of this point.

Neither show, for instance, is a major weekly ratings hit in New York, but both are big successes in the national rankings.

"The Waltons" never would have become the smash that it is without the backing of the grassroots audience.

Early Ratings Disasters
Early ratings for the show in New York and Los Angeles were disastrous. Then it steadily began to move up in the statistical competition. Still, New York wasn't buying it, and Los Angeles was not going overboard for it either.

Yet the phenomenal rise of "The Waltons" continued, and now it regularly finishes among video's highest-rated programs.

The New York ratings for "The Waltons" have improved, but the show would probably be canceled if CBS-TV made a programming decision based solely on these figures. Los Angeles now is close to the national statistics for the series.

As for the weekly Disney program, it, too, might be a candidate for cancellation if NBC-TV made a schedule decision based strictly on the New York ratings. But the grassroots audience makes this series a powerhouse entry. Los Angeles statistics are relatively consistent with the national figures.

One of the revelations of the ratings is that there is clearly no overriding correlation between sophisticated programs New York or Los Angeles.

Dance Club which is a member of the Panhandle Square Dance Association.

The Calico Capers meet on each Saturday night except fifth Sat. nights from 8-11 p.m. to dance to a visiting caller. There are some 30 couples who are members of the club and enjoy this type of dancing.

Membership is open to the public and the club would welcome visitors on any Saturday night. Phil Rapstine is the current club president and he would be more than happy to explain the club membership to you if you will just drop by the Center on Saturday night from 8-11 p.m.

Health Club Memberships
If you are not acquainted with our new health facility, now is the time to come by and let us show you around. The Center has one of the most complete health clubs in the Panhandle area. Hours are split between women users and men users.

The health club houses all the health exercise equipment such as the beauty bars, barrel rollers, vibrator belts, bicycles, sit-up boards, exerciser machine, rowing machine, leg and thigh curl machine, leg press machine, barbells, dumbbells, multi press machine, jungle pulley machine, sun lamp, two handball and racquetball courts, dressing room, showers, facial machine and sauna.

The health club membership is called our unlimited membership. It is always available to individuals and to husbands and wives in a combination membership. An individual membership for six months is only $65 total which may be paid out on an installment plan for $15.50 the first month and $10.50 each of the other five months.

The husband-wife combination plan sells for $90 for six months. On the installment plan this would be $23.87 the first month and $13.87 each of the other five months. We have a one visit tryout plan without any obligation if you would like to try it.

Women's Swim Lessons
A women's swim class will start on Monday, Jan. 7 at 9:00 a.m. Enrollment is now going on or you may come on the first day. Fee is $4.00 or free to Center members. No baby sitter will be provided at this time.

COUNTRYMUSIC

Kinky Friedman: First of the Jewish Cowboy Troubadours

By PETER McCABE
Kinky Friedman did not grow up on a dirt poor farm in Alabama, nor on a West Virginia mountainside, but in a comfortable, middle class suburban home in Texas. His parents didn't plough soil or ride railroads, but ran a summer camp for privileged children on a ranch near Kerrville.

And Friedman did not write his songs in hobo jungles, but during his years in the Peace Corps, in the jungles of Borneo.

He does not seem the most likely candidate to be attracted to the world of country music. There are not too many country entertainers who have a fondness for matzo balls and a distaste for apple pie.

But in recent months, Kinky Friedman, backed by the band he calls his Texas Jewboys, has had a chart single, a song recorded by Glen Campbell, and has played on the stage of no less an institution than the Grand Ole Opry, where, by all accounts, he was warmly received.

That might come as a surprise, considering that Kinky Friedman deals up a healthy portion of outrageous lyrics. One of his songs, "The Ballad of Charles Whitman" (the saga of a sniper who killed 13 people from the University of Texas tower) might rank as the most offensive song I've ever heard.

And on his first records, Friedman lost no opportunity to deliver swipes at highway patrolmen, redneck bartenders, the owners of the Grand Ole Opry and even the Statue of Liberty.

He looks pretty outrageous, too, in his Jewish afro, which supports a Texas highway patrolman's hat tilted forward on his ever present aviator shades, sparkling shirt and blue leggings covered with yellow stars. And throughout his performance he holds a cigar between his strumming fingers, alternating puffs with pulls on a bottle of Jack Daniels.

His jokes between songs spare no one.

"We tend to pick up a little free-floating hostility from some of the ladies in the audience," he announces, as he warms up his anti-women's lib song, "Get Your Biscuits In The Oven And Your Buns In The Bed." One girl in the audience doesn't see any humor and greets the announcement with a hiss: "If we just reach one person out there, we feel it's been worthwhile." Friedman whips back.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board's decision to cut margin requirements and reports of some progress at the Geneva "should result in a strong market," according to E. F. Hutton. The last margin cut on Dec. 3, 1971 produced a market rally that continued into the spring of 1972, the firm notes. "This margin cut could be the forerunner of an easier monetary policy by the Federal Reserve Board and this would have bullish implications," it adds.

The unexpected political and economic events that rocked 1973 have "led many people—particularly stock market investors—to feel that it is impossible to discern order in the economic universe," says Argus Research Corp. As a result, many economists are much more cautious about their forecasts for 1974 and the public is regarding predictions with unusual skepticism, it continues. "The oil situation and shortages in key industries that are largely the consequence of a confusing controls program do make forecasting the 1974 growth rate an 'iffy' proposition," the firm adds.

Despite the impact of the energy crisis utility common stock dividends are outpacing bond yields, according to

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Never in all the time I've been reading year-end reviews have I seen a year as badly maligned as 1973!

The summing-up for the past 12 months produced a lugubrious litany of political corruption, inflation, fuel shortages and assorted other crises, foreign and domestic.

Before we sink too deeply in 1974, we need to be reminded that 1973 was not as villainous as it has been pictured.

For unless the prevailing impression is changed before it hardens, 1973 will acquire a permanent stigma of the type that sullies the good name of 1929.

Apart from an unfortunate collapse of the stock market, which could happen to any year, 1973 was a very nice interval.

The Ultimate Horror
Yet it stands in conventional wisdom as the ultimate horror among bad years.

One person who is striving to prevent a recurrence of the bum rap that 1929 got is Heathcote Annonore, distinguished connoisseur of time periods and head of a group called Friends of '73.

"We're not claiming that 1973 was a great year," Annonore said in soliciting my help in the cause. "We're simply saying it was a spunky little year whose good points outweigh its shortcomings."

"Name one good thing about 1973," I challenged.

"January," Annonore replied. "The first month of 1973 was as good a January as we have seen in this decade and maybe longer."

"It brought us the signing of the Vietnam peace treaty and the long-awaited federal safety regulations for tricycles."

Can't Be All Bad
No year that extracts something salubrious from January can be all bad.

I agreed that January was a distinct plus but pointed out that 1 for 12 is a pretty anemic average.

"February held up rather well, too, considering it is the most difficult month to make bearable," Annonore argued. "And March and April were several outs above the all-time median for those months."

I said, "Maybe 1973 did get off to a good start, but what has it done for us lately?"

"That's the unfortunate part," Annonore replied. "The main defects didn't show up until the latter part of the year. This created a sour aftertaste and convinced the typical layman that the entire year had turned to vinegar."

Despite Annonore's efforts, I doubt that 1973 will ever be popular with the masses. But if you can learn to like it, it should make 1974 a lot easier to swallow.

See?
NEW YORK (UPI) — Food is the basis of life. In a new booklet prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, that point is made.

"It (food) is the source of health and well-being, gives you the energy you need for every day living, affects your weight and height and even your strength to a great extent. In other words, everything in life begins with food and there is much to the saying—You are what you eat."

William C. McDonald was the first governor of the state of New Mexico, serving from 1912 to 1917.

NORTH KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Professional driver training programs of the nation's trucking companies have made a significant reduction in the accident rates, according to a truck supply manufacturer.

Jack F. Whitaker, president of Whitaker Cable Corp., said industry figures show trucks are involved in only 15 accidents per million vehicle-miles traveled, compared to about 29 accidents per million vehicle-miles traveled by passenger cars.

Sometimes when a piece of machinery goes bust, it does it a very big way, like the Titanic.

And when your water heater goes, it's a mess too. The next time it happens, consider A.O. Smith. They put a special glass-lined tank in their heaters that is so superior that 99.6% of them give absolutely perfect performance under their warranties. And the fraction that don't get replaced, it's something to remember. So whenever you need a new water heater, call us for a reliable A.O. Smith.

Powell-Stafford

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Powell of Dumas are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Marta Jean to Robert Wyatt Stafford, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Stafford, Jr. of Amarillo. The wedding is being planned for June 22 in First Presbyterian Church of Dumas. The bride-elect is a senior at Texas Christian University where she plans to receive a bachelor of fine arts degree in art education this spring. She was sorority vice president for Zeta Tau Alpha. The prospective bridegroom is a senior at the United States Air Force Academy, Colorado, and will graduate in June with a BS degree. He held squadron commander for the 34 squadron USAFA. The announcement was made Jan. 4 at a party in Dumas.

WEDDING-ENGAGEMENT DEADLINE

The following deadlines and procedure on wedding stories will be as follows: For a wedding story to appear in a Sunday edition, information and picture must be turned in to the women's editor by 5 p.m. on the Monday BEFORE the wedding. All wedding stories submitted after that time will appear during the week. Engagement announcements must be submitted by 12 noon Wednesday to appear in Sunday's edition.

Tonya Hester Becomes Bride Of Randall Smith

Miss Tonya Hester became the bride of Randall Smith at 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 4 in Highland Baptist Church of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Hester, 2227 N. Nelson, are parents of the bride, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Smith of Happy.

THE CEREMONY

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. M.B. Smith, pastor. Mrs. Doris Goad, organist, accompanied Debbie Norton, who sang, "One Hand and One Heart," "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The wedding was performed amid a candlelight setting of large arched candelabrum and seven-branched candelabra entwined with salal foliage. Two pedestal arrangements of white mums and pom-pom mums completed the decorations. The pews of honor were noted with white satin bows. The bride presented a long-stemmed, red rose to her mother during the processional and to the bridegroom's mother during the recessional.

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" vowal, was attired in a formal length wedding gown of Angelmist peau de soie and re-embroidered Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high neckline, empire waistline, long Bishop sleeves and semi A-line silhouette with full back. Inserts of Chantilly lace enhanced with tiny sequins and seed pearls, complemented the bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown. The full back of the gown ended in a sweeping chapel-length train. Her veil of imported illusion, with a border of matching Chantilly lace, fell from a coil of lace and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Paula Donnell of Amarillo, was matron of honor and Suzanne Buck of Canyon and Jane Dalton of Oklahoma City, were bridesmaids. They wore identical floor-length gowns of royal blue doubleknit, styled with an A-line bodice and short sleeves. Each wore a royal blue, flowered bow for a headdress and carried nosegays of white feathered carnations. Jeff and Ron Smith, brothers of the bridegroom, were ringbearers. Best man was Greg Donnell of Amarillo and groomsmen were Clifford Pritchard and Rick Edmondson, both of Canyon. Ushering were Troy Hester, brother of the bride, and Mitch Newkirk.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall. The serving table was covered with a tall silver candelabrum holding tapers and mixed white flowers. "Charms of Love" were chosen for the wedding cake, which was four-tiered divided with Italian filigree. Each tier was decorated with garlands and shells of snowy white icing. Small clusters of rosebuds were placed between each tier. The cake was topped with a Keepsake Ornament.

Jonelle Reeves of Canyon served the cake and Dawn Gladden, Oklahoma City, assisted at the punchbowl. Sherry Bigam served the bridegroom's German chocolate cake which was decorated with pecan halves and Becky Cole served coffee. Mrs. Clifford Pritchard of Canyon, registered wedding guests.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a two-piece doubleknit dress of white and blue and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside at 2701 8th Ave., Canyon.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Pampa High School and is presently employed by Stewart Title of Amarillo. The bridegroom is a 1972 graduate of Canyon High School and is self-employed as a farmer.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored with a bridal shower recently hosted by Mmes. Archie Hardin, Herman Law, James Beesley, Wayne Mitchell-Jess Jennings, Delbert Woolfe, Carol Goad, Travis Balch, Troy Ledbetter and R.C. Atchley.

Air travel up

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Miami International Airport reported recently that 10,617,091 passengers arrived during the first 10 months of 1973, a 5.18 per cent increase over 1972.

Spokesmen for the airport said 592,553,489 pounds of cargo arrived through October, a 15.02 per cent increase. But there was a 2.9 decrease in incoming mail with the arrival of 55,481,006 pounds of letters and parcels.

Let's Ask the Cook
by Nan Wiley

Dear Nan:

In one of your columns I noticed a request for a ham and egg custard a reader had been served while in the hospital. Perhaps it was a variation of Quiche Lorraine. It can be made with bacon, ham cubes or cheese or a combination of these. It can also be made in custard cups or a long oblong baking dish without the crust. The cream called for in the recipe I am enclosing may be changed to milk if one prefers. Bertha Dixon, Kansas City, Mo.

Now why didn't I think of that? I wasn't seeing the forest for the trees that day. It was the lack of a crust that threw me but here goes. You will need a 9-inch unbaked pie shell, 2 teaspoons chopped chives or green onions, ¼ cup crisp bacon (crumbled), ¼ cup Swiss cheese diced small, 4 slightly beaten eggs, 1 cup heavy cream, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper and a pinch of nutmeg.

In a small heavy saucepan saute the bacon and green onions in a small amount of oil. Drain and cover bottom of pie shell with this. Sprinkle with just ¼ cup of the diced cheese. In a mixing bowl combine rest of cheese and other ingredients. Mix well, pour over bacon and onion mixture. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for another 15 minutes or until custard is well set. Now here is another version with a good tip included.

Dear Nan:

I ate this soft custard dish at my sister-in-law's home and really enjoyed it. I think this must be what the reader wanted. Audrey serves this for breakfast or brunch. She made this without a crust, right in the skillet or pan in which she fried the meat. It's delicious.

Fry ¼ pound bacon until crisp. Drain and crumble into a pastry shell or not. You may substitute ¼ pound cubed ham for the bacon. Top with ¼ pound shredded Swiss or Cheddar cheese. Beat 3 eggs slightly, add 2 cups milk, season with pepper to taste. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Agnes Marsolf, Hunter, Okla.

Any kind of quiche makes a good main dish and it goes together quickly with little watching once it is in the oven. For anyone who dislikes drinking milk — I'm that kind — it's a fine way to get your quota in a pleasant way.

Try making candy for a change — it's easy when you've got tested recipes to guide you. For your copy of "Favorite Homemade Candies," send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelop to Nan Wiley in care of The Pampa Daily News, P.O. Box 2196, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Farnsworth-Zumstein Vows Repeated Friday

Fashionettes
By United Press International
There's more fullness in the skirts of the fall and winter silhouettes. Designers get the effect either with flat-pressed pleats or with gores. Designer Donald Brooks likes unbelted princess shaped coats ending with a huge flare, done with as many as 17 gores all around. Favorite tone: camel.

Stylists tell the fall and winter fashion story in parts. Take a few color coordinated parts and multiply into a many-parts wardrobe. Pierre Cardin's collection for American retailers features tunics, jumpers and sweaters which can be combined several ways.

Black is back in fashion. Well, actually it never went away, it just was overwhelmed by designers' turning to bright and neutral shades. But almost every fall and winter collection features both the short black cocktail dress, usually with some skin bared, and the longer dinner dress or dress-jacket costume.

Miss Cindy Lee Farnsworth and Don Zumstein, Jr., were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 4 in Central Baptist Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Farnsworth, 200 Tignor, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Zumstein, Sr., Vancouver, Wash.

THE CEREMONY
The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ted Savage, pastor. Mrs. Joyce Walberg, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Leroy Thornberg as she sang, "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Twelfth of Never."

The ceremony was performed before a background of arched candelabra holding pink tapers entwined with salal foliage. Tall, floor baskets of pink gladioli flanked the wedding party. Pews of honor were noted with pink and blue bows.

MRS. DON ZUMSTEIN, JR.
nee Miss Cindy Lee Farnsworth

The bride carried a cascade of white roses with pink cymbidium orchids atop a white Bible that belonged to her mother. She also carried out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue, and she wore pennies in the couple's birthdates in her shoes.

ATTENDANTS
Barbara Belflower, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Janie Zumstein, sister of the bridegroom and Pattie Sims of Pampa. Mrs. Belflower wore a sky blue gown and the bridesmaids wore deep pink gowns, both of serenade satin designed with floor length skirts, empire waistlines. Victorian necklines and short puffed sleeves gathered into a band with full sleeves.

The matching headpieces were circles of net, and they carried nosegays of pink and sky blue carnations with baby's breath and pink and blue satin ribbon streamers.

Flower girl was Lisa Willison, who wore a sky blue dress identical to that of the bride attendants. She carried a white lace basket holding pink and blue petals.

Serving his brother as best man was Mike Zumstein of Vancouver. Jess Crouch of Dallas and James Gwinn of Roaring Springs, Tex., were groomsmen. Everett Zumstein, brother of the bridegroom, distributed rice bags to wedding guests.

MOTHERS
The bride's mother wore an apricot double knit dress and the bridegroom's mother wore a brown and white, two-piece dress. Both wore corsages of white gladiolias.

RECEPTION
The church parlor was the scene for the wedding reception, following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with a blue cloth trimmed with lace and was decorated with a crystal bowl holding pink and blue carnations and pink candles.

Hill-Danner

The engagement of Rhonda Elaine Hill and Terry Lynn Danner is being announced by her parents. Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hill, 116 N. Faulkner. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Danner, 2125 Williston, are parents of the prospective bridegroom. A Jan. 26 wedding in St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church is being planned.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School and is employed by Pampa School System. The bridegroom is a 1972 graduate of Ridgefield High School and is employed by Panhandle Equipment Co.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

A bridal shower was held in the church parlor hosted by Mmes. Greenroyd, Bevel, Greer, Cobb, Camp, Bass, Johnston, Vaughn, Yoger, Eslick, Phelps, Fife, Malone, Hatcher, Lowe, Burke and Gowdy.

Another shower was held in the Wayne Sims home, hosted by Pattie Sims, Kathie Machaney, Brenda Lee and Donna Hillman.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Coronado Inn.

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — Visitors to Nassau and Paradise Island can buy conch shells along the waterfront from Bahamian fisherman and convert them into trumpets.

The shell can be made into an instrument by removing its tip, leaving a blowing hole almost one inch in diameter.

I was trying to get one of those child-proof safety caps off an aspirin bottle the other day and when my youngest grabbed it out of my hands, gave it a twist and, voila, instant aspirin.

"How did you do that?" I asked.

"There's nothing to it," he said. "It won't come off until you point this little knob into this space. You want me to show you how again?"

"No," I said irritably.

"It's not your fault, Mom," he comforted. "You're probably an underachiever."

"That's not true," I said defensively. "I'm just an adult trying to grow up in a child-gear world." As he stood there stuffing the cotton back in the bottle, I added, "Everything they manufacture has a child in mind!"

"You mean like the parking meter that you couldn't figure out where you put your nickel?"

"Right. Only a child could know that the slot was on top in plain view with an arrow and the word COIN stamped on it.

"I guess so," he hesitated.

"And what about catsup in a restaurant. Did you ever wonder why a child is the only one who can get it out of the bottle? Children are the only ones who are born knowing where the volume button on a stereo is located, and I've never known a child who couldn't operate a vendor's machine selling anything with a blindfold on."

"Is that why you only go to a self-service gas station when I'm along?"

"I could learn how to do it in a minute, but basically they're planned for children. Why did you know that the first long distance direct-dial phone was completed by a 2½-year-old child without directory assistance?" He shook his head.

"And that with every adult game you have to take a child to interpret the rules?"

"All I know," he shrugged.

"is that you can't work a stamp machine, a tape recorder, a drinking fountain or a night deposit slot at the bank. I worry about you," he said. "What are you going to do after I'm grown — rent-a-kid?"

"Don't be smart," I snapped.

"I'm serious," he said. "Who's going to open your aspirin bottles for you when I'm grown?"

"I don't plan on headaches after you're grown," I said.

She feels cheated
—with $20,000

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Like everyone else who writes to you, I have a problem, but this could be a multimillion-dollar problem. Two years ago (when I was 64) I married a man who was 81. He was not in good health, and I was his wife, cook, housekeeper, chauffeur and nurse—on 24-hour-a-day duty, you might say. When we were married he promised he would leave half of everything he owned to me, and the other half would be divided among his children. He was a wealthy man and owned lots of choice Florida property which his father bought in 1901.

I took him at his word and never asked to see anything in writing. Well, he died recently, and all he left me was $10,000 a year for every year I lived with him. That's only $20,000! The rest his children got.

I feel that I was cheated. I don't want to gamble what money I have to fight the case unless I can win. What are my chances? Do you know a good sharp Florida lawyer who can help me?

DEAR ROBBED: I do not recommend lawyers ("sharp" or dull) but if you don't know one, consult your county or state bar association and they can advise you.

DEAR ABBY: A young man was asked by his girl friend's father to provide "references" before he'd consent to the marriage.

The young man didn't like the idea, and you agreed that "getting married wasn't like applying for a job."

You are both wrong! When one marries, he tackles the toughest job of all.

The father basically is trying to insure the success of his daughter's marriage. Such a realistic view is long overdue, and should be legislated into existence. This could reduce the number of broken homes, juvenile delinquents and the soaring welfare costs.

In my state, you don't drive without a series of classroom and actual driving lessons, plus a written test, and a road test. But all you need for marriage is a blood test and the price of a license.

I think the establishment of a sound family unit deserves at least as much attention and legislation as driving an automobile, don't you?

DEAR PAW: Of course, but where does one get "references" for marriage? Only a former partner can provide them, and if a man is a widower, his partner is dead. And if he's divorced, his "ex" would probably be the last person to recommend him for marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I lost quite a lot of weight and now my seat is so flabby it looks terrible.

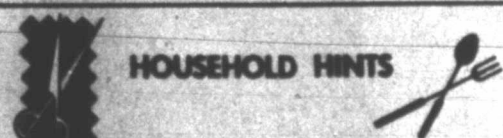

Abby, someone told me that a doctor can lift your seat. Is that true, or was she putting me on? Please tell me because I would give anything to get my seat lifted. Sometimes I feel like I am practically dragging on the ground. I am married and have two children. Sign me—

DRAGGING

DEAR DRAGGING: Yes, it's possible. It is called a "thigh lift." I understand that a plastic surgeon can lift just about anything. Today seats... tomorrow, the stock market!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 60788, L.A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hint to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 123 Lusk Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90233, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Your
Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, JANUARY 6
 Your birthday today: Brings on a long upbeat campaign to make a completely different way of life, in which practically everything has an experimental or speculative quality. Pragmatism is now the only efficient approach: what produces continues in use; what fails, fails and should be discarded when it does. Today's natives escape major public attention, at either extreme of idealization or the contrary.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Once you've roused yourself and attended to your normal Sunday responsibilities, you have a good opportunity for testing personal theories.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: It's worth your while to look and act your best this Sunday. Make the rounds of good friends and neighbors, compare notes on your well-being.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Tracking down interesting information is apt to fill your day. Just take care that you neither skip nor skimp some essential errand long promised.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Every minute you can manage to apply to planning is that much time well used now and tenfold as much saved later. New beginnings are at hand.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your friends may not know any more than you do, but it's much more fun gathering a sizable group and sharing the discovery and choices.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Pay no attention to the mystified air of those who know you, nor need you explain the "why" of what you do. Much of the day is in unfamiliar subject matter.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Favorable progress follows steady commentary in which you pursue your point thru several formulations directed to fill or fit the needs of all concerned.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Keep notes, see which diverse ventures may be served simultaneously as you rush around tomorrow catching up for weekend time.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Any pursuit of gain this Sunday is likely to come off awkwardly. Just as well you take this as the winding down of a streak of inconvenient coincidence.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Give more than usual consideration to formalities. Enjoy the good rhythm of conservative living. There is time for all manner of achievements today.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: When you have the attention of those who count in your schemes of reality, get to the point, and then let others carry the endless rounds of conversation.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: A relationship which lapses now is never resumed. Offer at least some amenities among those with whom you share opinions and news.

Horoscope

MONDAY, JANUARY 7
 Your birthday today: Social movement fills what otherwise would be idle moments in a busy year of improving personal resources. Long-term projects are very near completion, bring all your material resources into play, and redeem themselves soon. Today's natives are one of a kind, sharing no clearly-defined vocational preferences, but all gifted with persistence in bringing order in personal interests.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Your move upward in the world is conditioned somewhat by your ties with much younger people, children, your own or not makes little difference.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Strong urges for progress continue, in varied expressions. Nothing to lose by pressing on with the work at hand, using the latest methods.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Faraway pastures look greener than ever. Skillful use of what you do have will pave the way to much better going.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Personal restlessness grows, shouldn't be allowed to distract you. Progress depends on your self-discipline, ability to hold tight under adverse comment.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: It gradually dawns on you as to what has been left out recently. With luck you can bridge over some of the gaps and ignore others.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: The week opens on a more expansive move than you had in mind. Shift gears, think big, and make use of the opening. Don't depend on friends.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: One probable factor in today's adventure is a definite change of mind, rearrangement of priorities. See yourself on the right track; proceed!

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Be sure the words you use have somewhat the same meanings for those you address, as you'll not be able to take them back.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The events of today are minor events of faith. Reflect on exactly where you are in your own up-spiral of personal growth, and give thanks.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You are not at your peak for persuasive powers, and quite likely are letting emotions have a large share in your guidance.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Impulse takes you into a situation where you have much more to cope with than you bargained for, with stricter limitations than you are accustomed to facing.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Helpful friends are just that, perhaps making the difference between success or failure. Nonetheless their mere presence generates confusion.

Sulak-Love

Miss Josephine-Anne Margaret Sulak of Amarillo, and Ronald Richard Love will wed Jan. 26 in the First Church of the Nazarene. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.O. Love, 1040 S. Banks. The bride-elect is a graduate of Ennis High School, Ennis, Tex., and the bridegroom is a graduate of West Texas State University with a BBAJ degree. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity, and is currently employed with Saga Food Service on WT campus.

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites McClure-Pickens

Central Baptist Church of Pampa was the setting at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 29, for the exchange of nuptial vows by Miss Gayla Mae McClure and Noland Gene Pickens.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.L. McClure of Miami, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Pickens, Jr., 423 Canadian, are parents of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY
Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was Henry Lynch, minister of Cotton Center Church of Christ and professor at Lubbock Christian College.

Mrs. Estelle Malone, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Phil Gage as he sang, "Till," "Woman Helping Man," and "Bless This House."

The church was decorated with two, 14-branched candelabra entwined with greenery and church banisters were trimmed with holly, entwined with hurricane lamps and votive cups. The memory candel was decorated with red camellias flanked by two silver, three-branched candelabra.

THE BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal floor-length gown of angelmist peau de soie and Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high mandarin collar, empire waistline, long Bishop sleeves and semi A-line silhouette with full back. Inserts of the matching lace enhanced the neckline, bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown. Tiny seed pearls and sequins enhanced the lace. The full back of the gown ended in a sweeping chapel length train. Her veil of imported illusion, bordered with Chantilly lace, fell from a tiara of rhinestones, and she carried a bouquet of camellias and red roses.

MRS. NOLAND GENE PICKENS

ATTENDANTS
Shawn McClure, sister of the bride, Miami, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Paula House, Dallas, Charlotte Hopkins, Miami, and Pam Milligan, Quanah. All wore identical floor length gowns of red velvet, styled with princess sleeves, scoop necklines and empire waistlines. They wore white fur hats and muffs trimmed with red rose buds tied with cascading red velvet ribbons. They wore choker necklaces designed and fashioned by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Jack Back, of tiny white pearls interwoven with red velvet ribbon.

Mary Alice Pickens and

Brenda Pickens lighted the candles. They wore floor length gowns of red and white checked polyester skirts and white tops.

Warren W. Pickens, Jr., served his son as best man and Bob Cowan, J.B. Lemon, and Larry Redding were groomsmen. Serving as ushers were Jon McClure, Scott Powell, Bruce Pickens and Tie Adcock.

MOTHERS
The bride's mother wore a dusty blue crepe back satin floor length gown styled with long full sheer sleeves, and the bridegroom's mother wore an A-line beige and gold metallic floor length gown.

RECEPTION
For the reception in the church parlor, the serving table was centered with a silver candelabrum holding white tapers and red carnations. Crystal appointments completed the setting.

Silver appointments were used at this table and chocolate cake decorated with holly leaves was served.

For the wedding trip to Ruidosa, N.M., the bride wore a lime green polyester pant suit with rose appliques on the sleeves and pleat of the pants and lifted the corsage from her bouquet.

The couple plans to reside in Lubbock.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride is a junior at Texas Tech University majoring in accounting. The bridegroom is a senior at TTU, and is presently employed by D&L Land and Pine Co., Lubbock.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
The bride was honored with a bridal shower recently in Pampa with approximately 43 attending or sending gifts.

Another shower was held in Lubbock recently and the bride was also honored with a shower in Canadian.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS Attending the wedding from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Lynch, Denise Frazier, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cowan, Mrs. Hez Frazier, Mrs. H.M. Frazier, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Larry Allin, Darcie, John and David Allin, Mr. and Mrs. Cary May, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ware, Betty Davis, John Darcy, Melenda Varneil, Mrs. Bill Varnell, Fred Varnell, Christy Pyeatt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shearer, Mrs. A.F. Pyeatt, Carolyn De Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Carr, Dana Tow, Mike Tow, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman, Prater, Rick Smith, Mrs. Jimmy Adcock, Mr. and Mrs. H.R. Harvey, and Phyllis Calvin and Diann Lemon, Mrs. Cleo Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Lemon, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stanton, Richard Hefley, J.D. Smith, and Gary Luke.

Why Grow Old?

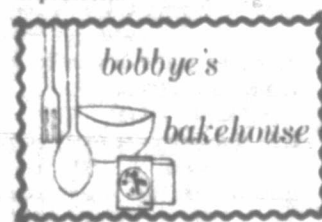

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Are You A Good Listener
Or Are You "Queen Bee"?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
How do you rate yourself as a conversationalist? I do not mean to ask if you pour out the sparkling wit and felicitous phrases that once made it an art form. I am thinking of everyday communication. After all, talking is the main way in which we express our thoughts and feelings to others.

Did you ever stop to think that conversation is more than talking? It is also listening. Do you let the other person do her share? Do you let her make a point before you break in? Ambrose Bierce has defined a bore as a person who talks when you want him to listen. Conversation is more than words, too. It is the total impression which includes tone of voice, body stance and facial expression.

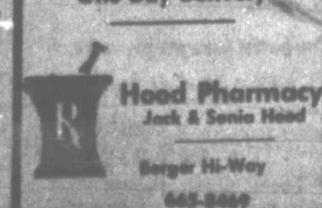

PEANUT BRITTLE

- 2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup white Karo
- 3 tablespoons water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups raw peanuts
- 1 teaspoon soda

Combine sugar, Karo, water and salt. Boil to hardball stage. Add the peanuts and cook about 10 minutes or until the peanuts are roasted. (The candy will be a light brown color). Remove from heat and stir in the soda. Pour onto a buttered cookie sheet. Break when cool.

Listen to yourself objectively. Is your tone querulous or sharp when you point out something concerning another's habits or actions? Maybe you do not mean to nag but it comes out that way. Try the following little exercise before checking yourself against the list below. Say the same thing in an amused tone, then in a warm concerned tone and then in the tone which made you sound as though you were nagging. Do this several times. See what a difference it makes?

We have already said that the courtesy of listening and the tone of voice are important. If you wish to improve the quality of your conversation you may want to check yourself against the following:

Do you give an organ recital at the drop of a symptom and always bring the conversation around to how you are feeling? Do you go into great detail?

Are you forever harking back to the past, to the good old days, to what you did as a child and how wonderful you were compared to today's youth, to when you were young and beautiful? It is the current you people are interested in.

Do you unconsciously belittle what someone says, even cutting in with such remarks as, "That nothing. Wait until you hear what happened to me!"

Do you listen with glazed eyes and a faraway expression on your face or do your eyes focus on the speaker?

Do you use the same expression over and over again — phrases such as "you know," "Ce st la vie" or "so what can you do?"

Do you think twice before saying something highly critical about someone? It is very difficult to take back something that is already said. Even if the attack is warranted, try control. That is the best way to put someone in his place and you will look prettier and feel better.

Vitamins are an important part of your diet. Discover what they can provide in the leaflet, "Vitamins in Your Diet." Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pampa Daily News, P.O. Box 2198, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Pampa Civic Ballet Begins New Season

At a Christmas party after the company's last rehearsal in December, members of the Corps de Ballet signed contracts for the 1974 season of the Pampa Civic Ballet. The Artistic Director of the company is Jeanne Willingham. The dancers are selected by democratic auditioning procedures, and they are required to comply with specifically stated rules for class and rehearsal attendance. Those who were chosen through audition in October for the Senior Group are: Margaret Wilks, Teddy Fallon, Rae Lynn Stone, Kim Chittenden, Angela Day and Rita Parsley. Dancers chosen for the Junior Group are: Lou Ann Robertson, Penny Wieser, Anita Day and Lisa McAndrew. Associate Members of the Company are Dalton Stewart of Canyon and Sue Green of Borger. Honorary Members are Viola Parsley of Lubbock and Susie Fillman of Houston. Officers of the Corps de Ballet recently elected are: Margaret Wilks, president; Kim Chittenden, vice president; Teddy Fallon, secretary; and Lou Ann Robertson, junior representative. The Pampa Civic Ballet is a non-profit corporation which does not discriminate because of race. Executive Board Members pro-tem are Mrs. Elbert Walker, president; Mrs. Otis Nace, vice president; and Mrs. M.Q. Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the organization is to encourage the more gifted and dedicated dancers in the area and to offer them a performance opportunity. From the beginning they are made aware of their responsibilities to their fellow-performers and to their audience. No matter where life takes them in the years to come, they have already received two priceless developmental gifts.

Chillicothe, Tex., was named for Chillicothe, Ohio.

Club News

COTILLION CLUB
Twentieth Century Cotillion Study Club held their annual Christmas party recently in the country home of Mrs. Don Morrison. Mrs. Glen Fleming gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Morrison's home was decorated for the holiday season with many unusual candle ornaments from Germany and other countries. Refreshments of cherry jubilee, fruit cake, cookies, cranberry nut bread, cheese balls, and coffee were served from a festive table to the following members: Mmes.

Jerry Kotara, Jack White, Ben Sturgeon, Jim Campbell, Gene Hanks, Glen Fleming, S. Gene Hall, Dean Copeland, E.P. Maglaughlin, Dan Puckett, Clarence Kirby, Ed Brainard, Sam Isaac, Don Morrison, Alton Setliff and Rusty Neef. The next meeting will be held Jan. 15 in the home of Mrs. Gene Hanks.

WILSON PTA
Wilson PTA met recently in the school auditorium for its December meeting. Mrs. Jeannie Davis, study course chairman, announced that the PAFLE courses will begin Jan. 4, at Carver Center. Anyone interested may attend these classes.

Mrs. Linda King, president, gave the treasurer's report on Fun Night proceeds. It was decided that new choir robes would be purchased for the project this year.

Mr. Biggers, principal, introduced the Wilson choir, who presented their traditional Christmas program. Mrs. Edith Sayles is the choir director. Room count was won by Mrs. Kyles' and Mr. Simons' rooms.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Andrews Sisters—Back In Style

By EARL WILSON NEW YORK — There was a raucous kind of happiness in Sardi's at the dinner hour because the two Andrews Sisters, Patti the blond and Maxine the brunette, sitting near the front, were reminiscing about the 1940s, when they were the biggest Show Business attractions, headed for USO-Camp Shows in Italy to entertain the GIs.

Last Week In Wall Street

LIQUIDITY One of the toughest facts for people to grasp about the stock market is its degree of liquidity. Folks just can't seem to understand the breadth and scope of the stock market, that at any given time when a person in one part of the U.S. is buying 100 shares of a stock, another person (thousands of miles away, or perhaps in another brokerage office a block away, is selling 100 shares of that same stock for whatever reason.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
The Senate Citizen's Advisory Council on Water Resources held a public hearing in Amarillo Dec. 3, 1973. Representatives of a number of political entities testified at the public hearing. The last Legislature, by resolution, mandated the Senate Advisory Council to come up with some workable solutions to the water - short problems of Texas.

Following the public hearing, reporters from one of the Amarillo newspapers put together a story and front page it indicating that the Panhandle area had a plentiful water supply until the year 2010. The City of Amarillo representative was given the privilege of appearing first on the daylong hearing. He painted a good picture for the water supply future of Amarillo. The tragedy of the story is - Amarillo is not the entire Panhandle.

James B. McCray, in a well thought-out letter to the Amarillo newspaper, placed the story in its proper perspective. We are carrying his letter in our column today.

As a member of the West Texas Citizen's Advisory Council on Water Resources and a member of the Board of Directors of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District, farming in Carson County, I feel compelled to take issue with the reporting of the water situation in this area as revealed in the hearing of December 3, in Amarillo.

It is true that the City of Amarillo is in good shape for water for many years. It is also true that this is the result of underground water supplies that are being depleted at the expense of irrigated agriculture. Irrigation water is in relatively good shape for the next 10 to 15 years. Wayne Wyatt of the Texas Water Development Board pointed out that the number of irrigated acres would begin to decline at that time because of the declining water table. The Texas Panhandle and High Plains will return to a dry land agriculture by 2010 if additional sources of water are not found.

Mike Riethmayer, economist for the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, brought out in graphic detail what the cattle feeding industry means to the area's economy. He stated that its sole reason for being here was the availability of feed grain and that 75 per cent of that feed grain was the result of irrigated agriculture.

It was also pointed out that Amarillo was not using some 1,000 acre feet of water available to it from Lake Meredith. It is pumping 25 per cent of its water supply from underground water sources in order to make the lake water more palatable. Mr. Wyatt remarked that only Amarillo and Borger had problems with the taste of the lake water. The other participating cities whose underground water is already seriously depleted made no complaints.

The people of this area have no quarrel with Amarillo. Your success is partially ours. We must not ignore the fact that one of our most valuable assets - and certainly include Amarillo - is being depleted. All scientific research indicates that, at best, known means of replacing that water would take from 20 to 30 years to implement. To ignore that we have a problem is foolhardy. If something isn't done during this period of time, in 2010 Amarillo will probably have plenty of water. However, it is doubtful that the economy to use it will be here.

Green, leafy vegetables, peppers and tomatoes were especially hard hit," the report said. "Also about half the sugar cane crop in the Rio Grande Valley was lost."

The extension service reported snow in some parts of the Panhandle should help dryland wheat, although soil moisture was short throughout the High Plains and western sections of the state. The agency said when weather conditions permitted, farmers were busy plowing land and applying fertilizer for the spring planting season.

Cattle in many East Texas counties were losing weight because of the adverse weather, the agency said, but livestock conditions continued generally good over the state.

The extension service said there was at least one good aspect to the poor weather: Freez-

Farm, Ranch Activities Brought To A Standstill

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas Agricultural Extension Service said Wednesday the recent surge of cold weather has brought farm and ranch activity almost to a standstill.

The agency said small grains were making limited growth in most areas because of the cold weather and lack of moisture and that rust and greenbugs also caused damage. Pasture conditions declined rapidly in southern and southeastern sections of the state, thus increasing the need for supplemental feeding.

Some cotton still remains to be harvested in the Panhandle, South Plains and Rolling Plains and parts of East Texas," a spokesman for the service said.

According to the extension service, freezing weather in the San Antonio area and in the Rio Grande Valley caused heavy damage to fruit and vegetable crops.

1973-Incredible Year For Texas Agriculture

By BILL BRADEN
Assistant Editor
Department of Agricultural Communications
Texas A&M University

Written for UPI
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — 1973 was an incredible year for Texas agriculture.

The year was one of prosperity, change, conflict and turmoil. It was one that provided farmers with a rarity: A high yield due to a good crop year and high prices.

It also was a year in which agriculture came to the forefront and gained prominence.

Weather conditions were favorable throughout much of the year. Spring moisture was generally plentiful in all parts of the state, especially in the High and Rolling Plains and western area, so young crops got off to a good start. And timely rains fell over much of the state during the growing season so that many counties produced the best crops in years.

That was especially true in the far west and in the south and Rolling Plains where bumper grain sorghum and cotton crops were harvested.

Coastal Area Hit
Of course, there were problems with weather in some areas. The hardest hit area was the Coastal Plains where heavy rains in the early spring delayed the planting of most crops, especially rice.

And due to the lateness of this crop, it was especially vulnerable when tropical storm Delia appeared in early September. Continued wet weather over the next few weeks caused much of the rice to lodge and fall to the ground. Thus yields dropped from both the first and second cuttings.

Continued wet weather during the late summer and fall delayed the cotton harvest in much of South, Southeast, South Central and Northeast Texas as well as the Blacklands. The result was some reduction in yields as well as a lower quality crop. Peanuts and soybeans in the wet areas also suffered some damage from the prolonged exposure to wet weather.

Good Prices Noted
However, record prices prevailed and producers were able to reap good profits. Rice prices shot up to around $30 a barrel, unheard of in the past. And consider 60 cents or more for a pound of cotton and $5 plus for a bushel of grain sorghum. Or what about $12 a bushel for soybeans? Of course, many farmers contracted their crops in advance and did not cash in on these record prices. Yet, contract prices were generally good.

It was a year for record farm prices but it was also a year for record farm costs. And, although farm prices will probably decline in the coming months (some prices have already softened), it's a sure bet that farm costs will continue upward. Consider the fertilizer situation. Already costs have risen 15 to 20 per cent in some locations due to the shortage situation. Nitrogen costs are especially mushrooming since this key fertilizer element is a by-product of natural gas. The fuel situation is also vital to agricultural production, and will hold the key to the overall agricultural picture in 1974.

especially as far as increased production is concerned. Yet government officials are calling for more food and fiber products in 1974.

Baling Wire Shortage
Shortages of such farm items as baling wire cropped up in 1973 and will certainly be around in the coming year. Such shortages are puzzling to agricultural producers and will dim prospects for the efficient operation of farms and ranches.

When considering high farm costs, the price of feed probably headed the list. Farmers and ranchers paid monumental prices for protein feeds for their livestock last winter. The situation won't be any different in the coming months, but thanks to a bumper hay crop over the state this year, less high priced feed may be needed.

Looking at the Livestock Industry
1973 saw turmoil and conflict on a national basis. Who can forget price controls, meat boycotts and consumers protesting against high meat prices. Meat prices were high the first half of the year ($68 per 100 pounds for fat cattle and $60 per 100 pounds for hogs) but receded some as the laws of supply and demand once again took hold. However, per capita consumption dropped for the year, reflecting a slack in demand. And faced with uncertainty, many producers have not made major expansion in operations.

Profits Wiped Out
For cow-calf producers, 1973 was a good year as prices generally held steady. But for the owner of feedlot cattle, the last half of 1973 was disastrous. Fed cattle prices dropped, and in the wake of continued high feed costs, profits were wiped out.

Overall, though, the livestock picture was good in Texas in 1973. Favorable moisture conditions in the early spring boosted forage growth on pastures and ranges, and this situation prevailed into the fall. Only western areas and the High Plains began to suffer from a lack of moisture going into the fall months.

Livestock once again had to contend with a deadly insect pest during 1973—the ever menacing screwworm. Although cases were light in the early going, an influx of ear ticks in southern counties brought on an explosion of screwworm cases in the late summer and fall months.

In contrast to 1972 this year's pecan crop was light and of poor quality. Late freezes in western sections plus an onslaught of diseases and insect pests were responsible. These same conditions also led to a light peach crop last spring.

Income Should Gain
From the economic standpoint, both gross and net agricultural income for Texas farmers and ranchers should climb for 1973. The state's total agricultural income reached past the $4 billion mark for 1972, and economists for Texas Agricultural Extension Service estimate total cash receipts from agriculture to climb to $6.3 billion for 1973.

With this continued growth and the continued efforts of farmers and ranchers to strive for more efficient operation of their various agricultural enterprises — despite the uncertainties that exist—the future of Texas agriculture is bright.

Soviets Ousted From '74 Cup

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — The International Football Federation (FIFA) Saturday kicked the Soviet Union out of the 1974 World Cup with an overwhelming vote of confidence in favor of Chile.

The FIFA also reached a compromise verdict in the feud between Spain and Yugoslavia by setting the replay date for Feb. 13 in Frankfurt and outlined the principles for tonight's draw.

By a vote of 13-5 FIFA's World Cup committee confirmed a previous decision that the Soviet Union had forfeited its right to the June 16 to July 7 finals by refusing to play in Santiago. Held to a scoreless tie in the first leg at home, the Russians canceled the Nov. 21 return leg in Santiago, claiming the National Stadium had been used as "a concentration camp with bloodsoaked grass" by the military regime which overthrew President Salvador Allende's Marxist government.

The draw was held in the concert hall of the Frankfurt Hessen radio in front of an invited audience of 1,000 guests and produced the following groupings:

Group 1: West Germany, Chile, East Germany and Australia.

Group 2: Brazil, Scotland, Yugoslavia, Spain and Zaire.

Group 3: The Netherlands, Uruguay, Sweden and Bulgaria.

Group 4: Haiti, Italy, Poland and Argentina.

A gasp went through the audience when the FIFA official, slightly nervous, pulled out East Germany and put the World Cup newcomers in the same group as their West German neighbors.

Before the actual draw took place, FIFA president Sir Stanley Rous explained that FIFA had decided to seed the four semifinalists from Mexico 1970, West Germany, Brazil, Uruguay and Italy to head their respective groups.

Chile then went into West Germany's group and Argentina into Italy's group to keep South American teams apart, then Scotland landed in the tough Group 2 with Brazil.

At a news conference Sir Stanley said: "Personally I'm sorry that a distinguished country like the Soviet Union cannot participate in the finals, but the rules must be respected."

When asked if any East European country had threatened to boycott the championships, Sir Stanley said: "We have received no threats at all."

Referring to the strife for a play-off date between Spain and Yugoslavia, he said: "We want no more incidents like this and we must do everything to avoid them in the future."

Smiling briefly, Sir Stanley said: "The play-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. provided Chancellor Willy Brandt will give us enough light."

and the Netherlands entered Uruguay's group.

OPENING NIGHT ACTION — Marty Riessen, right background, returns a shot to the mixed doubles team of Kristien Kemmer and Frank Froehling Thursday in Riessen and Rosemary Casals' 6-4, 6-1 match win in the opening round of the Spalding International Mixed Doubles Tennis Championship in Dallas. The winners played Rod Laver and Lesley Hunt in the semis Saturday and the winning team in that will move into today's finals of the $60,000 event.

Vikings Wind Up Week-Long Rest With Plane Flight To Super Bowl

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings, carrying an unusual underdog tag, ended a week-long rest Saturday and packed for a flight to Houston to meet the Miami Dolphins in Super Bowl VIII.

Coach Bud Grant gave his team the week off after last Sunday's 27-10 defeat of Dallas for the National Football Conference title.

"We'll have a regular week of practice in Houston," Grant said. The team was scheduled to fly there Sunday night.

"I'm not interested in other teams," Grant said when it was noted the Dolphins have been practicing in Miami while the Vikings took their break.

Temperatures here have been below zero all week—30 below one night—and Grant commented that trying to practice in that kind of weather is "an exercise in futility."

He said most of the players worked out on their own during the rest period. There were a couple of team meetings, including one Saturday.

Miami is favored in the Jan. 13 game, making the Vikings underdogs in a season which brought them 19 victories in 21 games including exhibitions and playoffs.

The Vikings, who average nearly 28 years in age, haven't put much stock this season in such things as labels, jinxes, types of turf, trends and other things talked about prior to football games.

"We'll be there and we'll be ready," defensive tackle Gary Larsen said after Minnesota thumped Dallas.

"You can't hold back anything now," said Bob Berry, the backup quarterback to Fran Tarkenton.

The Vikings had no serious injuries and the long rest gave bumps and bruises collected against Dallas a chance to heal.

A large contingent of Minnesota fans is traveling to the Super Bowl. The Vikings had 11,250 tickets for the game and they were bought up immediately by season ticket holders, leaving none for counter sales.

Weese Marches East Team To Hula Victory Over West

HONOLULU (UPI) — Quarterback Norris Weese of Mississippi came off the bench late in the first period to pace the East to 10 second quarter points which proved to be the margin in their 24-14 victory over the West in the 18th annual Hula Bowl Saturday.

The teams exchanged a pair of second half touchdowns apiece, but the East dominated the play throughout, outgaining its foes 338-136 in total offense.

Weese replaced starting East signal caller David Jaynes on the third possession and quickly marched the team down to the West one yard line only to end the drive himself with a third down fumble, recovered by the West's Tom Poe.

However on the second play of the East's next possession following a short West punt, Weese scampered 34 yards on an option play for the game's first score.

Wake Forest's Chuck Ramsey added the extra point that gave the East a 7-0 lead with seven minutes to play in the second quarter.

Weese, who was named the game's most valuable offensive player, keyed another East drive late in the second period with a 28-yard keeper and an 18-yard pass to Michigan's Paul Seal. Ramsey capped this march with a 19-yard field goal.

The East defense dominated the game in the first half. They held the West without a single first down and to just 30 net yards before intermission.

Houston linebacker Deryl McCallion intercepted a Weese pass early in the third stanza to set up the first West touchdown. Six plays after McCallion gave the West the ball at the East 46 Arizona State quarterback Danny White hit teammate Ben Malone on a 30-yard swing pass for the score. Together with Rod Garcia's conversion this made the score 10-7 East with 7:10 left in the third period.

The running of Weese and Michigan fullback Ed Shuttleworth highlighted an East drive after the ensuing kickoff. The march covered 89 yards in 15 plays. Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti climaxed the drive as he went over from the two with 13:25 left to play in the final period.

Wright accepts Wichita State Grid Position

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — A 38-year-old Texan is expected to bring a bit of Tennessee to Kansas next fall.

Jim Wright exuded one key ingredient in building a winning football team, confidence, in accepting the head coach job at Wichita State University Friday.

Wright said he was eager to get started in his new position, adding, "I believe we can meet the challenge of winning at Wichita State immediately."

Fans expect to see some of Tennessee's multiple offense in the team Wright creates at WSU.

Wright doubled as assistant head coach and coordinator of the Tennessee multiple offense of I-set and pro-set formations.

Schwartzwalder May Get Job With Tampa U

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Syracuse University football coach Ben Schwartzwalder has applied for the job of athletic director of the University of Tampa. It was reported Saturday.

Tampa Times sports editor Frank Klein said Schwartzwalder told him he had discussed the job with Ed Ward, an assistant to university president Dr. B. D. Owens.

Schwartzwalder is in town as coach of the North team in Sunday's American Bowl football game.

Beman, Press Meet For 1st Time, No Big Changes Planned For PGA

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Deane Beman, commissioner-elect of the PGA's Tournament Players Division, met with newsmen Saturday for the first time since being named to the top job in pro golf and said he foresaw no radical changes in the tour outside of the designated events idea.

"I think I am in a fortunate position indeed," said the 35-year-old Beman, one of the country's top amateur stars and later a regular member of the PGA tour. "We have an excellent field staff, interest in the tour seems to be growing all the time, and really I don't see any insurmountable hurdles in the near future."

Beman helped shape the new designated tournament rule with outgoing commissioner Joe Dey. The two sat side by side at Saturday's news

BCA Holding Bass Tourney At Toledo Bend

Pampa area bass fishermen are invited to attend one of the largest fishing tournaments in the country.

The Bass Casters' Association is sponsoring its first National Bass Tournament of 1974 Feb. 7-8 at Toledo Bend Reservoir, south of Shreveport, La. Tourney headquarters will be the Flying Bridge Marina near Zwolle, La.

The reason local area bass buffs might be interested is that $10,000 worth of cash prizes and trophies will be awarded to the top 30 finishers. Also, trophies and prizes will be given each day to those catching the largest bass.

Entry fee is $125 per person and must be paid (postmarked) by Jan. 28. Persons wanting info on the tournament are asked to write the BCA National Headquarters, Box 888, Mattoon, Ill., 61808.

During the holidays I was visited by two of my former pupils from Amarillo. These ladies are quite an enthusiastic pair when it comes to bowling. They are Mrs. Edith Tarwater, 67, and her 78-year-old aunt, Mrs. Leona Glover.

Mrs. Tarwater says, "Regardless of age, it is mind over matter. If you don't mind, it doesn't matter." They bowl in two leagues and Mrs. Glover bowled for fourteen years in Jensen Beach, Fla., before going to Amarillo a year ago.

Even though Mrs. Glover received two crushed knees in an auto accident in 1967, it only kept her out of action for one season. That is how dedicated a lot of bowlers are.

We have here in Pampa a lady who is in her mid-seventies who enjoys the game very much. She's active in three leagues and is a life member of the W.I.B.C. To Della McGonigal, bowling is probably the greatest thing to come along in her life besides her grandson. We wish her all the enjoyment possible for the rest of her days. It's people like these three women that make you realize that bowling is a lifetime sport.

We would like to extend an invitation to anyone no matter your age to come out and join our free instruction classes on Monday mornings starting Jan. 14 at 9:30 a.m. and ending 11:30 a.m. We provide a free nursery and the shoes and balls are free, too. There are six lessons, each one dealing with a different aspect in bowling. Starting out or just having some problem with your bowling, come to the classes and learn and enjoy bowling. We have a free coffee or coke break, too. For further details, call us here at the lanes.

The All Star Doubles Men's League had a couple of good series this past week. Benny Horton rolled a 604 series and had a 258 game. Johnny Tolman rolled a 561 series.

In Harvester Men's League, Larry Yearwood had a 589 series and a 258 game. David Livingston bowled a 547 series. Tommy Hill rolled a 538 series and a 215 game. Frank Craig had a 541. Raleigh Rowland, a 577. Terry Ellis a 528. Jim Cantrell a 557 and Carroll Pettit a 548.

Ladies Doubles on Wednesday night had a 604 rolled by Faye Rowe and again this season she converted the 6-7-8-10 split. Also Virginia Rozines had a 598 series.

Lone Star Women's League had a 222 game rolled by Faye Bentley and she had a 538 series.

Congratulations to you all and continued good bowling!

Harvesters Dump Liberal

By PAUL SIMS

Pampa, led by two 20-point performances and an inspired defense which forced 25 turnovers, downed the Liberal, Kan., Redskins, 61-56, Saturday night in Harvester Fieldhouse.

Howie Lewis put in 21 points and Robert Young added 20 to lead the Harvesters to their 13th win against two losses. Young's performance was his third 20-point game in as many outings.

Pampa, up 29-24 at the half, went in front by 13 (54-41) with 4:30 left in the game on a rebound shot by Billy Wilbon as the Redskins, now 1-3, couldn't overcome that advantage.

Liberal outscored the Harvesters, 23-18, in the final period due to seven points by Greg Jenkins and six by Charles Ward. Lewis told the story for Pampa in that quarter, scoring nine. The 6-5 junior post got all four baskets in the quarter on short jumpers, indicative of Pampa's ability to move the ball in close on the Kansans.

Liberal scored only six and nine points in the first and third quarters as Pampa forced seven turnovers in each quarter using its full court press.

Four Redskins hit in double figures — Bill Long with 14, Jenkins and Ward with 13 each and Audie Coleman with 10. Jenkins and Long pulled down 12 and 10 rebounds, respectively.

Lewis got 14 caroms for the Harvesters, who beat Liberal on the boards, 40-31.

Pampa's B-team downed Liberal, 64-47 as Ed Drew scored 21, followed by Tony Stafford with 15 and Chuck Pierce with 10.

Pampa winds up its four-game home stand Tuesday night against Altus. Okla. Harvesters play at 8 p.m. preceded by the Shockers at 6 p.m.

UPI Picks Ralston Coach Of '73

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Ralston, who brought the Denver Broncos their first winning season ever and to within a shadow of a playoff berth Sunday was named United Press International's American Conference Coach of the Year.

Ralston, who left Stanford three years ago after engineering two consecutive Rose Bowl upset victories to take over the beleaguered Broncos, had his club in first place in the final month of the season only to drop a close decision to the Oakland Raiders for the AFC West title.

Ralston was named on 26 of the 39 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers—three from each conference city—to capture the honor. Paul Brown, the 66-year-old coach whose Cincinnati

Bengals rallied from third to win the AFC Central title, was second with eight votes while Don Shula of Miami and Lou Saban of Buffalo received two each and New England's Chuck Fairbanks one.

Denver is the only team in the AFC which never has participated in post-season play but Ralston took over two years ago determined to change that. He took a club that had never been over .500 and this season transformed it into a miniature powerhouse.

Only a young and mistake-prone defense kept the Broncos from becoming a true power and Ralston is intent on changing that next season. His offense, with veteran Charley Johnson at the controls and Floyd Little keying the running game, was as potent as any in the league. Wide receivers Haven Moses and Gene Washington, both acquired by trades, and tight end Riley Odoms gave the Broncos as impressive a receiving corps as there is in football.

Brown, who trailed Pittsburgh and Cleveland late in the season, saw his Bengals win five straight games to overtake the Steelers and Browns and capture the AFC Central title.

Shula seems to have gone beyond honors with his Miami Dolphins. He "slumped" this year—his team lost two games after going unbeaten last season—but winning has become almost commonplace for the Dolphins.

On to Super Bowl

"The scorers were the same, but the way they happened were about as different as from Miami to Minnesota," says my NFL scout. He meant Miami 27, Oakland 10, and Minnesota 27, Dallas 10. He meant the orderly, disciplined, mistake-free, strike attack of the Dolphins, and the surprisingly daring, maze-dazzle, turn-over attack of the Vikes.

Griese is Tom Seaver in football—ability-plus brights. He reads defenses as though he has the other team's playbook pushed inside his helmet. . . . Tarkenton not exactly a retard. Fran called near-perfect game versus Cowboys . . . And his scramble up middle, on . . . And to Vike's first TD was thing of beauty. He faked Lee Roy Jordan right out of his pads . . . Officiating in both games so good, even bettors had nothing to boo about.

... That's a Trap

As though to top Tark scramble, Griese pulled magnificent quarterback draw, unquestionably play-of-day, both games. Who could look for it? It's 3d-and-7, with Dolphins moving into Raider ground. If they don't get the first, they punt—or Yepremian has to try one from 50. Griese doesn't get the 7, he gets 17. "That's a trap," explains the scout. "Kuechenberg traps Stinnett. Griese flares the backs out, so the linebackers go to cover them. With the trap, and with Miami's center (Langer) blocking back on their right tackle (Thoms) the middle opens up for Griese. "I'll take his word for it. All I know is, it sure looked nice, and it took steam out of Raiders, who had stormed back to within 17-10.

There is a deadly monotony to most of Miami's efficiency. That's why Griese's occasional daring is saving fillip . . . Only Miami's mistake came at start. Somebody forgot to turn up P.A. system for invocation, and Rabbi Lehman's prayer wasn't heard till "amen" . . . Oaks got off to bad start on Ray Guy line-drive kickoff, carried only to 30, returned to 36. He also does punting, and later got Oaks out of trouble by booming one from end zone some 70 yards in air. He has erraticism of youth, but will be a great kicker. . . . George Blanda wasn't much more than a spectator; missed longie and made shortie . . . If he plays next season, and why not? Blanda will become oldest NFL man in history, 47, passing an enduring soul named Al Nesser, who lasted till 46½ back in the days when the league was expanding to places like Akron.

Coch Shula says blocking on QB trap is same as when Coonka carries ball. With small exception that when Coonka carries, Shula doesn't hold breath . . . That Coonka is Coemthing. He has Paul Hornung knack of getting 3, 4 yards when seemingly stopped cold. He also has Larry Little to carry him piggy-back. I could average 3.5 yards with Larry Little in front of me.

Dolphins made slab of swiss of Oaks' left side. Stinnett and Cline couldn't handle it. Now it's up to Carl Eller, Gary Larsen and Bob Lurtsema, the old Giant. "Miami will find them tougher than Oakland's left side," says the scout. Another thing: "Minnesota's middle on their left-front, will have to guess a lot more than Oakland's man did. Connor . . . pt getting caught in the wash, overcommitting himself, guessing guard, the guy they put over the center wrong. This lets Coonka start wide, then cut back, though a big hole."

Vikes Tougher Than Oaks

Afterthought: Griese did it with minimal use of Paul Warfield . . . On first half catch, Warfield took pass, looked three defenders in eye, did staterstep, and slipped under Alonso Thomas, who was trying to make like Joe Frazier. Paul ducked left hook and lauded in his face on way back to huddle . . . Warfield might have had TD moment later, but Griese slightly underfired with sideline bomb, and Willie Brown picked it off . . . That gave Oaks ball on 3, coffin-pinned. Seems knockdown would be better than intercept in such cases. Certainly would have been in other game, when Bobby Bryant picked off 3rd-and-12 Staubach bomb at Vike 5 and was momentum-dragged to 2. That put Minny in terrible hole and led to Dallas TD, chewing Vike lead to 10-7. In old days, defended batted down deep passes. Modern philosophy is grab ball no matter where. Carl Eller has good nose for screen . . . Last part of Vikes-Dallas looked like basketball game, with all the quick turnovers. Seven times it went back and forth, fumble, intercept, fumble, as though they were playing with 2pence clock. What do you expect on a dry field in 62 degree weather?

Foreman Must Learn Protection

Chuck Foreman has the Gale Sayers moves, but must learn to protect ball better. Those nasty pros will steal ball and jock alike once Larry Young used Wright Brothers' Jeff and Nate, took Drew Pearson out of game—and when they let him up, Bryant was belting him . . . Merk Morris has become much more dangerous since mid-season when he switched from outside runner to out-or-in. He looks like Buddy Hugg used to, slipping under those big unrelenting running backs there until Dolphin zone disintegrates into colliding man-to-man, as happened in Mumford-Anderson breakdown. Oakland's only TD resulted from that . . . When you think of it, that was Oaks' only TD in 8 quarters against Miami this year.

I wish Curt Gowdy would stop saying, "the clock's running again" and give us the time-left instead . . . Other than that, TV crews did splendid . . . Buck-Summerall-Walker are outstanding. But why did Walker have to spoil it all at end by saying, "I doubt it would have made a difference if Calvin Hill had been in there." Cal was "THE" difference. Without him, Staubach had look of the doomed from start . . . Oddity: Feb. 3 is birthday for Griese and Tark. Fran will be 34, Bob 29. Aquar-ee-yus! Aquar-ee-yus!

PRO COACHING

Shofner Glad He's Leaving

DALLAS (UPI) — Jim Shofner has abandoned the professional game for the somewhat more serene surroundings of college football and he believes he has left some trouble behind him.

Shofner left his assistant coaching role with the San Francisco Forty-Niners last month to take over head coaching duties at his alma mater, Texas Christian University.

And although it is debatable that TCU is the place to be since the Horned Frogs have had only two winning seasons in the past 11 years, Shofner likes it where he is.

"Pro football appeared to be my life," said the 38-year-old Shofner who was the receiver coach for San Francisco. "But when someone wants you it means a lot to you."

"And now that I have made my decision I believe that I have found this is always what I wanted to do. I can help young men and in coaching you are very involved with young men's lives."

Back in the professional world the players' contract comes up for negotiation this year and that is where Shofner sees trouble.

"I think they are going to lock horns pretty good," Shofner said. "I have that feeling that the owners are going to come up more organized this year. I think they are going to have some troubles. Both sides had better be real careful."

Pro football has changed quite a bit from Shofner's playing days with the Cleveland Browns and he is concerned that changes are being made for the worse.

Jordan Voted Best Pro In State By Association

DALLAS (UPI) — Lee Roy Jordan, the Dallas Cowboy middle linebacker who for the first time in 1972 drew general recognition as the best at his position in the National Football Conference, Saturday won the Texas Sports Writers Association Texas pro athlete of the year award.

Jordan, an 11-year veteran with the Cowboys, made the UPI all-NFC team for the first time in 1972.

His defensive play was a key factor in a late season drive which carried the Cowboys to the NFC title game against Minnesota.

Jordan intercepted six passes during the regular season, a unusually high amount for a middle linebacker. He also intercepted a John Hadl pass on the first offensive play of the game against Los Angeles which helped put Dallas in front

The Wishbone-T formation has also become the vogue since Shofner spent his lone year of college coaching—at TCU in 1966.

Jordan defeated teammate Calvin Hill for the award. Jordan polled 763 votes to Hill's 678. Hill surpassed the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the second straight year, but dislocated an elbow in the Los Angeles playoff game and could not play against Minnesota at the title contest.

Next in the voting came Denver Bronco quarterback Charley Johnson, who lives in Houston. Johnson received 661 votes. Ben Crenshaw, the first person ever to be nominated for both the Texas pro and amateur athlete award, finished fourth with 597 votes.

Los Angeles running back Larry McCutcheon (of Lubbock) received 580 votes. Sherman golfer Miller Berger 547 and Dallas Tornado soccer star Kyle Rote Jr., 481.

Dam Planned For Angola Area

GOVI, Angola (UPI) — For the past four years huge bulldozers have been shoveling dirt to dam the Conene River near here as part of an $860 million long-term scheme to change the life of the people of Southern Angola and northern Southwest Africa.

The Govi dam, 5,247 feet above sea level on the Bie Plateau, is one of 27 dams built under construction or planned to harness the water of the Cuhene basin for electric power, irrigation and just plain living.

"In Angola there are only two seasons—wet and dry," said Carlos Gois, assistant director of the Cuhene project.

This, he said, had created a nomadic population of cattle raisers who roamed the land looking for pastures and water.

At various points along the river, principally at Matala, Quiteve-Humbe and Calaque, population stabilization schemes are under way in combination with educational and irrigation projects.

"We found there were four problems—water, men, cattle and pasturage. We had to tackle all these things at once," said Gois.

In the Quiteve-Humbe project, for example, some 9,000 people have been settled into 16 villages spaced less than 10 miles apart with four water points for cattle spaced about two miles in each direction.

In a zone two to four miles wide between the villages and the river, crop irrigation has begun and some of the Africans are being resettled from their sod and thatched homes onto farms for training in agriculture. Eventually about 80,000 people will be affected by the scheme.

In Nova Lisboa, about an hour's drive from Govi, research into improving feeds, crops and cattle has been undertaken for about 10 years, the results going to improve crops all along the basin.

Pioneer Firm Gets Gas Well

AMARILLO — Pioneer Natural Gas Co. announced that its subsidiary, Pioneer Production Corp., had another apparent gas discovery in Louisiana.

The company has encountered apparent gas production in two formations in its Continental Can Co. No. 1, located on a 900-acre lease in Bienville Parish in which it has a 48.5 percent interest.

In the event of successful completion of the well an additional well will be commenced.

Pioneer Production Corp. is continuing testing on another well in South Louisiana which was earlier announced as an apparent discovery. The block in Jefferson Davis Parish, contains over 2,000 acres in which the company has a 25 percent interest.

The well has tested gas and condensate and additional testing is being conducted. An additional well is being drilled in the immediate area.

Two-term Jinx
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — While several have tried, only two Arkansas governors have ever been elected to more than two two-year terms.

Gov. Jeff Davis served three terms from 1961 through 1967 and Gov. Orval E. Faubus served six terms from 1955 through 1967. The latest governor to try was the late Winthrop Rockefeller, who was defeated in a third-term bid by incumbent Dale Bumpers in 1970.

About Fats
NEW YORK (UPI) — Fats provide energy and add flavor and variety to foods. They make meals more satisfying.

Fats carry vitamins A, D, E and K and are essential parts of the structure of the cells which make up the body's tissue.

Body fat also protects vital organs by providing a cushion around them, according to nutrition experts on Uncle Sam's payroll.

1 Card of Thanks
WAYNE HIGHLIGHT
WE WISH to thank all our friends who contributed so much during our Dad's illness. The wonderful people who gave to the money tree. It was so full of love. Our thanks go also to the fine people of Dunlap's. They know how much we appreciated what they did for him. To our pastor, Rev. Gene Allen and the congregation of Lamar Full Gospel Assembly we can't begin to thank you enough. God bless all of you. Wayne is now at Scott and White Clinic in Temple, Texas and will be there for several weeks.

Love

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

How to Sleep Warm on Cold Nights

By JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH
Brrrr! The coldest weather is still ahead, and it's already frigid in some parts of the country.

"Situation normal," in other words, and nothing to worry about. Unless, as so many others are now doing, your family faces shortage of the fuel with which you expected to heat your home.

If that's the case -- or even if you're just trying to ease the energy pinch by holding your house or apartment temperature several degrees lower than usual -- you can color the remainder of this season bleak.

And you can prepare to be chilled in ways that, quite possibly, you haven't yet thought about.

That is: When we blithely suffer that way. Instead, all we have to do is reach back 50 years and revive some common-sense ideas. Ideas pioneered by countless midwestern farm wives who, with only the simplest equipment, kept their broods sleeping snug and warm ... despite the "blue northern" ice storms that howled around their drafty upstairs bedrooms.

One of my correspondents, who prefers to be known only as Elizabeth, grew up under the protective wing of such a lady. And Elizabeth has vivid recollections of the many ways in which her family slept "snug as a bug in a rug" while Ole Man Winter rattled the eaves outside.

"There have always been ways to raise the temperature of beds to a comfortable level before you crawl in," says cool fast -- so we started using flat soapstones 'het up' enough to cook a casserole. We carried the stones in heavy, white salt sacks slung over our shoulders to that we looked like nightgowned Santa Clauses as we trekked off to bed.

"The warmth at the smalls of our backs felt great as we hurried through the cold parts of the house, but we did have to keep bouncing the bags so we wouldn't burn ourselves."

"The best way to use soapstone bed warmers, according to Elizabeth, is by placing them between the sheets half an hour before bedtime ... then move the rocks over when you crawl in and lie on the warm spots. One bagged stone at the feet and one at the back insure a cozy night's rest.

You can drag the sacks around-by hand-or push them over with your foot and, as the heat of their contents lessens, you'll probably want to pull the warmers toward you until they lie flat against your back or legs.

"Once you've got your nightly nest warm," Elizabeth points out, "the problem is to keep it that way ... and that means insulation, starting with the room itself. For the duration of winter we pulled drapes or shades over our bedroom windows, or covered the panes with newspaper. Since our sleeping quarters were too cold to use for anything else, the lack of light didn't matter."

Our advisor also states that a bed is more comfortable on frigid nights if it's insulated under the mattress with a heavy layer of newspapers and boxed in above with drapes. (So that's why canopy beds used to be so popular!)

In one of our unheated upstairs rooms, a thoroughly winterized bed might be made of springs, a layer of newspapers, an old rug, a mattress, some old blankets, a cotton tick, feather tick, maulin sheet, bottom sheet - blanket, top sheet - blanket, woven wool blanket, a patchwork quilt, woven cotton blanket and a cotton - batting - lined quilt," says Elizabeth. "Yes, that's a lot of bedclothes ... but they kept us warm."

Elizabeth further advises that top covers shouldn't be tucked under the mattress all the way around. "They should be loose enough to allow the sleeper to rock himself into them and form a cocoon. And pull the bedclothes up over your head, if you like, to make a cozy tent for everything but just the tip of your nose!"

You can forget all the slippery artificial fabrics when it comes to cold-weather nightwear, too. The only satisfactory pajamas or long gowns are those made of "outing" flannel ... worn -- if necessary -- with heavy socks, long underwear or a sweater.

Ridiculous preparations for a night's rest? Maybe so ... last year. If you've just had your fuel oil shut off or electric heat "browned out" this winter, however, I'll bet that Elizabeth's common-sense cold-weather-sleeping ideas sound pretty darn practical to you.

Has the fuel shortage forced you -- for the first time -- to heat your home with a wood- or coal-burning stove? If so, you'll be interested in six ideas that will help you extract every bit of warmth from the heater. Amtrak recently published its first picture post card for travelers. It shows the railroad's Coast Daylight-Starlight turboliner rounding a bay on Puget Sound.

Carrasco Goes On Trial Monday

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — Barring a delay requested by his attorneys, elusive Fred Gomez Carrasco goes on trial Monday on charges of murder with malice, assault to murder and carrying a pistol.

Judge Preston Dial Jr. of San Antonio, presiding over the trial moved from Bexar County on a change of venue, said he would hear at the outset a request for postponement by defense attorneys on grounds they were unable to adequately confer with their client after he was whisked into Corpus Christi last Dec. 5.

Reputed as the "El Senor (old Man)" of South Texas narcotics trafficking, the 33-year-old San Antonio native was shot and captured by an elite police task force in his hometown about midnight last July 21 after eluding lawmen for weeks.

Could Mean Life Conviction on any one of the three charges would subject Carrasco to a mandatory life sentence as an habitual criminal.

His wife, Rosa, is scheduled for a Corpus Christi trial later on charges she was an accessory to murder. She was captured along with her husband at a south San Antonio motel.

Held on bonds totaling $750,000 since his capture, Carrasco made headlines from his Bexar County jail cell last month by providing a witness who accused two policemen of assassinating two Carrasco associates. However, a San Antonio grand jury investigated the allegations and cleared the two officers named.

Carrasco became an adult while serving a sentence in the Texas penitentiary for stabbing another teen-ager through the heart in a dance fight not far from the Alamo. He later reportedly formed a gang called the "Dons" that allegedly dealt in narcotics from Mexico.

Five Associates Killed Before his capture, San Antonio police said they suspected Carrasco in the gangland-style killings of five of his associates from March to May of 1972, not long after Carrasco escaped from a jail in Guadalupe, Mexico, where he was held on a narcotics charge. However, Carrasco is charged only with the slaying of Gilberto "The Cow" Escobedo last March. The assault to murder charge stemmed from shots Carrasco allegedly fired at police when they shot him four times at the capture site.

talked about the coming fuel "crisis" last fall, most of us tossed the approaching crunch off with an "Oh well. I'll just wear an extra sweater all day and never notice the nip."

Great idea! But what about the nights? There's nothing like shivering in a cold bed for eight hours (as you'll know if you've ever tried it) to make the following frigid, gray, half-dawn of winter appear very grim indeed.

Luckily, there's no need to Elizabeth. "Warming pans, all kinds of hot water bottles and bags of heated salt or sand have been popular ... as has simply letting someone else slip in between the frigid covers before you.

"For years our family used one-gallon maple syrup cans filled with hot water, then brought to the kitchen in the morning to reheat all day on the back of the stove.

"Sometimes the tins leaked, though -- and hot water does

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Prof. Lew Saret was a famous Chautauqua orator and poet, so heed his shrewd advice. And you pastors can always give interesting sermons every Sunday by using Christ's narrative (parable) formula. Note how Dr. Peale makes sermons out of his weekday contacts!

CASE Z-618: Prof. Lew Saret taught for many years at our Northwestern University School of Speech.

"It may take a lifetime," he told us students, "to compile a world shaking oration.

"Thus, that famous 'Cross of Gold' address by William Jennings Bryan was an outgrowth of many years of public platform addresses.

"Mr. Bryan had tested his stories and examples on all sorts of audiences till he knew how the crowds would respond best.

"Though it seemed to be an impromptu speech at the Democratic Convention in Chicago, Mr. Bryan merely rearranged remarks that he had previously used to enthuse many smaller audiences.

"That total address was original, though parts of it had been tested on the public platform for years.

"You students may also become accomplished orators in years to come.

"But you may never 'ring the bell' with more than one or two perfect orations.

"For such a masterful address is the fruition of a lifetime of social experience."

PREACHERS, N.B.

"Dr. Crane," I am often praised by clergymen who are deft members of the "Compliment Club," "how I envy your ability to hold a congregation in rapt attention."

Though I thank them for their praise, I remind them that I have the advantage of being a visiting speaker.

For I may appear but once before that congregation, so I can lift out surefire examples and audience-participation experiments that I have employed on hundreds of previous crowds.

"When you young pastors retire," I remind them, "you should then constantly accept opportunities to fill pulpits.

"For then you can reach back into your repertoire of possibly 40 years of sermonizing and lift out your surefire materials."

For example, if I am scheduled to speak before an audience for the first time, then I tell Mrs. Crane, "Well, I'll give them the old 1-2-3 today," meaning my best anecdotes and surefire examples.

But if I have addressed the same crowd several times previously, then I must analyze those previous speech notes to avoid repetition.

Paradoxically, it seems to cause irritation if a public orator repeats the same address.

Yet audiences don't criticize a musician who returns, year after year, to play the same pieces on piano or violin, or sing the same repertoire of songs! Why do you suppose listeners hold such repetition against a public speaker but not against a musician?

You might discuss this curious problem in Sunday School or high school public speaking classes.

But everybody can make at least an interesting talk merely by following Christ's famous narrative formula.

Since people are more fascinated by narration (stories) than by exposition (geometry theorems), then Jesus illustrated his major points with parables (relevant narratives).

Even His famous Sermon on the Mount, which contained the essence of His theological concepts, is full of examples and narration, so read it in Matthew, Chapters 5 through 7.

Pastors, weave your last week's hospital calls, house visits, and other relevant experiences into your sermons, as Dr. Peale so neatly does, if you wish every sermon to be interesting!

Send for my booklet "Public Platform Psychology," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.
